Troops, Despite Stubborn Resistance, Wire Entanglements and Deep Pits, Are Established on Gallipoli Peninsula—Berlin Hears Reports of Turkish Success.

LONDON, Thursday, April 29. (12.39 a.m.)—The British War Office issued the following announcement last night on the Dardanelles operations: "In the face of continual opposition, the allied troops have now established themselves across the end of the Gallipoli Peninsula, from a point northeast of Eski Hisarlik to the mouth of a stream on the opposite side. "They have also beaten off all attacks at Ari Bair, and are steadily advancing. "The Turks have made considerable preparations to hamper any landings. Wire entanglements under the sea, as well as on land, and deep pits with spikes at the bottom were among the obstacles overcome by the troops."

Turks Claim Victory. It is expected that the operations against the Dardanelles will proceed slowly, as the Turks are strongly entrenched and their wire entanglements and trenches will have to be heavily shelled before the troops can make any serious attempt to advance. Berlin continues to send out rumors designed to discredit reports of allied successes in the Dardanelles. It was stated today that a well authenticated report has reached Berlin that the right wing of the allies' landing force on the Gallipoli peninsula, which Gen. Liman von Sanders, the German commander of the Turkish forces, reported yesterday as holding out, has now surrendered to the Turks.

"Hali Bey, former president of the Turkish Parliament, who is now in Berlin, received a telegram from Constantinople last night, saying that 8000 French and British soldiers had been driven to the sea, and that 12,000 had been captured by the Turks, as a result of the attempt of the allies to land forces to attack the Dardanelles fortifications. "Berlin also reports that a wireless dispatch received from Constantinople says: At the celebration of the Sultan's jubilee yesterday the minister of war announced the receipt of a telegram from the commander of the fifth army corps, Gen. Liman von Sanders, Pasha, stating that the centre and right wings of the enemy had been completely defeated and that there was hope that the left wing also was beaten.

Turkey's Usual Prag CONSTANTINOPLE (via Amsterdam to London), April 29, 1.30 a.m.—The following official communication regarding the Dardanelles operations has been issued: "The enemy has renewed his attempts against Kaba Tephah and the south coast of Gallipoli, but was successfully repulsed. "Fresh forces of the enemy yesterday attacked near the coast at Kum Kaleh, but was obliged to retreat, abandoning three machine guns. "The date of this communication is not given.

Allies Definitely Stop Grand German Attack

Sir John French Reports No Germans West of Ypres Canal Except at Steenstraete, and Making of Counter-Attacks to Readjust Situation.

LONDON, April 28.—(9.10 p.m.)—The following British official statement was issued tonight: "Fighting to the north and northeast of Ypres continued all yesterday. Our operations, in conjunction with the French, definitely stopped the German attack, and it has not since been renewed. "Since yesterday morning there have been no Germans west of the canal, except at Steenstraete, where they have established a small bridgehead. "The readjustment of the situation has necessitated the delivery of counter-attacks both by the French and our troops on the north of the Ypres salient. In resisting these counter-attacks, the Germans again made use of asphyxiating gases and of shells manufactured in contravention of The Hague convention. "On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report."

BULGE IN ALLIES' LINE IS STEADILY YIELDING

Impression Grows That Von Hindenburg Was Responsible for Attempted Coup at Ypres—Big Battle Is Developing in Arras.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. NORTH OF FRANCE, April 28.—Foot by foot it is true, but after all, with considerable speed, our line is again being straightened out to its original positions north of Ypres, and the bulge caused by the savage onslaught of the two army corps, with which Von Hindenburg attempted to push apart the French and British armies operating in the district, is steadily being repaired. It seems fairly certain that Von Hindenburg is paying his long promised visit to the western front, and this despite the brutal recklessness as has been hurrying his hordes to death with the same brutal recklessness as he displayed on the Vistula. His success has been even less than in Russia, for the allies' recovery from the first shock has been more rapid, and his original plan, which it appears was to effect a breach in our lines, may already be said to have failed.

Another Big Conflict. Fighting is still going on, but it is we who are again on the offensive. All the little places in the district have been utterly destroyed: St. Julien, Wicte, St. Jean, the suburbs of Ypres, Briele, and even Vlamertinghe. Meanwhile, in the Arras district, another great engagement is commenced. I am told that from the number of guns employed and the concentration of the artillery preparation that is now going on exceeds in intensity even the great bombardment of Neuve Chapelle and Ypres. Details are not yet to hand of the scope of this newest phase.

Lieuts. W. D. P. Jarvis and F. R. Medland Are Killed, Four Toronto Men Wounded and Several Missing, Including Major A. J. E. Kirkpatrick, Senior Major of the Queen's Own—Names of Many Western Officers Also Are in the List—Missing Men Probably Were Taken Prisoners by the Germans.

Latest advice indicates that the Third, Fourth and Tenth Battalions held the post of honor in the gallant work of the Canadians during their terrific engagement north of Ypres last week. Two of these battalions consist of men from Toronto and vicinity, while the Tenth is made up of westerners. The fact that the Queen's Own Battalion suffered 21 casualties among its officers, including five killed and 16 wounded, of whom eight are missing, shows that the Toronto men have been badly cut up. This is also true in the case of the Fourth Battalion of counties-northwest of Toronto, and the Tenth, whose commanding officer, Col. Boyle, was killed leading his men.

162 Officers So Far. Latest advice which filter thru from northern France show the great sacrifice of the Canadian division in saving the line of the allies. Another heavy list of casualties from the battle of Ypres was received by the minister of militia last evening. Thirty-one additional are reported, making a total of 162 casualties to officers from all parts of the Dominion so far recorded. It is impossible to correctly reckon the losses among the rank and file, but judging from the number of officers put out of action, the strength of two whole battalions or more than 2000 men has been presumably crippled. Two Toronto Men Killed. Of last night's list of thirteen, four are killed, seven wounded and missing and 13 wounded. Two of the killed were from Toronto, Lieut. F. R. Medland, for many years an officer in the Queen's Own, and Lieut. W. D. P. Jarvis, son of Aemilius Jarvis, of the Governor-General's Body Guards. Lieut. G. M. Williamson of Montreal, and Capt. J. H. McGregor of Victoria, B. C. were the other officers killed. Among the missing Toronto officers who are believed to have been taken prisoners, are Major A. J. E. Kirkpatrick, second in command, and Lieut. B. L. Johnston. Lieut. G. E. D. Green, Lieut. G. D. Allen, 10th Royal Grenadiers, and Capt. J. E. L. Straight of the G. B. G. Of those reported as severely wounded the names of Capt. H. G. Muntz of the Queen's Own, and Lieut. G. A. Smith of the G. B. G. are given. Capt. W. D. Allan and Capt. D. H. C. Mason of the Queen's Own are reported slightly wounded. There were 12 casualties to Toronto officers in last night's communication, six of them being Queen's Own, three Grenadiers and three Body Guards. All belonged to the third, or Toronto Battalion.

All but the 48th Highlanders, in the Third or Highland Brigade, seem to have suffered rather heavily in the fight, and the opinion is expressed that the Toronto Killies, under command of Lieut.-Col. Currie, who is reported as safe, were not actually engaged in the fierce battle of Ypres, but figured in the fighting which occurred previously around Hill 60. However, nothing official regarding this surmise has been given out. The other three regiments of the brigade lost a considerable number of officers. The Fifth Royal Scots of Montreal suffered severely. Capt. L. W. Whitehead, Major D. B. McCunig, and Lieut. G. B. Pitblado being wounded and missing, while Lieut. M. Greenshields is wounded. Capt. Whitehead's brother was wounded in the same engagement. The Fourteenth Battalion, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Frank Meighen, and made up principally of the Royal Montreal Regiment, has two officers wounded. Lieut. W. C. Brotherhood and Lieut. H. A. Thompson, in addition to Lieut. Williamson killed. Major A. G. L. McNaughton of the Montreal Artillery is wounded.

EARLIER MESSAGE SAID HE WAS SAFE

Lieut. Gerald E. D. Greene is Now Reported Missing, Although Cable Said He Was Safe. Lieut. Gerald E. D. He was an engineer employed by the Canadian Northern Railway erecting bridges near Bowmanville. Lieut. AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE SANK FRENCH CRUISER--MAY LIVES LOST

French Aviators Destroy Several German Railway Junctions in Alsace and Lorraine

GREAT GERMAN ATTACK ON YPRES DEFINITELY STOPPED BY ARMIES OF ALLIES

LARGE FRENCH CRUISER SUNK BY AUSTRIANS

Few of Leon Gambetta's Crew of Eight Hundred Rescued. ALL OFFICERS PERISHED. Submarine U-5 Surprised Warship in Strait of Otranto.

PARIS, April 28.—Admission is made by the ministry of marine that the French cruiser Leon Gambetta was torpedoed and sunk by the Austrian submarine U-5 in the Strait of Otranto, while the warship was leaving the Adriatic Sea for Malta. Only a part of her crew of nearly 800 men were saved, all the officers, including the admiral, being drowned.

The cruiser, which displaced 12,416 tons, was built at Brest in 1903. She was 495 feet long and carried four 7.6 inch guns, 16 5.4 inch guns, and 24 3-pounders, and was equipped with five 16-inch torpedoes. She cost $5,850,000.

The Austrian submarine U-5, commanded by Lieut. George Ritter von Trapp, is a vessel of 273 tons displacement and of a capacity of 500 horsepower when on the surface of the water. Her speed is 11 1/2 knots above the surface and 10 knots submerged. Her maximum cruising radius on the surface is 1000 knots. Her normal complement is 16 men.

The U-5 was completed in 1910 and is of the Holland type. On Patrol Duty. A cable from Brindisi today, based on stories of survivors, says: "The Leon Gambetta parted company with the French cruiser Jules Ferry last night across the Strait of Otranto, with a view to co-operating with other French ships in an attempt to block the Italian fleet if it should seek to leave the Adriatic. This was not an unusual manoeuvre, as the Leon Gambetta for months has been going up and down the coast from Cape San Maria Luca to Brindisi, Bari, or across to Corfu and Valona. The sea was perfectly calm, and the moon shone brightly. The Leon Gambetta showed no lights and adopted the ordinary customary precautions, there was no suspicion of danger."

"At midnight the warship was about 20 miles from Cape Santa Maria Luca. The lookout could see distinctly the lights on the Italian coast. At sea nothing appeared on the horizon. Fearful Explosion. Suddenly there was a fearful explosion which shook the warship and aft. Officers and men remained calm, and the survivors say their first thought was not for their own safety, but to detect and attack their assailant. They scanned the sea for a periscope, but in vain. "As the cruiser was listing rapidly, the commander gave orders for signals for help to be sent and that the boats be lowered. It proved to be most difficult to lower the boats owing to the position of the ship in the water. Some of the men leaped overboard in the bare hope of saving themselves. Others were washed off the deck. The commander, who urged to abandon his ship, refused to do so.

"None of the survivors was able to say how long it was before the ship arrived. It is probable that several hours elapsed before these men were rescued."

The survivors were taken from the water in a pitiful condition. Some were wounded and others were almost unconscious, while all suffered from exposure.

RESERVISTS CALLED FROM SWITZERLAND. Eight Thousand Italians Are Among Those to Make Response.

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 28.—(Via Paris, 212 p.m.)—During the past three days, 3000 Germans, 5000 Italians and 1000 Austrians, according to records made available in Geneva today, left Switzerland for their respective countries. It is believed these men are reservists and will join each fighting organization.

KITCHENER WANTS HOME-MADE RESPIRATORS. Troops Will Fight German Poison Fumes With Appliances Now Going Forward.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, April 28.—The war office is appealing for home-made respirators to enable troops to fight German poison fumes, and the Women's Emergency Corps yesterday purchased a quantity of material for making the articles. Within a few hours of the publication of the appeal, one of the big west end stores had a window display of respirators made in accordance with official requirements, which attracted large crowds. By noon some thousands of them had been sold. The London County Council education committee yesterday granted facilities to the elder scholars in their schools to make respirators for the troops.

ELEVEN DAY FIGHT AT STADTSTILL

THE SECOND BATTLE OF YPRES CALLS UP MEN TO HOLD LINES

Sir John French Definitely Stops German Attack, and Delivers Counter Attacks, While Kaiser's Staff Denudes Belgian Towns of Soldiers.

LONDON, April 28, 10.30 p.m.—"Our operations, in conjunction with the French, have definitely stopped the German attack." In these words Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces on the continent, announced the conclusion of another German attempt to break thru the allied lines around Ypres and won the Yser Canal, which brought about one of the most sanguinary battles of the war. Relative calmness has set in for this battlefront, the French statement says. The allies have retained all the ground recovered in the past three days.

Next Phase to Begin. This, however, only brings to an end the second phase of the battle, for the allies have yet to win back some of the ground which they lost in the great German sweep. For this purpose they are now delivering counter attacks against the German lines. Only at one place, Steenstraete, have the Germans managed to keep their footing on the western bank of the canal, while to the north of Ypres the positions remain much as they were, the allies making no claims to an advance there and the Germans reporting that all the British attacks have been repulsed.

Further Reinforcements. To hold these lines the Germans have brought up further reinforcements, and Belgium, behind them, has been denuded of troops. The towns and villages in Belgium are being guarded by only a handful of sentries. Fighting also continues in Champagne, where the Germans make claims to the capture of 200 yards of French trenches, half of which were recaptured in the Argonne and the Woerwe, where the French are progressing, and in the Vosges, where the French retain possession of Hartmanns-Wellerkopf. It is probable that this mountain range has changed hands several times. This would account for contradictory reports. The French statement tonight reports that the enemy directed an intense fire against the summit of this mountain today, but did not launch any attacks.

Canadian Associated Press Cable. LONDON, April 28.—Acting high commissioner general and others held a conference tonight to consider the advisability of arranging memorial services in London for fallen Canadians. It was resolved that the time at present was inopportune. It is probable, tho, that such services will be arranged by friends of the members individually.

BOARD OF CONTROL WAITS ON PREMIER. Seek Relief From Sinking Fund Charges on Waterworks Debentures.

AFTER CATFISH POND. Deputation Asked Privilege of Issuing Debentures to End Trouble.

Mayor Church and the board of control approached Premier Hearst at the York convention yesterday to seek favorable consideration for legislation which would be necessary in reference to the city's financial affairs. One matter which they wished sanctioned was the issuing of debentures for the cleaning-out of Catfish Pond. A second related to a much more important transaction, viz., the disposal of some five million dollars' worth of debentures for the construction of a duplicate water system.

The premier was informed that two years ago the city had arranged for the sale of these bonds, but that only a few, valued at several hundred thousand, had been sold. The balance was at present in the city vault. On these, however, as on those sold, the city was required to pay sinking fund, and it was in this particular that they required relief. It was suggested that provision be made to push forward for two years the payment of these sinking fund charges or to have the city relieved from them altogether until conditions brightened. In any event, the amount would be well taken care of in the future.

The premier asked the mayor to present the request in the form of a letter, and promised to let his colleagues. Several Toronto members were in attendance.

Allies Hammering Their Way to Constantinople

British Landed at Kaba-Tebe. Only Five Miles From Objective—Allied Troops and Fleets Co-operate in Dardanelles Advance.

For America there must be more than a suggestion of Shafter's campaign against Santiago in the new allied operations against the Dardanelles. It is true that compared with the late operations they seem wholly trivial. At least ten times as many men as went to Cuba with the first Santiago expedition are engaged in the Gallipoli campaign. The allied fleet was paltry compared with the Anglo-French squadrons, led by "Big Lizzy," as the Queen Elizabeth is familiarly named by the British tar.

Problem is Similar. Yet something of the problem is the same. Before Santiago, Sampson's fleet, as all observers were concluding, declined to risk his ships in forcing the entrance to Santiago, even if the enemy's fleet had been destroyed. From the outset, the allied fleet was discovered, he appealed to the army to clear the way by taking the forts. After a costly experiment with the Farrel's method, the Anglo-French admirals have followed the Sampson precedent.

The allied occupation of Enos, on the other side of Saros, facing the Gallipoli Peninsula, is a good parallel. At Siboney and Daiquiri the American troops were landed in open boats, the command being to land by the beach. The allied places are not dissimilar, although the lack of the Juragu Mine Company pier, so used in the Gallipoli operation, is a far less protected than was Siboney.

Five Miles to Go. But here the parallel with 1898 stops. The British, having landed at Kaba-Tebe, are but five miles from their objective and less than a mile from a road leading down to the Dardanelles opposite Nagara. They are thus assured of the support of their warships every foot of the way, while the Americans at San Juan were without such aid. There is lacking, too, the jungle, thru which Roosevelt led his regiment to the ambush of La Guayama, and the dominating heights of the Gallipoli peninsula, a rough plateau some 1500 feet high, rising from the water and attains its summit less than four miles from the British landing place and commands the road along which the British must advance. It might be compared to the El Caney position in its relation to the British flank.

Advance Over Hills. The disadvantage of the Turkish position is found in the fact that the defences were organized to repulse a fleet coming up the straits. There are therefore no permanent works on the shores of the Gulf of Saros, and the forts lie low along the straits and are commanded by the hills behind them, over which the British must advance if they are to succeed. Thanks to the aeroplane, too, the forts can be bombed by indirect fire from the Gulf of Saros as well as directly by the fleet at the entrance of the straits. Given good weather, then the British advance will be covered during its ARCHBISHOP AGAINST TOTAL PROHIBITION. Removal After War Would Lead to Excesses, He Thinks.

DANGER OF REACTION

LONDON, April 29, 10 p.m.—The Archbishop of York, speaking today at the York convention expressed the opinion that if a great scheme of temperance reform were introduced during the war there would be danger of a reaction when the prohibition was removed. Then, the archbishop said would "be real and regrettable intemperance."

In the lower house of the convocation the dean of Manchester introduced a resolution against total prohibition. The resolution which was adopted was as follows: "Resolved, that this house, while wishing to support all such measures as may, in the opinion of the government, be deemed necessary for the safety and safety of the nation in time of war, would look with anxiety upon the total prohibition of the sale of alcoholic drinks."

They have no fear of the ultimate result. But they think it is their duty to let the electors not only have a say but a chance to share in the responsibility. The political considerations, however, are less in a state of fact, that the government while in office have not control of the senate, that mistakes and some frauds have occurred in purchases and the like, that all these are secondary to the main one of getting the judgment of the electors on going into an enormous European war. The prime minister, Sir Robert Borden, was pronounced in this view, as he said should stand by a mother-country to the last dollar and the last man. He is willing to abide by the decision of the electors. And he thinks the responsibility of asking whether an election should or should not be held is on him and not on those who oppose the idea of an appeal, but who have stood by the facts. He wants to state the case as he knows it, and then to let the people judge.

Will Take Responsibility. An attempt has been made to let the people believe that Sir Robert Borden is being driven into an election by a section of his colleagues against the remonstrance of others. The whole responsibility and show a united cabinet on his decision.

Free Hand, Strong Policy. The Liberals, he thinks, have also helped their opposition in various directions. But not only must the war policy be settled, but there is need for confidence from the people in directing the various policies that will help Canada to adjust herself to the great changes in conditions that the war has brought about. The country has as a matter of fact been turned upside down by the war. A free hand and a strong policy are needed not only to carry on the public business but to carry on the war and to adjust the country to the great changes now under way.

BATTLE FIERCELY IN STRY'S VICINITY

Russians to Southwest of Position Threaten Enemy in Uzok Pass.

PETROGRAD, April 28, via London.—The battle of the Russian and Austro-German armies in the vicinity of Stry, in the Carpathian Mountains, has entered its fifth day with no signs of diminishing and with the outcome still undecided. Fighting is progressing in the narrow mountain defiles, and there is little opportunity for the carrying out of manoeuvres.

The exceedingly strong Austro-German force, according to the measure reinforcements, is daily receiving reinforcements. To the southwest of Stry the Russians are still threatening Uzok Pass, the summit remains in German hands, the summit remains in German hands, and the operations in this district are becoming rendered difficult by the heavy rains.

Minor activity is reported from Kalarwa, near the East Prussian border, where a German army is said to have been repulsed. The Russian fortress of Osowetz is being subjected to a continuous light artillery fire. A Russian giant aeroplane has paid a visit to the East Prussian town of Neidenburg, 24 miles south of Koenigsberg, where it dropped 1200 pounds of explosives. The railroad terminal property appended to have been seriously damaged. At Suwalki a German aeroplane was brought down, but it fell within the German lines.

NO DECISION YET AS TO ELECTION

But Sir Robert Borden May Make an Announcement Today.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

Prime Minister Will Show a United Cabinet on His Decision.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, April 28.—No decision was reached at the cabinet council today about a general election. The indications, however, are that an announcement of an election will be made tomorrow. If it is, the main reason for making the announcement is that, while the government have in their war policy engaged Canada in a thing heretofore unprecedented, namely, taking part in a great European war and sending one contingent and undertaking to send still others, and have made enormous financial commitments in this direction, they ought to consult the electorate of Canada on this policy at the earliest moment, and especially now that the war looks like a long one, the struggle a terrific one and the losses likely to be of a severe and trying nature. In the meantime they are ready to take the fullest responsibility for what they have done and will redouble their efforts hereafter to support the motherland.

No Fear of Result. They have no fear of the ultimate result. But they think it is their duty to let the electors not only have a say but a chance to share in the responsibility. The political considerations, however, are less in a state of fact, that the government while in office have not control of the senate, that mistakes and some frauds have occurred in purchases and the like, that all these are secondary to the main one of getting the judgment of the electors on going into an enormous European war. The prime minister, Sir Robert Borden, was pronounced in this view, as he said should stand by a mother-country to the last dollar and the last man. He is willing to abide by the decision of the electors. And he thinks the responsibility of asking whether an election should or should not be held is on him and not on those who oppose the idea of an appeal, but who have stood by the facts. He wants to state the case as he knows it, and then to let the people judge.

Will Take Responsibility. An attempt has been made to let the people believe that Sir Robert Borden is being driven into an election by a section of his colleagues against the remonstrance of others. The whole responsibility and show a united cabinet on his decision.

Free Hand, Strong Policy. The Liberals, he thinks, have also helped their opposition in various directions. But not only must the war policy be settled, but there is need for confidence from the people in directing the various policies that will help Canada to adjust herself to the great changes in conditions that the war has brought about. The country has as a matter of fact been turned upside down by the war. A free hand and a strong policy are needed not only to carry on the public business but to carry on the war and to adjust the country to the great changes now under way.

NEW ASSOCIATION IS NON-POLITICAL

Several Hundred Hebrew Citizens Attend Jewish Political Meeting.

PREMIER'S ADDRESS

Praises Canadians at War and Predicts Great Future for Canada.

Several hundred Hebrews were present at Orange Hall, Euclid and College last night when the first open meeting of the Jewish Political Association was held. J. Singer, the president, gave an outline of the object of the association, which is to be of a non-party character. One of the most important parts of the new association will play will be that of educating the Jews in municipal, provincial and federal politics. He told of the hardships which the early Jewish settlers had to contend with, where they were treated with a freedom which they could not understand and were placed on equal terms with their gentile neighbors. Nationalization of the members and non-members will also play a big part of the association.

War Welcomes. Premier Hearst was accorded a big reception. He told of the wonderful resources of the province and Dominion and spoke in high terms of the manner in which the Jews of the country had come forward to help at a time of need. "It was pleased to hear your president say that your society was to be a non-political and was to educate the Jewish voter. But let me tell you now that the present system of party politics in the advanced trenches of a factory form of government ever carried on in this country. A public man who is not willing to have his policy discussed by a political party who will not have its policies discussed is not entitled to the support or confidence of the people."

The premier then dealt with the great progress made by Canada as compared with that of the United States. "When our neighbors started to build up their country they did not have the great British Empire at their back," he said, "and I predict a greater future for Canada than any other country the world has ever seen. "I cannot say what will happen when this war is over, but the last few days has given us cause to feel proud of the men who form the backbone of the country. The battle which occurred a few days ago, and which was the greatest ever fought in the world, will live in memory long after the story of Waterloo is dead."

Controlled J. Thompson delivered a short address in which he spoke of the good work being done by the many Florence Nightingales who are at present on the field of battle.

GERMAN FLEET STILL SKULKING

Warships Probably Never Left Mine Fields Off Heligoland.

LONDON, April 28.—Nothing further has been heard of the German fleet in the North Sea, and it is contended in official quarters here that it never left the mine fields off Heligoland. In the Baltic, however, German warships are busy and have attacked a number of Swedish steamers carrying coal from English ports to Sweden.

FINDS GERMANS USED CHLORINE OR BROMIDE GAS

Dr. Haldane, British Authority, Reports That Acute Bronchitis Followed.

SAW CANADIAN DEAD

Capt. Bertram Gave Valuable Information for Inquiry by Expert.

LONDON, April 28, 7.40 p.m.—Dr. John S. Haldane, who was sent to France to observe the effect of the gas used by the Germans in opening their attack near Ypres, reports that he examined several Canadians who had been incapacitated by the gases. "These men," he said, "were lying struggling for breath and blue in the face. On examining their blood with a spectroscope and by other means I ascertained that the blue was not due to the presence of any abnormal pigment. There was nothing to account for the blue as their stragles for air but the fact, and that was that they were suffering from acute bronchitis, such as caused by the inhalation of an irritant gas. Their statements were to the effect that when in the trenches they had been overwhelmed by an irritant gas produced in front of the German trenches and carried towards them by a gentle breeze.

Caused Acute Bronchitis. "One of the men died shortly after his arrival. A post-mortem examination showed that death was due to acute bronchitis, and it is secondary effect. There was no doubt that the bronchitis and accompanying slow asphyxiation were due to irritant gas. Captain Bertram, of the 8th Canadian Battalion, who is suffering from the effects of gas and from wounds says that from a support trench about 300 yards from the German lines he saw a counter attack about 15 minutes after the gas was used. He saw first of all a white smoke rising from the German trenches to a height of about three feet. Then in front of the white smoke appeared a green cloud which drifted along. The gas was in the trenches, not rising more than about seven feet from the ground.

Number Killed by Gas. "When it reached our first trench, the men in these trenches were obliged to leave and a number of them were killed by the effects of the gas. We made a counter attack about 15 minutes after the gas came over and saw 24 men lying dead from the effects of the gas on a small stretch of road leading from the advanced trenches to our supports. He himself, who was wounded by the gas and felt as though he could not breathe. These symptoms and other facts were given to our point to the use by the German troops of chlorine or bromide for the purpose of asphyxiation. There also are shells of other irritant substances. Still, the last of these agents are not of the same brutality and barbarous character as the gas used in the attack on the Canadians.

Not Ordinary Explosives. "The effects are not those of any of the ordinary products of combustion or explosives. On this point the symptoms described let me the slightest doubt in my mind."

Dr. John Scott Haldane is an authority on the physiology of respiration. He has served on several royal commissions and has carried out other special inquiries for government departments on public health questions.

BIG TRAINING CAMP WILL BE AT GUELPH

Three Hundred Acres and Free Light and Water Offered.

LONDON, Ont., April 28.—Guelph has won out over London in the fight to secure the summer camp for all active service troops in the first divisional area. Instructions from Major-General Hughes this afternoon ordered the immediate transfer to Guelph of all active service corps here. Guelph's offer of 300 acres as a training camp, along with free light and water, for the troops, was responsible for the decision.

It is reported that divisional headquarters will also be transferred permanently from London to Guelph.

Mayor Church left for New York last night for the purpose of arranging the insurance on the balance of the second contingent. City Solicitor Johnston and Controller Spence will follow today.

ATTRACTIVE BLOUSE ADDS MATERIALLY

Many Charming Models Have Been Designed for This Season.

FINE WHITE LINEN

Straight Long Sleeve, High Rolling Collar, Are a Few Features.

Worn with the tailored suit of silk or serge the blouse is a very important part of the costume. Dame Fashion has launched some charming models this season, those of exquisite organ-die of sheerest texture vying with others of tailored linen, buttoned up to the chin and down to the wrists.

A chic little blouse to be worn with the shopping suit is of fine white linen, with straight long sleeve, high rolling collar and a smart tapering side-frill closely plaited. A row of tiny crochet buttons adorn the cuff bands and the neck opens back in a novel treatment of the popular and still "unquenchable."

The successful development of waists in two tones of chiffon is revealed in a delicate model of white and palest green—a surplus section of the color tying in a most effective manner over the full under sections in white. A stand-up-turn-down collar, extending across the back of the blouse, is held in place by a narrow black band of taffeta ribbon, passing around the throat, and fastening at the side with a cluster of diminutive French flowers. Any little bow of the taffeta also lend a pretty note to the flaring cuffs of the long set-in sleeves.

Pale Pink Organ-die
A fragile and beautiful waist of pale pink organ-die to wear with the afternoon silk suit, exploits a pleated yoke running to the neck line, diamond-shape. A high transparent collar with stiff upper line stands erect in pleats. A long tie of charmeuse in deeper tone is an attractive feature, and the pretty frills, with the popular bows tucked in the full gathers, finish the form's semishop sleeves.

Observation

Have you ever sent a child into a room for something that you knew was directly in front of him, and have him return without it?

Of course, you have. Every mother has. Children have a way sometimes of looking all around a thing, but never seeing the thing itself. Perhaps other things distract him, but whatever the cause, he does not see that which he was sent to see.

When he came back to tell you he couldn't find the thing because it wasn't there, what did you do? Ten to one you scolded, and in disgust performed the errand yourself. That is what every mother does. Think a minute. Can you continue to do his seeing for him always? Will not the time come when, unless he sees for himself just what he should see, he must be counted a failure?

Then obviously, what the mother and teacher must do is to train the child to see. It is pitiable how the training of observation is neglected. We do not get half out of life that we should, because we have never been trained to see properly.

Children differ in the possession of this faculty. Two children about the same age will see the same thing. One of them will get a fairly good idea of it, some feature of it will impress him, and he will be able to give a very good description. The other child will have the vaguest memory of the something that attracted his attention for the moment. Between the two extremes are the majority of children, who take a normal interest in what they see, especially the new things.

IN FREEDOM'S CAUSE.

A gardener who is much interested in this department has already donated one thousand old-fashioned garden roots from her own old garden, to the Parkdale Chapter of the I. O. D. E., to be sold at a special sale in a week or ten days, for the sole purpose of funds for supplies for the University Base Hospital, soon to go to France. Gardeners, wait—and buy your roots at this sale. Our boys, gardeners, need help!

Tradescantia Virginiana, a Blue Lily

Blue lilies are rare, just as all blossoms that are a true blue are rare. Tradescantia is an old-fashioned perennial so common, so easy of cultivation, so prolific in flowers, that I really cannot imagine what any gardener can do without several good-sized clumps. This blue lily has many popular names. We first knew it as the blue spider lily, but it is not the real spider lily. Hundreds of people know it as "Jacob's Tears," the what reason anyone under the sun could have for likening the lovely thing to "tears" of any kind, I cannot conceive.

I do not know any flower here in Canada that sends out a more perfect, real true blue blossom than tradescantia. Even aristocratic lackpurs are not so truly blue-blooded. And tradescantia, like all thoroughbreds, does not spare itself in the matter of work, as far as blossoming is concerned.

No one unacquainted with the life history of tradescantia could associate the sturdy, thick-stemmed, long-sworded, dark, shimmering green leaves of midsommer, with the tender young red-brown-green threads of plant that come up in the early spring. And where one single plant grew last summer, this spring is sure to see a clump of from three to five fresh young plants that at first sight do not look unlike young spring onions, save for the rich dark hue on the leaves.

If your clumps were very thick last summer, now, this 'very week, is the time to lift them up, and divide, and transplant in smaller, or even single groups. All gardeners who love blue will be able to conduct this delicate transplanting business with success.

And, gardeners, when you are taking clumps, and dividing them into the original single root (because, no matter how big your clump is, by pulling it carefully apart, you will find that every root is separate), do take a minute to examine the peculiarity of the strange white tinge, noticing the beautiful blending of color, and that creep up the length of the stem, and the frailty of the root. Very frail it seems, and it is; but just watch the strong sturdy plant it grows into under ordinary care, with plenty of water.

The blossoms are true blue, and true lilies; three-petaled, each petal rounded and half an inch across each way; stamens and pistils the most lovely tufted feathery rose and gold-tinted things you ever saw.

Those blossoms come in dozens and scores and hundreds, day by day all thru spring, summer, and late into November, from an ever-increasing clump at the end of one stout, brittle, white stem and a few leaves.

These are favorite picnic spots, every one of them, and on the splendid steamers of the Canada Steamship Lines, accommodation is at its best. A telephone message to Adelaide 4200, or a call at the offices of the company, corner of Yonge and Wellington streets, will bring full information.

Pity the Solemn Person Who Cannot "Take" a Joke

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE National Association of Plumbers in convention assembled has instructed the invested officers to take vigorous measures to abolish the practice of making jokes on plumbing and plumbers.

The Irish societies protested against the Fat and Bridget joke long ago.

The Jews are writing letters to the theatres asking managers not to allow anyone to make fun of anything Jewish. Yon Yonson has risen up and protested against the Ole Oleon pleasantries. Can't somebody get up a convention of mothers-in-law and have the delegates sign a round robin of indignation about the mother-in-law story?

Miss Polly and her "Pals" ought to be "aroused" to Pa's wrongs, and the brides of the country should organize to defeat the Machiavellian sympathy of the humorous writer who dares to make fun of their blights.

Let's all hold conventions, everywhere and denounce everybody if a soul on earth ever dares to smile again.

Laughter a Character Test.

What rubbish it all is, as if it ever hurt any one who was worth hurting to be laughed at in fancy fashion once in a while.

If we'd followed out this strange idea that there is something wicked in a joke, what on earth would have become of the world?

We should have had no books and no plays at all.

If Uncle Josh Whitcomb wasn't a joke, then I've never seen one, and yet New England seemed to bear up under it—somehow.

Col. Cah'tah of Cah'tahville—what would you call him, a sermon or a delusion? And yet, it seems to me that Old Virginia has managed to peg along pretty well under the strain of the Col. Cah'tah smile.

What was Uncle Sam when he started but a joke; or John Bull, either, for that matter?

What if the United States government should suddenly boycott every newspaper that dared to print a cartoon of Uncle Sam—would our nation be any bigger or any finer or any more powerful?

If the British government should suddenly decide to seize every ship and destroy every mail car carrying a funny picture of John Bull anywhere in any sort of publication—what would we do?

Think more highly of England because she could not bear a good natured laugh or look at each other in incredulous disappointment?

What's the matter with a good hearty laugh once in a while—even when the joke is on us? It is a sure test of character—the laughing test.

"Discourage" Laughter with Laughter.

Beware of the man who can never take a joke on himself or his neighbor or his family or his accent or his favorite fads.

He'll play a sorry joke on you some day—as sure as the world.

What do you love to remember about your mother—sometimes?

The way she hunted for her spectacles when she was wearing them on the top of her head—her odd little habit of thinking that she could make a foreigner understand English if she only talked loud enough?

Her trick of forgetting to do things that she didn't want to do, and always remembering to remind you of the things you wanted to forget?

You've laughed at mother about these things a hundred times, and she pretended to be a little cross but laughed with you after all, and you loved her all the better for being funny and unreasonable and impractical once in a while—just because it made her human.

What did the Master Plumbers think they were going to accomplish by "discouraging" the joke about the plumber's rates and the plumber's assistant?

There has never been anything particularly funny to me in a plumber's bill. I think I should pay it quite as cheerfully if I could manage to laugh over it—a little.

And I never really loved the Irish till I had learned a few Irish bulls by heart.

But, tut, my sensitive friend, why are you so concerned about a few smiles, more or less?

Laugh with the world and the world will soon stop laughing at you.

Get mad about it and you'll be laughed at to the very end of time.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

MARY met a friend.

MARY willfully departed to a small booth which enclosed a ticket seller. In line with a lot of other youngsters she purchased a ticket and started for the merry-go-round.

On the way she encountered a very small boy who whopped at her and warned his arm. It was chivalry, I thought, because she had a ticket and he didn't. My cynical suspicion proved wrong. The tie was one of kinship.

"Why, Dickie Penfield," said Mary, "what in the world are you doing here?"

"Whitting a boy, an' he brought me," said Dickie.

A BRIDE'S OWN STORY of Her Household Adventures

By ISOBEL BRANDS

Solving the Problem of Variety in Mealtime Beverages.

HAVE been a most lonesome widow-person for two days because Bob had to leave suddenly on a business trip.

First he thought he could be home easily in the evening—indeed, in time for dinner. Then at 5 o'clock I received a wire saying he'd be home the next morning, and the next morning he sent another wire that he couldn't be home until late that night.

It was desperately lonesome, even while I was reading. And how queer that seemed to me, because lots of times Bob and I spend an hour or two each reading by ourselves, and never saying a word, but it never feels so creepily lonesome as it did that evening when I was by myself for the first time.

I was enjoying as I was thinking how I could make a list of breakfast beverages which I can alternate when making up my week's menus:

1-Banana coffee: This is simply dried, ground bananas which can be prepared just like coffee. It looks much like ordinary coffee, but is more wholesome, and has the novel banana flavor.

2-Hot malted milk: Bob doesn't care particularly for plain hot malted milk, but flavored with chocolate or ginger, or coffee he likes it immensely.

"Find out; get busy and have something else for a change," replied myself to myself.

"So I spent a lovely half-hour after my lone dinner, gathered around me all the household and cook books and recipe cards I own, trying to think of various things we could have instead of tea or coffee.

It was easier thinking of things for dinner because then we can have cold beverages if we like. But hot beverages are, of course, absolutely necessary for breakfast until the very warm days, when we can have cold milk and cold milk combinations. Finally I made a list of breakfast beverages which I can alternate when making up my week's menus:

1-Banana coffee: This is simply dried, ground bananas which can be prepared just like coffee. It looks much like ordinary coffee, but is more wholesome, and has the novel banana flavor.

2-Hot malted milk: Bob doesn't care particularly for plain hot malted milk, but flavored with chocolate or ginger, or coffee he likes it immensely.

3-Cocoa shells: This is cocoa with the fats removed, tastes exactly like chocolate or cocoa. But it minus its rich, fatty quality. It's very wholesome and inexpensive.

4-Then there are one or two of the malted preparations that are good coffee substitutes.

At any rate, I'm going to try to see how long we can run without having coffee at breakfast or dinner.

If we must have a hot drink at dinner I can have tea, but disguise it by various flavorings that I keep in the pantry—pineapple syrup, orange juice, grape juice, preserved strawberries or raspberries, cherries or apricots. If we can have a cold drink I can use the same plan of having different flavorings, but use lemonade as the basis.

My reward came soon. For Bob beamed appreciatively over the cups this morning, and exclaimed: "My, but this is a bully relief from hotel coffee!"

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am 20 years of age, and I have been keeping company with a young man this past year. I love him very much, and he says he loves me, and I know for a fact that he never goes out or keeps company with any other girl.

There is one thing I object to, and that is, he puts his own family and everything in preference to me. He makes appointments to see me one week, and then he comes about 9 o'clock, just in time to leave for home. It makes me very angry to keep me waiting and getting disappointed. I could be out enjoying myself, only I would rather be in his company if he would only be a little more steady. Please advise me how to stop his carelessness.

AUGUSTA.

WELL, my dear Augusta, if I were you I would not have anything to do with a young man who made appointments with me and then broke them. Suppose you break your next appointment with him and when he asks the reason tell him what you have told me.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am 15 years old, and I live with my aunt, who is very strict with me. She very much disapproves of my having any friendships with boys. She tells me I am too young. Do you think I am?

All my girl friends have boy friends, and I always feel left out of things. Should I obey my aunt and be a wall flower wherever I go?

LONESOME.

MY dear Lonesome, is it certainly very young to entertain such serious thought about disobeying your aunt, too. Don't be impatient, my dear. Do what your aunt thinks best, and some day you will be very glad that you have followed her advice.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Your Body Wins Battles Against Germs

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

SUCCESS is said to be a sort of suicide, because it is ruined by its very triumph. Immunity or the power to foil disease may likewise be said to grow on what it feeds. It is all like the Celtic experiment of eating mushrooms. If you eat them and survive they are good. If you eat them and die you will know they were deadly.

Those who strive with Fortune, win or weary her at last. Those who fall victims to various maladies, resist them as conquerors or succumb to them as slaves. The conquest of all disease is the mark no mortal will or surest hand can always hit.

Yet it is no longer true that "who bravely dares must always risk a fall." Ways and means are now at hand DR. HIRSHBERG, wherever distempers of the human flesh, divine can be anticipated by immune-making materials, described in several previous essays and experiments.

Immunity is divided into the artificial or acquired type—the use of vaccines, toxins, and anti-sera—and a racial or natural kind. The latter variety, described by Pasteur, it seems that a certain African tribe exhibits this immunity to "venomous snake bites." Actually, Lucian says, all new-born children are exposed to the bites of such snakes as a test of this resistance to death.

It is a noteworthy observation that hunters, snake-charmers and others who survive the poisonous fangs of rattlers and other poisonous reptiles are thereafter safe from evil consequences when bitten. Non-venomous serpents in combat easily dispose of their more noxious cousins because of their inherited immunity.

The fact is known to all students of sanitation that malignant epidemics and endemic—the latter are limited and native to one neighborhood—of scarlatina, measles, smallpox and other contagious ailments are followed either by several years of no cases or a few seasons of mild and less fatal outbreaks.

"Malignant Sore Throat."

The explanation, it must be evident, rests upon the discovery that all the susceptible ones are either dead or well, and immune persons have replaced the non-immune.

What actually happens when a new infection suddenly appears in a community is well shown by the experience of several cities two winters ago. A new and venomous microbe in the guise of the "strange-coccus" invaded the milk supplies of Chicago, Boston, Baltimore and other places. Children were smitten right and left with what to be at first a "sore throat." So many fatalities occurred, however, that Dr. Rosenow of Chicago, myself and others were led to look for the guilty microbe. Dr. Rosenow discovered it first and called the malady "malignant sore throat."

Here was a new disorder with the human race woefully non-immune. Be-tween the newly built-up immunity and a thorough quarantine of the epidemic in the cows which gave the infected milk this new and treacherous affection soon or late, however, the immune in these cities will be substituted by non-immunes. One cow will have blisters on her udder and a new toll will be taken.

Prof. William H. Welch was one of the pioneer pathologists to suspect that the bacteria also became immune to man. A dozen and more years ago he proposed the theory that the germs which become immune to the defensive juices and tissues of the human race thereby achieve a superior power over mankind.

The Goal of Science.

Briefly, when the microbe becomes immune to you the malady is vicious and dangerous. If, on the other hand, you succeed in an outpouring of fluids which counteract, neutralize, destroy and devour the germs your fabric will continue ever afterward to make this a bacterial stuff. This is the explanation of immunity.

A disease has never become immune to tubercle bacilli. White mice are always fatally affected by the pneumonia germ. In other words, pneumonia moccoid and the bacilli of tuberculosis are always immune to these animals. The human race, nevertheless, has built up a partial immunity to these two ailments, only the weaker members of the human tribe falling ill with them.

However, there are two diseases caused by ultra-microscopic animalcules—rabies or hydrophobia and cancer—which are absolutely immune to man's tissues. These microbes kill the race and survive all conquests.

Answers to Health Questions

W. J. S.—Q—When I rest for a while my limbs go to sleep. My memory is variable, sometimes being very good, and then dull and uncertain. Can you help me?

A—Avoid excitement, get plenty of rest and sleep and never overexert yourself. Do not eat hot dishes, meals, nuts, beans, peas, salt, pepper or other condiments. Take a saturated solution of iodine of potash in water after meals, starting with 15-grain dose. Increase the dose one drop at a time until it reaches 50 drops, then go down again gradually until you reach 15 drops. Then go up again the same as before, and repeat this several times. Drink daily three quarts of distilled water and lots of fresh milk. Take a Bularis tablet with your meals, sleep in a well-ventilated room, and get plenty of fresh air, sunlight and mild exercise.

G. K. B.—Q—Can the drugs you have mentioned in your prescription for turning gray hair dark be secured at any drug store and taken without a doctor's prescription? For how many days should the medicine be taken in order to accomplish the results desired? Is there any danger from letting the tincture of chloride of iron touch the teeth? Can it be taken in a gelatine capsule or the capsules sometimes used for taking castor oil?

A—Would these same drugs be effective on a white horse, cow, dog or chicken? That is, turn the hair to a darker color, and if so, would the change be permanent or only last until the change of the season?

A—1—The tincture of chloride of iron and the cream or paste of carbonate of iron may be had at any drug store. The formula for the cream of carbonate of iron is: To one dram of carbonate of iron there should be added 1 ounce of vaseline. They may be used without a doctor's prescription. Tincture of chloride of iron is taken in 20-drop doses in a wine-glassful of water through a tube after meals. The cream is applied each night to the scalp. The average length of time taken to accomplish the desired results is about one month. In some cases it may be longer, in others shorter. Iron will make the teeth dark if it comes in contact with them. It may be taken in the capsules, but it is best taken through a tube in water.

2—No, it would not be satisfactory on such animals, because it would only last a few days, when the color would have to be renewed. This is too expensive to use on large surfaces such as on animals.

Three Minute Journeys

By Temple Fleming

WHERE ONE MIS-STEP AT WORK SPELLS DEATH.

IN the state of Chihuahua, in troubled Mexico, the wealth of the land lies in gold and silver mines. Some of these mines that I visited were worked in the most primitive fashion. Indeed, the ore was brought to the surface not by the sweat of the workers' brows, but by the blood of their veins.

Out of the pits, straight up, naked peons carried the rock ore to the surface on their backs, mounting that primitive type of ladder—notched steps cut in squared timber—where one mis-step meant death.

The way the backs of these burden-carriers were loaded was extraordinary. A cowhide pouch, as large as a railway mail sack, was filled with rock, and the bag suspended from the peon's head by a rope, the bulk of the weight being sustained by the forehead. Then more rocks were piled on the rock bag and the leather apron that covered the peon's back.

Planned in such a way that the burden must be carried in a semi-stooping posture with the weight entirely balanced by the rope across the forehead, the slightest lessening of a steady tension would throw the head back, break the peon's neck, and cast him to the bottom of the shaft.

Yet so great is the poverty of the Mexican peon that laborers are not wanting to do the work. The majority

Fill It In

An inspection of Catfish Pond quickly convinced the aldermen who visited it that the conclusion came to by those who had previously taken the trouble to inspect the place was a correct one.

It is not difficult to understand Commissioner Chambers' desire to dig out the pond. He approaches the matter from the point of view of a landscape gardener, and perhaps the landscape would look better with a pond than without one.

The other point to be considered is the cost. Economy is naturally a strong argument in deciding the matter, and Mr. Chambers has had the conviction that filling in would cost as much as digging out.

Estimates have been offered to do the work of filling in with sand from the lake front at a cost of not more than $25,000, and this is only half of Mr. Chambers' estimate for digging out, at the lowest. As a matter

JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST TRUST CO.

Sanitarium Wins in Suit for Expenses and Estate Must Pay.

DELIVERY WAS STOPPED

Hough Lithographing Co. Placed in Liquidation by Creditor.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday Chief Justice Falconbridge gave judgment for $1803.57 against the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, a committee of the estate of W. O. N. Parker, and against Mrs. Parker in favor of the Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph.

By an order made by Mr. Justice Sutherland in the Hough Lithographing Co. is placed in liquidation under the Dominion Act, on the petition of R. Cronin, a creditor for $225. The company was incorporated in 1905 with a capital of $150,000, of which $40,000 is said to have been subscribed and paid up.

The Standard Bank has held an assignment of the majority of the shares. The company is stated to have obtained orders for the extent of $100,000 between last January and August, but had been unable to secure deliveries from European companies since September, and so had not been able to fill the orders.

Mr. Justice Sutherland has dismissed the application made by Osler Wade for an order for foreclosure on the property of Thomas B. Morris. The applicant stated that payment of the instalment of principal on two mortgages was due on Jan. 31, 1915, and that it had not been paid; also that the mortgagor objected to payment.

Dismissed Motion. His lordship also dismissed the motion of Thomas B. Morris to have an award made by the late Judge Barry giving nominal damages to the Township of Etobicoke set aside. The litigation was over some difficulty in draining the property in the township.

The following writs have been issued: Empire Realty Co. against Jas. J. Walsh, T. H. Brown of Toronto against H. K. Mackenzie and P. H. Mackenzie; Alexander McKenzie, Muskoka, against the Canadian Pacific Railway; Annie Bulmer against George Tuff; Ramsay E. Sinclair, Ltd. against Mrs. Monnie Bereton; the Real Cakes Co. of Toronto against Robinson & Sons of Hamilton; Thomas R. Hinds against John Gray and Florence Gray; the Northern Light and Power Co. against the Badger Mines Co.; Geo. Cooper Campbell against the Canadian Feed Co.; Romette, J. & Phelan against William McMillan.

The first appellate court list for today: Tibury Gas Co. v. Maple Oil Co.; Trusts and Guarantees Co. v. Smith, Blackhall v. Roessel, Bell v. Smith.

PARIS, April 28.—Three hundred refugees from Poperinghe, eight miles west of Ypres, which has come under the fire of German artillery, have arrived in this city on special trains. Most of them are inmates of an orphanage and a home for the aged, conducted by Franciscan sisters.

When the bombardment of Poperinghe was begun on Sunday, the sisters declare, the institutions were not spared although they were flying the red cross flag. Three nuns were killed while superintending the removal of their charges and several of the inmates were wounded.

VIOLENT UPWARD SWING IN WHEAT

Early Downturn is Followed by Strong Bullish Market.

HEAVY EXPORT SALES

Hessian Fly Complaints Heard - Corn Bulged on Cash Demand.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Wheat prices took a violent upward swing today and an early downturn. Bullish cables and active foreign demand with official reports of moisture shortage had much to do in bringing about the rebound.

At first a majority of traders in wheat seemed disposed to continue to press the selling side as Liverpool quotations were lower and the weather generally fine for the domestic and Canadian crop.

Export sales that finally amounted to 1,000,000 bushels gave a big increase of strength to the wheat market after midday.

Corn bulged on account largely of improved cash demand including export business and a result of advice that indicated a relatively poor showing by pastures and hay.

PRICES IN BEEF TEND TO BE FIRM

Buying Cattle to Go Back for More Feed Causes Scarcity.

ORDERS GO UNFILED

Continued Demand for Milk-cows and Springers, Supply Being Small.

Receipts of live stock at Union Stock Yards on Wednesday were 71 carloads, comprising 1150 cattle, 1091 hogs, 72 sheep and lambs, 341 calves, 44 ponies.

There was a fair percentage of good to choice, well finished cattle on sale yesterday, which, with the few calves, was compared with Tuesday's sales.

Trade was active, all offerings being disposed of before noon hours in all the different classes of live stock.

Stocks and feeders were in active demand by both farmers and dealers, so insistent is the demand for feeding cattle that the fat cattle classes are being invaded and some of the best being bought to go back to the country to be fed on good crops.

This is having the effect of causing prices for beef to remain firm when they otherwise would have been easier.

Milk-cows and springers were in demand, the supply not being equal to the needs of the market as there were buyers with orders that could not be filled and being firm at Tuesday's quotations.

Receipts of sheep and lambs were again light, but good crops of lambs, so insistent is the demand for feeding cattle that the fat cattle classes are being invaded and some of the best being bought to go back to the country to be fed on good crops.

Choice veal calves are worth $9 to $10, but scarcely any of this class are coming on the market; good, $7.50 to $8.75; medium, $7 to $7.50; common, $6.25 to $6; boys, $2.50 to $3.

Sheep, ewes, sold at $5; yearling sheep and rams, $4.50 to $5; heavy lambs, $4.50 to $10; spring lambs at $5 to $10 each.

Hogs. Selects, weighed off cars sold at $8.30 to $9.00.

Representative Sales. Choice veal calves sold at $8.75; 3, 1510 lbs., at $7.80; 2, 1110 lbs., at $7.50; 1, 1170 lbs., at $7.25; 4, 1110 lbs., at $7.50; 8, 880 lbs., at $6.90; 2, 840 lbs., at $7.00; 1, 800 lbs., at $7.00; 10, 340 lbs., at $7.00; 1, 1170 lbs., at $7.25; 4, 1110 lbs., at $7.50; 8, 880 lbs., at $6.90; 2, 840 lbs., at $7.00; 1, 800 lbs., at $7.00; 10, 340 lbs., at $7.00.
