THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1905.

THE EVENING TIMES.

The St. John Evening Times is published at 27 and 29 Canterbury Street, every evening, (Sunday excepted), by the St. John Times Printing & Publishing Co., Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act. A. M. BELDING, Editor.

WORK FOR ST. JOHN

Reference was made in the Times yesterday to what the people of a town of 9000 in Massachusetts do to bring their town to the attention of investors. The town is Greenfield. Of course, a town of 9000 people would not appear to the casual visitor to be a place of much importance. But note what the people say themselves. With a communication from a manufacturing firm in Greenfield there has come to the Times a printed slip of paper, which evidently is sent out by Greenfield business men in their correspondence. It is as follows: A fine old New England town congenial with modern enterprise. County seat. Has prosperous manufactures—room for more. Railroad centre of Northwestern Massachusetts. Intersection of Fitchburg and Connecticut river divisions, Boston and Maine Railroad. Model water system—rates very low. Town and suburban street railways. Valuable fire protection—insurance reasonable. Power and lights from electric plant using power of Deerfield River. Progressive in public institutions but tax rate reasonable. Ample land for growth, room for city of 100,000. Monopoly of real estate impossible. Fifteen miles paved and macadam streets. Total roads, 119 miles. Purest water in the state. Complete sewerage system. Health conditions perfect. Model school system. Good libraries. First class hotels. Two national banks. Deposits, $1,184,010. Two savings banks. Deposits, $6,778,328. Town and suburban street railways. Valley line to Springfield. Population, 9,000. Purchasing centre for 90,000, in radius of 10 miles. Surroundings of great natural beauty. Unsurpassed drives. From Boston, 105 miles, (3 hours). New York, 192 (4 hours). Springfield, 37. Moose Tunnel, 30. Troy, 87. Passenger trains, 70 daily. National and American express. Western Union and Postal Telegraph. New England telephone. Here then is a GREEN FIELD for business, an ideal home, a delightful resort. Its board of trade will tell you more about it. Your inquiry direct or through the advertiser will have ready attention.

There is a story which tells in brief what the investor who is looking for chances wants to know. It may not appeal to one man in ten thousand, but if it attracts the attention of one and leads to an investment of his money in the place the ten thousand slips sent out are productive of more than adequate results. What is St. John doing in this direction? More industries could be successfully conducted in this city. If the city is to grow it must be as a manufacturing centre. The requirements are capital and skill. Every citizen stands to gain by the development of the city and successful industries. It is the duty of businessmen to get together and discuss this matter and take such steps as will more widely advertise the advantages of the locality.

GIVE US LIGHT

The Times on Thursday published a statement prepared by the street railway company, which appeared to show that the north end electric lights, provided by the city's plant, cost more than the $75 each which the city officials set down as the actual cost. Mr. Macrae states that the company's calculations are at fault, because the site of the station is exempt from taxation, the water used costs the city nothing, the interest charge is less than the company states, and the allowance made in the $75 for repairs and renewals is may for the present be left to the company and the aldermen to discuss the phase of the question. But Mr. Macrae admits that the plant is obsolete and should be replaced by new machinery which has led to the demand for additional expenditure? Moreover, there are no land or water taxes to consider, the city should be in that much better position with regard to the electric lights. The publication of the figures in question will do good. Even if true they would not be an argument against municipal ownership, but against the manner in which the city has managed this branch of its business. If Mr. Macrae or any other alderman knows a way by which the cost of lighting may be greatly reduced the public will be glad to hear of it, but before extensive measures are adopted let us know the facts about this north end experiment. It is up to the board of safety to reply to the statement made by the street railway people.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Before another issue of this paper appears the first of the winter port steamers will have left and passengers may be at her berth on the west side. The season opens auspiciously, with the prospect of a busy winter along the water front. Not only will the grain shipments make a record for the port, but the outlook seems to promise a larger amount of other goods, both inward and outward, of the kind that give much employment to the hands than grain demands. There will be more steamship sailings than in any previous winter. On the whole, the outlook in the city and province is good. Farmers are getting excellent prices for their crops. Wholesale merchants state that the sale of lumbermen's supplies is greater in volume this fall than a year ago. The factories are all busy. Indeed Canadian factories everywhere are said to have plenty of orders, and the difficulty will occur-chants is to get the goods when promised. The conditions in the west are very favorable. Western banks report paper very well met. In this city and province the purchasing power of the people was somewhat affected this year by the duller lumber trade, but the conditions today appear to be generally satisfactory and suggestive of confidence.

THE RECKONING

At the end of the week the thoughtful individual takes stock of the week's doings, and of the net result, whether in the realm of material gain or the building of character. He or she is fortunate and happy if the balance in each case is on the right side. The rule affecting the individual may well apply, with equal force, to the community. The people of St. John as a whole, for example, may properly ask in what directions there has been social or industrial improvement during the week. The citizen has two sets of duties—to himself and family, and to his fellows. There is a natural tendency to concentrate attention upon the former, and to neglect what relates to the general welfare. The question: What can I do for this person or these persons? is less evident in the individual consciousness than: What can they do for me? There is not enough of fellowship, in united effort, for the general good. This is true in religious, social and industrial life. The fault of the times is selfishness. There is a wise selfishness, which guards one's own legitimate interests; but there is another kind which disregards the interests of others. When all the people of a community recognize both their duty to themselves and to their neighbors there is constant progress. Ideal conditions are not realized in this world, but they may be approximated. But even the realization must be brought about by the efforts of individuals. And so at the week-end, each citizen may fairly ask the question: What has been my contribution to the general benefit?

REFORM, NOT REVOLUTION

The Wall Street Journal discusses in a very clear and intelligent manner the present condition of social and political unrest in the United States. It does not fear revolution, and in that it expresses the view of thoughtful persons in general. We quote: "Even the most superficial observer of current conditions cannot fail to have been impressed by the fact that a great movement is taking place in this country, a movement that cannot fail to have an influence upon the lives and destinies of the millions of American people through generations to come. Everywhere, in every section, and through every class and condition of men, there is apparent a great social unrest. This has manifested itself in many ways. It shows itself in one place in an outburst of socialism in its most extreme form. It manifests itself in another place in a spirit of bitter complaint against existing conditions. It shows itself in another in almost an agonized demand for larger liberty and opportunity. Here it is a crusade against the trusts. There it is a movement against the railroads. Here it is an investigation of life insurance. There it is an effort for a State reformatory in opposition to the petroleum trust. "But while this manifestation takes different forms, the essence of it is the same everywhere. It is a great popular movement in the direction of larger liberty, wider democracy, increased opportunities, an equal chance, a square deal, a stricter obedience to law, a more comprehensive publicity, and a higher standard of accountability on the part of the directors and trustees of the invested wealth of the country. "The very reforms which are now so vigorously demanded by the people for the purpose of getting rid of the inequalities, the oppression and the graft attend- ing the conduct of the great business enterprises will when accomplished serve to protect the corporations and financial interests controlling them from the assaults of radical socialism and the hatred of the masses. If the present ethical revival had not taken place, if there had been no investigations of corruption, if there had been no disclosures of wrongdoing, if there had been no effort made to secure larger publicity and Government supervision, if in a word things had gone on in a crooked way in which they have been moving so rapidly, there would unquestionably have been grave danger of socialism. The great movement which is now taking place is of the nature of reform rather than revolution. It means taking the great economic mechanism invented by modern business and changing it, with the moral electricity of honesty, equality and faithful observance of law."

S. D. SCOTT.

Snowdon Dunn Scott, editor of the St. John Daily Sun, was born near Parrsboro (N.S.), in 1831. He was educated at Dalhousie, Mount Allison and the University of Halifax, graduating B.A. from the latter institutions and M.A. from Mount Allison. While in college he first manifested that journalistic bent which determined his later career, and he edited the college papers, the Dalhousie College Gazette and the Mount Allison Argosy. After his graduation Mr. Scott studied law for a time in the office of H. A. Powell in Sackville, but did not remain a devotee or a digester of Blackstone for long. Journalism called him and he became editor of the Sackville Post. In 1881 he became editor of the Halifax Mail, and remained as successively editor of the Mail and Herald until 1885, when he came to St. John as editor of the Sun. This position he still fills. Mr. Scott was for many parliamentary sessions a member of that circle of bright newspaper men, the Ottawa press gallery, where he represented the Halifax Herald and St. John Sun. He had a clear grasp of political affairs, and soon learned the strong and weak points of every man in the house. Consequently, it was not long before "Scott's Ottawa Letter" was well known and looked for in every editorial column in Canada. Mr. Scott is by common consent one of the cleverest writers of political leaders in the Canadian press. He has a terse, epigrammatic way of condensing the pith of an article into one luminous phrase or sentence, that the reader comes upon, unexpectedly and instinctively appreciates. The man whose views today are the opposite of those he expressed a year or several years ago, is likely to be bold about it.

S. D. SCOTT.

For the editor of the Sun remembers, and his rare knock—the result of methodical study—of turning up in his fine reference library the facts he desires to present. But his attacks are not bitter, however keen, and excited party men in the heat of a campaign have been known to assert with some heat that "Scott is too general a subject are frequently brightened by classical allusions or illustrations suggested by wide and intelligent reading. It is an open secret that only Mr. Scott's predilection for St. John has kept him here. He has in the time past declined flattering offers to take up journalistic work in other Canadian cities. But it is not alone in journalism that Mr. Scott has won deserved recognition. He is a profound student, and has written, on different occasions, scholarly papers for the New Brunswick Historical Society and kindred societies, and has appeared on the lecture platform in St. John and elsewhere. He is a member of the Board of Regents of Mount Allison University, and has been president of the Atlantic Association. He is a past president of the New Brunswick Historical Society, and a member of the Council of the Canadian British Empire League. He is also a member of St. George's Society. Mr. Scott has always taken an active interest in all works for the amelioration of humanity. He is a member of the Board of Management and a trustee of the Home for Incubators, being one of the original trustees nominated in the will of the late W. W. Turnbull. He is also a member of the Board of Management of the Associated Charities. The Sun, under his guidance, has always been an advocate of temperance and prohibition. In politics he is a Liberal-Conservative, and in religion a Methodist. He married Miss Emma Wood, daughter of the late John Wood, J.P., of Amherst.

THE METROPOLE

Dear Friends—No doubt you are aware that I am giving over the charge of the Metropole and Travellers' Home, but I cannot do so without first tendering my most sincere thanks to the citizens of St. John for the many expressions of good will received, also for the assistance rendered in a more practical way of helping with funds to start the home. It was a very great pleasure to me to find while collecting for the same last year that only two refused to help. I have also great pleasure in introducing as my successor Edwin James Bowring an officer of nearly 20 years' standing who has done hold duty in Ontario, Newfoundland and the Maritime Provinces and for the last few years has done staff duty as a district officer. I trust you will receive him as well as you did me, if so he will have no cause to complain. Yours very affectionately, G. P. THOMPSON, Adjutant.

Charlottetown, Nov. 17.—The final result of the plebiscite shows that 259,963 votes were cast in favor of Prince Charles and 66,284 against him. A denunciation conveying a formal offer of the throne to Prince Charles will leave tomorrow evening for Copenhagen.

DOMINANT MODES IN WAISTS AND SKIRTS

The most dominant changes in the new styles certainly have to do with bodices and skirts. The former, with their many charming coquetries, seem in no wise to lack the sloping, long-sleeved waists of several seasons past. Indeed, so complete is the downfall of boneness and simplicity that the simple bodices with short length sleeves seem quite antiquated.

Many Charming Effects in the Surplice Style of Bodice Which Gives Above All Else the Trim Appearance so Essential in Present Fashions and Lends Itself Admirably to Stout Figures.

BY MARY DEAN

The thing which accomplishes this trim look most successfully is the crossed or surplice effect, which is obtained either by the bodice material itself or by trimming. The future of all crossed-bodice effects is said to be enormous in Paris, and dressmakers who exploit them here predict for them an immense vogue. The crossing, which is done in many instances both back and front, greatly facilitates the exaggerated contraction of some of the style is especially becoming to stout figures.

The sleeves of these very coquette waists are important details. Scarcely a year is seen in a really fine bodice which fails to the waist. The style lengths are all a little above the elbow, a little below three-quarters down. The shape of the sleeves are many, but an oblong puff not too big, is a favorite model. With one or two cross-over effects are seen sleeves whose short puffs follow the same graceful folds of line, and when softly folding textures are used for these the effect is charming.

In a smart group of French bodices illustrated, this style is shown upon the central figure. The materials used are champagne chiffon and pale rose chiffon taffeta. The fichu is of the taffetas with a light edge of mousseline, the sharply notched ends reaching round to the back and lying above the wide taffeta girde. A chemisette of tulle lace is shown with this bodice. This last smart detail is a feature with almost all the others shown.

A little waist to the right of this depicts an expressive of the crossed bodice. Washed blue taffeta silk (blue lav) is the material of this, with velvet ribbon in a slightly deeper shade taking the girde. The ribbon is applied under the crossed appendages with a silk frill edge and suggests a bolero cut. The style length of the short waisted look now so much admired.

Propose of this look, as completely as it provided all smart garments that long-waisted effect is almost fatal. Any trick which may be used to break the waist, such as a girde, is resorted to, but none is more efficacious than the boned crushed girde which fit almost as snugly as short corsets.

A face-hand with narrow fold of marquis velvet shawl. The surplice effect of another is made by the crossed of a puritan collar, which crosses with large black lace buttons. The material of this bodice is deep blue silk (the shade of washing blue), the contrast coming from narrow black silk lined tie black buttons. At the front of the waist a gathered-fragment of black, lapped over by the rest of the very ornamental belt, gives a slimmer look. This trick of making the waist small by the introduction of a touch of black is a delightful feature with the French styles. With the most delicate color of black may be seen, and in point of effective contrast no color could be so valuable.

having the girde and skirt separate than all in one. A wonderfully graceful Princess skirt was made with an apron almost as narrow at the top as an umbrella gore. The wide flara at the bottom gave a good fit all, which was helped out by a shaped flower and circular side brackets, these just being put in with a strapped seam over the hips. This seam, running down each side of the back, involved the rear breadth in a narrow graceful panel. The way in which the wide, slightly-flared flounce was put on was a lesson in ornamental dress-making. The bias top was simply turned under, and the flounce put on with a stitching which left a half inch leading.

Dressmakers' wrinkles with various of the new textures may give the observer some sewer many ideas. Frequently, to get a soft fall of a cloth skirt around the feet, a dress everywhere else showing heavy machine stitching, will have a hem scarcely any more than basted up by hand. And if such a dress has a lace bodice, some part of this lace will be cut out to introduce a fragment of the skirt material, or, maybe, give in a signy deeper tint. This gives the necessary sequence between bodice and skirt, without which a waist in one material and a skirt in another will never seem complete.

The most delightful of the new sleeves are of a smallness which gives a slim trim look, though some of the wrist-length models are completely gathered over the arm. The lace stocks and chemisettes are tightly lined with chiffon mousseline, and the stock itself cannot present a stylish appearance without a high cut.

Coming down to practical waists, presumably those on the skirt-waist order such as are for hard use, still present many of the aspects of former seasons. The apron, the fichu, the collar, etc., are no more, or it is so slight as to be scarcely noticeable, the girde species of waist being, together by complicated means, the most mannish skirt waists.

Elements in smart dress of surprising importance are the various neck fittings which are used to embellish the smartest gowns. The little tulle ruffles of the summer are still affected, especially about hotel corridors or other places where hats are worn and no heavier wraps needed. But aside from the lovely imported shoulder corsets, which are yet only here as foreign exquisites, the feather boue are certainly the most wonderful and beautifying of these shoulder and neck mufflers.

The marabout scarfs, which are wide, and as soft as swags, are the love-liest of all. With the white marabout is sometimes introduced a light powdering of brown or gray which is most lovely. High yokes must often go with these neck scarfs, the sets forming part of an evening get-up of similar fairlike beauty. For example, a gown of white lace and blue chiffon, the two materials embroidered at the juncture so as to seem woven, was topped by a white marabout set flecked with pale blue. The hat for this was a round velvet crown and a great pink camelia at the left.

graceful variations in trimming effects all go with the present styles. In fact, many a woman of taste and audacity this season makes her own styles, and if they are sufficiently captivating the greatest dressmaker is not ashamed to copy them.

But if the sewer has simply gifts for execution let her go only to the good pieces for ideas. She is not likely to be shipwrecked by the wrong thing.

BAD KIDNEYS.

Can Only Be Cured Through the Blood. Bad backs-aching backs-come from bad kidneys. Bad kidneys come from bad blood. Bad blood clogs the kidneys with poisonous impurities that breed deadly diseases. And the first sign of that fatal trouble is a dull, dragging pain in the back. Neglect it, and you will soon have the coated tongue, the nasty skin, the peevish temper, the swollen ankles, the dark-rimmed eyes, and all the other signs of deadly kidney disease. Plasters and liniments can never cure you. Kidney pills and bankare pills only touch the symptoms-they do not cure. You must get right down to the root and cause of the trouble in the blood-and no medicine in the world can do this so surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because they actually make new blood. This strong, rich, new blood sweeps the kidneys clean, drives out the poisonous acids and leads the deadly inflammation. That is the only way to rid yourself of your backache and have strong, sound kidneys.

Mr. Paul St. Onge, wife of a well-known contractor at St. Louis des Monts, Que., says: "I suffered for upwards of six years from kidney trouble. I had dull, aching pains every day. I was nearly blind, and my back was so stiff that I could hardly go about. I lost flesh, had dark rings below my eyes, and grew more wretched every day. I was treated by different doctors, but with no apparent result. I despaired of regaining my health, and was becoming a burden to my family. I was in a deplorable condition when one of my friends advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking them, and after using three or four boxes, I began to feel better. I continued this treatment for nearly three months, when every symptom of the trouble had vanished and I was again a well man. I am now as strong and healthy as ever. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

SCHURZ'S FIGHT FOR REFORM. Carl Schurz in all of his long life in America has been the uncompromising foe of boodism. The fact that a generation ago his political ideas seemed impracticable except to the devoted few of his contemporaries marks him as a sort of pioneer of the march of civic reform which the present election is witnessing all over the country. Although with advancing years Mr. Schurz has retired from active participation in public affairs he has lately been conspicuous in his own city as a supporter of Jerome, and in Philadelphia's struggle with the ringsters his open letter to German-Americans has been hailed by the press as "a clarion call to duty from the Grand Old Man of Beulah." Publication of Carl Schurz's "Reminiscences of a Long Life," is begun in the current McClure's.

CHIC EXAMPLES IN SKIRTS

PETER ROSEGGER'S REMARKABLE CAREER.

The story of the life of Peter Rosegger, were it a romantic tale of genius struggling into light, could hardly be more remarkable. Born of simple, ignorant parents, in a remote valley of the Styrian Alps, where to be able to read was unusual and to write almost unheard of, and himself practically untaught until he was twenty-two years old, Peter Rosegger has become one of Germany's best loved authors. His account of Christ's life, "I. N. R. I.," a Prisoner's Story of the Cross, has been one of the great literary successes of the last decade. Rosegger was a born writer. He taught himself to read by scraps of newspaper that were used for patterns by the tailor to whom he was apprenticed. He early began to write for People's Calendar of stories, poems, etc. which he read to his neighbors. One day he sent a bundle of his poems to a newspaper, with a letter explaining that what he wanted most in the world was a chance to make money so that he could buy books and read some of the wonderful Schiller and Goethe. He was so modest and simple about it that he did not much hope for an answer. When he chanced in at the distant post office six months later this humble peasant writer found awaiting him German newspapers with broad headlines hailing him as the great Styrian folklorist poet, and books upon books from people who had read his appealing letter and were eager to help him. Great success came to him almost immediately. He has produced many books of poetry, stories and novels, all pervaded by the directness, sincerity and naive simplicity that would be expected of him. These qualities are especially evident in this new book, "I. N. R. I." (McClure-Phillips), in which with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends.

ONE BILL CHEERFULLY PAID

USED MEN AT THE OFFICE UP AND TIRED OUT

Every day in the week and every week in the year men, women and children feel all used up and tired out. The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart. Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, sick headaches, weak and irregular pulse, moodiness and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually causes decline.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centres. Mrs. Thea Hall, Malden, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends."

SOUTHERN SERVICE OF VEGETABLES

The Sweet Potato Is Particularly Fine This Fall and the Colored Cooks of the South Know Best How to Cook It.

Common, every day vegetable gain a new and inimitable flavor cooked after the fashion of Southern chefs. A little more trouble is necessary in their preparation, but an added tastiness more than repays the housewife, while the family are treated to a most tempting food.

The sweet potato is a favorite vegetable in every household, and here are a number of ways in which colored cooks from Dixieland offer this delicious tuber:

Prepare half a dozen large sweet potatoes of equal size by parboiling them for twenty minutes. Peel them carefully and cut directly in halves. Place the pieces thus obtained in a shallow baking pan and sprinkle with salt, celery salt, white pepper and a very little allspice. Pour into the pan a cupful of rich soup stock and bake in a quick oven. Bake frequently until tender and slightly browned. These are especially nice served with baked fish.

Sweet Potato Puffs-Steep six large sweet potatoes until tender. Peel and mash them smooth. Add one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, two tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of salt, a few drops of onion juice and a pinch of paprika. Beat until very light with a silver fork and then stir in quickly the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour at once into cups. Place in a pan of boiling water and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. Serve in the cups with roast chicken or turkey.

To make croquettes, boil sweet potatoes, remove the skins and mash them rapidly in two quart of boiling water. Drain and pour cold water over them and place in a dry saucepan. Season with salt and cook for fifteen minutes slowly, giving them an occasional stir. Drain again, chop fine and add a dash of pepper, a grating of nutmeg and two tablespoonful of butter.

Scalloped Potatoes-Scrape and boil four parsnips and cut into cubes. Put a layer in the bottom of a baking dish and cover with cream sauce made from one tablespoonful of butter and one cup of milk. Over this place another layer of parsnips, one or two very thin slices of onion and a coating of the cream sauce. Fill the dish in this way. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and bake for half an hour.

Sweet Potato Waffles-Mix one tablespoonful of butter and one of sugar and beat to a cream. When thoroughly blended stir in one well beaten egg. Add one pint of milk and a small cupful of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of baking powder so enough cooked and mashed sweet potato to make a smooth batter. Season with salt, cayenne pepper and nutmeg and serve with toast.

For a luncheon dish sweet potatoes are served on toast. Cook until tender three large sweet potatoes. Remove the skins and pass through a vegetable sieve. Season with a pinch of salt, a little cayenne pepper, the grated yolk of one hard-boiled egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter and half a cup of grated cheese. Spread on rounds of buttered toast and brown in a hot oven. Serve with sliced lemon.

Southern Ways of Serving Egg-plant

Egg Plant Fritters-Paré an eggplant, cut into slices a quarter of an inch thick and dust with salt and pepper and a little sugar. Beat well the yolks of two eggs, add half a cup of milk and stir gradually into the flour. Beat thoroughly before all the liquid is added, as it is difficult to whip a thin batter smooth. Add one tablespoonful of melted butter or olive oil, beat well and stand aside for an hour. When ready to use fold in the whites of the eggs, beaten to a stiff froth. If the batter is not sufficiently thick to coat the slices of eggplant mix in a little more flour. Dip each piece of eggplant in the mixture and fry to a golden brown in very hot fat.

Baked Egg Plant-Cook one large egg plant in boiling water for half an hour. Now cut into halves and take out the center, leaving half an inch thickness in the outer shell. Chop the center which has been taken out and mix with half a cupful of bread crumbs, half a cup of chopped nuts, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of pepper and a tablespoonful of onion. Mix these ingredients have been thoroughly blended, stuff into the eggplant shell and bake the plant in moderate oven for one hour, heating once or twice with melted butter.

To serve with roast veal, pare a large egg plant, cut into slices, sprinkle with salt and boil gently for twenty minutes. Drain and chop fine. Season with onion, salt and pepper; add one tablespoonful of flour dissolved in a cup of milk and cook the twenty minutes. Remove from the fire and add one table-spoonful of butter.

Two Tasty Recipes for Spinach

No. 1-Wash thoroughly two quart of spinach, beat tops or other greens and dry in a clean dish towel. Put these into a kettle which has been heated and together with a half cup of water and a dash of salt, shake over the fire until the spinach is soft and mussy. Now cook slowly twenty minutes. Drain and chop fine. Add half a teaspoonful of salt, one table-spoonful of butter, one table-spoonful of cream, a dash of pepper and one teaspoonful of onion. Stir together over the fire until very hot. Serve on buttered toasts with croquettes of hard-boiled eggs.

No. 2-Wash thoroughly four quart of spinach (greens of any kind) and cook in a clean dish towel. Put these into a kettle which has been heated and together with a half cup of water and a dash of salt, shake over the fire until the spinach is soft and mussy. Now cook slowly twenty minutes. Drain and chop fine. Add half a teaspoonful of salt, one table-spoonful of butter, one table-spoonful of cream, a dash of pepper and one teaspoonful of onion. Stir together over the fire until very hot. Serve on buttered toasts with croquettes of hard-boiled eggs.

Scalloped Potatoes-Scrape and boil four parsnips and cut into cubes. Put a layer in the bottom of a baking dish and cover with cream sauce made from one table-spoonful of butter and one cup of milk. Over this place another layer of parsnips, one or two very thin slices of onion and a coating of the cream sauce. Fill the dish in this way. Sprinkle the top with bread crumbs and bake for half an hour.

When parsnips are served on toast, they should be scraped and boiled for three-quarters of an hour or until tender. As soon as they are cooked, drain thoroughly and place on pieces of toast. Mix together one tablespoonful of butter and one of flour. Add a cup of water and stir until boiling. Season with one level teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, a slice of onion and the juice of half a lemon. Pour this sauce over the parsnips and serve.

Plain Talk About Indifference of So-Called Christians to Graft in Politics and Business--Blindly Voting Party Ticket--Get Back First Principles.

The crying need of a purer political life was clearly set forth by Rev. The committee will meet in Toronto on January 1, 2 and 3, and it is hoped then to select the first 350 hymns for the new hymnal. Sheets have been sent out to every parish, every branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, and other church organizations.

COMPARES THE TWO JEROMES

And Incidentally Scores the Bosses in Boston, New York and Elsewhere.

A sharp reference to United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge marked the evening sermon of Rev. William T. McEwen in the St. James Congregational Church. He was comparing the Jerome of today with St. Jerome of the early Church. He said: "According to the New Testament ideal every man or woman who is immersed in the vulgar work of everyday life and feels that his or her religion should be put into every department of that work, is entitled to be called a saint. And if that holds good, I want to say that William Travers Jerome of New York is a great deal better saint than St. Jerome of the fourth century. Meditation and fasting and prayer are good things, but fighting political corruption and oppression and injustice is more religious than praying or fasting. Both those Jeromes are holier-than-thou characters. The ancient Jerome fought theologians. Jerome of New York is not interested in the matters that concerned the ancient namesake. He doesn't care about them. If you asked him he'd probably say he didn't know. He might be more irreverent about it than the Jerome of the twentieth century did not fight theologians. He fought Murphy, Mr. Ryan of the Equitable, and Odell, the Republican boss. Jerome of old sainted up in the name of Massachusetts, for we have a boss here, too--a practical boss--a Republican boss. He needs to be rebuked as sharply as Murphy and Odell, and all that sorry crowd."

With this perception the majority of women unite a most vivid imagination, and therefore when the cause of worry is kept from them they supply one of their own. Naturally the imaginary trouble is much bigger and more terrible than the real one.

She has something tangible to oppose, and it gives her a certain happiness to be permitted to feel that she is your trusted confidante.

It doesn't pay my boy, to treat a woman of this day and generation as a child. She knows too much to fill that role with satisfaction to herself or to you.

There was never a man or never a woman who didn't have troubles of some sort, big or little, mostly little, and there was never a man or never a woman who didn't get relieved by letting them out, provided he had somebody to talk to in whose confidence and sympathy he could rely.

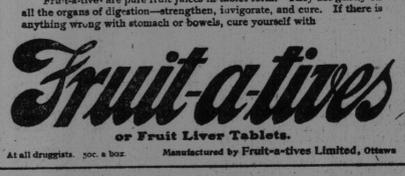

AN INCREASE IN DRUNKENNESS

Rev. C. T. Scott Made Strong Statements in an Address Last Week.

At a meeting of Quebec province Sunday school convention last week, Rev. C. T. Scott read a paper on "One of the great problems of our day."—as confined himself wholly to the drink traffic. He introduced his subject by quoting some astonishing figures, showing the great increase in drunkenness throughout Canada, and went on to show that of the 27,000 drunkards in Canada the great majority had, at one period of their life, received instruction in Sunday-schools.

When Indigestion Grips You

It is not merely "something you ate" at the last meal—it is weakness in the stomach. A path is Nature's danger signal that something is wrong. Indigestion is the stomach's way of telling you that it can't or won't work.

Continuing, he denunciated the licensed saloon as the moral plague of our civilization. "Temperance," said he, "does not signify moderation, but total abstinence from everything injurious. Under that category intoxicants must certainly be classed, for they are acknowledged by all medical men who make them a special study, to be the worst agents in dulling the moral sensibilities of man. Some people have had the hardihood to contend that, if methods taught their children to indulge wisely, and not abuse their privilege, the growing generation would abstain from drinking to excess. It is difficult to see how such a result could be obtained."

THE OPERATION OF THE STURGIS LAW IN MAINE

(Correspondence of the Montreal Witness) PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 10.—After an experience of six months with the law enforcing the constitutional amendment prohibiting the sale of liquor, the State of Maine is in a position now to summarize the effect of its legislation of last winter.

Comparative statistics of police arrests have been furnished by social reformers in investigating conditions under legal prohibition for the reason that there is a liability to change from time to time in the rules which govern police methods and regulations in such matters.

The city of Portland, the largest in the state, has given a remarkable example of the benefits of strict prohibition of the liquor traffic. The year ending last March was the first since the Sturgis law was passed, and Sheriff Pennington, whose duty it was to enforce the prohibitory law in the county had openly proclaimed his belief in restricted selling.

On the other hand, the number of arrests for drunkenness in the city has been reduced to a minimum. The traffic will ever be wiped out, they hold to be impossible, so long as other states are not co-operating in the fight, but they believe and openly proclaim that Maine has made a long step in advance this year, and that it is a better state to live in and more prosperous in business since the enforcement law went into effect.

LOCAL OPTION IN NEW SOUTH WALES

Those concerned in the local option movement in Canada will be interested to learn that the Liquor Law Amendment Bill has passed through committee in the legislative assembly of New South Wales, with certain amendments.
