PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION WILL BE HELD HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

First Anniversary of the Declaration of War Will be Fittingly Observed Here. Big Public Meeting Will Be Held.

CITIZENS ASKED TO FLY THEIR FLAGS

Next Wednesday August 4th, will be the first anniversary of the declaration of war between Britain and Germany.

To mark the day fittingly it has been suggested by His Worship the Mayor, that the citizens decorate their houses and premises with flags and bunting, and the storekeepers dress up their windows with a patriotic display of flags, etc. No doubt although the day has not been proclaimed as a holiday, a holiday spirit will prevail, and the due observance of the day will bring home to each one of us that we still have a big chance of "doing our bit". On Wednesday evening at 7.15 p. m., a united prayer service will take place in Christ church, where all the Protestant clergy will take part.

At 8 p. m. a big public meeting and demonstration will be held in the Opera House at which H. A. Powell, Esq., of St. John and other prominent men will speak, and a large choir will render Patriotic selections.

His Worship the Mayor and D. A. Stewart, Esq., M. L. A., are looking after the arrangements for this gathering and it is hoped that a large attendance will be on hand to mark the occasion. Mr. H. A. Powell is one of the orators of the province and Mr. Stewart expects other good speakers to take part in the meeting.

It is probable that an appeal will be made at this meeting for subscriptions to the machine gun fund for the 55th Battalion. With regard to this the Mayor has issued the following letter to the citizens of the town.

Campbellton, N. B., July 24th, 1915.
To the Citizens of the Town of Campbellton:

It has been conclusively proven, that had our soldiers at the front been so liberally supplied with Machine Guns as were the Germans, the loss of life among our troops would not have been nearly so great.

To overcome the difficulty and provide a sufficient quantity of this very useful weapon, the Towns and Cities throughout the Empire are presenting the troops with these guns, and in many cases individuals are bearing the whole cost.

I have received a request from one of the Officers of the 55th now encamped at Valcartier to provide one

Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yewell are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby boy at their home on Sunday last.

Mr. James McKenzie, Shigawake, P. Q., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Wm. Simpson.

Miss Violet McKay returned home on Monday after an enjoyable visit to the Misses Dore at the Rectory, Newcastle.

Mr. Chipman Bateman of the home service, Newcastle, has been visiting his family recently.

Mrs. Charles Powell and Miss Minnie Powell are visiting Capt. Chas. Powell at Bathurst.

Miss MacCarthine, Fredericton, is visiting Mrs. Wm. Gallop.

Mrs. Fred Warman, Athol, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. S. J. Bakingham.

Letters received by the parents of Messrs. Wylie Jamieson and Alex. Wallace go to show that our two brave Dalhousie boys are in the fiercest of the fighting in France.

Mr. Alex. LaBilloy, Maguasha, P. Q., was a visitor to town on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred LeGouffe, have returned from Three Rivers, P. Q., where they attended a religious ceremony in which their daughter was the interested party.

On Saturday last the 17th inst., the guests of the Inch Arran House ascertained that it was the anniversary day of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dean, who so kindly and so well cater to their interests, and by their earnest endeavours tend to make it pleasant for one and all, decided to give the same a token of refor the use of the Restigouche boys in that Battalion, and am now appealing to you for your assistance.

Some time ago the Colt's Arms Co. were furnishing these guns for $750, but the demand has been so great that they have been compelled to refuse further orders and as a consequence the Department has adopted the Lewis Gun which costs $1,000.

It has been stated, by those well qualified to give an opinion, that one of these guns is equal to sixty men equipped with the ordinary rifle, if that is the case what a golden opportunity for those of us, who for various reasons cannot go to the front, to do something for the great cause for which Great Britain and her Allies are fighting today.

Fifty individuals contributing $20.00 each will provide sufficient funds to purchase one of these guns, which, when properly handled will be a greater factor in bringing this terrible war to a successful conclusion than were they at the front themselves armed with modern rifles.

Are you one of those who appreciate what the supremacy of the British Empire means for you?

And do you realize that for the rights and liberties you have enjoyed in the past, and still continue to enjoy, you owe a duty to the Empire in this hour of need?

If so kindly fill in the enclosed blank and forward to me as early as possible, and very much obliged.

Yours sincerely,
A. A. ANDREW,
Mayor.

The following is the blank above referred to:—

Realizing the duties which I owe to the Empire, I agree that whenever called upon I will cheerfully pay the sum of $..... for the purpose of purchasing one or more Machine Guns for the use of the 55th Battalion or any other body of Canadian Troops that may require these Guns.

Signed.....

It is to be hoped that the people of the town will respond as liberally to this appeal as they have done to others and as Campbellton is marked large on the map as a recruiting centre, we cannot afford to fall down in this.

In the evening the many guests who are now patrons of this well known Sea Side Resort, assembled together in the large parlour and upon the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Dean, who had been invited to attend, one of the guests, after making a few remarks in which on behalf of all of those present, desired to convey their utmost kind wishes and read an appropriate address, which was signed by Lady Foster and all other guests of the House.

Mr. Dean, in reply, thanked one and all for their kind wishes and expressions, and said their endeavour on behalf of their guests, would always be, to do all, and everything to serve their interests. After singing appropriate songs for the occasion, and the National Anthem, the happy gathering dispersed.

Mrs. John McNeish and family have returned home after a pleasant stay at Mrs. McNeish's old home at Summerside, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller.

Mrs. James Wallace spent the day at Fleurant's Point.

Mr. Champford Bakingham went to Newcastle last week with Capt. L. D. Jones to join the home service.

Mrs. W. S. Montgomery was a visitor to her old home in Campbellton recently.

A large number of our citizens went to Mission Point on Monday to attend the Ste. Anne annual celebration. The day was fine and all returned much pleased with the trip.

The Women's Institute here is doing splendid work. It is the intention of the ladies to invite Sir George E. Foster to deliver a patriotic address before he returns to Ottawa.

MASONIC FUNERAL OF LATE D. SANSON

Large Numbers Turn Out to Pay Last Respects to One Who is Greatly Missed

The funeral of the late David Sanson, who died last Thursday in Montreal, was held on Saturday from his late residence here. The body was conveyed from Montreal on Friday and brought to his late home, where many beautiful floral offerings and wreaths were placed around the casket. The service was held at 2 o'clock on Saturday conducted by Rev. Hugh Miller assisted by Rev. C. W. Squires, and Revs. J. H. Jenner, J. E. Purdie and Rev. John Squires. Representatives of the choir of St. Andrew's church were present singing favorite hymns of the deceased. The body was then taken charge of by his Masonic brethren and conveyed to the Rural cemetery, where interment was made with Masonic Ritual. The pall bearers were Bros. W. F. Napier, D. A. Stewart, J. R. MacKenzie, H. M. MacLennan, Jas. P. Jardine, and Jas. D. McMillan. The local lodge No. 48 I. O. O. F., also took part in the procession to the grave, while the bell in the Baptist church was tolled during the passing of the cortege. Large numbers followed the procession showing the high esteem in which the late gentleman was held in this community and the expressions of sympathy extended to the bereaved family were deep and heartfelt. He leaves a vacant place in the business and social life of this town which will be hard to fill, and his loss is a yet but faintly realised. He was a man of large and generous heart, full of good works, and his influence was ever felt on the side of truth and righteousness.

Fitting reference was made of his death on Sunday evening by Rev. Hugh Miller at St. Andrew's church and in his memory the organist played the "Dead March in Saul" at the close of the service.

David Sanson was born in Hampton, a little village fifteen miles from Fredericton 49 years ago, at which place he received all his schooling. Early in life he went into the woods to work, then removed to the Eastern states, where he worked for some time. He entered the employment of the Wm. Richards' Co. at Boiestown 18 years ago, with whom he remained until the Company ceased operations at Boiestown. For some time he was with the Miramichi Lumber Co., who bought out the Richards' Co. at Boiestown, then he removed to St. Mary's opposite Fredericton, where he lived for some years and was accountant in the office of the Smith Foundry Co. He removed to Campbellton to take a position with the J. & D. A. Harquail Co. Ltd. in 1909, and shortly afterwards entered the employ of the Richards Manufacturing Co., and remained as accountant in that concern till the time of his death.

While living in Boiestown he was attacked with stomach trouble and consulted specialists in Montreal at that time. He seemed to recover however to a certain extent and from the early part of 1911 till perhaps a month before his death, he gave no indication of being sick in any way.

He married in 1889. Miss Jennie Bell of Niasawak, who predeceased him in April 1914, and he leaves three children, Jean, James and Quentin.

He is survived by his mother, five brothers, George, Howard, Clarence, Havelock and Thomas, and one sister, Mrs. Jack Richards.

Previous to his operation in Montreal he wrote his friends here making all provision for administering his estate, naming his brother, Thomas, Mr. D. E. Richards, and Mr. M. A. Kelly trustees for the benefit of his children.

At a meeting of the Trustee Board of St. Andrew's Church held last Thursday, the following resolution, was unanimously adopted.

Whereas in the death of Mr. David Sanson the board loses a faithful member, St. Andrew's Church a strong and useful adherent, and the town and community a worthy and respected citizen, therefore resolved that we as Trustees of St. Andrew's Church place on record our appreciation of the many excellent qualities of the deceased by having this resolution entered in full on the minutes.

CAMP LIFE WITH THE SECOND CONTINGENT

Splendid Newsy Letter From
Lieut. H. W. Ferguson of the 26th Battalion

Mr. W. M. Ferguson is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Lieut. H. W. Ferguson of the 26th Battalion, a copy of which he has kindly given us for publication, the epistle being more than ordinarily interesting.

Sunday, 4th, 1915.
Dear Will:—
Today being Sunday we have the greater part of the day to ourselves. Went with the Presbyterian party to church parade in the 24th lines. The 22nd French Canadians are just west of us with the 24th and 25th beyond them.

These four battalions form the 5th brigade, which is part of the division that will take the field under General Steel, who inspected us a few days after our arrival here. General Steel is a very tall heavy built, copper-skinned man, with prominent features, such as nose, high cheek bones and chin that continues in folds of flesh to his neck, all sun-tanned to a nut brown shade. He is the man who commanded the Strathcona horse in South Africa and has a string of service ribbons across his chest that you couldn't span with one hand, and looks very capable indeed. We are camped in the centre of a number of towns and cities of quite large size and are only about two miles from the coast.

The place we are quartered is called East Sandling, and is an extension of the original Shorncliffe Camp, which has been enlarged so that it practically spreads all over this portion of the country, all the available fields being used for training purposes. We have the freedom of the entire country side, excepting the fields marked with red flags. These fields are generally cultivated and we keep clear of them. Reville sounds at 5.30 a. m. and then our day work begins. Allowing us barely an hour for dinner, we work till 5 p. m. and sometimes 6 p. m., after which we have lectures by officers who have just returned from the front. The fighting on the continents is terrific.

We, when at home, heard all sorts of accounts of the desperate fighting, but it isn't as real as when you talk to men who have gone through these big general engagements that we know by name as familiarly as we know Waterloo, etc. We have as regimental instructor, a man in one of the best dermids, who was in this thing from the start, and compelled to return home for a rest. He is a D. S. O. man. His batman (servant) cries in his sleep at night, so badly shaken is he from the experiences he has undergone. His nerve is completely shattered. Another of our instructors is a Royal Engineer Major, who after winning the Military cross, was returned home wounded and now partially recovered is back on the job, lecturing the Canadian officers on Trench Tactics. The Germans are marvelously scientific in their methods and any detachment that undertakes them is bound to suffer severely.

You can tell anyone that believes this will be a short war, that he has more than another thing coming. Why, actually after one years warfare, the real contest is only beginning. Man for man we have them seven ways for Sunday. They are brave enough against shell and rifle fire, but the bayonet gets them. They have the advantage in machine guns and heavy artillery, which we are equalising more every day. Man for man with rifles only, the allies would now be in Berlin. Why at Langemarck in dozens of places, small groups of Canadians unreinforced and with only their own efforts to depend upon, held back hordes of Germans.

Major Mesereau, who was so seriously wounded at Langemarck, said that in one case thirty Canadians for thirty hours held back hundreds of Germans. They held a trench on the reverse slope of a hill, and when the Germans came over the crest, shot them that fast that their rifles became so hot they could hardly hold them. They drove them back again and again, and each time the German infantry would retire, their artillery would open on the Canadians who would then creep up to almost the top of the hill, so that the shells went over their heads and burst in the empty trenches they had just vacated, then

ESPECIALLY FOR WOMEN

"Fruit-a-lives" Now Known as Woman's Best Medicine

"FRUIT-A-LIVES," the famous fruit medicine is particularly well suited for the use of women, because of its mild and gentle action and its pleasant taste. In severe cases of Constipation, Indigestion, Bloating, Sick Headaches, Pain In The Back, Neuralgia, or a General Run-Down Constitution, "Fruit-a-lives" is the only medicine needed to correct such troubles and restore the sufferer to complete health.

As a tonic, "Fruit-a-lives" is invaluable to purify and enrich the blood and to strengthen the system.

when the shell fire ceased, they would double back to their shell torn trenches in time to meet the German infantry with heavy rifle fire as they came over the crest again, expecting to find nothing but many holes in the ground and few Canadians.

This they repeated again and again until they were reinforced, and undoubtedly saved that portion of the line from the Germans breaking through. If all the cheerful optimists who talk so easily of "driving the Germans better-skeller out of Belgium" as though they were chasing a few stray hens out of their back yard, realised what modern warfare actually is and what scientific field fortification can be and are as used in the conflicting forces in Europe today, they would lose a great deal of their cheery optimism and settle down to what this thing really means. We will win. There isn't any other thought ever crosses the mind of a Britisher. We've always won so far, but we've a fight in our hands now greater than anything in history. All that science has done towards perfecting war machinery, the Germans are using against us in their fighting. In some places they have reached. Mathew Anderson his chum I cannot locate anywhere. Eddie Turner and Henry Young are still alive and well in so far as my information goes. Gordon McLean has been in the hospital with rheumatism for months now. Gorg Mowat has received several letters from Aulie from "somewhere in France".

The weather here has been remarkably fine but today it has started to rain. I do not know how long it will last but from the way it stirs up the mud I can appreciate what the 1st contingent had to put up with. Have you heard the bit of repartee between an officer of the 2nd contingent and an officer of the 1st? They met not long past whereupon the 2nd contingent officer remarked "We're having a h—l of a time living down your reputation on Salisbury Plains." "Yes," said the 1st contingent man, and you'll have a d—d sight harder time living up to the one we made in France" all of which was very well said.

And by the way Will before I close I want you to jar Leathes. He was killed under the ninth rib and ask him the why and the wherefore in his opinion that I parted with one hundred cents in hard earned coin of the realm? I harbored the hallucination that I had subscribed to that famous moulder of public opinion The Campbellton Graphic but he might enlighten me as to the real purpose of the donation for to date the Graphic has not made its debut. Also Will, remind me the Telegram or Standard whenever you can, it's my, be late when they arrive but it will enable me to catch up with Canadian happenings and the old saying says "better late than never."

SUDDEN DEATH OF CAPTAIN AT GASPE

Captain Lloyd of London, England, Dies Suddenly Last Thursday Evening

Death came suddenly last Thursday evening to a sea captain at Gaspe, Que. For some days past there has been loading at the large mill, managed by Messrs. Calhoun Bros., a government transport, formerly known as the S. S. Eagle Point, whose captain belonged to London, England. His name was Wallace Lloyd, aged about 50 years.

The steamer is loading lumber as the basic cargo, with its ultimate destination England or France. The lumber is to be used in building huts for the soldiers, and the ship will leave Gaspe in a day or so for Montreal, where she will embark horses and soldiers. The steamer has just taken over one regiment from Alberta, which she landed at Plymouth, at the end of June and resailed from Plymouth on July 2nd for Canada.

On Thursday night, Captain Lloyd was driving from the village to the steamer, which is loading a few miles away at a point up the bay. He apparently was taken ill, and left his carriage and when some people driving by shortly afterwards arrived, they found the horse standing still in the carriage and the man lying dead on the roadside. The body was picked up and taken to Baker's Hotel, from whence on Friday morning in charge of the chief steward, it was taken by rail via Matapedia to Montreal, from whence it will be shipped to England. The captain belongs to London, England. Death was caused through hemorrhage of the brain. A year ago, he had a similar attack but recovered.

THE ASSESSMENTS
Notice has now been given that the Assessment Lists have been publicly posted and any objection to the Assessors rating must be made in writing to the Assessors within twenty days, otherwise according to law any objection made to the town council is not valid.

Citizens would be well advised to closely scan the lists and see what they are assessed on, as our attention has been drawn to the case of a ratepayer who was assessed $100 on personal property, of which he had none which was taxable. On speaking to two of the assessors he was informed that they must have thought he owned a piano. They thought.

We were of the opinion that assessors were appointed and paid to assess on real estate, income and personal property of the citizens of the town. We were also of opinion that in the discharge of such duties it would be necessary for them to know if a ratepayer had any taxable property, and we presumed the correct way to do this would be to call on the ratepayer and see the evidence for themselves.

Apparently we are wrong. Judging from the case we have quoted it seems that the Assessors put down what they think the ratepayer should have in taxable property and put the onus on him of proving he hasn't. It is therefore of the greatest importance that every ratepayer should see at once what he has been assessed upon, and if there is any objection make it at once in writing to the Assessors.

THE ANNIVERSARY
Next Wednesday August 4th, will be the first anniversary of the declaration of war by Britain against Germany. We certainly hope and trust that there will be no second one, but in the meantime we can only "do or die" as V. C. O'Leary says, and keep at it. We in Campbellton ought certainly to feel proud of the response to the call of King and country, for in no other district under one and the same conditions has such a splendid result from recruiting been obtained. Unfortunately full detailed lists of the volunteers from this town and district were never kept as many of the names of recruits were not given in to this office and many joined other units of the service, which were not enlisting here. It is safe to say that from the town of Campbellton a recruiting centre, over four hundred men have joined the colours, and of these more than half are our own town and county boys. We have not boasted this from the house tops, but we ought to feel proud of our community spirit, with or without aid or special methods we were able to enroll more than our required number asked for to the various contingents.

We have done well in recruiting and in this patriotic work, let us also send a large number of guns. Every citizen will have an opportunity to subscribe to the big public meeting which will be held in the Opera House next Wednesday evening. Will you do your bit?

PUNISH THE GUILTY
Manitoba's new Premier has declared the first duty of his government will be "to ascertain who are guilty and to punish such according to law." In New Brunswick some, at least, of the guilty stand self-convicted. All that is asked of the government is "to punish such according to law." Men who resort to such despicable thieving methods as padding pay rolls by putting children on the lists and forging receipts are deserving of no consideration. In the courts of the province their cases should be judged without fear or favor, and punishment meted out in accordance with the evidence. No political or party influence should be permitted to shield those proven guilty of wrongdoing, and no political or party influence should be used to prevent a full and complete exposure. Premier Clarke and Attorney General Baxter, as the responsible officers of the government, have a difficult and unpleasant duty to perform, and there is only one way in which it can be satisfactorily performed. The disgrace brought on New Brunswick by the exposures of the past year makes imperative the application of the only remedy that can be relied on to prove salutary. Corruption in public life will never end unless a wholesome public opinion sustains those in authority in taking both punitive and preventive measures.—St. John Globe.

A GOOD EXPLANATION
There is now a good explanation for the disgraceful condition of the public roads in Gloucester County. One road in particular, and that mentioned in the N. B. Government guide, is impassable. That is the road from Tracadie to Pokesaw village via Burnsville, about 30 miles long. The first part of the road is very rough, being badly cut up, but the road leaving Burnsville is impassable for cars, and it is necessary to procure a team to haul cars through. The road is washed out for about a quarter of a mile. A few of the dollars stolen by grafters in the government road service in Gloucester would make a good road of this.

A DISGRACEFUL ROAD
The Tobacco road leading into Campbellton is in a disgraceful condition. Some efforts have been made to repair portions of it, but the mud heaped upon the centre of the road has been cut into deep ruts. A few dollars more, of which there is an abundance along the Tobacco road, and the use of a drag, would greatly improve this road.

St. Anne de Restigouche, P. Q., July 27th, 1915.
Yesterday was the celebration of the Feast of St. Anne, which is generally observed here every year. It is worth mentioning that the day passed very quietly considering the large attendance gathered here from the surrounding districts. Over two thousand people visited this place during the day. This is the first year that there were no arrests. There were made for disorders, as there was no occasion to do so. No Special Constables were appointed this year as is usual. Our two police have maintained the peace wonderfully. Only three arrests were made and this happened far away from the church.

In fact it is worth mentioning that for some time back this place has changed a good deal. The people seem to have made a change for the better. This is probably due to the manner of our two police men going the right way about it, to check all disorders which may take place. The two men are well liked by both whites and Indians, and every one wishes to see them continue their good work and remain here for a long time. The people cannot wish for better.

AN IMPOSTER'S TRICK

The Cheerful Liar That Made a Fool of the Grand Monarch.

Louis XIV. was taken in once in a most humiliating way and by an imposter whose only art was lying. In 1667, just after he had returned from one of his most dazzling military successes against the Dutch, Louis le Grand received word that an embassy from Persia had just landed at Marseilles en route to the French court to bring salutations and presents from the shah. Pleased that his fame should actually have run around the world, he sent word that all the towns on the way from Marseilles to Paris should fete the ambassador.

As a result the journey to Paris was a march of triumph. Children sang and flowers were strewn along the way. Arrived at Paris, several regiments of the Swiss guard met the Shah's representative and escorted him to a magnificent suite in the old palace of the Tuileries. Louis sent not less a person than the Duc de Richelieu to welcome the potentate and invite him out to Versailles to a special reception in the hall of mirrors.

The ambassador presented himself as Riza Bey of the Persian court, and after showing his credentials advanced to kiss the hand of Louis le Grand and give him the Shah's congratulations on his recent victories. A caravan of presents from his imperial sovereign were on their way and would arrive in Paris in a few days, said the ambassador.

Festivals followed at Versailles. The boy received magnificent presents from Louis and royal entertainment. He lounged gracefully on divans at the French court and smoked in Persian languor. He gave the grand monarch a few fragments of opal and turquoise, saying that they came from a Persian district bordering on the Caspian Sea. The woods there were full of them, he explained, and he offered to divide with France—had planted the French flag there already, as it were!

As last the day came for the formal presentation of the Shah's gifts, and on that morning early Riza Bey melted into space. He was never seen or heard of again. "He had, as some one said, 'gone glimmering through the dream of things that were.'"

The goods that he had left were worth, if anything, about 15 cents apiece, being glass.

There are 8,000,000 people in Canada and 8,000 on the Ottawa patronage list. One man in every thousand has a cinch. He is listed and privileged to make money at the expense of the rest.

SHORT STORY.

Arthur Raymond closed his books, and locking the door of his law office, went slowly down the street. His back step had lost its elasticity, and there were white streaks in his dark hair.

At the white gate of Hiram Tweedy's house, Arthur turned in and went up the path between the stiff rows of box. From the garden came the sickly-sweet smell of day lilies standing like white sentinels among their patches of bright green leaves. Hiram Tweedy was sitting on the narrow front porch smoking his evening pipe.

"How are you, Arthur?" he asked cordially.

"Good evening," responded Arthur, sitting down on the steps. "I don't suppose you've heard anything?"

Hiram removed the pipe from between the thin line of his hard lips. "None, not a word. I was telling Ella this morning that Amy was an ungrateful child. I'm really ashamed to own her as a niece."

"Hiram laughed raspingly. "Well, Amy's such a little spitfire I just couldn't help it, now," he admitted. "Lord! I didn't expect the girl would flare up and run away. Why, she might run away from me any day. But I'll be hanged if it shows much sense in her to run away from her best fellow."

Arthur arose. "Well, if there's no news from her, I'll go on. I suppose

Arthur and, having compiled a list of the great dry goods firms from the city directory, he set forth.

His first day's work was discouraging. He had visited five shops and not one could host the name of Amy Flood on its payroll. Amy's there were in plenty, but none answered his description. He was given courteous but not enthusiastic attention. Passing in and out of the shops, he looked wistfully for a fair face framed in hair which was frankly auburn.

The second and third days were as fruitless as the first. Arthur was beginning to lose hope. He even inserted an advertisement in the personal column of a morning newspaper, wording it carefully so that no inquisitive eye at home might detect its authorship.

The morning of the seventh day found Arthur "sitting on the ground" with renewed zest. On this day of the magic number something might be expected to happen.

There was a big stone on Sixth Ave-

you're making every effort you can to find out where she went," he added. "Of course I am, Arthur. She's my own niece, even if she isn't treated me right, returned Hiram in an injured tone. "Nobody knows what I've done for that girl."

"Amy has only lived with you two years," observed Arthur coldly. "Since her father's death, it has always been understood that Amy's help here has more than paid for her board."

"I'm the one who ought to know!" retorted Hiram irascibly.

Arthur turned without another word and went down the street, his head bent a little thoughtfully.

Hiram smoked on unconcernedly until a thin, sorrow woman appeared behind the screen door hat led into the house.

"Was that Arthur Raymond?" she asked curiously.

"Yes—asking about Amy."

"He's a goose to bother about her," remarked Mrs. Tweedy, sourly. "She didn't care enough about him to stay here."

Hiram stilled her voice with a wave of his pipe.

"You better keep still, Ella; I heard what you said to Amy that night—I heard you telling her that Arthur Raymond was tired of her, and that he was sweet on that little Weeks girl! I expect it was that that drove her away—more than any of my teasings."

"The very idea!" quavered Mrs. Tweedy tearfully. "It's that last man—always blaming everything on his wife!"

"I know what you said, and I know what I said, and I know that the girl packed a few clothes and went away before we was up the next morning. Is supper ready?"

Arthur Raymond went toward his boarding place with the ever-present vague hope that in the gathering of good gossip around the hospitable board of Miss Milly Brown, he might hear some news about Amy. He was conscious that the Tweedys entertained a hostile feeling toward him. Why, he did not know; only he was aware of it.

His hopes were verified. It appeared that Miss Milly Brown's sister was the wife of the station agent, and that afternoon Miss Brown had made a long deferred call upon her relative. She came home primed with a bit of news that Arthur Raymond seized upon eagerly.

"The Tweedys are so close-mouthed about where Amy went it would make you laugh," remarked Miss Brown, as she ladled out generous portions of clam chowder. "Just as if folks weren't bound to find out sooner or later. My sister says that James told her that Amy Flood had gone to New York—he sold her a ticket that morning. She went on the 7:07 train."

Arthur Raymond didn't listen to the remainder of the gossip. The magic words, or numbers, seven-seven, were an inspiration to him. Seven was his lucky number; without being superstitious on any other subject, Arthur stoutly claimed that the number seven was his mascot always; all through his life it had appeared at important periods. He had even been born on the seventh day of the seventh month in the year 1877, and once, when he was quite young, he had declared he wouldn't marry until he possessed seven thousand dollars.

There was a tinge of irony in the fact that he now had the seven thousand dollars, but the only girl he wanted to marry had gone away without a word of farewell or explanation.

But Miss Brown's news kindled his expiring hope of finding Amy Flood. The magic numbers seven-seven danced before his eyes as he hunted out a five-table and discovered with a thrill that the actress of the play had been seen.

So Amy Flood had left for New York on train 77 at 7:07 a.m. "I'll find her," decided Arthur, and he made preparations to leave town on the same train early the next morning. All of which might have been superstitious nonsense, but at the same time it was very human.

Train 77 landed Arthur Raymond in New York city at noon of a hot July day. In the crowded railroad station he began to realize what a task he had set before him, but, clinging obstinately to his magic number, Arthur went to the nearest hotel, and after surprising the room clerk by requesting room 77 if it was vacant, he took his key and went in the elevator with a degree of satisfaction.

After lunch he started on his quest. How was he to pick out Amy Flood from a city of countless girls? To begin with, there were few fields of labor that Amy might be fitted for. She had no commercial training, so he would not seek for her in offices. She would either be working in one of the big shops or she would be sewing.

"I'll begin with the shops," decided Arthur, and, having compiled a list of the great dry goods firms from the city directory, he set forth.

His first day's work was discouraging. He had visited five shops and not one could host the name of Amy Flood on its payroll. Amy's there were in plenty, but none answered his description. TWO WOMEN SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Stories Here Told.

Edmonton, Alberta, Can.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank you for what your kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have done for me.

"When I wrote to you some time ago I was a very sick woman suffering from female troubles. I had organic inflammation and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend your medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills, and think they are fine. I will never be without the medicine in the house."—Mrs. FRANK EMBURY, 908 Columbia Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

The Other Case.
Beatrice, Neb.—"Just after my marriage my left side began to pain me and the pain got so severe at times that I suffered terribly with it. I visited three doctors and each one wanted to operate on me but I would not consent to an operation. I heard of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was doing for others and I used several bottles of it with the result that I haven't been bothered with my side since then. I am in good health and I have two little girls."—Mrs. R. B. CHILDS, Beatrice, Neb.

one which he had not yet visited, and another one nearby which had declined to render him any assistance or to give him any information whatever. He would go there again and question some of the clerks. No one who had once seen Amy Flood could forget her.—Arthur felt sure of that.

The Sixth avenue yielded no returns, so he paid a second visit to the other one. This time he did not seek the employment department, but he sought his custom. He diligently visited every sales department of the store.

Red-haired girls bobbed before him from behind lace and ribbons, but not Amy. At last he stood dejectedly before the jeweller's counter, looking blankly at the glittering array of ornaments. Two of the salesgirls were talking.

"Number 77 is home sick," remarked one of them.

"She is! I'm sorry for her if she's left to old Goggin's care! Once I was sick for a few days and she charged me double board for sending Hilda up with my meals—some milk and some milk and burned toast and such—so you couldn't have told it from water except that they called it tea!"

"The poor kid's home sick, that's what's the matter with her," went on the first speaker in a kindly tone. "I says to her last night, 'Now, see here, 77, why don't you write home and tell your folks what you're up against—sure they'll send for you to come home.'"

What do you think she said? Said she didn't have any home—wouldn't intervening time by the purchase of that jar you? Most everybody's got some kin somewhere!"

Arthur was listening shamelessly. One of the girls noted his interest and stepped forward.

"Can I show you something, sir?" she asked.

"No—but you can tell me; you were speaking of a girl you called 77—that is her store number, of course?"

"Yes, sir."

"Does her name happen to be Amy Flood?"

"Right! Are you some of her folks?" asked the girl bluntly.

For answer Arthur took out his watch and showed her Amy's fair face photographed on the inside case.

"That's her—that's 77!" cried the girl eagerly. "Say, she needs some of her folks—like enough Mrs. Goggin wouldn't let you in to see her, but wait till nighttime and you can go home with us, and then—well, I guess 77 will be mighty glad to see a home face."

Arthur thanked the kind-hearted girl and, having arranged to meet them at 1 o'clock, he tried to kill the an absurdly large basket of luxuries to tempt the appetite of an invalid.

Mrs. Goggin's hideous parlor witnessed a tender meeting. Amy, no longer white and wan, but a lovely rose pink with happiness, greeted the relieved young lawyer in a manner that quite relieved him.

"When the store gave me that number, 77," said Amy, "I remembered your superstition regarding it, and I thought something lovely must happen to me because of it—but the day went by and I began to believe that Aunt Ella was right after all—that you were fond of Made Weeks, and that your engagement to me galled you. But now it is all right! Oh, Arthur, how can we do honor to that precious number 77?"

"Well," said Arthur, "to-day is the 7th of July—the seventh month; 7 is also my thirty-seventh birthday. I believe we had better be married at 7 o'clock this evening to keep the magic number on the family records. I've been carrying a magic 77 in my pocket for seven days, and if it isn't good we will go over to Jersey or somewhere else and find a minister to marry us. There!"

CELEBRATION IS GREAT SUCCESS

St. Anne's Day at the Mission Held This Week With Large Attendances

The St. Anne's celebration at St. Anne de Restigouche on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday was most successful. A very large number of people were in attendance. Monday afternoon Rev. Fr. Ethelbert, of Montreal, preached an eloquent sermon to a large congregation.

The financial success was great, about $800 being realized.

Frank Murphy of the Boom Co., was the winner of the phonograph.

The music of the Campbellton band was much enjoyed and the hope was expressed that this would be a regular feature of the St. Anne's celebration.

TODAY'S WAR BULLETINS

London, July 29th.—Three great German armies held in check by Russians through Grand Duke's counter offensive.

French capture block houses in the Vosges.

Austrians still claim to hold the Dobrodo plateau.

Sixteen National Ammunition factories established in England.

Sixth Mounted Rifles, two thirds of whom are New Brunswickers, arrived in Plymouth on Wednesday, all well.

Writing to the London Times, their correspondent in Warsaw says: "Although it is possible that the present German drive may fail as the attacks on Bolimow failed last January, the roar of guns and the arrival of wounded in Warsaw have convinced the people that the situation is critical. Failure to hold the Russian lines should be discounted, although such statement should not be accepted unconfirmed. Reports from the battle zone immediately to the North are encouraging and the heavy attacks by Germany are being broken. The German losses are terrible."

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Police Judge Matheson met with an accident last evening while driving in his car at Flatlands, the wind-shield breaking and the flying glass making a bad gash under the chin, which necessitated two stitches being put in by a medical man. It is conjectured that some one in the gloaming threw a stone and broke the glass. The Judge will be confined to the house for a few days. Sitting Magistrate Kelly taking his place at the Court today.

Yesterday Mr. Francoeur with his wife and a party were driving near Tide Head when some how the auto struck the side of the road and overturned. The occupants all escaped with a severe shaking except Mrs. Francoeur, who was more seriously injured.

PRAYER SERVICE

The regular prayer meetings will not be held in the various churches on Wed. night Aug. 4th. Instead there will be a United Prayer service in the Church of England, beginning at 7.15. This service is designed as a fitting introduction to the larger patriotic meeting in the Opera House on the same night to commemorate the declaration of war by Great Britain against Germany a year ago.

Story of Lord Kinnaird.

Lord Kinnaird, who has always been noted for his many charitable enterprises, is now actively interesting himself in a fund to provide comforts for members of the Royal Naval Air Service and the Royal Flying Corps. In his younger days Lord Kinnaird was an enthusiastic amateur footballer. He had the reputation of being a very spirited player, apropos of which fact an amusing story is told. One day Lady Kinnaird was telling a friend that she feared her husband would meet with an accident while playing his favorite game. "I am certain," she said anxiously, "that he will come home one day with a broken leg."

"That may be," answered her friend, with a smile, "but yet may be certain that it will be somebody else's leg."

Alfred G. Vanderbilt, 86 years of age, who was drowned on the Lusitania, had an impulsive nature and many original ideas. How he came to insure his own life for $1,500,000 is a story that reveals his impulsiveness. The story goes that just after he had reached his majority he walked into the office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, and told one of its officers that as he intended to take an ocean voyage, it might be a good thing to take out a little insurance. The official suggested $100,000, but young Vanderbilt thought that a $1,500,000 policy would be more suitable, and then and there wrote out his cheque for the first year's premium.

VICTORY IMPERATIVE SAYS FAMOUS AUTHOR

Empire Needs More Men of Lancashires' Mould, Says Rudyard Kipling

London, July 26.—"This is for us, in truth, war to the death against the power of darkness, with whom any peace except on our own terms would be more terrible than any war." These were Rudyard Kipling's words in his remarkable speech in the interests of recruiting at Southport, Lancashire, on June 25.

He said in part:

"The German has spent quite as much energy in the last forty-five years preparing for war as we have in convincing ourselves that wars should not be prepared for. He has started this war with a magnificent equipment which took him time and heavy taxation to get together. That equipment we have had to face for the last ten months. We have had to face more. The Germans went into this war with a mind which had been carefully trained out of the idea of every moral sense or obligation—private, public or international. He does not recognize the existence of any laws, least of all those he has subscribed to himself, in making war against combatants or non-combatants, men, women and children. He has done from his own point of view very well indeed. All mankind bears witness today that there is no crime, no cruelty, no abomination that the mind of man can conceive which the German has not perpetrated, and will not perpetrate if he is allowed to go on. These horrors and perversions were not invented by him on the spur of the moment. They were arranged beforehand, their outlines are laid down in the German War Book. They are part of the system in which Germany has been scientifically trained. It is the essence of that system to make such a hell of the world as there her armies set foot that any terms she may offer will seem like heaven to the people whose bodies she has defiled and whose minds she has broken of set purpose and intention. In the face of these facts it is folly for any fit man to waste one minute in talking about what he would do if our system of recruiting were changed, or to wait on, as some men are waiting, in the hope of compulsion being introduced. We shall not be saved by argument. We shall most certainly not be saved by hanging on to our private jobs and businesses. Our own strength and our own will alone can save us. If these fail the alternative for us is robbery, rape of the women, starvation, as a prelude to slavery."

"This is for us, in truth, war to the death against the power of darkness, with whom any peace except on our own terms would be more terrible than any war. Words cannot begin to do justice to the devotion and bravery of our men who have already gone up against that power. They have been, almost as a matter of routine, in battles any one of which in the old days would have made the marvel and the glory of a generation. They have endured as never British troops have been called upon to endure the most amazing devices of warfare and the unclean malice of the enemy. They have proved themselves through all these things heroes without stain. The counties know, the great cities know, and the little villages where they mark the names on the church door know what their neighbors and kin have done. There is no part of the land to-day which has not its new reverence and pride in our armies' achievements, and no part has better right to this pride than Lancashire. But the need—the Empire's great need—is for more men of this mould. In the days that seem so little and so far off now—the days when we dealt in words—there used to be a saying which ran, 'What Lancashire thinks England will think to-morrow.' Let us change that saying for three years, or the duration of the war, to 'What Lancashire does to-day, England will do to-morrow.'"

PLEASANT TRIP

Mrs. Milton Doherty has returned from a very pleasant trip to St. John, Moncton and Amherst. While in Moncton Mrs. Doherty visited "New Brunswick" Div. of the G. I. A. to the R. of L. E. and brings back to Restigouche Div. of which she is the Secretary, a most encouraging account of the work being done by the Moncton ladies. With a membership of fifty-three that Div. has during the past year given $500.00 to the Orphan's fund of the G. I. A.; paid the expenses of a delegate to the recent convention of the B. of L. E. and the G. I. A. in Cleveland, O., and at their meeting Monday night voted $25.00 to the Transcript's subscription for the purchase of a machine gun for our boys at the front.

Restigouche Div. here in Campbellton is somewhat handicapped owing to its small membership, which is only seventeen, but it is a real live Div. However, the ladies will see to it that they are not very far behind the others in doing something for their soldier laddies.

The funeral of the little son of Mr. Frank Young took place Monday afternoon the 19th. On Monday morning the dear little fellow seemed to be somewhat better, but soon a sudden change came and he passed away very suddenly. Rev. J. M. Sutherland had a short but very interesting service at the grave in the Presbyterian cemetery. Much sympathy is felt for the father and mother and family. Mrs. Young, who contracted the disease is now out of danger and so far no more cases are reported.

Miss F. DeCorrout of Campbellton and Miss R. Ferguson of Dalhousie gave a very interesting and pleasing concert in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening the 22nd, and those that had the honour and pleasure of being present were more than compensated. The young ladies also gave a sacred concert in the same hall Sunday evening the 25th at 8.30. The hall was well filled. The splendid way the large audience acted showed their appreciation, and the performers were made to feel quite happy.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Red Cross, which amounted to $13.70. Miss DeCorrout and Miss Ferguson are now spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sherar. They expect to leave on the 27th for Chandler and other parts on the Gaspe coast, returning to Campbellton about the end of the week. Many thanks to Mr. C. R. Soles for providing the parish hall for the ladies Sunday evening, free of cost.

Mrs. James LeMarquand of Belle Anse, Gaspe, is at present visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Caldwell,

SHIPPING CASE IN COURT HEARD HERE

Claim Against Captain of Vessel for Supplying Men is Upheld by the Jury

A case of interest to shipping people was heard in the court here on Tuesday before Judge Matheson and a jury when Anthony Johansen sued Captain Joseph Benedict of the bark "John Palmer" for $64.50, being the balance of shipping fees and charges for the supplying of eight men for the above ship.

It was alleged by the defendant that the bargain with Johansen was that he was to procure eight men to work his vessel from Campbellton to a South American port, and to go on board the vessel at Quebec and bring the ship round to Campbellton.

The plaintiff claimed that his work was done when he put the men on board the train at Campbellton and although he accompanied the men to Quebec, it was only for the sake of the trip.

The defendant paid an instalment to the plaintiff as he was asked to do, but on his arrival at Campbellton refused to pay the balance of money to Johansen as some of the men had raised a disturbance on board ship and had landed in the Police Court and the captain could do nothing with them, while others deserted. On these grounds the defendant refused to pay as none of the men stayed to go to sea from Campbellton.

In the evidence led it was shown that Johansen stated that he had plenty of men ready and waiting to sign on at three different places in the town, and it was suggested by the defence that the plan was to get the men to desert so that they could be supplied to other vessels.

The jury after deliberation returned a verdict in favour of the plaintiff for $44.50. A. T. LeBlanc appeared for the plaintiff, M. A. Kelly for the defendant.

after which she will proceed to Montreal for a brief visit.

Miss Onetta Caldwell, who has been attending college for the past two years in St. John, returned home on Tuesday of last week.

Miss Bertie Cooke is holidaying with her sister Bessie in Campbellton. Friends were glad to hear that Private Frank Maguire, who left with the first contingent, had been promoted from time to time and is now Lieutenant F. Maguire.

PRETTY SURE TEST, GIRLS.

The following fable, which is probably of Turkish origin, is not without a touch of truth:

As a woman was walking, a man looked and followed her.

"Why," said she, "do you follow me?"

"Because," he replied, "I have fallen in love with you."

"Why so?" My sister, who is coming after me, is much handsomer than I. Go, make love to her."

The man turned back and saw a woman with an ugly face, and being greatly displeased, returned and said: "Why should you tell me a falsehood?"

"Neither did you tell the truth," she replied, "for, if you were in love with me why did you look for another woman?"

ESCUMINAC

Miss Alice B. Doirion of Escuminac, P. Q. passed away at the home of her father at the age of 23 years, 6 months and 13 days. She was of a lovely disposition and was very much liked by every body who knew her. She is survived by her father, Mr. Isidore Doirion, her step-mother, two brothers Ernest and Leon and one sister Marie. The funeral service was held at St. Anne de Restigouche and conducted by Rev. Father Isidore. The remains were laid to rest in the family lot beside her mother. The pall bearers were Messrs Thomas Doirion, Herman Goudreau, David Goudreau, Ludovic Goudreau.

The following verses, we publish by request, written in memory of the departed by her uncle.

In memory of our loved one
Whom we'll never see again
In this world of trials and sorrows,
In this world of grief and pain.

God has taken her from trouble,
And has laid her down to rest,
Angels ever bright and fair
Take, oh take her to your care.

O'er her head she bore her trouble,
Peacefully, without a sigh,
Knowing, Jesus would protect her
As her time drew near to die.

We must all soon follow after,
For our time will surely come,
Jesus, do Thou guide our footsteps
Towards that happy, heavenly home.

So when we are called from toiling
And eternal joys to share,
May we enter into heaven,
And behold dear Alice there.

The weather, at last, seems to have decided to be fine, but the evenings are very cool for the season.

The Presbyterian congregation here regret to know that the Rev. Mr. Muir, the latest supply, has declined to accept the call to this congregation.

The supply committee of the Miramichi Presbytery will have to be up and doing, or the consequences may be what is least desired, viz.—the falling off of the congregations. The pulpits were declared vacant in the early spring, and until now, not more than half a dozen services have been held.

Local visitors enjoying motor rides are:—Mrs. J. M. Sutherland, Mrs. Arthur B. Caldwell and Misses L. Sutherland, Anne Caldwell, Ruby Blois, Amy Smith, and Isabel Caldwell, accompanied by Messrs. O. Shearer, W. Chisholm, Aubrey and Bertram Blois.

This year the Studebaker announcement is more significant than ever before. It demonstrates more conclusively than ever Studebaker's leadership in the industry. For once again, Studebaker is announcing new cars at prices that completely recast all standards of value in the automobile industry. And never before has a dollar bought so much as it buys in these new Studebakers. They are the best car in every detail that Studebaker ever built.

But while the prices are remarkably low, Studebaker has made no effort to manufacture a small, low-price car, to complete purely on a price basis.

THE PRICES ARE LOW SOLELY:

- 1—Because of largely increased volume of production:
- 2—Unrivaled manufacturing resources:
- 3—The Studebaker policy of manufacturing our cars complete in our own factories and thus eliminating partsmakers' profits:
- 4—The greatly increased efficiency resulting from 4 years study and concentration on the manufacture of two chassis:
- 5—The high percentage of interchangeability of parts in the two chassis.

A whole Book of Specifications couldn't begin to convey the impression that your first glimpse of the cars will give—you must see the cars to appreciate them.

The growing difficulties of submarine warfare in and around the British coast are the prime cause of stories of activity in other seas. Britain's ability to cope with the menace on either side of the Atlantic need not be doubted, while the news of an important discovery is suggestive of greater efficiency in the near future.

BAD SPILL ON THE INTERNATIONAL BRANCH

Spreading Rails Ditched I. C. R. Train Last Thursday and Tied Things up

A bad spill occurred about 2:30 last Thursday afternoon on the international branch of the I. C. R., at a point thirty-two miles west of Campbellton, where the four cars of the regular train jumped the track and piled up in the ditch. The damage to rolling stock and roadbed was considerable, but no one was injured in the run-off, which is said to have been due to spreading rails.

A military party from Campbellton accompanied an I.C.R. wrecker to the scene of the run-off, and the work of clearing the wreck went forward Friday. Passengers, baggage and available freight were transferred around the break and came into Campbellton without a very long delay.—Transcript.

In conclusion with the above report we are informed from the officers of the I. C. R., that some one must have had a pipe dream. The facts are these—Four cars of the regular train ran off the track and were replaced by the train crew, the total delay being 2½ hours.

TIMOTHY SEED SITUATION

Present and prospective high prices for hay is having the natural effect in reducing the areas that may be left to timothy seed. Reports from the United States also indicate reduced areas left to this seed crop. Two-thirds of our supply is usually imported from the United States, where it is grown on land ranging in value from $75 to $150 per acre. This seed comes rather badly hulled but it particularly free from weed seeds.

The prospects for this year are considerably higher prices for timothy seed. Canadian farmers are advised to bear this situation in mind and arrange to leave for seed particularly clean pieces of timothy.

"HILL DIFFICULTY"

How Fortitude Takes a Nation or Individual Up the Steepest Places and Safely Past the Lions in the Way.

I beheld, then, that they all went on till they came to the foot of the Hill Difficulty, at the bottom of which was a spring. There were also in the same place two other ways, besides that which came straight from the gate; one turned to the left hand, and the other to the right, at the bottom of the hill; but the narrow way lay right up the hill, and the name of the going up the side of that hill is called DIFFICULTY.

Christian, then began to go up the hill, saying: The hill, though high, I covet to ascend.

The difficulty will not me offend: For I perceive the way of life lies here. Come! Pluck up heart; let's neither faint nor fear.

Better, though difficult, the right way to go.

Than wrong, though easy, where the end is woe.

I looked, then, after Christian, to see him go up the hill, where I perceived he fell from running to going, and from going to clambering upon his hands and his knees, because of the steepness of the place. But he sped him on his way, till he came nearly to the top of the hill.

Nearly At The Top.

Now, when he was got nearly to the top of the hill, there came two men running to meet him again. The name of the one was Timorous, and the other Mistrust, to whom Christian said, Sirs, what's the matter? you run the wrong way.

Timorous answered that they were going to the City of Zion, and had got up to that difficult place; but, said he, the further we go, the more danger we meet with; wherefore we turned, and are going back again.

Yes, said Mistrust, for just before us lie a couple of lions in the way, whether sleeping or waking we know not; and we could not but think, if we cannot within reach, that they would presently pull us in pieces.

Then said Christian, You make me afraid; but whither shall I fly to be safe? If I can get to the Celestial City I am sure to be in safety there. I must venture. To go back is nothing but death; to go forward is fear of death, and life everlasting beyond it. I WILL YET GO FORWARD.

Pilgrim's Progress.

THOSE WHO SUCCEED

No answer comes to those who pray and idly stand.

At God's command; He will not break the binding cords Upon us laid.

If we depend upon pleading words And do not aid.

When hands are idle, words are vain To move the stone;

An aiding angel would disdain To work alone;

But he who prayeth, and is strong In faith and need, And toiled earnestly, ere long He will succeed.

TAKING A RISK

Bad germination in seed corn combined with prolonged cold weather at time of planting has been the cause of much disappointment this season to ensilage growers.

The seed corn growers of south-western Ontario were almost equally disappointed through being unable to find a market for their thoroughly-dried corn of strong vitality. Many samples were taken by seed inspectors and the investigations made indicate clearly that at least 75 per cent of the cause for a poor yield can be traced to the ensilage growers buying low priced seed.

Unfortunately high priced seed is not always a guarantee of high quality, but low priced seed is possible only with corn that has no special care in sowing for seed. The farmer who gets $1.50 per bus. of 70 lbs. on the ear for corn taken out of his corn crib in the spring has more profit than the farmer who receives $2.50 a bus. of 70 lbs. on the ear for corn that has been kiln-dried or made-dried in special corn-drying buildings.

If harvested in dry weather and kept in narrow cribs through the winter, the dampness may give a fairly satisfactory stand of plants with thick seeding and good soil and weather conditions. But too many farmers have learned to their sorrow the very serious risk they

STEADY INCREASE IN COST OF LIVING

Costs Thirty Cents More Per Week This Year for Average Family to Live

Ottawa, July 26.—It costs the average workingman, who is the head of an average family of five, $1.31 more per week to live now than it did in 1911, and at least thirty cents per week more than it did a year ago. In part this is his contribution to the taxation of the war. In part it is due also to the steady increase in the cost of living, which has been in progress for the past few years.

The Labor Department's statistical report as to the cost of living gives the index number for June as 147.3, compared with 147.6 for the preceding month, and 135.2 for the corresponding month of last year. Although there have been some decreases in the price of foodstuffs during the past few months, this is counterbalanced by increases in the price of metals and other commodities, which keep the cost of living up to the record figures which have prevailed since the beginning of the year.

The annual report of the Department of Labor, dealing with wholesale prices in Canada for the year 1914, as just issued, gives some interesting statistics as to the cost of living and the effect of the war on prices.

One of the most interesting tables is that giving a typical week's expenditure of a workingman's family on staple foods, fuel, lighting and rental. The compilation is based on proportionate expenditures on an income of $800 per year. For food the average weekly budget demanded last year $7.73, as compared with $7.98 the year before, and $7.13 in 1911.

For fuel and lighting the weekly cost last year was $1.90, or about one cent less per week than for 1913. Rents show a slight lowering tendency, but this is confined largely to a few specific localities. The average for the Dominion last year was placed at $4.65 per week, as compared with $4.75 per week in 1913, and $4.05 per week in 1911. Since moving day on May 1, when leases in most cities are renewed, the tendency to reduce rents has been more marked.

The figure given for the total weekly budget of necessary expenses for food, rent, light and heat is placed at $14.31 last year, as compared with $14.02 for 1913, and $13 for 1911. Allowing the average cost of living for necessities given for last year, the workingman with a salary of $800 per year, and a family of five to keep, would have just about $50 left for the year's clothing, doctor's bills, amusements, church and tobacco.

Commenting on the general trend of prices for the year, the report says there were increases of 14 per cent in grains and feedstuffs, 6 per cent in animals and meats, 8 per cent in woolens, 10 per cent in hides and 7 per cent in drugs and chemicals.

There were decreases of 33 per cent in furs and 5 per cent in cottons. Sugar rose from the lowest level on record to the highest since 1890. Interruptions of shipping, with higher freight rates and insurance on the seas, caused steep advances in many commodities, especially in tea and in drugs and chemicals. Increased revenue taxes, in the shape of additional customs and excise duties, caused other increases, notably in sugar, tobacco and liquors.

The consumption of fish in Canada is reported by the dealers to be the largest yet, and this food bids fair to come into fashion as a cheaper substitute for meats.

Don't seld the child if she is cross; give her Rexall Ointment, as the trouble is probably with the bowels. Sold only by Thos. Wran. The Rexall Store, 10c., 25c. & 50c. boxes.

Take in using corn wintered in this way. It is always advisable for growers to procure seed corn on the ear as during moist weather shelled corn in transportation or storage will absorb moisture and mold within a very few days, thus destroying its vitality.

We understand from the River Guardians that several New Richmond poachers have been fishing on the Bonaventure River. But for the fact that these same fishermen are very poor anglers we have no doubt but that they would be run down and fined.

Mr. Alexis Bodreau is still keeping accurately informed as to the latest news.

Mr. A. B. Gauthier left on Tuesday to attend the Pardiace-Gauthier celebration at New Richmond.

A HERO
Yesterday, afternoon a number of young lads were bathing in the river below Harquail's factory and one of them named Guidry, who was unable to swim got out of his depth and went under. Mr. John J. Bernier, who was also bathing down there was called to and quickly went to the lad's rescue, getting a hold of him as he was sinking for the third time. Hurriedly getting the boy ashore, Mr. Bernier brought the unfortunate lad round with first aid measures and he is now all right again.

Haymaking may be said to be in full swing now as Tom has got started. The crop in this part of the County is said to be away above the average.
