Material Progress Made With the Electric Franchise Bylaw.

The City Concedes Three Objectionable Clauses.

And the Company Changes Base on Several Others.

The Latter Make Some Important Bridge Concessions.

But Will Not Accept the Franchise With a Rider on the "Option" Clause—Third Reading Set for Saturday Night.

When it came down to the final point with the aldermen and street railway people yesterday whether the city should have an electric road or hobble along with horses for another indefinite period there was a give-and-take spirit exhibited on both sides, and the bylaw received its second reading. With the reading there were smoothed out several troublesome kinks that have for a long time defied the best efforts of those who were trying to comb out the tangles in the venerable gray hair that has grown, so to speak, about the franchise. Here is a record of the concessions in brief:

By the company:

1. The company will at once build a new bridge at Clark's bridge, or erect a new iron side bridge, renewing the entire superstructure and allowing for a 25-foot roadway for traffic.
2. They agree to allow the council to determine the route by which the cars will run by a two-thirds vote. (A hotly-contested point.)
3. They agree to make a 25-foot roadway at Victoria bridge, instead of a twenty-foot.
4. They will agree not to build to Springfield, if the city desires, and take the radial company's cars at the city limits, if that company builds to Springfield; or to build to Springfield and take the radial company's cars at Springfield and draw them to the center of the city.

5. In addition to the 1,200 cords of gravel already agreed upon, they will haul 500 cords for the benefit of the streets of the city.

6. The company withdraws its request to be allowed to build to Oxford street bridge, and allows the matter to rest at the discretion of some future council.

By the city:

1. The clause binding the company to change the system if another propulsive power becomes general is stricken out.

2. What is known as the insolvency clause is also stricken out. As this clause stood originally the city wanted to be allowed to take over the entire road and plant in case of insolvency to the exclusion of other creditors. This was arbitrary in the general opinion of the aldermen. Another clause provides for the forfeiture of the franchise in case the company discontinue running cars for 30 days, and the city is thus protected.

3. The clause levying a $5 car license is stricken out.

Points now in issue:

1. The question of costs. This matter can easily be settled between the parties. The amount has been agreed upon, but the method of payment has yet to be decided.

2. The question of hauling radial company's cars to Springfield. There was hardly any necessity for leaving this matter open at all, because Mr. Break, as intimated in paragraph 4 of the company's concessions, agrees to the demands of the radial company.

3. The optional clause. This is the only serious stumbling block. The company has no objection to the clause proper, which is identical with the same clause in the horse-and-mule franchise. What they kick against vigorously is the incorporation of the following rider, which has been deemed necessary by the city solicitor: "Provided, also, that the company shall be bound to accept in its entirety and as to all streets mentioned in the clause its option as shall be given to them, and shall not be entitled to accept the same as to part or parts thereof."

The option clause provides that the present company must have notification of any new offer or proposal to electrify city streets other than those mentioned in the bylaw, and shall be allowed 30 days in which to decide whether to build the same extensions themselves or allow a rival company to come in. The rider binds them to accept such option in its entirety, and will not give them any choice of certain streets. This the company's representatives state is a vital point with them, and this will not be given up.

The city solicitor advises the council to insist in the rider. If the rider is insisted on London will not have any electric road—for quite a time, at least.

On the other hand, it is for the council to say whether the clause is sufficiently strong without the rider to warrant its exclusion. It reads as follows:

"In the event of any other person or persons proposing to construct a railway or railways on any of the streets of the said city of London, other than the streets or portions of the streets mentioned in section 50 (1) hereof, the matter and substance of the proposal shall be notified to the company, and the option of constructing such proposed railway or railways on the conditions contained in this bylaw, or the conditions contained in such proposal, as the corporation may elect, shall be offered to the company, but, if such option shall not be accepted by the company within 30 days after such notification, or, if the same having been accepted, the company shall not proceed with the necessary work and complete the same within the time by the corporation fixed for that purpose, then the corporation may grant the privilege to any other person or company, and the corporation and its grantees shall be entitled to cross the railways of the company by other railways traversing other streets; provided always that nothing herein contained shall be taken to bind the corporation to grant to the company or anyone else the right to construct a railway or railways upon any streets other than those herein specially named."

The final decision will be made on Saturday night, when the bylaw comes up for its third reading at a special meeting of the council.

After consulting with No. 1 committee last night in the mayor's office, Mr. Break, Manager Carr, Mr. Ivey, and Mr. Hellmuth all went down to the telephone office, and had nearly two hours' talk with President Everett in Detroit. His answer received, about half an hour was spent by the solicitors in incorporating the amendments into the bylaw.

It was twenty minutes to eleven when Ald. Jones came into the chamber and announced that all was ready. The members then filed in and the consideration of the clauses left over from the last meeting began.

The clauses where there had been differences of opinion were then read and adopted.

On the reading of the only clause, re-option, on which any difference remained, a discussion arose, and it was proposed by Ald. Jones to read the clause and pass it for further consideration at the next meeting.

The opposition to this course was so vigorous that it was ultimately allowed to stand until the balance of the clauses were read.

Dealing with the York street bridge, where the company agree to build on either the north or south side, Ald. Wells raised an objection to the crossing being made on the north side unless the sidewalk was moved out and around the extension. He did not want the line to cross the sidewalk at both ends of the bridge.

"Don't you want an elevated road?" asked Ald. Jones.

The mayor (to Mr. Ivey)—Have you any objection to the suggestion?

"Not as long as we don't have to move the sidewalk," answered Mr. Ivey.

A whispered consultation between Mr. Ivey and the mayor followed, and the matter was allowed to stand over until the third reading.

In connection with the same bridge, Ald. Pritchard made insinuations about a petition which had been sent in against the use of the bridge. He alleged that the petitioners had been slighted and no notice whatever taken of the wishes of over 500 citizens. They were shown no courtesy, he said, were treated shabbily and meanly, and had not been given notice of the meeting.

Mayor Little said that the petition had been carefully read and considered by No. 1 committee, and the petitioners had not been slighted in any way.

"Well, I claim they have," said Ald. Pritchard; "and they have never been notified of any of the meetings."

"On behalf of No. 1 committee, I hurl back the charge at Ald. Pritchard," said Ald. Jones.

"Why was it not reported?" asked Ald. Pritchard.

Ald. Jones—That's my business.

The mayor—Order, order.

Ald. Jones—I am not bound to report on petitions at special meetings.

Then City Clerk Kingston attempted to pour oil on the troubled waters by stating that he had notified Mr. Robert Pritchard and Mr. Fraser, petitioners, of the meetings.

Ald. Pritchard—Well, I have just as much right to believe—

The mayor—Order, Ald. Pritchard, I can't allow you to question the veracity of the clerk.

Ald. Pritchard tried to reply, but the mayor put a motion and gently ignored him.

"I don't know whether you have any right to call me down in that way," retorted Ald. Pritchard.

The city clerk, although he stated that he did not want to place himself in contradiction with Ald. Pritchard, reiterated that both Robert Pritchard and Mr. Fraser had been informed.

"That's quite satisfactory," said several aldermen.

"It is not necessary to go further," said the mayor.

"Well, I have a right to assert my right," added Ald. Pritchard.

"Here is the petition," said Ald. Jones. "And instead of 500 petitioners there are just exactly 135." (Laughter.)

Ald. Pritchard was angry by this time, but he contented himself by stating that Ald. Jones was simply misinformed.

"I don't break the monotony of reading a technical legal explanation occurred when ex-Ald. Judd, on behalf of the radial company, took the floor to plead that the Delaware branch be allowed to come into the city over the Springfield branch of the London company's line.

"Don't play dog in the manger," said Mr. Judd. "If you won't take our cars, let us bring them in ourselves. On every other line they say we will bring your cars in, but to Springfield they won't. To put it shortly we want the right to come in over their lines."

Ald. Garratt moved that alterations be made in the franchise so as to grant the radial company its request.

Ald. Pritchard seconded with alacrity.

"I might state just here," said Ald. Jones, "that the concessions already made by the street railway company to-night to the radial company is absolutely as much as they will concede. I admit that we may have made a mistake in giving the street railway company the control of the Springfield line, yet when that was done there was no radial company. We have committed ourselves and now must keep faith."

"How does the fact that they cannot tap Springfield prevent any radial company from running to Delaware?" asked Ald. Parnell. The radial company, he said, could have no object in going to Springfield, except to profit by a portion of the Springfield traffic.

Ald. Powell pointed out that the clause objected to had been drafted originally by the solicitor for the radial company, the solicitor for the street railway company and the city solicitor. That would let the council out of any dilemma.

"I think the clause was originally drafted by Mr. Cameron," said the mayor, to whom Ald. Powell had turned for verification. "Is that so, Mr. Meredith?"

"It came emanating from the two railway solicitors," answered Mr. Meredith.

Ald. Jones—"The radial railway clause is the best that No. 1 committee can do. The London Street Railway Company are willing to pull up stakes in Springfield if the city is willing to take the risk. There is no agreement, to be sure, but there is a basis of agreement, by which the street railway company are bound to build to Springfield within one year. If you don't want them to go to Springfield they don't want to go."

Mr. Judd—"Well, we will take it."

I am instructed so far as the street railway company are concerned," said Mr. Ivey. "To say that we are not willing to throw up the Springfield line if they are willing to take the risk. Further, we are willing to take their Delaware cars at Springfield and bring them in if they don't want to build the road. We are not in the position of the dog in the manger at all, far as the radial company is concerned."

"We would just like to ask the radial company," said Mr. Ivey, further, "how they propose to get down through the townships of Westminster. We have a similar bylaw with Westminster township as we have with the city of London. Any proposition they have to make to the township of Westminster will have to be submitted to us first."

"It's a question for the council as to whether they are going to take a certainty for an uncertainty. I think London for the last few years has had quite a surfeit of uncertain railway companies."

Mr. Judd—They were all yours. (Laughter.)

The mayor—Order, order.

Mr. Ivey (continuing)—If you know what you are going to get all right, deal with us. If you want to be in a position that you don't know what you are going to get, or when you are going to get it, or what you would call it when you do get it, then deal with somebody else.

The clause was allowed to stand.

At 12:35 a.m. the last clause was read, and then Ald. Parnell moved that the two clauses left standing be adopted in their present form for the purpose of giving the bylaw its second reading.

Ald. Nutkins seconded.

Ald. Garratt and Ald. O'Meara both opposed the motion, but it carried, and with it the second reading was recorded.

The mayor tried twice to put the question. After he had called for the division of the council, he was again asked and attempted to gain recognition. The vote was taken in consequence, with Ald. Wells standing, his vote unrecorded.

"I think it is a most outrageous thing," said Ald. Parnell, "to put a motion when an alderman is on his feet."

"No alderman," replied the mayor, "has a right to get on his feet after the chair has put the motion."

And the council adjourned at ten minutes to one o'clock in the morning, to meet again on Saturday evening, when the bylaw will be given its final reading.

GONE UP IN SMOKE.

Clam-Consuming, Convivial Coney Island Has a $300,000 Blaze—Other Fires.

Coney Island, N. Y., May 16.—Shortly after 9 a.m. a fire started in the dancing pavilion on the main avenue here, and that building, with fifteen small wooden structures, has been burned. The firemen are unable to get the fire under control, and it is feared that the buildings at the latter end of West Brighton will be burned.

The following are among the buildings burned: O'Brien's Hotel, St. Nicholas Hotel, Stubenbergs Hotel and many others.

Coney Island, May 16.—A call for aid was sent to surrounding towns and Brooklyn when the fire this morning broke out, and a number of engines and hose companies hurried to the scene.

At 11:40 the flames crossed Surf avenue and caught into the other block, which they threatened with destruction. Several engines of the Brooklyn fire department arrived at the scene, and throwing streams on the flames, the fire was raging fiercely, and it looked as if the entire lower Brighton district would go, but at 1 p.m. the flames were under control. Loss estimated between $250,000 and $300,000.

Cornwall, May 16.—The fruit and confectionery establishment of Lally & Cotnam, in Mack's block, corner of Pitt and First streets, was destroyed by fire early this morning.

The G. N. W. Telegraph office, which was in connection with the store, was also destroyed, but at 4 a.m. Mr. Lally, the local manager, had a staff of men at work, and the telegraph service was in operation at the Rossmore Hotel temporarily at 8 a.m. Loss about $3,000; insurance, $1,900.

Aylesford, N. S., May 16.—The warehouses of L. O. Neilly, dealer in agricultural implements, flour and feed, were destroyed by fire this morning.

The Massena-Harris Company, of Toronto, had stored in the building several hundred dollars' worth of implements and repairs. Nothing was saved. Total loss is estimated at $8,000; partially insured.

Warton, Ont., May 16.—Fire broke out in the Ely House, kept by Mr. Rogers, at 3:20 today, ruining the roof and upper portion entirely. A lot of the contents were removed. The water spoiled was left. The firemen did good service.

HILL DENIES THE STORY

That He May Come Out as a Free Silver Champion.

New York, May 16.—In regard to the story started in Chicago that Senator Hill is likely to champion the cause of the Free Silver party, the Senator said today:

"It is all mere political gossip. There is not a word of truth in it. I have no acquaintance with Mr. Nicholson, and I have written him no letter whatever. It is only dignifying such rumors to deny them."

BUTTER BONUS FAD CONDEMNED

Brookville, Ont., May 16.—At the regular weekly meeting of the Brockville cheese board Mr. M. K. Everetts delivered another address strongly condemning the Government butter bonus by a portion of the Springfield traffic.

Ald. Powell pointed out that the clause objected to had been drafted originally by the solicitor for the radial company, the solicitor for the street railway company and the city solicitor. That would let the council out of any dilemma.

"I think the clause was originally drafted by Mr. Cameron," said the mayor, to whom Ald. Powell had turned for verification. "Is that so, Mr. Meredith?"

The Toronto Tragedy

Continuation of the Sensational Murder Trial.

The Transfer of Martha Wells' Money to H. Hyams.

Small Value of the Warehouse Stock—Blood on a Sugar Barrel and Pearline Box.

Toronto, May 16.—At the Hyams murder trial this morning Mr. Osler stated that Mrs. Hyams was not able to be present, but thought she would attend during the afternoon. Mr. Lount said his cross-examination of her was through.

Mr. Osler, before calling other witnesses, read a number of letters written by Harry Hyams to Martha Wells during 1893 and also one written to her during the time she was at the Church street school. These letters are replete with terms of endearment and expressions of solicitude for her happiness. There was nothing in them which apparently was damaging to the prisoners.

Samuel C. Smoke, who had acted as solicitor for Mrs. Hyams prior to her marriage and during the present year, was questioned as to interviews he had held with Harry P. Hyams, at one of which Solicitor Horn was present, during the early part of 1893, when a proposition was made by Harry Hyams that certain moneys belonging to Martha Wells should be invested through Harry Hyams, and that, in fact, those moneys should be handed over to him.

It was stated at the interview that Miss Wells had said this should be done, and that it remained to settle the form in which the agreement should be drawn. The witness at the time had stated that he knew nothing of any such agreement, and that as her solicitor he could not consent to such an agreement. He had asked Mr. Horn, as Mr. Hyams' solicitor, to put the agreement in writing and send it to him, when he would submit it to his client. The agreement was sent. The money concerned amounted to about $3,000.

Mr. Osler produced a draft of an agreement and a letter and asked witness if that was the agreement he received. The defense objected to the evidence or to the documents produced being admitted or read, and the interview between the solicitors was ruled out as being privileged.

W. H. Ritchie, a Queen street broker, testified to having purchased on Jan. 23, 1893, the stock of groceries in the Hyams warehouse. He paid $50 for it, and took it away on a wagon. It was a small barrel and also on a Pearline box.

E. W. Aylesworth was recalled, and testified that the furniture in the warehouse when sold brought $8 or $7.

B. D. Humphries, the undertaker who took charge of the body, stated that he had considered the killing to be accidental.

Toronto, May 17.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the Hyams murder trial, Geo. H. Grundy, general agent in Toronto for the New York Life Insurance Company, testified as to the $30,000 insurance on the life of Wells (deceased) payable to Mrs. Harry Hyams. Other insurance men testified in regard to policies taken out by Dallas Hyams which had lapsed on account of non-payment of premiums.

James Rankin, foreman, who had used the hoist dally; Charles Lee, who had repaired it; John Thompson, who put in a new hook in 1892 to hold the weight, and others, gave evidence tending to show that the elevator worked very well, and that it was hardly possible for the weight to get off the hook in the shaft.

WHIPPING THE SPANIARDS.

Cannot Get at the Cuban Insurgents—A Guerilla Warfare.

Havana, May 17.—The Cuban insurgents are making tremendous advances. They are burning down villages and driving the Spanish troops back. The plan of the insurgents is not to risk open battle, but to fall upon the Spaniards from ambush or exhaust them with forced marches in the heavy rains, which now come almost daily in the interior, and with the torrid heat between the showers is making and have in the conscript ranks. All the efforts of the Spaniards to deliver a telling blow at the head of the rebellion here are futile and the number of men in the field has doubled within the last three weeks. When Martinez Campos arrived from Spain on April 16 there were about 3,000 insurgents under arms. There are now over 6,000, and the latest acquisitions have a great proportion of whites than was the case at first.

HOW MANUFACTURERS ARE INJURED.

I have often pointed out that while this tariff discriminated very heavily, in our judgment, against the whole producing classes, it was almost equally unjust to certain classes of manufacturers, and that is in the nature of a protective tariff. What is one man's finished product is another man's raw material, and the consequence is that when you impose taxation in that fashion, you are very apt to hurt one manufacturer proportionately as you assist another. Now, sir, that has been very notably the case of late years with respect to several very important classes of manufacturers—those who work in iron. I do not hesitate to say that they have been very unjustly treated, indeed, under this present tariff. I can see no just reason why the iron worker should be compelled to pay 30 or 40 or 50 or 60 per cent, perhaps, on his raw material, while the cotton manufacturer or the woolen manufacturer gets his raw material free. Let us have some fair play, let us have some justice, let us have some reason in these matters, and if you are going to allow your cotton manufacturers and your woolen manufacturers and other manufacturers free materials, why in heaven's name discriminate against the iron manufacturers?—Sir Richard Cartwright in Parliament.

THE biggest telegraph office in the world is in the general postoffice building, London. There are over 3,000 operators, 1,000 of whom are women. The batteries are supplied by 30,000 cells.

FOR RAILWAY MEN.

Important Measure Now Before Parliament.

The Member for West Elgin Makes Various Draconic Proposals.

The bill introduced into the House of Commons by Mr. Geo. E. Casey, M. P.
for West Elgin, should have the earnest attention of every railway man, whether employer or employee, in the country, so that the author of the measure can be supplied with every necessary assistance to make the measure as fair and practicable as possible.

Mr. Casey gives his bill this title, "An Act to amend the Railway Act by providing greater security for passengers and employees, and in other respects."
Section 1 provides that all cars fitted with air brakes shall, within two years from the passing of the act, be provided with an automatic device in the hose coupling of the brakes, or in the train pipes, so arranged that after the cars are coupled the connection between such brakes and the air-pump on the locomotive cannot be broken, or the coupling deranged, accidentally or otherwise, without the knowledge of the engineer, and that his assistance, by operating the air-pump, shall be required in opening or closing the connection of the air-brakes throughout the train.

Sections 2 and 3 enact that every box freight car built in Canada for use on Canadian railways shall, after the passing of the act, be provided with the following attachments for the security of railway employees:

(a) Automatic extension running boards, so arranged that there shall be a continuous pathway from car to car;
(b) A continuous rail, with sufficient and firm supports, at a height of three feet, on one side of each running board,
along the roof of the car;

(c) Outside ladders on both sides of one end of the car, projecting far enough below the frame of the car to allow of a step of the ladder being placed below the frame, and provided with such step—such ladders to be placed close to the end of the side to which they are attached;

(d) Arched iron rails, extending from the top of the end support of the running-board rail above provided for, and from a similar support on the other side of such running-board, at the end of the car to which such ladders are attached, to the side of the ladders at the corner of the roof of the car.

Every such car, the property of the Canadian railways, for use in Canada, shall, within three years from the passing of this act, be fitted with the foregoing attachments.

The penalty for building cars not fitted with such attachments shall be $10 for each car, and $5 for each car for every day during which a car not so fitted is used.

Section 4 provides that all cars fitted with automatic couplings shall be placed together when made up in a train with cars not so fitted. All flat cars must be coupled together, and when cars fitted with air-brakes are made up in a train with cars not so fitted the cars with air-brakes must be placed next to the locomotive and used in braking the cars.

Section 5 provides that every conductor, engineer, fireman, baggageman and brakeman who is paid by the trip or by the mile shall be entitled to extra pay for overtime pro rata of his ordinary pay per trip or per mile, for every hour or part of an hour beyond ten hours (or whatever shorter time may be agreed on as the schedule time for a trip), during which he is delayed on his trip by accident, stress of weather or other cause not arising from his own neglect or duty.

In section 6 it is enacted that every yardman and other person employed in a station or shunting yard, or on a shunting engine, shall be allowed an hour for a meal between noon and 2 p.m.
and an hour between midnight and 2
a.m.

Section 7 enacts that every employee of a railway company who is injured while in the discharge of his duty, and rendered unable to work, shall be entitled to compensation from the company at the rate of not less than 60 per cent of his average earnings for the month previous to his injury. If permanently disabled, the employee is to have not less than $3,000 in compensation. If he is killed, his legal representatives shall be paid not less than $3,000. This compensation is also without prejudice to an action at law on the part of the employee or his heirs, and the employee is prevented from contracting out of the compensation by special agreement with the company. These provisions, however, will be void in the case of any employee whose injury, disability or death is caused by his own negligence—the burden of proof of such negligence being upon the railway company; but if such injury, disability or death occurs in the handling or use of trains, locomotives, cars or appliances which are out of repair, or insufficient, or not in accordance with the provisions of the act, the railway company shall not be allowed to plead contributory negligence on the part of the employee so injured, disabled or killed.

It is clear from this summary of the measure which our representative at Ottawa has compiled, that the bill proposes some drastic legislation. Whether or not, in its present temper, the House of Commons will consent to pass it remains to be seen.

CANADIAN BABIES.

THEY WILL GROW UP STRONG BOYS AND GIRLS.

Now Being Fed on Lactated
Food.

Thousands of Canadian babies are now being fed on pure and health-giving Lactated Food, and are fast growing in flesh, bone and muscle. These are the little ones that will make strong and healthy boys and girls.

Thousands of mothers have discarded
the old-fashioned and injurious prepared foods, and are acting upon the advice of physicians, and using only Lactated Food.

No cholera infantum, dysentery and other death-dealing troubles can cut your baby down when you feed it on Lactated Food.

MR. YATMAN'S MEETINGS.

Two Interesting Gatherings in the Princess Rink.

The Rev. Mr. Yatman held two very successful meetings yesterday afternoon and evening. As the meetings continue the audiences grow larger. They are to be continued every day the coming week in Princess Rink at 3:30 and 7:45 p.m. Mr. J. M. Whyte will also continue to sing his pleasing solos. No meeting will be held on Saturday. The following is the programme of services for Sunday, May 19:

9 a.m.—Union young people's meeting, King Street Methodist Church.
10 a.m.—Preaching in all the churches.

11 a.m.—Preaching by Mr. Yatman,
London South Methodist Church.

3 p.m.—Woman's mass meeting,
Opera House. Address by Mr. Yatman
on "Lot's Wife."

4:15 p.m.—Men's mass meeting, Princess Rink. Address by Mr. Yatman on "Lamb or Tiger—Which?"

6:30 p.m.—Preaching in all the Methodist churches.

6:30 p.m.—Preaching by Mr. Yatman
in Opera House.

8:15 p.m.—Great union meeting, Princess Rink. Address by Mr. Yatman.

THE EVENING GATHERING.

In the evening the evangelist spoke from the 6th and 7th chapters of Revelations, on the theme of "Destinies."
"Time," said the speaker, "flies fast.
Only yesterday we were young—today
we are old. It means much to live.
Time is a reality. Get out of life all that is best while you are in the world.
Perhaps there are some in the rink tonight who will never enter it again.
Prepare for an endless life.

"There are two destinies. The 6th chapter of Revelations deals with the destinies of those who lead a sinful life, and the 7th with those who lead a godly life. The sins are not specified. The people just lived for the natural things of life and had no God in their lives. In the last hour men and women will pray their God to save them involuntarily.
You may say that you have no use for God, but there will come a time when his presence will be very sweet. Your bark may be able to stand the storm now, when you are near the shore, but what will you do when you get out in the high swelling waves? Which company shall you be numbered with? Are you going on in your sin? Perhaps God has been pleading with you today. Let him take away your sins.

"Destiny is not settled at the grave, but now is the appointed time. People do not recognize the great importance of a decision against God. Turn from sin while it is day, for the night will soon come. Change your destiny from bad to good."

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Washington, May 16.—Admiral John J. Almy (retired) died at his residence here today. Admiral Almy was born in Newport, R. I., April 24, 1814, and entered the navy as a midshipman in 1829.
He served 56 years and 11 months until his retirement in July, 1877. As mid-shipman and lieutenant, he cruised all over the world in the old sailing navy.
He was present at the siege of Vera Cruz and the capture of Tuxpan during the Mexican war, and was commander at the Brooklyn navy yard in 1861 and 1862. While in command of the gunboat Connecticut he captured four noted blockade runners with valuable cargoes, and four others were chased to the shore and destroyed.

IMPORTANT AND INTERESTING

ARTICLE FROM ANDREW PAT-

TULLO, EDITOR OF THE WOOD-

STOCK SENTINEL-REVIEW, AND

PRESIDENT OF THE ONTARIO

GOOD-ROADS ASSOCIATION.

Woodstock, May 15, 1895.

Dear "Advertiser":

In reply to your inquiries, good roads would save the farmers of Canada several million dollars per year, which they now lose in injury to horses and to vehicles, and in the increased cost of transportation. Good roads would enable them to reach their markets at every season of the year, instead of during a portion of it. They could thus take advantage of favorable prices, which they sometimes cannot do when the roads are all but impassable. Good roads would improve the social, as well as the material condition of the farmers, and greatly increase the love of home,

of country and of farm life on which the future of Canada must so largely depend.

The best roads are perhaps to be found in Great Britain and in France.

They are made and paid for by a population which, in the aggregate, is poorer and less able to bear the so-called burden than the people of Canada. But the building and maintenance of good roads, even macadam roads, has been no burden either in Britain or France.

It has put millions of dollars into the pockets of those who till the soil. It would do the same here. To illustrate the almost ideal condition of the rural roads in France: James Gordon Bennett and a coaching party of friends

there drove 144 miles in ten hours. How far could he drive a heavy four-in-hand through Ontario in the same time? How much would be left of the coach and of the party?

The chief hindrance to road reform

is the lack of education on the subject.

Neither the climate, the extent of our roads, nor the condition of our people offers any insuperable obstacle to improvement. Let the people, especially the farmers, once realize the enormous injury they are now suffering from bad roads, and the benefits of good ones,

and we will soon see reform. But road reformers must know what they want,

must agitate and educate; and, above all, they must eventually speak with one voice and act as one man.

The future is full of hope. More has been said and written for good roads

during the past three years than in the whole previous history of the country.

The effect of it is being seen everywhere. There is a general demand for improvement, especially among the farmers. Many municipalities are now testing and buying road machinery. We are on the eve of a great movement for reform. The agitation for improvement has come to stay. People will be astonished at its results in a few years. The members of the Ontario Good Roads

Association are very well pleased with the results so far. If they had more means and more thoroughly qualified speakers at their disposal, the results

would be still greater.

A hopeful fact is that this association is almost exclusively an organization of farmers and the representatives of farmers' organizations. An association having the same objects in the United States, has spent over $100,000 in agitating for good roads—and with gratifying results.

After a time wheelmen will exert a tremendous influence in the movement.

In a few years nearly every farmer's son will be riding a bicycle; and, unlike his forefathers, he will be a road reformer. In most towns and cities and incorporated villages the wheelmen are already strong enough to influence, if not to decide, municipal elections. They recently decided a majority contest in a great American city. Their votes will go in every case for those who will promote road improvement. The farmers will not build good roads for wheelmen, but for their own benefit. Still,

what is called "the bicycle craze"

means, along with other influences, that we will see good roads in the near future. Fraternally yours,

ANDREW PATULLO.

TAXES MAKE NO MAN RICH.

tion never reduces prices. New inven-

House and Lobby

Newfoundland Terms at Last, But Important
Papers Missing—Notable Gathering at Rideau
Hall—More "Secrets" from the Conservative Caucus—London Military School and Carling's Creek—Missing London Returns.

(Specially telegraphed by our own Representative.)

Ottawa, May 16.—There was much talk in the lobbies today when it became known that the "Advertiser" had published the exact results of the Conservative caucus, with one point omitted. I learn tonight that the caucus not only expressed its opposition to the Hudson Bay and Chignecto Ship Railway speculations, and the increased mail subsidy to the C. P. R., but made a vigorous kick against the grasping and centralizing character of the distribution of patronage. Ministers were told that they took altogether too good care of their relations to the disadvantage of outsiders. High tax M. Ps. fear a general election. Many urge another session because they know they will not come back.

The chief feature in the proceedings of the Royal Society today was the luncheon given by the Governor-General and Countess of Aberdeen. Between 200 and 300 persons were invited. Lord Aberdeen presided, and in a very happy speech welcomed his visitors and toasted the Royal Society. Among western guests were Hon. and Mrs. George W. Ross, and Mr. J. D. Clarke, of London. The Minister of Education, in eloquent terms, proposed the toast of their Excellencies. The visitors afterwards attended a garden party in the Rideau Hall grounds.

In the House this afternoon, Sir Richard Cartwright asked Mr. Foster why he had not implemented his promise to bring down the supplementary estimates for the current year. Two weeks had elapsed, and Sir Richard, warning, objected to the Finance Minister trifling with the House.

Mr. Foster pleaded lack of time. He hoped to bring in the estimates tomorrow.

Mr. Davies pointed out that Mr. Foster had promised to produce papers with regard to the Newfoundland confederation simultaneously with their production before the Newfoundland Legislature.

Mr. Davies—Does the Government know that the Newfoundland Legislature would get papers today?

"Oh, yes, indeed," said Mr. Foster; "they will be presented here simultaneously."

Mr. Foster stated in reply to Mr. Davies that as the United States Congress has not passed the appropriation of $400,000 recommended by the United States Government, a conference will take place at Washington to consider how to arrive at the sum to be paid to British Columbia sealers in compensation under the Paris award.

Hon. David Mills asked when returns of the industrial census of London ordered by the House two and a-half years ago would be brought down.

Dr. Montague said he had so ordered. Mr. Mills asked: "That is an old story—we wait the return."

Sir Richard Cartwright commented on the suspicious character of these persistent delays.

Dr. Montague—A circular has been sent out.

"And this is the first step," said Dr. Landerkin, "taken to obey orders given two years ago."

In reply to questions Mr. Dickey said: "On one occasion the Government offered the Imperial authorities a portion of the permanent corps for garrison duty." Dr. Montague also gave the information that 215 packages of butter were received at Montreal under the recent offer of the Government to pay 20 cents a pound for butter for export. Returns for two packages sold in England showed they realized 16.3 cents and 16.4 per pound respectively. Government intended to supply cold storage for export butter.

Mr. Charlton made a most interesting address on the bureau today. He charged Comptroller Clarke Wallace with quibbling and indulging in personalities where arguments failed. Mr. Charlton asked whether the recent prolonged visit of Mr. Wallace to Washington while the Haldimand election was in progress was for the purpose of getting new ideas from the Yankees in regard to gerrymandering and protection.

Mr. Wallace showed the concession Mr. Charlton a visitor to Washington he disposed of by declaring that the recent concessions obtained by Canada from the United States were of more value than anything obtained since 1854, and he reminded the Comptroller that as the Government had availed themselves of them they were estopped from criticising those who were instrumental in obtaining those concessions. Mr. Charlton contended that protection has not benefited the Canadian farmer, and pointed out that the average price of wheat during the time of the Mackenzie Government was $1 11, barley, 53 cents; oats, 42 cents, and peas 3 cents. How have they fallen now? We produce more pork than we can consume, therefore it is senseless to say a tax helps the price, as the Minister said.

"I did not so argue," said Mr. Dickey. "I said pork production, not price had increased."

"The reason," said Mr. Charlton, "lies in the fact that it did not pay to sell grain, and they were fed." Mr. Charlton pointed out that protection injured not only the farmer but the legitimate manufacturer, the miner, the lumberman and their employees. What we need is freedom to buy and to sell from and to Great Britain and the United States.

Col. Amyot followed. He is the fiery little colonel of the Quebec battalion, who, when he got near the front in the time of the Northwest rebellion, telegraphed to the Ottawa authorities that the militia should be employed to defend the provisions while the mounted scouts of the plains pursued the Indians. He is the same high-minded statesman who told the Liberals after the last election that he could not support them because they failed to reach the Government benches. He devoted a long speech to arguing that the leather industry of Quebec was burdened by taxes on raw materials, and could not stand a decrease in tax on manufactured products. He admitted Mr. Laurier had taken strong grounds in favor of free raw materials.

Col. Amyot concluded with a strong endorsement of Mr. McGreevy and all his works.

Mr. Legris followed in French, maintaining that the high tax policy injures everyone outside combines. The House adjourned at 11:40 p.m.

CAPITAL NOTES.
Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Cameron, barrister, London, are here. Mr. Cameron comes to argue the case of Barnes vs. Dominion Grange Insurance Company before the Supreme Court.

In the Township of Harwick vs. Raleigh, a case under the Drainage Act, judgment on the preliminary objections will be given on Saturday.

The railway committee today gave the Ottawa, Amport and Parry Sound Railway Company another five years to complete their line.

Wiggins, the weather prophet, today told me the recent cold wave is caused by a large volume of cold air from the north coming into collision with a similar volume of warm air from the south. Wiggins insists that our climate grows warmer, taken as a whole.

In the Ottawa Methodist Conference today it was reported that the membership had considerably decreased during the year. Members have moved away from the rural districts.

Dr. Pingel, of London, arrived today.

Hon. Robert Bond, Newfoundland, returned to Ottawa today on business connected with confederation. He refused to say anything about his secret mission.

Mr. Mills will ask—"Do the Government intend to take immediate steps to stop the discharge of sewage from the Military School, London, into a small creek known as Carling's Creek?"

TERMS OF CONFEDERATION
Offered to Newfoundland by the Dominion Government.

(Special by telegraph from our own representative.)
Ottawa, May 16.—Copies of the protocols exchanged between Canada and Newfoundland regarding the proposed admission of that colony into the Dominion were laid before Parliament tonight. Canada's offer to Newfoundland reads as follows:

1. Canada will assume the debt of Newfoundland, equal to $10,350,000, at the rate of $50 per head of population, estimated at 207,000. On $2,000,000 of Canada will pay 5 per cent interest per annum.

2. Canada will pay the following yearly allowance to Newfoundland: For legislation, $50,000; subsidy, 80 cents per head of population up to 400,000, which at the present population of 207,000, equals, $165,600; allowance on crown lands and rights of minerals and metals and timbers, $150,000; interest at 4 per cent on $2,000,000; excess debt, $100,000; total, $185,600.

3. Canada will maintain all that class of services in Newfoundland which fall under the head of general or Dominion services. These comprise: Governor's salary, customs excise, savings banks, public works (of a Dominion character), crown lands, administration of justice, postoffice, steamship services, marine and light services, penitentiaries, weights and measures, gas inspection, arts, agriculture and statistics, quarantine and immigration, insurance inspection, geological survey, fisheries.

4. Canada is to maintain, in regard to Dominion services, passenger and mail communication in at least as efficient a manner as at present, as follows: Between the mainland and Newfoundland; between Newfoundland and Great Britain; the coastal steam services east and west between Labrador and Newfoundland.

5. In lieu of expenditure for militia in Newfoundland until such time as Parliament may deem it necessary to introduce a more general militia system, Canada will grant $40,000 annually towards maintenance of a police constabulary. This force is to be at the disposal of the Dominion Government for use anywhere in Canada.

6. The fishermen of Newfoundland are to participate equally with those of Canada in any bounties to fishermen.

7. Canada will take at a fair valuation the steamship Furber, now in use by the Government of Newfoundland for the fishery service.

8. Newfoundland shall be represented in the Senate of Canada by four Senators, and in the House of Commons by ten representatives.

Newfoundland's proposals provided for an annual subsidy of 80 cents a head of population and $150,000 a year bounty for fishermen of the island.

Canada to take over the debt of the island in proportion to the debt of the Dominion, and if the debt is less, 5 per cent on the excess.

The Dominion to pay for a battery of artillery on the island and to pay for railway and other public works, except bridges and education.

The Dominion to pay $150,000 for crown lands on the island and $100,000 for crown lands in Labrador.

The Dominion to maintain the fisheries, exempting fishermen from license fees and taxes on traps.

The Dominion to maintain a naval brigade in the colony.

Newfoundland to control precious metals.

The Dominion to pay $50,000 a year for legislation.

The bitches in the negotiations are stated by Premier Whiteway in a telegram to Ottawa. The colony wants $650,000 a year instead of $500,000 offered by the Dominion. It wants the Dominion to take over the entire debt (railway completion included) amounting to $15,000,000. "If you do not concur," added Premier Whiteway, "I must introduce an alternative policy when the House opens."

To this demand Premier Bowell telegraphed on May 4: "Impossible to accede," and added, "If a favorable answer is received from the Imperial Government we will make definite proposition."

On May 10 Premier Bowell telegraphed: "Lord Ripon's dispatch 8th of May to Lord Aberdeen forwarded to the Governor of Newfoundland will inform you of the position taken by the British Government. If Newfoundland adopts Lord Ripon's proposal the terms (Continued on page 6.)

"For five or six years I had Dyspepsia in its worst form, sometimes completely prostrated; so much that it was impossible for me to work more than half an hour at a time. I had tried various remedies but did not receive any benefit, when I was recommended by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken two bottles and feel like a new man. I can eat and drink anything and enjoy my food. I never feel better. I cannot praise Hood's Sarsaparilla too much for not only has it cured me of dyspepsia but also of rheumatism." PLEADING FOR CHATTELLE.
Stratford, May 17.—The case of Chat-telle, the murderer of Jessie Keith, sentenced to be hanged on May 31, has taken a new turn. H. M. East, the Toronto lawyer, who came up from Toronto, but whose services were declined by the murderer, has submitted a contention to the Department of Justice that the man is afflicted with a peculiar form of insanity mentioned in the works of a German expert, and that he was therefore irresponsible for his crime. The question will doubtless be submitted to Chief Justice Armour, the trial judge, in accordance with the practice of the department, and on the receipt of his reply the executive will come to a decision.

HUGH LOVELESS, TOBACCONIST
202½ DUNDAS STREET.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Engineer George Angles, G. T. R., Sick Only a Day.

Heart Trouble the Cause—Quarter of a Century on the Road—Deceased's Only Brother Harry Killed in the St. George Accident.

Mr. George Angles, G. T. R. engineer, 473 Gray street, is dead, aged 42 years. Mr. Angles was in fair health on Wednesday morning when he made his regular trip to Niagara Falls on engine No. 26. Returning on Wednesday night Mr. Angles felt unwell. Yesterday he walked to the office of his physician and consulted him. He returned home, and rapidly became worse, died at midnight. Death is supposed to have been due to obstruction of the valves leading to the heart.

George Angles was born in the State of New York, and when about 5 years of age came to the city with his parents, Samuel and Mary Angles, of Grey street. He entered the employ of the Grand Trunk nearly 25 years ago and steadily advanced until he was appointed engineer. In this position he was considered one of the company's most competent men. Deceased was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, Canadian Order of Chosen Friends and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He leaves a wife and five children. Mr. Angles' only brother, Harry, was a fireman on the Grand Trunk, and received fatal injuries in the St. George accident. The funeral takes place on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Mr. Angles was an estimable man and popular with his friends.

TOOK AN OVERDOSE,
And James Stewart Went In'o Convulsions and Died.

Was Doctoring Himself for Rheumatism—A Faithful Servant of Mrs. John Cooper.

Dr. Ferguson, coroner, is holding an inquest this afternoon into the circumstances surrounding the death of Jas. Stewart, an elderly man servant of Mrs. John Cooper, who resides on the river side just above Springbank. Mr. Stewart was a man of about 55 years of age, and was well known in this city. He had been in Mrs. Cooper's employ since before the death of Mr. Cooper, several years ago, and was a trusted and faithful servant. Lately he had been suffering from rheumatism, and to alleviate his distress he took a dose of some drug that he had previously used with good effect. He must have taken an overdose, as he almost immediately went into convulsions. Mrs. Cooper was alone at the time, her daughter being absent on a visit, and when Mr. Stewart went into convulsions Mrs. Cooper was very much scared. It was between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, and she went and screamed for aid. A neighbor came, and a doctor was telephoned for from Woodland Cemetery. When he arrived, however, the old man was dead. Deceased was a native of Carleton Place, Ontario, and had a wife living. He was of frugal and temperate habits, and is said to have saved a neat sum of money.

MISSIONARY WORK.

Annual Convention of the Baptist W. H. M. S.—Election of Officers.

Peterboro, Ont., May 17.—Good addresses were the feature of yesterday afternoon's session of the Baptist Women's Home Missionary Society of the Baptist Church, Cleveland. Addresses were heard, especially those of the president, Mrs. Holman, who is the wife of Mr. C. J. Holman, Q.C., Toronto, and Mrs. John Dryden, wife of Hon. John Dryden, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and Mrs. E. J. Dryden. The report of the nominating committee was adopted as follows:

President—Mrs. C. J. Holman, Toronto.
First Vice-President—Mrs. R. W. Laird, Toronto.
Second Vice-President—Mrs. D. Hutchinson, Brantford.
Recording Secretary—Miss Margaret Boyd, Toronto.

Mrs. Crawford, Brantford; Mrs. D. Dack, Simcoe; Mrs. T. S. Edwards, St. Thomas, and Mrs. J. G. Gibbs and Mrs. Gray, Eden, were elected to fill vacancies on the board for five years to fill vacancies. Mrs. Burlee, Toronto, was appointed for five years; Mrs. John Hume, Port Hope, and Mrs. George Matthews, Lindsay, for four years; and Mrs. Lacey, Toronto, for three years.

The association reports were read by the officers, giving encouraging statistics. The finances are in excellent condition.

IN THE WEST.

Word from the Northwest Territories About a Marvel of Modern Science.

Calgary, May 15.—The fame of Dodd's Kidney Pills has spread all over the Northwest, and they have come into universal use, being found in almost every farmhouse and village throughout the territories. The cures of Kent, Drs. Rose and McCormick, Rymal, Fish, and dozens of others have been eagerly read, and have consequently produced a large demand. People are becoming convinced that a very large percentage of disease may be traced, as it was in these cases, to the action of the kidneys in failing to do their proper work and inducing rheumatism, paralysis, Bright's disease, diabetes and blood poisoning.

It is said that the C. P. R. has taken over the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, and in return the M. C. R. are to have entrance to Toronto over C. P. R. tracks.

At Orangeville Thursday the Toronto Presbytery declared its sympathy with Manitoba by a vote of sixteen to eight. Dr. Milligan brought in a minority report recommending no expression of opinion. He strongly denounced the corruption at Ottawa and said the Government were drawing red herrings across the scent to divert the attention of the electors from it.

THE BRITANNIA WINS.
London, May 17.—Great interest was evinced in what is practically the opening of the yachting season. The many special trains running to Gravesend were crowded with those anxious to witness the performance of the Alls. Her opponents were the Prince of Wales' yacht Britannia, and the raters, Isolda and Carver, which were given a long start. The Britannia won.

SNOW IN THE OLD COUNTRY.
London, May 17.—Unusually cold weather prevails throughout England. There was a snow storm on the east coast today. A few minor wrecks have occurred on the east coast, the vessels having run ashore during the snow storms.

Berne, May 17.—A severe storm prevails in Switzerland. A number of diligences are blocked by snow near Dives.

QUEEN MARIE'S NARROW ESCAPE.
Lisbon, May 17.—Queen Marie had a narrow escape yesterday from being crushed to death. King Carlos and the Queen attended a bull fight, and while the performance was going on, a flag-staff near the royal box broke, and fell between their majesties. The heavy pole grazed the Queen, but fortunately she escaped without injury. The accident caused a great sensation, and the anxiety was not relieved until it was announced that the Queen was unhurt.

BOYCOTTING THE POPE.
London, May 16.—The Pope's letter to the English people was sent to the Times for publication, instead of to one of the recognized news agencies. The letter has consequently been boycotted by the Daily News, the Standard, and the Daily Telegraph, thus losing half a million readers. A good many Catholics are inveighing against Cardinal Vaughan for this display of favoritism. It is not by such methods, they tell us, that the Catholic Church has won popularity in the United States.

RUSSIA'S EASTERN PROGRAMME.
St. Petersburg, May 17.—As a result of Lord Rosebery's policy and attitude toward Russia, the Government has in preparation several important projects. It is announced that Russia will not only continue in possession of the trans-Caspian Pamirs, but also plan a line of railway to Dushk, Serakh, Kabul and Peshawar, where it will join the Great Indian Railway, connecting Peshawar with Lahore, Delhi and Calcutta. Already the Ministers of War, Finance and Railways are preparing calculations which, when the objects are achieved, will put Russia in a position to throw large bodies of troops into the heart of India, where she knows she will find allies in the races opposed to the English yoke.

HAD ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT.
London, May 16.—Speaking at a meeting of the Pleasant Sunday Afternoon Association in Aberdeen recently, one of the visitors told a story regarding Queen Victoria which sounds as if it might be true. Her Majesty, it seems, had been in the neighborhood of Loch Maree, and was staying at a hotel on its shores. She made many excursions, and was delighted with her water parties and with her loyal and gentle Highland watermen. One lovely Sunday she was taken to Loch Maree, to see the lake in the afternoon, but to her great astonishment they sent back the memorable reply that "they were proud to be at her Majesty's service all the week, but on the Sabbath day they were in the service of the King of Kings." The Queen was pleased as well as struck by the reply, and did not insist on their attendance.

TWIN FRAUDS.

In a riding with which I am acquainted, there is set down in the census, under the head of pulp and windmill factories, two new industrial establishments to swell the increase. What is the number of hands employed? One hand employed in the two mills, and his yearly wages are $100. One hundred dollars for one man to run two pulp factories for the whole year, or 33 1-3 cents per day for each working day. The honorable Minister laughs, but it is no laughing matter. Let me ask him, in view of the promises made with reference to the National Policy, does he honestly think the National Policy made that man rich? Does he honestly believe that those operatives, of whom my honorable friend from South Oxford gave the list, who are working, some of them, at as low as 4 1-2 cents a day, have been made rich by the National Policy? If not, I ask the honorable gentleman to explain the reason why. He claims that it has made some people rich. I ask him by what sense of justice he dares to place on the statute book a law to make some men rich and to give to others from 5 to 33 cents a day? That is a question for him to answer. Sir, these people who are earning this small pittance are Canadian subjects and entitled to the same consideration at the hands of the Government as other Canadian subjects; and if it be true that the Government have made certain people rich by their policy of the reduction of others to the position in which the census figures show them to be, the iniquity of their policy is manifest on its face, and, instead of lauding that policy, honorable gentlemen ought to make some amends for the injustice they have perpetrated by wiping it from the statute book.—W. Paterson, M.P., in the House of Commons.

COTTON MILLS—DIVIDEND NIL.
Montreal, May 16.—The Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company held its annual meeting this afternoon, A. F. Gault, president, and the old board were re-elected. The net earnings for the past six months were $126,000, but the working of the previous half-year showed a deficit, the amount of which was not made public. No dividend was declared, and the meeting was held behind closed doors.

Dr. Seigert's Angostura Bitters are the best remedy for removing indigestion and all diseases of the digestive organs.

Parasols

Have been made a special study by us, and it's astonishing the difference between our stock and the stock bought in the ordinary way. Black Parasols with natural wood handles, and ivory handles, and carved wood handles; fancy parasols, with frills and without frills and handsomely trimmed parasols are worth an effort to see. And to crown the whole stock, the very latest article in tiny tight rolling handles. Many are exclusively shown by ourselves. Prices right, value the best, guaranteed to keep their color, and wear without cutting.

FASHIONABLE TAILORS,

A Lost Gem

Molly, unconscious of the turn his thoughts were taking, was yet not unmindful of the sternness that had crept into his face as he sat with folded arms and blue eyes fixed absently upon the floor instead of on the stage. Her marriage had made her more susceptible to influences from without than she had been in her early days. She felt that he had been startled—perhaps even shocked—by her story; and for the first time she realized a little how the story sounded in the ears of strangers, and what aspect it would wear in the eyes of a duty-loving, God-fearing, high-minded man or woman.

When the curtain had dropped again she did not speak until Capt. Rutherford asked her whether she would take an ice or some coffee. Molly refused both hastily, and then summoned up courage to look at him. His face was not at all stern now; his blue eyes were quite gentle and friendly.

"I hope you are not—not very much shocked?" she faltered out.

Charlie Rutherford did not think that he ought to smile, but he could not help it. The question was so very naïve.

"Our fathers are good friends," he answered, evading the difficulty. "I think that we ought to be good friends, too. Mrs. Hannington has been wanting to make your brother's acquaintance for some time."

"Oh, how nice of you!" said Molly. "And how nice for Bertie."

Charlie laughed outright now. It was more than ever impossible to help it, although Mrs. Hannington looked surprised.

"It will be very nice for me," he said. "I am going to Scotland soon and will look him up. He is at home, I think."

"I think so," said Molly, blushing. "But—I don't know exactly. He hasn't—yet—don't write to me. I have not known by what impulse she told this fact to a comparative stranger; but she did tell it in the artless way in which a child will recount its woes to anyone who seems kindly disposed."

Capt. Rutherford looked grave. "I am sorry," he said involuntarily, and then paused. "You have written to them, of course?" he asked, feeling himself obliged, out of sheer pity, to take a confidential tone with this impulsive, imprudent child.

"Yes, I wrote once," said Molly with downcast eyes. "And I have written again, but papa would not read my letter. Don't you think that it is very hard? I thought he would forgive us directly—of course. I know that I was disobedient and naughty and all that—but he won't. It makes me very unhappy."

"It must," said Charlie with quite unintentional fervor. He was a simple direct, affectionate young fellow, and the position of this girl, whose father's heart was alienated from her, appeared to him truly pitiable. Molly raised her eyes for an instant, looking as if she had received a rather new idea.

"And I suppose you have not many acquaintances in London yet?" he went on after a pause.

"Not one," said Molly. "Jack says that I shall have more than I know what to do with before long, but I don't know. I suppose that he has a great many friends in London."

"Of a sort," said Charlie to himself, but of course he did not say it aloud. He answered discreetly.

"I believe that Mr. Hannington has a very large acquaintance. Mr. Verker seems to be an old friend of his. The Esquharts are in London now. I believe I dare say you will see something of them. Lady Agnes Vereker is a very nice girl. My mother always comes up to town in May; she will be here next week, and I am sure she will be very glad."

Fortunately for Charlie's veracity a burst of music drowned the conclusion of that sentence.

"It is very kind of you," said Molly, rather formally. "I should like to have somebody to talk to of course—Jack is obliged to go out sometimes."

"Yes—to music halls," was the young man's silent comment. He disposed of it by a slight shrug of his shoulders.

"There is a Lady Valencia Gilderoy whom I think you must have met near Dunkeld."

"Oh, yes, we knew her very well," said Charlie. "She is in town now. She was a friend of the Esquharts, and I think she knows Mr. Hannington. Shall I tell her where you are staying? I often see her."

"Please," said Molly, eagerly. Then she hesitated. "I don't know. She is a friend of papa's. Perhaps she will not come."

"She shall come if I can make her," said Capt. Rutherford stoutly. And then the play went on.

It seemed to Molly as if she must have known Charlie Rutherford for years. His name had long been familiar to her, and to meet him in London was like meeting a countryman in a foreign land. She could not treat him as a stranger.

He drove back to the hotel with her between 1 and 12, parting from her at the door with a sensation of entire devotion which would greatly have astonished simple-minded Molly, could she but have known it. Her husband had not come in, and she did not wait for him. She was tired, and went at once to bed, where she slept so soundly that she was not alarmed by the fact that Jack did not return until 6 o'clock in the morning, when he stumbled into his dressing-room and threw himself down on a couch to sleep till noon. She found him there when she was dressed at 9 o'clock, and, like a wise little woman, forbore to disturb him.

He appeared in the sitting room at 1 o'clock, ordered brandy and soda, and complained of a headache. He certainly looked ill; his face was lividly pale and he had black marks under his eyes. Molly hastened to wait upon him, but got snubbed for her pains. He lay down on a sofa, turned his back to her, and told her roughly to hold her tongue.

After ten minutes' silence he addressed her again.

"Molly, when did you write to your father?"

"Last week, Jack, dear."

"And he sent back your letter unopened?"

"Yes, Jack."

"Confound him!—Molly!"

"Yes, Jack, dear."

"Open that pocketbook, and take out the key that you will find inside. That's it. Now go and unlock my dressing box and see how much money you can find. I want to know. Bring it all to me."

Molly wonderingly did her lord's behests. "I've found such a lot," she said when she returned. "What do you keep it there for, Jack? It might get stolen. There are one hundred and twenty pounds in notes, and fifteen pounds seventeen shillings and fourpence in silver and copper."

"That all?" said Hannington, blandly.

"Isn't it enough? Yes, that is all, I am sure."

"A nice lookout for us," muttered her husband, turning her face away. "That is all we have got in the world, you may be pleased to know; and thanks to your father's infernal obstinacy, that is all we seem likely to get until you are 21."

The color faded from Molly's cheeks at the tone of his voice rather than on account of the words he uttered. She felt vaguely afraid and dismayed.

"I thought you—you—had—plenty," she faltered.

"Plenty! It depends on what you call plenty. I had more than this last night, certainly; I was cheated out of a lot of money—fool that I was! Look here, Molly, I shall be ruined—if I am not ruined already—unless I can get something out of that precious father of yours. You won't have."

"But before long if something does not turn up, I shall have to go to the continent, and you back to your father; that is what will happen to us."

"Oh, Jack, if you were ever so poor, I should never desert you!" cried Molly, who was in tears by this time.

"Like Mrs. Micawber," said Jack, dryly. "But I am afraid that I should desert you, my dear—unless you can mend matters for me."

"How, Jack? I will do anything I can."

"Sit down and write a moving appeal to your father. Then, say anything you like; promise anything you like, but get him to give you an income."

"Ask him for money? Oh, that is impossible," said Molly, suddenly flushing scarlet and drawing herself up.

"Just now you said you would do anything for me, and yet you hang back the moment a disagreeable task is suggested to you," said Hannington; "acknowledge that it is disagreeable; there are many disagreeable things in this world, unfortunately; but they have to be faced. However, I shall know how much faith to place in your professions."

He turned his face angrily to the wall and kept silence. He knew very well the way in which his demeanor would affect poor Molly's feelings. She was also silent for a few minutes, but then she burst out passionately—

"You ought not to say that. I do not feel. I have given up a great deal to show you love for you. I have given up my home and friends. It is very hard to ask for money when all I want is my father's forgiveness."

MIDDLESEX.

A highly respected resident of Westminster township passed away on Wednesday morning, May 8, at his home on the 2nd concession, near Pond Mills, in the person of William C. Sumner, a brother of Mrs. J. W. Lee, of Nilestown. Deceased had been a constant sufferer during the last six months with cancer of the stomach, but his sufferings were borne with great fortitude and patience. He was born on the 1st concession of Westminster 52 years ago, and married Helen, the daughter of the late Wm. Scott, of the same township. He was a most consistent member of the North Westminster Presbyterian Church, and also a member of the Masonic fraternity. In politics he was a Reformer, and always an active interest in the political affairs of the country, being for many years returning officer in the ward in which he lived. His brother Ralph, who still lives on the homestead on the 1st concession, and Mrs. Lee, are the only survivors of his father's family. His wife, two daughters and a son, also survive him. They are all at home, and are left in good circumstances to settle there.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill, of Lucan, 88 and 99 years old, are both helpless in bed, but their memories of the past is quite clear, and they are quite talkative. Mr. O'Neill lives till the 9th of June, she will be 100 years old. They came from Ireland.

Strathroy people are talking of giving a $2,000 bonus to induce a carpet factory to locate there.

The Glencoe Mechanics' Institute has elected the following officers: President, Dr. Walker; vice-president, W. J. French; secretary, R. Sutherland; treasurer, G. M. Harrison; librarian, J. E. Roome.

May 16.—The death is announced on Tuesday morning here of Mrs. E. P. Watson, in her 24th year. She was the daughter of the late Rev. Jas. Smythe, at one time rector of St. John's Church here, and was highly respected by all who knew her. Her illness was long and painful, but borne with great patience and resignation. The funeral today to the G. T. R. station and thence to St. Catharines, was largely attended. Another heavy frost last night added to two previous ones has done very great damage.

The Front Street Methodist Sunday school anniversary will be held next Sunday, when sermons will be preached by Rev. J. W. Graham, B.A., and on Monday evening, when the annual entertainment will be held.

The Middlesex and Lambton Baptist Association will meet here next Wednesday at 9 a.m., and continue for two days. A large attendance and interesting meetings are expected.

Preparations are near completion for the grand Foresters' demonstration on Queen's Birthday. A fine display of fireworks in the evening is one of the features.

The Masons of Beaver Lodge will attend divine worship in the Front Street Methodist Church next Sunday at 3:15 p.m., when a sermon will be preached by Rev. Jasper Wilson.

Dr. G. C. Osceola, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KINCHLOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. AARNS, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in this children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

THE CUBAN CONFLICT.

Official Report of a Serious Engagement on Sunday.

Havana, May 16.—The Government has issued an official report of a battle which took place at Jovito, near Guan- tamano, May 12. The fighting lasted twelve hours, and resulted in a victory for the Government troops. The Spanish force lost 17 killed and 39 wounded. The killed comprise Col. Bosch, of the Simancas regiment, and four other officers, a surgeon and eleven soldiers. The Spanish commander claims that the insurgents lost 200 killed and wounded.

The insurgent force numbered 2,000 men, under the command of rebel leaders Jose Maceo, Perez, Rabi and Cartagena, while the Government force was only 400 strong. The Government troops were surprised and surrounded, but fought desperately, and held their own against the odds of five to one, until they were finally reinforced by troops from Guantanamo.

Another engagement is reported between the Spanish and Cuban forces in Arroyo Naranjo, near Guantanamo, in which the insurgents were forced to withdraw. The rebels were commanded by the brothers Maceo.

—Mr. Allan McLaughlin, son of Mr. P. H. McLaughlin, King street, and who was recently appointed house physician at Harper Hospital, Detroit, is making a brief stay in London.

—Thomas Culbert, Birch street, London West, was up before Squire Lacey on a charge of allowing cattle to run at large in the village. Culbert paid the costs and the case was dismissed.

—Rev. Thomas Boyd, of Oxford Center, in renewing his subscription to the "Daily Advertiser," remarks: "I am a member of the first copy of the 'Advertiser' issued, and have been a reader and admirer ever since."

—All that is necessary now to boom boating is a jump of 25 degrees in the temperature. The repairs at the water- works dam are completed, the splash- boards are up, and there is plenty of water in the river.

—The regular drill of the Seventh Battalion was held last night when a large number of new men were enlisted. An order was issued for the regiment to put on drill order on Monday next at 8 o'clock for a route march.

—C. R. Snead, who has been ledger keeper in the Molsons Bank at Norwich for some time, goes to London to take a position in the branch of the same bank there. During his residence in Norwich Mr. Snead has made many friends, who will regret his departure from among them.—Norwich Gazette.

—The London Bicycle Club, 50 strong, took a spin to Lambeth last night, and on returning to the club house made up a whist party and entertained Mr. R. Guy Reid, of Halifax, N. S., who is traveling on his nerve from his home to Winnipeg for a wage of $5,000. Mr. Reid was made an honorary member of the club.

—An Amherstburg dispatch of yesterday's date says: T. J. Leggett, who has resided here for over 30 years, unmarried, and who has lived alone in a small house on the river front during that period, and a brother of the late Judge Leggett, of Essex county, and who, in his youth, was cashier for the old Bank of Upper Canada at Ottawa, was taken to London today by his nephews and placed in a rest home. He is about 57 years of age and highly educated. He has been eccentric, but harmless, for many years. He kept his own counsel and scarcely ever conversed with anyone.

—The funeral of Mrs. Marion Conning, who died at her residence, 374 Adelaide street, on Tuesday, took place yesterday afternoon to the Scotch Cemetery. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. Robert Johnston, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, assisted by Rev. D. Robertson, of King Street, and Rev. M. P. Talling, of St. James'. Deceased had for a quarter of a century been a respected resident of the city, and was the widow of Mr. James Conning, who died about four years ago. Miss Jessie, a daughter, followed her father to the grave a year later, and Mr. Alex. Macdonald, a son-in-law, died a few months ago. Andrew, George, and Agnes, three of the children, are in Seattle, Wash. Territory. Rev. John Conning, another son, is in charge of a large Presbyterian Church at Caledonia, and three children are in the city—Minnie, Bessie and Mrs. McDonald.

—The concert and cantata last evening in the Hill Street Methodist Church was an unqualified success, both as regards attendance and performance. The entertainment was gotten up and managed exclusively by ladies. Mrs. R. Winnett occupied the chair, while Mrs. J. K. Brooks and Miss Minnie Pierce acted as door-keepers, the ushers being Miss Wright, Mrs. C. E. A. Carr, Misses Maud Rose, Edith Lewis, Jessie Pierce, Ruby Sanborn, Agnes Hsieh, Nellie Pierce, Alice born, Hattie Coulter, Ellinor McCrory, Annie Lamond, Minnie Rose, Mary Garside, Lucy Johnson, Mrs. A.
