WHAT SEARCH REVEALED

Land Not In His Name.

Yesterday W. H. Bartram, barrister, went through the records in the city registry office to secure informa-tion re the purchasing of land for the breakwater by the city of London from Scarrow Mr. Bartram found that though 179 feet were deeded to the city by Mr. Scarrow, that gentleman had only a deed for 156 feet. Thus Mr. Bartram claims that the city of London has no right to recognize Mr. Scarrow's sovereignty over 23 feet of land, which, he says, belongs to the city.

The deed states that the city pur chased 155 feet of land, of which Mr. Scarrow had a deed, and 23 feet of land which Mr. Scarrow claimed to own fee simple, as he had occupied it for twenty years or more.
On the other hand Mr. Bartram states that in 1899 the courts com-pelled Mr. Scarrow to remove his barn were behind bars in the wilds from the property and to take down

Thursday to Be a Rousing Millinery Day

Listen! Thursday we are going to give you a wondrous opportunity to choose a new fall and winter hat at a very unusual price. It's a sure rush price -one that should bring a crowd of eager buyers-make Thursday a hustling, bustling, rousing day in our Millinery Section. Read this:

100 Trimmed Hats at $1.95 Each

They are this season's natty and correct felt shapes. As this is being written, our workrooms resemble a veritable beehive of industry. Our corps of experienced milliners are busy trimming these hats in anticipation of your visit. You know how smartly and effectively they trim them. And we were nearly forgetting to mention that all the popular colors will be included in this collection of one hundred. Not any too many black though. Best plan is to come early and get first choice. You'll find them arranged for convenient selection on two separate tables. Remember, only 100 at the price. Worth up to $4.50 each. Thursday.....

Smartly Stylish Tailored Suits

The moment your eyes rest upon These Tailored Suits you will be impressed with the smartness of the styles, the beauty of finish and perfection of tailoring. No skimping, no careless workmanship, everything seems to be just right. Doubtless after trying one on you will be surprised how well it fits; although, possibly, it may need altering a little. Surprise number two will come when you see the price; for our suits are really splendid values. These for instance:

Ottawa, Nov. 15. - Ontario has onethird of the boys of the Dominion, but supplies over half the boy crim-

This was one of the points in an address delivered yesterday by George Johnston, statistician, before the Ministerial Association. He said larceny was the chief crime committed by juveniles, forming 78 per cent of the convictions in 1903 boys under sixteen. The Province of Ontario occupied an unenviable position in regard to juvenile crime, for while every million of the other provinces showed 180 boy criminals, Ontario showed 267 in every million. In other words, while Ontario has about one-third of the boys, it has over one-half of the boy criminals of the Dominion. There was a striking disproportion of boy criminals to girl criminals. Out of 908,119 girls under fifteen years of age in Canada in 1901 only 25 were convicted for indictabl offenses. Of these Ontario contrib-uted 18 out of 337,443 girls under fifteen, and all other provinces con-

SLEEP OF WEEKS PUZZLES DOCTORS

teria Among Patients of a Toronto Hospital.

Toronto, Nov. 15.-Mrs. Curtis, a patient in the Toronto General Hospital, has been asleep for four weeks. She was brought to the hospital by a country doctor about a week ago, and Prof. Allan Baines, who has charge of the patient, has diagnosed the case as one of hysteria.

The hands and limbs are perfectly plastic, and for an hour at a time will remain in the position in which they are placed. The eyes are always closed, and the breathing is regular. Fluid nourishment is supplied by eans of a stemach tube. That the patient is partly conscious s shown by the fact that a hand or arm placed in a certain position will resume its normal position in a much

Prof. Baines says she will emerge from the cataleptic state. A reporter who visited the hospital this morning, learned from a leading member of the medical profession that there are three very important points in connection with the case, as folws: There is a very neurotic history, marked nervous disorders being found in many of her near relatives She has evidently been worrying a great deal, and she is very poorly nourished, which may be the result of her mental condition, or may have been a contributory cause of the condition, She is in a very low state of vitality at present, but the effect of the nourishment being given is now becoming apparent, for this morning the patient moved a little and showed slight signs of voluntary effort. The same physican stated that the case was a very rare one, being, in fact, the first he had ever seen. The good pacer, Frank Yoakum, 2:04%, met with a bad accident while being shipped to Philadelphia, where he was to go against The Friend, 2:051/4, in a match race. The train he was on was wrecked and the horse turned a complete somersault, injuring his back and throwing out two very parge curbs which are likely to end as racing days. The accident was on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and there will be a damage suit.

The Highland Park track at Detroit is being dismantled and will soon be a thing of the past. It was built originally by the late G. B. Stevens, and was at first used as a matinee track. It was then a half-mile course, but was later enlarged to a mile. About a dozen years ago several important harness meetings were given there, but of recent seasons it has been used exclusively by the runners, and had degenerated into a "merry-go-round." Its disappearance from the map is said to be due to the refusal of Mrs. Stevens, widow of its old owner, to grant a renewal of the lease upon it, owing to her religious scruples.

It is reported on excellent authority that at Lexington recently a sensational mile was made by a green paper over the Breeders' Association track. A number of well-known horsemen held watches on the mile, which was made by Erna Bellini, a 6-year-old brown mare by Moquette, dam by Dark Night, which is in the stace of Clem Beachey. Beachey drove the mile in 2:04 flat, but what a cracted most attention was that each succeeding quarter was made in faster time, the last being finished in 301/4 seconds. Speed marvels when least expected are among the things for which Beachey has a reputation.

As an instance of the high prices which are paid in England for good race mares to put them in the stud, it can be mentioned that Sir Tatton Sykes, who paid $50,000 for La Fleche, has recently purchased the dual Cambrilgeshire winner, Hackley's Pride, for $25,000. So far as memory recalls, there has never been so high a price paid in America for a mare immediatery her racing days were over, on the problematic chance of her making

Joseph E. Seagram cleaned up a big bunch of change when one of his horses got home at 12 to 1. That was a good stroke of business. Joseph Seagram is a good sport, and although his horses have had a bad year, they will come back next season all right and clean up on the big circuit. The Canucks had a good season a year ago. As bad a season as this has been they have got down hard on a couple of good things.

Since Association football has taken on a sturier growth in this country, certain funny paragraphers have seen fit to characterize the British sport as something of the milk and water variety. This accusation at once reyeals the fact that the writers have not seen a first-class game. To some of them it would appear that the sport is popular because it lacks the vigor of intercollegiate football. In England and Scotland the Association game came long after Rugby football had held sway for years. The latter sport was for some time quite vigorous enough to suit the most exacting of the critics. In those days it was permissible to "hack" or kick a player over, and many a limb was fractured by a wel-placed kick. This exhilarating feature subsequently was eliminated, and, strange to say, the game increased in popularity. Changes undoubtedly will be made in the intercollegiate rules. and may be followed by a like result. In Great Britain the Association game has outgrown the Rugby in popularity. Intercollegiate football always will have its followers, and, now that the Association code has been given a fair start, it will be interesting to watch its growth. Possibly, like golf, that once derided sport, it may pass beyond the reach of the scoffers.-Chicago

VOTERS INDIFFERENT

Pew Are Taking the Trouble to See if Names Are On List.

City Clerk Baker says that the voters of London are taking but very little interest in the new voters' list, and scarcely a man calls at the city hall to see if his name has been omitted from the list. He says that around election time any man whose name has been left off will be "as mad as a hatter," but that same man will not take the trouble now to see if he has the right to vote. Those who changed their places of residence between the month of May and September are especially urged to see if their names appear on the list. And every man who value his vote should examine the book and see that he has not been overlooked.

They feel that if the children of the country schoolhouses could only see what is being done in the city, their ambitions would be whetted and they would make great progress. Moreover, many of these teachers feel that if the trustees of concession schools could be prevailed upon to go through the exhibit, much good would result to country. Then, too, the very situation is unfavorable. The city lies down close to the sea level and good drainage is difficult.

But with all these advantages, the death rate from consumption or tuberculosis in our city is more than 11.68 in every 100 deaths from all causes, while in the greater London with all its density and other disadvantages, it is only 9.19 in every hundred. Thus it appears that with soil, climate, sparsity of population and social condition in our favor, our death rate from consumption is 2.49 per cent greater than that of the great metropolis.
