WAR MENACE AGAIN LOOMS IN NEAR EAST

EARLY MORNING FIRE AT GUELPH RESULTS IN DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $500,000

Blaze Which Originated At Stewart Lumber Company's Plant Believed To Have Been Due To Combustion — Number of Business Places in Vicinity Completely Destroyed.

Guelph, July 6 .- A fierce fire, which was discovered in a pile of lumber at the Robert Stewart Company, Upper Wyndham street, at 4 o'clock this morning, did damage which is roughly estimated at $500,000. It was brought under control at 7 o'clock. The Robert Stewart Lumber Company, one of the pioneer Guelph industries, established in 1850, lost their entire Wyndham street plant, and their loss is placed at $200,000. Besides the Stewart factory, every building on the west side of Wydnham, from No. 114 to 148, is completely destroyed. These include Candyland, Olympic Bowling Alley, Smith's Furniture Store, Western Millinery Store, G. E. B. Grinyer, electrical business; W. C. Gaetz's shoe store and Wyndham Inn. The blaze is believed to have been caused by combustion, as a slight explosion was heard just prior to the outbreak.

Wyndham Inn. The blaze is believed to have been caused by combination, as a slight explosion was heard just prior to the outbreak.

At Wyndham Inn, to the north of Stewart's planing mills, which was also destroyed, Sheriff Allan and Mrs. Allan, who were living there, together with several families which resided over the burned stores, had barely time to get out. The flames were so fierce that the Wellington Hotel and several other buildings on the opposite side of the street caught fire several times, but the flames were easily extinguished.

All the guests at the hotel were in readlness to leave if it had been necessary. All the plate glass windows in stores immediately opposite the fire were cracked by the heat, and altogether Upper Wyndham street this morning looked hard hit.

At one time it looked as if the whole of the upper business section of Wyndham street would be fire-swept, and word was sent out to near-by places. Help was sent from Hespeler, Preston and Kitchener. The firemen are still playing streams of water on the rulns, but any danger of the flames spreading further is not anticipated.

Paris, July 6.—A highly reliable source reports that Leon Trotzky, Russian Bolshevik minister of war and marine, has been imprisoned by Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik premier, following the congress of the Third Internationale. This congress began sessions in Moscow about a week ago, and it was announced that more than 2,000 delegates from all over the world were present. Early in the session of the congress there were reports that Lenine, and Trotzky had agreed to a compress there were reports that Lenine and Trotzky had agreed to a compression service.

Windsor, July 6.—With no immediate relief in sight the border cities continue to swelter in the hottest spell of weather recorded in years. Early this morning the temperature was rapidly approaching the 90 mark, and indications were that it would equal, if not exceed, the 95 point reached yesterday afternoon. Street heat at different points yesterday was recorded at 108, even in spots where thermometers were partly protected from the sun.

No fatalities from heat prostration were reported in the border cities, and no direct cases of prostration were reported at any of the city hospitals. The warm weather following the heavy rains of the last ten days, has speeded growth in all field crops of the county.

Crops are doing well, despite the heat, for there was plenty of rain before the wind, but otherwise the effect is not ill. of his talks with the Sinn Fein leaders on the Irish situation.

The conference was surrounded with the greatest secrecy, but it is understood in well-informed quarters that it primarily concerned itself with conditions for the possible suspension of hostilities in Ireland. Official circles express belief that a cessation of active operations is almost indispensable as an aid to progress in peace deliberations.

The feeling generally was that today's conference would have a marked influence on the conversations to be resumed in Dublin Friday between Eamonn de Valera, the Republican leader, and representative Southern Irish Unionists.

Mr. Lloyd George presided over today's conference. Among the conference were also Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for ireland; Lord Birkenhead, the lord high chancellor; Edward Shortt, the secretary for home affairs, and A. J. Balfour, ford president of the council.

London, July 6.—By Grattan O'Leary, Canadian Press staff correspondent.—With Gen. Some Real Boxing.

Last evening several baseball games were staged, in which all teams, according to the claims of the players, came out victors. After the ball games were concluded, a boxing tournament was put on, and to say they just "boxed" would be putting it mildly. Quite a number of small boys, not attached to the camp were attracted to the scene and two young lads, 7 and 8 years old, volunteered to put on a sparring bout, and, according to onlookers, Jack Dempsey would stand a "mean" chance in the ring if they were a little older. They boxed for three rounds and wanted to continue to a finish, but were stopped, much to the dismay of the spectators.

On leaving the old Central School, Mr. Wyatt entered the employ of J. & O. McClary, with which firm he remained for many years, learning the trade of tinsmithing. The firm had become known as the McClary Manufacturing Company when Mr. Wyatt left it to engage in business on his own account, but he ever retained the warmest friendship of his old employer. He remained in business for many years, retiring some time ago.

Mr. Wyatt took a deep interest in civic affairs, and served several terms on the board of aldermen and utilities commission. He was a member of Colborne Street Methodist Church and a generous supporter of that denomination. He was also a member of the Masonic Order.

Hayman, "but we witnessed a number in action in Montreal."

"Has Had Experience.

"Well, I have installed boilers for years," commented Trustee Eggett, "and although I have a high regard for Leonard's,I believe that this type would be the best. We could save several hundred dollars by evading the tearing down of a section of the school when installing. In addition to this as a fuel-saver we could gain 33 per cent."

"I understand," interjected Trustee Udy "that the board has no power whatever in this matter, and that it is purely a matter for the architect and the contractor."

"Well, then, if we had no control in the affair I would like to know why four men were sent to Montreal at considerable expense to view this boiler. Was it just to please the architect and the contractor?" questioned Trustee Mrs. Hunt. "I want the 'yeas' and 'nays' on this motion."

Not Opposed To Seeing.

"I am in favor of patronizing home industries," explained Trustee Rowe, "but we should know whether this recommendation is to be final. I do not want to go on record as being opposed to seeing the merits of other makes."

The 41st annual conference of Association of Employed Officers of the Y. M. C. A. of North America was held at College Camp, Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, June 28 to July 1. Among the officials in charge of the conference were: Dr. J. Mott, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Dr. A. W. Beaven, Rochester; R. P. Kaighn, New York, chairman: Fletcher S. Brockman, president; Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Chicago, church representative, and L. Wilbur Messer.

The employed officers of the Y. M. C. A.; Dr. A. W. C. A. of North America present numbered 1,000, including 50 secretaries from Canadian associations. This was the first meeting of the employed officers since the close of the war. doing anything, but Leonard was disorderly.

"What about this fight?" Curtain was asked again.

"It wasn't a fight; we were just rolling around a bit," replied Dan.

Joe, who looked a typical heavy-weight pugilist, was asked to explain his side of the matter.

"I was taking the cool air of the evening," Joe began eloquently. "They started it. When I was fighting with Curtain, his wife hit me a kick in the face. They're jealous of me, that's what they are. They hate to see me get along. They're like the dog in the manger. They won't let the horse eat hay and they can't eat it themselves."

This jealousy alibi refreshed the court's memory, for it brought to mind a similar occurrence some months ago when Joe said that he was going to shake the dust of the lane from his feet.

"I thought you were going to leave?" asserted the magistrate. Although it is six days since Dr. Peter Macdonald officially retired as postmaster, the London office technically still lacks a successor to that office. Elevated to the position on July 1, Deputy Postmaster Duncan is to all intents and purposes postmaster, and as such is fulfilling the duties of the same.

It develops, however, that as yet he has not been properly sworn in. Superlintendent Ross has been expected daily in the city to administer the customary oath of office, but to date neither that official or any of his representatives have appeared.

"I thought you were going to leave?" asserted the magistrate.
"So I will. I'm going to clear out of shack. I'm sick and tired of the whole affair," promised Joe.

Both gladiators took on a more sickly hue when Magistrate Graydon announced: "Ten dollars and costs or ten days."

"I can lick any man on Hyman street, and that means you, Curtain," was the startling straight-from-the-shoulder challenge that Dan Curtain of Hyman Lane swore he received when he passed Joe Leonard's home on his way homeward last night.

This threat dazed Dan for a moment, but only for a moment, for Dan retorted in no uncertain tones: "If you mean me, I'm here!"

"There seems to be a regular pandemonium on this street," remarked the court. "What about this, Curtain?"

"I was defending myself, your worship."

"You apparently did not put up a good defence," stated Magistrate Graydon, looking hard at Dan's face, which resembled a cracked pane of glass.

JAPAN'S POSITION.

Through its ambassador in Washington, Baron statement assuring the United States that the Anglo-Japanese alliance is conceived in the utmost friendliness towards that nation. After referring to the fact that there seems to be a campaign to misrepresent the possible effect of the alliance on the United States, the announcement says: "By no stretch of the imagination can it be honestly stated that the alliance was ever designed or remotely intended as an instrument of hostility or even defence against the United States.

The whole of Baron Shidehara's message breathes a spirit of friendship towards the United States, and it gives the impression that the Japanese Government is eager to maintain peace and concord between the two countries. It is also maintained that there is nothing incompatible between a renewal of the Anglo Japanese alliance and continued Japanese goodwill and understanding with the United States. On the contrary, it is contended, the two ideas are complementary and essential to each other.

It is pointed out that there is a provision in the treaty of alliance, as revised in 1905, to meet changed conditions arising out of the Russo-Japanese war, that neither Great Britain nor Japan would be obliged to go to war with a power with which it has a treaty or arbitra-Another striking declaration in the document "It is the fixed and firm determination of says: Japan to permit nothing to hamper her traditional relations of goodwill and good understanding with the United States."

The significance of a pronouncement of this sort cannot be overestimated. It is meant not only for diplomatic consumption at Washington, but for the American people at large. There is too much reabon to suspect that the same poisonous propaganda which has for its object the fostering of ill-will between Britain and the United States is carrying on the same nefarious work in an attempt to stir up hostility towards Japan. If the sources of this campaign of misrepresentation were traced it would be found that they lay with those nations whose implacability has been strengthened rather than weakened by the Allied victory in the Great War. Both press and public should be careful not to play into the hands of these inveterate mischief-makers by accepting at their face value all the irresponsible rumors about this menace Envy, hatred, malice and all uncharitableness is too often the stock-in-trade of those who pretend to be keeping the world right by bearing false witness against nations.

THE WEATHER.

It appears to be a fixed rule that weather in any country which is abnormal in that country is unwelcome. For example, the Eskimo would not care to exchange the delightfully cool conditions of his lonely igloo for the tropical heat which has been prevailing in Ontario, nor would the Southern Canadian fancy the sudden advent of Arctic conditions at this season. The main reason of this is, of course, that each country looks for and is prepared for certain kinds of weather at particular seasons, and if these conditions do not prevail it upsets the social and industrial routine of the nation. Sickness attacks 123 people, disaster frequently overtakes the crops, and the economic equilibrium of the country is disturbed to an unwonted degree.

The heat wave which has swept over this part of the continent for the past week or more, and which at the time of writing shows no signs of abatement, is having varied effects. It is causing a rush to the lakeside resorts; it is causing an abnormal demand for ice cream and cooling drinks, and it is creating alarm in the minds of those farmers whose land is particularly susceptible to the effects of prolonged drought. It is also remarked that in long spells of dry, hot weather that insect pests of all descriptions multiply exceedingly. But there are other pests as well as these which are coincident with tropical conditions, and there is also the danger of forest fires, one of the most regrettable of the incidents that accompany an arid spell.

It has also frequently been observed that the number of drowning and other accidents increase proportionately to the rise in the temperature. The heat seems to have an unnerving effect on many people, and the absence of coolness in the atmosphere apparently coincides with the lack of it in the individual, with the result that things happen which under ordinary conditions we would never hear about.

Nevertheless, in spite of all these drawbacks, a hot summer is to some people an ideal one, and a comparatively cool atmosphere with copious showers of rain is regarded merely as a state of things that makes picnics impossible, and spoils the enjoyment of a siesta in the family hammock slung in the shade of the trees. The Ontario summer, hot as it is sometimes, has undoubtedly its delights, even when the temperature soars to over 100 in the shade, as it did this week, and these delights are only marred by the thought of how much it will cost to lay in a sufficient store of coal to tide over the winter, for already the longest day is past, and the sun will dip lower and lower until the upward change again is due. We shall then, doubtless, be longing for the genial conditions which we now enjoy and be regretfully looking back ward. So let us make the best of these sultry days and keep cool.

LOUVAIN RESTORED.

The president of Columbia University, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, is in Belgium to lay the corner-stone of the new library at Louvain replacing the great historic institution that was looted and destroyed by the American money, freely given, has provided the new building, while almost every nation is having a part in filling its shelves with the books that will once more make the city a centre of light and learning for Europe. The ashes of Louvain were hardly cooled before one of the great English libraries, the John Rylands Library at Manchester, started, machinery in operation to replace the lost treasures of knowledge, so far as they might be replaced. To all parts of the world the word was sent that the John Rylands Library would constitute itself the center to which books might be sent, and so for over six years there have been gifts coming to Manchester that are steadily being moved over to Louvain, and there opened to the scholars, who are again congregating in this, historic city.

Not all of Louvain can be restored were all the wealth of the world available, because when the old library was burned there perished manuscripts of priceless value that had been there for centuries, the writings of the men who laid the foundations of knowledge when Europe was awakening under the spell of the Renaissance. Some of these old manuscripts may have been taken into Germany by the crown prince's forces, and may yet be recovered, but most, no doubt, are gone forever. It is a loss to civilization for all time to come, one of the great tragedies of the ages.

Cities differ in their glory. That of Louvain was in her books and in the things of the mind. For cen-Shidehara, the Japanese Government has issued a turies scholars have wended their way to this old Belgian city because there they could find the books that they needed. An atmosphere of learning marked city, and to all the ends of the earth its influence through the men who had fine sermon of Dr. McCrae in the First studied there. May the new Louvain, enriched by Presbyterian Church on Sunday mornthe generosity of all nations, continue to radiate light ing, June 26, on "God as Revealed to Us brief, to "get along" with people and and learning into the darkest parts of war-torn Europe, Louvain's restoration so early in the after-war period indicates the recognition that only through science and sound learning may civilization advance, and the road by which men travel be made broad and straight.

ON VIMY RIDGE. On the crest of Vimy Ridge, where so many Cana dians laid down their lives, there has been unveiled a visible reminder of the superb heroism of the Canadian soldiers in one of the most terrible engagements of the war. This monument has been erected in the cemetery where sleep the hundreds of Canadians who fell at the capture of this famous position four Through the care of the grateful French the grass has been kept green, and all around are being planted the maple trees of Canada to caress with their shadows the last resting-places of those heroic sons of the Dominion, and to shelter within their branches the birds that sing their requiem.

The unveiling ceremony took place just as the church bells in the neighboring villages were summoning the people to mass, and was performed by the Prime Minister of Canada in the presence of the leading representatives of the British and French civil and military authorities. In the course of his scholarly panegyric on the deeds of the fallen, Mr. Meighen said that at this time the proper occupation of the living is to honor the dead, to repair the havoc, human and material, caused by the conflict, and to learn aright and apply with courage the lessons of the war. He might have added that help to the living who had braved the horrors of the conflict, and the care of the widows and orphans of those who died, was also a duty which must not be allowed to lapse.

It must be a source of consolation to the relatives of those who thus gave up their lives that the little tract of land on the scarred ridge where they fought manner. It requires, however, no stately monument light as a medium would leave little or or storied urn to keep green the memory of those men, for in the words of the inscription, "Their name to receive it. But don't let the reader Rome to conquer the old civilized liveth for evermore" in the hearts of their country men, but it is singularly fitting that these outward signs of sculptured stone should tell succeeding generations of the great sacrifice they made in the cause of justice and truth.

It is not science, ither, as at that early date there was none. It seems to be a grand poem reation, in which the priestly guided by inspiration through a marvelous mental process, deduces the un-known from the known. The world even human civilization, was old when these matchless creation stories were written. All the great geological epochs and cataclysms had long since passed and the inspired authors looked upon nature just as we view it. Nor is it far-fetched to surmise that the priestly writer, especially in the first chapter of Genesis, deduced the unknown from nature in her methods proceeded from the simple to the complex, and by an inverse mental process he inferred that law and order must have gradually superseded chaos as the original stage. He looked upon the landscape flooded Inferred that the "vanishing point" in his backward view meant darkness as the original condition. In support of this we have the telltale phrase: "And God said, Let there be light." A vacationist heading for the wilds or for a camping trip should not fail to include in his equipment a simple firstaid outfit—but it is not necessary to carry a trailer or an extra wagon to hold the first-aid outfit. A suitable outfit will be described presently. Trouble with most so-called first-aid kits is they are cluttered up with mere fillers, for the sake of appearance or maybe somebody's profit.

Tenderfeet frequently overdo the matter of exposure and suffer with sunburn. It is well to subject the skin to very brief exposures—not more than five minutes of direct sunlight three times a day the first day—and gradually increase the periods of exposure by five or ten minutes daily. When going on the water or otherwise exposing the skin for prolonged periods, keep covered with clothing, or coat the exposed skin with colds cream or zinc oxide ointment and a heavy dusting with talcum powder. This is more comfortable as prevention than effective as cure. British Government Sharp!y Criticized For Reversal of Policy.

LONDON, July 5.—After a debate, continued from yesterday, in which the Government was severely criticized for what was referred to as "the abrupt reversal of its policy." the House of Commons today passed the second reading of the bill providing for repeal of the agricultural act.

In moving the second reading of the bill yesterday, Sir Arthur Griffith Boscawen, president of the board of agriculture, explained that the Government never contemplated such a sudden heavy fall in prices, which, if the agricultural act were maintained, would involve the Government in a heavy yearly subsidy. The agricultural act passed last December, guaranteed minimum prices to the farmer for his produce, and was estimated to entail a subsidy amountage to from £20,000,000 generally.

LACK OF FINANCES HOLDS UP SEWAGE FOR EALING SCHOOL

At Tuesday's meeting of the board

At Tuesday's meeting of the board of education a communication was read from the city clerk, advising the trustees that a lack of ready finances would not permit the city to provide such sewage system as has been resulted to the sewage system as has been resulted for the Ealing School.

"This is a serious problem," pointed out Trustee Hayman, "the school is now well fitted with adequate appliances and there should be some way to have this work done.

Suggestion was made that the board of health be asked to compel action by the city this summer, while a further move that the solicitor be consulted as to the proper action, was broached by Trustee Udy. Trustee Hayman explained that he understood that a petition was likely to be presented by the residents of the Ealing district, and that such might reasonably have some influence on the city council.

"But that does not relieve us of the

"But that does not relieve us of the burden," cautioned Chairman Coleridge. "However, I should advise that we go slowly in the affair at this juncture. We will await the effect of the petition, and then we could resort to Trustee Udy's suggestion to consult our attorney or ask the board of health of take action."

It was pointed out that should nothing be accomplished in the direction of improved sewage system this summer it would result in the closing of the school.

JAIL BREAKERS STILL AT LARGE

Chatham Quintet Believed To Have Crossed the Border.

CHATHAM, July 5 .- No trace has been found as yet of the five escaped prisoners from the Kent County jail, according to a statement issued by Sheriff J. R. Gemmill this afternoon. It is believed, however, that the entire five made their way across the border as soon as they were out of sight of the Kent County jail.

A Government dredge, which has been operading at the mouth of the River Thames, in clearing the boat channels for the past few weeks, will shortly commence dredging operations in the river within the city limits.

Considerable dredging will be done at the rear of the plant of the Dominion Sugar Company, where the water is too shallow for lake freighters. When this work is completed the dredge will deepen the water at the rear of the property belonging to St. Joseph's Hospital, and will then work up into the city as far as the Fifth street bridge.

REFUTES CHARGES MADE BY MACBRIDE

Relief Officer Denies Statement Regarding Check Being Issued.

BRANTFORD, July 5.—Answering a charge made by ex-Mayor MacBride, that the civic relief department had issued a grocery order for $1.11 to a destitute mother and her little girl, Relief Officer Glover today emphatically denied the statement. Mr. MacBride used the supposed incident as one of his arguments for the inauguration of a workers' fund for their unfortunate fellowmen. The relief inspector said there never was an order for less than $4. "Byng Avenue" is the name of a than $4.

"Byng Avenue" is the name of a new township highway which will be opened up shortly. It is the first time that the name has been so applied in this part of the country, where it has been the custom to name streets and highways after great generals or statesmen. The street is one which has been opened up near the golf links. The township council has fixed the taxrate at 18 mills.

July 5.—Pitching superb LONDON ball, Wheeler tossed the Cockney's to Sarnia-Port Huron a 4-3 win over the Hurons in the prepring game of the series at Watkins Hamilton opening game of the series at Watkins Field this afternoon. Some loose work afield by the Hurons was directly re- Kitchener sponsible for the last two runs coming , indirectly through muffs in the infield. McMillan, who started, kept the Londoners' hits well scattered until the eighth, when he was yanked, after Kuhn and Malmquest tripled in succession. Winters replaced him and checked the London rally. The Hurons scored first in the first inning, then Kuhn evened up in the fourth, when he punched a homer over the centre field fence, only to drop back again when the Hurons hammered out another run across the plate.

when the Hurons hammered out another run across the plate.

In the eighth successive triples by Kuhn and Maimquest and an out resulted in two more runs. In the ninth, with two on and two down, and the tieing run on third and the winning run on second, Worley popped out to Stutz, ending the rally.

JUST BETWEEN US

The formation of a central Manufacturers' Athletic Association which would control all industrial athletics in the city, including baseball and hockey, appears to have almost been completed on paper, but inquiry amongst the officers of the Manufacturers' Baseball League, the biggest industrial organization going during the summer, reveals the fact that their co-operation has not been asked, nor have they any information relative to the proposal other than that appearing in the papers. The same inquiry also revealed the fact that they were not any too pleased with the arbitrary manner in which "the committee" have decided to get to work on the proposed organization without even so much as "with your help." As a matter of fact, quite a bit of public opinion can see no crying need for central control of industrial athletics. The Manufacturers' Hockey League, after won the first of the series with Brant- a long struggle, are doing nicely, and are not so badly out of control they can't

This goes still more for the Manufacturers' Baseball League, now playing its schedule through with eight clubs. This league struggled along for several years, Brantford came close to tieing the count, those behind the league actually dipping in their pockets several season as well following "a committee" from nowhere would step in and take control.

This is the way the proposed organization is looked upon by men interested amateur sport, and they seem to have good grounds for their attitude. "If the new organization planned an industrial club on a large plan," said one of the followers of the Manufacturers' League yesterday, "with a large club house, swimming tanks and reading room, or something along that line, then there might be some reason for central control, and it would be a good thing. continued on the downward path, the first half race wouldn't have been such a continued on the downward path, the first half race wouldn't have been such a pipe affair at all. London's string of defeats came at just the right moment for the introduction of the second series schedule. There was more to it than the fans getting fed up on the team's continued winning. The other teams were beaten a couple of weeks back, before they got through batting practice, a bad 30, an open date in the American 0 pipe affair after all. London's string of defeats came at just the right moment beaten a couple of weeks back, before they got through batting practice, a bad situation of affairs for both the London fans and the London Club for that

Bay City Wolves, however, have led the way to a new view of the London eam by the other teams of the league. The majority of them will get into the second half of the series just as hard against London as against any other team in the circuit. Had the London team continued in their winning streak instead of falling into an awful slump, splitting the series wouldn't have had the beneficial result it will have as things are going with the Wetzel crew at present.

Even if the Tecs strike their stride again, and they likely will within the week, the Wolves stuck a pin in the bubble that won't be forgotten for some time. It should have a salutary effect on any of the teams facing the local braves to realize that they've got a chance instead of going on the field prepared for the vorst, as they were undoubtedly doing a while back. The fans are still wondering how it all happened and there is nobody to tell them. It was, and probably is yet, just a plain slump that strikes teams, players, and even ordinary individuals at their ordinary tasks and makes the unexpected in life for everybody. Ring Lardner, writing merely a humorous account of the big fight Saturday in which strict attention to the details was not looked for, succeeded in giving the landing spot of the two blows which sent Carpentier to the canvass in the fourth round, while the fight experts roamed all over the anatomy of the fallen Frenchman trying

Tommy Gibbons, whose brother Mike ently mentioned as ehe next in ine for Dempsey, is one of the most re-markable men the ring has ever known. Of acknowledged championship calibre St. Paul ghost has never challenged the St. Paul ghost has never challenged for the middleweight championship, though he could have beaten, it is conceded, all the champions from Frank Klaus to Wilson of the present day.

Packey McFarland was remarkable too in the same way that he never tried for the title of his weight.

DEMPSEY MUST STRIKE ONE OF THESE ONE DAY

As veteran followers of heavyweight championship competition sat around he ring at Jersey City the other day and watched another title holder battle against another challenger their minds turned back to other contests, other gladiators, other arenas Some bridged the span of years back to the ring at Carson City, in which Bob Fitzsimmons electrified the pugilistic world by wresting the title from Jim Corbett. Some let their memories wander even further back, to the day at New Orleans when the renowned John L. Sullivan, most popular of all champions, was cut and downed by the new sensation, who had been a bank cierk-Jim Corbett of San Francisco.

There is a strange tinge of romance to the ring. Some may call it sordid, some may call it brutal. But romance there is in every tale of a heavyweight title defended—successfully or otherwise. The final minutes of championship fights of the past are of as great interest now as they were on the morning after the fight. Here are some of the most important last rounds:

CORBETT—SULLIVAN. clinching promptly clinching promptly. Getting clear of his man again, Johnson whipped three lefts to the law, and the boilermaker reeled. Corbett steadled himsel. He sent a hard right to the ear and followed with a terrific left to the jaw, and Sullivan sank helpless to the floor of the ring. This time the referee's count was slower, and Jeffries managed to craw to his feet in a dazed and helpless and unconscious, but was too exhausted to rise. The round lasted a little over a minute and a half.

Round 14—Corbett landed that left rigab again on Fitz's head. Fitz countered-with a heavy right swing on Corbett's neck and he had Corbett going back for a few seconds. The timekeeper called the seconds. "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten." Then Corbett came to his feet and rushed to Fitz and endeavored to strike him. George Siler declared Fitzsimmons had won.

Halifax, N. S., July 6.—That the precent system of medical education in vogue in the colleges is turning out occasional "bedside incompetents" and is not conducive to the best interests of the profession in the Dominion was the keynote of the presidential address delivered by Dr. Murdock Chisholm of Halifax, at the public meeting which formally opened the fifty-second annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association here last night.

Dr. Chisholm deprecated the present-day tendency to "spe-cialize" to extremes and sug-gested that medical students spent far too much time on sub jects which were of little or ruse to the practicing physician.

Another slight advance took place in oats on Wednesday, selling at 51c about she land $150 per cwt. A choice load of black oats sold at $155, but $150 is the ruling figure.

The local market this week on the whole will not be so large as generally, owing to the fact that the farmers are cutting hay and wheat, which has ripened this year much earlier than in former years because of the dry, hot weather.

One load of new hay sold at $14 this morning, but the prevailing price will be from $14@16, and for old hay from $10 for may $10 and $8 to $6 and $27 to $10 for $10 quiet affair, did show considerable strength. The downward plunge in Wayagamack, an unlisted stock, appeared to have been checked, and a gain of over 2 points was made on small dealings. Riordon held steady at 13, as did Brompton at 21½. Canadian Pacific gained 1½ points during the morning. Dominion Steel advanced 1½ points, while General Electric, on one small lot sold 2½ points higher at 108½. One lot of 100 shares of Dominion Bank sold at 185, compared with yesterday's asked price of 191. [Reported by Edward Cronyn & Co.]

DEMPSEY MORALLY KNOCKED OUT, SAYS GEO. BERNARD SHAW

New York, July 5.—The New York World today received the following cable from George Bernard Shaw, who had declared that Georges Carpentier was a 50 to 1 bet over Jack Dempsey: "I stand by every word of my article. Dempsey was morally knocked out in the first round, also in the second. Ask Corbett,"

WOMAN ORDERED

Case was tried in the city police court today, when Mrs. Elliott Papse brought a charge against A. J. Julien for holding possession of several of her trunks. It appears that Mrs. Papse, whose husband works in Detroit, has been residing at the Julien home, occupying two rooms, for which she paid $8 a week. She has also been in the habit of using one of Mr. Julien's tables for froning purposes, and recently she damaged the table with the hot iron, which necessitated repairs amounting to $8, which Mr. Julien paid, notifying his roomer that she would be held accountable for the bill.

Keifer during his stay with the Hurons displayed as much "stuff" as any moundsman on the roster. This year was his first in organized ball, and but for the sore arm, which was caused, it is said, by overwork, he would still be with them.

While Mayor E. S. Little of London and Mayor J. V. French of Port Huron stands Tuesday, a foul tip crashed through the wires and landed between the two chief magistrates. No one was injured, as both near victims ducked their heads, and civic bylaws preventing players from knocking fouls into the stands will likely be passed in Port Huron and London in the near future.

Members of the London City Council, along with Mayor Little and local civic officials attending the Canadian Day festivities of the St. Clair Centennial Week in Port Huron yesterday, took in the ball game. They cheered the Tecumsehs to victory, and created a sensation, making almost as much noise as the rest of the crowd which totalled 258 admissions.

previously suggested, if the expenditure were not too great.

Secretary E. Bernard of the club endeavored to get in touch with Mr. Talbot this morning, but that official was out of town. It is Mr. Bernard's desire otget the county's estimate of the cost. If this cost is not too great, the Motor Club will be willing to bear one-third of the cost, which the county engineer claimed would be the city's share if the work was undertaken.

During the prevailing hot spell, the Pipe Line road has become drier and Gustier than ever. At the present time, according to members of the club, there is very little pleasure in motoring to the park because of the choking dust that fills the air.

The suggestion that the road should be ciled was made more than a week ago, when Mr. Bernard stated that the club would endeavor to have the road oiled. Since that time Mr. Talbot has said that the county would be willing to undertake the work if someone would bear the city's share.

Figures secured from City Engineer Brazier placed the cost of the work at $600 a mile, which would amount to a
