AMENDMENTS TO CRIMINAL CODE SOUGHT BY NATIONAL COUNCIL

Senate Came in for Considerable Censure for its Voting of Bill Recently Submitted—Reports of the Officers Were Read at Yesterday Afternoon's Session of Council

Demands for amendments to the Criminal Code, making for a more equal moral code, and censure of the Senate for its refusal to ratify such amendments when recently submitted to it, featured yesterday afternoon's session of the National Council of Women, held in the Y.M.C.A., with well over one hundred delegates in attendance. The session was the first open meeting of this, the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National Council, and, after the submission of reports by the officers, the majority of the afternoon was given over to the discussion of the proposed amendments to the criminal code as regards moral offences, Mrs. W. R. Laing, of Toronto, speaking forcefully on the subject. Last night the delegates were tendered a reception in the Y.M.C.A. lobby, at which a formal welcome to Brantford was extended, and this morning the regular sessions were continued.

Address of Welcome... The meeting was formally opened yesterday afternoon with an address of welcome, read by Mrs. W. C. Livingston, president of the local council. Mrs. Livingston welcomed all present to the Telephone City, recalling the invention of that public utility after which Brantford was named, and expressing the hope that the visit of all might prove a pleasant and memorable one, passing to a review of the progress of the women's movement, she touched upon the granting of the franchise during the past year, a measure which should be exercised for good or for evil. Today, there was but one game for the women of Canada to play, and that was the war game. All should be thankful that they had been spared the fate of their French and Belgian sisters. Conservation and thrift were the two vital questions facing us to-day, and the National Council must lead the way and set an example of sacrifice and economy, by following which the women of Canada might in some small way measure up to the brave men now overseas.

Lady Gibson Replies... A brief reply to Mrs. Livingston's address was made by Lady Gibson of Hamilton, who recalled the organization of the local council, at which she was present. She thanked the Brantford ladies for their unflinching courtesy and kindness to the delegates, and held forth hope that both success and pleasure might attend the convention.

The President's Address... read by Mrs. Torrington of Toronto, explained the curtailment of the length of the annual meeting, in order to assist in the work of national registration. The subject of national enfranchisement was touched upon by the speaker pointing out that the principle had been adopted, although as yet it had been only partially applied. The vote was a privilege, and at the same time a responsibility, and should be employed by every right-thinking woman as the defender of every righteous cause.

"Good citizenship," declared Mrs. Torrington, "means loving your neighbor as yourself, means caring for the well being of the public mind, soul and body. Self-sacrifice was the watchword of the war. The teaching of French as well as English in the public schools, was advocated by the speaker, who considered that the study of music should also form a compulsory part of the curriculum. "Music," Plato had said, "is the finest education a state can give its children, it is a universal language." Prohibition had been adopted as a war measure of human conversation by one after another of the warring nations, and if it were to continue in times of peace, allowance must be made for the indulgence of man's social instincts, in the form of community music and other similar projects. The aims and objects of

WEATHER BULLETIN... Toronto, June 13.—The low area is now centered over the State of Maine with diminished intensity. It has caused strong winds and rain in Quebec and the Maritime provinces. In the west the weather has been fair and warm. "Zimmi"

The National Council of Women thus resolved themselves into three, National, Health, Education and Moral Uplift. In conclusion the speaker referred to her retirement, after a period of six years, from the presidency of the council, assuring her hearers that her years of association with that body would remain among the most cherished memories of her life. Letters of regret at inability to attend were read from the Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Aberdeen, Lady Lauder, Lady Hester and several others. On the motion of Dr. Gillen, seconded by Mrs. Boomer, a message of cordial appreciation will be sent to Lady Aberdeen, honorary president of the Council. Mrs. Stanfield of Truro, Mrs. Lamont, of St. Thomas and Mrs. Brown of Regina, were appointed delegates to the convention. The Secretary's Report was submitted by Mrs. Fairborn of Toronto, who gave a capable summary of the activity of the council during the past year. All had long since ceased, she pointed out, to be astonished at the energy, ability and sacrifice of Canadian women in these war-time achievements of the council were but another exemplification of the fact. There are now affiliated with the National Council fifty-one local councils, and 29 nationally or provincially organized societies. Resolutions bearing upon many subjects had been sent to the government during the past year, and had always received intelligent and sympathetic hearing. During the initial stages of the German offensive in March, the afflicted women and were coming more and more to a realization that "more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." The activities of the Council in connection with the food control and Victory Loan campaigns were reviewed by Mrs. Fairborn, who expressed pleasure that a member of the National Council, Mrs. H. E. Plumtree, had been appointed to the Canada Food Board. She also recalled the representations made for the creation of a Department of Public Health, which would embrace child welfare and care of the feeble minded.

Treasurer's Report... Mrs. George Watt, treasurer of the Council, submitted her annual report which showed receipts of $3842.78 and expenditure of $4,034.50. The necessity of local councils contributing their fair share to the mother council was emphasized, as the failure of one council necessitated a readjustment of all the other levies. The business session adjourned at 12:30 and luncheon was served to the large number of members and friends who had gathered from all parts of the district; after a jolly social time the afternoon session was opened by the singing of the Maple Leaf.

On the motion of Mrs. Frost, seconded by Mrs. Huestis, A. K. Bunnell was re-appointed auditor of the Council. The committee on reports acknowledged receipt of comprehensive reports from the majority of the standing committees. Amend Criminal Code. The committee on Equal Moral Standards made the recommendation that the following alterations be made in the criminal code at the earliest possible moment: That more adequate maximum penalties be imposed for crimes

GERMAN GAINS COUNTER BALANCED

German progress along the Oise River is being counter-balanced by French gains on the western wing of the battle front, which now has been extended to northeast of Villers-Cotterets. The heaviest fighting is taking place along the line from Rubescourt to the junction of the Matz and the Oise, with the French having the advantage on most of the sector. From Rubescourt to Dommiers is almost fifty miles, but in the center between the Oise and Aisne rivers, where the French have retired to a new line through Bailly, Tracy-le-Val and Nampool, there has been no fighting, the French withdrawal having been carried out unobserved. The struggle east of Villers-Cotterets, where the Germans apparently are attempting to force a passageway between the natural defences of the Retz forest and the forest of Compeigne, has not yet developed the great bitterness of the battle west of the Oise.

Although the enemy keeps up his desperate struggles west of the Oise, he has been unable to gain except at the junction of the Oise and the Matz, where he has crossed to the southern bank of the Matz and occupied Melicocq, about five miles north of Compeigne. In the center around Antheuil, all German attempts have been broken up. On the left the French have gained additional ground, despite strong German counter-attacks between Belloy and St. Maur, and have taken 400 additional prisoners. The fighting along this front continues to be of the most sanguinary character. No engagements have yet developed along the new French line east of the Oise. The French retirement was made necessary because the German guns dominated the forests south and east of the Oise.

The French line now lies in front of Laigue, which is immediately north of the forest of Compeigne. South of the Aisne the Germans have made some progress on the plateau west of Dommiers and Curty. The French troops in hand to hand fighting repulsed the enemy efforts north of Curty and immediately south of Dommiers. South-east of Villers-Cotterets the French along the Clignon River have captured Mont Court and the southern part of Brusaires. On the Flanders battlefield the French have carried out raids in the region of Loree. The American sectors have been quiet. In Icardy, German prisoners have been taken by American patrols, while northwest of Toul, the artillery fire continues strong. German army headquarters, in reporting on Tuesday's fighting, says that all French efforts on the left wing were repulsed with heavy losses. As to the clearing out of Belleau wood, northwest of Chateau Thierry, by American marines with the capture of more than 300 prisoners, Berlin officially says: "The assaults broke down with sanguinary losses."

A WONDERFUL STORY OF HEROISM

By Courier Leased Wire. With the French Army in France, June 12.—By the Associated Press.—Night—The defense of Courcelles, on the left wing of the battle front, by the French against attacks repeated day and night from June 9 to June 11 makes a wonderful story of heroism. The village, which is most important owing to its commanding position was for 48 hours almost surrounded by the enemy, but the French held on and when a favorable opportunity came sortied and counter-attacked, repulsing the Germans from the vicinity. The Germans tried every possible ruse as well as force to take the village. The growing crops on the fertile land in the vicinity were a source of considerable trouble to the defenders as the Germans could creep through them until they reached the edge of the village. The enemy also covered their helmets with clumps and grass and weeds and crawled slowly forward. They could not, however, shake the determination of the French to retain possession of the village. The spirit of the offensive was so high among the allied troops that they continued their advance on the left to-day despite the fatigues they had undergone since the beginning of the week. Another batch of several hundred German prisoners was brought in together with numerous machine guns.

FRENCH WOMAN, GERMAN SPY, CONDEMNED TO DIE

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, June 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Brief announcement has just been made that a Paris court martial has condemned to death as a spy Madame M., 37 years old. Her son Noel, sixteen years old, who was accused of being her accomplice, was ordered to be sent to a penitentiary colony until he comes of age. The court martial believed he was too young to be held responsible for his acts. She soon ran through money she inherited and, to obtain more, communicated with a Greek in Spain, an agent of the spy bureau established in Barcelona by the Germans. When mother and son were arrested the boy was just about to engage in the aviator service in order to obtain information to be supplied to Germany. A writer in the Paris Nidi identified the Greek as the head of German propaganda in Spain and director in particular of the services for arranging explosions in factories. He was a regular visitor to a girls' school at Barcelona, where he went to see three little girls whose guardian he was supposed to be. One of them, the youngest, aged about 11, handed over to him

AMERICAN ARMY WILLING TO SACRIFICE IDENTITY

Prepared to Submit to Brigading of U. S. Troops With French and British, if S. such a Project is Deemed Advisable by The High Command

By Courier Leased Wire. London, June 13.—The American army is prepared, if necessary, to make greater sacrifices than that involved in the brigading of American troops with the French and British, declares the correspondent of the Daily Mail with the American forces in France. After recording constantly and deeply expressed regrets among the American troops that more training of the western front, be inactive to assist the French, and the willingness of the Americans to sacrifice themselves if need be, the correspondent says: "This is the spirit of the whole army. I have already seen how the President, with ever-readiness, felt in with the Allied desires to brigade American troops with the French and British. This was a great sacrifice, greater, perhaps, than most people imagine, but I understand that if the events of the next few days and the plans of the Allies should so demand, the United States is prepared for an even much greater sacrifice, and of a character much more dramatic and startling. "I cannot give details, and the necessity may, by good fortune, never arise, but whatever happens, the Allies will always carry a feeling of gratitude for the magnificent spirit with which the United States is taking her part in the war."

EXPLAINS SITUATION. Paris, June 13.—Gustave Hervé, in his newspaper, La Victoire, undertakes to answer the question, which he says reaches him from many readers, why should the remainder of the western front be inactive while the Germans are making the greatest efforts, and why should not the British make a strong attack which would relieve the pressure on the French? The editor points out that General Foch, as generalissimo, disposes of all the Allied armies, British, American, French, Belgian and Portuguese. If he does not move the British forces, it is intended, it may be because there are still heavy concentrations of German reserves before the British front, and that the front must be held solidly. Gen. Foch may also feel able, with the French reserves, to defeat the menace toward Paris. "Our generalissimo," M. Hervé concludes, "knows too well the vital importance, strategically and economically, of the capital to leave it to the mercy of any unfortunate chance."

WOULD PERMIT BRITISH ADVANCE WOMEN TO SIT IN PARLIAMENT

By Courier Leased Wire. London, June 13.—British troops last night advanced their lines a short distance on the Flanders front, in the district southeast of Merris, the War Office announced to-day. The French on this front likewise improved their positions near the Ridge wood. Prisoners were taken in both operations. Heavy Blow. Paris, June 13.—French troops last night struck a heavy blow against the German forces which have been advancing on the eastern wing of the new front of attack. The War Office announced to-day that the French had hurled back the enemy to the north bank of the Matz River. Violent combats continue between the Aisne River and the Villers-Cotterets forest. The Germans have progressed as far as the ravine east of La Basseville, north of Cutry. Daylight Report. London, June 13.—"A successful daylight raid was carried out by us yesterday southeast of Arras," says the day's War Office report. "Heavy casualties were inflicted upon the enemy. One hostile trench mortar was brought back to our lines and two others were destroyed. During the night local operations were undertaken by us successfully west of Merris and east of Dieckebuck Lake."

Repealed. Paris, June 13.—The Germans last night made a violent attack on the American sector, Bourches and Belleau Wood, on the Marne front. The Americans broke up the attack and inflicted serious losses on the enemy, holding all the gains which they had made. After violent fighting the enemy obtained a foothold in Couvreur and St. Pierre-Haigle. To Exempt Incomes. Mrs. Secord also introduced the following motion: "That the National Council of Women recommends that the Assessment Act be so amended that a widow's income, whether earned or inherited, and also income from investment of men and women householders past earning age, be allowed the same exemption from taxation as is now granted to the male head of a household on earned income, namely, $15.00."

Mrs. Hamilton seconded the motion, endorsing the arguments of Mrs. Secord. The resolution carried unanimously. On each visit, several letters which he carried away. These three little girls were French, being the daughters of Madame M.—"The Merry Widow," used to pass on any information that she obtained to her son who wrote it to his young sister, placing it in the middle of his letters, which were never really examined when it was seen that they were letters from a brother, to a little sister at school. NEWS FROM NORFOLK COUNTY

VERDICT FOR DOG OWNERS

In Connection With a Case at Simcoe

Simcoe, July 13.—The County Court continued today to decide whether the Canadian Express Company would reimburse Joseph Church for the loss of three dogs, smothered in their crate while being carried by the company from the London fair last autumn. Two died before reaching Woodstock, and the third there. The dogs were insured for $300, and "beans" were valued at $1,000 by witnesses. They were not the first dogs that had gone under with this same express messenger. His honor charged the jury asking for a finding on three points:

- (1) What was the cause of death?
- (2) Was it due to negligence on the part of the company?
- (3) What was the value of the dogs?

The jury, after one hour, agreed that the dogs were smothered owing to the negligence of the messenger, and were worth $500, $200 and $100, Total, $800.

MUCH INDIGNATION

Much indignation has resulted from the evidence given by one Dr. Fowler of Toronto, on behalf of the company. Fowler, it is said, stated that he had kept a dog in a tight box wrapped in blankets, and with other boxes piled on to test the possibility of smothering, and after five hours the animal was still alive. Members of the local humane society will take the matter up with Toronto, to determine if a canine may be so tortured for a pe-

Thoughts of a Returned Soldier

This from one of the boys who has been through it all, even to being buried alive.

"No doubt there are many people who wonder what are the thoughts of the average Canadian soldier when, after his experiences in the firing line, he approaches the end of the voyage home and gets his first glimpse of his native land.

"Early in February we sailed into Halifax harbor, on board the hospital ship Aragua. At five o'clock in the morning we had our first glimpse of Canada—a faint streak in the early dawn, but sufficient to awaken a feeling of emotion difficult to describe. The bow of the ship was crowded with eager faces, anxious to catch a first glimpse of the homeland.

"A big westerner gulped several times as the shores became more distinct—say boys," said he, "that looks about right to me." Others danced about the decks in glee, while still others went below to pack their kits in readiness to land as soon as possible. It was one parade at which there were no laggards.

"By degrees the land rose out of the deep. Now a church spire appeared, and here and there larger buildings stood out prominent.

"We passed the old signal station and the sight of it reminded me of that October day in 1916 when we went out past that same station aboard the Lapland. The sun on that occasion was setting in a blaze of glory, and many look back to the fading shores for the last time. Did they feel it then? Had they a presentiment of what was to come? For my own part I can only say that I looked back with a certain sadness, but with greater interest in the big adventure which was to come.

"And tonight, in this quiet hour, many of those same lads are quietly resting and peacefully, beneath the mantle of heaven, on in the great cause, waiting for the higher power to decide their destiny."

Young Simcoe Man Honored in Chatham

During the recent visit of Vice Roy, Chatham, Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. The young lady was highly complimented for her ability.

ELECTRIC STORM WAS SEVERE

Missing Farmer Was Found in a Stream

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Simcoe, June 13.—The Tuesday night electric storm was severe. Mrs. Geo. Norton was severely shocked in her home in the north ward when lightning struck a tree in the vicinity.

John McClellan of Villa Nova, found six of his cows lying dead in the field yesterday morning. His first impression was that they were resting.

W. R. McConnell, of Windham Centre, had four fine Holsteins killed. And we do not presume that that is a complete record.

Mrs. Edgington of Tabbot St. south, was considerably shocked by the violence of the storm and was yesterday reported very ill.

Walpole Farmer Missing, Found in Stream

Thomas Shannon, an aged Walpole farmer, missing for some days was found in Nanticoke creek on Tuesday with a stone tied to his neck. The water was not too deep to prevent one wading across. Mr. J. McCallum of Simcoe was one of the four men who went out from Jarvis to recover the body. The face was badly mutilated beyond recognition by turtles, but it is supposed that the body was that of Shannon.

Too Good To Be True

The announcement of a 25 mill tax rate was too good to be true. Chairman Langford has found that an item of $682.42 was duplicated in the estimates and council will meet to-day to make the necessary alteration in the by-law before it is finally signed, and sealed. The rate will therefore be 27 1/2 or 28 mills. More than once this rate has been forecasted in these columns and the 25 mills has been a 48 hour puzzle, we confess up to the moment that the writer detected the error when going over the figures with the clerk last evening.

Two men of considerable municipal and financial experience interviewed Tuesday morning differed widely in their opinions, one professed no surprise at a 25 mill rate. The other said flatly "It is not enough."

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, Ont., June 13.—The vexed question of the throwing the office of moderation open to elders as well as ministers, which took up practically all the last evening's session of the Presbyterian Assembly, leading to heated argument with accusations and denials hurled across the floor of the house, was this morning quietly and possibly given its quietus for another year, when a new amendment to refer the matter to the Presbyteries, to be reported on to the next Assembly, carried.

The announcement that Rev. Dr. Shearer had accepted the position of secretary of the Dominion Social Service Council, which would have seemed to have left no further ground for discussion of his resignation, led to another warm exchange of accusations and counter-accusations this morning.

NEW MOVEMENT.

London, June 13.—The Germans in the Ukraine began a new movement eastward on June 10, according to a Russian Government wireless despatch. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin has instructed Ambassador Joffe at Berlin to complain about the movement which is on a scale of one hundred versts on the Valnik-Zpukovka station front, south of Moscow. It is charged that the movement is in violation of line of demarcation agreed upon by the German Government. The Germans are asked to retire to their old positions.

PROVES INJURIOUS.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Amsterdam, June 13.—The tobacco substitute supplied to the German army has proved more injurious than enemy gas attacks, Deputy Muller of Meiningen declared in the Reichstag on Tuesday. Other deputies sharply criticized the army administration for supplying the army with the substitute, which is composed of beech leaves, says the Koelnische Zeitung.

On behalf of the army administration General von Oven admitted that the substitute had been adopted reluctantly after careful tests, but said its further delivery had been stopped when it had proved to have a harmful effect on the health of the troops.

TO-DAY'S SESSION

ent on taxation at all, it is a manhood and womanhood suffrage," pointed out Dr. Margaret Johnston. Any household was entitled to vote in municipal elections.

"All property owners, or tenants are entitled to a municipal vote," declared Mrs. Seard, "as well as those who declare an income of over $400, for assessment."

"The provincial and federal franchise were conferred without restriction as to income or taxation."

"All our votes should be based on the fact that a man or woman is a human being," she declared in conclusion.

Mrs. Huestis hoped to see the vote placed on an educational basis.

"In the matter of municipal vote there is no discrimination against women," pointed out Dr. Margaret Patterson. "But in taxation of incomes, such discrimination is practised."

"Federal franchise Bill passed the Senate and is now law of the land." (Signed) George Foster.

The above telegram was read by Dr. S. Gullen in explanation of a point raised, whether the bill had been finally passed.

"As we yesterday expressed our indignation at what the Senate had not done, can we not to-day express our satisfaction at what they have done?" suggested Dr. Patterson.

Mrs. Hamilton seconded this suggestion.

"Why should we thank the Senate and not the Commons?" inquired Mrs. Sanford, of Hamilton.

"Let us thank them both," suggested Mrs. Edwards.

Miss Gordon considered that the Council should have been better acquainted with the Progress of the Franchise Bill and should have had more coherent information as to whether the Bill had passed or not.

The following motion, moved by Dr. Patterson, carried:—

"That the National Council express their pleasure that the government of Canada has granted the federal vote to women."

New Councils to Vote? Local councils at St. Catharines, Welland, Galt and Verdun, Manitoba, and the Ontario Women's Citizens' Association, were admitted to affiliation with the National Council.

Lieut.-Col. R. Leonard of St. Catharines, Lieut.-Col. Noel Marshall of Toronto, Mrs. Bulloch of St. John, Dr. S. Gullen and Dr. Grace Ritchie England of Montreal, were created life patrons of the order.

Mrs. Huestis inquired whether delegates from the newly accepted councils would be entitled to vote at the present session. She did not believe that this should be allowed.

Mrs. Huestis held that the new delegates should be allowed to vote.

Mrs. George Watt stated that to grant new councils the vote would be a violation of the National Council's constitution. She had legal advice to this effect.

"Legal opinions may differ," insisted Mrs. Murray.

"We have obtained our information from the recognized solicitor of the National Council, Mr. John Patterson, of Toronto," replied Mrs. Watt.

"No one can say we cannot do this, for we have done it in the past," declared Mrs. Morrison, considering that such a precedent should not be set now.

Mrs. Dayton of Manitoba felt that the lawyer's interpretation was a correct one, and that the new councils should not vote.

Lady Gibson did not wish to see a precedent established now, when new councils had been allowed to vote in the past.

Mrs. Dignan inquired whether Mrs. Watt had explained to the legal adviser that new councils had been allowed to vote for 25 years past. She wished to know what effect precedent would have on the ruling.

"I was not asked to ascertain anything concerning precedent," replied

Mrs. Watt. Mrs. Carpenter asked for a definite ruling from the chair on this question.

"Precedent is not constitution," pointed out Mrs. Watt.

"Precedent establishes law," declared Mrs. Gordon Wright of London, quoting Blackstone, the founder of law. She felt that the question had settled itself.

Mrs. Malcolmson, representing one of the new councils, agreed with the principle that these should not vote, but felt that the privilege should be extended now as it had been for years past, and that the constitution should be more thoroughly followed in future.

"There was no ulterior motive in the bringing up of this question," stated Mrs. Watt.

Mrs. Gordon Wright, seconded by Lady Taylor, moved:

"That, while in full accord with the legal ruling as given by Mrs. Watt, but in view of the fact that precedent establishes law, and that for 25 years new councils have been allowed to vote, be it resolved that we observe that these should not vote, but abide by the constitution of the National Council of Women."

Mrs. Hamilton moved in amendment that the above resolution end at the word "past," and that the precedent be observed in the future as in the past.

Mrs. Watt agreed to withdraw the last clause if the majority wished.

Mrs. Murray pointed out that changes in the constitution were contemplated, and that the Council should not bind itself to any course of action for next year.

Mrs. Wright agreed to withdraw the last clause if the majority wished.

Beauties of the Volga

Wonderfully Described
By Brilliant Russian

THE beautiful and mighty Yermak, Gordyev's steam towboat, was rapidly floating down the current, and on each side the shores of the powerful and beautiful Volga were slowly moving past him—the left side, all bathed in sunshine, stretching itself to the very end of the sky like a pompous carpet of verdure; the right shore, its high banks, overgrown with woods, swung skyward, sinking in stern repose," writes the Russian, as translated from the Russian by Herman Bernstein.

"The broad-bosomed river stretched itself majestically between the shores; noiselessly, solemnly and slowly flowed its waters, conscious of their invincible power; the mountainous shore is reflected in the water in a black shadow, while on the left side it is adorned with gold and with verdant forest, a border of sapphire and the wide meadows. Here and there villages appear on mountain and on meadow, the sun shines bright on the window-panes of the banks as on the yellow roofs of straw, the church crosses sparkle amid the verdure of the trees, gaily windmill wings revolve lazily in the air, smoke from the factory chimney rises skyward on thick, black, curling clouds. Crowds of children in blue, red or white shirts, standing on the banks, shouted loudly at the sight of the steamer, which had disturbed the quiet of the river, and from under the steamer's wheels the cheerful waves are rushing toward the feet of the children and splash against the bank. Now a crowd of children, seated in a boat, rowed toward the middle of the river to rock there on the waves as in a cradle. Trees stood out above the water; sometimes many of them are drowned in the overflow of the banks and these stand in the water like islands. From the shore a melancholy song is heard: "Oh, o-o-o, once more!"

"The steamer passes many rafts, splashing them with waves. The beams are in continual motion under the blows of the waves; the men on the rafts, in blue shirts, staggering, look at the steamer and laugh and shout something. The big, beautiful vessel goes sideways on the river; the yellow scumling with which it is loaded sparkles like gold and are dimly reflected in the water. A passenger steamer comes from the opposite side and whistles—the resounding echo of the whistle loses itself in the woods, in the gorges of the mountainous bank, and dies away there. In the middle of the river the waves stirred up by the two vessels strike against one another and splash against the steamer's sides, and the vessels are rocking upon the water. On the slope of the mountainous bank are verdant carpets of winter corn, brown strips of ground and black strips of ground and for spring crops. Birds, like little dots, soar over them, and are clearly seen in the blue canopy of the sky; nearby a flock is grazing; in the distance they look like children's toys; the small figure of the shepherd stands leaning on a staff, and looks at the river.

"The glare of the water, freedom and liberty are everywhere, the meadows are cheerfully verdant and the blue sky is tenderly clear; a restrained power is felt in the quiet motion of the water; above it the genius May sun is shining, the air is filled with the exquisite odor of fir trees and of fresh foliage, and the banks keep on meeting them, caressing the eyes with their beauty, as new pictures constantly unfold themselves.

"Everything surrounding them bears the stamp of some kind of largeness; all—nature as well as men—live there clumsily, lazily; but in that laziness there is an old gracefulness, and it seems as though beyond the laziness a colossal power was concealed, an invincible power, but as yet deprived of consciousness, as yet without any definite desire, aim, and the absence of consciousness in this half-slumbering life throws shades of sadness over all the beautiful things. Sublimative patience, almost hope for something new and more inspiring are heard even in the cry of the cuckoo, waited for the river by the wind from the 'phoe."

"Seaweed Hay" in France. One of the most important discoveries which French scientists have made since the war began has been announced by a chemist of the Ministry of War—a method of treating seaweed to make of it a forage said to be nearly equal to oats and hay, when fed to horses. Experiments were begun as the result of a threatened shortage of oats and at a time when it seemed possible that the U-boat campaign of the Germans might cut off imports entirely. The seaweed, which grows abundantly along the coast of Brittany, was washed to extract the salts, and when analyzed was found to contain less hydrocarbon matter but more protein than ordinary hay. Tests were made by feeding to a troop of cavalry horses, which gained an average of nearly thirty pounds each in two months, while animals fed on oats merely held their own.

Seaweed as Food. Horses fed partly on an "alimentary seaweed" ration in France (brived) gained in weight and the lymphatics from which they suffered at the beginning of the experiment disappeared.

ADOPT A FURNITURE PLAN!

The Interior of a Home is a Reflection of the Aesthetic Life of the Family

Let your wife express herself, Mr. Husband. Let her plan and figure out a furniture plan which when completed will lead her to say, "I am not ashamed to have anybody see our home."

When a woman can say that and mean it, it proves that some one has put time and thought on planning the furnishing of the home. It may take several years to arrive at the point where her plan is fully worked out. But it is worth the effort. The plan she adopts will, of course, be laid according to the family purse. But is surprising what real study and thought will do toward improving the appearance and comfort of your home.

Editorial...276 Night...452 Business...139

MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1918

THE SITUATION.

Matters on the Western front have largely become a series of strokes and counter-strokes with any German successes offset by the French ditto.

The announcement by General Bridges of the British Military Mission in Washington, which was contained in last evening's Courier, that the United States is now sending troops across at the rate of 250,000 a month, will prove welcome news.

The destruction of an Austrian Dreadnought was a fine piece of work on the part of the Italian torpedo boats engaged. The vessel was one of the Austrian naval division near the Dalmatian islands and the exploit will rank as one of the most brilliant in connection with the naval annals of the war.

A DIFFERENCE.

In the stone age the lords of creation of that period used to seize the women with their hand and drag them to their caves. Resistance bought a tap on the head at a more or less persuasive nature.

At the National Council of Women yesterday afternoon certain of the members figuratively took the members of the Senate by the hair—although it is quite a scarce article in that Chamber—and the things they did to them metaphorically would be almost a shame to relate.

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

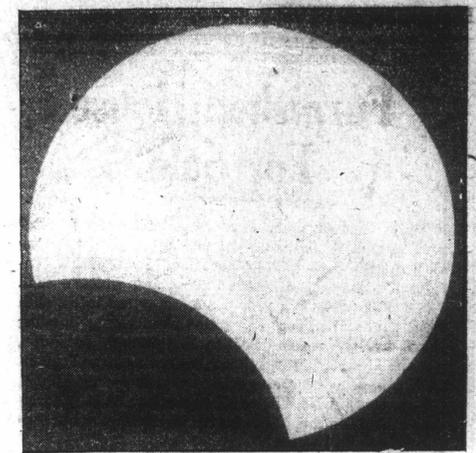

Mr. S. R. Parsons, President of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, during a lengthy inaugural address which he gave at the annual meeting yesterday, referred to the above matter in a very cogent way.

Referring to what the national policy (protective duties) had done for Canadian industry he pointed out that the figures demonstrated that counting those directly engaged in manufacturing and others earning a livelihood by catering to their wants, the grand total was probably over two million persons.

The capital employed is estimated at over two and a half billions. He went into detail with regard to the case of Hamilton, where there was "a total population of over 90,000 (direct and indirect) dependent for their living upon the manufacturing industries," and he added:

"Any interference in any large way with the tariff which now enables those manufacturers to do business would practically wipe out the city of Hamilton."

The same would also be true of Brantford as well as other centres, and Mr. Parsons also struck a note of vital interest to this community when he said:

HOW THE SUN LOOKS IN ECLIPSE. This is a picture of Old Sol as he appeared when photographed at the Meteorological Observatory in Toronto the last time he was in eclipse.

an unfair and unjust measure. We made such representations to the Government that they finally rebated the duty charges on raw materials, but the tractor industry, where hundreds of men were employed and others in anticipation, as well as hundreds of thousands of dollars already invested, has been paralyzed, at all events for the present."

The figures given as to how little a sum the agriculturist really has to pay because of protection of the implements he uses are very illuminating. The loss to his home market, if Canadian industries were crippled by the removal of the duties would total very many times that sum.

DUKE OF BRUNSWICK DRIVEN INSANE BY TEUTON CRUELTY

Saw Russian Troops Driven to Fearful Death in the Masurian Lakes

LOST HIS REASON

Is Son-in-Law of Kaiser, And Member of an Accursed Family

For more than three years past one of the sovereign states of the twenty-odd comprised in the confederation known as the German Empire has been ruled by a woman, the only daughter of the Kaiser. Her two boys are respectively, 4 and 3 years old, and her husband the reigning Duke of Brunswick and of Luneburg has lost his reason and is under restraint with his equally insane father the ex-Crown Prince of Hannover, who has been known throughout the greater part of his life as the Duke of Cumberland, in the latter's palace on the shores of Lake Gmunden in Austria, writes the Marquis de Fontenay.

The young Duke of Brunswick's reason is said to have been wrecked by the appalling scenes which he witnessed in connection with the massacre of Russian troops in the Masurian lakes, when Hindenburg who represents everything that is most brutal, cruel, one would almost say bestial, in the German character, refused to accept the surrender of the Russian divisions who had no munitions or guns left with which to fight, and drove them by the scores of thousands, officers and men, into the swamps and quagmires of the Masurian lakes, where they were raked with shrapnel and machine gun fire in order to expedite their destruction by drowning and by suffocation.

German of the better type who were present declare that they will never be able to get out of their ears the death cries of these ill-fated Russians or forget the frightful scenes which they witnessed on that occasion. That the Kaiser, who has been understood to idolize his only daughter, should have permitted her to wed the young Duke of Brunswick, is incomprehensible. For if ever there has been a family whose footsteps have been dogged by fate with dire misfortunes it is the House of Brunswick.

Misfortunes of the House of Brunswick Many. The Duke was born as a younger son, and he owed his elevation to the throne of Brunswick to the shocking death of his elder brother, who, after having been crippled by the blood poisoning of his leg and hip, which rendered him an invalid from the time of his fourteenth year, was killed and brutally murdered in Berlin and Hamburg about three years before the beginning of the war.

The Duke's father, the Duke of Cumberland, was born as Crown Prince of Hannover, without a nose, and the one which has done duty from his childhood until the present time is an artificial affair for which a strip of skin from his forehead was utilized. It is devoid of bone and cartilage, and before he was intended as a humiliate at the beginning of the war was wont to sway in the wind.

PUPILS' WORK ON EXHIBIT

Fine Display of Woodwork, Art Drawing and Home Cooking

With a fine display of woodwork, metalwork, mechanical drawing and other articles made at the Manual Training School and an equally good exhibition of drawing and paintings made by pupils of the public schools and articles made at the Manual Training School, the girls' household science classes, and the Hall opened its doors last night to the mothers and fathers of Brantford.

The attendance was very large and the Hall was found much too small for the best effect of the displays. As it was the many parents attending showed the great interest by them in the work of their children.

Manual Training School. Of the woodwork, two library tables, two parlor lamps, a gun cabinet, a cedar chest, several work baskets and a number of other articles, the most notable, in the lamps not only woodwork but also electrical connecting and art metal work are shown. In all the articles originality of design was displayed, this being a point in which the local technical school is considered away ahead of the average. In connection with the carpenter class, a model of the local school here the best exhibitions he has seen in the U.S.A. or Canada. This is a fine tribute to the capability of the instructor, Mr. Albert Stevens, several of his miniature reproductions of silver and gold plated articles, and other mechanical devices were shown.

The work on these had necessitated great patience and was mostly accomplished by knife whittling. The proportions were nicely executed and the display of carved knives and other blades was especially presented. These had been an illustration to the boys of the grains of wood and showed what patience is in their modelling.

There were many other displays and many articles, though equally good could not be shown owing to lack of space. The mechanical drawing display, though this is a subject in which there is not the activity there is in woodwork, nevertheless showed covers and patriotic posters were shown. These were of such subjects as food conservation, etc. In all the art work made a very fine display, representing the work of almost 900 of Miss Shannon's own pupils and several hundred others.

MANUAL TRAINING EXHIBITION. The Household Science classes had a fine display of sewing, and cooking. The girls of the Sr. III classes of the pupils of grades Sr. III to Jr. IV and Sr. IV. There was a large number of drawings and other articles. There are several classes and of these first in order were the nature sketches. Object drawing was another class and of several nicely executed fresh and original drawings were shown. Figure drawings, neatly done in charcoal, water color, or brush and ink were next in line, these including various designs for cushion patterns, plates, bowls and cloth patterns.

In the color work the three low in which the Duke had become involved. A year afterward the Duke of Cumberland was walking down St. James' street, when suddenly an aged woman, arrayed in Swiss costume of the Canton de Valais, went down on her knees before him, and, apostrophizing him as the murderer of her son, called down the most appalling curses upon him and his successors until the fourth generation, before being seized, and removed by the bystanders. It remains to be seen whether the bone of the old woman's curse has at length come to an end and whether the two little boys of the unfortunate Duke of Brunswick and his wife, the only daughter of the Kaiser, will escape its blight.

CHAPTER XXIX A Period of Anxiety. Donald had been very ill, and was peevish and ailing for some time. I was completely worn out with nursing him, loss of sleep and the care of little George. Mother came out and took George home with her, hoping to relieve me. I realize now that during this time I was fretful and cross, my nerves were strained to the utmost, and I magnified every untoward circumstance. "Don't wait dinner for me tonight," Bob said as he left the house about a week after Donald had been pronounced out of danger. "I am going over to see Miss Riggs."

"Why Bob you wouldn't leave me now, would you?" "Why not? Why shouldn't I keep my engagement? Donald is all right, and there could be nothing else to keep me."

"But I shall be so lonely! I am so tired and worn out." "Nonsense! If you are tired go to bed. If you are lonely have Mrs. Baldwin come in and spend the evening with you."

"You'll be back to-night?" "No, she is going to put us up for the night so that we will have time to discuss the manuscript." "We'll who else is going?" "Kendall, of course! It was he who got you to leave me; oh, how I dislike that man."

"John had absolutely nothing to do with my going. I am going because I want to, and because it gives me the relaxation I need after my work in the office." "It should think it would be just as much relaxation to stay at home with me and read in your own library as to go and spend the evening reading somewhere else. Why in the est grades are taught the bare rudiments of color. The shades and hues are later taught and above the Third Book pupils are taught how to soften colors. Lettering is taught in all the classes. The juniors begin with single line capitals and as they pass to higher classes learn double strokes for colored letters. Later they are taught to outline colored letters. Several striking designs for book covers and patriotic posters were shown. These were of such subjects as food conservation, etc. In all the art work made a very fine display, representing the work of almost 900 of Miss Shannon's own pupils and several hundred others.

RECEPTION HELD IN HONOR OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL

The Visiting Delegates Were Welcomed at Social Gathering Last Night

The lobby of the Y.M.C.A. was a veritable bower of flowers and a blaze of gay colors last night, on the occasion of the formal welcome rendered the members of the National Council of Women in annual convention here. The capacious building was filled to its utmost capacity with Brantfordites and visitors, east rubbing shoulders with west and north meeting south face to face, and the home citizens extending the welcome hand of friendship to the distinguished strangers within their gates. Formal addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor MacBride and W. P. Cocksbutt, M.P., and musical numbers contributed to the evening of the evening, and a bevy of fair maidens served dainty refreshments.

Mayor MacBride, "It is my special privilege," said Mayor MacBride, "to welcome you on behalf of our good city, and I take particular pleasure in knowing that it is for Brantford that you have your convention here. He went on to laud the part taken in every variety of war work by the women of Brantford, who had persistently backed up the men overseas. Brantford was justly proud of what her men had done at the call of the empire, but the women had been equally heroic and self-sacrificing.

Mayor MacBride pointed out that he had years ago allied himself with the movement for equal suffrage and believed that the women of Canada now that they had received the vote, would exercise a purifying influence on the national life. The National Council of Women had been termed the second parliament of Canada and whether this was true or not, His Worship affirmed his confident belief that the organization was destined to become a great moulder of public opinion.

The watchword to-day was "Carry on," the speaker said, "and was not fully in accord with the government, but he stood at their backs, as all should, until the war was won.

To the ladies he commended the duties of endeavoring to secure industrial peace, for the duration of the war and as long afterward as possible, and to endeavor to be profiteering which he declared an influence that would undermine our national life and divide our efforts when they should be united. "It is well that women should take part in national affairs," declared His Worship in conclusion, "but far more important that they should not allow their minds to suffer for it is that which is the very foundation and basis of a successful nation."

W. P. Cocksbutt, "I desire," said W. P. Cocksbutt, M.P., "to extend to the delegates of the Women's Council a hearty welcome to the Telephone City.

"This, I believe, in the first time that we have been honored with the general meeting of the Women's Council, and Brantford and its citizens appreciate this honor very highly. Brantford is a city of industrial and historic interest, where a good measure of contentment and prosperity reigns. It is a city also that has taken a full share in the war and contributed very largely both in men and means for the advancement of the great cause for which we strive.

"Allow me to call the attention of the delegates to objects of interest which may be found within our confines. We have three monuments of more than usual merit, in an artistic way, and also outstanding in respect to the subjects commemorated. Our schools and educational institutions are a source of pride to our citizens. Our hospitals are well appointed and pretty fairly well up-to-date, while we are also favored as being the home of the Ontario Institute for the Blind, and also have for long been the headquarters of the work of the New England company at the Mohawk Institution. All of these are well worthy of a visit from you providing time will permit, and in addition the historic church of the Mohawks, and the Bell Homestead, the scene of the telephone invention, are very interesting spots, and I trust that many of your delegates will find the necessary time to visit them.

"Speaking to a body of such intelligence and so representative as this one is, I feel it a great honor and not an easy task. Therefore, my words I hope will be few and well chosen.

"This century belongs to woman in a greater measure than any of the preceding centuries. Recent events have undoubtedly broadened woman's sphere enormously. Indeed to such an extent that at this moment you are the greatest factor in the nation, inasmuch as you still control our homes, while in public matters and national policies your voice ranks equal with that of men.

"Canada at a single step has now enfranchised all women in the same terms as men. This has been accomplished suddenly and with scarcely the slightest struggle, a feat at which we may all rejoice. This franchise, while a great privilege, also brings a great responsibility, to which you feel sure you all desire to be equal.

"In pursuing your agenda I perceive, as is to be expected, you devote a large measure of attention to moral and social questions. This is natural, as women have long been the leaders in these respects. No doubt you will come to wise and well-considered decisions on all questions with which you deal. It would not be advisable for me, even if time permitted, to express my own opinions on all the subjects on your program. I might, perhaps, be pardoned, however, if I make one exception, and state that now that the franchise is granted to women, the logical outcome should be eligibility to women to become candidates for all public offices to the same extent as men. Qualification to vote usually means also qualification to compete for office. Woman's work in the war marks her as fit to hold the highest position in the gift of the nation. In my opinion this concession is coming soon.

"At this point, however, I am going to risk giving a little advice which I trust you will look upon with respect even if you do not agree as to its wisdom, or fitness. That suggestion is, that you begin also to include in your discussions and studies, material questions such as financial and trade matters, transportation policies, labor conditions, methods of revenue production, economical administration of public funds, and scores of kindred subjects which have so much to do with our national stability and well-being.

"To speak quite frankly, men's fear of woman's franchise has been based largely on the idea that women would make some question of moral or social reform the all-important factor in a national election, and forgetting for the moment all material considerations, vote only on the one momentary impulse, and thus cause an upset in many weighty public and nation-wide necessities. If women are to become members of municipal, Provincial and Dominion legislatures, they must become students of all matters of public policy, because when a vote arises, an intelligent and well-reasoned opinion is the greatest asset a member can have.

Your Council, while devoting your attention largely to home affairs, will not, I feel sure, forget the terrible crisis through which we are at present passing and bend every effort to the winning of the war and the adjustment of our conditions when peace finally comes. The returning soldier and his family should be the foremost object in our efforts and thoughts.

"I must not sit down without saying that Brantford's leading women, many of whom are connected with the Women's Council, we feel are a great credit to our comparatively small city. Our women are strong, capable leaders of public opinion and have been forward in every good work during these past strenuous years.

"In conclusion, may I wish that your meeting may be a most pleasant and profitable one, and that you will make yourselves at home in our city and go away finally with only pleasant memories of a that has been said and done during this important gathering."

EXTENSION OF BOUNDARIES

Is Discussed at a Board of Trade Meeting

An important and interesting meeting was held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening to consider the question of extension of city boundaries. The meeting was called under the auspices of the Board of Trade and consisted of members of the city council, parks board and representatives of various sections of the city.

An outline map showing the boundaries and main thoroughfares was prepared by Mr. Lee, showing the suburban area. Mr. Lee gave statistics of population and acreage. Mr. T. Harry Jones reported what had been done by previous committees, especially by that appointed by the city council in 1913.

A discussion of the matter was then taken up by Messrs. W. B. Preston, Fred W. Frank, Chief Slemm, Geo. A. Ward, Frank Cockshutt, Aid. Harp, Fred W. Ryerson, Logan M. Waterous, Aid. English, George Harris and others.

There were no resolutions submitted. The opinion prevailed that no great extension should be encouraged at the present time, but that petitions for extension of the city limits to include the suburban districts of Eagle Place and Terrace Hill be heartily welcomed.

The following were appointed a committee to consider the whole question and report to the September meeting of the board: Mayor MacBride, T. Harry Jones, W. T. Henderson, A. K. Bunnell, Geo. A. Ward, Geo. Harris, W. B. Preston (convenor), Aid. English, A. G. Ludlow, R. M. Lee.

The committee will meet next Wednesday afternoon to organize, after which the committee will motor around the city. In addition to the above mentioned, the following were present: Aid. Burrows, W. R. Vorey, Geo. G. Scott, C. L. Gamble, T. G. Boles, G. Breton, D. Suen or Large, John Allan, G. Hatley.

The attempt to speed up airplane construction across the border has resulted in a falling off of 20 per cent. E. R. Stettinus, banker and assistant U. S. HOW THE BIG RECORDS ARE MADE. A riveting machine is distinct from the air gun of the riveter. It is with these machines either pneumatic or hydraulic power driven, says experts, that the riveting records are made; and the records, it is stated, are made on straight work where the rivets are easy to get at. The riveter on these machines operates a lever, while the riveter on ordinary work uses an air-gun with his hands. The machine shown is driving rivets inside a manhole.

against morals. That it be made a criminal offence for a female to live on the avails of prostitution. That some law be enacted by which the owner may be made responsible for the use of his property for immoral purposes. That adultery be made a crime. That equal protection be afforded the unfranchised Indian woman with that offered the white woman.

That a Dominion board of censorship for motion pictures be appointed, in order to control censored material, and that women be included on the personnel of the board. Supplementing these recommendations, Mrs. Burrows, convenor of the committee on Equal Moral Standards, introduced the following resolution:

That we desire to express our profound disappointment at the action of the Senate in rejecting the amendments which had received the assent of the elected representatives of the people. We request that the government re-introduce the amendments at the next session of parliament and force the issue with the Senate.

Mrs. Laing. Mrs. Laing addressed the Council in support of the above recommendations, declaring it time that the women of Canada made it clear to the government that they would tolerate no longer the present moral code. She expressed satisfaction with one clause of the recent amendments, authorizing the removal of children at any age from an immoral home, but also voiced strong disapproval of the proposal to exempt men under twenty-one years of age from punishment in cases of seduction. The present minimum age was eighteen. This proposal, however, had been defeated, and she urged raising of the age of consent, in the case of a girl, from sixteen to eighteen. This last amendment had been passed by the Commons, but the Senate refused to ratify it (cries of "Shame") and the Commons declined to re-open the question.

"Women all over Canada," declared Mrs. Laing, "are protesting against this legalizing of the double standard." Passing to a review of the law as it now stands, Mrs. Laing pointed out that for seduction of a girl under fourteen, a maximum sentence of life imprisonment, with the lash, may be imposed. Seduction of a girl over 14, but under 16, is punishable with two years; for that of a girl over sixteen, there is no redress, except when the accused is a guardian or employer. In these cases, protection is afforded until the age of 21 years. Domestic workers not protected as were other working girls, from their employers, and should be placed upon an equal footing.

The utter inadequacy of the sentences which can be imposed for these offences was next touched upon by the speaker. An employer who seduces an employee is subject to a maximum penalty of two years, but if an employee steals from her employer, in the same offence, she is liable for a term of years. For seduction, the maximum penalty is two years; for theft of cattle, fourteen; for attempted harm to trees or shrubs, five years. "Is this a state of affairs which should exist longer?" demanded the speaker. "Let us wish to create a storm of public opinion which will at least make the judges impose the maximum sentences."

One of the reforms now sought was the raising of the age of consent from fourteen to sixteen years. The fourteen year age was a disgrace which existed to-day only in Canada, Austria-Hungary and Germany. Another amendment sought would make adultery a crime, and yet another would penalize false registration as husband and wife. "If we women, as citizens," declared Mrs. Laing, "are to be responsible for their existence," she said, "we must be able to give our tacit consent, and become responsible for their existence."

Consent for Senate. "What are we to do with the Senate?" inquired Mrs. Torrington, "if they refuse to pass the amendments, what action can be taken?" Mrs. L. A. Hamilton moved an amendment that the council add an expression of profound indignation at the Senate's action to the resolution introduced by Mrs. Patterson. She felt that a protest should also be made against the refusal of the Commons to reopen the matter. Dr. Patterson expressed the hope that the Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, and the Commons were at the present time very friendly disposed toward the amendments, and the advisability of doing anything to antagonize them. She felt that appreciation of the Commons' action in passing the bill should be expressed. Mrs. McWilliams considered that too much indignation was being focused on the past, and that the efforts of the council should rather be devoted to another endeavor to have the bill passed. Mrs. Torrington inquired whether the bill could be passed if still opposed by the Senate. Mrs. Hamilton replied that it could if again ratified by the Commons. Such a precedent had never yet been set, but the Commons had the power to enter a protest against the action of the Senate, and she considered that the present issue was one which merited such action.

Mrs. Fowler suggested that the women of Canada intimate to the Government that it would not receive their support again if it allowed the Senate again to reject the bill. Mrs. Wright declared herself in strong alignment with Mrs. Hamilton, and felt that as citizens, the women of Canada now had a right to enter a protest against the action of the Senate. She urged the creation of a public sentiment which would force action on the part of the law-makers, and declared that the Council justified in voicing its righteous indignation at the failure of both Commons and Senate to measure up to them.

A resolution submitted by Mrs. Stead, chairman of the Committee on the Care of the Mentally Deficient, asking all local Councils to have a women representative at all court trials where women or children are concerned either as defendant or complainant, was carried. Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. McWilliams, Miss Mowat, Mrs. Murray and Miss Dennison were appointed a committee of conservation. Interest themselves in the promotion of community singing and music. Local Councils were also asked to urge on their Provincial Government no trouble would be found in foreign population of Canada in the ideals of Canadian citizenship.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a ready-made preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness by darkening your hair with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After repeated application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft, and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

J. M. YOUNG & CO. NURSES OVER HERE NEEDED OVER THERE If They Only Knew How Much, There Would be no Trouble in Recruiting $25,000 Miss Mabel T. Boardman of the American Red Cross, who has just returned after a six weeks' survey of that organization's work in France, Italy and England, said in New York that if nurses in the United States only knew how they are needed over there no trouble would be found in recruiting the desired number of 25,000 by the first of next year. "We need American nurses in every French hospital," she said, "because many of our boys who are fighting with the French will inevitably be taken to those hospitals, and some one who speaks English will be needed for them. "No one who has not seen the vast numbers of wounded being brought in at one time can realize just how many nurses are needed to care for them. In one afternoon I saw 500 wounded taken into one base hospital—and that was not during the severe fighting. Nurses can do so much to relieve the doctors. Often when there are so many, the boys have to wait longer than they should for attention. If the nurses were plenty they could be cleaning and bandaging the wounds while waiting for the physicians. Such attention in many cases saves an arm or a leg, even a life. "Then, too, it is hard to realize the length of time and the number of workers needed to change the bandages on wounds every day. If more nurses' aids were employed, the trained nurses would have more time to devote to the more serious cases. Practical aids can help much in feeding the soldiers, and working under the nurses' direction. "One hospital I visited the women nurses had made cheerful and attractive with flowers. I saw one Boche helmet hanging between two beds filled with growing forget-me-nots while other flowers were growing out of cans covered with bright cloth or old hats." Miss Boardman told of seeing refugees streaming into Paris and of the difficulty the Government has to find places for them to live. Many half-finished buildings have been completed by the Red Cross for the refugees. Reinvestigation of all draft classification in the States will, it is said, shift another half million into Class C. Women doctors are demanding control of the New York Medical College and Hospital for Women.

Another Arch-Traitor Tried to Sell Country And Pays the Penalty

THE evil that Bolo Pasha did will undoubtedly live after him, for it is going to be a long time before the allies can be sure how far his intrigues reached.

He was identified in several enterprises which failed and then he drifted to Paris, where in 1894 he was convicted of abuse of confidence and swindling.

BOLO PASHA. Bolo Pasha, who was convicted of abuse of confidence and swindling, was later sent to Valencia, Spain, where he conducted a cafe which was frequented by the French colony.

Following the flight of Abbas Hilmi to Switzerland in 1915, Bolo met him at Zurich, in company with the then German Foreign Minister, Gottlieb Jagow, and an arrangement was made to turn over to Bolo a sum of ten million marks, to be paid in instalments through the former Khedive, for the purpose of influencing the French press.

In February, 1916, Bolo came to America. The Deutsche Bank of Berlin is said to have turned over to Bolo a sum of 10,000,000 francs, which was deposited in this country, at least nine banks figuring in the records of the case.

Bolo was arrested on Sept. 23rd, 1917, for receiving money from Germany for use in peace propaganda.

The activities of Bolo and other alleged instruments of German propaganda in France were given the general term of "Bolsism," and the general trend of comment in legal, journalistic and political circles after Bolo's conviction were: "With Bolo's death, Bolsism will die."

His Appreciation. "Devoted to his wife, is he not?" "Oh, yes! Why, he always speaks as highly of her as if she were a dove."

ARMY CLOTHES
NOT HYGIENIC
Physician Says Soldiers are Hermetically Sealed from Heel to Chin

Uniforms as worn by our soldiers
to-day come in for severe criticism from Dr. Walter B. James, of New York, in an article in the Medical Record. Those of our soldiers are far more hygienic, he insists, while those of the Scots are better still,
those of the ancient Roman soldiers were almost ideal and the scant dress that is the feminine fashion of the day is best of all.
Dr. James points out that the source of the body's energy is the blood, that the distribution of the blood is regulated by the vaso-motor nervous system, and that only when this system is regularly drilled by changes of temperature can it be relied on to prevent the local congestions that are the first stages of inflammation.
This system, he contends, can best be exercised by exposure of the surface of the body to changes of temperature. As evidence in support of the truth of this assertion he cites the fact that the hardest and most productive workers are and ever have been those that lived in the stormiest climates.
Foolish to Shield.
Therefore, he contends, we are foolish to shield ourselves from all atmospheric changes by over-heating
our houses and shielding our bodies in heavy wraps and furs. For when some sudden alteration against which we cannot protect ourselves arises then our natural protective apparatus, having become sluggish and inefficient, is caught napping
and we get sick with "colds," bronchitis, pneumonia and such diseases.
Women, he says, whose costume is regulated solely by the occasion and not all by the season or the weather,
are far less liable to colds, catarrh, pneumonia and bronchitis than are men.
Short Skirts.
"Women are superior to the weather, while men are its slaves," says Dr. James. "It is only necessary to note the size and character of the woman's pocket handkerchief, as compared with the man's and the woman's scanty need of it, except as a trinket, as compared with her husband's slavish dependence upon it, to convince one that as far as the upper respiratory tract goes the so-called irrational dress of women has been attended with no increase in throat maladies among its devotees,
and there is good reason to believe that as the daytime dress of the sex approches more and more closely to that of the Scotch Highlanders so will they in their bodily vigor and resistance to the weather approach more and more closely to that most hearty and vigorous of all people.
"It is chance, therefore, that has given to modern women the healthiest of all costumes, and it is to be hoped that such imitation of men will not lead the other sex to adopt their irrational and unhygienic mode
of dress.
"But nowhere is the irrational in dress more striking than in military life. The chief points in the army uniform that seem not to be in accord with the principles before demonstrated and which prevent free contact between the skin and the air, which is necessary for health, resistance to disease, and for efficiency are the close-fitting woollen and often padded coats which must always be kept closely buttoned;
the high, close-fitting collar, the woolen puttees resembling the bands in which the legs of infants were swaddled in a former and more barbaric age, and the regulation which necessitates the constant wearing of the hat or cap when out of doors.
The modern soldier is almost hermetically sealed from the soles of his feet to his chin.
Naval Uniform.
"From the point of view of modern science the clothing of the navy is far more rational than is that of the army—at least as far as the man of the line is concerned. It would be interesting to know whether the health of the former is less good than that of the army. The open front blouse and the bell-bottom trousers flapping in the wind secure at least a moderate exposure of some part of the body.
"We have taken thousands of young men from evil costume and have put them into garments from which any doctor of wide experience and common sense would remove a

Women Must End War.
Martha Poole Crow, noted American educator, has written to Gertrude Atherton, giving an account of a recent conversation with a prominent German social democrat, whose words furnish striking corroboration of Mrs. Atherton's predictions in regard to Germany. The German, Mrs.
Crow explains, had served fourteen years in the Kaiser's army as a surgeon, and had been near to the Imperial family. He had only been away from the front five weeks.
"Will the war end?" was the question put to him.
"Will the women of Germany decide to have it end?" was the reply.
"The allies will undoubtedly win the war. The trouble is, the German people have become slaves of a fixed idea, that unless Kaiserism prevails Germany will become once more a system of dependencies. The war will end when German women realize it is they who are bearing the burdens,
making the sacrifices, — sacrifices which serve no end. Then they will demand a change and the change
will come."

BRITISH FARMER
A SKILLED MAN
Duke of Marlboro Warns Against Over-Taxation
of the Agriculturists

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, June 12.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—"The British farmer is the most skilled agriculturist in the world," said the Duke of Marlborough, in an interview here, discussing the new increase of tax measures directed against the farming classes.
"The war period has brought out the value and virtues of the British farmer as never before," continued
the Duke. "His farmer has lost his skilled men, and the difficulties
due to the war have made his pursuit more and more irksome, but he has made a supreme effort, and the results have exceeded all expectations."
The Duke declared that overtaxation of the farmer would be a great national disaster. "The farmer
is not a profiteer," he explained.
"In my opinion, profiteering as applied to agriculture does not and never has existed in this country.
Those who accuse the farmer of profiteering have little or no knowledge of conditions. Labor, feeding stuffs and machinery have all advanced in a manner out of all proportion to the extra profits reaped by the farmer. To-day the farmer's net margin of profit on his investment does not exceed ten or twelve per cent."
The question is, what does the government consider a legitimate profit for a man who stakes the whole of his capital on an industry
in which he also expends the whole of his labor and abilities? At this age, and the farmer's profits are in excess of that sum, then he may be accused of profiteering, but not
of it."
In industrialism the returns on capital are higher and the risks many times less. For this reason people prefer to invest in industrial enterprises, where they obtain a larger return without working for it rather than in the soil. If home-grown food matters, then the profits gained from agriculture should be in relation to the profits gained elsewhere."
The success of the British farmer's labor during the war, in the Duke's opinion, is due very largely to the loyal support of women workers. "The women and workers have toiled splendidly," he said.
"They have filled the gaps on the farms, and considering that they have hitherto had no experience in agricultural pursuits, they have shown an extraordinary aptitude for the work. To use a well-worn statement of mine, women can supplement the men, but they cannot supplant them. We are not an agricultural people, an agrarian people. Our women are not fitted to toil on the land in the same way as the French, Italian and the women of Spain."
"It would be futile to suggest that the time will ever come when British farmers can hope to supply the entire needs of our population. At the best, we can hope to supply ment the supply in such a way that our dependence on other countries is many times less than was the case
in pre-war days."

TO SAVE THE HAY CROP
Efficient Machinery and Careful Cutting Required.

Spraying for Potato Blight Begins—
By Using Bordeaux Mixture and
Paris Green Increased Potato Crop Will Be Harvested.
(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)
In a season of labor scarcity haying is a problem on the average farm. It is necessary to make use of all the modern machinery available in order to expedite the saving of this important crop. First, then, we must emphasize the use of machinery in curing and storing.
Men are not to be had in plentiful supply, but, in most cases some form of co-operation may be resorted to
in order to obtain the use of tedders, hay loaders and horse forks to handle the bulk of the crop. By all means plan to use machinery in place of men this year or otherwise considerable of the crop will not be harvested in the best possible condition.
It is usually safe to cut after a rain when the weather appears to have cleared. Red clover should be cut when about one-third of the heads have turned brown. The ted-der should then be used until the crop is dry enough to rake—a period which will vary according to the weight of the cutting, the weather
and the amount of sap in the stalk.
While it is possible to make slightly better hay by soaking up, this will be a practice of doubtful value this year in view of the labor shortage. Gather with a side delivery rake if possible,
or in small windrows with an ordinary dump rake. The hay loader works best with a small windrow.
By all means use a loader if possible
and to facilitate matters a sliding rack may be used so that when one half the rack is loaded it may be pulled ahead and the remainder loaded.
We mention red clover because it is the commonest and most satisfactory hay crop, and is used in all general farming hay mixtures.
Timothy should be cut either after the second blossom has fallen—generally the latter. It will require less fodder than clover, is more easily cured and makes a better hay.
After cutting, do not let it get too
ripe and woody.
Alfalfa should be cut when the young shoots are noticed starting out from the axils of the lower leaves of the stalks, and should be handled much like red clover, only greater care is necessary to preserve the leaves, a very valuable portion of the plant. Wade Woods, Ontario Agricultural College.
Spray for Potato Rot.
Late blight and rot is the most destructive disease of potatoes in Ontario. In wet seasons it frequently destroys a very large proportion of the crop and causes a loss of many thousands of dollars to the farmers of the province. This is a large extent a needless loss, for "late blight" and "rot" can be prevented by timely, thorough and intelligent spraying with Bordeaux mixture.
Directions for Spraying.
Spray with Bordeaux mixture,
strengthened to 5 pounds of copper sulphate (bluestone) and 4 pounds of lime to 40 gallons (imperial) of water. Commence spraying when the plants are from five to eight inches high, and repeat the spraying with Bordeaux throughout the season.
Forty to 100 gallons of the Bordeaux mixture will be required for each application, the amount to be used depending upon the size of the plants. Take special care to see that the spraying is very thoroughly done
if the weather is at all damp about the 15th of July, as blight often begins at this time. Add a poison when necessary for potato beetles—arsenate of lead paste, 3 1/2 lbs. to each 40
gallons of the liquid spray, or Paris green to 40 gallons or a mixture of 2 lbs. of arsenate of lead paste and 1 lb. of Paris green to 40 gallons. From three to seven applications should be made, depending upon the season, the weather and the weather the larger the number. Do not stop off spraying because it looks like rain. If the spray is on the plants, half an hour before the rain comes it will be dry and sufficient of it will stick to prevent infection, which takes place during or soon after rain.
Spraying as described above should prevent not only late blight and rot
but also early blight and potato beetles. For late blight and rot only,
it is not necessary to commence spraying until about the 10th of July, but in Ontario it is usually advisable to spray for all three.
A hand pump barrel sprayer can be used for small lots of potatoes.
Most men who grow any considerable quantity of potatoes consider that a power potato sprayer is a good investment. The best results from spraying are obtained with machines fitted with T-joint attachments so as to insure covering both surfaces of the leaves at each spraying.
Precautions Necessary to Insure Success.
1. Start spraying before the blight appears. Spraying is done to prevent,
not to cure.
2. Spray thoroughly, which can be done only when the mixture is applied with a good pressure so as to insure covering every portion of the plants.
3. Do not hesitate to spray because it looks like rain. If the spray is on the plants half an hour before rain comes sufficient of it will stick to prevent infection, which takes place during or soon after rain. If the spraying is left until after a prolonged rain it is very likely to be too late to do much good.
4. Careless spraying never pays.
Spray thoroughly or not at all.
Prof. J. B. Howie, Ontario Agricultural College.
Apples will be plentiful in the Niagara district. Growers say strawberries are short because so many plants were winter-killed.
