L. BLACK & CO'S Spheroidal Spectacles

AND EYE GLASSES
ARE the best for the preservation of the sight, and took the medal at the Centennial Exhibition.

The lenses are made of the best material, uniform in density; and of high refractive power, they are perfectly spheroidal in shape and adapt them to ease and improve the sight of the wearer.
The eye being the most delicate organ great care should be exercised in selecting spectacles; it is not enough that the glass be of the right focus, but the lenses must be perfectly centered and in many cases perfect relief is only given by having each eye fitted separately. To effect this the lenses are made interchangeable, and having an Opto-meter to measure the sight, a perfect fit is guaranteed.

CHAPTER XVI. (Continued.)

"Holy Clerk," said the knight,
when his hunger was appeased, "I would wager my good horse yonder against a zecchin, that that same honest keeper to whom we are so thankful for the venison has left thee a stoup of wine or a runlet of canary, or some such trifle by way of ally to this noble party. This would be a circumstance unworthy to dwell in the memory of so rigid an anchorite; yet I think were you to search yonder crypt once more you would find that I am right in my conjecture."

The hermit replied by a grin, and returning to the hutch, he produced a leather bottle which might contain four quarts. He also brought out two drinking cups. Having made this provision for washing down the supper, he seemed to think farther ceremonious scruple necessary on his part, but filling both cups, and saying in the Saxon fashion, "Waes hael, Sir Sluggish knight!" he emptied his own at a draught.

"Drink hael, Holy Clerk," replied
the warrior, and did his host reason in a similar brimmer.
"Holy Clerk," said the stranger,
"I cannot but marvel that a man
possessed of such thews and sinews
as thine, and who shows the talent of so goodly a trencherman, should think of abiding by himself in this wilderness. In my judgment, you are fitter to keep a goodly castle or a fort, eating of the fat and drinking of the strong, than to live here upon pulse and water. If I were thou, I should find myself plenty of the king's deer. There is many a goodly herd in these forests, and a buck will never be missed that goes to the use of good Saint Dunstan's Chaplain."

"Sir Sluggish Knight," replied
the Clerk, "these are dangerous words, and I pray y u to forbear them. I am true hermit to the law and king, and were I to spoil my liege's game, I should be sure of the prison, and, as my gown saved me not, were in some danger of the halter."

"Nevertheless," said the knight,
"I would take my walk by moonlight, and ever and anon I would let fly a shaft among the den deer that feed in the glades—hast thou never practised such a pastime?"
"Friend Sluggard," answered the hermit, "thou hast seen all that can concern thee. It is better to enjoy the good which God sends thee,
than to be curious how it comes.
Fill thy cup and welcome, and do not, I pray, by farther inquiries put me to show that thou couldst hardly have made good thy lodging had I been in earnest to oppose thee."

"By my faith," said the knight,
"thou makest me more curious than ever! Thou art the most mysterious hermit I ever met; and I will know more of thee ere we part. As for thy threats, know, holy man, thou speakest to one whose trade it is to find out danger wherever it is to be met with."

"Sir Sluggish Knight, I drink to thee, said the hermit; "respecting thy valor much, but deeming won-derous slightly of thy discretion. If thou wilt take equal arms with me,
I will give thee, in all brotherly love
and friendship, such sufficing penance and complete absolution, that thou shalt not for the next twelve months sin the sin of excess and curiosity."

The knight quickly pledged him,
and then desired him to name his weapons.
"There is none," replied the hermit, "from the scissors of Delilah, and the tennipny nail of Jael, to the scimitar of Goliath, at which I am not a match for thee. But if I am to make the election, what say-est thou, good friend, to these little trinkets?"

Thus speaking he opened another hutch, and took out from it a couple of broadswords and bucklers, such as were used by the yeoman y of the period. The knight, who was watching his motions, observed that this second place of concealment was furnished with two or three good long-bows, a cross-bow, with a bundle of bolts for the latter, and a dozen of arrows for the former. A barp, and other matters of very un-canonical appearance, were visible
when this dark recess was opened.

"I promise thee, brother Clerk," said he, "I will ask thee no more impertinent questions. The contents of that cupboard are answer to all my inquiries, and I see a weapon there;" here he stooped and took out the barp, "on which I would more gladly

The Evening Star.
J. E. COLLINS, Editor.
FREDERICTON, MARCH 2, 1880.

Suppose some of those people who have been reading the Star for nearly two years without paying for it were to bring us a load of wood!

There is nothing so important in a public man, especially if he be the eader of a party, as backbone.

ST JOHN TO ROB US OF OUR PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.

When the question was first raised in St. John, where are the new Parliament Buildings to be?—and when men like Mr. Livingston of the Sun trotted round with petitions praying that they should be put up in St. John, we did not for a moment imagine that a scheme so mad and so selfish, could ever assume the proportions that it has. When first the improbability was mooted we watched anxiously the course of the leading press of St. John towards it and were gratified to find that some of the better class of newspapers gave little or no countenance to the project. But public opinion in St. John began to arouse itself, and those who like Caesar had braved the tide at first, soon turned overpowered by its strength. Here we have particular reference to the Telegraph.

No stone was left unturned to make the agitation formidable as possible. The lawyers led the way by a lengthy petition setting forth the inconvenience it was to the fraternity to be obliged to bar the expense of bringing causes to Fredericton; and prayed for removal on that ground. Upon this list few eminent lawyers were found; but a large number were the most worthless scoundrels.

The citizens then headed a petition and so that it might look portentous it made little matter where the names were obtained; it is little wonder that on it were represented both the lunatic asylum and the penitentiary, and some of the most worthless vagabonds in the city.

But with this we have nothing whatever to do just now. We expect no trace from the City of St. John, and shall ask no trace. They are working with might and main, using fair means and foul means, telling falsehoods and truths to accomplish their ends: we shall in return appeal to this country, which will make no uncertain sound if the question come before it. The Province, which is the people through their representatives, interests itself little in the contest between St. John and Fredericton: it looks upon the question as it affects the constituencies as a whole.

But if as anticipating this turn of the question, St. John is fully prepared; and her preparation consists in falsehoods and misrepresentation. The St. John Sun is delegated to tell the barefaced lies, it being considered the best informed that can be found in the city at that business; our pious friend of the Telegraph, upon whose reputation for early piety St. John relies much in this struggle, has been delegated for the misrepresentations. The following item taken from yesterday's Telegraph will serve to show the low opinion Mr. Elder has of the public intelligence:

"The present Government House is conceded on all hands to be an elephant. While it is not as comfortable as it ought to be, it is a source of heavy yearly outlay. This in the very last report of the Chief Commissioner of Public Works, we have the following items, charged as "expenditure on Government House for the past year," besides $126.42 omitted in 1872:

Carpentry,.....	$721.02
Masonry,.....	500.00
Painting, etc.,.....	168.84
Ironmongery,.....	437.49
Furniture,.....	184.50
Fuel,.....	1,176.02
Gas,.....	270.75
Gas Fitting and Plumbing,.....	411.59
Expressage,.....	11.10
Lumber,.....	189.00
Care Taking, Cleaning, Trucking, etc.,.....	319.29
	$5,694.53

There have been much larger bills to foot than this. Indeed it is felt that it would be cheaper to build a new house than to keep the present one in fuel and repair."

Our readers need not be told that after Governor Tilley leaving Government House and before the late Governor Chandler took his place the building had to be thoroughly renovated. At the close of every term of office Government Houses always undergo repairs; and the items for that year must necessarily be larger than for other years. The statement that "there have been much larger bills to foot than this," is just like the Telegraph. He refers no doubt to the increased expenditure last summer, when the Government had to fit up the building to receive the vice regal visitors. As for the statement that "it would be cheaper to build a new house, than to keep the present one in repair" it is almost too idiotic for reply. Will Mr. Elder dare insult the intelligence of the public by telling them that it would cost less to provide fuel in St. John than in Fredericton; or that a building in St. John would not require annual repairs? This item requires no further comment.

WHAT IT WOULD COST TO PLEASE ST. JOHN.
The Moncton Times which would like to see the seat of Government transferred to Moncton, does not approve of the proposed change to St. John. It says:

Fredericton has been the capital for a great many years, almost from the birth of the Province, and it has answered very well. Government House is there, also, and is not such a structure as would sell for a very large fraction of its cost. The removal to St. John would involve an expenditure of at least $25,000 for a gubernatorial residence, and probably more. Departmental buildings would have to be erected, also, at a cost of $25,000 more.

The Times is on the right track, but its figures suggest that the editor was thinking of school houses when he wrote "$25,000." It would cost $25,000 to excavate for and build a foundation for the new Parliament Buildings, but it would cost $150,000 to put up the buildings themselves. St. John has a magnificent Custom House and a gorgeous post office; and did she have a parliament building—something by the way she will never have—it should be in keeping with the rest. To put up a pot house parliament building as Mr. Elder proposes, and we may say this proposal is only a bait, would be, in the words of a gentleman who has thoroughly gauged this ridiculous movement, like dressing one out in gorgeous attire, but giving him a hat without a crown. The cost of new parliament buildings and departmental buildings at the least calculation might be set down at $175,000.

Then would come the Departmental offices, which should be in keeping with the other public buildings; and to put these down at $60,000 would be to estimate within the actual cost. That would be $235,000 for parliament buildings and departmental buildings alone; and all for the sake of pleasing five or six lawyers and about fifty pettifoggers! After this would come the Governors' residence, which to be in keeping with the rest, would cost at least $70,000; so we now have the figures up to $305,000, a sum that would swamp the Province, but which is justifiable in itself and in its consequences because it would benefit the pettifoggers and the pawn-brokers of St. John.

There is still an item that Mr. Livingston has ignored, and that Mr. Elder has not counted, and that is the cost of removal. Public officers here would have to break up house and home, and where they would go the cost of living would be greater than here. Their salaries, to meet this, would have to be raised. There is a large quantity of moveable effects here, and the cost of its removal the Province would have to bear. The expenses thus entailed would foot up $15,000 giving us the grand total made up as follows:

New Parliament Buildings,.....	$175,000
Departmental Offices,.....	60,000
Government House,.....	75,000
Cost of Removal,.....	15,000
Incidentals,.....	20,000
	$345,000

Or a grand total of.....$345,000

Only think of that for a scheme, and all to satisfy the greed of a few lawyers and miserable pettifoggers in St. John!

BUT THE "GREATEST IS BEHIND."
We have shown what a "removal" means, and what a removal will cost. We have not yet touched upon the consequences. Did the evil rest with the $345,000 thrown upon the shoulders of our impoverished Province, we should have less reason to feel alarmed than we do. But it would not. In St. John it would cost the members more for board, and it would cost the officials more to live. To supplement this, increased grants would be the only remedy and would as surely be the expedient as night follows day. To the members of the Government, $4,000 a year would be less than their $3,000 a year to them in Fredericton. Here nothing extravagant is expected and a public man may get along without spending a ten dollar bill idly; there it would be different. Ministers and members would alike have to live up to their means; give parties and balls; be all the time either in debt or dunned misers; be perpetually howling for "an increase." And the increase would come, and it would go out from year to year, but the poor wretches that are the backbone of this Province would be obliged to submit and pay taxes to perpetuate the greedy scheme of St. John.

By way of parenthesis, we might ask here why should St. John make such an unholy stride for the seat of Government, but that she expects some pickings? Can we believe that for the few paltry dollars expended here every year, Mr. Livingston and the whole tribe of agitating fanatics would toss their hats in the air and grant away the very burying grounds of the city to build a Parliament Building upon? Ah no. St. John would have her pound of flesh; she would revel in that fat which is the extract of the sweat and the toil of the lumberman and the farmer. Then indeed the members who come from the north and the east and the west might well suspect that the city was getting all; their constituents were left out in the cold. St. John would not be satisfied with trifles; it would have "the whole hog or none." Her lobbyists would beset the galleries; her schemers and town committees would lay traps on every hand; and in a few years unscrupulous men like Messrs. Elder and Livingston would be able to say "See what we have done; St. John is now the Paris of New Brunswick," while the wretched farmer might grin but would be obliged to bear his woes, feeling that when his representative went to St. John he would be a mere drop in the ocean.

A FURTHER VIEW OF THE MATTER.
Belial was the most dangerous of the devils in the Paradise Lost, because of the smoothness of his tongue and of his ability "to make the worst appear the better counsel." Mr. Elder is the Belial of the St. John tribe, and his arguments are all the more dangerous because of the sanctimonious way he tells lies and strangles truths. One of his most notorious falsehoods is that it would cost less to maintain a Government House in St. John than in Fredericton!! Does this man who was once a minister of God's holy gospel not know the fate of Annanias for telling a lie not a whit more glaring than this? Cost more! How does he sustain that statement. Does Mr. Elder not know that in St. John a Governor should give three parties for one in Fredericton, and balls in the same proportion? Does he not know that light and fuel are as cheap here as there, and that the elements of St. John are just as destructive of wood or stone, brick or mortar as the air of Fredericton? Where then does he get grounds for this statement? or is he only trading on the supposed ignorance of his readers. Ah, Mr. Elder, St. John may swallow that but no other part of the province will. The members of the Assembly, who after all are the only ones to be consulted in this matter, can be made to swallow no such home-made falsehood as that.

Listen to that arch blather of the St. John Sun. Take note of how he adds a howl to make up a case:

"The telegraphic toll tends to shorten the length of Legislative reports from a Capital distant from the daily papers, and whether these tolls are paid by the Legislature or the newspapers, the cost is very considerable. The people of New Brunswick as well as the Press have paid many thousands of dollars (which might otherwise have gone to roads, bridges or agricultural societies) for these reports. Send a fly to look for an atom; and true to Mr. Livingston's nature he will ferret out the small things.

This year the Government has arranged with a reporter who undertakes to furnish telegraphic reports to all the St. John dailies; to send full reports by mail; to send copy to the leading weeklies in the province; and to furnish 200 pamphlets containing the debates at the end of the session—all for $480. This would not leave more than $50 for telegraphing; but the St. John dailies expressed themselves satisfied with the quantity on the ground that "Ottawa matters take up" so much of their space. Where then is the Sun's beggarly argument? It is only like Mr. Livingston: he is a small concern.

WHY SHOULD IT BE ST. JOHN?

We have shown that there is no grounds upon which St. John can stand and howl with even ordinary decency. We have put forth arguments that the St. John Press has not dared to refute. We have shown that wise people always deem it best to have seats of Government in comparative solitude, where they are free from the influences of bribery. We have quoted the history of American Institutions to prove this: we have challenged comment. To our arguments the St. John Press has not replied; but feasted with evident delight on our badinage. This is what the Telegraph says referring to our article:

"We have only room, at present to say that we think no St. John paper will ever be guilty of treating any claim of Fredericton in this style."
We assure our readers it is hard to keep one's temper on reading such a paragraph as this. Does St. John through its press dare to accuse us of ill treatment? St. John who would selfishly snatch the bread off our plate, that would ruthlessly pull from over our heads the roof that covers us. Are we to allow St. John to plunder us and sit like dumb ones till the deed be done? Are we to sit calmly and listen to the rant of a subsidized press and read the resolutions of all the vagabonds, scoundrels and pettifoggers of St. John, asking for the Parliament Buildings and the Government House, and all those institutions that time and statute have given us without protest? The Telegraph is mistaken. It comes with diabolical grace from the Telegraph to speak of our ill-treatment.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN MAKES COUNTLESS THOUSANDS MOURN.
And this is the way St. John has repaid Fredericton: a city who doubly laden as she is with debt, and sorely pinched as she is with hard times, honorably massed together but a few nights ago and acquitted her obligations of honor to St. John. This is the return that is made for the open handed generosity with which they flew to the relief of St. John when her miserable hundreds lay huddled and starving in the streets. What might make little matter to St. John, might prove a death blow to Fredericton, and beyond doubt it would. Many people have come here from across the Atlantic and purchased houses and lands just because it is the Capital. Many have come here and established themselves in business who would have gone elsewhere, but that here the seat of government was held. And yet St. John tries to snatch all from us! She heeds not that the rascally act she proposes would interfere with vested rights, crush some out, and beggar others. She cares not for the anomaly of a Normal School and University here; the balance of the institutions which makes up a capital some where else. She cares not that our Fredericton merchants, and our dealers along the river banks have always traded with her, and acted far more honorably and honestly to her, than she has to her creditors.

We could have pardoned the fishermen of St. John and the beggarly barristers; yea, and half a dozen lawyers for advocating a change; but we cannot forgive the press. How often has not the hypocrite that presides over the Telegraph's columns professed friendship to Fredericton? How often has not the Sun in its blatant and vaporing way made similar pretensions? And yet when the supreme moment arrives they head their rabble and cry out for our destruction. It was not thus the STAR treated St. John when it thought that repudiation was rife in the Council camp; it actually warded with its own bread and butter that justice might be done to St. John. And now when we dare stand up for our rights—and these rights we will have—we are rebuked by the Telegraph!!

reckless as usual. It is in its element. Give Mr. Livingston a hobby to ride and he will hang to it till it falls under him. The Dominion Government ought to pay him to stop his mouth about them, and ride some other subject to death. There is some pleasure however, in knowing that "what the Sun says doesn't amount to much;" indeed we will go further and say the more the Sun writes St. John up, the poorer will be its chances, now poor to desperation. Gab and slang thrusts are not argument; and the man who has to depend upon garrulous politicians for his literature and his information cannot be different from Mr. Livingston. [We would ask the editor of the Sun just here, how he knows we made an unkind reference to Mr. Crawford's ill health. The allusion was supposed to be in Latin, and we did not suppose the Sun office could afford a translator. Has Mr. Livingston guessed at the meaning? If he has we beg to tell him to guess again. Mens sana in corpore sano, Mr. Livingstone is a Dutch sentence and intended to be complimentary.]

QUIS FURORIS, O CIVES?
[We hope the Sun will not take this as a reflection on anybody's health.] Upon what grounds, we ask again, does St. John rest her claims? Whence does she derive her wealth? Whence the cause for her howl? St. John is supported by the farmers, and the lumbermen of the upper country. In herself she is unprofitable, and but for her position on the mouth of the river she would be but a third rate fishing village. The rafts our lumbermen take down in spring, the loads of country produce that are taken into her markets, are the life's blood of St. John. But "Ichabod" is written above her. Her own papers say her shipping is on the decline, and that her yards are deserted. The Armenians of the press put this to the credit of the N.P. The Star of New Brunswick is moving northward: it does not linger down in the foggy regions of the Bay of Fundy: it seeks the broad forests that are every day bowing down before the tread of immigration. York to-day in wealth is incomparably ahead of St. John, and her population must number fully 35,000 people. Fredericton is the nucleus of the thriving portion of New Brunswick. The vast lumber regions of the Miramichi are nearer her, the wide tracts of the Railroad Co.'s Lands are closer at hand, and the bulk of the crown lands are nearer to her than to any other city—except Woodstock, which is not a city. It is in those lumber regions, it is along the banks of the St. John, that the future workshop of New Brunswick is to be. The day is not far when a railroad will unite the Miramichi Valley with Fredericton and throw open all the wealth of lumber and farming lands along its track. We may say we make this statement on good grounds, and we shall deal with it more elaborately when it shall have been a pronounced government measure. Then the really enterprising men of this Province will come to the front and help us to span the St. John with a bridge. Then the Sun will not be able to say Fredericton "is a hub situate on the rim."

Let not St. John talk about being the centre of wealth. Mr. Alexander Gibson here at our door could buy out half the old traps that go to make up the wealth of St. John; his lumber operations eclipse those of St. John in a bulk, and his land divided up among the middlemen and pettifoggers would enrich the whole tribe of them for life. We may close this portion of our argument by saying as we have said before, that the representatives of the people will knock this agitation in the head, and uninfluenced by the rant of the Sun or the Belial like logic of the Telegraph will in a decided majority stand up and vote New Parliament Buildings for Fredericton, or give a few thousands to repair the old ones. It is the interests of the province the members will respect, not either the interests of St. John or of Fredericton. St. John as the capital would be disastrous to the finances of this province; it would plunge it irredeemably in debt by the removal; it would perpetuate the atlanter burden by increased expenses. New Brunswick does not exist to serve either St. John or Fredericton in particular: it exists for itself and the pro bono publico argument is that which will humiliate St. John and reestablish Fredericton.

GENEROUS OFFERS.
Several places have on the most absurd grounds offered sites for Parliament Buildings. Among the number are Sussex, Dorchester, St. Stephen and Moncton. Any of these places would be as much entitled to the seat as St. John. They all offer land, and that's all; but with characteristic large heartedness Mr. Alexander Gibson offers a site, convenient to Fredericton, and $25,000. If the Government or the Province would not accept an offer like this, why listen to the crazy suggestions of St. John!

Take the Seat of Government to St. John sure enough!

Local Matters.

Lumber. Mr A F Randolph informs us that he has thus far cut about 12,000,000 ft. of lumber. He states that the present season has been the most favorable for hauling lumber and supplies for many years past.

Insurance. On account of the unbusiness-like haggling on the part of insurance agent Isches, the agreement on the legislative library was a long time being definitely settled. The amount agreed on is $400.

Business Change. We learn that a change is about to take place in the firm of Davis & Dibble, on the corner of Queen and York Streets. Mr G Y Dibble is to retire from the company, and Alton Staples takes an interest in the business. The new firm will be known by the title of Davis & Staples, and there is no doubt but that by the same good management and go-ahead spirit which characterized Davis & Dibble will continue to receive the patronage so liberally extended and so well merited in the past.

Export of Lumber. A gentleman whose opinions are seldom at fault informs us that for the past four months St. John has exported nearly 50 million feet of lumber; and that there is no record of such a large exportation in the same length of time in the history of St. John.

Lecture. The lecture at Gibson to-night by Rev. William Dolson of Sheffield, will doubtless attract a good many from the city who are acquainted with the forcible delivery of the rev. gentleman. Rev. Mr Evans lectures at Nashwaak's Thursday evening. Subject: "Books, Brains and Blunders."

Land Slide. Yesterday morning the passenger train on the N. B. R., which leaves Carleton at 6 a.m., was delayed at Moulton Bluff by a landslide. Several tons of rock and earth had been deposited on the track and the train hauls worked like beavers for several hours to remove it.

Remembrance. When the Normal School building was being put up a few years ago Mr. Fraser, (the Provincial Secretary) and Dr. Hand, were standing together in the spacious assembly room on the third floor observing the men at work when the latter remarked little guessing, the prophetic potency of his words. "Doctor what a great place this would be to hold our assembly in!"

Mr Chubbuck. With this week Mr Chubbuck concludes his Evangelistic labors in this city. It is unnecessary at this time to call attention to Mr C's mode of working, nor to expatiate upon the influence his peculiar style of delivery is calculated to have upon the standard of Ministerial work. Mr Chubbuck did not announce himself as a divine and as he entered the union pulpits at the invitation of the respective pastors and congregations, whatever his unique, dramatic characteristics may be, we are inclined, inasmuch as he has undoubtedly avowed sincerity in the hearts of the depraved, to pass over his faults in silence. Collections are to be taken up for his benefit Thursday and Friday evenings in the Methodist Church, and Monday morning he leaves for Yarmouth, N.S. About 120 persons, through Mr C's instrumentality, have applied for admission into the Methodist, Baptist and Free Baptist churches in the city.

"Star" will, I presume, be up in arms against the selection of a site in any provincial city or town other than Fredericton. [No we are inclined to think that if Pokiook were to put forth her just demands in this respect that we would let things take their way.—Loc. Ed.]

ADDRESS PRESENTED.—At a special meeting of the St. Aloysius Association held yesterday afternoon, an address was presented to Mr. John McCarthy, ex-President, on the occasion of his leaving St. John for Kansas city. The address which was written and composed referred to the active interest Mr. McC. had always manifested in the Society both as an officer and member and to the esteem in which he was held by each and every one in the Society. The document was well prepared by a committee, D. J. Doherty, J. McGowan and C. A. Power, (the latter's experience in literature being considered invaluable as an assistant in constructing an address.) Mr. Power read the address in a fine, round voice and had considerable difficulty in suppressing the emotion which the words produced. Mr. McC. was also entertained at an oyster supper. He leaves by the American boat this morning. Mr. P., who is very popular in Portland, we regret to learn, to leave this day week to try his fortunes in New York city.

Communications.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

MR. EDITOR.—Being personally interested in the welfare of the pupils attending the Normal School, I wish to ask for information in regard to the safety of the building. I am informed that one of our best mechanics, one of my mistake not, who was employed by the Government while the building was in course of erection, declares it to be unsafe to place any extra strain on the floors of the two upper flats. It is well known that not a great while ago, the centre of the building settled some four or more inches, and also that at the time of building one of the contractors said that the structure would be unsafe unless it was better supported.

Now if these are facts, the matter should be investigated and steps taken to make the building secure, for there are too many lives at stake to have them jeopardized by neglect or unwillingness to expend the small sum necessary to insure its safety, why not let the assembly be held in the upper rooms, which will of course draw a great many more into the building than before. If there is the least doubt about its safety, why not let the City Hall or Court House, either of which could be fitted up for the purpose at a very trifling expense. Thanking you for your valuable space I remain, yours respectfully,

LEAVING FREDERICTON. Mr W C Cox the popular manager of the Dominion telegraph office here leaves for St John to-morrow morning. His absence is to be permanent; as he takes a position in the Dominion office in St. John. It is only justice to Mr Cox to say that during his stay in Fredericton he has won the golden opinions of all with whom he ever came in contact. We believe no more obliging and attentive officer than Mr Cox could be found; and we well could wish that the managers of the company might change their decision and leave Mr Cox with us. We wish our friend every success. Mr. Walcott takes his place here.

—Edgcombe & Sons, unawed by the clamors of St. John for the removal of the seat of Government to that city, have already commenced building operations on their lot, King street. Mr R. McElvany is to have charge of the job.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

(From our Special Correspondent.) THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.—The project of having the New Legislative Buildings erected in St. John is meeting with increased attention. The GLOBE usually foremost in all that pertains to revolution and anarchy, is I believe non-committal just yet as to where the buildings shall be put up, but with its short sighted utilitarianism favors the idea of repairing the old structure. I have heard it said that Fredericton had the backbone taken out of it when the soldiers were withdrawn. It seems rather rough that our citizens should go for shearing the placid capital of its remaining attractions. The vest in them till the bill of sale was given. Cowie and White took the machinery, and put it in a building which they had erected within the limits of the railway track near Carleton Station on the Intercolonial Railway, but when applied to by the plaintiff for the bill of sale, they refused to give it, and soon afterwards gave a mortgage of the building and machinery to Torrie, who had lent them money. After Cowie and White refused to give the plaintiff the bill of sale, he went to them and said he must have the machinery back. They promised to give the amount due him for the machinery, and to meet him for that purpose; but after waiting beyond the time agreed, and hearing nothing from Cowie and White, the plaintiff brought this action of replevin against them and Torrie; and the sheriff took the machinery out of the building and delivered it to the plaintiff. The defendants pleaded (Cowie pleading separately, non capiti and property. Held: (1) That as the machinery was not affixed to the soil of Cowie and White, but affixed at all, it was to the property of the Crown, it did not cease to be a chattel, and replevin would lie; (2) That this question could not arise under the plea of non capiti; That if replevin was not the proper remedy, application should have been made to set aside the writ; (3) That there was evidence of a wrongful detention of the machinery by Cowie and White, after the demand by the plaintiff; (4) That the fact of Torrie having a mortgage on the machinery did not amount to a possession of it by him, and therefore he was entitled to a verdict on the plea of non capiti; but that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict against them on the plea of property, as Cowie and White had no title to convey to him. Rule absolute for a new trial unless the plaintiff consents that a verdict be entered for Torrie on the plea of non capiti.

DERBY vs. DERRY.—Action for wrongfully and maliciously inducing Caroline Derry, the plaintiff's daughter, to prove the execution of a deed made by the plaintiff in favor of his son Wallace Derry, and to put the same on record, whereby the plaintiff sustained damages. The plaintiff was an aged man owning a farm worth $3,000, which he agreed to convey to his son Wallace Derry on condition that Wallace was to maintain him during his life, and pay him $100 a year for his daughter. The deed was drawn and signed by the plaintiff, and a mortgage from Wallace to secure the maintenance and the $100, also signed in April, 1869. Both deeds were signed by Caroline Derry as a witness, and it was agreed that she should keep possession of them until the plaintiff and Wallace went before the Registrar of Deeds and acknowledged them, when they were to be put on record at the same time. Wallace afterwards refused to carry out the arrangements, and the plaintiff tried to get his deed back, but the plaintiff failed. About a year after this, the defendant (Caroline) induced his sister (another son of the plaintiff) to induce his sister (Caroline) to go before the Registrar of Deeds and prove the execution of the deed from the plaintiff to Wallace, and it was then put on record. This was done without the plaintiff's knowledge. In February, 1873, Wallace Derry gave a mortgage to McClellan on the property for $650, and soon afterwards left the country. When the plaintiff heard he had left, he proposed to follow him for the purpose of getting his deed back, but the defendant dissuaded him from doing so, and endeavored to get a deed of the farm from Wallace to himself. Soon after this the defendant took charge of the farm, with the plaintiff's consent, but after a short time the plaintiff complained of his treatment—the defendant having taken away all the plaintiff's cattle, and appropriated to his own use all the crops, leaving the plaintiff destitute. In November, 1874, the plaintiff discovered that the deed to Wallace had been put on record, and that Wallace had given the mortgage to McClellan. About this time Wallace returned to the country, and the plaintiff, thinking himself to be helpless in the matter, gave him another deed of the property, on receiving a mortgage from Wallace to secure his maintenance for life, with an annuity of $30. The plaintiff had not paid anything in consequence of the mortgage. A verdict was given for the plaintiff for $300 on the account for fraudulently procuring the deed to be recorded, and $30 for taking away the cattle. On a motion for a new trial. Held: per Weldon and Wetmore, J. J., (dissenting,) that as the plaintiff had sustained no actual damage by the recording the deed, he could only recover nominal damages—that the giving the mortgage to McClellan was not the necessary result of the defendant's wrongful act, and any damage arising from that would be too remote. Rule per trial, unless plaintiff consents to reduce the verdict to nominal damages on the 5th count.

Supreme Court.

FERGUSON vs. DOMVILLE.—This was an action to recover the freight of a quantity of iron shipped by Ducasse, Cleave & Co. of London, in a vessel of the plaintiff, for St. John, and by the bill of lading to be delivered to Ducasse, Cleave & Co. or assignee. When the iron arrived in St. John the defendant claimed it as his property, but as he did not produce any indorsed bill of lading from D. C. & Co., the plaintiff refused to deliver the iron to him, though he tendered the freight and produced a letter from D. C. & Co., stating that the iron was his property. After a good deal of negotiation which did not result in an agreement, the defendant took the iron without the plaintiff's consent, and under a writ of replevin, it was said. The plaintiff afterward rendered the defendant an account charging him with the freight, and claimed payment. He (defendant) said he had tendered the freight once, and referred the plaintiff to his (defendant's) attorney. The freight not having been paid, this action was brought. A verdict having been given for the plaintiff—Held: On a motion for a new trial, per Weldon & Fisher, J. J., that there was evidence from which a contract by the defendant to pay the freight might be implied. Per Allen C. J., that as the plaintiff had refused to deliver the iron to the defendant and denied his right to it, and he had taken possession of it adversely to him, no contract by him to pay the freight could be implied. Judgment for plaintiff.

WATT vs. SOUTH-WEST BOOM COMPANY.—The defendants had leased their boom to the plaintiff, who agreed to secure and raft all the lumber coming into the boom. An unusually large quantity of lumber having come down the Miramichi river, into and above the boom, by means of which the navigation was interrupted, the defendants spoke to the plaintiff to employ an additional number of men in rafting and to take other measures to remove the obstruction to the navigation, which they alleged he agreed to do, but not carrying on the work to their satisfaction, they sent men to raft the lumber. The plaintiff then obtained an ex parte injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with the lumber in the boom. This injunction was dissolved on the ground that the plaintiff in obtaining it had suppressed material facts, (viz., the agreement with the defendants to employ additional men to raft the lumber and clear the channel), which ought to have been stated in the bill. On appeal from the order dissolving the injunction—Held: (Wetmore J. dissenting) That the facts omitted were not material to the plaintiff's right to the injunction or the defendant's affidavits denying any interference with the lumber in the boom, and stating that the lumber rafted by them was entirely outside of the boom. Appeal allowed without costs.

ALEXANDER vs. COWIE AND OTHERS.—Replevin for mill machinery agreed to be sold by the plaintiff to the defendants, Cowie and White, with the understanding that they were to take possession, and to give the plaintiff a bill of sale of it by way of mortgage, to secure the price, but that the title was not to CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of the most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unequalled statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrophula, Anemia, General Debility and the Wasting other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

See What Physicians and the People Say About It. Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Third-street, New York, September 8, 1876. GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. Yours respectfully, A. H. SEXTON, M. D., Baltimore. Oct. 12, 1879.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that I have ever known. It is a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. We can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly agreeable and elegant form. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La. December 10th, 1876.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen,—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats and short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I afterwards bought a dozen bottles, with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 115 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friends on the street who ask, "What cured you?" and I answer, "Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, etc." I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months, and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a good walk, and says gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. For sale by all Druggists @ $1.00 per bottle. I am gratefully yours, R. W. HAMILTON, M. D. LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind. July 2, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live more than a few weeks at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk, and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. For sale by all Druggists @ $1.00 per bottle. I am gratefully yours, R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.
