CHAPTER XI.

BETH'S HOME-COMING.

His desire to punish her faded away, and he gave her boundless pity in its place.

He had always known that her sister was very dear to her, but not until she had spoken so heartbrokenly about Lill had he understood how great that love had been.

The knowledge that they were both bereft of what had been the sweetest thing in their existence made a bond between them, but this was the only tie. For the knowledge that Elizabeth loved another man with such a boundless, unquestioning love drove Barostan far away from her.

And yet it was positive torture to the man to separate himself from this woman. His love for her had been bitter, passionate, almost cruel. When she had been the disdainful stranger, he had loved her almost against his inclination; but now that he had been in close contact with her for these few hours, and she had unconsciously revealed to him how beautiful her nature was, his love was softened and purified, and, by the very strength of that new love, he sought to shelter her, to save her, if possible, from more suffering.

Only a few days after his arrival in London, David had learned that his granduncle had died in Buenos Ayres, where he had lived for many years, leaving all his property to his grandnephew. David instantly decided to go to South America, and, before he left England, perhaps forever, he felt impelled to bid Beth good-bye.

He had hastened down on an early morning train, and walked swiftly after alighting toward Beth's dwelling. As he was passing through the orchard he overheard voices, Beth's and Ottershaw's. A jealous rage flamed in his heart, and he drew near to listen. He learned that Ellen was with Beth and then Ottershaw said abruptly:

"Why did you do this thing? Why did you treat me so shamefully?"

She winced.

"I wrote to you," she said, in a low voice. "I told you it was best to forget, that everything had been too hurried—that I—we—had made a great mistake."

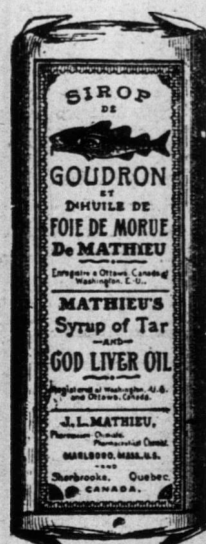

"You wrote me this—yes," said Ottershaw, "though I did not get the letter, by some fiendish trick of fate, till that very night that brought you to my house as my new agent's wife; but this was not the truth," he said, in that same fierce way. "When I told you of my love, when you gave me your love in return, you had no qualms; you are not going to tell me, Elizabeth, that her conventionality could act so disastrously upon your love as this letter suggested. Did we not both recognize that our love was spontaneous and pure—no passing fancy, but a deep and enduring passion? What madness, then, made you act as you have done?"

"I said I would listen to you," said Elizabeth, and her voice amazed her. It was so steady; "but to listen is not to answer. Believe me, I can give you no explanation. If—if you wish to think the hardest thing of me, I may not utter a word to excuse myself. Instead—she caught her breath—"I recognize that you have the right to reproach me; more than that I cannot say."

"But that will not satisfy me," said Ottershaw, in that same quiet way. "Do you not realize, Elizabeth, that in having taken my love, in having given me yours, in having promised yourself to me, you still belong to me?"

She answered wildly, and Ottershaw left her with a smile of triumph on his lips, maddening to the man standing in the background. David's first impulse was to rush forward and address her brutally. But the new love in him stilled his passion. He left her in peace. Later in the evening he went to the house and saw her. He told her of his intention to go to South America.

"Are—are you going abroad," Elizabeth asked, in a low voice. "really because of business, or—because of me?"

"There is real business," he answered her, calmly, "but I will be quite frank with you. I have come to the conclusion that it would be absolutely impossible for us to live, placed as we are now, within close distance of one another. I cannot undo the wrong I have done you, Elizabeth, but I can lift a little of the burden, and I believe that you will grow more reconciled if you are protected from any chance of contact with me."

Elizabeth stretched out her hands to him.

"You are wrong," she said, in a choking voice, "quite wrong. It is a strange thing to say, perhaps, but I feel that everything would be a little—easier if—if you were somewhere near. You have been cruel, but that is over, and now I know that you can be kind—very, very kind. And then," Elizabeth said, slowly, "placed as we are, it seems to me—that—it is—our duty to do the best we can for one another."

He took her hands, and had she been less agitated she would have felt that strong hand tremble as it closed around hers.

"I am going to try to do what I think best for you, Elizabeth," he answered. "It has been a miserable business, and I know that I can never give you back that happiness that I destroyed so ruthlessly; but you are young—hardly more than a child." His voice grew hoarse. "Happiness is bound to come to you again, and I want my hands to be the hands that will guide that happiness to you."

Elizabeth pressed a little to him. Vaguely it came to her at this moment that there was a vast difference between the two loves that were lavished upon her. It was not as a woman turning to a man that she turned to him; it was rather as a child turning to a protector.

The remembrance of that marvelous care that he had given to his brother came to her now, and drove away from her both the fear and the personal repugnance that had oppressed her.

"If you wish to give me back my happiness," she said, "you will not begin by going so far away."

"What have you in your mind?" asked Barostan, abruptly, his hand gripping hers fiercely for an instant.

"I will tell you," answered Elizabeth. "I think we ought to share our lives together. Perhaps not immediately, but in a little while. I am your wife, you are my husband, and husband and wife should have their joys and sorrows together."

He let her hand drop and laughed—something of his old, bitter laugh.

"Are you comparing us to the ruck of married people?" he asked. "I forced you to be my wife, and you submitted—not because you feared me for yourself, but because you feared injury I might do your sister. Is that a good basis upon which to begin life together?" And then, with a return of that fierce jealousy, he continued: "Moreover, I would never be content—I could never consent to live beside you merely as a friend, a counselor; and you, though you may think it now in a moment of emotion, are not prepared to give me more than this. No," he abruptly added, "we can have no life together!"

Then he had gone on to speak composedly of his business arrangements, his solicitors and various other details of his departure, and finally had left her. Beth felt strangely depressed at his going, and Ellen, who had seen him as he was leaving, was strongly moved to detain him. And many and many a time afterward Ellen Griffin recalled that impulse with acute regret.

The next day it was too late. David had gone to London, and in a few days he was on the deck of a vessel bound for South America. Before he left England, however, he took one step significant of his attitude toward Beth. While walking across London Bridge one night he rescued from drowning one of those poor women of whom London is full—heartbroken, soul-riven, friendless, poor; no wonder they seek the river as the final solution of their problems. The girl had been revived and taken to the police station, where she had told, or, rather, her roommate had told, a pitiful story of poverty, hard labor, a black life. David gave the unfortunate creature a letter to his wife, asking Beth to give her aid and comfort.

The months crept by. Ellen remained with Beth until the fall, when she was obliged to hurry off to make some long-delayed visits. Scarcely had she gone when Mark appeared and gradually came to be Beth's companion. He had sworn to have her whole heart, and with all the craft of his nature he sought that end slowly but surely. Then, when he had become the companion of her days and the hero of her dreams, he left suddenly, and it seemed to Beth as though the life of the world had ceased. Then Ellen came back, and on the following day, as they were walking along the country road, they met Mark and Lill. Beth turned her back, and hastened off to London on the following day. There business had detained her, and when she did come North she traveled with Lady Ottershaw, who was to stay with her son at his hunting lodge near Beth's home, and at the station she met him, smiled formally and was gone before he knew it.

CHAPTER XII.
David's Messenger.

Elizabeth had returned to that little home in the North because of a communication that she had received from her husband's lawyer.

HIS BLADDER WAS TERRIBLY INFLAMED

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

Larder Lake, Ont., March 26th.
"I had been suffering for some time with my Kidneys and Urine. I was constantly passing water, which was very scanty, sometimes as many as thirty times a day. Each time the pain was something awful, and no rest at night."

I heard of your GIN PILLS and decided to give them a trial at once. I sent my chum 60 miles to get them and I am pleased to inform you that in less than six hours, I felt relief. In two days, the pain had left me entirely. I took about half a box and today I feel as well as ever and my kidneys are acting quite natural again."

The letter went first North, and then was sent South to Mrs. Griffin's house in London.

Mr. Gooch wrote to her on his own account.

It appeared that Barostan was in need of certain papers which were not to be found in the documents which were in Mr. Gooch's hands; and the lawyer had suggested to Elizabeth that she should look through a certain old bureau and see if she could find the papers in question.

Acting on the impulse of the moment, Elizabeth went to give a personal answer to this letter; and it was not until she had read in Mr. Gooch's office that she realized that it would be pleasant to her to have some direct information about David Barostan.

The lawyer, however, could give her very little news beyond telling her that Barostan had reached his destination, and that his uncle's legacy to him exceeded anything that he had imagined possible; he could give her no other information.

He was very agreeably impressed by Elizabeth, and more especially in her desire to do anything in her power to assist his client. He had not expected to see so young and fair a woman, and she set his brain working to explain the mystery of this marriage.

"I am going back North at once," she said, "and I will search without delay."

"I cannot help thinking that you will find the papers where I have suggested," Mr. Gooch said. "I remember that your husband's mother received a great many communications from South America when she was living in that house. If you like, Mrs. Barostan, I will send some one up there. You can give the keys to one of my clerks, and he can save you this journey."

Elizabeth colored hotly.

It was the first time she had been called by her rightful name. It rang with a strange sound in her ears.

"No," she said, hurriedly, "I would rather go myself."

The automobile has a number of advantages, one of which is that it doesn't get its tail over the lines.

Mr. Bryan holds one record. He is the only man to have travelled 200,000 miles in the direction of the White House without getting any closer to it.

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition (or disease) which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, a failure of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its causes (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being, sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigor—VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY to throw off these morbid feelings, and experience proves that as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-reviving tonic how much will you have accumulated at your present rate of saving? Most men will have little or nothing saved if conditions are at all similar to those of to-day.

Every prominent young man appreciates the wisdom of accumulating for his own benefit at least, and looks forward to an old age of comfort and enjoyment relieved from want and worry. And every thoughtful man endowed with manhood feels that a duty rests upon him to make some provision for others dependent upon him.

The safest, simplest and most profitable way to accomplish all this, and to be sure of a snug competency by the year 1932, is by investing in a Canada Life Endowment Policy for $5,000 or $10,000, according to your means and requirements. The policy can be bought on easy instalments and facilities are provided to assist in carrying and enjoying the insurance.

Send in your name and age and let us submit to you a good proposition.

Making Good.

The fifth annual congress of the International Chambers of Commerce which was held in Boston recently, was attended by 800 representatives of 46 different countries, and in the speeches made 16 languages were severally used. The representatives of Bermuda were Sir Thomas Wardrow and Mr. Pierce Hand. Mr. Hand is a native of St. John's an ex-pupil of the Christian Brothers Schools, and was assistant in the office of Messrs. Harvey & Co. He left here about six years ago and located in Bermuda and has now a flourishing business there. The Bermuda Colonist gives him a flattering reference in connection with the excellent work he did for the Island while at the Congress. Mr. Hand is a nephew of Capt. Pierce Whalen, of the Tug Co., and his friends here will be glad to learn of his success at Bermuda.

Reducing Labor.

Any kind of a Motor Engine is better than none, as nearly all engines are good, at least for a time, so when a person buys an engine for the first time it is such a departure that he is quite delighted and thinks it is the best obtainable. It is only after a year or so when he has familiarized himself with Motors, that he realizes that some motors can be had to run better than others. So it will be with the FAIRBANKS. When you see it running you will at once understand the difference between it and the engine you are now using, and you will then realize the superiority of it over all others.

It has displaced all others in the Maritime Provinces, where all makes advertised on this market were for sale, and it will also displace all others here.

It is the Engine you will eventually use.

Over 100,000 in use.

Ex-Convict Statesmen.

British Annals Show Several Remarkable Instances.

There are several instances in colonial politics where ex-convicts have risen to positions of eminence after their release from prison.

There is Sir Starr Jameson, Bart. C.B.E., better known, perhaps, as "Dr. Jim," who, as all the world knows led the famous raid into the Transvaal in 1895, after the failure of which he was tried in London and sentenced to ten months' imprisonment. Less than ten years afterwards, in 1904, that is to say, he was chosen Premier of Cape Colony.

His was, of course, a political offence. So was that which caused Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, some time Premier of Victoria, to be branded as a felon. He was implicated in the Irish rebellion of 1848, a fact which was afterwards to gain him the enthusiastic support—and the votes—of all his compatriots in Australia when he elected to go in for politics.

Another Australian Premier who "did time" was Sir Charles Dibbs. He served a sentence in Darlinghurst Jail, Sydney, for contempt of court. Afterwards, when a turn of fortune's wheel made him Prime Minister of N. S. Wales, he had to appoint a new governor of Darlinghurst. He selected the warden who had charge of him as a prisoner.

Edward Gibbon Wakefield, another famous Australian statesman, was actually at one time a convict, his offence being the abduction of an heiress, a fairly common crime in England seventy or eighty years ago, but one which the laws always regarded seriously and punished severely. The Australians of his day, however, were many of them ex-convicts or the descendants of such, and these did not regard his offence as reflecting on his honor in any way, while the romantic circumstances surrounding it gained him many sympathizers among the ordinary colonists. On his release these rallied round him, and before long he became the most powerful political personage in the sub-continent.

Yet another old convict who rose through politics to high honor in Australia, after having served out there the sentence of imprisonment passed on him, was Dr. O'Doherty. He was convicted and transported for treason, and on his release he became a popular hero. He sat in both Houses in the Queensland Parliament, and afterwards filled several high official posts in that colony.

Children Love Syrup of Figs

Gently cleanses the stomach, liver and waste-clogged bowels.

Every mother immediately realizes after giving her child delicious Syrup of Figs that this is the ideal laxative and physic for the children. Nothing else regulates the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of tender bowels so promptly, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

If your child isn't feeling well; resting nicely; eating regularly and acting naturally it is a sure sign that its little insides need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or your little one has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, tongue coated; give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours all the foul, constipated, clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy: It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given to-day will save a sick child to-morrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Starved to Death. In Sight of Food.

London, Nov. 15.—Ashmead Bartlett, correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, at the Turkish headquarters, at Hademkeui, sends the following dated Friday, by way of Constantinople:—

"The Turkish soldiers are starved. They are suffering from the effects of the terrible Lule Burgas battle, and are falling ready victims to the cholera and dysentery, even close as the army is in Constantinople, the men are receiving only a bare ration of bread with rice occasionally.

"This is all the more extraordinary in view of the fact that the whole country between the lines and Constantinople is crowded with live stock driven in by the refugees. Although the Turkish Commander has everything else required for, some inexcusable reason, he has made no effort to use the immense quantities of fresh meat at hand.

"At Lule Burgas, where a Commander-in-Chief's army was starving, enormous herds of sheep grazed under the fire of the enemy and were driven off with the routed army. Yet hundreds of men died of starvation in sight of food.

"Any other army would have considered it a God-send. The Turk is not a meat eater, and seems to be unable to change the habits of his life-time even to meet the exigencies of actual starvation. Moreover, the Turkish soldiers are quite incapable of looking after themselves in the field and would not kill a sheep without an order from an officer.

"The men openly declare that they don't want to fight. It is impossible to arouse in the Asiatic Turkish soldiers any enthusiasm over a war in European Turkey. They hardly seem to regard the country as part of the Turkish Empire, and their minds are far more exercised over the loss of Tripoli than the disasters which have overwhelmed their armies in Thrace and Macedonia."

Saw Gibson Grasp Throat.

Goshen, N.Y., Nov. 20.—"I saw Gibson seize Mrs. Szabo around the neck with his left arm; I saw the right hand thrust at her throat; then they both fell out of the boat."

John Minturn, eye witness of the death of Mrs. Rose Menschik Szabo, for whose death on Greenwood Lake Burton W. Gibson, of New York, her lawyer, is charged with murder, so testimony was introduced, to bear out the State's contention that Mrs. Szabo was strangled by Gibson, and did not die of drowning.

"Gibson and his companion were standing back to back in the center of the boat," Minturn said. "Gibson wheeled as they were passing and seized Mrs. Szabo—they struggled for a moment, the boat rocked. They fell out, the woman first, the man afterwards."

"Presently the woman was lost to sight. The man then swam over to the boat, put his arm over it and turned it over. The boat remained right-side up when they fell out, and stayed in that position till Gibson tipped it over."

Public News FOR OUTPORTS.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Here's another sample of the so-called "Public News" that was despatched to the Outports on the 21st inst., from St. John's:—

"Annual Sale of Work in aid of Wesley Church, St. John's, was opened yesterday afternoon by Lady Morris, wife of the Premier, who was introduced by Rev. F. R. Matthews, pastor of Church."

While P. T. McGrath can use the Public Telegraph wires to such an extent and for the purpose the above would betray, he only sends very few words of war news which is a matter of deep concern to everybody. Here is the war news sent us on the same day as the above:—

"Armistice prior to arranging Peace terms has been proclaimed by Turks and Balkan allies."

We are not concerned as to who opened the Wesley Sale of Work, or whose purse they tried to open, unless indeed Sir Edward Morris becomes a better man by this extra spiritual influence. But we are interested in the present war and want a fuller despatch sent to the Outports, more particularly when the freight traffic is allowed to interfere with the regular transmission of His Majesty's mails, as is the case to-day.

Further, we most strongly object to our public telegraph lines being used, as they are to-day, for the partisan purposes of the present Government, at public expense. If Sir E. P. Morris needs boosting, and apparently P. T. McGrath thinks he does, then let him pay for the telegraph messages out of his own pocket.

No one is led to think for a moment that the compiler of local telegraph despatches wishes to benefit the Methodist people, or cause, for there are so many important things happening in the Methodist connection that never find a place in the "Public despatches." So you can console yourself, Mr. P. T., with the fact that no one is deceived by your tactics to-day.

Yours truly,
Nov. 22, 1912. OUTPORT.

Do You Know How a Suit of Clothes is Made?

Do you know how a pair of shoes is made? Are you a judge of fabric and of leather? Are you a judge of workmanship? Do you know that there are 152 parts in the average suit of clothes, and that the workmanship on any one of these parts can be skimmed and cheapened?

Did you know, for example, that in some factories they give you a hand knecled collar which takes a tailor fifteen minutes to make and that in other factories they have a machine that does the work in three-fifths of a second?

Did you know that there are sixty-two parts to the average pair of shoes, and that every one of those parts can be cheapened to make a price?

Did you know that your shirt can be made in twenty different ways with twenty different qualities, so that while you can hardly tell them apart, one shirt will last many times longer than another?

Now, what are we getting at? Simply this: If you know merchandise, you can buy your clothes, your shoes, and your shirts, any place. But if you don't know merchandise, then there is only one thing left for you to do, and that is to buy it from the man who does know merchandise and whom you can trust.

Now what men are the best experts on merchandise and how are you going to be able to know them? The answer is very simple. The leaders in every business line are the best merchandise men, because they have to be the best in order to become leaders.

Next in order to find these leaders, all you have to do is read the advertising in your daily paper. In every line the men who advertise are the leaders in their lines. You know that as well as anybody else.

And last, these men are safest to deal with because the man who advertises, while he has most to lose, also has most to lose.

Therefore the natural conclusion is that in buying your overcoat and suit, and your shoes, and shirts to-day, all you have to do is to look through this paper and buy these things from the men who advertise.

This is all so clear and logical that the next thing now for you to do, is simply to open your paper and begin looking.

The man behind his merchandise is the man you want to know.

St. Patrick's.

Ye have built a goodly spire,
Crowned the task that was essayed
In the zeal of Faith's desire,
When your fathers worked and prayed;
Though they never reached a steeple
Yet the fruitful seed was sown,
Deathless names of Priest and People
Graven on the basic stone.

Ye have built a goodly spire,
With the Holy Cross its crowned,
And the tongues that never tire
Make its silvery peals resound:
Faith and hope and love ascending—
Triple message Patrick bore—
Like the leaves of shamrock blending
To the God whom we adore.

Ye have built a goodly spire,
Flung it far unto the sky
As a Paean of Sacred fire,
Voiceless Anthem raised on high;
And the echo of that Anthem
Like sweet frankincense will bring,
Breathe a blessing on the giver
And the gifts ye give the King.

Life is Uncertain.

The outlook's rather dark and murky for you—fat and stately turkey that roosts upon a limb; Thanksgiving comes the year grows sayer, and soon the dour and ruthless slayer will put the lie on him. Some morning, when the world is waking, some morning when the dawn is breaking the East all painted red, that turl will rouse from dreams affrighted and be astonished and de-lighted to find he has no head. But we, who blithely plan to eat him, who gnash our teeth when'er we meet him, may die before that turkey; this life, is so uncertain that death with us is always flirtin', and may get in its work. Just read the almanacs and ponder upon the billion germs that wander around man as he walks; the billion germs that pine and languish; they can't fill his breast with anguish and put him in a box. Just think of microbes and consider how apt you are to leave a widder before Thanksgiving day; devour to-day your apple cobbler and do not bank upon the cobbler that 's yet two days away. We know not when the final curtain may fall on us, for life's uncertain as marriage or baseball; but while it's here, with its caressings, let's gather and enjoy its blessings, in cottage and in hall.

Special Evening Telegram, LONDON, To-Day.
Woman suffrage received a set back and the Unionists gained a seat in the bye-election to-day in the Bow and Bromley Division of Tower Hamlets. The Unionist candidate, Reg. Blain, defeated Lambury, the Laborite, by 4,042 to 3,291. Lambury resigned his seat in the Commons in order to test the feeling of the constituency on woman suffrage, on which he was one of the warmest champions. He was enthusiastically supported by suffragettes, who provided him with an abundance of motor cars to convey voters to the poll. Blain is an anti-woman's suffragist.

Trouble at Quidi Vidi.

An interesting case in which a number of people of Quidi Vidi are involved will be heard in the Magistrate's court during the week. From what we can learn the cause of the trouble is the result of a certain planter fencing off a portion of land which he claimed was his but which was disputed by other fisher folks of the village. Various parties interfered and a couple of assaults were the outcome. Accordingly summonses were issued and the matter will be thrashed out in court.

Ten owners of unlicensed dogs were summoned, three of them were fined $1 each in addition to paying the license; the others settled up before the cases were called.

100 Per Cent in Their Favour.

Some are too light some too clumsy—the Fraser is just right. Out of ten fishermen at the Battery looking them all over and taking time to consider, they brought Fraser Engines. These 10 jurymen were unanimous in their decision. Mr. Outharbour buyer should this evidence not be good enough for you.

The Fraser is strong and durable, speedy, reliable, and yet so easily understood that any 10-year-old boy can operate it.

A Paying Industry.

The abnormally high prices now offered for live foxes have impelled many in the outports to take up fox hunting as an industry, and large numbers will be out after them the coming winter. The black species fetch the most and from $5,000 to $8,000 are offered by owners of fox farms for these animals. The patch variety are worth from $2,500 to $3,500, and the common red fox fetches $50.

New Meat Market.

Messrs. Campbell & McKay whose new meat market on Water Street East is so popular, will shortly open another one on Water Street West. This will be in the store formerly occupied by Mr. N. Worsley and which is being thoroughly renovated and improved for the new venture.

The S. S. Lonsburg, Masters, sailed this morning for Charlottetown.
The S. S. Sinbad is expected to leave Montreal to-day with a full cargo of flour for Shea & Co.

Hettie Green Is 78.

The Richest Woman in the World Celebrates Birthday.

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Hettie Green, the richest woman in the world, is 78 years old to-day. "It's no holiday, though," she declared at her square little rosewood desk, the head of Wall Street. "Why should I take a holiday and waste a whole day, just because I happened to be born on November 21, 1834?"

Mrs. Green consented to dictate a series of "dons" for girls. They are: Don't envy. Don't fail to go to church. Don't eat anything but good wholesome food. Don't cheat in your business dealings. Don't forget to be charitable. Don't forget to take a lot of exercise. Don't forget to obey the laws of God.

New York, Nov. 21.—Sam Schepps, one of the four informers whose testimony resulted in the conviction of Charles Becker and the four gunmen for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was discharged from custody to-day. He had been held on a technical charge of vagrancy.

Schepps refused to divulge his plans for the future. The time for the release of Webber, Vallon and Rose, the other informers, has not been made public by the District Attorney's office but all three, it was expected, would be given their freedom to-day.

St. Patrick's Bazaar.

SUCCESSFUL OPENING.

Under favourable auspices and in the presence of a thousand people the St. Patrick's Bazaar was opened in the British Hall yesterday afternoon. Among those present were Rev. Fr. McDermott, incumbent of St. Patrick's; His Lordship Bishop Power, of St. George's; Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Rev. Frs. Pippy and Kelly; Rev. Bros. Ryan, Ennis, Cullane and other Christian Brothers; Mayor Ellis, J. M. Kent, E. M. Jackman, J. L. Slatery, J. J. Mullaly, M. E. Kennedy and M. Power.

At the hour appointed His Grace the Archbishop formally declared the Sale opened. In an interesting address His Grace commented on the good work being accomplished by the parishioners of St. Patrick's Church, under the supervision of the Pastor, Rev. Fr. McDermott. The Archbishop explained the object of the bazaar and congratulated those in charge on their excellent display of goods. In conclusion he wished the lady assistants all kinds of success.

His Lordship Bishop Power was the next speaker. He was glad to have the pleasure of witnessing the sale and expressed himself as agreeably surprised at the enthusiasm displayed by the people of St. Patrick's.

The Premier followed in a brief speech, referred to the friendly relationship existing between the people of different persuasions in the West End, and was confident that every body would assist, if possible, the worthy incumbent and his assistants in their laudable efforts.

Mayor Ellis who was the next speaker paid a tribute to the people of St. Patrick's in general, referring to the good work they were doing particularly in connection with the new tower.

The last speaker was His Excellency the Governor who advocated the work being carried on to beautify the church, and intimate that the bazaar was a capital means of raising funds for the object intended.

The large number of visitors present during the afternoon and night were delighted with what they saw. The stalls are filled to repletion with a large and varied assortment of goods, and the decorations are most artistically wrought. A beautiful display of goods, the handiwork of the Nuns and their pupils, attracted favourable attention and the bazaar is destined to become one of the most successful held in the city for some time past. Last night the band of the C. C. C. rendered a splendid programme and to-night a concert will be given. The gentlemen's stall is presided over by Mrs. J. Jackman and Miss Healey assisted by Mesdames Sheehan and Brownrigg; Plain and Fancy Work, Mesdames McGettigan and Nickerson, Misses Cowan and Carroll; Vegetables, Miss L. Murphy; Picture Booth, Mrs. Harrington, Miss R. Ludrigan; Candles, Misses Callahan and Evans; Mrs. M. F. Murphy has charge of the fish pond which attracted numbers of children; Fortune Telling Booth, Mrs. J. Power; and Teas were served by Mesdames J. M. Kent and G. Byrne; High Teas were served by Mesdames Butler and Ashley and Miss Colford.

Irish Protestant Home Rules

(From the Manchester Guardian.) It becomes clearer, almost daily, that a spirit of compromise is again active among Unionists outside Parliament. The remarkable document issued yesterday, with the signatures of many of the most respected Unionist Protestants in Ireland, is one sign of this. For another, it has gradually come out that in Ulster itself the Presbyterian Church was too deeply divided by the extremist policy of the Carson group to be able to issue any general manifesto about home rule. In Ulster there is known to have grown up of late years a large body of Protestant adherents to a moderate type of Nationalism, and also a large body of reluctant but loyal acquiescers in any good form of home rule through which the crown and the Imperial Parliament may in future exercise their authority over Ireland. In England it is remembered by everybody that all the chief arguments for home rule were being advanced warmly by the London Conservative press in the autumn of 1910 in order, apparently, to prepare the rank and file of the party for a movement by its leaders towards a settlement of the Irish question by general consent, somewhat as the question of federation was settled in South Africa.

Your Hair is Fluffy, Beautiful and Lustrous in a Few Moments

GIRLS! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE OF "DANDERINE" AND TRY THIS. ALSO STOPS FALLING HAIR; DESTROYS DANDRUFF.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be, after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and loveliness it surely gets a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Cable News.

Special Evening Telegram.
 LONDON, Nov. 26.
 No change for the worse in the international situation is visible to-day, except in so far as the continued tension decreases the ability of diplomacy to resist rupture. Britain, France and Germany are giving counsels of moderation, both at Vienna and St. Petersburg. There is also reason to believe that Britain has given Serbia, Russia and France to understand that she has no interest in Serbia's demand for a port on the Adriatic Sea. She has also told them that she has no intention of supporting Serbia's claim by force of arms, nor of aiding any other Power to do so. The fact that the Austro-Hungarian Consul has arrived at Uskub, thus disposing of the reports of his murder, ought to be helpful, in the opinion of diplomats, in bringing about a general improvement in the situation. It removes one thorny point which caused particular exasperation to the Austrian, and should tend to smooth their feelings.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.
 That the Panama Canal controversy with Britain will be a legacy to the Wilson administration is the expectation in political circles. This was learned definitely to-day. The British Embassy, it is understood, shares this view, and Ambassador Bryce has made up his mind to remain at his post until the spring of 1913. Although he is anxious to get back to England, he has placed himself at the disposal of his government, the British Foreign Office having asked him to remain until the Panama difficulty is adjusted. It is now believed that Britain has decided to let the affair drift along until the Taft Administration is no more and push the protest vigorously when President-elect Wilson takes office.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.
 The progress of the negotiations between the delegates of Turkey and the Balkan Allies at Tchatalja, is still a sealed book. In diplomatic circles here it is stated that Turkey has presented the following acceptable basis for agreement:— 1st. No war indemnity; 2nd, the retention of Turkish territory bounded by the Maritza River, the fortress of Adrianople to be included; 3rd, the maintenance of Turkish sovereignty in Albania.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.
 Ten minutes before the ceremony was to take place, the Inspectors of the Health Department, yesterday stopped a marriage in a family infected by small-pox in the village of St. Elizabeth, near Joliette. After a tour of the village, the inspectors found not less than thirty cases in the one small municipality.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.
 "Gyp the Blood," "Whitey Lewis," "Lefty Louie," and "Dago Frank," the gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, were sentenced to-day by Justice Gott, to die in the electric chair during the week beginning January 6th.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 26.
 The entire top section of Jacks Mountain, opposite Keiflers, on the C.P.R., has collapsed, hurling into the Fraser River hundreds of thousands of cubic yards of rock, and ruining a 291-foot tunnel on the railway lines. No lives are reported as lost.

GOSHEN, N.Y., Nov. 26.

Man Shot.

THE VICTIM MAY DIE.

Inspector General Sullivan last night had a telegram from Head Constable Patton, of Twillingate, telling him of a possibly fatal shooting accident which occurred there last evening. The telegram stated that a young man named Haggert was shooting across the street at a target near the Union Store and accidentally shot Edgar Hadden. The bullet lodged in the young man's breast and he fell unconscious. He was removed home where two doctors attended him but could not locate the bullet. It is feared the victim cannot live. Haggert was arrested.

War News

Special Evening Telegram.
 LONDON, To-Day.

The possibility of the danger of a greater war than that between the Balkan States and Turkey now absorbs public interest far more than the first bout of diplomacy between the belligerents outside Constantinople. The steps towards mobilization which Austria and Turkey are taking, although but preliminary precautions, have made possible to vision the vast consequences which are, as far as Britain is concerned, considered nothing less than appalling. The British public apparently has no desire to sacrifice lives, money, paralyze commerce or to risk her navy over settlement of the status of Balkan peninsula; yet it is uneasy because ignorant of how far Britain's diplomatic engagements with France and Russia extend in the direction of an alliance, and of how much likelihood there is that the Government may be drawn into conflict in which one or both its partners in the entente may be engaged. The Liberal press is unanimously urging that Britain preserve neutrality. The majority of the Conservatives demand the same policy. The Times declaring that none of the European peoples want war, and say that is where the nations are blindly drifting. "If," they ask, "who then makes war?" The answer is to be found in the Chancellors of Europe, among men who too long have played with human lives as pawns in a game of chess, and who have become so enmeshed in formulas and jargon diplomacy that they have ceased to be conscious of the poignant relations with which they traffic. The Pall Mall Gazette almost alone speaks in warlike voice and declares "England ought to look firmly, and with France and Russia refuse simply to be swept aside out of the conference desired by the British Government. If refused we ought to face the alternative and stand by our friends." Latest news received here foreshadows breakdown of armistice negotiations, probably over the demand of Bulgaria for evacuation of Adrianople, which Turkey will not listen to. The Turkish view is that while the allies have no more reserves which they can draft upon, Turkey is drawing a plentiful supply of fresh troops from Asia and is able to continue the war for another year. Turkish military authorities assert that Adrianople can hold out for another month and that the Tchatalja lines are impregnable, hence Turkey's position is not desperate enough to warrant her acceptance of humiliating terms.

LONDON, To-day.
 Thirty heavy guns were brought to the fortress at Belgrade on Tuesday. Forces have been recalled from the seat of war to the Serbian capital. This information is sent by the Belgrade correspondent of the Standard who adds there are still a considerable number of fresh troops there, and the Turkish and Albanian prisoners being employed strengthening the fortifications.

That Shooting Accident.

With reference to the shooting accident that occurred at Twillingate, Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings received the accompanying message last evening from Magistrate Scott:— This morning at the Fishermen's Union Store, men fired through rifle at a mark opposite the shop, and across the street, put a bullet in Edgar Hodder, who was crossing the shop door and he now lies with bullet in the region of shoulder. Two doctors are holding consultation. John Mackett, of Leading Tickers, who fired the bullet, has been arrested.

Splendid Gift.

We learn to-day that W. D. Reid, Esq., President of the Reid Nfld. Co. has made a splendid donation to the Building Fund of St. Patrick's Church. He will give in the aggregate the sum of $2,000 in 4 yearly instalments of $500. Feelings of surprise at such a very liberal present have given way to admiration for the magnificence of the giver, and the people of St. Patrick's will not soon forget his generosity. At the bazaar yesterday the sum of $88 was taken on the door. It is the intention after the tower is finished to put a new hardwood floor on the church, new pews after the style of the Cathedral and to install a new organ. Later, if possible, the church will be extended for 50 feet to accommodate the increasing congregation.

The Centenary Mission Circle will hold their Annual Sale of Work in the Basement of George Street Church on Wednesday, the 27th inst. General admission 5 cents. Teas will be served to adults for 30c.; children, 10c. A good programme has been prepared for Concert, beginning at 9 o'clock, consisting of instrumental and vocal music, recitations, etc., at the close of which Suppers will be served.—Sec. nov25,31

On Being Late.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

They say time is money, and yet how many people who are thoroughly scrupulous about other people's time! A single penny out of a pocketbook entrusted to them, and yet, when a friend entrusts his time to such a one by making an appointment with him, the time thief thinks that making off with a large sum of time is a mere peccadillo to be wiped off the slate with an excuse or two.

The other day I was waiting for a friend in the doorway of one of the large stores in the city near which I live. A woman was standing near me who had evidently been waiting for someone a long time and was rather impatient. Finally a young girl came sauntering along as if she had all the time in the world. The older woman called her attention to the fact that it was long past the time at which she had promised to meet her, and the young girl answered, "Oh, what time is it? Am I very late?" I did not hear any more because they walked away, but what I did hear showed that the girl had not considered the keeping of her appointment important enough to even keep track of the time.

A young man told me a short time ago that the only fault he had to find with the young lady to whom he is

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past forty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. It is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

"My disease was called retroversion," writes Mrs. LYDIA McDONALD, of Meosota, Mich., Route 1. "I had nervous chills and numb spells every week. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He would have had me under his knife. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous chills or weak spells. I am better than for years."

"My daughter is now taking the 'Prescription' and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. She has the 'Tubercles' for nervousness and weakened feeling. These remedies have helped her ever so much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Fashions and Fads.

White suits are trimmed with fur in dark colors.

Suits are made of velvet or velour de laine in shades of red.

For lovers of outdoor sports the knitted jacket is much worn.

The new motor bonnets are also of ratine and are fur trimmed.

Smart waists of white voile have groups of fine tucks alternating with rows of tiny rhinestone buttons.

New bracelets are of gold and platinum, worked to imitate a broad gazon fastened with a gold buckle.

Magneta colored cloth, trimmed with black soutache braid, is one of the combinations in the new costumes.

Cameos in Wedgwood blue and siell pink are seen on hats and used for the fastenings of evening cloaks.

Many otherwise sombre tailored suits are brightened by a touch of Oriental embroidery on collars, cuffs and revers.

The latest word from Paris says that hats and toques are small. Some have close-fitting brims of fur and draped crowns.

Plain velvet, especially in light colors, is being used for many theatre gowns. Amber is one of the loveliest shades.

The favorite tissues of the moment for the new evening gowns are flowered mousselines, brocades and rich moire souple.

Some of the prettiest tailored skirts for the tailored suits are made of navy charmeuse with revers and pipings of white satin.

Saphire blue and virgins are two favorite shades for the odd velvet coats which women are wearing with black satin of a loop and button.

Some of the new clinging gowns are fashioned with a slight train, frequently made so as to fasten up by means of a loop and button.

Nothing is prettier for a young woman's evening gown than rose and white flowered mousseline and lace.

Little bows to finish one's collar resist of bright colored velvet cocks.

Combed at the ends and held in the middle by a medallion of real Irish. Quinella, sable and squirrel are favorite furs for trimming dresses and nannies. Black satin and velvet dresses are trimmed with white fox.

A feature of the prettiest American underclothes is net casings through which the ribbons are run. Imitation Irish lace is also much seen.

Smally boys are wearing charming little polo coats, almost identical with their elders. Mannish coats of gray and blue chinchilla are always good.

Theatre and dinner gowns of velvet are almost invariably fashioned with transparent corsages. The sleeves are invariably formed kimono fashion.

Some of the most stunning stoles are worked in narrow strips of fur laid on a soft velvet or satin foundation with an effect like wide-ribbed fur corduroy.

Beautiful dressing cases, address books and small matters of this kind are now to be had in a fine leatherlike pigskin, in beautiful tones of turquoise and old blue.

Buttons of striped porcelain are used on many of the tailored suits.

The new neck ruffles of feathers, fur or lace are studded with roses.

Many smart women are wearing scarfs of lace of heavy ecru lace and black velvet.

Pretty skating caps are of black velvet with white cloth or velvet facings.

For the young girl of 14 or 16, the Russian blouse suit is most becoming.

The new Russian tunic is having a great success for dinner and evening wear.

Bolero coats of plain velvet in odd colors are still holding their place in fashion's favour.

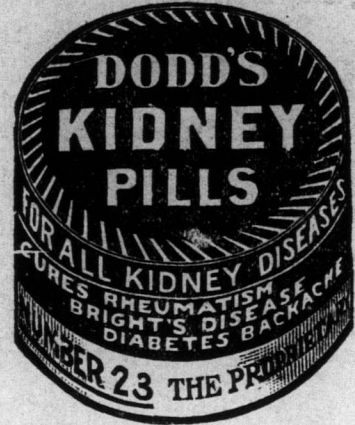

The characteristic of mantles this season is that few of them reach the hem of the skirt.

Very chic collarettes and muffs are made by combining tulle, lace, velvet and ribbon.

Entire crowns formed of small ostrich tips are being used on some of the smartest models.

For motor coats, the thickest of ratine and camel's hair cloths are the newest materials used.

Whole dresses are made of broad tail, so fine and lustrous that it looks almost like watered velvet.

Dainty and chic walking dresses are made of fine navy blue serge or of brown and black striped tweed.

One of the most attractive new costumes is of sapphire blue velvet trimmed with chinchilla or fox fur.

The vogue of black and white does not abate; indeed, it is one of the greatest successes of the autumn season.

Chic women hold persistently to the small toque, which has gained so rapidly in the fashion world this season.

Bags of the coming season are to be much smaller and rectangular in shape. The cordeller is not in fashion now.

Combinations triumph in evening gowns. One side of the bodice will be cream tulle and the other of raspberry velvet.

Psoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mde. N. Massey.

Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.

But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Conesecon, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and scores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema.

Technical Education.

ARTICLE II.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In my last article I endeavoured to show that Technical Education has been adopted by the leading countries of the world, and that the principal idea underlying this form of Education is to train the rising generation of workers in the arts and sciences underlying the resources and dominant industries of each country and locality, for instance Switzerland exports in ribbons alone over $3,000,000, this is an important industry of the Swiss people alone, and they maintain a Technical Institute at Zurich to train their workers in the science and art requisite to conduct such a manufacture successfully. Germany has applied Technical Education to all her natural resources and dominant industries. A Prussian statesman recently said that "we in Germany do not care whether you in England are free traders or protectionists, but what we are afraid of is that some day your people will wake up to the necessity of having a complete system of Technical and Scientific Education." England is commencing to wake up, for I find that Sir Wm. Mather, M. P., is authority for the statement that in Manchester alone over $2,000,000 has been spent in the building and equipment of her Technical Schools, and in these schools over 5,000 students regularly attend classes.

The State of Massachusetts grants to each city, town or district one half the cost of maintaining Industrial Schools, such cities as Fitchburg, Worcester, Pittsfield, and Lawrence, have availed of the grant and have established magnificent schools for their Industrial Education, while Lowell, Fall River and New Bedford have founded Textile Schools to equal in equipment Germany's most famous institutions. The U. S. Congress have passed a bill endowing State Colleges for Agriculture and Industrial Hight Schools.

In Munich, Bavaria, there are 40 different kinds of Industrial Schools designed to give the workmen the mental power to see beyond the mere task that occupies his hands, and to grasp the broad view of the industry in regard to cost of production and the introduction of a better system. As Nova Scotia's principal industries are mining, engineering and agriculture the scope of their training is as follows: (1.) Courses of Mining, Civil, Electrical, Metallurgical and Mechanical Engineering and Industrial Research, in connection with these departments; (2.) Local Technical Schools established in various industrial centres, offering such Technical courses as should benefit the people and industries in each locality; (3.) Coal Mining and Engineering schools in colliery centres which teach the men employed in them about the collieries, the scientific principles underlying coal mining and mechanical engineering. This Province has also an Agricultural College at Truro where over 300 young men and women take courses in Technical, Agricultural Education. The ladies are given special courses in Dairying, Horticulture, Poultry raising and Domestic Science. Mr. Sexton is also organizing classes for fishermen in each fishing country. I have laborated the scope of this system to bring home forcibly to the minds of my readers what Nova Scotia is doing and to ask the question: "Are we on the right lines? Are we giving our young men and women a fair show?" Surely if it is good policy for Nova Scotia to train her colliers in the scientific principles underlying coal mining, it must be sound policy for Newfoundland to give her workers a chance and educate them on modern lines.

I now propose to outline the scope of the work of a Technical College suited to our needs.
First.—To study fish life, their natural history, propagation, effects of temperature, waters, tides and ice on the movements and habits of fish;
Second.—To study the scientific treatment of fish offal, kelp, sea grasses, animalcules, etc., etc.;
Third.—The establishment of a school in connection with the college to teach boys from the city and outport schools in short courses, the most up-to-date method of packing fish in paper boxes, small packages jars, etc. in a word to train the rising generation to treat our own fish in the same way as our Gloucester competitors are treating fish caught to say at Petty Harbour. The best Newfoundland codfish is bought green at 6 cents per pound by American firms it is sold retail in packages at 20c. per pound package; surely if there is big money in it for Gloucester men, why not for ourselves?
Fourth.—The establishment of a department for the study of co-operative production and distribution, and all economics connected with the fishing, farming, forest, mineral, game and all other resources of Newfoundland.

As the fisheries represent four-fifths of our resources so the main work of this college should be devoted to a curriculum designed to develop workers, men of large vision who will see the value of Newfoundland's economic position in connection with the fisheries and sea borne traffic of British

Fairbanks' Motor Engines

When you need to buy a motor for your boat,
And one that none can equal in its speed—
One hundred thousand purchasers can not be wrong.
That Fairbanks is the very kind you need.

In the Provinces, that we call the Maritime,
We know there's hundreds truly can attest
Of all the many motors in that clime
That the Fairbanks manufacture leads the rest.

Though the praise of other motors you may read
And are told their speed and style is something grand,
Yet it won't be long e'er Fairbanks make will lead
All the others now in use in Newfoundland.

They are durable, reliable, and strong,
Believe us for we tell no fairy tales,
It's impossible for motors to go wrong
When made by those who make the Fairbanks scales.

Those who use them know how excellent they are,
They say they're far superior to the rest
So send an order to their Agent, Mr. Barr,
For the Fairbanks Motor Engines are the best.

North America, men who will be keen in opening up new markets, curing every kind of fish to suit the tastes of each country, and keeping in the van of all progress connected with our basic industry.

I believe that we are on the eve of big changes in connection with new methods of cure, packing and marketing. There is if properly tested and catered for an almost unlimited and increasing market for dainty packaged fish delicacies. This North American market it well, if properly catered for, be influenced by four factors favourable to our fishery interests.

First.—A farming and manufacturing population increasing in numbers and wealth;
Second.—The increased cost and limited supply of cattle;
Third.—The decline of the fishing population of Eastern Canada and America;

Increased transportation and banking facilities and the marketing of small consignments to each the middleman, all these influences are operating in her favor.

Even if we admit that the United States of America will continue her high protective tariff, let us consider "Canada alone as a market for our fish products. At her present rate of increase Canada will have from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 million people within her borders within the life of the present generation. Her emigrants are coming from fish consuming countries, they are mainly a pastoral people, they are fish consumers, not producers, therefore the problem of fish food supply for Canada alone will have a greater influence on Newfoundland economic position in the future than in the past. In view of this development it is obvious that she is now about to come to her own as far as her fishery wealth is concerned; it is here that a magnificent future head, but to read to deal with the new conditions we need to widen the outlook for our young fishermen; we need to give them the encouragement to stay at home, we need to teach them through a Technical Educational system of instruction the two most practical aspects of Industrial Training.

First.—Physical science which enables a man to study nature and to understand the laws of nature and nature's economics a handsome return for his labour and enterprise;

Second.—Social science which teaches investment, management, production and distribution how to combine together lawfully to help themselves by helping each other. I believe that the study of social science and its application to our fishery problems will lead within a few years to the adoption of some form of co-operation that will be beneficial to our people in every branch of industry. Let us take two different problems that have vexed the fisherman for over three centuries. First.—Bait: This season the cry of need to give bait on all sides; a fine banking fleet and thousands of boat and punt fishermen were idle for weeks because there was no bait, and yet in 1912, and why our lobster fishery has declined from 76,226 cases in 1899 to 28,644 cases in 1911, and also why the Norwegians have after scientific investigation and research prohibited the catching of whales within their fishing areas for ten years and transferred their captains, ships and capital to our territorial waters, to engage in an industry that they considered a menace to their own fisheries.

Then take the waste in connection with our fisheries. A fisherman of Petty Harbour told me a few days ago that there are 2,000 tons of fish offal or waste in Petty Harbour on an average every year, instead of throwing the choicest parts of a fish back into the sea to pollute the fishing grounds or over the stage heads and become a menace to the health of fishing settlements. Here, again, we need to organize a plan to carry it and turn this waste into gold.

Then, again, let us ask the question why the catch of our seal fishery has declined from 685,520 in 1884 to 175,150 in 1912; and why our lobster fishery has declined from 76,226 cases in 1899 to 28,644 cases in 1911, and also why the Norwegians have after scientific investigation and research prohibited the catching of whales within their fishing areas for ten years and transferred their captains, ships and capital to our territorial waters, to engage in an industry that they considered a menace to their own fisheries.

All these questions point to the necessity of having a central body of scientific workers to lead us in the chemistry, biology, and all other questions bearing on our basic industry. Although the fisheries are and will for generations be the mainstay of our resources, and although the main rest of this college should be directed towards the scientific treatment of all our fishery problems and the education of our boys therein. I would not confine the work of this college to our fisheries, I would attach to it an Agricultural School or branch with a first-class scientific man in charge to teach our young men and women scientific agriculture; and as our country is different in soil and climate from other countries she needs separate treatment to develop her agricultural possibilities; in would also assign a mineralogist to deal with our ores, rocks, strata and mineral resources, and also an up-to-date man to study our forest wealth and to solve the problem of re-forestation, the effect of the enormous cutting of forests, for even the present pulp propositions are bound to have an influence on our climate and waterways. Now is the time to avail of the experience of Norway, Sweden, France and Germany and get a first-class man to advise us on the conservation of our forest wealth.

The college as outlined will train our young men for the work of developing all our resources on scientific or industrial lines; it is not intended to interfere in any way with the splendid work done by our colleges; its object is to supplement their work and enable our people to get through scientific training the most out of the rich heritage that our country has endowed our country with. This college will breathe, in time, new life, energy and enterprise into our people, it will give us all a wider outlook and a higher conception of our destiny; it will increase our knowledge of our economic resources and their latent possibilities and as a result new industries and new men will grow up to lead us to a higher industrial life.

We have a great country, rich in her fisheries, her forests and her mines, richer still in being peopled with a hardy and intellectual race, therefore let us all unite in the consideration of a system of Technical Education that will enable our boys and girls to get the same Technical educational advantages as other countries, and believe that in a decade from the date of the opening of this college there will be millions of wealth added to our earnings by annual increases in the products of sea and land.

In my next letter I will outline the organization of the suggested college.
E. M. JACKMAN.

Surely Settles Upset Stomachs.

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Sourness and Heartburn in five minutes.

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome Indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated, it belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

Not on Morien.

Mr. Richard Rodgers yesterday telegraphed to Sydney to ascertain if the report was correct that Mr. James Howlett was chief engineer of the missing S. S. Morien, had a reply in the afternoon stating that such was not the case and that Mr. Hoch was in business for himself at Sydney. Mr. Howlett's many friends in St. John's will be glad to learn of this.

COMPLETELY DISHEARTENED

Egyptian Liniment Cured Him

Though the hospital physicians could not agree on the cause of his trouble, Mr. Robert Graham, of Elgin, Ont., found Douglas' Egyptian Liniment the proper cure. He writes: "For four months I suffered untold agony from my arm, which was completely disheartened, however, he prevailed upon me to give my arm one application. I did and immediately after I began to feel the relief, I followed the directions and after using the contents of one bottle, my arm was entirely cured. I have had no return of the pain since. Egyptian Liniment has certainly been a boon to me."

There are not many ailments of man or beast where liniment will do any good, that Douglas' Egyptian Liniment will not do the most good. 74 25c. at all dealers—free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napance, Ont.

Rum And Water

Seaman's Three Mile Swim to Buy Bottle.
Waking on the cliffs at Tankerton near Whitstable, Kent, a resident said a man, wearing only a pair of pants, crawling laboriously up the slopes of hands and knees, evidently in the last state of exhaustion. After treatment and food he was able to tell the tale.
A French-Canadian from Quebec, who was one of the crew of a collier, who chored some three miles off Whitstable. He had asked permission of his captain to go ashore in the ship's boat to fetch a parcel, and being refused he stripped and jumped overboard. After swimming for over an hour in a very cold sea and against a strong tide, he was washed on a natural breakwater at Tankerton, more dead than alive.
The contents of the parcel which caused him to risk his life proved to be three bottles of rum, and he had three shillings tied in a handkerchief round his body with which to purchase another bottle for a shipmate.
He had not realized that it is not the custom to go shopping in an English port in an almost nude condition.

A French-Canadian from Quebec, he was one of the crew of a collier, anchored some three miles off Whitstable. Man Who Broke Bank At Monte Carlo.
Paris, Nov. 22.—Charles Wells, alias Lucerne Riviere, James Burns and known also as the "man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo" was sentenced to-day in the Correctional Court to a term of five years in prison, and to pay a fine of $600 for fraud.
Wells was arrested at Falmouth, England, in January, of this year for a bucket shop swindle in Paris, out of which he is said to have realized 1,000,000 francs ($200,000). His scheme was to promise to pay investors one per cent. per day on all sums of money deposited with him. When he had secured a large amount from his victims he decamped.
Previously Wells had purchased a magnificent fitted out steam yacht and it was on board this vessel in Falmouth Harbour that he and a woman companion were arrested. Later he was brought here for trial.
Wells is credited with three breakings of the Bank at Monte Carlo in the early 90's. His winnings were said to have been about $350,000.

GUM
BY I. L. FANN.

Gum is an elastic stimulant which is used by people who are afflicted with both side and rotary jaw action. No one can watch an enthusiastic gum chewer for several minutes without a rush of blood to the head, as it is a very dizzy process and lends a look of animation to the human countenance.
Gum is made largely of rubber bands and can be had in several different perfumes, ranging from the languorous ex blood to the passionate spearmint. Some people prefer chewing gum to any other kind of perfume and use it with the utmost abandon at the theatre and in the street car. It is a stirring sight to see a large, blonde society leader enter the opera at the close of the first act of "Tristan" and immediately begin to converse through a fragrant package of winteregreen gum.
The gum habit is very distasteful to people who never use anything on their handkerchiefs but a monogram. This has caused a general uproar on the part of the Four Hundred, and has resulted in a stern edict barring from the select circles anybody who chews anything stronger than the reflective cud.
Gum chewing is a favorite occupation of the small boy, who never gives up until bedtime. He then hangs his gum on the bed post or the back of a chair, and returns to it the next day with unflagging zeal. When there are two small boys in a family, they engage in a duel to see which can chew the most gum in passing a given point, and the house is frescoed with mute peevish wads from collar to garter.
The best brands of gum have strong curative properties, and will relieve anything but falling hair or the double aching lumbago. A well-advertised brand of gum will preserve the teeth, improve the complexion, round out the hollows in the neck, remove moles from the chin, cure the whistling asthma and prevent lockjaw. No one who chews gum sixteen hours a day will ever have the lockjaw unless he catches it in his sleep.

Cough and Cold Cure

DON'T WAIT.
During changeable weather in Spring and Fall thousands of children contract Sore Throats as result of exposure, getting feet wet, etc. A neglected sore throat is likely to develop into Tonsillitis, Quinsy, Diphtheria, or a chronic state of Rheumatism that will impair bearing. Often operations on the Tonsils become necessary because a simple sore throat is neglected. Stafford's Phoratoine is the best preparation known for all sore throat troubles.
To Dr. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Newfoundland.
Dear Sirs,—I received the medicine you sent me for my child. I thank you very much for sending it so quick and believe it had just arrived in time to save my child as he was nearly gone. After giving the child a few doses, it completely cured him and now he is as well and hearty as a child can be. It was genuine medicine for that complaint.
Wishing you prosperity,
Yours truly,
Don't forget the name PHORATONE prepared only by Dr. F. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Newfoundland. Price 25 cts. Postage 5 cts. extra.
P. S.—We have this letter in our possession and can be seen at any time.—nov.12,tf

The Scrap Heap.
William Draper Lewis, at a dinner during a convention in Chicago said of a squabble between two factions: "If they knew European history, they would not find these proposals so unprecedented. But they are ignorant. They are as ignorant of European history as Cornelius Husk was ignorant of European art.
Husk entered the National Gallery in Trafalgar Square one day. He watched a young student copying the faded Rokeby Venus; then he watched another young student copying a cracked Holbein; then he watched a third student copying a dim Raphael. "Finally he bent over the easel of the last young man and asked: "Say, mister, what do you do with the old pictures when the new ones are finished?"—London Chronicle.
Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd. Gentlemen.—In July 1905 I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months. In Sept. 1906 Mr. Wm. Outridge of Lachine urged me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT which I did with the most satisfactory results and to-day I am as well as ever in my life.
Yours sincerely,

Woman's Body Found In River
Providence, R. I., Nov. 22.—The body of Miss Norma Garvin, daughter of former Governor L. F. C. Garvin was found in New River to-day.
Miss Garvin disappeared Wednesday evening. The body was in deep water, not far from the shore.
Members of Miss Garvin's family said that she had been unusually reticent during the past few weeks and had taken many evening walks. She had complained of trouble with her head and had expressed a fear that she would meet death in the water. A note found after she left home read:—
"I can't get the water off my mind." And this led to the dragging of the river, which is near the Garvin home in Lonsdale. Miss Garvin was 36 years old.

Look at the Wheat!
There's a deal to know about wheat. If I didn't select the wheat I couldn't guarantee the flour. Cream of the West Flour comes from Cream of the West Wheat. And it certainly does make good bread!

Cream of the West Flour
the hard wheat flour guaranteed for bread
You just try it. If it doesn't give you right down satisfaction your grocer pays your money back. That's the guarantee with barrel.

The homely Suet Pudding, or the Dumplings for the Stew are lightest when raised with

"Paisley Flour"

The SURE raising powder.

The most digestible and enjoyable suet puddings are made by adding one part of "Paisley Flour" to eight parts of ordinary flour before mixing the dough. Steaming instead of boiling also helps to make puddings lighter. "Paisley Flour" mixed 1 part to 12 of ordinary flour, makes delicious light piccrusts and plain pastry for tarts—no doughiness.

"Paisley Flour" is packed in 22c., 14c. and 5c. tins.
The 22c. tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise half a stone of flour.
" 14c. " 7 ozs. " 3 1/2 pounds of flour.
" 5c. " 2 ozs. " 1 "
