Every Neuralgic Headache Cured! Use "Nerviline"—It Won't Fail.

There may be a thousand pains; yet, excepting sciatica, neuralgia is the worst. Most remedies are not strong enough or penetrating enough to relieve neuralgia. You know everything you have tried has failed to give even momentary relief, and you have decided that neuralgia must be borne forever.

have forgotten the pain—it has actually gone. Neuralgia gives Nerviline an opportunity of demonstrating its superiority over all other pain remedies. Not magic, as you might imagine after you have used it—simply the application of scientific knowledge to the relief of pain.

Phyllis Dearborn

Countess of Basingwell

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The situation in which Carria had left her two friends was certainly a very awkward one. Lionel was the first to recover himself.

"I used to call you Miss Honesty," he said, "and I think you deserved the name in those days."

"And do I not now?" she asked. "I hope so. Will you, then, answer one question I will ask you?"

"If I can."

"Did Carrie speak as truly for you as she did for me?"

"I don't know how truly she spoke for you," answered Phyllis. "I know I would be glad of any arrangement—I mean—"

"Why not say truly and frankly what you mean, Phyllis? I love you, I always have loved you, and always shall love you. Do you love me?"

"Yes."

He went over to her, and took both her hands in his, and looked into her eyes as he had often of late wished to look, and had never dared.

"It seems a strange thing to me, Phyllis, to be saying these things to you, who are the heiress to one of the proudest titles and estates in England. I don't know that I would have said them if Carria had not forced me to. And yet, Phyllis, I loved you when you were as poor as I am now, and would have married you as willingly. Why, then, should I have been so foolish as to think to throw away my happiness because the positions are reversed? I don't know, unless it is that I have a great deal of pride which I am willing should be called foolish. At any rate, if you will take me, I will take the estates and save you all the worry and bother of them, if you will only love me a little for doing it."

"I will love you a very great deal, Lionel," and those honest brown eyes looked up into his.

He took her in his arms.

"I don't know how money should count for anything when it is an appendage to you, Phyllis," he said. "I don't believe I should ever have gone away without trying to find out if you loved me. I should probably have tortured myself a great deal, though. What a dear creature Carria is! May I call her, and then send her away again?"

"Let us go to her. She is in the next room. But we shan't surprise her a bit, of course. After the way she talked I should have had to tell you the truth if you had not told it to me."

"Hub!" said Carria, when they entered the room where she was, "what a fuss you two made of it. If you had been in love with me, sir, you would not have worried me so."

"What would you have done?"

"I should have told you at once that it was useless to ask me any foolish questions, because I could never love you."

"But, Phyllis fortunately is not like you in that respect."

"Phyllis has lost all her spirit. You have bullied her into it."

Bullied into it, or entrapped into it, Phyllis was a very happy woman, and Lionel proved that his dismal demeanor was not a permanent affliction.

"When shall we go to Basingwell?" said Carria. "You two may be indifferent, but I assure you I am aching to get into a castle. Is it really a fine place, Lionel? Or is it only a gloomy and dilapidated old ruin?"

"Wait until you see," was the answer. "We ought not to go down—I shall go, of course, to introduce you to the tenants—we ought not to go down without introducing Phyllis to some dowager who will act as a sort of guardian."

"That comes of being a fine lady," said Carria. "She could always take care of herself before. What a bore, Phyllis! Let's go back to Paris."

"Lionel," said Phyllis, "I wonder if, if you would disapprove of a plan I have had in my head."

"I can't think it possible, Phyllis."

"I have wondered, considering all she has suffered, if it would not be kind to ask Lady Dareleigh to be my chaperon."

Lionel made a wry face.

"Why, Phyllis," remonstrated Carria, "if it had not been for her Flora would never have made the terrible mistakes she did. And she naturally the noblest woman that ever was."

"Don't forget that the teaching she gave Flora was probably here," said Phyllis.

"Don't try to hold out, Lionel," said Carria. "You might just as well reconcile yourself to Lady Dareleigh."

"I am ready to," said Lionel, faking Phyllis's hand.

"If you two people stand around very often in that style I shall certainly put you on canvas, and have photographs sold," said Carria, pretending to a very great disgust, when in fact she could hardly admire them enough.

"What will you call your pictures?" asked Lionel.

"A pair of spoons," answered Carria. "But really, Phyllis, will you think of having that wicked woman at the castle?"

"For a little while, anyhow."

"And will you also invite that Mr. Simmons down?"

"Mr. Simmons would hardly be able to respond to an invitation," said Lionel. "At the present moment he is languishing in prison on various charges, ranging from theft to different kinds and grades of fraud."

"I am glad to know that," said Carria; "though I shall not be surprised to hear Phyllis say that she is sorry for the wretch."

"Well," said Phyllis, "I am sorry for him. I am so happy that I am ready to be sorry for any kind of misery, and I don't believe there can be any greater than what comes from detected villainy."

'Margaret,'

The GIRL ARTIST,

The Countess of Ferrers Court.

OR,

CHAPTER I.

It is good to be a girl. It is good to be young. It is good to be beautiful, but it is best of all to be innocent and happy, and she was all these. To save her life she could not help singing softly as she walked through all the splendor of this summer evening, and so she joined the birds in their evening hymn to the tune of "Oh, Mistress Mine!" stopping now and again to gather a spray of honeysuckle or a particularly fine dog-rose, of which the hedges were full.

The fly rattled on its way and came in due course to Parrock's Cross; and the horse, no doubt with a sigh of relief, pulled up of its own accord at the door of the village inn.

The young man woke up—if he had really been asleep—jumped out without opening the door and sauntered into the inn.

"Give me the man what he likes, and me a bottle of Bass," he said to the landlord, and he threw himself down on the rustic seat outside the door.

The landlord brought the ale, touching his forehead obsequiously, for like most country people he knew a gentleman when he saw him, and the young man took a huge draught.

"That's a very good beer," he said, nodding. "Get another bottle for yourself—How many miles is it to Leyton Court?"

"Not more than a mile, sir," said the landlord, touching his forehead again, for a man who was not only a gentleman but who was going to Leyton Court, was worthy of all the respect that could be paid him.

"Is that all? Look here, then; I shall walk it. That contrivance reminds me too forcibly of a hearse; besides, I want to stretch my legs." He stretched them as he spoke; they were long legs and admirably shaped. Tell the man to take the bag on. Here's five shillings for him."

"The fare's half a crown from the station, sir," said the landlord.

The gentleman laughed lazily.

"All right. Tell him to put the other two-and-six in the poor box."

The landlord laughed respectfully, and the young man, left alone, leaned back on the seat and drank his beer in indolent content. Presently the girl passed on the other side of the road.

"Hullo!—there she is again!" he said. "I wonder where she is going? I daresay she's thirsty. It's a pity she isn't a man, for I could ask her to have a drink. Do you know that young lady, landlord?" he asked.

The man shaded his eyes and looked after the girl.

"No, sir," he said. "No. The lady's a stranger to me, sir; a perfect stranger."

The young man smoked his cigar and watched the graceful figure going down the road in the twilight with a touch of interest on his handsome face. He seemed in no hurry to pursue his journey by any means; and when he rose, at length, he yawned and stretched himself.

"Could you give me a bed here to-night, landlord?" he asked.

The man eyed the ground doubtfully.

"We're plain people, sir—" he commended.

"I like plain people," broke in the young man with a laugh, the music of which never failed to call up an answering smile on the faces of those who heard it. "I don't mind roughing it; I'm used to it. I'm not rough that I shall want one; but if I should—"

Gin Pills

FOR THE KIDNEYS

Why They're Used

As Mrs. Ripley, of Williamsfield East, says: "Before I had taken Gin Pills, I suffered dreadfully with my back and had suffered for twenty years. I have tried everything but got no relief until I took Gin Pills. I am now 48 and feel as well as I ever did in my life. There is nothing that can hold a place with Gin Pills for Pain in the Back, to which women are subject."

Gin Pills are 50c. the box or 6 boxes for $2.50 at any drug store. If you want to try Gin Pills write for free sample to the National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Toronto.

"We'll do our best to make you comfortable, sir," said the landlord, touching his forehead again.

"Right!" exclaimed the young man, carelessly. "Well, don't be surprised if you see me back in—say a couple of hours. Straight on to the Court, I suppose?"

"Straight on, sir," said the landlord, and swinging his stick with a careless, happy-go-lucky air, the young man started off.

Slowly as he walked, his long legs soon overtook the young girl, and he passed her again, as she was standing on tiptoe to get a flower from the hedge. He half stopped with the evident intention of reaching the blossom, which reared itself tantalizingly just beyond her reach, but he thought—"she won't like it perhaps; I think I want to intrude myself upon her," and walked on. She had not turned her head.

Probably the loveliness of the evening had the same effect upon him as it had upon her, for when he had got out of her hearing he began to sing, for, you see, he was young and handsome, in good health, and—I was going to say innocent, but pulled up in time.

In a quarter of an hour the road grew wider, and opened out on to a village green. Two or three houses were dotted about it, and an inn with the sign of the Ferrers Arms swinging on a post. A little further stood a pair of huge iron gates, with a lodge at the side of them.

"That's the Court, I suppose?" he said to himself. "Now for the tug of war! Lord, how I wish myself back in London!" and he flicked his cap onto the back of his head, and laughed ruefully.

Some children were playing on the green, and two or three men lounged on the settle outside the inn. Suddenly one of them rose, just as the young man came abreast of the door, and as he made way for the man to pass, a dog ran out from the inn and caused the man to stumble. The fellow uttered an oath and raised his heavily-booted foot. The kick struck the dog in the side, and with a howl of pain he fled behind the young man.

To Trifle With Catarrh Is to Risk Consumption.

Usually it comes with a cold. Being slight it is neglected—but the seed is sown for a dangerous harvest, perhaps consumption. To cure at once, inhale Catarrhogene. It destroys the germs of catarrh, clears away mucous, cleanses the passage of the nose and throat. The hacking cough and sneezing cold soon disappear, and health is yours again. Nothing known for colds, catarrh and throat trouble, that is so curative as Catarrhogene. It cures by a new method that never yet failed. The one dollar outfit includes the inhaler and is guaranteed to cure. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c., sold everywhere.

Your Boys and Girls.

Every mother should learn to use a clinical thermometer and when the child is old enough it should be taught to hold it in its mouth. This is as important as to teach a child to take medicine or to open its throat for inspection. The knowledge of the height of a child's fever will often obviate the presence of a nurse or extra visits from the doctor.

If a child seems ailing without definite symptoms, the mother, by using this thermometer can judge for herself if a physician's presence is necessary. On the other hand a sudden rise of temperature must not be considered alarming, although attention must be given to it at once, for a child jumps into a high fever for a very slight cause sometimes. It is only if the fever continues that it becomes grave cause for alarm.

BRAND'S LINIMENT CURES DIPH- THERIA.

Here and There.

REVIVAL.—The old time revivals Wesley Methodist Church will continue with special service during the week.

IMPROVING.—Mr. T. J. Allan, who has been confined to his bed for the past three weeks, suffering from a severe cold, is improving.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.—The K. of C. will give an "At Home" to-night to their lady friends at their club rooms. An enjoyable time is assured.

MAJOR FRANKLIN.—Mr. J. B. Urquhart is in receipt of a letter from Major Franklin, who is now on active service in France. The gallant Major is enjoying excellent health and states that in his letter that he was to receive few weeks' furlough, commencing Feb. 12th.

REACHED NEW YORK.—Capt. C. Cross and crew, who brought the S.S. Belvedere to Basnia, are due to reach New York to-day and will be coming here on the S.S. Stephano, leaving New York on Thursday next. A message to that effect having been received by Mr. A. J. Harvey.

FARMERS UNEASY.—Owing to the scarcity of feed stuffs the farmers say there is likely to be a shortage in the supply of milk. We learn from good authority that there is shortly to be a meeting of the local farmers to discuss this all-important subject. An instance out of the ordinary is told by a prominent West End business man, that during the latter part of last week several farmers from Outer Cove passed through St. John's on their way to Topsail to buy feed.

B. I. S.

The B. I. S. are making great preparations for their annual St. Patrick's Day parade, a special effort is being made to make it one of the largest in its history. The dramatic company under the supervision of Mr. T. H. O'Neill, will produce the "Road to Kenmare." A lot of new talent will be seen in their first appearance in drama.

Newfoundland's Bit.

(From the Boston Herald.) Britain's little daughter, the first-born of her colonies, Newfoundland, is doing her "bit" for the British Empire in the war. In the name "Anzac" there is nothing to indicate the participation of Newfoundland in the Dardanelles campaign, the letter "N" being intended to indicate the first syllable of New Zealand, but none are readier than the Australians and New Zealanders to acknowledge the gallantry of the regiment of Newfoundlanders that took its share with them in the desperate fighting on the Gallipoli Peninsula. One company of the islanders won special distinction and several of the members were decorated for acts of valor. Newfoundland has given 2,000 men to the army and 1,200 to the navy. That is not bad for our small neighbor, but she wants to do better, and her aim is now to double those numbers. Britain is fortunate in the loyalty of her self-governing colonies—a loyalty which is the fruit of liberty.

Amusements.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The comedy picture at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day is "The Fable of Two Unsettled Birds," one of George Ade's best. "The Romance of an American Duchess" is a great society drama in two acts featuring Richard C. Travers and Ruth Stonehouse. "The Secret's Price" is a melo-drama full of pathos produced by the Essanay Company. "Hilda of the Slums" is a Vitagraph production, a story of the underworld featuring the great Vitagraph star Mattie De Lontain. Mr. Dave Parks, the man with the voice, sings "Asleep in the Deep," a classy sea ballad. This show is a great one, don't miss seeing it.

NICKEL'S RECEIPTS GIVEN TO CHARITY.

A grand programme has been arranged for the Nickel Theatre to-day to-morrow which will, we feel certain, attract crowded houses. "The Goddess" will be continued and this in itself is sufficient to fill the theatre each session. Then there are other high class pictures including the four-part Broadway star feature film entitled "The Man Behind the Door." The settings in this picture are immense and the best artists of the Vitagraph Co. are seen in the characters. Following the policy of last year the Nickel Theatre will, commencing on Wednesday and throughout the Lenten season, devote the net proceeds of each performance to the two recognized charitable societies of St. John's. There will be a continuation of elaborate programmes. This act of the Nickel was a popular one last year and we think it will be even more so this year. On Wednesday the new Exploits of Elaine will be continued.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Another enjoyable programme of photo plays is billed for the British Theatre to-night. The shows at the British are always the proper length, are not tiresome, and are thoroughly enjoyed by all who attend. The leader for to-night is a two-part drama with the matinee idol Harry C. Myers in the lead. This is a splendid Victor production and is bound to please. The work subjects are well selected and show many views of particular interest in connection with the bombardment of Rheims. A full reel of these pictures will be shown and Prof. McCarthy will play the latest and best music including the popular war marches "Canada, Fall In!" "I'll not forget you Soldier Boy," and "By Order of the King." This is a real good programme and well worth attending.

A squad of recruits had rifle practice at the range on Saturday. Snow and sleet made the shooting difficult. The average was 14.12 out of 20 points. The scores follow:

BELOW THE STANDARD.

"How do you feel to-day?" Not quite right? Enjoy a little below standard—not strong enough to make much exertion? Perhaps a slight cough? Don't get frightened about those words "Cod Liver." You'd never know it from the taste. It's a real tonic containing cod liver extract, extract of malt, wild cherry and hypophosphites—a splendid combination. The cod liver extract builds you up—so does the extract of malt. The wild cherry soothes the bronchial tract and the hypophosphites supply phosphorus to the nervous system—just the thing it needs. And the taste is pleasant. As an all round tonic, strength restorer and body-builder you'll find nothing better than Nyal's Cod Liver Compound—so why look further? You will be pleased. PETER O'MARA, THE DRUGGIST 46-48 Water St. West.

TRUTH IS MIGHTY.

The truth is mighty and must prevail; and if you are out for the fame or kate, just paste that motto inside your hat, and let the people know where you're at. Yes, one may profit by low deceit, by handing bunk to the folks hell meet, by dishing lies when the lying's good, by selling nutmegs or hams of wood. But when he's rich he will surely find his coin won't buy him a peaceful mind, or gain respect from the mass of men who honestly chase the helpful yen. The truth is ever the one best bet; and the tainted coin that the rascals get, the sharpers' hoard and the tricksters' gold, will bring them sorrow as they grow old. I'd hate to size up my pile of wealth, and know I got it by lies and stealth, by cheating Thomas and bilking Jake, by advertising some rotten fake. Oh, better far is the hard-earned dime, than the dollar stained by a scoundrel's crime, than the tainted man with his tainted kate—for truth is mighty and must prevail.

Here is the affidavit of a well-known fruit grower, who was cured of his piles some years ago by using Chase's Ointment.

His doctor could do nothing for the only means of cure. Chase's Ointment and complete cure resulted from this treatment.

It is by the cure of extreme piles that Dr. Chase's Ointment has won the reputation of being the only actual cure for piles—no surgery, bleeding and protruding piles.

Mr. Samuel Barker, fruit grower, residing before Mr. W. W. R. Notary Public, of the same place, has so solemnly declared that I was tried with bleeding piles and was tried to go to the hospital to have operation performed. My wife and I got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The Passing of Mr. Justice Emerson

Mr. Justice Emerson passed to his eternal rest this morning. For many years he was a severe sufferer from an internal disease, and this he bore with marked fortitude. A few days ago his illness took a severer stage and to this he succumbed at two o'clock this morning. The deceased was born at Harbor Grace on September 24th, 1833, and was educated at the famous grammar school there, conducted by the late John Roddick. In 1871 he commenced the study of law in the office of his uncle, the late Prescott Emerson, Q.C., and followed it in the offices of three barristers who afterwards were raised to the Bench, Chief Justice Carter, Mr. Justice Winter and Mr. Justice Pihent. He was in due course enrolled as solicitor and admitted to the bar, and became one of the ablest lawyers and leading practitioners of Newfoundland. In 1889 he took silk, and on the 18th November, 1896, on the retirement of Mr. Justice Winter, he was raised to the bench by the last administration of Sir William Whiteway. On the bench he was noted for his quick and firm grasp of points of fact and law; his submission of the bar, and for his broad comprehension of the bearing such points had on the cause and their relations to general legal principles. He was gifted with exceptional powers of mind, well developed by training, and he had also the power of apt, ready and incisive speech. This came out particularly during the period that disease had bereft him of sight, and it was truly marvellous how he conducted a case during this time of affliction. Mr. Justice Emerson was distinctly a strong personality on the Bench, and his death will be a great loss to the judiciary. But it was not only as a lawyer and judge that Mr. Emerson gained eminence. From his student days he took a live interest in public affairs. He first contested Mr. Grace and was defeated by Sir Ambrose Shea. Later he contested Harbor Main unsuccessfully. In 1885, however, he was elected for Placentia and represented that district until he was elevated to the Bench. At the time of the Placentia Railway project he supported the administration of Sir Robert Thorburn. Later he joined the party of Sir William Whiteway, and in 1889 was chosen Speaker of the House of Assembly, and in 1894 he was again unanimously appointed Speaker of the Assembly. Mr. Emerson took a prominent part in the international dispute on the French Shore, and in 1890 was appointed a delegate to London. He was again appointed on the delegation sent from the Legislature in 1891 to protest against the passage of a permanent measure affecting Newfoundland in regard to the French Shore. It will be remembered that this delegation appeared before the House of Lords and that the then Premier, the late Sir William Whiteway, was its spokesman. Mr. Justice Emerson leaves a widow, whose maiden name was Miss Catherine Maher, of St. John's, and eight children, four sons and four daughters. The sons are Prescott, teller in the Bank of Montreal, Edward, a barrister, practising in the city, George, who left with the first draft of H Company of the Newfoundland Regiment and John. His daughters are Miss Jean, Miss Maizie, Miss Ruth and Miss Margaret. He leaves also two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Berneau, Mrs. P. Halfour Mrs. W. Scott of Grand Falls, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Cupid, the last two resident in England. To these the Evening Telegram

Tributes of Respect

FROM THE SUPREME COURT AND CENTRAL DISTRICT COURT.

When the Supreme Court met this morning, the Chief Justice delivered the appended tribute of respect to the late Mr. Justice Emerson, and the Court was then adjourned.

The Chief Justice. We who were in this room with Mr. Justice Emerson find it difficult to realize that since the adjournment of the Court, he has departed this life. What his loss is to the Court his brother Judges and practitioners can best appreciate, for they know what an essential part of it he has been during the twenty years he had a seat upon this bench. Mr. Justice Emerson possessed qualifications which would have made him a valuable member of any tribunal. In questions of practice and procedure he had the advantage not only of an acquaintance with the practice before the Judicature Act, but of the older practice which preceded the Common Law Procedure Acts, and never satisfied himself with knowing the rule without tracing its origin and history, and the reasoning upon which it was founded. As a case lawyer he was widely read and his marvellously retentive memory made it easy for him to draw at will from the stores of his learning. To this he added a rare facility for classifying almost intuitively the legal matters which came before him, grouping them under the proper head and applying to each the maxim or principle called for; yet he was careful not to trust in first impressions nor even to be carried away by a leading case, however seemingly in point, but his custom was to apply every test and to discuss the whole subject in all its bearings and from every point of view before arriving at a final decision, keeping his mind open to new light from the evidence or authorities and never hesitating to correct what, on further consideration, he perceived to be an incorrect or inadequate view. As a Judge he had a high ideal of his office and brought to it independence, impartiality and prudence as well as legal acumen, foresight, experience and clear and mature judgment. It was these qualities and his personality (of which I do not feel able now to speak) which secured him the high regard—may I not say the affectionate regard—of the profession who, I feel sure, will long continue to appreciate the record he has bequeathed to them of judicial work faithfully performed.

CENTRAL DISTRICT COURT.

On the opening of the Central District Court this morning, Mr. Morris, K.C., J.P., presiding, said that it was his sad duty to announce to the Court the death of Judge Emerson, of the Supreme Court, which occurred early this morning. With the death of Judge Emerson, the Supreme Court has sustained a great loss in as much as the late Judge was probably one of the most gifted of any of the Judges who have sat on the Supreme Court Bench during the past decade. Thirty-five years ago George Henry Emerson was a prominent member of the Bar and twenty-six years ago he was appointed Speaker of the House of Assembly. Since then and until the Judge took the emeralds, he was one of the leaders in the political life of the country and in his death Newfoundland has sustained a loss of one of her best and most qualified sons. To his bereaved widow and family I extend my sincere sympathy, and I now adjourn this Court until 10.30 a.m. to-morrow out of respect to his memory.

Lenten Regulations.

The Mission and Collection for Ecclesiastical Students' Fund—Archbishop's Pastors' Fund—

At all the R. C. Churches in the city yesterday the Lenten regulations were read to the congregations. Every day throughout Lent is a fast day, with special indulgences from the Pope as last year. At the Cathedral, St. Patrick's and St. Joseph's Churches there will be devotions every night during the Lenten season, excepting Saturday night, which will be devoted to confessions. The mission for women and men, to be conducted by the Passionist Fathers, will be held at the Cathedral on Sunday, March 19th, continuing for a week and then the men's mission will take place. The following fortnight the mission be held at St. Patrick's. It was also announced at all the masses yesterday that, in addition to the regular offertory collection, there would be a special collection throughout the archdiocese for the educating of Ecclesiastical students. During Vespers last evening the Pastoral letter of His Grace Archbishop Roche was read. It is a lengthy document, dealing with the work of the Archdiocese and will be published in due course.

Special Notice Given About "Nerviline."

The proprietors of Nerviline, a preparation long and favourably known in this Colony, hereby notify the trade that after March 1st they will use a slightly different package than heretofore.

Slight Fires.

The Central and Western Companies were called out to a house on George Street at noon yesterday. Soot had ignited in the chimney of Mrs. W. Power's house. The danger was removed quickly and no damage was done. A quantity of fire was sent in from box 117 at 3.45 p.m. yesterday, bringing the Central and East End Branches to the Colonial Building, the interior of which was filled with smoke, caused by the chimney being on fire. The chemical extinguished the fire.

BULGARS ATTACK GREEKS.

ATHENS, To-day. The gulet of police reports Bulgarian soldiers attacked Greek frontier guards in the neighbourhood of Makhovo, near the Greeco-Serbian frontier.

ZEPPELIN RAID LAST NIGHT.

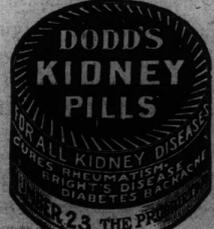

LONDON, To-day. A Zeppelin raid took place on Sunday night when two hostile airships crossed over the northeast coast of England. Official statement announcing the raid gives no information as to the damage done. At 11.40 p.m. of this report, the statement continues, their movements have not been clearly defined. Some bombs were dropped which fell into the sea near the shore, but information is not yet available as to whether any damage was done on land. A further communication will be issued later.

THE MOEWE ARRIVES AT WILHELMSHAVEN.

BERLIN, To-day. The Moeve's capture of two of 15 vessels, listed by the German Admiralty, has not been reported previously, they are the Saxon Prince and Marconi, both of which were engaged in the trans-Atlantic trade. The Saxon Prince is 3471 tons gross, 352 feet long and owned by Prince Line, Newcastle, England, built in Sunderland in 1899 and last reported sailing from Norfolk, Feb. 12th, for Manchester. The Marconi sailed on Feb. 19th from Bordeaux for New York. She was built at Port Debouc in 1909, and owned by Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, Havre, 312 feet long, 3109 tons gross. The Moeve, previously made famous exploits, has performed one of the most spectacular feats of the war seas by reaching home port safely. The great German naval port of Wilhelmshaven is on the North Sea which is patrolled with ceaseless vigilance by British warships. Through these waters which have been blocked off in districts for patrol by different British units, the Moeve must have threaded her way to home and safety. Part of the gold captured by the Moeve at least was taken from the Appan which put in to Newport News several weeks ago under command of Lieut. Berge with the German prize crew. It was announced in London, however, that the value of the gold on the Appan was less than $200,000. The announcement was made in London on January 10. The British battleship King Edward Seventh was blown up by mine, the place at which the disaster occurred was not revealed by the British Admiralty, it was said up lines were lost. Only two men were injured.

ROTHESAY SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. Lloyd's reports that the British steamer, Rothesay has been sunk and the crew saved. The Rothesay is 2907 tons. The home port is Cardiff. The last report of the steamer shows she arrived at Barcelona on Feb. 2nd from the Clyde.

THE POPE AND PEACE.

ROME, To-day. Pope Benedict has again raised his voice for Peace in a special letter written for the Lenten season. The Pope says: He cannot sit silent and indifferent to the terrible conflict which is rending Europe. He recalls all he has done to induce the contending nations to lay down their arms, virtually throwing himself between the belligerents and conjuring them in the name of the Almighty to desist in their plan of mutual destruction.

CHOLERA RAMPANT IN AUSTRIA.

GENEVA, To-day. Information was received here from Innsbruck to the effect that cholera has broken out anew in thirty-seven villages and towns in Austria.

IRON CROSSSES AWARDED.

LONDON, To-day. An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Amsterdam says the Moeve was awarded the Iron Cross of the first class. The members of the crew received the Iron Cross of the second class. Count Von Donhuf has been ordered to meet Emperor William at headquarters.

FOOD RIOTS AT BASLE.

BASLE, To-day. Travellers from Cologne state that food riots broke out in the market place there yesterday. They state the price of food has risen to such an extent that the police charged the crowd. A number of persons were injured.

MARRIED MEN CALLED UP.

NEW YORK, To-day. A News Agency despatch from London to-day says the proclamations calling to the colors all married men attested under the Derby recruiting campaign between the ages of 19 and 27 inclusive was posted to-day. The men summoned are to report on April 7.

THE THEORY OF THE VERDUN BATTLE.

PARIS, To-day. The French artillery officers who took part in the battle of Verdun estimate that during the first four days' struggle, the Germans discharged two million shells, most of them of heavy calibre. The number of projectiles fired by the French probably was as great. Nothing like such expenditure of munitions have been known before, even in the Champagne attack. The whole theory of the operations was to pulverize the defence at long range and drive out or kill the defenders, then occupy the ground by masses of infantry. The principle of the defence was to search out and destroy the adversary with equally heavy shells and withdraw to the demolished first line of works. Then, when these deserted trenches were approached by attacking forces to run and catch them with smothering artillery and machine gun fire. At times this fire was suddenly suspended, when the attackers were engaged in hand-to-hand infantry clashes.

THE ASSASSINATION OF ENVER PASHA.

LONDON, To-day. The Reuter's Athens correspondent telegraphs the following under yesterday's date: No further news has been received regarding the reported assassination of Enver Pasha. It is significant that information reached here from private sources. The Turks are reserving mines from the Bardenelles which appears to be a measure preparatory to opening the Straits.

THE FRENCH HOLDING THEIR OWN.

LONDON, To-day. The Germans in the region of Verdun are being hard held in the positions they occupy, by the French. The fighting throughout the region is still vigorous, but consists mainly of artillery duels. Douaumont is the storm centre here and in the wood east of Vacherauville on the east bank of the Meuse have occurred only infantry attacks. On both these sectors the Germans were repulsed by the French. The German attack at Douaumont extended from Houdremont wood to fort Douaumont. According to Paris it was stopped by a curtain of fire from the rifles of French infantry and ended with the French holding all positions. The Paris reports that in the Woerwre region about Fresnes, the bombardment is a powerful one, but adds the French guns are answering the Germans here and along the white Verdun front. In Lorraine near the forest of Thiaville, the French fire concentrated on the position the Germans had previously taken from the French, and forced the Germans to evacuate them in order, according to Berlin, to avoid unnecessary losses. The Russians and Germans in northwest Russia have been fighting furiously near Iloukaut for the possession of the craters of 14 mines exploded by Russians. Petrograd reports 6 craters were captured by the Russians and that the Germans surrounded in a partly demolished block-house, having suffered severe losses. Unofficial despatches from Bucharest report extensive Russian troop movements in Bessarabia. The resolution warning Americans off armed ships of the belligerent powers, which President Wilson opposed, probably will come up for the final action in the House of Representatives on Tuesday. Administration leaders express the opinion that the President's wishes on the issue will be carried out.

11.30 A.M.

RUSSIANS BOMBARD TREBIZOND.

PETROGRAD, To-day. Russian torpedo boat destroyers have bombarded Trebizond, the Turkish seaport of the western part of the coast of the Black Sea, 120 miles north west of Erzerum, and have sunk several vessels. The Turkish batteries, it is announced, replied, but without success.

Gift to the Archbishop.

The R. C. members of A and B Companies of the 1st Nfld. Contingent presented to the Archbishop on the occasion of his consecration a handsome dressing case. Some of the donors have since made up the balance of a sum of $100. The following is the Archbishop's reply: Nov. 16th, 1915. My dear Captain Curry: It was only the other day when Miss Furlong arrived from England with the gift of the handsome case presented to me on the occasion of my consecration, by the Catholic officers and men of the Newfoundland Regiment. At the earliest possible moment I hasten to tender to you and through you the officers and men of the Regiment my very cordial gratitude for your thoughtful and handsome gift. The gift itself as well as being a very beautiful and a very finished piece of work is one of the most useful presents that you could have sent me. The inscription will long remind me of the kind thoughtfulness of our Newfoundland Catholic soldiers, and have been excused had they omitted to send me any testimony at the time when they might reasonably have been expected to do so, an expression of thanks for their handsome gift kindly say to them that I send them a blessing from my heart and that my prayers are ever going up to Heaven for their protection and their safe return. Sincerely yours, (Signed) J. E. P. ROCHE, Archbishop.

Reached Korea. Dr. Stanley H. Martin and wife have reached Korea and received the greatest kindness from the people both at Seoul and Wousan. They said: "You have come a long way to help us and we are glad to see you." He is the only medical doctor for a million and a quarter in Northern Korea. The British Consul at Kobe, and a number of Japanese officers were exceedingly courteous and helpful to them while en route, and the Presbyterian ministers also at every station. This is about a half dozen burglaries to have occurred at Water Street business houses during the present winter months and in each case the perpetrators are still at large.

For the Orphans. Under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Dunscombe, and for the benefit of the city orphanages, the Comrades Glee Club will hold its first concert in the College Hall to-morrow night. This club which was organized recently, for the purpose of giving performances in aid of the orphanages, consists of twenty-four male voices. In addition other well known musical and vocal artists will assist. Apart from the entertainment itself, which promises to be a rare treat, the object is a most laudable and deserving one. So help the orphans by your patronage.

A Queer Mother.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"It does seem queer to me that mother should be so disappointed about that dinner," a young married woman said to me the other day. "How so?" I asked. "Well, a woman of her age, why should she care so much about a thing like a dinner? Of course, I'm sorry she's got the cold and can't go, but it does seem queer to me that she should care so much about a dinner when she can't get half the things they'll serve and most of the guests will be young people, and of course she doesn't dance."

"How did she happen to be included?" I questioned. The dinner in question was a dinner dance of young married people at an Automobile Inn. "Well, to tell the truth, I never should have thought of it, but Harry (her husband) said mother always looked wistful when we went out on LONTS like that, and left her to take care of the children, and he'd like to see her go this once. I should think she'd be delighted to stay with the children—you know she's crazy about them—and she has plenty of nice times with people of her own age. I can't understand it, though of course (perfunctory) I'm sorry to see her disappointed."

Of course she can't understand. She'd be a rather unusual young woman if she could. Youth seldom can see why old age isn't always content to figuratively "sit by the fire and spin."

Nevertheless, strange as it is that the older folks now and then feel a wistful yearning for a real exciting, young folks' good time, like many strange things, it is true.

A Little Frivolity Is A Wonderful Tonic.

And I think it is those who occasionally have an opportunity to indulge this yearning, who keep young the longest. A little frivolity is a wonderful tonic incidentally, while I'm on the subject, I want to mention another tonic which proved helpful in at least one case of depression and premature old age.

The patient was a dear little old lady who had lived all her life for her husband and children and lost the one by death and the latter by marriage. She became depressed, didn't take an interest in anything or care to go about, and it seemed as if nothing could rouse or interest her.

Then a wise friend suggested something to the children: "Try what some pretty clothes will do." The family, though not actually poor, had been in rather straitened circumstances, and the little mother had never had many clothes.

They Bought Her A Complete New Outfit.

The children were incredulous but willing to try. They clubbed together and planned and contrived to get their mother a complete outfit of new (and young looking) clothes—hat, suit, blouse, silk petticoat, silk stockings and smart shoes, for Christmas.

At first she was almost shocked, then interested, then pleased. She began to go about to wear the pretty things; she grew younger inside to match her youthful appearance. The transformation was wonderful. To-day she seems younger than she did five years ago.

So a pinch of frivolity in clothes

"King George's Keys."

An extremely quaint and curious ceremony is still gone through in the Tower of London every night. Some few minutes before eleven o'clock the yeoman warder on duty calls to the main guard for the "escort of the keys."

The main guard immediately turn out under charge of an officer, and on their approach the sentry challenges, "Who comes there?" The yeoman warder answers, "Keys." The sentry again challenges, "Whose Keys?" and the warder replies, "King George's Keys."

The sentry then calls out, "Advance King George's Keys! Guard, turn out!"

The officer of the guard then gives the command, "Guard, present arms!" and the warder advances, and standing in front of the guard, holds up the keys in his hand, and calls out, "God preserve King George!" to which the guard respond with a "volley of Amen!"

The yeoman warder then proceeds to the Governor's House, and there deposits the keys.

College-Trained Spies.

A German spy is trained for his "profession" in the "special" University Extension College in Germany established for that purpose. One of the most flourishing of these colleges, it is declared, is that of Lorrach, in Baden. The recruiting of pupils is carried on as follows: Advertisements skillfully inserted in the lists of situations vacant appear in the newspapers. Usually they are worded to this effect: "Highly remunerative situation offered to a person of trust having a good knowledge of French, English, or Russian." On being provisionally accepted, the candidate for employment is at once drafted into the "University."

At the end of a course, which varies in length according to their ability, pupils are given a diploma testifying to their fitness for their official functions, and shortly afterwards they emerge from their chrysalis state as full-fledged functionaries figuring on the salary list of the Empire.

The "University" of Lorrach is a mixed institution, where women largely outnumber the men. The Germans have always had recourse as much as possible to women as being more adroit or less liable to suspicion in the exercise of their delicate operations.

The teaching imparted is at once theoretical and practical. In the first place, illustrated charts or water-color pictures are exhibited to the pupils, representing, down to the most minute details, the uniforms of the French, Russian and British Armies. Subsequently they are shown photographs of rifles, machine guns, shells, etc. In due time they are instructed in the internal military organization of the country where they are destined to operate—in its effective, the composition of its garrisons, and the nature of its fortified places.

Technical experts then explain to them the strategic utilization of railways, the importance for purposes of mobilization of the various railway stations and other subjects of a similar nature. They are further instructed as to the means of noting with discretion and rapidity the information obtained.

Wins the "Black Watch" Honor.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—The silver and gold honor badge of the Scottish Black Watch Regiment has been conferred upon Mrs. William R. Taylor of this city "in recognition of her kindly act in writing more than 1,000 letters to British soldiers in the trenches." The Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, sent the decoration by Sir William K. McNaught, who told Mrs. Taylor her letters were highly prized by the soldiers.

The letters were addressed to "some soldier in the trenches," and each one concluded with an original verse. It was said this is the first time the Black Watch badge has been conferred upon an American.

Children's Carnival.

Carbon Hill Won First Prize. The annual children's carnival, held at the Prince's Rink Saturday afternoon was a most pleasing and successful event. Hundreds of junior masqueraders took part and the costumes were most original and pretty. The rink was tastefully decorated for the occasion with flags of the allies and Chinese lanterns. The attendance of spectators, principally the parents and friends of the children, was unusually large. The four prizes to be presented to girls and boys, two each, were allotted for: The first prize, a gold chain, was won easily by Miss Mary Vinicombe, who represented "Carbon Hill." It was the most original costume on the ice, portraying as it did in realistic fashion the historic hill and the small, though heroic, band of Newfoundlanders in khaki dress, keeping the "bunk" at bay under heavy fire. This is the third year in succession that Miss Vinicombe won first prize. Second prize, a brooch, was awarded Miss McNeil, who was an imitable "Miss Coultett." Masters Chaytor and Fraser made a capital Napoleon and "Delany" Silts for the "Dardanelles," respectively. At the close the winners were heartily applauded.

The Biggest Duty.

The biggest duty that the capable man has to-day is to get into khaki. It is not a question of danger. It is merely a question of manhood. Danger is just as near in Toronto as at the front. Fifteen of twenty people die every day in Toronto. It is much better to die at the front than to die in Toronto; unless plain duty, about which there is no dispute, keeps one at home. The opportunities of enlisting are so various, and the varieties of service are so great that no one can plead the unsuitability of the regiment or the battery or the transport or ambulance or any other corps as a reason for staying out of khaki. Every man from 18 to 45 is eligible, if he be in good health and is physically fit. The only way to show that you are free from this responsibility is to go down to the recruiting headquarters and ask the authorities what they want you to do.—Toronto Star.

Storm Bound.

Owing to the approaching storm Saturday, the Viking and Ranger would not leave the harbor and probably escaped a bad buffeting, as after laying to an anchor a violent storm raged. A heavy westerly gale continued all yesterday up to last midnight when it subsided and at daylight this morning both ships left for Channel. The Diana, which left port Saturday got the storm in the teeth and must have received a bad drubbing. However, she sheltered after rounding Cape Race.

A RUNAWAY.—On Saturday night while one of Knowling's drivers was delivering parcels on Barnes' Road, his horse bolted and was stopped by Mr. J. P. Grace, near the B.T.S. Hall. A young man named Donnelly, brother of the driver, happened to be near and the animal was given in his care.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle draw them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $321,000.00, and a reserve fund of $223,300.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration, that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.
