The Romance of a Marriage.

CHAPTER XIV.

Not in the best of humours, Sir Herrick follows the charming major into the landau. All the evening Sir Herrick has been counting upon getting a few words, perhaps some thing sweeter than words, from Paula before they part for the night, and as he shuts the door and sinks into the beautiful padded seat of Lord Hurstley's carriage, he murmurs something that is decidedly not a blessing on his uncle's return.

As for the major, he is in the best of humours, and as he draws his fur cloak round him, gazes up at the heavens with an approving smile, as if the spectacle of the moon and the stars had been specially arranged for his delectation.

"What a beautiful night, Rick!" he says, with a little sigh of enjoyment. "Really beautiful! And what a charming evening we have had!"

Sir Herrick emits something that may be taken either as an assent or a contradiction. "Charming!" repeats the major, ignoring the young man's tone. "I had an idea that you had formed so agreeable an acquaintance. I congratulate you, Rick!"

Sir Herrick nods carelessly. He knows his esteemed relative well enough to be aware that when he assumes this pleasant humour something unpleasant is about to occur.

"I congratulate you most heartily, my dear boy. Mr. Palmer, our host, is a very fine specimen of—of—the successful British merchant. I have always had the deepest respect for the—spirit of commerce, and my sympathies have always been with those traders who venture their all on foreign seas."

"Mr. Palmer was a sugar-baker," Herrick says, grimly, "and ventured nothing on foreign seas or any other seas."

"Pardon me, my dear Rick," says the major, suavely. "Sugar, I believe, comes from abroad. But I was about to remark that I have always had the greatest respect for the commercial genius of our time, and in Mr. Palmer one recognises a fine specimen of the class."

"Yes, he's fine," says Sir Herrick, curtly. "Too fine!"

And the Worst is Yet to Come

"Where was I?" says the major, innocently. "Oh, about the old place. My dear Rick, the Court ought to be long to us—that is, to you; it ought, indeed."

"But as it does not, and Mr. Palmer has not intimated that it is his desire to sell it, and we shouldn't be able to buy it, if he did," says Sir Herrick, calmly.

"Ah, true, true!" murmurs the major. Then he lapses into silence for a moment. "What a beautiful evening, my dear Rick. By the way, what a charming girl that daughter of your friend Mr. Palmer is!"

Sir Herrick leans back again. "Is she?" he says. "I don't know much of her, thought you scarcely exchanged a word with her."

"My dear boy, it does not need a long acquaintance to enable a man of the world to form an estimate of a girl's worth. She is most charming."

"I daresay," assents Sir Herrick. The Major smiles approvingly at the sky.

"And will be immensely rich."

"I suppose so," says Sir Herrick, quietly.

"Her father—the estimable Mr. Palmer—was pleased to be extremely confidential with me during the after-dinner chat, and gave me a heap of information that surprised me."

Sir Herrick displaying no curiosity, the major goes on:

"That girl, my dear Rick, will not only have a large sum of money, but the Court into the bargain."

"I am glad to hear it, for her sake," says Sir Herrick, calmly. "She seems a nice sort of girl."

"A nice sort of—My dear Rick, I am surprised at your want of appreciation. She is simply perfect."

"No doubt," says Sir Herrick. "If you don't mind, I will light up a cigar."

"Simply perfect!" repeats the major. "Great heavens! What a catch for some lucky young fellow!"

"No doubt," calmly and coldly. "Once let it be known what Mr. Palmer's intentions are, and that girl will be surrounded and besieged, simply besieged."

"I daresay."

"If anything could make the major really angry and lose his self-command, this calm, cold acquiescence of his nephew would do it; but no one ever saw the major either angry or anything but blandly complacent, and he maintains his equanimity even now."

"If I were a young man," he says with a regretful sigh. "I should try my hardest to win that fortunate young lady."

"I am sure no one wishes you perpetual youth more sincerely than I do!" says Sir Herrick, sending the smoke from his lips in a spiral wreath.

"Think, my dear Rick, a large, handsome fortune, and the Court! Come; I see you won't confide in me; that I must go straight to the point. Confess that you have already laid aloe to the young lady's heart?"

"Nothing of the sort," says Sir Herrick, coldly. "I haven't addressed a dozen words to her."

"You surprise me!" ejaculates the major. "But then, of course, you didn't know it; but it wouldn't have made much difference."

"My dear Rick," and the major laughs, "have you come into a princely fortune?"

Sir Herrick smiles rather grimly. "No, sir; my worldly wealth consists of the balance of your last allowance."

"Then—then, I must confess that your indifference to the chance that lies before you—in your hand, I may say—surprise me!"

Sir Herrick smokes on in silence. "I cannot understand it," muses the major, drawing his cloak closer round him. "Of course I know why you left town."

"I left town because town was too hot to hold me," says Sir Herrick, grimly.

"Exactly, Levinson has been to me, and applied for the money you owe him; but, my dear Rick, I am not overflowing with gold."

"I have had too much already, sir," says Sir Herrick, gracefully.

"But you shall have more, my dear boy," says the major, affectionately. "Nothing shall stand in your way if—if you will but use your common sense and—"

"And what, sir?" enquires Sir Herrick, with a grim smile.

"And marry this young lady, my dear Rick," says the major, plumping over the answer effusively.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all.

Your druggist gladly will give you the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" because genuine Aspirin now in made by Americans and owned by an American Company.

There is not a cent's worth of German interest in Aspirin, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But now you can get genuine Aspirin, plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross." Aspirin proved safe by millions for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 751), of Bayer Manufacture of Monocarbonyl-diester of Salicylicacid.

The Bayer Co., Sue. U.S.A.

"You would have me marry the daughter of a sugar-baker?" says Sir Herrick, after a pause.

"The daughter of the man who holds Powis Court, and who will give it to his daughter's husband!" says the major, impressively. "Come, my dear Rick, let us understand each other. Here are you, plunged to the neck in debt. Of course, my dear boy, I know all about it! Didn't I do the same thing when I was your age? Here are you, a Powis, of Hampden Powis, plunged to the neck in debt, and relying upon a by-no-means wealthy uncle for your mere pocket-money, thrown into the society of a young girl who can restore you to your own with a fortune into the bargain. Surely, you won't turn up your nose at it?"

A pause.

"I say," says the major, devoutly, "that it is a special interposition of Providence on your behalf. Such a chance as occurs to one in a thousand. Come, Rick, be sensible, be a man!"

The exhortation has a strange effect upon the calm, self-possessed youth. With an exclamation he throws his cigar into the road and sits up.

"I will," he says, and there is a sudden fire in his eyes which startles the major. "I will," he says. "You propose that I should marry this young girl for her money and Powis Court. It is impossible."

"Impossible!" murmurs the major, aghast. "Surely—great Heaven, Rick, you haven't gone and done anything rash!"

"I don't know whether you would call it rash—I suppose you would. But I have promised to marry the best and sweetest girl in the kingdom."

The major leans back and breathes a sigh of relief. He had feared that his reckless nephew had contracted a marriage.

"The best, and truest, and dearest girl in all England," says the once and impossible Sir Herrick, "and I shouldn't betray her for the daughter of the richest sugar-baker in the world."

The major waits until he regains his breath, then he says in his softest, sweetest murmur:

"My dear Rick, you astonish me. Is it really so? You have really committed yourself—I mean given your word? You surprise me. And who is the fortunate young lady?"

"Miss Paula Estcourt," says Sir Herrick, firmly.

"The young lady with the red hair," says the major, blandly.

J. STABB & CO.

Motor Car and Motor Truck Owners.

I have a splendid equipment of general automobile work and guarantee first class overhauling. Every engine tested under its own power before being put back in the car, thereby getting over the greatest enemy engine can have, that is oil leaks. All oil leaks are detected and made right, consequently you can be sure of a good and lasting job. I also have a Hempy power re-babbiting and re-boring machine for crank shaft and connecting rods, which insures perfect running, as all bearings are perfect line. With this equipment we can do work quickly and much more practical than before.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
My Garage will be closed from March 10th until April 15th, as I am taking my entire Mechanical Staff on a visit to the Motor stories with a view to giving first class service. Parties wishing to have their cars overhauled during the coming season would be better to have them done immediately. For instance, parts may be found broken or worn and it may not be possible to replace them here, in which case I can get them while away, thereby saving a lot of inconvenience and appointment when the car is returned. One thing is sure, cars that are overhauled in the winter months are given better attention than those done in the summer season; so just call us up and we will get your car in and have it done right away. I have a supply of repair parts in stock. Room for about 50 cars. Ford Trucks taken in with despatch.

Liberal-Labor Candidates at Broad Cove.

A most successful meeting was held at Broad Cove last evening by the members and candidates of the Liberal-Labor Party. Mr. Frederick Tucker was Chairman, and the speakers were, Messrs. Linegar and Martin (the candidates) and Captain Kean and Sir John Crosbie. Each address was received with applause, and the meeting was an excellent one. A couple of Squires supporters, who had been specially "prepared," attempted to create a disturbance. Needless to state they failed. Broad Cove goes to the Opposition, and will so vote on the 22nd.

Squires' "West" End Meeting.

The truth of the quotation "The East is East and the West is West, and Never the Twain Shall Meet" was disproven by Squires' meeting at the Majestic last evening, for the East did meet the West—and with a vengeance. When the meeting ended several hundred men could be seen going East on Duckworth St. as far as the bottom of Prescott St. If they were West Enders it was a queer direction in which to be going—unless, that is, the Squires supporters had been "celebrating" and did not know where they lived.

Here and There.

Stafford's ESSENCE of GINGER WINE, 20c. a bottle—dec 20, 1919.

LILA LEE in "Such a Little Pirate"

TO-DAY, THURSDAY,
LILA LEE in

"Such a Little Pirate."

Her father tells her that the only Chart of where the Pirates buried their ill-gotten gold is on his shoulder. To avoid having it stolen she burns it off with a candle-flame. A regular old-time pirate story, but with a very modern damsel right in the hub of it. There's a villain named Bad-Eye who wants to steal the Chart, but seeing it is on her dad's back—well, that's the plot. Come and see it unravelled.

Also a Multiple Reel-Drama entitled, "HIS BROTHER'S EQUAL," and the usual Comedy, "BILLY VAN DEUSAN"—Just a little bit o' fun.

A coming attraction at the Majestic: BRYANT WASHBURN in "THE GYPSY TRAIL." Keenest music, realistic effects and solid comfort.

THE LIVING WAGE.

We will commence our article this week by defining our terms. What do we mean by "Living"? What do we mean by "Wage"? We do not necessarily get at the definition of the phrase, "Living Wage" even then, for there is a comprehension that the definition of the separate words allows for. We must take all this into consideration.

"Living." Adjective. Having life. Producing action or vigor; running or flowing; opposed to stagnant. No runs the dictionary in brief.

"Wage." Verb transitive. To pledge. To engage in as if by pledge; to carry on; to venture; to hire for pay; to pay wages to; to let out for pay. Verb intransitive.—To be equal in value; to contend. "Noun.—A gage or stake; that for which one labours.

The phrase, "Living Wage," in common use, derives its meaning from two sources: (a) The literal derivation; (b) environment. As a noun phrase, living wage means: That for which a man or woman or child labours, producing or sustaining life, or sustaining vigor and action.

Environment would make it mean, the compensation for time or strength given by the means of labor, for which the one who labours secures the means of carrying on the tremendous struggle between a desire to live and the elements in nature which are destructive. Life itself in its final and ultimate meaning is a struggle against death. When strength of body so far wanes as to render the one who lives, incapable of successful strife against death, we may say that we die. Our physical life then, consists in those elements which help us in the struggle against death. What are these elements?

"FOOD."

Food, plenty of it, of good quality. To half feed or ill-nourish a body is to create a vicious circle, for a person suffering from such causes cannot build up a body with which to work in order to get food; and cannot get sufficient food with which to build up a healthy body. On the surface it appears, that, providing sufficient food could be obtained, the riddle would be solved.

In these days the question of getting enough to eat is a question, the old question of getting enough money to buy enough to eat. If a man has money he can easily buy enough, or if he has land enough and money enough he can easily secure enough food by producing it; but in any case it is a matter of money. We have heard it hinted that prayer has often filled a larder; that in answer to prayer God sent loaves of bread, etc., and so on. The Home in Bristol, England, opened and maintained 'tis said solely by prayer, while the founder lived; soon got into difficulties after the founder died, and the committee, left to carry on the work afterwards, were glad enough to appeal directly to the public for support, financial at that. We believe in prayer, we believe in God, we believe that God regards His creation and has special regard for His highest creative expression, man. We also believe that God works through secondary causes, that he who will not work shall not eat. He has no right to pray who does not intend to work and help God to answer his prayers, especially in reference to material things. We again come back to the question of work and work means money. There would be no money if there were no producers, no working-men. He who works ought to be paid enough money with which to buy enough food to properly sustain life. A man getting two dollars per day when flour was six dollars per barrel, requires four dollars per day when flour is twelve dollars per barrel, especially if the general needs of man rise correspondingly in price. The employer of labor does not, as a rule, recognize this, only and except, when he is forced to do so.

Food needs to be of good quality as well as good quantity. There was a time when men moved slowly, when "blood pressure" was practically unknown as a disease. When a man could secure a year's "diet" by working for three months in a fishing boat, because his diet consisted of bread and molasses, potatoes and herring. He could get along some how, with an income in cash of $100, "Tis not so now. We have to move faster in these days. The motor boat has taken the place of the cross-handed paddles; the alrship is taking the place of the "Fore and After." Men move faster, they excite themselves more; their blood runs higher. They need good nourishing food even to meet the ordinary demands of the labour markets. Again, it is a matter of money. High grade food calls for high grade money. The faster a workman has to move, the stronger must be his physical and nervous condition; and the longer must be his periods of rest; i.e., the shorter must be his hours of labor. The British Premier, when he was Minister of War, found that the British workman could make more shells and better shells when he (the workman) got his Sunday rest and his adequate wage. It is in the interests of the employer of men to give them the shortest hours and the highest wages possible consistent with safety or soundness in business relations. A man will work happily and contentedly, when his body is in good condition, and his mind is not tortured by the dread of debt piled up in an endeavor to make two ends meet in his home. A happy and contented workman will make good time and put in good work; he is the greatest asset in any industry.

"CLOTHING."

Besides food, a man needs clothing; good clothing and plenty of it. It is common experience, that, within reasonable limits a cheap garment, a garment for which a person pays the least, is the most expensive. The expensive article for ordinary use is the cheapest in the end. When labour conditions compel a man to take his hard earned cash and pay it over a counter in a dry goods store for some cheap, flimsy stuff, some designing dry goods merchant takes upon him at a profit of 100%, both the employer of labor and the seller of the cheap rag, conspire to make the wage of the producer, anything but a living wage, and produce that state in society, which ranks as first cousin to Bolshevism or some other form of Anarchy. The employer of labour should recognize the worth of labour in such terms, that clothing, at once cheap and good, shall adorn the person of the labourer and those dependent upon him. All men are prone to be both good and honest and interested, when the mind is gratified and pleased. We are easily pleased at that. A mother, for instance who is happy when she can march forth robed in good and good looking clothes, and view her husband as well dressed, is not a fop, she is simply and delightfully human. A real mother is not a slouch. Dress the family well, and pater, mater and family, put into life, even the life of commerce and industry, genuine pride and worth. It is in the interests of the employer of labour that he give the employed enough wage to dress with, consistent with safe and sound business principles. Carlyle says that clothes are tools, a good workman will do a job of work with few and poor tools, but he will do a better job of work if he has more tools and better tools. A well dressed and contented workman to the wage payer, is not an expense but an investment, and a good one too. Bentham was a utilitarian and hard labour because men worked hard and produced nothing. His teaching and that of his school have had the effect of changing prison conditions, so that condemned men no longer work hard at some useless task, but produce something worthwhile for the country's good. Still and notwithstanding, men dread jail as ever and why? Is it not because they wear marked clothes; a white leg and a black leg, a black sleeve and a white sleeve, and broad arrows all over. Give the workman broad-cloth rather than homespun, and he will not only produce, but he will produce profitably the key to all national wealth. We ought then to feed and clothe well, him and his. The cost of clothing in the last five years has gone up over 200%; the value of labour, however, has yet to go there, or the cost of clothing has to come down. The same with food.

"RECREATION."

A man needs, besides food and clothing, some form of recreation. Rest is not necessarily idleness. The truest rest is a change of occupation. A MAN must work:

"For men must work and women must weep."

Speaking to workmen, Ruskin stated:—"And for you, there will come a time for better payment. Some day, asecrately, we shall pay people not quite so much for talking in Parliament and doing nothing, as for holding their tongues out of it, and doing something. We shall pay our plowman a little more and our lawyer a little less, and so on; but, at least we may even now take care, that whatever work is done shall be fully paid for; and the man who does it gets paid for it, not somebody else; and that it shall be done in an orderly, soldierly, well-guided, wholesome way, under good Captains and Lieutenants of labour; and that it shall have its appointed times of rest, and enough of them; and that, in those times, the play shall be as wholesome play, not

To-day's Messages.

BOLSHEVIKS OUTGENERALLED.

LONDON, Jan. 15. A despatch from Riga, dated January 13, received by the Lettish Legation here says that through the capture of Korsorovak the railway between Dvinsk and Pskov was cut, and Bolshevik forces at Rzesytsa were thereby separated from their Northern front, leaving Rzesytsa, on the Moscow railway, the only avenue of retreat for the Soviet forces.

GETTING AFTER THE KAISER.

PARIS, Jan. 15. Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Nitti will this morning examine the text of the demand to be made upon Holland for the extradition of former Emperor William, according to the Matin. The Premiers will also inspect the list of German officers and soldiers accused of the violation of the laws of war and when their surrender will be demanded from the Berlin Govt. The list is said to comprise six hundred names.

THE BIRTHDAY OF THE LEAGUE.

PARIS, Jan. 15. The League of Nations will come into being to-morrow at ten o'clock at a public ceremony to be held in the clock room of the French Foreign Office. Leon Bourgeois, French representative, will preside and move the opening address, while Earl Curzon of Kedleston, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will also speak. Hugh Wallace, the American Ambassador to France, and the American representatives at the Peace Conference will not attend.

SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 15. Stories of terrible cruelty, undressed murders and devastation of property were given to the Senate Sub Committee investigating the Mexican situation yesterday, by men in close touch with conditions in Mexico.

THE NOTORIOUS ENVER.

GENEVA, Jan. 15. Enver Pasha, former Turkish Minister of War, who was recently elected King of Kurdistan, has started a Bolshevik revolution in Turkestan, Afghanistan and Baluchistan, according to a telegram from Baku.

U. S. GETS ANOTHER "LION."

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. Vice Admiral Sir Trevelyan Napier, who commanded the British cruiser squadron in the battle of Jutland, will visit the United States within the next ten days, on his way to Bermuda, where he will assume command of the North American and West Indies stations of the British fleet, it was announced here last night.

In theatrical gardens, with its flowers and gas sunshine, and girls dancing because of their misery, but in true gardens, with real flowers, and real sunshine, and children dancing because of their gladness; so that truly the streets shall be full, (the streets mind you, not the gutters) of children, playing in the midst thereof. We may take care that workmen shall have, at least, as good books to read as anyone else, when they've time to read them."

Ruskin was a philosopher, an art critic, an interpreter of dreams, a dreamer. His dream for the workman will come true. It will be in the interests of the employer of labour to pay the labourer enough wage to permit him to lay aside his labouring tools once in a while, to rest, to read, to reinvigour his strength of mind and body. It is in the interests of Capital that labour be well paid. There are workmen who are lazy and good for nothing, a few. Give the others their due, a living wage and they will have: food—clothing—work—and play, and plenty of it, and happy is the nation so blessed as to have such employers and such employed.

M. C. L. I. TO-NIGHT, at 7.45. "Resolved: That the failure through having proved a failure through the prevalence of illiteracy, there should be a minimum of educational attainment insisted on before the privilege and responsibility of voting in elections is granted." ### Popular Singer

Goes South.

Mr. John O'Reilly, a well-known singer of this city, who was married at Halifax a few days ago, has left that city for Bermuda where, with his wife, he will remain until the spring. On Xmas night at Halifax, Mr. O'Reilly sang a solo in St. Mary's Cathedral, "O Holy Night" being the name. For his rendition of this song he received considerable congratulation from the congregation. Mr. O'Reilly, it will be remembered, sang at the Majestic Theatre, this city, where he added many to his already large number of friends.

McMurdo's Store News

THURSDAY, Jan. 15

Many persons, who have picked up colds during the recent severe weather, find it difficult to get rid, not to mention the cough as of a feeling of lassitude and weakness, a falling appetite—this sometimes as the result of the injudicious use of cough syrup—and a general feeling of some how the cold is still hanging about, and only needs a favorable opportunity for starting up again. For those persons we would recommend a bottle of Gault's God Liver Oil Compound which will quickly restore the appetite, clean up the remains of the cough, and strengthen the system generally. A generous sized bottle for 50c.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE SON COMES BACK.

A letter friend wants help in solving a problem. This is the problem:

"There is a home not far from this city in which dwells a father, mother, and son of 23 years. The son was in the war and returned to his home a year ago. Instead of being thankful his home (which I know to be a one as far as the efforts of his father) this young man is absolutely thoughtless, selfish and rude—ugh a college man. This is the question that I wanted to know how far should this father's patience go?

At this son shows he would prefer never to talk to him (and she never to nag) should she keep a pleasant way and pay no attention to what she knows he would do?"

But how long can one keep one's respect and continue to be kind? I am a great believer in the Golden Rule, but might that not become a dilution under such circumstances?"

But the answer seemed plain. When I first read this letter I answered all ready and I intended to write with that answer in mind.

As I copied the letter I began to see between the lines and my heart became less simple.

It seems to me there is a double meaning here.

There are two relations to be considered the simple one of mother and son, and the more complex relation of a man returned from the war—only knows what mental and physical state, and the rest of it.

He had said that the son had returned from a trip around the world and had acted in that way. I have said promptly that to my mind the Golden Rule would dictate that the mother should talk with him and open his eyes to his own situation.

brutality just as she would want her eyes to be opened if she had fallen into such a state. Isn't that the essence of the Golden Rule—do as you would be done by.

A Plain Talk is Sometimes Necessary. I think that nagging and daily recriminations are terrible things in family life, but I don't think a plain talk once in a while goes against the spirit of love. Suppose anything should happen to that mother, how bitterly that son would grieve. Is she not doing him an injustice to let him put himself in the way of such remorse?

And then think of what is happening to his character when he is encouraged to be so utterly self-centered.

Think of the selfishness his wife will have to struggle with once the illusions of courtship have worn away.

All that is what I would say if it were simply a case of a son come back after some ordinary absence (or, in fact, of a son who hadn't gone away at all.)

Her Share in Getting the World On Its Feet.

But since it is a case of a son come back from what may have been a year of inconceivable strain, I would suggest that his mother keep that thought ever before her.

If her son shows her that he prefers she would not talk to him, perhaps he is mentally in a condition where he cannot bear the effort of responding.

The remedy for that is neither to "keep on talking in a pleasant way" or to become resentful over it. It is simply to respect his wishes, show him unobtrusively that her love is always there, and wait for time to wait.

That may be part of her share in world reconstruction. For truly, "They also serve who only stand and heal him."

The above facts can be verified by writing to him, to the Parish Priest or any of his neighbors. A. COTE, Merchant. St. John's, Que., 12 May, '98.

Just Folks

THE NEW YEAR.

Out of the kindly hand of Time another year we come to take. We've lived the old from first to last, we know its every joy and ache; we've met its tests and sung its songs, we've shared its gray skies and its blue.

And putting by its sheaf of days, we turn with hope unto the new. Whatever was of pride and shame that marked the old year's course must stand. Some pages joyously we penned and some in sorrow's trembling hand. But as we thumb the finished book, we find some brighter than the rest.

And we recall they mark the days when we had risen to our best. Those days we stood by friends in need or helped another in distress. Now gladden as the days which seemed to bring us close to happiness. And looking back we can recall no happy time was ours to know. But it was something of ourselves which we had given that made it so.

Out of the generous hand of Time we come to take another year. And each of us from day to day must write upon its pages clear. God grant that we shall kinder be, speak less in blame and more in praise. And by the splendor of our lives make this a year of happy days.

Dogs' Acute Sense of Hearing.

"I have seen people laugh when a dog howled shrilly on hearing the notes of a violin or a bugle," writes Mr. A. P. Terbune. "They thought he was trying to sing an accompaniment to the music. He was not. He was in anguish. Canine hearing is so many times more acute than is that of man that a high-pitched music note has the same effect on the Tympanum as would the point of a cambric needle. Those who like to amuse guests by showing them how cunning Fido "sings," when the fiddle or the cornet is played will do well to remember, next time, that he is not singing. He is screaming in agony. This same uncanny sense of hearing tells him of the faintest change in his master's mood. A shade of tone, which would escape a human, is not only audible but translatable to a dog. When people brag that Rover "understands everything we say," they are mistaken. At best, he understands barely one-tenth of it. But he does understand the way they say it.

"No courtier ever hung upon his sovereign's humours with half the zest that the right kind of dog lavishes on those of his master. And it is by this sense of hearing that he catches the nature of these varying moods. True, he scans and reads the face too. But the bulk of his mind reading is done by ear."

THE NEW YEAR.

I hail the new year gladly, and say to it, "Good day," while still surveying endly the year that's passed away. The old year seemed a winner when first its tour began, but now old Time, the tinner, has put it in a can. That year was punk and duff, the worst of all bum bets; this much of epitaphy is all the dead ones gets. But now its bright successor with gladness I accost, and I'm a cheap john guesser if it should prove a frost. I hail the buoyant stranger and hope he'll set us free from dread and doubt and danger and all the ills there be. I hope he'll bring good feeling, contentment in his train, and end the foolish speling that's driving men insane. I hope he'll bring a season of quiet and repose, and back to law and reason lead people by the nose. For I am, oh, so weary of riot

No Tyrant Rule For St. John's West

"The sweet are our friendships, our hopes, our affections, 'Defeat of a tyrant is sweeter than all.'"

In the spirit thus outlined the manly voters of St. John's West will go to the booths on polling day to encompass the defeat of the greatest political tyrant that ever trod the floors of the Newfoundland Legislature. The defeat of his nominees, and indirectly himself, will be the sweetest consolation that ever a St. John's voter experienced, for tyranny and liberty can never blend together in the heart and mind of a Liberal voter of this creditable city. All personal regard for Squires and Brownrigg has already vanished, like the baseless fabric of a vision, in the one supreme desire to crush out the tyranny of Coaker-Toryism, to make room again for the life, liberty, and the pursuit of that happiness so dear to the heart of every true home patriot.

Tyrants may come and go in the future, as they have existed in the past, and reign also in the present, but their rule of tyranny sooner or later finishes and the phoenix of liberty rises again to replace it. Two months of Coaker-Tory rule has disclosed all its hideous aspects, quicker even than the most astute observer predicted, but the fortune's circumstance of the bye-election in St. John's West gives the people a quick opportunity to strangle the octopus before much further harm can be done.

The popular sentiment all over the city is glowing like a red hot furnace against Coaker domination, and will reach an intensity on polling day such as was never witnessed before. It is history repeating itself again, when tyranny endeavored to ride roughshod over the ordinary rights of the people in order that the wild ambitions of one solitary individual, who has no more right to place himself in a dictator's chair, than the German Kaiser was justified in plunging the world into the horrors of war. As the world aroused itself to defend the people's rights against one man's dastardly ambitions, and won that liberty after a struggle that cost the blood of millions, so also will the people of St. John's West stand shoulder to shoulder, and sinking all differences, eject the usurper Coaker from his self-created throne wherefrom he issues his commands to throttle the freedom of St. John's. There is going to be a record vote polled in St. John's West against Coaker-Tory despotism, for the issue now has become a clear-cut one with the voters. The issue is not as to whether one pair of candidates can use their tongues more glibly than the other, but it is narrowed down to the one point as to whether the people are satisfied to have Coaker dominate them or a free Government for the whole of Newfoundland. Coaker might win upon an issue of that kind amongst men less fond of liberty than those of St. John's West, but the voters of that district will never take off their hats to tyrants or bend their backs to the whip of a slave driver. They were never reared to such political principles as Coakerism stands for; they have never been brought up to take an oath of allegiance to do as any man should order or dictate; nor, whilst at least this present generation lasts, or many more after them, will they consent to be corralled in their independence, as cattle are roped to the iron rings protruding from the walls of the cattle dealers' stores.

From the first granting of Responsible Government, no man has ever yet dared the voters of St. John's West to go down on their knees and consent to the abject surrender of their own minds and principles, to the transfer of the right of expressing their own thoughts, or to the humiliating torture of the slave whose tongue becomes tied for ever from his cradle to his grave. No man ever yet dared to put that Tory principle in practice, or ram it down the throats of St. John's voters, because the man has not yet been born to whom thus they would cringe. Are we, then, to expect that such a body of free voters are going to swallow upon Polling Day the principles of Coaker-Tory domination, principles so nauseating and abhorrent that even the most rabid Tory heeled shudder and pause before entering Botwood Hall to listen to Coaker's phonographs endeavoring to explain away the selfish reason for upholding Coaker tyranny. There are many men in St. John's West to-day who kept out of previous fights, caring naught who won or lost; but there is no free man to-day in St. John's West amongst that number who will be so disinterested this time. All are bent upon the one purpose, that of crushing into atoms the vile principles of Coaker-Toryism. There will be no indifference to the mighty issues at stake, no transfer of the burden on to the shoulders of a neighbor. All the district is awake to the horrors of Coaker rule; hence in their thousands, by scores and by dozens, in pairs and singles, will that vast army of 5,000 free and liberty-loving voters march to roll up for MARTIN and LINEGAR what is destined to be the most historic victory ever yet won in St. John's West. Tyranny then will be crushed by Liberty, and around the memory of that great struggle for freedom, there will be entwined for ever the gratitude of all future generations for the present day noble heroes of St. John's West.

The evidences of the Squires-Coaker blundering and incapability are all too patent in the West End for the voters to waste any time now listening to the appeals of this pair of political misfits. The fish agreement has been in existence only two months and a half, and it has brought a cloud of misery and depression over the city, chiefly owing to the cask trade having been cut out. Coopers' shops are closed up, and it is impossible to sell a fish cask. Fish handlers and packers who used to be making big weekly wages other years at this season, are standing at the corners in hundreds idle. It will be worse as time goes on, and the pinch will extend to the men who make hoops in the outports, and staves and heading at the small mills. There will be no market for their stock, and if things go on like at present they will all have to close down. Squires could lessen the present misery if he had back bone enough to carry out the promise that he made in his manifesto about getting after the profiteer and keeping down the price of food stuffs. The only thing that he has done in regard to flour is to agree with Mr. Steer—a special New Year's gift to St. John's West—to advance his flour from $14.50 to $15.00. And worst of all, to come out in his organs and clap himself on the back, as if he had reduced it 50 cents instead of advancing it. This is a genuine touch of Squireism. His incompetency and blundering has left the town short of coal and made good men and women beggars for half a ton. He allows butter and kerosene oil and sugar to be put up on the people, and doesn't turn a hair. Flapdoodle promises of model farms and road work, and a general millenium for the West End are now being offered the people by himself and Campbell, instead of the reforms that he promised. It is all in vain. Both he and Brownrigg must go to the right about on the 22nd, and be succeeded by MARTIN and LINEGAR.

Their Sacred Trust.

Under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor a Vocal and Organ Recital will be held in George Street Church on Monday, the 19th, at 8.15, by the Choir. All friends and lovers of music are invited. Admission free. A silver collection will be made for choir expenses and music. Organist, H. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M.

have nothing to do with this man Hawes.

The Norwegian fish will soon be in the market, and ours will be left untouched. If Squires and Coaker had sat down and deliberately plotted to ruin Newfoundland, they could not have succeeded better. No doubt they realize their mistake now, but have gone too far to turn back. Squires' pride would suffer and Coaker's stubbornness will not allow him to submit to public opinion and the decision of the Supreme Court. Other cargoes of fish, clear of the combine, that have gone to Italy, Spain and Greece since last November, have realized on sale $2.00 more per quintal than the price fixed by Coaker. This in itself is the best proof of the temper of the foreign buyers and the mad folly of Coaker's regulations. He was called up from Catalina to save Squires in the West End, and the bull-headed pronouncement in Monday's Advocate trampling under foot all adverse opinion, shows that the man must be gone mad with the consciousness of the power that he believes he possesses. He may be able to coerce the north but he must remember that he cannot trample St. John's under his feet, and he will be taught a lesson on the 22nd that he will have to swallow even though he makes a bluff of ignoring the Supreme Court. St. John's West is the jury that will render the verdict of his condemnation on the 22nd with no uncertain sound.

Where was Gibbs when recruiting work was in swing. Where was he? Well the voters of the West End know where he was and what he was doing. And now Mike wants to tell us how to save the country. There would not be much left to save if all played the role that Gibbs played.

Read the names of the country savers, all patriots, who sang small when the war was at its height: John St. John, M. P. Gibbs, Dr. Mosdell, Arthur English, et al: and these are impudent enough to tell you to-day that they have your interests at heart. Show them that you have their weight. Send them back crawling to the holes they occupied during the war. You owe it to the memory of the heroes who fought for you.

Shipping Notes.

S. S. Rosalind left Halifax for here at 6 o'clock yesterday evening and is due to-morrow.
S. S. Watuka arrived in port at 9.30 this morning bringing about 2,000 tons of coal from Sydney.
It is understood that Bowring's sealing fleet will coal from the S. S. Cranley, taking about 1,000 tons.
S. S. J. A. McKee will finish discharging her cargo of coal at Clarenville to-morrow. The Petrel is keeping a channel open in the harbor so that the McKee will not be frozen in.

Snapshots From the West End.

Harry Brownrigg and Dr. Campbell, the Tories tell us, are fluent speakers. Let me ask how much eloquence did they pour forth in recruiting work in those dismal days when the Germans were pounding their way towards Paris?

What did Cheeseman do to the Executive after he arrived in the city from Burn? John certainly threw a hand grenade or two into the crowd.

Telegrams and letters of protest are being plentifully sent the representatives of South Coast districts from fish exporters of the principal places, and yet they can't do anything about it, because Coaker won't let them.

Is St. John's West now standing in the breach for the safety of Newfoundland, going to surrender to Toryism of the worst kind and become subservient to Ring Rule? NO! The bare thought is abhorrent to the tried and true stalwarts of the good old Liberal District.

Flour, Butter, Sugar, Kerosene Oil gone up in price, and no coal to be had for love or money. This is but a little experience of the condition things will be in should Toryism prevail and Coakerism become the dominant power. Safety and prosperity cannot be the portion of the people under the present regime, therefore it is imperative that St. John's West take the lead in putting away the candidates of oppression and misgovernment, by voting for MARTIN and LINEGAR.

W. J. Bryan's Prediction.

U. S. Will Ratify Peace Treaty To-Day --- Heavy Casualty List in Berlin Riots -- Fiume Still Under Discussion --- Australia Will Not Have German Goods --- Big Fire at Ottawa.

CASUALTIES IN BERLIN RIOT.
 LONDON, Jan. 14. Eye witnesses estimate the casualties in Berlin on Tuesday at fifty killed and a hundred wounded, according to a Reuter correspondent. The police were finally compelled to throw bombs among the rioters causing a panic in which many were struck by bullets and numbers including many women were trampled under foot.

WILL HAVE ORDER AT ALL COSTS
 PARIS, Jan. 14. Thirty-one persons were killed during riots in front of the Reichstag building in Berlin yesterday according to Berlin advices reaching here to-day. The Cabinet of the National Government together with the Prussian Cabinet has issued a statement unambiguously for the maintenance of order by all means available.

STILL DISCUSSING FIUME.
 PARIS, Jan. 14. The Council of three, Premier Lloyd George, Great Britain, Premier Clemenceau, France and Premier Nitti, Italy, to-day continued their consideration of the Fiume question. The Jugoslavians failed to appear before the council to-day. It is said the Slovenes have objected to the Italian proposal that Fiume be a free city with its territory extending to the present Italian frontier.

BRYAN SAYS PEACE TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED TO-DAY.
 CHICAGO, Jan. 14. William Jennings Bryan en route to Washington to-day, predicted the Senate would ratify the Peace Treaty to-morrow. While giving no specific reasons for expecting this action Bryan said that the Senate must bow to public demand that there be no more delay. The people want action, he said, instead of words.

THE MILNER COMMISSION.
 CAIRO, Jan. 13. Opposition to the Milner commission, now in Egypt in an attempt at conciliation, is giving indications of growth, due chiefly, it is said, by some close observers of developments, to the influence of Entz Zuglou Pasha, Minister of Justice.

AUSTRALIA WORRIES NOT.
 LONDON, Jan. 14. Notwithstanding the exchange of ratifications of the German Peace Treaty putting it into effect, the Australian Government intends still to keep in use the Customs Act prohibiting the importation of German goods, if it is declared in a Melbourne message to-day.

RAILWAYMEN NOT YET SATISFIED
 LONDON, Jan. 14. The Government reply to the National Union of railwaymen with regard to the unions proposed against the Government was submitted this afternoon. The Executive Committee after deliberation and having arrived at no decision adjourned until to-morrow.

SAW BOAT BUT NO SURVIVORS.
 PLYMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 14. The steamer Anversville reports having passed in the Bay of Biscay one of the life-boats of the steamer Afrique. The boat was not occupied.

Sails, masts, and oars were lashed in their usual places. The Anversville searched the vicinity in which the boat was found but found no wreckage or survivors.

SOCIAL DEMOCRATS ISSUE APPEAL.
 BERLIN, Jan. 14. The Social Democratic party has issued an appeal to its members not to allow themselves to be provoked by independent and communist wire pullers who are directly responsible for bloodshed and want to continue to play unscrupulous game with human lives. The appeal asks whether workers will permit national representatives to be placed under terrorism and tells them that the German nation can be saved from complete destruction only by work.

A FALSE ALARM.
 DAKAR, French West Indies, Jan. 14.—The Italian liner Princess Mafalda arrived here to-day from South America, all on board are well. The Mafalda was reported on Saturday last to have been sunk by a mine with loss of seven hundred lives.

GRANTING THEIR INDEPENDENCE.
 PARIS, Jan. 14. According to the Temps the Supreme Council at one of its recent sittings decided to recognize the complete independence of Armenia, Georgia, and Azerbaijan.

SCHOONER ASHORE.
 NEW YORK, Jan. 14. The Dutch schooner Pioneer, which left here to-day for Nassau, is reported ashore near Sandy Hook. A high wind is blowing with rough sea.

COSTLY FIRE.
 OTTAWA, Jan. 14. Three hundred thousand dollars loss was the total damage in fire which destroyed a business block on Sussex Street to-day. The loss to the Pedlar People, Ltd., was $28,000, while the National Storage and Packing Co., on furniture, pianos and organs sustaining loss of from $150,000 to $200,000.

TEMPEST CONTINUES IN BAY OF BISCAY.
 PARIS, Jan. 14. The tempest in the Bay of Biscay which caused the sinking of the steamer Afrique was continuing unabated to-day, the storm area extending well into the Atlantic. The Belgian steamer Serbia has been abandoned by the crew and is reported sinking in lat. 47 north and long. 6. No Belgian steamer named Serbia is listed. The Belgian steamer Serbler, a wooden vessel of 1434 tons net, may be meant. The French cruiser Desaix, which was scheduled to sail from Lorient to-day, was obliged to postpone her departure because of the storm. It was announced at the office of the company owning the arique that the bodies of twelve persons from the foundered vessel had been washed ashore at Sabia, Delonca.

A TOWN TO LET

A STORY OF THE FUTURE.

"TO LET.—A deserted town named St. John's, once the capital of Newfoundland, hant now reduced to a state of dilapidation, as all its inhabitants have emigrated elsewhere. Would make an ideal tourist camping ground for a wealthy foreign millionaire. The land and ruins and general appearance will appeal to all lovers of deserted villages and historical students. Apply by letter to Lord Coaker, Port Union, N.F., or personally to my solicitor and assistant private secretary, R. A. Squires, who will make terms subject to my final approval,—not otherwise."

In the mind's eye of W. F. Coaker, as he speeds over the ocean, ensconced in comfortable quarters on the S. S. Digby, smoking a big cigar and waited on by his nubian attendant, there no doubt will appear to him an outline of an ad. he will construct on the foregoing lines, and forthwith will order his solicitor to make a draft of same for publication in the foreign papers of the world.

That is the direction now at any rate towards which St. John's is tending, and the picture of the future will not be a bit astray in its outline whether such an advertisement appears or not, unless Coaker rule is nipped in the bud on the 22nd inst. It is now or never for this old city of over four centuries growth. The Coaker canker has made its appearance and there is but one chance to root it out. A false move now and all is lost, for the city will never again be able to recover from the sledge hammer strokes now aimed at its industrial importance. Destroy the laboring and mechanical industries of St. John's and down will come the whole commercial structure over the heads of all in the city. We will have tombstones then in place of factory chimneys and grass grown plots in places of busy marts. Once employment for laborers and mechanics begin to lessen, as it is doing now, and the ranks of the unemployed continue to lengthen, then we reach the end of prosperity and made turn on our heels at once towards the paths of poverty; or else out the Narrows to the already overcrowded labor markets of the neighbouring and unfriendly countries. All the while this will be transpiring, Nero Coaker will be fiddling in Europe and contemplating with serenity the ruin he has wrought. We venture to predict, however, that the voters of St. John's west will prevent the realization of this dismal prospect; that they will not commit such political and industrial suicide as would bring about any such contemplated and unfortunate disaster. But it behoves them nevertheless to be on their guard till polling day, as the slick Tory politicians, who are playing the Coaker game, will rise all sorts of catch cries to hypnotize the voters. Every man therefore from now till polling day should "Hang 'Er Down" to the one purpose only and that is to absolutely refuse to identify himself with the Coaker touts, and then when the booths are opened, to go in their thousands and elect the city's defenders Martin and Linagar.

Last Night's Meeting.

Mr. Squires (the Premier) held a meeting last night. Fact! It was a great and glorious meeting and the applause was good to hear. There was left no room for doubt as to how the bye-election would go, because the crowded, packed, filled-to-over-flowing house was unanimous in its determination to put Mr. Squires and Mr. Brownrigg back into their nice, comfortable jobs. The speakers were enthusiastically, vociferously, thunderously cheered, and in fact they had a regular time of it. Mr. Squires was at his best, and the way in which he roundly, severely, mercilessly, vigorously, unceasingly, forcefully, energetically and powerfully condemned the Opposition candidates showed plainly that he didn't fear them and that he did not for one moment (or part of a moment) believe that they would poll 20 votes. Mr. Foley, too, was at his best, and to his credit he said, that he perspired freely as he manfully exposed the Great Betrayal of Labor. As the eloquent speaker, his eyes aflame and his feet apart, mentioned these solemn words a tragic silence fell on the assembled multitude and Mr. Foley's triumph was complete only when the cheering that followed loosened the roof and let in the snow. This, falling on his fevered brow, cooled him to such an extent that he was able to tell the sleigh driver where he lived. Truly, and to speak no lie, last night's meeting was a great success—for the Opposition.

Lila Lee's Newest Picture Reveals Many Contrasts.

"SUCH A LITTLE PIRATE" FILLED WITH HIGHLY DRAMATIC INCIDENTS.

The remarkable contrasts, between the dainty sweetness and youth of Lila Lee, and a rollicking old grey bearded salt, between the dreams of a young girl and the bloody machinations of a cutthroat crew who are no less practical in disposition because they are of present century instead of the days of the buccanniers—such contrasts make of "Such a Little Pirate," as is asserted, a most winning film subject.
 This picture, which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre this evening is the second starring Lila Lee on the Paramount list, and is declared by experts to surpass even her first offering. The story is by Monte M. Katterjohn, based on a novel by James Oliver Curwood. George Melford did the directing. The marine scenes were taken at Catalina Island, aboard an old boat that has now been seized by the United States Government.
 An interesting scene is that in which the old hooker is caught in a tropical storm. A fine cast surrounds the lovely little star and there is every reason to believe that the production will create a tremendous hit among those who are on the lookout for freshness, beauty and originality, as well as picture-qualities in plot and character. Paul Perry was photographer and Claude Mitchell assisted Mr. Melford in the direction.

Nurses Give Dance.

A very enjoyable dance was held last night by the Nurses and Sisters of the General Hospital. A number of gentlemen friends being present. The music was furnished by Bailey and Myron's orchestra. A splendid supper was served and the festivities were kept up till past midnight. Dr. Carnell, who acted as floor manager, proposed a vote of thanks to the Nurses and Sisters for the enjoyable time provided.

The Failure of the Tyre Guarantee

The only outstanding and unalterable fact about the definite mileage guarantee is that it must be paid for even by the careful driver who does not need it—like yourself.

The Good Year Service Station Dealers know this well as you tyre users should know it.

The cost of such a guarantee, like every other cost of production and marketing, is included in the selling price of the tyre.

Thus the presence of such a guarantee in a tyre of normal price can mean only that some other quality has been slighted or sacrificed.

If you drive with reasonable care, almost any standard make of tyre will deliver you mileage above the average guaranteed figure.

The premium you pay for the guarantee does you no good at all, and by paying it you deny yourself such additional mileage as uncompromised quality could give.

It is only the reckless driver—the man abusive of his tyre—who can expect to profit regularly from the definite mileage guarantee.

It is wise to remember that you are paying for his neglect and helping to buy his tyres the next time you are offered such a guarantee as an inducement to purchase.

Mr. Earle Sheds Light On The Fish Trust Combine.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In reading an article in the "Advocate" by Mr. Coaker dealing with the Fish Export Regulations, I notice he makes the statement that Earle, Sons & Co., of which Hickman & Co. are part owners, sold three cargoes of codfish 10/- under the price other cargoes sold at, and on the terms which the trade turned down, and were therefore responsible for the present collapse. Messrs. Hickman & Co.'s name is used of course to insinuate that he, being opposed in politics to Mr. Coaker and his party, would countenance anything that would upset the present Government plans and ends. As Mr. Hickman knew nothing about the sale of these cargoes until after they went through, he being in Bay de Verde District, anyone forming this opinion is in error. Mr. Coaker has misrepresented the matter possibly owing to the matter being misrepresented to him. Earle, Sons & Co. fought the Consorzio on the terms so objectionable, and sold them the cargoes on the terms demanded by the trade. As the price was not fixed at that time, and shippers were working independently, and were themselves prepared to accept prices under that referred to for comparison by Mr. Coaker. They could afford to do so considering the price they had bought the fish at, but at this point Mr. Hawes stepped in, and painted so pretty a vision of high prices and big profits that the larger interests, though not the majority, fell for it and decided the right thing to do was to place the whole business in his hands. Earle, Sons & Co. were at this time negotiating their sales for four cargoes in the usual manner, and fighting the conditions demanded by the Consorzio, one of which relating to bank guarantees, which I understand Mr. Coaker had promised to give with his cargoes thereby making it almost impossible to sell, as they held out on this point. One of the cargoes of bulk shiners was closed out in Portugal at 85/- and figuring that if 85/- could be obtained in Italy for the other two bulk shiner cargoes, and the cargo of casked Labrador, a profit of $44,000.00 would be cleaned up on the 15,000 qtls. in bulk.

According to Mr. Coaker, Earle, Sons & Co. should not have sold under 95/-, or on the three cargoes he refers to they should demand $26,000.00 or more, or a total profit of $70,000.00. The purchase price was based on that of St. John's buyers, so one can readily see the profits Mr. Coaker and the Hawes interest were endeavouring to make. Not one cent of this profit would have been refunded the fishermen as an advance on the fish already bought, and it is very doubtful if the price would have advanced at all unless forced by outside interest. The drop in exchange reduced the anticipated profit, but yet rendered a very satisfactory and legitimate one, and moreover put the fish into consumption, whereas otherwise it would probably have been tied up indefinitely in the hands of Mr. Hawes. As Mr. Coaker particularly remarks on the fact that E. S. & Co. undersold by 10/- per quintal, I will give the facts which will show how his statement misrepresents the matter. I will admit Mr. Hawes did sell early at 95/-, less discount and his commission, which no doubt was a great advertisement and assistance to him in inducing certain members of the trade in entering into an agreement, thereby practically giving him a monopoly of the European fish trade.

E. S. & Co. received the intimation at this time that if they wished to avail of his (Mr. Hawes) assistance, he would rather they came to him and ask for it, but they received no information regarding the pooling of interest or had the slightest idea of the nature of the agreement. They saw no necessity of asking Mr. Hawes for assistance, and having had an offer from the Consorzio decided to treat with them. Their offer was 85/- per quintal subject to bank guarantee and other restrictions which were refused, and a counter offer made of 85/- net cash in London paid in full against Documents, and acceptance of all cargoes, all faults except sea-damage, these being the terms the trade was holding out for. The Consorzio replied accepting the three cargoes on the terms offered. Before their reply accepting was received, Mr. Hawes called and stated his plans were being upset as he was asking 90/- and the Consorzio had called him that they had bought at 85/- He requested me to withdraw. I stated I could not do so, as the offer having been made and the profit and terms satisfactory, I did not see the necessity; moreover the price 85/- netted E. S. & Co. as much nearly as Mr. Hawes' 90/-, besides I looked at the risk in tying up cargoes in his hands in an already overstocked market; or in other words "chasing the shadow when you have the bone in your mouth."

This transaction, I take it, was instrumental as much as anything else in bringing about these restrictions which have been the cause of preventing the realization of a large quantity of codfish at profitable prices. It is quite evident the Consorzio having acceded to our terms and buying as they did, had the restrictions never been in force, they would have been buying right along on our own terms and prices. It is true exchange dropped and reduced profits, but they were willing to buy at a higher figure to offset this, and cargoes might have been realized at 90/- had not shippers been illegally prevented from selling.

Mr. Coaker has freely circulated the statement that E. S. & Co. undersold by 10/- and this is the kind of thing which must be prevented, no reference being made to cargoes sold in Greece under those sold by E. S. & Co., in Italy. He bases the difference of 10/- on the gross value of a cargo Mr. Hawes realised early before we sold; and the net amount we received for the cargoes in question. This is an absolutely unjust representation, and the only difference that can be calculated must be based on the price Mr. Hawes himself told me he was asking, and the price we ourselves were asking and received at this same time we were both negotiating sales.

To arrive at the correct difference I must refer you to the terms of the Hawes agreement with the Trade which has been published. You will there see he is to receive 3 p.c. commission and 1 1/2 p.c. discount to the buyer is allowable. Further expenses or commissions we will not consider. Take his price at 90/- less 4% and we get 85 1/2, and as E. S. & Co.'s sales of 85/- were net cash in London, we deduct 1 p.c. only and received 84 1/2 or a difference of 2 1/2 only and not 10/- as stated. Further, Earle's shore cargoes were bulk and at reasonable freight rates, and as the 90/- price is for both cask and bulk as asked by Mr. Hawes, and stipulated under the fishery regulations, we can see the extra cost of cask, labor packing, freight, etc., being about 7/- more than bulk, the shipper of casks is actually underselling E. S. & Co. by over 5/- per quintal. A strong objection to E. S. & Co. selling at 85/- is that it does not maintain the price in order to give Mr. Hawes and those connected with him a good profit. I have objected to these restrictions from the first, and expressed my views to both the Minister of Shipping and the Premier. The maintaining of a fixed price everyone will admit, is right, but the restrictions of sales in order to maintain an unnecessary profit for others, is the direct cause of the collapse and is tying up thousands of quintals which should be consumed.

Mr. Coaker states that Mr. Job has written that if the regulations had not been put in force, there would have been a considerable drop in price of fish and a financial collapse must have come. Why? Is it not a fact that those connected with Mr. Hawes came to the conclusion that unless he (Mr. Hawes) was given the control of sales of fish in Italy, that six or seven would stop buying fish during the first half of November, and pressure was brought to bear which induced the Government to fall in line and support the measure. The Consorzio would not buy from Hawes, but were willing to buy from E. S. & Co. and others outside of the combine, showing clearly that the Government restrictions are nothing more than a protection to Hawes and his associates. The Fisheries Department has already authorized a reduction of 2 1/2 per qtl. to enable Mr. Hawes to sell, but E. S. & Co. and others have to maintain the stipulated price. Mr. H. is still unable to sell, and the Department is all probability have to face the problem of taking all consignments out of his hands.

This is easier said than done, as Mr. Coaker and others having tacitly agreed to pay Mr. Hawes this commission and incidental expenses for three years—quite an inducement no doubt will have to be given before Mr. Hawes cancels such a profitable contract.

A cable received to-day states "that the present situation is very serious. Portugal Exchange nominal, no drafts obtainable, buyers will not pay official prices; Lind & Couto to whom all cargoes were forced on consignment by the Fishery Department, recommends diverting all cargoes elsewhere. Market idle since about end of year owing fish workers strike. Spain supply is greatly in excess of requirements. All business stopped by strikes. Italy and Greece There are no buyers at present." From the present outlook if the Fisheries Department persists in its present obstinate course, what Mr. Coaker now is pleased to term a collapse, will materialize into something of a far graver aspect.

Mr. Coaker also refers to E. S. & Co. having given a guarantee to abide by all the regulations relating to the export of fish, including the one relative to all sales in Italy being made through Mr. Hawes, which the Department particularly wanted before giving a clearance for 12,500 quintals. They knew E. S. & Co.'s objections to this clause, and as their vessels were practically frozen up, and would stay at Fogo all the winter, unless the guarantee was given, the department had them as it were by the throat and illegally forced them to give them the guarantee. The threat is now held out that if they break this guarantee they must take the consequences, which I presume would mean whatever the spirit of vindictiveness dictated.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the privilege of utilizing your valuable space.

I remain,
Yours truly,
LEONARD EARLE.

Launching Postponed.

Sydney, Jan. 7.—The shipyards of the Canadian Concrete Steamship Company, at North Sydney, present a busy scene these days. A gang of men are hustling day and night to complete the launch-ways over which the new concrete steamer Permanencia which was to have been launched to-day, when the spring tide was at its highest. The big steamer is ready to take the water and all that remains to be done is to finish the work on the launch-ways, which has been interfered with by bad weather. Owing however to the fact that several days more work is necessary for the completion of the launch-ways, the Permanencia will not take the water to-day.

The hull of the ship was completed some time ago and her owners, the Canadian Concrete Shipbuilding Company, expected to see the ship take the water at 12 o'clock to-night, when the tide, coming with the full moon, will be at its highest point. Unforeseen circumstances in connection with the launch-ways construction have prevented this.

The Permanencia will take her maiden plunge with the next high tide, coming with the new moon, in two weeks time, unless the present severe weather continues and ice conditions interfere.

The powerful Bolinder engines with which the new ship will be fitted, are being held at New York awaiting orders for shipment here.

THE TORY BREAD LINE.

Meal and Molasses Days Next -- Then Soup Kitchens and the Poor House.

Instead of grasping the Tory profiteers by the throat and compelling every one of them to sell their flour at normal prices, the Tory-Coaker Government insults the people of St. John's West by asking them to form up into a bread line and go with their hat in their hands to await their turn for a barrel of flour, as a boy would go to a tank to await a turn of water. The scarcity of coal in the city during the past few weeks, because of the Tory Government, obliged people to do, as they were never forced to do before, line up in queues with policemen called in to stretch them out 5-long the sidewalk and await shivering in the cold for their turn to put in their coal orders. Tory times have certainly come again with a vengeance, a remark which is a reminder of the utterance of a Tory Premier in the Old Country when famines conditions obliged the flower of the Irish race to flee from their own beloved land. "They are going off," said he, "and going with a vengeance, so that, thank God, an Irishman will soon be as rare in Ireland as a Red Indian on the shores of Manhattan." In the same manner the vengeance of Toryism is now blighting the city and a continuance will soon result in seeing the capital as bare of its own native population as the Tory statesman had hoped would happen in the Emerald Isle. True, in the latter case hand on Polling Day, and by using it in defence of his own interests, chop down the Tory edifices that Coaker has created in St. John's. Go to it then ye voters of St. John's West. Be up early on Polling Day and roll up the votes for Martin and Linsgar, and besides going early to the booths, go often, and oftener yet, with every friend you know, to encourage him to fight for the freedom of the city. Sons should unite with parents in this great and glorious work; brothers should join hands with brothers in saving the city from destruction; and you also, fair daughters of Terra Nova's capital city, come to its aid in this dark hour, so that when the dawn of a brighter day is being ushered in, men and women may clasp hands together and rejoice over the defeat of Coaker-Toryism that they so nobly fought to crush. The verdict of St. John's West will then go down in history as the greatest victory for freedom in the history of Newfoundland, and the victors in the fight will go on record as the most illustrious patriots that ever a country produced. Each contributor will have just cause to swell with pride because of the noble part he will have played, and in the years to come he will never cease to cherish the memory thereof, and to recount to his friends and children around the fire-side of his "Home Sweet Home" the story of his manly defence for the liberty of the city when the tentacles of the Coaker octopus threatened to envelop it.

"The Magpies."

The cheerful "Magpies" have visited Waterford Hall and the Jensen Camp and delighted the patients at both places with the charming variety of their entertainment. From the opening chorus of greeting to the close, the programme goes gaily on with vim and brightness. The words of this chorus, we hear, were written by Miss Harris, the music by Mr. F. Emerson; both deserve heartiest congratulations for its success. Solos, duets, choruses, recitations follow each other in quick succession, and two sketches, "The Hello Girl," a clever sketch, local and appropriate, written by Commander Fenn, and another "A Figure of Speech," keep up the laughter of the evening. And now, having given away the names of three of the Magpies, we may as well satisfy the curiosity of so many by finishing the list. Miss Jameson, Miss Keegan, and Col. Bernard complete the troupe, and it goes without saying add their quota to the success of the entertainment. When at last "The Magpies" Christmas work of kindness is over, and the different institutions they are visiting have had their evenings of pleasure, they will disappoint the community at large if they retire to their nests, without giving a public performance of their bright and jolly entertainment. We feel certain that we can assure them a bumper house.

Overseas Veteran Relates Interesting Experience With Tanlac.

The best evidence of the merits of a medicine is what people who have actually taken it have to say about it. This is true and beyond all question when such statements are made by people of high character and published right in the community where established and every fact can be investigated and verified. Among the many well known Quebec people who have testified to the powers of Tanlac is Louis Trudelle of 55 1/2 Lallemand street, city of Quebec. Mr. Trudelle spent four years and six months in over seas service and was in many of the great battles in which the Canadians were active. He was also in the army of occupation after the Armistice was signed and has both, a general service and Allied medal.

While discussing Tanlac, which has been so beneficial to him, Mr. Trudelle said: "Since Tanlac has been of such great benefit to me I have recommended it personally to many people and am glad of this opportunity to commend it on a larger scale by giving a statement to be published in the papers. My stomach had been in such a bad condition for two years that I could not eat anything without suffering terribly from indigestion. My food seemed like lead in my stomach and the gas from it was causing me heart palpitation, shortness of breath and other distressing feelings. I often had dizzy spells and my sleep was so troubled on account of bad digestion that I could not get sufficient rest. I had rheumatism all over my body. My legs, especially, pained me so that it was difficult for me to climb the stairs in delivering the mail over my ward. In fact, I had lost all energy and all energy ways had that weak, worn-out feeling. After reading how others said Tanlac had helped them, I concluded to see what it would do in my case, and I am now convinced that all I have read and heard about it is true, for I am already feeling like a new man and have just finished my third bottle. My digestion seems to be perfect for nothing I eat, and that takes in most anything I want, hurts me no more, I am never troubled any more at night, or any other time, with gas forming on my stomach, palpitation or shortness of breath, and my sleep is good and sound. My rheumatic pains have entirely disappeared and I am now able to climb the stairs without becoming the least tired. I used to have violent headaches, but these, like the rest of my troubles, have left me. My strength and energy have returned and I have been built up until I am much more fit for my work. Tanlac is certainly a wonderful medicine in accomplishing so much in so short a time, and I cannot praise it too highly."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative in Harbor Buffet, by Thomas Wakely & Sons; in Placentia, by James Murphy & Son, and in Topsail by J. K. Bursell.

War Measures Act Invoked.

Yesterday, a Gazette Extraordinary was issued devoted solely to the promulgation of a proclamation whereby under the War Measures Act the power is taken to enforce and carry out the Fish Export Regulations made in November last, the legality of which, according to a judgment of the Supreme Court was pronounced non-existent. Thus the Government is determined to carry out the mandate of the Ring to the detriment of fish exporters not within the circle, and to the destruction of certain trades and labor interests in St. John's.

Poultry Association.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Following is the report presented by the President, H. W. LeMessurier Esq., at the Annual meeting.

GENTLEMEN,

In presenting the ninth Annual Report of the Newfoundland Poultry Association it is a matter for congratulation, that notwithstanding the many drawbacks that Poultry raisers had to contend with during the past four years, interest in the work of the Association has not in the least waned. In fact they worked hard and well for the objects for which the Association was formed and have been amply rewarded by the keen interest which they have awakened in the public mind.

Early in the year it was determined that a series of papers should be prepared by the members and read at the winter meetings. The first of these papers was prepared by Mr. S. White and was an excellent treatise on poultry raising. At the March meeting a very instructive and entertaining paper entitled "Chats on Poultry and Poultry Matters" was read by Vice-President G. R. Williams. April meeting was devoted to a discussion on sale of eggs. The Association decided on advertising for sale of eggs of pure bred fowls, and the result was that 338 eggs were disposed of. Mr. S. Emborly supervised the distribution and planned a scheme for recording the results of the hatches. At the May meeting the Association was favored with a paper from the Worthy Treasurer on "Failure and Success" in raising poultry, in which he ably dealt with his subject and that his success at our Annual shows evidences that he practices what he preaches.

In July an interesting evening was spent at the poultry farm of Mr. L. Earle, where the members were shown the various houses and pens of this admirable institution. In August the members were entertained most hospitably at Florence Grove, the residence of our Worthy Vice-President, G. R. Williams, Esq.

During the month of September the question of holding the Annual Exhibition was taken up and freely debated. It appeared at first that there were many reasons why we could not have a successful one and it was thought that to hold one that would not be a credit to the Association might have a damaging effect. One great obstacle was the obtaining of a suitable hall or place large enough to give us floor space for our exhibits. However it was determined that if we could obtain a hall every member would pledge himself to try and make a supreme effort to have a good exhibition. Mr. Morris put up a large building on Queen St. for his sail-making business, and although it was not fully completed with a hall, preparations were speedily completed and on the 26th of November the exhibition was formally opened by His Excellency Sir C. Alexander Harris, K.C.M.G., C.B., C.V.O., in the presence of a large audience, many of the notable people of the city being present. Altogether 323 birds were exhibited and it was notable that exhibitors from Grand Falls, Curling, Humbermouth and Harbor Grace were well represented. Mr. Chancy from Grand Falls winning the Plymouth Rock Cup and the special cup for highest number of points won by an exhibitor from outside St. John's. The Judge, Mr. F. Jackson was very well pleased with the exhibition. During the three days on which the exhibition was opened the public showed a great interest in the exhibits by their large attendance. On the 27th Lady Harris attended and was graciously pleased to award the prizes won by the different exhibitors. The Association felt that the success of the exhibition had far exceeded their expectations and we are greatly indebted to Mr. W. R. Butler for the large part he took in bringing it to such a successful conclusion.

We desire to express our gratitude to the Government for the annual grant and for the offer of the Prime Minister and Minister of Agriculture and Mines to aid us in our work. Without their help we would not be able to hold an exhibition.

It is noticeable that the Bell Island Poultry Association have imported a large number of pure bred birds and it is hoped that at the next Annual Exhibition that a goodly number of exhibits will come from that Association.

In closing this report we congratulate the Association on the great interest that they have stirred up in the breeding of pure blood fowl and in the prospect of the near attainments of the objects for which they are banded together.

YUDENITCH WANTS AN ASSURANCE.

RIGA, Jan. 11. The future of General Yudenitch and his army, estimated to number twenty thousand men, apparently still is undecided. His fourth and sixth Divisions were in line on the Narva front when last reports were received, but they soon will be withdrawn. Responding to an invitation to come to Paris, General Yudenitch asked an immediate decision from the Allies as to the disposition of his army, but so far as can be learned, no answer has been received.
