The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XLIII

In the short silence which followed there came before Stephen Daunt's eyes the pretty old-fashioned drawing-room of the Gray House, and two fair girls standing by the piano. Dolly's face full of dismay and pain, Sidney's proud and calm changing into startled terror as she stood listening to the words which told her that Sibyl Nell was to be Equire Rutledge's wife. And there sound again in his ears Dolly's words, as the brother and sister drove home together, that Sidney looked as if she had been forced into something against her will, and his own incredulous question—"If it is not for love of Frank she has engaged herself to him, why should she have done so?"

her his arm with the grave courtesy which always characterized his manner to her now; and Agnes followed in the pretty blue draperies which brought out the fairness of her skin and the bright hue of her hair in such perfection; and they drove away in the summer evening, Agnes and Stephen chatting gayly and carelessly, Sidney leaning back in her corner, silent, her pale loveliness chill and cold and pure as untrodden snow.

CHAPTER XLIV

There was a dinner-party at Lambewick that night, a large party, and yet not a formal one, for the guests were to be old friends, who were to assemble and celebrate Frank's restoration to freedom and happiness.

It was a pleasant party, for one and all exerted themselves to make it so. Lady Eva, at the head of the table in her costly laces and rich violet velvet, was happy in the consciousness that she could hold her own even among so many younger beauties. Mr. Daunt was the perfection of a host, and Stephen seconded him well; while Dolly was shyly but completely happy in the thought of her own approaching marriage, which was to take place before the roses were over, and Lloyd was equally radiant in his own way. He had taken Sidney in to dinner, and he was touched by the pathetic effort she made to appear at her ease, and to enter into the cheerfulness and happiness of those around her; and more than once he saw the sweet wistful eyes travel to Stephen's face as he sat at the other side, talking gayly and lightly to his neighbor, a vivacious little lady, the prettiest married flirt in Ashford or its neighborhood.

No allusion to the anniversary had been made by Stephen, and Agnes Burton, the only visitor at Easthorpe then, had not remembered it. Mr. Daunt and Lady Eva had driven over in the afternoon with pretty gifts and kind congratulations; but Stephen had been at the cloth-mills then, and he had said nothing on his return, not even remarking the presents which Sidney was far to shy to bring to his notice. All day long the young wife had felt depressed and miserable, with even more than usual sadness. Only a year married, she thought pitifully, and yet irrevocably parted! Bound to each other for life, and yet as much separated as if an iron wall kept them asunder! Could any misery equal their misery? Sidney wondered.

When the ladies left the table, the men drew up their chairs, and Frank was the hero of the hour. His flight was rather a delicate subject to touch upon, and it was avoided by tacit consent, and he himself was so quiet and grave and grateful that the old friends who knew him so well felt that the suffering he had undergone had not been useless, since he had come out of it purified from vanity and selfishness, even as the dross is removed from gold by fire, and henceforth he would have higher views of life and nobler ambitions than those which had formerly ruled him. They did not linger long over their wine; and Lady Knight's bright eyes flashed a laughing welcome as Stephen entered the room and made his way to a low luxurious chair by her side. Sidney was near them, sitting on a couch beside Christine; and her sad eyes brightened as she saw how Frank found his way to Agnes Burton's side, and bent over her with the old tender smile in his eyes and the gentle deferential manner which had such a charm in the old careless happy days.

And Sidney went downstairs in her long white cloak, and Stephen gave

Lord Wharton's Niece

—AND—

The Heir to Regna Court

CHAPTER I

"No, I think not," said Claire, musingly. "I have been here so long that I feel frightened at the thought of going into the world. I am like the prisoner of the Bastille, who, when they released him, begged them to take him back to his cell." Claire smiled. "That is my feeling at present. It may pass in time; but for the present I will stay here. I have sent for you to keep me company, Mary. You will not feel it dull or lonely?" Mrs. Lexton laughed. "My dear Claire, how could I possibly feel dull with you, and in such a place as this? Its beauty and its grandeur makes me feel very much as Aladdin must have felt when he first saw his palace. I think if I were to remain here twenty years I should find enough to amuse and interest me." Claire laughed.

"And yet you have seen so little of it?" she said. "Would you like to walk round the house, or are you too tired?"

Mrs. Lexton rose instantly. "It is what I am dying to do," she said, as she caught up her bonnet. They went down the broad staircase, and into the hall. Claire waved her hand slightly.

"Family portraits," she said. "That is Lord Wharton."

Mrs. Lexton gazed with awe at the grim, stern face.

"It is the last on the line," she said; "are there no other?"

She spoke almost in a whisper as if she were in church, for the stained windows gave a dim, religious light to the vast place, and the vaulted roof resembled that of a cathedral.

"There are no others after him," said Claire.

She pointed out the tattered flags hanging from the roof, the men in armor, and the ancient weapons arranged in quaint patterns upon the paneled walls, and then she drew her companion through the wide doorway into the open air.

The stood upon the terrace for a moment or two, while Mrs. Lexton looked at the logs and noble facade in silent amazement.

"I've read of such places, and seen pictures of them, Claire," she said; "but I have never imagined any place like this."

said Claire, absently. "But let us come into the garden."

They crossed the lawn, Mrs. Lexton marvelling at every step, and following a winding path through the trees, mounted to the cliff, to a spot from which the trees had been cleared, and from which they could obtain a panoramic view of the sea, the coast line, and the fields and woods of Court Regna stretching far inland. Mrs. Lexton looked round for a time in speechless admiration; then a cluster of houses built in a cleft of the rocks which formed a narrow valley running steeply to the sea, caught her eye, and she exclaimed:

"There is a village there, Claire. What is it?"

"That is Regna," said Claire. "It is a very famous place. There is no other village in England like it. There is just one street, as you see, and it is so steep that the carriage can go down it; most of the roadway is composed of steps. Those little dots you see moving up it are donkeys, bringing up fish from the boats which lie inside the harbor. Do you see the little pier?"

Mrs. Lexton drew a long breath of appreciation and delight.

"It is wonderful," she said. "It is like a picture."

"A great many pictures have been made of it," said Claire. "Artists come from all parts of the world to paint it. There is not a cottage or a nook in it that has not been put on canvas. Regna is one of the show places, and in the season hundreds of excursionists flock in to it. They come by coach from Thraxton, which is about fourteen miles away, or by steamer. The narrow street is sometimes so crowded that one can scarcely pass. That is in the season, of course; at other times it is as quiet and deserted as any other English village."

"To whom does it belong?" asked Mrs. Lexton.

"To Lord Wharton—I mean, to me," (To be continued.)

Joseph Murphy and Five to Help Him

TO THE CITIZENS OF ST. JOHN'S:

Ladies and Gentlemen—
I am offering myself as a candidate for election as City Councillor, and I ask your votes to that end. I appreciate the necessity, in approaching an intelligent electorate, of stating clearly the policies for which I ask support. I cannot guarantee that they will be carried out if I am elected—that will depend on the measure of support I obtain from the other Councillors. But I can and do promise that I shall spare no effort to have them carried out. The following are the points of policy for which I stand:

1. The most important of all, because nearly all the others depend on it, is the obtaining of further borrowing powers for the City. This can only be done through the Legislature, but if the Legislature is to be moved to action, strenuous agitation on the part of the City will be required. St. John's should have the same unrestricted civic powers that other capital cities (such as Halifax) enjoy, and such as are commensurate with its importance. A vote for me will be a vote for full civic powers.

2. I am in favour of discontinuing the salaries at present paid to the Mayor and Councillors. It should be a privilege for any citizen to give the small share of his time exacted by these offices to the welfare of the City. Moreover, although comparatively small, these salaries total $4,000.00—a sum which would pay the interest on a sum of $70,000.00. The City needs that money more than Councillors need the salary. If elected I shall accept no remuneration for my services, even though I do not succeed in having these salaries discontinued. My salary will in that event be divided between the City Orphanages.

3. I recognize the imperative necessity of improvements both in roadways and sidewalks, particularly the latter, but with its present restricted powers the Council cannot hope to finance these undertakings. If successful in my first aim of obtaining full civic powers, I shall favor as extensive a programme of improvement as seems economically sound. Property owners could be assessed for a reasonable proportion of the cost, as is practiced in other Municipalities, and reasonable time allowed them for the liquidation of these charges.

4. I am informed that large amounts of money are due to the City, both from the Treasury of the Colony and from private individuals. Should this prove to be the case, I shall favor prompt and drastic action to make complete collection of all such outstanding amounts, in justice to the many citizens who meet their civic obligations promptly. This action, if successful, should minimize the amount of necessary borrowing, and enable the early undertaking of several long needed improvements.

5. I believe that citizens are entitled to know more about the City's finances from time to time than they can now readily ascertain. I therefore favor the rendering of accounts through the newspapers at not less than quarterly, preferably monthly periods.

6. As soon as, by reason of its extended powers, the City finds itself in a position to finance such an undertaking, I believe that the water and sewerage system should be extended to all sections at present deprived of these conveniences. As I see it, this is the only hope of ridding the City of the nightly horrors of its present "sanitary" system.

7. The foregoing paragraph also applies to sections on the outskirts of the City. Expansion is the only hope of solving our housing problem, and I think that an effort should be made to extend the street car service to these localities.

8. A minor civic problem that needs immediate attention is the collection of garbage. Covered carts should be employed for this work, and the daily collection should positively be completed by 8.30 a.m.

9. I am in favor of the appointment of a Public Utilities Board to supervise the conduct of the public franchises already granted and to control the grant of the few franchises that are left. Such a Board is a long felt want; had it been in existence when the present franchises were granted, both City and citizens would be better served than they are.

10. I believe the City should be divided into Wards, each electing its own Councillor who will be responsible to his own constituency. Under this system it will be an easier task for Councillors to attend to the wants of their electors, and for electors to gauge the faithfulness and energy of their Councillors.

If you do me the honor of electing me, I shall endeavour to show my appreciation by pressing the adoption of these policies by the Council with all my energies, and I shall at all times do my utmost in support of such other measures as, in my judgment, make for the betterment of City and citizens.

Everybody's Friend

TO THE CIVIC ELECTORS OF ST. JOHN'S.

LADIES & GENTLEMEN:—As you were kind enough to give me your valued support on the many previous occasions I sought election at your hands, I have decided to again solicit your esteem and confidence for four years more as one of your civic representatives.

During the several terms I have had the great honor of being a member of the Municipal Council Board I have consistently practised the policy of conforming to your desires in so far as the civic revenue permitted.

I shall be very pleased indeed to again do my utmost towards bringing about many more essential improvements that are still necessary, and therefore, feel that as you have so highly approved of my civic record in the past, you will be pleased to again remember me on polling day.

A SPECIAL WORD TO THE LADY VOTERS.
You may have many friends to choose from ladies, but as a special favor will each one of you please be kind enough to record a vote for me.

James T. Martin
EVERYBODY'S FRIEND.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

Having four years' experience, during which period I never missed a meeting, and endeavored to get a thorough insight and grasp of Civic matters, I respectfully ask the lady and gentlemen voters for their Vote and influence on Polling Day.

Informal Imperial Conference Discusses Empire Relations

Turkey Shows Herself Obdurate on Mosu Question—Luther Cabinet Resigns

IMPERIAL RELATIONS DISCUSSED IN LONDON.

LONDON, Dec. 5. The subject of Imperial relations, which has been a prominent topic of political discussion since the ratification of the Locarno Treaty, was considered at an informal conference here yesterday between a Committee of the Empire Parliamentary Association and visiting Parliamentarians from Newfoundland and other Dominions. The present arrangement of periodical round table conferences was approved of, but the suggestion that the Dominion High Commissioners should be accorded to the Foreign Office in a diplomatic capacity, was deprecated as tending to relieve the Governor General of each of the Dominions of the duty of being the diplomatic intermediary.

TURKEY WILL NOT ACCEPT LEAGUE'S RESOLVING.

GENEVA, Dec. 5. Turkey will accept no decision by the League of Nations regarding Mosul if it involves abandonment of Turkish sovereignty there, according to messages delivered here by Turkish representatives. They declared the League may act only as a mediator and may not enforce its decision on parties involved in a dispute. They further declare that the League has already admitted that Mosul belongs to Turkey.

DEVALERA VOICES HIS OPINION.

DUBLIN, Dec. 5. Eamonn DeValera, Irish Republican leader, in a statement to-day, scored the Boundary Agreement reached in London, but declared it would be respected "if submitted to an assembly of representatives elected by the Irish people."

ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF ST. JOHN'S!

Although when announcing myself as a Candidate in the forthcoming election, I did not advertise nor seek credit for the various improvements which in conjunction with my colleagues we put in force as the first Municipal body elected under the new City Charter, I feel it incumbent upon me to state that within the restrictions imposed by the said Charter I have done my best for the benefit of citizens generally, and I now pledge myself that if elected I shall continue to do my utmost in the interests of the City, and with this in mind shall propose and strongly advocate amongst other things:—

(1) That the premium upon Fire Insurance shall be reduced by at least 20 p.c. of the present rate charged by insurance companies. A reduction of 20 p.c. such as I propose would mean a saving of at least $30,000 a year to the taxpayers of St. John's.

(2) The appointment by the Government of a Public Utilities Board to revise charges made by companies now enjoying franchises within the City of St. John's and to jealously guard franchises which may hereafter be sought.

(3) An adjustment of the debt due by the City to the Government so that the large proportion of your revenue now paid as interest, may be applied towards Civic improvements.

Voters of St. John's!

I am told that one thousand votes will be sufficient to elect a candidate. Will you give me 1 of your 6? I promise if elected to do my utmost in the City's Interest. Until it is possible to extend Water and Sewerage and allow private citizens and public enterprise to build more homes, you cannot have what you all desire—A Clean, Healthy and Sanitary City. You must have Sanitation to have Health. You must have decent homes to have happy people. It has to be fought for, and as every candidate is talking of fighting, I may say I have had to fight for the rights of citizenship. Eight years ago I sued the Council in the Supreme Court for the right to build. I have fought ever since for water and sewerage. Yesterday I had the privilege of water and sewerage in my house for the first time. What I have fought for for myself I will fight to secure for others. If I am elected, so long as there are taxes collectable I will do my best to get any man the right to build.

I take this opportunity to thank all who have promised me their vote and influence.

Yours faithfully,
James Murdoch
Architect and Art Teacher.

ON A SECOND JOURNEY.

Give me to live this life again, and I Would as no better odds than those allowed,
The right to walk and mingle with the crowd,
To know the self-same space of earth
and sky,
The self-same friends and neighbors
dwelling nigh;
This country, smiling, clean and
strong and proud,
For freedom born, for freedom long endowed,
With all its laughing ages passing by.
"But," asks a voice within me, "would you weep
As you have wept to walk through life again,
Would you want joys you knew you could not keep
And face once more those losses
with their pain?"
Yes, once again to know those happy years,
I'd bear the burdens and I'd brave
the tears.

Increase in Beer Consumption

LONDON, Eng. Nov. 30.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—People are drinking more beer and less spirits than formerly, wine is more popular and the consumption of tobacco remains virtually stationary.

These facts are forthcoming in the annual Customs and Excise Report.
The consumption of wine in England has been rising continuously since 1921. Although it is not officially so stated, it is believed this increase is due at least in part to wine drinking becoming popular with Englishmen who were serving with the Forces on the Continent.

Home-grown tobacco during the year amounted in weight to 10,000 lbs.
or double the weight of the year before. Playing cards, which are taxed, were manufactured to the extent of nearly half million packets, or one hundred thousand more than in the year previous. People who carry an annual bearing number just over 58,000 and they together paid taxes for this privilege amounting to nearly £46,000. Over two and a half million dog licenses were issued. Pawn-brokers, who number just over 4,000 paid over £30,000 in license. Publi-cans, of whom there are nearly 66,000 paid three and a quarter millions in license dues. Retailers of beer, to the number of 23,000 paid £446,000.

British and South African Farmers
Exchange Visits

LONDON, Eng. Nov. 30.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—Preparations are already under way for a party of British farmers to journey to South Africa, and so to make a return visit which was paid this summer by South African farmers to Great Britain.

The tour, which had received the approval of the King, is to be limited to one hundred bona fide British and Irish farmers, and the cost of the trip, thanks to the generosity of the railway and steamship services, will be kept at a particularly low figure. The itinerary which is being arranged will afford the fullest possible opportunity for seeing the best of the agricultural districts of the Union, as well as the more outstanding mining and industrial centres. A big attraction, although somewhat outside the chief purpose of the tour, will be the visit to the world-famous Victoria Falls, and to Cecil Rhodes's and Jameson's graves in the Matopos, Rhodesia.
The party is expected to leave England early in January, and will remain in South Africa until the end of April.

QUEEN'S PLAYERS LOSE TO OTTAWA.

Great University Eleven, Undefeated For 4 Years, Drop To 11 to 3 Battle.

OTTAWA.—(C.P.)—Thwarted at every turn in their offensive efforts, and smashed back by a relentless attack that was at times almost savage in its ferocity, the great Queen's rugby machine that for nearly four years has held sway on Canadian gridirons, in which time they rolled up an impressive record of twenty-six consecutive victories, faltered and snally crumpled and the Ottawa Senators marched over the Red, Yellow and Blue in an impressive and decisive fashion by a score of 11 to 2.

In defeating Queen's team, the Ot-tawas tumbled the tri-color from their lofty perch as Dominion champions and annexed for themselves the title of 1925 Eastern Canada titleholders.
There is still one obstacle in their path on the way to Dominion honors and this will be encountered when Winnipeg Tammany Tigers, Western Canada champions, invade the Capital in quest of the Canadian rugby crown.

JOHN GUY'S WILL

Rescued From the Dust of Ages 300 Years Ago.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

London for a complete set of the reports made by the Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts printed by Eyre & Spatterwood, London, which contains much interesting matter concerning Newfoundland. The original documents, I am told, are in the possession of the old families of England and have been copied and printed in the reports I refer to.

I have a list of these Reports and references. The Wm. Colston referred to above succeeded John Guy in charge of Bristol's Hope (Mosquito). He was succeeded by Hayman and Capt. John Mason.

I may here state that E. D. Arnaud, Esq., Canadian Commissioner to Newfoundland, and subsequently to Bristol, Eng., was the father of Mrs. Winter, wife of our genial and popular young friend, Mr. Gordon Winter, of the enterprising firm of T. & M. 3rd TIME.
THIS IS MY THIRD TIME OF ASKING.
That my actions at the Council Board the first time, were appreciated, over eleven hundred people testified at the last election, and now at the request of a majority of those electors, I have again decided to comply with their request, and to ask you Ladies and Gentlemen voters, for a continuation of that confidence at the coming election. Should I again be elected, I will pledge myself to help carry out to the best of my ability, any sane scheme that will tend to the making this my native town a brighter, better and cleaner city, having due regard to the cost to those who will have to pay for it.

A word in season, however. Should those contemplated improvements be carried out, I am convinced that extra taxation will have to be put on an already overtaxed people, for I am one with Mayor Cook who, a short time ago told the people that they cannot make brick without straw.

Thanking you in anticipation, yours truly,
S. G. COLLIER.

MAKE IT A COUNCIL THAT KNOWS NO FEAR

To-morrow the citizens of St. John's will select from the twenty candidates the governing body of the city for the next four years. What names will the voter mark his X opposite, and why?

If the question of choice were decided purely on the merits of the respective candidates, unquestionably the city would have an excellent Council, for among those who are offering themselves for election are a considerable number who appear to possess qualifications that would eminently fit them for office.

Granted that all the candidates have set forth views with which we are for the most part in accord, it would seem that, in deciding upon our choice of six of them, we as voters must look for those who have a characteristic in common, which would assist them in putting their promises into effect.

Such doubts and fears we believe are largely responsible for many shortcomings, not in our municipal councillors only, but in our government representatives and in our disciplinary authorities.

Let us take one instance only, and as it has a direct connection with the responsibilities of the City Council, it is appropriate. One of the most crying scandals to-day is the condition in which the poor of the city are housed.

What says the hand of authority in such cases if it is not fear? And is not the result, however unintentional, heartlessness of the most extreme kind?

If there is one duty more pressing than any other, a duty which must at all times be paramount to all the others, it is that which concerns the poor of the city.

The Council cannot to any extent change the circumstances of these people, but they can improve the environment in which they live and they must, as the charter directs, compel the landlord to carry out his responsibilities.

Choose then your six councillors, and if you must let certain other factors weigh somewhat in deciding for whom you will vote, try to ascertain who among them will be most likely to face their duties fearlessly, and who will with dogged determination insist—regardless of the consequences—that the rights of the citizens however poor or uninfluential shall be looked after.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Dec. 5th.—Up bedtimes and abroad, the weather still cold but dry. But never here I found things so quiet in all my life, and methinks there is a conspiracy against the poor diarists and news writers that they may be deprived of their living.

My wife troubled about her presents for Xmas, being that she knows not what to give—who and who will get what, but I do refuse to help her, being that methinks 'tis more a matter, in most cases, of doing one's duty, which do remind me of the story of the child who asked "Is there a Santa Claus, papa?" to which his father replied: "No, there certainly isn't. All the presents you got to-day, Papa brought you—do you understand that? Papa, with his hard earned money; and he's not going to have any bewitched fraud take away the credit that's due him. It's about time us parents got a little common gratitude."

Having put it to the test, shouts Wilson's Certified is best. dec2,13,ed

Obituary

WM. ALEXANDER MCKAY. Shortly after one o'clock to-day, there passed peacefully away, at the age of twenty, William Alexander, a twin son of W. A. and Elfrida McKay, an illness extending over five months. "Billy," as he was familiarly called by his friends, was well and favourably known in the city and was the only one who came in contact with him for his sunny disposition. Deceased was a member of the Nfld. Highlanders, being a piper in the regiment. Upon the parents, brothers and sisters the blow has fallen heavily and to them the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

Another Fatality On the Topsail Road.

Andrew Turner Dies in Hospital After Being Hit by Car.

In the early hours of yesterday, Topsail Road was again the scene of an accident, when Andrew Turner, a single man, of 30 years of age, was hit by a motor car within two miles of his home, and died from the effects of his injuries a few hours later in the General Hospital.

So far as can be learned William Smith, an employee of the firm of G. M. Barr, accompanied by Charles Cox, of the United Coal Co., and John Gladney, chauffeur to Inspector General Hutchings, were proceeding countrywards on the Topsail Road, between the hours of midnight and one o'clock, Sunday morning.

As Turner was alone at the time it is impossible at present to ascertain exactly how the accident occurred. Each party must have been visible to the other, as the night was clear and the view of the road eastward from the position where he was struck was not obstructed.

During the afternoon a Telegram representative visited the scene of the accident and also interviewed the deceased's father. The place marked out was of the left hand side of the road proceeding west just beyond Byrnes, where, following a fairly straight course, the road takes a curve towards Pover's Bridge.

At the cottage where the deceased lived the blinds were drawn and a knot of residents from the neighbourhood had gathered, trying as best they could to find an explanation for the accident which with such suddenness had removed one from their midst.

As soon as Mr. Turner had made the necessary arrangements with Undertaker Nash, he returned to his home. The body was later conveyed to the morgue where a post mortem examination was held during the morning by Drs. Keegan and Anderson.

The accident which took place on the morning of Dec. 5th, was a tragedy, and one which has caused much grief to the family.

Memorial Window

TO LATE GEORGE NEAL UNVEILED.

Dedicated to the memory of the late George Neal, a memorial window at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was unveiled yesterday by Rev. Robert J. Power, M.A. The window is a very rich and beautiful one, one light representing Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane, and the other, Christ bearing His Cross. Like all the other windows in this church it is by James Ballantine, F.S.A., of Edinburgh. It bears the text, "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the Temple of my God," and is inscribed, "To the memory of George Neal, 1865-1919, erected by his family."

Taking at his text, "He was a good man" (Acts 11:24), Mr. Power paid a fitting tribute to the memory of one who was so highly esteemed in our community. "It was not my privilege to know George Neal in the flesh," said the preacher, "but I have formed a very definite picture of him, and the outstanding characteristic in this picture is Generosity."

Other pictures were noted: his quiet, unassuming manner; his kindly, brotherly way; his sincerity; his honesty; his faithfulness and devotion to duty. These and other qualities made him a man beloved by all who knew him. A large congregation was present and a spirit of reverent devotion pervaded the service.

Motoring Under Ideal Conditions

The suburban roads yesterday presented the appearance more of a day in early autumn rather than in December, and the weather could scarcely have been more conducive to an outing in the country.

It was a very fine day, and the roads were in splendid condition, the procession of motors coming or going seemed endless up to a late hour in the evening.

Magistrate's Court

When court opened at eleven o'clock this morning, Wm. G. Smith, appeared before Judge Morris, and was charged with the following indictment:—"For that you did on the 4th day of December, 1925, feloniously die and slay one Andrew Turner, against the peace of our Lord the King, His Crown and Dignity."

The accused was represented by Mr. E. S. Dunfield, B.A., and bail being asked for was granted in the sum of $40,000, $20,000 of which was in personal bond, and two securities of $10,000. The bondsmen are Messrs. G. M. Barr and John B. Orr.

Michael Murray, 23 year old truckman, Freshwater Valley, next stood before the bar, and was charged with: (1) "For that you on the 5th of December, 1925, unlawfully, wilfully and maliciously did wound one Ambrose Dover with intent to do him grievous bodily injury, contrary to the statutes made and provided, (2) breach of Section 48, of the Highway Traffic Act, 1925."

The accused was not asked to plead, and was remanded on bail in the sum of $2,000, $1,000 of which was in a personal bond, and two securities of $500. The bondsmen being Messrs. Peter Murray and Geo. Langmead.

Three drunks arrested over the week-end were released on deposit. A man named Pierce, was summoned by the Board of Liquor Control, on a charge of selling liquor at his premises, Duckworth Street East, and evidence on his own behalf and denied the charge, although admitting that he had treated his friends.

The Liquor Control Board called a witness, who swore to buying liquor from the accused at his shop, where he often went to buy light beer, and he named other men who did likewise. Three of these were called by Mr. Parsons who appeared on behalf of the Liquor Control Board, and they denied having purchased any liquor from the accused.

The first of the three witnesses called was under the influence of liquor and had been threatened with punishment by the Judge in order to make him conduct himself properly in giving evidence.

A breach of Section 22 of the Alcoholic Liquor Act was also preferred against a man named Costello, of Duckworth Street. This case was also dismissed. The only witness for the Liquor Control Board swore that he had visited defendants shop on Friday week last and purchased two drinks of rum at 20 cents each, and on another occasion he went there and drank two or three drinks of rum for which he paid 25 cents each.

The accused gave evidence and denied the charge. As the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution was not corroborated the Judge dismissed the case.

A teamster convicted of riding on a cart laden with coal was fined $2.00 or in default 7 days imprisonment.

Mr. Outerbridge Replies to "Curious"

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—A correspondent signing himself "Curious" in your issue of Friday makes some comments and enquiries re the Commercial Traveller's Tax and the Contract between the city and the St. John's Light and Power Co., Ltd., now absorbed by the Newfoundland Light & Power Co., Ltd.

Regarding the Commercial Traveller's Tax, the City Charter (which came into effect when the present Council went into office) calls for a fifty dollar tax on any commercial traveller coming here from abroad to take orders and no Council has the power to either increase or decrease the amount though by some curious freak of the Charter travellers arriving after July 1st in any year are obliged to pay only twenty-five dollars. My personal opinion has always been that travellers for firms who do not appoint a local Newfoundland agent should be taxed but representatives of firms who have Newfoundland agents should not be charged the tax. However, whatever my opinion may be, I had nothing to do with the putting on of the tax which seems to be the impression in some quarters. As a matter of fact there seems to be a very strong feeling among some of the most influential Manufacturer's agents in the city that this tax should be cut out altogether on travellers whose firms are locally represented as well as on travellers whose firms are not locally represented and it seems to me that the whole matter is one for a general meeting of St. John's manufacturer's agents to discuss and make recommendations to the Council to submit to the Government. The income to the Council from this tax is estimated at about four thousand dollars annually.

In reference to the twenty year contract for city lighting with the St. John's Light and Power Co., Ltd., this contract was made solely because it seemed good business to make it. Under the contract "large" lights are supplied the city at $64.90 yearly where before they cost $70 and "small" lights are supplied at twenty four dollars where before they cost $30. The contract calls for an adjustment of rates at the end of every five years if the Council has any reason to think it can get lighting at cheaper rates.

In view of the price paid by the Newfoundland Light & Power Co., Ltd. for the Petty Harbor plant it is ridiculous to think that the Mobile water power could be utilized at a capital expenditure of anything like the amount mentioned in your correspondent's letter. As a matter of fact when it is considered that outside of the city limits the Council would have to pay for a right-of-way for its poles, from careful estimates it is thought that to utilize the Mobile water power would call for a capital expenditure of anything from seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars to one million dollars.

The suggestion of "Curious" that there is an "inside story" in connection with the contract with the St. John's Light & Power Co., Ltd., is uncalled for. Whatever sins the present Council may be guilty of it certainly has nothing to hide. I would suggest to "Curious" that the next time he has an unpleasant intimation of that sort to make that he comes out in the open over his own signature and does not try to stab six men in the back in the dark.

Yours very truly,
P. E. OUTERBRIDGE.

Former Newfoundland-lander Fatally Injured

(Newfoundland Weekly, Boston).

Robert Leawood, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Leawood, Norfolk Ave., Swamscott, sustained fatal injuries Saturday afternoon when a small coupe in which he was riding collided with an electric car, operated by John Flynn, at the junction of Humphrey street and Rockaway Ave., Marblehead. Leawood died at the Mary Alley Hospital, Marblehead, about two hours after the accident as the result of a fractured skull.

Leawood, who attended the Lynn Classical-Peabody High football game at Peabody in company with William O. Brophy of Marblehead, and John E. Niles, of Swamscott, returned to the Brophy home and later borrowed a coupe from Herbert Storrell of Marblehead and came to Lynn to transact some business for the Sheehy contracting company, by whom he is employed as a bookkeeper.

On the way back he collided with the car which was Lynn-bound, when he turned out of Rockaway Avenue. According to Motorman Flynn, the coupe cut in front of the car and was pushed to the curb where it turned over, pinning Leawood underneath. Brophy and Niles who were in the Brophy home at the time heard the crash and ran to the street, where they found Leawood unconscious and bleeding from many cuts. The injured man was rushed to the hospital where a hurried examination showed that he had sustained a fractured skull, a fractured jaw and severe injuries to the head and body.

His parents were prostrated when news of the accident reached the Leawood home. Leawood a graduate of the Swamscott schools and Burdett college, was well known in Swamscott and was of exemplary character. He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Leawood, two brothers, Phillip, a well known athlete, and Clayton, and one sister, Miss Cleo Leawood, all of Swamscott.

The deceased young man was born in Grand Bank, Newfoundland, and came to the U.S.A. with his parents in 1906.

Funeral services were held at his late residence on Monday and were attended by a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Robert Campbell of the First Congregational Church acting as officiating clergyman.—Com.

The "Weekly" tenders to Mr. and Mrs. Leawood deep sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

G.W.V.A. Circus Closes

MISS EBSARY CROWNED (QUEEN OF CIRCUS).

On Saturday night the final performance of the Hippodrome Circus took place in the Prince's Ring, before a gathering which filled the spacious arena to its utmost capacity. The attraction was the crowning of the Queen of the Circus, Miss Dorothy Ebsary. At 10 p.m. Commander Howley, President of the G.W.V.A., mounted a platform in the centre of the Ring, and addressing the gathering, thanked all for their attendance, and for the manner in which citizens had patronized the Circus since opening night, two weeks ago. He then introduced Mr. Worship the Mayor, Hon. Tasker Cook, and Mrs. Cook to the audience. The Mayor, in a brief address, referred to the good work done by the Vets in assisting their less fortunate comrades, and concluded his remarks by reading the affirmation made by the Returning Officers and Checkers in connection with the Popularity Voting Contest, which was read as follows:—

St. John's.
To Wit:

On this 5th day of December, A.D. 1925, before me, John T. Canning, of the town of St. John's, in the Island of Newfoundland, Notary Public, by lawful authority, duly admitted and sworn, personally appeared, Gordon B. Snow, Returning Officer, and Alexander J. Myler and Charles F. Dearin, Checkers for the G.W.V.A. Popularity Contest, who solemnly declared:—That they carefully counted the ballots in connection with the said contest, and that the following is a true and correct statement of the number of ballots counted, and of the names of the persons to whom the votes were given, namely:

- Miss Dorothy Ebsary 136,425
 - Mrs. M. V. Kinsella 96,175
 - Miss Stella Crane 61,425
 - Miss Marion Moore 42,500
 - Miss Fannie Coady 18,525
- GORDON B. SNOW,
ALEX. J. MYLER,
CHARLES F. DEARIN,
John T. CANNING.

Notary Public.

The above announcement called for a loud outburst of applause, and as soon as Miss Ebsary, the winner, appeared, she was greeted in a most enthusiastic manner. His Worship the Mayor then performed the coronation ceremony, by placing a crown on her head, and a diamond ring on her finger, besides saluting her with a kiss. The second and third prizes were then presented to Mrs. M. V. Kinsella and Miss Stella Crane, who like Miss Ebsary, received a similar reception.

Following this brief but interesting ceremony, the audience was treated to a vaudeville show, which lasted for over an hour. The various performers went through their amazing stunts with such grace and coolness that it was little to be desired. At 11 o'clock Messrs. Hughes and Kitts entertained the Mayorality, Miss Ebsary (Queen of the Circus), and the lady workers of the War Vets, to luncheon. Commander Howley acted as host, and a pleasant hour followed. Ex-Sergt. J. Robinson attended to the catering.

The Circus people have completed their engagement and leave for Canada in a few days.

CHILD WELFARE

No. of Visits 676
No. of Babies that attended Centres 111

We have very nearly now settled into our Central Child Welfare Centre at 132 Theatre Hill. It is hard to realize now that 3 months ago, we had no idea of moving and it is indeed fortunate that we were able to, as the room we occupied was needed for the new Board of Health. This move is of all importance and we hope it is going to have far reaching results during the coming year, 1926.

The beginning of the cold weather brings the winter social problems before us. It is very helpful to have the co-operation of the Charity Organisation Bureau. There is now a central medium of knowledge and an avenue through which there is a possibility in the future of solving some of the many difficulties.

Our figures show that our usual routine work has been going ahead. We have been unfortunate this last month in having three wet Thursday afternoons which made our clinic attendances lower than usual.

The Sewing Club for mothers on Wednesdays is established again and our regular attendants appreciate it very much. There is room for more and we hope this will be a great success during the coming months.

This last month we have given out particulars for the "Mothercraft Competition" for 1926, and hope for as good results, if not better, this time. An additional factor is opening it to nine outpost centres by co-operation with N.O.N.L.A. This makes the competition even more interesting and educational.

If you are one of those who simply find it unbelievable that you can use all Crisco in cakes, try half butter and half Crisco at first. Then next time perhaps, three-fourths Crisco and one-fourth butter. You will be so pleased with the results that before you know it you will be using all Crisco for your cakes.

The Importance of Creaming Shortening and Sugar

Not everyone realizes the importance of creaming shortening and sugar together. The purpose is to soften the grains of sugar, and this is done by beating the sugar with the shortening until the mixture is soft and fluffy, and does not feel grainy to the spoon.

Fruits and nuts should be added after the eggs and before the milk and flour.

Child welfare is now recognised as a sound foundation for the building of a prosperous country, and every country in the world is endeavouring to establish or widen the work. My reading during November tells me of Baby Week in Bengal, of Welfare Centres in China, of further state assistance for welfare work in Cape Colony; of the spreading of knowledge of Mothercraft in Britain, of an International conference in Geneva;—so that the economic importance is stressed everywhere. My next report will be an Annual Report. It will show definite progress compared with our last of JANET A. ALLEN December 4th, 1925.

THE JOY OF OVERCOMING.

Is there really any more fun in life than overcoming a difficulty?

Why do people climb mountains? Because they want to see the view? Partly, but because they want to overcome a difficulty.

Of course it's no satisfaction to get away up a mountain and set it down. And it's no satisfaction climbing with difficulties and not overcoming them.

Let T. E. Collett show you what a young man can do on the Council Board.

The little boy next door said a plenty. But just the same I wasn't as idiotic as he insisted. For I recognized the fact that we had been having a good time even if we had been working hard (as we children count work).

Games Satisfy This Craving.

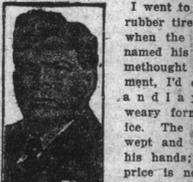

Games, some psychologist has explained, are a sublimation of our desire to overcome difficulties. We haven't enough difficulties in our lives (or those we do have are not overcome) and so we invent games to satisfy this craving.

We think we should enjoy life if it had no difficulties in it. We shouldn't. And the more thoroughly we realize this and admit that we are getting a good time out of the difficulties we overcome, the less discontented we shall be.

Let T. E. Collett show you what a young man can do on the Council Board.

PRECIOUS RUBBER.

WALT MARCH

I want to buy a rubber tire, and when the dealer named his price, I thought a moment, and I lay my weary form on the floor. The dealer wept and wrung his hands: "The price is not my fault," quoth he, "for rubber trees in other lands conduct the rubber industry. Fat plantocrats in Lunnon town have cheated the trade in rubber crude, and run the prices up or down, according to their whim or mood." "Ods bodikins, if these things be true," I said, "I'll jolt those foreign rubbers; I'll go and plant a rubber tree, and grow my casings and my tubes." I bought a thousand rubber plants and set them out in stately rows, and all my nieces and my aunts are guarding them from insect foes. Some day a casing I'll require, and to my orchard I'll repair, and choose a fat and luscious tire from gorgeous festoons growing there. But meanwhile I'm exceeding sore, my wagon runs upon its rims. I smile and twitter nevermore, I've left the ranks of Sunny Jims. I feel there's something wrong or worse, when I must pay a tribute vast if I'd put tires upon my ears—twice what they cost me in the past. There is no shortage in the crop, the trees do well, the yield is

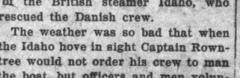

British Seaman's Pluck

In the inquiry by a naval court into the sinking of the Danish schooner Eya, which sprang a leak in a hurricane in the Atlantic, the captain pointed out the heroic deed of the seaman of the British steamer Idaho, who rescued the Danish crew.

After A Bath With Cuticura Soap. Dust With Cuticura Talcum.

The weather was so bad that when the Idaho hove in sight Captain Rowland would not order his crew to man the boat, but officers and men volunteered and rescued the crew of the Eya. The British boat might have been swamped any minute.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

Now, let me think, Little Reader. Didn't Noddy Nuthatch climb down the tree trunk, head first, just as I ended yesterday's story. Mighty lucky to have seen to keep him from slipping. Well, I guess yes three times over.

"Did you build a nest this summer?" asked the curious little rabbit, whose thirst for knowledge's growing every day. Little Reader, yes, sir, this little bunny boy of ours is striving to fill his small head with learning.

A little knowledge every day To make him wise when old and gray.

Yes sir. Only lazy folks are content to shuffle through life without finding out all the wonderful things that are happening daily in the woods and valleys, fields and meadows.

"No, Mrs. Nuthatch and I found an old woodpecker's hole. This made a nice home for us and saved a lot of labor. Of course our sharp hatchet-like bills are useful to chop out a hollow space. But what's the use of going to all that trouble when one finds a home already made?"

circus? You have heard of my Uncle, Mr. Lucky Lethindfoot, haven't you?" asked the bunny boy.

"Of course I have," answered Noddy Nuthatch. "But I don't do tricks in the trees just for the fun of it. I'm looking for food. When I run under and over, down and up, this way and that, I'm trying to find a grub or a nest

"Yes, we can climb to any part of a tree," went on the talkative little Nuthatch. With the hooks on our toes we climb anywhere, upward or downward or sideways. And with our long bills we can poke into deep holes in the thick bark and pull from their hiding places insects, grubs, and in the winter time, eggs that have been laid away out of sight. Only the Brown Creeper and the Woodpecker can do what we can."

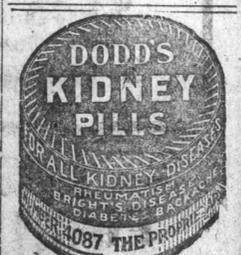

"Dear me, won't I have lots to tell Mother to-night," cried the little rabbit. "She loves to hear me repeat what I've learned during the day."

"Tell her that we Nuthatches are better acrobats than our cousins the Chickadees," answered Noddy Nuthatch. "Does any one ever steal your eggs?"

how well I can open a nut with my long, sharply pointed bill. If you come across a nut wedged tightly in a crack, don't disturb it. Remember, I put it there to cut open some cold day with my hatchet-like bill! And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

Officials Hanged for Theft of Funds

ATHENS, Nov. 26.—Two men, Chief of Police Zaphronopoulos, of Salamina and an officer named Drakatos, were hanged today for embezzlement of the public funds, a crime for which they were sentenced to death by a court martial on Monday. Several other officers and civilians were sentenced to imprisonment for the same offense, two of them for life.

MUTT AND JEFF

O'DEAR! O'DEAR! THIS IS A PICTURE OF THE OLD HEIRESS I'M ENGAGED TO AND TOMORROW I GOTTA MARRY THE OLD BUZZARD. I COULDN'T FEEL ANY WORSE IF I WAS SENTENCED TO THE ELECTRIC CHAIR! WHAT A FACE!

BUT I GOTTA GO THROUGH WITH IT AS MUTT BORROWED 1000 POUNDS FROM A PROFESSIONAL MONEY LENDER SO I COULD COURT HER PROPERLY AND WE CAN'T PAY HIM BACK UNTIL I MARRY INTO HER! MILLIONS! O'DEAR! I WISH I COULD DIE!

JEFF, I HAVE BAD NEWS FOR YOU AND I WANT YOU TO BE A MAN AND BEAR UP UNDER THE SHOCK! AS KID SHAKESPEARE ONCE SAID "INTO EACH LIFE SOME RAIN MUST FALL."

IT'S ABOUT THE HEIRESS YOU'RE ENGAGED TO MARRY! NOW BE BRAVE, LITTLE PAL, AND PREPARE FOR THE WORST!

NO! AND SHE ISN'T A WIDOW LIKE SHE THOUGHT, EITHER! TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO HER HUSBAND FOUGHT IN THE BOER WAR AND WAS REPORTED KILLED IN ACTION! BUT TODAY HE RETURNED! HERE HE IS!

I WAS ONLY WOUNDED AND MY MEMORY JUST CAME BACK YESTERDAY, SIR.

GOSH! I'M GLAD TO SEE YOU!

THE PARKS.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir.—In my letter, Friday, I promised to give your readers some particulars regarding street lighting, and I will do so, but I will be as brief as possible because there are one or two other matters I wish to touch upon. Four years ago on assuming office the Mayor appointed Councilors Outerbridge and Ryan as the Lighting Committee, and as there were a large number of applications for lights the Committee found plenty to do. Night after night these gentlemen visited various parts of the city considering applications and doing their utmost to please the public. In their efforts they had the sympathy and support of the full Board. In 1922 there were 266 street lights in the city while to-day there are 399 or an increase of 133. I admit there are people who argue that the town is not sufficiently lighted and I will not contradict them, but the figures I have just given are absolutely correct, and I think they speak for themselves. Plans are being discussed to still further increase the number and as soon as conditions permit there will be an extension of lights.

The present Council also had thrust upon it the upkeep of Bowring Park, which costs $10,000.00 annually. As to the beauty of the Park I will say nothing, its charms are known to all; no one would like to see it go back from its high standard, but I have always contended that its upkeep is almost too much for the city to bear. However, the present Board had no say in the matter; it was accepted by a former Council and it is up to the present and future Councils to be generous to the donor it is well known and the lavish outlay is only what was expected, but to find the amount of the upkeep is not an easy matter, especially when there are so many wants to be filled. The Council has asked the Government to defray half the cost of upkeep, but up to the present has not consented to do so.

Another extraordinary expense the Council had during the last year was the taking over of the Quidi Vidi Lake property, at $11,000.00. The generosity of the donor is well known and the lavish outlay is only what was expected, but to find the amount of the upkeep is not an easy matter, especially when there are so many wants to be filled. The Council has asked the Government to defray half the cost of upkeep, but up to the present has not consented to do so.

Bishop Mullock's Reception in 1862

The canonization of the Martyrs of Japan took place at Rome in the year 1862. The Roman Catholic Bishop of St. John's, Rt. Rev. Dr. John Thos. Mullock and Bishop Dalton of Harbor Grace were invited by special request of Pope Pius IX to be present at the canonization. Their Lordships departed on May the 8th and on July the 14th His Lordship Bishop Mullock returned. A magnificent reception took place on His Lordship's arrival. The Benevolent Irish, Mechanics and Temperance Societies took part with a large concourse of citizens. On landing from the steamer "Osprey," His Lordship seated himself in a carriage and from thence the procession marched to the Cathedral grounds where His Lordship spoke to the vast multitude about his visitation to Rome. The joy bells rang out their sweet peals on the occasion. The houses of the Catholic population were illuminated, the firing of guns took place with a display of fireworks. Bishop Dalton arrived on August 15. It was one of the grandest displays of love for the church ever seen in St. John's.—COM.

Run Over by Truck Horse

SIXTY-YEAR-OLD MAN HAD RIB FRACTURED.

Saturday night a sixty-year-old resident of the Gray Islands, named Ambrose Dower was knocked down by a horse driven by a truckman named Luke Murray, sustaining a broken rib and injury to his lung. The accident happened on George Street, near the junction with William's Lane. Murray was driving his horse and load cart on the way to his home at Freshwater and evidently was intoxicated as he was arrested after the accident by Constable Pittman at that charge. Mr. Dower who conducts a business on the Gray Islands where for a number of years he was school teacher, arrived in the city a few days ago by the schooner Bertha May. He was boarding at No. 12 Colnett's Lane. After being run over he was taken to Dr. Moore's surgery. It was thought that a number of ribs were broken and that his lungs were badly injured. After being examined at the Hospital it was found that only one rib was fractured. He was doing well at the hospital yesterday evening and is expected to recover. Mr. Dower is an old St. Bon's boy contemporary with his Honor Judge Morris, Deputy Sheriff Carroll, T. J. Murphy, late Martin Furlong, Rev. Dr. Murphy of Brigus, Mr. P. K. Devine and was a general favorite at school.

Beautiful. Gene Pearson is sufficiently beautiful, behind the footlights at least, to set the hearts of all but the incredibly insensitible, a-palpating noticeably. And he must have gone to Paris for his gowns. For they are most gorgeous creations. They brought ecstatic "Ah-hs" from the lips of the women in the audience last night and handclapping even from some of the men, at times, as he burst into view upon the stage in all the glorious beauty of his raiment.

And Gene Pearson can sing, too. He can sing well enough to essay such a difficult song as the "Waltz Song" from "Romeo and Juliet," and sing it well enough to stir the audience to enthusiastic applause.

In this important matter of song, the company is fortunate. Every member of the troupe can sing well. In their ensemble numbers they can produce a volume that would do credit to a company three times as numerous.

A Robust Baritone. Outstanding, of course, is the robust baritone of Thomas Dunn, who incidentally revealed himself last night as a capable actor in his portrayal of "The Scapegrace," a splendid bit of character work.

Then there is the sharp, sparrow wit of Bob Anderson whose George Belcher-like caricatures of the human species and whose rollicking, pungent fun cause gales of laughter to sweep over the audience.

Jimmy Good, the suave blackface comedian, is also irresistible. He has a quiet way with him, a drawing manner of speech, which adds to the savor of his drollery.

Famous "Originals" Scoring Decided Hit in Western Canada

THIS SEASONS SHOW SAID TO ECLIPSE ALL THEIR PREVIOUS PRODUCTIONS.

From Victoria, British Columbia, comes news of the Originals' tremendous success they are scoring in the beautiful Pacific coast city. People of St. John's will be pleased to hear of the company again as the performances they gave here at the Nickel Theatre last spring will never be forgotten. The Victoria Daily Colonist says in part:

"Thumbs Up," the Originals' 1925 show, which delighted last night's audience at the Royal Victoria Theatre, was indeed well-named. It is not certain just how the show came to be christened "Thumbs Up." But it is easy to imagine a nearly empty theatre on the night of dress rehearsal, with only the stage director and a few of the elect in the gloomy depths behind the orchestra. It is easy to imagine the last, deft touches of that critical stage director the ironing out of the last of the imperfections in the smoothness of the embryo production. It is easy to visualize that critical director, satisfied at last, leaning back in a stall of that nearly empty theatre and saying "Thumbs Up!"

And probably theatre audiences right across Canada have been repeating that phrase ever since as did that which swarmed from the exits of the Royal Victoria last night, with the tears of beautiful song still echoing in their ears, and the after-image of shimmering beauty lingering in retrospective vision. There were none who would not have made that ancient Roman's gesture of appreciation.

"Thumbs Up" is a rattling good show. As its prologue warned, there is drama, dance, music and comedy, all in copious quantities and all revolving about the scintillating person of Gene Pearson, a female impersonator of amazing cleverness.

Beautiful. Gene Pearson is sufficiently beautiful, behind the footlights at least, to set the hearts of all but the incredibly insensitible, a-palpating noticeably. Fairbanks' Film a Stream of Action

Swift Current of Spectacular Feats Mark Star's New Photoplay, "Don Q."

The glory that was Spain's now belongs to Douglas Fairbanks who has captured it and put it into his new photoplay, "Don Q. Son of Zorro," which is the featured attraction announced for Wednesday at the Star Theatre.

Castles in Spain are things to look at, not to dream of, in this appealing picture. The background of beautiful settings is gorgeous beyond compare. The story is the graceful thought swift unfolding of the adventures of a young Spaniard who is sent to his motherland from California, there to finish his education.

How he meets and woos a gorgeous senorita; how he captures a bull running rampant in the streets; how he fights a duel with the villain; how he performs astounding feats with a stock whip; how he becomes accused of the murder of a visiting archduke; how he then turns into the mysterious and much-hunted Don Q.—these and innumerable other angles furnish a plot of many complicated twists that keeps audience interest to a high pitch.

The climax of "Don Q. Son of Zorro," Fairbanks' latest United Artists Corporation feature is one of the most thrilling, unique, and at the same time humorous, that has ever been presented.

Manifesto of T. E. Collett

A Manifesto Containing Honest, Straightforward, Valuable Suggestions for the Betterment of Our City.

As nearly everyone in the city knows that my chief aim is to do away with the Poll (Tax), I will now explain why I have taken this as my motto. The first is regarding such a tax and the way it is collected. After a young man reaches the age of twenty-one, he is called upon to pay five dollars. What does he pay for? Is it for a better house? Is it for a better city? I say No. If the city has up and clean up. He paid for a house and did his best to improve the locality he lived in. Then he happens to be in just as good a condition as it is to-day; so where are the improvements by the additional tax? I will tell you. It is divided up into big salaries for Council Bosses, etc. I know a case of a young man receiving a salary of seven dollars per week. Six of this he has to pay for his board, the remaining one for clothes, etc., and that young man has to pay a poll tax. Is that fair? If you think so, don't. Why not limit this poll tax to the young man receiving a salary of say fifteen dollars per week, and put this tax towards compulsory education, which is badly needed in the city, and then the young man will not need to be summoned to court to pay his poll tax, because he will know that the city will benefit by his support.

Then again the unfair deal the young man receives who pay the tax. It is quite easy to evade the poll tax by living say, at Quidi Vidi or anywhere outside the city limits, but he can come into the city and get employment all the year around, and thus evade the poll tax. The same thing applies to the output of young men. He can come and work time next year in the city and pay no taxes. Things like this are unfair to the young man who has to pay the poll tax. Do you think so? During this past week you have read in the Telegram ways and means by which to raise money for city improvements, and I must say I agree with every word "Curious" said on Friday's Telegram, and if I am elected I will do my utmost to carry out the valuable suggestions, as it will mean a lot to the city.

Now that I have shown you how a Cleaner and Better City can be got for the betterment of the city, which no other candidate offering for election, has dared to do, I will now suggest some badly needed improvements, and I must say I agree with every word "Curious" said on Friday's Telegram, and if I am elected I will do my utmost to carry out the valuable suggestions, as it will mean a lot to the city.

Plots to Imprison the Innocent

CONVICTED—BUT NOT GUILTY

A stock incident of fiction is bringing a false charge against somebody with a view to sending him to prison frequently, heep to prison. Wildly improbable as such a thing seems, it sometimes actually happens in real life.

Not many years ago a man was charged with the murder of his wife. The principal witness against him was his sister-in-law, who stated that she was sitting in the drawing-room when the prisoner entered and threw a lamp at his wife, causing her to be burnt to death. He was sentenced to a long term of penal servitude.

A Woman's Spite.

After he had been in prison a few months his sister-in-law retracted her evidence. The man, she said, had not murdered his wife; her death was the result of an accident, she having set herself on fire.

The woman further declared that she had accused her brother-in-law of murder out of spite. Her story was discredited, particularly when she denied it shortly afterwards; but on her repeating it she was tried for perjury and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. Shortly afterwards her brother-in-law received a "free pardon."

A similar drama has all the elements of sensational fiction. One night a Devon farmer was killed and robbed, and shortly afterwards a young woman and her former lover were arrested for the crime. They were soon released, however, only to be re-arrested for another offence and sentenced to penal servitude.

The Murderer's Confession.

In prison the woman brooded over her "wrongs," which included the rejection of her advances by a farm labourer named Galley, with whom she had fallen in love and on whom she wished to be revenged. So she told the governor that she had seen the murder of the farmer, who had been killed by Galley and another man. It was true that she had been a witness of the crime and that she knew the perpetrators, but that Galley was one of them was false.

He and the actual murderer were thereupon arrested. When they were put on trial the real culprit at once pleaded guilty and was removed from the dock—a circumstance that naturally influenced the jury, who found that Galley also was guilty; and, though his fellow-prisoner signed a declaration that he had nothing to do with the murder, he was kept in prison for twenty years.

After his release, however, his innocence was established, and the Government granted him £1,000 compensation.

Did the Law Blunder?

There was another remarkable conspiracy in connection with a burglary. A country parsonage was broken into by two men, one of whom fired at the clergyman's daughter as she came downstairs to ascertain the cause of the noise she had heard. Two men were convicted of the crime and sentenced to penal servitude.

Long afterwards two strangers confessed to the deed and affirmed that the men in prison had nothing to do with it. The new-comers were in consequence put on trial and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, whereupon the others were liberated.

That this was a miscarriage of justice there is little room for doubt, as it is virtually certain that the men first convicted were guilty, notwithstanding the tardy confession that procured their release; but the precise nature of the conspiracy that brought about such a deplorable result is not known.

Threatened from Prison.

It is supposed, however, that the men originally convicted received information that the others had killed a gamekeeper, and that they sent them a message from prison to the effect that if they (the alleged murderers) did not accuse themselves of breaking into the parsonage, something would be said about the gamekeeper's death.

Equally curious was a plot of a different character. A burglar broke into an office, from which he carried off a gold watch and other realizable property, as well as a quantity of papers. Shortly afterwards a detective met him, and, suspecting that he had made the haul, remarked that a reward would be paid for the recovery of the papers, but only if the thief was discovered.

The burglar walked away in a thoughtful mood. Presently, finding that he was being dogged by a man with whom he had quarrelled, and surmising that the shadowy object was to discover where the papers were hidden, he went by a circuitous route to a certain park, stopped near a shrubbery and there pressed his heel on a bit of turf that seemed to have been disturbed recently.

Thief's Clever Ruse.

He then went to the detective and told him that if some officers were stationed near the shrubbery, that night they would catch the thief—the man who had followed the burglar in the act of removing the papers from the hiding-place where that watcher had deposited them after a burglary. The trap was set, and just as the tracker was chucking at having "hooked" the burglar, the detective pounced on him. Naturally, he was furious and protested his innocence; but due course he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for a crime he had never committed. So the curtain fell with the handing of £20 to the actual thief for the information he had given, notwithstanding that it had led to the conviction of an innocent man, though this was not known to the police till afterwards.

Tirpitz Favors U-Boat Abolition

FAMOUS GERMAN ADMIRAL WOULD ELIMINATE SUBMARINE WARFARE.

BERLIN—The venerable Admiral Von Tirpitz, who advocated submarine warfare against Germany's enemies and developed the U-boat to its highest efficiency, favors abolition of the submarine as a war weapon. Asked for his opinion of this question, in the light of England's renewed effort to have the "wasp of the sea" banished by international agreement the admiral declared this would be "desirable," although he attached a condition to his advocacy.

"The sanctity of private property of the seven seas," he said, "conform to an ancient principle of law. Therefore the abolition of submarines is extremely desirable, providing the subsequent abolition of the blockade follows a logical consequence." Admiral Von Tirpitz told the United States early in the year, approval of discussion then under way suggesting that should President Coolidge take the initiative in another disarmament conference, he would welcome such a step.

But then as now he qualified his statements, (hitherto unpublished) saying: "The idea of disarmament, is indeed the pre-supposition upon which Germany at the end of the war laid down her arms and concluded the armistice."

"Since this idea was then only applied against Germany through the Versailles peace while other states especially Germany's neighbors in Europe, continued to arm, Germany can only welcome the fact that these threads, broken since that time are again gathered up."

Von Tirpitz is prominent in the councils of the Nationalist party which has been fighting the Locarno safe-pacts on the ground that they perpetuate and conform to the Versailles Treaty, which, they say, constantly flags Germany in chains. Tirpitz is now a member of the Reichstag and active in the movements of his group. His long white beard and stately form are landmarks in the German Parliament.

Elephant Amok

TWO MAHOUTS HURT IN STABLE FIGHT AT BARNET.

Five men had narrow escapes from death when an infuriated young bull elephant ran amok at Barnet, Hertfordshire. The animal, with two larger elephants, had just been installed in its stable at the depot of Mr. G. Bruce Chapman, livestock dealer.

Becoming infuriated, it picked up an Indian mahout (keeper), with its trunk, threw him on the floor, and ripped open his leg with its tusk. Three other mahouts ran to the rescue of their comrade, but the elephant charged them and succeeded in pinning one against the wall, where it prodded him in the ribs.

A keeper named J. Card, who had endeavored to secure the enraged animal, was "knocked down," but rolling over just as the elephant was falling on its knees to crush him, narrowly escaped death.

By the joint efforts of the keepers and the mahouts, the animal was finally restrained.

Death of England's Oldest Coronet

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 30.—(Canada Press Despatch)—At the age of 91 and with the record of having held over six thousand inquests, Dr. Samuel Craddock, Coronator for East Somerset and understood to be the oldest coroner in England, has just died at Bath. Sixty or more years ago, when he was appointed, this action was in the hands of the local freeholders, and partook of the importance of a Parliamentary election. Dr. Craddock has confessed that he spent over £700 in propitiating the electors in a manner which the Corrupt Practices Act would render impossible nowadays.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent)

THE ENORMOUS DEBT OF THE C.N.R.
For the past five years, the Canadian National Railways had to provide new construction, betterments, property equipment and new equipment at a cost of $572,825,425, which added to the already big debt swells the figures to large proportions. Sir Henry Thorne says that he expects to have a surplus of at least $25,000,000 next year.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending November 14, 1925, have been $5,367,858 as compared with $4,927,568 or the same period of 1924, an increase of $440,290 or seventeen per cent.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS SELL BUILDING.
The building, owned by the Knights of Columbus, situated at Phillip's Square, has been disposed of for $58,000. This sum will help to liquidate the debt on the new and commodious building situated on Mountain Street. Everything is in full swing in the Mountain Street home. The monthly luncheon, the bowling alters, the billiard rooms, and the swimming pool seem to be great drawing cards not only to the members but for their friends. "Upwards and onwards" is the slogan of the Montreal Knights of Columbus.

SOME GOOD RULES FOR HEALTH.

Judge Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation and one of the richest men in the country, has made a careful study of foods and other things that make for health, and gives out the following rules that govern his own busy life:

1. Exercise moderately in the open air.
2. Breathe pure air as much as possible.
3. Leave alcoholic stimulants alone. Drink tea or coffee if you like. Drink milk if it agrees with you.
4. Drink plenty of pure water.
5. Eat little meat, and red meat but once a week.
6. Eat little starch, fats or sweets; plenty of vegetables, whole wheat bread, fish fruits.
7. Follow regular habits.
8. Get plenty of sleep.
9. Work hard, mentally and physically, but not for too long at a time.
10. Lead a good, clean life.
11. Keep an even temper and avoid excitement.
12. Never get angry or indulge in controversy.
13. Obey the "Golden Rule."
14. Eat only to satisfy hunger, not simply to please the palate.

NO PLACE IN CANADA FOR THE KLAN.

Under the heading of "The Klan is Dying" the Canadian Freeman, says editorially:

"The one hundred per cent. Canadians who put their shirts on over their heads and forget to pull them down are so very patriotic that they model even their bigotry on the American plan. And they are so miffed grey matter under their masks that they convince themselves that what even the Americans won't tolerate can live and thrive in the Dominion.

For the Klan is dying across the border. The signs of its waning have been multiplying, and the recent elections establish it beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The Klan massed its forces and opened up its money bags, but it availed nothing. Decent Protestants refused to vote for the proscription of their Catholic fellow-citizens, and everywhere the hooded bigots endorsed a ticket, that ticket met defeat. The outstanding instance of this was the mayoral election in Detroit. Mayor Smith, who was opposed for no other reason than that he was a Catholic, was re-elected by a majority twice as large as he received a year ago. It was, as the Mayor declared, "a victory for tolerance led by Protestants."

All over the Republic the same story is recorded. Mayors, governors, judges,

WE FORGET THE HAPPINESS AND BEAUTY OF HOME.

Dear Readers,—Have you seriously thought on the happiness and beauty of Home. What is Home?

1. The place where we grumble most and are treated the best.
2. Father's kingdom, a mother's world, and a child's paradise.
3. A world of strife shut out, and a world of love shut in.
4. The place where the small are great, and the great are small.
5. Where one's true disposition is sure to be revealed.
6. A temporary abode in preparation for our true Home in Heaven.
7. The foundation for the inculcation of Christian virtues and good examples.
8. Where our faults and virtues are magnified.
9. Where kindness and love should reign supreme.
10. The rich man loves it because it is a place where he can cast off fortune.

A British Secret Service Ruse

HOW ZIMMERMAN WAS TRIPPED UP.

On March 1, 1917, before the United States entered the war, the world was startled by the disclosure that Germany had proposed to Mexico, through the German Minister to that country, an alliance and a joint invasion of the United States, and furthermore, that Mexico should persuade Japan to join in the attack. Mexico's share of the loot, according to the German proposal, was to be the States which were taken from Mexico in 1846, that is, the States of New Mexico, Texas and Arizona.

There was naturally enough an immediate furor of excitement in the United States. German sympathizers asserted loudly that the alleged message, the text of which had been given to the newspapers by the Associated Press, was a hoax which had probably been conceived by the British, but a few days later President Wilson issued an official statement affirming its authenticity. The President, however, vouchsafed no explanation as to how it had come into his hands. The discovery was generally placed by the public to the credit of the United States Secret Service, and several British newspapers commented bitterly on the inefficiency of their Government's Secret Service, compared with the American.

The facts in the case are now revealed for the first time in the newly published third volume of "The Life and Letters of Walter H. Page," by Burton J. Hendrick, and they make not only a most interesting, but distinctly humorous reading, excepting possibly for Germans. Mr. Hendrick's book discloses that it was not the United States Government but the British who uncovered the plot, and who, for friendship's sake promptly sent for Mr. Page, the United States Ambassador, and through him warned the German Government.

To ensure receipt of this most fatal message in Mexico City, the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Herr Zimmerman, employed several separate channels of communication. Each one of these was tapped by British Secret Service agents. Thus almost as soon as the message was despatched the British Government acquired possession of it in four ways. It was "bought" in the City of Mexico. It was sent by wireless from Nauen to Sayville, Long Island. It was transmitted through the diplomatic service of Sweden, which country was strongly pro-German, by way of Stockholm and Buenos Aires. Most startling route of all, it was sent directly by cable by the American State Department. In this case the message was simply put into the German cipher, handed to the United States Ambassador in Berlin, and telegraphed by him, according to custom and on the authority of President Wilson, to Copenhagen, and thence to London and Washington. In London it was seized en route by the Intelligence Service of the British Admiralty.

Dog Dies of Broken Heart

MOSSBANK, Sask., Dec. 4.—This is a story of a dog that died of a broken heart. Mrs. N. Hay of this district possessed a pet pomeranian which was greatly attached to her. Called suddenly to Winnipeg, the owner was unable to make arrangements for the shipment of the dog. It was taken to friends where it was given every attention. The dog took up a patient watch at the house door, and whined and cried for its mistress. Not a particle of food would the animal touch. For two weeks the devoted pet kept guard, but the strain proved too great and a few days before the owner returned, the dog died. Now Mrs. Hay is grieving.

50lb. Salmon

Many Tweed anglers have taken from four to sixteen salmon in a day, and the biggest salmon of the season has been killed—a grand fish of 50lb., measuring 50 1/2 in. long. It fell to Mr. J. D. Rudd, and is believed to be the heaviest Tweed salmon taken since Dr. Fison's 51 1/2-pounder in 1923. The sixteen salmon sealed in the aggregate 323lb., and were captured by Mr. J. J. Bell-Irving, November 20 is the last day of the Tweed season.

A glass of hot water taken before breakfast will keep the stomach in good condition.

Bronchitis More Than a Cold

Often develops rapidly into pneumonia—relief is found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limesed and Turpentine.

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs and body pains, chills, fever, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest, a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, chest, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limesed and Turpentine acts almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, soothing expectorations and preventing the inflammation from reaching the lungs.

National Emergency Organization

HOME OFFICE PLANS.

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary, announced in the House of Commons that the Government will shortly publish details of the official skeleton organisation set up to ensure the maintenance of essential services during a national emergency.

This answer was given in reply to Mr. Taylor (Soc. Lincoln), who asked Sir William if he was aware that some clerks were receiving letters, marked "Secret," stating that it had been decided that such an organisation should be set up by the Government, and that town clerks were being asked to recommend persons for

Mr. William said that for years past there had been in existence, under successive Governments, organisations maintaining essential services during national emergencies. Recent steps had been taken to overhaul and complete those organisations.

No doubt communications had been made to local authorities on the matter by the Government Department responsible. The step had been authorised by the Government.

A circular to local authorities generally describing the organisation had been prepared and would be made public during the next few days.

Mr. Taylor asked why it was necessary to send out secret communications. If it was the duty of the Government to make provisions of this kind, surely they should be made public.

Sir William said that he was in agreement with this view. When he was in the office he found that this organisation had always been treated as secret. He thought it right that the nation should know what was being done, and in a few days they would know. Some of the officers engaged would be full-time officials and some part-time.

Compulsion Denied.

Mr. Lansbury (Soc. Bow and Bromley) asked whether there was an intention to local authorities that they should go to private individuals and compel them to serve in the special constabulary.

Sir William said that there was not the slightest truth in this suggestion.

Questioned by Commander Kenworthy (Lib. Hull) as to the attitude of the Government towards the special organisation recently created, described as The Organisation for the Maintenance of Supplies, or more fully the "O.M.S.," he said that this Government, like all others, recognised that it was its duty to ensure the maintenance of essential supplies for the population, and had prepared plans for carrying out that duty. If, however, any unofficial organisation was in a position to prepare classified lists of persons willing to help in an emergency, and would place such lists at the disposal of public authorities when required, the Government would welcome such assistance.

To Commander Kenworthy's suggestion that the O.M.S. claimed to do the Government's work, he said that members might leave it to him to deal with any organisation which attempted to usurp the functions of the Government.

Golf Course a Rendezvous for Wild Animals

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 2.—Elk, bear and beaver are helping to make the Jasper National Park golf course one of the most attractive in the Dominion, according to a report received from Stanley Thompson, superintendent in charge of creating the course. The thirty Scottish plan to plant sheep on to a golf course in order to save the cost of mowing, has been improved upon.

According to Mr. Thompson nearly all deer and orders have been issued giving protection to these animals. Bears are also reported to be numerous in the vicinity of the fairways and greens, and on Lac Beauport, close to one of the greens. Trappers have built a house which has been added to the attractiveness of the natural hazards of the course.

Two heads are better than one so vote for FANNIE McNEIL and MAY KENNEDY.

Citizens of St. John's

It is no easy matter for women to stand as candidates for the first time in our civic elections. It will be a still more difficult task if elected,—but the work waiting to be done is unlimited, and the need for the help of women is great and urgent. There is prejudice to be met, and it is only by sincerity of purpose and persistency that this prejudice can be overcome.

In our campaign as candidates we find that housing, sewerage, collection and disposal of garbage, sidewalks and drains and the inspection and handling of food, to be the vital problems. These problems bear directly on the health and comfort of the homes, and the knowledge acquired through the canvassing for election should prove of future benefit in the consideration of those problems.

If elected, we intend to take the rate-payers at all times into our confidence, and we shall welcome any helpful suggestions in forming our opinions. Women have a genius for attention to details, and chafe against that objectionable word "Impossible." Their fine team work on auxiliaries of societies is sufficient guarantee that their co-operation with men on the Civic Board will help effect improvements in the cleanliness and health of the whole community.

So Mark your Ballots opposite 9 and 15.

TURNING OUR AMATEURS INTO PROFESSIONALS.

We notice that Professor Seeley is arranging a professional boxing bout between Jack Phelan and John Garland, of Bell Island, two men who have been among the most promising of our local performers in the squared circle. So far they have only taken part in amateur contests, and we regret to see them deserting amateurism for professionalism, which has not been introduced before in any of our branches of sport.

Of course these men can please themselves in deciding to exclude themselves from contests of all kinds with amateurs in the future, but as we have prided ourselves in this country on the high standard maintained in amateur sport, it is regretted if any change should tend to lower it. It is further to be feared that this innovation is only the thin edge of the wedge, and if encouraged may lead to the destroying of the fine spirit which exists in all our sport, whereby the game is played for the pure love of the game, not for what may be made out of it.

BILLIARDS.

Half Ball Position Shots.
The Half Ball Stroke from the jaws of one top-pocket of the spotted red into the other top-pocket—one of the six already mentioned—when properly played is essentially a position shot. The thing to do while getting the hazard is to send the red over the middle pocket and this should always be kept in mind by the player. The red should strike the side cushion about six inches above the middle pocket and come to rest in perfect position for a half ball loser into the middle pocket.

We now come to the great practice stroke of billiards, the one all professionals use to get into condition for their great games—the long losing hazard, with the red on the centre spot the player's ball should be spotted about two inches inside the end spots of the D. Do not attempt, too much at first, simply make sure of the shot itself. The natural after position depends entirely on the strength used. The correct leave for this stroke is a half ball hazard into the middle pocket. The red should be made to travel to the side cushion then to the top and around to the opposite side cushion, striking about seven inches above the middle pocket and resting perfectly for a middle pocket shot.

The hardest thing to avoid in making the long loser is the almost unconscious gripping of the cue when striking. Your ball has a long way to travel and it is no easy matter to hold your cue for this stroke very lightly, but gripping will always spoil the result of this—perhaps the greatest of all position strokes. Swing out your cue three or four times before each attempt, and freedom of cue is sure to result. Before taking the other phases of the game in this series the writer would draw particular attention to the fact that the same rule that applies to half ball hazards also applies to half ball cannons and the same care should be exercised in the making of a cannon as regards "freedom of cue" gripping, and other essentials, already stated in this series. In playing cannons remember this that the success or failure of a cannon depends more upon the way the second object ball is hit than the first. Wednesday—"Side."

KEARNS TROUBLE.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 28.—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world and present manager of Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, was arrested at the international border at Tia Juana late last night, when he is said by officers to have created a disturbance. He was freed on $500 cash bail.

WILLS NOT TO MEET CHAMP IN INDIANA.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 28.—Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight boxer, will not fight Harry Wills, heavy challenger, in their proposed 1926 bout at Michigan City, Ind., information at the Dempsey Camp made it known here yesterday. The reason, unverified here, is due to a reported breach between Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons and his South Bend, Ind., colleagues engaged in staging the affair.

That Chicago would eventually be chosen for the bout is the opinion here, in the event that city provides for a bout, under a recently enacted state law. Dempsey, confined himself to the statement that he was bound by agreement to fight under the banner of promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons, and that he intended to fight for Fitzsimmons wherever the latter choose to stage the battle except in the state of New York.

SCORES KAYO.

LEWISTON, Me.—Elihu Rioux, of Montreal, scored a technical knockout over Archie Skinner, of Boston, who failed to respond to the bell in the 15th round of the first set of a double six here, claiming he had sprained his left hand. Rioux had three of the four rounds.

RICKARD ISSUES LIST OF LOGICAL CONTENTENDERS.

NEW YORK.—Champions in every class division are given three contenders from whom to pick an opponent for a title fight under Tex Rickard's direction.

The veteran promoter, making public this list of logical contenders, expects to furnish a basis for championship frays in most of the divisions, in the ring of the new Madison Square Garden. But in at least two instances, the heavyweight and middleweight ranks, financial considerations involved are such as to preclude the likelihood of any competition indoors. The money demands of both Jack Dempsey, and Harry Greb, champions in these two classes, must recede before they can be considered for anything but bouts in the larger outdoor arenas.

Defence of the Franc

DECLARATION BY M. PAINEVE.

PARIS.—"I give you my word as President of the Council that we shall defend the franc with the same conviction as we defended Verdun," declared M. Paineve, speaking at a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association.

The Government, said M. Paineve, would recall before no responsibility. It had decided to call on the country to make a tremendous effort to liberate French finances—an effort unprecedented in history. The Premier described the "legend" that the Frenchman was less taxed than the citizens of other Allied countries. The new effort which the Government was demanding amounted to £50,000,000 annually, in addition to budgetary charges of 35 milliard francs. "We shall not hesitate to make the necessary sacrifices," he declared in conclusion.

M. Bonnet expressed the conviction that the Government's project would be voted by Parliament.

The "Matin" publishes the following declaration by M. Paineve:—"We repeat that we are ready to apply to the financial proposals such modifications as we consider wise, and which will be of such a character as to enlist on their behalf the greatest number of supporters. As regards the basis of the proposals, that is to say the conditions of national sacrifice and the organization of the sinking fund, the differences which exist to-day appear to be due rather to political abstractions than concrete realities."

"The divergences between the points of view are more profound in regard to the treasury measures such as inflation, consolidation, etc., which are inevitable if the difficulties of the hour are to be overcome."

"These are technical and not political questions on which the experts themselves are divided. And as in political decisions must be reached and as the men who have to decide

In the junior lightweight division, the former champion, Steve "Kid" Sullivan and Allenstown Johnny Leonard, are named as likely opponents for Mike Ballerino, the present titleholder.

FRENCH HORSES LEAPED TO VICTORY.

Defeated Entries From Canada, Belgium and U.S. at N. Y. Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—France triumphed over entries from Canada, Belgium and the United States in the international military jumping competition, feature of last night closing programme at the fortieth annual National Horse Show. Held over a course of 28 jumps, similar to that used at the Olympic Games, the entry of the three French Army horses leaped to victory with only two "touches" among them. The Belgians finished second, while the United States gained a slight margin over the Canadians for third place.

FRANKIE BULL KNOCKED OUT.

FARGO, N.D., Nov. 28.—Russie Leroy, of Fargo, knocked out Frankie Bull, billed as the Canadian lightweight champion, in the second round of a scheduled 15-round bout here last night. A hard right and left to the jaw in the early part of the round, following merciless punishment, and two knockdowns in the first round, led to the Canadian to the canvas for the final count.

Artistes at the Majestic

HOPE AND MENTON ARRIVE FROM KEITH'S.

Among the passengers on the S.S. Hethpool, which arrives from Boston to-day, are the vaudeville team, Hope and Menton, who are booked for an indefinite period at the Majestic. If one is to judge by the press stories and clippings from late papers from Boston, Hope & Menton will certainly be numbered with the best musical and vaudeville artists we have seen in this city. In the theatrical notes of the Boston Sunday Post, they are given special mention. Their photos and stage cuts receive the some prominent positions as other well known leading stars.

The feature to-night is "Yankee Madness," starring Billie Dove and George Larkin. The record of these two stars is sufficient to assert that the picture is well above the average. It is a story of old Seville, cast in all the glamor and grandeur of ancient Spain.

We are sure it will be of interest to Majestic patrons, particularly those engaged in the Pony Contest, to learn that the Shetland Pony is due to arrive by the S.S. Hethpool and will be put on exhibition in due course. In view of the special features to-night, the admission fee reverts back to 30 cents.

Defence of the Franc

DECLARATION BY M. PAINEVE.

PARIS.—"I give you my word as President of the Council that we shall defend the franc with the same conviction as we defended Verdun," declared M. Paineve, speaking at a luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association.

The Government, said M. Paineve, would recall before no responsibility. It had decided to call on the country to make a tremendous effort to liberate French finances—an effort unprecedented in history. The Premier described the "legend" that the Frenchman was less taxed than the citizens of other Allied countries. The new effort which the Government was demanding amounted to £50,000,000 annually, in addition to budgetary charges of 35 milliard francs. "We shall not hesitate to make the necessary sacrifices," he declared in conclusion.

M. Bonnet expressed the conviction that the Government's project would be voted by Parliament.

The "Matin" publishes the following declaration by M. Paineve:—"We repeat that we are ready to apply to the financial proposals such modifications as we consider wise, and which will be of such a character as to enlist on their behalf the greatest number of supporters. As regards the basis of the proposals, that is to say the conditions of national sacrifice and the organization of the sinking fund, the differences which exist to-day appear to be due rather to political abstractions than concrete realities."

"The divergences between the points of view are more profound in regard to the treasury measures such as inflation, consolidation, etc., which are inevitable if the difficulties of the hour are to be overcome."

"These are technical and not political questions on which the experts themselves are divided. And as in political decisions must be reached and as the men who have to decide

Syd Chaplin Does Henry Dixey Role

SCREEN VERSION OF "MAN ON THE BOX" SAID TO BE BEST FILM.

"The Man on the Box," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, which will open to-day at the Nickel Theatre has Syd Chaplin in the stellar role of Bob Warburton.

This is Syd's first appearance for the Warners and this picture is the Harold MacGrath novel and play is said to be ideally suited to the man who made "Charley's Aunt" one of the most popular of screen productions, and who is as remarkable a comedian in his own field as his brother Charlie is in his.

Syd used to manage his brother's financial affairs, but, with the success of "Charley's Aunt," he needed a manager of his own in the realms of higher finance. Now "The Man on the Box" comes along as one of the biggest popular comedy hits of the season. Chaplin plays the role that Henry Dixey played on the stage.

Reviewers in other cities have acclaimed "The Man on the Box" as Syd Chaplin's best. It has a story of gaily romantic adventure, in which money, intrigue, inventions and politics are excitingly combined.

Civic Affairs at Winkleville

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Feeling that citizens of a progressive city like St. John's might care to hear how Municipal Affairs are conducted in another city of similar size I beg space to write a few words about Winkleville where I resided during the greater part of last year. Like St. John's it lies opposite a beautiful mountain on the shores of a magnificent harbour, but there its resemblance ends, for Winkleville is the dirtiest and most antiquated city in North America. Asked "Why Winkleville?" one of its residents replied "Oh, we always let things rip!" Its slogan is, "What was good enough for granddaddy is good enough for us." The inhabitants roar with laughter when they hear of the strange customs practiced in other cities. For instance they are vastly amused when told that eggs in most places ashes and garbage are kept in separate covered receptacles, or the owners are fined. "None of that nonsense in Winkleville," they say. "Here pigs are not for use but for show. We group our ashes and garbage on the drain or sidewalk around the path, and after a while when the wind and dogs and children have carried off most of it, maybe the sanitary man will take it for a ride out to one of the country thoroughfares and spread it on either side of the road. It makes our city seem larger for people to find boots and mattresses, coats and wallpaper, saws and umbrellas for miles along the high-ways!"

In Winkleville they have given up a watchman to cry the hours, instead they have night-carts which rattle along at stated intervals. The advantage over the former system is that those who have lost the sense of Lethargy usually have other senses well developed and like to know "All's well!"

Some years ago the goats monopolized the game of spoil the tree. The goats seem to have died out. Not so the game. It is carried on with snap by a thousand young citizens who roam the streets daily.

The women of Winkleville are the sweetest creatures I ever came to meet with in this age of suffragettes. They are concerned only with loving, clothing and feeding their families. As long as the coal and groceries arrive it matters nothing to them that horses' shoes hurt. As long as the milk arrives each morning it matters nothing to these good housewives that the bottles have been flicked out with dirty rags, that the milk has Consumption or sore and filthy hands and that the cow and stable are unacceptably dirty; that the bread and candy have been baking all day in a cosy shop window with dust and flies and cats, and at night rats and mice. They scour and scrub their homes but they send their children to sit six hours a day in poorly lighted, unventilated, overcrowded school rooms. They grieve because their children are up till all hours doing home-lessons. When they have to wear glasses, develop crooked spines and tuberculosis their brave patient mothers say resignedly, "Well, it is God's will. It is not for us to do anything to try and improve things. A woman's place is in the home!"

Anyone in Winkleville who dares to show any progressive spirit is stoned and has to leave. Every spring Winkleville becomes a hive of industry. Scores of men with little brooms sweep up the rags and manure and peels that have been lying on the snow all winter. Industrious they collect them into hundreds of little hillocks. By the time the last is erected the first has blown all over the city again, and so these Penelopes are kept very busy. All summer, as the weather gets warmer and the streets become drier, the dust grows thicker and denser. Then in October when the rain turns the dust into most glorious mud pies, what fun to tow a little broom and sweep all the lonely cotsy stuff into puddles and watch it immediately run back all over the roads again. Then the little brooms are put away for the winter.

Mr. Editor, your readers will agree with me when I say I was mighty glad to return to my native city, St. John's, with its well-paved, well-washed streets, its beautiful trees and flowers and all its comforts.

Yours sincerely, M.B.

The Discovery of Remarkable Rays

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 1.—Rays more penetrating and powerful than anything heretofore known or imagined on earth, have been discovered, studied and measured by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, the foremost scientist in the United States, with whom has been associated in the last and most fruitful years of his research work, G. Harvey Cameron, of Saskatoon and a gold medalist of the University of Saskatchewan.

Announcement of the remarkable discoveries made by the two scientists, was made by Dr. Millikan recently at a meeting of the National Academy of Sciences. He told of invisible messengers from the great cosmic spaces beyond the ken of man; rays approximately 100 times more penetrating than the most powerful X-rays produced in hospitals and laboratories.

Mr. Cameron, whose share in the discoveries brings him into world prominence as a scientist, was graduated with honors from the University of Saskatchewan in 1921. On the recommendation of Dean G. H. Ling and Dr. E. L. Harrington, Mr. Cameron was given a teaching fellowship in the California Institute immediately after graduation.

Mute, but mighty toms of an endless activity in creation's workshop in the immeasurable stellar regions, these rays tell a story of the birth of new worlds and new atoms. They come with the speed of light, bringing with them traces of energies of inconceivable magnitude. So penetrating are these rays, according to Dr. Millikan, that they can pierce a wall of lead six feet thick.

The eminent California scientist does not speculate on the practical value of the rays to man, nor on the possibilities opened by them for further research, but facts which he has disclosed indicate that the cosmic crucibles of the universe hold and pour forth tremendous stores of energy which mankind some day may harness here on earth.

The tests carried out by Dr. Millikan and his associate were largely carried out from the very shadows of the peak of Mt. Whitney, the "roof of the United States." It was here that the scientist discovered that the much-mystifying high frequency rays are of cosmic and no terrestrial origin. Dr. Millikan has disclosed that scientific instruments of remarkable precision and ingenuity were used in carrying out the experiments. One of these was the electroscopie, used in measuring the penetrating power of the rays. Another instrument was sent up in sounding balloons to an altitude of ten miles. It was carried above the clouds and contained a recording barometer, a thermometer, three sets of moving photographic films and the necessary driving machinery to operate them, and yet weighed only seven ounces.

The Mt. Whitney experiments were the continuation of research work that has been going on at the California Institute of Technology for several years. He has practically devoted his life to determine definitely the nature and origin of high frequency rays first noticed nearly a quarter century ago. Dr. Millikan was awarded the Nobel Prize for physics as a result of his work in isolating the electron, the basis of all modern advance in physics and atomic studies.
