TOOK UP NO PAVING TODAY

Evidence of Desire to Avoid Crowd and Reporters

CARLETON THERE

Mayor Asks Him to Go Over and Mark Off Places But Let Digging Be Done Later—Seeking Only The Truth, He Declines

An arrangement to further open up the main street pavement in the interest of the investigation now in progress, did not work out this morning in spite of the fact that Ex-Inspector Carleton was early on the scene, and ready to do what was required of him.

An air of mystery seems to pervade the whole affair and the suggestion is not wanting that the members of the investigating committee are desirous of keeping their own counsel as to the day and hour when the work of digging is to be proceeded with.

In fact, this morning's happenings leave no room for doubt, that it is at all possible the four aldermen, with the mayor, would much prefer that they with the ex-inspector, after selecting the spot to open, be fenced about with a sufficient high fence to shut themselves out from the view of the public and newspapermen with a special prohibitive on the latter.

The Reporters Mayor Frink in a telephone conversation with Ex-Inspector Carleton, and again in a talk with Mr. Carleton in City Hall, spoke in no uncertain manner of "public exhibitions" with "newspaper men about."

A little after 8 o'clock a Times-Star reporter was at City Hall, where it has been announced the committee were to gather to proceed to the main street pavement.

After waiting for more than an hour, a call was made at the office of one of the committee and it was there learned that the understanding was that His Worship was to notify the members of the tribunal of the hour for the trip to North Park.

After a further wait for the promised notification and as it was becoming late, the Times-Star man started for the scene of investigation feeling that a later decision had resulted in the pavement having been chosen as the place of meeting.

There, Ex-Inspector Carleton was found patiently waiting, having been there since 8 o'clock. To newspaper men he said that he had received no notification other than what he saw in the Telegraph this morning.

Members of the group of reporters notified His Worship by telephone that Mr. Carleton was there and the mayor replied that he had as yet not got the committee together. Asked if they would be over during the morning, the reply was that he did not know. There was another long wait and as nothing that looked like an alderman or a city chief migrate, loomed upon the horizon, Mr. Carleton got into telephone communication with His Worship at City Hall.

Mr. Carleton Wants The Truth There was some uncertainty and the mayor informed the ex-inspector that he did not want "a public exhibition" with a half dozen reporters about. The former inspector, in reply, said that he did not care about that, all he wanted was to get at the truth. It was not possible even then to find out just when not at all the members of the committee would arrive.

Hardly had the telephone conversation ceased when Assistant City Engineer Hatfield came along and told Mr. Carleton that the mayor wished to see him in his office, and the ex-inspector and the newspaper men started for City Hall.

His Worship was not in at the time and all waited in the outside office. Soon Mayor Frink, looking in the door, remarked to Mr. Carleton that he had noticed him with "his staff" coming along the street and that he would like to see him. While the conclude was on within, the reporters waited patiently for some final announcement. They were out again in their reckoning for in looking across the street the ex-inspector was seen in conversation with some aldermen, and on descending to the street, His Worship was at the door. Exit had been made from another door. Just what took place between the mayor and Mr. Carleton or what was said could not be ascertained at all.

Members of the committee who knew of it would only say "did you see the mayor?" In answer to a question as to whether the work of opening up the pavement would take place today or tomorrow or when, his worship replied only that he had asked Mr. Carleton to go over and mark out the place and later, and in his presence, the members of the committee would go over and the opening up process could begin. This the ex-inspector, his worship said, declined to do, as he required that they do the marking and cutting at the same time with all present, so that so far as he knew the thing was off for the present at least. HE SWALLOWS ALL SORTS OF THINGS Doctors Thought it Was Appropriate; Operation Showed General Store Cairo, Ill., Aug. 23—Before Frank Wilson, an advertising solicitor of St. Louis, died here in a hospital, he told the police he had swallowed several articles of foreign nature, and that he had better put the X-ray at work. He was operated upon Sunday night on the theory that he was afflicted with appendicitis.

Three incisions were made in the man's abdomen and according to the physicians the following articles were removed: One shoe button hook, ladies hatpin, three keys, one lead pencil, one tin bottle, one tin toy pistol, three small nails, one needle, one thermometer.

Wilson, according to his physician, had been in a depressed mental state for a time during which he swallowed anything that he could get down his throat.

FRANCE GOING HEAVILY INTO WAR TESTS IN AIR Army Planning Extensive Manoeuvres Over the Plains of Picardy Paris, Aug. 23—The striking success of a series of army aeroplane scouting manoeuvres executed after the Rheims aviation meeting and during the big cross-country race just concluded, has decided the French war department to undertake the test of air machines, both dirigible balloons and aeroplanes. The forthcoming manoeuvres on the plains of Picardy on a vasty large scale than has hitherto been attempted.

Two dirigible, the Liberte and the Colonne Renault will be placed at the disposal of General Piquard and General Goussier, each to be accompanied by an aeroplane as scout and wing tester.

In addition the opposing generals will each have four aeroplanes under his command. The rules of the game are now being worked out. They will probably provide that any aeroplane which succeeds in reaching a dominating position, namely a superior altitude from which it could hold its rival at its mercy, will be considered to have put the other out of action for the rest of the day.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE MEETING

The Grand Master's Annual Address to Fraternity FORTY-THIRD MEETING

Matters of Interest in Report of Grand Master Bridges and Grand Secretary Hart—The Board of General Purpose—The Campbellton Fire

As I glance back over the year which has just closed, it seems only yesterday that you placed in my hands the gavel of authority as grand master of this jurisdiction. I may say that I accept the office with many misgivings, for I felt some what afraid that I had not the time to devote that attention to the work which was necessary for the proper discharge of my many duties incident to the office, but the kind assistance and hearty co-operation received from the officers and members of the grand lodge—particularly the assistance of our efficient grand secretary, E. W. Brother J. Twining Hart—has relieved me of a number of my most arduous duties, so that many of the cares usually devolving upon the grand master have been severely felt by me.

Several faithful craftsmen of our jurisdiction, during the year just closed, have obeyed the summons of the Great Architect.

THE RIGHTS OF WOMEN. "Say!" said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, to the Times reporter. "Do you follow any woman, at that there exhibition?" "I don't care—flea don't bother me, but you jest better tell the manager if he wants the swimmer to see that show he'll hafta keep the flea tied up. I ain't had much sleep since the old lady read about it."

"I will lay the matter before the Women's Council," said the new reporter. "This seems to be a case affecting the inalienable rights of women."

"I'd keep the door open behind me," said Hiram, with a shake of the head that may have been reminiscent of some personal experience.

ROOSEVELT BEGINS HIS TALK TOUR

Speeches, Travelling, Dinners, From Now Till Sept. 11

FIRST ADDRESS TODAY

Talks to Convention of Farmers—Next Stop Will Be at Carnival of Cowboys in Wyoming—T. R. and Mr. Taft

Osprey Bay, N. Y., Aug. 23—Col. Theodore Roosevelt left here this morning for New York, where he will make his start for his big speaking tour through the country. The former president indicated that he would give out a detailed statement later with respect to President Taft's letter to County Chairman Lloyd C. Grierson, of New York, on the recent developments in the New York State situation.

From this morning until the morning of September 11, when his private car, his brother-in-law in Jordanville, remains here until a little before his car leaves Utica at midnight, tomorrow. Then he will proceed with no stop of length, to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he is to make his second speech, at a cowboys' carnival. During the entire trip he will travel 5,400 miles.

Roosevelt and Taft The latest political developments this morning seem to indicate that the United States has two presidents. Taft is apparently throwing all the old leaders, the conservatives of the party at the behest of Roosevelt, with whom he has evidently made peace. If break there was the publication of this correspondence just prior to the Roosevelt trip, appears to indicate how great is Taft's fear of Roosevelt's power. It certainly means that radicalism may be expected to continue. We would watch money matters closely. Deposit total in excess of loans is smaller than last year. The Montana fire may be used as a factor. Financial comment is divided.

Arrivals of grain at Chicago average nearly 11,000,000 bushels a week. Twelve industries declined, 97; twenty active rails declined 1.31.

ANNEXATION OF KOREA ABOUT ACCOMPLISHED Seoul, Aug. 23—There is good reason for believing that a convention between the Emperor of Korea and the Emperor of Japan providing for the annexation of Korea by Japan was signed here last night by Yi Wan Yun, the Korean premier and Viscount Teruchi the Japanese resident general in official silence in the presence of profound and the entire proceedings is screened in mystery.

Monday morning the members of the Korean cabinet paid a visit to the emperor and afterwards called on Viscount Teruchi who will pay his last visit to the city of Seoul in close. The city of Seoul is close guarded also the persons and residences of the Korean and Japanese officials.

FOUR MATCHES FOR PACKY MCFARLAND Chicago, Aug. 23—Packy McFarland, the lightweight, has accepted an offer from Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, to fight four battles in the Antipodes this fall.

In Australia he will meet Jim Douglas, Jack Holden, Johnny Sommers and Beak Unholz. All these bouts will be twenty rounds and enough time will elapse between them to allow him to be in shape. After the Australian engagement McFarland will go to England, where McIntosh has promised him an ancillary match with Freddie Welsh. McFarland will sail from Vancouver on Sept. 9 with Billy Page.

WOMAN WORTH MILLIONS PASSED AWAY TODAY Watertown, N. Y., Aug. 23—Mrs. Robert F. Flower, aged 74, widow of former Governor Flower, died at her home in this city today after a month's illness from heart trouble. Her beneficiaries to the city of Watertown have been very numerous. She leaves an estate variously estimated at from $1,000,000 to $8,000,000. One daughter, Mrs. Emma Flower Taylor, survives.

PEOPLE OF PARIS EAT 200,000 HORSES A YEAR Paris, Aug. 23—The consumption of horse flesh in France, according to figures gathered, is constantly on the increase. (Paris alone there are 600 meat shops, mainly in the poorer quarters, where horseflesh alone is sold. The consumption now exceeds 200,000 animals a year. The butchers report that the increase is due quite as much to the growing in favor of horse flesh, for food as to its cheapness, the price of from ten to thirteen cents a pound being a powerful argument to the poor under the constantly increasing cost of living in France.)

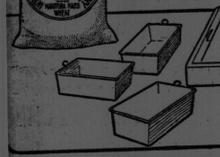

The meat would be even cheaper were it not for the duty on imported horses, $10 a head on colts and $30 on horses more than a year old. The tax was destined to encourage the breeding of horses in France, but operates against the "hippobutcher," as the dealers in horse meat are called. An agitation has been started for the removal of the tax on horses destined for slaughter and is meeting support among the poorer classes.

RECKLESS ECONOMY. The attention of this paper has been called to the fact that the red lamps which mark dangerous places in the streets are put out for a portion of the day, and replaced along about five or six o'clock in the afternoon. The citizen who made the complaint said he was afraid the necessity would get so careless that by and by the lamps would not be lighted "till nearly dark, whereas they should get a good start before the sun goes down. Lamps burn better when they are lighted in the daytime, and they also consume more oil. No doubt the proper authorities will attend to this matter. There is a lot of oil in Pennsylvania and Albert county.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

THE HABEAS CORPUS ACT By John Philip Curran

From an argument for the defence in the case of Justice Robert Johnson before Chief Baron Lord Avonmore and the other barons, in the court of the king's bench at Dublin, Feb. 4, 1855.

I NOW address you on a question the most vitally connected with the liberty and well-being of every man within the limits of the British Empire—which being decided one way, he may be a freeman; which being decided the other, he must be a slave. I refer to the maintenance of that sacred security for the freedom of Englishmen—so justly called the second Magna Charta of British liberty—the habeas corpus act; the spirit and letter of which is, that the party arrested shall not be held without a moment's delay, be bailed, if the offence be bailable. What was the occasion of the law? The arbitrary transportation of the subject beyond the realm; the base and malignant war which the odious and despicable minions of power are forever ready to wage against all those who are honest and bold enough to despise, to expose, and to resist them. Such is the odiousness of a single individual raised the people of England from their sleep. And what does that great statute do? It defines and asserts the right, it points out the abuse; and it endeavors to secure the right, and to guard against the abuse, by giving redress to the sufferer, and by punishing obnoxious persons out of the realm into distant parts, under the pretext of punishment or of safe custody. Well might they have been said to be sent "to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns;" for these wretched travelers how few ever did return!

But of that fragment of this statute has laid the axe to the root. It prohibits the abuse; it declares such detention or removal illegal; it gives an action against all persons concerned in the offense, by contriving, writing, signing, countering, such warrant, or advising or assisting therein. Are bulwarks like these ever constructed to repel the incursions of a contemptible enemy? Was it a trivial and ordinary occasion which raised this storm of indignation in the parliament of that day? Is the ocean ever lashed by the tempest to a feather or to a drop of a fly? By this act you have a solemn legislative declaration, "that it is incompatible with liberty to send any subject out of the realm, under pretence of any crime supposed or alleged to be committed in a foreign jurisdiction, except that crime be capital." It is the sacred temple of liberty, such the ramparts by which they sought to bar out the ever-toiling ocean of arbitrary power; and thought (generous credulity!) that they had barred it out from their posterity forever. Little did they foresee that the race of vermin that would work their way through those mounds, and let back the inundation!

THE ALBERT GATE MYSTERY

BY LOUIS TRACY Copyright 1904 by R. F. Peck & Co.

CHAPTER XII.—(Continued.) "You wish me to understand that you casually strolled in out of the street, and were set upon by three Turks, who gagged you and bound you with leather thongs, leaving you to starve quietly to death, as you had been rescued by reason of a chance visit paid to the place by myself and others?"

"I assure you, monsieur, that, strange as it may seem, you have almost related the facts. I went to the theatre, and there I met a Turkish gentleman with whom I have had a slight acquaintance. The other Turk, a slight acquaintance to me, with the gravity peculiar to their nation, and then, before I could offer a word of explanation, there he came."

"At what time did you go there?" "I must have been there, exactly three o'clock, the day before yesterday," was the answer.

"And what message did you bring?" "I was told to ask the Turkish gentleman to be good enough to cross the Pont Neuf exactly at half-past six, when I would meet a friend who desired to give some information to them."

"On my honor—" began the interrupted conversation. "Will you allow me," he said to the commissary, "to put a few questions to this man?"

"Certainly," was the answer. "Now listen," said Brett, sternly gazing at the reculant, little rasal with those searching eyes, "it is useless for you to attempt any further preparation. We have already seen you in the present when you tried to palm off on Hussain-ul-Mulk the false diamonds, which you had stolen from the commissary. For you to attempt now to escape from the law is hopeless. The sole chance you have of remitting a punishment which may even lead you beneath the guillotine is to confess fully and freely all that you know concerning the outrage which has been committed."

"No, don't interrupt me," he continued with even greater emphasis, when "Le Ver" tried to break in. "You will tell me that you merely acted as an agent of others and that you yourself are not conscious of the nature of any crime that has been committed. I know that to be so. You have been made a mere tool. You are the cat, simply employed by the monkey to pull the chestnuts out of the fire, and you have only succeeded in getting your own paws burnt. You sole chance of safety now is to inform the commissary and me exactly how you came to be mixed up with this affair."

"The Frenchman's treachery seemed to vanish under Brett's cutting words. His wincing face even manifested a faint glimmer of anger as the barrister pointed out how he had been duped by his employers and made to run risks which they avoided."

Yet the tone of his craft was strong in its influence, and he commenced another series of protestations. "I cried, 'that with respect to the Turks I have no knowledge whatever of their plans or motives.' I was present when this English gentleman here was debating with them, and I understood what their plans were, and I understood what they intended to do. My mission was to give to the leaders of the Turks a package which you did not expect, and an assurance of my own safety. I was to deliver the package to the commissary, and you were to be the one to receive it. Who sent you there with this diamond?"

"I cannot tell. I have done them no harm. Believe me, gentlemen both, I have not the slightest idea how these diamonds were obtained, or why they should be such a fuss about them. All I know is that these Turks are desperate fellows, and you won't catch me going near them again, I swear."

"How long have you known Dubois?" "Oh, two years or less." "Have you ever been associated with him?" "Never, monsieur. My record is there." And he again jerked his thumb towards the volume on the table. "It will tell you that I deal in small affairs; Dubois, is an artist. If he found a woman's purse in a bow, if she were rich and handsome—and I know little about him," he continued, "except that he is a great man. They say that he once routed the Bank of France of 20,000 francs."

"And the little wretch's voice became tremulous with admiration as he recounted the legend." "He is a favored lover of La Belle Chasseuse," he continued sharply. "The 'Worm' recovered his equanimity somewhat at this question. He softly said, 'I have never seen him since he left Paris with his last night.'"

"The devil," ejaculated the little man. "Oh, yes, and she has just passed a fortnight with him in London." "A thousand thanks," screamed Brett. "Her father told me she was performing in a music-hall at Marseilles."

"The barrister had evidently touched a sore point, and 'The Worm' was more ready than ever to tell that he had never heard of her since she had left. His information amounted to little more of importance, and the commissary, who had been waiting for a chance to get the identity of the man who had planned and carried out the 'Albert Gate outrage,' was disappointed. Brett quickly realized that to question him further was useless. Petit evidently expected to be set at liberty at once, and the commissary curtly remanded him to the prison."

"Brett, on the other hand, made up his mind that 'The Worm' at liberty might do more valuable to him than 'The Worm' in goal. So he asked the commissary, as a favor to himself, to set Petit free, first giving the chief of the police that he owed his release to the barrister's intervention."

"This was done, and 'Le Ver' was voluble in his expressions of gratitude. Brett soon cut him short. "Here," he said, "are a couple of louis for your immediate necessities. I am living at the Grand Hotel, and I want you to call there each morning at 10 o'clock. You will inquire at the office if Mr. Brett has any message for you. Then, if you need my services, I will be able to reach you early."

Petit protested that he would serve monsieur most willingly, and soon afterwards the barrister took leave of the commissary, promising to keep him fully posted as to further developments, and secure for him, and him only, the ultimate credit of capturing such a noted thief as Dubois. Fate settled matters differently.

The French official was already much impressed by Brett's method of handling this difficult inquiry, and he consented readily enough not only to assist him in every possible way, but to restrain the police from further active interference in the case until matters had developed from their present stage.

During the afternoon Brett received a visit from his old acquaintance, who brought him a telegram from Marseilles. It read: "Mlle. Beauclair has obtained an engagement here at the Palais de Glace. She makes her first appearance on Monday evening."

Brett smiled as he realized how accurately he had interpreted the actions of La Belle Chasseuse and her companion. "This is certain," he said to himself, "they left Paris on Thursday night and they probably will not reach Marseilles until Monday. I have plenty of time to get more valuable to assist him in every way before I take my departure for the South."

An hour later he was seated in his room smoking and reading a magazine when the waiter appeared. "A lady and three gentlemen wish to see monsieur," he explained. (To be continued.)

"I cannot tell. I have done them no harm. Believe me, gentlemen both, I have not the slightest idea how these diamonds were obtained, or why they should be such a fuss about them. All I know is that these Turks are desperate fellows, and you won't catch me going near them again, I swear."

"How long have you known Dubois?" "Oh, two years or less." "Have you ever been associated with him?" "Never, monsieur. My record is there."

"The devil," ejaculated the little man. "Oh, yes, and she has just passed a fortnight with him in London."

"A thousand thanks," screamed Brett. "Her father told me she was performing in a music-hall at Marseilles."

"The barrister had evidently touched a sore point, and 'The Worm' was more ready than ever to tell that he had never heard of her since she had left. His information amounted to little more of importance, and the commissary, who had been waiting for a chance to get the identity of the man who had planned and carried out the 'Albert Gate outrage,' was disappointed. OBITUARY. Sergt. Thos. Coughlan. St. George, N. B., Aug. 21—Sergeant Thomas Coughlan, aged 87, was buried on Sunday afternoon in the old Catholic cemetery here. He was a British soldier in the days of the Indian mutiny and was known over in Charlotte county as Sergeant Coughlan. A vigorous man of large build, possessing a powerful voice, he was the ideal drill master and was for many years employed in that capacity in the old country. Mr. Coughlan resided here nearly fifty years and his death leaves but few of that generation of sturdy pioneers who were loved and respected by three generations. He had been ill for three months and died at his home. Patrick, Grace and Mrs. Mary Kane are stepchildren and Margaret, a grand-daughter.

Mrs. S. E. Noble. The death of Mrs. Sarah Eleanor Noble, of New Orleans, took place at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity rectory. Mrs. Noble is the grandmother of Mrs. R. A. Armstrong and was here on a visit to her. For the past fortnight she had suffered from heart trouble, but her death came unexpectedly. Relatives in New Orleans have been communicated with and it is expected that the remains will be sent to her late home for interment.

Miss Amy C. Small. Miss Amy C. Small, of English Settlement, Kings county, died at that place on Thursday, Aug. 18, aged twenty-nine years and six months. An attack of pleurisy was followed by consumption, and after much suffering she finally succumbed to the great disease. The deceased was a very estimable young lady and a general favorite in the community. Her funeral service on Saturday, the 20th inst., conducted by Rev. H. S. Young and Rev. C. A. S. Wainwright, was largely attended. The body was laid to rest in the family burying ground not far from the home in which her life had been spent.

Mrs. Wm. Warnock. Mrs. Warnock, widow of William Warnock, died yesterday at the age of 82. She is survived by three sons and four daughters.

The breach between Col. Roosevelt and President Taft, has, it is said, been healed, each being satisfied by explanations and promises given by the President to the other to cooperate against him. President Taft wrote an open letter to this effect, and Col. Roosevelt accepted the statements in it.

AFRAID OF REPORTERS?

There is another extraordinary turn in the paving affair. It was decided last night that more of the Main street pavement would be taken up, at places indicated by Mr. Carleton. The latter was not formally notified, but went to Main street this morning. After waiting for a considerable time he telephoned to city hall and was told the mayor wanted to see him. Later a messenger brought the same request. Mr. Carleton went to city hall and was taken aside and asked to go with the mayor and Ald. Jones and mark out the places to be examined, the digging to be done later at such time as might be chosen. Mr. Carleton replied that if they were prepared to go over and dig he was at their service; but they were not, and he came away. Mr. Carleton's position is that the foundation laid is not concrete, and he does not care who sees the digging done, or how many reporters are on the scene.

The attitude assumed at city hall is one that cannot easily be explained. What Mr. Carleton states is true or it is not. The pick and crowbar will tell the story, whether one man looks on or a thousand—and all of them reporters. That pavement must be dug up and it must be done openly, if Mr. Carleton is wrong the papers will say so, and the public will in any case be able to see for themselves. What is the explanation of the extraordinary attitude assumed at city hall?

THOSE WRETCHED REPORTERS

"Your committee beg to report that on investigation they have discovered that in the Main street pavement the city is not getting what it is paying for, and they would therefore recommend that the editors of certain newspapers be thrown over the wharf."

The above may not be the exact wording of the report to be submitted by the investigating committee, but it is clear that the newspapers are on trial—all but the Standard—which has a city hall censor and is safe.

It is not surprising that Mr. Carleton last night, in the atmosphere of the committee room, said that he seemed to be alone. But Mr. Carleton repeated his previous assertions.

The most interesting part of the enquiry last evening was that relating to the Low interview. Mr. Low explained that the Globe did not get its statement of the rolling and grouting process directly from him, but copied it from a pamphlet three or four years old, which he gave to the reporter, who wanted up-to-date news, an old pamphlet describing what he now says was a process carried on under conditions very different from those in St. John.

It must have been extremely soothing and grateful to Mr. Low to be assured by aldermen that he was, like themselves, the victim of unfair criticism in the press. The press always seeks to create prejudice against righteous aldermen and long-suffering contractors—when the censor is not on the job.

These reporters must be very careless and very dense. Not only did the Globe's reporter get himself into a scrape, but the New Star's reporter did the same thing. No doubt the representative of the other papers would also have covered themselves with shame if they had gone to Mr. Low and carried away a copy of that pamphlet.

"The roadway is first excavated to a depth of twelve inches, when it is thoroughly rolled and compacted by a twelve ton tandem steam roller, unique in this part of the country. The subgrade is next covered with a coating of stone six inches in depth, which is again rolled, after mixing three parts sand and one part cement in the Hassam-grout mixer to the consistency of gruel, the grout is poured in a liquid state through a spout onto the stones and again rolled and swept to an even surface. The result is a bed on which the twelve ton roller makes no impression and which is identical with the paving of the main streets in Fredericton. This in itself is an admirable pavement."

This, it will be observed, is not in exactly the same words as those used by the Globe, but it tells the same story. The six inches of stone was to be rolled before the grout was applied. Not only so, but the New Star man declares this foundation to be identical with the Hassam pavement in Fredericton. This information he must also have got from the ancient pamphlet. The aldermen may as well understand that the newspapers are not on trial in this affair. That portion of the press which speaks plainly and gives expression to public sentiment is not governed by prejudice nor inspired by malice. Neither is Mr. Carleton any longer on trial. He was vindicated when the pavement foundation was examined.

The aldermen should endeavor to avoid any attitude which might appear to represent them as the champions of the contractor in opposition to their own inspector. The public want more than a mere investigation of the paving matter.

WITHOUT AND WITHIN

My coachman, in the moonlight there,
Looks through the side-light of the door;
I hear him with his brethren swear;
As I could do—but only more.

Flattening his nose against the pane,
He envies me my brilliant
Breathes on his aching list in vain,
And dooms me to a place more hot.

He sees me in to supper go,
A silent wonder by my side,
But does not venture to draw
Or fountains, for the door too row.

He thinks how happy is my arm
'Neath its white-gloved and jewelled load
And wishes me some dreadful harm,
Hearing the merry corks explode.

Meanwhile I only curse the bore
Of hunting still the same old coon,
And envy him, outside the door,
The golden quiet of the moon.

The winter wind is not so cold
As the bright smile he sees me win,
Nor the host's oldest wine so old
As our poor gabble, sour and thin.

I envy him the rugged prance,
By which his freezing feet he warms,
And drag my lady's chains and dance,
The easy-lave of dreary forms.

Oh, could he have my share of din,
And I his quiet—past a doubt,
'Twould still be one man bored within,
And just another bored without.

—James Russell Lowell.

IN LIGHTER VEIN

THE HOLIDAY MYTH.
Oh, back they come from sea and shore
Each far-away hotel,
Each one deluded with the thought
That he is looking well.

When, truth to tell, instead we've
But hold enough to say,
Not one of them looks quite so well
As when he went away.

TOO REALISTIC.

A WISE BULLET.
Cooper drew his revolver and fired two shots. One of the bullets took effect in the forehead of the assailant and he dropped to the cement walk. The other fell—news item in the Chicago Daily Journal.

THE PRACTICAL GIRL

Mrs. Nixon— "Isn't that Sarah Sharp a practical girl?"
Mrs. Larkin— "Yes, indeed! But I never realized it till she advertised for a husband in a financial paper. Most girls, don't you know, would have selected one of the marriage periodicals."

A GRIEVOUS ERROR

"Yes," remarked the party who seemed to be thinking aloud, "that's where the average man makes a mistake."
"How does he make a mistake?" queried the innocent bystander.
"He keeps his mouth open and his eyes closed," explained the student of human nature.

FASHION'S WAY

Changing shoes and hose,
Changing straight-front corsets.
For the other kind,

Now you are uncertain;
Probably next week
You'll prescribe a garment
Which is purely Greek,
Fashion, you're a wonder from

And a very juggler,
When it comes to clothes;
Here is to you, Fashion,
In the halting rhyme,

KEIR HARDIE IS GIVEN A REBUKE

The manner in which Keir Hardie got a stern rebuke in the British House of Commons is thus described in The London Daily Mail.

Mr. Verney asked in parliament if the government's attention had been called to the report of a speech by Keir Hardie that the house had voted a statement so grossly inaccurate in fact about one whose position must command the sympathy of all and should at least protect her from the annoyance of such rash and unfounded allegations. (Hear, hear!)

The true facts of the case are that the select committee recommended that the house should be asked to vote a special grant of £25,000 in order to place Windor Castle, Buckingham Palace and Marlborough House in a condition fit for the occupation of their Majesties the King and Queen and Queen Alexandra. Only a very small portion of this fund is required in respect to Marlborough House. (General murmurs of "Hear, hear.")

Keir Hardie rose at once. He was listened to in dead silence. "As a personal explanation," he said, "may I say that I withdrew at once the statement that £20,000 was to be spent on the residence of the queen-mother? The reason that led me to presume that that sum would be spent was the provision in the civil list for spending £47,000 a year in internal and external repairs of royal palaces, and I assumed that the extra £25,000 was required for the residence of the queen-mother."

"As, however, we are now informed that this money is to be spent on the whole of the royal palaces, in addition to the £47,000 already arranged for, I unreservedly withdraw that part of the statement which implied that £20,000 was to be spent on the residence of the queen-mother, and not on the royal palaces generally."

"May I add that I should be sorry if any words of mine gave offence to the royal lady?"

Nothing more was said.

ASTOR AND FORMER WIFE MEET AT DANCE

Divorced Pair Attend Affair Given by Mrs. Edward J. Berwind at Newport

Newport, Aug. 22—Colonel John Jacob Astor is off for Bar Harbor on board his yacht with his son, Vincent, and Richard Peters. So far as is known Colonel Astor had not laid eyes on his former wife until a recent evening at a dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Berwind in honor of the officers of the Atlantic fleet, when every one who is any one socially was there.

Mrs. Astor wore her famous deolette gown of black with her rope of pearls. Colonel Astor came with Miss Roberta Willard, a recent debutante, and his son, Vincent.

The son and mother were most cordial, and the boy danced several times with her.

Colonel Astor, who dearly loves his daughter Muriel, who lives with her mother, met her by accident as both were out in automobiles. They stopped to chat and seemed extremely happy at the meeting.

What took place is known only by father and daughter, and all the Astors refuse to talk on the subject of their domestic relations, which is the gossip of all Newport.

If Mrs. Astor is unhappy she is not showing it outwardly. It is true that friends of both are using means to have the couple reunited, but there seems little likelihood of this being accomplished at present.

It is the strangest chapter of the Astor separation and divorce that those who

GREAT MEN OF THE CHURCH FOR EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Father Vaughan's friendship with the late King Edward was also mentioned at the time. It began at Newcastle a decade ago when King Edward was still Prince of Wales. The prince happened to attend a church where Father Vaughan was preaching and was struck by the preacher's personality and eloquence.

Father Vaughan is now at Colgate, taking the waters. His health had suffered through overwork and it was deemed wise to give him a well earned rest before his season began.

Fashion Hints for Times Readers

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DEAR little girl has written to tell me that, in a moment of weakness, she allowed a man, with whom she had friends for some months but who had never said that he loved her, to kiss her, and that she had been worrying about it ever since.

I wish there were more girls worrying about you. "Absurd!" scoffs someone. "A kiss isn't anything wicked."

"Remember, I like him very much and I feel quite confident it is mutual," writes my little friend.

I certainly don't believe in any such straight-laced prudery as that. I don't even believe that a girl must be diamond-cut and unapproachable before she can be the object of a man's affection.

Daily Hints for the Cook

FROZEN DESSERTS FOR THE WARM DAY. Lemon sherbet made with milk, two cups sugar, juice of 2 lemons, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 quart of milk; freeze.

MILK SHERRIT. One quart of milk, 2 cups of sugar, juice of 2 lemons, 1 teaspoon of lemon or orange extract. Freeze as ice cream. The lemon juice may curdle the milk, but it will be all right when frozen.

TAPIOCA CREAM. Soak 3 tablespoons of pearl tapioca in cold water until soft, or use the prepared tapioca that doesn't need soaking. Put 1 pint of milk in double boiler and scald. When hot add the tapioca, 12 cups sugar, pinch salt and the yolks of 2 eggs. Cook until thick, then pour into your glass and serve with salad dressing.

DELICIOUS SALAD. Remove seeds and core from 3 green peppers, slice as thin as possible, also slice 2 Bermuda onions. Add one cucumber sliced; add 1 cup celery, cut in dice; shape into a mound and dress with salad dressing.

FIGURES THAT TELL STORIES

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF FORESTS. It is admitted by forestry experts that our knowledge of our actual forest resources is vague and uncertain at the best.

British Columbia, 50,000,000; Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Territories, 100,000,000; Ontario, 100,000,000; Quebec, 12,800,000; Nova Scotia, 4,000,000.

Recent reports by explorers show that of the great forests of the north, very large portions have been burned over, perhaps utterly destroyed. The fact that two-thirds of the timber area of the country is still owned by the public does not mean that Canada can count upon owning two-thirds of the timber wealth.

When the Government is so sure as to protect the forest as a whole from wanton destruction and to secure for the public a fair share of the wealth produced.

Deaths During the Year

Saint John's Lodge mourns the loss of two of its members, who were also members of this grand lodge. Brother George W. Macrae died in this city, November 2, 1899, after a very brief illness at the comparatively early age of 44 years.

Not many months after his eldest son's death, the Rev. Donald Macrae himself died in his last resting-place in the cemetery near this city, which he loved so well, and in which so much of his active life was spent. Dr. Macrae at one period of his life took a very keen interest in Freemasonry. He was a speaker of unusual power and eloquence.

With unaffected regret we mourn the death on 8th April last of R. W. Brother Elwin Everett, for over fifty years an active member of the fraternity in this jurisdiction, and one ever warmly regarded by his brethren.

Many of the brethren present here today will remember with pleasure his serious and eloquent addresses on public occasions. He rests from his labors and his works follow him.

Unaffected regret we mourn the death on 8th April last of R. W. Brother Elwin Everett, for over fifty years an active member of the fraternity in this jurisdiction, and one ever warmly regarded by his brethren.

He was initiated into Freemasonry in Albion Lodge—then on the English registry—in 1859, became its Master later, and to the day of its death its interests and its property were constantly in his thoughts. For eight years, 1885-1894, he was Grand Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, and he was one of those to whom extent our present excellent financial condition is due to his constant attention, prudent, god judgment and extraordinary ability with which R. W. Brother Everett administered the finances of Grand Lodge marked him out as one who would ultimately occupy the office of Grand Master.

He was elected to the office of Grand Master in 1900, and discharging its varied duties with energy, good judgment and with well grounded knowledge of masonic law and masonic principles. No man ever occupied this chair who was more responsible to the brethren than he. He was elected in 1904, holding office until 1906, and discharging its varied duties with energy, good judgment and with well grounded knowledge of masonic law and masonic principles.

The warmest friends of Red Rose Tea are those who have tried some other brand said to be "as good as Red Rose" and for which they paid the same price. Very easy to say a thing is "as good" but not so easy to "make good."

W. Brother Allan McE. Travis, at the age of 68 years. Brother Travis was born in the City of St. John and entered Masonry through the portals of The Union Lodge of Portland, affiliated with The Corinthian Lodge, December 30, 1868, while the Lodge was still in its infancy.

On Wednesday, July 27, The Corinthian Lodge lost another member, who though not a member of Grand Lodge, should fitly be mentioned in this address. He alluded to Brother Wm. Jackson, who died at the age of 81, having been the Tyler of the lodge for thirty-six consecutive years. He was affiliated with The Corinthian Lodge from Zion Lodge, Sussex, on the same evening as W. Brother Travis. Brother Jackson's repeated refusal to accept higher office was the sole reason that he was not a member of Grand Lodge, as his brethren were most anxious to confer upon him the highest office at their disposal.

By his generous gifts of land and money in the early days of The Corinthian Lodge, by his keen interest in all matters pertaining to the lodge, by his faithful attendance, and by his genial disposition, he had endeared himself to all his brethren. In giving a considerable sum of money to establish a fund for poor and distressed members of the Corporation, his action is well worthy of special mention. He will be missed not only by the brethren of his own lodge but also by all the various branches of the craft.

Hiram Lodge, No. 6, sincerely mourns the loss of his oldest past master, and his last surviving member, who filled the office of R. W. Brother George E. Gregory was initiated in St. Andrews Lodge, Fredericton, in 1867, and the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, December 13, 1890, and raised March 10, 1891. In 1891, and the four following years, he filled the office of Grand Master, and in 1872 was elected senior grand warden of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, and in 1873 was elected a member of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, and in 1874 was elected a member of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick, and in 1875 was elected a member of the Grand Lodge of New Brunswick.

Ald. McGoldrick, and Vanwart on Stand—Mr. Low Says Interview was Incorrect

There was another session of the paving inquiry last evening.

His Worship said before opening the session, that there appeared to be a feeling in the community, and expressed in the press, that this committee was simply there to investigate itself and the members of the common council, and that these proceedings ought to have been before a judge. Fortunately, he thought that if the committee adjourned right then, they had ample information before them on which to found a report to the common council.

Mr. Low was not recalled. He denied that before the tenders were let there had been a conference with the contractors. In answer to Ald. Jones, he said that M. J. Money had said to himself that Mr. Clarke was present, that he would make trouble for the contractors and engineer.

Mr. Clarke—The Telegraph this morning called attention to an apparent discrepancy between your evidence here and a statement you made to the Globe-Ajay 25. Can you explain it?

Yes, I thought I would be asked that tonight, and came prepared. He then produced a clipping from the Globe. "The report is incorrect in this way, that these are not my words if quoted. I told the reporter something and then took from my pocket a pamphlet three or four years old and gave it to him. It was from that quotation was made. The process described was carried on in the States and under different conditions altogether from the Main street contract. The stones were very hard and required to be rolled a great deal before use."

Mr. Carleton then asked the committee what he had the privilege of pointing out other places in the pavement which he thought were defective.

His worship replied in the affirmative. At the request of Ald. Jones, Mr. Carleton, who had returned to the room, went over some of his evidence given at a previous session in regard to his protests against the rolling of the stone, merely repeating what he had said before.

Mr. Carleton—Do you intend to call any builders?

His worship—No, I think we have excluded all expert evidence from builders and others. Personally I have little faith in experts, although I have been accused of employing such in this case. I have no doubt you could get some builders to say that this is a first class job, while others would say the opposite.

Mr. Carleton—I was merely going to mention the names of James Myles and John Kane.

His worship—Is Mr. Myles a mason?

Mr. Carleton—No, he is a general builder.

Mr. Clarke—He is a carpenter and builder with only.

Mr. Carleton—The only reason I speak of this is that I seem to be alone.

His worship—So far as that is concerned, Mr. Carleton, I think I can assure you of perfectly fair treatment from myself and the committee.

Mr. Clarke—Why, what's the matter with Water street? That was laid in November.

Mr. Clarke, however, would not say what was the matter with the work in Water street and City Engineer Murdoch, in answer to Ald. Potts, said he had consulted with no one before accepting the Hassan method.

Ald. Vanwart was called and said that he was a member of the delegation that went to Boston to look into the Hassan matter. "I was told," he said, "that I was appointed and thought it would be a good trip, as I had not been away for some time and desired to have a good time as any other young fellow would."

He had seen the Hassan work in Worcester and thought it good. He never got any money or promise of money. He just had a good time at Mr. Low's expense. He thought that the piece of the foundation dug up Tuesday was rather crumbly. He had never gone over the whole work, but was of the opinion that it looked well on top.

Ald. Potts suggested to the mayor that, as the Hassan pavement was patented in the United States and Canada, it might be well for the committee to have the formulae of them. His worship promised that he would get it from the Canadian office and the meeting adjourned.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE GAMES

The following is the schedule of the Commercial League games for the balance of the league season. The games are played in the evening on the Every Day Club grounds:

Aug. 23—Yasie & Co vs M. B. & Co. Aug. 24—B. & P. vs Yasie & Co.

The Stars Were Victorious. In an interesting game of base ball played in Crowsville last evening, the Crowsville Stars defeated the Richmond street nine by a score of 5-2. Batteries for the winners were Alexander and Sterling; Isaacs, O'Brien and Carney.

Second Team Won the Game. An interesting game of base ball was played at Florenceville Saturday afternoon when the second team of that place defeated the first team, known as the Stars, by the score of 8-2. The result was a big surprise. The following was the makeup of the two teams:

Stars—Tom Simpson, Henry, Taber, Smith, Martell, Tardy, Smith and Thompson.

Second team—P. R. Semple, Estabrook, Hunter, Boyer, R. S. Semple, Hagerman, Pierce, Galupe and Tompkins.

Another Chance to See Peaseley. Once again will the St. John fans be given an opportunity to see Peaseley, the Woodstock pitcher who will report for work with the Detroit Tigers on September 1st. Peaseley, the famous Indian ball player, who made such a hit with the St. John team last year, is expected to return to the city and play a doubleheader with the Saints tomorrow afternoon. Peaseley will be seen in action in these plays and he will also pitch one of the games. It is said that he can serve them up in just as good a style as he can play third. Peaseley will likely pitch the first time, and it is probably the last time that he will be seen in action in these parts. It is likely that a good crowd will attend. Harrington will be on the mound for the Saints during the first game, and Harrington will have their best line-ups in the fray and two rattling good games are promised. Both games will be played on the Commercial grounds.

National League. At St. Louis—New York, 11; St. Louis, 4. At Cincinnati—Brooklyn, 8; Cincinnati, 5. At Chicago—Chicago, 7; Boston, 0. At Pittsburgh—First game: Philadelphia, 5; Pittsburgh, 4. Second game: Philadelphia, 4; Pittsburgh, 8.

American League. At Boston—St. Louis, 2; Boston, 3. Eastern League. At Montreal—Providence, 2; Montreal, 3. At Buffalo—Jersey City, 1; Buffalo, 5. At Toronto—Toronto, 10; Toronto, 5.

What "Hagies" Has Done. In a "Least we forget" spirit, J. Ed Grillo, the eastern base ball expert, writing for the Washington Star, has this to say about English Jennings and his career in the American League:

The fickleness of base ball enthusiasts is such that it would not be at all surprising to hear that the failure of the Tigers this year was due to Jennings, and yet only a few weeks ago Jennings was heralded as the greatest man in the country to hand a team a game.

True, it seems as if the Tigers are out of it for this year. A combination of accidents and falling down has prevented the pitching staff brought about the undoing of the team which won three consecutive pennants in the American League, and yet that same team may come back next year and win the flag without ever being pitched.

There is no doubt about the strength of Jennings' team. If anything his team looks stronger this year than it did at any time since he has held the reins, and yet it failed to win.

For several years the Athletics have been knocking at the door, and this year the team got the breaks which it lacked heretofore to win the flag.

A majority of the men handling ball games never have the pleasure of doing so, and this year Jennings has had three times, and it was as much his managerial ability which made these victories possible as the strength of the team. Detroit had the latter before Jennings came there, but could not win.

Every Day Club to Have Big Sports. The Every Day Club held a meeting last night, at which it was decided to run a series of sports during the present week on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 7, which will be during exhibition week. The events will include 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes, half mile, one mile, and five mile runs, a one mile relay race, four men in each team, three teams to start; one and three mile bicycle races, broad jump, pole vault, one mile intermediate. It is expected that between 100 and 150 spectators will attend. The sports will be held on the grounds of the Nova Scotia and P. E. Island and will be received by the secretary, W. Covey, from now until Monday, September 6.

The Turf. The Montreal Races. The Turf men at the Delormier Park meet yesterday were: Daily Lee, Dan Nugget, Tender, Miss Felix, Sabo Blend and Sir Walter Rollins.

Aquatic. Duran Anxious to Race. After the Ann-Harry race Eddie Duran said: "Will Ann-Harry race me? That is the first question, and when will he race? I think I can beat him and he must think he can beat me or he would not talk of race. I am ready now, in good condition, and would like to have the race at the end of September or the beginning of October."

Will Not Row. William Melroff, of the Nassau Boat Club, on the Harlem river, the champion single sculler of the United States, and Canada, who won the title last Saturday in the National Regatta on the Potomac River in Washington, D. C., will never compete in a rowing race again. Melroff says he has rowed his last race and that in winning the single sculling championship he has realized his chief athletic ambition and now intends to retire.

St. John Boat Club. A meeting of the St. John Boat Club took place last evening. Commodore Gerow presiding. It was decided to run three races at Indiantown before starting on the cruise. The course for the 25-foot boats will be from a buoy off Public Wharf to Let's Cove, then back to Moore's wharf through the Narrows, and back to Indiantown. The race for the 35-footers will be from Indiantown to the buoy off Public Wharf and return. The cruise will commence next Saturday at 5.30.

QUEBEC WILL NOT TRUST MR. BORDEN WITH BIG MATTERS. Henri Bourassa Says They Have Not Faith in Conservative Leader in Handling Important Subjects. (Daily Telegraph.)

Henri Bourassa, who this evening will deliver an address before the Canadian Club, arrived in the city last night and registered at the Royal. To a reporter for the Telegraph, he completed his trip through the maritime provinces has been a most delightful one. Since leaving Quebec, he has had occasion to visit, among other places, St. John, Antigonish, St. Joseph's, Halifax and Church Point. At each of these places he delivered addresses.

Mr. Bourassa, who is the leader of the Nationalists in Quebec, took occasion to refer to the policy advocated by himself and his adherents. They were entirely opposed to party politics, he said, as such, in his opinion, led to corruption and mismanagement. They were in favor of a common sense rule which they did not think Canada had yet enjoyed.

The Nationalist leader also referred to some of his objections, repeatedly made, against the building of the Canadian navy. He thought the wrong sort of imperialism was being fostered here, and said it entirely different from that which was expected by the mother country.

The one object of the Nationalist party, he said, was to eliminate all party differences and racial feelings and engender a true Canadian spirit.

Asked what the feeling in Quebec was at the present time in respect to the building of the Canadian navy, Mr. Bourassa replied that he thought there was an adverse feeling.

"You think it will affect the vote for Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the next general election?"

"He replied: "The people in Quebec will not vote for Mr. Borden because they have not faith in him when it comes to the handling of important subjects."

A POSSIBILITY. That Became a Fact and Pleases Many People.

A. R. Lewis, M. D., in a lengthy article in the columns of the American Journal of Hygiene, has expressed his opinion that a hair preparation will be made in the near future.

A rare case of that kind is that of New York's Herby, who actually does the hair preparation, and prevents dandruff, falling hair and baldness.

WHY QUEBEC BRIDGE WILL BE GREATER THAN ANY IN WORLD

Tenders for the construction and erection of the Quebec bridge will be received by the department of railways and canals up to October 1st next, and it is expected that tenders will be received from a number of English as well as Canadian firms. The immensity of the work to be done is shown by the following comparison made with the famous bridge across the Firth of Forth in Scotland.

Total length of cantilever—Quebec bridge, 2,380 feet; Forth bridge, 5,300 feet. Number of channel spans—Quebec, 1; Forth, 2.

Length of longest channel span—Quebec, 1,700 feet; Forth, 1,710 feet.

Roadways on bridge—Quebec, 2 railway tracks, 2 St. Ry. tracks, 2 highways, 2 sidewalks; Forth, 2 railway tracks.

Load per lineal foot bridge is designed to carry exclusive of its own weight—Quebec, 13,840 lbs.; Forth, 4,620 lbs.

Total weight of bridge—Quebec, 72,000 tons; Forth, 57,000 tons.

Weight per lineal foot for cantilever only—Quebec, 49,150 lbs.; Forth, 21,260 lbs.

Greatest depth of piers below high water—Quebec, 95 ft.; Forth, 37 ft.

The caisson for the north pier of the Quebec bridge is 180 feet by 56 feet square and over 60 feet high, requiring approximately 3,000,000 feet of timber, 90 per cent of which is 12" x 12" southern pine.

Nearly 70 tons of bolts are required in its construction.

At the lower depths to which the caisson will be sunk the men are working under a pressure of about four atmospheres. At this depth men can work for only two one-hour shifts in the twenty-four hours, for which they receive a full day's pay.

The north pier will be built entirely new and carried down some 60 feet below the bed of the river to rock. For the south pier the foundation will be utilized and enlarged, but will not rest on rock. The present foundation has been found good.

Work will go on night and day, and a force of about 2,000 men is required.

The caisson for the south pier will be built this winter and sunk next season. Between 40,000 and 50,000 barrels of cement will be required in the construction of the north pier alone, and about 125,000 barrels for the entire work.

The weight per lineal foot of steel in the Quebec bridge is 2.30 times as great as that of the Forth bridge.

The load for which the Quebec bridge is designed is 2.38 times as great as that for which the Forth bridge was designed.

The Forth bridge has 4.7 lbs. of carbon steel for every pound of live load. The Quebec bridge has 3.69 lbs. of nickel steel for every pound of live load. It is designed to carry.

How to Win a Husband (Ottawa Free Press.)

An Illinois widow has solved the problem of how to melt the heart of a confirmed bachelor and convert him into a husband. Her method is very simple. This is how:

"Add four eggs to a quart of milk, a half cup of sugar, and a little vanilla. Bake half an hour until it sets. Serve custard hot with cream and sugar."

"Take one and a half cups sugar, one cup of sour milk or cream, two eggs, one teaspoonful of soda, one cup of butter and flour to mix soft. Add vanilla flavoring and bake until cookies are a delicious brown."

This looks like a revival of London Punch's pleasantry of half a century ago, when asked the secret of a happy marriage, its reply was "Feed the brute."

And the Illinois widow evidently knows how to do it.

Mayor Frink yesterday received a letter from Raymond E. Deberry, of the Royal Hotel, complaining of the bookshelves standing in front of their building in such a manner as to inconvenience patrons entering and leaving the hotel. This may open up the matter of a regular stand.

NINETEEN YEARS IN DORCHESTER

Five Each For Oscar Hanson, David Hennessy and Patrick Quinlan; Four For Harry Phillips, by Judge Forbes

Before the County Court opened this morning, Judge Forbes held a special session of the Criminal Court. Hanson, Quinlan, Hennessy and Phillips, were brought before him and elected to be tried under speedy trial act. All pleaded guilty to the several charges, preferred against them. Harry Phillips, counted on four charges of stealing watches, rings and obtaining money from Charles Goggin under false pretences, pleaded guilty to all but the charge of stealing watches, the property of L. L. Sharpe. C. H. Ferguson who represented the crown, did not press this charge and the accused was given two years on the first count, and a year each on the other two, making four in all.

Oscar Hanson, through H. J. Smith, his counsel, pleaded guilty to stealing a cow and two bicycles. He got five years in Dorchester penitentiary. In passing sentence, His Honor termed Hanson a "scoundrel" and "a disgrace to the community." Hanson took his sentence with a smile.

David Hennessy, through his counsel, E. S. Ritchie, pleaded guilty to assaulting Samuel Allen, a workman in the employ of the Haslam people in Main street, Hennessy hit Allen on the head with a paving block. No motive was given for his action and he was committed on the charge of assault with the intent to do grievous bodily harm.

His Honor read Hennessy's record. He got six months in jail in 1903 for cutting and wounding one Dixon with a bottle. In December, 1902, he assaulted Ambrose Pelky and served another term in jail. He was convicted of assault in 1904 for threatening of assault in 1904 and in 1907 was sent to jail for threatening the life of his sister. His Honor gave Hennessy five years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

Patrick J. Quinlan, charged with stealing had been allowed his liberty on suspended sentence at a special session of the court held in July. Judge Forbes told him then if he ever came before him again he would give him five years. This he did this morning. Quinlan smiled all through the procedure. E. S. Ritchie representing him.

MANAGER MOVES TO THE GROUNDS

Mr. Good Takes Up Quarters in Exhibition Building—Live Stock Show Will be Well Advertised

Since the announcement that the special fair of five registers for St. John will be withdrawn on Monday next, there has been a decided boom in the sale. Drug store proprietors, book store people and others who are handling these tickets are securing fresh supplies daily and at the office, Prince William street, the sales is fast diminishing. A saving of 25 cents on five general admissions is effected by the purchase of these booklets and family folk or those who intend making gifts of admissions to the big fair are quickly taking advantage of the cheap sale.

This morning Manager Good removed his office and effects to the administration section of the Dominion fair at the eastern end of the middle floor of the new wing adjoining the main buildings. It will be from this immediate proximity to the big show that Mr. Good will hereafter direct the various departments. Secretary H. A. Perry, Advertising Manager Golding and entry clerks will remain at the Prince William street office until next week.

Exhibitors will be interested to know that arrangements have been completed by which the various live stock, agricultural and industrial phases of the show will be specially written up by experts for leading journals and upper Canadian newspapers. A concise and authentic report in detail will be incorporated in government reports as well. This is an important departure and one that will redound to the benefit of those who make good showings.

Mrs. David McLellan, president of the Local Council of Women, said this morning that the entries in the Women's Work Department are so numerous that it may be necessary to secure additional space to show them all. Some of the most exquisite examples of rich laces, high class needle work, etc. have been received from places as far distant as the great west.

TRIED TO TOUCH A POLICEMAN FOR A NICKEL

That's Why John McDonald Was on Judge Ritchie's List This Morning

John McDonald, a Prince Edward Islander, who came here a few days ago, was told to leave town this morning by Judge Ritchie in the police court, when arraigned before him on a charge of begging. After having visited eight places and secured eatables, and finishing with bunch of grapes from McGuire's fruit store, as described, McDonald yesterday tried to "touch" policeman Smith in Main street for the loan of a nickel. He struck the wrong man, however, and the result was as is narrated.

Thomas Ferry was remanded on a charge of drunkenness and fighting in Main street. He begged for a chance to get out of town, but His Honor reminded him that he had been before him quite often, and also informed him that the court was not running a game of chance.

Patrick Joy, was remanded this morning on a charge of drunkenness. Leonard Moore, a young lad who has been in jail for some time on a charge of escaping from the Boys' Industrial Home, was again remanded this morning. Supt. McDonald gave evidence as to the escape.

The review case of Ganong vs. Pickett, argued before Judge Forbes in Chambers, recently was resumed this morning when His Honor ordered a verdict to be entered for the plaintiff for $14 and costs. This case reviewed from the court of Squire Hennessy, Kingston. G. H. V. Belyea, appeared for the plaintiff and H. H. Pickett for the defendant.

A Coat of Paint Covers Many a Spot and a High Polish on a Stove Often Covers a Flaw in Iron

Before buying a range it will pay you to examine it thoroughly. See what kind of castings it has, how the damper is worked and what advantage it has over other dampers you have seen, if the fire strips are evenly divided, if the clean-out door is roomy and easy to get at, if the grate can be removed easily, if the oven bottom can be replaced without taking the stove apart, if the nickel can be removed for cleaning and how it fastens on the stove, if the castings are made smooth and put together so as to prevent warping.

If you look over the GLENWOOD RANGES you will find that they are made to meet all these requirements.
