Sir Edward Grey Leads In Efforts To Maintain Peace

Some Hope That The War May Yet Be Averted

SERVIA'S REPLY DOES NOT PLEASE AUSTRIA

Hope That Kaiser Will Use Influence For Peace—France Tries To Dissuade Russia From Interfering—English Navy Prepares For Eventualities

London, July 27.—Glimmers of hope flickered in the darkened sky of European politics today, and the wish was general that the efforts of the great European powers to avert a clash of arms which might involve many nations would be successful.

While all the powers were preparing for possible eventualities, their statesmen, with Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, at their head, were endeavoring to bring together the governments at issue with a view to mediation.

At the Serbian legation in London the view was held that some improvement had taken place in the situation, and this was attributed to the influence exercised by Russia. Alex. Georgievitch, the first secretary, said: "We have complied with everything that does not impair our sovereignty. We hope Austria-Hungary in the interests of peace will recognize that consideration is due to an independent state and so avert war. If, however, Austria-Hungary insists that she will have seen that we are prepared to accept it in the interests of the dignity of our state."

The fact that Austrian ambassadors abroad were willing to discuss the controversial points with foreign governments and especially with Russia led to the belief that an outlet for the deadlock would be found.

Vienna, July 27.—No official declaration of war has yet been made by Austria. Formal notice to this effect was sent to foreign diplomats here today. The failure of the government to give notice of a state of war is received with hope in all quarters. It is believed that Austria is yielding to pressure brought to bear upon her.

Servian troops today blew up the railroad bridge spanning the Danube at Semlin. It is at Semlin that Austria has concentrated the greatest force for the invasion of Serbia.

Trouble Tonight In Streets of Irish Capital

The Royal Barracks Attacked by Crowds—Report Says Search For Guns Will Not Be Pressed—Demand That Borderers Be Removed From Dublin

Dublin, July 27.—The city of Dublin and the greater part of Catholic Ireland today is in a state of greatest excitement.

The police set to intercept the volunteers checked the gun runners and every-thing seemed to be going smoothly until the Irish Nationalists broke through the regular troops of the British army and the wounding of many others, forty of whom are still in hospitals in a serious condition.

Day had dawned today before the police succeeded in dispersing the crowds marching through the streets singing patriotic songs and looking for soldiers of the second battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, on whom to inflict vengeance for the fatal events of yesterday when the Borderers were ordered out to prevent the landing of arms and ammunition for the Irish Nationalist volunteers.

The crowd, finding that the soldiers had been ordered to remain in barracks, attacked the royal barracks where the Borderers were stationed and clamored for soldiers to come out.

Finally the mob kicked down a gate and a body of Nationalists, armed with revolvers and shotguns, entered the barracks and the police came on the scene and the riot was dispersed.

The Nationalist leaders take the most serious view of the affair and will demand reparation from the government.

The landing of arms yesterday for the Nationalists was carried out in a more daring manner than similar feats achieved by the Ulster Unionist volunteers, as it was effected in daylight.

The Nationalists could do what the Ulster Unionists had done. At Howth 2,000 rifles and 100,000 rounds of ammunition were landed by motor cars among the Nationalist volunteers.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin today demanded in the interests of the peace of the city that the Nationalist volunteers be removed. Movements in the barracks in-cluded that preparations were being made to send the volunteers elsewhere.

London, July 27.—Premier Asquith, while he would stand against the Nationalist movement, immediately proceeded to London morning and arrived here this morning and took charge of affairs at the war office.

London, July 27.—A full meeting of the Irish Nationalists was held at the House of Commons today to consider the bill amending the Home Rule measure and the clash in Dublin.

Dublin, July 27.—The authorities, fearing to provoke disorder, are making no search for the Nationalist rifles landed yesterday. It was learned today that the Nationalist rifles landed during the night and conveyed to a secret attempt would be made to seize the weapons.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin telegraphed John Redmond, as follows: "It is my opinion that persons responsible for the 'orders to fire' should be indicted by the crown and that their defence should be made before a jury."

Two lots of the Mills estate, Castle street, were sold at Chamber's Court on Saturday for $125. W. G. O'Connell was the purchaser.

The schooner Jennie, which was sold on the corner also, J. G. O'Connell was the purchaser for $125.

The book debts of Sheriff Wilson are knocked down to Kenneth Wilson for $14.

H. J. Heatt purchased a two and a half story house in Canon street, owned by the Heaton M. Grey estate, for $1480.

A two-story house, but now well situated, the property of the Wm. G. Crawford estate, bought for $2800.

A motor boat owned by J. Grondines was sold to J. McCuskey for $127.50.

COACHMEN REPORTED. No arrests have yet been made in connection with the riot on Thursday night. It is said in police circles that it was practically impossible to procure the names of those who took part in the proceedings. The chief of police, when asked this morning if there would likely be any arrests, said that he had no statement to make.

Here Are Facts. One of the great advertising agencies in the country writes: "There is no doubt in our mind about the efficiency of newspaper advertising. This fact is demonstrated by the goodly proportion of our business which goes into the newspapers. Certainly there is no quicker way of getting results from advertising than through the newspapers, and while the newspaper advertising in any one locality is local in itself, it only takes an extension of that to bring about national advertising of the most effective kind."

"Another extremely important side of newspaper advertising is the vigorous local backing it gives to a campaign in national politics. The best example of this is in the automobile business."

KITCHEN WRINKLES

(London Tit-Bits) Vinegar placed in a bottle of dried-up glue will moisten and make it liquid again. A teaspoonful of ground horse-radish will keep a can of milk fresh for a day or even in the hottest weather. When boiling a ham, leave it in the water in which it has been boiled until it is quite cold. This will make it juicy and tender. Hard-boiled eggs should be plunged into cold water as soon as they are removed from the saucpan. This prevents a dark ring from appearing round the yolk. To revive withered flowers plunge the stalks in boiling water and leave them in it till it becomes cold. Then cut about one inch from the ends of the stalks. If you wish to prevent green vegetables from boiling over, drop a piece of dripping the size of a walnut into the centre of them, just as they commence to boil. When making a steamed pudding put a piece of well-greased paper over the top before trying on the cloth. This will prevent the cloth from becoming greasy, and they are no trouble to wash. If you are bothered with flies during the warm weather, try keeping a pot of mignonette growing on your window-sill. Flies detest the smell of it, and you will find the pests will not trouble you as long as the mignonette is there. Get some bitter apple from the chemist, crush it and sprinkle it amongst the clothes. You will find it the finest thing on record for keeping moths away from everything, and one can use garments at a minute's notice, as there is no smell left by bitter apple. The odor of printer's ink and cedar is not at all agreeable to moths. An ordinary trunk lined with clean newspapers, under which several small pieces of wood from cigar-boxes have been laid makes almost as safe a storage place for clothing as an expensive cedar chest. Mildew stains are sometimes a source of great trouble, and are difficult to remove unless you know just the right way. Rub a little soap over the mildew spots, and on top of this a little chalk and lemon juice. If the garment is then put out in the sun for a few hours and afterwards washed in the usual way, the spots will disappear. Tomato is said to be successful in many cases of removing inkstains from white materials, such as handkerchiefs, muslin frills, etc. It must, however, be done as soon as possible after the mishap has occurred. A clean piece of blotting paper should be laid under the stain, and a slice of raw, ripe tomato rubbed over the surface, fresh pieces of blotting paper being substituted until the ink spot has vanished.

have been formed in North Dakota and the whole experiment has proved to be a splendid success. Saskatchewan is now endeavoring to profit by the example of North Dakota.

To make St. John an orderly city the police department must be re-organized. A general European war would be a dreadful calamity. If Austria and Servia come to grips there is very grave danger that Russia will also be involved.

The Conservative party in New Brunswick is in sore straits. Its leaders are utterly at a loss for a policy that would offset even to the smallest degree the revelations brought out by the two Royal Commissions. Moreover, they fear that the worst is yet to come.

PROGRESSIVE FARMING

The government of the province of Saskatchewan has arranged with each rural municipality in the province to select a competent farmer on a yearly salary to go about and induce farmers here and there to cultivate land under directions issued by the department of agriculture.

It appears that in 1911 what was called the Better Farming Association of North Dakota was organized in Minneapolis, for the retail trade of North Dakota is almost wholly controlled by Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the merchants and manufacturers of both cities are very much interested in North Dakota's prosperity.

The poorer and middle classes would benefit very much by a system of this kind. The laboring man who had three or four sons growing into manhood would get very good value for the two dollars per year which he would pay into the dominion treasury.

Where Shall I Invest My Money?

This is a question that often bothers us when we have any surplus money. Some people are born rich and do not have to provide for independence, others are looking for investments that will bring them in good dividends.

Foxes Capitalized at $17,000 PER PAIR

This capitalization included all expenses for the first year up to September 1, 1915. In other words, the breeding stock will be ranches, cared for, fed and all expenses paid for the first year without any cost whatever to the shareholders.

Your Investment is Protected

Each director is placing practically all his fox investments in this enterprise and the directors have their interests so involved in this ranch that they cannot afford to let their interest and watchful care lapse for a moment.

The History of The Industry

If you inquire, you will find that the majority of rich men in P. E. Island have made their money in the Fox Industry, which, while yet in its infancy, shows the probability of making a great many more rich men.

Directors ARE Reliable Men

This is a most important feature when you consider that these are the men that you must look to for a square deal.

Quoerest of Customs and Beliefs Are Revealed by Latest Census of India's Teeming Millions — This Gigantic Work Which Was Performed by Moonlight in One Night Shows That the Population of India Has Jumped in Ten Years From 292 to 315 Millions.

BATHING IN THE GANGES.

The date of the taking of the recent census chosen so as not to interfere with this religious ceremony

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, July 17.—Generally speaking, there are few things that one can think of duller and less interesting than the result of a census. The one item therein that most of us care to hear about is how the numbers of a people or a community have increased or decreased, and when this is known the details remain a dry mass of figures, with nothing to lighten the tale except, perhaps, some official speculation as to how many of the fair sex concerned have returned their ages at lower figures than the actual facts warrant.

But the latest census of the population of India is different. The story of how it was taken and the facts which it brought to light are as entertaining and picturesque as anything the readers of newspapers have had to amuse them in many moons, and as unusual and striking too, as one would expect from that strange and mystic land.

Two Million To Take It

To begin at the beginning, and get the dry facts over as soon as possible, this latest enumeration of the "teeming millions" of India, taken on the night of March 10, 1911, this date, the chief enumerators tell us, having been chosen so as to enable the enumerators, who numbered more than 2,000,000, "to work by moonlight" and to avoid "certain dates regarded as unlucky."

NATIVE CENSUS-TAKERS AT WORK

More than two million of them were employed in the gigantic task of enumerating India's vast and ever-growing population.

ments, the different settlements being marked off by lateral notches. Needless to say, the enumerators took prompt advantage of this remarkable instance of "softness in war."

This great census which, its takers proudly point out, was completed with a rapidity "not approached even in the smallest European states," brought out curious facts almost without end. It shows that, whereas part of the population of India indulges in the bloodiest of human sacrifices to propitiate its many and singularly unpleasant gods, others hold human life so sacred that they are forbidden so much as to use the word "cut."

Strange discoveries regarding the complicated laws of caste have been made and also as to the religious observances of the Hindus, the Moslems, the Buddhists and all the other queer sects who owe allegiance to the British Raj, but queerest of all, perhaps, are the details which the census have brought to light regarding marriage in India, and the many strange forms, rites and superstitions that are connected therewith.

Marriage

In the land of the Rajahs, in the first place, practically every boy is married. The age statistics show that the great majority of the unmarried of both sexes are quite young children, three-quarters of the bachelors being under fifteen years of age, while a somewhat larger proportion of the spinsters are under ten. Only one bachelor in twenty-four is over thirty, and only one spinster in fourteen is over fifteen. This, to us, amazing state of things, is due to the fact that in India marriage is regarded as a luxury, but as an absolute necessity for man and woman alike. According to Indian belief every man must marry in order to beget a son who will perform his funeral rites and thus "rescue his soul from hell," while in the case of a girl, it is incumbent on her parents to give her in marriage at an age when she is still a virgin.

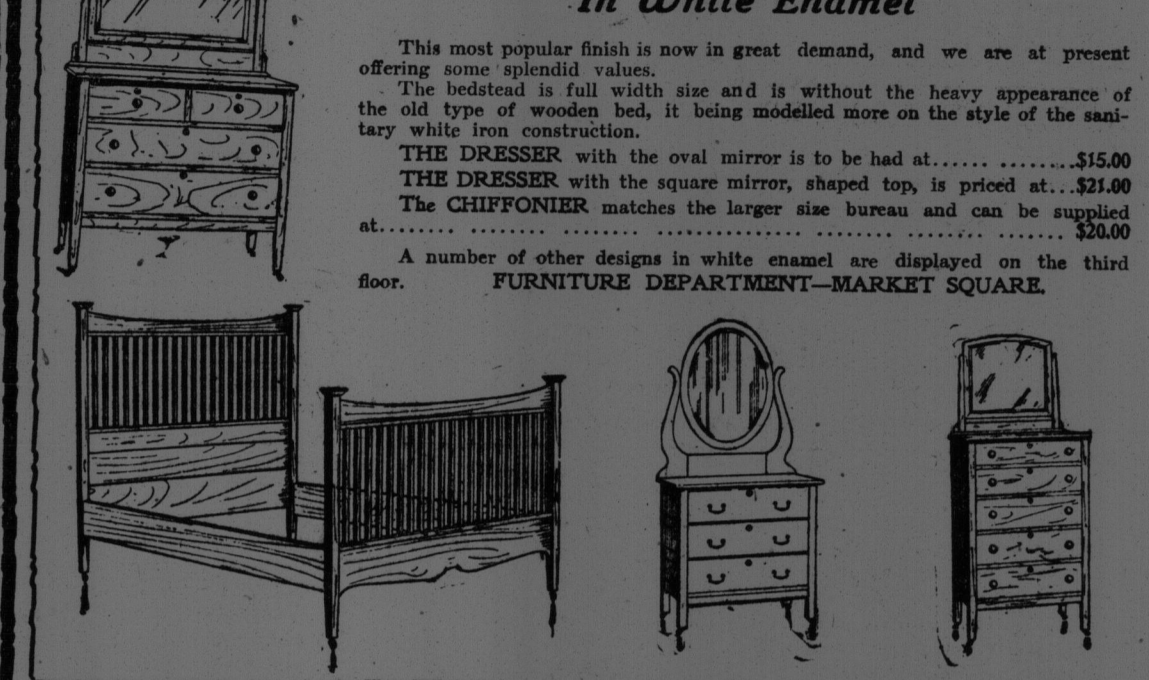

It would be hard to illustrate the popular feeling on this subject better than by quoting from a letter setting forth his claims to a title which was written by an Indian "gentleman" serving in a native state. He says, "I managed to accomplish the marriage of the rajah's sister, who was then twenty-nine years old, and a great disgrace to the state."

In many parts of India, especially among the Hindus and Fanjians, the comparative scarcity of women was found to be out of all proportion to the number of men, this being explained by the terrible extent to which, in spite of stringent laws prohibiting it, the slaughter of girl babies is still carried on. Up to a few years ago, in many tribes, female infants were killed at birth. Usually they were drowned in milk, or poisoned with "bhango" or by a preparation of opium smeared on the mother's breast. Others were suffocated, or killed by pouring ice-cold water over their heads, while some were allowed to die a cruel, lingering death. Today, among the Khatrias, the Rajputs, the Jats and all classes of the Sikhs, girl babies are neglected to such an extent as to amount to deliberate murder. In Ganjam, for instance British officials found villages that did not contain a single female child.

The reasons for this terrible slaughter of the innocents are many and various. In the majority of cases, however, the parents are inspired by motives of economy, girls being sacrificed to avoid the necessity, in future, of buying husbands for them. For while in some India districts a "bride-price" is paid, it is usually the husband that has to be purchased by the parents of the bride-to-be. The bridegroom price, it seems, is now affected largely by the educational qualifications of the potential lord. A Kayastha graduate in Bengal usually brings from 500 to 1,000 rupees, or from $155 to $350, and there have been cases where as much as 100,000 rupees, or $8,500 has been paid. And even in districts where the cost is usually lower, the parents of a girl are sometimes to pay for a bridegroom who has captured a few scholastic laurels.

Different queer superstitions, too, are partly responsible for the slaughter of girl babies. One tribe, called the

PRETTY DAUGHTER OF A RAILWAY MAGNATE

Miss Diana Granet, who has been one of the acknowledged belles of the London season. She is the only daughter of Sir William Guy Granet, who is now general manager of the Midland Railway, and who married one of the daughters of Viscount Selby.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done, but he with a chuckle replied, "That 'maybe it couldn't' but he would be one Who wouldn't say so till he tried. So he buckled right in, with the trace of a grin On his face. If he worried he hid it. He started to sing as he tackled the thing 'That couldn't be done—and he did it."

Somebody scoffed, "Oh, you'll never do that— At least, no one ever has done it." But he took off his coat, and he took off his hat, And the first thing we knew he'd begun it. With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin, Without any doubting or quiddit. He started to sing as he tackled the thing 'That couldn't be done—and he did it."

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done, There are thousands to prophesy failure; There are thousands to point out to you, one by one, The dangers that wait to assail you. But just buckle in with a bit of a grin, Then take off your hat and go to it. Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing 'That couldn't be done—and you'll do it."

LONDON SOCIETY Exhibition of Meanness by Some Society Hostesses ENTERTAINERS FREE

Royal Match Halts Over Question of Marriage Settlements—The King and Canada—Dominion People in Old Country

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, July 17.—There are many hostesses who practice the very thing of meanness these days. It is the way of these women to invite to their parties budding girl singers, whom they make sing several times for the honor of appearing at their functions and the regulars who get the expense of coming to town, for they are very particular about their guests, and will not have a girl who will not be given in return as much as a taxi-fare or a cup of coffee.

This sounds incredible, but it is only too true. At a party the other night at the house of a woman whose husband will one day have a very wealthy baronet, I saw a girl faint with the heat. Her husband had sung the jewel song from Lehig Valley, and she had clearly brought a glass of water, but that was all the refreshment she had in that house. It was very good thing if some of these wealthy women who go in for philanthropy abroad because of the newspaper publicity which they would exercise a little of it in their own homes.

It seems to be a question of settlements that upset the Battenberg-Torby engagement. The daughters of the Grand Duke Michael and his morganatic wife, Countess Torby, will be enormous rich, but their father intends when they marry that their settlements should be a little of it in their own homes.

Appalling Conditions of Work For Some Women in London

(London Tit-Bits) Mention was made by a police-court missionary a few days ago of a woman employed in a factory who had three children a dozen! The mother is able to earn, by working eighty-four hours a week, three-halfpence an hour—about 9s. per week!

In every trade in which women are employed many thousands of them receive even less than 9s. for a week of full employment, and in a great many trades large numbers earn little as 7s. 6d., 5s. and 8s." said J. J. Mallon, Secretary of the National Anti-Sweating League.

"Let me tell you some of the official and authoritative figures of the board of trade, in which the average is 18s. 6d. of the silk with an average of 11s. 2d. in the manufacture of silk and 10s. a week. In other trades some women do not reach that low sum."

"Women engaged in domestic trades, which stand alone among women's trades, are not typical of the group is the Jute trade, in which the average is 18s. 6d. of the silk with an average of 11s. 2d. in the manufacture of silk and 10s. a week. In other trades some women do not reach that low sum."

"What are the average earnings in the clothing trades?" "The average is 18s. 6d. but in dressmaking and corset-making the percentage less than 10 percent less than 10s. is one in three!"

"In practically all the trades there are thousands of women whose weekly earnings do not reach 8s."

"Are there any workers worse than these, Mr. Mallon?" "Yes, the pottery, brick and glass, and food, drink, and tobacco trades show much worse figures."

"In the pottery trade, too, the work is staid by risk of lead poisoning. One would expect this risk to be acknowledged by higher wages, yet in this danger, the average wage is only 11s. 11d.; moreover, one woman in every three falls to earn 10s. a week. The average payment to women brickmakers, although the work is beyond the capacity of all but the strongest, is 11s. 8d."

"What is the condition of women home-workers?" "These gloomy figures are bright in comparison with those indicative of the earnings of certain groups of the home-workers: was the reply.

Driven to Suicide. "Thomas Holmes, a well known ex-police court missionary and hon. secretary of the House Workers Aid Association, once told me that his sympathy for the help of oppressed women had first been awakened by three cases of attempted suicide which had come to his notice. The three women were the basis of all women-workers, who had been working Sundays and week-days without any remuneration for the same, and their families. They were a blouse-maker, a match-box maker and a hat-maker."

"Makers of the uppers of ladies' boots and shoes, skirt-makers and finishers are little as one penny an hour. I could take you to a brush-maker in East London, whose case may be cited to illustrate the awful evil of the deplorable home-work. This poor woman is paid 8/6d. for filling no fewer than 1000 boxes in the backs of hair-brushes. By working her very hardest she can fill only 200 in an hour. She told me she has never earned enough for a holiday! She is now nearly sixty years old and her sight is failing. Soon after all her years of unrelenting and monotonous industry, she will have to enter the work-house—or starve."

"She has worked hard for over fifty years, and has never earned enough to enable her to save a single penny piece! Birmingham harbors the most atrocious of all these evil trades that prey on women—the 'carding' trades. Wages in these trades are between 3s. and 4s. a week. The women are earning more than 8s. is rarely earned by the most industrious workers."

Children as Home-Workers. "You look surprised. But listen, 384 mothers and eyes must be sewn on cards before a penny is earned. The work is very bad for the eyes, yet there are many women who work all night at least once a week."

"One hears of little children working at this, is it true?" "True! Although school inspectors in Birmingham set severe faces against child labor during school hours, thousands of little ones are 'linking' links in the daytime and at night as well."

"A few weeks ago I entered a room which a 'carder' shared with her three children. I inquired if they helped her. She looked surprised and said 'No. Later, when I had become more friendly, she said, 'Aye, they can link and promptly set them to work again."

"With these poor little children of the home-workers, work is never done. They are far worse off than factory children. They start work at the age of three, busy putting links and eyes and buttons on to cards."

"In the East-end of London children of six and seven are at work making boot boxes, match boxes, paper bags, and other things, their little fingers stumbling, their minds wandering, their eyes tired. They long to play like other children, but they cannot; they have to earn their pennies, perhaps to help a widowed mother."

"It is for the mothers, who love their little ones quite as much as well-to-do parents, and would be glad if they did their little work, that we are trying to make a minimum wage."

Make Twelve Shirts for 9d. "You want some individual case of underpaid female labor? I know of hundreds—all cases industrial tragedy, who comes to my mind. Before we brought chain-making under the operation of the Trade Boards Act she received only 8d. a hundredweight for new-made chain. She gets only 7s. 7s. She has to make thirty-one only to earn a penny! There is a match-box maker who told me that she now received 1d. for making 144 boxes, before she only had 2/6d."

"It takes more than an hour, notwithstanding a minute, to make a gross," she said, "making one of the trades to which the Act will shortly be applied, is represented by the case of a woman in the West-end of London. She showed a coarse shirt and told me: 'I have to make twelve of these right off before I earn 9d. Last week me and my husband sat from 5.30 in the morning till eleven at night, and made four dozen shirts, which came to 10s. 6d. for the machine and 1s. 10d. for cotton!'"

NEWEST FABLES IN SLANG

ILLUSTRATIONS BY HARRY J. WESTERMAN.

"Missing the object of attack by a scant six inches, he fell heavily, with his face among the Dandelions."

One day in the pink dawn of the present Century, a man with his hair neatly set back around the Ears and the usual Blood Pressure was whistling through a suburban Lonesomeness on a teetering Trolley. The name of the man was Mr. Palsey. He had a desk with a Concern that did merchandising in a large way. Mr. Palsey feared Socialism and carried his Wife's Picture in his Watch and wore Plasters. In other words, he was Normal, believing nearly everything that appeared in the Papers. While the Dog-Fennel was softly brushing the Foot-Board and the Motor was purring consistently beneath, Mr. Palsey looked over into a close-cropped Pasture and became the alert Eye-Witness of some very weird Doings. He saw a pop-eyed Person in soiled Negliges, who made threatening movements toward something concealed in the White Clover, with a Weapon resembling the Iron Dingus used in gouging the Chinkers from a Furnace. "What is the plot of the Piece?" he inquired of a Grand Army man, sitting next. "I think," replied the Veteran, "I think he is killing a Garter-Snake." "Oh, no," spoke up the conversational Conductor. "He is playing Golf!" giving the word the Terre Haute pronunciation. Mr. Palsey looked with pity on the poor Nut who was out in the Hot Sun, getting himself all lathered up with One-Man Shiny. He said to G. A. R. that it took all kinds of People to make a World. The grizzled Warrior arose to an equal Attitude by remarking that if the daggoneed Loon had to do it for a Living, he'd think it was Work. Mr. Palsey had heard of the new Di-pointed in his Friend. It certainly did seem trifling for a Huskie weighing one hundred and eighty to pick on something about the size of a Robin's Egg. Mr. Palsey played Gallery all around the Course. He would stand behind them at the Tee and mull in a most arid and patronizing Manner while they sand-shuffled and shifted, and jiggled and joggled and went through the whole calisthenic Ritual of St. Vitus. He was surprised to note how far the Ball would speed when properly spanked, but he thought there was no valid excuse for overrunning on the Approach. Mr. Palsey found himself criticizing the Form of the Players. That should have been his Cue to climb the Fence. All of the Mathematicians start on the downward Path by making Mind-Plays and getting under Bogey. Back on the sloping Sward between No. 18 and the Life-Saving Station the two Contestants were holding the usual Post-Mortem. "Let me see that Dew-flicker a minute," said Mr. Palsey, as he carelessly extracted a Mid-Iron. He sauntered up to the silly Globule and took an unpermitted Swipe. The Stroke rang sweet and vibrant. The ball rose in parabolic Splendor, above the highest branches of a venerable Elm. Just as the Face of the Club started on the Following Through, the Bacillus ran up and hit Mr. Palsey on the Leg. He saw the blinking White Spot far out on the emerald Plain. He heard the murmur of Admiration behind him. He was sorry his Wife had not been there to take it in. "Leave me have another Ball," requested Mr. Palsey. The Virus was working. He backed up so as to get a Running Start. "This time," quoth Mr. Palsey, "I will push it to Milwaukee." Missing the Object of Attack by a scant six inches, he fell heavily, with his face among the Dandelions. The Host brushed him off and said: "Your Stance was wrong; your Tee was too high; you raised the Left Shoulder; you were too rapid on the Come-Back; the Grip was all in the Left Hand; you looked up; you moved your Head at the top of the Stroke; you allowed the Left Knee to turn, and you stood ahead of the Ball. Otherwise, it was a Loo-Loo." "If I come out next Sunday could you borrow me a Kit of Tools?" asked Mr. Palsey. He was twitching violently and looking at the Ball as if it had called him a Name. "I got the first one all right, and I think—"

"One evening he came back to his haggard companion, chortling infant-wise, and displayed something which looked like an Eye-Cup with handles on it."

One evening he came back to his haggard companion, chortling infant-wise, and displayed something which looked like an Eye-Cup with handles on it. To the Shade, snap her Fingers, call his Name, and gradually pull him out of the Trance. He would look at her with a filmy Gaze and smile faintly, as if partly remembering, and then say: "Don't forget to follow through. Keep the head down—light with the left—no hunching—pivot on the hips. For a Cuppy Lie take the Nib. If running up with the jigger, drop her dead. The full St. Andrew's should not be thrown into a Pult. Never up, never in. Lift the flag. Take a pick-out from Casual Water but play the Roadways. To over-come Slicing or Pulling, advance the right or left Foot. Shuffling and Socketing may be avoided by adding a hook with a top-spin or vice versa. The Man says there are twenty-six things to be remembered in Driving from the Tee. One is Stance. I forget the other twenty-five." Then the Partner of his joys and Sorrows, with the account on the Debit Side would shoot twenty Grains of Aspin into him and plant him in the Flax. Next morning at Breakfast he would break to her that the Brassie had developed too much of a Whip and he had decided to try a forty-inch Shaft. They had Seasoned Hickory for Breakfast, Bunkers for Luncheon, and the Fair Green for Dinner. As a matter of course they had to give up their comfortable Home among the Friends who had got used to them and move out to a straw-bow Bungalow so as to be near the Shambles. Mr. Palsey wanted to do the White Mountains, but Mr. Palsey needed her. He wanted her to be waiting on the Veranda at Dark, so that he could tell her all about it from the preliminary Address to the final Poole. Sometimes he would come home enveloped in a foglike Silence which would last beyond early Candle Lighting, when

TURF. Moosepath Races.

Saturday afternoon's race programme of the Park Meadows Driving Club at Moosepath Park furnished some good, clean horse racing, some of the favorites going down to defeat.

Both classes on the card were mixed classes, trot and pace, the Class A's being taken in straight heats by Mr. Short's stallion, Ozen D.; Iowa Parole, second, and Billy Miller third. The best time in this class was 1:18.

Class B, mixed trot and pace, proved rather interesting, Margaret Chimes taking this event in straight heats, with Ed. C. second and Nellida R. third, Shamrock fourth and Lop Rexall fifth. The best time was 1:15.

TENNIS.

Lancaster's First Event.

The Hampton Tennis Club visited the Lancaster tennis courts on Saturday afternoon and won two events out of three in an interesting and well played series of contests with the West End club.

Hampton led in the men's doubles and mixed doubles, and Lancaster won the ladies' doubles.

The results: Men's doubles, Walker and Rankine beat G. W. Scott and A. Coster, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Mixed doubles, Miss Alward and Mr. Angevine beat Mrs. Sprenger and G. E. Dawes, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

Ladies' doubles, Miss Alward and Miss Hooper beat Mrs. Scott and Miss Lawson, 2-6, 8-6.

The visitors were entertained at tea by the Lancaster Tennis Club after the close of the play. With greatly increased membership after only little more than a season of action on the new courts, the Lancaster club is in a flourishing condition and the courts are in demand whenever the weather is favorable.

The members will celebrate the marked success and growth of the club in their new home, Clifton avenue, on Aug. 6, when the annual tea will be held.

Hon. John R. Boyle, minister of education in Alberta. In the newer provinces there is no minister with duties more important than those which are associated with Hon. Mr. Boyle's position, for no public institution is more difficult to move from its first foundations. It is interesting to note from the last census that in ten years the percentage of the population of five years and over that could not read or write had decreased from 80.26 to 12.72, while the percentage that could read and write had increased 68.81 to 86.91.

RING.

Carpenter Again on Foul.

Bordeaux, France, July 26—Georges Carpenter, the champion, today won the decision over Kid Jackson in the fourth round of a boxing match. Jackson was disqualified for fouling.

THE AUTO.

Local Endurance Race.

Halifax, July 26—Nova Scotia has thrown open the door to New Brunswick. Automobile owners will learn with pleasure that a federation between the two provinces is aimed at. Places have been reserved in The Halifax Herald and The Evening Mail's big 500 endurance grind for five New Brunswick machines; and it is trusted that the larger centre of the sister province will be represented.

The tour will start from Halifax on August 11. The line route has been so changed as to include the eastern portion of New Brunswick. New Brunswick is a noted automobile province, and it is confidently expected that car owners will take advantage of the opportunity afforded them to make a try for the two fine trophies to be presented by Senator Dennis to the winning car. One cup goes to the victorious car owner; the other goes to the agent of the winning machine.

This tour will not be a speed contest, but an endurance grind; and the palm will be awarded as to the result of a decision based on the survival of the fittest.

The tour route will take in some beautiful sections of country. Five letters are flooding the desks of the local management tendering suggestions and advice that all along the line of route the different centres will contribute their share toward making the big classic a success. Picnics, garden parties, public receptions, etc., are being arranged. The entry list will close on July 30.

St. John Conditions That Are Demanding Attention

An Afternoon's Walk Reveals Astounding State of Affairs—Drunkness, Money Begging and Blackguardism in the Streets

Montreal, Boston, New York and other big city newspapers recently to hand give most sensational accounts of the shameful riots in this city, and yellow journalism has played the limit with many of the details. The Montreal Star's reports were spread over several pages, and large headlines stretched the whole breadth of the big sheet. Certainly this ordinarily peaceful little city has gotten more publicity of an adverse kind than the Board of Trade's publicity machinery could secure of a beneficial character in many years. In conversation this morning with a citizen well acquainted with local conditions, the Times learned considerable of conditions that exist in certain quarters of the town. "On Saturday afternoon," the citizen said, "I walked from the harbor front to Clarence street by the Courtenay Bay railway route, and certainly the 'mob' class of citizen had it all his own way in this wide stretch of territory. "After leaving a fair-sized group of drunken men at Reed's Point, I was accosted by two evil-looking inebriates lying on the dump dead to the world with liquor. In the distance wig-wagging along the track three young men kept shouting in a delirium of booze. At the Leinster street dump two well-known characters were drinking out of the conventional square faces. Going on a little farther I was shuffled about by three more drunks at the foot of St. David street crossing. "Upon leaving the outskirts of East End and proceeding up Clarence street I was halted by a crowd of fully one hundred women and children in Erin street, where a beastly drunk had been terrorizing the neighborhood. As I hesitated to take in the edifying spectacle, six youths wobbled into view from the Brussels street bar district, almost helpless. Their advent added new interest to the proceedings. "At the corner of Clarence and Brussels streets I saw a man vouching his serpentine way home towards Haymarket Square, and between Clarence and Richmond streets three men—once a mere youth—were carrying on madcap conversation at various alleys. "In 'feeling' continued the citizen, "when I completed the loop and gone farther up Brussels street to Union and then across to King, down King to Dock Hill and Bond streets, I would have added up to more of these St. John 'beasts' than to my list. "The gentleman interviewed said he was in New York three weeks ago and Montreal a fortnight since, and on his honor as a man said he saw but one drunk during both visits, and that fellow was a westerner boarding his train in the big Canadian city. He felt hesitant—through downright shame—to say so, but he thought St. John the most drunken city he knew anything about. For flagrant, open, barefaced and insulting drunkenness it took the lead. He could point out at least a half dozen bar-rooms that catered directly to this substratum of inebriates. Not that he was anxious to preach temperance, but in a sense of public duty, a spirit of home pride and civic decency. He protested strongly against this per-

NO HEARD FROM IN TWENTY YEARS; NOW SHARES IN LOCAL ESTATE

The probate proceedings in connection with the estate of Ellen Foley furnish an interesting paragraph. On the order for distribution in this case made in August, 1913, it appeared that there were three sisters, Catherine Haley, of St. John, who received her 1/3 share; Annie Murphy, who died before the deceased, leaving three children; and Mary Foley. One of the daughters of Annie Murphy, namely Henrietta Murphy, had not been heard from for more than twenty years, but happened recently to write to her friends here. Her husband is dead, and she is living in Matten, Mass. After evidence taken the court made an order for the sum of money which had been deposited to her credit with the receiver-general to be paid to her. Heber S. Keith is proctor. Mary Foley, if alive, and if not alive her children, would be entitled to one-third of the total estate amounting to about $1,000. She left here about thirty years ago, and her address cannot be ascertained. Her share has been deposited with the receiver-general in Fredericton, awaiting proper claim. In the matter of the estate of Thomas Gilbert, Mrs. Marion J. Gilbert, the widow, William A. Ewing and J. Roy Campbell, the executors and trustees, filed their accounts and asked to have them passed and allowed. A citation was issued returnable on August 31 at 11 a.m. Charles F. Sanford is proctor. BASEBALL CHALLENGE A challenge was issued today through the Times by the Young Victorias to meet the Orange street Cubs tomorrow evening on the Orange street dump.

LOST THE PICTURE, THE CAMERA AND HIMSELF HAD SUNDAY DUCKING

Yesterday was one of the most ideal summer days this season and the light breeze blowing from the west was such as would appeal to any person with the slightest athletic taste. Any one with a camera could hardly resist the temptation to take an impression of the scenery on perhaps the most beautiful tributary of the Rhine of America. As is usual on the Kennebecasis, a fairly stiff breeze was blowing. From her moorings at the head of Long Island C. Jardine's yacht sailed majestically into the channel about 11 o'clock. Here was a golden opportunity for a clerk in one of the city banks who was spending the week-end with friends on Mathers' Island. Sitting in the stern of a frail canoe, and with a camera which he had purchased only the day before, he waited until the yacht was just opposite him and snapped her as she passed and as promptly he fell overboard. The yacht's helm was put hard over and the yacht swung around steering for the unfortunate man who was then floundering in the water. The rescue was soon effected and the would-be photographer landed safely ashore, a little uncomfortable after his experience. The picture of the man who had been floundering in the water, but it is feared that the film may be destroyed if the camera is not soon rescued from twenty feet of water.

SPECIAL TRIP TO ISLAND TO GET A MAN ON THEFT CHARGE

Robert Jackson, twenty years of age, was before the police magistrate this morning on a charge of stealing money from Alphonso Fraser in a room in the Stanley house, Union street, where they both boarded. On Saturday night after Fraser retired, he said he woke up to find a light which he had left burning had gone out and some person was moving about the room. He asked the man to leave the lamp burning, as his son, who also slept in the room, had not come in. The man who the witness said, was the defendant, said he would, but went downstairs. Later he woke up again when his son came in and the lamp was still out. It was lighted again and it was then seen that the defendant had not gone to bed. The witness said he had about $4 in his pocket, and he missed it at breakfast yesterday morning. The prisoner was remanded and the son will give evidence. Jackson was arrested late last night on Kennebecasis Island by Special Policeman John McBride. The boat had made her last trip for the night, but Commissioner McLellan, who accompanied the special policeman, procured the boat to go to the island for Jackson, and the prisoner was brought to the station about two o'clock in the morning, accompanied by both the commissioner and the special policeman.

POTATOES SCARCE HERE

Market Almost Bare This Morning: Some Brought Down By River Steamers

"A person could not buy five barrels of potatoes in the city this morning even if he was willing to pay $10 a barrel," was a statement made by one of the wholesale dealers at noon today. "The market he said is entirely bare, and the old stock has been practically cleaned up all over the country. Endeavors to procure potatoes all over the province have failed." The last of the old potatoes sold brought the high figure of $8.50 a barrel. A good quantity of new potatoes were brought to the city on the river steamers Oconee, Majestic and Champlain this morning, but the price of the new stock is away up in the air, the article selling at the boat this morning at $6.65 a bushel, five cents a bushel higher than yesterday. This price is expected to drop slightly on the arrival of the May Queen and the Elaine with other larger shipments this afternoon.

Commencing in September the high schools will be in session from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. instead of 8:30 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. Superintendent Bruce M.
