MR. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass:—
Sir—I have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the efficacy of your invaluable family medicine, Vegetine. For three years I was a great sufferer from Chronic Rheumatism and Derangement of the Kidneys, and, after testing innumerable so-called remedies, in the Spring of last year, I was recommended to give the Vegetines a trial, and to persevere in using it for some time. I did so, and in the course of three months found that a perfect cure had been effected, and I am now, thank God, in full enjoyment of the best of Health. I consider it the most effective remedy for the distressing complaints just mentioned, and for sindigestion, Billiousness, and Liver Disease. It is very pleasate to take vitalizing and invigorating. I can most confidently recommend it, knowing the great benefits I have derived from its use, and consider I cannot overstate its great and important value to those similarly afficted as I have been.

Yours faithfully,

R. L. COLE, R. L. COLE.

Our Lumber Market in Great Britain

In reterring to the condition of the 30th September, we quoted the returns | are unchanged. of the British Board of Trade, showing that although the import of the eight months ended 31st August from British American ports had fallen off slightly, the supplies from Russia and those of the corresponding period last year, had so largely increased as to keep pace with the larger demand of Returns, which gave the quantities imported, in loads, showed as follows :--Imports of sawn or split, planed or ressed lumber for the first eight months

the increased volume of imports this cular :cular :—

Dulness has prevaded the Timber trade for the past month, especially during the latter end of it. Prices generally remain low, and are scarcely equal to the cost of imports. The Building Trade in the surrounding districts is very slack, and there can be no doubt but that the demand for Timber for some time to come will be on a very small scale. We do not consider the Stocks, as a whole, to be excessive, but it will require firmness on the part of importers if prices are to improve.

TOM.

BY MARY KYLE DALLAS. "Mrs. Hacker and her daughter sa in the little parlor behind the shop taking tea. It was a frosty winter night and the brown teapot was kept on the back of the stove that it might not chill. So was the pan of sausages, which tasted all the more crisp and savory in consequence. The door between the store and the room stood open that any chance customer might be seen at once by the tea drinkers, but the bell had not jingled since they took their seats. .

"Trade is dreadful, Emma Jane," into the sausage pan and transferring it to her plate by means of the long cooking fork. "Trade is dreadful! I should just give up if it got a little worse; but, dear me, I never had any luck in any thing. There's Mr. Ninnever nutting plate glass-whole panes-into his windows, and beginning to talk of hiring the second floor for ready-made suits; and my things hang on my hands, though I'm sure I make better selec tions than he knows how to.
