Berlin, Oct. 29.—For the first time since the death of the Emperor Frederick, the imperial standard on his palace in Underden-Linden, Berlin, which is now the residence of the Empress Frederick, was hoisted on Sunday week, without any hourning crape on it.

Stanley oming.

London, Oct. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Stanley started Monday for Liverpool on their way to America. A large party of friends accompanied them to Euston station to bid them farewell, and a crowd also assembled and cheered the famous traveler and his wife as they entered the station.

Gladstone to the Workingmen.

Edinburgh, Oct 29.—Mr. Gladstone, in an address to the workmen of the Pumpherston oil works, extolled free trade. He said that the results of the last 50 years' legislation had been that trade had multiplied five-fold, that the population had doubled, and that the material, social, moral and political condition of the country had enormously improved.

London, Oct. 29.—The new British bark Hazelbank, Capt. Manson, from Tacoma, June I, via Queenstown for Hull, has been sunk in the channel. Her crew have arrived at Dover. The Hazelbank stranded on the Goodwin sands at midnight last night. The Hazelbank is firmly fixed on the southeast spit. She went ashore with her salls set. Capt. Manson visited her today with a tug, but returned, as it was impossible to board her. She is full of water.

A Finland "Jack the Ripper" Captured.

HESINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 29.—For some time a series of atrocities similar to those committed by "Jack the Ripper" has startled society here. Several fallen women have been found dead in their beds, having been killed by being strangled. The police were for a long time unable to obtain the least clue to the murders, but the man has at last been found. His name is Hapaoga, and he has been known to the police for several years as a scoundrel of the worst class.

Bismarck Slighted.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—Much comment has been caused by Prince Bismarck's absence from the Von Moltke festivities, but word from the Von Molike festivities, but word comes from Varzin that the former Chancellor was very ill all last week, having been prostrated by nervous excitement, a condition that was not improved by his susplicion that the special bonors conferred on Count von Molite were intended to make him feel uncomfortable. He is said to be greatly chagrined at the fact that the newspapers have ignored him of late, and is reported to have said to an attendant: "I might as well be buried as slighted."

period of distress, forred at length with them as to the best method of providing relief, which he admitted would be necessary. The priest said the system of affording relief adopted on former similar occasions had a demoralizing tendency, and suggested that the people be employed in the construction of light railways and other work, but not unless such works were likely to prove of benefit to the district. Mr. Balfour expressed his concurrence in this view. He expressed sorrow for the failure of their potatoes, which he knew would cause them much suffering. He was glad he had been able to sanction the construction of a railway within seven miles of the island, which, he said, would give them employment, and he hoped to be able to extend the line to the island. A number of peasants escorted Mr. Balfour to various fishing stations, and after dark escorted him over the mountains. Mr. Balfour promised to finish a bridge between two points on the island and to defray the expenses out of his own pocket.

CAUSED BY THE CAT.

Six Cases of Black Diphtheria in One Family—Three of the Children Die.

LEADVILLE, Wis, Oct. 29.—The family of Robert Paul, at Middleton, has been afflicted with diphtheria which was brought into the house in a singular manner. Four weeks ago a stray cat went to the house and one of the children played with it, although it was not allowed to remain. It discharged at the nose and mouth. Nothing was thought of it till soon afterwards, when the little boy was taken down with black diphtheria, which the doctor said he had caught from the cat. The boy died. Then a second son took the disease and died. The father, mother and daughter were also tricken down, but recovered. Allan, the only remaining son, and the support of his parents, cared for them all through their sickness, and prepared them for burial. When the others were recovering he was taken sick and died.

whiripool it upset and the boy disappeared.

A Guelph Boy Brutally Assaulted.

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 29.—Frank McFarquhar, aged 14 years, while going to work Wednesday, was assaulted by three boys and so seriously injured that his life is despaired of. Erysipelas has set in the face, where he received a severe blow. His three assailants were arrested yesterday.
McFarquhar's ante-mortem statement has been taken.

Married the Coachman.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 29.—This morning Miss Lizzie Phelps, a society belle and heiress, who lives near this city, was married to Wm. Slattery, the family coachman. Miss Phelps is a niece of the late Judge Phelps. The bride is about 27 years of age and is worth $100,000. The groom is illeterate but of good appearance.

Death of a Centenarian.

OTANAA, Oct. 29.—The oldest resident in the city of Ottawa, Mrs. Martha Jones, died yesterday morning in her 101st year. The decaased was the wife of the late Thos. Jones, of the the 7th Company, Royal Sappers and Miners. She was born in Monmouthshire, Wales, and emigrated to this country in 1827. She was quite hale and hearty up to last May, when the weight of years fell upon her and began to render her very feeble.

BLENHEIM, Ont., Oct. 29.—The body found in the Eau Monday night is that of W. J. Farrell, a young married man of Grimsby, Ont. He with some friends came here two weeks ago to enjoy duck shooting. Monday morning young Farrell, in company with Frank Warner, went out in the Eau about 8 o'clock. Farrell complained of being cold and determined to return to Warner's, where he was staying. This was the last seen of him alive.

Seeds in a Pumpkin.

Defroit, Oct. 29.—Monday was the time set for determining the number of seeds in Mabley & Co.'s prize pumpkin, and the name of the winner in their guessing contest. After determining that every seed of any size or state of growth should be counted, the jumbo farm product was cut open. After removing all the seeds they were counted twice and the number both times was the same, 784. After looking over the guesses, of which there were 8,634, it was found that noone had guessed the exact number, but that there were several slips bearing guesses of 783 and 785. The first of these received was one made by Miss Irene Abbett of Green Bieby Miss him feel uncomfortable. He is said to be greatly chagrined at the fact that the newspapers have ignored him of late, and is reported to have said to an attendant: "I might as well be buried as slighted."

An Austrian Archduke Missing.

VIENNA, Oct. 29.—Great anxiety is felt here on account of the strange disappearance of the Archduke Johann Salvador, who relinquished his title and rank as a noble of the House of Hapsburg to marry a young actress, and afterward took the name of Johann Orth, and became the master of merchant ship. He left La Plata on July 11 for Montevideo, at which port he was to be fing to Europe. He has not been heard of for fifteen weeks, and letters addressed to him from Vienna to La Plata and Valparaiso remain unanswered.

Bloodshed in Switzerland.
Berre, Oct. 29.—A report was received here from Lugano, one of the capitals of the Canton of Ticino, stating that fighting had occurred between the troops and the disaffected Librals, and that some blood had been shed.

The Federal Council has by a unanimous wote rejected the appeals made by the Ultramontanes of Ticino against the popular vote taken on Oct. 5 last, when a majority declared in favor of a revision of the constitution of the Canton.

While the Lugano Conservatives and Liberals were celebrating with fireworks over the result of the elections, the commander of the feudal troops ordered them to desist. The people resisting, they were attacked by the troops and several were blamed for excess of zeal.

Balfour Getting His Eyes Opened.
Loxdox, Oct. 29.—Mr. Balfour is now in the was deeply impressed with the scenes he witnessed in Achill, and with the general wretchedness of she peasants and the prospects of famine. Mr. Balfour received a deputation of citizens, headed by a priest, who drew his attention to the coming Beef, Perk and Beet Sugar.

KINCARDINE, Oct. 29.—The West Bruce Teachers' Association held a very successful two days' meeting in the Model School building here. The programme was varied, and the discussions which followed the several papers read were bright and entertaining. Prof. Panton, of the Agricultural College, Guelph, delivered an address on "The Formation of Soils." A very large public meeting in the evening listened to an address from the same gentleman on "A Trip Through the Yellowstone Park." It was perhaps one of the best lectures ever given here. On the following day an interesting event took place, when the teachers of West Bruce presented the public school inspector of the division, Mr. Alex. Campbell, with a complimentary address and a well-filled purse of gold. Mr. Campbell has been one of the inspectors of Bruce county for some fourteen years, and his popularity with the teachers of his inspectorate was very foroibly shown by the address and

The arguments presented seemed to carry conviction, and were received with expression of approval. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was carried without a dissenting voice.

The Detroit boot and shoemakers met Monday night to take measures to better the condition of their craft. It was decided to organize one local union, under international rules. Fifty-two men were initiated. The business of the union will be conducted by an advisory board composed of delegates from all departments. In case of labor troubles in any one department, the firm will be waited on by a committee specially chosen from the ranks of the workers in the departments in question. W. H. Sayward, of Boston, secretary of the National Builders' Association, was interviewed on Monday by a Detroit reporter. "I am on my annual tour or visit to the 40 subordinate exchanges," said Mr. Sayward, "40 of the largest cities in the union now have builders' exchanges, and five or six more cities are coming in soon. They will tembody all the leading cities of the country. The National Exchange was organized four years ago with only ten exchanges represented. The other 30 have come in since. In Boston the pay of bricklayers is 40 to 50 cents an hour. In Detroit wages are about the same; the men receive $3.50 a day of nine hours work. Common labor is much cheaper in Detroit, I find, than in Boston. Here you pay $1.50 a day and there we pay $2. St. Louis is about the only western city where wages are higher than in Detroit. In the East all wages are higher, but I doubt if the workingmen net, after all their living expenses are paid, as much as yours do here."

Every steam-fitting establishment in Chicago is idle, all of the union and 35 per cent. of the non-union men being on strike. Michigan confederate started to-day by him and his Toronto publishers. The document in question is regarded as the clumsiest fabrication Birchall has yet put forth. It is terrible to think that a man so near death should still be busying himself in concocting falsehoods and forgeries.

The Sentinel-Review, after an examination of the handwriting and a comparison of it with samples of Birchall's, declares that there is very general resemblance between the two and in some cases a very striking likeness, and there is no doubt that this is the fact.

A friend of Birchall's said to-day: "I think the best defense at the trial would have been insanity—absence of all moral sense. The man is so given to lying that he lies even when he must be aware that he is cutting the ground from under the feet of those who are getting up the petition." In this town interest in the case is dead. Many say that the newspapers have paid too much attention to so worthless a seamp.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Inquiries were made at Morley's Hotel in Trafalgar Square to ascertain what truth there is in the story that Reginald Birchall now under sentence, Mrs. Birchall and the Colonel, the alleged author of the letter received by Birchall, in which the writer acknowledges that he shot and killed Benwell, were at the hotel last January. An examination of the register shows that an American styling himself Colonel Lewis was a guest at the hotel, the entry showing that he remained there during December.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 20.—Young Benwell has left for New York, where he will take the the state.

WOODSTOCK, Oat., Oct. 20.—Young Benwell has left for New York, where he will take the the steamer for England. Before he left he said: "I am not likely to come to Canada again, although this is a fine country. I have not allowed myself, through the death of my brother, to form a prejudicial opinion of the people here or of the Dominion."

"Are you taking with you the boots and clothes your brother wore when he was murdered?"

"No, indeed. I would not take the boots with me if I had them, because I don't believe they belong to my brother. But, as a matter of fact, these articles are in the possession of the Attorney-General at Toronto, and I do not care to see them again."

"Then you are certain the shoes were not the property of your brother?"

"Quite so. They were entirely worn out and totally unfit for such rough weather. Besides, the leather was cracked and had a reddish coat as if overstoes or rubbers had been worn with them. It is true the boots were about the right size, but they were put on his feet, I believe, by somebody after the murder. He would not start out on such a day as the 17th of last February with such a shabby pair of shoes, scarcely fit to wear aboard ship or in midsummer."

"Do you think Birchall had a confederate in the crime?"

"Yes; at least there has always been a doubt in my mind that I would like to have cleared up. If Birchall was with my brother in the swamp alone, what became of the boots and the revolver? But this I don't care to discuss with a reporter now. The case is over and the prisoner had a fair trial. If he was assisted in the crime by another, why did he not say so before this? If Birchall did not fire the shots he should tell who did, if he can. If he cannot, the Government should stay judgment until the mystery is cleared up."

"What did you think of Birchall's defense?" mystery is cleared up."

WHY LAMP CHIMNEYS BREAK The Philosophy of Those Unplea

Ever since glass was invented some means of overcoming its brittleness has been sought. Housewives who still use lamps will hail with joy some process that will make lamp chimneys less liable to break from atmospheric influences. Chimneys have a disagreeable habit of breaking just when you don't expect them to, and almost invariably when there isn't another one in the house. Much ingenuity has been spent to secure unbreakable lamp chimneys, but with comparatively littly success. When the chimneys with the scallops on top were produced it was thought that the problem had been solved. It was supposed that the creases would afford more opportunity for expansion than the straigh edge but some way or other the scheme did work. The whole question of brittlendepends upon the molecular structure of glass. The glass in the first step of manufacture is melted. If cooled suddenly the molecules do not settle where there will be the least tension, but where there will be the least tension, but where there is the greatest. This is prettily illustrated by drooping a piece of melted glass in cold water. It assumes a round shape with a little tail and the whole thing flies to powder, sometimes making a report like a gun cap. The theory is that while the out side is cooled quickly and in granular crystals the inside is less quickly cooled, and settlesin other forms, making a surface tension. Disturb the outer shell and the tension is relieved, all flying to powder. It is the same thing in chinneys. The process of annealing is the converse of tempering. The glass, when hot, is put in ovens and allowed to cool very slowly, usually taking a week to complete the process. The thicker the glass is the longer it takes. From all this housewives can get some The glass, when hot, is put in ovens and allowed to cool very slowly, usually taking a week to complete the process. The thicker the glass is the longer it takes. From all this housewives can get some points on how to get chimneys that will last. First, you can't tell by the color, as that depends on the chemical constituents and not on the grain. Of a box of chimneys the clearist are usually broken the easiest. The thick ones are usually broken easier than the thin ones, as their surface tension is greater. That is to say, an atmospheric change will break them easier. When you get your chimneys put them in warm water or oil, bring it slowly to the boiling point, and let them cool as slowly as possible. This will remedy to some extent imperfect annealing. Next, use burners that have the flame at the same distance from the walls of the chimney all around. Every time you light the lamp you affect the annealing, so turn them up slowly, and turn them down slower yet. In course of time any chimney is doomed to break, as the annealing becomes less perfect all the time, and a repetition of the boiling process will tend to obviate it. Buy chimneys that are regular in shape. All these plans will help, but they won't cure.

How to Make Pens Last.

One of the chief woes of the ready writer, be he clerk or what not, consists in the fact that he no sooner gets a pen into good working order than it, like the "dear gazelle," comes to an untimely end from the corrosion caused by the ink. Life is not long enough to use and mend quills, nor to apply with delicate firmness the pen-wiper to a steel one. But some genius has now hit on a solution of the difficulty which has the merit of the most extreme simplicity. In many offices, we are informed, a potato is used instead of a pen-wiper. The juicy tuber holds the pen steady, removes at once all ink from the nib, and prevents, or at least very greatly delays the process of corrosion, and spares many a well-loved pen to a ripe old age.

Distress after eating, heartburn, sick head-che and indigestion are cured by Heod's arsaparilla. It also creates a good appetite.

Solid Facts for Smokers. Reasons why S. Davis & Sons maintain the quality of their brands: It has taken the best part of a lifetime to establish the quality of their brance: It has taken the best part of a lifetime to establish them. They have spent thousands upon thousands of dollars to introduce them. Having obtained the confidence of the public they wish to merit a continuance of same. A deterioration of quality in their brands would not alone destroy the structure upon which they have spent their time, money and labor, but would result in a loss of that confidence the public have favored them with that money again spent in advertising to introduce new brands could not purchase. Therefore, is it to be supposed that any sane business man would be so foolish as to destroy in a short time what it has taken so long to establish. Their brands, "Cable," "Mungo," "El Padre" and "Madre E Higo" are undoubtedly the best value, the safest and most reliable smoke, and cost no more to the consumer than Cigars of much inferior quality. Why smoke other brands or permit dealers (for the sake of additional gais) to sell you those that you are in most cases unfamiliar

OFFENSIVE DEFIANCE-JUDICIOUS MODERATION.

The Congress of the United States can the lines for the passage of the McKinley Bill. It is correct, perhaps, as the politicians and newspapers of that country aver, that the new tariff was not intended to hurt Canada. They say it was framed for the sole object of benefitting the United States by improving the condition of every class of citizens as far as this can be done by a tariff of customs. They say that no harm was meant to Canada more than to any other country, and to prove this declaration true they say there is no discrimination in the tariff; it applies equally to imports from all countries, saving the country with which the United States has a reciprocity treaty. This is no doubt true, but whatever the intent was it is obvious that Canada is likely to suffer more than any other country from e operations of the tariff. The reason is that, more than any other country, our trade is with the United States.

One-half of all our imports and exports is arried on with the United States, and the McKinley tariff bids fair to cut that trade down very largely. We cannot deal with our neighbors unless they deal with us, for there is no other way of paying for merchandise we might buy in their markets but by exchange of ducts; and when the tariff tax is taken there is little or no profit left to the Cana dian producer. It is unavoidable, then, that we must suffer, and the proportion of the trade we carried on in past years with the United States to our trade with all countries is an indication of how much harm a prohibitory tariff is likely What, then, is the prudent policy for Canada to adopt under the circumstances? Is it one of offensive defiance, or one of judicious moderation? The Government evidently favor the former, as the speeches of Ministers and the writings of their newspapers make plain. Sir John Macdonald, Sir John Thompson and every Minister who has spoken since the enactment of the Mc-Kinley tariff have assumed an air of bravado, charging the Government of the United States with a design upon the an-aexation of Canada, and daring Mr. Blaine to de his worst. They see nothing in the tariff excepting a move to starve Canada into annexation, and while professing to favor reciprocity themselves they say such a scheme is hopeless now, and that no course is open but to bonus steamship lines and seek to find markets for the products of the country shut out of the United States in Europe, Asia and Australia. They furthermore declare that this can be done, and, without the first this can be one, and, without the seffort being made to precure favorable ties evident that Mr. Frost is not one of trade relations with the United States, those small-souled, cringing Canadians, who they assert their determination to do it.

These be "brave words," but nobody who

Principal Grant recently paid his compliinderstands the trade of the country believes it possible; and even if it were pos- unassailable, because it is just. nobody who knows the situation be lieves that such a trade could be carried on upon the same profitable terms as the trade with a people at our doors. A policy of cleasive defiance cannot succeed to the advantage of Canada. We probably can get along with the markets of the United States shut against us, but the effects mus be seriously felt in spite of the greatest success that is possible under the new con-ditions. We could probably survive if all against us. China and Japan lived through many centuries without foreign commerce, a relationship which was in their case self-imposed. But no Canadian believes in that policy for Canada. It would be fatal to expansion, and every year of its continuance would make the for existence more severe. Besides, it would make more difficult the task of maintaining peace with neighboring countries, for between us and them no common bond of respect or sympathy or good will could subsist. Commercial non-intercourse between Canada and the United States could not continue for ten years without war being provoked by one or the other, if not by both parties. For these reasons it is clearly not in the interest of the weaker of the two countries

The policy of judicious moderation is before us for choice. We have the right to take our neighbors at their word when they say they did not pass the McKinley tariff with the object of injuring Canada, or forcing if to become annexed. We have the right to believe many of the leading statesmen of the United States when they declare them-selves friendly to the establishment of close trade relations between the two countries and willing to negotiate for reciprocity. It is felly to say we do not believe in the sin-course. We have confidence in the possi | the Central Prison is by far the best. His bility of making terms with our neighbore by treating with them as friends, and we believe that never before in the history of Canada was it as desirable to adopt a policy of judicious moderation as now.

THE GREAT FUTURE THAT

We pointed out a few days ago that the beneficiaries of the system of high taxation -the men who say that they cannot make a living at manufacturing in Canada unless their fellow-countrymen are taxed to aid them to success-are far fewer than some people would have us to believe. There are hundreds of manufacturers ready and willing to have unrestricted reciprocity with our neighbors. These men believe that the enlarged market, coupled with cheaper raw material, would not only benefit them but their customers. They are to be found in every city, town and village of the country. Take, in proof, the testimony of Mr. W. P. Millar, of Messrs. J. F. Millar & Sons, as given to a Globe representative the other day. This firm manufactures agricultural nents, and Mr. Millar asserts that the The Congress of the United States cannot hope to be commended on this side of the lines for the passage of the McKinley manufacturers need, he says, is more markets at their own doors, and not, as has been proposed, a combine to restrict pro-duction and increase profits on the comparatively small output now necessary for the home market. Mr. Millar puts it in

Mr. F. C. Frost, one of the proprietor of a Smith's Falls implement manufac-tory that employs 250 hands, says he not fear the competition he and every other Canadian would have free entrance. Indeed, he believes that reciprocity treaty with the States would be great value to Canada, and that the trade between the two countries, now amounting to $80,000,000, would under years from six to seven times that figure. This representative manufacturer gives the following picture, by no means overdrawn, of the b people of Canada from complete freedom to

C. P. R. -Mr. Blaine, the United States Republi-can leader, says the movement in favor of free trade for the States was never more ctive than it is at the present time.

-Gladstone told a mass meeting o workingmen in Edinburghshire yesterday that free trade had been of enormous advantage to Great Britain. It has been so great a success as to draw from Lord Salisgreat a success as to draw from Lord Sainbury, a descendant of one of its firmest opponents in days gone by, the expression that only by civil war could a "protective" policy be re-established.

-Mr. T. E. Moberly, a gentleman wh has for several years contributed able articles on popular topics to the Toronto Week, has bee ome the managing editor of that journal. Our contemporary is to be congratulated. Mr. Moberly has proved himself to be a writer of unusual ability. He will have ample scope for his undoubted talents in the office for which he has been to countenance the policy of offensive de-

> -The Hamilton Spectator now alleges that Lord Aberdeen made no references to home rule at Ottawa or elsewhere in Canada. Our contemporary is mistaken. The noble Earl spoke briefly on the subject at Vancouver, B. C., asserting his belief that local government would be beneficial to Ireland, and that its concession, on the lines laid down by Gladstone, would tend to the unity of the empire.

and willing to negotiate for reciprocity. It is felly to say we do not believe in the sincerity of those men, and impute bad motives to them. It is the part of wisdom to seek the best solution of the problem, and this can only be done by pursuing a friendly with the belief that the system pursued in

-The impression has gone abroad that, by the agency of recently-discovered pow-ders and guns, the next great battle be-tween hostile nations will be fought by invisible armies, but Dr. Anderson, director general of British ordnance factories, as-serts that the flash of the smokeless powder is particularly brilliant and easily seen even in daylight, while the crack is rathe ouder than the report of the old powder. -The lease of the Toronto street railway having expired, the city has resolved to take over the works at an arbitrated value. In the proceedings incident thereto it has been brought out that Mr. Keily, the original proprietor, and a former resident of this city, sold two-thirds of the shares in the concern in 1869 to Mr. E. W. H; man, of this city, for $2,500. The railway is now believed to be worth several million dollars. The growth of population gave Hon. Frank Smith and the later proprietors a very valuable franchise, which the city has now to buy back.

-It is remarkable that the question when the United States civil war began and ended has never been legally settled until now. By the act of the last September, listed soldiers after 30 years' service, with double pay for their service during the rebellion, a settlement of the moot question was rendered necessary, and the War Department has now decreed that April 15, 1861, was the official first day, of the re-bellion, and May 1, 1865, the last day. The first call for volunteers forms the basis for selection of the first date, and the sec ond date was officially determined upon by act of Congress in 1884.

—A refreshing example of commercial integrity is reported from Yorkshire, Eng. Mesers. I. and J. Ickringill, of Eastwood Mills, Keighley, who failed in 1879 for a large sum, and were released from their obliga tions on paying a composition amounting to 13s 6d in the pound, have called their old creditors together and presented them with the remaining 6s 6d, representing an additional sum of £10,214. Many obstacles overcome during the period which has elapsed since the failure of the firm, especially in regard to the fluctuations in the trade of the district, but at last the hones out of a long-cherished determination.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neek, produces unicipitity lumps or awellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or ness, often causing blundness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, enacerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for servfuls combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it. How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all "affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

Bey's Night School.

The boy's temperance night school was opened for the winter months last evening in the spacious quarters assigned for that purpose at the Colborne street school. Over 40 pupils were present and promised to attend regularly. Messrs. D. A. McDermid, superintendent, W. H. Liddicoatt, teacher, and R. M. Graham, assistant, were present, and formally organized the classes. The school is under the aupices of the W. C. T. U., and hereafter the ladies will assist Mr. Liddicoatt in the work, which will be conducted on the evenings of Monday and Thursday, a temperance talk being added to the curriculum of the latter. The Council has given an increased grant to assist in this commendable work, which has for its object the education of youths who are not able to possess themselves of the advantage of day schools.

Enjoyable Entertsinaent.

The commodious basement of the King Street Methodist Church held a large audience last evening, drawn thither by the prospect of a few hours' enjoyment in the form of a social entertainment under the auspices of the energetic Epworth League. Rev. Stephen Bond presided and introduced a programme which more than realized the expectations of those present. Solos were rendered by Miss Law ("Not Ashamed of Jesus"), Mr. Fleming, Miss Holman, Mr. Connors ("Alone on the Midnight Sea"), Miss Brenton and Mr. Chapman; recitations by Miss Fyer, Miss Parker, Miss Holman, Mr. Connors ("Alone on the Midnight Sea"), Miss Brenton and Mr. Chapman; recitations by Miss Fren, Miss Parker, Miss Allen, Mr. Smith; quartet by Misses Burns and Parker and Messra. A Grand Attraction.

To-morrow night Richard Stahl's new To-morrow night Richard Stahl's new romantic opera comique, "The Sea King," will be presented for the first time before a London audience by the William J. Gilmore Opera Company, a new organization which in a single night leaped into popularity by its magnificent production of the opera at Palmer's Theater, New York, the past summer, and succeeded during its season in that city to be the most successful of all the opera which were then being given nightly at the various play-houses. This company contains so many comic opera favorites that city theater-goers will find a host of welcome faces in its ranks, and are sure to accord it a warm and enthusiastic reception. Its subject deals with an ancient Spanish legend of the thirteenth century, and ample opportunity is thereby afforded for the display of picturesque seenery and heautiful costumes, the latter having been designed by the well-known Baron de Grimm. Bright and entertaining music, brilliant costumes, a clever libretto and a strong, well-balanced company form a combination which ought to command attention and meet with success here as it did in New York and Philadelphia.

Youth Convicted for Assault.

Youth Convicted for Assault.

It is generally known that a bad lot of boys loiter around the vicinity of Clark's Bridge at night. According at evidence deduced in the Police Court this morning, Joseph Stanley, who works for Dr. Moore, was proceeding from church last Sunday evening with a domestic employed in Mr. Emery's, Westminster, and when half a mile south of the bridge, on the road to the latter's home, were accosted by some youths from behind a fence. Three of the the latter's home, were accosted by some youths from behind a fence. Three of the party jumped over, and running up to Stanley each dealt him a blow in the face, and one of them, whom the witness recognized as Sidney Corbin, knocked him down with a club. He managed to escape after some chasing from the whole party of seven and found P. C. Chalmers, who returned with him to the spot from whence the birds had flown. As a result Stanley swore an information out against Corbin for assault. The girl corroborated the plaintiff's evidence and said Corbin had afterwards walked home with her, against her will. Mr. Frank Spettigue testified to the character of the defendant, who had been in his employ a month, but the prosecuting attorney, Mr. McKillop, met this statement by announcing that the boy had been before the Police Court a dozen times and had been convicted within a little more than a month ago. Mr. Frank Love defended the prisoner as well as possible with the material at his hands. The Magistrate sentenced Corbin to one month's hard labor. His additional warning had evidently no effect on the youthful criminal, who, as he was leaving the room, shook his fist at Stanley, and with an oath said he would get even with him. For this he was brought back into court. The Magistrate declined to increase the punishment, although commenting on his own leniency.

Clark, president of the union societies of the United States, together with their masterly answers, were also reproduced with great profit to the representative's hearers. Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., followed with an earnest plea for the co-operation of the Endeavor Societies with the Y. M. C. A. He pointed out several existing evils which might be remedied by the united action of the two bodies, and instanced the habit of cigarette smoking which was prevalent among the small boys of the city. In concluding the speaker invited the young men of the Endeavor Societies to make the Y. M. C. A. rooms their headquarters and promised them a hearty welcome. The meeting closed after an address by Rev. T. E. Harrison on "Christian Endeavor Work," in the course of which the speaker urged his hearers to accept Christ as their first motive power. After that was done the entire machinery of the society should be sure to succeed. Rev. W. J. Clark, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was to have delivered the address entitled "Our Influence," which created so favorable an impression at the Hamilton conveniention, but he was prevented owing to a severe cold. The local union now includes nine societies, and as four new societies have been organized this fall it is likely that they too will join in a short time.

MORTAR-SPOTTED SKIN Covered with Scales, Awful Spectacle Cured in Five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

Cutioura Remedies.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary cure your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pinuples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look later on, when it began to look later on, when it began to look accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, then the next night the scales, being formed meanwhile, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, Inappened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and purchased them from my druggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped case thirteen months before the discase thirteen months before the discase thirteen months before the scale of the discase thirteen months before the discase thirteen months befo
