The Legislature Concludes Its Actual Business,

And Formal Prorogation Takes Place on Tuesday—A Day of Third Readings.

(Special to the "Advertiser.") PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, TO-RONTO, April 11.-The first session of the eighth Legislature of Ontario has closed, so far as real work is concerned. On Tuesday next a few members will meet forlornly in the Legislative Chamber to be formally prorogued by his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

As might be expected the day was one of hard work. The House met for a couple of hours in the morning, during which it passed bills with steady industry, and the afternoon sitting was prolonged until a quarter to eight, when 'Auld Lang Syne' and "God Save the Queen" were sung and the House ad-

Nearly all the proceedings were uninteresting, some 30 or 40 bills receiving their finishing touches, and formal work occupying a large portion of the time of the House.

Still, the afternoon saw the sharpest and most exciting contest of the ses-sion—that over the proposition to assess as farm lands vacant lots in cities. The Toronto members yesterday voted in misapprehension for the bill whicr Toronto is so interested in opposing, and today when the bill came up for its third reading Mr. Crawford moved to strike out the objectionable clauses. This was beaten by a vote of 49 to 33. Then a Hamilton member, Mr. Middleton, moved that the bill would not apply to blocks smaller than ten acres, and this was carried by 41 to 40. This amendment was inserted in committee of the whole, and when the bill once more came up for its third reading Mr. German moved yet another amendment that the bill should apply to blocks over two acres, and this carried by a vote of 46 to 27.

Another division took place during the afternoon. Mr. Whitney moved to strike out the vote of $50,000 for the avail, and he gradually grew worse, Inter-Provincial Bridge at Ottawa. The grant was defended by Hon. Mr. Harty and Hon. Mr. Bronson, and was sus-53 to 34.

Sir Oliver Mowat moved the following resolution which was unanimously "That this House is desirous of diminishing the number of appeals which are open to litigants, and that with this view the House is of opinion that at present appeals from Ontario to the Supreme Court of Canada are allowed in cases in which appeals are not allowed from the Quebec courts; that this House desires appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada from this Province to be limited to cases of controversy between the Dominion of Canada and this Province, or between this Province and any other Province, or cases which involve the question of the constitutional validity of an act of the Legislature of this Prvince, or any other question on the construction of the B. N. A. Act, or of an act of the Parliament of Canada; that in other cases there should be no appeal to the Supreme Court except by consent, unless the matter substantially in dispute is of the sum or value of at least $5,000, and the judges of the Court of Appeal are divided in opinion as to the proper judgment and give leave to appeal to the Supreme Court, or unless the Legislature should hereafter provide for appeals to the Supreme Court in other cases."

Just as the House was adjourning Mr. Whitney expressed in a very handsome manner the gratification of the Conservative members at the improvement in the health of the Speaker, Hon. W. D. Balfour, and their sense of the able manner in which he had discharged his duties. Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Haycock and Hon. Mr. Hardy echoed his

The Lady Thompson memorial fund now amounts to $35,000. Mr. Thomas Kirkpatrick, postmaster of Thedford, is dead, aged 84 years. The G. O. P. Railway, between Lashute and St. Andrews, will commence running this (Friday) morning. The Chatham Board of Trade voted Hown a motion indorsing the applica-tion to Parliament for incorporation as a city by 7 to 4. The man who was killed on Tuesday morning on the railway between Guelph and Elora has been identified as Joseph Moore, of Georgetown, a farm laborer. Judge Andrews has rendered judgment in the action for libel of Angers rs. Pacaud at Quebec, condemning the lefendant to pay $5,000 and the costs of the suit. Newspaper slot machines are being tried in the Hamilton street cars. The machine contains a bundle of papers, and as a cent is dropped in a paper comes out.

The Rev. J. B. Silcox, of Emmanuel Church, Montreal, has just telegraphed his acceptance of a call to Chicago, to the pastorate of the Leavitt Street Congregational Church.

On Wednesday morning the Roman Catholic convent and church in Fort William were completely destroyed by fire. In the evening another fire destroyed several buildings in the place. Joseph Boroque, contractor, of Hull, has been served with an action taken in the name of the Hon. Chas. T. INCENDIARISM IN TORONTO.

Inquiry Into the Cause of the Simpson Fire.

The Arrest of Four Suspects Ordered-The Globe Fire To Be Investigated.

TORONTO, Ont., April 12.—The inquest into the Simpson fire was finished at a quarter after I o'clock this morning, when the jury returned a verdict to the effect that it was of incendiary origin, and advising that the conduct of W. J. Sproatt, Wm. Farley, David Livingstone and Alex. Mc-Kee in connection with the affair should be investigated by the police magistrate. Sprott, Livingstone and McKee were employes of the Holmes Protective Company, and Farley was the engineer of the burned building. The four will be arrested at

London Loses One of Its Most Efficient Firemen.

Dies in St. Joseph's Hospital After a Two Months' Illness - Popular "Jim" Gleeson Drove the Hose Wagon.

The London fire department last evening lost one of its oldest, most efficient and popular members by the death of Mr. James Gleeson, which occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital about 6:30 o'clock. Death was not unexpected. Mr. Gleeson had been ill for about two months. He was on duty the night of the Dundas Street Center Church fire, and, though anything but well, remained with the department during the entire night, which was a very cold one. This did not improve his condition, but Gleeson stayed at the station for a few days afterwards. He was finally compelled to give up, and, hoping that he would regain his former health, asked for his holidays. This was granted, but Gleeson did not improve, and seven weeks ago Monday he went to St. Joseph's. There he was treated for catarrh of the stomach, but and it became necessary to preclude any of his fellow-firemen or friends from seeing him. On Wednesday he snowed marked improvement, and hopes were entertained for his recovery, but the improvement proved only temporary.

Deceased was appointed a call fireman on June 1, 1881, and after two years' service in that capacity was placed on the regular staff and assigned to drive the hose wagon. "Jim," as he was generally known, was very popular with all his acquaintances, and by his steady habits gained the confidence of his superior officers in the department. He was born in the county of Oxford in 1860, and with his parents came to London at an early age. He leaves a wife and two children, and four brothers and a sister. The brothers are Patrick C., of 603 Bathurst street; Thomas, cooper, 516 Horton street, city, and John and William, employes of the Imperial Oil Company, Petrolea. Mrs. Wm. James, 109 Cartwright street, city, is the sister. Mr. Gleeson was a Roman Catholic, and in politics a Liberal. The funeral will leave St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday at 9:30 for St. Peter's Cathedral. It is likely that the firemen audience. Rose Coghlan, Charles Coghlan, John T. Sullivan, Courtenay Thorpe, Charles Coote, Beatrice Moorehead and Fanny Denham House are the leading members of the company, and they appeared to excellent advantage in the roles

No. 1 Committee Wrestles With the Estimates.

And Ciphers out a Rate of 21 and 9=10 Mills.

Which May Be Cut Down Another Mill -Long Columns of Figures Manipulated.

No. 1 committee wrestled long with the estimates last night, and smote a vigorous blow at the high rate that some people have been predicting. There were visions of 22 or more mills floating before the eyes of some members of the board when the meeting started. These visions faded away before the close, when a rate of 21 9-10 was recommended, along with an additional suggestion, which, if acted on, will reduce the rate to 20 9-10 mills. There are other means at the disposal of the committee whereby an additional reduction of three-eighths of a mill can be made. It was a huge pile of figures that the members had to wade through, but, judging from the dispatch with which the items were handled, many of the members had been through the rows of figures before. The estimated receipts amounted to $406,900 33. These were based on a rate of 21 3-10 mills, apportioned as follows: Debt rate, 8.7; for school purposes, 4.9; other purposes, 7.7—on an assessment of $13,863,095. There is raised, other than by taxation, $96,333 96. Of this amount $53,-709 is revenue from the waterworks, The balance consists of railway and civic rents, street watering rates, sewer, block pavement and local improvement rates, etc. The expenditure for the year is estimated at $416,050 33. Of this about $17,-656 72 is uncontrollable, and is appor-

Deduct from streets.....$2,000 Deduct from street cleaning...... 1,000 Less road roller. 3,200 Reduce unforeseen expenditure. 1,000 School mortgage to be carried for Total$9,150 The mayor finally moved that the rate be recommended as 21 9-10 mills, with the suggestion that the school board, No. 2 committee and No. 3 committee each deduct $5,000 from their estimates, reducing that rate by another mill.

The motion carried and the committee will meet the school board at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon.

During the discussion some of the members sharply criticised the school "They had better call a halt," said Chairman J. W. Jones, as he pointed out that 6 mills, at least, would be required for school purposes. The yearly increases in salaries in vogue among the teachers were denounced, and it was suggested that the amount of each man's taxes required for school purposes be made out on the tax notices. School trustees, they said, should bear their own responsibility and not shelter behind the aldermen, who had to take the onus on their shoulders.

Ald. Brener wanted to reduce the school board esimates by $20,000, making it the same as last year. "They will only overdraw their appropriation if you do," said Ald. Jones.
"If I have to sign the checks this year." they wont," added Mayor Little, emphatically.

Col. Macbeth and Capt. J. A. Thomas were a deputation from the London Boating Club to ask the committee to recommend a grant of $200 towards the erection of a steel foot bridge across the Thames at the foot of King street. Capt. Thomas said that if the city would do this he would deed a strip of property along the west river bank which would permit citizens of the northern end of the sixth ward to utilize the bridge from Becher street. Ald. Armstrong moved that a grant of $150 be made. Ald. Dreaney moved that $200 be granted. This amendment was lost and the motion carried.

Messrs. J. H. A. Beattie and T. R. Parker were heard in support of a grant of $250 toward the Children's Aid Society. The grant was made.
Adjutant Millar, Salvation Army, applied for a grant of $500 to the Workingmen's Hotel. Laid over until the estimates are reached. The question of a grant to the colored citizens demonstration was also referred. It was decided to accept the tender of the London Printing and Lithographing Company for the printing of 4,000 copies of the assessment rolls at

It was decided to place other city property on the old central school grounds, East London waterworks property and the gravel pits up at auction in a few weeks.

WEDNESDAY'S C. T. R. ORDER.

A Feeling That the Car Shops Will Not Close.

And That the Action of the Company Is "a Bluff."

The order to close down the Grand Trunk shops was the chief topic of conversation throughout the city yesterday. In municipal circles there was a tendency to look upon the matter as a bluff, and little reliance was placed on the second state of the s perhaps the move was to offset the claim of the Port Stanley board to about $30,000, the amount of depreciation that occurred on the L. and P. S. R. while leased to the Grand Trunk. Although nothing definite had yet been done by the board, there was a tendency on the part of the members at a recent meeting to move towards recovering the amount which the G. T. R. was bound by the terms of the lease to refund. However, no demand had been made for the amount. Instead, a letter was sent to the company acquainting them of the fact that the board had waived its claim to the amount.

Among the merchants the same feelng pervaded as in municipal quarters that the order would not go.
"The company would hardly dare, in the face of the competition of the C. P. R., M. C. R., and L. E. and D. R., to treat London in that manner," said a prominent shipper. "No, I do not believe that it is the company's intention to shut up the shops for good.' Even in railway circles the impression is abroad that there is a motive behind the order that will shortly beome apparent.

"It does not stand to reason that the company will haul all their passenger repair work to Toronto and their freight work to Brantford, as is proposed," said a car shop man last night.
The only men who do not look upon the matter as a bluff are men who are directly affected by the order. They are naturally anxious that some steps be taken to influence the company. Some of the men under orders to move have lately bought property, not anticipating the change. Worse than that —many of the men who will be thrown ave been struggling t pay for their property, and have only partially succeeded.

The order does not include about fifteen men employed in the stores department.

The lumber department will be moved to Brantford if the order holds good. Foreman Green has received orders to get rid of the lumber on hand. Some of the men say that lately machines have been shipped away one at a time to other places.

FALLACY OF EARLY RISING.

About Mid-Day Is the Time for Doing the Best Work.

(British Medical Journal.) Proverbs are responsible for a great deal of folly, and none perhaps for more mischief under the present conditions of town life than those which inculcate early rising as a virtue. When the great majority lived in villages, and were engaged in the cultivation of the soil, early rising may have been conducive to health and wealth, if not to wisdom, but even our early forefathers probably did no more than make virtue of necessity. It is said to be natural—that is, physiological—to rise early and enjoy the beauties of the sunrise; if we ask why, we are treated to various transcendental theories about the vivifying influences of the sun, and are told to take example by the birds of the air and the beasts of the field or so many of them as are not nocturnal is their habits. But as a matter of fact, physiology, so far as it has anything to say on the subject at all, is all against the early rising theory. Physiological experiment appears to show that a man door not work best. show that a man does not work best and fastest in the early morning hours, but on the contrary about midday. The desire to rise early, except in those trained from youth to out-door pursuits is commonly a sign, not of strength of character and vigor of body, but of advancing age. The very old often sleep much, but they do not sleep long. A long, deep sleep, the sleep of youth, requires for its production a thoroughly elastic vascular system. The stiffening vessels of age are not so completely nor so easily controlled by the vasomotor nerves. Hence shorter sleeps. Thus paterfamilias, who goes to bed at 11 p.m., wants to get up at 5 or 6 a.m., and looks upon his healthy son, who prefers to lie till 8, as a sluggard. When this foolish interpretation of a proverb about the health and wealth to be got from early rising is combined with the more foolish adage which says of sleep: "Six hours for a man, then we have a vicious system capable of working great mischief to young people of both sexes. There is a tendency, greatly encouraged in towns by seven for a woman and eight for a fool," dency, greatly encouraged in towns by the spread of cycling, to curtail unduly the hours of sleep. Parties of young men and lads are to be met careering about the streets at midnight. They would be far better in bed. They have probably to be in their offices or shops by 9 a.m., or even earlier, and when time is deducted for supper, tollet, breakfast, and the journey to the place of business, it is evident that the hours for sleep cannot exceed six, or at most seven. These young men are no doubt encouraged by the silly adage quoted above. There is a disposition in town youths to overdo outdoor exercise. The cycling club "night spins" are instances in point. As Nordau has said, with a great deal of truth, the town dweller of these last decades of the nineteenth century suffers from nervous fatigue, and is so ill-advised as to make his very recreations sources, not of recu-peration, but of increased exhaustion.

NOTICE NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN NOTICE—NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a bylaw for altering that part of the original allowance for road or street constituting Queen's avenue (formerly east North street), lying between William and Adelaide streets, in the City of London, by closing and stopping up and declaring to be no longer a public highway or street or part thereof, a strip of said original allowance running along the northerly side thereof, from William street to Adelaide street, aforesaid, of the uniform width of 33 feet, and also a strip of said original allowance running along the street to Adelaide street, aforesaid, of the uniform width of 33 feet, and also a strip of said original allowance running along the southerly side thereof from William street to Adelaide street, afore-aid, of the uniform width of 33 feet, thus limiting the width of that part of Queeu's avenue above mentioned to 66 feet, in accordance with the plan and survey of certain lands including said part of said street, made by Samuel Peters, Esquire. P. L. S., for the late Reverend Benjamin Cronyn, and registered in the registry office for the City of London on the 5th March, 1855, as plan No. 73; and for selling and conveying the parts so stopped up to the owners of lands adjacent thereto, or otherwise selling and disposing thereof, will be submitted to the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of London at the meeting of said council to be held on Monday. June 3, 1895, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock in the evening if a meeting shall be held on that day; or, if no meeting be held on that day, then at the first meeting of council held next thereafter, and that the same will then be considered and dealt with by the said council. Dated this 11th day of April, 1895. C. A. KINGSTON, City Clerk.

BARON BUOL-BERENBERG.

Career of the Man Whe Succeeds Levetzow In the Reichstag.

Baron Rudolph Buol-Berenberg, First Vice-President of the German Reichstag, who was elected President of that body the other day to succeed Herr von Levetzow, has long occupied a prominent place in German politics. For a number of insomnia in consequence of the obtrusyears he has been the leader of the Central or Catholic party in the empire, and for some time First Vice-President of the sen, a town near Stochach, in the great Duchy of Baden, May 24, 1842. His early education was acquired in his native town and about 1862 he commenced the study of law. During the next few years he was a student of Munich and Heidelberg. It was only after a severe struggle against Oi hit him on the head with the poker, adverse circumstances that he secured his but it didn't do a bit of good, sorr.' degree. In 1870 he received an appiontment to a Judgeship at Mannheim and at the present day he occupies an important place in the judiciary of Germany. In 1881 he was elected to the Legislature of Baden and three years later entered the Reichstag as a member of the Central or Catholic party, of which he is now the leader. In 1890 Baron Buol-Berenberg presided over a large congress of Catholics at Bonn. On accepting the Presidency of the Reichstag he took occasion to eulogize the record of his predecessor, Herr von Levetzow, who resigned because the Reichstag refused to allow him to con-

body on his birthday. Selfish, but Enlightened. Rating the selfishness of England in her struggles for expansion at its very highest, it is difficult to deny to that selfishness the quality of enlightenment. Wherever she has implanted her rule it has been on the whole for the good of the governed. Without claiming perfection for the English law and English administrators, it must yet be admitted that they approach as near to abstract justice in their relations to subject peoples as is possible in this very imperfect world. Trade privileges are thrown open to all her subjects, their efforts to better themselves are unhindered or even encouraged by their rulers. Moreover this country early inculcated the principles of even-handed justice between man and man; and from this principle she has never varied.

gratulate Bismarck in the name of that

The same law for both Englishman and native is the unchanging rule and, as a result, the subject populations live in security and good order. It is yet an undecided question how far it suits the persoonal idiosyncrasies of Mussulman and Hindoo that they can no longer bribe Judges to their side, or take their own by the strong hand when bribery has failed. But if we are to accept the definition of the well-ordered state, which obtains in Roast you brown, don't rear aroun', the Western World, and believe that county to be happy where courts are incorruptible, and life and property secure, then it must be admitted that India has profited by English rule. Nor would it be hard to demonstrate the existence of similar dealings by England with other subject

If the all but universal testimony of South African politicians and publicists can be accepted, then we have an excellent case in point when we contrast our own relations too the Zulus with those of our Dutch neighbors in the Transvaal. For oppression is the method employed by the one, and fair dealing by the other. Indeed, we believe it would be hard to point to a single instance of flagrant injustice or oppression at the hands of English rulers—at least in recent times.—The Spectator.

The Great Canceller.

The introduction of cancelling machines in the Post Office has done away with the fame that our office had in one regard, and which was not rivalled by that any other Post Office in the United States. Before the machines came into use all the work was done by hand, and it required some skill to put the cancellation stamp on in any kind of a regular manner. There was one man in the office who brought the cancellation to a very high degree of perfection. This was Emerson K. Dewey, who still works in the office. but since the introduction of the machines there has been no need of his handiwork. He took especial pride in the way the stamp was put on, and his work was recognized by mail clerks throughout the country. It was a matter of surprise to the cutside world that a man could stamp so accurately which was a great contrast to the every which way in which some cancellation was done. These cancelled letters, of course, were always those sent out of the city, and the citizens had no means of knowing of the expertness of their Post Office employes unless they left town and so received letters, but the outside world for a long time knew the stamp of the Springfield office by reputation and marveled much how the hand of man could do it. -Springfield Republican.

The Eternal Fitness of Things. The Bishop of London, so runs the story, not long after he was appointed to his see, became dissatisfied with certain arrangements in his palace of Fulham, and called in an architect of eminence to advise him as to the alterations that could be made. The architect heard what was needed to be done, inspected the building throughout, and then drew up a report of the expenses that would be entailed by the required work. On receiving the statement of the expenditure which would inevitably be involved, the Bishop decided to allow things to remain as they were. But before the architect left his lordship said: "I shall be glad if you will tell me now for how much I shall draw a check on account of the trouble you have taken." "I thank your lordship-$500," was the disconcerting reply. "But sir, many of my curates do not receive so much for a whole year's serv-"That may be very true, my lord, but you will remember that I happen to be a Bishop in my profession." It is, perhaps, superfluous to add that the check was paid over in silence.

Your first experience in eating artichokes is that you are eating boiled pine cones.

The Scrap Bag.

Mr. Labouchere's London paper, 'Truth," says: "Numerous hints have been sent to me for the benefit of my lady correspondent who is afflicted with ive snoring of her lord and master. One recommends soap, which should be applied, slightly wetted, to the lips of the snorer as soon as he makes himself heard. Another advises that his mouth should be closed by a handkerchief passed under the chin and fastened on the top of the head. A third suggests that he should be forbidden to smoke or drink after dinner, and on no account allowed any supper. All these prescriptions come from married ladies. A male reader thinks that the lady would do best to fill her ears with cotton wool before retiring to rest." Does any reader of the "Advertiser" know of a remedy?

.... Talking about the faults of husbands, and how to cure them, don't use "moral suasion" of the sort employed by Mrs. Rafferty. "If your husband ill-treats you, you should heap coals of fire on his head," said the city missionary. "Well, sorr," replied Mrs. Rafferty, "Ol didn't do thot exactly, but Oi did the nixt thing to it. Oi used moral suasion.

Another occupation for young women has been invented by a clever Philadelphian, who advertises as "an entertainer of young persons and children," a sort of conductor of their parties. She directs the amusements of the little ones, according to their ages and tastes, and informs herself upon the subject. Her methods are described in an exchange. She consults with the parents a few days before the party is given, and discusses all the details of menu, decorations and games. She arrives at the house a few hours before the time to see that everything is in readiness, and when they are all assembled she entertains them, interests them in games, both old and new, some of which she has invented, and through these teaches them a bit of German and French, While they are enjoying a game to the fullest she sits down at the plane and plays a waltz, and they begin to dance. so they are sure not to tire of any one thing. The key to her method is to make each child as happy as possible.

President Cleveland's Opinion of Rev Dr. Lansing's "Apology."

BOSTON, Mass., April 11.-A Boston gentleman, upon reading Dr. Lansing's "apology" for his attack upon President Cleveland, wrote to Washington offering to go to Dr. Lansing to demand eparation. In reply he received today the fol-lowing dispatch from the President: "Washington. D. C., April 11.—While his so-called retraction is an aggravation of his original offense, I am willing that his further punishment should be left to his own conscience, and the contempt of his neighbors and the American people. (Signed.)

Curious Easter Customs.

The egg was regarded as symbolical of renewed life among the ancient Egyptians, Persians, Greeks, and Romans, and even in the present day the Parsees of Bombay distribute eggs at their spring festival. The early Christians seem to have adapted this custom to the teachings of Easter. In mediaeval times Easter eggs were solemnly blessed by the priest and distributed martyr of estheticism and make people feel less uncomfortable towards him and it. There are two things to among the people. The eggs were boiled very hard in water, colored with red, blue or violet dyes, with inscriptions cution too much of the spirit voiced by Harold Frederic of a desire to escape something nasty. The criminal they were offered as Easter gifts.

On Easter Monday the clergy and the couragement to make his escape had boys united in tossing balls, instead of he had shame enough and vigor enough eggs, and we are told that the bishops and deans even took the ball into the cathedral and at the beginning of the antiphone commenced to dance, throwing the ball to the choristers, who threw it back to each other. After service they retired for refreshments, when a papers which would fair make out the they retired for refreshments, when a miquity to belong to a very small and gammon of bacon, eaten in abhorrence of the Jews, was a standing dish, with a tansy pudding, symbolical of the bitter herbs of the Passover. An old English verse commemorates these customs:

At stool ball, Lucia, let us play For sugar, cakes or wine; Or for a tansy let us play,

The loss be mine or thine. If thou, my dear, a winner be At trundling of the ball,

The wager thou shalt have, and me, And my misfortunes all!

Another curious old Easter custom was the "lifting," as typical of the resurrection. Calls were made on Easter Monday, and it was customary for a crowd of young and gay gallants to carry about a chair, lined with rich white silk, from which garlands of flowers and streamers of ribbon depended, and to invite each fair young damsel of the household to be seated in the chair. The chair was then lifted as high as the young men could poise it in the air, and on its descent a kiss was demanded by each of the young men as a fee for the Easter lifting. Until quite recently this custom prevailed in many parts of England. Mr. Lyons, the keeper of the records of the Tower of London, has given an extract from one of the rolls in his custody, which mentions a payment made to certain ladies and maids of honor for "lifting" King Edward I. on Easter Monday. The sum that "Longshanks" paid for this luxury was no trifle, for it was equal but, as we have already pointed out, to at least $2,000 of our money. his objection tells equally against the Holy Scripture. Warm-hearted, clean-The good and healthy practice of rchery was a special recreation on souled divines in all ages have, with Easter Monday, and it was a popular Archdeacon Farrar thanked God that practice in England a century ago for the prizes given to the best shot to be he had given such purity of soul and courage to his holy apostle to speak plainly on this subject. Pitfalls are as a prize for archery on Easter Monset for them by design on every hand,

In Dorsetshire, England, even until quite recently, the parish church clerks house as Easter offerings, and in return for these cakes they received a gratuity. In the parish of Biddenham, in Kent, there is an ancient endowment for the distribution, on Easter afternoon, of cakes among the poor. In the beautiful valley of the Rhine, the Tyrolese observe Easter with every ceremony. It has been truly said that civilization has passed by the Tyrol, and not left upon it a trace of its unbelieving touch. Resurrection of Christ is still for them the tangible proof of revelation, and they honor the season accordingly. Bands of musicians, for which the Tyrolese have always been noted, traverse every valley, singing the beautiful Easter hymns to their guitars, and calling out the people to join in the Easter carols. The wide-brimmed hats are decorated with flowers; crowds of children accompany them, and, as night comes on, bear lighted torches, which cast strange shadows over the scene. The Pascal eggs, which have formed a necessary part of all Easter offerings for centuries past, are not forgotten. These are dyed in the brightest colors, and boiled hard, and some nave suitable mottoes written on the shells.

In Russia there has been little or no change in the righteous observance of Easter for centuries.

WESTMINSTER TOWNSHIP COUNCIL.

ODELL'S HOTEL. April 2-Minutes of a meeting of the Westminster Township Council. All the members present. Wm. Cousins and Donald Campbell applied for a grant to put gravel on the 7th concession road. Moved by G. Riddell, seconded by D. Nichols, that $40 be granted, providing that the parties interested finish the west space that is not graveled on lots 1 and 2, John Cousins to be commissioner. Carried. The sum of $1 83 was paid to John Taylor for a sheep killed. The sum of $1 was paid to D. Campbell for valuing the same. Thomas Garside applied to the council to make a new road to his house by the Wharncliffe road. Ordered that the reeve and D. Nichols see Mr. Garside's place and report at next meeting. Robert McEwen applied for a grant to improve the hill north of the creek on the town line. Moved by D. Nichols, seconded by J. Cousins, that the reeve, R. M. Piper, G. Riddell and D. Nichols meet the Delaware councilors and try to arrange for the improvement of the hill. Carried. Moved by R. M. Piper, seconded by D. Nichols, that the council will pay 15 cents per rod bounty for wire fence along the west side of the Gore road north of the Longwood's road. Carried. Ordered that the clerk get out the bills calling for tenders for gravel, the contracts to be let on the first Tuesday in May.

Mr. Vanstone addressed the council as usual about the side road, and stated that they would not sign the bond drawn up by D. M. Fraser to protect the council from any further expense. Moved by G. Riddell, seconded by J. Cousins, that no action be taken about Vanstone's and Baker's side road. Carried. The sum of $52 was paid for shoveling snow on the Dorchester town The sum of $67 was paid for shoveling snow on the leading roads. It was resolved that the cost of shoveling snow on the leading roads be paid out of the general funds, and on all other roads to be done by statute labor. The sum of $637 72 was the total paid by the council this day for gravel, shoveling snow, ward money and sundries. Next meeting of council on the first Tuesday

ANOTHER YEAR OF PROSPERITY. Annual Meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada-The Operations of 1894.

The annual meeting of this company was held in the head office building, Montreal, on March 15, 1895. There was a large attendance of those inter used to carry white cakes to every The main features of the report were as follows:

The operations of 1894 show most substantial and satisfactory progress, not only in volume of new business, but also in profit-earnings and general prosperity. The applications received were 5,920 for assurances, amounting to $10,290,-204 16. Of these 5,667 for $9,624,773 79 were accepted, the balance being declined or withdrawn. The new assurances actually put in force were 4,222 for $7,307,553 22. These figures are larger than those ever before reached in the company's history. There are now in force 19,373 policies, covering $31,528,-569 74, being an advance of 2,241 policies for $3,728,813 23 beyond the previous year. The net premium income has increased by $101,591 61; the income from interest and rents by $34,171 29, and the total income by $133,113 48. The assets have increased by $614,642 73. On the other hand, the death claims paid show a decrease of $29,476 05, and the out standing claims a decrease of $7,479 69, making a total saving in mortality as compared with last year of $36,955 74. In view of the strong position of the company it has been deemed expedient to anticipate the probable lowering of interest by calculating the liabilities at 4 per cent, instead of at 4 1-2 per cent, the Dominion Government standard. For this purpose a special reserve of $226,592 86 has been set aside from the surplus, leaving a balance of $174.781 08 over all liabilities and capital stock. The Sun is the first Canadian company to make this change. According to the Government standard the surplus would have been $401,373 94. This is an increase of $112,778 29 beyond 1893. The assets are well and safely invested, and yield an average of 5.7 per cent interest. A proof of their high quality is the fact that real estate held as the result of foreclosure amounts to only $77,159 14, as against mortgages of $2,605,339 11. Another important step taken is the adoption of a non-forfeiture proviso, whereby policies may be automatically protected against the risk of lapsing through neglect or temporary financial embarrassment. SUMMARY OF MAIN FEATURES. New life applications$10,290,204 16 Increase over 1893 751,048 33 Cash income for year.. ... 1,373,596 60 Increase over 1893.. .. 133,113 48

CLOSE OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The first session of the new Ontario Legislature has been unusually short, being only a little over seven weeks in duration. But it has been by no means dull or uninteresting. It has passed the political than to the judicial dea number of useful measures, and the members generally have taken an intelligent interest in the many important matters committed to their super-

This was the session, as we were told last November, which was to be made memorable by the overthrow of the veteran Ontario Premier. But how are the mighty prophets fallen! Probably never in his long history has Sir Oliver Mowat had a more comfortable period of legislative inquiry. The most important element introduced into the new Legislature was the Patron body. It was early seen that Patrons could not hold the balance of power as between the old parties, but it was as speedily determined that they meant to act independently of either. Sometimes they voted with the Government and sometimes with the Conservatives, and anon they found both Liberal and Conservative parties against their particular views. Mr. Haycock, the Patron chief, led them with discretion, and proved himself to be a man of stalwart independence. On the pass question the Patrons undoubtedly took the proper ground, and will likely have their way

Locally we were much interested in the passage of the general, Springbank, and radial electric railway bills, all of which were carried through the House without much friction. In promoting these measures specially affecting London, and in looking after the civic interests, the authorities received valuable assistance from Mr. Hobbs, M.P.P.

THE "CANADIAN BAPTIST" AND THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

Our contemporary has a temperate and well-considered article on the subject of the Manitoba schools. It says that the question is one of so vast importance to Manitoba and to the Dominion that it deems it proper to discuss it for a second time. The Baptist admits that the Roman Catholic minority are entitled to relief; that it would be glad that Manitoba should voluntarily undertake to relieve the Roman Catholics who do not use the public schools from the burden of supporting them. But while it goes this far, it cannot understand how anyone opposed to the separation of church and state can authorize the collection of rates for the purpose of teaching the doctrines of the Church of Rome. We do not share our contemporary's difficulties on this point. The separate school system is no novelty. It exists in this Province and Quebec. It was supposed to have been made part of the law of Man-Itoba at the union, and was established in 1871, and continued a part of the school system for twenty years.

We think our contemporary not very long ago opposed the affiliation of Mc-Master with the Toronto University on the ground that if the institution availed itself, in part, of a course of public instruction, it improperly established a connection between church and statea doctrine which if carried out to its legitimate consequences would exclude liar views of political philosophy to which we purpose directing attention, but to a legal argument which it addresses to its readers, and which, in point of law, is as unsound as the contention to which we have referred, and which we pass by without discussion. Our esteemed contemporary says:

"Had it been intended to make rights or privileges, which should be granted subsequent to the union, irrevocable, it is obvious that enactments derogating from these would have been void, as is the case in respect of enactments derogating from privileges possessed be-fore the union. Very probably the Ro-man Catholic hierarchy would have preferred this, but it is very questionable if Parliament would have dared to have sanctioned such a provision, had it been proposed. However this may be, it was neither proposed nor enacted, but the provision was adopted which leaves the whole matter open for the full consideration of the Government, and subsequently of the Parliament of Canada, which means, or ought to mean, the people of the whole Dominion. So that the real question to be discussed and determined is, whether the people of Canada deem separate schools in the interest of the population of Manitoba, and, if so, are they so clear as to their beneficial influence that they deem it right to force them upon that province contrary to the wish of the vast majority of the people. If this is their view they have, so the Judicial Committee has decided, constitutional authority to impose them; but if their view is either that in view of the circumstances of Manitoba their abolition was a wise act, or that it is a matter that the Province should decide for itself, then they have the constitutional authority to refuse to interfere, and should refuse.'

The view of our contemporary is one which wholly mistakes the principle involved in the constitutional provisions of the Manitoba Act. It is not simply that a discretionary power is bestowed upon the Governor in Council and upon the Parliament of Canada, but it is bestowed as a part of a compact, and for the purpose of giving greater security to the minority, whose privileges are the subject matter of the compact. The power of the Government and of Parliament is only discretionary in the sense in which every political act under parliamentary government is discretionary. There are but two grounds of action-the violation of the compact by the Province, and further, it must be in such a way as to produce a substantial grievance. This is shown very clearly by observations of their lordships during the progress of the argument. Mr. Haldane contended that any change might be regarded as a grievance which would constitutionally impose a higher rate upon the supporters of these schools than they had before borne. He was endeavoring to show that sub-sections 2 and 3 related to matters dealt with before, in subsection 1 of the 22nd section of the Manitoba Act. Their Lordships dissent from this, and they point out why it was more convenient to refer the matter to partment of Government for protection, ecause it gave greater freedom to the curity of the privilege. To make this clear, we quote from pages 258 and 259 of the argument: "Lord MacNaughten-Although the act may give a right of appeal to the Governor-General in every case in which the rights or privileges are affected, the Governor-General surely must consider whether the complaint is a substantial complaint or not, must not he? "Mr. Haldane-Does not that bring us back to what we were dealing with before? In the first place it is anomalous that a matter of this kind should be taken out of the competency of the Legislature, a matter of the specific kind I am speaking of now, and handed over to the Governor-General. In the second place, for whatever reason sub-section 3 of the Manitoba Act and sub-section 4 of the B. N. A. Act are so drawn as to speak of the function of the Governor-General to give a decision on an appeal on the question of whether a right or privilege of the minority is affected-

"Lord MacNaughten-Do you mean to say if there was a technical and unsubstantial interference with the privilege, the Governor-General would have to feel bound to have recourse to this extraordinary remedy?

"Mr. Haldane-I do not think it is any more technical or unsubstantial than the functions of your lordships, who often have to declare that an act is ultra vires. The Governor-General would give his decision.

"Lord MacNaughten-We are a judicial body, and he is not sitting as a judicial body. "Mr. Haldane-There come in those considerations which I will not venture "Lord MacNaughten-He is to take into consideration many things which we have not to do. "The Lord Chancellor-He cannot do anything himself. At the last resort the only person or body who can do anything more are the Parliament of Canada, who are certainly not under legal compulsion to act, and certainly would not act unless they conceived there was some substantial ground for it.

is the authority which by making pronouncements gives them power to make legislation. Lord MacNaughten-He is the judge in the first instance. You do not suppose that he is to go to the Parliament of Canada and say: 'There is an in-

"Mr. Haldane-Certainly not; but he fraction. Please pass a law.' He would have power to say 'That is such a trumpery matter that I am not going to do anything.' 'Mr. Haldane-I suppose the maxim de minimis non curat lex applies to him, as much as to anybody else. But I am putting that qua this class of things, his business is to declare his opinion. "The Lord Chancellor-That would not seem requisite 'for the due execution,' if he thought that there has been an infringement, but that it was so unsubstantial that, in substance, they had all the rights which were intended to be preserved to them. "Mr. Haldane-That would be a question for the Parliament of Canada.

"The Lord Chancellor—The words are 'As seems to the Governor-General-in-Council requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this section.

It would not seem to him requisite if there was no substantial right interfered with.'

If our contemporary examines this it will see that it has no more to do with the opinion of Canada upon separate schools than the opinion of Israel had to do with the observance by Joshua of the treaty made with the Gibeonites. The whole question is, Has the legislation of the Province interfered with any privilege secured by sections 2 and 3 of section 22 of the Manitoba Act? If so, are these intera Baptist Sunday School scholar from ferences of such a character as to maattending a public day school during terially affect those privileges? The legislation complained of upon the privileges intended to be protected against impairment. The Judicial Committee treat those provisions of the constitution as the terms of union- the result of negotiation between the representatives of the inhabitants of Manitoba and of the Dominion Government. It is the conclusion at which they arrived; it is the compact to be observed; it is a limitation upon the exclusive jurisdiction of the Province, to which, in public law, it was a party, and which ought to be honestly observed if the grievance is a substantial one. This is the doctrine of the Privy Council. How can it be said that the matter is a trumpery one, when every Roman Catholic school house in the Province erected before 1890 has been taken from them? Let us suppose that the Legislature of Ontario should decide that the work of education should be exclusively carried on by the State, and should expropriate McMaster Hall, Victoria College, Trinity College and Queen's College, and without compensation devote them to national and non-sectarian purposes, does our contemporary think that there would be any other ground for consideration than the question how it affected the parties pecuniarily interested? Is it prepared to argue that if the Province of Quebec authorizes the bishops to alter the boundaries of parishes, so that the Protestant school district is dismembered, and ceases to be legally entitled in consequence any longer to maintain a Protestant school, and is compelled in consequence, to support the school of the majority, that it is not the constitutional duty of the Governor-in-Council to entertain a complaint upon these facts, and to recommend remedial legislation, if the Legislature of Quebec should refuse to grant relief?

If this is its opinion it is certainly not ours, and we are equally certain that it is a wholly erroneous view of the compact which this provision of the constitution has established for the protection of minorities.

We must not be understood as contending that reasons of State cannot arise outside of the act which might make its observance inexpedient, that prejudices and intolerance might not be too strong for an observance of public is one wholly outside of the contemplation of the compact. It is not a state of public opinion that the press, and especially the religious press, ought to make stronger by proclaiming an arbitrary discretion, a thing unknown in our constitution.

STIRRING EXPERIENCES FOR A

LITTLE BRITISH ARMY. The British forces now on an expedition from India to Chitral have had ter-Legislature without impairing the se- rible experiences in the Shindar Pass. far away up in the mountains. Many were frostbitten and stricken with snow blindness, but still the brave little army marched onward to the relief of the beleaguered garrison at Chitral, from which, at last cable accounts from Calcutta, they were only 60 miles distant. That garrison consists of 300 men and the officer in charge, Dr. Robertson. They had provisions to last until the end of April, and ample water supply from the river immediately below the walls, and a good defensive position. The fort is an imposing structure, with lofty towers and walls of stones packed between mortised timbers. The men are Sikhs, Kashmir Dogras and Goorkhas, who are good soldiers, and Dr.

Robertson is a frontiersman of great ability. Chitral, the little Indian state whose future is bound up in the success of British arms in this expedition, lies on the southern slope of the great Hindoo-Koosh range. The province is about 100 miles long and from twelve to twenty in breadth. Its chief city, also named Chitral, where the garrison awaits relief, has about 4,000 inhabitants, most of whom are Mohamme-They have the reputation of being good fighters, but, of course. their present uprising is perfectly hopeless. Nearest neighbor to Chitral is the State of Swat, about the death of whose Akoond a very famous and equally admirable poem was once

A PROTEST FROM STRATFORD.

The readiness with which Hon. John A. Ouimet bobs up every day or two to declare the policy of the Dominion Gov-ernment, suggests that Sir Mackenzie Bowell should turn him down, if the Ministry is to be known as the Bowell Ministry. The sight of Ouimet at the helm of Government is rather trying for the stomachs of Ontario Conservatives.—Stratford Herald.

This statement from a representative western Conservative journal voices a common complaint among its party friends. But what is Mr. Bowell to do? Mr. Ouimet has assumed the position of dictator, and the new Conservative leader is not strong enough to say him nay. He has meekly to submit, or Mr. Ouimet will go into rebellion, as he has threatened to do. The "happy family" at Ottawa are at sixes and sevens because expediency, and not principle, governs their actions.

LONDON KEEPING IN THE LEAD. The ambition of England to maintain the biggest city in the world seems to go along with the ambition to maintain the biggest navy. A London journal boasts that the British metropolis is larger than the two largest cities of antiquity combined. If the streets of London were placed end to end it would make a continuous street reaching across Europe and Asia to the extremity of British India. London adds 60,-000 to her population every year, and averages a new house every hour. The London School Board spends $12,500,000 annually for the maintenance of free schools.-Boston Globe.

Mrs. McLaughlin's husband served in the corps of yeomanry commanded by Dr. Ross' grandfather, in the beginning of the century, and her good memory enables her to recall stirring events connected with those stirring times. Apart from the danger and disaffection caused by the rebellion of 1798—"The War," as the Irish call it—life and property were frequently threatened. A famous gang of robbers known as "Acheson's Gang," was a terror to the country. It consisted of seven men and two women. They were identified in a lodging-house in Limavady, where the landlady, a soldier's wife, shook the parming out of the pans of their pistols at night. All the members of the gang were captured and Capt. Ross sent them to Derry jail with an escort of yeomanry. They managed to break out of jail, and at midnight a messenger galloped to Lima-vady to put Capt. Ross on his guard. They were subsequently recaptured and executed. Since their execution no one has been hanged in Derry jail. In such times did Mrs. McLaughlin spend a good deal of her life. Her latter years have been tranquil, and all will join in wishing her "peace at the last."—The Gentlewoman.

HEART-BEATS.

The Reason Why the Heart Flutters, Palpitates and is Oppressed, and How to Relieve It.

The heart has a hard old time of it, and within itself does not excite much disease, but is very often called upon to display the troubling symptoms of palpitation, fluttering, labored breathing, oppression, etc., on account of diseased Kidneys offering increased resistance to the passage of the blood through their defective secretive structures, causing a morbid change in the blood unsuited to nourish the tissues and noxious to them. The minute arteries resist the passage of this foul blood, resulting in the muscular walls of the arteries and the ventricles of the heart becoming partially paralyzed, and from this cause results much of the so-called heart disease, which is owing to wasting Kidneys not being able to perform their functions. In order to relieve heart trouble remove the cause in the Kidneys with Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They relieve the blood of poisonous deposits, it goes on its way a stream of health, relieving the heart and imparting strength to every tissue of the body. When your heart is in trouble Chase's Pills quickly remove the causing condition, no matter whether it exists on account of disorder of the kidneys, liver, stomach, or of nervous affection. STILL SHOOTING

The big tournament of the London Gun Club, which opened at the club grounds on Tuesday morning, will conclude today. The shooting was continued yesterday afternoon before a large crowd of spectators. Two events and a special sweep were shot off. The first was for a guaranteed $100 purse of five equal prizes, and twenty blue rocks were allowed each competitor. Graham and Strong made 19 each, and divided first money; second prize went to Wolfe and Shine, with 18; Andrews was the only scorer of 17, and he raked in the third $50; Tyro, F. Johnson, Grigg, Grener, A. Johnson, Farrell, Mack, Parker and Damon shared up fourth money with 16; and Dyer, Donald and Cantelon divided fifth prize. Scores: Squad No. 1-

Only Two of the Early Advertisers Known to be Alive Today.

Queer Advertisements-A Dearth Local News-Were Times Hard? -The Proprietor's Notice.

Most people like to get hold of a very old newspaper, more especially one that is of interest locally. Mr. James Gillean—the connecting link between past and present London-has furnished the "Advertiser" with a copy of the London (Can.) Times, published on Friday, Dec. 15, 1848. Of the numerous advertisers-and there were many even then who knew the value of printer's ink in oiling the wheels of trade—only two are known to be alive at the present day, Messrs. James Gillean and Murray Anderson. Eighteen hundred and forty-eight! Just three years less than half a century ago! Nearly five decades! Little wonder that the business men of that day have for the most part passed away. It was in the midst of the Californian gold fever and seven years before the Crimean war, which convulsed Europe; practically before Confederation was thought of; and nearly a generation before the memorable struggle by which the colored slaves of the United States were given their freedom. It is a 4-page paper, and comes by its yellow appearance honorably. It was a loyal paper, ornamented on the head-line with the British coat of arms-the lion and the unicorn. Cowley, the proprietor, announced that the paper was published on Richmond street, "near the English Protestant Church." The terms were 15 shillings a year ($3 60), and the paper was only published once a week. Mr. Cowley an-nounced a liberal discount if paid in advance. The advertising rates were as follows: "Less than six lines, three and ninepence for three insertions, and sixpence for each continued insertion. "For six and not exceeding ten lines, five shillings for three insertions, and a penny a line for each subsequent inser-

The notice further reads: "Advertisements will be inserted until written or-ders are received to discontinue them. This is an INDISPENSABLE obliga-

Evidently in those days Mr. Cowley sought a means of escaping from those busy people who think it sufficient to put their head inside of a newspaper office and shout "Stop my ad!" and go away without ever leaving a name by which to identify the ad.

Mr. Cowley was a pretty old man when he took hold of the Times. He was an Englishman, who came in from the country, where his people were farming, to mould public opinion in the town according to his way of thinking He evidently was a good business man, as he further announced that job work would be done in a cheap and superior manner "on the ready money system." No vegetables, or cordwood, or dried apples, or bacon for Mr. Cowley!

Again Mr. Cowley informs the public generally that postage on all communications must be paid. Speaking of postage calls attention to the mail arangements as set forth in another column by George J. Goodhue, P.M. Of course all mails were then dispatched by stage. Railways had not yet made their advent this far west. In those days London's postoffice was open on Sunday from 9 to 10 o'clock a.m., and again from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Weekdays it was open from 8 a.m. to west and south; a north mail to Bayfield and Goderich twice a week, and a northwest mail in the direction of Sar-cates to teach Irish doubled. Irish was Wallaceburg three times a week. Times must have been poor in 1848 if advertisements of sheriff's sales, attachments and meeting of creditors in bankruptcy are any criterion. The Times contained no less than twelve display advertisements of this nature, each averaging 35 lines. Thos. Craig had a number of advertisements setting forth his ability to buy rags for cash, to sell paper hangings at reduced rates, and also "The Irish National school books at reduced prices." They included the general lessons, the second

The advertisement further states that the books are all printed on substantial paper, in a clear type, and strongly bound in linen for use in the school-room. "They are employed in the tuition of nearly half a million of children in Ireland, and many of the principal seminaries in England now use them exclusively. In Canada the series of school books has met with the approbation of his Excellency the Governor, of the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, of many influential clergymen gregational, Baptist and other churches, of many teachers, and of the two super-intendents of education for Canada, East

"W. monthly fashion plate! Thomas Craig advertised in another part of the paper: "Dickens' Last-Complete-Viz., 'Dombey and Son,' with plates.'

James Gillean advertises "New Books for Christmas and New Year's Presents," including "The Pearl," "The Hacinthe," "Poetry of Love." James Hamilton was sheriff; James Givins, judge of the district court; John C. Meredith, clerk of the division court;

Col. John B. Askin, clerk of the peace; W. W. Street and George Scott, as-The professions were fairly well represented, and among the lawyers who advertised were: Daniel & Duggan, city; D. Watson, Goderich; Parke & Scat-chard (E. Jones Parke, Woodstock, and Thomas Scatchard, London). Medical men-A. C. Stone, M.D., Dr. Billington (Delaware) and Dr. Going. Druggists—A. W. Gibbs and John Dentists-Brown & Da la Hooke and A. C. Stone, M.D.

Veterinaries—George Lockyer and H. Williams. Groceries-Edward Adams, Tyas & Williams, Lawrason & Chisholm. Stoves—Murray Anderson, Lawrason & Chisholm. Books and musical instruments--Jas. Gillean.

Tannery-S. Morrill. Brewery-Samuel Eccles. Book bindery—Eastwood & Co. The relations between John Harris, treasurer of the London district and the London district council, were evidently a trifle strained, as the following advertisement might lead to sup-

"I, John Harris, Esq., treasurer of the London district, hereby caution all persons to make no payment of moneys going into the London district treasury to anyone but me-as, notwithstanding the late conduct of a small majority of the district council, I am yet the only person authorized by law to receive such moneys. Parties neglecting this caution will be proceeded against according to law."

However, enough of the advertise-ments, and now to the news features of London's early weekly. As a chronicler of local news it was a dismal failure. The following two small items were the only local news:

"The annual Mechanics' Institute

soiree came off on Tuesday evening last, with pleasure and satisfaction to all parties concerned. The attendance was large, the fare excellent, and a respectable amount was realized in the shape of proceeds. The company was addressed by the president, John Wilson, Esq., M.P.P.; by the Hon. Malcolm Cameron, and by H. C. R. Becher,

"A public meeting of the electors of St. Andrew's ward was held on Monday the 11th inst., at Mr. Matthews' tayern, Mr. James Farley in the chair, and Mr. John Brown acting as secretary, when the following resolutions were adopted:

'1. That Mr. Philo Bennett be nominated as a proper person to be elected as one of the councilmen for St. Andrew's ward for the ensuing year.'
"2. That James Daniel be nominated as a proper person to be elected as one of the councilmen for St. Andrew's ward for the ensuing year.'

"3. That Simeon Morrill, Esq., be nominated for mayor for the town of London during the ensuing year.' 4. That a committee be chosen by this meeting to carry the foregoing resolutions into effect, and that the following gentlemen do compose that committee: Thomas Haskett, James Michael Kennedy, James Couziens, John Matthews, John Wilson, Charles Davidson, George Cox, Wm. Dunbar, Capt. John Smith, John Scanlon, E. P. Ellis, — Johnston, Henry Groves, Wm. Huggins, D. O. Marsh, Alex. Griffith!"

What plentitude of local news! What an easy time the Times reporter must have had! Or did he fill in the time.

have had! Or did he fill in the time by setting type or running a press? Imagine a public meeting of electors being held in a tavern in 1895!

Of foreign news there was a great deal, including, "Seven days later from Europe by steamship Britanrie," and copied from the Hamilton Gazette. There was alarming news from the continent—the gathering of the war cloud that burst in 1855. France was awaiting with great anxiety the election of President. Cholera had broken out in England, and had even spread to ew York. Ireland appeared to be full of state prisoners. Berlin was in a state of siege. Two German emigrant vessels, each containing between 300 and 400 persons, were wrecked on the Long and Goodwin Sands. There was trouble in Vienna, and altogether the outlook was gloomy.

In order to fully realize the progress that has been made and the advance-ment of civilization during the last halfcentury, a half-hour should be spent with an old newspaper.

IRISH is spreading in the schools of Ireland; 1,051 candidates presented themselves for examination in their na-There were daily mails east, tive tongue last year, as compared with 831 the year before. The number of school masters who obtained certifitaught in eleven new board schools, and the sale of books of the Society for the Preservation of the Irish Language was largely increased. MR. HARRY DE WINDT, who has traveled extensively in siberia, in lecturing recently on 'The Prisons of Siberia" in London, said that there are about 230 prisons in that country, twothirds of which are resting places along the great post road to the Pacific. To these about 17,000 persons a year have been sent from Russia during the last fifteen years. The silver mines of Nertchinsk, near the Chinese frontier, are book of lessons, the third book of lessons, the fourth book of lessons, the fourth book of lessons, the first book of arithmetic, key to ditto, elements of geometry, a treatise on mensuration, and an appendix to the mensuration for the use of teachers. mensuration for the use of teachers. same as that of English miners, except Also an introduction to geography, that they do less work.

Local Market. Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

London, Thursday, April 11. Grain receipts today were mostly oats, with few loads of barley and wheat. Little or no change occurred in values. Grain was not the only line in which considerable activity was noticeable. Provisions, meats, vegetables, hay and straw all lent their aid in making one of the busiest markets this month. ROWING AND HEALTH.

Injury to the Lungs and Enlargement of the Heart the Dangers.

Rowing, of which university men are so fond, is of all exercises the one which affects respiration. You will see a crew that has not yet been trained go out for active exercise, and as they get into the full swing of the work you will notice, if you are careful, how powerfully the breathing is affected. The breathing, you will see, is rapid; there is a sort of bluish pallor in the lips and face, and even when the act of rowing is stopped there is an out-of-breath condition which is felt more or less by all who have been doing the same work. Of course there are always differences in different rowers according to the build of the body. The man with a good, large chest, and the tall man, the man who by a spirometer can show from 250 to 800 cubic inches without fatigue, will be infinitely less breathless than the man with a small chest and short body, and who can only blow 200 to 250 cubic inches; but, more or less, all will suffer, and the great danger of rowing lies in injury done to the respiration in the first instance. If I were to select from a body of young men, promiscuously brought together, those who were best for a rowing match, I could by proper measurement of the breathing power, of the height of the body, of the size of the chest, pick out almost without question those men who would make, in the end, the best crews, although at the time not one of them had become trained to rowing practice; and this is, I think, what ought to be done in the selection of crews for great competitions, since it is very bad for a young man even to train into a practice which by excessive exercise shall impair the function of the lungs. I do not say this. from any prejudice, and I do not wish to exaggerate in the least degree. The disease emphysema-that is, rupture of the air vesicles of the lungs-which some think they have noticed as consequent upon rowing. I cannot say I have ever seen, and it is but honest to add that I have known an improved development of the breathing organs and of the capacity of the chest induced by moderate rowing. What I have seen, and what I would warn against, is an effect of rowing which shows itself in a persistent difficulty of breathing during the exercise, and which is followed by some shortness of breath in other efforts, such as walking and riding, playing at tennis or cricket and such like exertions. Rowing, moreover, when it affects the breathing, is liable, secondarily, to cause disturbance of the circulation. The position of the rower in the boat is peculiar. His lower limbs are, to a considerable extent, fixed; his body is bent forward and then strongly backward, the chest being kept in full tension. During these acts there is considerable strain thrown upon the valves of the heart. The blood which has to course over the arteries from the heart must ascend before it makes its way anywhere over the body; ascends over what the anatomists call the aortic arch, and be prevented from going back into the heart on the left side by three valves, which allow the blood to come forth from the centre, but which, falling down, check it from being returned. But in the motion of rowing with the lungs charged with air, the blood rising through the arch is, in a sharp degree, thrown back upon the valves, much as occurs in water falling back on a tap, to which we give the name of the water hammer.

So I have observed that in a man who has been briskly rowing, the second sound of his heart, which is produced by closure of the three valves, is often accentuated, owing to the sudden pressure exerted by the column of blood. Now this is a very considerable strain. By the influx of blood the heart is made to work more laboriously; it has an extra pressure put upon it; it is quickened in its action, and the great elastic blood-vessel, or aorta itself, is unduly distended. So in rowing men there occasionally follows disturbance of the heart as well as of the breathing. The heart becomes unduly large and over-active, a state for which, in order to obtain recovery, the injured person may have to lie in a recumbent position for several months, and from which possibly he never entirely returns to health.-Dr.

Richardson, in the Ascleped.

The Champion Golf Player. The rapid approach of the golf season is made apparent by the reappearcance of the British professional golfers, who are flocking to American shores. A recent steamer brought "Willie" Dunn and "Willie" Davis, two Scotch professionals who were here last season. In their wake will follow scores of other professional golfers from the other side. Dunn has won some high honors abroad as well as capturing the American championship here last fall. "Willie" Dunn, who is the acknowledged champion professional golfer of America, talked freely about his plans and the prospects for the sport in America this season. Dunn lives in Barritz, a small town in Southern France, very close to the border of Spain. He has been there all winter instructing amateurs in the art of golfing. Last year was about the first that professional matches were held on this side, and Dunn managed to get the lion's share of the prize money at each of these tournaments. In the championship tournament he beat ed to do so. This will be welcome news to a great number of citizens. Successful Trial of Dodd's Kidney Pills. ST. JOHN, N. B., April 11 .-- Mr. Robt. Moore, residing in Indiantown, a suburb of this city, has recently made what is allowed by all who are acquainted with the facts to be a most remarkable recovery. He had been a sufferer from a serious complaint of the kidneys for over seven years, and during that time has suffered excruciatingly. He has also suffered considerably in pocket, having paid large sums for medical advice. Quite recently he happened to read of the many cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and with commendable promptitude made trial of them, with the result that after taking three boxes of the remedy he was entirely restored to health.

A Lost Gem

She had brought a pony carriage to the door, and begged hard that Miss Jacky would come too; but Miss Jacky stoutly refused, on the plea that she would "take her death" if she went out in a boat. But Stella started with her young friends; Molly driving and flourishing her whip in fine fashion, and Bertie lying back on the cushions and talking in a lazy but intelligent way to Miss Raeburn. It was eleven o'clock when they set off; and Molly explained that she had brought luncheon, and that they would put the pony up at a farmhouse, row out to the island, and eat their luncheon in the shadow of the very building where the Admirable Crichton had been born. Stella assented merrily enough-knowing little, however, of the place, and not quite pre pared for the adventure which she was expected to pass through.

The first part of the programme was accomplished satisfactorily. The pony and carriage were left at the farmhouse, and the trio walked up a long road, and across a meadow which brought them to the very edge of one of the prettiest of all the Lochs of the Lowes. The clear water was unruffled by a breeze, and reflected an expanse of cloudless sky; but the distant hills had the curious distinctness of outline and hue generally considered to be indicative of rain. In the center of the clear water stood the little grassy island with its ruined castle, the grey walls showing a majestic front of still decay, in strong contrast with one's notions of the life that had prevailed there centuries ago. A little boat was speedily hauled out of a ruinous boat-house by the children, and Stella was invited to step in.

"But surely it leaks," said she doubtfully, looking at the pool in the bottom of

"Not a bit," cried Molly: "or, at least,

We have often been in this boat before. The farmer uses it every day."

It might be safe, but it was not very clean or very agreeable, and Stella was glad when the island was reached. Here the three spent a couple of hours, exploring the empty | Moncrieff in her life, so she must have made chambers of the ruin (how Stella thought of | up her mind very speedily.) eating their lunch in a sunny spot well sheltered from the wind, and fact that Molly was inclined to be huffy with her brother, and that she turned and a little sulky during the latter part of the afternoon.

It was proposed at last that they should go home; and then Miss Molly resolved to give her brother and Miss Raeburn a fright. She would row to the mainland alone, and pretend that she was going to leave them on the island; but she would then run down to the farmhouse, take out the pony, and drive down to the water again—row to the island and fetch them back. This was her plan, and it was a comparatively innocent one, and Stella and Bertie, divining it, were not at all alarmed when they discovered-too late to stop her—that she had started off

"It's just Molly's temper," said Bertie. "She wants to frighten us, silly child; but of course we shall not be frightened. She will row back or send some one else for us presently. You are not nervous, are you, Miss Raeburn?"

"Not a bit," said Stella. But she began to feel a trifle nervous when the time passed on and Molly did not appear. The sun was low, the wind was rising, and the air was turning cold, and still they waited on the island—but the boat was safely moored upon the other side of the loch; and Molly did not come!

CHAPTER XI.

Stella and her boy-companion occupied themselves for some time in wandering about the island, startling the birds from their nests, and making a collection of the scanty, half-nipped weeds that lingered on the southern side. Berween four and five, however, when Molly had been gone for more than half an hour, Bertie began to shiver, and even Stella felt cold.

"Where can that girl be?" said the lad, impatiently, at last. He stood still, and began to stare anxiously at the other side of

"She cannot be long now," said Stella.
"She ought to have been back long ago. It is just like her to play us such a trick.

She is a dreadful spitfire.' "I am afraid that we vexed her a liittle," said Stella, with the sweet frankness that was one of her most winning qualities. "We!" exclaimed Bertie, coloring up. you mean, Miss Raeburn, only you are too kind to say so." He spoke half shyly, halfimpulsively, and Stella's heart warmed to him as he made his admission. "I was wrong, I know, though Molly is provoking, sometimes. But I'm awfully sorry I vexed her, especially as she had included you in her revenge." And he smiled at her with eyes so like his father's, that Stella was startled by the resemblance. "Ugh! it's getting very cold," he said, with a sudden "You will catch cold; you must get inside the building." said Stella, anxiously. "There is a dry, sheltered room here; you should answered. "We had better walk up and down, and try to attract attention. We can be seen perfectly well from the banks, you know, as long as it is light; and somebody will be sure to come to our rescue.

"Not many people seem to pass by this "No; and the bother of it is that the house Miss F ___ is away over there is shut up. Miss F—— is away for the winter, and I daresay there is nobody in the place at all. The gardener or some of the men may be about—suppose I give a call? Sound travels a long way over

"Try," said Stella; and the boy curved his hands over his mouth and gave a long, shrill call, which he repeated several times. But his voice was weak and his energy soon exhausted; he remained silent at last. his cry having received no answer, and looked gloomily over the darkening waters and the distant shadowy land. "It's no use," he said. "They will only think it's an owl."

"But Molly knows where we are," said "She is sure to come back or send for us? I hope no accident has happened to

"Not a bit of it. It's pure spite and ill-temper. She wants to get us into a "But it is not our fault that we are left here; we can easily explain our lateness."

"I don't know," said Bertie. His face was flushed; his lips began to quiver, almost like a child's. "It will be all right for you, of course; but--

"But what?" asked Stella, withdrawing him from the water's edge and forcing him to walk briskly up and down with her. "What makes you anxious?" She did not like to say afraid, although Bertie's changing color and agitated voice gave her the impression that he was not a very courage-

"Oh, nothing," the boy began. But in a second or two his voice faltered again. "It won't matter-only-papa's coming home "Well," said Stella, rather sharply,

'what then?" "He does not like me to be out so late, vas the halting and uncomfortable answer.

"And he -he does not like - the island." "Do you mean that he has told you not to come here?" "He spoke to Molly," said the boy, evasively. "He never said anything to me. I don't know exactly what he said. He thought it wasn't quite safe, but that's nonsense, of course. The boat's leaky, you see and he thinks that the Castle walls might give way some day."

"If you have brought me here," said Stella, after a little pause, "knowing that he did not wish you to come, and thus making me act against his wishes, you will have done exceedingly wrong. Bertie, and I shall be very much displeased." "Oh, please don't say that!" cried Bertie. We meant to caution you not to say anything about it as we went home, but you were so good-natured, that we didn't think you would mind, and, as Molly said, this was the last day on which we could have so little that one can bale it out as we go any fun, because papa was coming home toong."

"Is it quite safe?"

"It is, indeed.

"It is, indeed.

"It seems to me," said Stella. indignantly, "that you talk about your father as if he were a tyrant and a jailer, instead of one of the kindest, most generous, most noblehearted men in all the country-side!"-(How did she know that? For, after all, she had had only three or four interviews with Mr.

Bertie looked at her in surprise. "I dare say he's all that—and more," he answered, casting pebbles into the smooth waters of slowly; "and it is just because he is so the loch, like children as they were! The much above us that Molly and I don't get only drawback to their happiness lay in the on with him very well, don't you see?" An accent of shame and pain was audible in the boy's voice, as he continued, "If we were a little better worth believing in, perhaps he would believe in us more.

ANTIDOTES FOR DISEASE.

Alleged Discovery of a Cure for Cancer and Consumption. WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11 .-

From Germany comes the first official news of a great American discovery, said to cure the most dreaded of diseases-consumption and cancer. Consul-General Dekay Albertin, in a report to the State Department, says the discovery, which was announced late in March in the most trustworthy medical school in Germany, is likely to receive considerable attention at the coming medical congress in Munich.

The discovery was made by Dr. Louis Waldstein, of New York, a brother of the famous archaeologist, Dr. Charles Waldstein. The new treatment, which has been perfected by studies abroad, consists of injecting minute doses of pilocarpine until the lymphatic system is stimulated and the white corpuscles of the blood overcome the poisonous particles which produce disease. Dr. Waldstein's researches have gone to the fountain whence these healthful white corpuscles spring, and by enlivening its action and productiveness, restores the condition of the blood, destroying the poisonous germs. The importance of the discovery is thought to be far beyond those of Pasteur, Koch and others.

Why will you allow a cough to lacerate your throat or lungs and run the risk of filling a consumptive's grave, when by the timely use of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the pain can be allayed and the danger avoided? This syrup is pleasant to the taste, and unsurpassed for relieving, healing and curing all affections of the throat and lungs. coughs, colds. bronchitis. etc It is calculated that in large ocean steamers more than 3,000 articles of glass and china are broken on every

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably edapted not only to remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

-Conductor David Allison, of Windsor, one of the best known G. T. R. officials, died yesterday after a long illness. He was in the G. T. R. employ for 25 years, and lived a long time in London, removing to Windsor seven years ago. His run was from there to Susago. His run was from there to Suspension Bridge. A widow, a son and a daughter survive him. Deceased was a member of Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, A., F. and A. M., city. He was on the train that killed the famous elephant Jumbo.

-The appearance of Rose and Charles Coghlan at the Grand Opera House tonight will attract a large audience. 'Diplomacy" is the play to be produced this evening and matinee on Saturday. "The Modern Duchess," the play which the company will present on Saturday night, is an adaptation from the French. The story treats of the adventures of a conspicuous woman in London who has a past, and she married into the nobility. At one time she was a member of the Gaiety Theater Company, and was known to all the men about town. This marriage proves to be an unhappy one, because of the difference in station between what she has been accustomed to and that into which she has been thrown. The comedy scenes are good, and Miss Coghlan has a capital part to play, which is also one of considerable dramatic strength.

SUN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY. In another column will be found the report of the annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company, which was held in the head office building, Montreal, on March 15 last. that the London shops had been ordered closed and that a part f the work would be done here, he said that he had nothing whatever to say about the matter. It is currently understood among the Grand Trunk men here that the shops in London will be closed, and the work formerly done there will be turned out at Brantford and Toronto. The number of men employed at London was about 200, and a great deal of the work will without doubt be done at Brantford in the future. IMPROVEMENT OF VICTORIA PARK. The board of works met last evening with the following present: Chairman Ald. W. Heaman, Ald. John Heaman, Parnell, O'Meara, Nutkins, Callahan, Engineer Graydon and Street Commissioner Owens. A communication was received from the board of health asking for an office in the City Hall for the use of the health officer. He will be allowed the use of the relief office for one hour each day. Ald. Nutkins brought up a motion to give city control of sewer connections, but it was laid over. The caretaker of Victoria Park asked for various things for the improvement of the park. The band stand will be repaired until in a safe Ten cords of sharp river gravel will be purchased for the repair of the driveway. The matter of the removal of fifteen old lamp posts was laid over. The question of procuring hose for water was referred to the chairman and engineer. The report of the caretaker of Queen's Park was then taken up. He will be given fifteen cords of gravel and a small one-horse combination dump and watering cart at $90. He will be given 500 feet 4x4 scantling for making new driveway, and $10 to purchase flower seeds. He was also given ten pounds of grass seed. The engineer was asked to estimate the cost of certain changes in the roads at Victoria Park and report at the next meeting. The chairman, engineer, and Ald. Nutkins will investigate the matter of brick paving. Several small accounts were read and passed.
