100,000 VOLUNTEERS TO BE GERMANY'S ARMY

TOTAL DISABILITY PENSIONS TO BE INCREASED, SAYS G. W. V. A. SECRETARY

SOLDIER PATIENTS AT BYRON DEMAND THAT CONTROL OF INSTITUTION BE TAKEN FROM SIR ADAM BECK AND GIVEN TO S. C. R.

Send Petition to Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment at Ottawa, Alleging Sir Adam's Interference and Lack of Organizing Ability Have Made Life There Unbearable.

FOOD OF POOR QUALITY AND "SICKENING" IN MONOTONY IS THE ASSERTION MADE

Petitioners Declare If Immediate Remedy Is Not Found the Excellent Staff Is Likely To Resign in Body, as Matron Did, Remaining Only On Request of the Patients.

Sir Adam Beck has roused a hornets' nest at the Military Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Byron, and his removal as head of the institution is being demanded. According to the soldier patients in the institution, he has, as head of the London Health Association, tried to act the part of a dictator, "butting in" on the management of the sanatorium and causing a condition which has at last become unbearable, and which the men have sought to change by an appeal to the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment at Ottawa. Through Dr. H. B. Alexander, the assistant medical director for the London unit of the department, they have forwarded a petition, signed by 140 soldiers, or practically every patient in the institution with the exception of those who were new-comers, to the department it reads as follows:

THE PETITION.

Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned patients of your commission, under treatment at the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, R. R. No. 7, London, Ontario, do hereby humbly and respectfully pray that your honorable commission take immediate steps to change a condition of affairs that now exists at this institution, that is fast becoming unbearable to your patients, and intolerable to your excellent staff here.

The trouble appears to be the constant undercurrent of friction that has always prevailed here, caused by the interference and bad organization ability of the head of the London Health Association, who considers himself supreme to dictate all policy and plan of management of the institution, and treatment for the patients, always with an eye to rigid economy in nothing but the food for the patients and staff; with the result that the meals now served are, to say the least, exceedingly cheap, unpalatable, undesirable and often unwholesome, and not the kind of food recommended in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Superintendent Powerless.

It is beyond the power of our medical superintendent or of the matron here, to alter said diet, or even suggest a better, for the reason that the business manager, who does all the purchasing, and his wife, who is the so-called head dietitian, are employed by, and will apparently only take instructions or suggestions from the said head of the London Health Association. They appear to have his entire confidence, without efficiency or ability; the same is the case with all other employees of this association, with the result that confusion, friction, and inefficiency are rampant, and spying, fault-finding and tale-carrying are the usual order of the day, while the orders or suggestions of your medical superintendent and staff are ignored, often with scorn.

This condition of affairs has become such that we fear the excellent staff of officials we now have will resign in a body, and God knows, we need them to fight for us, and see that we get at least a little of the consideration your honorable commission is so generously paying for.

Poor Food.

The boys claim that Mr. and Mrs. Holland, the so-called business manager and dietitian, respectively, secured their jobs through Sir Adam Beck, who backs them up in everything they do, and that their method of running the catering for the patients is such that, instead of getting the best of food, they fare as they might in a very poor-class boarding-house. They complain that liver, heart, and general odds and ends, form much too large a portion of the diet, and that these things are dished up in a never-ending and sickening circle, what is left over from breakfast being made over for lunch, and the remains of lunch used as a basis for supper. If heart is served for lunch, for instance, and if any is left over, as it generally is, heart patties are likely to be on the menu for supper. Bread dressing is said to be used with almost everything, the explanation being that there is always bread to spare.

There are many evidences that the feeling of dissatisfaction is not confined to the patients. The members of the staff live, as the boys do, on what is provided by the business manager and his wife. They are not so free in their criticism as are the men, but conversing with them, one gains the impression that they are seeking to make the best of things only for the sake of the boys.

Matron Resigned.

What is a fact is that the matron, Miss Jacobs, submitted her resignation, and although no confirmation could be gained officially, the men declare that her reason was simply that she felt unable to continue her work under existing conditions of divided control, with Sir Adam Beck seeking to dictate what should be done and what should not, whether in respect to finance, dieting, discipline or management generally. That Miss Jacobs is still at her post is due to the fact that a deputation of the patients waited on her and asked her, for their sakes, to "stick it out" a little longer.

The whole trouble seems to have arisen from the fact that, while the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment has control so far as treatment, discipline, etc., are concerned, the London Health Association runs the institution in all other respects. The S. C. R. pays a flat rate per capita of the patients, and for that the Health Association undertakes to feed them and provide accommodation, employing its own staff for this purpose.

The Whole Thing.

The boys say that Sir Adam Beck is the Health Association so far as the sanatorium is concerned, and that he has usurped powers which he has no real authority to exercise, with the result that continual friction exists between the S. C. R. staff and the civilian staff of the institution.

"The S. C. R. pays $17 a week for each man here," said one of the patients, "and for that we feel that we should get fairly decent food, but what we do get would soon become repulsive to a healthy man with a good appetite. To patients suffering from tuberculosis, it is actually sickening. The noon-day meal is usually the worst, but they are all bad. I try as often as possible to get an egg, and that, raw, with a piece of bread and butter, serves for my lunch when I can get it. The food served to us absolutely causes my stomach to revolt against it."

Dr. C. C. Bell, the military superintendent, could not be drawn into any discussion of the conditions existing at the institution. "I have nothing to say; go and see the boys," was his reply to a question.

"Something has to be done," declared one of the men who signed the petition. "We cannot go on like this, because we know that the members of the medical staff will not stand it much longer, and without them to help us our cases would be hopeless. The management has to be taken out of the hands of Beck, and unless the S. C. R. authorities at Ottawa get busy and compel him to keep his hands off, we shall have to make an appeal direct to the public. We are being starved, and so is the staff."

Will Cost Hundred Million To Build Channel Tunnel

Proposed Structure Would Require Five Years To Build.

London, March 11.—Five years would be required to complete the proposed tunnel under the English Channel, according to an authoritative estimate. It is said that in ordinary times the cost of the work would be about £16,000,000, but in view of the increased cost of labor and materials the expense involved would, under present conditions, be nearly £20,000,000.

The regiment fought through most of the great engagements. Men belonging to it have won the Victoria Cross, 8 D. S. O.'s, 32 Military Crosses, 21 Distinguished Conduct Medals, 122 Military Medals, 5 Meritorious Service Medals, and a number of foreign decorations.

The battles fought in by the 42nd Highlanders were: Third battle of Ypres, the Somme, Courcelette, Regina Trench, Vimy Ridge, Passchendaele, Arras, Amiens, Cambrai and Mons. The total casualties of the battalion were 2,797.

Manitoba To Lift Theatre Seat Tax

Bill To Amend Act Given Second Reading in Legislature.

Winnipeg, March 11.—Fourteen bills were passed and four given second readings at the sitting of the Legislature last night, among the latter being a bill to sanction the borrowing of capital expenditures amounting to $12,672,000, and a bill to amend the amusement taxation act, which lifts the theatre seat tax and so deprives the province of from $12,000 to $15,000 annually.

The act respecting the soldiers' land settlement board, given second reading on the motion of Premier Norris, gives the board power to purchase or expropriate land within the jurisdiction of the Legislature of Manitoba.

Before the House adjourned, F. J. Dixon, independent member for Winnipeg Centre, moved his resolution, asking the Legislature to declare itself in favor of public ownership of all natural resources.

WESTERN MEMBERS ASK ASSURANCE THAT ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED

Frequent Conferences Are Being Held at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 11.—Members from the prairie provinces are continuing to press the Government for a definite announcement that the Hudson Bay Railway will be completed this year. Frequent conferences are being held with the ministers and it is stated that the outlook for Government action is improving and that at least a portion of the 92 miles of track required to complete the road may be laid during the coming summer.

MEN KILLED DURING KINMEL RIOTS ARE BURIED NEAR CAMP

Simple Ceremonies for Three, Full Military Honors For Two.

CHAPLAIN'S APPEAL

Asks Canadian Soldiers To Have Patience With the Government.

London, March 11.—The burial took place on Saturday in Bolelwyddan churchyard of the three rioters killed in Kinmel Camp. It was a very simple ceremony and few soldiers were present. The other two victims were buried yesterday with full military honors. All the wounded are doing well.

Addressing a meeting of Canadian soldiers in London on Sunday, Chaplain Colonel J. Almond said the men might think they had a grievance on the matter of demobilization, but they must remember how mighty was the task before the Government of getting 300,000 men back to Canada. Everything possible was being done and the Canadian authorities were even more anxious to get the men back than the men themselves. They would all be back in Canada within the next six months. When they were back they must make the widows and orphans and graves of those who had fallen their first care. They must make no mistake about seeing that their crippled soldiers were not relegated to homes, but were honored as the guests of the nation.

Sir Rider Haggard's Views.

Several letters have appeared in the London papers from members of the Canadian corps defending the good name of the Canadian forces and especially the third division, which, it is asserted, has a fighting record second to none. Sir Rider Haggard, the well-known novelist, writing to the Times, says the riot has a lesson for the whole empire, not omitting the British Isles. He contends, as he has on sundry occasions urged in speeches in Canada, that the Empire should be kept for the citizens of the Empire. "However great may be the needs of the dominions for population—and it is great—we admit Russian Bolsheviists, such as the man who seems to have begun the trouble at Kinmel Camp or other vile foreign stirrers-up of strife that they may mature their plots under the shadow of our flag, is suicidal madness.

Would Shut Them Out.

The poison which such men scatter does us incalculable harm and unless the supply of it is cut off at the source in the existing conditions of world ferment it will do us more in the future. Indeed, if strong measures be not taken to check its manufacture and action, it is scarcely too much to say that in the end it may paralyze the Empire and perhaps even bring about its dissolution. This glorious heritage of our race should be kept for our own children, not for those of revolutionary Russia and certain other alien nations. To such our doors should be shut once and for all.

BRAND NEW BUSINESS BLOCK IS CONTEMPLATED BY MERCHANTS WHOSE PREMISES HAVE BEEN SOLD

Capitalist Stands Ready To Make Block Between Waterloo and Colborne One of Finest in City—Retailers Enthusiastic Over Scheme—Other Real Estate Deals Under Way.

It is more than likely, in fact there is a strong probability, that London will have a brand new and up-to-date business block within a very short time. A number of the leading merchants of the city on Dundas street whose premises have been sold over their heads are up in arms and are determined not to pay any higher rents than they are paying at the present time. The movement on foot is gaining headway and finds enthusiastic support among the merchants concerned.

Six owners of large businesses have signified their intention of seeking new quarters as soon as their leases run out and possibly before. They are J. Gammage & Sons, florists; Johnstone & Johnstone, milliners; Clifford Robinson, butcher; John Nash, jeweler; John Graham & Co., haberdashers, and the J. G. Steele Hardware Company. J. S. Barnard, jeweler, didn't want to be quoted in the matter.

Have Sites in Mind.

The businessmen mentioned above are casting eyes on the block on Dundas street, between Colborne and Waterloo street on the north side. There is also a possibility that a chain of stores will be erected on Clarence street, on the east side, between King and Dundas streets.

W. W. Gammage of J. Gammage & Sons is very enthusiastic over the idea.

AIR CONFERENCE IS POSTPONED DUE TO COMPLEX PROBLEMS

Questions Requiring Careful Consideration Must Come Before Peace Delegates.

Paris, March 11.—Like the international wireless conference which assembled here several weeks ago, a similar gathering which was intended to deal with problems relating to aerial navigation has been compelled to postpone its work indefinitely after having merely perfected its organization. More suggestions of the extensive plans which were to be brought forward for consideration developed the fact that most nations might be obliged to make wholly unexpected changes in their fundamental laws if they participated in decisions. This necessitated the reference of many problems to home governments, and it is understood that it will require consideration of many months before the delegates will be able to proceed with the conference.

The air conference was to be merely a French, and possibly a British affair, but the appearance in Paris of accredited delegates of many other nations made it necessary to hold matters in abeyance for the time being. The delegates to the peace conference were quick to see that what amounted to a control of aerial navigation might be involved in the decisions of the conference and lost no time in demanding that their nations be represented.

Aviator in Flight Talks With Official 150 Miles Distant

Secretary of U. S. Navy Uses Radio-Telephone For Communication.

Washington, March 11.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today talked by radio telephone with Ensign Perry Fagan Water in a navy flying boat en route from Washington to Hampton Roads. Communication was established at a distance of more than 150 miles by far the longest transmission of radio telephone signals with an airplane in flight ever achieved.

The secretary used the ordinary desk telephone. The officers in charge of the development of radio signalling were grouped around him.

Mr. Daniels asked the ensign how far away his machine was. After a moment's delay the officer replied that he was then more than 150 miles from Washington and flying at a high altitude. His voice came very indistinctly toward the end of the conversation as the distance increased. The experts at the department said the 150 miles was practically the extreme range of radio telephonic communication with an aircraft with present equipment and more than double any previous distance covered in a similar test.

NEW GERMANY YOUTHS GIVE THEMSELVES UP

Berberich Brothers Drive Into Guelph Early This Morning.

BOTH REMANDED FOR TRIAL

Father and Mother of Defaulters To Face Serious Charges.

Guelph, March 11.—Deeming discretion the better part of valor, the two Berberich boys, wanted by the Dominion military police for breaches of the M. S. A. and for their part in the shooting episode at New Germany, on Sunday, drove to the city this morning and surrendered, probably influenced by the arrest of their father and mother. They were arraigned on charges of failing to report and remanded for a day.

Charges arising out of the shooting will have to be tried at Kitchener. Berberich sen. will probably be tried on several charges this afternoon.

Accompanying the two men when they surrendered was a man named Brusle, also of New Germany. He is wanted for desertion, and will be handed over to the military authorities.

MINE THROWERS AND ARTILLERY STOPPED SPARTACAN RIOTS

German Government Troops Demolish Strongholds of Radicals.

TRAFFIC IS RESUMED

Campaign of Terrorists May Be Transferred to Other Sections.

London, March 11.—German Government troops in Berlin made further progress during Saturday and Sunday in demolishing Spartacan strongholds in the northern and eastern sections of the city, according to a German wireless message received here. In order to avoid unnecessary losses the troops used artillery and mine throwers, being thus able to force the insurgents back without exposing themselves. Nevertheless the Spartacans have not given up and are attempting to transfer their field of resistance to the eastern suburbs. The dispatch says that their terroristic methods have caused a revulsion of feeling in favor of the Government everywhere.

Railway traffic and other communications have been resumed except on the electric street railway, the employees of which are striking for an advance of wages in connection with the political strike.

GOVT. CONTROL OVER SALE OF FRESH MEATS IS EXPECTED

Bill That Failed Last Session Likely To Succeed This Time.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, March 11.—While a bill, which was introduced last session, did not get through the House to give the municipalities control over the sale of fresh meats within their boundaries, the same act is being introduced again this session. The word has been passed around that the measure this year will have a good chance of becoming law.

George C. Hurdman, West Ottawa, intends introducing the bill this week, which is an amendment to the municipal act. The proposed change in the law will permit any municipality operating local abattoir the right to prohibit the sale of meat which has not been inspected and slaughtered in the local abattoir, exceptions to be allowed are where the carcasses are slaughtered or imported under federal regulations, or in case of canned, cured or salted meats, and carcases slaughtered elsewhere which have been inspected previous to sale in the local abattoir. The bill is to be referred to the municipal committee for consideration.

KINGSVILLE DRUGGIST FOUND DEAD IN BED

B. B. Baxter, Formerly of Brantford, Dies Suddenly.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kingsville, March 11.—B. B. Baxter, druggist, formerly of Brantford, who has managed R. H. Pickard's drug store here for two years, was found dead in bed at his boarding house late yesterday afternoon. He had not been feeling very well and was unable to attend his duties yesterday. He was 60 years old, and has a brother living in Buffalo. The disposition of the body has not been made yet, as it is held pending an inquest.

GERMANY IS SHORN OF HER MILITARY POWER; ALLOWED TO HAVE AN ARMY OF ONLY 100,000 FOR NEXT 12 YEARS

Terms of Disarmament Adopted by Supreme Council Abolish Conscription in Germany as Recommended by Premier David Lloyd George of Great Britain—Arms and Munitions Above Certain Amount Must Be Surrendered or Destroyed.

Paris, March 10.—Military Germany the menace of large standing armies will go out of existence as the result of the adoption by the supreme council tonight of the military terms of German disarmament, as they will go into the peace treaty. These terms provide for a sweeping reduction of the German military establishment down to 100,000 men, with four thousand officers, the army to be recruited by the voluntary system for a period of twelve years. The effect of this is to limit Germany's military strength for the next twelve years to 100,000 men, which is less than the number of men Switzerland has in her army.

Other provisions in the military terms limit the arms and munitions Germany may possess to a quantity sufficient for 100,000 men, and all the remainder must be delivered or destroyed. The German forts along the Rhine also must be destroyed. The imperial general staff is abolished, as the result of reducing the force.

Adopts Voluntary Plan.

Discussion of the subject was resumed by the supreme council today, the basis for the debate being Marshal Foch's report on Premier Lloyd George's proposal to reduce Germany's armed force from 200,000, as had been suggested, to 140,000 men and to substitute voluntary for compulsory service. Marshal Foch favored the change, as the conscription plan providing for 200,000 men serving one-year terms would have given Germany a trained army of 2,000,000 men in ten years.

As against this, Mr. Lloyd George proposed to fix the enlistment term at twelve years. Marshal Foch embodied this in his report, which proposed an army of 140,000 men, but the council finally adopted an amendment further reducing this figure to 100,000. One of Premier Lloyd George's main purposes in substituting voluntary service for the conscription system was to pave the way for the disappearance of the conscription system throughout Europe, as it was believed the effect of the abolition of the system in Germany would be that the other European countries would generally follow it, thus ending the menace of large standing armies and their provocation to warfare.

Naval Terms Adopted.

The council has already adopted the naval terms of the treaty except for a few reserved provisions, which will be discussed tomorrow.

The progress that has been made with the work of framing the peace treaty insures the completion of the task by March 20. It is the present purpose of the peace conferees to call the Germans to Versailles soon after March 20, probably from March 22 to March 25. The document then will be delivered to the German delegates, and in case they are not prepared to sign it at once they will be given the opportunity to return to Germany to consider it and to return for the formal signing at Versailles.

This plan obviates the necessity of holding sessions for debate at Versailles and restricts the functions to be conducted with the Germans to the delivery of the document and the return for its signature or such other action as they desire to take.

It is known definitely that Count von Bernstorff will not be one of the German delegates at Versailles.

Hold Daily Conferences.

The presence of Premier Lloyd George in Paris is permitting of daily conferences of the premiers of the powers as a sort of steering committee to direct the course of the main work of the conference. The session this morning was attended by Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George and Col. House, representing President Wilson. Premier Orlando of Italy will join the other premiers tomorrow, and when President Wilson arrives it is expected that these conferences of the government heads will gradually take the place of the council of the great powers, which experience has shown to give too much time to speeches. The conferences of the premiers, on the other hand, are providing an effective organization for the rapid discharge of business. This rapidity insures the drafting of the peace within the limit fixed, a week from next Thursday.

G. W. V. A. SECRETARY DECLARES TOTAL DISABILITY PENSION IS TO BE RAISED TO $1,000 A YEAR

Soldiers' Widows Will Also Receive Increased Grants, Says W. E. Turley—Government Action Claimed To Be the Result of Recent Protests Made by the Veterans.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, March 11.—"I have it on good authority from Ottawa," said W. E. Turley, the provincial secretary of the G. W. V. A., "that the total disability pension is to be raised almost at once to $1,000 a year. I am informed, also from the same source, that widows' pensions will be raised to the same amount as the total disability pensions of the men. That is the result of our protests. It is the greatest proof I can offer of the power of the G. W. V. A.

"Just now," he continued, "We are on the flood tide of a wonderful expansion. Over fifty new branches were opened last week, and ten today. There are over one hundred branches now in Ontario alone."

"Is it true that a branch has been opened in London, England?" he was asked.

"Yes, that is so," he said.

Mr. Turley announced that it was the intention of the society to advocate strongly to the Government the supplementing of the pensions of disabled men by grants of two to twenty-five acres.

PENSIONS FOR TOTALLY DISABLED MEN AND WIDOWS ARE INADEQUATE

Ottawa, March 11.—C. G. MacNeil, secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, appeared at the first meeting this morning of the Parliamentary committee on soldiers' pensions and made a preliminary statement regarding the views of the veterans. Hon. N. W. Rowell presided.

Mr. MacNeil said the attitude of the veterans was one of co-operation, which was more essential than criticism. He hoped to offer information which might be helpful. In general, it was the view of the veterans that pensions should be based on the cost of living. They considered the present scale inadequate, particularly with regard to widows and the totally disabled, and thought it should be more generous. In reply to Col. Hugh Clark, Mr. MacNeil said their view was that the scale should be based on the cost of living in various parts of the country; therefore, it would not be uniform throughout Canada. He thought this would be quite practical, although not established in any other country.

The present rate for widows and totally-disabled men, it was pointed out, is $88 per month, and Mr. MacNeil gave it as his personal view that a totally-disabled man with a family of five should receive $1,400 or $1,500.

Educate the Children.

With regard to orphan children, Mr. MacNeil expressed the view that they should be given equal educational advantages with those children whose parents are alive. They should, therefore, receive pensions up to 21 years of age.

Mr. Rowell asked if it would be a good thing to give pensions up to that age, and Major Andrews said the children of the disabled veteran and of soldiers who had died should be given the same educational advantages as the children of the rich.

The question of pensions for the widows and families of imperial reservists introduced difficulties. Mr. MacNeil laid down the principle that if these widows were living in Canada before the war, and their husbands, being British reservists, were called to the colors, therefore their British pensions should be supplemented to bring them up to the scale of the Canadian pensions. He said he knew of widows who were getting only $28 or $30 per month.

Mr. Nesbitt asked what about the Russian and Italian reservists who were living in Canada before the war. Mr. MacNeil replied that they were not excluding any, but they regarded themselves as a part of the Imperial army, and they were first concerned about these women.

FOUR BOYS ADMIT ROBBERY AND ARE REMANDED TO JAIL

The Police Think They Have Rounded Up Gang.

VICTORY BONDS BURNED

Thieves, Afraid of Being Caught, Destroyed This Evidence Against Them.

In the arrest of Floyd Sells, Ed. Burns and John North last night and John Barrata this morning, the police rounded up the gang of thieves who have been committing petty robberies round the city for the past two weeks. All four boys pleaded guilty this morning in police court and were remanded until Saturday for sentence.

Sells and Barrata pleaded guilty to breaking the window of Julius Siskind, the pawnbroker, on the evening of February 28 and stealing a quantity of jewelry valued at $200. Some of this has been recovered and the police have hopes that it will all be accounted for in a few days.

Stole Victory Bonds.

Last Friday night, Sells, Burns and North broke into the restaurant of Frank Mawby on Adelaide street, and stole a quantity of candy, gum and other articles valued at $6. From there the trio moved on to the coal and wood office of Brooks Bros., also on Adelaide street, and with a diamond cutter a back window was cut, and entry made. They stole four Victory Bonds valued at $450 and a coupon worth $25. Burns admitted to the police that he had burned the Victory Bonds. The lads were afraid that they might be caught with them. The diamond cutter was found on young Sells, who is but 16 years of age, when he was arrested by Detectives Thomas Nickle and Harry Down last night.

Asks For Leniency.

Edmund Meredith, K. C. appeared for Sells in police court. He declared that the boy had never been in trouble before and asked for leniency owing to family conditions, which he described as deplorable. The lad's mother was having a hard battle to bring up her family.

Young Burns, who is 18 years old, was a member of the crew of lads that stole Detective Robert Egelton's automobile a year ago. North was also implicated in that offence. Barrata has been in police court twice charged with stealing bicycles.

All the boys stated that they had got into "bad company," and gave this as their reason for committing the crimes. Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon did not have much to say this morning about the case, saving any statement that he cared to make until he pronounces sentence on Saturday.

MORE SERIOUS NOW

Than Ever Before Because of War-Reduced Reserve Strength.

The war has been far-reaching in its effects. It has caused worry and anxiety in every home, and has affected the health of every family. It has aggravated chronic troubles, increased their tenacity, and made all spring ailments more serious.

As a result, a blood-purifying, stomach-toning spring medicine is more necessary this year than ever.

People still take Hood's Sarsaparilla because it is an old family friend, has proved its merit to three generations—as a spring and all-the-year-round medicine in purifying the blood, expelling humors, restoring appetite, relieving rheumatism, banishing that tired feeling.

It combines roots, barks, herbs, and berries often prescribed by physicians for spring ailments of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys. Hood's Pills are a good cathartic.

Nature Is Not Always Prodigal

THE WEATHER.

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay—Moderate westerly winds; mostly fair; not much change in temperature.

We see many evidences of the prodigality of nature. Here, only a few of the many seeds germinate; there, trees grow so thickly they choke each other.

But nature can be miserly, too. What is rarer, for instance, than radium?

Nature has not been prodigal with natural gas. No untapped fields are in sight. It may soon be as extinct as the Dodo.

Economize now and postpone the era of costly artificial gas.

Although Natural Gas Is Cheap, Do Not Waste It—the Supply Is Not Everlasting.

RETURNS FROM GERMAN PRISONS

PTE. WILLIAM LOCKLEY of Brantford, who returned to that city Saturday after two years in Hun prisons. He was met by his wife and children, who have been living in Sarnia for some time.

LITTLE CHANCE OF HIGHER CAR FARES FOR PRESENT YEAR

According to City Clerk S. Baker there is little chance that the London Street Railway Company will be allowed to increase its fares this year. If the council were disposed to grant this as some of the members are, the question would have to be submitted to the Legislature for ratification before the fares could be increased. As the city of London bill, in which the question would in all probability be submitted to the Legislature, is already before that body, it is now too late to have any action this year.

Mayor C. R. Somerville said the next move is up to the London Street Railway Company, when asked what action if any would be taken by No. 1 committee on the question. At the last meeting of the council it was referred to No. 1 for a report.

The council also authorized, or at least thinks it authorized, Mayor Somerville to appoint an expert auditor to go over the books of the company. The chief magistrate of the city says that the council did not authorize this and that the whole question was referred back to No. 1 committee. This committee meets on Wednesday afternoon, but estimates will occupy considerable time of the committee then. There are some who think that the whole question will be continued through the year without any definite action being taken.

LAD SHOT HIMSELF IN HAND WHILE OUT TO GATHER FROGS' LEGS

Herbert Sproule, aged 14 years, of 713 Adelaide street, accidently shot himself through the hand Saturday afternoon while out shooting frogs. The bullet pierced the boy's hand. He was taken to his home and Dr. H. A. Stevenson attended him. The boy is rapidly improving.

EDWARD VII. MARRIED FIFTY-SIX YEARS AGO

"Fifty-six years ago today, the late King Edward married Queen Alexandra, March 10, 1863," said a London man yesterday, adding, "How do I know it? Why I was there to see, of course. No, I won't be called 'the oldest inhabitant,' even if I did open my first barber shop that year, 1863. Great year that, same year The Advertiser was started. If King Edward had been alive, he would have been celebrating his 56th wedding anniversary today."

Wives of Famous Men Remind Us We Must Do Some Newest Stunts

Get a Creative Soul and Proc eed To Roll the Public For All It's Worth, But Take Car e the Creations Are Novel or This World Won't Bite.

BY JOHNNY TROTTER.

It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts, but only why are you so dead, and for what did they kill you.

If you simply came into town on your photoplay pinto pony and shot up Jakey Obernessere' place or did a two-gun play on Bill Hart and got away with it (by the way, if a real bad man is left in North America why in the name of sweet old Sagebrush Sam doesn't he tilt that chip from Bill's shoulder or go up some day and tickle him for a smile, and make a hit with the fish?) they won't write your name in enduring letters of stone nor gather enough old plumbing to do your nobbul form in zinc. They will not count you among the Twenty Great Feebs of History. You've got to hand it out new, boys. In other flowery language, you ain't pulled a flash.

But if you can plumb your sub-conscious vitals and agonize the world anew by loading the town pump with arsenic and stretching the hicks in a hundred poses of ill life, or swoop down in dashing young aviator style and shoot the natives full of prune stones, you've done something that will rank you with the rankest that "can happen." The first murder by wireless is going to make the first pages of all the sheets from the London Times to the Nissouri Nudger (pls. acknowledge the ad, Arthur and Dick.)

Soul and Roll.

The creative soul is the winning role of life. The more you soul them the more you can roll them. You may possess yourself of the straddiest old Strad that ever came in the numbers of quantity production from the days of quality creation, and you may even announce you have managed to find the particular peg in Tara's Halls from which "the harp that once" has been hanging since Brain Boru got through boru-ing (and Mr. Ile Sayso rises to remark they did some real brewing in them halcyon days.)

Yet, when the gentlemen likely known as Abbie who predigests our vaudeville for the big time circuits of life, has looked you over and heard you do Mr. Showpan's Symptoms in Q flat on your Strad and seen you raise the ghosts of Irish kings with "The Granddaughter of Mother Machree" on your Tara harp you will find you will be playing the supper show or serving as a chaser for Prof. Flea's Trained Badgers, while the ginkus on the headline portion of the bill will be some Tahitan mophead who quite recently broke out of a South Sea Island bare as the day he was born of anything save a ukelele, some pretty tissue chains, and some ancestral funeral songs. Guy Bates Post and Richard Watson Tully, with their birds of paradise and beachcombers, their volcano hoku-pokus and their quaint Hawaiian half-and-half that is so destructive to the white man's code (such an indestructible, asbestos-lined thing it is, yes?) certainly discovered America for the bouncing boys of the pink and yellow decorations.

Wanted—Out-of-Rutters.

All this incoherence by way of stating that what the world wants is the out-of-the-rutters. You must be foolish or farseeing to be a famous man. Or perhaps you may be, if you are from the right sex—the eyes right sex—the wife of a famous man. That is one of the finest plays of modern society, playing the part of the woman who believes her husband is famous and insists that everyone else knows it. And then if you have married one of these women who believes her husband famous you become the husband of the wife, who says or assumes that her husband is a famous man, which being worked out in higher mathematics, makes you look like a sure enough minus sign domestically, but famous on the free range.

The wives of famous men are themselves famous by virtue of the office they occupy. One sees it in their pretty eyes as one passes them. They have a challenging way with them, and when one sees they carry the harness that denotes a proud owner, he begins to deduct: "She's married. I can tell it plainly by the sense of possession and the clothes she carries. Somewhere in the plot there is a bank roll. She is proud of the bank—of her husband. There is some achievement behind all this. It means that she has a meal ticket, and by virtue of his food buying she believes everything he says about himself. She straightway proceeds to throw her muff into the ring. What manner of man has she and what . . . "

It Must Be.

When a woman gets a man she thinks is famous, it is all up with the man. He's bound to be famous then, no matter whether the pedestal he occupies in her estimation is built for a Billiken. She is going to make him famous, and he can never open his mouth about it again.

He gets an invitation to speak to the Ancient Order of Ginks. Left to his own devices he would probably go down cellar and—look over the awnings or figure out a self-stoker for a one-man furnace. But when he mentions it to her, she goes upstairs to see whether the wool weevil did get into that frock coat. She buys the latest handbook on oratory, and borrows "40,000 quotations." He would prefer to keep a slant on the curb quotations and make his coupon scissors sharp, but the die has been cast—or the cats have been dyed.

Anyway he accepts the invitation, and tells them that we need a new national ideal. (Ever hear anyone speak who didn't say it?) They applaud him because his wife is there, and she says he is a real big man, not articulately, but by the look in her glimmers.

Then she goes out and lives on her fame—as fame she cooked for him. And she makes sure that he keeps going, poor simp.

She makes him know he is famous. Didn't the reporter call for his photograph, and hadn't someone asked him to get into the latest edition of Whom's Whom, sketching him from birth, and suggesting by the blank space at the bottom of the obituary-writer's ready help that he is still among the living.

That'll be all today, thank you. Pick out the wives of famous men. You can classify them by a certain "juwey" look. They get there. And they get their's.

Beerhounds Will Track Down Places Where Liquor Is Kept

Latest Idea of United States Men To Catch Bootleggers Is Being Tried in Colorado.

The latest "thing" in the U. S.—beerhounds. However, it is not likely that they will become very thick north of the 49th parallel and the Great Lakes, so that Londoners who still have a few kegs rolled way into a dark and obscure corner of the cellar will not need to lose any sleep at night. However, bootleggers et al of Pueblo, Colorado, have a whole lot to think about, as witness the following extract from one of the Pueblo papers:

"The beerhounds are coming! Beware! Beware!"

Such will be the cry of bootleggers in Pueblo and around the state shortly.

For be it known that the state constabulary has purchased two beerhounds—otherwise known as "beerhounds—for the express purpose of scenting bootleggers in their lairs.

And this isn't a fake, either; nor did it originate in Winsted, Conn., famous home of freak animals. It's the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

First Capture.

State Constabulary Officers Ben Cope and J. G. Clark, working on liquor cases here, announce the purchase of the dogs. They were bought on recommendation of the police officials of Des Moines, Iowa. They have been successfully tried out as booze trackers there. In fact two of them caught a bootlegger in his lair Sunday, according to word received by Cope today.

The hounds, crossed between deerhounds and bloodhounds, have a very keen scent. They are taught the scent of beer and whiskey, and learn to follow that scent to its origin. So, when they're walking down the street and smell liquor in the neighborhood, they make straight for the place where the liquor is stored.

The constabulary officers plan to follow them, then arrests and confiscation follow.

Got Suspected House.

Sunday, according to Cope, Police Chief Jackson of Des Moines pronounced the animals ready for the chase. They were given a whiff of beer and started up an alley. They led the way to a house that the police had suspected for some time. The officers broke in, found the liquor and arrested the proprietor.

A Des Moines dog fancier gets credit for discovering the use of his pets, and it was he who sold them to the Des Moines police. The Iowa officials in turn notified the state constabulary officers.

Police have been bothered greatly by scores of beer camps, hidden on the outskirts of the city in weeds and caves, along the road from New Mexico. It is believed that certain interests are backing these deposits of wet goods and are bootlegging on a large scale. It is practically impossible for the constabulary officers to find these stores of liquor, but it is thought that the dogs will easily locate them.

Cope and Clark will be put in charge of the new "bootlegging squad."

INFORMAL MISSIONARY RALLY OF LEAGUES HELD

Young People Hear Interesting Address on Work in China.

An informal missionary rally of the Epworth Leagues of the city, held on Monday evening in the First Methodist Church, was attended by about 300 young people. S. R. McCullough, president of the City Union of Epworth Leagues, presiding.

The importance of missionary enterprise was emphasized from the standpoint of international relations as well as from the spiritual viewpoint. Rev. Mr. Quentin, returned missionary from China, gave an illuminating address on the work there, touching upon the world's missionary outlook. Mrs. (Dr.) F. C. Stevenson of Toronto, wife of one of the first West China missionaries, gave a short lecture, illustrated with lantern slides.

Miss Somerville contributed a much appreciated solo to the program.

ROUTED 14 ENEMIES TOOK MACHINE GUN; GIVEN DECORATIONS

Pte. William Kubelik Proved Himself Good Canadian.

Pte. William Kubelik, a young Russian, who, to show his loyalty to the country of his adoption, enlisted in 1915 with the 91st Battalion at St. Thomas, and who was among a party of veterans which arrived in the city recently, has certainly earned the right to be considered a full citizen of the Dominion. He fought for thirteen months at the front, and was twice decorated for bravery.

The first time that his gallantry received recognition was at the battle of Avion, when he single-handedly attacked a German machine gun nest, put the fourteen Huns who were manning the gun out of action and returned to his own lines with the enemy's weapon.

At a place which he could not pronounce, but which he said was commonly known as Bottleneck, because it sounded something like that, he was one of a party which went forward against hot machine-gun fire to take a German strong point. Most of the party fell before the objective was reached, but Pte. Kubelik got to the parapet and, with twenty Mills bombs which he carried, caused such havoc among the defenders that fourteen survivors were only too glad to surrender themselves as his prisoners.

Pte. Kubelik did not boast about his own achievements, but a companion who was with him and who knew the circumstances filled in the interesting details.

BLACK STEEL SHEETS EASIER IN PRICE, BUT NEW SCHEDULE LIKELY

Hardware and Metal of today says: A further readjustment of prices on black steel sheets has been made this week, and jobbers now indicate they are down to rock-bottom in relation to today's cost. Dealers should be able to work up small business to advantage now, though heavy buying is not advocated until conditions at the mills seem a bit more settled.

There is a feeling among the big buyers particularly that lower prices should prevail on sheets, and the first of April, ending the first quarter of the year, is looked forward to as date when a further decline may be made. If a lower price schedule is arrived at it seems likely many jobs now being held back will be given out, and wheels of industry start humming again.

Wire Lower.

In line with declines recorded in other wire products, such as nails, smooth steel wire and annealed wire, a lowering of the price of wire fence staples has been made. Today's prices on both bright and galvanized staples are 25c per 100 pounds below former figures.

All lines of woodenware are firm, and manufacturers of clothes pins report a heavy export business, which is being done at prices about 10 per cent above those jobbers here have been paying. The trend of quotations locally then is not hard to determine. Stepladders and extension ladders show an upward movement, prices advancing 1c per foot.

Metals Firmer.

The downward move in ingot metals seems to have pretty well reached the bottom for the present. There is quite active buying of copper at prices prevailing today, and lead has firmed up, with spelter stronger in sympathy. Tin is also slightly firmer. The next two or three months are active ones for the various metals, and it does not seem as though any appreciable change is a prospect before summer.

Grindstone fixtures, tire savers, wall paper cleaner, door springs, are lines to register advances this week. Brass and copper sheets, rods and tubes have gone to lower levels, and waxing brushes are also down from former figures.

Linseed oil has moved higher again and seems slated for a further increase before the peak is reached. Argentine seed is still withheld from the United States markets, and crushers there are facing a situation with regard to supplies which may mean a shortage of flax seed. The Canadian seed market is working in sympathy with United States markets, and the higher prices have been reflected in the quotations on linseed oil, which moves up from 5c to 6c per gallon.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating, are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation, and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people, who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

LIMIT IMPORTS TO PREVENT INCREASE IN THE BRITISH DEBT

Sir Auckland Geddes Gives One Reason for Recent Change in Trade Policy.

London, March 11.—Sir Auckland Geddes, minister of national service and reconstruction, in speaking of the Government's trade policy yesterday in answer to Sir Donald MacLean, Liberal leader in the House of Commons, said that one reason for limiting imports to Great Britain was the necessity of preventing an increase of the British debt.

'A similar motive has actuated other countries and has hampered our export trade," he said, "but the Government is trying to make arrangements with countries which probably in the near future, by the receipt of indemnities, will be placed in a position to purchase our manufactured goods to allow the entrance of our exports and charge them against prospective indemnities. The Government is moving as rapidly as permissible in the direction of securing some arrangement of the affairs in Europe and allowing the removal of the blockade."

U. S. RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—Individual import and export licenses for the colonies possessions and protectorates of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Japan will no longer be required, it was announced today by the war trade board.

The board also removed restrictions on the importation of peanuts when shipped from the country of origin. This ruling does not apply to shipments of peanuts stored in Canada, unless they were purchased and paid for prior to April 14, 1918.

SIX CASES ENTERED FOR SPRING ASSIZES

Suit For $10,000 Against the Street Railway Company.

CITY MADE DEFENDANT

Two Damage Claims For Flooding Amount Altogether to $2,205.

Four jury cases and two non-jury cases have been entered for the spring assizes, which open here on Monday. Of these, all except one non-jury case, were entered today. This is the last day for the entry of cases, so that it is expected that the court will be a small one.

Annie Waite and William S. Waite are suing the London Street Railway for $10,000 for injuries, which, it is claimed, Annie Waite received as a result of the negligence of employees of the defendant. The plaintiffs claim that she was riding on an eastbound car on Dundas street near the fair grounds. The car came to a stop and another car came from behind and collided with the car on which she was riding. She alleges that she sustained injuries to the back and left leg, aside from internal injuries and a severe shock to the nervous system. She is at present confined to her bed, and her physician declares that she is a confirmed invalid.

These charges are denied by the defendant company. Graydon & Graydon for the plaintiffs, Ivey & Ivey for the defendant.

Claims for Flooding.

Fred G. Overy is suing Herbert C. Barnes, C. W. Summers, William Summers, near the corner of Hamilton road and Price street, and the City of London for $1,205 for damage done to his property through the flooding of his land as the result of the overflowing of the water in a manhole, into which he claims the water ran and overflowed as a result of the manner in which drainage was laid by the city. He claims that before the city and the other defendants put in a new system of drainage the water did not run into the manhole too fast to be carried away again before it overflowed. C. W. Summers and William Summers declare that they cannot be sued, because they have not owned property near the plaintiff since 1915. At that time they sold their property to Herbert C. Barnes. J. M. McEvoy for the plaintiff; T. G. Meredith, Jarvis & Vining and E. H. Johnston for the defendants.

Another Similar Claim.

Ross Collins is the plaintiff in a case of an exactly similar nature against the same defendants, and in which the same solicitors are engaged. He claims $1,000. Both plaintiffs also claim an injunction to have the alleged evil remedied.

R. E. McDonald is suing the St. Marys Milling Company for $4,091.17 which he claims is the amount of two bills of exchange which the defendants accepted from him. Henry Lincoln Rice, president of the defendant company, claims that the bills were accepted for the accommodation of the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff owes them more than $800. Elliott & Moss of Glencoe for the plaintiff; Fasken, Robertson, Chadwick & Sedgewick of Toronto for the defendants.

All the above-mentioned cases are on the jury list.

Allege Money Missing.

George F. Brickenden, as executor of the estate of Anna Priscilla Brickenden, deceased, is suing Charles B. Adair and Angeline P. Adair for the payment of $1,750 which he claims they got from the deceased, while she was under their influence and control. She lived with them for six weeks previous to her death. It is claimed that when she went to live with them she had $12,000, but that when she died there was only $3,693.92 on hand. Besides the $1,750, the plaintiff claims an account of all business dealings and transactions between the defendants and the deceased.

It is claimed by the defendants that the deceased said that she would during her lifetime turn over various sums to them on condition that they give her daughter, Mary Louise Rodway, a promissory note for half of the amount granted. Angeline P. Adair, one of the defendants, is also a daughter of the deceased. The third party claims she received $1,500 from the defendants, but did not know of any arrangements with the deceased. The defendants counter-claim $1,730 for maintenance and nursing of the deceased.

HUSBAND, BACK FROM CHURCH, FOUND WIFE WAS DEAD IN HER BED

She has left seven little children motherless. Mr. Rae is employed at the McClary Manufacturing Company. The funeral was held this afternoon from the family residence to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—According to reports there is a serious shortage of work in the car repair shops of the M. C. R., owing to the reduction in freight business on the road. Over nineteen men were laid off during the past week. It is said authentically that over a hundred men were slated for an enforced holiday the other day, but the Federated Trades representative intervened, and the order was rescinded.

James of Western University in the extension series on Thursday evening of this week, when he speaks on "With the French at St. Pierre." Miss M. J. Thomson, returned missionary from India is taking part, and solos will be given by Miss Bradley and Miss Davina Scott.

BIG DELEGATION TO ASK GENEROUS HELP TO MEDICAL SCHOOL

Will Appear Before Legislature On Wednesday.

The Western University deputation which goes to Toronto at 8:50 on Wednesday morning to wait upon the Legislature in reference to a grant of $150,000 for the new medical college building, will be strongly supported by a delegation from the London Chamber of Commerce and the general public. Mayor C. R. Somerville, as chairman of the board of governors of Western University, will attend. There will be a large number of the other members of the board, as well as a good representation from the members of the senate of the university with the deputation.

Bishop D. Williams, Bishop M. F. Fallon and Rev. D. C. McGregor will also be there.

Dr. H. A. McCallum, dean of the medical school, wil attend, and it is expected that there will be several other members of the medical profession on the deputation.

The chamber of commerce will be represented by T. A. Stevens, A. A. Langford, E. R. Dennis, Lieut.-Col. W. G. Coles, J. P. Moore, James Granger, S. F. Lawrason and J. F. Grant.

While it is not definitely given out yet, it is understood that sufficient private donations have been promised to furnish the new school with a first-class equipment, and if the legislature accedes to the request of the delegation, London will have a medical school that will be equal to any in Canada, if not in America, according to members of the board of governors.

RUSS PRISONERS ESCAPE.

BERLIN, March 9.—Via Amsterdam.—While soldiers who had been called to suppress rioting in Spandau were absent from the Ruhleben camp about 5,000 Russian prisoners of war in that camp made their escape. The Russians are now wandering about the country to the terror of the country folk.

HOME AFTER GIVING LONG SERVICE WITH FORCES OF U. S. A.

Photographer W. H. Hines Took Part in Big Work.

William H. Hines, son of H. G. Hines, 666 Dundas street, returned home last night, after serving with the American forces since the U. S. A. joined the Allies. He joined the American forces rather than the Canadian, because his father and grandfather were American citizens, and he was born across the border, and because the position for which he was best qualified, instructor in photography, was not open to him here. This was the post he got with the American army and for many months he served in various camps, instructing three full units in the high-speed work necessary for aerial photography.

Later he went to France, and had been serving at the front three weeks when the armistice was signed. He was returned to Newport News, Virginia, and came home via St. Thomas.

A clipping sent home describes the work done by these photographers and the records they set. It says:

Although they were seriously handicapped by the lack of accommodations, the American Photographic Force distinguished itself and accomplished a record task when it turned out 9,000 prints in 16 hours during the offensive in the Argonne district. Altogether, over 100,000 prints had to be finished in four days, most of them having been taken by French airmen. After traveling all night to reach their headquarters, the Yank photographers proceeded to convert a dilapidated brewery shed into a dark room, and an hour later had started their sleepless job. All the water for the work had to be carried some distance in buckets.

While most of the regular photographic planes were employed in observing and directing artillery fire, several American planes "shot" the results of heavy-artillery fire. The photographs were of greater value than one would realize, as they caught the complete activities at the time and the accurate number of men and guns on the field, and indicated manoeuvres that were in progress.

LONDON GIRL TO TAKE PART IN MUSICAL TREAT HERE IN NEAR FUTURE

Ruth Allan Young Will Have Noted Artists With Her.

Ruth Allan Young, coloratura soprano, who made her debut into the musical world but a short time ago in Toronto, will be brought here by Charles E. Wheeler, in company with Jan and Boris Hamburg and Guerrero, the South American pianist, for the night of March 25. Ruth Young is a former London girl, being the daughter of William Allan Young, wholesale jeweler here for many years. Three years ago she left London to study under Signor Carboni, in Toronto, developing a remarkable voice. Distinguished artists who have heard her in private have given her great praise.

With her will come Boris Hamburg, cellist, who was so popular here last year, and his brother, Jan Hamburg, violinist, another celebrated Canadian artist. Guerrero, the distinguished South American pianist, will add the finishing touches to an excellent program. Such a treat as this is rare in London. The auditorium has a small seating capacity, but those desiring tickets may communicate with Chas. E. Wheeler.

TWENTY SCARLET FEVER CASES NOW REPORTED

There are 20 cases of scarlet fever in the city, according to the report by the M. O. H. on communicable diseases. Of these 11 are being cared for in the hospital and 9 at home. Three new cases were reported last week. There are but 2 cases of diphtheria, no new ones having been placed on record, but there are five new cases of sore throat, which come under the heading of diphtheria suspects. One new case of chickenpox, 2 of tuberculosis, 1 of whooping cough, and 12 of venereal disease complete the list.

MUST NOT ANNOY TAXI OWNERS BY TELEPHONE

"They've been giving us 'bum steers,' ordering taxis and then beating it," said J. Donnely of the Hop Taxi service in police court today, referring to two youths, William Bell and Lorne Mason, whom he declared had ordered a taxi a week ago Monday night from the Crown Cafe.

The boys denied having 'phoned for a car, stating that they had called up to talk to Donnely, but not being able to hear over the phone, had rung off. Magistrate Graydon allowed the twain to go with a warning, stating that if they had been annoying Donnely they had better stop it.

Eleven bicycle riders who preferred the sidewalk to the muddy roads of the city paid $1 each for taking that privilege.

MILES KETCHUM DEAD.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—Miles Ketchum, a well-known resident of this city, died this morning in London. He had been ailing for about two years. The remains will be brought here for burial interment, taking place in St. Thomas Cemetery on Wednesday.

SAYINGS AND DOINGS AROUND CITY HALL

EXPECT 65,000 THIS YEAR.

That London will have a population of 65,000 this year is the optimistic estimate of some of the city hall frequenters. According to the assessment department figures, the present population is about 58,000, and it is expected that the increase will be 7,000 this year.

SETTLE RATE BY END OF MONTH.

It is expected that the tax rate will be settled by March 31 this year. The council has asked that all estimates be in by March 19. No. 1 committee will finish its estimates on Wednesday afternoon and No. 2 committee will clear its slate of estimates on Tuesday evening. The council will meet as a committee of the whole to consider the rate on March 24, and on March 26 all the spending bodies will meet together.

INDEPENDENT LAWYER WANTED.

There are indications of a movement to engage an independent lawyer to assist the council in pressing the claims of the city of London bill before the Legislature when it comes up. One citizen has offered $100 towards the expenses if an independent solicitor is engaged.

OPPOSITION LIKELY.

According to information gathered in city hall circles there is likely to be opposition to the Legislature granting authority for the city council to issue $200,000 debentures for the erection of a city hall, which is being asked in the city of London bill this year. Mayor C. R. Somerville replied that he had heard nothing of this when asked regarding the statement. He is still of the opinion that it would be too expensive a proposition to erect the building on the Federal Square. It is conceded that, if there is much opposition to the granting of the authority for the debenture issue, the Legislature may refuse to sanction the issue. The only course then open to the council would be to take a referendum on the question.

INSPECTOR HERE.

S. J. Holbert of Markdale, one of the members of the provincial police force, maintained for the purpose of enforcing the act respecting bakers, made his annual visit to the city this morning. He was in conference with J. W. McCallum, who has charge of this work locally. Mr. McCallum reports that there was nothing of importance up for discussion.

ALL TALK YET.

Regarding the talk on the street in reference to a referendum on Street Railway and Federal Square questions Dr. L. S. Holmes acting chairman of No. 1 committee says that, while he has heard the street talk, he has heard nothing from any of the aldermen on the question. That the possibility of this has not even been hinted in aldermanic circles, is his opinion.

Replying to the question as to what would be done regarding the city hall if, as some think, the legislature refuses permission to issue the debentures, he stated that the council would not cross the bridge before it arrived there.

BREAKWATER UP AGAIN.

Ridout street breakwater will likely be one of the live questions before No. 2 committee this evening. The special committee has a report to bring before the meeting. It is understood that some of the residents whose properties are alleged to be endangered by the action of the river have signified their willingness to meet the council with reference to selling some of their land to the city. One of the residents of the district has offered $100 towards a breakwater if the city will pay the remainder of the cost.

WAS IT GRANITE, B.C.

George T. Robinson, for whom a sister in Toronto was inquiring, was last heard of by Fraser and Moore in April, 1910. He was then at Granite, near Nelson, B. C. The sister wrote the city hall in an effort to locate her brother. He worked for the G. T. R. in this city for some time.

BRAND NEW BLOCK

to-date business block with a central heating system and lots of room behind for the facilitating of delivery," stated Mr. Gammage today. "Of course, we have a couple of years yet for our leases to run, but we are losing no time as far as the future is concerned. The London and Western Trusts Company, which has bought the property that I occupy, is anxious for me to buy, but I will not consider the proposition at all. None of the businessmen along Dundas street can afford to pay higher rents, and that is what it would mean if we were to stay. We are all in favor of moving, and I am confident that the business is going to move east.

"Some business is bound to move away from the present downtown section, which will soon be largely composed of theatres, ready-to-wear stores and restaurants.

"The present real estate boom in my opinion is a gamble pure and simple, and the merchants refuse to be made footballs of and kicked around in a financial way."

Ready To Build.

Arthur McClary, who controls a big portion of Dundas street between Colborne and Waterloo streets on the north side, told The Advertiser this afternoon that he was prepared to erect the finest business block in London on his property.

"The minute these merchants signify their intention I will start to build," stated Mr. McClary. "It is an ideal location for a business block and I have had my eye on it for some time. They will certainly get nothing but the best of treatment from me."

"You bet we'll go," stated J. G. Steele of the Steele Hardware Co. "It is a fine idea and I'm ready to fall in line tomorrow." John Nash expressed himself in the same terms, as did Johnstone and Johnstone the milliners. John Graham was also enthusiastic and declared that it would be an excellent move for the businesses concerned. Clifford Robinson was another enthusiast about taking his business east. It was foolish to think that between Richmond and Clarence streets was the only good business block in the city. Lower rents meant lower prices.

George T. Hiscox denied that he had sold the property on Dundas street occupied by J. Fawkes & Son and the Johnstone & Murray Shoe Company. It was understood that if a deal was put through that these businesses, too, would emigrate east.

Offer Received.

William B. Bradshaw of the London and Western Trusts Company admitted this afternoon that an offer had been received from F. B. Clarke, steamship agent, for the premises he now occupied, [illegible] the undertaking parlors of George [illegible] Logan. The deal, however, had not been put through yet. The building is part of the old McKinnon estate controlled by Judge Talbot Macbeth, who, it is understood, is holding the deal up.

It is also more than likely that the Grigg House, also part of the McKinnon estate, will be sold late this afternoon or tomorrow. Mr. Bradshaw admitted that there was more than a chance that the property would be sold but would not speak for publication. He wouldn't say that a large new hotel would be erected on the Grigg House site.

The property is that designated by Nos. 336 to 358½, has a frontage on Richmond street of 91 feed 5 inches, and a depth of 98 feet. The assessed valuation is $325 per foot, while the value of the building is placed at $13,000, making a total assessment of $43,000.

RAILWAY PRESIDENT DIES.

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—E. F. Kearney, president of the Wabash Railroad, died here today of pneumonia.

WHY SHOULD LONDON KEEP OLD STATION WHEN OTHER PLACES GETTING NEW ONES?

Some Objections Raised to the L. and P. S. Proposals.

Many citizens are objecting to the proposed action of the London and Port Stanley Railway Commission in erecting new stations at St. Thomas and Port Stanley while London is passed by in the plan. That the present accommodation for passengers on the road is not at all suitable is the general opinion.

Ald. O. G. Keene is strongly opposed to the proposition. In his opinion the council should have something to say on the question.

Another Point.

That the commission should ask for a debenture issue and not take the cost of the stations out of the revenue is the opinion of others in city hall circles. Commissioner Dr. R. W. Shaw at the last meeting asked that no definite steps be taken toward letting the tenders until it is clearly shown that the funds of the road warrant the expenditure.

Alleges Deficit.

According to figures obtained from the city treasurer's office the road owed the city of London on December 31, 1918, $110,986.24. Of this amount $38,000 has been paid since and about $2,400 additional has been paid out by the commission on the erection of the foot bridge over the river and for which the city will likely pay.

Dr. Shaw contended that these figures show that the road has a deficit at present, and he urged that the construction on the stations should not be undertaken until this question is settled.

NIGHT SESSION OF LEGISLATURE IS EXPECTED TONIGHT

G. W. Bowman, the Financial Critic of Opposition, Will Be First Speaker.

DEBATE TO BE LONG

End of Speeches in Ottawa House Is Not in Sight.

Toronto, March 11.—The prospect of a night session of the Ontario Legislature loomed large today with the opening of the debate on the treasurer's budget on the order paper as the chief business to come before the House.

C. M. Bowman, the financial critic of the Opposition, will be the first speaker on the debate, and a large number of members on both sides of the House have asked for an opportunity to express themselves before the debate closes.

The third reading of the housing act is also on the order paper today, also the bill to create a department of labor.

END OF DEBATE ON ADDRESS APPEARS NOT YET IN SIGHT

Ottawa, March 11.—There is no apparent desire on the part of either the Government or the Opposition to bring the debate on the address to an early conclusion. Judging from the list of speakers still to be heard, it is likely to drag on until the end of the week, if not longer. There have been no negotiations on the part of the chief whips to fix on a night when the discussion will be terminated.

Hon. N. W. Rowell, president of the privy council, who moved the adjournment last night, will be the first speaker today, and Opposition speakers will include Mr. Euler of North Waterloo.

The second full caucus of the Opposition convened at 11 o'clock this morning, with the question of possible amendments to the address still a mystery. Opposition members admitted that there has been some division of opinion as to the advisability of moving amendments, and the matter was given further consideration at today's gathering.

Maine Towns Switch from "Dry" to "Wet"

Liquor Advocates Claim Result Is Protest Against Prohibition Amendment.

Boston, March 11.—Returns from eleven towns that voted yesterday on the question of issuing liquor licenses show that eight changed from "dry" to "wet." Three southshore towns—Weymouth and Hingham, that have been no-license places for more than a quarter of a century, and Scituate, with a dry record of eleven years—shifted to license. Easton, Rockland and Abington also went "wet," following the example set by a number of other towns in the old colony district which voted a week ago. Other towns changing to "wet" were Hudson and Ipswich.

Liquor advocates maintained that the result was a protest against the national prohibition amendment, while anti-saloon leaders asserted that it was mainly due to apathy on the part of voters.

WINNIPEG WILL NEED $600,000 MORE TO MEET INCREASE IN WAGES

City Employees Will Benefit to Considerable Extent.

Winnipeg, March 11.—Wages of city employees in Winnipeg will be increased to the total extent of over $600,000 if all the demands made by policemen, firemen, clerks, teamsters, electricians and others are acceded to for the present year, it was calculated at the first meeting of the wage committee held in the council chamber last night.

Aldermen freely predict the possibility of a 25 mill tax rate this year instead of 20 mills, as last year. The city's fiscal year begins on May 1.

D. J. DONOHUE WILL BE NEW M.C.R. SUPT. OF ST. THOMAS DIV.

Old Conductor Returns From Chicago Post.

ST. THOMAS, March 10.—Daniel J. Donohue of Chicago is to be the successor of the late James Balkwell, superintendent of the local division of the Michigan Central Railway, according to an announcement by Trainmaster John Purvis.

Mr. Donohue, while probably not as well known to the younger employees of the road, is just as popular and well known to the older railwaymen in this district as his predecessor. He is among those who were in the employ of the M. C. R. when it first operated through this city, and for many years occupied the position of passenger conductor on one of the principal trains passing through here from Buffalo to Chicago. He left the city, however, after some years, and of late has been employed as a superintendent in one of the M. C. R. departments at Chicago. He will in all probability begin his new duties during the present month, according to Mr. Purvis.

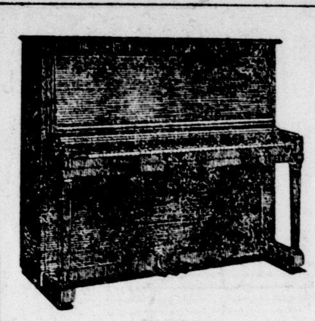

There have been a number of names mentioned in connection with the position among them many prominent local railroaders, and while the appointment comes as a surprise to many it will be welcomed by all who are acquainted with Mr. Donohue and knew him during his early days.

POPE HOPES THAT HOLY PLACES WILL GO TO CHRISTIANS

Rome, Monday, March 10.—During the course of his allocution at the consistory he held today, Pope Benedict, in alluding to the future settlement of the Ottoman Empire, said:

"It would be a great grief to the Holy See if in Palestine the preponderating position were given to infidels, and a still greater grief if the holy places were given to a non-Christian power."

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.—Eliza Waddlove and Beatrice Lewis, both of Muncey, were arrested yesterday by County Constables Alex. Shaver and Arthur Corsaut for assaulting Elizabeth Waddlove. They appeared before A. P. McDougald, J.P., and were bailed out, to appear before Squire W. H. Chittick at the courthouse on Saturday.

Your Opportunity

...The... Lansdowne

This splendid Nordheimer-built instrument has not been heard of much in our advertising of late. That is because we were oversold and war conditions prevented an increase in our manufacturing facilities.

We are now able to produce these instruments in greater quantities and, to make our YEAR-END SALE the biggest event of the kind yet celebrated, we have decided to extend this heretofore unheard-of opportunity to a few real judges of Piano value.

Built in the Nordheimer factory by Nordheimer craftsmen, on the Lansdowne scale. Exceedingly attractive in design, its superior finish is at once apparent to all.

At its regular price, $425, the Lansdowne is an outstanding leader, unequalled in value. Our sale price for this instrument of rich and penetrating tone is $382.50

In order to offer such a Piano at such a price we must perforce limit the generosity of our terms. Purchasers at the above figure will be asked to pay cash or arrange terms that will not extend beyond one year.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Hair becomes charming, wavy, lustrous and thick in few moments.

Every bit of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

For a few cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and charming as a young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness, are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve-wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists, we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion, and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.

GOVERNMENT IS STALLING TO AVOID ISSUES

Another Caucus Is Called For Thursday.

INDUSTRY MARKS TIME

Mewburn Defends Himself—Col. Cooper Rasps Hughes and Col. Jack Currie.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, March 10.—It is a case of "Night or Blucher" with the Government at the present time. With the debate on the address already ten days old, they are putting up man for man with the Opposition, in the hope of delaying consideration of the knotty problems to be faced until Sir Robert Borden returns from England.

There are a lot of knotty problems to be faced, but they seem in no hurry to face them. In fact, they show considerable reluctance. Even in caucus they will not face them, the two main gatherings so far held being confined principally to a discussion of party patronage.

While Industry Marks Time.

While industry in the country is marking time, pending some knowledge of what the Government intends to do about the tariff, the tariff is being shelved from day to day, and western members are being bombarded with telegrams (some of them collect) from their impatient constituents. There will be another caucus on Thursday, and at it also the talk will be largely on generalities.

In fact, they are desperately waiting for the return of the prime minister.

"Bill and Dan."

They have taken action in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific, and they are not very sure in their minds whether or not that action would stand the test of the imperial privy council. The war measures act, intended for emergencies in time of actual war, has been invoked, in order that more lines shall be added to the fourteen thousand miles already placed in the hands of the millions of MacKenzie & Mann. The new miles of railway will probably earn nothing but deficits, and the cost in connection with them will probably be more than was needed to tide the road over. But they will provide further opportunities for the letting of contracts at war prices for rails, construction, motive power, etc., all of which contracts shall, without doubt be let under the careful supervision of Sir William MacKenzie, acting in his "advisory" capacity.

Today the debate continued. Already three ministers had been forced to participate in defence of certain things under their administration, and today Mewburn added his defence of his department to the pages of Hansard.

Col. Cooper of Vancouver engaged in a savage onslaught upon Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, who was not in the House. He recalled that the former minister of militia had declared he stood for the saving of the lives of the soldiers.

"Did he give that matter consideration," asked Col. Cooper, "when he replaced the Ross rifle in the hands of the Canadian soldiers?"

Col. Cooper praised Gen. Currie, and made brief and enigmatic reference to Col. Jack Currie of Simcoe, who had been at St. Julien. The latter, he said, he had only seen once on that occasion, namely, in the early morning. Later, when he (Col. Cooper) was in England, he had read Gen. Hughes' eulogy to Col. Currie and had felt disgusted.

The Siberian Expedition.

Hon. S. C. Mewburn, minister of militia, in resuming the debate on the address, described in detail the object and reason of the Siberian expeditionary force. He said that in the spring of 1918, when it was organized, there was a desperate situation. There was a two-fold danger—the enemy was very strong and it was necessary to try to reduce its strength and deprive it of the advantage of the situation in Russia.

General Mewburn said the Czecho-Slovaks had been friends of the Allies. They were conscripted into the Austrian army and deserted in large numbers. They were recognized and fought with distinction on the Russian front. After the revolution they reached Siberia with the ultimate intention of crossing the Pacific and joining the allies on the western front. The allies promised to come to their assistance.

Deep German Scheme.

The minister of militia said there fell into the hands of the Czecho-Slovaks, in Siberia, a document signed by the German and Austrian emperors, which was directed to prisoners of war to try to induce them to return home, but if this was not practicable they were to join the Russian army, for which they would be amply rewarded. The prisoners accordingly joined the Bolsheviki, making an army of about 36,000. The exiled Czecho-Slovaks army was then in dire distress and a gloomy view was taken of the outlook on the western front unless the eastern front were reorganized. There was real possibility of the Germans breaking through the British lines to the sea and defeating France. Accordingly, General Mewburn said, while he and Sir Robert Borden were in London they were asked that Canada should assist the Allies in sending a small force to Siberia, and it was decided to send a force of five thousand Canadians, but this was not to interfere in any way with the reinforcements to the western front.

Soon to Come Home.

He went on to say that the object of the force was to help the Russian people, to prevent the Germans from exploiting Russia, to divert German troops from the western front, to prevent Germany gaining access to supplies and stores in Siberia, of which there was abundance, and to help the Czecho-Slovaks. At the present time, said General Mewburn, there were 4,434 Canadian soldiers in Siberia. The balance of the force was still in Canada and would not be sent forward, as a matter of fact, it was being demobilized as rapidly as possible. The men who were in Siberia, the minister stated, would be brought home at an early date, only those remaining who desired to do so.

Sir Sam Hughes asked whether any of the soldiers in the Siberian force were draftees. General Mewburn replied he understood a number of them were, but that none of them were forced to go to Siberia.

Demobilization and Pensions.

Major-General Mewburn reviewed what had been done in regard to the provision of pensions, vocational training and the systems of demobilization. The original idea in returning the men to Canada was to give priority to long-service men and married men. Then, on the representations of the corps, it was decided to return the men by units.

Colonel Peck asked if the plan of Sir Arthur Currie in regard to demobilization was submitted to the cabinet or was dealt with by the overseas ministry.

Major-General Mewburn replied that Sir Arthur Currie's complete plan was not submitted in Ottawa.

Discussing demobilization difficulties General Mewburn said the men did not want to be pampered and did not want any charity. It must be remembered, however, that a man who had been trained for years with one object in view—to kill—and that it was difficult for such a man immediately to take up his old job and return to normal conditions. When the armistice came into effect there were overseas 275,288 troops. Up to the present there had been practically 100,000 returned and demobilized, and it was expected that all the men would be back by August.

Canucks' Proud Record.

The minister then turned to the matter of war medals and presented to the House a list of decorations won by members of the Canadian force in the field. It was as follows:

Victoria Crosses, 61; Distinguished Service Order, 605; Military Cross, 2,312; Distinguished Conduct Medal, 1,453; Military Medal, 7,785.

The question of giving a medal to all members of the Canadian expeditionary force was said General Mewburn, but it had been thought advisable to wait until the return of the corps before deciding it. He recommended that the Government should issue to mothers and wives who had lost sons or husbands in the war, a silver cross which might be known as "The Cross of Sacrifice."

The minister stated that there were six hundred tons of files of Canadian war records which would be sent to Canada from overseas. The value of these records could not be overestimated and suitable accommodation must be provided for them. There were five or six hundred paintings and works of art dealing with the part of Canadians in the war, as well as a large number of war trophies. A committee consisting of Sir Byron Walker and General Cruikshank was considering the question of providing suitable buildings for housing these pictures and trophies. It was the intention that officers from the various provinces should assist this committee. It was also hoped that the trophies would be distributed to various parts of the Dominion.

Gratuities Universal.

In answer to Sir Sam Hughes, Gen. Mewburn said that he understood that Canadians enlisting with imperial units would receive the same consideration with regard to pension, gratuity and war decorations as those who enlisted with the Canadian expeditionary force.

Gen. Mewburn closed with a reference to the graves of Canadian soldiers overseas. He stated that he had received a cable from the other side to the effect that arrangements had been made for the removal of the bodies of all Canadian soldiers buried in Germany to France, before the Canadians left Germany. Canadian soldiers, he said, would be buried in single graves at the cost of the Imperial Government. The Imperial Graves Commission, had charge of the work and its organization ensured that graves would receive perpetual care and perpetual honor.

P. R. DuTremblay asked the minister why a French-Canadian brigade had not been formed.

Gen. Mewburn replied that he had taken this matter up when he visited England and France last summer, but it had not been found feasible to form such a brigade.

A. B. Copp asked why soldiers were being kept at the headquarters of military districts. Why were they not returned to civil life?

Gen. Mewburn replied that small garrison force of not more than 250 men was kept in each military district.

Col. Peck, V.C., wanted to know whether anything was being done to preserve the graves of Canadian soldiers which had been trampled over by the Germans in their advance and retreat. He said he had noticed graves with their crosses broken down and the identification markings on them almost effaced.

The minister of militia replied that he had no definite information with regard to this, but that a large force was at present engaged in such work, and no doubt it was being attended to.

W. K. Baldwin, of Stanstead, who followed, suggested having returned soldiers choose their own occupation and criticized the Government's housing scheme.

BANKRUPTCY OF CANADA IN THE OFFING?

Montreal Star Is Alarmed at G. T. P. Affair.

GOVERNMENT IS SCORED

Arbitrary Acts Likely Have Given Grand Trunk Right to Repudiate Contracts.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

MONTREAL, March 10.—Practically the entire press of Eastern Canada records its opposition to the nationalization of the Grand Trunk Pacific, which it fears may result from the Government receivership. The Montreal Star, whose opinion is typical of most of the big papers, says:

"The surrender of the Grand Trunk Pacific to the Government came apparently as a surprise to the administration. For many months members of the Government have been trying to make the Grand Trunk shareholders sell the old Grand Trunk Railway at arbitrary figures, considered unreasonable by the owners. The people of Canada owe a debt of gratitude to the shareholders for their refusal to be forced.

One on the Government.

"The explanation of the surrender of the Grand Trunk Pacific should be interesting to the general public. It will probably be revealed that the company's advisers believed that the compulsory acts of the Government in connection with the road have given the Grand Trunk Company the right in law and an incentive to repudiate the contracts and go to the courts for a decision. Whatever the outcome may be, it is to be hoped that the action of the directors may make it more difficult for the franchise manipulators behind the Government to carry out the scheme to get control of the old Grand Trunk Railway.

Bad for the Country.

"If the Transcontinental traffic is to be at the mercy of one private railway in competition with one Government road, that is bad enough. The bargaining that will result from it will create conditions only little better than would come from the entire nationalization of the railways of the country. On the other hand the surrender of the road may force the Government to accept the shareholders' price for the old company, and there will begin a gloomy outlook for the people who want to enjoy the blessings of healthy competition.

"The purchase of the Canadian Northern was the beginning of the mistake that threatens to result in checking the growth of Canada.

"Onlookers might well think that the tens of millions waste in connection with the war ought to restrain the Government from a reckless plunge into railway operations that may make impossible, an escape from national bankruptcy."

G. T. P. CORRESPONDENCE READ IN THE COMMONS.

OTTAWA, March 10.—In the House of Commons today Sir Thomas White read the correspondence which took place between him as leader of the Government and officials of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and which culminated in the appointment of Dr. Reid as receiver for the system. The first letter, which was from Frank Scott, vice-chairman and treasurer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, inclosed a cable from Chairman Smithers of the Grand Trunk Company, saying that it would be unable to meet the interest on the Government loan due on March 1.

Sir Thomas said he had replied that it was not the intention of the Government to ask Parliament to provide any more financial assistance for the company while the negotiations between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific were in their present unsatisfactory condition.

Being Operated as Usual.

Hon. J. D. Reid today entered on his duties as receiver of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway system. Operation of the road is otherwise being carried on as heretofore. W. P. Hinton, general manager, is in charge of the management, and has agreed to conform to the requirements of the order under which Dr. Reid was appointed.

Each company included in the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway system and its officers is required under the terms of the order to facilitate the carrying out of the powers and duties of the Government receiver, and all books, papers, real or personal property of each of the companies are, without delay, to be handed to the receiver or his nominees or placed under his control in such manner as he may direct.

Protecting the Receiver.

Provision is made under the order that nothing done under its provisions "shall render the Government of Canada or the Government receiver or anyone acting under the authority of the Government receiver or of the exchequer court liable to the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or to any company included in the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway system, or to any creditor, or holder of any bonds, debentures, debenture stock or other securities of the said companies, or any of them, for any claims by reason of the making of this order, or of anything done or to be done under the authority hereof or under the authority of the Government receiver or of the exchequer court, nor shall afford any defence to, nor shall prejudice any claim, action or proceeding of the Government of Canada, which the Government might lawfully make or take, had this order not been made."

Letter From Frank Scott.

The letter which Sir Thomas White received from the vice-president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, notifying the Government that operation of the line could not be continued, reads as follows:

"I am instructed to inform the Government that in view of the fact that the increased rates applicable to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have not been sufficient to meet the increased operating expenses, it will not be possible for that company to continue its operations when the present funds have been exhausted, which will be about the 10th inst. May I ask you to be so good as to acknowledge receipt of this letter."

The Correspondence in Full.

Sir Thomas read the letter he received on Saturday from Mr. Scott, inclosing a cable message from Mr. Smithers, and the reply which Sir Thomas cabled to Mr. Smithers. They were as follows:

"Montreal, March 7, 1919.

"Hon. Sir Thomas White, K. C., minister of finance, Ottawa, Ont.

"Dear Sir: I have been instructed by Mr. Smithers to forward the following cable message to you as from him:

"'Mr. Howard G. Kelley has handed me cable message from Mr. Frank Scott, containing extract from your letter to him as follows:

"'That it is not the intention of the Government to ask Parliament to provide further vote for Grand Trunk Pacific Railway while our negotiations with Grand Trunk Railway remain in their present unsatisfactory condition.

"'I beg to recall when ministers came over last summer it was stated in Parliament negotiations would be resumed in London. I accordingly saw ministers with members of board several times and at last was told that ministers could make no advance in their original offer without consent of full cabinet in Ottawa. In these circumstances progress in negotiations was impossible, but with a view to facilitating matters, just before prime minister left for Canada a committee of board and myself saw him with two of his colleagues and made fresh proposal involving very big reduction on our first offer. This offer was not accepted, but on the fifth of November the high commissioner for Canada sent for me and said he had a message from the prime minister asking if we wished to continue negotiations, and if so, he thought I should go to Canada. I told the high commissioner of Canada, looking to the fact that the Government had given no sign of any intention of departing from their original offer, I thought it was useless going out, unless I had some further explanation, or assurance as to the Government's intentions. To this we have had no reply, and I really fail to see how the company can be held responsible for the unsatisfactory condition of our negotiations. Mr. Howard G. Kelley is returning in a few days and I think it would be advantageous if you could cable any reply you may wish to make to this communication before he leaves.'

"(Signed) SMITHERS.'

"Mr. Smithers' cable address is 'Smithers, Sciacita, London.'

"Yours very truly,

"(Signed) FRANK SCOTT.

"Vice-President and Treasurer."

Sir Thomas' Reply.

Sir Thomas replied as follows:

"Ottawa, March 8, 1919.

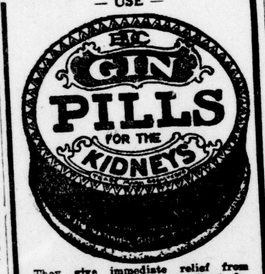

"Smithers, London.

"Replying your cable received through Scott, Government considers unsatisfactory condition of negotiations due to board of directors of Grand Trunk Railway Company entirely, failing to appreciate its responsibilities toward the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, undertaking and the bearing of its liabilities in respect thereto upon the question of net earning power and value to Grand Trunk Railway system. In November last the prime minister cabled to Sir George Perley to suggest to you that if your company desired further negotiations, the Government would be glad to see you in Canada as soon as convenient. He pointed out that it did not seem useful to continue discussion by correspondence. He also suggested that if you should be invested with ample powers to conclude an arrangement it one could be reached. Your attitude towards the reasonable suggestion contained in the prime minister's communication seemed clearly to indicate indifference towards the continuance of negotiations. Confirmatory of this is the peremptory notification on Thursday last to the Government without previous intimation or discussion, that the Grand Trunk Pacific would, on March 10, discontinue operations, entirely regardless of consequences to Canada through interruption of traffic over a system so extensive and important.

"(Signed) W. T. WHITE,
"Acting Premier."

When Sir Thomas had concluded his statement, Mr. Cahill of Pontiac, asked if it was the intention of the Government to continue governing by order-in-council. Sir Thomas replied that had the Government not had power under the war measures act to appoint a receiver of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the entire system of the Grand Trunk Pacific would now be at a standstill.

Preliminary Peace Convention Will Be Ready in Few Days

LONDON, March 10.—British Wireless Service.—"We have reached the turning point of the conference," says the Paris correspondent of the Daily News. "Not even when the Germans come will there be a week-end more important than the one just passed. The preparatory work is nearly finished, and the preliminary convention will be ready in a few days.

"By the time President Wilson reaches Paris the naval and military conditions will have been settled.

"It is an open secret that Premier Lloyd George considers disarmament the touchstone of conference success, and that his insistence on disarmament for Germany is merely the first step in a general policy of pacification intended to lead to disarmament in all countries."

How to Become a Bond Holder

A SIMPLE SUM FOR SHAVERS

A man shaves every other day at a cost of 20 cents per shave. If he buys a Gillette Safety Razor, how many War-Savings Stamps (which are "baby bonds") can he buy with the money he thus saves between March 1st and the end of the year?

And what will those stamps, or "bonds", be worth on Jan. 1st, 1924.

METHOD—

At 20 cents a shave every other day, the cost per week would be.... 20c. x 7 ÷ 2 = 70c.

A man can shave every day in the week with one Gillette blade, which costs 8c. Add for soap, etc, 2c; total, 10c.

Therefore, amount saved per week by shaving with a Gillette Safety Razor equals 60c.

From the first Monday in March to the last Monday in December is 43 weeks, during which the net saving by Gillette shaving is 60c. x 43 = $25.80.

Deduct $5.00, the price of the Gillette Safety Razor, and with the remainder the man buys 5 War-Savings Stamps, at four dollars and a few cents each.

On January 1st, 1924, these 5 W-S.S. will be worth $25.00, representing one year's shaving saving, and the Gillette Safety Razor is paid for and still in daily use.

BUY W-S-S WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS

This shows how systematic saving along only one line mounts up. Naturally, this particular example will not apply to all who should be buying War-Savings Stamps. Men who already use the Gillette Safety Razor, and women and children generally will find other expenses which can be cut down without material loss, or indeed, any loss of comfort.

The man who was paying 20 cents for a shave, should buy a Thrift Stamp every other day, at a cost of 25 cents, so that he would not be tempted to spend needlessly the money saved.

SAVE—and buy War-Savings Stamps.

THE JACK IN OFFICE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

You've all seen curious creatures
At circus, zoo or fair,
I've found one with stranger features,
And tracked it to its lair.
It's that Jack-in-office person,
With scant brains, or none at all,
Who loves to keep you cursin'
In anteroom, or hall;
While he tells his latest story,
Smokes another cigarette;
That story old and hoary,
Which he'd better far forget.
Then after many hours,
With luck, he may be seen,
On his desk a jar of flowers,
On his hair a lovely sheen.
He may offer you a chair,
If he's known you well before;
But please do have a care,
Not to make yourself a bore!
Cos for you and your concerns,
He really has a vast contempt,
And unless he quickly learns,
Why you've made this rash attempt;
You'll find your footing featly
Down the stairs, and out the door.
So have your facts all neatly
Packed and ready long before.
Then humbly, very humbly.
Present your wretched case;
And be sure and take it dumbly,
When he tells you to your face,
That your most cherished wish,
And ambition are absurd.
Don't call him a poor fish,
Or use any naughty word.
Just pull yourself together,
And leave the surly hound;
And hope for fairer weather,
When his like are under ground.

CHARGES MADE BY FORMER MINISTER OF MILITIA—FORMER CONSERVATIVE POINTS OUT THE SERIOUS POSITION OF THE UNION GOVERNMENT.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Under the caption, "Charges Made by Former Minister of Militia," in your issue of the 5th inst. (page 7), you demand the Union Government—so-called—investigate the charge that "Sir" Joseph Flavelle made a profit of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) by reason of his official position as intimated by Sir Sam Hughes.

Your article is most appropriate, timely and excellent. No person, no matter what may be his political creed can take umbrage at what you write; unless he be Bolshevik. No time should be lost, by the people of this great country in demanding that a speedy investigation be made into the alleged doings of "Sir" Joseph. The people should see to it that the commission appointed be comprised of at least a number of Liberals equal to that of the Conservatives or Unionists. But it should be also stipulated that the finding of this commission should stand; and that it should not—as were the findings of W. F. O'Connor in connection with the food trust—be upset by the appointing of another commission packed, as were the juries who tried the Irishmen in the days of Parnell and Butt.

The fact that "Sir" Joseph has denied the charge of Sir Sam is no criterion that there may not be truth enough in what is stated to convict him of using his position to mulct the country in a sum of money that will keep us all busy for generations to meet the taxes; because "Sir" Edward Carson has denied that he incited the British army in Ireland to mutiny when they were ordered to be ready to preserve peace consequent upon the bringing into effect the home rule act, then a law of Britain. He also denied that he made a deal with the kaiser to supply all the men, money, ammunition and guns to carry into being his breach of the constitution. And he conveniently forgot that he had arranged the landing of guns in Ireland from Germany in the good ship Fanny. Such people as Flavelle and Carson are the bane of any country; and it is to be hoped that The Advertiser—the only truly Liberal newspaper in Ontario—will keep working on this disgraceful affair until the public are informed by statement under oath whether Sir Sam Hughes or Flavelle is stating falsehood. At this time, having heard the stories of hundreds of returned soldiers in Canada, and of those in the Western States who enlisted in the Canadian army, I prefer to believe Sir Sam. Although I did not speak to him, I heard him speak in Detroit last week; and his actions were not those of a crank, a madman nor a disappointed politician. He was honestly endeavoring to correct a series of wrongs inflicted on our soldiers who had sacrificed all that we might live.

Would it not be possible for The Advertiser to publish again the critique of the 5th inst in bold type all through, so that "he who runs may read?" We are in such troubious times that one is liable to overlook much of importance that appears in The Advertiser. New insurrections, almost daily, tend to occupy our minds rather than the remedying of existing scandals such as you have so ably referred to.

My belated comment is owing to the fact that I have been out of touch with the Canadian papers for a few weeks. Yours faithfully,

WOLFE TONE.

THE TAX COLLECTOR'S OFFICE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Some few weeks ago, Mayor Somerville and the members of the city council refused to reappoint the men who had held the positions as assessment clerks for the reason that these positions should be held by returned soldiers. Some returned men were appointed to these which was, I believe, perfectly right. Now allow me to ask Mayor Somerville and the members of the city council why the wife of the tax collector should hold a position at the city hall that could be filled by a returned soldier? The city tax collector draws a good salary and should be in a position to keep his wife without having her hold a position that could be filled by a returned man. During the rush of business in the tax office last summer several clerks were taken on to help out, but as soon as the rush was over they were all let go. Were none of these clerks able to fill the position held by the tax collector's wife, or is it a case of whole hog or none at all? Trusting that you will publish this letter, and that Mayor Somerville and the council will pay some attention to same, I remain, yours, truly,

CITIZEN.

CANON TUCKER TO BISHOP FALLON.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Bishop Fallon must have a very poor opinion of the intelligence of the people of London when he imagines that, with a mere stroke of the pen, he can rule out of court, as unworthy of credence, some of the best historians and writers of the nineteenth century. And it is precisely in a court of law that those distinguished names would carry weight; for I did not cite them as exponents of Roman doctrine, though even thus they are not to be lightly esteemed, but as witnesses to a fact. I stated what I thought to be a fact. Bishop Fallon denied it. I produced those witnesses to establish the fact. Dr. Blakeney, e.g., says: "The author of these pages has before him an edition of this Psalter of the Virgin, published in Rome in the year 1834, with the imprimatur of the Roman authorities." This is not a question of the truth or falsehood of Roman doctrine, but a simple question of fact. Either Dr. Blakeney had before him a copy of this Psalter or he had not. If he had all Bishop Fallon's brave words are but empty sounds. If he had not, then he convicts himself as a deliberate and wilful liar. It will take more than Bishop Fallon's mere ipse dixit to place in that category such men as Archbishop Trench and Dean Milman.

Then Bishop Fallon recalls an incident that occurred two years ago, and adds: "The canon appears to have an itch for baseless misrepresentation. I have caught him at it before." It was at the time when Father Richards was reported to have made the statement that "marriage by the Anglican Church or by any other denomination of the Protestant Church, is no marriage at all in the sight of God." In the course of an interview with The Advertiser on the subject, I attributed to Bishop Fallon, from the report of a sermon preached by him some time before the statement, "Outside the Roman Catholic Church there is no salvation." My statement, however, appeared in The Advertiser in the following form: "there is no salvation for anyone outside the Romish Church." To this statement Bishop Fallon objected. This led to a correspondence that will serve to establish the facts of the case.

1. It was not my words which the bishop objected to, but those of the reporter. December 12, 1916. I wrote to the bishop saying, "The item was the result of an interview over the telephone. I am not responsible for the wording of the report."

To this the bishop replied December 14. "I accept, without reserve, your denial of responsibility for the wording of the report." It is on the strength of that report that the bishop now charges me with "baseless misrepresentation." The charge lies at the bishop's own door.

2. My statement was, "outside the Roman Catholic Church there is no salvation." This may be proved by a letter which I addressed to The Advertiser December 18, 1916. What does the correspondence reveal? December 19, the bishop wrote, "Outside the church there is no salvation, rightly understood and correctly explained, is an undeniable Christian truth." December 31, he further wrote, "Of course, in Catholic teaching, outside the church there is no salvation and outside the church, Catholic, Apostolic and Roman, there is no salvation, are identical propositions. By church, I mean, the Holy Roman Catholic and Apostolic Church." Hence the bishop's doctrine is identical with that which I attributed to him. Where, then, is the "baseless misrepresentation?" A tree is known by its fruit. If such doctrine produces the bearing and manners of Bishop Fallon who would care to be a bishop of the one and only church?

3. A curious incident occurred in that correspondence. In a letter to the bishop December 17, I alluded to my experience in the province of Quebec, where I had seen catechisms sanctioned and taught by the Roman Catholic authorities, which contained the words in French, "Outside the Church Catholic, Apostolic and Roman, there is no salvation." December 19, the bishop replied, "I have never met the formula, etc., in any manual of Catholic doctrine." I sent the bishop forthwith two catechisms which contained the statement in full. I had thus the opportunity of teaching Bishop Fallon something regarding his own church which he never knew before, and he returns the compliment by saying that my ignorance of the teaching of his church is "colossal." I am, yours most truly,

L. NORMAN TUCKER.

THE PROHIBITION ISSUE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

As according to press reports we are soon to have a plebiscite taken in this province on the prohibition issue, a few words on the subject in the interest of righteousness, law and order may be opportune.

I notice a writer signing himself "R. B. S." in your Open Forum affects to dispose of legal prohibition, as anti-Scriptural, and opposed to Christ's teaching. This, to my mind, is about the weakest line of argument that could be used in favor of the liquor traffic, as prohibition is not a religious question at all, but a question vitally affecting the moral, social, educational and economic advancement or degradation of the masses of the people, and therefore primarily an enactment in the interests of the whole people, or of the state, as we may prefer to call the machinery of government in our representative system. The question is, Is the Government of the day, considering that past governments in Ontario have been curtailing the extent and influence of the evils of the licensed liquor traffic for 50 years, going to take the manly, courageous and entirely logical step and exorcise this evil, vile-smelling sore upon the body politic altogether, or are they going to yield to mere political expediency, and allow the virus of infection to again poison the streams of our national, social and economic life? It is useless, therefore, for writers like your correspondent, "R. B. S.," who evidently is prompted by an assurance bred of a mere surface knowledge of the Bible and Christ's teaching, to thus try to drag in the silence of Christ on the prohibition question, and thus wickedly shelter the vile-smelling, cankerous liquor traffic behind the "strong Son of God immortal love." If this "R. B. S." whoever he is, would only study the Bible and Christ's words, or even his silence, in the light of the then conditions of society, and the political situation existing at the time, and could thus see further than his nose, he would see that there was no intrenched liquor traffic in Christ's day, no fiery distilled liquors, and thus no prohibition issue. Moreover, the governments were despotic in the extreme, since the king chose his own partisans as his ministers, and ruled the people with a rod of iron. There was no party system, and thus no political fencing for party advantage or exploiting party issues. Not only, then, did Christ say nothing about a subject that could thus have no meaning as an issue in his day, but he said not a word about that other cankering sore on the national life of the Roman Empire, of which he was a citizen, the great, crushing tyranny of the slavery of the masses, when probably one-half of the whole population were slaves. Yes, and was he not prudent and right? Would not a social or political agitator or reformer, who would dare to propose an alternative policy to that of the king and his ministers, be given short shrift, as was John the Baptist? The then world could not possibly anticipate the government by the people and for the people of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, and thus Christ and his apostles clearly taught that the measure of freedom enjoyed by the subject, depended, whether freeman or slave, on his living within the limits which custom and constituted authority placed upon him. But surely it would be an unwarranted inference to maintain that, because Christ and his interpreters, the apostles, counseled obedience to the rule and exactions of Cæsar and the "powers that be," therefore they indorsed their general policy and actions. Christ's followers were to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves." Instead of beating their heads against the iron-bound ramparts of Roman rule, they were to let their new light radiate in the immediate social circle, and the leaven of their pure, strong, Christian lives to act as salt in the corrupting heathenism that surrounded them. Christ and his apostles therefore were the very reverse of political agitators, and, yet, amazing as it may seem, writers like "R. B. S." who would like to shelter the vile liquor traffic behind the Bible and the pure Son of God, yet, contrary to their direct teaching, he publicly seeks to impugn the legislative enactments of the, to us, "powers that be," of which the great apostle speaks.

Fred Young, another disgruntled agitator, is no better, as his recent letter, under the caption, "London Welcomes Her Heroes Home," is not merely a tissue of verbal misrepresentations, but even the affected humor is characteristically asinine and unworthy of a man who assumes to be a gentleman, to say nothing of being a patriot. He speaks, for instance, of the "chagrin and disappointment" of our returning heroes "when they discovered that their status as citizens was lower than that of the children of the countries in which they had fought and bled." Lower, because we had, temporarily, at least, abolished the evil, vile-smelling liquor traffic! If this empty drivel is true, what about the returning millions of the American heroes? Can this disgruntled egotist speak for them, too? I am no political friend of the Hearst Government, but believe in living within the law, even in words, and would not refer to the temperance legislation of the province as "super-Prussianism" even if mentally opposed to it. When the plebiscite is on, then, these men, of one idea, can lawfully campaign in favor of the liquor traffic, and obtain the redress they profess to wish by constitutional means. At other times, the epithets are thoroughly disloyal and uncalled for.

THAT 26-CENT CHARGE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

It was not necessary for the utilities board to make any threats to shut off the water on W. A. Wilson's premises till they saw whether the bill would be paid or not. It was not the paltry extra 26 cents, but the principle of charging more than I was ever charged before to my knowledge. We never used the amount of water we paid for. As soon as I was notified of the extra water going through the meter it was remedied at once. The chairman, Mr. Pocock, did not make any threats, nor did Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Vining made a suggestion but T. W. McFarland, the man behind the gun, made the bold threat, "We will cut off his water." It is wonderful to be a man with such power, in his own mind, as T. W. McFarland exhibits. If T. W. McFarland has always paid his bills as well as W. A. Wilson has done he has done well, because no man ever presented me with an honest bill but was paid on the spot in my whole life. Can T. W. McFarland say more than that?

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair

Girls—If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails. —Advt.

Canada's Railway Problem Task For Executive Giant

Does the Grand Trunk Railway contemplate its absorption in the near future into the system of Canadian Government railways? It has voluntarily placed the Grand Trunk Pacific, extending from Winnipeg to Prince Rupert, in the hands of the minister of railways as receiver, and unless it continues to meet its payments for principal and interest on loans to the G. T. P., for which it is responsible, it cannot long remain an independent corporation.

When the Grand Trunk fails to pay interest charges amounting probably to $7,000,000 annually and principal payments on a total liability of $98,000,000, there will be no other course open but to default and ask a similar receivership for the older system.

Government handling of this railway problem means a great deal to Canada. While the old Grand Trunk has never paid a dividend, it is by no means a "dead horse." The Grand Trunk Pacific has been a victim of suspended immigration, and it is surprising that even today it has not failed to meet interest charges. In the Grand Trunk Pacific alone, 120,000 British investors have placed their money. Their interests should receive at least as much consideration as those of the Canadian millionaires who built the C. N. R.

And whatever else may be said of the old Grand Trunk, it, too, has been the repository of millions of pounds sterling. Upon the fate of these railway investments to a large degree will depend the British attitude toward Canadian securities. A Government that took over recently a railway known to be the property of one of its chief supporters (the Quebec and Saguenay) and that gave to Sir Donald and Sir William a large slice of indemnity should go slowly in repudiating or injuring solid British faith in the country. The British investor has pulled us through our hardest times. To make these railways pay their obligations by honest, non-political administration should be the aim of the Government and it should be assisted by the Opposition. Canada's railways problems are not too great to require the services of the foremost railway manager in the world. No system will be quite so vast. Jugglery could ruin the systems entirely and bring the country to the brink of disaster.

Did Unionist Liberals Wed the Tory "Widdy"

Remember the old song called "Lucky Jim"? It told of the ardent wooing of a maiden by two sighing swains. Jim got her. His friend lamented his fate in verses winding up "Oh lucky Jim, how I envy him." But Jim died. And the friend got "the widdy." Most doleful of all was the last verse relating how peacefully Jim slept in the graveyard, while his friend lived with the idol of his youthful dreams.

Something in the attitude of departed Liberals who married "the widdy" of the late lamented Tory Government recalls the fate of Jim's friend and successor. They have "the widdy," but do they not often wish she might have remained the sole property, soulmate and treasure of the departed James?

Why Not Use Hun Fleet For Transporting Canadians?

It is admitted that the trouble at Kinmel Camp was due largely to delay in bringing the Canadians home. The authorities claim they are doing their best considering the limited shipping at their disposal. Is it not possible to utilize some of those German warships for the purpose? There may be good technical reasons which prevent their use, but they have not been given to the public. American marine engineering experts quickly repaired the wrecked mechanism of the interned Hun fleets. The task of remodelling the ships at Scapa Flow for transport purposes should be a simple problem for British shipyards, the world's foremost shipbuilders. A score of war vessels, which regularly carry crews ranging in number from 500 to 1,000 men, would speed up demobilization wonderfully, and the expense would be offset by the removal of an irritation and exasperation which might lead to even more distressing affairs than that at Rhyl. The British Government favors sinking the captured fleet. Surely it can be put to some practical purpose in the task of readjustment, which has been made so difficult for all the nations by the lack of shipping. What better end could it serve than in getting home overseas men and helping to restore normal conditions here and in England.

Surrender of Hun Vessels Seems Fitting Retribution

Believing the submarine campaign would bring triumph or a bargain peace, Germany ruthlessly sank many millions tonnage of Allied and neutral merchantile shipping. Her intention at first was to prevent the Allies receiving food and munitions; later she hoped to cripple the other nations for the after-war struggle for trade. Now she is wailing over the new clause in the armistice which calls for the surrender of her merchant vessels. Any sympathy Germany may arouse over the matter will quickly vanish if we picture what would have been the fate of the Allied fleets had Germany conquered. Their surrender would have been one of the initial demands. They would have been used with tremendous effect to secure world supremacy in industry and commerce. The other nations would have been hopelessly distanced by Germany's dumping of vast quantities of merchandise on the markets of the world. The turning over of German merchant shipping to the Allies will to some extent be a case of the punishment fitting the crime.

As a matter of fact it is for the immediate and direct benefit of the central powers. There is no question, but that Germany is dangerously short of food. If anarchy is to be headed off the enemy must be fed until the new harvest is gathered. But the Allied powers have also to look after themselves and their friends in the matter of food. Had Germany lived up to the regulations and rules of warfare instead of madly ignoring treaty and human rights she might have been spared the humiliation of surrendering her merchant shipping and preventing great misery amongst her own. Their would have been sufficient tonnage to meet the present dreadful emergencies. The loss of their shipping even if it be but temporary should serve to drive home to the German people the utter folly of Prussianism and kultur and help block any attempt to restore the old regime.

Many Signs From Russia That Bolshevism Is Losing

Many signs are observed that the skies are clearing in Russia. The Canadian military base at Vladivostok reports the Siberian Bolshevists distinctly willing to compromise with the other factions. From Moscow comes a semi-official announcement that Lenine and Trotzky are engaging skilled executives to rescue industry from chaos and confusion, a tremendous concession, as it means recognition of the hated bourgeoise. Then there is the encouraging news brought to Washington by the head of the American Red Cross in Petrograd. According to this man, who is believed to be unofficially "feeling out" for the Bolshevik Government, the latter is prepared to recall its repudiation of Russia's foreign debts if allowed credit for the purchase of foodstuffs and machinery.

If these reports are correct, the Red power is weakening, if not petering out. For this the failure of Bolshevism to swing the world rapidly and completely behind its banner is responsible, that and hunger. The torches tossed into Germany and other adjacent nations have not been as destructive as expected. Germany has suffered most, but any success of the Spartacans seems to be local. The nation as a whole appears to approve the stern measures employed to strangle Bolshevism. Great Britain, France and the United States retain their balance, standing solidly against destruction and disorder.

The outlawry of the Russian Reds could not last unless the infection spread outside with the same virulence it had at home. Lenine and Trotzky raced against time and lost. A vast Allied scheme to feed Germany- Austria and Southeastern Europe is already under way, and the Red chiefs know well that full stomachs have little sympathy with turbulence and outrage. Unless they can placate or strike a bargain with the Entente powers they are in danger of an isolation that will only increase the miseries of the starving millions and hasten their downfall. Hence the desire to secure food and implements for the rehabilitation of industry and agriculture. These are good signs. They indicate Lenine and Trotzky are "climbing down" from their arrogant stand. If that pair are ready to bargain or compromise we may be sure it is because Russia is wearying of their detestable methods, which have increased hardship and tyranny instead of bringing happiness and liberty. Reasonableness and political sanity in Russia may be much nearer than the world thinks if the Allied nations can take tactful and speedy advantage of the hour's opportunity.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

New Germany is well named.

Someone says John Barleycorn's dying request will be for a bier.

Will public ownership of the Grand Trunk bring a new depot nearer?

Liebknecht left an estate valued at $3,000,000. Pretty fair for a Bolsheviki.

"Borden opposes secret treaties." How about that notorious pact with Bourassa?

Wonder what became of High-Cost-of-Living O'Connor? Can such a good man be kept down?

The military police of No. 1 district have a little private war with Germany on their hands.

By bombarding a brewery the German Government troops are introducing frightfulness into civil strife.

If the Grand Trunk passes into the hands of the Government we can make a new station the issue of the next elections contest.

Mark it down that discontent and rioting march hand in hand. Contentment is the return paid by giving all men a fair deal.

We would like to inform J. H. Sinclair, M. P., that the "prodigal sons of Liberalism will come back to the fold" when the problems of repatriation and reconciliation have been settled, and that threats will not induce them to return before that time.—Kingston Whig.

We should like to inform the good old Whig that this reminds us of the two small boys who were dying to be friends, but continued apart because neither one would speak first.

"United States public ownership of railways appears a failure," says The London Advertiser. Better wait till public ownership has been tried before passing judgment.—Toronto Globe.

The United States Government has set the wages of railway employees, named the executives for the various systems and the salaries they shall receive, decrees the amount of business each road shall handle, wipes out competition and appropriates many millions for operating. At Washington they call it railway administration, but to all intents and purposes it is public ownership.

FOR SELF AND WIFE.
By Izola Forrester.

The night clerk at the Barclay House was sleepy that night. It was about 11:50 when the boat train got in, and the bus met it on time, more from habit and precedent than any actual gain in patronage.

Few guests ever wandered to the island after the first spring rush up the river. A rambling tramp steamer from Seattle or Vancouver would sometimes bring a few belated passengers up, who finding themselves marooned at Barclay's, with no chance of getting any farther up the river, would take the next steamer down.

But tonight there was an expected guest. Reservations had even been made for her, special privileges requested, and a new fire built in the little low-ceiled north room next the office. And on the old canvas-bound registry was written in a bold, splashy hand,

"Craig Fallon and wife."

Fallon had arrived on the river boat the day before a big, good-looking youngster who had spent the past two years up around Nome, and had finally taken a steady position, he told Jimmy, the clerk, with a trading company.

"Soon as I was sure I sent for the young lady I'm going to marry," he added confidentially. "Coming way up here from Nebraska. Miss Kendall's her name. Who's the minister here?"

"I don't know where you'll find any, unless it was Sandwiches," Jimmy meditated in friendly fashion. "He's got a little shack over the south shore, if you can catch him to home.

"He's out with the Injuns most of the time teaching them. We call him Sandwiches 'cause he hands you out a feed before he tries to give you any dose of religion. He was the worst one up here when he first come out, and then he got a sudden light. That's the way he puts it. Says the Lord shone on him, and he's walked straight ever since. Wish a lot more were like him."

Fallon had not returned when the bus drew up before the hotel, and Chuck handed down the lone passenger, a girl in a brown cloak and veil. Chuck tried to see past the veil, but failed, and had to be content with a glimpse when she threw it back at the desk and asked rather tremulously if Mr. Craig Fallon was there.

"Well, miss, he is and he ain't," Jimmy told her, trying to break it to her gently. "He came and engaged the rooms and then he went after a minister, and that's the scarcest article we have up here. Only one in the whole district, 'ceptin' the priest down the river, but he's gone after Sandwiches. Guess you had better get to bed and make yourself easy. He'll be back."

That was the end of April. Day after day passed by and the little bride-elect waited. Rosalie Kendall, she gave her name. Amakeaug Island got used to seeing her when she walked for hours along its lonely shores, gazing over at the far-off mainland or up the vast Yukon in silent questioning.

There was no mystery about her. She told Jimmy's mother, the landlady, all about herself. She had gone to school with Craig Fallon, and they had been sweethearts before he had gone away. She had waited for him to send for her so they could be married.

"Oughter hev married him before he started out," advised Mrs. Barclay, sagely. "Never let them outer your sight. Ain't any stability in any of 'em, not a one. I had three husbands and I know what I'm talking about. Here you are, stranded dead on this forsaken dab of earth in the middle of nowhere and land knows where he is. You may stay here until you're as old as I be before they ever find his bones."

The word struck Rosalie oddly. There was the old fearlessness of pioneers in her blood, and she had a good part of the money that Craig had sent her for her outfit, right with her.

"Get me a guide and supplies," she said suddenly. "I'm going after him."

They found her Chakomo, a silent, rather dumpy Indian who made his way unerringly to the house of the minister, twenty-four miles up the river on the south shore. And arriving there, they found it buried under mud and debris. Chakomo shrugged his shoulders at sight of it.

"River rise too much," he said grimly. "Mebbe kill."

He struck at the pile of earth with his toe idly, and Rosalie turned away with a shudder.

"We go on," she ordered.

"No go on. Go back," said Chakomo, starting for the boat. She tried to run after him to call out, but the utter hopeless weariness of the fruitless quest swept her, and she stood by the ruins, her hands pressed across her eyes. And here Sandwiches found her when he made his semi-weekly trip after supplies cached in the shack.

He was like a scarecrow, she thought, as she watched him in the gloom, striding up from the landing, his head thrown back, his voice ringing out in an old gospel hymn, "Pull For the Shore, Sailor." And there in the mass of wreckage he found her, a slim, wide-eyed girl from "below," her hand clasped before her tightly as she waited to see whether he was friend or foe.

"I'll bet two cents to a collar button," said Sandwiches, "that you're Rosalie! There's a young man two miles from here that's been singing about you in his delirium for about three weeks. But I never thought the Lord would bring you down the river and set you right here for me to find."

Later that night, in the Indian tent where she found him, Rosalie was married to Craig Fallon, with a couple of Indians as witnesses; and Sandwiches, having finished his work, smiled down at them in the brilliant May moonlight that shone in through the lifted fly.

"He trailed me all over here trying to get me to tie this knot, and couldn't locate me," he explained. "I'd gone up the river to be with some Siwashes that had the measles, and when I got here he'd come down, too, and was out of his head. All he did was beg me to marry him to Rosalie right off the bat, and I'm mighty glad to do it, ma'am; that's all I can say."

They heard him singing all the way down to the water's edge, where his boat was waiting, and Craig's arms reached hungrily for his bride.

"You must have heard me calling for you," he whispered. "Know what Sandwiches kept telling me?"

"'Many waters cannot quench love. Love is stronger than death.'

"I reckon I've said that a million times, dear, and here you are."

A KING ALBERT STORY.

[New York Tribune.]

Byron Stowe, a machinist in the naval air service, got back yesterday on the Sierra with a story that will encourage many future generations of Stowes in the cornsilk cigarette habit. It happened at Knissclaera, at an aerodrome recently captured by Americans. A huge 'plane swooped down and a tall man in aviator's togs got out and sauntered over to Machinist Stowe.

"Have you a cigarette?" asked the stranger.

The American air sailor had and gave him one.

"Thank you," said the other. "You're an American, aren't you?"

"Yes," replied Stowe.

"I am a Belgian," said the stranger, and something in his tone made Stowe glance at him more sharply and inquire:

"Say, are you King Albert?"

"Yes, I'm Albert," was the response.

"What then?" Stowe asks. "Why, nothin'; he grinned and I grinned and that's all there was to it."

A CHECKERED CAREER.

(Mississippi Banker.)

A man made a bet with his wife—which was indiscreet.

The wife won—which was foreordained.

The man wrote the wife a check for $5 in payment of the bet—which was sad.

The wife cashed the check at the grocery, but forgot to indorse it—which was natural.

The grocer, despite the lack of indorsement, paid it to a packing-house collector—which was careless.

The packing-house collector turned it in—which was all in a day's work.

The packing-house office man discovered the lack of indorsement—which was good work.

He handed it back to the driver and docked the driver's salary—which was system.

The driver placed the check in his white duck coat and sent it to the laundry—which was unwise.

The laundry mutilated the check beyond recognition—which was to be expected.

Which is why the driver asked the cashier to ask the grocer to ask the man's wife to ask her husband to write a duplicate check. Which is why the man feels like he is paying that bet twice.

Quebec Postmistress Suffered for Four Years, But Her Pain Vanished Before a Short Treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

L'anse a Brilliant, Gaspe County, Quebec, March 10.—(Special).—Mrs. Geo. Briand, the postmistress here, is a sworn friend of Dodd's Kidney Pills. And like a host of others she has a reason.

"I had a pain in my left side for four years," Mrs. Briand says in giving that reason. "It never left me for one single instant.

"But after using two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, with two of Diamond Dinner Pills, the pain ceased, and in over a year now it has never come back.

"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to the Patrons of this P. O., for I keep the postoffice here, as the best medicine I have ever used."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure all. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They are credited with cures of sore back, rheumatism, lumbago, heart disease, diabetes, and Bright's disease. The reason for this is that all these troubles sprang from diseased kidneys.

Dodd's Kidney Pills acting directly on the kidneys, put those organs in condition to do their full work of clearing the impurities out of the blood and the diseases vanished with the impurities.

FURTHER I. O. D. E. REPORTS INCREASE FINANCIAL TOTAL

$19,622.42, Raised By All the Primary Chapters During 1918, Added to Value of Articles Shipped, Brings Grand Value of Goods and Money to Nearly $40,000.

ADELPHIC CHAPTER.

This chapter has raised during the past year $127.45, by various means. Three dozen hospital ties, 75 pairs socks, 3 pairs pyjamas and 6 dozen towels, were turned into the Red Cross and 1 dozen pairs socks, 5 towels and 2 personal property bags to the Municipal Chapter.

Since July the chapter has provided girls for the Soldiers' Club every other Sunday. A donation was made to the soldiers' Christmas dinner, and personal property bags were given to boys leaving for overseas.

EDUCATIONAL CHAPTER.

Twenty sectional bookcases and over 700 books were given to the Byron Sanatorium in addition to nine magazines, at a total cost of $149.26. Donations were made at various times for soldiers' comforts, war work, etc., and jars of fruit, trench caps, personal property bags, socks, etc., were taken to Wolseley Barracks by the members.

Two more schools in Western Canada were adopted, this chapter undertaking to educate them in loyalty to Canada by means of installing libraries and encouraging reading along these lines.

TRAFALGAR CHAPTER.

Trafalgar Chapter is pleased to report a successful year for 1918. The chapter held twelve business meetings, with the following officers enrolled:

Honorary Regent—Mrs. A. Walker.
Honorary Vice-Regent—Mrs. Chapman.
Regent—Mrs. Atkins.
First Vice-Regent—Mrs. Dreaney.
Second Vice-Regent—Mrs. Ram.
Secretary—Mrs. Laughton.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Pugh.
Educational Secretary — Mrs. B. Logan.
Echoes Secretary—Mrs. Bendle.
Treasurer—Mrs. Harding.
Standard-Bearer—Mrs. M. Logan.

The chapter deeply regrets the sudden death of the late regent, Mrs. Callard. She was a faithful leader and her advice and support in many things is missed.

Moneys received from various socials, rummage sales, tag days, band concerts, etc., was $891.84. The chapter thanks friends for their help and assistance on these occasions, which made it possible for the chapter to make several donations to worthy causes, the larger ones being: To the Canadian Nurses' Home, London, England, $25; Hospital supplies for overseas rush work, $25; Sailors' Fund, $25; Christmas gifts for soldiers overseas, $25. The balance in the bank is $177.89.

At Easter 25 boxes, valued at $4 each, were sent to boys overseas, and in November another 25 boxes, valued at $4 each, to other soldier lads. Two dozen pairs of socks were given to the Municipal Chapter for the bags for the sailors at Halifax at Christmas and 12 pairs of socks to the French refugees through the Secours National.

A life membership was presented by the chapter to Mrs. Dreaney and Mrs. Atkins for their faithful services and help.

A total of 10,411 articles, including sweaters, socks, towels, pyjamas, scarfs and French refugee work, were finished during the year. As the Red Cross has now charge of the hospital work, a committee of two members from the chapter has made weekly visits under their instructions. Mrs. Walker and her workers have rendered splendid service for the order with their weekly service at the Soldiers' Club.

All the 1918 officers were re-elected by acclamation for the coming year.

ISABEL HAMPTON CHAPTER.

During the year the work done by the chapter has been as follows: Surgical pieces, 9,516 and other work; 729 articles made and 216 pairs socks knitted. The chapter, realizing the importance of the Child Welfare movement started in the city, assisted at the large clinic held in March, and is also helping at the clinics held each week in the schools, four members attending each week. Two members a week also visit the Byron Sanatorium on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The funds raised by the chapter amounted to $860 with the following disbursements: For soldiers' comforts, $266; for Canadian Nurses' Home, England, $50; for Navy League, $50; for Children's Aid, $25; other donations of small amounts, $80, leaving a balance on hand of $255.

Officers for 1919 are as follows:
Regent—Mrs. G. Annie Wilson.
First Vice-Regent—Mrs. James Mapleton.
Second Vice-Regent—Mrs. Jones.
Secretary—Mrs. Ross Thomas.
Treasurer—Mrs. George McNeil.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. Walcott.
Standard-Bearer—Mrs. Tighe.

SIR GEORGE ROSS CHAPTER.

The chapter has just concluded a very satisfactory year, and, with the exception of the summer months and "flu" expidemic, it has met once a week. Money was raised chiefly through band concerts, held in June, which netted $160.

Contributions have been given the following causes: British Red Cross, Patriotic Fund, Christmas Gift Fund, Navy League, Nurses' Home in England, emergency call to help educate a French child, a prisoner in Germany.

At the beginning of last year the regent, Miss Ora White, was accepted for V. A. D. work in England, and although the chapter misses her, the members are glad to know she is helping to bring the soldiers back to health.

During the year the chapter has handed in 110 pairs of socks, 38 dozen towels, 24 wash cloths, 4 sweaters, 3 caps, 1 scarf, 1 pair bed-socks and 1 child's stocking, in all 712 articles.

The total receipts for 1918 were $617.64 and the disbursements $329.58, leaving a balance in the bank of $291.01.

The following officers were elected for 1919:

Honorary Regent—Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell.

A contribution of socks was also made to the Secours National.

Every Monday four of the members went to the Soldiers' Club. During national registration day the members worked individually. They also worked under the City Health Institute during the epidemic of influenza.

Money was raised during the year from a band concert in Victoria Park, raffling a mat donated by Mrs. Turnbull, tea at meetings, donations and fees from the members, and the proceeds from Prof. Kekoa's act at the Grand Theatre, in all amounting to $546.27. The chapter has now in the bank the sum of $225.20.

In January the chapter received with regret the resignation of Mrs. Brown, who had been a capable regent for two years. The officers for the coming year are:

The chapter held one bridge afternoon at the Country Club, and cooperated with the Princess Patricia Chapter in holding a victory ball on New Year's Eve.

The hospitals visiting committee has done very splendid work, visiting Wolseley Barracks Hospital once a week. The time allotted to the chapter for work at the Soldiers' Club was manned in a most satisfactory manner.

The treasurer's report is: Cash on hand, February, 1918, $215.38; further receipts $1,693.93, making a total of $1,909.31. The total expenditure was $1,384.05.

Eleven thousand, two hundred and fifty-three dollars has been spent by the Lord Roberts Chapter in war work. This sum does not include large subscriptions to the hospital ship funds, nor to cots in Shornecliffe Military Hospital.

HARRIET A. BOOMER CHAPTER.

The meetings of the Harriet A. Boomer Chapter were held in the rooms of the Overseas Chapter, above the Bank of Commerce, at 4:30 on Mondays. Most of the girls were attending Normal School, so the work undertaken was principally knitting and making surgical supplies for the Red Cross.

On January 11 a successful dance was held in the Masonic Temple, the proceeds amounting to $80.60. A Sunday evening band concert in Victoria Park realized $175. Expenses for the year were $228.25, with cash on hand of $180.78.

The regular meetings of the chapter were held until September, when all the girls, excepting two, left the city to accept positions as teachers in other places. At the suggestion of Mrs. A. A. Campbell, the organizing secretary, the remaining members were pleased to help in the work of the 7th Regiment Chapter. The girls who are out of town this year, are paying their fees to the chapter, and as it is possible to arrange four meetings during the year, this enables the chapter to retain its charter until the return of the members. The officers are:

Hon. Regent—Mrs. H. A. Boomer.
Regent—Miss Gertrude Anderson.
First Vice-Regent—Miss Marjorie Wallen.
Second Vice-Regent—Miss Ella McKay.
Treasurer—Miss Florence Line.
Standard-Bearer — Miss Margaret Simson.
Secretary—Miss Geraldine Glover.

JANEY CANUCK CHAPTER.

The Janey Canuck Chapter, I.O.D.E., has had a most successful year during 1918, and has increased the membership to 28.

Five hundred and fifty-five articles were completed, including towels, personal property bags, bed-pan covers, knitting bags, socks, sweaters, surgical socks, scarfs, caps and wash cloths.

For a number of weeks in the fall of last year it was necessary that all meetings be discontinued owing to the serious epidemic of Spanish influenza, and although it was impossible to carry on most of the work of the chapter, a number of the members were able to assist in the relief work, which was so much needed at that time.

One hundred special boxes were forwarded to soldiers overseas, including a number to men with "No next of kin."

The following contributions were made: $25 to the Navy League of Canada; $5 to the G. W. V. A.; $6 to the French orphans; $10 to assist in buying extras for the welcome of returned soldiers; $3.50 toward repairing the A. M. C. ambulance; $1 per member sent for Residential Club for Canadian Nurses, London, England.

One band concert and three very successful dances were held during the year. The total receipts were $778, and the expenditure $545.47. The officers for 1919 are:

Honorary Regent—Mrs. A. A. Campbell.
Regent—Miss Carrie F. Fitchett.
First Vice-Regent—Mrs. Alma Egelton.
Second Vice-Regent—Miss Aileen Raymond.
Secretary—Miss Agnes M. Smith.
Treasurer—Miss Edna Petch.
Assistant Secretary—Florence Widden.
Standard-Bearer—Miss Amy Pigot.
Educational Secretary—Miss Ada Bateson.

CAMPBELL BECHER CHAPTER.

During the year the Campbell Becher Chapter, whose membership is 86, has held 34 meetings, twelve of these business meetings and twenty-two sewing meetings. $1,539.45 has been raised in various ways, such as teas, dances, euchres, tearoom at Western Fair, etc. Through the kindness of W. D. McGregor and L. E. Jones the books have been audited for the past year.

Eight hundred and forty-eight articles have been completed, comprising flannel shirts, pyjamas, hospital shirts, socks, etc. The chapter is the proud owner of a Victory bond.

Hospital visiting has been a specialty with the chapter. Together with the Lord Roberts' Chapter, 23 visits have been made to Wolseley Barracks, the members taking fruit, cakes, pies, salads, canned fruit, jellies, magazines, etc. During the influenza epidemic jellies and ice cream were sent to Connaught and Victoria Hospitals. At the beginning of the year joint visits were made with the Red Cross, to Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, the visitors taking sweaters, slippers, toilet articles, etc.

Under the convenership of Mrs. W. H. Line a very enjoyable concert was given at Byron Sanatorium Recreation Hall.

Sorrow has come to the chapter for the first time, in the death of one of its members, Mrs. Leslie Walker of Chicago. The officers for 1919 are:

Honorary Regent—Mrs. K. Becher.
Honorary Vice-Regents—Mrs. A. Becher, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. T. A. Smallman.
Regent—Mrs. F. J. Greenaway.
First Vice-Regent—Mrs. G. Northcott.
Second Vice-Regent—Mrs. W. H. Line.
Secretary—Mrs. W. A. McWilliams.
Assistant Secretary—Mrs. F. Brown.

Educational Secretary.—Mrs. T. Rowe.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. T. Bell.
Standard-Bearer—Mrs. E. N. Hart.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

Two Pounds From One.

Dear Miss Grey,—I've heard you can make two pounds of butter out of one. Can you or any of the readers tell me how to do it? Could you please tell me the meaning of the following names: Frank, Gordon, Violet, Ethel?

ECONOMICAL HOUSEWIFE.

Ans.—Quite possibly this recipe, sent to the Mail-Box some time ago by "Faded Lily" (one of the "old 'uns"), is what you desire: Take a cup of good fresh milk and a good fresh egg and one pound of butter, and churn all together till it all goes into butter, and salt to taste. This will make two pounds of butter. But if you use two cups of milk, two eggs and two pounds of butter, you will have four pounds, and it is real good.

Since the first publication of this recipe several readers have stated trying it with success, a Dover eggbeater being used for the "churning" process.

2. Frank or Francis, free; Violet, sweet as a Violet; Ethel, a princess, or nobly born.

Notes.

Just Neoma's butterfly yoke design is asked for by Hi, and others.

Ekfrid Reader.—Your pattern for Bonibel has been mailed her, and the inclosures you desire sent you in return.

Dolly Dimples, who asked for "Listen To the Mocking-Bird," please send stamps for a copy.

Anxious.—Go to a department store and they will demonstrate for you how the curtains should be hung. Customarily the shade is adjusted next the window, then comes the simple curtain of white, and lastly the drapery (of colored fabric such as satin, velours, etc.) is hung in place. Special rods are required for this.

Cap Doesn't Fit.

Dear Miss Grey,—I think that it is about time that I put in a few words on my own behalf. "Yankee" agrees with "Yankee Farmerette," and therefore disagrees with me. She says that no well-mannered Canadian makes any remarks about the Yankees. Maybe they are too disgusted even for that. That was politely telling me something. The cap doesn't fit, so I won't wear it. I never would have written to the Page to start a discussion about the Yanks. "Yankee Farmerette" wrote first, and I couldn't restrain from answering her.

I quite agree that the farmers got a rotten deal when they were promised exemption from the military act. The drafting system should have been brought into force about three years ago, and the farmers should have been no exception to the rule. Personally, I know lots of Canadians that would have been glad if the Canadians had never been drawn into the war. My oldest brother enlisted with the 1st battalion, my other brother enlisted with the 18th Battalion, my father enlisted with the 34th Battalion, my brother-in-law went across with the Red Cross about three years. That includes all the men-folk in our family. That is not a brag. It is merely to let the readers see that the knocks about conscription do not bump me in the least.

I have no desire to keep up a quarrel, but "Yankee Farmerette" had better go easy. We British are not so slow to anger as the Yanks. The events of the last five years prove that. And "Yankee Farmerette" should not say too much! I remain,

A CANADIAN WAR WORKER.

She Will Exchange.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in your Mail-Box where a person called Just Neoma said she had a yoke in the butterfly pattern and was willing to copy the same. I would be very grateful for the same if I could get it, and would be willing to copy the pattern in the rose yoke pattern in return. IRENE.

They Vote It O. K.

Dear Miss Grey,—Pardon me for bothering you again so soon, but I saw where I could be of some help to Cymatis in the making of lemon pies. Here is the way I make mine, and everyone that has ever tasted them claim they are O. K., but that's not saying they are any better than anyone else's.

Lemon Pie Filling—Two egg yolks, 1 cup white sugar, butter size of walnut, 3 tablespoonfuls flour, the grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 cup boiling hot water. First mix your dry ingredients to prevent the filling from being lumpy, then the beaten egg yolks, next the butter, then the lemon rind and juice and lastly the boiling water; stir thoroughly before placing on the fire, and continue to stir it until thick enough to pour into crust. Next, beat the whites of eggs until so stiff that you can turn the dish upside down and not out the egg running out, add 1 tablespoon of white sugar for each egg white, and whatever flavoring you like; beat again until light and frothy, then spread over the pie filling; place in oven to brown.

Now, if you can't have a good lemon pie from those directions don't blame me, but if otherwise, and I hope so, please let me know through the Mail-Box. I have a lovely (real chocolate) pie recipe, too, if anyone would like it, will send it in some other time. It might accidentally benefit some one in the line of cooking who hasn't had the experience that others have. Thanking you for time and space Miss Grey, I remain, JUST NEOMA.

Little Bit Irish.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wonder if any of the readers could loan me a pretty edging or lace suitable for curtains? For their kindness I will exchange patterns in crochet, or any other way I can. My address will be with Miss Grey. Say, "Just Neoma," I am a little bit Irish, too, and would very much like to have the pattern of your pretty butterfly yoke, if you would be so kind as to send it. Will return if desired. ONLY ITY.

Baby's White Rubbers.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here is a hint that may be of some use to any reader with little girls. I find that washing baby's white rubbers with warm water and Ivory soap cleans and whitens them much better than gasoline or anything else. SOLDIER'S WIFE.

Biting Pretty Hard.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see that some of the Boxites are biting pretty hard on Y. F. I for one don't; I think her opinions just right. If it had not been for the Americans going into it they would be fighting yet. All honor to our Canadian boys, but don't forget the Yankees. I have one brother overseas who joined the army at London and one joined at Detroit. I will close, with a recipe: Velvet Lunch Cake—Half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 cups flour, 1 egg, 1 cooking spoonful molasses, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg.

THE MAPLE LEAF FOREVER.

The Ex-Kaiser's Mother.

Dear Miss Grey,—I notice that "Neoma" has a pattern of a crochet butterfly yoke, and I would be pleased to have directions for it. Also, will you please tell me the date on which the ex-kaiser's mother died?

NONENTITY.

Ans.—The ex-kaiser's mother (Princess Victoria Adelaide Maria Luise of England), died in 1901.

Willing to Help.

Dear Miss Grey,—I'll send some lace and insertion patterns next time. I haven't any samples done just now. I do want those directions for knitted gloves and mittens, and wonder if "Gloveless" would copy them for me? I'll do anything in return that I can. I would also love to have the Spider's Web yoke with sleeves that "Crochet Lover" sent for "Inwood." I would copy it as soon as I could and send it back, and I wonder if some of the readers would send me a tam pattern for a child 10 or 12 years? I believe this is all my wants except that I want to do something in return. Was glad to see you in the Mail-Box again, "Mrs. Homebird." I was sorry to hear of your sickness and trouble.

SERENE.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR March 16, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D. (Monday.)

The Cities of Refuge.—Joshua xx.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

Verses 3, 4—What was to be the purpose of these cities of refuge?

5. What was the primitive usage, or law, of the Semitic people concerning blood-revenge?

6. How does modern law distinguish different degrees of culpability in homicide?

Golden Text—Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.—Matt. v., 7.

ALL LAW SHOULD MAKE PROVISION FOR MERCY.

It is necessary for us to have law and that we should, as a rule, enforce it, but a law which does not provide, or admit of, exceptional cases of mercy is an unjust law. Generally it is more merciful to punish the offender than to forgive him, but when the vindication of the law would defeat its own purpose, then mercy should be shown in the shape of forgiveness. Contrary to the logic of some theological beliefs, God is naturally merciful, and this attribute can be traced through all his laws. It is a libel upon the Lord to teach that Jesus by his death had to purchase God's mercy. God was just as merciful before, as since Christ's death. The sacrificial death of Christ was a result of God's mercy, and not the cause of it.

BIG CONCERT NEXT THURSDAY PUT ON BY MOTHERS' CLUB

Mrs. Edward Wyatt and Miss Anthistle Will Be Leading Artists.

One of the most enjoyable events of this week will be a concert put on under the direction of the Lord Roberts' Mothers' Club in the school at 8 o'clock on Thursday. The leading artists for the night will be Mrs. Edward Wyatt, soprano, and Miss Anthistle, reader. Piper MacDonald and his dancers will also be present to add to the interest of the program. Several other numbers are being arranged for, including choruses and folk dances by the children of the school.

Tickets are already on sale for the concert, which is to be in aid of the well-baby clinics, and the children themselves are proving admirable ticket agents throughout the school district.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Readers Are Invited To Phone All News of This Kind to the Society Editor, Phone 3670.

Mr. H. E. Gates has returned from Atlantic City.

Miss Marjorie Struthers has returned to town after a visit of several weeks in New York.

R. M. Gough of Deckerville, Mich., is visiting his cousin, Richard Gough, 776 Queen's avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hupt, 16 Craig street, who have been wintering in Florida, have returned to town.

Rowland Williams, son of Bishop and Mrs. Williams, was home from Ridley College, St. Catharines, for the week-end.

An enjoyable party was held on Friday evening at the home of Alex. Laing of Walkertown. The evening was spent in dancing and cards.

Mrs. Jesse Allison of Becher street has arrived home after spending three years in England, whither she went when her son, Capt. H. C. Allison, M. C., went overseas. Capt. Allison won his decoration for conspicuous gallantry. He is the son of the late H. C. Allison, for many years connected with The Advertiser.

Western Ontario Women's Activities

THORNDALE W. I.

The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) Armstrong. A very interesting program was given and the reports of the convention read by Miss Myrtle Bilyea and Miss Mary Duffin. They stated that hot lunches were advocated for the pupils of rural schools and that it would be more beneficial to the sections if the teachers would spend more of their spare time in the community, as there were too many "suit-case teachers" in the province.

A paper on "St. Patrick" was given by Mrs. James Wheaton and one on "Ireland" by Mrs. W. C. Gee. An instrumental solo was rendered by Mrs. Angus of Pottersburg and readings by Miss Mary Duffin, Miss Wella Duffin and Mary Armstrong.

SARNIA RED CROSS.

Sarnia may justly feel proud of its Red Cross workers who have been so zealous in responding to the call for refugee clothing. Since the call for these garments in the middle of November, the Red Cross workrooms have completed 3,800 garments and 55 quilts. Much of this work has been done in the homes, but bands of sewers met daily for the past three months, and the result is the completion of the material on hand. This is quite apart from the knitting that is also being brought to a close.

KINGSVILLE W. I.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Bussey, 20 ladies being present. A splendid paper on "Making the Best of Our Children" was given by Mrs. Westman. A tea will be given at the home of Mrs. Ervin Oxley from 3 to 6.

EMBRO W. I. CONCERT.

A successful box social was held by the Women's Institute in the town hall. The chairman for the evening was Auctioneer R. A. McDonald of Kintore. The program consisted of the following: Excellent music by the Kintore Orchestra, readings by Miss Langdon, duet, by Mrs. W. N. Murray and Mrs. W. P. Lane, a solo by Miss Della Webber of Hickson, duet by Misses Ada Vannatter and Helen Ross, violin selections by Miss Elva McArthur and James Clarke.

The most interesting part of the program was when Mr. McDonald auctioned off the boxes. Some went for over $30 each and a good number for $1 and $2, some of the men buying two or more boxes. The proceeds amounted to $70, which, after paying expenses, goes to the soldiers' hospital fund. The women served coffee, after which the chairs were cleared away and dancing was indulged in for a couple of hours.

MICHIGAN-ONTARIO LEAGUE SHOULD BE A BIG SUCCESS

Baseball Cities on the New Circuit Are Thirsty For the Old Game—Double Holidays Will Mean Big Gates—Salary Limit an Important Question—Umpires Under Control of President Jackson — Higher Salary Would Be an Optimistic Note, However.

The old Canadian League in new clothes seems to be off to a good start, with the launching on Sunday of the Michigan and Ontario league, a Class "B" organization. It will consist of what is really the cream of the old Canadian and the Michigan and Ohio Leagues.

The outlook for the league is auspicious. In most of the places on the new circuit the natives have been without baseball for the past few years, and are now thirsty for it. There may be those who hold the opinion that a year's delay would have been better and more promising for the future. There may be something in this. There are convincing arguments on both sides. However, the fact remains that the match has been struck, and it's up to the fans to get out and do their part to keep it burning.

All Good Ball Towns.

The eight towns composing the league are all good ball supporters. That is to say, within reason, and having regard to the limit of their population. They will support good ball of a not too costly calibre. In other words the game will be a paying proposition throughout the circuit if the clubs are handled judiciously and full regard is had for the salary limit.

It might here be pointed out that though it is announced that the organization will be Class "B" just what the salary limit is to be is not stated. It is to be hoped that the league heads will not let their optimism run away with them in this regard. A high salary limit is an awful burden to a weak club from about July 20 on.

Michigan Gets Good Start.

A couple of the Michigan towns are heading in on a rather unfair start, through no fault of their own, however. It is one of the legacies of the lean war years of the past that these clubs must be launched with a $1,000 millstone about their necks. However, this money must be paid and the Michiganders must see their way to do it or they would certainly not step under it.

The circuit as a whole is fairly compact. It is like a large eight. The Canadian cities are grouped in one of the circles, and the Michigan cities in the other. It is just a fair jump from one section to the other, but the general layout of the league suggests that the traveling expenses will not be a heavy burden.

There are excellent transportation facilities to all centres, and this will allow for quick jumps at small expense.

Another promising feature is the fact that Sunday ball may be played in Michigan. This is a wonderful boon to a minor. It promises big gates. In fact, the different magnates would be almost justified in figuring, in the first couple of months at least, on getting their week's transportation money out of the Sunday games.

Another factor which evidences the farsightedness of such a league is its international character, which makes two holidays grow where only one grew before. Holiday double-headers are always the choicest of cream. To get a double dose is not displeasing.

Daylight Saving Helps.

Daylight-saving is another valuable factor. However, its influence will hardly be felt until on in June. It should then be possible to call the game much later than at the opening of the season. This should also help to swell the gate receipts.

The league is to be commended on its action in placing the umpires under the sole control of President Jackson. He knows baseball and knows what to look for from players and umpires. If every club member had a say in the firing and hiring of umpires, it is safe to say that the arbitrators would change at least every two weeks after the first month and perhaps every week after that.

There is further evidence of the wisdom of this course, is the salary maximum of $175 a month for umpires. Possibly the league will be able to get satisfactory men for this money. Admittedly baseball salaries have tumbled considerably since before the war. However, there is a common-sense way of looking at the matter. Real umpires are men of brains, hustle and bustle. It is safe to conclude that they hold good jobs now. The question is, will a salary of forty odd dollars a week for the summer months at best, tempt them? A good start for the new league, as for any other league, is a big factor in its success. It rests with the umpires in no small measure, whether or not the games are attractive. Bad umpires will spoil the best of games. We fear that $175 will not attract the calibre of men that this promising circuit should have. In other words, we fear that $175 umpires will bring gray hairs to President Jackson's head.

Another suggestion is that the league officials and not the clubs should control the official scorers. It is perhaps all right to leave the gift in the hands of the local management, but the control and paying of the scorers should be from league headquarters. Perhaps the secretary of the league will best appreciate this. The league averages should be got out promptly, and at least a couple of times a month. For this reason game returns should be made promptly. Pay the scorers a fair fee for their work and fine them when they slip behind. The league and fans will benefit.

The call of $1,300 on each of the clubs will be a rather hard pill for some of them to swallow at the start. However, a good deposit is a forerunner of a healthy financial condition, and there is nothing that will lend confidence quicker. It also places the league in a strong position, should any one of the clubs drop out before the end of the season, and the club have to be transferred elsewhere.

Salary Limit Important.

On the whole the outlook for the league from the details at hand is dandy. The salary limit is important, much more than the classification, that is from the fans' standpoint, as it gives the real evidence of the class of ball that will be dished up. However, as has been said, ball salaries have tumbled, and even this is not a sure criterion now.

It is to be hoped that President Jackson will prove a genius and discover some method of enforcing the salary limit. It is imperative that the burlesque which Ottawa made of the Canadian League should not be visited upon the new organization, which, under sane and wise leadership, should prove as neat a little circuit as can be found.

MEETING TO BE HELD IN LONDON TO DRAFT BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Constitution Will Provide Severe Penalties For Violation of Salary Limit.

DETROIT, March 10. — Should the plans now made work out as anticipated, the Michigan-Ontario League of Baseball Clubs, formally organized at Flint on Sunday, will adopt its schedule and complete other work preliminary to the playing season at a meeting to be held at London on March 16. It may be necessary to change the meeting place to Hamilton to accommodate some of those who will attend. This will be decided later. It is proposed to have the committee on constitution and schedule meet on Saturday of this week to draft the schedule and laws, and to present the same to a general meeting on the following day. If these plans go through, franchise certificates will be granted, and the league will be on its way.

Messrs. Jackson and Rhodes of the schedule committee met in Detroit this afternoon, and wired Secretary Wilson at Toronto in regard to the proposed meetings. The president has named Mr. Rhodes as chairman of the schedule committee, and himself as head of the constitution and bylaws committee.

Some of the clubs have named their managers already and are signing players, and it is expected that at the next gathering all of the associations will be ready to announce their team pilots. The constitution will provide severe penalties for violation of the salary limit, and also will make some special provision for barring or limiting in number optional agreement players from higher class.

CLIFFORD ROBINSON IS A TORONTO BOY

TORONTO, March 10.—Two years ago at the Woodbine "Jim" McIlmurray, the well-known local owner of racehorses, saw a little fellow mount a horse. He remarked to a friend that the lad had the earmarks of a jockey by the manner in which he "hopped on" the thoroughbred. He walked over and had a talk with the lad, and told him what he had noticed. Immediately the boy went home to his mother and told her what Mr. McIlmurray had said. That lad is Clifford Robinson, the riding sensation of the racing season, who is now laid up with a broken arm as a result of a fall at New Orleans several weeks ago. Young Robinson's home is at 138 Booth avenue, and he lives with his mother, who is naturally greatly elated over the splendid showing of her son in the saddle. Robinson is but 17 years of age, and as this is his first year in the saddle he promises to class with the best, if not top the list.

Cliff was educated at the Morse Street School. Being interested in horses, he naturally was around the Woodbine most of the time. He just loved horses, and was always happy when he was near them. After going home when Mr. McIlmurray talked with him, the lad coaxed his mother to let him be a jockey, but she refused. The boy, not to be outdone, brought Mr. McIlmurray over to see his mother and he finally convinced Mrs. Robinson that the lad had a great future. She finally consented, and the local owner signed the boy to a contract. He galloped horses at the Woodbine for a time to get his schooling. When Ed. Moore came to the Woodbine in the spring of 1917 he saw the boy, and being a wise judge of jockeys, purchased the contract from Mr. McIlmurray for $500. He took Cliff with him around the Canadian circuit, and down to Bowie. It was at the latter place that Robinson had his first winning mount, and it was on Grayson. It was not until the New Orleans meeting, however, that the boy was put on as a regular. Up to the time of his injury he led by a good margin the other riders in the matter of winning mounts. He is expected to be able to take mounts again shortly, and will ride at Hot Springs, where he is now staying. It is just two years ago next Tuesday that Robinson signed his contract with Mr. McIlmurray.

GUELPH AGGIES HOLD BIG SWIMMING EVENT

H. R. Clemens Grand Champion With 13 Points—No Records Broken.

GUELPH, March 10.—The annual aquatic meet in connection with the O. A. C. Athletic Association was held this afternoon in the big tank at the college gymnasium and proved to be a most successful one. While no records were broken the performance of some of the students was exceptionally good. The grand championship of the meet went to H. R. Clemens, a fourth year man, who displayed good speed in the various races, in which he participated. He made a total of 13 points. A regrettable incident occurred during the afternoon which nearly cost one of the students his life. It happened in the under-water swim. One of the contestants was C. K. Henry, a fourth year student. He did not come to the surface when the other boys did, and after waiting a few seconds another student dove after him and brought him up. He was unconscious, and it was thought at first that he was dead. However, the usual methods of respiration were employed. The results follow: 52 yards swim—1, Allen; 2, Clemens; 3, Grant. Time 34 4-5 seconds. 52 yards novice swim—1, Stillwell; 2, Henry; 3, Eaton. Time 49 4-5 seconds. 104 yards swim—1, Clemens; 2, Grand. Time 1 minute 30 2-5. Long plunge—1, Shepherd; 2, Allan; 3, Ings. 208 yards swim—1, Clemens; 2, Hendrie; 3, Ings. Time 3 minutes 59 3-5 seconds. 52 yards back swim—1, Shepherd; 2, Clemens; 3, Grant. Time 46 seconds. Under water swim—1, Shepherd; 2, Ings; 3, Henry. Distance 115 feet 11½ inches. Inter-year relay novice—1, fourth year; 2, first year. Inter-year relay, senior—1, fourth year; 2, first year. Inter-year standing—Fourth year, 33 points; first year, 29 points; second year, 16 points third, 1 point. Grand champion—H. R. Clemens, 13 points.

Woodstock Juniors Pile Up Four Goal Lead on U.T.S.

Over 3,000 Spectators See Red and Whites Capture First Game in Junior O.H.A. Finals—Game Played on Sticky Ice—Final Score, Woodstock 5, U. T. S. 1.

WOODSTOCK, March 10.—U.T.S., of Toronto came to Woodstock tonight expecting to defeat the Woodstock Juniors on their own ice in the first of the home and home games for the O. H. A. junior championship. However, unlike Caesar of old, they came and saw, and were conquered, for the red and whites defeated them five goals to one on ice that was sticky. The game was witnessed by three thousand fans, the local arena being crowded to capacity. It was a clean contest all the way. In the first two frames the visitors were completely buffaloed, and were blanked, the locals having much the best of the play, and garnered five tallies, two in the first and three in the second. In the third, and concluding verse, the Students came to life, and succeeded in getting one goal, while they were playing their best hockey. However, they could not get more, though Rowell, Munro and Aggett tried desperately to break through. The game was featured by close back-checking by Woodstock. In this respect the Toronto lads fell down.

The work of Sullivan in the U.T.S. goal, and that of Dunlop in the local twine, were two of the outstanding features of the contest. Although Sullivan was good, Dunlop was positively better, and put up one grand exhibition. For Woodstock, King and Bill Carson were always on the offensive and towered above anything on the ice in class. They turned in some wonderful rushes. Frank Carson, on right wing, had no trouble bottling Grey, whom he outskated and outplayed all the time. Shay on defence, did some marvelious defensive work, and his rushes were sensational. Howard Johnston at centre took care of Aggett nicely, though the latter was some hockey player in the last frame. U. T.S. didn't show up as they were expected to, and local sport followers have no fear of them overcoming the four-goal lead and winning out. Rowell and Munro were best for the losers and Aggett was also good.

Woodstock Team Best.

At the end of the first frame the locals showed they were equal, if not superior, to their opponents. In the second frame they tallied three goals and had the big edge of the play. In the last frame they played defensively.

Secretary Hewitt of the O. H. A. was at the game, and several of the executive were also present. A special train will carry hundreds of rooters to Toronto to Saturday night for the deciding tilt. Billy Breen is confident the red and white are going to do the trick, and his belief is shared by local fans. Even the most rabid student supporters from Toronto had to admit after the game tonight that the Toronto team have a big job ahead of them to pull down the lead of the red and white, and cop the championship. Woodstock is expected to play even a better game on Toronto's fast ice, taking the dope on their performances both in Sudbury and Stratford, where the ice was keen. The referees gave entire satisfaction.

A Good Start.

The first period opened with Woodstock right on the aggressive, King went right through and Sullivan gave the crowd the first chance to see him work. Dunc Munro rushed, but was run into the corner. Rowell and Aggett also had chances, but took their chances from outside the defence. Sullivan had to go out of his goal to break up a tricky rush by Johnston. Sticky ice caused the players to overskate the puck. King made a sensational rush, carrying the puck right in on Sullivan, who made a nifty stop, finally Bill Carson put Woodstock into the score column when he took a pass from his brother Frank and bored right into the net from in front of the goal. Time seventeen minutes. King and Frank Carson followed each other to the penalty box, and with a two-man advantage U. T. S. tried hard, but Dunlop was airtight and both men returned without any damage being done. For the second time Bill Carson outguessed Sullivan when after grabbing a loose puck in centre ice and zig-zagging through the defence, he bored in a waist high shot from close in which counted Woodstock's second goal. Time four minutes. In this period Woodstock had the edge. The U. T. S. were unable to work their combination successfully owing to the heavy back-checking of the red and white both Dunlop and Sullivan saved sensationally before the period closed.

The Second Period.

Shea and Frank Carson opened the second period with pretty rushes, the latter drawing Sullivan out of the goal. Trump opened the scoring for the period when he took a neat pass from Frank Carson close in on the nets and slammed the disc into the twine. Time, three minutes. Rowell and Aggett pulled off classy rushes, but the locals used the poke check to advantage and their efforts counted for naught. The locals were still carrying the game to U. T. S., successfully bottling any attempts the U. T. S. made at combination, and Sullivan was called upon to leave his goal. The second goal in this period came to Woodstock in six minutes. King worked in one of his famous rushes, passing the entire U. T. S. squad. His shot hit the boards, but he came on and getting the rebound scored an easy one, which passed Sullivan.

Bill Carson got his third goal of the period five minutes before the period closed. On a neat piece of combination with his brother Frank he took the pass and from ten feet out shot Woodstock's fifth goal.

U. T. S. showed their best form of the game in the last period, tallying their lone counter eleven minutes after play commenced, while the locals were held scoreless. U. T. S. opened with a rush, but Gunn shot wide. Rowell was sent to the penalty box for tripping Bill Carson as he was about to shoot. U. T. S. were having the best of the play, but failed to take advantage when close in on the nets. King went through from end to end and made U. T. S. look easy, but Sullivan was cool and blocked the shot nicely. Munro and Aggett combined several times, but Dunlop was playing a great game, and saved repeatedly. U. T. S. slammed in shot after shot, mostly all at long range. Finally, Jeffrey, on one of the long shots, following a piece of combination, got one by Dunlop. Shea put out his hand to stop it, and the puck was deflected into the corner of the net. Time, 11 minutes. Woodstock at this stage was inclined to play a defensive game, and determined efforts by U. T. S. were consistently broken up. King showed some wonderful bursts of speed later on, but the U. T. S. defence was playing a better game, and his shots were carried away from Sullivan. Rowell, Munro and Aggett worked like fiends to score, and time after time in the dying moments of the game, carried the puck right in, but the bell rang without further scoring.

Summary:

First period—1, Woodstock, B. Carson, 7 minutes; 2, Woodstock, B. Carson, 4 minutes.

Second period—3, Woodstock, Trump, 4 minutes; 4, Woodstock, King, 6 minutes; 5, Woodstock, B. Carson, 5 minutes.

Third period—6, U. T. S., Jeffrey, 11 minutes.

Vancouver, B. C., March 11.—With the score 8—6 against them, nearly half of the final period of the game over, and substitutes on the ice working for their two regular defence men, who were resting up for the play-off games with Seattle, Vancouver kept five thousand persons in a continual uproar as they ran in five scores last night before the whistle blew. The final score was Vancouver 11, Victoria 8. It was the largest score of the season, and though rather loosely played in spots, it was just the kind of nip-and-tuck battle home fans like to see.

BECK DECLARES THAT GRAND TRUNK MUST BE TAKEN BY GOVT.

Chairman of Hydro-Electric Commission Says That Is Only Way Out.

CLASHES WITH HANNA

Maintains That Extension of C. N. R. to Hamilton Is Unnecessary.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 10.—In the course of a red hot interview which primarily concerned the proposal that the Canadian National Railways build on the old Canadian Northern right-of-way between Toronto and Hamilton, Sir Adam Beck this afternoon denounced the unloading of the G. T. P. on the people of Canada by the Grand Trunk Company. He said the Government had been duped and the only way out was to acquire the Grand Trunk as well as the G. T. P. The Grand Trunk had got rid of its obligations regarding the National Transcontinental, unloading millions of debt on the people of Canada.

Is Necessary, Says Hanna.

Concerning the Toronto-Hamilton line proposed by D. B. Hanna, president of the Canadian National Railways, Sir Adam said the line was absolutely unnecessary, that hydro-radials were the essential thing.

Just as strong the other way came an interview from D. B. Hanna, declaring that the building of the Canadian national line to Hamilton on the Canadian Northern right-of-way was absolutely necessary, even though the Government acquired the Grand Trunk system, which includes an old established line between Toronto and Hamilton.

Beck Is Wrought Up.

"It is unbelievable that the people of Canada should be made to take over the Grand Trunk Pacific and not the Grand Trunk Railway system," said Sir Adam Beck this afternoon, discussing the announcement that the former line only has been taken over by the Government.

"It is the question of what happens to the mortgagee who cannot pay his interest," continued Sir Adam. "Outside of the question of public ownership, altogether, the matter is simply a case of a debtor who cannot pay his debt."

Sir Adam said that he had fully gone into the Drayton-Ackworth-Smith report, in which they were all unanimous, and in which they all declared that the Government could only take over one end of the line along with the other.

Unload Debt on People.

"The Grand Trunk got out of its obligations in regard to the National Transcontinental and unloaded millions of debt on the people of Canada. They said that they were forced into this, but they were not forced into the Grand Trunk Pacific. They are responsible for the load of debt on the Grand Trunk Pacific and they ought not to be allowed to unload this on to the people of Canada.

"The chairman of the royal commission himself addressing the board of trade of Toronto said that the National Transcontinental had been wished on to the people of Canada. He added that the operation of the whole Grand Trunk system along with the Canadian Northern was the only way in which any real competition could be offered to the Canadian Pacific Railway," he went on.

"The Grand Trunk shareholders are asking that they be relieved of their obligations and allowed to retain the profitable end of the railway and leave the millions of dollars which were spent on the G. T. P. for Canada to pay."

So far as the local situation is concerned, Sir Adam said that the question of the construction of the hydro radials should be considerably simplified if the Government takes over the whole Grand Trunk system.

Sir Adam said it was unnecessary for the Canadian National system to build the line to Hamilton, as D. B. Hanna proposes.

"The line is absolutely unnecessary; we (the hydro commission) will be able to relieve any possible congestion, and our line is being built to take care of the heaviest traffic," said Sir Adam. "It is Mr. Hanna, and not the Canadian National Railways, who wants the old C. N. R. right of way built between Toronto and Hamilton."

He added that the proposal of the commission over which he presides was that congestion on all railways into Hamilton, Canadian Pacific as well as the Canadian National Railways, would be safely taken care of.

The C. N. R. line would only parallel the Grand Trunk line, while the radial railway will serve an entirely different purpose. "No steam railway can possibly do the work which can be done by an electric line," he said. "The present line between Toronto and Hamilton is carrying all that it can stand now, and that is not enough."

Chance For Co-operation.

"This is where there should be real co-operation. I can imagine no more proper place for co-operation than that between the Canadian National Railway and the people's radials. That is where there should be the closest kind of co-operation, because in the last analysis both of the railways are publicly owned," he said.

"We will handle the different kinds of traffic altogether from that of the National Railway. The National Railway has not time to make the necessary number of stops between Toronto and Hamilton, and we will not only make the stops, but we will run through the little towns and villages between the two cities," he went on.

In answer to a question, Sir Adam explained that the radial route is away to the north of the Grand Trunk route, and joins the present radial line at Oakville.

"The wants of the country should be the paramount consideration outside the question of public ownership altogether," he concluded.

D. B. Hanna Speaks.

"So far as the right of way through Hamilton is concerned, we must go ahead; if I was the only person concerned in the matter I would say we will build right away," said President D. B. Hanna, of the Canadian National Railways, speaking today on possible developments arising out of the announcement that the Government is taking over the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the probable ultimate absorption of the Grand Trunk eastern lines.

Mr. Hanna was asked if, in view of the fact that the Grand Trunk System is likely to become a part of the Canadian National Railways, if the old Canadian Northern Railway between the city and Hamilton will be necessary, and he replied emphatically that it is necessary as stated above.

"I do not wish to get into any controversy with the hydro radial people," continued Mr. Hanna, "but the link is necessary. The people of Hamilton have the right to be joined up with the Canadian National Railways, which extend from Sydney to Vancouver. If the people of Hamilton consider that being a link of this system is a case for mirth, then they are taking a very different view to the many delegations which have been calling upon us to go ahead with early construction."

Presents Alternative.

Mr. Hanna said that the C. N. R. had spent the $1,750,000 on this project, and that as the problem appeared to him it was for the people of Hamilton to decide whether they wished to guarantee the expenditure of $6,000,000 on a purely local line or to have a central passenger station, and be a link in the Government railways which will not cost them a cent.

"Hamilton is the largest shipping centre in Canada," said Mr. Hanna, "and surely it is only right that they should have direct connection with the national railways."

"You have asked me if in the event of the national railways taking over the Grand Trunk and operating the line to Hamilton the old C. N. R. right-of-way would be used, and I have replied that it is necessary," he said.

"When will you commence to build?" he was asked. "I cannot reply to that. I can only say that we consider that the line should be built," was the answer.

Mr. Hanna, in declining to make any statement on the taking over by the Government of the Grand Trunk Pacific, said that the Grand Trunk Pacific will not, so far as he can see at present, be operated by the Canadian National Railways.

"We will continue to do business with the G. T. P. as we always have done. We have agreements with them just as have with the C. P. R., and will continue under them.

No Change in Management.

"The Government has announced that the G. T. P. will continue in operation as it does at present. There is going to be no change in the management. General Manager Hinton is out in Winnipeg, and he will continue to manage the line for the Government there," he said.

"Would you express an opinion as to whether the Grand Trunk System ought, in your opinion, to be operated by the Canadian Government Railways?" he was asked. "I really prefer not to be interviewed on the matter at all," was the answer.

"All I want to say is that the people of Hamilton ought to desire physical connection with the Canadian National Railways—outside of the Grand Trunk altogether," he added.

ATLANTIC LINERS ARE HELD UP AS RESULT OF STRIKE

Longshoremen's Union Expects 50,000 Workers Soon To Be Out.

OTHER THREATS MADE

U. S. Government Might Intervene and Operate Privately Owned Boats.

New York, March 11.—With many of the great transatlantic steamship lines here tied up by the strike of longshoremen, which was called yesterday in support of the striking harbor workers, threats were made today by the marine workers' affiliation to renew the strike against the railroad administration because of the alleged violation of some terms of the recent agreement.

Terms Rejected.

The independent boatowners again have rejected the terms under which settlement between the railroads and their harbor employees was reached. That the Federal Government might intervene and operate privately-owned boats in order to keep the port open to foreign commerce, was considered a possibility by many shipping men here.

Officials of the longshoremen's union, who claimed that 20,000 of their members already are on strike, said today that the strike might eventually spread to include 50,000 workers.

A number of large liners, ready to sail for Europe, were still in port today, unable to proceed for lack of coal. Among these were the Cunard liners Carona and Mauretania; the White Star steamer Lapland and the French Line steamship Niagara.

WOMEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE IN $50,000 CHICAGO HOTEL FIRE

Blaze in Annex of Morrison Hotel Does Heavy Damage.

Chicago, March 11.—Half a dozen women fainted, as many others were overcome by smoke and these with nearly 225 men and women employees of the Morrison Hotel were assisted down fire escapes early today when fire broke out in a five-story brick annex to the hotel, which is used as a dormitory for the employees. Those overcome by smoke were carried into the hotel drugstore and were soon revived.

All guests of the big hotel, located at the southeast corner of Clark and Madison streets, were aroused and notified to leave the structure, as a precautionary measure. The fire did not reach the hotel proper, however, being confined to the annex on the Clark street side. The fourth and fifth floors were burned before the blaze was brought under control. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

BRITAIN'S MARKETS ARE BEING OPENED TO CANADA'S PRODUCTS SINCE RESTRICTIONS REMOVED

Stocks Are Low in Britain and Canadian Businessmen Are Urged To Open Up Active Campaign To Get Orders —Shipping Situation Is Easier.

Ottawa, March 11.—A cablegram to the Canadian Trade Commission in Ottawa confirms and supplements the information published that the British Board of Trade (department of trade and commerce) has announced the definite removal of all restrictions on imports into Great Britain which comes from within the British Empire.

The Canadian mission in London further states that all-important fact, that the board of trade regulations will insist that only goods of British Empire origin shall be exempted from the rigid general restrictions which were imposed in continuation of the war-time trade regulations. "Canadian manufacturers and producers," the message adds, "should comprehend the importance of the fact that foreign goods cannot, therefore, reach England by way of Canada."

Market Is Opened.

"The market here is now being opened," the cable continues, "and Canadian manufacturers have a big opportunity, as stocks in everything are very low. As this is business which does not involve Government credit, it is up to Canadian businessmen to make the necessary effort to get orders. Our business is to find the markets."

The shipping situation is also easier, so that prompt and good business may be looked for. A previous communication to the Canadian Trade Commission from London states that there are now over 200 representatives of Canadian exporters in Great Britain.

GERMANS LIKELY TO BE CALLED UPON TO BRAND THEIR FORMER EMPEROR AS ARCH CRIMINAL

Solemn Declaration of All Nations Assembled at the Peace Conference Will Place Responsibility For the War Upon Ex-Hun Ruler.

Paris, March 10.—It will be the fate of former emperor William to be branded for all time as an arch-criminal by the solemn declaration of all the nations assembled at the peace conference, to which his own country may be called upon to subscribe in the peace terms, according to the present plans of what is believed to be a majority of the commission on responsibility for the war.

The report of this commission will be ready within a few days, and the indications are that the members are harmonious on the main points. There are likely to be differences, however, regarding subordinate German officials, though at present a majority of the commission is understood to hold that they can be punished for orders given or acts permitted by them in violation of the national laws of Germany or the rules of war. Such a rule would apply to the officer who executed Capt. Fryatt, but not to the executioner of Edith Cavell, who, it is pointed out, might have been technically guilty of espionage. No doubt is felt as to the liability to punishment of any German officer taken prisoner of war and found guilty of atrocities.

DEFAULTERS MUST BE TAKEN, DECLARES MAJOR JOHN HIRSCH

Provost Marshal Says New Germany Men Are To Be Captured.

TRAILING THEM NOW

Will Be Captured If Every Man in District Is Used To Get Them.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH, March 10. — "No matter if it takes every man in the district, these men must be rounded up and brought to justice," declared Major Hirsch, provost marshal from London, tonight, after hearing the details of the gun-fight which his officers had at New Germany early on Sunday morning, and during which one of the police was shot by an alleged M. S. A. defaulter, one of the two sons of Joseph Berberich.

Still at Large.

The two young men were being sought by the police when the shooting occurred. They then took to the woods and are still at large. They must be rounded up, says the P. M.

The police made another journey to New Germatny this afternoon, and placed under arrest Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berberich, the parents of the two young men who did the shooting. They were brought before the magistrate and remanded for trial until tomorrow morning. The charge against them is that of obstructing the military police in the discharge of their duties.

Prisoners in Court.

At the police court this morning all four prisoners who were arrested Sunday were arraigned before the magistrate.

Charles Hummel Sen. was charged with harboring and protecting his son. He pleaded not guilty aond was remanded for a week.

Joseph Hummel, the son, was charged with being a deserter in that he did not report for military duty when ordered to do so. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded a week for sentence.

Pleaded Not Guilty.

The same charge was preferred against Linus Zinger, but he pleaded not guilty and was remanded for a week.

Anthony Rumig was also charged with being a deserter, but did not plead at all. Inspector Lane asked that his case be enlarged for a week.

RANCHING BUSINESS TO BE ENCOURAGED BY ONTARIO'S GOVT.

Legislation To Copyright Brands May Be Passed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 10.—The Ontario department of agriculture has appointed Mr. Charles Laidlaw as ranch specialist, with headquarters at the Burwash Industrial Farm. Over a year ago the department made a survey of possible ranching lands in Ontario. Since then ranching has been extended, until now there are about forty in Ontario. The northern section of the province, including part of Haliburton, Hastings, Parry Sound and sections farther north, as well as portions of Manitoulin Island, are considered as splendid ranching territory.

In making the announcement of Mr. Laidlaw's appointment C. F. Bailey, agricultural commissioner for Ontario, said that the duty of the specialist includes experimental and administrative work in the interest of the rancher.

In addition, Mr. Laidlaw will be required to make personal visits to all ranches in Ontario, in order to become conversant with all problems, so that he can give advice and assistance.

One of the problems confronting ranchers in Ontario today is that there is no law permitting them to register brands. As the statutes read today, a rancher may brand his cattle, but there is nothing to permit anyone else adopting a similar mark. This is a matter of real difficulty in the north, where cattle roam for miles, and are perhaps not seen from early spring until fall. It is understood that the department at present has in mind legislation to correct this hardship.

AMERICAN RAILWAYS MUST FURNISH GOOD SECURITY FOR LOANS

Conferences Are Being Held to Arrange Necessary Advances.

$337,000,000 AVAILABLE

New York Bankers Will Lend $100,000,000 For Six Months Only.

Washington, March 11.—The financial predicament faced by railroads as a result of the depletion of the railroad administration's funds without further application by Congress was discussed today at a conference between Director-General Hines, leading railroad executives, bankers and officials of the war finance corporation.

The conference was the first of a series of informal discussions which Mr. Hines hopes will result in a co-operative plan for financing railroads privately as a substitute for the Government financing which had been planned in connection with the $750,000,000 funds sought, but not authorized by congress.

Demand Good Security.

A few New York bankers have proposed organization of a banking pool of more than $100,000,000 to advance to railroads for not more than six months. This, it is understood, was to be laid before the railroad administration today.

War finance corporation directors explained that the organization has about $337,000,000 available for loans to railroads, but said that adequate collateral must be furnished. A study to determine which companies can produce this security has been undertaken by the railroad administration's finance division.

NEUTRALIZATION OF AUSTRIA PRESENTS MANY PROBLEMS

Proposed Union of Germany and Austria Confronted With Difficulties.

Paris, March 11.—While the possible neutralization of Austria has not as yet come before the "big five" in a formal manner, it is being discussed here. Certain Socialistic elements in Austria are striving hard to prevent neutralization, but there are other influences which are anxious to see it effected, as it would give Austria protection similar to that enjoyed by Switzerland.

The proposed union of Austria with Germany is presenting many difficulties, and German interests are endeavoring to effect a division of Austria so that the German section may be annexed. Many of the members of the Entente are unfavorably disposed toward the neutralization of any part of Austria, as it is regarded as undesirable and embarrassing to a country seeking membership in the league of nations. Switzerland's neutrality presents many problems to the supreme council as her status would be uncertain, should she be admitted to the league of nations and still retain her neutrality, as she desires.

There is a possibility, however, that the peace conference will consider the neutralization of the Austrian Tyrol, which would afford protection to the northern Italian frontier.

RUSSIANS ASK WHEN DELEGATES SHOULD GO TO PRINCES' ISLANDS

Lithuanians and White Russians Express Desire to Attend Conference.

Basle, March 11.—A Libau dispatch received here says that a wireless message from Moscow states that the commissary for foreign relations of Lithuania and White Russia has sent a note to the British, French, Italian and American governments, asking when plenipotentiaries should go to Prinkipo Island. It is said that the commissary's note stated that there was a disposition to settle all questions relative to the situation in that part of Russia in a peaceable manner.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

There was only a small attendance at the local market today. Hay took a sudden jump in price, but it is not expected that it will hold. It is now quoted at $17 to $19 per ton. Oats are also a little higher in price, one load selling for $1.93 per cwt. A few dressed hogs were sold today for $23 per cwt. The live hog market is firm. It is expected that on tomorrow's market live hogs will sell for $17 or $17.25 per cwt. Chickens are selling at 38c to 40c per pound, retail, and 35c to 37c per pound, wholesale. Apples are scarce. No other changes in prices are reported.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Ill, March 11. — Opening: Corn—March, $1.44; May, $1.36⅛. Oats—March, 61½c; May, 63⅜c.

Winnipeg, March 11.—Oats opened ⅛c lower to unchanged for May at 71⅞@72c.

Barley opened unchanged for May at 92⅛c.

Flax, ½c lower for May at $3.38.

Inspections Monday totalled 270 cars for all grains. The contract grades of wheat were 77 cars.

Chicago, March 11.—Weakness developed in the corn market today after a moderate advance. The initial strength resulted from assertions that any prospect of excessive arrivals of hogs had been dispelled. Bears, however, contended successfully that recent sharp upturns in the corn market had more than discounted all bullish factors, and that further buying of Argentine corn to be brought to the United States would have to be reckoned with. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1⅛c higher, were followed by a material setback all around.

Oats, like corn, receded after a minor upturn. Buying was of only a scattered sort. The market opened unchanged to ¼c higher, and sagged well below yesterday's closing. Radically higher quotations on hogs lifted provisions. Maximum gains were the rule.

New York, March 11.—Wall street, 10:30 a.m.—Changes among important issues, with one exception, were limited to fractions at the uncertain opening of today's stock market, in striking contrast to the wider fluctuations which have attended recent initial dealings. Marine preferred yielded 1½ points, but leading rails, industrials and specialties were only slightly over or under yesterday's quotations. Firmer tendencies prevailed before the end of the first half hour on a demand for Baldwin Locomotive, Great Northern Ore and some of the motors and oils.

IN MEMORIAM.

EVANS—In loving memory of our darling, baby William George (Billy), who passed away one year ago today, March 10, 1918:
He like a little faded flower,
Was lying quiet and still,
His sweet brown eyes were closing,
His little hands were still.
When on that day the Savior came
From among his flowers,
He came to gather lilies,
The day he gathered ours.
Friends may think that we forget him,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
Which that smile hides all the while.
Thy will be done.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How to Treat That Spring Distemper Called "Pink Eyes"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D., (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

The eyes of lovers may be red, swollen and inflamed, yet those same eyes tell the tales of anger, reconciliation, entreaty, gratitude, love—and a condition often called "pink eye."

At present in some cities there are mild epidemics of eye trouble, due to bacilli or other infectious matter. Popular "jumps" toward conclusions are keen to call these troubles "pink eye."

Dr. Herbert Harlan, an eye specialist, has just issued a wise caution against these occular distempers, which may be of various sorts, so do not be too insistent upon the use of such a "ready-to-wear" name as "pink-eye."

When you meet a man who has such an inflammation of the eyes do not shake hands with him and then rub your eyes. If you do you are likely to "get it." Use only individual towels. Avoid using a common towel, for it is in such a manner that "pink eye" spreads. This eye inflammation is not spread through the atmosphere as are other diseases.

Consult Your Doctor.

One of the remedies for "pink eye" is a solution for bathing the eyes, but the proper thing to do is to consult a physician. The eyes are not to be trifled with.

"Pink eye" is not ordinarily dangerous, and usually disappears after a week, however, it usually spreads until all the family have had it. When it appears in a family, members of the family have had it.

Some persons have been inclined to think that this inflammation of the eye follows influenza. It does not. But there is a form of eye trouble which does follow influenza, and which is sometimes dangerous. That is the eye ulcer. Only an expert oculist can be certain when ordinarily inflamed eyes have none of these dangerous ulcers. An ulcer is apt to form if a man permits his general health to be impaired. A patient of mine told me the other day that recently he had influenza and these ulcers appeared, and that 30 years ago he had influenza and the ulcers appeared in the same manner.

Until you can reach an oculist, bathe the reddened eyeballs and swollen lids alternately with hot and cold water. A teaspoonful of boric acid should be dissolved to each cup of water used.

Some Home Aids.

It is advisable also to drop a few drops of a 10 per cent argyrol solution into each eye, then wash this out with cold water, later to be alternated with hot.

Hot compresses, when feasible, made of absorbent cotton covered with a linen binder bandage and a piece of thin rubber to contain the heat, hasten the restoration of a normal condition of eye health.

Styes are seldom due to a local scratch or bacteria. Strain of the eyes instead of the relaxation of correct eyeglasses may be the onus. Have your eyes tested by a careful, painstaking oculist. Meanwhile apply to the styes a mixture consisting of 6 grains of ammoniated mercury to 2 drams of white vaseline.

Answers to Health Questions

C. J.: Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for constipation.

A.—Take a glassful of water every hour, on the hour, two glassfuls before meals, charcoal tablets, milk of magnesia, eat prunes, raisins, apples, figs, dates, oranges and other fruits at night and between meals. Slightly warmed—not boiled—milk, whole wheat, bran biscuits, oatmeal and vigorous massage of the abdomen will help. Keep your intestines open and active.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12.

Under this day's astrological forecast affairs should move with liveliness and interest to success and profit, provided some care is taken in the handling of money. This should not be jeopardized in speculation or other avenues of risk, and particular care should be taken in the signing of contracts and documents involving moneys. Otherwise it should be a day of initiative and enterprise, with all projects forwarded under the stimulus of Jupiter, Mercury and Mars wielding friendly influence under lunar transit. It might be wise to be on guard against fraud or deception, and those in employment may "let well enough alone."

Those whose birthday it is should have an active and gainful year by using ordinary common-sense. A child born on this day will be progressive and enterprising, will have a successful career, but should be trained not to magnify little things and wrangle about trifles.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND
ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

The Strange News Lillian Had About Dicky.

"You mean," I stammered, a bit dazed by the possibilities Lillian's question opened before my mind.

"I mean that Harry must be the man found unconscious and taken to a German prison, the man in the aviator's uniform concerning whom the German airman sent over news," Lillian replied quietly. "The reports of Allen Drake and Major Grantland agree that Dicky didn't have the outer garments of his aviation garb when he got back to our lines."

"But that man had several revolver shots in his body," I protested, still too bewildered by the theory Lillian was advancing to think clearly. "Surely you don't——"

"Think that Dicky first shot Harry and then deserted him?" Lillian retorted ironically. "No, such a thought hasn't crossed my mind."

I was glad that she could not see my face. It was burning with the flush that overspread it, for I could not forget that I had made that identical revolting accusation against Harry Underwood.

"I didn't mean that, Lillian," I faltered, and quick and contrite came her reply:

"Forgive me, dear, I had no business saying that, but for the moment I was afraid you had interpreted my belief that way."

"Never mind either of us now," I interrupted, mistress of myself once more, "but tell me what makes you think Harry is the injured aviator in the German prison?"

"Because there is no other aviator missing on that front," Lillian countered promptly. "Dicky returns without his outer uniform, a man is found within their lines with such a uniform—Harry is missing, Dicky returns—of course, there are many chances against the theory, but—I am convinced of its truth nevertheless."

"Keep Up Your Courage."

"But how did Harry get into Dicky's uniform?" I queried obstinately, for I didn't share Lillian's conviction. It seemed as absurd a thing as my own former fantastic suspicions concerning Harry Underwood.

"That, of course, is something about which there is no use speculating until Dicky's letters come." Lillian returned, and I, who know every inflection of her voice, realized that she had caught the unbelief on my voice, and would tell me nothing more until she had concrete facts back of her theories. "You'll let me know as soon as one comes, won't you, dear?"

"I'll read it to you over the telephone the minute I get it," I promised.

"And I shall keep you posted promptly if Mr. Drake or Major Grantland find out anything more," she returned. "Is there anything I can do for you now?"

"Nothing, except keep on being yourself," I said impulsively, and her response was soft and quick.

"You blessed child! Keep up your courage, dear. And thank Mrs. Durkee for getting you. Good-bye!"

I stumbled out of the booth, scarcely knowing what I was doing, because of the blessed relief that had come to me in Lillian's confirmation of the news contained in Dicky's cablegram. Mrs. Durkee, waiting outside the booth, took my arm, and hurried out of the store and into the waiting machine.

Word of Alf.

"Mrs. Graham's house," she said to the driver crisply, and then closing the door turned to me impetuously.

"Now, if you don't tell me what this is all about I shall simply explode," she said. "Of course, I wasn't going to ask you in the drug store — those loafers in there were in danger of having their eyes drop on the floor as it was, but I'm not going to wait a second longer. What is the news from Dicky?"

I told her, reserving only Lillian's theory concerning the identity of the wounded man in the German prison. The warm-hearted little woman's eyes filled with happy tears as she listened, and she embraced me affectionately as the machine drew up again in front of my door.

"You're coming in, of course," I said.

"Can't possibly," she retorted laconically. "I'm a busy person, my dear, mother to the camp, and all that sort of thing. This is a special dispensation coming for you. But I knew what a maniac I'd be if there was news of Alf in the air and I couldn't get it."

"Isn't it wonderful that he came through without a scratch?" I said, for I had found time to inquire after my little friend's idolized son.

"Yes, indeed," she returned fervently. "Of course, he isn't altogether out of the woods yet, for he's going on into Germany, but the worst is over, and I've got faith to believe that if he has comes through safely so far he'll come back to me sound and well."

The memory of her smiling, faith-brightened face lingered with me as I went up the walk to my own door, and helped me through the long, dragging days which elapsed before the coming of Dicky's letter.

The Adventures of the Little People of the Great Forest.

THE ENTERTAINMENT CONTINUES.

When our party of hunters and travelers came through the trees up to the camp fire the two woodsmen were playing violins, and the boy was feeding the fire and broiling venison steaks on pointed sticks. Cousin Bruin was enraptured with the music, and his heart fluttered with joy; he sat right down in the shadows of the big trees, not far from the fire, opened his mouth and stuck out his red tongue.

When you see a boy at school trying to draw a picture or do an example, you remember that he always sticks his tongue out, and this is just how Cousin Bruin looked. One of Cousin Bruin's handsome sons lifted up his paws and tapped the ground as if to keep time with the music, and the other one tried to dance, and swayed back and forth.

Teddy Possum swung from the branch of a big tree by his long tail; Father Coon sat with his back against a tree trunk, and soothed by the music, fell asleep; and Jimmy Coon circled around the camp to see where the dogs might be.

Pretty soon Jimmy decided that the dogs were all away from camp, and that there must be other hunters who would soon return, and he said to Teddy Possum: "This isn't a safe place for any of us, not for a minute! As for me, I prefer Uncle Bullfrog's concert any day in the week, or night either. Cousin Bruin and his two handsome sons are perfectly crazy—to dance about and keep time with the music. They are lunatics, and we must tell them that we are in the greatest danger."

And Jimmy Coon screwed up his face and made motions to Cousin Bruin to draw farther back out of the fire light, but Cousin Bruin was keeping time to the music, and his big head was rolling back and forth and he didn't notice Jimmy any more than a mosquito, and his two sons were dancing back and forth with the funniest slow motion you ever saw. If you have ever seen an Italian with a dancing bear and a stick to keep time, then you know just how they did it. And Cousin Bruin was perfectly happy; he had forgotten all about how cross Mother Bear would be from her house cleaning when he got home in the morning.

Father Coon Sat With His Back Against a Tree Trunk, and Soothed by the Music, Fell Asleep.

Now, if you ever go to an orchestra concert with your family, you just look around, and every once in a while you will see an old gentleman with his eyes shut and listening to the music. Cousin Bruin is just like that when he hears music; he looks perfectly happy and he is perfectly happy.

"But I do wish Mother Bear had come, too!" Cousin Bruin could not help sighing; "she would have enjoyed this so much!"

FORMER LONDONER IS MARRIED IN COLORADO

A wedding that will interest the Londoners of 40 years ago, took place in Pueblo, Colorado, on March 5, when Benjamin Taylor Wells, son of Hon. Frank A. Wells, formerly of London, was married to Miss Alice Berry Lyle of Pueblo. The grandfather of the groom built the block where the city hall now stands. It was known in those days as the Nitschki Block. Mr. Wells was one of the city's best known men in the early days, and still retains many friends here. Following is an account of his son's wedding, as published in the Pueblo Star Journal:

A wedding that recalls high school days was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock, when Miss Alice Berry Lyle and Benjamin Taylor Wells were united in marriage by the Rev. Hugh T. Gary, of the First Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wells, 211 West Twelfth street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wells are graduates of Centennial High School. Later Mrs. Wells attended school in her former home, Nashville, Tenn., and Mr. Wells went to the Colorado School of Mines at Golden, from where he was graduated several years ago. For the last five years he has been a mining engineer in Guatemala, Central America. Mrs. Wells has been secretary to the president of the School of Mines.

Mrs. Wells is the daughter of Mrs. Mary W. Lyle of this city. She is a strikingly pretty brunette. Mr. Wells is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wells, one of the oldest and most prominent families in Pueblo.

The house was elaborately decorated with quantities of pink roses and ferns. Barratt Wells of Ordway, brother of the groom, played the wedding march.

After several days spent in Denver, Mr. and Mrs. Wells will return to Pueblo for a short visit, and will then leave for Guatemala.

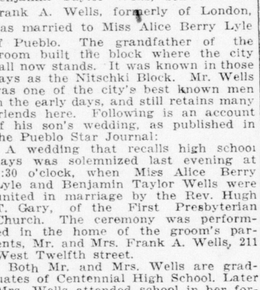

CITY CLERK BAKER EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

In connection with the school taxes from partnership concerts, City Clerk S. Baker states that it had been his intention to carry out the law as interpreted by City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, and allot all the assessment for public school purposes regardless of the religious personnel of the firms. When notified by Secretary R. M. McElheran that the board was not in favor of this, he decided to submit the question to the board before taking any further action. As it stands now, he will dyivide the taxes in accordance with the previous practice between the public school and separate school funds in proportion to the amount of stock held in the partnership by the separate and public school supporters.

DOROTHY GISH IS REAL DELIGHT IN HER LATEST PLAY

Mount Vesuvius in Eruption Is Shown in Special Film Now at Majestic.

Dorothy Gish, in "Boots," one of the most entertaining photoplays in which this popular little screen star has ever been featured, was shown at the Majestic Theatre yesterday to enthusiastic audiences.

The little favorite was applauded repeatedly in this photoplay, which gives her ample scope to display her remarkable ability and versatility as a screen actress.

Comedy and melodrama are generously mingled with telling effect in this production, the humorous element predominating, but with sufficient heart-interest and thrills injected to keep suspense alive from beginning to end. The heroine role suits pretty Dorothy Gish to perfection. Even in the coarse attire of the boarding-house drudge her physical charms shine supreme, and she endows the character with such irresistible sparkle and subtle appeal that it is likely to rank as one of the best studies with which this popular star has yet favored.

The play gets into its stride early—there is action right from the start, and no let-up to the activities of the versatile "Boots" until she defeats her rival for the young secret service man's affections and effectually quashes the Bolshevist bombing experiment. Excellent support is given the leading lady by a well-selected and competent cast. Richard Barthlmess is a very acceptable hero, and credit is due Elmer Clifton for his capable direction of the feature. One of the most laughable and yet intensely dramatic situations develops in the extremely vivid and femininely ferocious hand-to-hand fight between "Boots" and the scheming Mme. de Valdee.

Toto, the famous screen comedian, appears in one of his funniest sketches, "Toto's Troubles." Funny scenes follow one another so closely that patrons are kept laughing continually.

A picture secured with great difficulty by Manager T. W. Logan shows Mount Vesuvius in eruption. It is one of the most spectacular pieces of motion picture photography ever shown on a local screen. The peace celebration in London is presented in an excellent film.

In vaudeville a bird act of the highest order is presented. The little feathered creatures display almost human intelligence in their gymnastics in this act.

The above program, high-class in every detail, will be presented in its entirety again today.

ST. CATHARINES WILL TAKE NEW IDEAS FROM TECHNICAL INSTITUTE

The fame of London as an educational centre is already spreading, as is evidenced by the fact that yesterday a party of nine educationists from St. Catharines arrived in the city with the intention of remaining here for some days to make a study of the new Technical Institute, with a view to incorporating some of the ideas embodied in it in a collegiate institute with a technical department for St. Catharines. Although Toronto was nearer, they chose to come to London to learn.

The party was met by members and officials of the local board of education, who will act as their guides during the tour of inspection which they propose making.

NO MORE SEATS FOR SHARLOW RECITAL

Myrna Sharlow, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company, it is expected, will be greeted by an audience that represents London at its best, musically and socially. The house has been entirely taken by the subscribers, and no tickets can be obtained at the door.

Miss Sharlow has succeeded in having her former accompanist, Harold Yeates, who has just been demobilized from the United States navy, come to also appear as a soloist in two groups also appear as assoloist in two groups of piano numbers.

Mr. Jordan has announced that changes have been made in the heating arrangement that will insure the absolute comfort of every person attending the concert. Porters from the Tecumseh Hotel will be in charge of the cloak-room, so that wraps may be conveniently checked. The program is announced to begin at 8:15, and it is hoped that the audience will be seated by that time, as the doors will be closed during numbers.

MORALITY PLAY AND CHARLIE CHAPLIN AT PATRICIA THEATRE

Million-Dollar Comedian Appearing in "The Hula-Hula Dance" Today and Wednesday.

"Why I Would Not Marry," an intensely interesting photoplay based on the theme of morality, was presented yesterday before capacity audiences at the Patricia Theatre.

"Why I Would Not Marry" is a play that dissects the problem of marriage, laying bare the pitfalls, the snares, the selfishness, the cruelty and the heartlessness that often characterize the institution that has been called Holy Wedlock. This great play is pitiless in the searching light it throws upon the state of matrimony. It makes the selfish, thoughtless, complacent husband squirm. It causes wives to look at life in a new light. It is a challenge to the world, and it rips away the veil of hypocrisy and deceit that has enshrouded marriage and made it a mockery among decent men and women.

"Is marriage a lottery?" is a question that has been asked by thousands.

The answer forms one of the most fascinating stories ever put on the screen. This wonderful woman, alone among mortals, had the boon of being able to look into the future. With the aid of a mysterious Oriental occultism it was in her power to pierce the mists that shroud the coming years, and see the miseries, the heart-burns, the disillusionments that lay ahead of her along life's path.

Below are a few of the powerful scenes in this great play:

A young girl deceived four times by men who professed undying love, comes to believe all men are human beasts and then is disillusioned.

Cowardly husband forces his beautiful wife to sacrifice her soul to his employer so he can escape prison for embezzling his firm's funds.

Denunciation of a greedy father who practically would sell his daughter to a rich banker to save himself from financial ruin.

Sensational German spy plot smashed when man who preys on wife of inventor is killed as he is about to gain possession of powder formula.

Mysterious Swami warns girl against men who would drag her to the lowest depths of degradation.

Four powerful portrayals of unseen dangers confronting girl through marriage.

Charlie Chaplin in "Hula Hula Dance."

Charlie Chaplin in "The Hula Hula Dance" kept Patricia patrons in an uproar of delight from the start of the film to the finish. New and ludicrous situations never before shown in a Chaplin comedy are introduced in "The Hula Hula Dance" are of the million-dollar comedian's funniest screen plays. The Four Troupers, vaudeville artists, present a classy singing and dancing act.

The above excellent program will be repeated at the Patricia today and Wednesday.

Classmates From Hospital Present—Many Questions For Board of Trade.

INGERSOLL, March 10.—The funeral this afternoon of Miss Dora Hunter, whose death from pneumonia occurred at Woodstock General Hospital, where she was a nurse in training, was largely attended.

Impressive services were conducted at the home of her uncle, Andrew Mitchell, Canterbury street, by Rev. Mr. Gaetz, of the Central Methodist Church, Woodstock, assisted by Rev. J. G. Scott of Ingersoll. Numerous floral tributes were indicative of the sympathy of friends. A number of the nurses of the Woodstock Hospital attended in a body. Interment was made in the Ingersoll Rural Cemetery, and the pall-bearers were Elwood Mitchell, Albert Mitchell, Ernest Driver, R. E. Hunter, William and Dr. Krupp.

BOARD TO MEET.

An important meeting of the board of trade will be held tomorrow night, in which a lively interest is being manifested. These are questions on which all ratepayers are interested, and a large attendance is expected.

SOCIETIES TO HEAR IT.

In connection with the movement for the erection of a new central school in the near future, the board of education and Inspector R. A. In view of the interest being manifested an unusually large meeting is expected.

ABOUT $13,000 NEEDED FOR BOARD OF HEALTH

For the consideration of the estimates and other business a meeting of the board of health will be held this afternoon. While it is not definitely decided, it is anticipated that the estimates for this year will amount to about $13,000.

Last year the board spent $13,590.80, while the estimates for 1918 were only $9,855. The increased expenditure last year was due to the influenza epidemic.

GRAND LAUNCHES VAUDEVILLE WITH A STELLAR BILL

Capacity Audience Greeted First Production—Went Home Satisfied.

The Grand Opera House management's venture into the vaudeville field could not have been commenced under more auspicious circumstances than was the case last evening, when a capacity audience witnessed a program consisting of a feature moving picture with Mabel Normand in the star role, and five headliner vaudeville turns. The verdict on both the picture and the other numbers on the bill appeared to be unanimously one of very emphatic approval. At the conclusion of the program, as the audience moved out of the theatre, on every hand were heard expressions of delight and appreciation of the entire offering, and Manager Minhinnick has reason to congratulate himself on the result of the opening night under the new conditions.

The picture, entitled "Mickey," was a perfect blend of humor, pathos, dramatic situations, thrills and comedy, and Miss Normand, always good, excelled herself in this production. Some of her "stunts" would make a professional acrobat envious, and the way she rode a horse would have done credit to any cowboy. One of the most telling incident in the picture was a horse race in which the star, having overheard a plot hatched between the owner of one of the horses and his jockey to throw the race, succeeds by a ruse in donning the jockey's clothes, waylaying and knocking him from his horse unconscious, and taking his place. The race itself is a real thriller, and the dramatic finish, showing the brave girl jockey, who has won the race and saved her sweetheart's money, suddenly thrown from her mount as it stumbles and falls, was tense with dramatic effect.

A Clever Turn.

The first vaudeville number on the program was a distinct novelty. Van & Belle, described as flying missile experts, gave what was described by many in the audience as the best "turn" they had ever seen in a theatre. The couple, who kept the audience in a continuous gale of laughter by sheer infection, for they laughed themselves in the most wholesome and natural way, opened their number with a song, during the singing of which they sent flying into the auditorium paper butterflies and aeroplanes, which described graceful curves as they skimmed through the air over the heads of the audience. They announced that every child at today's performance could secure one of the aeroplanes by asking for one at the box office. They followed this with an exhibition of hurling boomerangs, straight sticks and rimless wheels of wood, which they made to describe circles out through the theatre and back to where they started. For cleverness this exhibition made the ordinary professional boomerang thrower look like a novice. The turn concluded with a number of imitations by Van of birds and animals. Not only was the mimicry exceptionally clever, but it was accompanied by the kind of fun which kept the house rocking in uncontrollable laughter. Van & Bell is a turn worth seeing.

Sandy McPherson, an eccentric Scotch comedian of the Harry Lauder type, was given a very enthusiastic reception. His work with a bagpipe was especially appreciated.

Sketch Took Well.

Douglas Flint & Co. in a sketch entitled "Easy Money," provided a comedy number which it would be hard to beat. The company, comprising two men and a woman, represented an elderly broker, his daughter and his moneyless secretary. The father had arranged for his daughter to marry an old, but very rich man, but the secretary, with the unknowing connivance of the father himself, set the latter's plans at nought and married the girl, whom he loved and who loved him, and in the working out of this theme some exceptionally humorous situations were presented.

George Lee and Miss Teddie Bennett presented a singing and talking number of exceptional merit. Lee, in the role of a "simp," proved a very effective mirth producer. The couple introduced several novelty songs which earned great applause.

The final number on the program was "The Revue De Vogue," a series of specialties with an ensemble finish, in which a company of nine people took part. The production was originated, designed and produced by T. Dwight Pepple in conjunction with M. L. Greenwald, and it was without doubt one of the most spectacular numbers ever witnessed in London. The costumes, which seemed to be changed every few seconds, were marvelous creations of fashion, and the scenery, comprising thirteen drops, were most elaborate. The performers exhibited cleverness, and a ballet dance by one of the lady members of the company was especially good. Excellent vocal and instrumental music were also features of this number.

The film feature will remain for the entire week, but the vaudeville bill will be entirely changed on Thursday, and for the remainder of the season both vaudeville turns and pictures will be new each Monday and Thursday. The theatre has been considerably improved in the matter of interior decoration, all new scenery has been painted, a new stairway built from the gallery to the balcony, and two musicians have been added to the orchestra. Last evening members of the city council, the Chamber of Commerce, public utilities commission, board of health and the press were present as guests of the management, and so far as could be learned, there was no difference of opinion among them as to the merit of the performance. Without exception they declared that it could not have been better.

WORK OF Y. W. C. A. TOLD TO AUDIENCE AT THE AUDITORIUM

Wonderful Assistance Given Women Coming to Canada.

An interesting account of the work of the Y. W. C. A. was given last evening by Miss Jones, national city secretary of that association, at a public meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. This meeting was but part of a Y. W. C. A. conference being held in the city at the present time, the object of which is to bring the local association into closer touch with the national. Miss Jones emphasized the business of the work being done. How the port secretary met each boat as it arrived bearing women and children for Canada, then cared for them while in the city of disembarkation, passing their names on, so that they would be received by association after association as they traveled across the country to their destination.

"At the present time every boat bringing 200 or more women has on board a Y. W. C. A. secretary to prepare the women for the new conditions before them and help them make things easier on their arrival in a strange land," she said.

Other Problems.

"The recreational problem is another which the Y. W. C. A. is helping to solve. For some time past recreation for young people seems to have been slipping into commercial hands, but now the Y. W. C. A. has requests coming in from all sides, that they do something to provide properly supervised recreation for young girls and boys. In this matter the Y. M. C. A. is also lending a hand and hopes to act in co-operation with the Y. W. C. A."

"Campaigns for new and larger Y. W. C. A. buildings are on all over the country, and I am sure London will take a hand in this matter, as well as the rest.

"The Y. W. C. A. is a great world organization, and the foreign work, especially in China, Japan and India, is most interesting. Here there is an opportunity to work among hundreds of thousands of women and girls. Already there are three Y. W. C. A. workers in China, one in Japan and one in India."

Plea for 'Teen Age.

Miss Winnifred Thomas, Dominion girls' work secretary, made a plea for the 'teen age girls, which group, she declared, needed more guidance than any other, particularly those girls from 12 to 17.

"Who is responsible for the religious education of these girls?" she asked. "No one but the churches, Sunday schools and Y. W. C. A., and none of these has drawn up any program exclusively for 'teen age girls, until a committee of all these various organizations was forged to draw up the 'Canadian girls in training' program, now being used in many of the churches in London."

Miss Thomas pointed out that if the 'teen age girls' movement was to become citywide in its scope, co-operation was necessary and a committee should be formed here in London, composed of all the Protestant ministers and Sunday school superintendents women workers and Y. W. C. A. representatives. The next move was to appoint a girls' work secretary, who would have the interest of the 'teen age girls in her heart all the time.

Diseases Preventible.

Dr. Margaret Patterson, also of the Dominion Y. W. C. A. spoke on "Healthy Girls." She emphasized the importance to the country of healthy people, maintaining that many of the diseases now taking their toll were preventible, such as tuberculosis and the many so-called children's diseases. Dr. Patterson also made special mention of the social diseases brought into prominence during the war.

"It was unfortunate that facts concerning these diseases should come to light during wartime, for they led to the impression that venereal diseases belonged to the army, when it is a fact that they are rampant among our civilian life today, and must be banished."

Dr. Patterson laid great stress on the importance of young girls living healthy lives, always keeping in mind that they were to be the mothers of the future. She deplored the styles of today, declaring that if laws were as strict for women in this respect as they were for men, half of the women of this country would be in the police court for indecent exposure.

"If the women would stand together for the things true and beautiful, the men would measure up to their standards," she declared. "Women should advocate a national standard in dress, especially on the street."

Dr. Hall's graded books on the story of life were recommended for children of various ages.

THAMESVILLE PASTOR GOES TO THEDFORD

THEDFORD, March 10.—On account of the influenza among the Indians on the reserve the Church of England minister did not go to his charge at Kettle Point on Sunday morning.

On account of the flu also being so prevalent around Ravenswood the Presbyterian Church closed on Sunday.

The song service in Knox Presbyterian Church Sunday evening under the leadership of Mr. Montgomery was much appreciated.

Rev. J. H. Whealen, late of Thamesville, was appointed to take charge of Thedford, Kettle Point and Arkona Anglican Churches. He will move his family as soon as he can get a residence.

Dr. McDonald of Sombra, arrived in town on Saturday. He intends to take up his residence and practice here.

J. B. Cox Enters Action Against J. W. Forsyth.

Cox vs. Forsyth is the first case to be entered for the spring assizes court which opens here on Monday, March 17. This case is a re-entry, as it was set down to be tried at the winter assizes, but was postponed.

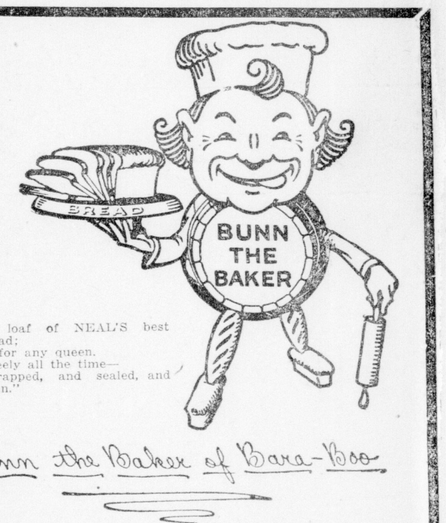

J. B. Cox, a purchasing agent of this city, is suing J. W. Forsyth, a farmer of Delaware, for $1,500 and costs for injuries received in an accident which the plaintiff claims was due to the negligence of the defendant. The accident happened on the Market Square on August 17, 1918. The plaintiff claims that when he had his back turned, the defendant, whom he claims had no control of his auto, ran into him. He also claims that there was no sound of the horn given. His injuries consisted of a broken ankle, cuts about the head and face, and a bad shock. He alleges that he is permanently injured.

The defendant alleges that it was not due to his negligence that the accident occurred, but that the plaintiff stepped out in front of the car. He also claims that the damages to the plaintiff did not amount to the sum for which he is suing. He asks that the case be dismissed with costs. Meredith & Meredith for the plaintiff; J. M. McEvoy for the defendant.
