LYND GEORGE APPEALS FOR FAIR PLAY

SUGGESTS NEW TOWN PLANNING SCHEME TO CITY

F. G. McAlister Would Put City Hall in the Market Square.

URGES CONVENIENCE

Places New Union Station West of Tecumseh House.

Believing that the city of London should look well into the future before going into any expenditure of public money, F. G. McAlister, Imperial Bank cashier, outlines with considerable detail a program for centralizing and grouping the public buildings of London.

The idea of his suggestion is to prevent the city being drawn into a make-shift plan of putting a building here and there, regardless of their suitability to their district or business. Mr. McAlister believes it might take as long as 25 years to work out the entire plan, but urges that every step be taken in the meantime toward a definite final objective.

"Every Londoner knows," states Mr. McAlister, "that within the next two decades large amounts of money will be expended here on public and semi-public buildings of one kind and another. And every Londoner who has the best interest of the city at heart would like to see some plan mapped out in advance looking to the co-ordination of this construction program, so that this city will eventually have a group of buildings that will prove effective both architecturally and from the standpoint of accessibility."

"If, on the other hand, these buildings are run up haphazardly, without reference to any forward looking plan, as witness the proposed placing of the new city registry office, the city will have lost the opportunity of establishing an imposing and efficient center from which its activities would naturally radiate, and for which the coming generation would not have to apologize."

Money spent over a long period of years possibly, money in large amounts is going to be spent on public buildings. The city cannot get away from it. The question is, will Londoners have anything to show for the money they have expended when the program of construction, or the construction minus the program, is complete?

"The following outline is merely suggestive and offered for the purpose of emphasizing the necessity of some plan—not necessarily this one—clear the square bounded by York, Talbot, King and Richmond streets of all buildings but those facing like the Bank of Toronto Building, on Richmond street."

(b) Place the new union station on the south side of York street and to the west of the Tecumseh House, thus facing it north on the above square, with the tracks where they are to the south.

(c) Place the new postoffice on the south side of King street, west of the Bank of Toronto Building and facing north on King and west on the above square.

(d) Place the new customs house to the south of the new postoffice, facing it south on York street and west on the above square.

(e) Place the new registry office on the southwest corner of King and York streets, facing east on the above square.

(f) Leave the north side of the square to private initiative. It already has a number of fine buildings.

ISSUE OF PAPER MARKS INCREASE BY FOURFOLD

German Government Announces Further Boost in Circulation During October.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—On the heels of the German government's promulgation of a new decree designed to curb speculation in foreign currencies, comes the announcement that the official printing presses produced 27,300,000 marks in new paper marks during the first week of October.

The total German currency in circulation by Oct. 7 has been increased to 34,171,651,000 marks. This means that the circulation of paper marks has increased nearly fourfold since Oct. 7, 1921, when the total stood at 8,451,651,000 marks.

Following announcement of the decrease the dollar rate increased almost 200 marks.

BRITISH SHOW TO BE HELD IN 1924

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The extent to which Canada will participate in the British Empire exhibition, to be held in London in 1924, will probably be finally determined by Parliament. The matter was before cabinet council yesterday. It was understood that Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, who is expected to return from the old country in two or three weeks, would make a special report on the project, and that, in view of the large expenditure involved in the administration of Canada's share would be placed under his jurisdiction. Final decision as to whether or not Canada would participate was not reached.

BOARD AWAITS RETURN OF SIR HENRY THORNTON

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Further appointments, if any, to the management board of the Canadian National Railway will, in all probability, not be made until the return of Sir Henry W. Thornton, president and chairman of the board, from Great Britain. It was intimated last night that Sir Henry will be in Canada within three weeks.

SCORES METHODISTS FOR CONDEMNING OF TOBACCO

Peterboro, Oct. 14.—This morning, J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P.P., announced that he had sent the following telegram to the Methodist conference in session in Toronto: "Now that you have condemned the use of tobacco, what shall we do with the Almighty God who gave it to the world?"

GREEKS ACCEPT MUDANIA PACT

Formal Acceptance of Armistice Transmitted to All Signatory Powers.

Troops Begin Evacuation From Eastern Thrace as Allies Arrive.

Constantinople, Oct. 14.—The formal acceptance by the Greeks of the Mudania armistice agreement was transmitted to all the signatory powers this afternoon by George Simopoulos, the Greek high commissioner in Constantinople.

Adrianople, Oct. 14.—Evacuation of the Greek troops from Eastern Thrace under the terms of the armistice signed by the allied powers and the Turkish Nationalists at Mudania, was due to begin today in accordance with a formal order issued by the Greek military headquarters here. The Greek officers are making an effort to maintain discipline among their troops so as to carry out the evacuation without disturbing incidents.

The sentiment in favor of resistance has been largely modified by announcement of the pending arrival of 5,000 allied troops, as the Greeks obviously are unwilling to oppose the allies, although they might have made a determined stand against Turkish soldiers.

Strathroy, Oct. 14.—At a special meeting Friday night the Strathroy town council, it was unanimously decided to donate the sum of $500 to aid in the relief of the Northern Ontario fire sufferers.

The Canadian Handle Company also subscribed $100 to this object.

Subscription lists have been opened at the office of the town clerk, to afford an opportunity to the residents of Strathroy to donate sums of any proportion to relieve the distress of those who lost their all in the recent terrible calamity which swept Northern Ontario.

REPORTS REDS GAINING POWER IN VLADIVOSTOK

Tokio, Oct. 14.—Residents of Vladivostok have turned against General Dietrichs, anti-Soviet head of the Vladivostok government, with the result that the Reds are gaining control, according to advices received here. The adverse sentiment is claimed to have resulted from the imperialistic attitude of Dietrichs in mobilizing for the military the available male population and because of the heavy levies made on the businesses of the city.

CRUISER RESCUES RACER "BLUENOSE"

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 14.—The Canadian cruiser Patriot has picked up the Canadian champion fishing schooner Bluenose off this port and is towing her to Gloucester, it was learned early this morning.

While badly buffeted on the heavy seas on her trip here after casting loose from her consort, the Patriot, near Sable Island, the Bluenose came through without serious damage, it was reported.

1 DEAD, 2 HURT AS HOTEL DYNAMITED

Bristow, Okla., Oct. 14.—One man is dead, two other persons are injured probably fatally, and a dozen others are suffering from minor injuries as the result of dynamiting of the Illinois Hotel here at midnight.

A large charge of dynamite was exploded under the rear of the building, almost leveling the structure and shaking the entire city.

BOARDS TRUST HIM

Jack Miner has been accepted by North America's migratory game birds as their protector. They have proven the worth of Miner's hobby, and his is perfect happiness.

Miner loves the wild. But working his farm here occupied all of his time. He couldn't travel to study wild life, so he determined to bring wild life to him.

His 200-acre place had no features appealing to wild geese and ducks. That didn't bother Miner. He began making an artificial lake back in 1904, damming a spring to supply fresh water. Next, he planted trees, bushes and plants around it.

Patience Rewarded.

Finally, two travel-worn, crippled geese were attracted. They found poultry safety, a lake for swimming, and food in abundance.

That was in 1908. Now the geese and ducks come in thousands, the huge flocks looking like dark clouds as they alight at the lake.

By a crown decree, Miner's property is a bird refuge. Shooting is prohibited within two miles.

Every year, Miner traps hundreds of birds in a wire cage. These he hands with metal tags, incising Biblical quotations and a request that the hunter shooting the bird send all information to Miner.

Gets Travel Data.

Through these returns, Miner has mapped the routes traveled by the different species. He is a recognized authority on bird migration.

And Miner's reward? He sums it up like this:

To see my pets return to me year after year for food and protection after they have evidently shied around and outwitted thousands of hunters who hid in ambush for them, and to see wild geese coming home bleeding and with legs broken, knowing I will care for them, makes me feel that my work is really worth while."

Advices Placing L. and P. S. R. and Street Railway Under One Head

BY STAFF REPORTER.

WINDSOR, Oct. 14.—In an interview with The London Advertiser today, Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario, expressed the opinion that the solution of London's transportation difficulties would be the amalgamation of the London street railway and the London and Port Stanley Railway commission under one commissioner.

Sir Adam is emphatic in his opinion, however, that the question should be left to the electors.

SEEKS PROBE IN PASTOR KILLING

Mrs. Hall Asks Governor To Have Competent, Fearless Officer Investigate.

Family Willing to Have Examination to Prove Innocence.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 14.—Asserting that Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her family cannot longer be silent regarding the flood of rumors centered upon them in the double murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhart Mills, her attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, last night requested Governor Edwards to place the investigation exclusively in the hands of a competent, fearless officer of the state.

The lawyer made public a letter to the governor, criticizing severely the tactics of the present county investigators and the conflict between them.

"Mrs. Hall, her brothers, and all her relatives," the letter said, "are now, and have been from the beginning, desirous of submitting to every test of their complete innocence, which a thoroughly comprehensive, intelligent and coherent investigation demands."

"Such an investigation has not yet been made," Pfeiffer wrote, "nor do the methods hitherto employed by the present prosecutors indicate that it ever will be or can be made by them. The best result of their activities up to the present, so far as a solution of the crime or the development of any clue reasonably looking toward the solution is concerned, is absolutely nil."

Raymond Schneider, who had accused Clifford Hayes of the double killing, was brought to New Brunswick yesterday, and was locked up in the Middlesex County jail on charges of perjury and of impairing the morals of Pearl Bahner.

URGES LABOR TO WIN ELECTION

British Party Organ Issues a Stirring Appeal to Working Classes.

"Herald" Declares 400 Seats in Parliament Will Be Contested.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A call to Labor to rally its utmost efforts to win the coming electoral fight is a big type feature of the Labor party's organ, the Herald, today.

"A general election is imminent," says the article. "The flowing tide is with Labor, and if it is taken by the men and women workers throughout the country, it will lead to a great electoral triumph."

The newspaper says 400 seats in parliament will be contested by Laborites. It appeals to every worker to contribute personal service and money to secure a victory. Emphasis is laid on the need of financial support is laid in the following paragraph of the article: "Our opponents, who know that this is Labor's opportunity, measure their financial resources in millions of pounds. Their war chests are filled by the sale of honors, by the industrial kings, the oil kings, the newspaper kings and the shipping kings. The workers' party depends upon the pennies of the workers. FIRES SHOT AT MILK TESTING

William Brown Doubts Dr. Downham's Authority for Defending System.

Lauds Stand of Mayor Wilson as Fair to Dairy-men.

Protesting against the tests which have been made in the county for signs of tubercular disease in cattle, the following letter has been written to The London Advertiser for publication by William G. Brown, dairyman, R. R. 8, London, Ontario. The protest is that the present procedure of testing cows will drive the small dealer out of business completely, leaving the public at the mercy of a few large firms:

"In the first place, if, according to your medical health officer, pasteurized milk is so nutritious and health-giving, why does he not use it in his own family? He writes, 'Why does he not inform the public that he does not use, either tested or pasteurized milk, but just buys his supply from an ordinary herd. A few days ago the paper, Country Gentleman, published the statement that city of Hamilton had tested their milk supply and had not found any trace of tuberculosis.'

"Even if our cows are tested and those showing tubercular signs are slaughtered, what will happen when our neighbors who have not tested herds because they supply some London firms with raw milk, allow their untested cows to come close to fences in our adjoining field?"

"It will be necessary to erect fences some distance from present fences, as government experts claim that such cows should be kept apart."

"The producers are willing to have all milk tested, and if any is found affected, to kill the animals responsible at their own loss."

"I would like to ask Dr. Downham how he knows that the present test is the best? Does he know anything about cow testing? We have good Turn to Page 3, Column 2."

CITY POLICE CONVINCED LAST LAUGH BEST LAUGH

Jas. Anderson Pays $200 for Having Liquor in Warehouse.

James Anderson, who claims Wabana as his home, paid $200 and costs into police court this morning for having a bottle of liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

Officers passing a warehouse last night noticed the office door open. They entered and found an employee sleeping. They woke him and asked him if he knew the door was open. He replied negatively and asked them to close it. Shortly after they departed, two strangers arrived. The officers returned and heard the trio laughing because the police had over-looked a "crook" on their first visit. The officers decided to have the last laugh and returned, arresting Anderson and seizing the quart.

DEFENDS GOVERNMENT FROM ATTACKS, DENYING ATTEMPT TO FORCE WAR IN NEAR EAST

In Thrilling Speech at Manchester He Declares Britain Kept Europe Free From Bloody Warfare by Prompt Action—States French Agreed to Defend Straits by Force.

Manchester, England, Oct. 14.—Premier Lloyd George received an enthusiastic welcome when he reached the Reform Club here today for luncheon before delivering his eagerly awaited political speech. The huge crowd outside the building extended practically the whole length of the street on which the club is situated, and the premier's appearance was the signal for a great burst of cheering.

When cries of "Speech!" were heard, Mr. Lloyd George paused a moment, and then, commanding silence, with upraised hands, he said:

"I thank this great gathering for

High Lights in Premier's Speech

"We received a message from the French government that if either the Greeks or the Turks invaded the neutral zone they would have to be resisted by force by the allies. We accepted that. We thought they meant it."

"It's no use trying to bluff a first-rate fighting animal. It's always a mistake to threaten, unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it, and that's why we have peace."

"I AM told we have departed from the methods of old diplomacy. That's very sad. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1922 has, at least, brought peace."

"THERE has been speech after speech of intolerable abuse, and I am told to bear it like a Christian. But there are too many people about the world who think it is the business of Christians to be massacred by Turks or pro-Turks. I am not that sort of Christian."

"If there is to be a change, there is no one who would welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell and a very hard one. I love freedom. But I will serve my country in any capacity."

"I CAST myself on the people, whose cause I have never betrayed during the 32 years of public life."

BUFFALO BARGE SHORTAGE TIES UP GRAIN MOVEMENT

Scarcity Prevents Removal of Twenty Million Bushels to Seaboard.

New York, Oct. 14.—Twenty million bushels of grain at Buffalo cannot be moved to the seaboard because of the shortage of barges for use on the New York barge canal, it was announced today by John D. Dunlop, chairman of the state waterways conference committee. Officials declared that every available boat was now in use in the canal, but that the supply was still far short of meeting the emergency.

The grain transport rate from Buffalo to New York has advanced from eight cents a bushel to fourteen cents, it is said. The New York board of trade and transportation has called a special meeting to consider the situation.

SNOW FLURRIES HALT SHIPPING ON MICHIGAN

Detroit, Oct. 13.—Snow flurries were general over central and northern Lake Michigan yesterday, the storm in the far north approaching blizzard proportions and delaying lake shipping. A 40-mile gale raged over Lake Superior.

The snowfall was reported from as far south as Port Huron. In Ogema County, snow, driven by a cold wind, continued for an hour. Some potato-growers, who have not finished their harvest, expressed fears for their crops.

MAINTENANCE-OF-WAY MEN ELECT PRESIDENT

Dauphin, Man., Oct. 14.—F. H. Fljozdal was elected grand president of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers at Detroit yesterday. He came to this town just over a year ago to take over the duties of roadmaster, Dauphin district, Canadian National Railways. He came from War Road, Minn., where he was section foreman. He was formerly general chairman of the maintenance-of-way employees of the C. N. R. in this district, and later vice-president.

greeting me to this city to put the case of the government in the efforts which they have made to establish European peace and prevent bloodshed from spreading throughout Eastern Europe."

Defends Course.

In beginning his speech at the luncheon, and thus raising the curtain on a new act in the political drama which may mark a climax in the career of the striking central figure, Lloyd George declared the people of this country must not believe that their government had endeavored to rush Great Britain into war.

"We have not been war mongers, but peace makers," he said. "The premier arose amid a tense silence of expectancy on the part of his hearers, who were looking to him to begin the fight for his political life."

A great array of journalists eagerly seized upon his words and rushed them off to the four corners of the globe.

Continuing his defence of the government's policy regarding the Near East, Mr. Lloyd George said the negotiations had been conducted in a manner unprecedented in this country. The government, he declared, had been assailed with misrepresentation such as no government has ever been subjected to. The country would resent this, he declared, adding that there were "safer people let loose" in the press in these days.

Aided by Speech.

"My task has been made much easier," declared the premier, "by a speech which Mr. Chamberlain, with clarity and lucidity, point and force, delivered yesterday."

"Our object in the action we took was threefold: The freedom of the Straits, the prevention of the war spreading into Europe, and the prevention of the repetition in Constantinople and Thrace of the unutterable horrors of Asia-Minor."

"The war of 1914 practically began in the Balkans. We had to act promptly, resolutely and firmly. Since 1914, the Turks, according to official testimony, have slaughtered in cold blood 1,500,000 Armenians and 500,000 Greeks without any provocation at all."

"I am sorry to see that the Liberals have been pleading that it was none of our business to interfere between the Turks and their victims. That was not the old Liberal doctrine. I maintain that the policy we adopted regarding Turkey was in accordance with the highest interests and traditions of this land, and we have reason to be proud it succeeded."

Will Use Sword.

At one point Mr. Lloyd George declared dramatically, with his head thrown back:

"As long as I have a sword in my hand and God gives me strength to use it, I will use it."

Continuing his dealing with the Near Eastern situation, the premier said:

"Sir Charles Harrington warned us that there were from 15,000 to 20,000 armed Turks in Constantinople. The premier told of the steps that had been taken to control the situation around Constantinople."

"We received a message from the French government," he said, "that if either the Greeks or the Turks invaded the neutral zone they would have to be resisted by force by the allies. We accepted that. We thought they meant it."

"It's no use trying to bluff a first-rate fighting animal," continued Mr. Lloyd George. "It's always a mistake to threaten unless you mean it. The Turks knew we meant it, and that's why we have peace."

Old Diplomacy Failed.

"I am amazed at the methods of the old diplomacy. That's very sad. The old diplomacy ended in the most disastrous war this world has ever seen. The amateur diplomacy of 1922 has at least brought peace."

"No one knows better than Lord Grey," the premier went on, "that in international affairs there are factors over which you have no control. It is better therefore to be charitable to others. It's no use throwing stones at people who are doing their best to work through difficulties. I did not improve the policy. I inherited it. The agreements were entered into before I became prime minister. I am not blaming anybody for anything in which I do not take part myself."

"We have had to recast our policy. We have made the best of it, and we have succeeded."

At one point in his speech, Mr. Lloyd George declared:

Bear Like Christians.

"There has been speech after speech of intolerable abuse, and I am told to bear it like a Christian, but there are too many people about the world who think it is the business of Christians to be massacred by Turk or pro-Turk. I am not one of that sort of Christian."

A little further on the prime minister said:

"If there is to be a change, there is no man who would welcome it more than I. I have had a long spell."

WARNS AGAINST BRITISH LABOR GAINING POWER

Austin Chamberlain Urges Followers To Stand by Lloyd George.

PREMIER SPEAKS TODAY

Will Outline Policy in Stronghold of Party At Manchester.

LONDON, Oct. 13. (By Canadian Press).—Curiosity and speculation tonight revolved upon whether the speech delivered today at Birmingham by Austin Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, which reveals Mr. Chamberlain as still a convinced and devoted coalitionist, and loyally attached to Premier Lloyd George, may be taken as an indication of the line the premier will assume in his address tomorrow at Manchester.

Political circles consider that perhaps the most notable point in Mr. Chamberlain's speech was the plain intimation to his party of the danger of allowing a Labor government to come into power, accompanied by the dark shadow of direct action, a capital levy and other similar planks in its platform.

His allusion to the Laborites is regarded as susceptible of being interpreted in two ways, first, as the line of policy for the coalition in the event of an appeal to the country, and second, as a mere hint to Mr. Chamberlain's own party, which is now declared to be dangerously split into supporters and antagonists of Mr. Lloyd George, and a warning to them to close their ranks and still support the coalition.

The premier, on previous occasions, when confronted with difficulty, has represented the labor party as a Bolshevik organization against which the country must take a firm stand; but critics declared he also has seemed to realize this as a rather risky policy and generally has drawn back from pursuing it to its logical conclusions. His hesitancy, it is asserted, was motivated by plain evidence, afforded times without number, that the British Labor Party repudiates communism, and also by the fact that many highly respected economists and financiers have advocated a capital levy as the only effective means through which to deal with the nation's colossal war debt.

Seemingly the general belief here is that the premier will not seize the present occasion to affront the labor party. There still is enormous unemployment and a constant scaling down of wages. The labor party attributes the country's bad trade and industry to Mr. Lloyd George's foreign policy, which it is contended, keeps Europe in turmoil. The party advocates a policy of appeasement with both Germany and Russia.

In the most recent by-elections the labor party has had big majorities over the coalition candidates, which is taken to show that the labor interest is very strong in the country, especially in the northern industrial districts. By-elections are considered by the politicians as not always a reliable index of what will happen in general elections, because party feeling in these isolated contests is not excited to a high pitch; but they express certainty that in the event of an appeal to the country under present conditions of trade and industry the labor party would have a strong position.

STILL A COALITIONIST.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 13.—Austin Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, in a speech before the Midland Conservative Club today, touched both on the domestic crisis and Near Eastern crisis, and to his hearers revealed himself an unrepentant and convinced Coalitionist.

Mr. Chamberlain conceded Premier Lloyd George's undoubted right to advise the King when parliament should be dissolved. He did not hint at any objection by the Unionists to an election taking place, even now. Neither did he indicate any readiness to hold a party meeting to consider the attitude of the Unionists to the Coalition and the premier.

A continuance of co-operation of the Unionists with the Lloyd Georgean Liberals was earnestly urged by Mr. Chamberlain. He pleaded for subordination of narrow party aims and personal considerations to the service of the country. It was forcibly pointed out by the speaker that in all he had done as party leader, he acted with the full assent of his Unionist colleagues in the cabinet and had spoken their minds.

This harmony among the Unionist ministers was described as part of a greater harmony embracing the whole ministry. Mr. Chamberlain declared

Estimates Only Five Clergymen in Methodist Church in Canada Smoke

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—It was like hunting for the proverbial needle in the haystack to find a Canadian Methodist minister among the general conference delegates today who would confess to being a smoker.

Last night conference legislation required a pledge from probationary preachers to abstain from tobacco. Diligent inquiry today revealed the estimate—for that is all it is—that out of 2,000 ministers there are five in the Canadian Methodist Church who smoke. But no man would be so bold as to name them.

"This is not retroactive legislation," said Rev. T. A. Moore, the conference secretary. "It does not apply to the men already in the ministry—it merely lets the young men who are preparing for the ministry know what is expected of them."

The five smokers are said to be nearly all men who were overseas chaplains and acquired the habit while on active service and associated with soldiers.

Rev. Alfred Sharpe, British fraternal delegate to the general conference, is a smoker, but British Methodism puts up no bars against smoking. In fact, it is quite a common thing for Methodist ministers both in Britain and the United States to smoke.

ST. THOMAS MEN WILL STAND TRIAL

Mrs. E. O. Boehmer Declares
She Removed Mask of One of Bandits.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—That she had unmasked one of the robbers who broke into her home on the night of Sept. 11, while he lay on a bed in a drunken stupor, and was accordingly able to identify him, was one of the startling details in the testimony Friday morning of Mrs. E. O. Boehmer at the opening of proceedings against Robert McArthur and Clarence Campbell on charges of breaking and entering.

Both were sent down for trial. Campbell waived the preliminary hearing in the Boehmer case. He was also charged with breaking and entering the home of George Law, on the night of Sept. 11, and will be tried for this crime at the same time.

PROGRESS WITH PLANS FOR AMALGAMATION

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—Plans for the amalgamation of the departments of militia, naval affairs and air force into the department of national defense, as provided for in the legislation passed by Parliament at the last session, are understood to be progressing rapidly, and it is expected that the proclamation creating the amalgamated department of national defense will be issued within about a month.

Enrollment in the Canadian air force to be placed on a permanent footing instead of as at present, the air force becoming a definite wing of the defense services.

JAIL OFFICIAL MUST RETIRE

Turnkey Everson of Guelph to Cease Duties October 31.

Wellington County Council
Declines To Grant Pension Allowance.

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, Oct. 13.—At the October meeting of the Wellington County Council here this afternoon a communication was received from Prison Inspector W. W. Dunlop advising the council that Mr. George Everson, who for the past 30 years has been the turnkey at the county jail, was over 70 years of age, and at the end of the fiscal year, October 31, 1922, in accordance with the act, he will have to retire.

A request was made in the letter that the county council make provision for a superannuation allowance for Mr. Everson by setting aside a certain sum of money for that purpose, and to this sum the government would add a similar amount, making it possible for Mr. Everson to have a retiring allowance of from $500 to $600 a year.

The letter was referred to the county property committee, and in the closing hours of the session this committee brought in a recommendation that no action be taken in the matter. The council takes the stand that this is the first county to be asked to take such a step as this, and that it does not want to have the Wellington County Council used as an example to the others, and prefer to put it straight up to the government to provide the full superannuation allowance.

In their letter, however, the inspectors made it clear that unless the council made such provision the government would decline to put up their share, and it looks now as though Mr. Everson, after over 30 years of faithful service, would have to retire without an allowance.

BELGO PAPER COMPANY OFFERS $1,500,000 ISSUE

First Mortgage Six Per Cent Bonds
To Be Handled By Syndicate.

Public offering commenced yesterday of a new issue of $1,500,000 Belgo Paper Company, Limited, first mortgage six per cent bonds, this offering being made by a syndicate composed of Newman, Sweezy & Company, Wood, Gundy & Company and McLeod, Young, Weir & Company. The bonds run for 25 years and are offered at par and interest.

The financial position and history of the Belgo Paper Company proved to be very interesting. The company has operated continuously since 1900, during which period it has made progress, having become one of Canada's largest producers of newspaper. The present output is now 65,000 tons per annum, and this will very soon be increased to 105,000 tons.

The location of the company's plant has facilitated its development. Being situated at Shawinigan Falls, where hydraulic power is produced in enormous quantities, the company has been enabled to obtain its power at a comparatively low cost.

The efficiency of the company's management is reflected in the record of earnings. For the six years ended July 31, 1922 (despite the two-year industrial depression recently ended), net earnings available for bond interest have averaged $500,000 per year, or more than ten times the interest required by the present issue of bonds.

Healthy Children Always Sleep Well

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion, and promote healthful sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COMPLETELY FREE OF CONSTIPATION

Tried For Years To Find Relief

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" GAVE IT

Chronic Constipation or insufficient action of the bowels, is one of the great causes of disease. Some authorities even claim that Constipation cannot be permanently corrected. This is a great mistake, because here is the proof that constipation can be cured and the bowels made to act regularly and naturally.

YARMOUTH, N.S.

"For years, I was troubled with Constipation, and had to take laxatives and purgatives all the time. If I neglected to take these, the bowels would refuse to do their work."

About two years ago, a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives," which I did. The first box helped me so much that I obtained further supplies of the remedy and continued the treatment. After using about eight boxes, my bowels were able to perform their particular function without aid.

The relief in my case has been lasting, as up to date, I have never had any further trouble. I can recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to all suffering as I did and I am sure they will derive equal benefit."

A. W. FRANKLIN.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c, or sent postpaid by "Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.—Advt."

PREDICTS QUEBEC ELECTION IN 1923

Hon. J. L. Perron, Minister of Roads, Speaks At Montreal.

MONTEAL, Oct. 13.—Hon. J. L. Perron, minister of roads in the provincial government, speaking at the Perron Liberal Club here last night, foreshadowed the coming electoral struggle in the province. "I will not say that the present Legislature will last more than four or five years," he said. "I will say that I have seldom seen a legislature last longer than four or five years. Judging from the past, I can say that we are very likely to appeal to the people before the end of 1923."

He added that while he had never pretended to be a prophet, yet it was certain that the course of provincial politics during the next eight or nine months would be filled with important events. Mr. Perron assailed Mr. Sauve, whom he refused to call the leader of the provincial Conservatives, saying that he had betrayed that party. He was just the leader of the opposition, in his opinion.

He charged that Mr. Sauve had during the last few months been conducting a campaign, which recalled the bitter and dishonest campaigns waged against the Liberal party 25 and 30 years ago. "I say it publicly, taking full responsibility for what I say, that Mr. Sauve during the past six months has gathered around him as his partisans men who are known in the province as 'doubles,' who have belonged to all parties, without responsibility, and in a great number of cases without moral sense."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means
You Have Been Eating
Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water seals and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

Helpless Austria.

AFTER spending some time in various European centers, BISHOP FALLON of London comes home impressed that Austria is paying the price for her participation in the world war, and paying it to the hilt. This view is also held by J. VERNON MCKENZIE, editor of MacLean's Magazine, Toronto, who has covered much the same ground in recent weeks. Mr. McKenzie said the condition of the people of Austria begged description.

BISHOP FALLON holds that of all the nations of Europe, Austria has the most cheerless outlook, and intimates that it is his intention to interest his people in their behalf. No prouder, haughtier people dwell upon the earth than the Austrians before the war. Austrian officers were the straightest, most beautifully uniformed figures in military life. Austria was proud of her people, proud of her music, proud of her palaces, confident in her own power. Her people asked no favors, least of all charity or pity. She spent four years of disastrous fighting, four years of slow starvation which destroyed her kingdom, ruined her credit and, most significant of all, broke her national spirit.

It is not an easy matter for these people to find themselves in the position where they must pass the hat to the world, and yet the gifts of the world have been necessary to keep Austria alive. Napoleon reduced the stature of the French people two inches by his wars. The world war has left the Austrian child twenty pounds underweight and three inches under normal height, a generation of consumptive, rachitic children. One may well ask what of the generation that follows them?

A Fearless Preacher.

SUNDAY SCHOOL lessons just now are being taken from the New Testament. For the first nine months of the year the Old Testament was the ground from which most of the lesson material was drawn. The average scholar and teacher feels more at home in the New Testament, and for that reason it is perhaps well that so long a time was spent in the Old.

This week the schools, many of them at least, study John the Baptist. In some cases his is a parallel case to that of Elijah. It is easy to picture the two as being somewhat of the same school, of the same rugged seriousness, and of that firm, deep-rooted faith in their ministry and in the divinity that sanctioned and approved the utterances and actions of each.

The parallel can be taken a step farther, in that we know very little of the early life or training of either of these great men of the Bible. When the time was ready for the work of Elijah to begin, he is simply produced from the wilderness, and introduced as "Elijah the Tishbite." From then he was commissioned to defy kings and disturb nations. When, as was told years before by the prophets, the years were ripe for the forerunner of Christ to make his appearance, he comes, schooled and ready for action, as a "voice crying in the wilderness." We have little in the gospels about the early years of Christ—we have still less about the same period in the life of John the Baptist.

Yet we do have the great central fact that when the time was ready for his work to start, the man was there, prepared, determined and qualified. Nor was his style of popular preaching—neither can it be said that he went forth to tickle the ears of the people. There is in the preaching of John the Baptist the dynamics that either convict or drive into open opposition—he cuts with a straight sword. He addresses those who doctored to hear him, "O generation of vipers," and he preached fairness, honesty and the gospel of a Deliverer yet to come.

It is well when going over such a lesson to get the setting correct. It is the summer of A. D. 26, and the region along the west side of the Dead Sea and the Jordan, east of Jerusalem. In the year from August, A. D. 28 to 29, the Roman Empire lay under some of its darkest years of the tyranny of Tiberius Caesar, now in his 71st year. Among those living at that time, and who afterward became memorable was the elder Pliny, afterwards as a Roman admiral, killed at the first eruption, in historical times, of Mount Vesuvius. Vespasian, who with his son, Titus, was to crush Jerusalem, was an ambitious youth of 19; Caligula, one day to horrify the world by the spectacle of an insane despot at the head of an empire, was a lad of 16; Claudius, one day to be emperor, was an apparent wreck at 38. Among the marriages of that eventful year was that of the daughter of the ill-fated Germanicus, from which nine years later, was born Nero. Pontius Pilate had for two years been procurator of Samaria, Judea, and Idumea; Herod Antipas had been reigning for about 32 years over Galilee and Samaria, and was a man of about 50.

Into such times as are indicated by the names mentioned above comes John the Baptist, a man of the desert, clothed in sackcloth, the cheapest and coarsest of garments, living on the food of the great outdoors, bearing a torch for the one to come after, "the latchet of whose shoe I am not worthy to untie."

The Moor Case.

SINCE the DISSDALE trial in London, where insanity was the plea that won a life sentence in an asylum instead of hanging, a number of papers have been commenting on other cases somewhat similar. The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says:

"The Hamilton Herald tells a story which is interesting as a story and may have a moral. In 1908 a non-commissioned officer was shot and killed in Wolsley Barracks, London. GUNNER MOIR, the man who was charged with doing the shooting, was declared insane and was committed to the Hamilton asylum for the criminal insane. In 1910 he made his escape, but was soon recaptured. Since then, according to the Herald, nothing more was heard of him until a few days ago, and most people who thought about him at all believed he was still in the asylum."

"It appears now, however, that he is not in the asylum, but that he died in action in France in the early days of the war. The story of how a man accused of murder and committed to an asylum for the criminal insane managed to get out, to find his way overseas, to be accepted for service and to die in action ought to be worth telling. Was he insane when he was sent to the asylum? Was he insane when he was found both physically and mentally fit for military service?"

The case of GUNNER MOIR was not known definitely until a correspondent who was in touch with him during his service in France wrote to The Advertiser and told the entire story of his enlistment and service overseas. To the average reader the main point is not whether he was insane, although that has some bearing on the case. In the light of subsequent developments the fact that he did enlist and gave his life for his country rather than overshadows all the lesser features of the case.

LITTLE 'TISERS

This country needs more people, and a few better ones wouldn't do any harm.

It's a wise woman who makes her husband eat raw onions for supper every night.

What's the idea of putting an underpaid man in a position where he has a chance to steal?

The more we see women running around the country in those hiking suits the harder we laugh.

A quick trial often means that one of the parties hasn't got enough money to stand for law very long.

When a woman is smarter than her husband, she generally gets along better with him if she doesn't show it.

When you are bent on taking a lot of exercise, don't forget that some of your mental muscles may need a little training.

They used to sell things in the drug stores called breath scents, but now the officials of the O. T. A. department attend to that.

A man generally gets well fed in a house where the floor is as much worn in front of the kitchen stove as it is in front of the mirror.

One of our expectant friends dropped in to remark that rich relatives seem to live an awful long time when you happen to be mentioned in their will.

Harover, Ont., has decided not to give any more bonuses to secure factories. And that does not necessarily mean that Harover will not secure any more factories.

Court cases seem to indicate that some women are afraid other women will steal their husbands, while quite a lot of other women, who never see the inside of a court, wish such a thing would happen.

Toronto publicity committee offers prizes for the best slogan telling most about Toronto in the fewest words. Now, we're scared green that some person will get up and yell out "—"

A correspondent in the country not far from here tells of the number of tomatoes rotting on the vines. Still that should be insurance against medicine shows and poor actors appearing in the district.

A case is being carried to the supreme court by Montreal people because a house was closed that was being used for immoral purposes. The claim is that the province had no power to pass such a law. Well, if it hasn't, the best thing would be for the Dominion government to pass such a measure and settle it.

Wingham Times: THE LONDON ADVERTISER says that the Standard

Oil Company has made so much money that it is about to cut another lemon. THE TISER has got the letters mixed; what it means is "melon." Still, one can hardly blame the editor. He's evidently looking at it from the consumer's point of view. There will be some sympathy with the conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in his protest, on returning from Berlin, that he heard an orchestra there playing Chopin's "Funeral March" as ragtime, while the crowds were doing the fox trot to it. We may next hear of passages of "Messiah," "Creation" or "Elijah" being played for a one-step or a barn dance.

Are the professions of law and medicine becoming overcrowded? La Press of Montreal has been discussing the matter several times, and is firmly of the opinion that too many young men in Canada are entering these vocations. The French paper considers there is a duty incumbent upon professors in colleges to point out to students that there are opportunities in other lines of equal or greater opportunity.

An unusual case is cited by the publication, Canadian Grocer, of a U. S. store suing a newspaper for $1,000 damages because the paper left the store's advertisement out of its day's issue. In other words, the store figured that publicity would bring $1,000 in business which was lost. People who study advertising and its value find out that it means real dollars and cents in the way of actual sales that can be secured in no other way.

Certainly when Canadian cattle gain admission to the British market it must be the ambition of every exporter and every official to show the British consumer that Canada will send only her finest. The way in which our bacon trade has slumped in Britain ought to be an object-lesson that the British buyer knows exactly what he wants, and will take nothing inferior. He will not buy bad for bacon, nor culs for beef cattle.

TO THE EDITOR

ATTRACTS NEW LAW

Editor London Advertiser:

Sir,—Kindly allow me to voice my opinion in view of a provincial election in the near future. We have heard such a lot about immigration falling off, which is a very serious thing for the country. My opinion is the laws of Ontario need to be amended somewhat or entirely abolished before we can ever hope to get the cream of immigration from the British Isles we so badly need. Any immigrants that do straggle in now either get west or stay in the lower provinces. Take the Ontario temperance act; the biggest farce, and one that has caused more trouble to the people than any other law ever made in Canada. Its enforcement has been a costly affair, and the most disreputable men have been hired by the government as spotters, etc. This in itself has lowered our esteem in the eyes of other countries. On principle, this act has caused thousands of our most respectable citizens to leave the country, and you can bet they advertise their objections to their friends. Then again, the latest and most idiotic law that is now being put in operation. I refer to the adolescent act. Suppose a British immigrant has several children (which he usually has), and desires to come here, and the said family desire to make a beginning on the land. What a knocker is the act to his ever getting a start. I will say right here, any public school boy or girl has a more sound and lasting education if they have reached the fourth standard in British schools than any same child has here in Ontario. The latest and most idiotic law that is now being put in operation. I refer to the adolescent act. Suppose a British immigrant has several children (which he usually has), and desires to come here, and the said family desire to make a beginning on the land. What a knocker is the act to his ever getting a start. I will say right here, any public school boy or girl has a more sound and lasting education if they have reached the fourth standard in British schools than any same child has here in Ontario.

This latest blunder is going to be a costly one to the country. Untold hardships are placed on the worker's family, and in these times, just as we are making a little headway after the war, one wonders if after all that war was fought in vain in regards to the liberty we possess. Business in general has been a sore trial this past two years, and a place on the people this act is a step in the wrong direction. The present government will need to watch its step, because the people as a whole are in an angry mood, and will need to do so something quick, or else their bacon is cooked for them. I predict myself that labor will have a very poor showing, because it has largely played into the hands of the farmers, and the workers of Ontario know that certain elements of the labor party have advocated for years the groundwork of the adolescent act for private reasons. During many years I had worked in the interests of organized labor. During a convention I attended as a delegate to the Ontario Labor Education Association, a question arose on public schools, and the consensus of opinion was that many delegates believed in the best interests of the people a child should be given an education up to the seventh or eighth grade, one year in high school optional, and if the parent desired any future education the said parent should pay for it, not to saddle and burden the country with costly schools from which the average worker's child would in no wise benefit.

If the child of parents who are in poor circumstances has a talent such that further education would benefit him should be assisted by the government through the parents. I think until something is done along these lines I have mentioned the best of immigrants will be making tracks for other countries, along with thousands of people already here, who are disgusted with present conditions.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness in publishing this letter. Yours truly, ARTHUR JACKSON, 157 Wilson avenue.

H. G. WELLS' FAMOUS OUTLINE OF HISTORY

The Romance of Mother Earth.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT—30.

BUT among the numerous obstacles and interruptions to intermixture of the races of men there have been certain main barriers, such as the Atlantic Ocean, the highlands, once higher, and the now vanished seas of Central Asia and the like, which have cut off great groups of varieties from other great groups of varieties over long periods of time. These separated groups of varieties developed very early certain broad resemblances and differences.

Most of the varieties of men in eastern Asia and America, but not all, have now this in common, that they have yellowish buff skins, straight black hair, and often high cheek-bones. Most of the native peoples of Africa south of the Sahara, but not all, have black or mean not simple and pure races, but groups of races, then they have a certain convenience in discussion. Over the European and Mediterranean area and western Asia there are, and have been for many thousands of years, white peoples, usually called the Caucasians, subdivided into two or three subdivisions, the

A colored map of the world to show the races would not present just four great areas of color. It would have to be dabbed over with a multitude of tints and intermediate shades, simple here, mixed and overlapping there.

In the early Neolithic Period in Europe—it may be 10,000 or 12,000 years ago or so—man was differentiating all over the world; and he had already differentiated into a number of varieties, but he has never differentiated into different species.

blackish skins, flat noses, thick lips and frizzy hair.

Differences of Color and Hair.

In north and western Europe a great number of peoples have fair hair, blue eyes and ruddy complexions; and about the Mediterranean there is a prevalence of white-skinned peoples with dark eyes and black hair. The black hair of many of these dark whites is straight, but never so strong and waveless as the hair of the yellow peoples. It is straighter in the east than in the west.

In Southern India we find brownish and darker peoples with straight black hair, and these as we pass eastward give place to more distinctly yellow peoples. In scattered islands and in Papua and New Guinea we find another series of black and brownish peoples of a more lowly type with frizzy hair.

But it must be borne in mind that these are very loose-fitting generalizations. Some of the areas and isolated pockets of mankind in the Asiatic area may have been under conditions more like those in the European area; some of the African areas are of a more Asiatic and less distinctive African type.

We find a wavy-haired, fairish, hairy-skinned race, the Ainu, in Japan. They are more like the Europeans in their facial type than the surrounding yellow Japanese. They may be a drifted patch of the whites, or they may be a quite distinct people. We find primitive black people in the Andaman Islands, far away from Australia, and far away from Africa. There is a streak of very negroid blood traceable in South Persia and some parts of India. These are the "Asiatic" negroes.

Like Condition. Like People. There is little or no proof that all black people, the Australians, the Asiatic negroes, and the negroes, derive from one origin, but only that they have lived for vast periods under similar conditions.

We must assume that human beings in the Eastern Asiatic area were

A "species," we must remember in biological language, is distinguished from a "variety" by the fact that varieties can interbreed, while species either do not do so or produce offspring which, like mules, are sterile. All mankind can interbreed freely, can learn to understand the same speech, can adapt itself to co-operation.

And in the present age, man is probably no longer undergoing differentiation at all. Readmixture is now a far stronger force. Men mingle more and more. Mankind from the view of a biologist is an animal species in a state of arrested differentiation and possible readmixture.

It is only in the last 50 or 60 years that the varieties of men came to be regarded in this light, as a tangle of differentiations recently arrested or still in progress. Before that time students of mankind influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by the story of Noah and the Ark and his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, were inclined to classify men into three or four great races, and they were disposed to regard these races as having always been separate things, descended from originally separate ancestors. They ignored the great possibilities of blended races and of special local isolations and variations.

Blended Races.

The classification has varied considerably, but there has been rather too much readiness to assume that mankind must be completely divisible into three or four main groups. Ethnologists (students of race) have fallen into grievous disputes about a multitude of minor peoples, as to whether they were of this or that primary race or "mixed," or strayed early forms, or what not. But all races are more or less mixed. There are, no doubt, four main groups, but each is a miscellany, and there are little groups that will not go into any of the four main divisions.

Subject to these reservations, when it is clearly understood that when we speak of these main divisions we

FIRE SURVIVORS SHIVER AS SNOW HITS NORTHLAND

Poorly-Shod Women Wander
About Ankle-Deep in Slush.

NEED HEAVY CLOTHES

Citizens of Haileybury Daily Formulating Plans To Reconstruct Town.

COBALT, Oct. 13.—Inclement weather, supplemented by three inches of snow, has placed the sufferings of the devastated zone at a critical point today. The entire area awoke clothed in snow, and as the day grew on, roads became very muddy and slush was everywhere. Women refugees who have yet to receive heavy, serviceable shoes, walked into the ruined streets of Haileybury in high-heeled slippers that once graced a ballroom floor, and were ankle deep in mud and slush. They did not complain. They realize their unfortunate plight and are making the most of what is available. Such a sight as this has brought members of the relief committee to realize that clothing gratefully sent from the cities and towns of Ontario must be handled through a central agency, and only those articles necessary to the requirements of the district sent up here.

Sent Evening Dress.
Among all the sorrow and suffering there is just a touch of amusement among the relief workers, who have opened the countless bundles of clothing now being distributed. Can one imagine a refugee attired in evening dress, white fronted, or even wearing a nice white linen collar? Yet, these are among the articles received by the relief committee. May be they were sent in the proper spirit, at least they are accepted as such, but the point is ever being emphasized that the people need heavy, serviceable boots, heavy socks, and stockings, heavy women's clothing, children's clothing, heavy coats, rubbers, and things that one in the city might wear in one of those zero weather nights in Toronto when the snow is several feet deep. To get an idea of the proper dress of the north-landers, people should turn their mind to a tobogganing or snow-shoeing party around Toronto, where every one has a pair of shoe-packs, heavy stockings, mufflers and warm articles of dress. These are the things that are needed.

Need Mackinaw Coats.
A special cry is heard for mackinaw coats. They are of heavy, varied color and heavy, woolly material, with a belt, big collar, and reach down near the knees.

Haileybury has its night watchmen. A gang, comprising every available man and boy in the town, has been organized, and are divided into shifts. Each man takes a four-hour shift during the night and performs some very needy duty. Some are placed on watch among the ruins, others attend to the relief station, others in the postoffice and various posts throughout the town. They are chiefly young fellows who have worked heroically ever since the fire. They have little sleep and work night and day. Arms are supplied, and the watch service superintended by Captain Bates of the mounted police and officers of the provincial body.

The building plans for the new Haileybury are daily being formulated, and many severe regulations will likely be enforced. Talk is already heard of restricting the buildings within the fire area to brick, concrete and stone. Another report is that no shingled roofs will be allowed, although this may be modified.

A building committee, headed by W. A. Gordon, has been appointed.

VICTIM'S FATHER URGES LENIENCY

George S. Donaldson Given Month in Jail For Manslaughter.

Milton Jury Returns Verdict of Guilty After Two Hours' Deliberation.

MILTON, Oct. 13.—George S. Donaldson of Toronto, in the Halton assizes today, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to one month in the county jail. Chief Justice Meredith presided.

After two hours' deliberation, the jury was unable to come to a decision, and asked for enlightenment on one point.

"When does a man who drives a car become responsible for it?"

Chief Justice Meredith explained that if the conduct of the driver and his companion resulted in criminal negligence both were liable.

On the retirement of the jury, R. H. Greer, K.C., immediately urged that a full explanation had not been given. He maintained that the final step of the explanation should be, if the driver was driving with care, and his companion interfered, resulting in criminal negligence, only the companion was liable. He asked that the jury be recalled and the chief justice refused.

Five minutes later they brought in a verdict of "guilty of manslaughter," but made a strong recommendation for mercy, feeling that the late Mr. Wardell was not blameless.

Mr. Wardell, father of the late Clifford Wardell, killed in the auto accident, made a strong plea for mercy, believing that Donaldson had been punished enough. Mr. Greer suggested suspended sentence.

"It would have been a mockery of justice if he had been found not guilty. It would have been to let you go without any punishment," said Chief Justice Meredith in passing sentence.

Neither the wife nor mother of the accused was in court when sentence was passed.

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
© 1922 GEORGE H. BORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
The priceless gem, the flaming jewel, had been first stolen from the COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA by the great international thief, QUINTANA. Love of the now beggar-ed countess caused JAMES DARRAGH to trace the gem to the disreputable "hotel" in the Adirondacks owned by MIKE CLINCH, who had stolen the jewel from Quintana.
Under the name of HAL SMITH, Darragh works in Clinch's Dump, where he meets Clinch's beautiful step-daughter, EVE STRAYER, the one good influence in the crime-spotted career of Clinch. When Quintana and his gang arrive and seek to regain their loot from Clinch, Eve is sent to hide the jewel in the "honey cache." She is captured by Quintana, threatened with torture, but escapes and is brought back to camp by STATE TROOPER STORMONT.
Go on with the Story.
EPISODE FOUR.
A Private War.
CHAPTER I.
WHEN State Trooper Stormont rode up to Clinch's with Eve Strayer, lying in his arms, Mike Clinch strode out of the motley crowd around the tavern, laid his rifle against a tree, and stretched forth his powerful hands to receive his stepchild.
He held her cradled, looking down at her in silence as the men clustered around.
"Eve," he said hoarsely, "be you hurt?"
The girl opened her sky blue eyes. "I'm all right, dad—just tired. I've got your parcel—safe."
"Did Quintana harm you?"
"No, dad."
As he carried her to the veranda the parcel fell from her cramped fingers. Clinch kicked it under a chair and con-

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES.

JACK knew that it would be useless to argue with this surly fellow, and tried to think of a plan to outwit him. Flip then came running up and Jack thought of a trick.

JACK and Flip had often worked this trick back home. The boy gave Flip the secret signal. Faithful Flip remembered and at once took his place in back of the man.

JACK then gave a mighty push. The man went sprawling over the dog's back. The fall party stunned him and the boy made a rush for his horse.

QUICK as a flash, Jack was on his horse and the trio went up the road before the man could sit up again. "Sorry," said Jack, "but we're in a hurry." Continued in next chapter.

Nut Loaf With Pimiento Sauce

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

1 cup cooked rice 1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups soft, stale bread 1 teaspoon paprika
1 cup English walnut meats 1½ teaspoon thyme or mixed sea-sonings
1 small onion 2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat 2 cups milk

MIX rice, bread crumbs and nut meats together. Chop the onion and cook in the butter or bacon fat for five minutes; add to the crumbs rice and nuts with the salt, paprika and thyme. Beat eggs slightly, add milk and combine with the other ingredi-ents. Turn into a buttered bread pan or buttered individual molds. Set pan or molds in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven 40 minutes.

When ready to serve loosen the mold around the edges, invert on platter and remove from pan. Garnish with parsley and pour around the mold the following sauce:

PIMIENTO SAUCE.

3 tablespoons butter ½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped parsley ½ cup cream
3 tablespoons flour 1½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk 3 canned pimientos (red peppers)

Melt butter and add flour, salt and pepper. When smooth add milk and cook until thick.

Add cream and pimientos which have been rubbed through a strainer or finely chopped. Bring to boiling point, add chopped pars-ley and serve.

Clinch granted, peeled off his coat and got into a leather vest bristling with cartridge loops.

Trooper Stormont came in the back door, carrying his rifle.

"Some rough fellow been bothering your daughter, Clinch?" he inquired.

"The child was nearly all in when she came home, too, even if you're a state trooper," growled Clinch. "Gwan up, She's a nappin'!" If she wakes up you

The latter took another rifle from the corner and handed it to Smith with a loop of ammunition.

"Come on," he grunted.

On the veranda he strode up to the group of sullen, armed men, who re-garded his advent in expressionless silence.

Sid Hone was there, and Harvey Chase, and the Hastings boys, and Cornelius Blommers.

CARBURETOR IS MOST DELICATE PART OF MOTOR

Proves Great Source of Trouble to Many Car Owners.

USE GAS STRAINER

Motorists Should Be Sure to Secure Best Quality Fuel.

The carburetor is the lungs of the automobile engine. Perhaps some time when you have been eating crackers you have accidentally breathed a few crumbs into your lungs. The result is an immediate suspension of operation of your faculties while the lungs expel the intruding substance. Something like this happens when you get a crumb of something in the needle valve or in the intake valve of the carburetor. One little good-for-nothing, insignificant speck of dirt, so small as to be almost invisible, will put the best carburetor literally out of business, and the only thing to do is to remove the speck.

One of the frequent and most annoying troubles to which automobile engines are subject has to do with the carburetor. This is particularly true on these frosty days when the gasoline and air do not mix properly.

There are several good makes of gasoline strainers which reduce carburetor trouble to a minimum, provided one will drain off the strainer occasionally to let the dirt run off. Straining the gasoline supply through wire gauze or chamols does not always entirely obviate the difficulty, for gasoline tanks are prone to acquire a slight sediment.

A few drops of water in the gasoline which reaches the carburetor will make trouble likewise, for it will not vaporize, and, what is more, it will not let anything else vaporize. Probably no one is trying to dilute the gasoline with water and sell you such a mixture, but there are some mighty careless men in the gasoline trade. It reminds one of the farmer caught selling watered milk, who pleaded that there was a pump in the milking yard and some of his men must be careless in passing by it. The chamols skin will remove this impediment, for water will not pass through it.

The vacuum tank is a favorite resort for water, and if the plug or drain cock in the bottom of this tank is opened occasionally the trouble will be eliminated before it gets to the carburetor.

Another trouble which afflicts the automobile motor has to do with the weather. The carburetor requires frequent slight adjustment, due to changes of the weather. On a dry, warm day the gasoline vaporizes easily, and the maximum charge is readily exploded in the cylinder, giving a maximum of power. On a wet, cold, heavy day, gasoline requirements are different, and a slight adjustment of the control on the dash is necessary, but the variation is never enough to make changes in adjustments at the carburetor necessary.

A very slight leak in the intake manifold gaskets likewise makes all sorts of trouble, since the supply of mixture to the cylinders will vary according as the vibration opens up the gasket and stops the suction by which the cylinders are supplied. A leaky piston ring will do this for one of the cylinders. If worn, or frozen fast by carbon, it will fail to keep the piston tight, the mixture passes by the leak, if sucked in, and there is no compression and no explosion or irregular firing. This will make one think sometimes that the carburetor is at fault, whereas the engine really needs an overhauling.

In fact, if one is having engine trouble which is hard to diagnose, one

Carelessness, Not Excessive Speed, Cause of Majority of Car Accidents

There is considerable popular misconception as to the dangers inherent in the speed at which automobiles are capable of going. As a matter of fact, most automobile accidents occur in a sense independent of the speed, and are due more to carelessness or reckless driving than to the actual rate of going. Some of the principal accidents occur at the lowest speed, for which reason legislative interdiction of reasonable speed by no means precludes the possibilities of mishap.

The point is that judgment is the one factor most conducive to safe operation, and that laws should be such, it is claimed, as to determine the possession of skill and judgment in every automobile operator rather than such as to prevent a skilled driver who uses good judgment from proceeding at a safe and reasonable rate.

Anyone at all familiar with athletics knows that there are hundreds of athletes capable of running at the rate of twenty miles an hour for as great a distance as the average city block. This being the case, is it not absurd to make this speed the absolute maximum permitted even on the least crowded roads in the least populated sections of some counties? It is perfectly demonstrated that 50 miles an hour with a well-built car in competent hands and on a clear and perfect road may be far less dangerous than six or eight miles an hour with a poor car in the hands of an inexperienced driver in crowded traffic. There are circumstances when speed may become an absolute factor of safety, since there are times when the least likelihood of accidents is plainly to be insured by moving the car quickly from one point to another.

In an age when railroad and air transportation factors, the motorist, too, it is pointed out, should be given an opportunity to avail himself of the speed of his car—at least in places and at times when he may do so with safety to other highway users.

One of the frequent and most annoying troubles to which automobile engines are subject has to do with the carburetor. This is particularly true on these frosty days when the gasoline and air do not mix properly.

This will make one think sometimes that the carburetor is at fault, whereas the engine really needs an overhauling.

In fact, if one is having engine trouble which is hard to diagnose, one should try out the piston rings to see if they are doing their duty. This is very simple for all practical test needs. Crank the cylinder up to high pressure and let it stand a minute. Then open pet of priming cock and see if there is any pressure left.

On the four-cycle engine the valves must be considered also, for they may leak and the pistons be perfectly tight, but in such an event it would be found almost impossible to get good pressure on the cylinder, since it leaks through the valves while the piston is making the compression stroke. Don't condemn the carburetor until you have determined whether either of these things is occurring.

The carburetor should be drained occasionally to prevent the accumulation of sediment, which will later clog the needle valve, and at least once a season should be taken apart and cleaned. Time spent in this way well repays the owner.

An easy test to see whether the carburetor is working right is to run several blocks with the throttle practically closed, then, when the road is clear, press sharply upon the accelerator pedal, which opens the throttle wide, and should make the engine speed up and the car jump forward. If it is sluggish it will denote a too rich mixture, and if it splutters and perhaps backfires it is too lean. But if, with smooth yet rapid action, it makes the car speed up, that is "pep." The amount of "pep" which a car is said to possess is gauged by the quickness with which it responds to the acceleration, either by the pedal or by throttle lever, changing the car from slow or moderate speed to full speed. That, too, without jerky action or tearing the motor apart.

While this test, showing the presence of "pep" will denote that the mixture passing through the carburetor is correct, absence of "pep" does not always mean that it is wrong. Therefore, it is not wise to jump to the conclusion that the adjustment is wrong. In fact, the adjustment should not be changed unless it is fully certain that it is wrong. If the car has been running with the carburetor working properly, and no one has changed the adjustment, it may be safely assumed that the carburetor adjustment is correct. Adjustments are not changed except by someone's fingers.

The owner should learn the make-up and peculiarities of his carburetor, understand its common and uncommon ills, and thus be able to remedy a trouble which would mar a trip or the general serviceability of the car. It is unnecessary to go into the detail of any make of carburetor, because if the manufacturer's instruction book does not contain full information and sketches of the make used, a special carburetor book may be obtained from the maker. But there is no excuse for failure to master the lungs of the engine and to learn how to keep them breathing properly.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

With this coupe Dodge Brothers have proved once for all that a closed car can be as sturdy and practically as inexpensive as an open roadster.

This is largely due to the all-steel body—the first ever marketed—which admits of lower cost of manufacture through standardized machine production. Unlike wood, the steel surface will take a finish of enamel, baked on at high temperature. This process results in a permanent lustre, and eliminates the trouble and expense of repainting.

The wide straight seat is upholstered in genuine Spanish blue leather, durable and readily cleaned.

Continuous Dividends ensure more Telephones

To-day, 7,500 Bell Telephone stockholders receive our cheques for their regular quarterly dividend.

For over 36 years without interruption these cheques for dividends on our stock at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum have gone regularly to our shareholders.

We must pay our shareholders for the use of the capital they entrust to us, just as we pay employees for their labor.

Why stress this point about the regularity of the dividend?

New capital for extension of our system can be attracted only by an assured and adequate return. Our continuous outlay of this new capital is the only means by which applicants for new telephones can get the service they need.

For the first eight months of 1922 we have provided the facilities—buildings, switchboards, poles, wire, cable, instruments—that have enabled us to install more than 52,000 telephones. We are making every effort to overtake and anticipate demand.

Feed your product more vitamins

BRIGHT color on big spaces may create interest in a picture, but it lacks four-fifths of the advertising vitamins that send people into a specific retail store to buy goods.

The retail distributor must have advertising that builds up confidence in the product; that can educate new customers; that can make them desire new things to eat and wear and enjoy; that finally sends them to the counter with cash in hand.

Thirty years ago, Mr. P. C. Larkin sought anxiously for a link between his brand, the retailer and the buying public. He found one that has never broken.

"I thought of telling my story in a single newspaper," he writes, "which I did and soon saw results. The single medium soon became two, and then a dozen, and now many hundreds on the American continent alone, where practically every daily newspaper of any importance carries Salada Tea Company advertisements."

There is only one common power that can influence buyers for our local merchants and the national advertiser. This is the Daily Newspaper in our trade area. The retailer who impresses this fact upon the manufacturer turns over his stock quickly and profitably.

The Kaiser's Memoirs

By WILHELM VON HOHENZOLLERN,
(Former Emperor of Germany)

CHAPTER VIII. My Relations with the Church.

MUCH has been written and said about my relations with the church. Even when I was still a prince, and a student at Bonn, I realized the harmful influence of the Kulturkampf in its last phase. I was directly boycotted, while on a hunting expedition, by members of leading noble Rhinish-Westphalian families of the Rhineland belonging to the Ultra-Montane Party. Even as far back as that I resolved, in the interests of the national welfare, to work toward creating a modus vivendi such as would make it possible for people professing the two creeds to live peacefully with each other. The Kulturkampf, as such, had come to an end before the beginning of my reign.

I strove patiently and earnestly to be on good terms with the bishops, and I was on very friendly terms with several, especially Cardinal Kopp, Archbishop Simar, Bishop Thiel, and, last but not least, Archbishop Faulhaber and Cardinal von Hartmann. All of these were men far above the average and an ornament to the episcopate, who gave proof during the war of their patriotic devotion to emperor and empire. This shows that I had succeeded in clearing away the mists of the Kulturkampf and enabling my Catholic subjects, like others, to rejoice in the empire, in accordance with the motto:
sumus culque (to each his own).

I was bound particularly closely all my life to Cardinal Kopp, Prince-Bishop of Breslau. He always served me loyally, so that my relationship to him was most trusting. Of much value to me was his mediation in dealings with the Vatican, where he stood in high honor, although he championed absolutely the German point of view.

Friendship for Pope Leo XIII.

Probably little is known by the general public of the friendly, trusting relationship that existed between me and Pope Leo XIII. A prelate who was close to him told me later that I had won the confidence of the Pope on my first visit by the absolute frankness which I showed toward him and with which I told him things which others intentionally kept from his ears.

Receptions by the Pope were conducted with tremendous pomp. Swiss and Noble Guards, in brilliant uniforms, servants, chamberlains, and ecclesiastical dignitaries, were present in large numbers—a miniature representation of the might of the Roman Catholic Church.

After I had traversed the courts, halls and drawing rooms, in which all these men had arrayed themselves,
I seated myself opposite the Pope himself, in his little, one-windowed study. The distinguished gentleman, with the fine, noble-featured old face, whose eyes gazed piercingly at his visitor, made a deep impression upon me. We discussed many timely subjects. I was greatly pleased that the Pope spoke appreciatively and gratefully of the position occupied in Germany by the Catholic religion and its adherents, adding the assurance that he, for his part, would contribute toward having the German Catholics yield to no other Germans in love for their fatherland and in loyalty.

Pope Leo XIII. gave evidences of friendliness toward me whenever he could. For instance, on the occasion of one of my visits to Rome, he accorded my suite and servants the honor of a special audience; he sent Prince-Bishop Kopp as papal delegate on the occasion of the consecration by me of the portal, which I had added to the cathedral at Metz, and was so kind as to inform me of the naming of Archbishop Fischer of Cologne as cardinal, which was done to celebrate that day.

On the occasion of the Papal Jubilee in 1903 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of his accession to the papacy, I sent a special mission to convey my congratulations to the pope, at the head of which was Freiherr von Loë, for many years intimately acquainted with him.

Not long after that—and only a few months before his death—I paid my last and last visit to the pope. Though he was very old, this 93-year-old man came up to me holding both his hands outstretched. Concerning this visit, which was characterized by great cordiality on both sides, I immediately jotted down some notes, which recently came into my possession again.

The pope said, among other things, that he could not but give his full approval to the principles according to which I governed; that he had followed with interest my methods of governing and recognized with pleasure that I had built up my rule on a foundation of firm Christianity; that such lofty religious principles underlay it that it behooved him to ask the blessing of heaven upon myself, my dynasty and the German Empire, and to grant me his apostolic benediction.

"Sword of Catholic Church."
It was of interest to me that the pope said to me on this occasion that Germany must become the sword of the Catholic Church. I remarked that the old Roman Empire of the German nation no longer existed, and that conditions had changed. But he stuck to his words.

Then the pope went on to say that he must thank me once more for my unfailing attention to the welfare of my Catholic subjects; that he had heard about this from so many sources that he was glad to tell me personally how grateful both he and the German Catholics were for this attention to their interests; that he could assure me that my Catholic subjects would stand by me, in good and bad times, with absolute fidelity. "His restoration of absolute infallibility," he said, "will remain absolutely and infallibly faithful."

I rejoiced greatly at these words of appreciation from such an exalted source. I answered that I considered it the duty of a Christian sovereign to care for his subjects to the best of his ability, irrespective of creed; that I could assure him that during my reign everybody could profess his religion without interference, and fulfill his duties toward his ecclesiastical overlords;
that this was a fundamental principle of my life, from which I could not be swayed.

Because I showed my Catholic fellow-countrymen from the very beginning that I wished to allow them complete freedom in the exercise of their religion, a quieter spirit was engendered in the land and the aftermath of the Kulturkampf disappeared more and more. But I did not conceal from myself the fact that, despite all politeness and friendliness, the prelates, with the sole exception of Cardinal Kopp, still continued to look upon me as the emperor, and I was compelled to take into account that, in the Catholic South and West,

this idea would never quite vanish.
Grateful acknowledgment has repeatedly been made to me of the fact that the Catholics were as well off during my reign as they could possibly desire;
but the constantly more uncompromising attitude of the church on mixed marriages, and that of the Centrist party in politics, were certainly a sign that the anti-liberal tendencies still lived beneath the peaceful surface.

This made all the more intense my desire for a firm union of the Protestant churches—first, in Prussia, then in Germany, finally, in all Europe. My endeavors, in conjunction with the chief ecclesiastical councillors, the general superintendent, and so on, to find means of effecting this union, were most earnest. I hailed this Eisenach conference with joy, and followed its proceedings with interest. I assembled all the general superintendents for the consecration of the church at Jerusalem, and also was able to greet invited deputations from Sweden, Norway and so forth; and I did likewise on the occasion of the consecration of the Berlin Cathedral, where, among many other deputations, the Church of England was represented by the Bishop of Ripon (W.
Boyd-Carpenter), the pastor of Queen Victoria of England, equally prominent as a writer and preacher.

Whoever possibly I worked toward compromise, closer relations and union, yet nothing definite resulted. Though church union in Prussia has been a success, Lutherans and Reformists kept apart in other sections of the Fatherland. Many local rulers kept sharp watch over their rights in relation to religion, and owing to this, were hostile to a closer union of the different creeds within their territory. Therefore, despite my endeavors, the German Protestant church was not able to unite and make common cause against the elements hostile to it. Only through the emergency brought on by the revolution was this made possible. On Ascension Day, 1922, to my great joy, the "German Evangelical Church Union" was solemnly formed at the Schloss Church at Wittenberg.

Dr. Dryander's Influence.

During the first years of my military service at Potsdam I had felt deeply the inadequacy of the sermons, which often dealt only with dry dogmatic matter and paid too little attention to the person of Christ. In Bonn I became acquainted with Dr. Dryander, who made an impression on me lasting throughout my life. His sermons were free from dogma, the person of Christ was their pivotal point, and "practical Christianity" was brought into the foreground.

Later I brought him to Berlin, and soon had him appointed to a post at the cathedral and in my palace. Dryander was by my side for years, until long after the 9th of November, standing close to me spiritually, and bringing to me spiritual consolation. We often talked of religious matters, and thrashed out thoroughly the tasks and the future of the Protestant church.
The views of Dryander—mild, yet powerful, clear and of truly evangelical strength—made of him a pillar and an ornament of his church, and a faithful co-worker with the emperor, to whom he was repulsive to me in the interests of the church and its development.

Since the 9th of November, Dr. Dryander also has been exposed to persecutions, but he has stood his ground courageously. He has long been a trust of his king as with him and the Evangelical Church. The church must again raise up the broken nation inwardly according to the gospel of "Ein feste Burg ist unser Gott."

I cannot allow to pass without remark the influence exerted by the work —translated at my instigation—of the English missionary, Bernard Lint, entitled "Conversations with Christ"; as well as the sermon on Jesus by Pastor Schneide (Jerusalem), and the collections of sermons called "The Old and Still Lives" and "From Deep Trouble," by Consistorial-Councillor Conrad.
These brought me much inspiration and comfort by their vital ability to absorb and hold readers and hearers.

The fact that I could deal with religious and church questions with complete objectivity and in a studio is due to my excellent teacher, Professor Dr.
Hintzperger, a Westphalian Calvinist. He caused his pupil to grow up and live with the Bible, eliminating, at the same time, all dogmatic and polemical questions; owing to this, polemics in religion have remained alien to me, and expressions like that autocratic one, "orthodox," are repulsive to me. I set forth what they were years ago, in a letter to my friend, Admiral Hollmann, made public at the time, and which has been reproduced at the end of this chapter.

I was enabled to bring joy to the hearts of my Catholic subjects when I presented the plot of ground known as the "Dormition," acquired by me from the sultan in 1898 as a result of my sojourn in Jerusalem, to the German Catholics there. The worthy, faithful Father Peter Schütz, representative of the Catholic Society in Jerusalem, expressed to me the heartfelt thanks of the German Catholics on the spot in eloquent words at the ceremony of taking possession.

The Church in Jerusalem.

When I conferred with him as to future building operations and as to the selection of persons to occupy the place, the old emperor advised me to select one of the order of monks there, since all were more or less mixed up in the intrigues and quarrels concerning the "Jol sacre" (sacred spots).
After my return a delegation of the German Knights of Malta, under Count
Franchina, appeared before me to express their gratitude. The design for the church, made by a very talented Cologne architect, and skillfully adapted to the local style, was submitted to me.
After the completion of the church I decided that the Benedictine monks of Beuron should take over the "Dormi-tion"; they did so in 1904, also taking over the monastery built next the new St. Mary's Church.

I was on friendly terms for many years with the Benedictine monks of the Beuron Congregation, with whose arch-abbot, Wilhelms, I became acquainted at Sigmaringen. In medieval times the order always stood well with the German emperors, of whom scarcely one failed to visit in connection with his journeys to Rome, the magnificently situated Monte Cassino. When the Benedictine monks asked permission to establish a settlement on the Rhine, I had the splendid Romanesque abbey of Maria Laach—unused at the time—turned over to them. The order, which contains among its members such fine artists, including Father Desiderius, has brought new glory to the abbey, which had fallen into neglect and decay, by magnificent interior decorations. Often have I visited Maria Laach, and rejoiced in the progress of its restoration, as well as in conversations with the intelligent abbots and in the hearty, sincere reception on the part of the faithful brethren.

AN APPEAL

For Relief for the Northern Ontario Fire Sufferers!

10,000 sufferers in the fire-scourged North appeal to you now for immediate relief.

10,000 men, women and little children who have lost their homes, their employment, their clothing, their property, must be fed every day, must be clothed against the rigorous cold, must be temporarily sheltered—to give them a fighting chance to get on their feet again.

The Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee has been put in charge of this relief work by the Ontario Government, and appeals to all Ontario to extend immediate assistance. Will Ontario's City Councils, Town Councils, all governing bodies, please take this matter under consideration at once and vote liberal grants for relief? Will all the members of liberal-hearted Ontario business firms, and men, women and children, make immediate contributions to help their stricken North Country fellow-citizens?

A Great Calamity in the Face of a Northern Winter

The staggering completeness of this fire calamity baffles description. The fire fiend worked well high complete destruction over an area of about 1,600 square miles. Over 1,500 homes were destroyed, and the property loss will probably reach eight to ten million dollars. Ten thousand people are practically destitute, in need of daily sustenance, in need of clothing, and at least temporary shelter, and all this on the verge of a Northern winter.

From Prosperity to Ruin— Will You Help?

The Dominion Government and the Ontario Government have each made initial contributions of $100,000 to assist the fire sufferers. Scores of municipalities and public-spirited business houses and individuals throughout Ontario are asking an opportunity to assist.
The opportunity is here and now.

The Red Cross Are Co-operating With the Committee

Contributions of clothing, household equipment, etc., made in Toronto, may be sent to the Toronto Red Cross Emergency Depot at 94 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.
Similar contributions from points outside Toronto may be made to the local Red Cross depots, or consigned direct to the Red Cross Commission at Cobalt, Ontario.

Money Contributions to the Committee

All money contributions should be sent to the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee, Royal Bank Building, Toronto.

What Is the Northern Ontario Relief Committee?

It is a group of representative public and business men appointed by the Ontario Government to handle the relief work in connection with the terrible fires in the North Country in 1916. The Committee was authorized to continue to function by the Supreme Court of Ontario, and now has been asked by the Ontario Government to handle the present relief campaign. Over 110,000 pounds of groceries, 123,000 pounds of provisions, and great quantities of bedding and clothing have already been forwarded.

Claims De Feo Opera Company To Prove London Music Tastes

S. L. Debalta Thinks London Reputation as Music Loving Centre is at Stake During Company's Visit In This City—Comes Lauded by Montreal as Best Ever in Country.

The Montreal papers, so hard to please usually, have christened the De Feo Grand Opera Company, which comes to London for a short season of grand opera, beginning on Wednesday next, at the Grand.

"We live in a skeptical age; we do not believe things until we have to. And when we do believe, it is sometimes too late."

"The announcements of the De Feo Grand Opera Company tell us that it is the best opera company that ever came to Canada, or that it was the sensation of the Canadian National Exhibition. No matter how these epithets seem superlative to us, they are true, nevertheless."

This company is composed of well-known artists, who have won their laurels on the principal operatic stages of the world, and after each name we may read: of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, the Covent Garden, London, or Grand Opera, Paris. These are service stripes which are not to be ignored, and every musician knows what stamp of superiority these titles give their holder.

But we want the public to judge for themselves; the prices for the four performances at the Grand have been made so low as to allow everybody to come and to hear performances, for which people in the larger cities pay double or more.

The repertoire chosen for London comprises the most popular operas, all of which are familiar to every ear. On Wednesday evening the season opens with Aida, of Verdi, the title role being interpreted by a guest artist invited for the occasion, Miss Edith de Lys, of the Covent Garden of London. On Thursday evening Butterfly, with the Russian prima donna, Berta Frid. On Friday evening the popular opera Carmen, with Ada Paggi and Richard Bonelli, a most extraordinary baritone, who came direct to London from his engagements in the United States. On Saturday matinee the double bill of Pagliacci and Cavalliera Rusticana will be given, with G. Diaz, the lyric

Many Troubles Come Through the Blood

If Kept Rich and Red Good Health Will Be Yours.

Nearly all the common diseases are caused by bad blood, weak, watery blood, poisoned by impurities. Bad blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, lumbago and rheumatism, debility and indigestion, neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve troubles. It is bad blood that causes disfiguring skin diseases, like eczema, and salt rheum, pimples and eruptions. The severity of the trouble indicates how impure the blood is, and it goes all ways from bad to worse unless steps are promptly taken to enrich and purify the blood. There is no use trying to different medicine for each trouble, for they all come through the one cause—bad blood. In conditions of this kind, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found very beneficial, as they have a direct action on the blood, enriching and purifying it. That is why this medicine is so often successful, after other remedies have failed—they reach the root of the trouble in the blood. Mr. Albert E. Giffin, Mount Pleasant, P. E. I., tells what these pills did for him. He says: "Some months ago I was in a badly run-down condition. My blood was poor, I had no appetite and my work left me completely tired out. I fell off in weight, was altogether in a miserable condition. I was taking medicine, but it was not doing me any good. At this stage a friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with beneficial results, advised me to take them, and acting on his advice I did so. The result can be summed up in a few words: I took the pills for a little more than a month, when I can honestly say I never felt better in my life. I can now eat a hearty meal, do my work with comparative ease, and have gained in weight. I advise weak, run-down people to give these pills a fair trial."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Home Complexion Peeler Works Wonders

To keep the face, neck, arms and hands truly beautiful and youthful in appearance, the treatment which is most sensible is one which will actually remove the skin itself immediately it begins to age, fade, coarsen or discolor. The only treatment which will do this, aside from a painful, expensive surgical operation, is the application of ordinary mercurized wax, which is as harmless as it is effective.

The wax is put on at night, just as you apply cold cream, and washed off in the morning. It peels off the dead and half-dead surface skin in almost invisible flaky particles, a little each day, with the disappearance of the old cuticle, and newer, healthier skin underneath gradually appears, richly beautiful with the flush of youth. This mercurized wax, which you can get at any drug store in original one-ounce packages, is indeed a veritable wonder-worker.

"JIGGS' VACATION" BRAND NEW PLAY

Attempts of Maggie's Husband To Take Rest Depicted At Grand.

That past master of comic creation, George McManus, provided the world with a new idol when he evolved Jiggs Mahoney of "Bringing Up Father" fame.

Jiggs, as well as the rest of the types that have emanated from the fertile brain of Mr. McManus, already are an established American institution. In other countries where fun is fun, wit is wit, and human nature prevails, Jiggs has been accepted as a character one is apt to meet in any walk of life.

Only a genius could conceive a type like that and to Mr. McManus should go all the credit. Ever since Jiggs made his debut on the stage he has been a universal favorite.

This season Jiggs has decided to take a rest—a sort of respite from the turmoil of what his friends, and even his enemies, declare to be a volcanic existence. Just how a man of Jiggs' temperament and good nature can carry out such a "rest" forms one of the best foundations for incessant fun that this generation has seen or heard.

At any rate, it may be better imagined; still, seeing it is better. The new play which comes to the Grand commencing Monday for two nights and Tuesday matinee is entitled "Father on His Vacation." It

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years, because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks; the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two week's treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money.

Succeed With London

Succeed In London

LONDON, Ontario, is a city unique in its various phases of educational life, business activity and general progress. Unlike nearly every other large center in Canada, it has never been a "boom town," but its increase in population and industry has been of the steady, dependable order. Our city can never retrogress; its scores of great factories and mills insure against this possibility. Many of these concerns supply the world trade as well as the local ones and their business continues to increase yearly. London is the financial hub of Western Ontario, being surrounded on all sides as it is by the most thickly populated and prosperous farming section of Canada. One creditable feature of our city is the remarkable absence of slums. London is truly "a city of homes," and in a recent international compilation of statistics to determine the number of resident owners of homes in the different communities, London, Ontario, led the world, with a much larger city, St. Paul, Minnesota, coming second.

AMERICAN DRY CLEANING
WILLING TO DYE FOR YOU

Satisfaction Guaranteed by Richard
Holmes at Plant at 755 Dundas Street.

The American Dry Cleaning and Dye Works was the first dry cleaning plant in Western Ontario. Eighteen years ago Richard Holmes Sen. started the first unit of this concern at 755 Dundas street east in this city, and his business has no increased in that length of time as to necessitate the establishment of branches in the following centers—Stratford, Woodstock, Brantford, Ingersoll, Leamington, Blenheim, Southampton, Simcoe and Exeter.

With these many branches the American Dry Cleaning and Dye Works thoroughly covers the whole of Western Ontario in the field of dry cleaning, pressing and dyeing. Their local main plant takes up more floor space than other similar concerns in the city, and in it the very latest equipment for dry cleaning and dyeing is to be found. Anything from enormous polar bear fur to ladies' small suits can be cleaned or dyed with dispatch. Mr. Holmes has in stock all the new colors which have come on the market during the last few months. He reports that the new henna shade is in high favor with the fair sex and that many of the ladies are having their evening gowns changed to this color.

The confectionery establishment of J. M. Chivas, 117 Dundas street, is one of the most thoroughly equipped and well laid out stores of its kind in the city of London. Up until a few years ago, Mr. Chivas confined himself solely to the field of confectionery, but as the city continued growing and the demand for restaurant accommodation in that quarter increased, he remodelled part of his store to serve as a luncheon room and later the second floor as a first-class dining-room. Mr. Chivas' place of business is a modern plant throughout; high glass showcases with slanting fronts exhibit to perfection the various cakes, rolls, candies and other delectable confections. All the goods on sale are made in the modern bakery connected with the store. This is a business in itself, and only the latest and most efficient and sanitary methods are employed therein.

BRIGHTON'S BAKERY WINS
EXCELLENT REPUTATION

During Forty Years It Grows to One of City's Largest Establishments.

B. F. Brighton has been a local baker for some forty years, and in that space of time his business has grown from humble proportions to one of the most successful of its kind in the city of London. The Brighton bakeries are equipped with all the latest machinery known to the baking trade, and are modern in every minutest detail. A fleet of eight wagons and two motor trucks is required to deliver each day the output of bread, cakes and rolls which run into the thousands every week. Mr. Brighton was one of the first dealers to reduce the price of bread a penny a loaf. He accords this reduction as being commensurate with the recently lowered prices in flour, yeast and other raw materials.

TILBURY

Special to London Advertiser.
Tilbury, Oct. 12.—Rev. T. Dobson, rector of St. Andrew's Church, will conduct harvest home services in Trinity Church, Blenheim, on Sunday next. Rev. Mr. McCracken, the rector at Blenheim, will take charge of the Tilbury and Comber church services on that day. On Sunday, Oct. 22, the annual children's day service will be held in St. Andrew's Church, when the Sunday school scholars will take a prominent part in the exercises.

Although the weather did not measure up to the hopes of those in charge of the Presbyterian Church chicken supper on Tuesday evening, the attraction of the event and interest in the cause brought out a banner attendance with the result that the treasury of the Willing Workers, the adult society of the church, was increased by $132. The event was held in the basement of St. Andrew's Anglican Church, which was recently fitted up for such use. Thursday and Friday being the dates of the West Kent Farmers' Association meeting in Chatham, no public school classes are being held on those days.

RUTHVEN

RUTHVEN, Oct. 13.—Three old girl friends who had not seen each other for many years happened to meet at the Leamington fair this year, and such a reunion is seldom held. They talked of bygone days and of the many pleasant times spent with each other, and finally the C. H. Smith Company's weigh scales were noticed and each lady was weighed, and here is their respective weights: Mrs. George Harris of Malden, 134 pounds; Mrs. Jason Malott of Ruthven, 133, and Mrs. David McHardy of Leamington, 132.

George Bowen and son Everett, who lived here for many years, and who moved to Leamington a few years ago, have purchased the house and lot next to the I. O. O. F. hall here and moved into it Tuesday. A second crop of tobacco is showing up in many of the fields here, and with fifteen days of nice weather a good quality from the second growth will be harvested. The fall plowing has about been finished in this section, and much of the soil that has been turned over and later fertilized will be in fine condition for next year's crops. Mrs. Bruce Fox, who is suffering from internal cancer, is not improving in health, and although the best that science and medical skill can suggest, she gradually grows weaker. Time and time again have the Want Ads proved their efficiency in emergencies.

HARD OILS READY FOR OLD RIVALS

Open At Sarnia Today With Strong Squad.

PETROLEA, Oct. 13.—The Petrolea intermediate rugby team has been fast, blue and white, coach Peat and Manning the past week. Eighteen huskies, full of life, enthusiasm and with lots of punch, turned out last evening and were drilled for two hours for a hard stiff daylight practice last night in final preparations for today's game. Coach Peat feels quite confident of the team making a good showing.

The team no doubt has been weakened considerably by the loss of many last year's players, but this has been somewhat eliminated by the fine turnout of recruits.

Their line-up will consist of Messelbrooke, J. Gallivan, Salisbury and Churchill of last year's champions; P.
Kelly and Bloss Scott, old timers with Ross, a former line-man of the 1920-21 team.

A. C. inter-scholastic champions;
Webb and Dennis, stars of last year's team, and many new material.
Tommy Galivan, star half-back of the day on account of a sprained ankle.

A great crowd of followers will make the journey with the team and help the Hard Oils turn in a victory.

Petrolea High Plays Here.

The Petrolea High School rugby team will journey to Sarnia today to play the Sarnia Bears of the City League.

The P. H. S. will play London Collegiate next Friday in London. As far as Petrolea High entering the O. R. T. on Bear Creek, nothing definite has been mentioned. The management of the High School team considered the away, but it likely will be taken up.

The club's fine new clubhouse will be officially opened today, Oct. 13. The building is located on Bear Creek, and was made possible by a handsome subscription given by Mrs. C. O. Fairbanks.

Teacher Good Citizenship

In teaching agriculture good citizenship can be taught. In cultivating the plot in the school garden the child learns to respect the property of others, and also his relation to others in the work. In doing his part right he is improving the world.

Miss T. Switzer and Miss E. C. Switzer gave a brief description of the various methods in teaching bookkeeping in the rural schools.

Dr. J. H. W. School School was dealt with by S. R. Coon, E. J. Curry and A. Cuddy.

Purpose of Education.

Accuracy was strongly emphasized by Messrs. Coon and Cuddy, who said that the purpose of education should not be for examination purposes, but the true purpose is to educate the child to meet the demands of the social and business life of the world. Mr. Coon, in his address, said that the purpose of education should be to develop the child's individuality, and to make him a useful citizen.

Pupils Lack Preparation. Before the closing of the session Mr. J. S. Cuddy read the answers copied from entrance examination papers which he had in the summer months. The thought, showed that the pupils not ready for class IV. In the monthly examinations in the school room he refused to award any unless answers were absolutely correct, and pupils who secure marks in his test examinations were to pass the entrance examination to the department, w pupils from some schools w/ given 600 on the teachers' examinations fail at the provincial level.

A musical program was rendered the evening.

Come To Church Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss."

"You will take part in singing some good hymns."

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance."

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

On the Parable of the Vineyard

OUR Lord's parable of the Vineyard—Laborers in the Vineyard—has been called the Parable of the Hours—among the most difficult of those recorded in the Gospels. By its form and framework it suggests some of the burning social questions which are discussed today in every club and workshop and newspaper. We are painfully familiar with the grim spectacle of the unemployed, standing idle because no man has hired them. We realize only too well the effect of trade disputes about wages. Moreover, does not this parable declare the right of free contract?

On the other hand, does it not endorse Karl Marx's dogma that every worker ought to receive equal pay? So curiously modern is the imagery which Christ uses, perhaps we ought rather to ask the ancient question of the right relationship between employer and employee.

Nevertheless, we go astray when we interpret the details of a parable as though they meant to convey moral commands. In every drama we have to distinguish its scenery from its main support and action. And all the incidents in Christ's parables were not in themselves intended to enforce authoritative lessons.

The Gospel is concerned with something more vital than political economy—something more awful and sacred. This discourse deals with profounder questions than any connected with the rights of labor, or the rate of wages, or the state of trade.

Our Lord uttered it as a warning to Simon Peter, who had just been demanding what compensation the disciples would receive in return for the sacrifices they had made, and had betrayed by his very question that he was forgetting the real quality of rewards in the Kingdom of God.

He was weighing and measuring how much he had renounced for Christ's sake, as though he could earn by merit what is reserved for self-forgetful devotion. He was showing a trace of the feeling which the Pharisee had for a pardoned Publican, which the elder son felt for his prodigal brother. He was claiming a recompense proportioned to his own personal abnegation. But God's spiritual reward is not something which may be calculated by rule. We cannot bargain for eternal life; we can never strike a profit and lose balance between Heaven and earth because these two are incommensurable; like a mass and a color, or like gold and music, they have no common standard of reference.

The things which are seen and temporal can never be measured against the things which are unseen and eternal. The sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which waits to be revealed. In the spiritual order reward is never reckoned according to outward and visible results. God does not pay us for time-work, or for piece-work. He pays us for heart-work. He counts the will as well as the deed. He remembers not just what we achieved, but all we hoped and longed and planned and prayed to undertake. Our faithful waiting, as well as our faithful working, our aspiration as well as our performance, are precious in His sight. He values in us not only our actual but our ideal. "All I could never be, all men ignored in me, this was I worth to God."

This parable carries strong consolation to those who may be described spiritually as God's unemployed—men and women who have never yet found their proper place and vocation. For there are multitudes of eager, ardent souls, who stand in the market-places with their tools ready, waiting hour after hour with wistful faces for their Master and their call to come. As yet no great cause has claimed them, no mission has enlisted them, perhaps no church has embraced them. They remain unemployed, unattached, hoping against hope that at last God will show them what they must do, and offer them the opportunity they are watching for, and open His vineyard for them.

Few sights are more pathetic than people like these—men fit to play some great part, yet constrained to shift the scenes for their inferiors; dumb prophets, waiting for the hour to strike when they may utter their message; women whose lives have been waiting for the hour to set hand to the plow. We read the triumphant story of the successful; but no one writes the epic of those who in this world seem to fail. Their record and their recompense are in Heaven.

As the stars march in their courses, as the rising tide sweeps along the shore, so God's Kingdom shall come, apart from our handiwork, and its new wine shall make glad the heart of man, though we may never toil in the vineyard for a single hour. —T. H. D., in "The Bible in the World."

FAVORS USE OF BIBLE IN SCHOOL

Methodist Conference Adopts Report of Young People's Committee.

Dr. Salem Bland Declares Protestantism "Struggling For Breath."

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—The conference this afternoon considered the report of the young people's committee, and changed the name of the Epworth League to that of the Young People's League. A clause in the report which recommended a system of religious teaching in the schools, when the schools were not in use for secular education, raised some objection on the part of the delegates.

Hon. E. Davis of Newmarket strongly objected to the action of the committee in presenting the question toward the close of the conference, and also stated his strong objection to the principle of religious teaching in the schools. He remembered when two great political fights—in which he had taken part—had been conducted on the question, and the people overwhelmingly disapproved the idea. The schools of the Methodist Church were for the secular education of all were a desire to establish separate schools similar to those of the Roman Catholic Church, the Methodists had the power under the law of the province. At present he did not believe that the suggestion was a wise one.

Favors Suggestion.
Rev. Salem Bland spoke in favor of the committee's suggestion, and declared that Protestantism was today "struggling for breath," owing to its inability to express itself in an intensely religious way, such as the other churches did. The soul of Protestantism was dying out through lack of religious education, he added, and it was for the leaders of the Methodist Church to see that the teaching of the Bible was brought to those outside church influence.

Rev. Mr. McCall, Belleville, did not think that there was a lack of religious education in the Methodist Church, and said that there never was a time when more spiritual instruction had been given than at present. There was nothing obligatory in the proposal, he added, and in districts where it had been tried out it had met with splendid success.

Rev. Frank Langford, who presented the committee's report, stated that the proposal was not an innovation of his body, but had been prompted by the congregations of the church, many of which, in all parts of the Dominion, had asked that there be religious teaching in the schools. The report of the committee was adopted.

Adopts Clause.

The conference also adopted a clause in the church union report that a committee consisting of the general superintendent, Dr. S. D. Chown, Hon. Newton W. Rowell and T. A. H. Moore, be requested to prepare such a statement of facts concerning the projected union of the Methodist Church, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches, as to afford the congregation of each church a helpful interpretation of the action and attitude of the conference as expressed in the recently registered vote and, further, the copy of a statement be sent to the ministers to be read to the people of the congregations, and also sent to all members of the first general conference.

The following ministers and laymen as the committee of 10 on church union, as directed by the conference, were appointed:

Ministers—S. D. Chown, W. R. Young, W. D. MacCormack, Moore, S. C. Moore, F. H. Howard, W. T. G. Brown, J. W. McConnell, H. E. Thomas, G. M. Young, Levi Curtis, W. A. Cooke, A. J. Tufts, G. W. Kirby, A. M. Sanford, J. W. Graham, W. S. Lennon, James Edliff, R. J. D. Simpson and Charles Edliff.

LIEUTENANT KOENIG WINS 240-MILE AIRPLANE RACE

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 12.—In a race in which nine army planes participated, the navy having withdrawn its two entries, Lieut. T. J. Koenig of Buffalo won the Liberty engine builders' trophy here today.

Lieut. Koenig piloted a Lepere observation plane, equipped with a 400-horsepower Liberty 12 motor, over the 240-mile triangular course at an average speed of 128.3 miles an hour. The plane is the same in which Lieut. John A. Macready established a world's altitude record of 37,800 feet last year.

Speed trials for the world's record over a one-kilometre course, set for today, were postponed because of adverse winds.

TROTSKY LAUDS SOVIET FORCES

Russian War Minister Declares Army and Navy in Good Condition.

Claims Situation Warrants Keeping Up Army of 800,000.

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—"The Red army and navy have completed their first manoeuvres, and I am very much satisfied," War Minister Trotsky told the Congress of Textile Trade Union Workers upon his return from the south.

"It was the Allies who at Genoa refused our offer to consider disarmament," he added, "and we have drawn the conclusion that it is necessary for us to keep up an army of 800,000 strong."

"The army is made up entirely of young men. In the Ukraine and Crimea, I watched recruits responding to the call to the colors in conformity with the new military service law, and I am glad to say I was tremendously impressed with the enthusiasm shown by all."

"I watched the Black Sea manoeuvres with great interest. It was marvelous, considering the fact that just a short time ago the navy was paralyzed."

"Since those days, foreign ships have threatened Kronstadt, fired at Odessa, and also sent us ultimatums. Consequently, we have come to the conclusion we must have a navy in order to safeguard our shores."

"The European press marvels at the fact that our navy has been re-established within such a short time. Looking at us accurately they say the Red ships have begun to move, and assert we are militaristic. Yes, we are guilty; our ships are on the move. But why not—that is what they were built for."

"The Allies at Genoa declined to consider our disarmament program. Now I say the Red army and navy are the most convincing arguments when it comes to talking peace and possible rapprochement with other countries."

"We have made efforts and met with success. I am very much satisfied with our military progress."

L. GEORGE APPEALS FOR FAIR PLAY

and a very hard one. I love freedom. There are a lot of things I want to say."

This statement by the premier was after he had turned to home politics, a subject on which the whole empire was awaiting his pronouncement. He asserted there were "die-hards" (the ultra Conservatives), on both sides. There are a hard word like to make me a hard word."

Love Freedom.

After expressing his love of freedom and saying no one would welcome a change more than he, the premier added:

"Three years ago I was anxious to go out and beggar Mr. Bannan Law to take the office. He declined. I never sought the position. I never wished to retain it, but I will serve my country in any capacity."

"I shall watch many things," he added. "I shall watch to see how we are to forgive Germany her reparations, and yet make France love us more than ever. I shall watch how we are to pay the United States all we owe her and forgive every other country all they owe us."

"It will be an interesting experiment," the premier said, "to see the work of others. That is one of the joys I have in store."

"I have many friends among the Conservatives and Liberals, and I cast myself on the people, whose cause I have never betrayed during 33 years of public life."

Recovery Slow.

"The world has not yet recovered from the war," continued the prime minister. "That recovery will be slow and tedious. My course is a clear one. I will support any government that devotes itself to measures which will not inflict permanent injury upon the country, whether those measures are reactionary or revolutionary."

Mr. Lloyd George declared the situation was too grave for any man to indulge in party or personal manoeuvres. He meant to abide by his office, he said. The premier had prefaced this by declaring:

"The future is a perplexing one. I shall claim no personal or party gain."

London, Oct. 14.—(Associated Press).—Great Britain's political crisis approached a climax today, with all attention centered on Manchester, awaiting Lloyd George's announcement of intentions.

Superficially it is merely a speech before the Manchester Reform Club, with the guests limited to 300, but actually it will be addressed to the entire nation, for the premier's every utterance will be broadcasted by all possible means by more than forty newspaper and press association correspondents.

Lloyd George himself in an impromptu talk from his train during a halt at Stoke-on-Trent, on the way to Manchester, told the enthusiastic crowd at the station: "I am going straight to the British public to appeal for fair play."

Fill Newspapers.

Austen Chamberlain's address of yesterday and the editorial comments thereon fill many columns of the morning papers. The points most discussed are the probable effect of the speech on the ranks of the Conservative party, the question of the alleged inevitability of some form of coalition in the next parliament, and the Conservative leader's references to labor.

The leading editorial of the ministerial Daily Chronicle is mainly a panegyric of the present coalition. The Daily Telegraph, also a staunch supporter of the government, warmly endorses Mr. Chamberlain's utterances throughout, making the point that his description of the Laborites

Reports Fighting Breaks Out in Fiume

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Fighting has broken out between the D'Annunzio legionaries and the Zennella forces in Fiume, says a Rome message to the Central News today. An Ancona message states that destroyers have been dispatched to prevent departure of Fascist forces from Zara for Fiume.

as a party of revolution is "their own constant description of themselves," and declaring their principles predatory and destructive.

The Times, says his speech will perhaps help the Conservative party to decide that a leader who is "so blind to the realities, or so contemptuous thereof, can hardly be a safe guide during the present crisis of its fortunes."

Condemns Stand.

The newspaper condemned Chamberlain's foolish and exaggerated denunciation of labor. While holding that many of the aims of the Labor Party are unsound, and that efforts to give them effect might be disastrous, the newspaper nevertheless believes that "there is enough sound sense among the English workers to check dangerous labor tendencies."

The Times concludes: "The whole speech betrays an attitude of mind, which in itself is a demonstration that the government affected thereby is no longer to control the destinies of the nation."

Says the Daily Mail: "If the government has no better case than was submitted by Chamberlain, the judgment will go against them almost by default. Should the premier at Manchester be unable to advance a more convincing defence, the government will stand condemned."

The Morning Post, Conservative organ, regrets extremely that Mr. Chamberlain did not announce in his speech his resignation of the leadership of the Unionists in the House of Commons.

Fear Overthrow.

It controverts the statement that the Conservatives, acting independently, would be overthrown at an election, and contends that the publication of Chamberlain's speech is a panic alternative of the communists coming into power, would silently resolve that the present coalition is the very last and weakest bulwark against revolution any sane person would choose.

The mountainous travail of the last few days has produced a mouse, which is not only ridiculous, but also dead," says the Westminster Gazette. The newspaper believes the electorate is far less frightened at the prospect of a Labor government than at the continuance of the present government.

It assumes that Mr. Chamberlain is endorsed by his Unionist colleagues in the cabinet, and, therefore, that any Conservative revolt against the coalition will have to seek other leaders. The Daily News says Mr. Chamberlain's argument for the coalition is part of a conspiracy to prevent one of the three parties in the state ever forming a government, and that if the election's choice fall upon Labor their wishes will be defeated by a combination of the other two parties.

PROVES VALIDITY OF CIVIC BYLAW

Brantford Magistrate Fines Retailer For Violation of Market Regulations.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 15.—Considerable interest was caused in the police court this morning when S. Cleaver appeared before Magistrate Blake charged with breaking the market bylaw in regard to the sale of meat in small cuts on the open market, which had been banned by the city council by a recent amendment to the bylaw. The case was considered to be a test case as to whether or not the city had authority to forbid the sale on the open market. The magistrate upheld the bylaw, and Cleaver was fined $10 and costs.

At his board of health meeting held last night in the city hall, it was decided to take definite action in regard to enforcing residents of the city to install sanitary conveniences and, in the case of an apartment house, sanitary conveniences for each family.

The Brantford branch of the Red Cross yesterday sent five cases of supplies to aid the distress caused by forest fires in Northern Ontario.

Three of the cases were of new material, chiefly medical and hospital supplies, and the other two cases were clothing. Six cases of materials were forwarded by the local Red Cross today.

The local workers today received instructions from the headquarters of the provincial Red Cross stating that the agents of express companies throughout Ontario had been authorized to accept free of charge all supplies of relief materials addressed to the Ontario Red Cross and sent through local branches of the Red Cross.

CHRISTIANS MAY MOVE GREEK PATRIARCHATE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—The Greek Patriarchate will be moved from Constantinople to Mount Athos unless effective guarantee for the safety of the Christian population is given by the forthcoming Near East peace conference.

This announcement is contained in telegrams sent by a mixed council of the Greek hierarchy to the foreign ministers of the allied governments, demanding protection.

Meanwhile the authorities are proceeding with provisional plans to establish the seat of the spiritual head of the church on the slopes of the "holy mountain," which is situated on the Chalcidion peninsula, about 50 miles southeast of Saloniki.

WALL STREET REVIEW

New York, Oct. 14.—Distribution of stock dividends continued to have a stimulating influence on stock prices during the week, which showed an overall increase in the average. Bond prices suffered a reaction of government's new 4 1/2 per cent offering, most of the Liberty 4 1/2's selling, while a number of high-grade railroad bonds were sold at concessions, apparently to provide funds to purchase the more attractive government securities.

Standard Oil of New Jersey touched 20 1/2, as compared with the year's low of 18 1/2 just before the declaration of the 400 per cent stock dividend, but dropped to 21 1/2 on the next market day, in reaction of speculative disappointment that the new stock will not involve any increased cash payments. The stock recovered somewhat later, but closed last night well under the year's high. American Radiator 50 per cent stock dividend also was disappointing to speculative interests.

Despite the setbacks which these stocks received, shares of companies holding large surpluses available for distribution were bid up in rapid fashion, and there was heavy speculation by outside interests, particularly in the oil shares, Mexican Petroleum, long the favorite of speculators, was pushed up to a new high, with its allied Pan-American interests, in expectation of extra dividend disbursements.

The domestic situation generally continues to improve. Car loadings are now within 3 per cent of the record for all time established in October, 1920, and there is a steady increase in coal production. Stuffed orders of the United States Steel Corporation for September exceeded those of the previous month by more than 700,000 tons, and production is now 75 per cent of normal.

GOOD NEWS FOR

Shareholders In Bancroft Marbles, Ltd.

We have just been advised that Bancroft Marbles will be used in the interior work of the new construction for Western University, also for the front exterior and entire interior of the new Registry Office and Public Utilities extension.

"Canadian Stone For Canadian Public Buildings"

Investors.

There is no doubt that shares in Bancroft Marbles, Limited, will prove to be one of the best investments offered to the public.

The project is a Canadian one, through and through. The managing director and largest stockholder cannot make anything on his holdings until 8 per cent has been paid to the other shareholders on the Preferred Stock.

This means also that an investor will receive on his Common Stock the same rate of return as the principal shareholder, besides 8 per cent on his Preferred Stock. Every hundred dollars invested in the 8 per cent Preferred Stock entitles the purchaser to half the amount of Common Stock free.

Call at our office, 206 Dundas Street, and see the splendid showing of these beautiful Canadian marbles, also photographs of the quarries, reports of Government surveyors, geologists and marble experts.

Preferred shares, par value $100 each, carrying a bonus of 50% common stock.

POTATOES SELL AT 90 CTS., 5-BAG LOTS

Plentiful Supply Finds Good Demand on Local Market Saturday.

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the local market on Saturday morning, due to excellent weather and the good condition of the roads. The demand in most lines was good. Vegetables held the most prominent place, although poultry and dairy products sold well. Few changes in prices resulted.

Fruits were not any too plentiful, but large enough to take care of the limited demand. Apples were the feature in this class. A few grapes were to be seen, but the quality was not of the best because of the lateness of the season.

Cauliflowers and cauliflowers sold better than any other article in the vegetable class. The latter were to be seen in bushel lots for preserving, and for this purpose cucumbers also found a good market. Potatoes sold fast at 90 cents a bag in 5-bag lots.

Onions were plentiful, and farmers found a better market for this product than they have done in some time.

Eggs were not as plentiful, perhaps, as a year ago, the price being firm at 40¢ a dozen.

CUTS ASSESSMENT FOR PORT STANLEY
Elgin County Council Reduces Valuation $100,000 For Equalization Basis.
Special to London Advertiser.
ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—Assessment for Port Stanley was reduced $100,000 and the amount distributed over the other municipalities of the county when on Friday the county council accepted the report of the special committee which has been valuating for equalization purposes.
The amendment was the result of numerous complaints received by the council. Reeve Dr. Jackson of Port Stanley pointed out that the rates had been struck when everything was at an inflated value, and he thought that the true assessment should be calculated on a very different basis, considering that although rents of summer cottages are high, the cottages only pay a dividend at certain times of the year.
Further, the fishing industry had been seriously injured by the Fordney bill, since the valuating was done, and this should be taken into consideration.
K. W. McKay, the county clerk, tendered his resignation, owing to pressure of work. The council regretted losing Mr. McKay and hoped that he would reconsider the matter.
DECLINES POSITION ON HARBOR COMMISSION
HAMILTON, Oct. 13.—John Newlands, defeated Liberal candidate in East Hamilton at the last federal election, who was appointed a harbor commissioner in the place of one of the three dismissed by the government, has declined the appointment. Some protests have been entered against the dismissals.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR
BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS
A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal-oil).
The inventor, S. E. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Adv't.
