

PRESIDENT WM. MCKINLEY IS DEAD.

Skagway, Sept. 17, 4:24 p. m.—(Special to the Nugget.)—Steamer Humboldt just landing. Passengers say President McKinley is dead. Report undoubtedly true.—SPRAGUE.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Milburn House, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14, via Skagway, Sept. 17.—William McKinley, president of the United States, died at 2:15 this morning. He was unconscious from 7:05 o'clock yesterday evening.

marked his long and honorable career. His last conscious words were reduced to writing by Dr. Mann who stood at the bedside. The words were: "GOOD BYE ALL, GOOD BYE. IT'S GOD'S WAY. HIS WILL BE DONE; NOT OURS."

Members of the cabinet except Secretary Wilson who did not avail himself of the opportunity, and other close personal and political friends took leave of him. The ceremony was simple but very painful.

longing look and turned tearfully away. During much of the final leave taking the president was practically unconscious but the power of his heart was kept up by stimulants, including oxygen, to prepare him for the final parting with his wife. She sat at his bedside and held his hand. He was played since the shooting of her husband.

The immediate cause of the president's death is undetermined and will be until the physicians make a diagnosis which will possibly require an autopsy to finally name the exact cause. Theodore Roosevelt is now president of the United States of America.

DAWSON NOT ALONE

In Matter of Having Officials Investigated.

Skagway, Sept. 17.—S. W. Finch, special commissioner of the department of justice, is here investigating the office and records of U. S. Commissioner C. A. Schibred, complaints having been made to the department by E. M. Barnes, an attorney and bitter enemy of Schibred. So far the charges have not been substantiated.

HAWKINS MAY GO FISHING

As He Says He Has No Prospect of New Job.

Skagway, Sept. 17.—Just before Hawkins left Seattle for this place he told a prominent transportation man and his former associate that he did not then have any prospect of a new position and did not know whether he will remain in the west or not.

CHICAGO ANARCHISTS

They Evidently Had Tip That President McKinley Was to be Assailed

AS BIG MEETING HAD BEEN CALLED

For Night Following the Shooting at Buffalo.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN THERE

All Speeches Were Made in German Language—Assassin's Name Cheered When Mentioned.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Chicago anarchists, in response to a call issued three days ago, held a meeting last night in a saloon on West Chicago avenue, and the attempted assassination of the president was discussed. Men and women known to be associated with the anarchist movement in the city were in the bar-room. The attendance at the meeting showed that it was no impromptu gathering. Over 200 persons were gathered in the hall.

Three days ago the members of the several societies were notified that a celebration would take place last night. The reason for the issuance of the call could not be learned from those present. They made no secret of the fact that they anticipated something about which they might talk, however. Not a word of sympathy for the man who was near his death was heard at the meeting last night. Instead there were speeches in which the name of McKinley was mentioned only to bring forth cries of condemnation. For the name of the president's assailant there were cheers. All the speeches were in German, although at times some member of the audience would give vent to their feelings in English. It was not until early this morning that the meeting broke up.

SUSIE IS IN PORT

Arrives This Morning With 300 Tons of Freight and Many Passengers

THE ISOM PASSED ABOVE FT. YUKON

Pilot Boat Bella Breaks Her Shaft in the Yukon Flats.

SUSIE'S THIRD ROUND TRIP.

Nome Still Continues to Be a Dead One—Nearly Everyone Leaving Who Can Procure a Ticket.

The steamer Susie arrived this afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock, thus completing her third round trip of the season between this port and St. Michael. She brought a cargo of 300 tons, a quantity of mail and nearly a hundred passengers, many of the latter being from Nome. The Susie left St. Michael September 1 and is 17 days out today. For nearly two weeks nasty weather was experienced, there being much fog and wind with occasional rains. The Will H. Isom and barges were passed to miles above Fort Yukon and the Campbell a short distance below the same point. The steamer Bella which has been acting as a pilot boat on the flats broke her shaft recently and will have to be towed to St.

Michael for repairs, the Louise probably being employed for the purpose. Inside the woodchopper who found Pete Wyborg's body is still waiting for advice from the authorities as to what disposition he shall make of it. It is encased in a rude box, but as decomposition is far advanced it will be impossible to bring it to Dawson for burial until the cold weather begins. Reports from Nome are practically the same as were received earlier in the season. The camp is dead and is only awaiting burial, the depression being due almost wholly to the blight which extensive and prolonged litigation has spread everywhere. People are leaving just as fast as they can get money enough together with which to purchase a ticket. Alex Pantagos has thrown up his theatrical venture and gone to Seattle. He will be back in Dawson on one of the last boats. Immediately after discharging her cargo the Susie will steam over to Steamboat slough and enter winter quarters. The following is a list of her passengers:

W. H. Isom, H. C. Brasher, Major J. J. Van Orsdale, Mrs. Van Orsdale and son, Mrs. M. C. Leonard, Mrs. E. Crossan, Mrs. J. Williams, Miss A. Bell, Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. A. G. Vaglio, H. S. Turner, E. KOYUKUK LOOKS GOOD

To V. V. Lowry Who Has Just Returned From That Country

HAVING GONE THERE LAST MARCH

Several Creeks Are Paying Handsome Profits.

WILL BE LOTS OF SUPPLIES.

Between 400 and 500 People Will Winter There—Mr. Lowry Will Return Next Week.

Among the passengers of the steamer Louise which arrived in Dawson Sunday was Mr. V. V. Lowry who has just returned from the Koyukuk where he has spent the entire summer. Mr. Lowry made his first trip into the Koyukuk in the spring of 1900 spending the summer there and returning to Dawson in September. He left Dawson again in March of the present year and returned Sunday.

Mr. Lowry who is thoroughly familiar with that country in speaking with a Nugget representative today said: "There have been 500 people in the district this summer and it is estimated that fully 300 will remain this winter. O. Gold Bench, a tributary of the South Fork, $30 per day to the shovel is being taken out. On Emma creek, a tributary of the middle fork about three miles above Coldfoot, the McNamee Bros. and Morris, who own Nos. 3, 4 and 5 below discovery, are taking out from $75 to $150 per day to the shovel. The Gates Bros. on Clara creek, another tributary of the middle fork, are taking out $25 per day to the shovel.

"Gold creek is the hayner creek of the country, over a mile and a quarter of the ground being opened up and not one blank claim in all that stretch being found. Discovery claim on Gold creek had been yielding all summer an average of $75 per day to the shovel. The gravel is about 8 feet in depth and begins at the surface. The gold seems to be imbedded in the gravel.

vel and bedrock has not yet been reached. On 3, 4 and 7 above discovery which claims are owned by Bettles and associates $45 to $60 per day to the shovel is being taken out. The gold is very coarse and assays nearly $20 to the ounce which is the richest gold yet discovered in any part of this country. There is some winter diggings on this creek and work will be continued throughout the winter.

"On Myrtle creek four claims have been worked this summer, just what pay they have located I am not in a position to say but from reports it is very good and a number of men have been employed in developing them.

A uniform wage of $1.25 per hour is paid the miners and the demand for men has been greater than the supply.

"About two weeks before I left there was a new creek discovered eight miles above Coldfoot on the middle fork and the discoverers claim an average panning of $4 with some of the pans yielding as high as $13. On this creek there were but seven claims and all were immediately taken up.

"The day I left a report came in of new strikes on Hammond creek a tributary of the middle fork 15 miles above Coldfoot, but what they amount to of course I cannot say.

"There are other creeks in the district which are showing equally good results and altogether I believe it to be the best district in the country.

"I think that there is plenty of provisions in the country to supply it throughout the winter. With the exception of flour which is selling at 14 per cent, provisions are as cheap as in Circle City. There is at Coldfoot 20 tons of provisions which were delivered there by the steamer Gold Star. At Bettles there are several hundred tons and at E. Ryan there are hundreds of tons more. The steamer Rock Island made two trips one from Dawson and one from St. Michael. The steamer City of Paris made two trips from St. Michael and another steamer made one trip from St. Michael. These steamers unloaded their cargoes at Bergman which is about 60 miles below Bettles but the little Louisa has been busy since the 15th of August taking the goods from Bergman to Bettles so that provisions will be liberally scattered throughout the country.

"Mr. Lowry expects to leave on his return in about a week and will remain in all winter developing his claims of which he has several.

From Yesterday's Daily, EXTERMINATE THEM.

It is one of the anomalous conditions of our present organization of society that men who profess to believe that it is their duty to commit murder are allowed to be at large.

An anarchist is a foe to society. He is a man who openly proclaims his enmity to all constituted authority. In many instances he is bound by oath to lend his aid to the task of destroying existing forms of government even though it be necessary to go to the extreme of murder.

The question arises: Why are such men permitted to retain their liberty on an equality with law abiding citizens? If a man has murder in his heart he becomes to that extent a threat against society and has no right to be given an opportunity to carry his intentions into effect. Under such circumstances he may be placed under bonds to keep the peace or even imprisoned if necessary.

Why then the anarchist who is avowedly a foe to all society should not be suppressed is a mystery. A man threatens to kill another man and he is promptly punished. But a man may declare his desire to destroy a government and the individuals connected therewith and still retain his freedom.

The situation is paradoxical and certainly cannot continue indefinitely. Identification as an anarchist should be deemed a crime sufficiently serious to warrant imprisonment for a term of years. The theory that a man who declares his intention to kill must be allowed simple opportunity to carry his designs into effect before he becomes a criminal is entirely wrong. It is the intention as much as the deed itself which makes the criminal, and intention to destroy and kill is one of the pre-requisite requirements of the anarchist. Mad dogs or man-eating tigers have as much claims upon society as the anarchist. There is only one treatment that they are entitled to and that treatment is described in the one word "extermination."

Society has a right to protect itself from such curses and the only way that such protection can be secured is through absolute suppression.

THE COMING RACES.

The international yacht races will be the next event to attract the world's attention. Sir Thomas Lipton's efforts to wrest the coveted cup from the United States have been supported with enthusiasm in England, immense sums of money having been subscribed to bet on Shamrock II. The conviction seems to prevail in London club circles that everything augurs well and that the results of the coming races will be different from the experience of the past two years. Meanwhile critics who profess to know have expressed the opinion that the yachts which participated in the last races were as nearly perfect specimens of speedy sailing craft as can be constructed. They claim that the new defender as well as the new challenger are no better than their predecessors, and that no better records are likely to be made than have already been made. It is apparent at any rate that this race will not be a walk-over to either side, and that splendid sport will be offered to those who are fortunate enough to witness the races. Dawson with its cosmopolitan population will be just as much interested in the outcome as any other city and the result will be awaited here with the keenest interest and anxiety.

The tone of comment among outside newspapers respecting the future of Dawson has greatly altered during the past few months. With one accord they now concede that this city is the one stable center of population in the Yukon valley. Dawson has stood the test of time and has demonstrated by results that it is entitled to be ranked among the permanent communities of Canada. The fact that men who have made their money in this territory are willing to reinvest is the strongest proof possible of the substantial grounds upon which Dawson lays claim to a long continued and prosperous future.

According to the statement recently issued by the White Pass company, the earnings for July of this year were about $50,000 less than the earnings for the same month a year ago. In view of the fact that the first boat from Whitehorse did not arrive until nearly the middle of June, it is reasonable to inquire at what period the company has made the extensive profits so valiantly claimed for the summer operations.

Women in London.

In a London letter of a recent date the following interesting paragraph appeared: "One of the things which has been remarked this season is the quite surprising number of ladies who have been going in for trade, that means making a livelihood. Napoleon Bonaparte said the English were a nation of shopkeepers, but he would have been even more surprised today had he known the number of patriotic ladies who are not ashamed to strike out a line for themselves in order to be independent of their various relations. How many people know that the ladies' skirt-makers in Sloane square are really all women of excellent birth and position, and they are doing a rattling good business, too. Their blouses are quite famous, and they had so many orders to execute during the last season that they are quite unable to cope with all the orders that are showered upon them. This, by the way, is not on account of their birth and position, but because the work turned out by them is excellent. Miss Cockerell, too, whose engagement has been announced to Capt. Noel of the 17th Lancers, and the son of Lady Augusta Noel, has made quite a name for herself by the beauty of design and the workmanship of the of the lovely neck chains she has made. Half the 'smart set' in London used to go to Albert Hall Mansions, South Kensington, with commissions for her. I have seen a great deal of her charming artistic handiwork. Everything is most beautiful. She has a delightful way of blending jewels together. Some of her necklaces and chains of uncut stone are really superb. Miss Cockerell obtained very large sums of money for her artistic chains. Many of those one sees in London came from her atelier. Many of the first-class tea-rooms of London, which are commanding the best trade, are also run by ladies of quality."

Stroller's Column.

There has been a great deal written and printed within the past few years about the "New Woman" but it has remained for the Klondike to develop a sample of the new man if a letter just received by the Stroller from Hunker can be relied upon. The letter is as follows:

Gold Bottom, Sept. 14, 1901.
To the Stroller Man: Me and my partner come to the Klondike in 1898 and have been together ever since. We have known each other all our lives, being "bloody townies." He has always been a good fellow and even yet I have not the heart to kick him out, but for the past six months he has been developing feminine traits that causes me to fear for his sanity. Although he has a regular "Uncle Isaac" nose, the last time he went to Dawson he as my partner is becoming she might lose confidence in me. Besides, I am afraid the neighbors will soon begin to talk as it is, he is such a funny. I will write again if the hooch and kidney tea does not take the kinks out of him and bring him back to his old manly self. Yours, JOHN SMITH.

P. S.—Only last night the champ said he would like to go to the next St. Andrew's ball.

The Stroller is in sympathy with the spirit of racial pride that causes a few Hebrews to resent the imputation cast upon them by the published telegraphic report that it was a Polish Jew that took a couple of shots at the president of the United States when, perhaps, if the matter was sifted to the bottom it

HE LOOKS UNDER HIS BED AT NIGHT.

He might be found that Colgoz was a Scotch Presbyterian, an Irish Catholic, a shouting Methodist or a diving Baptist. In fact, the Stroller inclines to the belief that the statement telegraphed and published was but the outcome of an indiscretion committed 1901 years ago, since when every time a great man is assaulted some loud-mouthed yep has been wont to bellow forth "Another Jew trick." This is the result of establishing a precedent, but the Stroller hopes that another 1900 years will serve to soften the recollection and in a measure bridge over the matter and that the past may live only in history. Still, however, Colgoz is not what might be termed a distinctly Scotch or Irish name.

I REMEMBER HER, SHE TRUMPED MY ACH!

A bottle of Leper's Kidney Tea the other day, also two quart bottles of Jesse Moore and he has got to take the whole business in 48 hours. If it don't cure him I will quit him cold. The fact of the matter is that I am a married man and if my wife was to show up and see me living with such a sissy

"Do you remember Mrs. Blank back in Ottawa?" said one well known Dawson official to another a few days ago. "Do I remember Mrs. Blank?" replied the person addressed. "Well, I should say I do and would not forget her if I lived to be as old as Methuselah. Remember her? Why, great lord

CONDITION IS VERY HOPEFUL

President McKinley Rapidly Recovering From Effects of Surgical Operation—Physicians Confidently Believe Crisis Is Past—Receipt of the News in London Was Occasion of General Sorrow—Comments of Eminent British Journalists—The Chief Executive Is Very Popular in Europe.

Skagway, Sept. 14.—The steamer Danube arrived this morning having left Vancouver early on the morning of the 10th. The preceding midnight a bulletin was posted in Vancouver as follows: "President McKinley's hopeful condition continues unchanged except that he is rapidly recovering from the effects of the surgical operation performed upon him. All the good indications mentioned in previous bulletins are still apparent and the physicians in charge assert that the crisis has been safely passed and the president will surely recover."

London, Sept. 6.—The news of the attempt upon the life of President McKinley spread slowly in London. The first ticker reports were discredited. Then, with the confirmation and general dissemination of the news, arose a feeling of sorrow and indignation which wherever Americans were gathered, gained almost the proportions of a panic, accompanied by feverish anxiety for further details.

The thousands of Americans now in London were mostly at the theaters when the news arrived and returning to their hotels found anxious groups of Englishmen and Americans discussing what, without distinction of race, is regarded as a national calamity. London's telephones, usually silent at night, tingled with impatient inquiries addressed to newspapers and American correspondents in hopes of securing a denial of the report. The announcement of the attempted assassination was received too late for extra editions of the papers to announce the news to the mass of English people and they will not learn until they take up their morning papers of the attempt to kill the president.

A representative of the Associated Press conveyed the intelligence to J. W. Mackay, Thomas Ochiltree, C. L. Putman, J. W. Gates and many others.

all of whom desired to express their unspeakable indignation at the cowardly act, the deepest sympathy with Mr. McKinley and hopes for his recovery. Added to this personal patriotic sentiment was the dread that whatever the outcome of the outrage on the president it would perhaps react fatally upon Mrs. McKinley.

All the newspapers this morning publish long accounts from Buffalo describing the attack on President McKinley, together with dispatches from abroad regarding the reception of the news, which excited renewed and anxious discussion of means to prevent anarchist outrages, references to previous attacks and the urgent need for the adoption of greater police precautions than ever in republics and the freest countries.

The Daily Telegraph editorially says: "It is with profound regret that the world learns today that another distinguished man is added to the criminally long list of rulers who have fallen victims to the wickedness of assassins. Most unfeigned and heartfelt sympathy will go forth from every family in Christendom to Mrs. McKinley in this hour of deepest sorrow and trial."

"Americans will acquit us of all suspicion of insincerity when we claim that the blow will be felt with almost as much severity in Great Britain as in the United States."

Referring to the sympathy displayed by Americans at the time of the death of Queen Victoria, the Daily Telegraph says: "Sympathy can only be repaid by sympathy, though it is a sad fact that the debt we so gratefully discharge should have fallen due so soon." The article concludes by dilating upon the inexplicability of the crime committed in a free country at the time of its greatest well-being against one of the most popular of rulers, and the need of still further protection against anarchists.

The Daily Mail thinks the motive underlying such crimes is notoriety, and that if such criminals could be dealt with on the spot one great inducement to the commission of such attempts would be removed. The Mail suggests that all rulers should be accompanied by armed men instructed to shoot an assassin on the spot.

The Times editorially says: "It will be a relief to the feelings of the American people to know that the criminal was not one of themselves."

"We will not contemplate the possibility of fatality, but in view of any case the government of the United States will not be disturbed. Vice President Roosevelt is a man of ability and distinction, in whose hands there is not a doubt the country's interests would be as safe, but President McKinley has gained an almost unequalled position and it would be a cruel stroke of fortune if he were cut off in the plenitude of his popularity and when his policy has been apparently vindicated by success."

Comparatively few Englishmen heard the news today, but all these expressed horror and sympathy as genuine as if it had been the king instead of the president. The latter's kindly personality, his friendship for England and his kindly message of condolence upon the occasion of Queen Victoria's death were all called up in voices as low and woe-stricken as those of any purely American gathering.

The lord mayor of London was informed of the attempt upon the president's life by an Associated Press representative, and expressed the greatest grief and emotion. He said: "I shall call a meeting of aldermen tomorrow, formally to express to Mrs. McKinley and the American people the horror and grief felt at the attempt. Personally the news comes to me with the greatest possible shock, and I am sure that every citizen of London will join me in expressing feelings of sorrow at the terrible calamity."

Mr. and Mrs. Nat C. Goodwin and other Americans who, were to have dined at the Carleton tonight, canceled their engagement on hearing the news, and all the orchestras ceased playing. Crowds surrounded the bulletin boards.

GOLD STAR COMEDY-DRAMA

Entitled "Who Owns Me," or "When Do Seamen Get Off?"

A Sale That Fluked When Coin Was Called for—Will Be Offered Again on Monday.

There are ways that are dark and tricks that are vain there are a few persons in Dawson who can discount Bret Harte's famous leathern Chinese. To buy a commodity equipped steamboat usually requires considerable cold cash, but in the purchase of the Gold Star a week or so ago there developed a piece of financing that is worthy of a full page in the records of Wall Street. Following the flight of Captain Nixon, the erstwhile owner of the Gold Star, the little steamer was quickly plastered over with libel suits for wages due the seamen. The boat in time was advertised for sale and here is where the financial hand of the Napoleon of finance appeared. J. B. Phillips had no money, but he possessed a boundless ambition, a fluent tongue and a degree of energy that could not have been mistaken. He approached several with a scheme of promoting rapid transit between Dawson and the Koyukuk, exploiting at length upon the modest fortunes certain to accrue to those with the nerve and necessary cash to make the venture. To Colonel Rourke was made known the plan and he was agreed that there was a good thing in sight. At the sale which was to be had in a few days it was arranged that the colonel should bid in the boat at auction. He would be required to deposit but 20 per cent of the bid and would have ten days in which to make final payments. During the interim Phillips was to rustle up sufficient funds on his own account so that at the expiration of the ten days he was to take the steamer off the colonel's hands and pay him the differ-

MOVING PICTURES

Will Be a Feature of Sunday Night Concerts at Savoy.

The new moving picture machine which the Savoy theater added to its regular show Thursday night is the best and most attractive ever seen in Dawson. The machine is owned and personally exhibited by Miles Bros. and is called the bioscope. The scenes are reproduced on the canvas with clearness of detail and without any of the flickering lights which have always prevented a clear view of pictures exhibited by other machines. The pictures presented are all works of art and give actual scenes of people and events in different parts of the world. In addition to the moving pictures a complete history of Nome is shown by stereopticon views, giving the scenes on the docks at Seattle of the first rush, the arrival of the boats at Nome, the business center of the town, places of amusement and the work being done on the various creeks.

The Miles Bros. have a large number of views so that a change of program will be given weekly. The pictures will be made a feature of the Sunday night sacred concerts which will be given throughout the winter and are sure to be a drawing card.

THE GOLD COURT

Gold Commissioner Senkler rendered a decision yesterday in the case of Cohen et al. vs. Perrin et al., the controversy, being over the hillsides, left limit, adjoining above the mouth on Last Chance. The gold commissioner finds the case to be parallel with that of Wilson vs. Vincent in which the minister of the interior held that even though a prior locator, a person making a misdescription of the ground located under the circumstances set out in this case, he must suffer. It is decided that the defendant is entitled to hold the ground in dispute under the Nison location, as set out under the Cote plan, only in so far as it does not conflict with the gold claim No. 1 on the tributary at 9 above the mouth.

The decision is effect is that though one may be a prior locator on a claim, yet if in his application to record a misdescription of the ground is given a subsequent locator may apply for and will receive the grant to the claim in question.

Mr. J. G. Boyd and daughter, Mrs. John Hering, left on the Clifford Sifton last night for Seattle, where they will spend the winter.

Messrs. R. and L. De Label were passengers for Skagway on the Sifton last night.

STR. DANUBE'S BIG CARGO

Nearly All of Which Will Come on to Dawson.

Skagway, Sept. 14.—The steamer Danube which arrived from B. C. points this morning brought 290 tons of freight, 34 cattle and 47 hogs; the live stock being for N. P. Shaw & Co. Rev. Heatherington and family of Dawson, are among the passengers. McLennan & McPeely are the heaviest shippers. Commissioner Ross has a big grocery shipment. The next steamer due to arrive is the Humboldt on the 17th.

DECLINES TO TALK

Mr. Hawkins Is Mum Regarding Future Operations.

Skagway, Sept. 14.—E. C. Hawkins, lately resigned as manager of the White Pass railroad, returned from below on the City of Seattle. He refuses to be interviewed relative to his future operations. He will turn over his official duties connected with the company to Vice President Newell immediately on the latter's return from Dawson.

ALONG THE WATER FRONT.

The Prospector will make another trip to Stewart river point, leaving here on Monday next.

Word was received indirectly yesterday from the steamer Lousie, which had arrived with two barges, 16 miles below the city, returning for her third on a short distance below Eagle City. It is learned that the Lousie left St. Michael August 15, the three barges containing a cargo of 1350 tons. In a number of instances she was compelled to double trip over swift water where the current proved too stiff.

The Yukoner which brought in 47 passengers and 170 tons of freight, left last night at 8 o'clock for Whitehorse with every berth taken.

The arrival of the May West from St. Michael a few days ago recalls the first and only other time that this little steamer ever tied up at the Dawson docks. It was early in the season of '98 and she was the first steamer to arrive that year. The winter before Dawsonites had subsisted entirely upon a straight diet of bacon and beans, flour was selling at $70 a sack and pay-streak bacon at almost the same figure, and when the May West pulled into port she found every man, woman and child in town down at the wharf to meet her. People climbed over each other in their efforts to buy such eatables as she had to sell, the prices realized being such as would have made millions of her owners if they had had a trifle more extensive stock. Since that year, however, the West has had a more or less checkered career and last year she sought to end her misfortunes by going ashore in a heavy gale near St. Michael, lying there on the beach for several weeks until her present owner purchased her.

Captain Hoelscher, until recently master of the Portus B. Wear, is coming up the river as one of the pilots on the Will H. Ison. The Ison is said to be drawing five feet of water.

The Dawson her last trip down brought 73 passengers and 180 tons of freight. She returned up river yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The steamer came in at midnight Thursday evening with 39 passengers. On her departure yesterday afternoon she carried over 90 passengers.

Notice Re Dawson Directory. To all Whom it May Concern: The public are notified that I am the only holder of a concession from the Yukon council for publishing a directory of Dawson City and the Yukon territory, and that the only directory already published for Dawson City and the Yukon territory was brought out and published by me, I having engaged W. J. Barnes and A. M. Baber to assist me in the publication for the spot and their contract having expired with me, they have no further authority to represent me.

I propose for the coming year, under my concession, to issue a directory for the City of Dawson and the Yukon territory, devoted exclusively to the interests of the Yukon territory and this will be the only directory for said territory brought out for the coming year.

I ask the public to aid me in my undertaking, and I beg, by permission, to refer to Messrs. Bleeker & De Jours, advocates, at Dawson; the First National bank of Seattle, Washington, and the First National bank of Los Angeles, California, U. S. A.

My agents with proper credentials will be on the ground, soliciting your favors in due time. Respectfully yours, MARIA L. FERGUSON.

C. B. Zabriskie has returned from Skagway where he went as a delegate to the Grand Camp of the Arctic Brotherhood.

ALL NIGHT SERVICE

Electric Lights to Be on Continuously After Oct. 1.

There is probably no commercial enterprise in Dawson which has made greater strides nor added more improvements to its plant within the past three years than the Dawson Electric Light and Power Company, and today the company is the possessor of an as completely equipped electrical plant as will be found anywhere in Canada in any city of three times the population of Dawson. During the present season an enormous quantity of new machinery has been added which was at once installed and has been in working order for a month or so. A great difficulty, however, has been experienced in securing a foundation of sufficient solidity to withstand the constant motion of the heavy engines and ponderous generators. To overcome the trouble it is now proposed to excavate eight feet, down to solid gravel, and then build up a foundation of concrete composed of Portland cement and sand. Next season will see still further improvements made in the system and should the demand occasion it the company will be in a position to transmit power for mining purposes to every creek in the Klondike district. At present power is furnished only as far as the Forks, though it is possible to transmit it as great a distance as 75 miles. Owing to the lateness of the season, but two pumps are now being operated by electric power, one of them being on Adams hill and the other on King Solomon hill, both of 50 horse power capacity and of sufficient power to raise water from Bonanza creek to a height of 300 or 400 feet. The efficiency of their work is all that could be desired and next season will doubtless see a far greater number employed. Mr. W. A. Speake, the present manager of the company, is comparatively a recent arrival in the city, having been here but little over a month. He is heavily interested in the Northwest Fixture Company of Seattle and is known along the coast as being an eminently successful manager of electrical enterprises. In speaking of the lighting service which will be given Dawson this winter Mr. Speake said: "Mr. J. A. Williams and I have concluded to give Dawson a 24-hour service throughout the winter beginning October 1. Heretofore the lights have been turned off from half past 9 to 10 o'clock in the morning to about 3 in the afternoon, but this winter they will run continuously and with no extra charge, the service being identical with cities on the outside. We are extending our circuits every day and the lighting of cabins and residences is becoming much more general than ever before. No matter what the growth of the city may be in the future we shall be in position to accommodate all who may desire our service. With our present equipment we could light every building in Dawson and still furnish power for double the number of motors now being used."

REPORTED SUSPENSION

Of Assistant Gold Commissioner Mr. J. Langlois Bell From Office

PENDING INVESTIGATION FROM OTTAWA

Rumor Mentions "Black Hills" Survey As Unauthorized

COSTING THE DOMINION $5000.

Gold Commissioner Senkler, Inspector Corry Nor Mr. Bell Have Official Information.

From Saturday and Monday's Daily. It is current rumor today that Assistant Gold Commissioner J. Langlois Bell will, commencing with Monday, September 16th, be suspended from his office by order from Ottawa pending an investigation of certain of his official acts. It is also reported that the investigation will pertain to the order of the assistant gold commissioner which caused a survey of what is known as the Black Hills in the Stewart river district, which survey is said to have cost the Dominion government in the neighborhood of $5000 and which was done without instructions from Ottawa.

Mr. Bell was seen at his home this afternoon by a Nugget reporter when he said that he had heard the rumor above referred to, namely, that he is to be suspended from office pending an investigation, but that he has as yet received no official information neither has any official information been received in Dawson concerning it. Mr. Bell said the rumor was a great surprise to him and that he is confident there is some mistake as he has done nothing which, in his opinion, should subject him to an investigation. Gold Commissioner Senkler said he knew nothing of it, having received no official information from Ottawa. Inspector W. W. Corry, who has been in the city some time on a tour of general inspection, was likewise as greatly surprised as the other officials who were seen. He professes total ignorance of the matter and is absolutely at sea as to the cause of the alleged complaint. He stated that he knew nothing whatever about it and had received no communication from Ottawa concerning this or any other irregularity in the gold commissioner's office.

Mr. Bell has occupied his present position nearly two years and to all with whom he has had dealings he has always proven a most courteous and competent official.

Was Properly Equipped. Victoria, B. C., Sept. 6.—There is every probability that the Islander investigation will be concluded at once. Capt. Gaudin adjourned court today, adding that it would resume Tuesday, when, if no further evidence was volunteered, a verdict would be given.

The most important evidence was that of Captain Collier, inspector of boats, who stated that he had inspected the ship on the 5th of May. He had opened and closed the bulkheads and had found them to work satisfactorily. There were six boats, four steel and two wooden ones, and with their equipment, met his approval. A short time before the inspection he had the boats all put out on the trip to Vancouver, and the work was accomplished by an officer and five men in 20 minutes. He also inspected and tested the life buoys and found that they came up to the requirements of law, all being in a satisfactory condition. They were made of cork and oak, a sort of California grass. These kind of life preservers have been in use since 1894, when they were adopted by the department of marine and fisheries.

Correspondence which passed between the local inspector at that time and the department, in reference to their use was then read to the court by Thomson. Life buoys, witness said, had been all properly distributed about the ship, every room and other compartment having its regulation number.

Big Dredger a Success. Mr. Ross M. Crawford returned yesterday from a three days' visit to 42 below on Bonanza, where he has been examining the big dredger of the Lewis River Dredging Co. The dredge which has only been in operation for a couple of weeks has proven to be a great success and promises to revolutionize mining methods in this country.

Mrs. Robert Lawrence (Lillian Grant) took her departure for the outside on the Victorian.

It is one of the anomalies of our present organization that men who profess to be in their duty to commit murder be at large.

An anarchist is a foe to a man who openly professes enmity to all constituted authority. He is a man who would lend his aid to the task of existing forms of government though it be necessary to get the murder.

The question arises: Will men permit to retain on an equality with law abiding citizens? If a man has murdered he becomes to that threat against society and he to be given an opportunity to return to society. Undoubtedly he may be imprisoned if necessary.

Why then the anarchist is a foe to all society, who suppressed is a mystery. A man to kill another man promptly punished. But a declare his desire to destroy men and the individuals therewith and still retain in the situation is paradoxical. Identification as an anarchist deemed a crime sufficiently warrant imprisonment for years. The theory that a man declares his intention to kill is a simple opportunity to design into effect before he is criminal is entirely wrong intention as such as the which makes the criminal, tion to destroy and kill is pre-requisite requirements. And dogs or tigers have as much claims as the anarchist. There is treatment that they are not that treatment is described word "extermination."

Society has a right to protect from such curses and the on such protection can be through absolute suppression.

IMPOSSIBLE TO UNDERSTAND.
It is a difficult matter to conceive by what course of reasoning the would-be assassin of President McKinley brought himself to undertake the dastardly crime.

McKinley by birth, education and association, is distinctly a man of the people. He has been brought to his present position as chief executive of one of the great powers of the earth through sheer force of merit. His entire career has been an open book.

His progress has been watched from the time he entered the ranks of the Union army until as the one man chosen to preside over the destinies of a great nation, he was sent to the White House at Washington. In all this time McKinley has never forgotten the fact that he is the people's servant and that his duty is the execution of their will. His kindly disposition, affable manner and the beauty of his domestic life have endeared him to the people not only as a statesman but as a man. Less than a year ago McKinley was returned to the presidential chair by a greater majority than ever before was given to any candidate.

After four years of service in that exalted position the verdict, "Well done, good and faithful servant," was pronounced and McKinley went back to the White House with the certification from his people that he had kept faith with them in every particular.

Now in the height of his glory and while engaged in receiving the applause and congratulations of the people whom he has served so well, he is made the victim of the assassin's bullet—shot down by a cowardly villain to whom he had extended his right hand in friendly greeting. The would-be murderer alleges that he does not like the government—he is a disciple of a woman anarchist—and believed it his duty to dispose of the president.

What a statement and what a plea for justifying so enormous an offense. The normal mind refuses to accept it. The man is a monster, incapable of human feeling. He has no more right to like than a rattlesnake or a man-eating tiger. And yet under the laws of the land he is entitled to a trial by a jury of his peers. Shrewd lawyers will be allowed to introduce all manner of technicalities into his defense or if he has no money, the law itself will provide him counsel. And it is such a government that the assassin would destroy.

It makes one almost regret that the rack and stake are no longer countenanced.

LAND LAWS FOR ALASKA.

The suggestion that the public lands of Alaska be opened to entry under the general land laws of the United States is eminently proper. There is no conceivable reason why this rich district should longer continue to be tied up by the refusal to extend these laws over it; a refusal based upon no reason, no theory and having no arguments in its support. The experiments of the agricultural department have shown that farming can be profitably carried on in the district; there seems to be an abundant area of land suitable for agriculture; there are certainly numbers of people who would be glad to obtain homes and farms in the district without importing colonists from Europe for the purpose; but the absence of any law by which title to agricultural land can be had keep the district closed to immigration of this character.

There are millions of acres of land which can be successfully farmed in the Alaska peninsula; there is likely to be for all time to come a good home market for all that can be raised; the climatic drawbacks are no greater than in many parts of the world where farming is a paying business; the cost of surveying the land is but little greater than it was in Western Washington or Oregon, and yet, without reason or argument, congress refuses to act in this matter.

There are members of congress by the dozen, possibly by the hundreds, representing districts where the winter is far more severe than it is in Southeastern Alaska, who yet labor under the delusion that the latter is a hyperborean region which will never have a settled and permanent population. Articles have from time to time appeared in periodicals of high class, urging that steps be taken to colonize the Laplanders in Alaska, ignoring the fact that hundreds of Americans would be glad to take up homes and farms there now, if congress would shake off its inertia, and open the district to the farmer as it is now open to the miner, the townsite speculator and the great commercial companies. Millions of acres of public domain have been given away to induce the building of transportation lines, that it might become possible to open the states of the far West to settlement. Millions of dollars have been spent in purchasing the Indian rights to land in the semi-arid belt of the country, and cities have sprung up in a day when the land was opened to entry. Yet there are vast areas of fertile land which might well be in the ownership of American families, but which remain tied up for no conceivable reason, save that congress cannot take enough interest in the matter to act.

Alaska has suffered much from congress. It has been discriminated against as no other American territory ever was. It is now burdened with an inexcusable and wanton system of taxation which answers no purpose save to cripple business and retard settlement. It has never been given even the vestige of self-government. It has grown, not through government aid, but despite government neglect, and despite laws which have hampered its advancement. It has asked little, and it has received less. Certainly, however, it is entitled to this much—the opening of the public land to settlement and entry, that the man who makes his home in Alaska and seeks to reclaim the wilderness may have a status better than that of a mere trespasser, liable to be ejected by the officers of the government for unlawful intrusion on the public domain.—P. I.

Exception has been taken by some few Hebrews in Dawson to a statement which appeared in the Nugget's first extra concerning the matter of the attempted assassination of President McKinley. In the first bulletin received at this office it was distinctly stated that the assassin was a "Polish Jew," and it was so published. Subsequent reports have stated that the would-be murderer is of German extraction. Whichever report may prove to be correct we are unable to see that any reflection is cast upon anyone else thereby. There is no nation that has not had its murderers, but we never yet heard of a race of people being condemned by reason of the conduct of individual men. We are of the opinion that our Jewish friends are rather super-sensitive.

Commissioner Ross has placed himself on record as being favorable to the imposition of an export duty. This declaration on the part of the commissioner means, in all probability, that the royalty tax will not be collected after the present year. Ottawa has a way of listening to Goy, Ross when he has any recommendations to make, and it is safe to say that he has been heard in the matter in question before giving utterance to his views through the public press.

The News which so long posed as spiritual adviser to Messrs P. Adhonne and Wilson is now after those gentlemen rough shod. It is barely possible that the News' change of heart on the railroad question has brought about a similar metamorphosis in connection with other live issues. Or is the News grooming a candidate of its own for political honors?

Dawson's public schools are ready for a winter's work. The Nugget is of the opinion that the system of public instruction which has been established for this city is fully up to the standard enjoyed in similar communities on the outside. It has taken the government a long time to awaken to Dawson's necessities in this particular as in other matters, but it must be acknowledged that the work once begun has been carried forward in a very creditable manner.

Considering the backwardness of general spring in arriving it is not to be wondered at that we are now enjoying a late fall.

RE-OPENED THIS MORNING

Many Dawson Children Appear at Public School.

The public schools opened this morning as announced last week. The attendance was much smaller than was anticipated probably owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the pupils. In the higher grades, from seven up there was a total of 18 and about the same number in grades five and six.

Principal McKenzie is very anxious to have all the children who will enter the higher grades of the grammar and high schools register their names immediately even if they don't intend to enter the school until after the new building opens. This, he says, is an absolute necessity in order that proper accommodations can be made for them in the new building.

In the two rooms now occupied one in the Salvation Army barracks, and one in the Masons' hall, the space is limited and very little can be accomplished other than getting the registration and grading completed. To get this preliminary work all out of the way before the opening of the new building will allow the regular school work to continue without interruption when the move to the new building is made. Principal McKenzie will continue the work in the higher grades in the Salvation Army barracks building, and Misses McRae and Keyes will tomorrow meet pupils in grades three and four and one and two Wednesdays.

The kindergarten department will not open until the new building is ready owing to a lack of accommodation.

The teachers are very anxious to get the preliminary work completed as soon as possible and parents are urged to send their children to the school as soon as convenient.

SATURDAY'S BALL GAME

It Was Not by Any Means a World Starter.

The Civil Service baseball team which obtained such a easy victory over the Lawyers a short time ago found itself playing against different material when it met the Gandolfo team Saturday afternoon. There was quite a large crowd gathered at the barracks ground to witness the game and although the afternoon was a little raw the interest never slackened and the crowd remained until the close of the ninth inning.

It could not be said that either team played a scientific game for numerous and costly errors were made by both sides and particularly by the Civil Service team to which fact alone was due the large score made by the Gandolfos. The batteries of both teams did excellent work but the fielding and base throwing showed a lack of practice which to the Civil Service team was most disastrous.

The four runs made by the Gandolfos in the first inning were scored as a result of wild throws and in fact most of the scores were made on the same errors.

The Civil Service boys are not disheartened by their defeat but have already challenged their opponents for another game to be played in the near future in which event they hope to have the balance of the score in their favor. The line up of the teams was as follows:

Gandolfos—Nelson, 2d b.; Traube, 1b.; Briggs, 3b.; Frew, p.; Durgan, r.f.; Church, l.f.; Brown, c.f.; Hicks, s.s.; McFate, c.
Civil Service—Bennett, c.; Harrison, p.; Brazier, 1b.; Boyer, 2b.; Watt, 3b.; Senkler, s.s.; Donald, r.f.; Young, c.f.; McLean, l.f.

Mr. Shepard Returns.
Mr. P. M. Shepard, one of the court stenographers who has been outside on a vacation for several months, returned Sunday afternoon on the Canadian. Mr. Shepard's friends will regret to learn that the serious illness of Mrs. Shepard prevented his bride from accompanying him on his return. His band and wife were fellow passengers from San Francisco to Seattle, from which point the latter returned to her former home in Brooklyn.

DETAILS OF NARROW ESCAPE

From Death on White Pass Road One Day Last Week

The Skagway-Alaskan gives the following account of the accident which occurred last week on the White Pass Railway:

One of the first passenger accidents to occur on the White Pass & Yukon railway since the opening of the road happened yesterday afternoon to passenger No. 2, which arrived here a little late in consequence.

The accident occurred at the west end of the tunnel on the White Pass, about two miles north of Glacier. That no lives were lost is due to the quick action of Engineer McKenzie.

The train left Whitehorse yesterday morning at 9 o'clock with five passenger coaches filled and two baggage cars. Everything ran smoothly, to the summit and the heavy train started on the down grade.

The tunnel was entered and the engine, two baggage cars and four coaches had safely passed over the high trestle just west of the tunnel and over the canyon three hundred feet deep, when the forward trucks of the last coach jumped the track.

The rear trucks stayed on the track, which was most miraculous. The train was running slowly, possibly not at a higher rate than eight miles an hour. The last coach, with the wheels of the forward trucks bumping along the ties, just reached the opposite side when over tipped the coach, hanging on the end of the hill, with 300 feet beneath it.

Engineer McKenzie must have felt the jer for he quickly applied the air brakes and the train came to a sudden stop. Ten feet more and one of the most awful accidents in Alaskan history would have been chronicled.

The passengers in the over-tipped car made little out-cry, but each and every one made a rush for the doors. The car was in such a position that egress was hard. Women made several outcries but all quickly gained their presence of mind and the men forgot their own peril for the moment and began assisting the women and children to a safe position.

By this time every member of the train crew were on hand, with the passengers from other parts of the train, assisted the occupants of the derailed car from their perilous position.

In five minutes every one of the 33 passengers were out.

The train crew got to work like beavers putting the car back on the track. One of the wheels of the forward trucks was broken, but the car was soon placed on the track. Owing to its condition it was left standing there and the rest of the train proceeded on its way to Skagway.

Probably the best story of the wreck is given by Frank King, who happened to be in the coach.

He said last night at the Grand hotel: "With three others, Mrs. Cole, E. M. Joy and A. P. Hohagland, I was standing on the rear platform, enjoying the beautiful panoramic scene, as the train slowly wound its way along the brow of the hill. Suddenly we felt a jolting movement. We were then nearly off the trestle, and just as we reached the opposite side from the tunnel we were piled to one side of the platform."

Hohagland and Joy were sitting on the steps overlooking the canyon. As we turned off I pushed Mrs. Cole over the upper end of the platform and swung down on the hillside myself. Hohagland and Joy were only prevented from falling to instant death by catching in a trough on the right of the track.

"As the car rested the rear end was held by a large rock and the front end by the coupling.

"Mr. Cole, Staff Sergeant Raven and E. D. Laman, all of Dawson, were inside the car. I quickly yelled to them there was no immediate danger and to assist the ladies out of the car. This they did. They passed them down the car to the rear end, where I assisted them up to the upper part of the platform and then to the ground. In this manner all were gotten out and finally the three heroes inside the car came creeping out after everyone else had been put in a place of safety.

"Too much cannot be said of the work of the crew. Conductor Morehouse and his brakeman never lost their heads, and their cool manner prevented any undue excitement.

"Several ladies, after getting out of the car, became hysterical but were soon told they were all right.

"The picture of a derailed car, so near the edge of the frightful precipice, will always remain imprinted on my mind. Ten feet more, and no telling what might have happened. If the coupling had broken—but it didn't and there is no use to court peril.

"It is difficult to ascertain the cause of the wreck. Some state that the truck which jumped the track was strained. Others believe that the brakes were set too hard, owing to the heavy train. This, it is said, could not have been avoided as Engineer McKenzie had a big train and the grade is steep at that place.

"All precaution was taken that was possible to prevent a disaster."

As the passengers alighted at the depot all spoke in the highest terms of the crew, and those in the returned car—especially the ladies—claim that no men could have acted in a more gentlemanly and heroic manner than those who assisted them from the car. A wreck train was dispatched to the scene and last night the car was brought to the shops.

One funny incident happened at the wreck. Mr. Cole had a little dog with him and after all had got out of the car, and he had crawled to the door, he thought of his little pet dog and went back after it, much to the amusement of the passengers.

A jet is here given of those in the car, all having just come out from Dawson on the Columbian or Flora: Dr. A. C. Robertson, Flora Connor, Mrs. Price, Staff Sergeant Raven, Mrs. Osborn, Miss A. Akers, Mrs. R. Perry, Mrs. B. Marshall, B. Marshall, L. H. Marshall, Mrs. H. E. Holtz, H. W. Gleason, Mrs. Gleason, C. Bistrup, Miss Anderson, W. D. E. Anderson, Mr. Anderson, R. M. Joy, A. P. Hohagland, Mrs. Hohagland, J. A. McMaster, J. Wood, Mrs. Wood, Master Wood, P. Capton, H. W. Lencke, C. F. Hamilton and Frank King.

IN NEW

QUARTERS

Police Court Moves Into Old Territorial Court Room.

When frequenters of the police court reached the door of the old courtroom this morning they were confronted by a sign which conveyed the information that the throne of justice had been removed to the old territorial courtroom and thither the crowd repaired. The old courtroom presents very much the same appearance it did when the late George O'Brien was being tried for his life except that the seats have been removed from the jury box. The prisoner's box is still away back near the rear of the room, suggestive of the necessity of a long distance telephone. The stove still does business at the old stand over against the wall; the territorial court clock has been removed and the police court clock had not been put in position this morning. The room formerly occupied by the territorial court clerk will be used by the police court attaches, probably as the stenographer's room. Taken as a whole the quarters are more commodious than the old ones, but the air of desolation which has ever and always pervaded the quarters now occupied is still there.

It was apparent this morning when Magistrate McCauley took his seat in the judicial chair that the move had been made none too soon, as not many weeks has the police court room of Dawson been so crowded, the majority of those present being there as witnesses.

B. F. Senkler had the distinction of dedicating the loose box to its future service. He was charged with having used abusive language to P. E. McCauley and asserted that he had done so under great provocation. A number of witnesses were examined and at the close of the hearing Senkler was fined $1 and costs.

The case of Freeman Anderson, charged with having assaulted Charles Hansen in the barroom of the Dawson hotel Friday morning, was continued until Thursday morning. There were a number of witnesses present in this case. In the interim Anderson is in jail.

A number of wage cases, including the case of the chief engineer of the steamer Gold Star, are on today.

During the hearing of the first case this morning some meritment was indulged in as the result of certain testimony elicited when Magistrate McCauley very promptly and very properly put a summary stop to it, asserting that the courtroom was no place for any meretricious exhibitions.

Residence Burglarized.
The residence of Frank McArthur on Sixth avenue, near Fifth street, was burglarized Thursday evening last, sometime between the hours of 10 and 5 in the night. By means of a jimmy the thieves effected an entrance through one of the rear windows and in their hurried search for money piled things up in general confusion. Nuggets and nuggets of jewelry to the value of about $500 were secured, also a tin box containing a number of papers valuable only to Mr. McArthur. Among the latter were notes aggregating nearly $3000. This is the second time the McArthur residence has been robbed within the past year.

Gold Star Again Sold.
Sheriff Ellbeck for the second time in two weeks sold the steamer Gold Star at public auction this afternoon. This time the purchaser is J. R. McGovern, the price paid being $2500, just $1000 less than at the former sale.

DANIEL SKIPS WITH $35,000

Former Forks Butcher and Erstwhile Newspaper Manager Decamps With $35,000 Belonging to Chris Bartsch & Co.—Daniels Was Company's Agent on Creeks.

From Saturday and Monday's Daily.

G. R. Daniels, formerly a butcher of Grand Forks and later manager of the defunct Morning Journal, skipped by the light of the moon Saturday night or early Sunday morning with $35,000 in good money belonging to Chris Bartsch & Co., the wholesale meat dealers. Early last spring a representative of Bartsch & Co. canvassed nearly all the creeks in the country in the interest of his firm making a great many contracts for the delivery of meat during the season. Later the firm entered into a contract with Daniel for the delivery of the meats under the Hill contracts from their abattoirs, one on the Yukon river opposite Klondike City, and one on Dominion creek. He (Daniel) also do the collecting for the firm. As the contracts were very extensive a large sum of money naturally passed through his hands. It is understood that Daniel for some weeks has been behind in his accounts, but as he is well known here and had been in the meat business at different times since '98 it was not surmised that he was contemplating flight to the lower country. A settlement of accounts was had Saturday between Mr. Bartsch and Daniel and the former did not discover the latter's flight until Sunday when he failed to keep an appointment, at which time he was to turn over the money in his possession which he had collected. Shortly afterward it was learned Daniel had absconded down the river and a telegram was at once sent both to Fortymile and Eagle to intercept him in his flight. This morning a warrant was issued for his arrest in which he is charged with embezzlement and this afternoon it is learned by wire from Eagle that the defaulter has been apprehended at that point and will be detained until an officer arrives for him. Though in American territory it is thought the prisoner can be brought back here for trial without the formality of securing extradition papers, there being an understanding between the two governments by which they help each in the detention of criminals who seek to escape capture by crossing the boundary line into a country foreign to the one in which their misdeeds have been committed. As Judge Wickersham is at present absent from Eagle and there is no court here with jurisdiction to hear a habeas corpus proceeding, there seems to be but little doubt but what Daniel will be a passenger on the next boat arriving from the lower river.

HOT TIME ON HUNKER

Another Attempted Hold-Up Last Saturday Night.

The second hold-up within three days took place on Hunker creek Saturday evening between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. Mr. J. G. McClurg, foreman of Hobbs' saw mill, was returning to Dawson from a trip to Gold Bottom and as he was walking along the road about opposite 70 below on Hunker two men jumped out from behind a pile of wood and ordered him to throw up his hands.

Mr. McClurg had been warned by the police at Gold Bottom to keep a lookout for such an event, as a man had been held up on Thursday night in that vicinity. He had a revolver with him and as he started off alone he took the gun from his pocket and carried it in his hand. In throwing up his hands, in compliance with the order of the highwayman he shot off his revolver at which the men got scared and took to flight in the brush. He sent a second bullet after them but as it was getting dark he does not think the bullet took effect.

Mr. McClurg had considerable money on his person at the time and had it not been for his precaution in having the gun in his hand the robbers would in all probability have had him in their power before he could have drawn it.

Mr. McClurg says that one of the robbers was a short, thick set man which jallies with the description given by Mr. Hesperance, the man who was held up on Thursday night, of one of his assailants, and would make it appear that the second attempt was made by part of the same gang as committed the first. Mr. McClurg said that the men had cloths over their faces so that he could not distinguish their features and did not believe he could recognize them if he should meet them again.

The police are now at work looking for the highwaymen.

Echoes From Hunker.

After several weeks absence, spent in Dawson and at the Forks, Miss R. J. Hanna has returned to her post at the Miner's hospital.

A well attended entertainment by local talent was given in the church tent at Gold Bottom Tuesday evening, September 10. The program consisted of readings, recitations, vocal and instrumental music, followed by an enjoyable lunch of cake and coffee provided by the ladies. This was the first event of the kind ever held in this settlement and it was a social and financial success. Mr. King Fringle deserves great credit for his untiring efforts to attain this object. The proceeds will be added to the fund now being raised to provide a place for church services and public reading room during the winter.

The Pacific Cold Storage Co. has perfectly insulated chambers regulated by steam and offers the finest warm storage in Dawson.

STRANGE PREMONITION

Dr. John Duncan Had Fears of Islander Wreck.

A strange and extraordinary premonition of impending disaster has just come to light in the death of Dr. Duncan, who was one of the victims of the Islander wreck. Dr. Duncan was not a man given to superstitious whims nor did he believe in signs, dreams or anything else which had for their purpose the penetration of the future. He was singularly free from the idiosyncrasies so common to this day and age and was regarded by all who knew him as being a man of unusually good sense and judgment. With the arrival of the last mail, however, it is learned that while in Skagway the evening prior to taking the Islander Dr. Duncan must have had some presentiment of a possible fatality. Whether he was impelled by fate or in some other manner forewarned will never be known as he made no mention of his thoughts or actions to any of his friends, but the fact remains that before taking the boat which led to his death he made his will setting up his state to the most minute detail, enclosed his papers in an envelope which he directed and mailed to himself at Victoria. And strange of all the same boat which bore his body to Victoria after the disaster carried the letter which contained his last will and testament. This was subsequently received at the postoffice and upon opening the missive and ascertaining its contents it was then learned the disposition the decedent had made of his estate. It seemed like a voice from the dead and who can say that in the last hours spent on land he did not receive a silent warning which had it been heeded he would have escaped the frightful calamity which consigned so many to watery graves.

The White Pass Railway.

At the meeting of the White Pass Yukon Railway Co., which was held yesterday, the chairman was able to disclose a remarkably satisfactory state of affairs. The total profits which the directors had to deal with amounted to over $344,000, out of which an interim cash dividend of five per cent has already been paid, and the distribution of a 25 per cent bonus has now been decided upon. This gives the shareholders a return at the rate of 10 per cent since the inception of the company, and the chairman was able to hold out the prospect of an interim dividend in the autumn in the neighborhood of 10 per cent. That a railway enterprise such as this in the far north surrounded with natural and climatic difficulties of all kinds, should in so short a time be able to show such solid prosperity reflects the greatest credit on those responsible for this unique enterprise. Up to the end of July the gross receipts show an increase of over $50,000 compared with the corresponding period of last year. Up to the end of May the earnings from passenger traffic alone showed an increase of 77 per cent.—R. C. Review.

SUSPENSION IN FORCE

Assistant Gold Commissioner Bell May Now Go Fishing.

The first official information received concerning the suspension of Assistant Gold Commissioner J. Langlois Bell, as was reported in Saturday's Nugget, arrived about 5 o'clock the same afternoon, the telegram containing the news being handed to Mr. Senkler, gold commissioner, during the ball game on the barracks grounds. The contents of the message were very brief and to the point and contained nothing further than has already been published, stating merely that Mr. Bell would be relieved from further duties as assistant gold commissioner until certain acts

PETER WIBORG'S BODY FOUND

Had Floated Down Yukon to Point 80 Miles Below Eagle.

The body of Peter Wiborg, the sour dough resident of the Klondike, mine owner and well-known man who disappeared Saturday afternoon, August 24th, has been found.

A telegraphic message received yesterday by O. Olsen, of the Klondike hotel, from H. E. St. George, of Eagle City, states that Wiborg's body was found one day last week off the mouth of Charley creek which is 80 miles below Eagle City, a distance from Dawson of about 185 miles.

The wire does not give particulars about the finding of the body, the news

J. LANGLOIS BELL. Whose Acts as Assistant Gold Commissioner Will Be Investigated.

said to be of his doing had been investigated. The precise nature of those acts and what the exact charges are which have been laid against Mr. Bell are yet not known. Mr. Senkler was seen this morning and stated that he knew no more today concerning the matter than he did Saturday and further that he thought no additional work would be required until the arrival of Governor Ross who is expected between the 20th and 23rd of this month. Who will comprise the commission to investigate the charges, which will be named at Ottawa, is likewise unknown, though it is assumed that Mr. Senkler will be one of the number. During a conversation had with the gold commissioner he stated he did not think the charges had emanated in Dawson.

Mr. Congon, acting commissioner during the absence of Governor Ross, was equally as unable to shed any new light upon the suspension and the investigation which is to follow as was Mr. Senkler. In response to a query concerning the matter he stated he knew nothing further than the intelligence which was conveyed in Saturday's telegram. As to who will constitute the commission, where it will sit, the charges to be investigated and how it will be conducted, they are matters which probably will not be known until the governor's return.

Mr. Bell was officially notified of his suspension Saturday afternoon late and is quietly awaiting further action. Mr. Dufferin Pattullo is at present occupying the office of the assistant gold commissioner.

of which was brought to Eagle yesterday morning but as it states positively that it is the body of Wiborg it was evidently identified by papers found in the pockets of the clothing. It is not stated in the message what disposition has been or will be made of the body. The police expect to receive further information regarding the matter.

When last seen alive which was on the afternoon of August 24th, Wiborg was on the cliff just south of Klondike City, where he resided. His friends say he had been acting somewhat strangely for a few days, but whether he accidentally fell or willfully precipitated himself into the Yukon will probably never be known. The fact remains that his body floated a long distance before being discovered.

Cloudburst at Juneau.

Related advices from Juneau state that at the time of the very bad downpour Thursday afternoon there was a genuine cloudburst over the upper part of Lemmon creek and the adjacent country which very nearly flooded that neighborhood.

Lemmon creek rose three feet in 15 minutes, and its total rise was nearly five feet before the flow subsided. The Lemmon Creek Company lost about 50 feet of water flume at a point where a timber jam raised and smashed down it in passing. Owing to the substantial character of the work the dams and headworks of the company and its sluice boxes were not damaged. Their loss will be two or three hundred dollars in material, and several days' work by the whole force were required to repair damage before sluicing could be resumed.

Such a rise of water has never been known on the creek, says the Daily Dispatch. It all seemed to come in about half an hour. As the men at the Lemmon creek company's property stood watching their dam, they could hear a tremendous roar up the creek, and in a few minutes they saw the rush of water coming, several feet high, like a tidal wave. It took out foot logs of several years standing, and timber jams that had 15 years' growth of alder on them rose and went out. One of the company's foot bridges lasted about 10 minutes.

NOVEL INNOVATION

Goetzman Rents Store and Builds Dark Rooms for the Public.

Goetzman, the photographer, has leased a store in the Bank building which he will use for a photographic supply depot. He has recently received an immense stock of goods in his line which cost him to land $15,000. A novel departure will be made by him at his new store. He proposes to erect three dark rooms for the use of amateur photographers where they can have all the facilities necessary for successfully developing their own negatives. Goetzman evidently proposes to get business if enterprise will help him to that end.

HILL MAY COME TO YUKON

His Representatives Negotiating for Kinney's American Franchise for Road Over Chilkoot Pass—Ottawa Has Promised Charter if White Pass Does Not Build Further.

From Monday's Daily.

Stockholders have any capital which to build a railroad, Kinney is so thoroughly disgusted with Skagway that he declines to make any newspaper talk. The hypothesis of the report is that the White Pass is or soon will be controlled by the Canadian Pacific and that Jim Hill in connection with his Pacific coast business, will establish a rival line, Ottawa having promised to grant a franchise to a second company provided the White Pass does not build past LeBarge this season.

—Skagway, Sept. 16.—A local paper prints the story that representatives of Jim Hill have opened negotiations with L. D. Kinney and associates for the purchase of their right of way and franchises on American territory for a railroad over Chilkoot Pass.

Kinney and his associates to the number of four or five are still holding on at Dyea, doing a little work at grading and cutting ties and piles and apparently only killing time as it is well known that none of the present

ST. MARY'S NEW ORGAN

Arrived Last Night Accompanied by Mr. Morel.

Mr. E. Morel, whose business is the erection of pipe organs constructed by his firm, Casavant Bros., of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, arrived Friday night on the Columbian in company with the new organ for St. Mary's Roman Catholic church. The organ, though a small one, will be an immeasurable improvement over the wheezy affairs so often found in the churches of cities the size of Dawson, and which usually detract rather than add to the pleasures of secular music. It will occupy a space in the choir loft 6 1/2 x 10 feet with a height of 10 1/2 feet. The pedal board with a compass of 27 notes covers 3 feet 3 inches by 4 feet 6 inches. It has two manuals, but the number of stops, length and number of pipes is not known to the expert, he having never seen the instrument. The organ being of such small size will be blown by hand instead of using a motor which is generally employed in pipe organs. It weighs with packing 6500 pounds and cost at the factory $500. As the freight from Skagway to Dawson is a matter of 12 cents a pound it can be seen that that one item alone will very nearly equal the original cost of the instrument. Mr. Morel hopes to have it up and ready for trial by next Thursday evening and it will doubtless be used for the church services next Sunday.

The Casavant Bros., the builders, is the largest firm of organ manufacturers in Canada. Among the instruments which they have constructed in the monster organ in L'Esglise du Notre Dame in Montreal, the largest in the Dominion. It has four manuals, 82 stops, over 200 pipes, the largest being 39 feet in length, and cost at the factory $12,000.

WAS AVERSE TO GUARD

President McKinley Preferred Going Out Alone.

Washington, Sept. 7.—President McKinley was averse to a bodyguard or to restrictions on his movements, and was exceedingly informal and democratic while in this city. On many pleasant mornings he indulged in a half hour stroll entirely alone through the southern portion of the grounds surrounding the White House. Very often he left the gate at the western side of the grounds and was joined by Comptroller of the Currency Charles Daws, also an early riser, and together these two men would make the circuit of the Ellipse south of the White House grounds. Upon these occasions he was never accompanied by a bodyguard or a secret service man. It is said Mr. McKinley was warned that the strolls alone were dangerous.

Frequently Mr. McKinley drove alone about the city and its suburbs. Seldom the president himself handled the reins, but at no time was there ever a secret service man in attendance, either near or at a distance. The close attention in the secret service force that the president had was Mr. George Foster, who constituted his personal bodyguard. A few days ago a Washington Post reporter, while at Buffalo, talked with Capt. Valleley, of the expedition force, on the precautions he would take to insure the president's safety. Capt. Valleley said he had picked men of the country under him, and that all the time the president was in the exposition grounds he would be surrounded by alert detectives, who would form a constant bodyguard, and ridiculed the possibility of danger.

KLONDIKE

From Tuesday's Daily EXTERMINATE THE

It is one of the anomalies of our present organization that men who profess to be in their duty to commit murder to be at large.

An anarchist is a foe to a man who openly proclaims his enmity to all constituted authority. In many instances he is bound to lend his aid to the task of existing forms of government though it is necessary to give terms of murder.

The question arises: Will men permitted to retain on an equality with law abiding men? If a man has murdered he becomes to the threat against society and he to be given an opportunity to defend himself.

Why then the anarchist would a foe to all society she suppressed is a mystery. A man to kill another man promptly punished. But a declare his desire to destroy and the individuals therewith and still retain.

The situation is paradoxical. It is not possible to identify an anarchist as a criminal sufficiently warrant imprisonment for years. The theory that a man declares his intention to kill is a simple opportunity to design into effect before the criminal is entirely wrong intention as much as the which makes the criminal, to destroy and kill is pre-requisite requirements anarchist. Mad dogs or tigers have as much claims as the anarchist. There is treatment that they are entitled to that is described word "extermination."

Society has a right to protect from such curses and the on such protection can be through absolute suppression.

OLE MARSH WINS PURSE

Being Awarded Two of Three Falls in Wrestling Match Last Night

WITH FRANK KENNEDY AT THE SAVOY

Referee's Decision Not in Accord With Spectator's Views

WHO SAY LOSER HAD FALLS

For Which He Did Not Get Credit Was Interesting From Start to Finish.

From Saturday and Monday's Daily.

Last night at the Savoy theater the Dawson sporting public witnessed a wrestling match between Kennedy and Marsh—and thereby hangs a tale. The match was catch as catch can, best two out of three falls. Kennedy was awarded the first bout, Marsh the following two and the latter was declared the winner of the contest by Referee McLaughlin. Some peculiar things happened during the progress of the match. In the first bout Kennedy got a half Nelson on Marsh and turned him over and down, according to competent men on the stage, but the referee did not see the point made and the men continued at work, Kennedy retaining his hold, again Kennedy bore Marsh to the mat with two points down, breaking his bridge, and again, according to witnesses, the referee failed to observe the fall. The third time, however, Kennedy still retaining his hold, Marsh was flattened to the mat and Kennedy awarded the fall apparently a terrific expenditure of strength.

The next peculiar incident to attract the attention of the observant was the evidence of money ready to be wagered on Marsh even after he lost the fall. The following bout developed another incident which attracted no little comment. Kennedy threw Marsh flat in a flying fall. The work was almost instantaneous and it required a quick eye to detect it, but there can be no question of doubt but that the fall was absolute for Marsh in trying to recover found himself so completely flat on his back that he was compelled to whip himself with a cat like motion from one side to the other to gain momentum sufficient to recover his position. While this work was extraordinarily rapid the fall was complete. Kennedy and his seconds claimed the fall but the referee would not allow it, he stating that two shoulders were not down. Marsh soon after got a half Nelson and bore his man over and out.

The last bout was won with the same hold, Marsh making a feint for the hammer lock and getting a half Nelson won the last bout. Time of first fall, won by Kennedy, 14 minutes and 20 seconds; time of second fall, won by Marsh, 11 minutes and 31 seconds; time of last fall, won by Marsh, 29 minutes and 20 seconds.

The match all through was interesting and exciting, although no particularly clever work was noticeable, Kennedy disappointing his friends by not using many locks which it is known he is thoroughly familiar with. To those who won money on the event the go was perfectly satisfactory and they rejoiced in noise of the splendid work done by the men. Those who lost on Kennedy, however, tell another story and think they got the worst of it, but just where they were struck they cannot say.

In all matches there are many people who cry "fake" and no few of them are doing so today, but the work done by these men last night was clever in the extreme and almost impossible to put up. If it should be shown that the go was a hippodromes the victims can console themselves with the reflection that they lost their money against a game which for cleverness of work and skill of preceding events has never been equalled in the history of the sport. While Colonel McLaughlin, the referee gave a decision adverse to the opinion of a majority of people there is yet to be found one man who says that the referee did not decide according to his honest convictions.

Kennedy said before he entered the ring that in the event of his winning the contest he would challenge Frank Slavin to box a 15-round go for a purse of $1000 a side, the winner to take all, including the gate receipts.

By the way, "Who is Kennedy?"

Mr. Justice Dugas adjourned court Thursday at a quarter before 12 in order to attend the meeting of citizens at Consul McCook's office for the purpose of framing a telegram of condolence to President McKinley and family.

SPURIOUS NUGGET

Has Been in General Circulation in Dawson.

A cleverly constructed nugget which has passed through many hands without anything wrong about it being detected when put to the test by a leading jeweler yesterday revealed the fact that it was nothing but pure unadulterated brass. The nugget has the appearance of gold and except for its lightness the description probably would never have been discovered. It was gotten at Rampart City by a man who recently came up the river who unknowingly and unexpectantly gave it to another party in trade and it finally passed into the hands of one of Dawson's leading saloon men, who likewise was deceived by it and took it to be good gold. The weight of it made him suspicious, and taking it into the jeweler's store had a test made which resulted in the discovery that it was unadulterated brass. The nugget weighs something over six dollars but from its size if it was pure gold it would weigh much heavier.

Nuggets of this character are reported as being in general circulation in the lower country cities but this is the first yet discovered in circulation here. As the party who brought the nugget to Dawson well as those who passed it on were in ignorance of its true character no blame is attached to any of the parties but the authorities are watching closely for persons attempting to put counterfeit of this character into circulation here.

THAT HUNKER HOLD-UP

An Aged Frenchman Was Victim of Cowardly Quartette.

Colin McDonald who arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Hunker brought additional information of the hold-up on that creek, the rumor of which was mentioned in the Nugget yesterday. The cowardly assault was committed about 10 o'clock Wednesday night the victim being an aged French laborer who told Mr. McDonald of the affair but whose name the latter could not remember.

The old man was walking down the new road on the night mentioned and when about opposite claim 75 below four men leaped from the brush on the side of the road, commanding him to throw up his hands. At the same time one of them fired a shot from a revolver which grazed the old man's stomach, tearing his shirt across the naval. His hands went up and the quartette proceeded to go through his pockets, their search resulting in their obtaining $1.50 in cash and an old jackknife. The old man was then allowed to proceed. Although the night was very dark the old man says he thinks he could recognize one of the men who went through his pockets whom he describes as a short and very thick man.

The victim of the cowardly outrage says he does not care for the $1.50 but is sorry they took his knife, as he had carried it for nearly 20 years.

ONLY ONE LONESOME

Was Before the Police Court This Morning.

But one lone victim occupied the "jag" bench when Magistrate McCauley opened the police court this morning and he was kept busy turning over his chestnut colored tassets. Frank Campbell was his name and that he had been up against the real thing was evidenced from a map on his forehead that looked as though it had been stamped by the bumper of a freight car. On entering the prisoner's box he insisted that it was his first offence. (Right here it is in order to state that "first offence" drunks have been very numerous this week.) The arresting officer stated that Frank had essayed to seek repose on the sidewalk last night and had objected to having his slumbers disturbed. A fine of $5 and costs or ten days at hard labor within the prescribed meta and bounds of the fuel factory was imposed. There were no fudys in sight and the indications when court adjourned were that he will saw.

Fourteen late employees of the steamer Gold Star were in court this morning, one of whom, John Smith, chief engineer, has suit pending for salary alleged to be due for labor performed, Col. William Kourke being named in the information as defendant. Attorney De Journal appeared for the plaintiff, but as the service on the defendant was irregular he was not in court. The case was enlarged until Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirwin, of 50 below, Brunary, and Joe Vincent and wife, of Gold Run, left for the outside last evening.

President Thomas J. Shaffer, of the Amalgamated Association, Seated at His Desk Dictating Strike Orders to His Wife, Who is Also His Secretary.

ISLANDER PASSENGER

Tells the Nugget of His Experience on Wrecked Steamer.

W. H. Power, one of the survivors of the Islander disaster, is a recent arrival in Dawson from the outside. Mr. Power proceeded to Seattle after the wreck, and upon the completion of certain business in that city returned to Dawson en route to Eagle City where he is engaged in business. He was a heavy loser by the wreck having taken with him to the outside a poke containing 250 ounces of gold dust which went down with the wreck. Together with a number of the other survivors Mr. Power has filed an action for damages against the Canadian Pacific Navigation Co., the case having been placed in charge of Messrs. Austin & Jeffries, a law firm of Seattle.

In speaking of his experiences during the wreck Mr. Power states that no one believed for some time after the boat struck that the accident was serious.

"The mate was standing near me at the time," said he, "and told me there was no danger, as the ship had air tight compartments and could not possibly sink. Nothing in the nature of a panic ensued until the lights went out when everybody began making a rush for the boats and life rafts."

"I did not get on a boat myself but stood on the rail at the stern and as the steamer lurched forward in the act of sinking I leaped as far overboard as possible. When I rose to the surface I succeeded in getting hold of a state room door and that undoubtedly saved my life."

"It was more than an hour before I was picked up but after getting to Juneau and changing my clothes I felt all right."

"As regards the reported intoxication of the officers I know the Captain had been drinking but whether or not he was under the influence of liquor at the time the boat struck I cannot say."

Mr. Power states also that the life preservers used on the Islander were not made in compliance with law, reefs being used instead of cork.

Into Prospect Hole.

Mr. Thos. Tolmash, miner from Quartz, met with a painful though not serious accident last night at West Dawson. He was walking along the beach and fell into a prospect hole which had been sunk on the gulch where the gold was recently discovered which created the stamped a short time ago. The hole is not very deep but in falling he turned his foot and fell with full force on it, breaking the bone just above the ankle. He was brought to Dawson by the ferry and was immediately taken to the Good Samaritan hospital where the bone was set this morning by Dr. McArthur.

Mr. Tolmash is resting easily but it will be some time before he will have the use of his foot again.

BACK FROM CIRCLE CITY

Mr. Pollock Returns on Steamer Lightning Yesterday.

Mr. Byrne Pollock, the well-known newsdealer, returned yesterday on the steamer Lightning from a trip to Circle City. He started up on the Louise but transferred to the Lightning as the Louise was making slow progress with the barges she had in tow. Several other passengers of the Louise also transferred to the Lightning, among whom were Messrs. Deolson and Smith, claim owners on Birch creek who are enroute to the outside for the purpose of organizing a company to work a hydraulic concession which they have on that creek. These gentlemen expect to travel through Oregon and California during the winter and study the latest improved methods of hydraulicing and will return next year with an extensive plant.

Mr. Pollock says that there has been considerable work done on Birch, Mastodon and Deadwood creeks this summer, but that now work has practically been suspended until winter operations begin.

The Louise has the largest cargo ever brought to Dawson by a single steamer, aggregating 1750 tons.

At L. W. Horkan's Standard Library is found the most diversified as well as the most busy place in Dawson. While from 100 to 300 men may be found there reading and indulging in social games at almost any hour of the day or night the restaurant department at the same time is entertaining an equal number and some days from 500 to 800 meals are served between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock. Horkan soured a popular chord when he established his library and reading room and a second one in perfect harmony with the first was sounded when he added his restaurant department. There is now nothing left for Horkan to add unless it be a mining exchange and matrimonial bureau.

LATE BOER PROCLAMATION

Issued by One of Army Generals to the Burghers

Who Are Told That God Is With Them and That They Are Forever Lost if They Surrender.

The circular from which the following extracts have been taken has been largely circulated among the Boers, of course, in Dutch. The translation is true and correct. The circular was obtained by a Canadian, serving in South Africa, in Kitchener's scouts, and the translation sent to his mother.

Fellow Burghers—Why are you so doubtful? Why do you turn your backs to the enemy? Why don't you fight? Where is your faith? Where are the people full of courage? Where is the spirit of the voortrekkers? Why do you allow the enemy to exclaim mockingly, "Where is now their God?"

Is it possible that the children of the voortrekkers, who braved endless difficulties already and fought enemies innumerable, have already given in, after only a few months' fighting? Have you no faith? Do you think you are living God's way when you surrender to our enemy the inheritance of your forefathers, for which they so dearly paid with their blood and tears, without trying to do your utmost to win this war, a war that you did not ask for, but that was forced upon you? Is this how you show your gratitude to your fathers and grandfathers for their sacrifices, that you may inherit a free country? Do you fear the curses of your children when they shall find that they have lost their dearly-bought inheritance through your fault, your cowardice, your indifference or your selfishness, and that instead of being free men and their own masters they are slaves in their fatherland? Is it not a general national war? Is it not a general national war? What man amongst you did not, when President Kruger tried (for fear of this same war for which some of you dated to these times) as possible to terms and give way as much as possible—I say, what man did not say: "No, don't give way an inch more?" Fellow burghers, did not God clearly show that He was with us? Did He not make mere handfuls of us victorious over the mighty forces of the enemy in the first part of the war? Did He not wonderfully save the lives of the brave against the thousands of bullets which the enemy sent over us with their hellish machines?

Were not friend and foe surprised at the very small number of the casualties on our side, compared with hundreds and thousands of killed and wounded on the side of the enemy, and is not the same God mighty and able to save us with few?

Not only your own leaders, but foreign officers now fighting with you, have given you the assurance that you have as yet lost nothing, if only you will keep on. What, then, is the reason why so many withdraw, run away or stay at home, and thus cause the death of many of their comrades or cause them to give up courage? Burghers, this state of affairs must change, and at once, otherwise we shall lose our country and liberty forever. Don't think for one moment that one of you will escape the verdict that has already been given. Milner has said: "The Afrikaander bond must be broken."

The English ministers are already dividing your farms amongst the soldiers, whose hands are red with the blood of your comrades. Do you know what happened in the western and southwestern districts of the Orange Free State and Bechuanaland? Do you know that according to official reports from General Christian Dewet and Froneman, that portion of the Free States now in possession of the enemy has been totally wrecked? Do you know what dreadful deeds took place in Bechuanaland, last week, how women and children, and sick, were driven out of their dwellings and their houses burned, how even buried corpses were taken out of their graves and left on the open veldt?

What will happen if God doesn't prevent and you fail to do your duty as follows: (a) The English troops will for love of revenge rob and destroy everything they come across. (b) Every burgher will be disarmed and those found to have a gun or cartridge in his house will, like poor Dupuyri at Bloemfontein, father and three sons, receive one year's hard labor, and have all his property confiscated. (c) Through this the Boer, the independent man of before, becomes defenceless against the natives, who are under the English law made the white man's equals and receive the same privilege and protection. (d) Through this law of disarming the Boers, which, of course, will be strictly carried out, especially for the first few years, hunting will cease, the farmer will see his lands destroyed by wild animals, besides the British officers and lords will have permission to hunt on his lands the game which really belongs to him. (e) By placing the Kaffir on an equality with the whites the Boer, who is used to consider the native his inferior, will have to treat him as an equal, and he who dares to protest will be reminded of his submission. (f) A strict fencing law will be put into force for the benefit of the new settlers, and whoever fails to carry out this law will have to look on while the government puts up his fence, and when his account is rendered and he is not in a position to pay his ground will be sold to pay the debt. (g) The awful war expenses of England will have to be paid; the Boer farms will be so heavily taxed, that, unable to pay, his property will be sold into the hands of a stranger. (h) Did not Milner say: "The Afrikaander bond must be broken, and a second war rendered impossible?" The Boer must be crushed for good, disarming, equality with the Kaffirs, fencing are not the only ways to do so, so by reducing the railway rates, goods will be able to be imported from other countries, and the Boer will not be able to compete; he will be unable to pay his expenses, his property will be sold, and from master he becomes servant; the new government will take care the Boer will never earn anything from the State. (i) The Dutch clerk will be put under the English clerk, and through poverty the Dutch clergyman will soon lose all influence over the people. (k) The Dutch language will be suppressed, and the men who don't thoroughly understand the English language will taste but little cream. (l) The sons of the soil will be pushed out of all government situations, and as farming will be made impossible, and as laborers they will have to compete with the English, who will be their masters in everything. (m) The capitalists have already declared their intention to reduce white labor at the mines after the war. For your sons there will be no chance even at the mines, and they will be eventually driven to the necessity of joining the English army, and fight with Tommy Atkins in strange countries for England's glory.

PLEASANT AFFAIR

Was Episcopal Reception and Farewell Last Night.

The members and their friends of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held a very enjoyable reception yesterday evening in McDonald hall, the occasion being double in its purpose, the farewell to Rev. Mr. Naylor and the welcome to Rev. Mr. Warren, his successor. The hall was very prettily decorated with Japanese effect, the floors being covered with rugs, small tables and easy chairs being scattered here and there in artistic confusion. As the guests arrived they were presented to the new rector who greeted all with a hearty handshake and a pleasant smile. During the evening musical numbers were given by F. S. Long, C. C. Chalmers and A. H. Dellimore. The latter possesses an excellent rich baritone, his singing of "The Bedouin Love Song" being thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Dr. Macfarlane contributed a number as did also Mrs. Walker with violin obligato by Miss Larsen, Mr. Arthur Boyle accompanying the soloists. Light refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, cake and coffee. At the close of the reception a number of elaborately constructed cakes were auctioned off from which a handsome sum was realized.

THE FIRST SMOKER

Of the Dawson Club Was Social Success.

The recently organized Dawson club held its first smoker and "high jinks" in their club rooms over the Monte Carlo Saturday evening, and proved to be a most howling success in every particular. Mr. Hagel, president of the club, in a neat speech extended the usual felicitations to the club members and guests assembled, followed by a musical program, readings and unlimited excursions to a bowl filled with delicious punch of a special brew. Light refreshments were served continuously and as the theatrical folk dropped in after midnight the fun waxed fast and furious. Miss Jewell sang "The Holy City," following with "Goo-goo Eyes" and other coon songs in which the audience joined most lustily in the choruses. Miss Kreig gave several German songs and the inimitable Argie O'Brien made things merry. Mrs. Tozier sang sweetly and there were vocal efforts by Corporal Cobb, F. W. Clayton and many others. Harry Sedley gave several readings and Frank Johnson was heard in his familiar and very excellent Canadian-French dialect stories. John L. Timmins acted as master of ceremonies, proving himself entirely equal to every occasion. Saturday night's smoker was the first of a series that will be given during the winter. The Standard Theatre orchestra furnished the music.

THE THEATRES THIS WEEK

Present Solid Entertainment to Their Patrons.

"The Lost Paradise" at the Standard is a Hummer. "Jane" Holds the Savoy Boards.

From Tuesday's Daily. The Standard Stock Company, under the direction of Mr. Cummings is presenting to its patrons this week Henry C. De Mille and David Belasco's great play "The Lost Paradise."

This play is one of particular interest at the present time as it presents scenes to those being similar enacted every day in hundreds of places in the United States among the strikers. Reuben Warner, a young mechanic invented a machine, but before he could obtain any of the benefits from his invention the patents were stolen from him and set up by Andrew Knowlton.

Knowlton has a daughter with whom Warner is very much in love and rather than humiliate the father of the girl he loves he allows matters to run along for a number of years, accepting his position as foreman of the works, with patience and with a hope that it is merely a stepping stone to a higher life in which Margaret Knowlton figures conspicuously.

Matters are brought to a crisis by a threatened strike of the workmen in the shop owing to the low wages they are receiving and Warner joins with the strikers in their demands of an increase of wages. Ralph Standish, a young man of the world, falls in love with Miss Knowlton and gets her consent to marry him. He is taken into partnership with Mr. Knowlton and attempts to settle the difficulties with the strikers. He only aggravates the situation by assuming a haughty, overbearing attitude towards the men and attempts a compromise of a five per cent increase. The men hold out for fifteen per cent which is flatly refused and the strike is precipitated.

In order to save the men with whom he has worked so long Warner forces Knowlton, by threatening to disclose his villainy, to grant the strikers' request. This causes trouble between Standish and Miss Knowlton and the engagement is broken off and at the same time Standish withdraws from the firm leaving a clear field to Warner. The latter has been so deeply wronged by both father and daughter that he has decided to leave the country. Miss Knowlton gets a parting interview with him as a womanly way begs his forgiveness and asks him to remain in charge of the works. It is necessary before she can get his consent to remain to tell him that she is deeply in love with him. In that confession he finds the paradise which he thought was lost to him forever.

The scenic effects in the second act of this play are the most pretentious ever attempted in Dawson and show a complete engine in active operation. There are 17 players in the cast and each character is well taken and ably sustained. The play is good in every respect and is well worthy of the large patronage it is sure to receive.

Harry Sedley and the Savoy Stock Co. are producing this week at the Savoy theater the strong comedy drama "Jane." A good audience attended the opening performance last night and enjoyed many a hearty laugh at the various funny situations. An illustrated butterfly dance by Miss Leota Howard was one of the best specialties features ever seen in Dawson. The play will continue throughout the week.

Sporting Events.

Frank Kennedy is sore. He called at the Nugget office last night and made a roar that will reverberate in Westlingville with sufficient detonation to make Ole Marsh hide his head and the redoubtable Colonel McLaughlin hunt for cover.

"I was robbed last Friday night," said Kennedy. "I threw Marsh as clean and fair as any man was ever thrown and your report of the match was accurate to a hair as far as that fall was concerned. There is no one but that will admit that I put Marsh on his back." The referee claimed it was not a pin fall. He must be crazy. I thought his knowledge of the game would make his decisions square and equitable. He evidently don't know what a pin fall is. I can show any unprejudiced man that I am right.

"Admitting that I threw Marsh, all that was necessary to make the fall absolute was that I should have touched with the man at the time of contact. Even if I had but one finger on Marsh when he made what the referee calls a flying fall I win the match for that is the rule of the game. But that's all done for now and while I feel that I got the worst of it and I don't care who knows it, I have something else to say."

I want to meet Frank Slavin in a match. I will go him from five to twenty rounds in any size ring he wants. For my part I will challenge him now to his me 15 rounds Marquis of Queensbury rules. He don't want a man to run away from him I hear, so I challenge him to meet me in a 20-foot ring. Another thing you can add, I will not stand for a draw. I want to have a decision. I will go, the winner to take all the gate receipts and if I cash in any money in town I will make a side bet."

The big fellow, after hurling his defiance took his departure and its up to Slavin. This is the first instance in this country where a pugilist evidenced a desire to take a chance on everything "ring, rounds and rhino." Who knows Kennedy? Is he a ringer?

Articles of agreement were signed last night between Kennedy, Marsh and McLaughlin for a three-cornered match to take place within 10 days. Five styles of wrestling will ensue: Collar and elbow, catch as-catch-can, Greco-Roman, side hold and Cornish. After two men have earned two falls each out of three the contest will be decided by one additional fall, the two winning men contesting, this fall to terminate the contest and declared the winner of the match.

Slavin and Kelly will box to rounds at the Savoy Friday next.

WELTER-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Will Be Determined by Wrestlers Young and Swanson.

Articles were signed this morning for a wrestling match which it is proposed will determine the welter-weight championship of the Yukon. The contestants are Jack Young, of Quincy, Illinois, and Zink Swanson, the Nanaimo lad. The match is for $250 a side and the entire gate receipts. Young's money was deposited today by W. S. Hawley in the hands of Andy McKenzie, who has been selected as stakeholder, and Swanson's will be up this afternoon. Last Friday Swanson, with his clothes on, tipped the scales at 155 pounds and Young at 152. Police Gazette rules will govern the contest, strangle holds to be barred and flying falls to go. It will take place at the Orpheum a week from Thursday—September 26. Young has issued a sweeping challenge to wrestle anyone in the territory of his weight, give or take seven pounds, for $1000 a side.

DARK BROWN CULTIVATED

For Which Schedule Price Was Charged This Morning.

Yesterday when the glad sunshine was radiating everywhere, when little birds were warbling in every well regulated heart, when echoes from the voice of peace permeated the atmosphere and when all nature reared up on her hind legs in glee, C. E. Lyson got rotary-eyed drunk and this morning he realized all the agonies of cotton expectation. When brought face to face with Magistrate McCauley in police court he was very much like the mule-kicked boy in that he did not care to discuss the matter. An option as to whether he would increase the crown excise to the amount of $5, and also pay the costs of the court or expend his youthful vigor in the royal fuel factory for 10 days of 10 hours each was extended.

Chas. Wheatly was awarded judgment for $15 against W. J. Henderson and W. Dawkins for labor performed at the latter's pumping plant on Dominion.

COMING AND GOING.

A quantity of school desks for the new schoolhouse has arrived.

The case of Bonitoe vs. Benoit over the title to 36 above on Bonanza is being heard in the gold commissioner's court today.

The 12 1/2 ounces of gold dust held by the sheriff under seizure which was sold a few days ago, was purchased by Wm. Bradley at $15 an ounce.

Mrs. Ron, Mr. Crawford and Miss Helen DeSacco left Saturday afternoon for a trip over Bonanza and Eldorado creeks. They will return this evening.

TERRITORIAL COURT CASES

Justice Dugas Will be Busy the Remainder of Session.

Territorial court convened as usual yesterday before Mr. Justice Dugas. As the winter vacation approaches, which begins the last week of the present month, there is a strong disposition on the part of the attorneys to have as many of their cases disposed of as possible, otherwise they are carried over until the beginning of March.

The injunction case of Horn et al. vs. Williams regarding the hydraulic operations on the hillside of 35 Hunker is in statu quo. An order was made last week by his courtship allowing the appointment of an expert to examine the merits of the case and Mr. George Clay was agreed upon. He demanded $500 for his services and before proceeding the court ordered the defendant to deposit $300 as security for such costs and so the matter still stands. If the matter is not soon adjudicated there will be no use of doing so this winter as the hydraulic season is fast drawing to a close.

The case of Pigeon vs. Forrest, a motion for judgment was presented last week which by consent was agreed to stand over until Monday. The action is for wages alleged to be due for cutting 95 1/2 cords of wood. Counsel for defense stated he had been unable to communicate with his client, who lives on Gold Run, and asked for an enlargement until Thursday. Granted.

In Brown vs. Jehu, a motion for an injunction and the appointment of a receiver stands over until Monday, certain affidavits desired to be in by Thursday.

In Fisher vs. Thompson a motion for continuance for one week was granted.

The case of Matheson vs. Ryan concerning the validity of a certain chattel mortgage given by one of the Ryan brothers to the other, in which Sheriff Hiltbeck appears in an attempt to levy an execution, stands over until Monday. The sum of $500 is involved.

Considerable argument was indulged in in the case of Hugh vs. Clark, the motion being an application for the appointment of a receiver for a certain building in Grand Forks in which the parties to the suit are said to be equal owners. Plaintiff alleges that the rentals of the premises amount to $180 a month and that defendant has received $150 from said source since January of which sum he has received but $20 though entitled to half. Owing to a deficiency in the motion it was withdrawn with permission to file another.

In Raymond vs. Faulkner, which was previously heard and judgment given by Justice Craig, the present motion concerning the disposition of some $1500 in costs, the matter was continued until Thursday.

The report of the referee in Belcher vs. McDonald will be taken up Thursday.

In Davis vs. Adams a motion was made in the matter of a certain protest heard before the gold commissioner and now on appeal before the court of appeals, the motion being for the purpose of allowing additional evidence to be received which is said to be very material. The ground in dispute is known as the Sonsa claim, a hillside adjoining the upper half left limit, of 3 Magnet gulch. Decision reserved.

Customs Officer for Eagle.

Among the passengers on the Whitehorse, which arrived in Dawson last night, was Mr. F. J. Vanderwall, of Lancaster, Wisconsin, who has received the appointment of deputy collector of customs at Eagle City. Before coming in Mr. Vanderwall made a trip of the cities along the Alaskan coast, going as far as Sitka. He will leave for Eagle on the Louise, where he will immediately enter upon his duties in the customs service.

Mr. David Macfarlane, under whose immediate supervision the territorial roads have been constructed this summer, returned from Eureka Saturday evening, where he had been inspecting the final work of the year. As far as the territorial work is concerned, it is now all completed for the year and the crews have been discharged. The last to be built was the trail from the mouth of Quartz creek to Eureka which follows the survey made for the wagon road and which at the beginning of next year will be widened out for the use of vehicles. The trail extends from the mouth of Quartz via Montana creek following the Eureka divide to a point about four miles below Steele creek when it crosses over and ends on Eureka at the mouth of the left fork, distant 47 1/2 miles from Dawson. A trail was also built from the intersection of Montana up the creek four miles to the mouth of Steele creek and thence two miles up the latter tributary. The completion of the trail will give the miners of that section an excellent winter road. The work performed this year and the roads constructed under the direction of Mr. Macfarlane have proven highly satisfactory, a boon which can scarcely be appreciated by any other than those who struggled through the muck and mire of '98 and '99.

Captain Courtlandt Starnes Back in Police Service.

Captain Courtlandt Starnes, of the N. W. M. P., who this spring resigned his position to enter into a partnership with Mr. Falcon Joslin in the real estate and mining brokerage business, has severed his connection with Mr. Joslin and re-entered the service. The captain tendered his resignation from the force at the time he entered upon a civilian's life, but his resignation was not accepted and during the time he has been in business he was out of the service merely on a leave of absence, upon the expiration of which he reassumed his duties.

PUNISHMENT FOR CZOLGOSZ

Can Be but Ten Years in Event President Lives.

New York, Sept. 7.—President McKinley's recovery would mean that his would-be assassin could be confined in prison for ten years, the maximum penalty under the penal code of New York state. Two methods of procedure could be adopted. The prisoner could be arraigned before a justice of Erie county and could demand an examination and would have the right to counsel and time to prepare his defense. The prisoner could waive this formality and elect to go before the grand jury of Erie county. The grand jury could then find an indictment of assault in the first degree. An act of congress providing a penalty for assault against the person of the president would, according to legal authorities, take precedence of the penal code of the state of New York in the case of the man who made the attempt on President McKinley's life. A search of the enactment has been made by congress. It would not be impossible to inflict any greater punishment on the anarchist Czolgosz by any act of the legislature fixing a more severe penalty for an attempt on the life of the president. The death of the president would result in the trial of the assailant for homicide and his conviction would mean death in the electric chair.
