VOL. XLIX.

NO. 36

Look. Read. Realize.

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat would you go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine!!! We study the business. We know what suits a young man we know what suits a middle-aged man, and we know what suits the old gentleman—both in goods and in style. It does not, make any difference whether you want your clothes Ready-to-Wear, or Made-to-Order. We are equally in a position to suit you. We do not let a suit or overcoat leave our establishment until it suits and fits the man who is buying. Our prices are always right when you take the quality into consideration.

Do not forget that we are sole agents for the famous W H Leishman & Co., Wholesale Custom Tailors. We have an elegant stock of Overcoats to show you at the present time.

Overcoats, Made-to-Order-from... $30.00 to $48.00

Overcoats, Ready-to-Wear..... $15.00 to $36.00

Success Is a Habit

Our habits make us. We are creatures of habit. Whether we are a success or a failure is a question of how we do things without thinking. To Save is the only way to success

Gloves

We have just the kind of Gloves you need lined and unlined. Also Wool Gloves for this time of year. Suedes and Tans—both combination. Price..... $1.00 to $4.00

Sermons On Catholic Worship

The appended is the 12th of a series of Sermons on Catholic Worship. The sermon was prepared by the Rev. A. R. Coopman, Pastor of St. Paul's Church, Annapolis, N.S. It treats of the Epistle, Gradual, Tract and Sequence of the Mass.

THE EPISTLE.

In our explanation of the prayers and ceremonies of the Mass we have come to the Epistle. The Epistle is a reading or lesson from Scripture. It is called Epistle, or letter, because generally it is taken from the letters written by the Apostles to various congregations they had formerly converted and organized in order to answer their questions, confirm them in the faith, refute heresies, uproot abuses which had crept in, or to exhort them to "the breaking of bread." Hence it may be stated that the reading of the Epistle at Mass dates back to the time of the Apostles, and was introduced by them. "I charge you by the Lord that this Epistle be read to all the holy brethren." (Thess. V. 7.)

FROM OTHER BOOKS OF THE BIBLE.

The Epistle is sometimes taken, from other books of the Old and New Testaments. That many of the Epistles should be taken from the Old Testament is most appropriate, since the Old Testament foreshadows and foretells the great events and personages of the new dispensation, Christ and the Church, through which and in which His spirit was to work. Therefore, whenever the Church found in the Old Testament a telling type, a striking prophecy of an event celebrated on certain days, she used them as the Epistle of the Mass, as an introduction to the Gospel of the day. Thus several of the Epistles of Advent, a time of preparation for Christmas, are taken from the prophetic books of the Old Testament, expressing a longing for the coming of the Redeemer. Thus, again, the Epistle of the Epiphany, or manifestation of the Saviour to the Gentiles, gives that grand prophecy of Isaiah foretelling the coming of the heathens from afar to Jerusalem, bringing gold and frankincense and shouting forth praise to the Lord, whilst the Gospel of the same feast shows the fulfilment of Isaiah's wonderful prophecy.

FOR INSTRUCTION.

The Epistle and the Gospel are given for the instruction not only of the priest but of the people as well. Hence, when not sung, they are read in a loud tone of voice. In the Epistle we are instructed by the Apostles and the prophets, whilst in the Gospel we are taught by the Son of God Himself. For this reason, in the Solemn Mass, the Epistle is sung by the subdeacon, whilst the Gospel is chanted by the higher minister, or the deacon of the Mass. And again, the Epistle is always read or sung before the Gospel.

SHOULD INSPIRE GRATITUDE.

We can imagine how happy the early Christians felt when at their gatherings they listened to the reading of an Epistle sent them by the Apostle who had brought them to the faith of Christ, and who then was preaching to other nations, and how joyfully they thanked God for the letter received by exclaiming, "Deo Gratias," or "Thanks be to God." The Church, fond lover of holy traditions, has preserved the ancient custom. Hence, at Mass, the people through the server respond, "Deo Gratias," at the conclusion of the Epistle. Let us always say it in a spirit of heartfelt gratitude for the instructions given us through the Apostles and the prophets.

The Epistle is read from the left hand side of the altar, to signify that the Word of God was first entrusted to the Jews. The Mass Book is then taken to the right hand side of the altar to signify that when many of the Jews rejected the gospel message, it was given to the Gentile world.

THE GRADUAL.

After the Epistle comes the Gradual. The Gradual is a response generally taken from the Psalms or from some other part of the Scriptures. It received its name from the fact that formerly it was intoned from a pulpit ascended by two steps, the word "gradual" meaning a step. Occasionally the Gradual occurs alone, but it is usually followed by the Alleluia. The Hebrew word "Alleluia" means "Praise the Lord." However, its meaning in Hebrew is so forceful that we do not translate it, but use it in the original. In Masses for the dead and on days of penance, from Septuagesima to Easter, the Alleluia is omitted. In its stead the Tract is sung.

THE TRACT.

The word "Tract" means a drawing out or a slow movement of words. It is generally composed of one or more verses of the Psalms. The Tract is in sharp contrast to the Alleluia. The latter expresses unbounded joy in praise of God, while the former is used to express sorrow or penance. To express the mournful solemnity of Good Friday there is sung a double Tract, consisting of almost an entire psalm.

THE SEQUENCE.

On some days the notes of praise indicated by the Alleluia or the subdued sorrow expressed in the Tract are prolonged and intensified in what is called the Sequence, or "Following." At first the Sequence consisted of notes without words, but in the course of time words were adapted to the melody. At present we have five Sequences, those of Easter, Pentecost, Corpus Christi, the Seven Dolours of the Blessed Virgin, and that of Requiem Masses. The Sequence of Easter, "Victimae Paschali," sings the praises of the paschal victim, the risen Christ. The Pentecost Sequence, "Veni Sancte Spiritus," invokes the grace of the Holy Ghost. The "Lauda Sion," sung at Corpus Christi, is a fervent invitation to sing the praises of the Blessed Sacrament. The "Stabat Mater" feelingly sympathizes with Mary standing at the foot of the Cross. The "Dies Irae" of Requiem Masses portrays the terrors of Judgment Day.

WEALTH AND DEPTH OF MEANING.

As you see, my dear brethren, there is a wealth and depth of meaning in these various parts of the Mass. When assisting at the Holy Sacrifice follow the priest step by step, strive to fathom the meaning of the various lessons and prayers that your worship may be more intelligent and devotional.

HEARTBURN.

This is a very common trouble, especially with those who are hearty eaters. It is a burning and burning pain in the stomach, attended by distended appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken it is liable to ferment and become extremely sour and vomiting often occurs, and what is thrown up is sour and sometimes bitter.

Keep your liver active by using and you will have no liver trouble. Miss Agnes Cottling, Shallow Lake, Ont., writes: "I have had heartburn for a long time. There was a growing and burning pain in my stomach, and when I worried there was a sour and bitter taste. I used two vials of Milburn's Laxative Pills, and they have cleared me of my heartburn." Prayers Of Our Church

Wishing non-Catholics comprehend that they do not understand congregational prayers, says the Monitor. Are we not to suppose that the beautiful prayer, the Rosary, is said, does it not often happen that it rather represents a mumbling than a prayer? The prayers overlap. The answer is taken up before the preceding is concluded. Are the prayers after Mass always said distinctly, or is it simply the roaring of the wind? Let us say our congregational prayers distinctly; this will edify ourselves and non-visiting Catholics. Let us be polite when we converse with God. If you visit a friend you are attentive and careful about your speech. The friend is a poor human being. At least thank God as well as a poor mortal.

Did You Ever Think?

That a kind word put out at interest brings back an enormous percentage of love and appreciation? That though a loving thought may not seem to be appreciated, it has yet made you better and braver because of it? That the little acts of kindness and thoughtfulness day by day are really greater than one immense act of goodness once a year?

That to be always polite to the people at home is not only more ladylike but more refined than having "company manners"? That to learn to talk pleasantly about nothing in particular is a great art, and prevents you saying things that you may regret? That to judge anybody by his personal appearance stamps you as not only ignorant but vulgar?

That to talk, and talk, and talk about yourself and your belongings is very tiresome for the people who listen? That to be witty at the expense of somebody else is positive cruelty many times? That the ability to keep a friend is very much greater than that required to gain one?—The Tablet.

Minard's Liniment cures Colds

Watch Your Stomach. DON'T GET DYSPEPSIA. Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much. Drink too much. Use too much tobacco. You make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of a short time before dyspepsia follows.

Burdock Blood Bitters

is the remedy you require to restore the stomach to a normal, healthy condition so that the food no longer causes distress, but is thoroughly digested and assimilated, and goes on its way making rich food and bones, nerves and muscle.

Dominion Election

The Prime Minister of Canada, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, delivered a speech to an audience of four thousand people in the city of London, Ont., on Thursday evening, September 1st. After a masterly and exhaustive analysis of Canada's fiscal situation and a thorough review of public questions generally, he declared in favor of an early appeal to the people. He said he considered the right thing to do was to recommend a dissolution of Parliament at an early date, to provide time for full discussion and an election before the new year.

Statesmanship—courage—vision—patriotism—these were the predominating qualities in the speech. Rendering a verdict that scouted counsels of timidity, it was an utterance to encourage and inspire his followers, to clarify the political hiatus, to sound the keynote of battle in a momentous and vital campaign. Premier Meighen will give combat on ground selected by his foes. That ground is the tariff, the ancient cockpit of Canadian politics; the battleground of '78 and '91 and 1911. For the fourth time since Confederation the old National Policy is under assault. Once more the cries of Free Trade, of reciprocity with the United States, are emblazoned on the banners of numerous political hosts; once more the prosperity of Canadian industry, of Canadian labor, and Canadian agriculture, are assailed. True, one wing of the attack marches (in Mr. Meighen's fine phrase) with "muffled drums," marches with hesitancy and in feeble line; but there is another and more formidable wing, and there is no mistaking its intent. That wing is the Farmers' Party, its goal is Free Trade, and unless its progress is checked, then the whole industrial fabric of the nation—a fabric reared upon half a century of the National Policy—will be menaced by immeasurable ruin.

We are passing through troublous, storm-tossed days. The whole world, slowly recovering from the desolation of war, is marshalling all of its energy and strength for the economic struggle to come. It is at such a time, at a time when nations everywhere are protecting their markets, industries and resources by heightened tariffs, at a time when even England, the cradle of Free Trade, is turning to Protection, at a time when Canada, her trade and revenues diminishing, her transportation and financial position acute and her people burdened with taxation, finds herself imperilled by the commercial aggression of a mighty neighbor—it is at such a time that an attempt is made to saddle this country with Free Trade.

We need not pause here to dwell in detail upon the certain consequences of such an event, except to say this: That Free Trade for Canada could only mean one thing: the catastrophic downfall of Canadian industry, an impoverished, depopulated country, unemployment, stagnation, and—let us speak the plain truth—our country due to mass and standardized production which is made possible only by the enormous extent of the United States market;

(3) That our manufacturer cannot compete on equal terms with the specially and wonderfully skilled and disciplined labour of Germany; (4) That our manufacturers cannot compete with the cheap labour of Japan and the better developed industries of England with their comparatively cheaper labour, cheaper capital and cheaper cost of doing business. If the Doctor, Mr. Crerar, Mr. King, Mr. Wood or Mr. Drury, or any of the other opponents of the existing fiscal system were able to show that their policies had been adopted after they had enquired carefully into, and after they had made a dispassionate study of, manufacturing conditions in Canada compared with those in the United States, Germany, Japan and Great Britain, their platform utterances would be entitled to very much more weight. As it is they produce no such evidence and as a consequence the people are not placed in a fair position to judge regarding the real merits of the policies they advocate.

The fiscal policy of the country is the hub round which revolve the wheels of all industry, and the people cannot therefore, allow it to be lightly dealt with by amateurs or doctrinaires. There is too much at stake. If it is wrong, full proof of its error should be submitted, and it will not suffice to try to palm off state platitudes and catch phrases as arguments; nor will thinking people be inclined to swallow as sheer gospel moth-eaten doctrines which, though good in their time for England, are utterly inapplicable to the conditions of Canada today.

Low Tariffers Refuse To Give Any Reasons

It is a very noticeable fact that the political advocates of lower tariff or free trade never attempt to prove their case. They never argue things out with the people; they never size up all the factors or give solid, incontrovertible reasons for the faith that is in them. True it is that Doctor Michael Clark serves us occasionally with arguments that were potent in England fifty or more years ago, and are to be found in the text books on political economy; but he has never attempted to consider these old doctrines in the light of modern Canadian conditions. Free trade with the Doctor is a fetish—short of which he would be a lonely and inconsolable figure. In his homilies and diatribes on the subject he entirely overlooks the important facts that when the text books from which he derives most of his wisdom were written, mass, specialized and standardized production of manufactured goods and the gigantic grouping of capital in trusts, cartels and combinations for industrial purposes, which are such important factors in price and competition, were comparatively unknown. In his academic lectures to us, he conveniently disregards the main arguments in favour of reasonable protection, namely:—

(1) That to build up a self-sustaining country we must have diversified employment so that scope may be found for the energies of our people in all the varied spheres of human activity;

(2) That our manufacturers cannot compete on an even basis with their neighbours, the manufacturers of the United States because of the cheap cost of production in that country due to mass and standardized production which is made possible only by the enormous extent of the United States market;

(3) That our manufacturer cannot compete on equal terms with the specially and wonderfully skilled and disciplined labour of Germany; (4) That our manufacturers cannot compete with the cheap labour of Japan and the better developed industries of England with their comparatively cheaper labour, cheaper capital and cheaper cost of doing business.

If the Doctor, Mr. Crerar, Mr. King, Mr. Wood or Mr. Drury, or any of the other opponents of the existing fiscal system were able to show that their policies had been adopted after they had enquired carefully into, and after they had made a dispassionate study of, manufacturing conditions in Canada compared with those in the United States, Germany, Japan and Great Britain, their platform utterances would be entitled to very much more weight. As it is they produce no such evidence and as a consequence the people are not placed in a fair position to judge regarding the real merits of the policies they advocate.

The fiscal policy of the country is the hub round which revolve the wheels of all industry, and the people cannot therefore, allow it to be lightly dealt with by amateurs or doctrinaires. There is too much at stake. If it is wrong, full proof of its error should be submitted, and it will not suffice to try to palm off state platitudes and catch phrases as arguments; nor will thinking people be inclined to swallow as sheer gospel moth-eaten doctrines which, though good in their time for England, are utterly inapplicable to the conditions of Canada today.

Unlike Mackenzie King, Mr. Meighen is not out to hoodwink and betray the farmers and has made no fawning advances to them. The son of a typical farmer, and familiar through experience with a farmer's life, he treats them with dignity and respect; but he does not propose to "bate one jot" of his convictions. He is stoutly opposed to group government and makes no bones about it. There is no "running with the hare and crying with the hounds" with him. His program is, Constitutional Government and reasonable protection for Canadian industries. His attitude compels respect. The people know where he stands.

The Army and Navy Magazine, of August, says: "It is high time that we wake up to our opportunities—develop or revive the national policy which seems to have been long since dead, and make Canada not only a rich and prosperous country but an absolutely independent, economical and industrial unit. The pre-war conditions, even when we had no exchange problems to face was scarcely satisfactory. Today we suffer not only from exchange but from an increase of tariff duties placed upon our exports to the United States."

Mr. Fordney, the father of the new United States Tariff, which has passed the House of Representatives and is before the Senate, made the following declaration in his speech to Congress, on July 9th: "The Bill will not let in Canadian wheat, but it will save to the American Farmer the right to raise a bushel of wheat instead of transferring that right to Canada."

Western Press Comment

(The Manitoba Free Press, Winnipeg, August 16.)

President H. W. Wood, of the United Farmers of Alberta, in an interview in Winnipeg, said that he would lend no direction to the new Government of Alberta, but would confine himself strictly to the affairs of his own organization. Presumably he meant that, directly and personally, he would not interfere with, or try to influence, the new administration.

To guarantee that he would refrain from doing so indirectly through the organization of which he is the head would mean that the U. F. A. had thrown overboard one of its leading principles."

(The Edmonton Morning Bulletin, August 11.)

"The refusal of the United Grain Growers to submit to enquiry definitely confirms the belief that enquiry is necessary."

(The Port Arthur News Chronicle, August 11.)

"Mr. Crerar has won in the West so far, but he has lost over the country by the tactics he has seen fit to pursue. Nothing could have happened that would have aroused the intense interest in the matter that Mr. Crerar's company's injunction proceedings has. Everywhere newspapers are discussing the whole question. It is true that some of the papers exhibit very limited knowledge of the affair in all its aspects; but that is not strange in view of the complex nature of the many-sided grain business. The important feature is that the affair is being publicly discussed, and the country is being aroused to a sense of the hypocrisy that finds shelter in pretentious political and economic associations which have been hiding behind a smoke screen of vilification and abuse of men trying to secure honest administration of the Grain Act."

(The Edmonton Morning Bulletin)

"The Alberta Government holds no mandate from the electors except to maintain the authority of the party organization. Until a policy has been declared the general public outside the dominant party may be excused for looking forward with doubt to the results of boss rule as worked out in the United States, when applied to the governmental affairs of the province of Alberta, even though the men who apply it are themselves entirely estimable citizens."

Canada To Have Representative

Geneva, August 30.—By a resolution adopted by the Council of the League of Nations today, that body will assume control of stipulations in the treaties with Hungary and Rumania regarding the reports of minorities in territories which changed their sovereignty. This was the only definite work accomplished at today's session, and the council adjourned until Thursday to permit the members time to study the Silesian question and exchange views privately. The meeting of the disarmament committee also has been deferred until Thursday.

Chief interest in the work of the council centres for the moment upon the International Court of Justice, which is regarded as promising better results than any other section of the League thus far. Speculation has begun as to the probable choice by the Council and Assembly of the eleven judges from among about 100 names thus far submitted.

As geographical considerations will enter into the election, it is generally assumed the western hemisphere will get two, and perhaps three judges, one Spanish-speaking from South or Central America, and one each from the United States and Canada. Great Britain is granted one for the United Kingdom and another for the colonies besides Canada.

France will receive one, the Scandinavian countries one, the Slav countries one, and the German-speaking states one, while provision must also be made for the Asiatic states, China, Japan and Siam each having nominated two candidates.

The British candidates are Lord Fenlaw, Baron Phillimore and Sir Henry Eric Richards. From Canada there are Rt. Hon. Chas. J. Doherty Minister of Justice, and former Premier Sir Robert L. Borden. South Africa and India also have named candidates.

Readers will observe that the Liberal-Conservative meeting for King's County, to be held at Georgetown on Tuesday September 13th, is for the nomination of the candidate for the County at the next Federal Election, as well as for organization purposes. It is expected that there will be a very large attendance.

Wars Of Future

Montreal, Aug. 30.—Sir William Pope, president of the Society of Chemical Industry, in a convention here, spoke today on warfare, and said that at the time of the armistice a material had been found against which respirators were of no avail. This material would stop a man if it was present in the atmosphere in a proportion of about one part in a volume in five millions. The air was made absolutely irrespirable when affected by this material. Sir William urged that warfare was a more merciful factor than high explosives, and its results had been shown to be far less destructive. As to mustard gas, a preparation which put a man out of fighting strength for a period of six weeks, the Allies, he said had enough at the time of the armistice to have caused the Germans to be wading knee-deep in it. He concluded that chemical agencies would be the sole deciding factor of future wars.

At the opening sessions of the convention the incoming president, Professor R. F. Rutan, of McGill University, made his inaugural speech. He pointed out that Canada was not yet much advanced beyond the pioneer stage of industrial development, and said that the visit of the society to the Dominion, and its chief of a Canadian president, would have rich fruit if it led to the further introduction of scientific methods in Canadian industries.

In the afternoon, at a special convocation of McGill University, the Vice-Chancellor bestowed on Sir William Pope the degree of LL.D. This concluded the sittings of the convention in Canada. The delegates left this evening for a visit to Shawinigan Falls and Grand'mere.

(The Montreal Star, August 30, 1921)

At the opening sessions of the convention the incoming president, Professor R. F. Rutan, of McGill University, made his inaugural speech. He pointed out that Canada was not yet much advanced beyond the pioneer stage of industrial development, and said that the visit of the society to the Dominion, and its chief of a Canadian president, would have rich fruit if it led to the further introduction of scientific methods in Canadian industries.

Bright Mother

Brockville, Aug. 30.—A very unusual accident took place this afternoon during a severe thunderstorm which broke over Brockville and vicinity. During the progress of the electric disturbance a telephone message was received from Tincap, a rural section four miles northwest of here, stating that the eight-year-old daughter of Harry Church, a farmer, had been struck by lightning and killed. Mr. Church happened to be in Brockville at the time, and hearing the news, engaged the services of an undertaker, who proceeded to the scene of the supposed fatality. The coroner had also been notified, and had a consultation with the Crown Attorney. It was deemed expedient that a permit should be issued for the burial without the formality of an inquest. The arrival of the undertaker at the Church home found the child very much alive, and the burial arrangements were called off. She had been struck by a bolt of lightning which rendered her unconscious, but the mother had succeeded in reviving her by dashing cold water on her. At latest accounts the child was quite well except suffering slightly from shock. The storm was the worst this section has experienced this summer. The accompanying downpour of rain will be hailed with delight by the farmers, who were experiencing another acute dry spell.

Germany Pays

Berlin, Aug. 30.—Announcement was made today by Otto Von Gleissapp, vice-president of the Reichsbank, that Germany has paid a billion gold marks due to the Allies on August 31. He added that the Reichsbank had been obliged to take 89,000,000 marks in gold dollars and other foreign moneys from its gold reserves, which are now on the way to New York.

New York, Aug. 30.—The German Government, through its fiscal agents in the United States, has anticipated further reparations obligations to the Allies due tomorrow. According to well-informed banking interests representing the Berlin Government, these payments have already been deposited with the agents of the British, French and Belgian Governments in this city. of United States dollar exchange to affect this transaction were concluded several weeks ago, it was stated. This probably accounts for the recent stability of international remittances at this centre, and the marked strength of Dutch and Scandinavian rates. These countries, it is understood, were the markets through which Germany acquired the greater portion of the United States exchange necessary to the completion of these payments maturing tomorrow.

A large party left Charlottetown on Monday of this week, on the Pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beupre. They are expected to return Friday evening.

Monday last being Labor Day, business was generally suspended and the whole day was observed as a public holiday. Excellent sports were presented at the Driving Park and large crowds attended.

Scotland in ten years increased in population 121,000 and also sent a multitude of her adventurous sons and robust daughters to Canada, Australia, South Africa, and the United States—and lost a multitude in the great war.

Half a million men are out of work in New York. Of these 75,000 are former soldiers of the American Expeditionary Force. There is the cold economic fact, and the man who refuses a job at fifty cents an hour because he thinks he ought to get ninety, isn't helping the situation a bit.

When Patrick McConvey, a Toronto cattle dealer, died on June 30 last, he bequeathed vacant lands to his son, William Patrick McConvey, on condition that he saves $500 from his earnings and interest on them in five years. In case he fails to fulfil the condition, the bequest reverts to the residue of the estate.

A violent hail storm pressed over Amherst, Ont., on August 30th, and did much damage. Hail stones larger than marbles fell for ten minutes. Trees were much damaged, and the north face of the town clock situated on the Post Office was shattered by the hail stones. Fortunately, the mechanism of the clock was not injured.

The Toronto Transportation Commission proposes to experiment with passenger motor busses in Toronto, samples have been ordered from different makers in the United States and England. The first one, a double-decker, with capacity for 48 people arrived lately, and will be shown at the exhibition. Seven different busses will be tried out.

Leslie Reynolds, a caddie of the Carleton Place, Ont., Golf Club, a few days ago while searching for lost balls saw a squirrel enter a hollow log. He investigated, and discovered that the animal had secreted 41 balls in the log. Search of other hiding places in the locality resulted in the location of over 50 balls.

DIED

BIGGER.—In Ellerslie, August 14th, 1921, Catherine Bigger, aged 78 years.

COLLINS.—At the St. Vincent De Paul Orphanage on Aug. 26th, 1921, William Collins, aged 14 years. May his soul rest in peace.

COBB.—On August 24th, Mrs. David Cobb of Fortune Bridge in the 47th year of her age.

CAVANAGH.—In this city, Aug. 31, David Cavanagh, age 65. Besides a sorrowing wife, there are left to mourn three daughters, Mrs. Roy Mack of Boston, Mrs. John Pollard, city, and Miss Ethel at home, R. I. P.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frostbites or chilblains it excels, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief, than to inhale through the nasal organ.

And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. A recent experience in reclaiming what was supposed to be a lost section of valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth, and prompts me to recommend it in the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. I think I am safe in saying among all the patent medicines there is none that covers as large a field of usefulness as does MINARD'S LINIMENT. A real truism good for man or beast.

Is Mars Trying?

New York, Wireless waves 150,000 metres long, which, he believed, may have come from Mars, were picked up several months ago by Guglielmo Marconi, during experiments aboard his yacht Electra in the Mediterranean. J. C. H. MacBeth, London manager of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., Limited, made this statement today at a luncheon of the Rotary Club.

The maximum wave length produced in the world today is 14,000 metres, Mr. MacBeth said, and the regularity of the waves detected by Mr. Marconi and other experts led them to believe that they were not electrical disturbances, but efforts of Mars to get into communication with the earth. The only resemblance of the wave to any code used on the earth was a similarity to the letter "V" in the international code.

On April 8, 1921, when Mr. Marconi set out from London on an experimental voyage, he declared that he was not "going fishing for Mars messages," and attributed wireless disturbances, which at that time were felt simultaneously on three continents, to electrical disturbances in the sun or some equally remote place.

India Prohibits Exports of Wheat

London, Sept. 4.—A Reuter despatch from Simla says that the Government of India has anxiously considered the position caused by the recent rapid rise in the price of foodstuffs, especially wheat, and has decided that the existing prohibition on the export of wheat, wheat meal and flour shall be continued in full force, at least until the end of next March, in order to prevent depletion of stocks or enhancement of prices, supplies for military requirements to be obtained as far as possible by purchase abroad. Furthermore, in order to encourage private imports of wheat, particularly from Australia, and to assist Indian flour mill industry, the Government has decided to permit the re-export of imported wheat in the form of fine flour only to the extent of 50 per cent. of weight of the wheat actually imported.

Offers Supply Goods Under British Price

London, Sept. 4.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—A despatch to Reuter's Agency from Glasgow says:

"With reference to the recent announcement that German dye makers had formed a powerful combine with a view to the ousting of British dyes for the world markets by putting prohibitive prices on dyes unobtainable from British makers, new prices are now quoted for German dyes.

"From September 1 German dyes for silk piece goods are advanced 300 per cent, making the prices now 1,200 per cent. over pre-war rates. German textile houses, anticipating the official declaration of peace, have inundated home consumers with offers to supply goods under British prices, and are emphasizing the favourable character of the exchange situation.

In The Footsteps Of His Master

(Concluded) In vain dost thou declare thyself a Roman, continued Lucretius, 'if thou art a Christian. But perhaps thou art ready to forswear thine allegiance to this society which continually neglects to honor the gods. Art thou prepared to burn incense before the statue of Jupiter in my beautiful garden? With the help of God, I will never dishonor the one living God by offering incense to your vile deities. He has spoken evil things of the omnipotent gods, thundered the now thoroughly irate patriarch. Take him away. He shall burn incense to Jupiter in my garden this evening, or he shall expire in slow torments before the morrow's sunrise, and his body become food for the birds, Roman or no Roman. He has a few hours to change his mind. See that he is bound securely. Marcus, be certain of the integrity of the guards, for I have fears that some of my slaves belong to this new superstition and that they may endeavor to free him. 'I will, master. 'Well go on and do it. Lucretius then entered his garden and lay down to take his accustomed siesta in a shelter that he had built for that purpose. His garden was a miniature paradise. Whoever had arranged the placing of the foundations, paths, and shrubbery had a sense that was keenly alive to beauty. When he awoke, the sun was setting. A gentle breeze, laden with fragrance, stirred among the oriental shrubs and ruffled the placid surface of the little artificial lake in the center of which a double-faced Janus stood, continually pouring water into the reservoir from a vase in each hand. Lucretius contemplated the scene with pleasure. Then remembering the captive Christian, he arose and went into the house. Passing through the courtyard, he saw the two guards stationed near him. The latter saluted him respectfully, but the former gave no indication that he had become aware of his presence. 'Has that dog given you any trouble?' asked Lucretius. 'He has not, good master,' responded the senior. 'He has remained in that position since he was chained to the post.'

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat. No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, arranges the stomach and affects the appetite. To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic. 'I was ill for four months with catarrh in the head and throat. Had a bad cough and raised blood. I had become discouraged when my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and persuaded me to try it. I advise all to take it. It has cured and built me up.' Mrs. H. H. Johnson, West Lacombe, B. C.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures catarrh—It soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system. 'Tis well. He may yet live if he offers incense to the gods. After I have refreshed myself I shall look to the matter.' Lucretius, reclining at table merely tasted the dainties that had been served him. The gorging of the previous evening had robbed him of his appetite. 'Marcus,' he commanded after a short respite, 'order the slaves into the garden immediately. I shall show them how I detest this new superstition.' 'I will, excellent master. However, I fear that one, old Servius, cannot rise from his couch. He is fast wasting away with fever and will probably die before two hours elapse.' 'Servius is a dog. Let him stay in his kennel. He was a most unprofitable servant, and I verily believe he is one of those Christians. He was reported missing without leave twice within the five years I have had him.' The sixty slaves that Lucretius owned were summoned from their duties and ordered into the garden. Lucretius came into this beautiful spot followed by two of his trusted servants. After this trio came the prisoner and the two guards. The old sycratic sat down upon an elevated chair, while the slaves squatted upon the ground. All heard of the captive Christian and the fate that awaited him. Some of the slaves looked forward with great joy to the exhibition of punishment and speculated as to the manner in which the prisoner would receive it, while others, not more than four, looked sorrowful and prayed devoutly that this fellow Christian might die gloriously. Lucretius explained the capture of the stranger to all present. He told how the rascally stranger had shown no respect to him, a member of the nobility. In consequence of his arrogance and his allegiance to Christianity, he was to be scourged to death. These offences against the gods and men Lucretius offered to condone so far as he could, if the Christian would burn the incense that had been placed in a tray before Jove's statue. The crowd shouted its approval. 'Now,' continued Lucretius, 'I want this to serve as an example for you all. A similar fate awaits any one of you whom I discover to be a member of this pernicious sect that refuses to reverence the gods. Marcus, give a torch to that rascal and command him to set fire to the incense in the tray.' The Christian slaves redoubled their petitions to God that the captive might remain staunch in his allegiance to Christ's Church. Marcus held out a torch to the prisoner and repeated the command of his master. The Christian bowed his head and spoke with gravity. 'With the help of Jesus Christ, I will never offer incense to idols.' 'Here, you fellow prick the dog in the arm with thy spear,' exclaimed Lucretius to one of the attendant soldiers. The guard obeyed and sent his weapon deep into the left forearm of the Christian. Blood flowed copiously. The face of the sufferer became livid with pain. 'Come!' cried the irritated Lucretius, 'take the torch.' 'With the help of Jesus Christ I will never offer incense to idols.'

BUILD UP

In spring and summer, it's the natural time to stave up health and vitality for the year. Scott's Emulsion is Nature's best and quickest food.

Scott's Emulsion

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Price, 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

1845 to 1921 FOR 76 YEARS

HAS BEEN RELIEVING Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Cholera, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, Sea Sickness, Summer Complaint and all Looseness of the Bowels. Surely this is recommendation enough WHY SAY MORE?

A WONDERFUL REMEDY. Mr. E. S. Gable, Clapton, Ont. writes: 'It is with great pleasure I write you to say that I can't speak too highly of your wonderful remedy, Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry Compound. I was troubled with diarrhoea and tried everything I could think of to relieve me, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was advised to try Dr. Fowler's and found it great. I would recommend it to any one suffering as I did.' Price, 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

'Sanite him on the face,' ordered Lucretius. Marcus struck him a blow that would have cast him prostrate upon the ground had not one of the guards sustained him. 'Proffer the torch again.' Blood stained the sufferer's face, and he trembled from the intensity of his pain; yet he again repeated: 'With the help of Jesus Christ I will never offer incense to idols.'

Then Lucretius ordered that he should be scourged. Two stalwart slaves had been selected to inflict the punishment by turns, a task that did not at all meet with their approval. They themselves had felt the smart of the same lashes, and they pitied in their hearts this meek stranger whom they were compelled to flog. Yet they did not manifest their displeasure for in that event they would probably experience the misfortune of being whipped themselves. The scourging lasted for about ten minutes. Then the sufferer fell to the ground unconscious. If he had been of a robust constitution and had received the kind ministrations of those skilled in healing, he might have recovered; but what a fight could such an emaciated body show against the torments inflicted upon him? Lucretius strode off with a dignified bearing. Behind him followed Marcus and the two guards and lastly the slaves. When darkness came on, a slave stealthily made his way from the servants' quarters to the place where the helpless Christian lay. Stooping over him, he discovered that he still lived. Then he whispered something in his ear to which the dying martyr answered. 'Yes,' the slave then hurried away. A few moments later he returned with another servant. Between them they carried a light cot in which lay the sick slave, Servius. One of them bent over the chained figure and whispered: 'Father, we have brought the sick man, Servius, the man whom you came to prepare for death.'

Then the scourged priest from the catacombs heard the slave's confession and with his remaining strength raised his hand and said in the language of Holy Mother Church: 'I absolve thee from thy sins in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. And then in a whisper he added: 'Thank God, I found you.' An hour later the body of the martyr was stiff and cold. He had passed into the arms of the Master, in whose wake he had trodden to the very heights of Calvary. —K. J. Guinagh, in 'The Gaill.

NERVOUS HEADACHES DIZZINESS COULD NOT SLEEP.

Mrs. M. DeGrand, Young's Cove Road, N.B., writes: 'I was bothered very much with my head and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was almost on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better.' To any of those suffering in any way from derangements of the heart or nerves, such as palpitation of the heart, fainting, dizziness, sleeplessness, smothering feelings, shortness of breath, etc., we can recommend our

Now the Prices you've been waiting for are here

The old year took away, for ever, we hope, the old burden of war prices. For months conditions have been working toward the great climax that brought the remarkable merchandise that is here assembled for this our greatest January Carnival of Economy. The results came in two ways: 1st. The drastic lowering of prices on our own stocks, down to the new low basis, and often far below it—to double your interest in January buying in our store. 2nd. We have combed the markets—taking utmost advantage of the opportunities created by far-sighted manufacturers who were ready to co-operate with us in presenting to you now the lowest prices that will be possible, for the next six months, at least. We can just see the delight of our Customers when they see the splendid assortment of goods, in every department of our store, and then realize that prices are away down to the bottom, where it is a pleasure to buy things. Many Manufacturers have ACCEPTED LARGE LOSSES. We shall forgo a large part of our profits on the new goods and accept large losses on our own mark-downs—to inaugurate this first New Year under the New Management and THE MOST STIRRING PRICE-UPSET THAT THIS COMMUNITY HAS EVER KNOWN. No matter what you need or desire, now is the best time for months to come to buy it. Some of the reasons are told on this page; but scores of others are here that can get no mention today, even in this broad space.
