CHAPTER XXXIV.

"Harry!" she cried. "Oh, no! no—you were not innocent?"

"I innocent—of what?" he demanded, fiercely. "From your own lips I will hear it! What is it I am charged with?"

Unheard by either of them, a man had come down the path, and now stood beside them.

It was the marquis. White to the lips, he stood leaning upon his stick, his hands clasped tightly, his eyes glancing from one to the other with a furtive gaze.

"So, my lady!" he said at last. Lucille shrieked and staggered, and Harry, dropping her hands, turned and confronted him, speechless, choking.

"So!" said the marquis, between his set teeth, and a thousand words could not have conveyed an insult more emphatic, more brutal than was compressed in this one. "This is the object of your solitary walks. May I ask how often you have met this scoundrel?"

Lucille stood speechless, overwhelmed, and Harry could find no words, he could only stare at the white, mocking face.

"You leave me to find out, my lady! Good! It shall be my business to do so. Permit me, meanwhile, to compliment you upon your choice of a lover."

Lucille uttered a low cry.

"It is not every one who is fortunate enough to cherish a penchant for a common thief, an unconvicted felon!"

Harry swayed forward, but held back almost as his hands were at the man's throat.

"At last!" he panted. "Face to face, at last! You called me, marquis, a thief!—the words left his lips one by one like icicles—" turning a swift, reproachful, burning glance upon Lucille—"you think me one! What you refused to tell me the marquis will, and shall!"

The words rang out low and clear, and his heart burned with an indignant fire.

The marquis' lips curled with a sneer.

"Remarkably well done!" he said. "You think it will impose upon her ladyship, no doubt, but it does not impose upon me, and I doubt whether it will succeed with the jury that tries you!"

Lucille wrung her hands.

"Mercy!" she gasped.

"Not a word," said Harry, sternly. "Silence!" hissed the marquis.

"Mercy! Do you think I will spare him—after this! Had he kept out of my sight and yours, he might have gone free and unpunished, but he has dared to cross my path, and he pays the penalty. Before many days have passed, my lady, I shall have the satisfaction of seeing your lover in the felon's dock!"

Lucille covered her eyes with her hands and moaned; but Harry, setting his teeth, stood motionless, and with a terrible calmness said:

"In a felon's dock! On what charge, my lord?"

His composure seemed to madden the marquis.

"Charged with breaking into my house, ruffian, and stealing my plate." Harry kept his eyes fixed upon the hard, vindictive face.

"Stealing—your plate?" he said.

"Yes! The evidence is complete. I can put my hand upon the girl—your accomplice, the girl who conveyed to you the word which unlocked my plate closet, the girl Susie, who disappeared with you! What! You stand there and dare me! Ask her, and be pointed to Lucille, who found my property in your cottage, whether there is a chance of escape for you!"

Harry turned to Lucille, his eyes full of pity now.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

still holding the marquis, went on again.

"The moment I heard from Susie's own lips what this man had done I came down here to confront him face to face! I slept at the hut last night, and with sleep came the thought of all this meant to you. It was of you I thought, of the misery and shame that would fall upon your innocent head when I tore the mask from his face. And I resolved, for your sake, to spare him—to go abroad and carry the load of undeserved shame with me! For your sake! For your sake I should have done this, just as for your sake I fled when happiness was within my grasp!"

His chest heaved and his lips trembled.

"I have been hardly treated!" he cried, tremulously. "I loved you Lucille—loved you as I think never man loved before! But you—"

Harry turned to Lucille, his eyes full of pity now.

Lucille covered her eyes with her hands and moaned; but Harry, setting his teeth, stood motionless, and with a terrible calmness said:

can I do? Oh, gracious Heaven! I see it all."

"Harry!" said Lucille, "spare him! He—he is my husband; let him go. I—I will go, too, I will never see him again!"—she shuddered—"never!"

The marquis looked from one to the other, fear and hate battling for mastery in his face.

"You shall both suffer for this!" he ground out.

Harry thrust him back against the tree, then flung his hands to his head.

"What shall I do?" he groaned.

"Leave him; go now!" pleaded Lucille. "Say one word; tell me that you can—forgive me, Harry, and—go!"

"And leave you here with him?" he panted.

"No! I will go, too. We three must part here—forever! Oh, my heart, my heart!" and she leaned her head upon her hands and sobbed.

Harry seized the marquis by the arm.

"Look at your work!" he said, sternly. "Are you satisfied?"

The marquis forced a smile.

"I am satisfied," he said, with a fiendish malice. "Say what you will, do what you like, Harry Herne, the fact remains—she is my wife."

Harry flung him from him.

"Cur!" he cried. "But for her—! Get from my sight, or I cannot answer for myself. Stop!"

The marquis looked back.

"We have not done yet," said Harry. "You shall not have the power to threaten her again. Go to the house; I follow you!"

"And why?" demanded the marquis.

Harry motioned to Lucille, and she crept away, her face in her hands.

Harry pointed to the Court, sternly, and the marquis, shrugging his shoulders and trembling inwardly, strode on.

In solemn silence the two men reached the Hall and passed into the library.

Harry, pale and wan, but with an ominous light burning in his eyes, pointed to a chair beside the table.

"Sit down," he said. "Now write as I dictate: 'I confess that I have wrongfully accused Harry Herne of committing a robbery upon my premises, and I hereby assert my knowledge of his innocence.'"

The marquis hesitated, but after a glance at the stern face above him, wrote the words.

Harry placed a second sheet of paper upon the desk.

"Again," he said, in a low voice, "I consent to a separation between Lucille, Marchioness of Merle, and myself, and I promise to refrain from molesting her."

The marquis flicked the paper from him.

"Bah!" he said, with a sneer. "Why should I write this? Why? Why? What can you do, my friend, if I refuse? Nothing! and he leaned back and smiled.

Harry stood over him.

"Refuse," he said, calmly, "and I hold you up to the execration of society. Refuse to liberate her and I tell the whole story of your villainy."

The marquis laughed.

1039.—A POPULAR STYLISH WRAP.

Ladies' Cape Coat.

Brown broad cloth was used for this model. It is cut with full cape sleeve sections, joined to the back and front in "raglan" style. The coat is provided with a lining. A rolling collar finishes the neck edge. The coat closes at the centre front. This model is one of the latest wraps in vogue. It is especially designed for country, its lines are graceful, and if made of heavy woolen fabric it will make a fine serviceable winter wrap. In silk, velvet and evening materials, it is serviceable also for dressy wear. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium and Large. It requires 4 1/2 yards of 44-inch material for a Medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

1078.—A PRETTY STYLE FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

Girl's Dress with Long or Short Sleeves and Tunic Blouse.

Brown serge, combined with plaid woolen is here shown. The model would be equally effective in blue velvet, with cashmere for blouse and tunic. The style is smart and becoming. The skirt is a three piece model, and is joined to an underwaist, over which the blouse is worn. The tunic is attached to the waist under the belt, but it may be omitted. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for a 10 year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, Oct. 14. The Official Press Bureau to-night issued the following: British troops have been engaged with the enemy towards the left of the Allied line in France, with the result that the Germans have been pressing back slightly on their flank. The nature of the country in which fighting has been conducted, being a mining centre, makes rapid progress difficult.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Oct. 14. The official communication issued to-night by the War Office, says: Reports received to-night, which are very general in their terms, indicate that there is no important modification in the situation. The statement follows: 1st, on our left wing, as far as the Oise, operations are pursuing their normal course; 2nd, at the centre the progress of our armies in the region of Berry au Bac is confirmed; 3rd, on our left wing there is nothing new. In the Belgian theatre of war in the region of Ghent, some engagements took place, on the nights of October 12th and 13th. During the day of the 13th some Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres. In East Prussia the situation remains unchanged.

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 14. The following official communication from the General Staff was issued to-night: On the left bank of the Vistula along the roads leading from Warsaw, the troops on October 13th successfully pressed back the German forces. One of our regiments captured two German companies. Fighting continues to the south of Przemysl. There are no important changes on the other fronts.

OSTEND NOT TAKEN.

LONDON, Oct. 14. A denial of the false reports that Ostend had been captured by German troops, has been made in an official statement issued here.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

Oct. 14.—(Official). In the region of Ghent several engagements occurred during the night of the 12th to the 13th and during the day of the 13th Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres, Belgium. To our left wing right up to Oise operations are going on normally. In the centre the progress of our troops in the region of Berry au Bac is confirmed. To our right wing there is nothing to be noted. Although usually we are not in the habit of questioning the inexactitudes of the German press it is our duty here to denounce the false news published by certain German newspapers on the supposed destruction of two French cavalry divisions. This report is completely false. The truthful version is that French and German cavalry forces have been engaged for several days on the front at La Bassée, Estaires and Baillet. The German cavalry managed to progress very slightly, between the canal of La Bassée and La Lys but was compelled to fall back north of La Lys. The German cavalry losses are certainly as many as ours. One of the German divisions especially suffered on account of being pursued during a whole day by our aviators who continually threw bombs on them. Also the Germans declare they are proceeding to the siege of Verdun. Here again we know the full truth of this assertion we go back to the situation as given out several times by French bulletins. The Germans have not up to the present time come in direct contact with the Verdun stronghold. They made two successful attempts to try to outflank at a large distance our troops operating around Verdun. The first of these attempts was marked by their trying progress in the Argonne woods between Denarville and Varennes. We would recall it failed with important losses, in which we didn't even announce that two German battalions were completely annihilated. The second German attempt with still greater numbers than the first was to try to cross the Meuse in the region of St. Mihiel. If the Germans did manage to reach this river all their efforts to get clear have failed. The Germans found themselves outflanked by our troops who advanced from the south northward in the southern part of the heights of Meuse and in South-Western.

King Albert has sent the following telegram to the President of the Republic: "I am deeply grateful for the hospitality so cordially offered by the French to the Belgian Government and by the measures taken by the Government of the Republic to insure our entire independence and our sovereignty. We are awaiting with an unbroken confidence the hour of the victory fighting side by side for a just cause. Our courage shall never fail. Please accept Mr. President my great affection." "Signed ALBERT."

TURNING MOVEMENT SUCCEEDED.

PARIS, Oct. 14. That the flanking movement of the Allies' left wing is making marked gains is indicated by the official statement issued here this afternoon. It states that the Belgian town of Ypres, which is 27 miles northwest of Lille and 33 miles south of Ostend, has been occupied by British and French troops. This announcement which is the first official statement that has mentioned British troops as operating in this section shows that the Allies' left wing has extended its range of work from France into Belgium. The official statement is as follows: First, on our left wing as far as the Oise, operations are pursuing their normal course. Second, at the centre, the progress of our armies in the region of Berry au Bac is confirmed. Third, on our right wing there is nothing new. In the Belgian theatre of war, in the region of Ghent some engagements took place on the night of October 12th and October 13th. During the day of October 13th some Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres.

Now at the Front

Dr. Shea received a letter, dated Sept. 16th, from his son Major Shea, announcing his arrival at Alexandria, with seven transports from India, under convoy. Major Shea belongs to the Royal Army Medical Corps. He spent two years and seven months in South Africa, including the period of the Boer War. In his letter he states that attempts at mining the Gulf of Suez were reported, and as a result the fleet had to move with the greatest caution. All came through safely, and at the date of writing they were about to sail for a destination unknown. It is expected that these troops were landed at Marseilles, and that they are now engaged at the front.

How Guns Were Saved.

SHORT RUSHES UNDER HEAVY SHRAPNEL FIRE. Sergeant Meads (1st Royal Berks).—After the firing at Soissons had lasted two and a half hours the order to retire was given. This we did through a wood. Then General Davis came along and said, "Turn about, men; you must save the guns at all costs." Then there were only about fifty of us, and we made a series of short rushes under a heavy shrapnel fire until we were up to the guns. The Germans were not more than 800 yards away, but we were getting a very few hurt, while we could see the Germans going down in scores. Every shot of our side, it being impossible to miss the enemy, who had formed from six to ten deep. We could see our artillery shells simply mowed the Germans down, but still they came on. Presently the order rang out to us to abandon the guns. But gallant young Lieutenant Hibbert said, "No, boys, we will never let a German take a British gun." Then our chaps raised a cheer and resumed rapid firing. The guns had expended all their ammunition, but we kept on and presently were reinforced by the South Staffords. The guns' crews stuck to their task most heroically, and amid much cheering, rescued the whole of them.

IN SACKING CITY OF LOUVAIN. London, Oct. 10.—The Belgian Commission, named to report on German atrocities, to-day issued its fifth report, referring principally to the sacking of Louvain. The report features extracts from letters written by Germans captured in the field. One of these describes the German occupation of the Belgian city as "like a pack of hounds let loose, every one doing as he liked." "Our officers," the letter continues, "led the way, giving the men a good example."

END OF BRITISH RULE IN AMERICA, 1777. This day, by the surrender of the British Army at Saratoga, the curtain fell upon the last scene of England's attempt to tax her American Colonies. The English were forced by famine to surrender and lay down their arms, on conditions of receiving a free transport to England.

FRIEDRICH NIETZSCHE born 1844. German moralist, many of whose works have been translated into English. VIRGIL born B.C. 70. The great Roman epic poet. He was born near Mantua, and cultivated a farm in the adjacent village of Andes. His most famous work, the Aeneid, comprised twelve books, dealing with the story of the wanderings of Aeneas after the destruction of Troy.

ROBERT HERRICK died 1633, aged 83. One of the sweetest of lyrical poets. Author of "Gather ye Rose Buds," "Cherry Ripe."

TENNYSON AS PROPHET.

A correspondent calls attention to the prophetic inspiration of stanzas in Tennyson's "Locksley Hall," now being fulfilled:—

For I dilt into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting,
and there rain'd a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging thro' the thunder-storm;

Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer,
and the battle-flags were fur'd
In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe,
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt in universal law.

The 4 British Belles.

The four British Belles will give a great farewell show to-night, and their selection of songs and dances will delight all. Last night the crowd was bigger than ever and the Belles received many presents from delighted patrons. Those young ladies will long be remembered by St. John's people as among the most talented ever here. Mr. and Mrs. Rossley would like to book them for pantomime, but they have an offer of thirty weeks to join a new production in New York. On their way back to England they will certainly visit here again. To-night Miss Eva Keen has been asked to repeat. Why do the boys run after me, with the most eccentric dance ever seen. Miss Webster will be seen as the ragged boy. Dainty little Grace Keen and Miss Crank in all new specialties.

Archbishop Howley Passes to His Rest

Shortly before 2 p.m. this afternoon His Grace the Archbishop of St. John's, the Rt. Rev. Michael Francis Howley, D.D., passed to his rest. His Grace, although not in the best of health for some time past, took seriously ill about a fortnight ago. In the year of the Eucharistic Congress at Montreal, he was in the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal. For the past fortnight he has been gradually sinking, and fears that he might pass away have been entertained since Sunday night when he became unconscious. He however, recovered consciousness and at times seemed to recover a little, but there was no real hope of his ultimate recovery. The change for the worse came at 10.30 this morning but he lingered on until nearly 2 p.m. He died surrounded by the priests of his diocese and the nearby outposts, near his relatives. Thus died the first Archbishop in Newfoundland, the first native Bishop of his church here, and a citizen with the keenest interest in his native land. No more ardent lover of Newfoundland ever lived than Archbishop Howley.

A Correction.

We regret that on the 7th inst. we did a grave injustice to an estimable foreigner doing business amongst us. Our report refers to Mr. Lago as a German who had been naturalized in America since the war. In this and other particulars the writer was absolutely in error. Mr. J. Lago is not a German, nor a naturalized American citizen, but he is a Spaniard, who has been doing business for some time here in the salt trade. Mr. J. Lago is the Manager of St. John's of the North American Branch of Palma de Mallorca (Spain). The salt works are situated at Torreveja. We communicated with Mr. Moreno, the Spanish Consul, who vouches for the credentials of Mr. Lago. We regret much the annoyance this report has caused Mr. Lago.

26,000 Soldiers Crossed into Holland.

The Hague, Oct. 12.—A dispatch to the Nieuwe Courant from Hulst, Holland, quotes a Belgian officer as saying that the total number of soldiers who have crossed from Belgium into Holland is about 26,000. Belgian troops were fired upon last night by German machine guns on the Belgian frontier not far from Koevwaeg, Holland. Many wounded men among the Belgian soldiers who crossed the Dutch line have been taken to Hulst. The Dutch government plucking special troops at the frontier. The number of Belgians have been taken to Axel for internment.

Largest Apple.

Mr. George Pyne, of Topsham, Devon, states that he has picked in his garden what is believed to be the largest British apple on record. It is a specimen of the cooking apple, Rev. W. Wilks. It weighs 2 lb. 2 1/2 oz., and measures 1 ft. 5 1/2 in. high. Twelve apples of the same variety weighed a stone all but 6 oz.

The Court adjourned at 1 p.m. for recess, and the hearing will be continued this afternoon.

The s.s. Kaiser Urged "No Quarter."

SAYS U. S. ENVOY.

"I have in my possession a speech by the Kaiser read to the army in 1910 in which he stated that in the event of such a war as is now being fought in Europe, no quarter should be given to the enemy."

Captain Le Vert Coleman, United States Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Monroe, made this statement yesterday when he arrived on the Lusitania. He is the first military observer to return from Europe. He did not show the speech of the Kaiser, however, nor tell where it was made.

"I am informed through interviews with wounded, and I believe, he went on, "that this same speech by the Kaiser was read to the German army just before the outbreak of this war."

"It is wrong for us to blame the generals in the field for the burning of Louvain, the bombardment of Rheims, the creation of a reign of terror."

"It is the policy of the German campaign to terrorize the people of the cities of the enemy, to frighten them so they will flee and quickly surrender. It is calculated, it is studied strategy."

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and Itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally excruciating—Itchings are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the early stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

The Nut-Cracker of the Allies.

What has been called the battle of the Aisne which begun almost seven weeks ago is still progressing, with the lines along the Aisne and through Argonne, around Verdun and south to Belfort, little changed. In this respect the battle almost looks like a stalemate. As we have pointed out previously, the newer feature of the situation is the development north of a line from Compiègne to the Belgian frontier. Further north again we learn that the allies have taken Ypres in Belgium, and one of the messages to-day offers the surmise that the Belgian forces have already joined with this long flanking line. This we pointed to a day or two ago as the probable objective of the allies. The Germans have apparently failed to break through the line at any point although they appeared a few days ago to have pushed back the line at Roye and Launoy. The allies, too, have not succeeded as yet in utilizing the Aisne line and the flanking line with the fullness at Compiègne, as a nut-cracker. The Germans have so far been able to keep the great levers apart and the allies have not yet obtained sufficient strength to close the nut-cracker. But the nut-cracker remains intact as the allies engine of war, and so long as the allies can keep it intact, time must count for them in weakening the Germans and strengthening the allies.

Our Boys Have Probably Arrived

Messrs. Bowring Bros., Ltd., received a message yesterday which stated that the S. S. Florizel had "probably" arrived at her destination. On the face of it, this would indicate that the senders had no positive knowledge of her arrival, but some are inclined to read the message otherwise, and to read into it a censored message, which originally meant that the Florizel had actually arrived. Whatever there may be in this theory, the fact remains that Mr. J. S. Munn rang us up this morning and told us that his message did not state positively that the Florizel had arrived but that she "probably" had arrived. At noon we rang up the Colonial Secretary to ask him for any information he might have. He said he had no word, but kindly offered to communicate with his Excellency the Governor, Mr. Bennett did so, but His Excellency said he had no word about her. In spite of this actual dearth of official information, the probabilities still remain that the Florizel has arrived and that our boys have disembarked. They left on Sunday night, the 4th, and it is now the 15th. This allows ten and a half days for the trip, and even if the slowest part of the convoy did not make more than 9 knots, there has now been ample time for their arrival. It will be remembered that the Indian troops had been in France almost a week before their arrival was announced by the British Bureau. The troops arrived at Bordeaux on October 1st, and the announcement was not made till October 7th. It may be that a similar course is being pursued in reference to the Canadian and Newfoundland contingents. What we feel fully assured is that every precaution that human foresight could devise was taken by the Navy to ensure their safe arrival.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesate

The Woman Who Understood Men

Marian had been receiving remittances averaging one hundred dollars a month all summer, from the Cliff Dweller, in payment for various manuscripts. The money, it will be remembered, was in reality coming from Jack Meadows, the rich young blade who had made up his mind to befriend Marian Winthrop in this circuitous manner.

A number of her stories had by this time been published. The first to be published had been necessarily slashed and rewritten by some one on the staff of the Cliff Dweller, in order to bring it up to the standard demanded by that magazine. Marian's most recent story to be published, however, had needed much less re-writing and rebuilding. She had made the decisive headway toward the goal of marketable writing. Meadow's deception had provided that stimulus and incentive which was tripping Miss Winthrop over the dark chasm which intervenes between worthless and genuinely meritorious writing.

To-day, as she re-entered New York after her extended sojourn at Pacific Inn, where she had not only toiled hard over successive manuscripts, but where she had had an opportunity to make a close-range study of interesting phases of life, she felt that she had in reality found her work at last, and that henceforth she need have no doubts as to her ability to support herself. Her thoughts roved back over her harsh theatrical experiences, her hopeless job-hunting in the high-placed layers of office buildings, her unhappy contact with cheap and patronizing men, her thousand and one rebuffs and failures since she had begun trying to make her own way after securing her divorce.

Already almost a year had passed since the day she obtained her divorce. She had groped and stumbled on through no end of odd and forbidding by-ways and high-ways, through experiences that had made her sick of heart, weary of life itself. Yet to-

College Football.

METHODISTS WIN.

The finest exhibition of football, since the opening of the inter-collegiate series, was witnessed at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, when the Methodists defeated St. Bon's by a score of 3 goals to 2.

The afternoon was an ideal one for football as there was practically no wind to contend with, as in the previous games. As a result both teams were seen to advantage, and the exhibition was most interesting from start to finish.

The game opened with St. Bon's defending the western goal. Both teams were in good form and play was exciting from the start, good combination being a particular feature. The Methodists were the first to score, and as it was the first goal they had secured against St. Bon's for the season the occasion called forth an outburst of applause from the Methodist supporters.

St. Bon's then put forth their mettle and after several attacks on their opponents' goal which were repulsed the equalizer was landed by a swift and well directed shot from the right wing.

The excitement increased, and for a time honours were evenly divided; St. Bon's were aggressive but their opponents put up a much better defence than in their previous games. Their forwards were also seen to advantage and after a run up field, during which some good combination was witnessed the Methodists landed No. 2 goal amid a round of deafening applause.

No further scoring was done during the first half, and when the teams crossed the line the score stood 2 to 1 in favour of the Methodists.

After the usual breathing spell, the ball was again put into play, and from the start St. Bon's had the odds in their favour. They invaded their opponents' territory, and sent in some swift shots but these were well defended. Then the Methodists secured a rush down field, and succeeded in landing their third goal safely within the next.

Half the second period was now spent and the game seemed to be for the Methodists. Suddenly St. Bon's sprung and after facing fearful odds secured No. 2 goal within five minutes of the finish.

The remainder of the game was most interesting and as the contesting teams struggled with one another, the grand stand quaked with applause from their respective supporters. It was generally thought that St. Bon's would equalize, but when the final whistle sounded the Methodists were the victors by 3 goals to 2, as stated above.

Mr. W. J. Higgins refereed the game, and the players were as follows:—

Methodist College:— Sellers, goal; Curtis, Butler, backs; Stick, Hallyard, Curran, Dalves, Forbes, Trappell, News, Wata, Stick, forwards.

St. Bonaventure's College:— Brown, goal; Fox, Kennedy, backs; Dubourd, McGrath, Burke, halves; St. John, Gibbs, Callahan, Devine, Kelly, forwards.

The table now stands:—Methodists, 5 points; St. Bon's, 4 points; Bishop Field, 1 point.

Some of the new skirts actually measure three or four yards round the bottom. Such skirts are often scalloped.

Retired.

I have made my pile, he murmurs, with a longing smile, 'I'll sell this blamed old store, and put in my declining days at checker games, with other jays, and labor never more.'

The man who leads an active life grows weary of the business strife, which long since lost its zest; he yearns to quit the beastly grind, to leave all trafficking behind, and have some ease and rest. "Some day, when I have made my pile," he murmurs, with a longing smile, "I'll sell this blamed old store, and put in my declining days at checker games, with other jays, and labor never more."

That time arrives; his store he sells, then for a month he's wearing belts; a gladsome soul is he; but when an idle month is spent, you will not find a sadder gent than he, from sea to sea. The time hangs heavy on his hands, and slowly flow the hourglass sands as grease in winter time; each month he greets with new despair, he finds that leisure is a snare, and idleness a crime. He hangs around the busy mart with weary eyes and aching heart, and envies those who hump; they're finding life serene and glad, as they pursue the festive scad—and he is at the dump. In seven months he ages more than twice seven years before; the rest that he desired, but makes him wearier, by much: "Oh, what a chump," he sighs, in Dutch, "I was when I retired!" The wise man never means to quit, while he is competent and fit, and standing on his feet; the rest that come 'twixt sun and sun, when all your workday tasks are done—that rest alone is sweet.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Firet Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

New Honors for Mr. Huskins.

FIVE NEW PICTURES AT NICKEL.

The Nickel Theatre was the centre of attraction again last evening. The building was crowded for each performance. Those who heard Mr. Huskins for the first time were simply delighted with him. His singing was perfect and he won hundreds of new admirers. "This evening he will repeat 'Bonnie Sweet Beattie'." This will be the last chance to hear him in this charming ballad which is now so popular in our city.

There is a big presentation of pictures to-day which have been specially selected and arranged. The two reel feature is by the Reliance Co. It is a grand melo-dramatic production, showing the result of wrong doing and the reward of true repentance. There are two reels of this story.

"Her Wedding Bell" is a delightful drama with the well known actress Blanche Street as the heroine. Two comedies will be found on the bill. In one Fatty Arabuckle is the leading figure, while John Bunny and Flora Finch shine in the other. If you want to have a hearty laugh be sure and see them. There will also be a full reel of The Mutual Weekly. To-day's bill is such a good one that all should make an effort to attend.

Fads and Fashions.

A great many of the new corsets are being made of pink and white broche.

The fall challis are in soft, dark colors, with stripes or all-over flower patterns.

Blues like sapphire and cobalt are used as much for evening as for day wear.

Hudson seal coats increase in favor and are often seen trimmed with fitch. Odd little bunches of flowers are frequently arranged on long skirts and tunics.

White waists will probably be more in favor this winter than black or any color.

The long coats with shoulder capes recall the French soldiers' overcoat of 1870.

Sand, putty and light gray are among the very few light colors to be worn this winter.

Evening wraps are, beyond everything, voluminous and stately. A few have the Watteau back.

The soft folds of tulle and chiffon at present introduced on the bodices are wonderfully becoming.

The great feature of the new automobile coats is the imported fabrics of which they are made.

Instead of the long straight line from shoulder to hips the tendency is to give a slight curve at the normal waist.

A charming school dress for the young girl is a killed plaid skirt with a shirtwaist and cape coat of plain material.

Indigo blue is a favorite colour for street suits, trimmed with Kolinsky fur.

An evening gown of supple crepe de chour is very simply cut and has the corsage caught on the shoulder by a jet button.

Bright-colored cordeliers with beaded tassels are worn about the waists to relieve the severity of the dark tailored dress.

Terrible Disaster Red Cross Train.

Paris, Sept. 30.—When a train carrying wounded and German prisoners, from Meaux to Paris, plunged through a weakened bridge, across the Marne, on Sept. 29, nearly 600 wounded men were drowned.

The train consisted of eighteen cars each carrying fifty men. Many of these men had lain on the battlefield, without attention of any sort, for from one to two days, and were congratulating themselves on the fact that they had been rescued and were on their way back to the comfortable hospitals in Paris.

On the rear of the train, as it departed from Meaux, in the early evening, was a car full of German prisoners.

Before reaching the Marne, the engineer, who had never before operated an engine on the line, was given orders to stop at a red light which he would find. A switchman, who misunderstood his instructions, sent the train on the wrong track and the light, which was the stopping signal, was never seen by the engineer. Instead, he saw ahead of him another red light, which had been placed at a gap in the bridge over the river. He ran up to this light, and to his horror the bridge beams began to break under the engine, then the coupling broke behind him. The engine had reached a solid part of the bridge, but the cars, with the exception of the rear car, which contained the Germans, plunged into the river with their load of wounded men.

Soldiers were summoned from both sides of the river. Only 160 men were taken from the wreckage alive. Reports indicate that about 600 wounded men, too weak to struggle for their lives, were drowned like rats.

Neutrality.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siamach."

About the most valuable and difficult art in the world to-day is that of maintaining neutrality.

Neutrality consists of remaining so sympathetically fair-minded between two or more belligerent nations that the said nations will not be inspired to step over and hand the bystanding country a few hearty pokes.

This is somewhat harder than walking over Niagara Falls on a tight wire but not so hard as balancing on the end of a feather. After a diplomatic corps has maintained neutrality with a few hostile nations hammering on either side and inquiring what it meant by coaling this cruiser and ejecting that one, the members of said corps usually retire to a rest cure for a few months.

When France and England were at war in the first breadth of the last century, the United States maintained neutrality for a few years but finally went to war for relief.

During the Civil War, England maintained neutrality by fitting out Confederate cruisers and ejecting the United States merchant marine from the seas. The United States got $15,000,000 for this bun and spurious brand of neutrality but the merchant marine never came back—which made the affair a great bargain for Great Britain.

Neutrality has been a specialty of Switzerland, and it has stood successfully on the side lines for 650 years. This has been easy for it, however, because it would take a mighty determined enemy to climb up into the 1100th story of Switzerland and bust its neutrality.

Belgium is also great for neutrality. It has fought harder to maintain its neutrality than France did to get the heavyweight title in 1870.

The United States is now a strictly neutral country, full of German, Irish, French and Slavs, who are about as neutral when they get together as two black tom-cats are on a roof. We will not have much trouble in preserving an unblemished fairness to all the principals in the by-war, but if we can keep our adopted citizens from massing each other around the bulletin boards, we will be performing a great feat.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sirs—I came across a bottle of your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very bad sprain, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance I remain,

The Fall of Antwerp.

THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Secretary of the Admiralty makes the following announcement: "In response to an appeal by the Belgian Government, a marine brigade and two naval brigades, with some heavy naval guns manned by a detachment of the Royal Navy, the whole under command of General Paris, R.M.A., were sent by His Majesty's Government to participate in the defence of Antwerp during the last week of the attack.

"Up until the night of Monday last, October 5, the Belgian army and marine brigade forces on the right of Malines were forced by a heavy German attack, covered by very powerful artillery, to retire, and in consequence the whole of the defence was withdrawn to the inner line of forts, the intervals between which had been strongly fortified. The ground which had been lost enabled the enemy to plant his batteries to bombard the city.

"The inner line of defences was maintained during Wednesday and Thursday, while the city endured a ruthless bombardment.

Splendid Behaviour of the British.
"The behaviour of the Royal Marines and Naval Brigades in the trenches and in the field was praiseworthy in a high degree, and remarkable in units so newly formed, and owing to the protection of the entrenchments the losses, in spite of the severity of the fire, are probably less than 330 out of a total force of 8,000.

"The defence could have been maintained for a longer period, but not long enough to allow of adequate forces being sent for their relief, without prejudice to the main strategic situation.

"The enemy also began on Thursday to press strongly on the line of communications near Lokeren. The Belgian forces defending this point fought with great determination, but were gradually pressed back by numbers.

Arrived Safely at Ostend.
"In these circumstances the Belgian and British military authorities in Antwerp decided to evacuate the city. The British offered to cover the retreat, but General De Guise desired that they should leave before the last division of the Belgian army.

"After a long night march to St. Gilles, the three naval brigades entrained. Two out of the three have arrived safely at Ostend, but, owing to circumstances which are not yet fully known, the greater part of the first naval brigade was cut off by a German attack near of Lokeren, and 2,000 officers and men entered Dutch territory, in the neighborhood of Hulst, and laid down their arms in accordance with the laws of neutrality.

Successful Retreat of Army.
"The retreat of the Belgian Army has been successfully accomplished. The naval armed trains and heavy guns were all brought away.

"The retreat from Ghent onward of the naval division and of the Belgian army was covered by strong British reinforcements.

"Vast numbers of the non-combatant population of Antwerp, men, women and children, are streaming in flight, in scores of thousands, westward from the ruined and burning city."

Jimmy Sheckard.

Red McGehee says:
That famous Cub machine is dead. It's pieces an' its parts are spread an' scattered everywhere. Some parts, though gone, are runnin' yet. Some old stars simply will not set though time has dimmed their stars. Old Jimmy Sheckard's one of these. You've seen him often on his knees or flat out on his chest--his famous divin' catch you know. He had a lot of tricks to show, but that dive was his best.

He's in the bushes now, a boss. He's tryin' hard to put across the Cleveland A. A. team. The pennant hunch is in his bone. He wants to win one all his own an' that's his prayer an' dream. Jim plays or pinch hits now an' then but gives way to the younger men who've reaped his slowin' gait. His brain still has its old-time vim but its a long, long time since Jim broke in '08.

Jim starred for more'n a dozen years. At fieldin' he had darn few peers an' he could swat some, too. An' bunt? Jim had that stunt down pat. He had a sacrificin' bat that never proved untrue. It isn't got to make much diff if Sheck wins bush-league flags or if he quits the great ol' game. The fans'll love him still because they can't forget the star he was. His Cub days etched his name.

OSTEND THE CENTRE OF INTEREST—INHABITANTS LEAVING.

LONDON, To-day. Ostend is now the centre of interest in the contest being waged in the western theatre of war. Reports indicate there are now virtually no obstacles in the way of German advance on Ostend and other ports in the northwest of Belgium. Scores of wounded soldiers are being brought into Ostend from Ghent. It is reported that the Allies and Germans were engaged in a serious battle near Ghent on Monday. It is said the German forces were far superior in numbers, and the Allies were obliged to withdraw towards the west. This removes the stumbling block in the way of German progress toward Ostend. A state of panic exists among the inhabitants of Ostend for the Germans are known to have a large force within 20 miles of the city. As fast as ships can be provided residents are fleeing to England, escape by land having been cut off on all sides. The extreme right wing of the German army has been forced back before assault by the Allies and reports indicate that the invader will encounter a strong opposition in attempting to extend their right wing to northern French ports. Only recently German cavalry had progressed as far west as Huzebrouck, but now according to the French War Office, the front of the battle extends from La Bassee through Estaires to Bailul on the Belgian frontier, and across the frontier. Ypres has been occupied by the Allied forces. This indicates a decided gain for the Allies. Outside of this there is no modification in the situation in the western theatre, so far as is indicated by reports couched in general terms, received by the French War Office from the front.

EMINENT PHYSICIANS FOR THE FRONT.

LONDON, To-day. The War Office has appointed Sir John Rose Bradford, Sir Milnot Heringham, Sir Almot Wright, consulting physicians with British Expeditionary force in France. The physicians will have the rank of Colonel, will leave England next week accompanied by three expert bacteriologists.

UNIONIST ORGAN DEFENDS CHURCHILL.

LONDON, To-day. The attempt of the Morning Post to discredit Churchill over despatching a naval division to Antwerp has been met by a vigorous defence from one of Churchill's political foes, the Pall Mall Gazette.

The Unionist journal objects to the fixing of responsibility on one minister, declaring the Ministry as a whole decided on the matter. Further, England was justified in sending a naval brigade on the ground that she could not see Antwerp fall without effort, even one involving great risk to aid the brave Belgians. The fault, adds the Gazette, lies on the nation which would not in time of peace accept the counsels of those who understood war.

MARTIAL LAW IN CONGO.

LISBON, To-day. According to despatches received here from London, martial law has been proclaimed throughout Portuguese Congo.

PORTUGAL AND THE WAR.

LONDON, To-day. Portugal has not yet declared war against Germany, but it is learned in official quarters in London that a partial mobilization of Portuguese troops would be ordered. It is added that Portugal is preparing for all eventualities and that if she participates in the war it will be on the side of Great Britain.

TAKEN AND RETAKEN TWELVE TIMES.

PARIS, To-day. The exact position of the bulk of the allied armies is being kept strictly secret, but it is believed the forces in France and Belgium have joined hands. Since the fall of Antwerp, the German cavalry around Hazebrueck, France, which masked the movement of infantry, had already suffered a wide check from the allies before the battle of Ypres, because the Germans were unable to operate freely in masses owing to the nature of the ground, where they were virtually at the mercy of the allied infantry and artillery. The portion of the line where the encounters have been severest has suddenly changed from Roye to Lesigny where the Germans had tried to make a breach through the allies. The battle, however, is still progressing there, and Roye has been taken and retaken at least twelve times.

MARTZ REBELLION SMALL.

LONDON, To-day. The former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, which sought refuge in Turkish waters when driven out of the Mediterranean, by British and French warships, may be responsible for the incident of Turkey. Although these ships were ostensibly sold to Turkey, they are still officered and manned by Germans and have been cruising off the Roumanian and Bulgarian coasts of the Black Sea where Russian warships if they sighted the Goeben and Breslau an engagement will be possible. General Botha has sent a force to deal with Colonel Maritz and the rebels under his command. According to an official telegram from the South African Government, the rebellion is not so serious as was feared. It is said that the men under Maritz do not exceed five hundred, including Germans, and that as Dutch farmers are flocking to Botha's standard, Maritz is not likely to receive any large acquisitions.

2,000 Cambridge Officers.

The part played by Cambridge University in the supply of officers to the Army will add another brilliant page to its history. Long before the appeal for officers hundreds of men applied for commissions. Some were fully trained and were given commissions at once.

Up to date the applications through the Cambridge University Officers' Training Corps are just under 2,000. Although the special reserve list is now closed and there are only the new armies and the Territorials open, the applications average from twenty to thirty a day.

Cambridge has been asked for 2,000 officers for the new army. A special training camp has been opened near the city for practical work. About three hundred men attend this camp in batches. A new academic year begins next month and the number of undergraduates in residence probably will be reduced by two-thirds.

Heroic Trawler Skipper.

VESSEL BLOWN UP AFTER MARKING MINES.

Mr. Harris, the skipper, the Kilmarnock, has been sunk by a mine in the North Sea and only three of the crew of nine have been saved. Two of the survivors were landed at Grimsby yesterday.

The trawler left Grimsby on Tuesday and struck the mine after getting clear of the Humber at 2.40 p.m. She sank within one minute. The survivors are J. F. Resdale (chief engineer), J. F. Juthouse (second hand), and S. H. Brooks (third hand), who were picked up by another trawler. Resdale is suffering from injuries to the head and fractures of both legs.

The six victims are: J. Harris (skipper), J. Felstead (second engineer), Tillsar and Macklockie (deck hands), S. Thomas (trimmer), and Secher (steward).—Daily Mail, Sept. 24.

Here is another item of interest: He has just captured 50 doz. Men's, Women's, Misses' and Child's Stockings, which will be sold at a low price.

WE SELL FOR LESS

Bombardment of Antwerp

HORRIBLE IN ITS PITILESS FORCE.

London, Oct. 10.—A special cable from Charles Hodson, at Antwerp, to the Central News, last night says:

The Germans are now making every effort to destroy all pontoon bridges across the river, in the hope of cutting off the troops defending the southeastern zone. The cathedral tower is in the direct line of fire.

The Belgian troops are seeking strategic advantages elsewhere.

Let me recount briefly the principal events of this historic week. Up to four o'clock Sunday there was complete peace at Lierre. At that time a biplane appeared and carefully reconnoitered the whole position. One hour after it returned to its base, a rain of shrapnel was poured on the city.

As night drew on this fire increased in intensity, and one could only hope that the shelters of the trenches were holding under this deadly fire. I learned next day that the casualties were fairly heavy, but less than might have been expected.

The Germans managed to throw a couple of pontoons across the river Monday and eventually occupied Lierre, Duffel, and Contich. They suffered heavily but carried out their project by sheer weight of numbers.

The Belgian headquarters sent the German commander a map whereon the position of historic buildings was marked in red, expressing the hope at the same time that these would be spared.

On Wednesday the defenders fell back to their second line of defences, 68 kilometres or forty-two miles from Antwerp.

Death-Like Calm at First.

About this time the Germans were unnaturally quiet, which could have been but one explanation as given me by a Belgian battery commander, namely that they were bringing their heavy batteries across the river and placing them within close range of the city.

Every day and all day two captive balloons kept unwinking eyes on the Belgian lines. Occasionally a German Taube would make a daring reconnaissance over the southwestern section of the defences. But there was very little transpiring at this stage of the proceedings, the Germans having on the fighting line merely sufficient troops to mask any aggressive move on the part of the Belgians.

From Waelheim to Lierre the Germans appeared to literally swarm, such were their numbers. All of Wednesday evening we heard the Belgian guns thundering in long salvos, while those of the Germans remained silent.

The deathlike calm pervading their lines was broken just before midnight by the shriek of the first shell from their guns in the new positions. Then a steady stream of death-dealing projectiles were showered on Antwerp, their shriek and crash following in such steady succession that it seemed as if they were thrown from the innermost ramparts of the city.

All over the southern district shells struck mansion, villa and cottage in a terrible rain of destruction. Bright flashes from the explosions lit the sky with scarlet streakings.

Scene Like the Inferno.

Then the guns of the fortress, the field batteries and those of the armored trains opened in chorus, and the din became horrifying beyond all description. The reflection in the heavens was seemingly one huge toasting flame. The spectacle from the roof-tops was alternately dimmed and illuminated by sudden red tongues of light which left the darkness blacker.

The racking screech and sudden explosion of German shells, demolishing at one fell stroke walls, roofs, houses, temples, made a picture in no way short of the inferno.

At 3.30 in the morning on which the bombardment began the terror of fire was added to the cannonade. There was neither men nor water with which to fight the flames. The fire slackened towards dawn.

Long before, the population had to flee. It was not so much fear of the bombardment as dread of what the Germans might do if they captured the city, that caused them to flee. Citizens of the town hurried away with hearts cold with apprehension at German reprisals.

Denies Refugees Panic-Stricken.

The scene on the Scheldt was amazing. Across the temporary pontoon bridges people marched five deep, mixed with motors and country carts. There was no panic. The population was strikingly apathetic. The selection of household goods carried with them, the little well-loved trinkets of home, were surprising. One woman carried only a green parrot, which silently surveyed the scene.

At nine o'clock the German fire increased. But the scream of hur-ing projectiles and the thunder of falling masonry left the fugitives unmoved. One family of husband and wife, with three small children, absolutely ignored a bursting shell which exploded a bare sixty yards in their rear.

Burning Oil Causes Trouble.

At ten o'clock an oil tank on the river side caught fire and the burning liquid flowed down stream. Immediately a panic broke out all along the quay. Small steamers were waiting to take people to Dutch territory and a wild rush ensued. I saw a woman drown. Her husband fell and fractured his skull.

Women handed down babies to those on board boats as well as perambulators and all manner of packages. Then they scrambled to the decks of the little vessels and gained a precarious foothold.

The captains of the river craft, having taken on board all the people, who could be packed on their decks gave the order to sheer off, making a melancholy procession.

Shells are still falling and smoke is rising in great columns. To gaze at the city and its environs is to witness an appalling sight as far north as the Dutch town of Roosendaal.—Montreal Star.

Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—our merely forcing a passage away every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Territorials at Malta.

A force of Territorials arrived here on September 13th and 14th. They brought a large number of fine horses. The men, who look most soldier-like, have already entered on their duties with enthusiasm. They are extremely pleased with their new quarters and have become great favorites with all classes of the population, who are eager to assist them in every possible way.—Reuter.

Sulphate of Ammonia.

St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yours truly,
D. JAMES DAVIES, B.Sc., F.C.S.,

MACKINTOSH Fibre Steel Studded Tyres.

An all-rubber tyre is unsuitable for our roads. Look at the cars of those who have been motoring here for years, and what do you see? Why, Steel Studded Tyres.

But steel studs in leather do not wear well, the leather cracks with the wet and heat, and the studs work in through the tyre and puncture the inner tube.

This is where the Mackintosh Patent Tyre scores, the studs are embedded in fibre which is not affected by wet or heat, it does not crack, and the studs do not work inside the cover, and the fibre is puncture-proof. A car wearing these Tyres last year and this has not had a single puncture, and every cover has given over 4,000 miles of running before wearing out.

A new shipment just in, call and see them.

Fishery Gear!

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the GILL NETS, used by Messrs. Job Brothers & Co. in the Straits this year. They have been successful at a time when traps had partially failed. We make them in all sizes to order.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of COTTON DRIFT NETS, such as are used in the North Sea Herring Fishery. As the catch of Herring will be interfered with during the war, a good opportunity occurs for use of these Nets in Newfoundland.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the celebrated STANDARD brand of Herring Nets, which is universally acknowledged to be the very best Net on the market. We are now making the CRESCENT brand Herring Net, which is the best and strongest LOW PRICED NET MADE. It is mounted just the same as the Standard Net, and it is barked for preservation, not merely dyed like other cheap Nets.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of SQUID TRAPS, which are now legal; we make them in any size required, to order.

We manufacture TARRED COTTON LINES, all sizes, for Bankers' use; strong, durable and easily handled.

We make COD TRAPS, COD SEINES, CAP-LIN SEINES, ETC., to order, in all sizes.

All the above fishery gear we can strongly recommend, and we would urge our fishermen to patronize articles of home manufacture, in order to give employment, which is so much needed this year.
