Restoring Nerve Power.

In many people the causes of the nerves have suffered from the strains of War and from the shortage of fats. You can restore your nerves in a natural way by eating "Skippers." The pure olive oil in which they are packed is worth its weight in gold to those who suffer from "fat-starved" nerves.

"Skippers" are especially valuable for children. They are very easily digested, and contain certain vital elements which assist the growing body, nerves and brain. Your retailer will supply you with a tin of

REMORSE and REPENTANCE.

For Daisy's Sake

CHAPTER II. THE OTHER ONE.

He answered with a cry of anguish, for there at their feet lay the lovely girl, her sweet eyes closed, her golden curls trailing on the sands, while a thin stream of blood trickled down her cheek from a little cut on her temple.

Dallas and Miss Janowitz—for it was the beautiful brunette again—bent over the prostrate girl, and they saw that she was quite unconscious, stunned, perhaps, by the blow on her temple, received either from the horse's hoof or a shell on the sands.

"It was an accident—I would give my life if it had not happened!" he cried wildly, and she saw that his face grew pale as Daisy's while he felt for her heart, adding: "She cannot be dead, only stunned a little, I think. Oh, if she could but have turned aside as quickly as you did!"

Annette wrung her little hands, and her dark eyes filled with tears as she cried:

"Poor Daisy! She was just learning to ride, and was not skillful enough to get out of the way. Oh, what shall we do now, Mr. Bain?"

"Why, I will take her home in my buggy, and you had better remount your wheel and go for the doctor as fast as you can."

Annette called a curious urchin loitering near to ride Daisy's wheel back to town, and the sad procession started on its return. Annette soon leaving the buggy far in the rear in her haste to obtain a physician for her friend.

It was several miles back to the cottage, and Dallas Bain would never forget that ride, nor the love and grief that thrilled his heart as beautiful Daisy rested against it like a dead girl, with the dark fringe of her lashes prone upon her pallid cheeks. All his thoughts were prayers that she

At all chemists.

The next morning she pretended to be feeling much better than she really was, so that the doctor would permit her to be taken down to the par-might soon revive, and a little before he turned into Temple Street he saw her breast heave slightly and her eyelids quiver. The next moment they unclosed, while a moan of pain came from her colorless lips.

He could not help pressing her a little tighter in his arms for very joy, as he murmured tenderly:

"Do not be frightened, little Daisy. I am Dallas Bain, you know, and I am taking you home because you fainted."

"Yes, I remember now. I fell from my wheel—your horse knocked me down!" She shuddered; and then, looking up into his face, Dallas saw her blush as she felt herself in his arms. "—Oh, I can sit up!" she murmured; but the effort made her moan with pain, and he said, with gentle authority:

"Lie still, child, for you are hurt, you know, and must not move."

CHAPTER III. THE SPELL OF LOVE.

Daisy was certainly suffering severely, but it was balm for her pain to see the eyes of Dallas Bain rest on her with such tenderness, and though she was thrillingly conscious that his arms held her more tightly than was necessary, even in her weakness, she did not rebel; the sensation gave her a happiness that she had never known before.

Directly they reached the house and found that Annette had the doctor waiting, they carried her tenderly in, and Dallas waited on the porch with an anxious heart for the verdict.

"The accident was all my fault, and every pang of her suffering wrings my heart!" he groaned to himself.

Soon the warm-hearted little Annette put an end to his suspense by running downstairs to tell him that Daisy had no serious injuries. The cut on her brow was superficial; she had some bruises, and a sprained ankle, that was all. She would have to keep quiet on a sofa for a few days, then she would be all right again.

What a light of joy flashed into those dark eyes of Dallas Bain at the joyful tidings, as he cried:

"Ah, how happy you make me, for if she had been seriously hurt I never could have forgiven myself for the carelessness that made such an accident possible. Will you tell her for me that I will call to-morrow morning to ask her forgiveness?"

Annette promised freely—she was such a romantic little thing—and she was sure that he had fallen in love with her lovely friend. As she was already engaged herself to the dearest fellow in Newfoundland, she did not experience any pangs of jealousy.

So when the doctor was gone and Daisy resting easily, she whispered his message, and added:

"You have made quite a conquest. I am sure, by this accident, for if ever I saw love in a man's eyes for a girl, it shone in Dallas Bain's for you!"

Daisy blushed and demurred, but her heart was full of joy. She forgot all about Royal Sherwood, who had gone to New York last evening to be absent two days. She could think of nothing but the message and its visit she was to receive next morning. If she spent a restless night, it was not so much from her injuries as from happy suspense.

She had longed so eagerly to know him, and when she had given up hope at last this blessing had come to her so suddenly that it made her forget everything else that she ought to remember.

The next morning she pretended to be feeling much better than she really was, so that the doctor would permit her to be taken down to the parlor to lie on the little blue sofa. When he gave his consent, she insisted on wearing her very trimmings, though her aunt said she didn't see that it mattered how she dressed, seeing that Mr. Sherwood was away.

Daisy answered, with a burning blush:

"It is Mr. Sherwood's friend that is coming to call on me; so, of course, I want to look nice."

This satisfied the old lady, and when Dallas Bain came at the earliest permissible hour she simply ushered him into the parlor and left him alone with Daisy, excusing herself on the plea of domestic duties.

They were alone together—the pair of unacknowledged lovers—in the simple, dainty room, with its blue-and-white hangings that harmonised so exquisitely with the girl's radiant fairness. The summer breeze swayed the lace curtains at the window and diffused the odor of white roses growing on a bush outside, disposing of the mind to thoughts of love and purity.

Daisy, in her soft white robe, with her bandaged foot on a cushion, and the loose curls of her shining hair veiling her form in sunshine, reclined on a sofa, looking very unlike an invalid, so bright were her eyes and so rosy her face from the warm blood that coursed through her throbbing heart.

Dallas bent down and took her soft white hand in a gentle pressure, murmuring audaciously:

"I ought to be repenting in dust and ashes the accident that caused you such pain. I know; but—how can I regret the accident that gave me the delight of knowing you, Miss Bell?"

He had quite forgotten that he had decided two weeks ago that it was not worth his while trying to know her, forgotten that Royal Sherwood had told him she was still.

The incidents of yesterday had drawn them nearer together than months of formal acquaintance could have done.

He had held that sweet form in his arms, close to his heart, during a long ride, had feasted his eyes, unimpaired, on her beauty, had even dared press reverent lips on her golden hair and one limp white hand.

It seemed to him, in the delirium of love that had come upon him, that all this made her his own, sealed her lips to have and to hold forever.

He drew a chair close to her sofa, and they began to talk to each other incoherently. I am afraid, for how could they preserve the formal dignity of strangers?—and very soon he saw that her mind was as lovely as her face, her words well chosen, her voice low and musical, her smile like sunshine, and her laughter a chime of silver bells.

If he had been keeping back a remnant of his heart, he surrendered now at discretion to this adorable creature.

Within half an hour he was saying gently:

"Do you know that I seem to have known you a long while, although we never spoke to each other till yesterday? Yet it is, after all, only two weeks since I first saw you. Since that day you have never been out of my thoughts."

His beautiful dark eyes seemed to hold her violet ones in a fascinated gaze. She could not remove them, though she felt the rosy blushes bathing cheeks and brow. Their glances mingled caressingly, and, taking her unresisting hand in his, he continued, in low, thrilling accents:

"Forgive me if I seem rash and forward, taking advantage of your gentleness; but, Daisy Bell, I love you with the passion of my life, though it may be madness to avow it, though it may meet your scorn. But the softness of your gaze inspires me with some little hope that you are not indifferent to my love, that I may win you—by long devotion—to be my bride."

How pale her cheek grew—pale as yesterday, when she lay unconscious on his breast after that perilous accident! That a startled look came into her violet eyes!

CHAPTER IV. FALSE.

Dallas Bain was startled by the young girl's emotion, and his own cheek paled with sorrow as he cried hoarsely:

"You are angry with me for my presumption? I was too hasty, but my love must be my excuse. Will you forgive me?"

Daisy put out the little hand he had dropped in his alarm, and as he clasped it again he felt the soft pressure of fingers twining about his own as she whispered, in a choked voice:

"You startled me, but—but—I am not angry. For how could I be, when—when—"

She stopped, tears rushing to her eyes.

What could she mean? he thought. Did she—did she care also, as he had dared to hope?

Trembling with hope, the color rushing to his brow, he bent over the agitated girl, and read hope in the trembling smile of the coral lips.

"Oh, Daisy, will you love me?" he cried impetuously, and she answered, with a broken sob:

"Oh, how could I help it, dear?"

And then he dared to kiss her, and for the space of five minutes heaven seemed to come down to earth in that rare bliss of mutual love.

Absorbed in sweet assurance of tenderness, they did not hear the crunching of carriage wheels that stopped at the gate, nor the rustle of a silken robe as a fine little lady came up the steps. But Aunt Alice saw the sight from an upper window, and hurried down to admit the pretty, airy little visitor.

"Mrs. Bell, I presume?" she twittered. "Well, I am Mrs. Fleming, cousin of Royal Sherwood, you know. I came to call on Miss Daisy, having heard she had been injured in an accident."

Be it enacted by the Governor, the Legislative Council and House of Assembly, in Legislative Session convened, as follows:—

- There shall be a Codfish Exportation Board (hereinafter called the Board) which shall consist of seven members, namely the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who shall be Chairman, four members appointed by the Governor-in-Council, who shall be Licensed exporters of Codfish, and two members appointed by a majority of the exporters of Codfish holding licenses thereunder. Three members shall constitute a quorum of the Board at any meeting thereof for the transaction of business. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries shall have power to appoint a substitute to act in his place as Chairman at any time during his absence. A vacancy in the Board shall be filled in the same manner as the original appointment was made, and in the temporary absence through any unavoidable cause, of a member, the Governor-in-Council or the Licensed exporters, as the case may be, may appoint a substitute to act in his place during such absence. Failure on the part of the said exporters to nominate or appoint any members of the Board shall not prejudice or invalidate any acts or proceedings of the Board.
- It shall be the duty of the Board to advise the Governor-in-Council generally as to the exportation and marketing of salt Codfish; and more particularly to recommend to the Governor-in-Council rules to regulate:—
 - The issue, holding, suspension and cancellation of licenses to export salt codfish.
 - The conditions and terms of sale abroad.
 - The minimum prices for the sale of salt codfish in particular markets at particular times.
 - The maximum quantity of salt codfish which may be sold for or exported to any particular market at any particular time.
 - The Board may also from time to time recommend the modification, suspension, or repeal of any rule already approved and published in the Royal Gazette.
- Any rule recommended by the Board, approved by the Governor-in-Council and published in the Royal Gazette shall have the same force of law as if included in this Act. Such rule may be modified, suspended or repealed by a new rule, recommended by the Board, approved by the Governor-in-Council and published in the Royal Gazette. Immediate notice by telegram of any new rule or the amendment of any existing rule shall be given by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to all Licensed exporters of codfish. In recommending any rule respecting the fixing of prices the Board shall not have power to interfere with any contract lawfully made under Rules and Regulations existing at the time of the finalising of such contract.
- (1) No salt codfish shall hereafter be exported except under license. Such license shall be granted to any applicant who undertakes to comply with the rules made under this Act. A fee of Fifty Dollars ($50.00) shall be payable by the applicant on the issue of every license, and in addition a fee of ten cents per quintal on every quintal of cured salt codfish, and five cents per quintal on all green codfish; provided that the initial fee of Fifty Dollars shall not be payable by any fisherman exporter who exports codfish in shipments of less than one hundred quintals each. The Board shall have an absolute discretion to determine whether or not any applicant is a fisherman exporter.
- Such license shall be in force until the thirty-first day of December of the year in which it is issued.
- Such license may be suspended or cancelled by the Governor-in-Council for non-compliance with, or breach of, the provisions of this Act, or the rules issued under the authority of this Act.
- A meeting of all exporters of Codfish shall be convened by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries during the first week in September in each year to consider and discuss with the Codfish Exportation Board all matters relating to the exportation of Codfish for the ensuing season. Such meeting shall be held at St. John's and two weeks' notice thereof shall be given.
- It shall be the duty of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to carry out the provisions of this Act; to forward to the Governor-in-Council the advice and recommendations of the Board; and to report to the Governor-in-Council the non-compliance with and breaches of the provisions of this Act or the Rules issued under the authority of this Act.
- The Governor-in-Council shall have power to appoint Trade Commissioners or Government Agents, to act in any country or place in the interest of this Colony and its trade, and shall have powers to prescribe their duties and fix their salaries, which shall be payable out of the revenue of the Colony. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries shall have power to authorize and direct the carrying on of research work in connection with the fisheries of the Colony, the cost and expense of which shall be payable out of the revenue of the Colony. All fees paid under the provisions of section four of this Act shall be collected by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and paid by him into the public treasury.
- Sections 3 and 4 of this Act shall have effect as though they were included in Chapter 22 of the Consolidated Statutes (Third Series), entitled "Of the Customs"; and the provisions of that Chapter, and of any act amending or extending that Chapter shall apply accordingly; and if any person ships or attempts to ship, codfish in contravention of any rules made under this Act with respect to exportation, he shall be liable to a penalty equal to the value of such codfish including the duty thereon.

Obituary.
JOHN GRIFFIN.
The passing of John Griffin at the Escason Hospital last evening, after a protracted illness, will be deeply regretted by many friends. "Jack" as he was familiarly called, was one of those who went over when the great world war was on. Having been rejected in the Regiment he joined up in the Foresters and served the full period in Scotland, and held the respect of not only the Newfoundlanders but the other Colonials who were giving like service. For many years he was a trusted employee of the Boot and Shoe Factory, but was capable of other work and occasionally visited the icefields, always with success. In the T. A. Club Rooms he was a very welcome member and those who took part in the various games in which he always led will sincerely regret his early passing at 43 years. A loyal companion, honest of purpose, steadfast and sincere in all his undertakings, he made an impression on those who were closely associated with him. His widow and five orphans, his mother and two brothers, Lawrence of the Gaden Aerated Water Works, Patrick of the Newfoundland Boot and Shoe Factory and his sister Mrs. J. Wall, will have the sympathy of their numerous friends in their bereavement. Interment takes place to-morrow, Wednesday, from his late residence, Goodview Street.

FISHERMAN THOUGHT

HIS FLIGHT HOPELESS

After Nine Years Of Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble Dober Was Ready To Give up—Says Tanlac Has Now Made New Man Of Him.

"After trying all kinds of medicines and failing to get relief, I thought my case was hopeless, but Tanlac proved just the right medicine for me for I am now a well man again," recently declared Alphonse Dober, a well-known and prosperous fisherman, living at Spanish Room, Marystown, Newfoundland.

"For nine years I suffered with the worst kind of indigestion and rheumatism. Everything I ate soured on my stomach and bloated me up until I could hardly breathe, and the pain in the pit of my stomach doubled me up like a jack-knife. I had terrible pains in the arms and across the small of my back, and on this account could not sleep at night. I became so weak that if I attempted anything like hard work it made me tremble and shake like a leaf and I couldn't walk up the least little hill without having to stop and rest.

"I little thought when I first got Tanlac that it was going to prove such a blessing, but it only took three bottles of the medicine to make a new man of me, and I am now enjoying better health than I have in ten years. My appetite is splendid and I am no longer bothered with sourness or gas. All signs of rheumatism have left me and in fact I haven't a pain of any sort in my body. I can now put in the hardest kind of days' work without any trouble, and at night I sleep like a log. I am giving this statement so that all may know what a splendid medicine Tanlac is, and I hope it may lead others to try it, for I am sure it will help them as it did me."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Fouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Balne Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Bellefleur; John Morey, Fermanuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renew—adv.

Wedding Bells.

FRAMPTON—STONE.

On Tuesday, June 29th, a very pretty wedding took place at Holy Trinity Church, White Rock, Smith Sound, Rev. W. J. Rowe officiating, when Helen Blanche, daughter of William and Mrs. Frampton, was united in the holy bonds of Matrimony to ex-Corpl. Henry T. Stone, son of Mrs. Jessie Gardner. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Josiah Frampton, while her sister, Mrs. James Barbour, acted as bridesmaid. The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk, with pearl trimming and hat to match. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful gold wristlet watch, and to the best man gold scarf pin. After the ceremony they wended their way to the bride's parents, where a sumptuous supper was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many useful and valuable presents. After spending a few days with their friends the happy couple left by train for St. John's, where they will reside in future. We wish both Mr. and Mrs. Stone many years of happiness.—Com.

Reception

OF HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP AT LAMALINE.

His Grace, accompanied by Rev. Father McGrath, Father Rawlins, Father Sarin, and Father Battcock arrived here Thursday by the S.S. Carmen on his Episcopal visit. When it became known that he had left St. Lawrence, great enthusiasm was in evidence. Motor boats with guns and horns went out to meet him, the fog being dense. All work was suspended and parishioners from all ports assembled to greet their chief pastor. A boat with officers of the Holy Name Society, and our beloved Parish Priest, Father Thorne, conveyed the party to Allan's Island, where confirmation was held. The following address and presentation took place before entering the church: To the Most Rev. E. P. Roche, D.D., Archbishop of St. John's.

Your Grace—With feelings of sincere affection and loyalty we, the people of this newly formed parish, extend to Your Grace a cordial welcome on this your second Episcopal visitation.

Ever mindful of the needs of your people, Your Grace has been most solicitous for our welfare, spiritually as well as temporally, and in spite of the many cares with which your busy life is encompassed, we in the most remote portion of the Diocese are most attentively considered. Hence the earnest prayer of nearly forty years being answered through Your Grace, we greet you to-day, our beloved Archbishop, as an independent Parish. The interest and kind consideration evinced by Your Grace impels us all the more to offer our sincere gratitude and expression of our joyous appreciation on this occasion.

As a token of our sincerity and good will, we ask Your Grace to kindly accept this small accompanying gift, with the assurance of our ever increasing devotion and esteem.

Praying that your years of Episcopal labours may be many and fruitful, and that on many future occasions we may be honoured by your presence.

Signed on behalf of the Parish:
JOHN COADY
PATRICK COLLINS
RICHARD HENNEBURY
JAMES HARTNETT.

The Holy Name Society to the number of 200 members circled the grounds where Confirmation was held, 140 being confirmed. Afterward His Grace, in kind words, spoke at some length on the duties we are about to begin in our new Parish. After visiting Main Land Church, the Episcopal party left for St. Lawrence, escorted by motor boats outside the harbor with cheers and good wishes to see His Grace again in the near future.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen—Ever since coming home from the Boer war I have been bothered from running sores on my legs. I tried many salves and liniments; also doctored continuously for the blood, but got no permanent relief, till last winter when my mother got me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT. The effect of which was almost magical. After two bottles the sores completely disappeared and I have worked every working day since.

Yours gratefully,

Great preparations have been made for the Garden Party which is advertised to take place at Western Bay to-morrow. It is expected the L.O.A. Band of Carbonar will be present and visitors are expected from all parts of the Shore and also a large number from St. John's. There is a possibility of an excursion by steamer arranged for the occasion. The committee in charge is leaving no stone unturned to make the thing a great success.

Keep on hand a pile of clean cheesecloth squares for covering food. A cheap shaving-brush is excellent for dusting heavily trimmed hats.

Sew together the legs of worn-out stockings and use to polish stoves. Hot weather is the time to be especially careful of tinned foodstuffs. Broiled green peppers make a delicious finishing touch to a steak.

Cut flowers last longer if set in a pail of water up to their necks over night.

A pinch of salt in the whites of eggs will make them beat stiff more quickly.

HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

Gillett's Lye has long been regarded as a household necessity because of the fact that it is useful in so many ways, and so satisfactory in every respect that no woman feels that she can keep house without it. Makes the finest kind of soap for washing and cleansing. One can of Gillett's Lye will make ten pounds of good soap in twenty minutes. Many of its uses are shown in booklet under the label.

Red Lions and Wanderers tonight!!!

PENNANT—!!!

Should the Wanderers manage to break through to-night it will be them with the Red Lions for the top rung of the ladder. Should they fail then it looks like a pennant for the Hitlz gang. The position of the teams now is—

Lions	5
Wanderers	4
Cubs	3
C.E.L.	3
B.I.S.	1

The Cubs are fervently praying for victory for the Hartnetites to-night as they figure they'll have a chance if the Lions are hoisted.

Donnelly, who did such great work against the Sydney Millionaires, will be on the mound for the Wanderers, and Tim's big stick will also be in action. Walter Callahan will shoot over his speedy offerings, and with Coke backstopping for him it's going to be some game. As a matter of fact it will be the most important game of the season as the result will virtually decide the flag.

OLD "FEL"

There was an old umpire named Taz, who was all out ginger and jazz; His decisions were bum, And that's how it comes That everyone gave him the razz.

TO-MORROW'S GAMES.

There will be two games to-morrow, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The C.E.L. and B.I.S. will face each other at 10.30, and as both clubs are in the second division it's going to be a fight for a finish. Harvey, having the start, is by no means anxious to spend winter quarters roosting in the cellar, while of course Channing and his vets think it simply awful that the C.E.L. should be sitting on their necks while they are on the cold ground. T. Cuthbert is calling up the Landsturm and some old familiar forms will be seen cawing around atired in green and gold to-morrow. George Adams, the popular C.E.L. footballer, is going to try his hand at football to-morrow, and Harvey assures us that he packs an awful wallop, though if O'Leary gets in the work he did in the Inter-Dominion series he'll have to go some to find him.

The afternoon's game will be between the old rivals—the Cubs and Red Lions. In every branch of sport you will always find two clubs ready to spring at each other necks at the slightest provocation and so it is with these two. They have been hammering each other all year; in their first clash in the League series the Lions walloped them; for the Mt. Cashel trophy however the Cubs spiked their guns and trotted home with the bacon; then, in the Bowering Cup preliminaries the Cubs got such a jolt from Walter Callahan that they are hardly on their feet yet. Thus, it will be that to-morrow afternoon you will likely witness the hardest fought contest that ever took place on St. George's Field. There's going to be no let-up, and we fear Ches is going to be in for a most strenuous time on close decisions. Canning and Orr will be lined up against the champs.

POSTPONEMENT NOTICES.

Players are requested to take notice that should to-night's game be postponed, or called, through weather conditions it will be played to-morrow forenoon, and a doubleheader—the C.E.L.-B.I.S. and Cubs-Lions—to-morrow afternoon.

In the event of no game to-night or to-morrow morning, then the Cubs-Lions will be released for the afternoon, as the doubleheader will be between the Wanderers-Lions and C.E.L.-B.I.S.

Players are also requested to note that to-night's game starts at 6.45, and will consist of seven innings.

Early Journalists.

The modern newspaper, as we know it, may be fairly said to have been the invention of James Gordon Bennett, the elder. Before him there were journals, not newspapers. . . he had developed the news scheme in kind, though not in the degree that we see so elaborate and resplendent in New York and other of the leading centers of population. Mr. Bennett had led a vagrant and varied life when he started the Herald. He had been many things by turns, including a writer of verses and stories, but nothing very successful nor very long. At length he struck a central idea—a really great original idea—the idea of printing the news of the day, comprising the History of Yesterday, fully and fairly, without fear or favor. He was followed by Greeley and Raymond—making a curious and very dissimilar triumvirate—and, at longer range, by Prentice and Forney, by Bowles and Danna, Storey, Medill and Halstead. All were marked men; Greeley a writer and propagandist; Raymond a writer, declaimer and politician; Prentice a wit and partisan; Dana a scholar and an organizer; Bowles a man both of letters and affairs. The others were men of all work, writing and fighting their way to the front, but possessing the "nose for news," using the Bennett formula and recraft as the basis of their serious efforts, and never losing sight of it. Forney had been a printer. Medill and Storey were caught young by the lure of printer's ink. Bowles was born and reared in the office of the Springfield Republican, founded by his father, and Halstead, a cross betwixt a pack horse and a race horse, was broken to harness before he was out of his teens.—Henry Watterson in "Marse Henry," an Autobiography.

THE TIMES AND EGYPT.
LONDON, Aug. 23. The Times says convention for the independence of Egypt will be submitted for confirmation to British Parliament and Egyptian Assembly. It is probably the latter body will be asked to pass a new organic law, embodying a new agreement and laying down the future constitution, and relative responsibilities of Ministry and Sovereign.

BRITISH DISPERSE ARABS.
BAGDAD, Aug. 23. A British Sikh force, operating near Hillah, engaged Arabs and repulsed them with heavy losses. The Arabs concentrated at Bakuba, thirty miles from Bagdad, have been effectively dealt with. All is quiet on the Tigris and at Bagdad and in the direction of Mosul.

POLISH SUCCESSES.
WARSAW, Aug. 23. Russian Bolshevik forces are retreating virtually along the whole line in an effort to save remnants of the Red army, but they have so far been easily frustrated by Poles. On the north there is heavy fighting in the region of Milawa and Soldan. Forced to face two Polish armies, one advancing from Modlin and the other from Graudenz, Bolsheviks are making desperate efforts to extricate their advance guard, some of which advanced as far as Eylau and Plonk. Red losses in prisoners in this region have amounted to 11,000 in the last two days. An attempt of the Reds to break the Polish lines on Przasnysz, Makow, Rosany Road, and cross the Narew River, has completely failed. Polish troops advancing up the right bank of the Narew threw back Bolsheviks to the north. Meanwhile the main body of Poles, advancing from Warsaw, occupied all territory in front of the Bug and Narew Rivers. Ukrainian regiments, which are still on their old positions along the Strypa, have successfully repelled all attempts of the Reds and maintained their original lines on the extreme right. In the center, Polish troops, which occupied Brest-Litovsk, are digging in on the eastern border of Polesia.

QUITE CLEAR, But—!
LUCERNE, Aug. 23. An official statement, issued regarding the conference to-day, between Premiers Lloyd George and Giolitti, says the Premiers agreed to the vital need of the reestablishment of peace of the world at the earliest possible moment, and that the first guarantee of such peace is to be found in the various treaties already concluded. "Victors in the war," continued the statement, "should display a spirit of moderation in their enforcement of terms, and the vanquished a spirit of loyalty in their execution. With this aim Britain and Italy trust that the good understanding reached at Spa will be further developed to cover all outstanding questions. Before peace is fully established, however, there are a number of important questions to be decided, the majority of which are indisputably connected with the march of events in territories of the former Russian empire. Until peace is fully established between Russia and the rest of the world, an atmosphere of disturbance and unsettlement will continue to menace the world. Therefore the British and Italian Governments have been taking steps in the face of much misrepresentation to restore communication between Russia and the world outside."

A SUGGESTION FOR PARENTS.

A letter-friend has a suggestion for the letter of warning and helpful hints that is to be written by Twenty to Itself-at-Fifty.

She herself is neither 20 nor 50, but in the middle ground between. She is early thirties—just where she can have some idea of the viewpoints of both ages. And this is her suggestion:

"If I were writing such a letter, one thing I would say would be 'Dear Mrs. Whoever-you-may-be': (I say Mrs. because this wouldn't matter so much if one were Miss.) Please try to remember how much little eccentricities and what seem like crudenesses on the part of your parents bothered you when you were young and don't let your children suffer the same way."

be ashamed of you in any way, and if there are any little careless ways you have gotten into or any ways you have failed to keep step with them, you wish they would tell you of them and you will try to get over them so that little things like that shall not make a wall between you."

I think we all know cases like this, either in our own lives or in the lives of those about us.

Her Mother Wore a Shawl.

Children and young people are absurdly sensitive about any deviation from the normal. Such things loom like tragedies to them. I remember a little girl friend of mine who was thrown into a positive agony of embarrassment because when her mother came to visit school, she wore a shawl.

A young married woman, whom I know, whose mother lives with her, hates to entertain because her mother will eat with her knife now and then. The mother is one of those women who is terribly resentful if anyone speaks about a thing like this. She is a splendid woman in many ways and would do almost anything for her daughter—except correct her manners.

A great deal of the unhappiness of life is caused by conditions which are unpreventable. Let's not add to that any unhappiness so easily preventable.

Passion Play Again in 1922.

MUNICH, August 18.—The famous Oberammergau passion play will be resumed in 1922. Preparations are now in full swing and a new generation of players are educating and training. The management is searching for a new man to enact "Christus." Anton Lang, who has had the part is considered too old. A new performer is also needed for "Mary Magdalene," the previous enactor having married a wealthy American. There is keen competition among the maidens of Oberammergau for the privilege of partaking.

He Saw Him.

She (waiting in the hall): "Did you see father, George?"

He (excitedly): "I did, but I must go. Good-bye!"

"What's the matter? Stop and tell me all. You asked him for my hand? What did he say?"

"Well—er—I can't stop just now. Fact is, he gave me just two minutes to get out of the house."

"Why Not Keep Step?"

"Of course I see now that it didn't matter so much, but it did matter terribly then and made a great deal of unhappiness for all of us. And so I shall write to myself at 50: 'Tell your children you don't want them to

Laird McLean.

Most of the incidents related of Sir Harry Maclean, the intrepid soldier of fortune, whose death was recently reported in Tangier, have a pretty grim savour, for Laird Maclean lived close to things, and took life so seriously as he himself was taken by his foes. But there is a certain queer humor running through many of his adventures, and one of the best instances of this occurred during a dangerous march through unsettled country with the Sultan. The Sultan died on the march, but the position was so delicate that knowledge of his death might have produced trouble from the suspicious tribes whose country they were passing through. Sir Harry therefore kept his master's death a secret, and continued all court ceremonies, even to the extent of paying greetings and honors to the corpse!

There is a spice of humor also in the form of torture to which he was subjected when kidnapped by Raisuli. He longed to hear his beloved Scottish bagpipes, but instead he was compelled to listen, day and night, to the depressing moanings of a two-stringed instrument, which was the national instrument of the district where he was imprisoned.—Ex.

Not Nourishing.

Lady of the House—"You say you haven't had anything to eat to-day?"

Tramp—"Lady, the only thing I've swallowed to-day is an insult."

THE LOAFERS.

I ply my lyre the whole day long, and have since long ago, ship out bales of deathless song at fifty cents a throw. And if I faltered in my zeal, the sheriff would appear, and promptly place his large red seal on all my worldly gear.

And when my harp gets smoking hot, its cooling system clogged, to some calm park or kindred spot I oftentimes have jogged; and there the loafers always sit on benches, day by day; they do not toil, they do not knit, they never strive for pay. I see the same old musty groups by day, and after dark, barred out from all the city's coops, their home is in the park. They seem to think there's nothing wrong, they bubble and they laugh, until some peeler comes along and prods them with his staff. How doth the seedy little shirk still find existence nice, when men who buckle down and work can barely raise the price? How doth the boozey little bum contrive to stay on earth, when we must toil and make things hum, to gain our board and berth? It is a mystery, I wot, that needs solution much; and when my air cooled harp gets hot, I muse, to beat the Dutch.

A Lake of Soda.

There is a lake in British East Africa—Lake Magadi—that is famous for its vast deposits of soda.

Until recent years few people knew of it, for it lies in the midst of a barren and waterless waste; but the railway that was started some time ago by an English company to transport the soda to the coast is now finished, thus opening a way to this curious natural phenomenon.

Ordinarily the lake looks as if it were frozen and covered with a coating of snow partially thawed, then frozen again. The temperature gives the lie to this appearance of roughened ice, for the heat is extreme, and at midday almost unbearable. The soda burns one's feet even through the shoes, and the sharp frosty spikes will pierce any except the thickest soles.

After the rains there is a layer of water over the greater part of the lake, which has turned a beautiful shade of pink. By moonlight the scene is weirdly beautiful. The lake contains millions of tons of soda deposits, and both surface and underground streams of saturated soda liquor continually feed it. The present supply is enormous, and as fast as it is removed a new surface, formed from the mother liquid beneath, replaces it.

Natives have collected soda from the same spot year after year without making the slightest difference in the abundance of the supply.

Embarrassing.

Clerk—"We can't pay you the twenty-five dollars on this money-order until you are identified."

Man—"That's tough. There's only one man in town who can identify me, and I owe him twenty."

The Barter System.

There are few in Newfoundland who do not possess a first hand knowledge of the barter or truck system of business. For years and years the exchange of fish and other products, for food and clothing, without the intervention of money was the sole method of trade and in parts of this dominion and Labrador to-day, the same system applies, though not to the extent of earlier periods. Then the payment of cash for the products of the seas was a thing unknown. The clergyman's dues, the doctor's fees, the schoolteacher's tuition charges were all "turned in" by the fishermen on the books of the merchant. The laborer fared no better. He gave his services month after month and handled but a negligible amount of real cash. All the sums due for professional and other services, were arranged by transfer, providing they were coming to him on the books. Servants were little better advantaged. With sharemen they possessed the right to draw any balance coming to them at the end of the fishing season "half in goods and half in cash." This was specified on their agreements. As time advanced, however, and competition grew keener, the barter system gradually died out—though it flourishes in certain outports to this day—and cash payments became the order. It is an open question whether or not the truck method of business did not possess certain claims to favor, but modern methods brought about its abolition. Prices of goods, of course, were much higher in barter than in cash transactions, because there was ever a chance for loss or depreciation on the articles taken in exchange for store and shop goods, and the dealer having things his own way saw to it that the extra profit on trade articles more than made up for a probable loss on fish, oil and fur.

The world to-day is retrograding toward universal barter, which is being brought about by abnormal exchange conditions. Foreign standards of coinage appear to have no fixed value. Even that old reliable, the pound sterling, has gone off and for a time was a financial dud. The dollar is in little better case. It is worth just what exchange manipulators express, and has no longer a fixed value. By numerical table it is one hundred cents, but even that conveys nothing, and its purchasing value is constantly shifting, its basis of purchasing power being thereby affected and in accordance with the fluctuations of the money market. Pounds and francs and marks and roubles and pesetas and lire are all in the same class. We know what they mean, but we don't know what they are, because their value at noon to-day might be altogether different at noon to-morrow, having shifted some points one way or the other. Hence there is a difficulty of trading and dealing on these standards of coinage. Whether or not all the difficulties of doing business on the foreign exchange basis could be eliminated by reverting to a universal barter system is something which is giving the trade thought. It has been done on a small scale in Newfoundland, and is still in existence on the West Coast. Goods for Goods is a good trade slogan. Years ago it was the custom to ship cargoes of herring to Montreal from Labrador and bring back flour in exchange. On the South West Coast people send herring to Prince Edward's Island and receive their value in vegetables. These transactions are necessarily limited but it is a continuation of the methods of barter used before there was any currency, and still in vogue in many parts of the world. Though not generally practicable in Newfoundland, for the countries to which our products are exported do not yield the quality of exchange articles needed, it is quite feasible that in many instances fish could be exchanged for certain commodities to a greater degree than is practised at present, and if foreign exchanges cease to fulfil their functions and result in the virtual disappearance and extinction "of the accepted international medium of exchange—money—between certain countries," we may be obliged to adopt the Goods for Goods expedient.

A precious one from us is gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A vacant place within our home which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled The love He's boon has given. And though the body utter here, The soul is safe in Heaven.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving memory of my dear husband, Fredrick Snelgrove, who died at Barbados, Aug. 24, 1919.
More and more each day I miss him. Friends may think the wound is healed. But they little know the sorrow Lies within the heart concealed.
You may ask if I miss him. Oh, there's such a vacant place; Oft I think I hear his footsteps, Oft I see his smiling face.

Eloquent Sermon.

On Sunday evening the pulpit in the Cathedral was occupied by Rev. P. P. Sheehan of St. Patrick's, who gave a learned and elevating discourse on the "Assumption of the Blessed Virgin."

A Rare Fish.

Mr. Robert Peddie, who fishes at Feather Point, secured a strange fish on Monday last, the like of which he had no former experience. From the description given the marine creature was a sun-fish (Mola mola). The sun-fish has body truncated behind, high dorsal and anal fins, and a short fringed caudal fin. The mouth is small, the skin tough and leathery, and the flesh equally so. The sun-fish occurs in all warm and temperate seas swimming lazily on the surface.—Hr. Grace Standard.

An unpaid note for four shekels in silver, bearing 40 per cent. annual interest for nearly 400 years, recently was found among the clay tablets at the University of Pennsylvania Museum by Dr. Leon Legrain. The note was given by a man named Bur-Mama to H. Sinnatum, in October, 1962, B.C.

The year in which King Rim-Sin occupied the town of Dur-Damigilshah. There were four witnesses to the note. Instead of signatures the witnesses placed their seals on the document and were not liable for payment unless it was shown they knew the character of Bur-Mama was bad when they swore it was good. Although comparisons are difficult, Dr. Legrain said, a shekel of silver at the time the note was made was equal to about $100 at the present time.

Board of Trade Meeting

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade, which was postponed owing to the absence of Hon. W. F. Coaker, has been set to take place on Thursday, at 4 p.m., when matters in connection with the Fish Regulation will be discussed. As it has been learned that Mr. Coaker will not attend the meeting, the subject of the Board's request, as published in the semi-Annual report, will be further dealt with.

Burgeo Schooner Ashore at Cranberry.

North Sydney, Aug. 18.—The 36 ton schooner Augustus H. V. Captain R. Moulton, of Marytown, Newfoundland, went ashore at high water at Cranberry Head on Tuesday evening. The schooner left Marytown on Aug. 11, and Burin on the 13th, crossing from the latter place off Smoky. Arriving off Cranberry Head on Tuesday evening the captain went closer to shore than he supposed he was getting and was unable to tack in time to clear. A survey is being held on the vessel to-day to ascertain the extent of the damages. An effort will be made at once to pull her off.

SURVEYED AND CONDEMNED.

North Sydney, Aug. 19.—The schooner Augustus H. V., which went ashore on Cranberry Head on Tuesday evening, was condemned at the survey held on the vessel on Wednesday afternoon. As she was driven ashore at high water her position is considered a rather bad one, but Captain Moulton still entertains hopes that she may be pulled off. The vessel, which is worth between three and four thousand dollars, is insured for $1,500 with the Western Marine Insurance Company, Grand Bank.

Will Hold Outing at Donovan's.

The employees Mutual Benefit Association of the White Clothing Mfg. Co. Ltd., will hold an outing at Donovan's on Wednesday, August 25th. A programme of sports has been arranged for the afternoon and a dance programme for the evening. About 250 will take part and a most enjoyable time is anticipated.

Garden Party at Harbor Grace.

St. Paul's Church Garden Party will take place in Shannon Park, Harbor Grace, to-morrow, commencing at 1 p.m. The Rector, the Rev. W. R. J. Higgit, will in all likelihood be present, and his presence will add to the enjoyableness of the gathering. A programme of sport has been arranged, and prizes will be given for the greater part of the events. One of the items is a football match between Carbonate and Harbor Grace teams that will in itself prove of interest. The usual teas, and all kinds of light refreshments will be served, and useful articles will be offered for sale. Friends from outside places are expected to be present, and an enjoyable gathering, very likely the last for the season, may be looked forward to by the general community.

Runaway Team Damages Auto.

Yesterday afternoon the driver of a team left his horse without any check, or caretaker, for a few moments, and during his absence the animal becoming restive from some cause started down the street at a fair clip. Opposite the Board of Trade building the wheel of the long cart came in contact with the mud guard of a stationary motor car, badly buckling it, but not doing any other material damage. The impact checked the horse which was then caught by some bystanders and taken down the Royal Stores archway.

Since 1890 this famous specific has maintained its reputation as a curative agent in the above painful disorders, and judging from the large number of grateful testimonials the Proprietors have received, prove conclusively that this treatment is one of the few of its kind that does accomplish all that is claimed for it.

initiated with all the pomp and circumstance which have been observed for hundreds of years back. On the Tower Green, under the shadow of the historic keep, there was drawn up a stalwart circle of Yeomen Warders, or "beefeaters," as they are more popularly known. Inside this setting the Lord Chamberlain, on behalf of the King, presented the keys of the Tower to the new Governor. Before he accepted them His Majesty's Coroner of the Tower read the King's Warrant in favour of Lord Methuen. The new Governor took over the "King's keys," which were saluted by a detachment of the Grenadier Guards. The chief warden in solemn voice then exclaimed, "God preserve King George," to which the Yeomen Warders responded with a fervent "Amen." The company then passed into the King's House, and the ceremony came to an end.

TWO KAMENEFFS.

I see that M. Kameneff, the Bolshevik Commissary, formerly President of the Moscow Soviet, who is to supersede M. Krassin as chairman of the Russian Trade Mission here, is spoken of as having played a considerable role in the Bolshevik military operations. This is wholly incorrect. There is, indeed, a Kameneff who has acted, and is acting, as the "Red" Chief of Staff on the so-called western front. But he is not nor has he any connection with the other Kameneff. He is a soldier by profession, who at one time served as a staff colonel in the operations section of General Brussiloff's headquarters. The M. Kameneff whom we are shortly to see in London is an Anarchist of the intellectual type, who has written, both in Russian and in German, several treatises on social philosophy. He is, in fact, a fanatic of the Lenin type. But if there is a good deal that is militant there is nothing military about himself or his career—beyond his relations at one moment with the German General Staff, as in the case of Lenin and Trotsky.

LONDON AS A HEALTH RESORT.

A cynic has remarked that Government Departments issue their statistics as White Paper or Blue Books simply so that no one will read them. There are certainly few who would venture upon the reading of such publications for pleasure; but those who dipped into the report of the London County Medical Officer found something unique in the history of official documents, and shut it a good deal happier than they opened it. The report showed that 1919 was one of exceptionally low mortality in the Metropolis. The number of deaths was nearly 20,000 lower than in 1918, while an advance of some 12,000 was made in the number of births. Among children the death rate was the lowest known. Such are the salient facts shown by a multitude of figures, every one of which is a crumb of comfort to the Londoner whom increased fares compel to spend the summer holiday at home. London is more of a health resort than he was aware of. Surely this city of low mortality is an ideal spot for a vacation. Even to the sentimentalist the report brings good tidings, for the marriages numbered 50,000, as compared with 43,000 in 1918. This grim old city is beginning to assume the garb of romance and sunshine.

THE PREMIER'S NAPS.

An old acquaintance of the Premier's, hearing someone express anxiety about the strain on his health, interposed: "You ought to make more allowance for his wonderful gift of sleep. No matter what his worries, he sleeps deeply every night. He has only got to lay his head on the pillow, and he sleeps for eight hours or so. If he cannot get time for that, then he is able to compose himself for sleep at any odd time and to wake again without any muzziness. On an evening when he had a dinner engagement at eight, I have known him come out of an exhausting Cabinet meeting at seven, go upstairs, lie down and sleep for half an hour, then dress, go to the dinner and deliver an important speech in his liveliest manner."

PREMIER'S TRIBUTE TO GREECE.

The Greek colony in London is flushed with pride at Lloyd George's remarkable tribute to Greek statesmanship and military prowess. It is a fact that the British Premier had expressed from the very first his belief in the capacity of M. Venizelos and the Greek Army to make good all their promises and assurances. And it is also a fact that in either respect Lloyd George's view was that of a very small minority. He has every good reason therefore to congratulate himself upon his foresight. It is well, however, to bear in mind that the Greek Army was only allowed to advance from Smyrna after the Anglo-Hellenic diplomacy had ascertained that for a certain political consideration—not yet disclosed—Bulgaria could be relied on not to combine with the Turks in Thrace for a combined onslaught on the Greeks there. Moreover, at every phase in the Greek operations in Anatolia the Greek staff has been in constant touch with Marshal Foch and Sir Henry Wilson. If only the Polish staff had observed an equally cautious attitude!

nasty setback. Bookmaking on the course this year was in the nature of an innovation, and quite early it became evident that opportunities still existed for "bookies" more versed in the subtleties of air racing to set up in a new line. The odds from the start were ridiculous, and nobody seemed quite sure whether they were backing the winner of the speed contest or the winner of the handicap. On the other hand, when definite information was sought on this point one was apt to be amused at the absurdity of the whole thing "Four to one Hinkler, five to one Hawker, eight to one Courtney" one heard. This seemed not very unreasonable for the handicap race, though airmen were somewhat tickled that the public should be backing pilots rather than machines, for in an air race the machine is more than the horse. The really ridiculous part was when one discovered these were the odds also for the speed contest, and that one could get two or three times the odds for a machine two or three times as fast as Mr. Hinkler's Avro "Baby" carrying an engine no more powerful than that in a fair-sized motor car. The whole thing might have been compared with backing a governess's pony against a potential Derby winner. Tempted by the long odds, a number of people who were not habitual gamblers put money on some of the faster machines, and after watching the little red Martinsyde "semi-quaver" come tumbling in on its back the backers made their way to the "bookies" stand to draw their money. But the "bookies" had gone. They packed up quietly while the race was in progress and their customers were having tea, leaving only their betting cards.

"Did you speak to father about me, Arthur?" asked the girl. "Yes, I did, dear, and he agreed with me heartily," replied the wooer. "Then he said I might marry you?" "Why—er—no. I didn't quite get so far as that. I just said you were a fine girl."

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, July 28th, 1920. TOURING THE WORLD.

I met a friend who was staying as an ordinary visitor at Spa during the recent Conference, in the same hotel as many of the British secretarial staff. During tea he overheard a conversation between three charming ladies, who, he says, by their manner and appearance were ably upholding the prestige of the British Empire and apparently following the Peace Conference round from sitting place to sitting place. "I like Spa," said one, "the gardens are so pretty, but, of course, San Remo is the best place we have visited so far." The others agreed and then began to discuss the social amenities of the trip to Switzerland. Said one: "When do you think we shall get to Madrid? I do love Spain so." "About October, I shall think," decided the oldest of the three, "that is, of course, if all goes well."

visited. Some time ago the Queen of Norway expressed a strong desire to have her niece stay with her for a time in Christiania, and within the past few days the King and Queen of Spain have invited Princess Mary to pay them a visit in Madrid towards the end of the year, when the season there will be at its height. There are considerable difficulties in the way of these visits being paid, since in the past it has not been usual for a British unmarried Princess to tour abroad. It is believed about the Court, however, that these difficulties can be surmounted as the King has shown that he has not too much regard for precedent and can make his own on occasion.

The Bay City Regatta.

The Races arranged for at Lady Lake, on Wednesday, were held (in part) on that day. The morning opened cloud, and for a time there were indications of rain. About 11 o'clock the weather cleared enough to warrant the Committee calling the first race. The wind was light from the Westward, changing at about one o'clock to North and then to East. The third race was rowed through a heavy shower, and after the fourth race the conditions were such that the Committee postponed the remaining four events until Thursday afternoon.

Yesterday the weather was more favorable and at 3 p.m. the first race was rowed and only one other followed. The Juvenile and the Cup races were cancelled, owing to crews not coming forward to compete in them. At 5 p.m. the last was finished and the racing ended.

The contests the first day were mostly fought by the sturdy rowers and several "dark horses" changed calculations somewhat. The Bessie won four first, one second and one third prize; the Maggie one first, two second and three third prizes; the Prince Albert, one first, one second and one third prize; and the Wanie two second and one third prize.

The quickest time for the first day was made by the Maggie (Mechanics) 13.29, and this was beaten on the second by the Bessie (All-Comers) 13.14. The last named crew received the bonus of Ten Dollars for the quickest time.

The following is the record of the six races:

Amateurs—Bessie, Prince Albert, Maggie, Winnie. Time 14.30 2-5.
Tradesmen—Maggie, Winnie, Bessie. Time 13.20 4-5.
Veterans—Prince Albert, Bessie, Maggie, Winnie. Time 14.09 4-5.
Fishermen-Laborers—Bessie, Maggie, Winnie, Prince Albert. Time 13.21 4-5.
All-Comers—Bessie, Maggie, Prince Albert, Winnie. Time 13.33 4-5.
All-Comers—Bessie, Winnie, Maggie. Time 13.14 1-5.

The Committee deserve a full measure of credit for their work in bringing off the programme for the benefit of the public. Their undertaking entailed considerable work, and it is to their credit that under the many difficulties that had to be grappled with, they succeeded in giving the public an enjoyable day's outing. Oversight must be expected and while it is easy for the many to criticize, forethought, tact and decisive action are ever to be met with in all undertakings, private and public. The members of the committee did their work satisfactory and the thanks of the public are due to them for their labors, which they voluntarily undertook and faithfully performed in the interests of sports and recreation. Had the programme been completed on Wednesday, none or very little complaint would have been heard, and as the committee are unaccountable for weather conditions, the fullest credit should be accorded them. The Standard thanks them for their work in affording a day's good sport and an enjoyable day's outing.

The following were members of the committee:

John Tapp (Chairman), W. Carson, E. Rogers, F. C. Archibald, M.H.A., J. Neil, W. A. McKay, W. W. French, R. Telford, Edward Sheppard, E. D. Freeman, W. H. Harris, H. Martin, Secretary.

Starters and Judges—Robert Telford and Edmund Rodgers.
Time-Keepers—E. D. Freeman and W. H. Harris.

The prize list:
Amateurs—Medals.
Mechanics—1st $16; 2nd $10; 3rd $6.
Sailor-Soldier—1st $16; 2nd $10; 2nd $6.
Fish-Laborers—1st $16; 2nd $10; 3rd $6.
All-Comers—1st $16; 2nd $10; 3rd $6.
All-Comers—1st, $16; 2nd $10; 3rd $6.

The quickest time was made by the Bessie, (L. Sheppard, Cox), crewed by J. Pynn, Jr., H. Taylor, G. Thomey and F. Taylor.

NOTES.

Some of the winners in the Sailors and Soldiers Race on Wednesday, declined to accept the cash prizes, as they wish to preserve their amateur standing for participation in sport generally. Medals or other prizes should be provided in lieu of money for the men who took part in that race, which was considered by the spectators to be one of the most interesting, if not the most popular item on the programme.

Every aid should be given to encourage amateur sport, and the committee in charge can enter to that element among our young men by deciding to give medals, etc., instead of cash prizes.

The crew of veterans who manned the Winnie showed a true spirit of sport. The boat was without a crew and would not have entered the Sailor-Soldier race, but the boys were sporty and manned her for the contest. They did not win, but they showed pluck. Messrs. John Hunt, K. Sheppard, Fred. Chafe and Lal Parsons, the emergency crew, are to be complimented on their pluck.

The providing of a suitable wharf at the Lake would tend to greater satisfaction to the committee, the boat-owners and spectators. Year after year money has been spent in building a temporary wharf, the total of which would put a useful structure near the starting point. Failing that provision, separate landing places for the boats would be an improvement.

News From Marystown.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—I hope a few remarks from this part of our Dominion may prove interesting to some of your readers. The shore fishery so far has not been up to the standard, though the schooners and larger boats, fishing at Cape St. Mary's and Burin Bank have done fairly well; and if weather conditions prove favorable until the conclusion of operations, the voyage on the whole will be a fair one; though the pessimist is on his rounds with doleful cantanence, predicting all kinds of calamities, such as; the failure of Coaker's Fishery Regulations; bad Hay crops, etc. But the people don't pay any attention to him, as the pessimist is found in every community, and like the poor he will be always with us. But there are indications for a brighter future for Marystown; our young men, who in years gone by, emigrated to Canada and other places to seek employment, are remaining at home and building homes for themselves; and with that energy and industry so characteristic of the men of the S. W. Coast, are determined to make a living in their own country, and the fact that the Royal Bank of Canada have, the past year, erected a large and up-to-date building in order to accommodate their ever increasing business, are things that need no comment. We had the great pleasure of a visit from His Grace the Archbishop, accompanied by Rev. Father McGrath (Bell Isld.) Rawlins and Savin on Friday, August 13th, on the S.S. Carmen, which ship was gaily decked with bunting in honour of the distinguished Prelate, and flags were flying on all the business places and quite a number of private residences. His Grace was met on landing by our esteemed pastor, Rev. Dr. McGrath, and members of the Holy Name Society, and amidst volleys of musketry and cheers from a large crowd who had assembled on the wharf to greet him, was taken by motor boat to the Presbytery, where the party were the guests of Rev. Dr. McGrath. During his stay amongst us, His Grace won the hearts of all our people by his gracious manner and sympathetic kindness to young and old, and most of us expected he would remain for our annual Garden Party, but owing to other arrangements, he had to leave us on Sunday, at noon. Our Garden Party was held on Monday, August 16th, and proved a great success, the people came from the different settlements, all dressed in holiday attire, each bent on having a good time, and in this they were not disappointed, as the committee in charge had done everything in their power to provide for the day's amusements. Tables were erected in the cool shade of the tall fir trees on the Convent grounds, where refreshments of all kinds and temperance drinks were served during the day, and dancing galleries were erected on the green, where young people seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly. The sight of these dancing galleries brought the writer's mind back to twenty-five years ago, when similar stands were erected on Ross's Farm at the annual Regatta, where young and care free, we tripped the light fantastic to the sweet tune of Stewart Taylor's violin. I understand that Stewart has passed to the Great Beyond, if so, I trust that instead of the crude instrument constructed by the hands of man, he is playing on a golden harp, studded with jewels and precious stones, and under the tuition of the celestial choir-master, is helping in no small measure to swell the mighty chorus that is ever ascending to Him who sitteth upon the throne. One could not help admiring the splendid spirit of good fellowship and co-operation of our Grand Bank friends, who are at present residing in Marystown; who by their participation in the different sports, contributed in no small measure to the day's enjoyment. One of the principal events of the day was the inter-town football match between our boys and a picked team from Burin; the Burners brought over a splendid combination of kickers, and our boys were a bit nervous at first, but as the game proceeded this soon wore off, and our boys settled down to work; but nevertheless things looked pretty blue for a while, and when the half-time whistle blew the game stood, Burin 1, Marystown 0. On resuming play our boys seemed determined, and with that dash and tenacity which characterizes the Celt and Anglo-Saxon, which, by the way, is a combination hard to beat, when working in harmony together, succeeded in nothing up two goals in quick succession, amidst the wildest enthusiasm. The Burn boys worked hard to try and equalize matters, but to no avail and the game closed, Marystown 2, Burin 1. Though the Burin team were defeated by the small margin of one goal, I must congratulate them on their splendid play. They proved themselves to be clean sports. During the afternoon teas were served in our Parish Hall, which by the way, is one of the finest buildings of its kind in the country. When the shades of evening began to fall, dancing was renewed on the upper story of the hall, and kept up until early hours of the morning, concluding our 1920 Garden Party, which on the whole, proved a splendid success, both socially and financially. I understand that our football team have received a challenge from Grand Bank footers, and like true sports, they promptly accepted, and will be leaving for that town about the last of the month, where I am sure they will receive a royal welcome and have a jolly time; if not a jolly time, they will at least have a good time, as our Grand Bank friends are consistent Prohibitionists, and will not look upon the wine when it is red. But I trust they will have a pale substitute that will prove equally as stimulating. Hoping I have not trespassed too much on your valuable space.

I remain,
Yours truly,
STELLA MARIS.

Always whenever I want to play I've got to practice an hour a day. Get through breakfast an' make my bed.

And Mother says: "Marjorie, run ahead! There's a time for work and a time for fun. So go and get your practising done." And Bud, he chuckles and says to me: "Yes, do your practising, Marjorie." A brother's an awful tease, you know, and he just says that cause I hate it so.

They leave me alone in the parlor and things.

And if I stop, Mother's bound to call. "Marjorie, dear, you're not playing at all!"

Don't waste your time, but keep right on. Or you'll have to stay when the hour is gone."

Or maybe the maid looks in at me and says: "You're not playing, as I can see. Just hustle along—I've got work to do and I can't dust the room until you get through."

Then when I've run over the scales and things
Like "The Fairies Dance" or "The Mountain Springs,"
And my fingers ache and my head is sore,
I find I must sit down a half hour more.
An hour is terribly long I say
When you've got to practice and want to play.
So slowly at times has the big hand dropped
That I was sure that the clock had stopped.
And Mother called down to me: "Don't forget—A full hour, please. It's not over yet."

Oh, when I get big and have children,
There's one thing that I will never do—
I won't have brothers to tease the girls
And make them mad when they pull their curls
And laugh at them when they've got to stay
And practice their music an hour a day;
I won't have a maid like the one we've got
That likes to boss you around a lot,
And I won't have a clock that can go so slow
When it's practice time, 'cause I hate them so.

Old-Time Bets on Amazing Subjects.

Members of the British Parliament are at present considerably interested in the challenges of feats of strength which are exciting a sort of rivalry among a few of the stalwart legislators of Great Britain. Mr. James Watson was the first to throw down the gauntlet to Mr. Clem. Edwards to see who could cut most coal within a certain time.

Then other muscular members entered the arena. Mr. C. B. Stanton challenged Mr. Edwards to a wager that he would find in a colliery in Wales a heaving place where Mr. Edwards would not be able to cut "enough coal to keep a barber," i.e., next to no coal at all. This wager was accepted for $250 a side.

Major Watts Morgan also wants to step into the ring, the challenge he has issued to Mr. Clem. Edwards being that he will unload four tons of coal or rubbish in one that Mr. Edwards can unload in the same time.

Time was when wagers like the foregoing, only more novel and extraordinary, were quite common; and when the old-time sporting proclivities of the grandfathers and great-grandfathers of the present generation excited an interest that was shared alike by prince and peasant. These were the days when kings and knaves, politicians and poachers, gay lighthouses and bewitching damsels, were frequently mixed up in some of the most amazing adventures imaginable, and when big sums of money often changed hands over the most astonishing wagers ever compacted.

Some Old-Time Wagers.

As a matter of fact, present-day wagers, for originality and eccentricity, are not a patch on those of the "merrie" days of old England, when, as a writer of the period has declared, "there was nothing in the heavens above, or the earth below, or in the waters under the earth, upon which these men could not contrive to bet."

For instance, in the days of Queen Bess, when there was no prevailing fashion of attempting to swim the Channel, Sir John Pakington, a great favorite of the Queen, laid a wager of $15,000 that he would swim against three noble courtiers from Westminster Bridge to Greenwich, and the attempt was only prevented by Her Majesty interposing.

At a later date, we are told, a man undertook to cross the Thames in a butcher's tray, using nothing but his hands to propel it, but wearing a cork jacket in case of accident. There were seventy boats laden with spectators present, and considerably over five thousand dollars depended on the result. How high the excitement of the populace ran when he succeeded may be better imagined than described.

Sir John once wagered to carry Lord Cholmondeley at Brighton pick-a-back fashion from the Pavilion twice round the Steyne. As Sir John was small and the Earl a giant in stature, the event drew a large crowd. All was ready, when Sir John remarked that it was time for his Lordship to strip. His Lordship gasped, "I engaged to carry you, but not an inch of clothes," repeated Sir John, "so hurry up, my Lord, make ready, and let us not disappoint the crowd." But the crowd was disappointed, for his Lordship stoutly refused to take off even his coat, and Sir John pocketed the stakes.

Grazed Wheels of Seven Vehicles.
For a wager of $750 a "busk" of the same period undertook to drive a tandem at full speed against the wheels of the first seven vehicles he might meet on the road, so that his wheels should absolutely graze the others without becoming locked or the tandem upset. And he won his money in twenty-five minutes.

In January, 1821, when 97 years old, Mr. Huddy, who was a postmaster of Lismore, made a wager that he would travel from Lismore to Fermoy in a Dungarvan tub drawn by a pig, two cats, a goose, and a hedgehog. He wore on his head a large red nightcap, and carried a pig rover's whip in one hand, and in the other a big cow's horn, which he blew to encourage his team and to give notice of the arrival of the Royal Mail!

The Duke of Queensberry, better known as "Old Q," was an interested party in more than one remarkable wager. No one was so clever as he at making matches on the turf, whether he rode himself or not; and his famous bet (in which Lord Eglington was his associate) with Mr. Theobald Taaffe and Mr. Andrew Scroville showed that he understood horses in harness just as well. The wager was that he should drive a four-wheel carriage with four horses, carrying one person, nineteen miles in one hour. This he won easily on Newmarket Heath in 53 minutes, 27 seconds. The bet was one of $5,000, and an enormous concourse of spectators cheered to the echo the splendid triumph of the popular sportsman.

Sent Message by Cricket Ball.

"Old Q" made a remarkable use of professional cricketers in another of his many curious competitions. His bet was that he would send a message a certain distance by hand quicker than any horse could carry it. He engaged several professional cricketers, and having put the message inside a cricket ball, it was thrown from man to man. He won easily.

Backing a drove of geese to race an equal number of turkeys from Norwich to London, was the eccentric contest which Horace Walpole's brother, Lord Oxford, once arranged. His lordship won the bet, for the geese kept to the road all the time and were steady goers. The turkeys, when darkness came on, flew to the trees to roost by the roadside, from which their drovers had a hard task to dialodge them. The turkeys arrived in town two days after the geese.

Nothing was too trivial or too fantastic to make the basis of a bet. For instance, Sir Henry Little had a black servant who was a regular gluton at his pipe, and Sir Henry expressed his conviction that Sambo could smoke a whole pound of tobacco in the short period of an hour. A friend bet Sir Henry $500 he could not perform the feat, and lost his money, for Sambo, incredible though it may seem, smoked pipes of tobacco almost as fast as an attendant could fill the bowl.

A Sporting Squire's Luck.

On another occasion an Irish squire bound himself either to forfeit $250 or produce alive within a month, a fox, a badger, a hawk, and an eagle, all captured by himself. And exactly a month later the town of Newry was thrown into an uproar by the extraordinary sight of the squire bestriding the skeleton of an antique grey mare. On either side of his steed were suspended two large wicker creels, one containing a wild mountain fox; the other a fire-looking badger; upon his head was perched a hawk, manacled by the legs, the chains passing under the captor's chin and fastened around his neck, while the triumphant entry was closed with an eagle. The squire and his unique collection were given a royal reception, the captives being paraded and the $250 being duly paid over.

Ambitious Afghanistan.

Afghanistan is claiming to be the greatest Moslem country, and the Emir of Afghanistan is working to succeed the Sultan of Turkey as Commander of the Faithful, according to rumors reaching Constantinople from Angora, where Pan-Islamic conferences have been held for several months.

This congress, at which are representatives from Afghanistan, Syria, Turkey, Arabia, India, Persia, Azerbaijan, Crimea, Egypt and Tripoli, is said to be chiefly concerned with filling the office of Commander of the Faithful in such a manner as to unify the Moslem world. A few weeks ago it was agreed that the post should go to the leader of the chief Mussulman nation, and Turkey's right to the leadership laws not challenged. Since Greek forces have advanced into Thrace and Asia Minor, however, it is reported that Afghanistan's claim for first place has been put forward.

The Moslem Congress apparently is a continuation of the plan for consolidation of the Mohammedan world originated by Enver Pasha, formerly Turkish Minister of War and leader of the Young Turk party, and fostered by the one-time Imperial German Government. It has been in close co-operation with the Turkish Nationalist chamber.

This religious movement has been largely surrounded by mystery, but fragmentary reports of its progress are being closely observed in diplomatic circles.

Famous Match for the "Ashes."

(From the Manchester Guardian.)

The "ashes," the mythical prize for which the cricket Test matches between England and Australia are played, were originated in 1882. In that year one of the most exciting contests ever played between these countries was witnessed at the Oval. Many famous players of the game took part in that match. The English side included W. G. Grace, the Hon. A. Lytton, C. T. Studd, A. P. Lucas, George Ulyett, and Barlow, while among their opponents were Spofforth, W. L. Murdoch and Giffen. In the last innings of the match England, with a great batting side, were set only 85 runs to win. Spofforth, however, was at his best, and was, as Giffen afterwards remarked, "irresistible as an avalanche." In his last eleven overs he took four wickets for only two runs, and Australia won the match by seven runs. The "Sporting Times" published an "In Memoriam" notice "in affectionate remembrance of English cricket," with an N. B. stating that the body would be cremated and "the ashes taken to Australia," and from that date the "ashes" have been the prize.

A Russian Romance.

Stranger than fiction is the recital of the difficulties experienced by Mme. Makaroff, widow of a famous Russian Admiral, who, in order to escape the Bolsheviks, wedded a British professor merely to assume his nationality.

Mme. Makaroff has reached France at last and is sheltered by friends, while her legal husband, true to his word, has returned to his English home, with his altruistic marriage considered a closed incident between them.

According to Mme. Makaroff's recital, when news came to Petrograd that Britons would be allowed to leave Russia, she sought out Prof. Russell, of the Berlitz School there, and proposed that they be married, with the assurance that the ceremony would be considered pure fiction. The marriage was celebrated by a woman justice of the peace after numerous difficulties regarding Mme. Makaroff's property, which the Bolsheviks had confiscated, and the couple were permitted to leave Petrograd for Finland.

When they reached the frontier, disease was discovered in their party and all of them were placed in quarantine.

While in quarantine, they were able to send a message to the president of the British Red Cross Society, who, astonished at their romantic narrative, obtained permission for Mme. Makaroff to leave Finland on the first British cruiser to leave a Finnish port for England. Mr. Russell accompanied her as far as London. However, they stopped for a few days in Denmark, where Mme. Makaroff's recital of her escape from Russia moved the Queen mother alternately to tears and laughter.

The report of a Bolshevik sympathizer now in Russia contains some quaint information. Trade and industry are at a standstill, and the people are starving, but propaganda is carried on ceaselessly, and all the Bolshevik headquarters are training centers for speakers. In the schools and hospitals large numbers of men and women are dying themselves to the care of the sick and the next generation. The death roll amongst the patients has latterly been as low as 6 per cent., but the mortality amongst the workers, doctors, nurses, and the sanitary corps has been as high as 50 per cent. In other words, everyone is so busy talking and looking after his neighbor that the essential work of the country is in a state of collapse. The world cannot live on talk and philanthropy.

Tartar on Teeth Shows You Leave the Film

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Free

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent to show you its facts. See coupon below.

Remove the Film

It is the basis of tartar. It is the source of discoloration and decay.

It is the film that you leave on your teeth. You can't see it with your eyes. It clings to teeth, enters cracks and stays there. The tooth paste cannot dislodge it. Most tooth brushes are how traced to that effect.

It is this film that discolors—not the teeth. It holds the particles of food, which ferment and form acid. It is the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

It is this film that causes tartar, the one great cause of tooth decay. It is the one great cause of tooth decay.

It is this film that causes tartar, the one great cause of tooth decay. It is the one great cause of tooth decay.

It is this film that causes tartar, the one great cause of tooth decay. It is the one great cause of tooth decay.

See how teeth glisten when the film is gone. It is film that makes teeth look dirty. It is film that is the source of most tooth troubles.

Apply Pepsodent

We advise you to use Pepsodent to anyone who asks. Thus we are giving you a step toward cleaner, safer teeth.

Pepsodent is based on pearl, the digestant of albumin. The object is to dissolve the film that causes tartar.

The key to the method, but pearls must be activated. The activation is an acid harmful to the teeth. It is the activation of a harmless activating method which makes pearls possible. That, with other Pepsodent ingredients, is doing new what was never done before.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the silmy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears. Read the book we send you. Learn the reason for these things. Then judge for yourself if you want your teeth kept in that way always. Cut out the coupon now.

Nobody Loses by Ponzi's Transactions.

Talks to Kiwanis Club About Reply Coupons and Hints Governments Don't Tell All They Know.

(Boston Globe, Aug. 11.)

Ignoring the statements of postoffice authorities and official denials from abroad, Ponzi yesterday reiterated his story of millions realized from the purchase and sale of international reply coupons issued by the International Postal Union.

Speaking at the Kiwanis Club luncheon in the Hotel Bellevue yesterday afternoon he volunteered to explain frankly "how he did it," and to answer all questions. The only explanation intimated dealt with reply coupons.

Though Postoffice officials say that two cables from Berné have been received, stating that the issue of these stamps has been normal, and are supposed to have evidence that there has been no heavy trading in them, Ponzi yesterday intimated that "officialdom has not yet learned the game."

Hints at Buying of Governments. His introduction to the Kiwanis Club members was that "billions" of international reply coupons have been purchased direct from foreign Governments, some of which, he said, realized a profit by the issue of them.

"These Governments," he told the club, "are not going to disclose to others Governments, whether friendly or unfriendly, how many coupons they have issued. And the International Postal Union at Berné, Switzerland, is not going to do it.

"Nobody," he insisted, "suffers a loss from the transaction. Suppose I buy a dollar's worth of Italian exchange. Say, I get 18 Italian lire for my dollar. I would get five under normal conditions. With the 18 lire I can buy 60 coupons. These coupons can be sold for $3 in American money."

The financier maintained that no Government need lose, because transactions between Governments may be delayed until exchange is normal. To carry his point he pointed out that there has been delay in the payment of interest on Americans loans to the Allies.

"If anybody had lost," he challenged, "there would have been a yell before now."

"Please Don't Infer Anything." When a member of the club, anxious to get down to brass tacks, asked if the inference was that he had conducted his business by collusion with foreign Governments, Ponzi smiled and said:

"Please do not infer anything; just suppose—that's all."

"Yes," replied Ponzi, "they have stopped the sale of coupons for public use. But that doesn't stop my business. My money in Europe is working to-day, even if it isn't here."

In the postoffice Department it is said that international reply coupons are issued from Berné in such quantities as the various Nations in the postal union may require. The name of the Nation to which a coupon is issued appears on the face of the stamp, printed in the language of that country. Coupons seen by reporters are printed by V. Benziger & Co. of Einsiedeln, Switzerland, and bear instructions in five languages, English, French, German, Spanish and Italian.

It is safe to say that those who heard the financier talk for about an hour on his business methods at the Kiwanis Club luncheon are just about as sure of how Ponzi worked as they were before he spoke.

Wizard vs. Wizard.

Prof. Joseph Dunninger, mind reader, who was the other guest of the club, sat beside Ponzi, but the professor promised not to reveal any secrets.

Pres. Carl Barrett of the club has advertised an experiment in clairvoyance upon "the mystery man of finance." The professor was going to bore without and penetrate Ponzi's thoughts. It was to be one wizard against another.

So members of the club and the guests crowded into the dining room at the hotel. There were so many diners that extra tables were set up, and the feeding was in relays.

Here was a group of business men which applauded Ponzi with all the fervor of his street crowd orations. The little Italian was placed upon a table, and stood there, smiling, cigarette holder in hand, while somebody led "three cheers for Charles Ponzi."

The audience laughed and cheered when the financier paid his respects to "my opponents, the bankers" and when, referring to Attorney General Allan, Ponzi remarked:

"He has a good job, but mine is better."

Started to Read His Thought. For a final thriller Prof. Dunninger operated upon Ponzi.

The financier was asked to write a sentence on a slip of paper and to place it in his pocket. This done, Dunninger started to read his thought.

"First is the letter 'I,'" tried the mind-reader.

"Correct," agreed the financier.

"The next letter is 'P.'"

"Correct," Dunninger, who has thick black hair and looks mysterious, was this: "I propose to apply to banking the principle of giving the people full value for the use of their money."

To be sure, the professor omitted one proposition, but Ponzi agreed that his mind had been read and everybody was satisfied. But no mysteries had been explained.

Didn't Do Much, But Think.

Ponzi missed none of the dramatic possibilities in telling his story. The audience was given a glimpse of the "wizard" before the wizardry had developed.

Act 1.—Ponzi, sitting in his little office, where Mr. Swig's Tremont Trust Company now stands. Several lines of business tried, with little success. On the desk before his eyes an International Reply coupon. Heavy thinking by Ponzi. (He didn't do much except think, he said.) He hit upon his scheme, and obtains financial backing.

Act 2.—Shifts to the School-st office of the Securities Exchange Company. Ponzi had learned that the coupons could be bought abroad and converted into postage stamps. All he had to do then was "to figure how many nickels make a million." His fortune was made.

"I got in touch," he said, "with men—that's as far as I will go on this—who were able to secure for me large amounts of coupons in different countries. I started the Securities Exchange Company. I was everything from president to office boy, I didn't want any partners—partners are usually more bother than they are benefit."

Several Investigators Came.

"The second day after I opened a gentleman from the Chamber of Commerce came to the office to investigate. He was convinced that my scheme was possible. Ninety per cent. of the people didn't know anything about international reply coupons. Lots of people haven't even learned yet that they can be used as currency in some foreign countries."

"Then a Postoffice inspector came. I asked him if it was legal to buy an international reply coupon abroad and exchange it for stamps over here. He said: 'Yes.' I then asked him if it were legal to convert millions of coupons, and he said: 'No.' It would have to be decided whether they were stolen or where they came from."

Ponzi declared everything went smoothly from the first. With a broad smile he gratefully acknowledged all the invaluable publicity he has received from the newspapers. If he proves solvent, it will be had for the banks, he said, and he insisted that "everything legal or illegal, had been done to stop him."

But he was coming out all right. So, why worry? And he flashed the Ponzi smile.

Fabled Statues of Old Japan.

Unkel, the son of a fisherman, and in his youth a humble fisherman himself, was responsible for one of the most remarkable epochs in the history of Japanese wood-sculpture. His name is a household word to those who are supposed to know that the king of the underworld had never done him justice, although the sculptor had attempted to carve his image many times. So, when he died, the king of dead Buddhist souls sent Unkel back to earth, that's after having seen the god; he might make a faithful portrait. The result may be seen to-day in the temple Enno-ji at Kamakura, where Unkel's statue of Emma, cruel and savage in its strength, strikes terror into the hearts of all who fear to meet the Judge of Hell. There are many delightful legends about old statues of the gods. In the Hase temple at Kamakura, high on the crest of a hill overlooking the bay, is a great gilded Kwannon of camphor wood—an eleven-faced image of the Goddess of Mercy—which for centuries has hearkened to the prayers of the fishermen. A long time ago, in that dim past when dragons were abroad in the land and gods condescended to play with men, some fishermen saw a great light shining out at sea. They sailed their junk toward the light and found the image of Kwannon floating on the water. They elevated a temple to the image and ever since have worshipped at her shrine. At the same time, a similar image of Kwannon, also made of camphor wood, floated in at Yamato and was placed in the Hase-no-Kwannon, a temple that was the
