At the Mouth of the Treacherous Pit

STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER XVII

"Yes, I have. I will tell you honestly what passed. I had often wondered whether he really knew his own mind, and I asked him. He told me plainly that he had never even had the least flirtation with you, but that he had always esteemed your friendship highly—that you were friends, but nothing more, and you compel me to speak plainly—that he loved me—and no one else. It was then that I promised to marry him."

"After stealing him from me by treachery! If you had not interfered, he would have loved me," exclaimed Lola. "He wrote to me constantly from abroad; he came to see me on the very night of his return, before the thought of seeing you."

It was seldom that the gentle nature of Lady Rhysworth was aroused to anger, but her heart swelled with a keen sense of injustice. Why should this girl, whom she had never cared for, have come here to insult her? Why should her happiness be marred because this girl had chosen to take an obstinate fancy to a man who cared nothing for her? Why should she suffer and be made wretched for that? She rose with the graceful dignity natural to her.

"I will not prolong this distressing scene by denying the truth of your words. You know that they are wickedly false. I am innocent of the charge you bring against me, and no one knows it better than yourself. I must say, Lola, that I am surprised that you should have shown so little maidenly delicacy as to try to force your affection on a man who laid no claim to receive it."

So spoke Lady Rhysworth; but she shrunk back, brave as she was in the knowledge of her own truth, from the angry face that Lola turned upon her.

"It will be better for you, Lady Rhysworth, not to say another word. You think yourself very pure and noble. Let me tell you a few home truths; you are quick enough to tell the like to me. What does the world think of the delicate, refined, high-bred Dolores Clifton, who has angled for two husbands, who has married an old man for his money, and two years after his death would marry a young one for love—what of the woman with a little daughter who neglects her to attend to the wooing of a man who will never tolerate the presence of another man's child?"

in his house—dainty Dolores, who, with all her modesty, has managed by her artful wiles to secure the two best matches in the neighborhood, and then whispers about maidenly delicacy? My faults are open ones; yours are hidden. I love one man honestly; you have either loved or pretended to love two. Oh, sweet Dolores, what now of maidenly delicacy?"

Lady Rhysworth did not answer her. She saw that it was useless, as Lola was beside herself with rage; and she knew the whole tirade to be utterly false. She moved from her place as though she would quit the room; but Lola prevented her; she stationed herself before the door with her arms outstretched.

"You shall hear me," she said. "I will force you to listen. You have done this shameful thing to me; you have stolen my love from me; and I swear to be revenged; I gave you fair warning, I said, let any one beware who comes between us. Now beware! You have broken my heart; I swear to break yours. You have ruined my life; I will ruin yours. You have tortured me; I will torture you. When the time comes for my revenge, you shall suffer as I suffer now. False woman and treacherous friend, you can go now; but beware! It may be years before my vengeance comes; perhaps I may not seek it until he has grown tired of you; but, be the interval long or short, beware, Lady Rhysworth! As surely as the sun rises and sets, so sure is my vengeance to fall upon your guilty head."

Lola spoke with such flashing eyes, with such a threatening face, with such power and passion, that Dolores shrunk back, pale and trembling, from the terrible avalanche of words.

"Let me pass," she said faintly.

"You may go now," cried Lola, opening the door. "You will remember your last interview with Lola de Ferras! Such happiness as a woman can enjoy with a sword hanging over her head I wish you; and I pray that so much of your treachery as Heaven leaves unpunished may be repaid by me!"

She wrapped the dark cloak round her shoulders, and drew her veil over her face; her whole form was trembling with passion. Ere she quitted the room, she glanced round it, remembering the happy hours she had spent there, and knowing that she would never enter it again. It was with a malignant look that she watched Lady Rhysworth walk quickly down the long corridor. Then she went back to the little carriage. Before she took her seat, she turned to gaze at the house.

"I do as they did of old," she said to herself. "I shake the dust of the place from off my feet."

Then she drove home. The return was managed as quietly as the departure had been; and Madame never knew of her daughter's visit to Lady Rhysworth.

"I have one more duty," Lola said to herself. "I will see him, no matter what it costs me, and tell him what I think of him."

With that resolve she once more sought her room. Sleep was out of the question; and she spent the whole of that night in pacing up and down her chamber. It was true that he had not made love to her in the common acceptance of the phrase, but he would have loved her in time had it not been for this most cruel treachery of Dolores.

"I ought to have had a far better chance of winning him than she ever had," she said to herself. "If she had not come between us, he would have been mine;" and, by dint of constant repetition, she believed it at last. She could go early in the morning to see Sir Karl; he should not escape.

"I am going for a long walk this morning, mamma," she said, "so I will not ask you to accompany me. It will do me more good than driving."

"It will be an excellent thing for you, Lola," returned Madame, relieved. She had feared that Lola would be overwhelmed with sorrow; instead of that, she was laughing and bright as ever.

The storm had passed over her head and left her untouched and untroubled. So thought the mother, who little understood her daughter's character.

She followed Lola to the door and saw her start. She admired the pretty costume and the coquettish hat, and thought that there was not in the whole world any one so beautiful and charming as her child.

CHAPTER XVIII

Sir Karl had risen early. He wanted to go over to Deeping Hurst. Every day he found something on which to consult Dolores—the color of the curtains, the placing of a statue, the hanging of a picture; nothing, in his opinion, could be done without her advice. As he sat down to his solitary breakfast, he warmly congratulated himself that he would soon have a fair face opposite to him and a sweet voice to talk to him.

"Man was never intended to live alone," he said to himself; "and no one has been more miserable under the ordeal than I have been."

However, it would not be for long, he thought. It was too early yet to go to Deeping Hurst. The first hours of the day were always devoted to Kathleen. He had found by experience that it was almost useless to ask for Lady Rhysworth until "baby" had been properly equipped. No more loving mother ever lived, and the charge that Lola had brought against her of neglecting the little one for Sir Karl's sake had cut Dolores to the heart.

Sir Karl thought that he would while away the intervening hours with a cigar on the terrace, from which there was a beautiful view of the surrounding country. He was walking up and down, watching the blue rings of smoke that curled upward from his cigar, and thinking with a smile of the fair lady he loved, and of the little child who had twined herself round his heart. In his careless, untroubled mood nothing could have been further from his thoughts than misery of any kind. It was a shock to him when, turning suddenly, he saw Lola near him. He had heard footsteps and looked round to see who it was.

"Lola!" he cried, startled more than he liked to show.

A shadow seemed to fall over everything. Recovering himself, he went up to her, and held out his hand.

"This is indeed a surprise—so early in the morning! That is the title of a comic song, is it not?"

How to Buy Furniture

SOME HINTS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When buying articles for a room already containing furniture it is important to visualize the general appearance of the room so that the new furniture may not clash in any way with the old. When upholstered furniture is being bought the coloring of the wall must be borne in mind, and also that of the carpet.

It is also important to remember the dimensions of the room concerned so that furniture of the appropriate size may be obtained.

Unless for some reason it is particularly required, furniture with elaborate carving should not be chosen, as the carving forms innumerable dust-traps and a great deal of attention is necessary to keep such furniture in good appearance.

Furniture that is easily movable has obvious advantages, and it is well to see that the castors on articles so fitted are strong, firmly screwed and have good rollers.

Where upholstered furniture is concerned it should be remembered that the springs in new articles should be less silent and hard. Be satisfied also that the article contains an adequate number of springs and that the stuffing is of good quality. Insufficient springs and poor quality stuffing mean that a chair or settee will soon lose its shape.

The backs and legs of chairs should be tested for sturdiness and the quality of the canvases under the seat should be noted.

In highly polished furniture the edges should be examined carefully as it is along the edges that inferior work is most likely to betray itself.

Unless the furniture is to be used but slightly a somewhat dark covering is advisable, for although a light covering looks very attractive at first it loses its fresh appearance rather quickly.

In bedroom furniture the dovetailing should be closely examined and the drawers tested by opening and shutting several times. A good test for the smooth-running and exact fitting of a drawer is to remove the drawer and replace it upside down.

See that the doors of wardrobes, washstands and the like are hung properly, and note also if there is any shrinkage in any of the joints as this is an indication that wood not properly seasoned has been used.

Rap the wood with the knuckles if you wish to test the thickness (thin wood gives out a drum-like sound) and make sure also that three-ply veneer has not been used in an article understood to be "solid."

Many who had given up using sauces now use H.P. daily—it's wonderful flavor came as a revelation to them.

"Eat more fish is a good suggestion, but be sure that your fish is fried in delicious Crisco. advt."

Household Notes.

When peppermint ice cream is only slightly frozen, fold in some stiffly beaten cream and finish freezing.

Most of the Sunday meals should be prepared on Saturday, so that the housewife can enjoy one free day a week.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MARY LINDQUIST, 2314 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Result of Meeting of British and French Premiers Disappoints Germany

U. S. Flier Reaches Constantinople—$1,000,000 Damage in B.C., Forest Fires—Another Sensational Story From Rum Row.

HERRIOT GETS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

PARIS, July 11. The French Senate today by a vote of 845 to 18 expressed its confidence in Premier Herriot, after the Premier had stated before the Upper House that the role of his Government was to re-establish cordial relations with Great Britain.

GERMANY DISAPPOINTED.

BERLIN, July 11. Bitter disappointment sums up the feeling here over the results of the Paris meeting of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Herriot of France. The fear is expressed that the forthcoming London Conference will lead to nothing definite towards a settlement of the reparations problem. It is not believed that the United States will consent to having its representative on the Reparations Commission anything more than a mere observer. The idea that the Commission will be the final arbiter on the manner of carrying out the Dawes report is particularly disagreeable to the Germans, who regard the Commission as the mere tool of the Quai d'Orsay.

REVOLT PRACTICALLY ENDED.

RIO JANEIRO, July 11. The Government organ, Journal de Comercio, in an editorial this morning, declares the Sao Paulo revolt is practically conquered.

U. S. FLIERS REACH EUROPE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 11. United States army fliers on a flight around the world, arrived here yesterday. All of the men were in good health.

HEARST ATTACKS DAVIS.

NEW YORK, July 11. The Democratic pot continued to simmer to-day with many fearful that it would boil over as a result of animosities during the national convention. The attitude of William G. McAdoe is still unknown and whether he will support John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President, or bolt from the party and form a fourth party to contest the election in the West, is a question which is causing considerable open speculation. The World-to-day prints a story on its front page suggesting that McAdoe may form such a party with the aid of William Randolph Hearst, Friends of Mr. McAdoe, who have been with him since the convention nominated Mr. Davis, say he has the appearance of a man who has suffered a crushing blow. Hearst, immediately Davis was nominated, commenced a bitter attack against the Democratic nominee, in which he at-

for the scene of the devastating forest fires which are now said to have become general on Redonda Island.

SENSATIONS EXPECTED IN PIRACY CASE.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 11. A mass of conflicting reports continues to surround the alleged piratical attack on the French steamer Mulhouse, which put into this port last Tuesday reporting the loss of nearly a million dollars' worth of liquor and cash on rum row, late last month. An investigation was opened to-day under the direction of Emile Cabouray, French Consul General, but was adjourned and no statement was given the public, although it was intimated by those in authority that the facts would be much more astounding than the reports already circulated. The most sensational report that leaked out to-day was to the effect that three officers of the Mulhouse were so affected by their experiences at the hands of the pirates that they lost their reason and were taken by a French cruiser to St. Pierre for medical attention. Representatives of owners of both vessels and cargo interviewed here declined to make any statement relative to the reported story, but admitted the liquor had disappeared under unusual circumstances.

CAPTAIN KILLED IN RUM ROW.

NEW YORK, July 11. Following the report from Halifax that the French steamship Mulhouse was boarded off the New Jersey Coast, two weeks ago, by rum pirates, who took a cargo of liquor valued at half a million dollars. Prohibition officials here to-day received word that a second ship was also boarded by pirates who killed the captain and threw his body overboard. The identity of the steamship was not revealed, but it was said to be also of foreign registry. The raids were directed by one of the biggest bootleggers in this country, according to the report, in retaliation for the cutting of rum prices by the foreign ships.

QUEBEC'S 25TH SURPLUS.

QUEBEC, July 11. Preliminary to the official financial statement of the Province of Quebec, which will be given out in the first week of August, Premier Taschereau announced to-day a surplus of $1,000,000 for the fiscal year 1923-24, ending June 30th, thus making the 25th surplus received in this Province.

DEVASTATING FOREST FIRES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

VANCOUVER, July 11. All the Forestry Department officials stationed in Vancouver have left for the scene of the devastating forest fires which are now said to have become general on Redonda Island. As far as can be ascertained no lives have been lost. Rain, it is said, is the only thing that can save the situation, for there is a strong wind blowing. Damage to the extent of more than $1,000,000 has already been suffered in Redonda Island, which lies some six miles north of Powell River, and it is feared that the big logging company has been wiped out. According to officials of the Union Steamship Company information was received there on Monday that all the inhabitants are fighting the flames with all their might and main.

FRENCH SAILOR BECOMES CRAZY.

NORTH SYDNEY, July 11. Louis Quillion, a native of St. Pierre, became crazed shortly after leaving the French island, and armed with axe and chisel took charge of the small schooner Annie M., bound with a cargo of mixed liquors to the American Coast. After trying vainly to kill Captain White with the axe, Quillion set fire to the fore-castle and nearly succeeded in drowning all hands in Cabot Straits. Capt. White put in here this morning in distress and Quillion was overpowered by North Sydney police.

CHILDREN FIND RUM IN THE WOODS.

HALIFAX, N.S., July 11. Children playing in the woods a few miles from here yesterday, discovered thirty 10 gallon kegs of rum valued at $3,000, hidden in a bush. The liquor has been placed in the Custom House for safe keeping.

DETECTIVES FIGHT WITH GUNMAN.

WINNIPEG, July 11. Two city detectives, Sergt. Frederick Batho and Robert Frayne, were shot and wounded, and Percy Mosley, 19 years old, who did the shooting, received a bullet in his knee in a sensational gun fight that started in the North Main Street Branch of the Bank of Commerce and ended in a blind alley one block north yesterday afternoon. The gunman, who is alleged to be wanted by the police in several robbery charges, was accosted in the bank, when he attempted to exchange stolen foreign currency.

BIG FIRE IN MASONIC HALL.

CALGARY, July 11. A fire, which started in the Masonic Hall in Strathmore, Alberta, late yesterday, through the explosion of a coal oil lamp, and which rapidly spread through the business section of the town, was reported under control this morning. The loss is unknown but is thought to be heavy.

Fresh Lobster and Chicken Salad served daily at LIDDY'S HOTEL, Torbay, Phone 14F2.

Concert at Convent School

A very enjoyable concert was held in the Presentation Convent Schools, Cathedral Square, last night, at which a large number of parents and friends of the scholars attended. The various items on the programme were creditably performed by the pupils who showed the result of good training. The programme consisted of an overture by Misses O'Neill, Shortall and O'Keefe; piano solos by Miss M. E. O'Neill, Master W. F. Kendall, Miss Mary Smyth, Miss L. Shortall, Miss Ella O'Keefe; piano quartets by Misses Smyth, Malley, Wall, Bennett, Leo and Channing, and Misses O'Neill, Shortall, Howlett, O'Keefe and Carroll; piano quartettes by Misses Mahar Lane, Coady and Jones; Misses Wilson, Gladney, Tobin and Wall; and Misses Carroll, Broderick, Kenny and Fleming; Recitations by Misses L. Shortall, Mary Smyth, Elizabeth Courtney; Vocal Solos by Misses Mary Smyth, Mary Bailey, A. Murphy, Florence Mahar; Vocal Duet by Misses O'Keefe and Howlett, and choruses and dances by the Junior Class. Miss M. E. O'Neill, L.T.C.L., was accompanist. The concert will be repeated this afternoon.

Fishermen Had Narrow Escape

FROM DROWNING. Three fishermen of Pouch Cove, returning from their traps with a boat load of fish, narrowly escaped drowning on Thursday, when their boat capsized in a heavy sea. The men had just reached the stage and were preparing to land their catch when the boat was hit by a sea and they were thrown into the water. Fortunately there were several men on the stage who acted promptly in effecting a rescue. The men lost practically a full boat load of fish.

Facts

Science has records of fish, birds, and animals which have changed their sex. If London's soot for one year could be collected in a pile it would cover Westminster Abbey. Among the scientific exhibits at Wembley is a microphone which enables you to hear a fly walking. In New Zealand a husband and wife, who have been separated by mutual consent for three years, may obtain a divorce. Lobsters which come from Norway to London in large wooden boxes are still quite active after their journey of several days. The healthiest children are to be found in towns and not in the country, according to a well-known West Country doctor. The clayed subsoil, on which most of London stands, is causing many buildings to slip owing to a heavy vibration of modern motor traffic. Fatal accidents in the streets of London vary with the days of the week, Friday and Saturday being the worst, and Sunday, the best, in this respect. In the trans-Atlantic service, first-class passengers pay the cost of the trip; the profits are made by carrying large numbers of third-class passengers. Canada has the lowest proportion of divorce cases in the English-speaking world. Her figure last year was 3 per cent. against England's 2.3 and America's 13.2 per cent. Experts have worked out complete time-tables for an air service to encircle the world in seventeen days. Airships have been provisionally chosen for the flights across the oceans. Every street accident which happens in the area of the Metropolitan Police is recorded on a special series of maps, different colours being used to indicate the various types of vehicles. Army blankets, surgical bandages, and even carpets are sometimes made to a certain extent of peat fibre. The same substance is also used for filling mattresses in public institutions. The carcasses of small animals, such as calves and lambs, are frequently blown up by means of an air-pump; this makes the removal of the skin easier, and is stated to be harmless to the meat. In the Portuguese Congo a church is now being built of stone which has to be carried four miles by the natives. The completed structure will contain 15,000 stones, representing nearly 120,000 miles of walking.

Roads and Regulations

With the improvements which are being made to the city streets by the Municipal Council, it is to be hoped that those who are responsible for upkeep of the outlying roads will also begin operations without any further delay.

Last season a great amount of excellent work was done, but it was only a beginning, and the sooner a start is made in this direction the less will be the outlay necessary. Already the season is well advanced but so far, largely owing to circumstances, nothing whatever has been done to the highways many of which are in a bad state of repair.

We would like to call attention in particular to certain sections of the Topsail Road, where not only has the top dressing almost entirely disappeared, but deep holes which are a menace occur at frequent intervals. In addition, the bridges require attention, and boulders on the sides of the road make it almost impossible in certain parts for vehicles to pass each other in safety. In this connection, it is gratifying to learn that one of our prominent citizens gave further evidence yesterday of that particular interest which he has invariably shown in all matters which concern the public by presenting the Roads Commission with an amount of money to be applied to those parts of the road where repairs are most urgently needed.

Vigorous action is being taken by the police authorities to enforce the traffic regulations and with effect, but there are still certain instances of violations of the spirit, if not of the letter of the law to which attention is called. Recently, for example, certain cars have been seen on the city streets bearing numbers, or to be precise, a number which does not correspond to the 1924 series nor yet to that of any recent year. It is understood that owing to a loose wording of the Act drivers who reside outside the city limits do not come within its scope, but at the same time, it is surely obvious that if the identification marks of a car are not such as to enable a police officer or a private citizen to check them in case of an irregularity, that car is a menace to public safety and should be treated as such.

Another case that has been brought to our notice is that of a city driver who has not yet obtained the 1924 number plates, but continues to operate his car. We are under the impression that all motor vehicles are compelled to attach the correct plates on April 1st of each year. If that is the case, the rule should be rigidly enforced and no car be permitted to appear on the street after the date specified, unless and until it conforms with the regulation.

It would be interesting to know what measures, if any, are taken to provide against the changing of number plates from one car to another. We do not claim that this practice is common, but it is not altogether unknown, and if it is possible to effect the change from a low to a high power car without any fear of detection, the Council stand to lose considerably by the infringement. This irregularity is almost impossible to detect under the present system whereby a different number plate is issued each year, but by giving a car a number which would be retained until the vehicle went out of existence the difficulty could be overcome. The number could be painted as well on the back of the car, as is done in other countries, and the date of the driver's license could easily be indicated by a slight alteration in the design of the plate.

It speaks well for the driving public that they are showing a strong desire to conform with the rules laid down, and that for the most part they are not so much concerned with keeping within the law for their own benefit as to avoid interfering with the pleasure and comfort of others.

Dedication of Window

IN TOPSAIL CHURCH.
 Tomorrow His Lordship the Bishop will dedicate the East Window, recently put in place in the Topsail Church. The window, of stained glass of beautiful design, is the gift of the Hon. Sir Edgar Bowring, and was manufactured by the firm of Baleslaine, London.

Drowning Fatality

IN MANUEL'S RIVER.
 Yesterday afternoon a drowning fatality occurred in Manuel's River. While a number of boys were bathing near the Meadows, one of the lads, Atkins, was apparently seized with cramp, and although some of the boys managed to get hold of him, they were unable to pull him ashore. It is believed that his feet became entangled with the weeds or stuck in the mud, and the fact that he had only one arm made the attempt to rescue him all the more difficult. A search was made immediately of the spot where he disappeared, but it was not until late in the evening that the body was recovered.

Actions Taken

Yesterday afternoon, Messrs. Pickwood, Emerson and Winter, acting on behalf of the owners of the S.S. Clara Camus, had a writ served on the S.S. Metagama, claiming damages amounting to $250,000. Previously, Mr. John Fenelon, on behalf of owners of S.S. Metagama had taken action against the Clara Camus, claiming a similar amount of damages. Bonds were furnished in both cases.

Undesirable Deported

A 29 year old American who gives his name as Nichols was deported by his homeland, Boston, by S.E. Silvie on Sunday week last apparently unconscious. The authorities had the man brought to town and placed in Hospital. After about an hour at the institution he made himself so obnoxious that the police had to remove him. When taken to the station he confessed that he was down and out and feigned sickness in order to get to the city. Since then he has been confined to the pen, how or when he drifted here nobody appears to know.

Vice-Regal Party to Visit Placentia

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardye, accompanied by Major A. B. Macrie, M.C., A.D.C., will be leaving town on Tuesday next to pay an official visit to Placentia, and will return on Saturday, the 19th.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

July 12th.—Little sleep all last night being much troubled by the heat, having had too many blankets on my bed because of the cold. But Lord, having lived in this country all my life, yet I do not know what weather to expect from hour to hour, nor methinks, does any man. Up and to the Board of Trade, where little news to be had, and is the strangest thing how where once there was naught but gossip everywhere, now there is no word of it and the public appear little interested in the affairs of the country.

News of the British steamship going around the world, they now at Tokyo, with the most difficult part of their fight before them, but what advantage it may be to fly around the world in three months, when it is possible to journey around in less than 2 by boat, is more than I may easily understand.

In the afternoon, to Banerman Park, to see the Pet Show, mighty pretty. So to look on at the Rugby game between the City and H.M.S. Constance, the City playing with a weak team and is beaten by 8 points. This evening the steamer Metagama, trying to pass through the Narrows, goes ashore on the Pancake Rock, and the greatest difficulty experienced is refloating her, being a vastly heavy ship, and having gone aground at high tide. But with the aid of the steamer Silvia she is brought off at last and without much damage.

Povey coming to see me this evening, he is in the worst possible humor, and raves and rants of the cursedness of this world, where no sooner does a man see something much desired within his grasp than it is whisked away from him. His trouble, it seems, that now when the Government may make it easier for a man to have a drink, his wife insists that he should sign the pledge, being bitten by a Temperance bug. I sympathize with him heartily, and did advise him to try his wife with a new hat, being old myself, in the ways of women, and am confident that by this means poor Povey will not go to a Temperance grave.

At night, to play a while at tennis, the weather delightfully cool, and conducive to the best of games.

Magistrate's Court.

A resident of Pleasant Street was charged with being drunk and disorderly, and damaging the motor car owned by Isaac Gibbs. He was fined $2.00 with the option of 7 days.
 A resident of Blackhead was arraigned before court charged with unlawfully raising a cheque from $6 to $60.00, within the past six months. It being his first offence, a fine of $10.00 was imposed with the option of six months imprisonment. A second party for aiding and abetting the defendant in the above case was sentenced to six months imprisonment without the option of a fine.
 Head Byrne had a shop-keeper before court charged with selling hop beer over-proof, upon being convicted a fine of $100.00 was imposed.

The proprietors of a chop on New Gower Street was also convicted for selling hop beer over the standard required by law. In this case charge was suspended.
 A resident of Broad Cove charged with keeping a house resorted to for the purpose of prostitution was fined $50.00. The judge gave the accused to understand that should and undesirable be caught frequenting the house again, they will be sent to prison with hard labour.

Road in Bad Condition

Drivers along the Tossail Road have made frequent complaints of the holes and projections which appear, particularly in that section which lies between the Sanatorium and Cowan's Farm. Recently the springs of one car were smashed in this vicinity, and only by luck escaped a more serious accident. Attention should be given to this matter without delay as already repairs are long overdue.

Silvia Sails

S.S. Silvia sailed at 12.30 today for Halifax and New York, taking 16 first class passengers for the latter port and 18 for Halifax. Following are the additional passengers:—R. and Mrs. J. G. Miller, Jas. Way, N. C. Thompson, J. W. Smith, Joe. Coughlan, A. M. Fraser, C. H. Shaw, Mrs. C. M. Miller, C. F. Bond, C. W. Hill, Mrs. E. Wallace, Master Wallace, Mrs. V. Shaw.

Mysterious Disappearance of Telephone Girl

NEWFOUNDLANDER SUPPOSED TO BE INVOLVED.

In the Boston American, of July 18, there appears a sensational account of the disappearance of a Back Bay telephone operator named Grace E. Eason, on the eve of her wedding. The mysterious part of the story is that her wedding trousseau, engagement ring were found left behind in the girl's room. It is said that Miss Eason was formerly engaged to a Newfoundland boy who recently went back to Boston from this country, but that during his absence she had transferred her affections to another who she was about to wed. On the return, however, they renewed their friendship, with the result that they eloped. So far all efforts of the police to trace the couple have failed, although a thorough search has been made. All kinds of theories have been advanced only to be rejected, and the disappearance has caused Miss Eason's mother great distress.

Pit Prop Laden Ship

MAKES PORT IN LEAKY CONDITION.
 S.S. Kallihaven from Hare Bay with nearly a full load of pit props, arrived in port this morning for repairs. The ship left Hare Bay yesterday morning for Clode Sound to complete her cargo. On the passage she hit a sunken rock which damaged the bow plates somewhat and caused the ship to leak.

Express Passengers.

The following passengers crossed over to Port aux Basques by S.S. Kyle yesterday morning, and are now on the incoming express due in the city at 6 o'clock this evening: Mrs. I. Mayo and two daughters, Mrs. L. B. Bowen, M. M. Theriault, G. D. McCluskey, R. C. Bethune, W. Hudson, A. Hall, S. R. Ford, M. Fisher, R. E. Good, W. S. Nash and daughter, Mrs. J. Connolly, Miss K. March, O. and Mrs. Olsen, Mrs. J. Lynch, Miss A. McDonald, Miss B. Snow, Miss E. Murgrave, Capt. M. St. John, Miss F. Loring, H. Calder, D. E. Bonnell, F. B. Bowring, Rev. Bro. Begimus, T. Smyth, H. Well-Known Journalist

LEAVES BY THE SILVIA.

Mr. R. Joy, who for several years has been sub-editor of the Evening Advocate, is leaving to-day with his wife on an extended visit to her uncle, Rev. Fr. Brown, who resides in Washington, D.C. Previous to joining the staff of the Advocate Mr. Joy belonged to the teaching profession and later served his apprenticeship under Sir P. T. McGrath. Not only has he been well known to the public as one of our ablest journalists but he also possesses a thorough knowledge of the printing business. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Joy a pleasant stay in the capital of the U.S.A.

Band Concerts

Next weeks Band Concerts in the Park will be as follows:—
 Monday—Victoria Park—Mt. Cashel Band.
 Tuesday—Banerman Park—Guard's Band.
 Thursday—Banerman Park—Mt. Cashel Band.
 Friday—Victoria Park—Guard's Band.
 We are glad to learn that since the publication of "Admirer's" letter in the Telegram regarding Band Concerts and the large number of people who enter without giving anything on the gates, an increase in the receipts has resulted. After all this is as it should be, because the bandmen give up their time three or four days per week to give the public some outdoor amusement during the summer months, and surely they should receive some recognition for their time thus given, and also for the Band's upkeep. Therefore, we trust that patrons of these Band Concerts will show their appreciation by putting in some small donation, thereby assuring a continuation of these enjoyable entertainments.

The Regular Monthly Meeting of the St. John's Mechanics' Society will be held in their Hall on Monday evening next, at 8.30. JAS. A. LEAHY, Secretary. July 12th.

From Cape Race

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

WITNESS GIVES SENSATIONAL EVIDENCE IN RUM ROW CASE.

MONTREAL, July 12.—Capt. Samuel C. Ford, a New England ship master, was committed to stand trial on charges of piracy on the high seas and on conspiracy on the high seas by Chief Judge Decarie in the Enquete Court here to-day. On the second charge it was necessary to call one witness, and John Isaacs, a lawyer of Winnipeg, repeated the extraordinary story of his adventure aboard the steamer Lutzen during a voyage last October from St. John, N. B. Mr. Isaacs, who was a passenger on the Lutzen, told how he and the super-cargo, Jack Morris, had been thrown in irons into the forecastle by officers of the Lutzen and how Capt. Ford came on board the next day and told him he (Ford) was stealing the cargo of liquor valued at $100,000. A voluntary statement was filed for next Monday.

NOTHING BINDING IN CHEQUERS CONVERSATIONS.

PARIS, July 12.—The joint text drawn up in Paris by Premier MacDonald and Herriot during their interview in connection with the Inter-Allied London Conference represents all the progress that has been made up to the present toward an accord between France and Great Britain, the French Premier declared before the Senate to-day, explaining his negotiations with the British Prime Minister. He said that the Chequers interview bound neither country.

BRITISH SQUADRON LEAVES SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The British special services squadron headed by H.M.S. Hood, the world's greatest battleship, steamed from San Francisco harbor to-day after a four days' stay marked by a round of entertainment. The big British fighter started out for the Panama Canal where the squadron will divide, the Hood, the battle cruiser Repulse, and the Australian cruiser Adelaide continuing through the Canal to Jamaica and the four light cruisers Dragon, Dauntless, Dance, and Delhi setting out for a trip around the Horn. After Jamaica, the Hood, Repulse and Adelaide will visit Halifax.

SEVERAL KILLED IN RIOT IN DELHI.

DELHI, British India, July 12.—Seven persons are reported killed in a riot which was the outcome of a quarrel between Hindus and Moslems. Virtually the entire city took part in the rioting. All the shops are closed and police are patrolling the streets in armored cars. The disturbance is attributed to Hindus objecting to a Moslem boy drawing water from a certain well. The boy was violently beaten and is said to have died later in hospital.

BRITISHER SHOT DEAD IN MEXICO.

MEXICO CITY, July 12.—Herbert Vereker, said to be a British subject, was shot dead on Sunday at Potrero, northern Vera Cruz, by one of several bandit leaders who are still marauding in that region, according to advices received here. The shooting is said to have taken place because Vereker refused to give the money demanded by pseudo revolutionists.

VOLTAIRE FINED FOR VIOLATION.

BOSTON, July 12.—For alleged violation of the shipping laws forbidding vessels under foreign flags in engaging in commerce between United States ports, a fine of $111,000 has been placed by the Customs Authorities here against British steamer Voltaire which last Monday brought five hundred members of the Philadelphia Lodge to National Convention of the benevolent and protective order of Elks. The Voltaire, owned by Lampont and Holt Steamship Company, stopped here enroute to St. John's Nfld. and Halifax. The allegation charges the Voltaire, by coming here from Philadelphia, at least violated the spirit of the law. An appeal from the fine may be made to the Department of Commerce Washington.

ITALIAN AIRMAN UNDERTAKES A FLIGHT.

ROME, July 12.—Lieut. Locatelli, Italian airman whose projected flight to the North Pole recently postponed until next year expects to leave Sunday from Pisa for Great Britain, Iceland, Greenland, Canada and United States. He will use same plane he expected to pilot towards Pole and will gather data for future polar flight.

REBELLION IN BRAZIL.

BUENOS AIRES, July 12.—A virtual state of civil war has resulted from the insurrection at Sao Paulo, with "Provisional Government" established by the rebels opposed to the Federal Government at Rio Janeiro. Since considerably preliminary accurate appraisal of the situation, but official communications allowed to pass censor at Rio, together with advices received here from other sources, indicate the bombardment of Sao Paulo is in progress, and Federal forces, which a few days ago were within the city, have retired. It adds,

"troops are advancing without halting, retreating ground conquered during last 24 hours." The number of prisoners and deserters among rebels has been increasing. The morale of our soldiers is excellent." A wireless message from Japanese vessel states government warehouse at the port of Santos is safe.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF EGYPTIAN PREMIER.

CARIO EGYPT, July 12.—The Egyptian Premier, Said Seagoul Pasha, was wounded in the right hand by a revolver shot at the railroad station here to-day when about to leave for Alexandria. The assailant was rescued with difficulty from the crowd and was placed on the train while Seagoul Pasha was removed to his home.

Medical Convention

AT PRESBYTERIAN HALL.

The convention of the Newfoundland Medical Association opened in the Presbyterian Hall on Thursday afternoon. This association was founded on December 1st last and has a membership roll of sixty medical practitioners from various parts of the country, all of whom attended the opening session. The officers elected are as follows:—
 President—Dr. L. E. Keegan.
 Vice-President—Dr. C. A. Forbes.
 Secy.-Treas.—Dr. C. MacPherson.
 Among those present at the meeting was Dr. Charles Crowley from Montreal, who gave a very interesting talk on his recent trip to Toronto, Hamilton and some of the large medical centres of United States, in which he explained the results of recent research work which he had the pleasure of witnessing. During the meeting various regulations and by-laws were passed governing the Association, whilst a resolution was also put into effect respecting hospital accommodation and milk supply. Yesterday afternoon the members attended a Garden Party at Government House as the guests of his Excellency and Lady Allardye. The convention will wind-up with a dinner to-morrow night.

Pensions Board Re-Established

We learn that the Pensions Board has had its membership increased, and instead of two it now consists of three members, the personnel being Jas. Pratt, Com. R. Howley, R.N., and Dr. Parsons. Both Mr. Pratt and Com. Howley are serving without remuneration.

To Patrons of THE NICKEL
 Dear Friends:—
 Only once in the course of years are we privileged to bring to our friends a photodramatic creation of such magnificence and dramatic power as "Enemies of Women" the brilliant picturization of Vicente Blasco Ibanez's famous novel. It will be shown here next week.
 More than a million dollars was spent in bringing to the screen this thrilling narrative of Europe's gilded society life, with its magnificent palatial settings, its unparalleled luxury, its great cast of prominent players.
 Lionel Barrymore as a pleasure-loving Prince of Russia and Alma Rubens as the most famed siren of the Continent are featured among a host of screen celebrities and a company of the acknowledged beauties of the theatrical world.
 Against the background of Paris, Petrograd, Nice and the Riviera where the drama was photographed are staged the revels and intrigues, the tragedies of the Monte Carlo gaming tables, the red course of Russia's revolution, the echo of the battle-fields combining to make one of the most absorbing narratives of screen history.
 "Enemies of Women" comes direct from successful showings in the biggest theatres of America where it was played at advanced theatrical prices. It is a privilege to be able to show it here and we sincerely advise those who seek the truly big things of the motion picture art not to miss it.
 Very truly yours,
 THE NICKEL MANAGEMENT.

"Pet" Show at Bannerman Park

A large number of people visited Bannerman Park yesterday afternoon to witness the exhibition of pet animals. Over one hundred children entered their pets for the competition.

Dr. Burke replied on behalf of the Rotary Club, thanking the judges for their assistance and their interest in the work which the Rotary Club had undertaken.

This pet show was the first of its kind to be held for the boys and girls of St. John's. The large attendance, interest and pleasure of the children were ample proof of its success.

Child Welfare Association

The past two weeks' events will go down the years in the pages of history. The dedication of Newfoundland's War Memorial, and the Review of the Church Lads Brigade Cadets and kindred organizations by Field-Marshal Earl Haig, Commander of the Empire's Army in the World War, are honours indeed that any country might well feel proud of.

During the ceremonies, Lt.-Col. Walter Rendell, C.B.E. placed the Armoury at the disposal of the C.W.A. when Earl Haig addressed the gathering, also for the organization of the Newfoundland Naval Reserve Comrades Association, and for the practices of the massed city choirs and brass bands, as well as for the Headquarters of the special Guard of Honour of the Royal Nfld. Regiment organized for Earl Haig's visit.

The Officers held a conference last night arranging for camp. The date is July twenty-fourth to August second, at Topsail, Captain George House as Camp Commandant with Capt. Harold Hayward as Adjutant in all probability will be in charge.

All ranks are glad to welcome Lt. Colonel Sir Joseph Outbridge—the Brigade's first Colonel—back to Newfoundland from his winter home in Bermuda. Sir Joseph looks hale and hearty after the winter and has always taken a great interest in the boys of his old Regiment.

We note Old Comrades Geo. Edgecombe and Gordon Yates left us last week—the former for his ranch in British Columbia and the latter back to business in New York. We bid them an revoir and good luck.

LI-COL. Walter Rendell, C.B.E., Officer Commanding has been honoured with an autographed photo of Field Marshal Earl Haig as a souvenir of his visit. The Colonel's usual big heart he is passing it over to adorn the walls of the Officers' Mess Room at Headquarters Armoury for which we thank him. The Brigade has a pleasing visit from the Rev. H. Kirby, Officer Commanding Lamshe Company Thursday evening. The Colonel and staff were glad to see him present and to confer on him the freedom of the Mess. Lamshe Company is doing good work and we hope another year to try and arrange to have a contingent of their Company at Topsail Camp.

Mellon Sees Good Business Coming In The Fall. (Boston News Bureau.) One might expect reference to one Madison Square affair as something deserving of comment. We refrain from giving it serious mention. We prefer to turn to the hopeful prophecy of Secretary Mellon wherein he says that in his opinion "business will show a decided improvement in the fall," and get this: "Never in my memory have indications pointed as strongly as they do now to election of a Republican President."

"Home" Strikes at Isle Au Bois

SHIP LEAKING IN FOREPEAK. According to a message received last night by the Railway management, S.S. Home, Capt. Norman, struck at Isle au Bois last evening whilst on the route to Battle Harbor, but fortunately came off the rocks a few hours later. The ship's forepeak is full of water but the damage is not sufficient to prevent her continuing to her destination. On reaching Battle Harbor, the Home will proceed direct to St. John's. Will Glencoe leaving Argentina to-day upon arrival at Port aux Basques take up the Home's route.

Shipping

S.S. Songson has entered at Corner Brook from Glasgow with a general cargo. S.S. Lisgar County is leaving Charlottetown on Monday for this port. THE TRAINS—The incoming express with the Kyle's mail and passengers is not due to reach the city before 6 o'clock. The local Carbonar train arrived at 12:30. An excursion train for points as far as Killipore will leave the Depot at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Return to town will be made at 4:30 p.m. The regular cross country express will go out to-morrow at 4 p.m.

Report Voters' Lists for Plebiscite
Now Being Printed—Premier Denies —Government Supporters, However, Say Vote Will Be in October.

Toronto, July 8. (C.P.)—Information from authoritative Toronto sources and confirmed by despatches from Western Ontario municipalities indicate that notices have been sent out from Queen's Park to the clerks of the various municipalities to print part three of the voters' lists, which, in semi-official quarters, was accepted as certain intimation that a plebiscite is to be held very soon, says the Toronto Globe this morning.

Although official Government announcement of a date and the manner of the vote would be expected simultaneously with the order for the preparation of the voting lists, none was forthcoming from the Parliament Buildings, Premier Ferguson, from whom such announcement would undoubtedly come, was out of the city all day yesterday, having made a trip Thursday night to his home in Kemptville.

When spoken to on the long distance telephone, however, Premier Ferguson stated he was not aware that specific instructions had gone out to print the lists. "There has been no definite conclusion on the part of the Government," he stated,
"and nobody has any authority to say anything on the matter. As I have already said, I will have a full statement to make to the public very shortly."

In other Conservative circles, however, the Globe continues, persons were found who profess to know something of the Government's intentions. October is said to be the month of the majority's choice, and the dates mentioned are October 8, a Wednesday, and October 20, a Monday. The middle Monday of the month was discussed, it was said, until some one consulted a calendar and found that it was the 18th and that idea was promptly abandoned.

There is really no mystery about the prediction of James A. McAusland, Conservative member for South West Toronto, that a vote would be taken before October 31, for October 31 is the end of the provincial fiscal year, at which time the $500,000 voted for plebiscite expenses expires. If official Government action has not been taken by that time the half million dollars reverts to the general fund of the province, and would have to be re-voted at the next session for a 1925 vote.

As to the kind of ballot that is to be submitted, Premier Ferguson has never given the least intimation, the Globe goes on. Repeatedly in the Legislature he told W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader and member of the Opposition that the Government must and would accept full responsibility for gauging the wishes of the public in the preparation of the questions to be submitted. But previous to the sitting of the Legislature, in pre-election addresses he said he had a policy that would please every reasonable-thinking elector.

THE DANGEROUS GIFT.

It is a misfortune not to be able to articulate, to have ideas and convictions and not to be able to put them across eloquently and convincingly.
But, on the other hand, it is a dangerous gift to be articulate. It is only the wisest and best people in the world had the gift of eloquence the whole face of world affairs would be changed.
Of course even they wouldn't always use the gift for the best purpose, but at least they would use it wisely a majority of the time, and that is more than you can say for the average human being.

A group of us were talking over our fraternal days, regretting a certain measure which had afterward proved a mistake. "Who on earth persuaded us to do that?" said one woman.
"I did," confessed another.
"For pity's sake, why? What good did you think it would do?"
"Because she was sore at Jane."
"I didn't really think it would do any good," said the perpetrator of the foolish measure. "I never told anyone, but I'll tell you now why I did it.
Jane was against it, and you know Jane was terribly clever and rather conceited and I was sore at her then for something, and I knew that I could talk better than she could and had more hold on the girls than she did and I just made up my mind that I'd show her what I could do. So I made some kind of an appeal and put that thing through. I didn't realize then what a mistake it was, I didn't care much about it either way, but I just wanted to show Jane. Wasn't that horrid of me?"

"Yes she is conscientious."
And we agreed it was.
Now this woman is in the main a very conscientious woman and very anxious to do the right thing. Yet she used her gift of eloquence to help pass a measure that she didn't really care about, that was to cost money, and that afterward proved a distinct mistake.
Truly articulateness is a dangerous gift.

When you think of the harm it can do in high places it makes you sick at heart.

Good Reasons And Real Reasons.
Even when people are reasonably wise and good, they are swayed at times by petty and unworthy emotions —the wish to show their power, to dominate someone else, to pass a measure that will make their names famous, to please some faction. They probably don't acknowledge these motives to themselves, they protect their self-respect by thinking they are really doing the thing for the good of others. It takes a moment of honesty such as that which my friend indulged in in her confession to throw the flashlight on the real reasons.

And when people aren't well intentioned,—well, I started to say how much more dangerous they are, but I'm not so sure of that after all.

THE LESSON OF FAILURE.

It wasn't the failure which hurt me.
And it wasn't the sting of the blow;
It wasn't the cheers of the throng in my ears
For the smiling, victorious foe,
But the knowledge that I hadn't ventured to try
They think that ill luck had betrayed me,
They think by mischance I was thrown
They would soothe my defeat with encouragement sweet,
But I know what to them is unknown—
I failed to be true to the best I could do,
And the blame for the loss is my own.

Now, looking back over the battle,
And living the long struggle through,
I could take second place with a smile
on my face
Had I lost with the best I could do,
But what hurts me to-day is the half-hearted way
That I fought with disaster in view,
And this is the lesson of failure.

It is this that we learn in the test:
Too often we lose by neglecting to use
The courage of which we're possessed.
And now that it's done, though I might not have won,
I could have lived up to my best.

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT S.P.A.
FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 11.

Attended to the landing 130 head cattle, 33 pigs, 8 calves, 60 hens, 44 sheep, 5 horses, from the Canadian Sapper. All watered and fed and paid every attention by Mr. M. Kennedy and those under him, at the Furness Withy Company. I also attended the landing of two carloads of cattle at the Railway Station, and two sales cattle at the St. John's Abattoir Company. Mr. McKay, the manager, had a special constable to keep the boys and people from tormenting cattle during the sales, for which I am very grateful. I humanely put to death four dogs, two on Gower Street, one on Pierce Avenue, which had bitten a boy, and one on Fleming Street which had been badly injured by a large New Dog. Got a complaint from a young woman who had been badly bitten by a dog on Hamilton Ave., also of a boy who had been bitten on Patrick Street. I would like for people to understand that I cannot shoot a dog unless I get consent from the owner or am ordered by the police. I also got a complaint from Mr. Lang-mead, Pouch Cove, about some sheep belonging to him which had been badly used. Also one from Mr. Hanlon, Nagle's Hill, about some cattle being badly tormented by boys or some person around there. If those people will give me the names of those who are guilty of this act, I will summon the offenders on the charge of cruelty to animals. I was also asked to examine a horse belonging to Harvey and Co., which had been grazing in a field on Winter Avenue, where a barbed wire fence had been erected. The horse had been laid up two weeks with a bad cut in the chest and foreleg. I understand they are condemning this fence in Canada. It is a pity to see such a beautiful animal torn, as this one was. The use of barbed wire fences is cruel where animals are concerned and its use should be abandoned in future as it serves no purpose. Barbed wire fences cause heavy losses in cuts to animals and should be discontinued. Complaints are general against firms who open up packing cases and leave nails on the roadside. I called on the people in different places who promised to give their best attention to it in future and see that nails are all picked up.
I paid particular attention to the houses during the holidays and had nothing whatever to complain of, which speaks very well for their owners.
Fifty-seven different complaints have been attended to this week. It is useless to complain to me of annoyances from hens, cats and dogs trespassing on other folks' garden plots. Folk should fence their gardens to keep these petty invaders out. All boys and girls are asked to carry on the good work of picking up nails off city streets, and throwing them in the drains out of harm's way.

High Commissioner Gordon Addresses the Rotarians

High Commissioner Victor Gordon was the guest of the St. John's Rotary club at their luncheon held Thursday. Chairman Rotarian J. R. Meehan on behalf of the Rotary Club extended a hearty "welcome home" to Mr. Gordon, who expressed his deep appreciation of the cordial welcome and generous hospitality shown him by all his Newfoundland friends.

The address of the High Commissioner delivered at the luncheon contained valuable information and desirable constructive criticism regarding our Newfoundland industries and resources, and the suggestions contained therein deserve serious attention if we hope to develop a market for our products. It is published in full as follows:—

ADDRESS BY HIGH COMMISSIONER GORDON.

Mr. Chairman, Rotarians and Guests:—

I understand, Sir, that after the excellent manner of good Rotarians the keynote of these proceedings is to be brevity. I shall not lose any time therefore in coming to the subject which is the work of the High Commissioner's Office in London. First of all let me say how pleased I am to be home again, and how grateful for the kindly welcome of my many friends.

The London Office, gentlemen, was opened late in 1918, and it started upon the most favourable auspices, having Sir Edgar Bowring in control. It is not necessary to tell the people of this city that Sir Edgar sets a very high standard in everything that he does, and that he adorns any position that he occupies. Since his retirement it has been my endeavour faithfully to maintain the dignity of the position, and to preserve the honour and reputation of the Dominion, at the Capital of the Empire. Each of the five self-governing Dominions has its High Commissioner, and only recently another was added—the High Commissioner for the Free State of Ireland. The Office is, therefore, part of the Constitution of the British Empire, just as much a part of the Constitution as any other department in the State.

The work that we do in London is very varied; our office there is a very busy one, so much so that this is the first time in five and a half years that I have been able to get away for more than a few days at a time. Besides a mass of correspondence we have a large number of people to interview, people who want to know about our resources in minerals, forests, fisheries, and about sport in the interior. We write articles for newspapers, and give interviews to the press; we distribute booklets and other literature to the schools of the United Kingdom, and to people who are interested in the Colony. In short, we do everything in our power, by thought, word and deed, to advance the interests of Newfoundland and to bring into prominence her attractions and her potential commercial wealth. The doors of the High Commissioner's Office are wide open to Newfoundlanders, and I think it has been a great convenience to visitors in London. During the lean years of unemployment following the war, our office assisted two hundred distressed seamen. In some cases it meant finding them passages home; in others it consisted in finding them employment. Every year we purchase stores for the Government Department (and this is a branch that is capable of considerable extension), such as potatoes and fertilizer, silver plate and biscuits as awards to seamen, fittings for the hospitals and equipment for the local brigades.

The London Agents for Newfoundland shippers use the office freely in cases where the interests of their principals are concerned, for instance where a cargo has been wrongly seized at some foreign port—our Office immediately makes representations and the situation is relieved.

In the year 1916 the High Commissioner was able to do some good in disposing of a cargo of fish to the Roumanian Government, shipped by the S.S. Bakostin. It is true we only got bonds in payment but had this sale not been made it would have meant a dead loss of over a million dollars to the shippers of this country.

On another occasion a crisis was reached in the salt market; a grave shortage of salt looked like imperiling the fishery. The London Office set to work on receipt of a cable from St. John's, and within a few days a cargo of salt by the steamer Iris, was on the high seas bound for this country.

In the course of our work we have endeavoured to make some useful additions to the Museum by supplying war trophies and the historic flags of the Newfoundland Penobscia.

We write and issued an illustrated booklet from the Office without expense to the Government, and have distributed many thousands of copies. Claims by and against Germany and other enemy countries are received at the London Office; which has also assisted in a variety of ways in the preparation of our case over the Labrador Boundary.

In the way of shipping we have tried to be of service to the Colony, whether by the purchase of Admiralty steamers, or by interesting trader owners in the Bank fishery, or by arranging with the Cunard Company for the mammoth liner Caronia to divert her course and land Field Marshal Haig in this city.

The High Commissioner has a variety of other duties, but I would only weary you if I referred to them at length—duties such as obtaining passports and facilitating travellers, advising about the statute laws of the Colony, repatriating shipwrecked crews, attending meetings of all kinds of committees, the Navy League, and such like; supervising the Colony's participation at Exhibitions like the Timber Exhibition of 1922 and the Advertising Exhibition a year later; he has to attend meetings and public functions of all kinds, and to speak whenever opportunity offers about Newfoundland, and thereby arouse people's interest in the Colony.

The recent important investigation into the Cod Liver Oil industry's originated in the High Commissioner's Office, and I think I am right in saying that it is impossible to estimate the value of that investigation, to the trade of the Country. The Office has assisted in securing Agencies for business men in Newfoundland and by introducing Newfoundlanders to British capitalists, and can do a great deal more in that direction. The Office is used by business people in England as a place of reference, where they can apply for valuable information on matters of business. We can often assist in the settlement of disputed claims and all that kind of thing.

The introduction of British capital into this country is one of the main objects of our attention, and this is a branch which should be increasingly active in the future when the effect of the past years of post-war depression has died away. During the past few months we have been busy interesting a large financial group in the possibility of developing a port on the South Coast of the Island, and success has attained our efforts to the extent that a local examination is now being made, and the proposal, if found practicable, has every chance of materializing. At any rate no stone has been left unturned, so far as the High Commissioner's Office is concerned, to bring about the consummation of this admittedly desirable project.

I have made no mention of the Pensioners' Department in the London Office, although the work in this branch is very considerable. We have nearly one hundred pensioners; widows and dependents, and disabled ex-Servicemen, for whom medical boards have to be arranged and pensions paid each month. Hospital treatment in some cases has to be arranged at various times.

We have had the handling of medals for ex-Servicemen, and have collected $30,000 in Prize Money for Naval Reserve Rank and Ratings.

The share of the Royal Nfld. Regt. in canteen profits, (about $15,000), has also passed through our hands; and we have collected from the Imperial Government on account of Naval and Forestry Pensions nearly $200,000. Forestry Corps clothing allowances, and General Assistance pay, which has been collected by our Office from the Imperial Government, has amounted to about $100,000.

I hope this brief survey of our work made from memory will convince you that the High Commissioner's Office is a live concern that it is a powerful institution, for that is what it is intended to be. In saying that no personal allusion is made; the object of the Empire Constitution is that each Dominion High Commissioner shall be a powerful agent for the State he represents, and the British Government, and that the Dominion has given the High Commissioner an established place in the formal table of precedents.

It may interest you to know that the Newfoundland Office in London is run cheaper than any other Dominion or Colonial Agency. While we have the status of a Dominion to maintain, a status identical with that of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, and the Union of South Africa, we spend less, and considerably less, than the office of the Province of Nova Scotia, or any other Canadian Province.

With your co-operation, gentlemen, I think we can get things done, and I hope you will assist and encourage me. The object closest to my heart is the advancement of the interests of Newfoundland and Newfoundlanders.

I must say a word or two about the staff at 55 Victoria Street, who have assisted me so faithfully and so well in carrying on the work of the Department. Mr. Hutchings and Mr. Piggott are great workers for the Colony. No one could have more loyal associates; and the same applies to Miss Thunder and Sgt. Major Segers. Thank goodness they haven't yet formed themselves into a Union and demanded an eight hour day. They all work their level best, not so much for the reward as, because

"The game is more than the players and the ship is more than the crew."

BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

Before I sit down I should like to say a few words about the Exhibition as a matter of fact I don't think we would have had a place at Wembley if all had it not been for the Office.

In London I had the pleasure of working with a strong advisory committee who were unstinting in their energies to make our display a success.

It is admitted, I think, that the Newfoundland Pavilion is quite attractive and is now under the capable management of Mr. D. J. Davies, who is working in his efforts to get results. He is assisted by Mr. R. C. Robinson, a great friend of Newfoundland, who does great work for the Colony without any thought of reward.

I don't know what you gentlemen think but I regard the British Empire as the greatest creation in the history of mankind, and the Exhibition is a faithful replica of that wonderful creation. The record attendance at Wembley so far as our Pavilion is concerned before I left was $21,000 people on Whit Monday. On that day, as many as 70 people per minute were counted passing through, and in a fortnight a number equal to the population of Newfoundland passes in and out of our building.

A large number of enquiries have been received regarding many of our products. Special interest has been shown in our tinned and carton fish products, and it is quite possible that a trade in these can be developed with the United Kingdom.

Messrs. Brand & Co. Ltd., of London, the manufacturers of the famous "Brand's Essence" and "A.I. Sotice," were asked by me to criticize our Exhibits of foodstuffs, which they have done in the following letter:—

Brand & Co. Ltd., Mayfair Works, Vauxhall, South Lambeth Road, S.W. 8, 12th June, 1924.

Captain Victor Gordon, High Commissioner for Nfld., 55 Victoria Street, S.W. 1.

Dear Sir:—I would like to express my appreciation of the courtesy of your interview, and for the interesting information you were able to impart with reference to the possibilities of development in Newfoundland products.

As you are well aware, it is always our endeavour to foster and assist Empire Trade whenever possible, and it was with that end in view that I was desirous of seeing samples. The following samples to the effect, and have been carefully tasted:—

Flaked Codfish in Carboard Cartons.

Bonitos Codfish in Cartons.

Cod's Roe in Glasses.

Cod's Tongues in Glasses.

Selected Codfish in Glasses.

May be permitted to observe, in the first instance, that the packages do not do justice to the contents. The British public have been educated to a high standard of expectation with regard to foodstuffs. Everything which does appeal to the eye, and even the choicest products stand no chance of successful marketing unless first the palate is reached "Through the Eye." The labels on the above products are very crude, and we could not offer such packages to any of our customers who are First Class Food Purveyors.

As far as the packing of COD'S TONGUES are concerned, the appearance is extremely bad, and unless some better method of packing can be found, I would recommend that this line be dropped.

The COD'S ROES should be a very saleable article, but should be in smaller containers, say a maximum of 10-oz. glasses. Provided that these bear very attractive labels, there should certainly be a market in this country for this line.

CODFISH IN GLASS.—This does not appear to me to be a very interesting problem, except for Hotel and Restaurant use, where they would use it for the preparation of Fish Cakes.

CARTONS OF BONELESS CODFISH IN CARDBOARD CARTONS.—This appears an excellent line, and providing that the carton was of pleasing cardboard, I would suggest that a very good market for it could be found in Ireland, and in centres where there was a large Catholic population.

FLAKED CODFISH.—We have had a great deal of experience in the handling of a similar product, i.e., "MARVIS" FLAKED FISH. Although our Representatives have endeavoured to introduce this, not only in England, but in most parts of the world, they had very unsatisfactory experiences. We cannot afford to overlook what seems to be an innate prejudice against the minds of British consumers against "Flaked" Meat Products. Despite the most emphatic guarantees they still feel that some adulteration must take place, or that some preservative is added, hence their reluctance to try such products as FLAKED CODFISH, which, of course, we recognize as perfectly genuine, and of great food value.

Our experience is that the public are becoming increasingly particular (and for this we are thankful) in the purchase of canned, cartoned, and glass packed foods. The English Press for some time has been conducting Pure Food Campaigns, which have intensified their keenness for attractive-looking and guaranteed pure products. May we suggest that among the most successful firms who are marketing foods which need careful preparation and preservation are:—

and if some of the Newfoundland packers would familiarize themselves with the high standard of packing adopted by this and other American firms, they would stand a better chance of developing business in the United Kingdom market.

May I take the liberty of expressing renewed good wishes for the development of Newfoundland industries, and our readiness to do anything in our power to assist the marketing of them in this country. With compliments, I remain,

Yours faithfully,

BRAND & CO., LTD. (Sgd.) G. J. Brady.

The Exhibit of EEL GRASS has proved of great interest to both Matress and Cushion Manufacturers. This may prove a new and profitable industry for Newfoundland. The cost is required as the present time are approximate figures for the cost of collecting and drying and freight to Liverpool or London. The market price of this commodity varies from $7.00 to $26.00 per ton in London.

FORESTS.—There are many enquiries of a general nature in connection with our forests. We are now in touch with a firm of timber importers here who appear to be very anxious to start a pulp and paper mill in our country. They are Messrs. Bishop, Campbell & Miller, Ltd., of 66 Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C. Our timber exhibits are most attractive to capitalists connected with the pulp and paper industry.

DRESSED SEAWEEDS.—These and the great variety of articles manufactured from them are attracting very considerable attention from the public. The names of the firms who have lent us these goods are prominently displayed in glass cases, and the public are informed that articles such as these shown can be bought at Harrod Stores, London.

INTERNATIONAL GREENFELD ASSOCIATION.—The exhibits of this Association are worthy of the space given to them.

KNITTED GOODS.—The knitted goods of the Newfoundland Outport Nursing and Industrial Association are most attractively displayed—thanks to the efforts of Miss May Purloin—and it will be a very easy matter to find a ready sale for these articles later on. Our Newfoundland

Cleaner skin-- easier digestion-- regular elimination-- these can be yours!

The example illustrated here is typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low, so that the skin, stomach and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—invigorating the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active.

Disolve one cake in a glass of water (Just hot enough to drink).

Fleischmann's Yeast comes only in the tin-foil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! A few days' supply will keep fresh in your ice box as well as in the grocery.

Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain. Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health address: The Fleischmann Company, 201 Duckworth Street, St. John's, N.F.

—before breakfast and at bedtime, Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation.

"I watched her crumble the crisp cake into the milk. We drifted into conversation. She sang of the magic of Fleischmann's Yeast. Many months before, her doctor had recommended it and she confessed she owed the clearness of her complexion to its use.

"I was persuaded to try the yeast in milk, and prepared to swallow an obnoxious dose. I was pleasantly surprised. It proved a delightfully palatable drink.

"Fleischmann's Yeast waged a successful battle against the cancer sores, dried up the existing ones and cured the stomach condition which was causing them. I faced my winter's work with enthusiasm, and came through triumphant."

BETTER OR WORSE.

When Charles Adolphus married Katie, and paid the preacher from his purse, he said "The marriage vow is weighty she's mine for better or for worse. I quite expect to find her better, but if she proves a glided brick, I'll be no piker, donnerwetter! the sacred marriage vow must stick." And Katie said, "No vow is greater than is the well known marriage pledge; though Charles may prove a selling-plater, the vow must stand, I will not hedge." And each developed tastes unpleasant that made the other sad and sore, and for a season grief was present, and trouble knocked upon the door. It seemed dissonance had pre-empted the right of way, and marked their course; and there were times when each was tempted to buy a rummage sale divorce. But each one sternly strove to smother resentment, anger and distaste; they looked for good in one another—their pledges must not go to waste. And Katie's whims were thus forgiven, and Charlie's tantrums cut no ice; dissension from their home was driven, they knew the peace beyond all price. And as the dusk of life grows nearer, as eyes grow dim and strength departs, each finds the other ever dearer, eternal youth is in their hearts. Men take their brides for worse or better, brides take their men with vows sublime, then idly break the golden fetter that should unite them for all time.

Many-Eyed Insects

Some insects are liberally provided with eyes. In general, they have two kinds—simple and compound. Simple eyes are like our own, though less efficient, while compound eyes are composed of numerous facets or lenses.

Most people know how difficult it is to catch the common house-fly. This is not surprising when one realizes that a fly's eye possesses 44000 facets. Consequently there is not much that is out of its line of vision. The dragon-fly's eye has 12,000 facets, and the Mordella beetle's eye is made up of no fewer than 25,000.

While the compound eyes never exceed two, the single eyes vary in number from one to eighteen or twenty. They are situated in groups on each side of the head.

Spiders and scorpions have both single and compound eyes, though they appear to derive little benefit from them.

Perils of the Bathtub

The opposition of the medical profession to the bathtub, when it was first introduced into this country, was possibly more far-sighted than one would be inclined to think. The Japanese, it will be noted, have always considered bathtubs unclean, unwholesome, and experiments reported by Katherine Hirst and Jean Broadhurst, of Teachers' College, New York in The Nation's Health (Chicago) tend to confirm this opinion, at least in cases where tubs are used by a considerable number of persons without chemical cleansing between times. The experiments recommended the free use of chlorinated lime, or better still the substitution of the shower-bath. Many people, the writers say, are willing to substitute the more stimulating shower for the morning tub, but at night most people prefer the more soothing and relaxing effects of the warm tub bath. There are, however, strong arguments for replacing bathtubs by showers in dormitories, boarding-houses, and probably in a large percentage of private homes. This is indicated by the study already described, undertaken to test the persistence of characteristic body organisms. We read further:

"Since Bacterium coli is a constant and prominent inhabitant of the human intestines, it was selected as an indicative organism in this study of the bathtub problem. Its persistence would not necessarily prove the survival of definite disease organisms, but we, as a nation, would instinctively object to using a tub we knew held such traces of previous occupancy."

"The bathtubs studied were dormitory tubs, used by groups of eight or ten people each. The bathtub samples were obtained by rubbing a fresh cotton swab in three places on each tub. Each swab was placed immediately in a fermentation tube. On incubating two to three days, some of the tubes showed the well-known Bacterium reaction."

"In all, one hundred and thirteen bathtubs were tested in this way. Of these, thirty-nine were found to give positive Bacterium coli findings."

"This shows that at least one-third of the bathtubs were not thoroughly cleaned between periods of use. The following statements may be made:

"1. As many positive results were obtained from bathtubs that were dry as from wet bathtubs.

"2. The bottom and edge of the drain, which are the slowest places to become dry, show the highest percentage of Bacterium coli findings.

"3. No relationship existed between the results obtained and the eye classification of the tubs as 'clean' or 'dirty.'

"4. No definite figures were obtained with regard to time intervals since occupancy, because the bathtubs were used irregularly throughout the day as well as during the rush hours at night and morning."

"From this portion of the work the following conclusions are evident:

"1. Since Bacterium coli is so frequently found in bathtubs, other organisms that are definitely pathogenic may be transferred through the indiscriminate use of bathtubs, especially where very short intervals elapse between the times when the tub is in use, as in the more rushed morning and evening hours."

"2. Special investigations are necessary regarding the methods of cleaning bathtubs."

"Various cleaning agents and disinfectants were tried out. Ammonia failed to kill the organisms in sixteen out of sixteen trials. Kerosene tested five minutes after application failed to kill the organisms in four out of four tests; when tested fifteen minutes after application, kerosene failed in three out of four tests."

"Chlorinated lime, as obtained at ordinary grocery stores in small tin boxes gave very good results, when used as a powder or in freshly made saturated solutions. Tests made five minutes after each application showed that Bacterium coli was killed in twelve out of twelve trials."

"Neither of two commercial disinfectants was effective in the dilution advertised, the each killed Bacterium coli in one minute when the solution was twice as strong as the one recommended."

"The domestic cleansing agents (two frictional and one chemical) were quite unsatisfactory."

"In all 176 tests were made with eight common disinfecting and cleaning agents."

"Chlorinated lime is the most satisfactory of the agents tested for home and institutional use, both because of its low cost and the rapidity with which it acts. Since stock solutions are effective for seven days, an ordinary five-cent can could be dissolved in a quart of water and kept in a corked jar or bottle for use during the entire week. There is probably no addition to the cleaning and disinfecting substances used in the home so well worth the money and the slight amount of labor required."

"It is recommended, therefore, that:

"1. Bathtubs in boarding-houses, hotels, dormitories, etc., should be washed throughout with chlorinated lime after use, or at least five minutes preceding filling."

"2. If adequate disinfection can not be assured, bathtubs should be replaced by showers."

Right Diet for Dogs

VARIETY IS THE SPICE OF APPE-TITE.

Your dog, like yourself, will get very tired of being given the same sort of food each and every day. Also a monotonous diet will most probably make him ill.

Dog biscuits are an excellent food for dogs, but they should be considered as the foundation of a meal and not given alone.

A meal which any dog will thoroughly enjoy can be made from house scraps. The remains of meat, fish (minus the bones), puddings, and a little of the left-over potatoes of the past day should be mixed with soaked biscuits or bread, and then some good gravy, soup, or milk should be poured over it.

It is quite safe to give a dog vegetables, though few dogs will eat them. A good meaty bone is beloved by all dogs, but bones should not be given with a meal—they come afterwards.

Guard against chicken, rabbit and game bones, as they splinter easily and may stick in an animal's throat.

One meal a day may be enough for some dogs, but it is a good plan, says Lieut.-Colonel E. H. Richardson, in "Watch Dogs: Their Training and Management," to give a light meal in between. That is, if a dog is fed early in the day, it should have a few dog or sweet biscuits and a drink of milk at tea-time.

Many people have an idea that meat is bad for a dog, but if it is well mixed with other food in moderation it does no harm, but a certain amount of good milk is excellent for dogs, and they like it.

A very important point in feeding a dog is regularity. Whatever time it has been decided to feed the dog—and this depends on what the dog's duties are—it must be rigidly adhered to. If a dog is used as a night watch it should not be fed too late or it will become sleepy and therefore less alert.

It must be remembered, too, that a dog takes longer than a human being to digest its food.

Owners of toy dogs often fuss over their pets' food. This is quite unnecessary; they should be fed just as any other dog.

Special Pleading

Manchester Guardian: Internationally the British Commonwealth is still, and we hope will long continue to be, a unity in the eyes of the world in its international obligations. The power of any Dominion to contract out of a treaty signed by the Crown is incompatible with this unity. Power to decide what measure of help they shall give in men or in materials, when grave emergency arises, the Dominions have long had. To that extent they can decline active participation in a war or in the fulfilment of treaty obligations. But technically the pledges of the Crown bind them in the face of the world, and when Mr. King speaks of the Treaty of Versailles, which Canada signed, as having "moral" obligations for her, while the Treaty of Lausanne has only "normal" ones, it is easier to understand his mind than it would be to persuade an enemy of Great Britain in a position to attack Canada that his argument has any force.

A Mystery Fish

The British Museum authorities have notified the curator of the Hull Museum of Fisheries that a strange fish caught off the Icelandic coast by a Hull trawler and landed at Hull is apparently unknown to science. There is nothing like it in the national collection.

The fish is one yard in length. The head is very soft and flabby, and the head is after the type of a halibut. Its entire surface is covered with sharp and hard conical spines, resembling white ivory. The skin is coal black.

Its tail resembles a gloved hand with eight fingers, between each of which is a thin web. In the centre of the back is a rod-like feature with a tassel-shaped structure. At its end is a red flesh ball, which, according to the experts, is used as a bait to draw smaller fish near so that they can be snapped in the powerful jaws.

Tobacco, when smoked, releases a certain amount of half-consumed product in the form of smoke. Cigar smoke, when seen between the eye and the sun, no longer reflects, but shows in its true colour as a sort of dark brown. If the smoke is taken into the mouth it cools, and the little particles join into larger ones, so that they no longer catch the blue waves only but the whole light, and so appear white or colourless.

Interior tobaccos, too, give off larger particles of smoke, which also fail to catch the blue waves only.

In the Realms of Sport

AND QUITE EIGHT TOO!

Editor Sportographs

Dear Sir.—There has been a great deal of adverse criticism of the officials, following the tournaments against the Constance, and much of it and in fact most of the opinion-expressing in general, is done without the necessary thought and the necessary knowledge.

Our new rules, the most up-to-date in existence by the way, are quite simple and self-explanatory, and anyone can get a copy without trouble. The method of judging and the exact awarding of points is given in full detail, besides a free instruction in what the science consists of, and anyone in the audience can score for himself—not not one in a hundred of the loud critics has ever read the rules. The ordinary person is not born with a complete knowledge of boxing.

The Advocate came out hot-foot last night against Davis not being counted out when he went through the ropes in his bout with Goodyear. He would have been counted out but for the little fact that he was shoved through and not knocked through, and with a punch on the shoulder at that.

Also, as a matter of further discussion, the amateur definition of a clinch is when either party is holding. It is very easy to fake a hold for the other man and still hit, so for the protection of the referee and the cleaning of the game no man is allowed to strike when any holding at all takes place. The clincher pays however in the deduction of points as provided, in full by the rules. "Fighting may still be freely indulged in without clinching as was amply demonstrated by the Marshall-Vandersteeen bout.

Lastly, boxing here is in its infancy, and our officials have to insist on the strict interpretation of the letter of the law to bring up our boxing element properly. We are badly handicapped by a lack of eligible men, as officials. The job is a hard and disagreeable one and one that nobody wants. Now how about the sporting public, instead of knocking the officials, give us a little encouragement and a helping hand, not to speak of some training facility. Without two of our best champions and no preparation whatever we can show visitors a thing or two, don't you think we have earned more than a pat on the back?

Yours sincerely,
ARTHUR JOHNSON
St. John's, July 12th, 1924.

B. I. S. THE VICTORS.

The football match between the B. I. S. and C.E.I. teams, played at St. George's Field last night, was witnessed by only a small sprinkling of fans. The brand of football exhibited was only fair and ended in a one-sided victory for the B. I. S. by a score of six goals to their opponent's one.

What promises to be the hardest fought game of the season takes place on Monday night next, when the Cadets and Guards try conclusions. Both teams are in the running for the championship.

FOR 30 YEARS.

MONTREAL, July 7.—Following a meeting of the National Hockey League here over the week-end, it is announced that the clubs comprising the League—Canadiens, of Montreal, and the Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto clubs—agreed to sign a contract binding them together for a period of 30 years. The feeling of the meeting was that those who carried professional hockey through its dark days should stick together.

Under the agreement, none of the individuals or clubs will be allowed to take part in any other professional hockey venture without the unanimous consent of the other clubs.

New York clubs were not represented, but it is anticipated that at least one New York team will be admitted and that there will be a second team in Montreal, thus making a six club league.

Two applications for membership were received and deferred to the next meeting.

Metagama Again in Trouble

SHIP GROUNDS ON "PANCAKE ROCK"—REFLOATED AT 3 A.M.—LATER PROCEEDS ON HER WAY.

The R.M.S. Metagama, with Pilot Ed. Malone in charge, went aground on Pancake Rock, in the Narrows, yesterday afternoon, about 2.16, and remained there until 3 o'clock this morning when, with the assistance of the S.S. Silvia and several tugs, she was towed off into deep water. The ship apparently suffered no damage and proceeded on her voyage at six o'clock.

The Metagama arrived here badly holed, on June 19th, last. Temporary repairs had been made at the dry dock wharf, and all preparations for her sailing to Quebec were completed by noon yesterday. The steamer, still with a considerable list, started down the harbor at 2 p.m., and dropped anchor off Harvey's premises. R.M.S. Constance had already moved from her position to another anchorage off the Furness Withy premises, to clear the way for the big ship. When moving out, about 3.45, the Metagama headed towards just in front of the Constance's bow, but seemed somewhat near the southern side. A minute later the stern was observed to swing across the narrows, and it was clear that she had run on the "Pancake Rock".

The engines were immediately reversed, but the ship failed to respond, and the captain and officers soon realized that she had firmly settled on the rock. As soon as her predicament was noticed, the tugs in the harbor rushed to her assistance. Tow lines and hawsers were soon made fast, when an effort was made to get the big ship off. But the best that could be done was to keep the list from swinging across the narrow. At 6.30 p.m., the Silvia, in port, with the necessary hawsers and lines on board, moved off from Harvey's premises to the ship's position. Two hawsers were quickly connected up, but as the tide was falling it was decided not to attempt to pull her off until morning.

The Red Cross liner anchored alongside, and with the rising tide at 7 a.m., the refloating of the ship was accomplished without very much trouble. The Metagama was then moored in the stream off the Battery. What damage the ship sustained is not known, but apparently it was not serious as she left port at 6 o'clock without any further interruption.

PANCAKE ROCK.

Pancake Rock, lying West North-westward, 3 1/2 cables from South Head and about 40 yards off the southern shore of the Narrows, is awash at high water. Little Pancake Rock lies Westward about 90 yards from Pancake Rock and has 6 feet of water over it.

At The Majestic

BIG PICTURE BOOKED FOR NEXT WEEK.

The programme at the Majestic today is the same as on Thursday and Friday. Ben Reddin is singing three splendid songs. The feature and two reel comedy are subjects that will surely please. Commencing Monday a series of his up-to-date photoplays will be screened with each change of programme. These pictures were contracted for some weeks ago and bear the highest recommendations possible. They were recently shown in the big American theatres and much publicity in the press followed. Patrons of the Majestic and lovers of the silent drama are reminded of these facts as something new and worth while is assured all. Look out for Monday's announcements.

Wedding Bells

COOK—LONG.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at Wesley Parsonage on July 9th, the contracting parties being Mr. H. E. youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Long, of Gilbert Street, and Violet, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Cook, of 47 Franklin Ave. Rev. J. Joyce officiating. The bride looked charming in blue crepe de chene with hat to match, and was given away by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Gladys Cook, who wore grey. Both carried bouquets of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. The best man was Mr. A. Long, brother of the groom. After the ceremony the party motored around Boving Park thence to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held and an enjoyable evening spent, after which the happy couple motored to Topsail for the honeymoon. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Long many years of wedded bliss.

The Sea's Black Treasure

Coal is one of the countless things that are lost at sea, especially near ports. And a port that is poorly sheltered from storms and wind is often the burying ground of many coal barges.

Such a spot is Newport, in Narragansett Bay, America. The bay, being exposed, gives little shelter to small shipping.

Frequently convoys of coal barges, bound from Long Island to Newport, get separated, and one or more are wrecked in the bay.

But now an enterprising American sailor is making a profitable living by retrieving this coal from the ocean bed and selling it.

He bought a boat and fitted a special boom to the mainmast. At the end of the boom is a huge one-ton "orange peel" bucket. This type of bucket has four gigantic fingers, which force themselves through the coal and then close together when drawn up.

Having discovered the spot where a barge has sunk, this ingenious man lets down his bucket and draws up the coal a ton at a time until his holds are full.

Coal is apparently unharmed by immersion in sea water, and, in fact, it seems to burn more brightly than ordinary coal.

HENRY BLAIR

Forty-Five Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram.

The Atlantic Cable

Improvements in Half a Century—Superintendent Thomas J. Foley.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

To write and describe the evolution of the Atlantic Cable system since the successful laying which was consummated on the 27th July, 1866, would occupy far more space than is at my disposal, even through the extensive columns of the Evening Telegram. Many changes have taken place since I entered the service of the old Anglo-American Telegraph Company—the pioneer company in Newfoundland—on the 24th June, 1870. And sad to relate all my associates (except my old friend, Adam Martin of Heart's Content) of those early days have passed from amongst us. It is true there are a few still in the flesh, but they have long taken up their residence in the United States and Canada, and, for the moment, I can only recall Peter H. Glendinning, who has retired, at present and for years past, residing in the State of Kansas, U.S.A., William and Edward Earle in the Provinces, and James Hagen of St. Pierre.

In my early days, the Atlantic Cable was operated by what was then known as the "mirror," on which a flashlight indicated the letters, which were "spelled" out by one operator, and taken down by another. Even on our land lines the "tape" was used in some of the offices, which marked the dots and dashes, and was taken down in writing on the official paper as the messages passed through. I think the last office to cling to the tape system was Carbon-car, in which my old friend, Mr. Geo. Nicholl, was in charge for many years. After a time it fell into disuse, and I do not think there is one of those primitive instruments to be had in Newfoundland to-day.

The longest dispatch ever sent over the telegraph lines (at least in Newfoundland) was that giving a description of the rescue of the 19 persons of the "Polaris" expedition, after being on the ice 197 days. They were rescued by the S.S. "Tigress" when on her second trip to the sealshery, and landed here on the 12th May, 1878. The famous sealhunter, Sapt. Isaac Barette, father-in-law of the equally famous Capt. Charles Daws, was in command. The Tigress arrived in Bay Roberts, and well I remember the message sent out from that enterprising newspaper man, James Gordon Bennett, of the New York Herald, to send on full particulars of the rescue of the portion of the "Polaris" crew by the Tigress. There was no limit mentioned as to the number of words. Bennett did not stop at trifles and expense did not count. When Stanley was in difficulties through shortness of funds and other causes, in his search for Livingston in the wilds of Africa, he asked Bennett what he was to do. The reply was by Spartan brevity, "Find Livingston," the necessary funds were quickly sent on, and Stanley found him.

I should say there were between 3,500 and 4,000 words in the report sent from Newfoundland, and it must be remembered that the tariff was far in excess of what it is to-day, and the facilities for dispatching were not near so great. The means adopted to get at the report was as follows: There was no telegraph office in Bay Roberts at that date (1873), and when the message from Bennett came to Harbor Grace Telegraph Office, our chief, the late W. H. Thompson, hired Laher's Crows' and Parsons' horses and carriages. He went to Bay Roberts in one of the teams, and the others were kept running between Bay Roberts and Harbor Grace as quickly as possible, each having a supply of the statements laid down by Mr. Thompson from the office in charge on board the Tigress. I mean the senior officer of the "Polaris" expedition. I think his name was Tyson. The poor fellows drifted over 2,000 miles on the icebergs, and a baby was born at the time, one woman (an Eskimo) being amongst the shipwrecked crew. They would never have survived if it were not for the famous Eskimo, Hans Christian, who had played a prominent part in Arctic explorations. There is at present a large photograph of the rescued explorers in the Museum, and it brings up old remembrances.

As the installments of the message were brought to Harbor Grace office by the horses and traps they were sent on to New York, via Heart's Content, and it is needless to say no time was lost in their dispatch. But this historic message is dwarfed into almost insignificance by that sent a short time ago from Paris to New York, wherein the entire document of the Daws' Report on Reparations was dispatched, and this report contained no less than 40,000 words. As has been stated by the New York Times: People who gave time and thought to the task of getting within ten words each of the few telegrams they send—and usually attain that end at the expense of lucidity—ought to be highly appreciative of one of the dispatches from Paris which appears in the New York Times. For that single communication from the City of Light offers to the student of foreign affairs the whole of the document which has come to be known as the "Daws' Report."

There are more than 40,000 (forty thousand words) words in the dispatch, every one of which came across the Atlantic over one or another of the three cables making the passage in less than nine hours. Many books contain less than 40,000 words, but there are not so many of greater importance to a greater number of countries than is the product of careful consideration given by highly competent experts to an enormously difficult problem.

The getting by cable of dispatches of this length, "runs into money," as the saying is, and reflection on its cost may inspire with wise caution some of the folk who speak so coolly about the establishment of new newspapers. This particular dispatch, however, though it probably breaks all records for length, does not set a high mark of expenditure in getting news from abroad. Not a few times the Times had spent more for information from places not so easily accessible as Paris, or whatever information was for its exclusive use. In this case, of course, nothing had to be paid for the material sent, the experts desiring that it should be as widely and quickly distributed as possible.

But what interests us in Newfoundland more particularly is the fact that one of our young countrymen, Mr. Thomas J. Foley, a native of the historic town of Brigus, C.B., played a most prominent part in this record-making event. The work of installing the Western Union receiving sets, authorized by Newcomb-Carlton, president, was under the care of our young friend, Mr. Foley, Superintendent of the New York Western Union Cable Office. Mr. Foley was in actual charge of the receiving, co-operating with C. A. Eric, Eastern Division traffic chief for The Associated Press.

News transmission history was written April 8th, when the full text of the Daws' Report was brought by cable from Paris to New York, as stated by one of the American papers. All speed records were broken. The report consisting of 39,727 words were carried under the Atlantic to New York in 8 hours' time. Four cables were brought into the A. F. office to speed delivery so that the full report might be available for publication in the United States, simultaneously more with its presentation to the Reparation Commission.

It marked the first time in history an ocean cable was operated directly into a newspaper or news association office. Western Union officials declared the report was the longest individual message ever sent by any means of wire communication, either cable or domestic. At the regular rate for press matter from Paris to New York of 10 cents a word, cost of the message would total more than $4,000.

Checking up the operation shows that one cable was working almost continuously from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., New York time, and continuously from 4 p.m. to 9.45 p.m.; that a second was working continuously from 4 p.m. to 9.45 p.m., and a third was working intermittently from 4 p.m. to 9.45 p.m. This gives an average speed of 3,700 words per hour for cable. The usual speed is 1,800 words per hour.

Filed at the Western Union office, Paris, the report was carried to London, where it went through a mechanical relay to New York. Copies were taken off at London. Using four cables, United Press relayed the report from New York to La Prensa, Buenos Aires, in 14 hours. Release was flashed from Paris at 8.45 a.m. (Buenos Aires time). The South American newspaper claims it was first in the world to print the full report.

Company, and are considered two of the most progressive steps in the history of submarine telegraphy made during the past 60 years.

Some few months ago, Mr. H. A. Saunders, Supt. of the Anglo-American, and Mr. Windler of the Commercial Cable Company kindly brought me to their respective offices and explained to me the various improvements which have taken place since my early days, and I had a practical illustration of the fact of the wonderful evolution in the service since the days of the "Pig and Whistle" and brought up remembrances of the happy days of yore, mixed with regrets at the absence of scores of my old associates who played such a prominent part in the telegraph service of this country. Two well-known veterans of the early days are still in the flesh, viz., Mr. Wm. Savin, storekeeper in the Anglo for over half a century, and Mr. Miller of Topsail, for many years a repairer in the same Company. Tobin, Tom and Ned Foley, Abbott, Lafferty, Post, Gossney, Sage, Holdership, Lafrancesco, and some scores of others of those veteran repairers with iron constitutions and herculean strength have gone to the great majority, and now only some half dozen of the old New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company remain, and in due course will also be called away, having fought the good fight, and witnessed the telegraph extension from its infancy to its present state of competency, and as near as possible to perfection.

An operator sat by the recording taps and as it unwound read the cable signals and translated them into English, transmitting them on a typewriter as they were received. The typewriter was equipped with wax candles from which many copies of the messages were made.

Three cables were used in transmission and a fourth was in readiness in case it was needed. The method was to break the message into 3 sections, the sending of each of which was begun and carried on simultaneously.

The regeneration cable repeaters and the overhead alphon recorder apparatus which made the performance possible were developed by the engineers of the Western Union Telegraph

Company, and are considered two of the most progressive steps in the history of submarine telegraphy made during the past 60 years.

GUARANTEED SUITES.

We are able to guarantee our Suites because we use only the best English materials throughout. Curled Hair, which we use exclusively, is the only material possessing the three necessary qualifications for Stuffing: Resiliency, Cleanliness and Durability. It costs more, but is most economical in the end.

We carry a full line of Velours, Velvets and Tapestries, and invite inspection.
