Our telegraph system, even more than our railway sytem, is dependent on the American system and so long as there are competing lines across the border it is easy to have competition here. Jay Gould's re- cent consolidation was planned to establish monopoly over there, but already the American Mutual Union, the Baltimore and Ohio (controlled by Garrett, Gould's great rival), the Lehigh Valley, and the American Rapid, have vindicated their in- dependence and have kept out of the clutches of the grasping Gould. WHAT MAY BE CALLED FREE TRADE.

We publish to day another letter from our correspondent "Reader," touching on our correspondent frequency, monor, agree with the the Globe's suggestion that such shafts farmers to the prosperity of the country should be erected in the most elevated generally, also on Sir Richard Cartwright's parts of the city or at the higher ends of position as a free trader. The latter point the sewers. Where people frequently go is also taken up by several of our contem- wrong on the sewerage question is in forporaries, and we are asked to explain what the essential difference is between a free sewer, like water, run down hill the gasses trade tariff and a protective one.

The essential difference between the two way upwards. Shafts in operation at the is not one of arithmetic merely, nor is the sewer summits would create a strong draft question disposed of when we have settled, upwards, to our houses instead of away should we ever be able so to do, whether from them, and would be working to a 171, or 20, or 25 per cent is the right great extent the wrong way. It would perhaps be unkind to draw attention to the many self-evident contradictions. Here is one : J. T. says, "Divine forgiveness is conditioned upon a penitent confession of sin." The Lords prayer states the conditions very differently, viz : 'l'orgive us our debts as we forgive cur debt-

The twenty-six suppressions of vice sup-ported by "J. T." profess latterly indigna-tion against the keepers of houses of ill-fame, and dilate upon the slavery to which the inmates are subjected. As I drew at-tention to this myself, in my first letter in your columns, I need not say I am in agreement with them. Still, even keepers politic, a source of waste of the nation's funds. In fact a body whose "usefulnessis gone." Cannington Gleaner: We think that Cannington Gleaner: We think that even at the expense of keeping intelligent young men waiting a few years for votes it would be no harm to require that a man be a househeolder, a rentpayer or a proprietor in the country over whose destines he claims an influence, and that he shell have sufficient education to enable him to rank with those an influence, and that he shall have sumotion education to enable him to rank with those who are no longer children. and maintain liberty—an axiom accepted as sound by the most enlightened jurispru dence. But what shall be said of th amazing inconsistency of the twenty-six suppressors of vice who strive to set a law in operation which they know must necessarily bear most severely upon the inmates, while professing chiefly to aim at the suppression of the keepers. Nor is it less in consistent to set forth, as the aim of the society, the punishment of frequenters equally with inmates while their whole effort is directed towards the enforcement

Henderson came and rapped at my door. I at once got up and let him in when he handed me a letter addressed to the chief, which requested the arrest of Abbey Burrill for the assault referred to in your article. Farther, it is quite doubtful, even yet, whether the act of prostitution in itself, apart from other crimes, constitutes a legal offence and yet the society for the suppres-sion of vice continues to urge that it be so dealt with. Justice Henry, of Ottawa, in his recent driving the batter and he I asked him where he got the letter and he said from this man (hear pointing to one t "Dock "Struthers, standng beside him in the room). Now, this "Dock," as he is called, is a man (if he is worthy of the name of a man) who is a "runner" forhouses of ill-repute, or seducing young girls from the path of virtue to fill the ranks of the fallen. I felt such a disgust of the man, and in the absence of a sworn charge or information I would not have anything to do with the case until such tatement was made, and I advised Chief Henderson to that effect. In answer ilton " case, insists that the rights of the under different circumstances thirty per cent may be none too much. Before going to the bar he was on the stage, and played for two years at Bath, Bristol, and other southern towns. He had played Friar Lawrence with Macready, and he filled the part here on one of the benefits for the Shakspeare statute at the winter garden. His income from his Parliamentary practice for ive years ranged from $35,000 to $75,000 a year. How the People Enjoyed It. "One touch of nature makes all the world akin, " says the poet; and if nature's touch did not make the whole world feel akin yesterday, it certainly did the good people of Toronto and vicinity The forenoon of Saturday looked forebod ing, and some of the alleged weather prophets of the city predicted a six-days downpour of rain. The afternoon did not brighten things much, and about 7 o'clock in the evening the promised rain commenced to come down, and it came down in real earnest for a time. The streets were early diserted and the street-lamps flickered faintly on the forms of the peopl who are bound to come out on a Saturda night, whether it be wind, snow, rain, sleet or hailstones that is on the program. The only place of amusement open was the Grand opera house, which was comfortably filled notwithstanding the "raging storm without." Those who took the trouble to Vicek out of doors at night were sure that the prophets were right—it would rain for a whole week. But thanks to this treacherous Canadian weather of ours, the treacherous Canadian weather of ours, the day of rest broke over the city clear and bright, and the genial rays of Old Sol soon flooded the streets and openings with a gelden aspect. As the day wore on the sun became brighter and more cheerful, and at high noon the air was loaded with a genuine fragrance of spring. Something About the Repertoire and Members of Emma Abbott's Company. The operas announced at the Grand opera house for Thursday, Friday and Saturday next by the Emma Abbott company will be given in thorough form, with full double chorus and grand orchestra. This is one of the most complete troups that has ever performed English opera, and both to principal artists and the ensembl have been accorded the highest praise. Martha on the first night will bring for ward Miss Abbott in the title role, the rest of the cast being filled by Signor Fabrini a well-known tenor formerly of the Mapleson company, as Lionel, George Conly, the famous basso profundo as Plunket, and Miss Lizzie Annandale. Finket, and Miss Lizzie Annandale. formerly the contralto of the Strakosch troupe as Nancy. Romeo and Juliet, which is announced for Friday, is the great master-piece of Gounod, second only to Faust. Miss Abbott assumes the role of Juliet, Castle, the well-known tenor the part of Romeo, Conly appearing as the priest Patience Conly appearing as the priest. Patience at the Saturday matinee will be given with grand opera cast. Miss Julie Rosewold. a famous soprano from the Dresden opera, taking the title role, Castle and Olmi as the two poets and Miss Annandale as Lady Jane. After the grotesque represen-tations that Gilbert and Sullivan's fascintations that Gilbert and Sullivan's fascin-ating satire has had it is said to be a re-freshing treat to see the opera dore in the true aesthetic tone. Donnizettis' master-piece, Lucia de Lammermour, will close the engagement on Saturday evening. Miss Abbott's Lucia is her greatest role, and remembering the applause she received in that character when here two years ago, the management has wisely put it in concentric management has wisely put it in repertoire Some of the artists are well known her and others only by reputation. Miss Rose-wold and Miss Annandale are both new wold and Miss Annandale are both new acquisitions to the Abbott company, though well known on the lyric stage in connection with other organizations. Signor Fabrini and Signor, Olmi, the latter a basso cantante, re among the few Italian artists who have been able to do their vocal ability justice by mastering English. Alonzo Stoddard, the baritone of the company, is a picturesque and graceful actor as well as a fine singer, and is as good in classic as in light opera. The recent tour of the Abbott company through the states has been brilliantly successful, and the prima donna herself comes to Toronto heralded with the most favor-ble criticism. The sale of seats opens at the box office of the Grand opera house at 9 o'clock this orning.
