ENEMY ARMIES CANNOT GO ON TOWARD PARIS

Admission is Made That German Offensive is Spent. FIGHTING IN PICARDY Three Picked German Divisions Fail to Stop Allies' Advance.

Altho the latest German official communication announces that the situation on the battle front is unchanged, there has been a change on one of the most important sectors in Picardy.

So hard pressed have the Germans been by the attacks in the Chateau Thierry sector during the past few days that they have been compelled strongly to reinforce their front, using three divisions of picked troops in an attempt to hold back the men from the westward.

Offensive is Spent. The military correspondent of the Berlin Voessische Zeitung says that the German offensive is spent and that the German armies cannot be expected to proceed at present against the newly strengthened allied lines.

With the American Army in Picardy, June 6.—American marines attacked the Germans at dawn this morning and gained 1 1/2 kilometres over a four-kilometre front and captured 100 prisoners in the Chateau Thierry sector. The French, attacking at the same time on the left, took 100 prisoners.

The Americans now hold all the important high ground northwest of Chateau Thierry.

The marines again attacked at 5 o'clock this afternoon and the battle is still raging.

The night started at 3.45 o'clock this morning and the Americans had attained all their objectives by 7.45 o'clock.

The Americans have been pressing the Germans so hard that the enemy has been forced to throw three new divisions of his best troops in the line during the last three days.

Carried Hill 142. Soon after the attack of this morning the Americans carried Hill 142 (about 2 1/2 of a mile south of Torcy, the highest point in this vicinity, and swept on and stopped at the foot in a wheatfield on the other side, from where they raked the Germans with machine guns. One entire enemy machine gun company was almost annihilated.

The Germans had donned French uniforms but the Americans, forewarned, poured volleys of fire into them. One German soldier had 21 wounds. Among those captured were two officers.

Reports received here from Chateau Thierry are to the effect that the Americans in the fighting with the Germans killed a large number of the enemy and themselves suffered very light casualties.

Have You Seen Our Stock of Automobile Supplies?

The TRUE motorist knows his car; hears at once when its engine "misses," and senses the wrong when it fails "to pick up." When he discovers anything amiss he delves into the "innards" and soon finds out what's wrong and fixes it—that is, if he is a PRUDENT motorist.

The PRUDENT motorist is the one that keeps all sorts of needful and helpful accessories at hand. When he sees or hears of something his car ought to have, off he goes and gets it at once. He does not wait until, some day far out on a country road, a "blow-out" or other minor mishap catches him unawares.

So to the amateur motorists comes this word of warning: There is no true economy in making your car do without the things it ought to have — in refraining from buying these accessories which prolong its life. You may be sure that a little money, properly spent on a car, is the best economy a motorist can practise.

MARKET IS DEPRESSED BY ACTION OF COPPERS

J. P. Bickell and Co. received the following at the close of the New York market yesterday: Buyers appeared to be in the majority this morning and early prices showed some improvement. As the session progressed, however, it became apparent that there was hardly a demand sufficient to hold the market. The action of a few copper companies in reducing dividends, while in a measure anticipated yesterday, nevertheless helped in creating a depressing effect today, because it is reasoned from this that with high cost of production and with an undoubted increase in taxation, it is only a question of time when other large dividend payers must adopt a similar course of conserving their resources.

NON-ANGLICANS WHO CLAIM FAITH ARE NOT ON ROLL

Toronto to Be Combed to Locate Seventy-Four Thousand of Them.

CONVERSION OF JEWS First Step in Christianizing the World, Says Synod Speaker.

Toronto is to be combed over for the 74,000 citizens who claim to be members of the Church of England, but are not on any of the parish rolls. Assessment Commissioner Forman has 141,589 names of Anglicans on the assessment rolls. The Toronto Anglican clergy have a register of but 67,477.

Bishop Sweeney caused action to be taken by the Toronto synod yesterday afternoon for a hunt to be made for the non-church record Anglicans. Ernest Heaton brought the matter up in presenting the report of the committee on church extension. The Bishop of Toronto said that he knew that the assessment commissioner, who was a devout churchman, would give every facility for securing names and addresses.

How to Find Anglicans. W. F. Sumner explained how some of the parish authorities find the missing Anglicans. One or more members of the parish go over the assessment rolls of the district and make a list with addresses of all those who claim to be Anglicans. This means one day's work for one man for an average of 100 names. The visitation of those who are not also on the church rolls.

Mr. Heaton, chairman of the committee, undertook to inaugurate a general movement on the plan outlined by Mr. Sumner. Bishop Sweeney said that he would furnish the committee with the parish boundaries.

The report showed that 84 parishes in the diocese had ignored the assessment upon them for the church extension work, the amount in default for 1917 being $3461. The report this year, however, had been more general.

Rev. Mission to the Jews. Rev. Prof. Cosgrave and Rev. E. B. Langford presented an encouraging report of the work of the Anglican mission to the Jews. As an evidence of the interest taken in the work it was announced that $6000 had been raised to defray the cost of the mission to the Jews.

The matter of the filling of the vacant postmaster's position was brought up, and a resolution was adopted protesting against a political hack being appointed to the office of postmaster, and pledging the union of promotion in the civil service.

Dr. Noble declared that it would be a good thing if Toronto had 50 schools like the school at Mimico, with respect to its educational methods.

A hornet's nest was raised by Delegate King when he introduced a motion for the abolition of the school board. Premier Lloyd George, and in which it was stated that such attacks had been directed against the school board.

Jury Attaches No Blame in Death of H. E. St. George

That death was due to injuries received when a motor car was struck by a street car, and that there was no blame attached to anyone, was the gist of the verdict returned by a jury at the morgue last night after the summing up of the evidence relative to the death of Henry St. George, who died in the Western Hospital on May 31 as the result of being struck from his bicycle on West street by a street car.

LIBERALS AGAINST A BY-ELECTION NOW

Members and Executive Committee Would Not Bring on Contest.

Permission Given for Convention, When Final Decision Will Be Reached.

Unless sentiment changes considerably it is not likely that there will be a contest either in Northeast Toronto, east "A," or in East York, because of the appointments to the cabinet of Hon. Dr. Cuddy, succeeding Hon. Dr. Fyfe as minister of education, and Hon. George S. Henry, succeeding Sir William Hearst as minister of agriculture.

The feeling of the meeting is expressed in the last clause. Opinion was unanimous against contesting the riding, but it was stated to be not within the province of the executive to forbid the convention, otherwise it is probable it might have done so.

Dunlop 'Special' Motorcycle Tire

A New Tire With a Big Following

But mention the name "Special" to users of automobiles it is all that is necessary to immediately create in their minds a picture of perfect tire satisfaction and to bring forth words of approval on behalf of this popular tire.

These car owners know full well the sterling qualities of "Special Tread," its very effective anti-skidding ability; and they appreciate the value of the extreme care in the making which they know goes with every Dunlop Tire and Tube.

And just as readily as "Special" Auto Tire has fulfilled the expectations of motorists who place intrinsic value before price, in like measure is "Special Tread" Motorcycle Tire sure to satisfy motorists who like comfort and safety with speed and who have an eye to the life of the machine.

While we refer here principally to "Special Tread" Motorcycle Tire, we do not want you to overlook "Traction Tread"—the "Master tire." "The Most Enviied Tire in all Motordom"—the tire which, as is well known, has proven just as efficient on the motorcycle as on the automobile.

Here is just one of many voluntary testimonials received by us (name on request): "Because I consider 13,400 miles of service from a pair of Dunlop Traction Tread Motorcycle Tires, equipped to my motorcycle, some test of tire endurance, I am making the trouble to drop you this note. It's a safe bet I'll continue to use them."

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 7.

The Embargo

The government by order-in-council under the War Measures Act placed an embargo upon the importation of certain products and commodities from the United States. Such an embargo will afford protection to Canadian producers, but its main object is to redress our adverse balance of trade. We are buying too much from the United States.

Unfortunately, the balance of trade by this order-in-council will be reduced by only $15,000,000 a year, which seems a trifle in comparison with the total of $400,000,000 per annum. The real difficulty is not that we import too many peaches or bananas, which must be imported if we are to have them at all, but that we are importing from the United States our own products.

We are sending raw commodities which we ought to refine ourselves to the United States to be refined and then buying them back at fancy prices. We are in the position of a farmer who sells all his grain in a hurry at a low price and then buys it back from time to time for feed at an extravagant figure. Our embargo should be upon exports as well as upon imports.

Take nickel for example. We have in Canada the nickel storehouse of the world, and all we got out of it for years was the privilege of keeping a boarding house for a lot of poorly paid alien miners up at Copper Cliff. The ore or matte was sent to the United States, where the International Nickel Co. made millions and millions of dollars. Any refined nickel we used in Canada had to be imported from the United States at a fancy price.

Our great nickel deposits netted us in excess of $40,000 per year or less until the fight made the Toronto World increased it to $700,000 a year. The other day President Wilson jerked the International Nickel Co. up standing and took over $5,000,000 from its treasury by way of taxation!

Canada has a monopoly in asbestos. Canadians are allowed to grub it out of the ground, and when they strike for higher wages interned German prisoners take their places. All the asbestos is refined in the United States and sold all over the world. It would be interesting to know how many millions in taxation the asbestos companies pay into the United States treasury. We doubt if they pay anything at all into the Canadian treasury.

Some little saving may be effected by depriving the small boy of peanuts or his mother of peanut butter, but we are saving at the spit and tittle our great natural resources like nickel and asbestos are streaming out at the bung hole.

Politics and Patriotism.
"Politics is adjourned," declares President Wilson, and the elections will go to those who think least of politics." Hence he urges congress to remain in session for a month or two longer, also a new house of representatives is to be elected in November. The president stays on the job summer and winter and congress gets little vacation.

The present congress has not been a partisan body indeed more than one important administration measure, including the conscription bill, was piloted thru the house by a Republican.

The Democrats would be less than human, however, if they fail to take advantage of the fact that they have at last a "War President." For half a century they suffered from their opposition to Lincoln and his vigorous prosecution of the civil war. For fifty years the Republicans claimed a monopoly of the flag. Can the Democrats be blamed if they now do a little flag waving on their own account?

Party politics can not be eliminated at the coming election. A wise tradition forbids the thought of Mr. Wilson seeking a third term and there will be the usual fierce struggle for the presidency in 1920. The Republicans cannot permit the elections of 1918 to go by default, also they find themselves in the awkward position of antagonizing the government in the midst of war.

A Republican victory this year would not affect President Wilson's tenure of office, but it would be misinterpreted abroad. Even Canadians find it hard to understand how the administration can carry on with its opponents in control of congress. Europeans would jump to the conclusion that the verdict against the administration was a verdict against the war.

This of course will not be the case because the Republican campaign will be based on the claim that the war has not been prosecuted vigorously enough. Yet the pro-German vote might go against the administration. Hence an effort more or less promising to eliminate party contest as far as possible, or at any rate to see that only thoroughly loyal candidates are elected. A test for loyalty submitted by the League for National Unity reads as follows:

That candidate, in or out of congress, or that citizen, can be regarded as loyal who since the declaration of war has by word and deed unreservedly supported and will support the government in the vigorous prosecution of the war to a complete and decisive victory, and who has not attempted to destroy allied unity and effort by attacks upon national fighting with us against a common enemy.

Victory in East and West.
There is a stiff debate going on between those who see a grave menace to world democracy in Germany's position in Russia and the east generally, and those who follow Count Lichnowsky and declare that Germany in developing an eastern policy is only following a will-o'-the-wisp, and that Berlin-to-Bagdad, or any other route via Russia or via Persia to Central Asia and India is only a blind alley. The count believes, as the Kaiser first enunciated it, that the true destiny of Germany was on the sea. If the Kaiser had been satisfied with "peaceful penetration," and the commercial conquests which opened the markets of the world to Germany, the expansion of the German Empire might have gone indefinitely. But the Kaiser was greedy and impatient. He thought more of Wilhelm II. than he did of Germany, and more of Germany than he did of humanity. His personal ambition to be a world conqueror, to succeed where Napoleon failed, to out-rival Caesar and Alexander, led him into a war by which he hoped to grasp everything, and in which he is likely to lose all.

The summer will see his fate settled according to many good authorities. However, it does not do to depend on authorities, and until Germany has been compelled to accept the terms of civilized national relations, there must be no weakening on part of the allies. A victory on the western front which left Germany in possession of her gains in the east; in Russia which she hopes to organize as a German dependency; in the Balkans, whose little nations are to be submerged; in Armenia and Asia Minor, where the Turks are under German rule, would merely mean a reprieve for Germany and an opportunity to sit down and organize a new war, in not more than ten years increased it to $700,000 a year. The other day President Wilson jerked the International Nickel Co. up standing and took over $5,000,000 from its treasury by way of taxation!

Canada has a monopoly in asbestos. Canadians are allowed to grub it out of the ground, and when they strike for higher wages interned German prisoners take their places. All the asbestos is refined in the United States and sold all over the world. It would be interesting to know how many millions in taxation the asbestos companies pay into the United States treasury. We doubt if they pay anything at all into the Canadian treasury.

A Cathedral Note.
St. Anne's Cathedral, Belfast, is the newest building of the kind in Ireland. It is built on the site of the old Church of St. Anne's, of which Rev. Robert Hannay, D.D., father of Canon Hannay (George Birmingham), was at one time the vicar. It was once expected that a cathedral would be built on the site of the old Lanes Hall, now occupied by the city hall, but when the latter building was erected the idea of having a cathedral in Belfast for the Church of Ireland, as the Protestant Episcopal Church is designated by statute, was left to the enthusiasts of St. Anne's.

We believe it was Rev. Dr. D'Arcy, afterwards Bishop of Ossory, who succeeded the present Primate of All Ireland. In that case, who first promoted the idea of a cathedral on the site of St. Anne's Church. It was taken up with much energy and interest and, while not complete, was opened for service about 15 years ago. There is some fine glass in the windows, memorials, largely, and an excellent organ. It is interesting to remember that Edward Bunting, who made the first collection of ancient Irish music, was organist of St. Anne's Church, and the organ he played on in 1815 was in use until recent years. Dean Robinson, who died some time ago in Winnipeg, took great interest in carrying on and completing, as far as possible, the work begun by Dr. D'Arcy, and the cathedral grew in popularity under his incumbency.

The present dean has maintained the character of the work done, but

Other People's Opinions
Libraries for Airmen.
Editor World: A very great benefit would be secured if, thru the kindness of your readers, a supply of books could be obtained for the formation of soldiers' libraries at the various stations of the R. A. F. These stations are at Leaside, Armour Heights, Camp Borden, Camp Mohawk, Camp Rathburn, School of Aerial Gunnery, Beamsville, Cadet Wing, Long Branch, and Edmonton School, Hamilton.

The books most preferable would be good novels and stories of action, adventure and travel. The works of such authors as Kipling, Dickens, Parker, Hewlett, Tarlington, Parkman, Stevenson and O. Henry may be taken as representative of the type of reading desired. The composition of the R. A. F. is, however, so cosmopolitan that any good book will be of value and will greatly help to relieve the enforced monotony of military life at isolated posts.

It will require several thousand volumes to form a fair nucleus for libraries at the above stations, and it is hoped that these will be forthcoming. Gifts of books will be very gladly received at room 76, Queen Street East, or in case it is more convenient, arrangements will be made to call at the houses of those who may be in the neighbourhood of the collection. Any communication to the writer will receive prompt and grateful attention.

ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT.
Halleybury, June 6.—Calif Tisdale, charged with assaulting a Military Service Act officer recently, was acquitted by a jury in the district court yesterday. Conflicting evidence on both sides featured the trial, which aroused a good deal of interest thruout the north country.

Shall Toronto Be Headquarters of the National Railways?

Montreal is still determined to have the head office of the Canadian Northern Railway Company and of the new national railway system located in her midst. Openly and insistently the campaign is being carried on. The World has been warning Toronto and Ontario of what was going on, and we are glad to learn that Mayor Church and Sir Adam Beck are to head a deputation to Ottawa which will insist that the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk lines under government ownership shall be directed from Toronto.

The Montreal Gazette sneers at public ownership, but is none the less anxious to have the head office of the national railway system located in Montreal. Replying to The World's argument that the government railway system should find its headquarters in a community devoted to the cause of public ownership, The Gazette says:

Some Toronto people are much disturbed over the possibility that the headquarters of the government railway system, including the Canadian Northern, will not be located in Toronto. Northern without bringing its entire capitalization per mile up to the moderate standard of the Canadian Pacific. The Herald is fairly optimistic respecting the new national system, but puts its finger on the real difficulty of the problem when it says:

Given wise management the burden which the C.N.R. may entail upon the country should not, even in the near future, be so onerous as that which exceeded the annual loans made to former owners. To secure the man or men to take on such enormous responsibilities is now the chief task of the government. On its decision much will depend as to the success of public ownership in Canada.

Who, then, is to be the big man to run our big railway system? That is the question which ought to be occupying, not so much the attention of the government, it is suggested that the Canadian Northern directors and their system is completed by the absorption of the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific. The World, however, believes that the system already in hand is big enough to handle, and that the best possible man that can be secured should be placed in charge.

The Canadian Northern extends from Quebec City to Vancouver, with innumerable branch lines, and is the largest railway in the world. It is more or less parallel to the National Transcontinental from Quebec to Winnipeg and the two lines can haul wheat from Fort Arthur and Port Arthur to eastern Canada and Atlantic Canada all winter long at rates which defy all rail competition. From Lewis and Moncton the government will have two trunk lines and in the Intercolonial it has the only all-Canadian road to the Atlantic seaports.

It is a big and a big and vigorous man to unify and operate the Canadian Northern, the National Transcontinental and the Intercolonial. He should have a chance to demonstrate his ability before the system acquires the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Meanwhile the friends of public ownership should see to it that the head offices of the national railway system be located in Toronto and that Toronto become the head and centre of the national railway system. The Ontario Government, the Hydro-Electric Union of Municipalities and Hydro Radial Association, the Toronto Board of Trade, the City Council of Toronto and the municipalities all over Ontario devoted to public ownership should help make the big deputation to Ottawa an impressive success. We should have the government's pledge as soon as possible that the head offices of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk lines and that public ownership of railway will be given a chance to develop in a community that wishes it well and where no one will be eager and anxious to give it a stab in the back.

Toronto is not prepared to see the interests of Ontario in the west still further gouged into the trough at which Montreal feeds. Montreal would not be a centre for the operation, but a centre for the assassination of a public ownership system of railways. Montreal's proposition as the headquarters of a government system of railways.

Montreal is much more likely to ultimately lose the headquarters of the Grand Trunk than immediately gain the headquarters of the Canadian Northern and other government lines.

The Guelph Herald, after discussing the award in the Canadian Northern arbitration case, comes to the conclusion that the interests of Ontario are best served even if it pays $10,000,000 for the outstanding capital stock. The road, it points out, is only capitalized for $44,000 a mile, while every other important railway in the country has a larger capitalization for $100,000 a mile, and about the same figure obtains for the National Transcontinental and the Grand Trunk Pacific. Many millions can be expended in betterments and equipments for the Canadian Northern without bringing its entire capitalization per mile up to the moderate standard of the Canadian Pacific. The Herald is fairly optimistic respecting the new national system, but puts its finger on the real difficulty of the problem when it says:

Given wise management the burden which the C.N.R. may entail upon the country should not, even in the near future, be so onerous as that which exceeded the annual loans made to former owners. To secure the man or men to take on such enormous responsibilities is now the chief task of the government. On its decision much will depend as to the success of public ownership in Canada.

From Lewis and Moncton the government will have two trunk lines and in the Intercolonial it has the only all-Canadian road to the Atlantic seaports.

It is a big and a big and vigorous man to unify and operate the Canadian Northern, the National Transcontinental and the Intercolonial. He should have a chance to demonstrate his ability before the system acquires the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Meanwhile the friends of public ownership should see to it that the head offices of the national railway system be located in Toronto and that Toronto become the head and centre of the national railway system. The Ontario Government, the Hydro-Electric Union of Municipalities and Hydro Radial Association, the Toronto Board of Trade, the City Council of Toronto and the municipalities all over Ontario devoted to public ownership should help make the big deputation to Ottawa an impressive success. We should have the government's pledge as soon as possible that the head offices of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk lines and that public ownership of railway will be given a chance to develop in a community that wishes it well and where no one will be eager and anxious to give it a stab in the back.

The day that we were to start for Bar Harbor found us ready and anxious to be off. About an hour before the train started, George received a telegram.

He was called to Morlaix and at once some matter of business required his immediate and personal attention.

"It's a good thing we are all packed," remarked when he told me.

"Really? I did not know you were to send it away so soon."

"Yes, Mr. Howard wished it properly framed and ready to hand immediately upon his return. He is rather impatient of any delay, I judge."

"Indeed he is. He is so absolutely prompt, himself, where business is concerned, that he has little patience when things lag."

"Now play for me," Merton ordered, after a few minutes.

"I really must have heard no real music since you played the last time."

"Plattner? I am horribly out of practice. Plattner isn't just the place one would choose, if they kept up their music."

"No, not when one has married a society man, and when one is the best tennis player, the most accomplished swimmer," he stopped. "Pardon me! I had forgotten your accident for a moment."

"Don't take it back because of that! Then, without meaning to in the least, I told him of Julia Collins. How she had blamed me saying it was trying to show off, etc. Just as if I would choose six o'clock in the morning, when no one was around, to 'show off,' I finished.

Merton Gray Sympathizes.
The afternoon George left, Merton Gray called to bid us good-bye. He was very much surprised when he learned that George had gone back home, and that the time for our departure for Bar Harbor had been postponed. I had called Mrs. Sexton on the telephone and she had consented to stay with me until George returned. It would be only a few days, at the longest, he had said.

I really was delighted to see Merton. It was a nasty, rainy afternoon. I could not go out, and the prospect of a copy check with him was alluring.

"The portrait has been shipped, and I am lonely," he said apropos of a remark I made.

"Really? I did not know you were to send it away so soon."

Headquarters Staff at Niagara Calls Off Proposed March to Queenston.
Niagara, June 6.—The route march tomorrow will not be to Queenston, as at first proposed, but to a point on the lake shore which will involve a distance of only eight miles, instead of the 14 miles to Queenston and return. This was decided yesterday after Col. McLaren, camp commander, Major A. G. Lewis, brigade major, Capt. Morrison, assistant director of medical service, and Major Lister, A.D.C. of 67th, had gone over the proposed routes to Queenston and made arrangements for facilities for the men while on the route march. After one or two shorter marches, when the men have become somewhat accustomed to them, there will be a march to Queenston.

There are three columns in the route march on Friday. The 1st Battalion, 2nd C.O.R., Railway Construction Corps and Army Medical Corps, will take one route, and the 1st Battalion, 1st C.O.R., 1st Battalion, 2nd C.O.R., and the Machine Gun Corps will take another route. The two sections will converge after having marched about six miles, have lunch together and return the remaining two miles in one body.

On Saturday morning all the units in camp will do company and battalion drill, paying particular attention to marching.

About 200 members of the Machine Gun Corps will shortly be proceeding east to continue training, and they have been given a farewell concert, attended by Col. McLaren and staff officers.

Capt. (Rev.) W. G. Martin has been added to the camp chaplains and will report for duty here on Saturday.

"Wasn't your husband, Mr. Howard, there? I have an idea the lovely Julia was referring to him."

"Of course he was there," I answered impatiently. "How could he have saved me had he not been?"

Mrs. Sexton arrived.

I played and sang for some time. I was really glad to have the practice. Merton with his intense love for music would have allowed me to keep on indefinitely, but Mrs. Sexton came, so interrupting.

For just a moment I was embarrassed that she had found Merton Gray with me. I recalled her warning that he was a "fascinating, dangerous man," and I almost wished Merton would go. I was with me, and I remembered her love for George, and smiled at my lack of trust in her good, common sense.

She greeted him pleasantly, me affectionately. She then excused herself and unpacked the few things she had brought for her short stay with me.

Merton remained to tea, and we chatted and laughed happily together. Mrs. Sexton doing nothing to interfere, in fact joining us.

"Mr. Gray looks very well," she said, when he had gone.

"Yes, he is very well. He is very stannard, and it is becoming. My picture has come; he sent it yesterday."

"Does he remain in Newport?"

"Only a few days. He had told me he should go when I left for Bar Harbor—that there would, then, be nothing to keep him. I did not repeat this to Mrs. Sexton, for various reasons.

CANADIANS ENGAGE IN CONSTANT RAIDS

For Four Weeks Dominion's Men Keep Germans Awake.
Worrying Proceeds
Enemy Makes Ineffectual Reply to Continual Annoyments.

By W. A. Williams.
Canadian Artillery, June 6.—For four weeks the Canadian troops south of Arras have been giving the enemy lively days and nights. While our heavy guns have been engaging special targets, carrying out destructive shoots and combining with our lighter guns in counter-battery work and in concentrated large-scale fire on the enemy's assembly areas, communications, supports and front lines, our infantry has been constantly active. Night after night enemy posts and trenches have been raided, while the Germans have, with our lighter guns, been in a strength and marked artillery activity, made little reply to our worrying tactics.

Our troops in this neighborhood have done really splendid work, and time neither diminishes their eagerness nor weakens their strength. Indeed, they have just given the enemy another signal proof of their raiding prowess by bynetting and bombing their works along hostile trenches, capturing 19 prisoners, three machine guns, one light trench mortar, blowing up many dugouts and inflicting heavy casualties. Men of our Ontario, with other troops, carried out these latest operations. They were everywhere when the enemy attacked.

Shelling of Village.
All afternoon and evening our artillery shelled a village. Just after midnight the fire increased to barrage intensity, with machine guns and trench mortars combining in concentrated bombardments. As soon as this barrage lifted the enemy troops jumped to their task. Shooting operations, they moved on in systems of enemy trenches, in a triangle of wire, trenches and dug-outs, fighting took place. In some places the enemy offered stout resistance, holding on to positions until killed in hand-to-hand fighting or blown out of them by our bombers. In other spots, however, the Boche crowded into shelters trying to hide, showed marked readiness to cry "Kamarrad" when discovered. Those

FAMILIES OF GERMANS DECIMATED BY WAR

Berne, June 6.—As bearing upon the war losses of some German families, a statement made today to the Associated Press correspondent by a German woman now in Berne is interesting.

"Twenty-five of my relatives have been killed five are invalids and only two are left unharmed out of 32 engaged in the war," said this woman, whose husband was killed on the German front near Arras. "My uncle," she continued, "sent seven sons into the war and six of them were killed within two months. The Boche crowded into shelters trying to hide, showed marked readiness to cry 'Kamarrad' when discovered. Those

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING SHOWS BIG ADVANCE

London, June 6.—"The return of new merchant ships completed in May," says The Times, "shows a great advance on the previous month, and this is not the only proof of the energy now being thrown into shipbuilding. The accounts of new shipyards created where three months ago there was nothing but open fields is another piece of evidence. There has also been a great deal of enterprise in the extension of existing yards."

Archibald Hurd, writing in The Daily Telegraph, says the output of British tonnage during the 12 months ended May 31 was almost exactly twice that of the preceding 12 months.

Batteries—Jones and Agnew, Schang; Covelickie and O'Neill.

At St. Louis.—New York rained in the tenth inning and beat the locals, 5 to 3. In this inning Gilhoolie walked, Peckinpah doubled and Baker was purposely passed, filling the bases. MEET IDA AT THE BALL GAME—Boost or Pan to Your Heart's Content.

Many a fan will have a sigh of satisfaction this morning when he realizes that he will be able to take a flash over to the ball game on the 3 o'clock boat. For indeed it matters not how weather-rotten a person may consider a ball club to be, yet to the real fan, Nature has there a great deal of pleasure in watching them doing their best, or worst, as the case may be, to the other fellow. Baseball fills a vacancy in one's system, which no other sport can; in fact, it has a gnawing effect like digestion, and when you go to a game it is like swallowing some kind of a "soother," and you immediately feel better until the next day, when your inclinations about for another whiff at the wonderful pastime.

Of course there are those among us who are so worldly-wise that the sight of errors, such as the Leafs' supporters are accustomed to seeing, almost causes them to have a brain storm, because this brand of fan especially despises players who make errors, but simple because he can find no excuse for repeated "boots," and after a particularly poor game he spends his return voyage on the ferry in panning about the offending club. This might be called "in-door ferry sports" with the other passengers playing the parts of dumb fish, who are merely supposed to register a faint expression (this not being at all difficult for at least one of us) while Mr. U. R. Right gets on the box and delivers a speech with gestures, and he said that these same gestures are liable to bat an eye out of your head should you get too near to this interesting orator.

Then there is the fan who takes head ball games at a pension, and who on the return trip in feeling sorry for everyone connected with "the poor warts," and especially does he pity himself for being such a sucker as to go and watch the game, hoping to learn the rules of the game, and then, after the game, he is by the end of the season the official score book, and he is certainly a head manager to get a hit. Naturally he is not fool enough to hope that they will ever give a run, but if he can just live to see the day when one base will be occupied during our inning, then, indeed, will he consider that his life has not been lived in vain. And so on, and so forth until every person who understands the English language, or who is help to what it is all about, is weeping away the minutes with him and by the time the boat gets into the water, he knows that they are philanthropists, and why would they have "couped up" for a game like this?

Peer Old is bubbling over with joy at the milk of human kindness because every man on the club had a hit, and he has never every stiff in the bunch didn't about trot a run across that old pan. As he gains the attention of the other passengers, he found fans, his enthusiasm grows by bound and bounds, until one might well imagine that his chest would burst open, but apparently there is not a chance of any such accident, because his voice can be heard long after the perchance up Bay street has been started. It is the same fan who tells the housewife he always said that there were a lot of things holding down wrong with the world, but that he was not a prophet, and if that falls ask Tommy Daly.

And so it goes—all kinds of fans and all kinds of opinions, with each one knowing that he is right. But yet what would they all do without baseball? In fact, one fan has written to ask if it would not be a good idea to transfer the games from the town which are not drawing to Toronto, and thus keep a ball game on tap every day, as one might say. There is no question in my mind, but what this would be an excellent idea; however, there is a very little likelihood of it happening, but at that, probably one or two series might be transferred without doing any material harm, and incidentally giving the "regulars" here a little added pleasure. Both Leo Solman and McCaffery are a couple of pretty good fellows, so that you might be able to fix it with them; but then, the season is young, and a lot of things may happen before we are willing to bet on this. In fact, we are going to take up, buy your ticket at the first machine to your right.

Yesterday it rained again in Rochester, so that the Leafs did not get a chance to beat or be beaten, which is probably just as well for all concerned. Big Stick Bowman has been released to the Jersey City Club, but that would be impossible for us to say anything good about Howley's judgment in picking ball players, and there is no use discussing the matter at all. However, one thing becomes more apparent each day, and that is, that the Toronto Club is not going in for men who can hit, but evidently just men who can run. It probably is not necessary in this league to hit before a man life, anyway. It will be noted that we called the turn on the Bannan deal, and you may expect his release at any time now.

Today the home crew will do their best against the Syracuse mob, and, as

The Effects of Higher Prices

Prices have cheapened the quality of some products, but not of HICKEY'S. They cost more, but are better than ever.

We'll all get back to normal some day and then HICKEY'S will be remembered by the character of goods we sold during these war times.

To sacrifice quality in favor of price would be to weaken the confidence our customers have in our goods.

HICKEY CLOTHES were never better in style and variety, and although costs are considerably higher on all materials, they are still priced from $20.00 up.

HICKEY SHIRTS in wide variety, generous sizing. Different sleeve lengths to each size, $1.50 to $6.00.

HICKEY NECKWEAR, the latest in ties always, at any price you want to pay, 50c to $3.50.

27 LUMSDEN BUILDING. WESTERN GRAIN HAS MET LITTLE DAMAGE

The opinion expressed by the greater number of the agents of the Canadian Northern in the crop report of last week that but little permanent damage had been done to the growing grain in western Canada on account of frosty high winds and adverse weather conditions is supported in the report received from 250 agents of the Canadian Northern at the head offices of the company here yesterday.
