BRITISH OPEN HEAVY BOMBARDMENT NEAR YPRES

Huge War-Time Profits in Bacon Shown in Cold Storage Inquiry

CANNOT TELL WHY BACON IS DEARER HERE

Davies' Manager Suggests Distribution May Cost Less in Britain.

RESUME INVESTIGATION

Auditors Report on Examination of Davies Company's Books.

In the council chamber of the city hall yesterday the commission appointed by the Dominion Government to investigate the cold storage plants of Canada, particularly the business of the William Davies Company and the Matthews-Blackwell Company, returned business after six weeks' probing of the books of the companies.

The feature of the sitting yesterday was the inability of C. E. Fox, general manager of the William Davies Company, to explain why bacon sold at a lower price in Great Britain than it did in Canada.

Questioning the witness on the operations of the Davies Company in Britain, Mr. Bain brought out the fact that the products of the company were sold in the old country thru the Sheed-Thompson company, in which it is interested, and that the Toronto firm supplied the war office thru the firm of Denny and Company, selling agents of London, England.

Pressed for information regarding the business of the company with the British war office, Mr. Fox said he desired not to answer without the permission of an official of the British Government.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT WILL KILL ALL PIGS To Save Feed, Porkers Over Thirty Pounds Must Die.

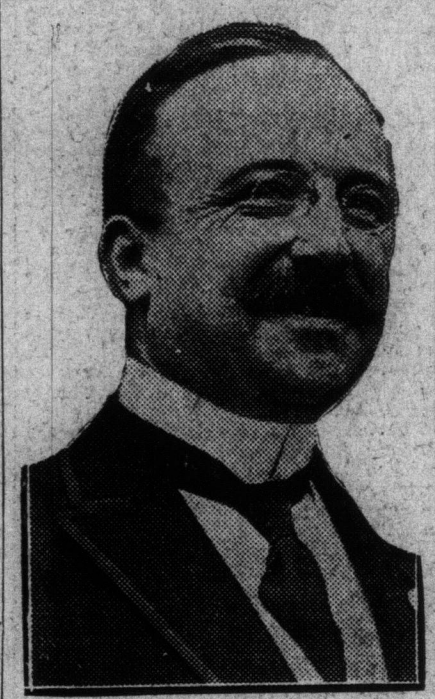

Zurich, Switzerland, Sept. 17.—The German war food department announces that no barley will be available this winter for feeding pigs, as it is needed for human consumption.

Will Joe Get Away With It? If Sir Joseph Flaville did as well for British munitions as he did for William Davies, Ltd., Lord George ought to make him a duke.

And if W. J. Hanna, food controller, does as well for the public, who must buy, as Sir Joseph does for Davies, they ought to be happy. In fact the issue is Flaville versus Hanna. Is Hanna going to let Flaville get away with it?

DINEEN'S IMPORTED HATS. The Dineen stock of imported English hard and soft felt hats is now complete but every day of active selling leaves the stock smaller and the range of colors and styles more narrow than the day before.

EXACTS AWFUL TOLL

Constant Pressure Results in Terrible Destruction of Kaiser's Men.

By R. T. Small, Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press. With the British Armies in France and Belgium, Sept. 17.—There must always be periods of "comparative quiet" when big spectacular offensives are lacking on the big fighting fronts.

But this conclusion is far from right, for the grim business of war continues perpetually. Hourly, the big British guns hurl their thousands of tons of metal carrying death and destruction into the German defenses.

BRITISH ARMEN FIGHT BIG BODY OF ENEMY

Aviators Engage Two Thousand Germans With Machine Guns, Forcing Them to Scatter—Big Bombardment in Belgium.

London, Sept. 17.—The official report from British headquarters in France tonight reads: "This morning the enemy attempted to raid our trenches south of Lonnbaertzde under a covering bombardment. The hostile party was received with a heavy fire by our troops and repulsed with loss before reaching our trenches."

Our artillery was active during the day in the Ypres sector. The enemy's artillery activity was somewhat less marked except in the area south of Neuport.

From Sunday the visibility has improved, and a good deal of successful artillery work and photography has been accomplished. During the fine intervals the enemy aircraft were active again, being greatly favored by a strong west wind.

Amsterdam, Sept. 17.—The Volk is informed by the German legation in Holland that Germany is ready to continue the export of coal to Holland if the Dutch nation grants credit to stabilize the value of the mark, or will pay such a high price that payment by the German legation in Holland is not necessary.

COSTA RICA CUTS OFF RELATIONS WITH HUNS

German Residents Entered Into Conspiracy to Overthrow Government.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Sept. 17.—Diplomatic relations between Costa Rica and Germany are considered severed as the result of steps taken by the government today.

Three of the most prominent Germans here, Kampe, Altshul, and Orlich have been arrested. All Germans residing in Costa Rica have been ordered interned.

When the bill came up Senator Bostock, leader of the opposition, moved an amendment, seconded by Senator Power, that it was not desirable to disfranchise a large number of people in Canada who had been guaranteed rights of citizenship, and that the granting of votes to a limited number of Canadian women was not in the public interest.

Senator Cloran's Charge. There is trouble in Quebec it is due to the deceit and false pretences of the Borden government.

Senator Cloran is "in direct violation of the King's rules and regulations governing discipline and order in the British army and navy, as also against discipline and order of the allied armies, with the exception of that of Russia, where soldiers are given votes, with the result that chaos reigns in the ranks of the army and in the country."

CONSCRIPTION OF WEALTH IS CALL OF LABOR

Resolution Before Trades Congress Urges General Strike as Alternative.

DEMAND FREE SPEECH

President Watters Points Out Danger of Verging on Treasonable Utterances.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—It is likely that about seventy-five or eighty resolutions will be presented at the Dominion Trades Congress which opened here today. A number of the resolutions will deal with the various war problems as affecting the organized labor question. One of the most important resolutions, as far as the Dominion of Canada is concerned, is that proposed by the Transcona, Man. Trades and Labor Council regarding conscription.

General Strike. The resolution concludes as follows: "Resolved, that in the event of the Dominion Government enforcing the conscription of man power without the consent of the workers and wealth-producers, a general strike of all industries herein before described, this council strongly urges that the delegates to the Dominion Trades Congress formulate plans for a general strike of organized labor from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the strike to continue until such a time as the Dominion Government does consent to the wealth and nationalize the industries, this being a national necessity more than conscription of man power a military necessity."

Attacks Government. The preamble declared that the Borden cabinet had ignored the opposition of labor to conscription, and that right to free speech has been denied, citing the disturbances which followed a meeting of the Dominion Trades Congress on July 1, at Winnipeg, and stating that the city police apparently acted in co-operation with the officers and members of the Army and Navy Veterans and Returned Soldiers' Association, severely assaulted the speakers and by such riotous methods broke up the meeting, and for hours afterwards paraded the streets of Winnipeg brandishing clubs and other weapons, threatening organized labor leaders and defied all laws and order.

Senator Cloran's Motion Challenges Right to Disfranchise Aliens.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—By a majority of five, the senate today gave the Federal Franchise Act its second reading.

HAMILTON MEN OUT ON BIG SECURITY

Three of Four Charged With Manslaughter Released on Bail.

HOLD MEDICAL BOARD

Daily Sitings at Armories to Examine Men for Draft.

By a Staff Reporter.

Hamilton, Sept. 17.—Three of the four men over whom a charge of manslaughter is hanging, in connection with the mysterious death of Dr. Douglas G. MacRobbie, were released yesterday from Barton Street Jail.

McAuliffe and Harry Smith furnished bondsmen who were able to provide two sureties of $500 for each man, in addition to personal bonds of $500 each.

Dr. T. S. McGillivray and James Crawford for Harry Smith, while Scott was released on bonds provided by Thomas Binkley and Lindsay A. Wardell.

The four men go to trial at the fall assizes before Mr. Justice Latchford, on Nov. 12.

The Hamilton Council is going to face a large-scale overdraft at the end of the year, despite the fact that there has been a big increase in tax collections.

The tax receipts will not come within several thousands of the estimates, the reason being that the receipts were largely over-estimated to make it appear possible to get thru on the present overdraft.

Compulsory service is getting nearer to Hamilton. Instructions were received today at the mobilization centre to proceed at once with medical examination.

Commencing tomorrow a medical board will sit at the armories each week day from 9 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and from 7.30 to 9.30 in the evening.

WAR SUMMARY THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG reports from the western front that the British artillery was active through yesterday in the Ypres sector. The German artillery, on the contrary, except south of Lens and about Neuport, was somewhat less aggressive. The Germans attempted a raid on the British trenches south of Lombertzyde, in Belgium, but the British drove them back. The British improved in visibility the British aircraft did a good deal of aerial photography and bombardment of German targets. British aircraft, flying at a height of 100 feet, engaged a body of 2000 German infantry with machine guns and scattered them. Eleven German machines were downed. Eight British machines are missing.

The German report stronger artillery fire in Flanders. The improvement in the weather has probably been sufficient to dry the mud and evaporate the water in the shell holes, so the British army is preparing for another advance. The present operation, closely connected with the siege of Lens, is a movement against Lille. It was, it seems, not exactly part of the original plan of campaign, but was the outcome of a change in military policy in the summer. The British, it is said, can capture Roulers and Menin whenever they want to, so they may attempt another stage in their advance towards these points at almost any time. Since the Russians have attracted a considerable German reinforcement from the west, the allies may seize their chance to punish the enemy for his temerity.

Press correspondents at the British front declare that altho seeming quietness has prevailed, the British guns and airplanes are exacting such a terrible toll in lives from the enemy and are causing such destruction of their war supplies that the German line sooner or later must crumble. If the allies continue their present methods of wearing them down, the German wall of defence is still strong, but it is weaker than it was. Every soldier along the line is aware of it. The periods of comparative quietness are illusory, for the business of war continues perpetually. The bombardments and airplane raids are incessant.

The infantry raids serve the extremely useful purpose of destroying German dugouts and mortar emplacements. The British recently have been attending to important points in the Hindenburg line southeast of Lens. Raiders yesterday did great damage about Epehy and the Arras-Cambrai road, as well as applying great pressure between Lens and St. Quentin. The British of late have been devoting a good deal of attention to this Hindenburg line, suggesting an assault in the not distant future.

The Italians have contrived to maintain their newly-won ground on the southern edge of the Bainsizza Plateau. They beat off no fewer than four heavy Austrian attacks in the course of heavy counter-action. They have still to reduce Monte San Daniele before making a serious thrust toward Laibach. Concerning the situation on the Carso Plateau, General Cadorna remains silent. The Italians are probably still held up by Monte Hermada on the coastal road to Trieste. This position is two miles long by one broad. The allies have attempted to turn it from the north, but have occupied Selo and advanced toward a ridge about half a mile to the east of Selo. There they stand, while the supporting fleet remains in harbor, probably to have its worn-out guns replaced by new or re-bored ones.

The French report vast aerial operations against the enemy, not only over his lines, but even into his own territory. Their bombing machines dropped about 16 tons of explosives in numerous raids against barracks, depots, factories, aviation camps, railway stations and military establishments at Stuttgart, Colmar, Elbach, Lens, Metz, Thionville and Saarburg. They destroyed, in aerial combat and by gunfire, six German aircraft and badly damaged six others. The Belgians again report great activity by their artillery.

Canadians Decorated For Bravery in Action

Canadian Associated Press Cable. London, Sept. 17.—The Distinguished Service Order has been awarded to the following Canadians for bravery on the field: Capt. Charles Edward Connelly, cavalry, was awarded the order for commanding a raid on four lines of the enemy's defences. Heavy losses were inflicted upon the enemy, and many prisoners taken. Many dugouts were destroyed, and Capt. Connelly was wounded before reaching the enemy's wire. He continued to direct the party with the greatest courage and skill, and returned to his own area with his sergeant-major to make sure that none of the wounded or dead were left behind.

Major Fred Lister commanded a battalion for ten days in the trenches, during which time he took part in five successful attacks and resisted three vigorous counter-attacks. The whole success of the operation was due to his tireless supervision and personal example in preparing the attack. Major Lister also holds the Military Cross.

Capt. Samuel James Mathewson had a bar added to his Military Cross for directing the advance of two companies with the utmost skill and courage. He cleared a large section of the enemy's trench by leading a bombing party.

Lieut. Evan Edward Price's decoration was won by crawling 2000 yards on five successive nights to the enemy's wire and successfully leading a first torpedo attack.

The military cross has been conferred upon the following: Capt. John Ernest Affleck, for crawling along a trench to a severely wounded officer whose life depended upon an immediate operation. He got the wound, and was himself severely and dangerously hurt, owing to the fact that he was completely exposed to snipers.

Capt. Affleck did not hesitate to risk his own life to do all humanly possible for the wounded officer.

Lieut. James Parr Olinde Atwood, cavalry, for leading our enemy lines to defence and also assuming the command of another troop as well as his own. He brought in five un wounded prisoners.

Lieut. Arthur Richard Batson, for daring personal reconnaissance over ground swept by open fire.

Lieut. Alfred Lucien Borge, machine gunner, for leading a leaderless platoon and cleared the enemy away.

Lieut. Loren L. Brown, engineers, who made two journeys thru an intense barrage for stretchers.

Lieut. Neils Victor Buchanan, artillery, who maintained a forward post under heavy fire, and who went out often to see to the needs of his gun.

Lieut. Fred Gibson Butterfield, cavalry, who, as a severely wounded officer, led the head of his patrol until he collapsed.

Lieut. Duncan Campbell, artillery, relieved a leading number which enabled the capture of a number of prisoners.

Lieut. Henry Erskine Chown, artillery, who sent back the most accurate information for fifteen hours, displaying coolness, skill and remarkable powers of endurance.

Lieut. James Turner Downey, who was wounded immediately after leaving the trench, but continued to lead his platoon, setting a splendid example of pluck and courage, and then leading a torpedo party into the enemy's front line.

Lieut. Richard Duncan, mounted rifle, for carrying a machine gun to a very low altitude, locating the enemy machine gunners, and then leading a party to capture it.

Major George Patrick Dunlop, for leading his company in a very strong organized and garrisoned position.

Lieut. Harold Eber Eastman, for showing gallantry in charge of a machine gun party during a raid, and accounting for four of the enemy himself.

Lieut. George Claude Johnston, Engineers, for magnificent and fearless resource in completing a jumping-over-the-line operation before Canadian front line. He worked seven nights under the most trying conditions.

Lieut. John Grant Knight, for capturing three concrete defences and fourteen prisoners.

Lieut. Charles Lee, for reorganizing his company and destroying the enemy's trench.

Capt. Alfred Barr Lindsay, for digging out men buried by a heavy bombardment and for being the first to lead men into the enemy's trenches.

TORONTO DIVORCE ISSUE IN HOUSE

Bill Killed by Small Majority After a Spirited Discussion.

DEBATE "THE FIDDLERS"

Oliver Objects to Action of Censors in Prohibiting Book.

Ottawa Sept. 17.—A protracted discussion in the house on a Toronto divorce led to the unusual occurrence of a division on such a bill. The whole system of granting divorces by parliament was stigmatized by F. B. Carvell as "utter and absolute nonsense," and Mr. Carvell admitted that a joint committee of the senate and house was engaged in an effort to bring about some reformation of the whole case was threshed out in detail.

Eventually after a motion to refer the bill back to a standing committee was brought up, the bill was defeated in the house by a narrow margin of three.

At the evening session there was considerable technical debate over a senate bill to amend the Companies Act.

Shortly before midnight, Hon. Frank Oliver raised a warm discussion on "The Fiddlers," the prohibited work of Arthur Meighen.

Mr. Oliver's main charge was that there was no occasion for the ban on the book, which he attacked the drink traffic. Had the government sunk so low, Mr. Oliver said, as to allow the police to shield distilleries and breweries?

In reply for the government Hon. A. Meighen protested against this being brought up at such an hour with notice to the government.

Mr. Oliver presented an amendment to a motion to go into supply, expressing his disapproval of the book.

Some Salary Increases. Hon. J. H. Brown, minister of finance, tabled further supplementary estimates amounting to $677,812.

Division on Divorce Bill. The house went into committee on a divorce bill introduced by Dr. Steele, South Perth, who moved that the bill be referred to a select committee.

Citizens' Committee Send Letter to Aldermen Turning Back Small Gift to Fund.

Kitchener, Ont., Sept. 17.—In a letter to the city council which was read at tonight's meeting of the citizens' committee of the Italian Red Cross fund withdrew their application for a grant to the fund on the 1916 the city received for liquor licenses the sum of $2,173, and the net amount of fines amounted to $3,232. This year up till Aug. 31 the amount of fines collected was $5,501. This is a greater amount of fines than both the fines and liquor licenses in 1915. However, the amount of fines for both years as given above are not only liquor, but all kinds.

The bravery of Lieut. Jno. Frederick Lindsay Simmons, of this city, is told by The London Gazette, he having been awarded the military cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion in an attack.

The official report says: "After the objective was gained he was severely wounded, but with great courage and tenacity he continued to superintend the consolidation of the position, altho his arm was broken. It is honored with a commission."

Navy blue tricotine is developed modishly into a straight, simple skirt and high-waisted coat, with collar of Hudson seal (seal rat). Price, $90.00.

"Silvertone," the new fabric, with a silvery fleck on its soft, velours-like weaves, is developed in another model with belted coat in high-waisted style. Price, $50.00.

—Third Floor, Albert and Yonge Sts.

Coats

COLLARS aspire to be capes, on the new wraps, and the fashionable top coat promises to be as warm as it is smart. Contrived of some such thick, soft stuff as velours, "pom-pom" cloth, beaver cloth or nap-faced weave, it envelops the entire costume beneath, and fastens with a huge crush collar, which when open assumes the shape and likeness of a shoulder cape. The colors of first favor are taupe, balsam green, Burgundy, brown and navy blue.

A huge assemblage of such coats is ready for your inspection on Wednesday—New York models and clever reproductions of imported designs by our own workrooms.

Nine out of ten models are belted, and many show collars or bandings of fur or fur plush. It is a splendid collection of coats for misses' wearing—for school or college use, for motoring, and for street and dress wear. Prices run from $15.00 to $45.00.

—Third Floor, Albert and Yonge Sts.

Setting Forth the New Mode in Furs--Coats, Muffs and Stoles

A Large and Comprehensive Display of Imported and Domestic Models—Models That Prove the Renewed Vogue of the Hudson Seal (Seal Rat) Coat and the Predominance of the Neckpieces and Muffs of Wolf, Fox and Lynx.

THE HUDSON SEAL COAT knows no eclipse in Fashion's favor. No other peltry can cast a shadow across its popularity. It is the coat pre-eminent for the winter of 1917. Narrower around the skirt than formerly, its collar shows a marked inclination toward deep shoulder points or round cape effects.

Hudson Seal Coats, 42, 45 and 47 inches long, are featured at $145.00, $150.00, $175.00, $225.00, $250.00 to $395.00. Some flare from the shoulder, others are semi-fitting to the waist. Many have collars of contrasting fur—Kolsinsky, skunk, lynx, mink or beaver.

In neckpieces and muffs it is the long-haired furs that score the biggest triumphs—fox in taupe, pointed, red, cinnamon, white and Georgette shades; wolf in taupe and grey, and black lynx. Beaver, ringtail opossum, mink and Kolsinsky are also high in La Mode's approval. Muffs are round, and stoles lie flat on the shoulders. As for prices:

Cape Collar of Kolsinsky, $42.50. Round muff to match, with tails and paws across the bottom, $50.00. White Fox Animal Stoles, lined with crepe de Chine, $42.50, $67.50 and $70.00.

CANNOT TELL WHY BACON IS DEARER HERE

ranged by cable four weeks ahead of shipment. Regarding an appropriation of $50,000 in the books of the company for the payment of pensions to employees of the company, Mr. Fox admitted that none of the money had been paid out as no employee had yet become entitled to a pension. The fund had been started this year and the firm was following the custom of Chicago packers by providing for their employees in their old age. The firm was also paying a bonus of from four to 12 1/2 per cent. of the wages according to service. In this way, Mr. Fox said, many of the employees were enabled to build their homes.

Bacon is Good. Mr. Fox gave the opinion that Canadian bacon was of much better quality than the bacon produced in the United States, and stated that he had known Canadian Whitehead (a side of bacon minus the head and feet) to sell in Britain for ten shillings per hundredweight than the bacon of other countries. Supplies to Britain from other countries had been greatly curtailed by the war, and as a result the demand upon Canada had increased. There was also a greater consumption owing to the war, as millions of men were receiving two or three rations a day, whereas formerly they would not get more than two or three rations in a week.

Mr. Fox said Europe was going to be cleaned up of its live stock. Conditions were very serious, and Canada, because of her ability to produce, would be called upon to meet the requirements of the devastated herds after the war. He was the first witness called by the commission. Under the cross-examination of Mr. Bain he stated that he had been manager of the William Davies Company for five years. The company obtained a provincial charter in 1912 and was incorporated by Dominion charter in 1911, when its authorized capital was $2,000,000. No increase was made in the capital, but there was an extra issue of $500,000 paid-up capital in 1915. The directors are: Sir Joseph Flavelle, president; E. A. Adie, vice-president; A. F. Park, secretary-treasurer, and C. E. Fox, general manager. Witness was the only officer of the company receiving more than $10,000 a year salary. Sir Joseph Flavelle had received a salary of $10,000 more than five years ago, but it had been reduced to $5,000. He had the controlling interest since 1911.

Division of Profits. Mr. Bain produced the figures prepared by W. D. Taylor of the firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, who audited the company's books for the government. It was shown that the profits of the company in 1917 were $1,877,494. From this figure was deducted $50,000 for pensions to employees; $25,000 depreciation to new factory; office extension and improvements, $28,730; ventilation equipment, $15,788, reducing the profits to $1,842,087. Of the profits $500,000 was transferred to the reserve fund, and $250,000 was paid in dividends at 12 1/2 per cent.

The chairman thought that some of the items called for explanation. He said he would like to know why in 1917 $500,000 was transferred to the reserve fund as against $400,000 in 1916. Mr. Tilley said that no one was suggesting anything improper, and Mr. Bain stated that an explanation of the deduction was surely an important item in showing how the profits were arrived at.

Mr. Taylor's report showed the following figures on the assets, liabilities and the surplus of the company:

Assets	Liabilities	Surplus
1913. $4,690,479	$2,183,169	$2,012,882
1914. 5,754,812	3,010,007	2,060,426
1915. 6,486,533	2,388,151	2,801,434
1916. 9,582,173	4,820,717	3,291,665
1917. 13,384,948	7,330,357	5,003,101

It was stated by Mr. Fox that the surplus figures included capital, vest fund, reserve, dividend, insurance, capital and loss. The figures of the surplus without deductions since 1913 were, he said: 1912, $340,008; 1911, $273,850.42; 1910, $306,428; 1916, $1,757,180; 1917, $1,723,600. Also he did not agree with the Taylor figures, he would not dispute them. The figures of the company with deductions were given by him as follows: 1913, $186,526; 1914, $164,666; 1915, $580,750; 1916, $1,529,473; 1917, $1,375,904. This, he explained, was the net profit with the exception of the war tax. In his opinion the figures supplied by Mr. Taylor were "phantom profits," as they did not make any allowance for deductions whatever.

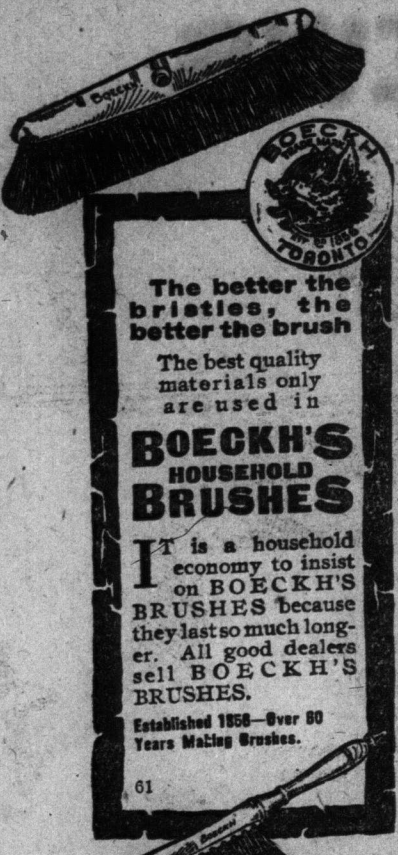

Mr. Taylor's report also showed that the Davies Company owned 40 per cent. of the shares of the Harris Abattoir Company and 60 per cent. of the shares of the Sheed-Thompson Company. It owned 522 shares of the Harris Abattoir in 1914, representing a value of $472,250. The holding at present was 3621 shares, representing 40 per cent. of the stock. In 1913 the firm owned 12,000 shares in the Sheed-Thompson Company valued at $68,400, and in 1914 these were increased to 15,000 shares, representing $73,000, the difference being made up from stock divided at 25 per cent. The holding increased to 30,000 shares in 1916 and remained at this figure in 1917, representing 60 per cent. of the entire stock.

Referring to the amount written off in the five years, Mr. Taylor stated that the total for various purposes was $1,207,904, of which $527,814 was charged to costs and the remainder was not. The profits were obtained from hog products, cattle, etc.

Depreciation and Cost. Mr. Waldron wanted to find out if the depreciation was over and above the ordinary cost of conducting the business, but the chairman stated that that matter should be left for another expert witness to answer. Mr. Taylor, he pointed out, being a government witness, was practically a member of the commission.

"You told Mr. Tilley that $1,900,000 was recovered in 1917," said Mr. Waldron. "What were the charges made before that sum was arrived at?"

"Wages, taxes, interest and administration. Everything but depreciation and special items," replied the witness. The witness stated that the charges were: 1913, $112,000, at a rate of 7 1/2 per cent.; 1914, $45,000, at a rate of 3 per cent.; 1915, $225,000, at a rate of 15 per cent.; 1916, $300,000, at a rate

IT CAN'T BE DONE

On further cross-examination by Mr. Bain, the general manager of the Davies Company stated that the firm had appropriated $50,000 for a pension fund for the employees. The fund had been talked of for a long time, and it had been started this year. The firm was following the custom of Chicago packers in providing for employees in their old age. No money had been paid from the fund yet, as none of the employees had become entitled to a pension. The Harris factory, he said, had been operated at a loss to the firm. It was closed down some years ago and was equipped as a cold storage plant, but this too proved a mistake, and the company had tried in vain to sell the property. It had cost the firm $108,000.

Employees' Bonus. "Is the bonus an agreement with the employees?" asked Mr. Bain. "No legal obligation. It has been paid for a few years according to profits. It ranges from 4 to 12 1/2 per cent. of the wages of the employees, and has helped many of them to build their homes."

"Are there any investments of the company other than those mentioned by Mr. Taylor?" asked Mr. Bain. "None at all."

"If the list is correct what is the relationship of the Harris Abattoir to the Davies Company?" "Forty per cent. of the Harris stock. Sir Joseph Flavelle owns one share and I own one myself. I think there are six directors."

"What is the holding of the company in the Sheed-Thompson Company?" "Sixty per cent. of the stock. The company was capitalized at $20,000. The president is Sir Joseph Flavelle. I am vice-president, and the managing director is A. F. Sheed."

"Do you know of similar companies to that of Davies in which your directors have control?" "None."

Agency Business. "Questioned on the operations of the Sheed-Thompson Company, Mr. Fox stated that in 1913 the net profits were $4000 in dividends and paid $17,319 in commissions at a rate of two per cent.; in 1914 the net profits were $19,075, dividends paid $2500, and commissions paid $24,437, and $2904 carried forward; 1915 profits were $47,441, dividends paid $10,750, commissions paid $47,440, and $20,588 carried forward; 1916 the total earnings were $105,013, profits were $34,470, dividends $30,500, and $34,756 paid in war tax, for which $45,274 had been set aside.

"Did the Davies Company do much business with the British Government?" asked Mr. Bain.

"Not before 1914. It has no direct contracts with the government. The Sheed-Thompson Company sold to the British Government thru the E. M. Denny Co."

"Would you know if certain of your goods were destined for the British Government?" "Yes. It was necessary to know how much to set aside." Questioned further regarding the transactions with the government Mr. Fox said that he did not wish to give particulars of the business unless he was permitted by an official of the war office or the British Government. The prices were fixed by the exchange in Britain and the war office paid the same as any other purchaser.

"In 1912 was there any other arrangement with the government?" "In order to get a supply of bacon products the British Government took the shipments at the Atlantic seaboard and looked after the transportation. The price was fixed on a basis less war tax and freight rates."

Mr. Tilley, interrupting, said they did not want certain things made public at the commission without the consent of the war office.

"'Cook Command.'" Mr. Waldron wished to show that owing to the demand for bacon by the British Government the Davies Company practically took command of the raw products of Canada.

Continuing, Mr. Fox stated that his firm exported to Britain mostly side of bacon and cuts. The Canadian product brought a higher price in Britain than that of the United States. The prices here are based in England, he said, "were never fixed by the packer in the export game. They took what they got."

"Has the demand upon Canada for bacon increased?" asked Mr. Bain.

"Yes." "Why does Britain require more?" "Well, it is pretty hard to have a war such as this without affecting production and the sources of supply."

"Is the supply to Britain from other countries cut off because of the war?" "Yes to a large extent. There is also a greater consumption. Now there are millions of men getting two or three rations a day, while in peace times they would not get more than two or three in a week. They are going to be cleaned up of their live stock in Europe. Conditions are very serious and there will be a greater demand on Canada owing to its ability to produce hogs."

"It is true that bacon sells at less in England than it does in Canada?" "I can't tell you that."

"Why don't you?" "Well, we don't sell to the consumer."

Distribution Cheaper. "Is the cost of distribution cheaper in Great Britain?" "I would say it is. In Canada there is an area of more than 3000 miles to cover, while there is not more than three or four hundred miles in Britain. I don't think it is possible to ascertain if there is any difference."

"In view of the fact that the people think they are being treated unfairly by the packing houses is it a fact that Canadian bacon can be bought in England cheaper than in Canada?" the chairman asked. "What does the householder pay for bacon in Toronto?" "I don't know what the facts are, but the people are anxious to know, and they would be glad if an explanation were given."

"I could not answer that." "The price of live stock in any part of Canada?" persisted the chairman in an effort to find a reason for the discrepancy.

Mr. Fox replied that the company sold only a small quantity of this grade, and protested that it would be impossible to show why there was a lower price for Canadian bacon in England.

Welcomes Information. "Replying to Mr. Bain, the witness stated that he did not tell what price bacon brought in Buffalo. It was, he thought, about the same as that paid in Toronto. To get the facts he would have to check the quality of the live stock in the United States into consideration. The quality of bacon produced on the other side was as high as that of Canada. It cost the farmer of Ontario more to raise hogs than it did the farmer of the United States. Ontario hogs were grain fed, while those raised on the other side were fed on corn."

SIGN THE PLEDGE TO CONSERVE FOOD

Citizens' Co-operation Necessary to Make Great Campaign a Success.

START WORK TODAY

Women Workers Are Enthusiastic at Final Organization Meeting.

Today will see the launching of the food conservation campaign, a work undertaken by the women of Toronto at the request of the government, and one which requires only the co-operation of the citizens to make it an assured success.

Yesterday a large and enthusiastic meeting of workers was held in Forster's Hall, which was opened by Mrs. Loosmore, president of the thrift committee, Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, at the request of the president, then taking charge. The objects of the gathering were to receive final instructions regarding the modus operandi of the campaign and to listen to possible objections and how they should be answered.

Mrs. L. A. Gurnett, secretary of the women's auxiliary of the organization of resources, outlined the objects of the campaign, emphasizing the point that people are not being asked to eat insufficient food, but simply to substitute other foods for white flour, beef and bacon. These things are wanted for the men overseas, and if they are not conserved by people on this side of the water there will be none to send, and the men will have to eat. It is sufficient that they endure the miseries of the trenches without the additional burden of hunger, and it is the civil population who should do the work of food conservation. Suggestions given as substitutes by Mrs. Gurnett were rice, barley, graham flour, oats. It was also stated that one baker who is making war-bread saves ten sacks of flour a week by doing so, and that the war-bread is used chiefly by the people in Rosedale. The speaker also outlined how possible objections should be met.

Calgary Woman's Address.
The next speaker was Mrs. Newhall of Calgary, who said that thrift as it is understood here is somewhat new to the province in which she lives because many of the things which we are being asked to substitute are dearer there than the articles to be conserved.

She understood, however, that it was not a question of price, and was prepared to learn many things from the east. She also gave a very interesting account of the Consumers' League of Calgary, of which she is president, and which she hopes to see organized in every province and then from coast to coast.

Other speakers who represented various bodies gave all their notes of encouragement. Mrs. P. Ward spoke on behalf of the co-operation of the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. A. M. Huestis for the Local Council of Women; a letter from Mrs. R. S. Wilson on behalf of the Daughters of the Empire was read by Miss Church; Miss Cartwright, among other things, said that the $50,000 wasted annually in garbage cans was a disgrace to Toronto; Miss M. L. Hart spoke for Catholic societies, and Mrs. Thompson asked the workers to remember the phone number of the headquarters, Main 1160, to communicate often during the campaign, and to return cards to headquarters according to streets.

The public is asked to consider the matter of signing the pledge card in advance, the wife to consult the husband if this is thought necessary, and in this way to help in the conservation of time by being ready when the campaigner arrives.

Many questions which had been written down during the addresses were handed to the platform and answered by Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, Mrs. Torrington, Mrs. Gurnett and others.

Comrades in Service!

In years to come you will recall with Pride the day you signed the Food Service Pledge.

For it is your Dedication to War Service. Your observance of it will cause you some of the Finer Emotions of Your Life.

You will gradually realize that, though your own and your family's self-denial may be small—the mighty Legion of Canadian women pledged to equal service, will mean the difference between Victory and Disaster to our soldiers.

You cannot—you must not desert them. It is not that they want more white bread, beef, or bacon than you—it is just that these foods are less perishable and so more easily exported than others.

So, until Victory is ours, do these simple things.

When making bread, use one-third oatmeal, corn, barley or rye flour, with the white flour. Or tell your baker to bring some brown bread each day.

Substitute for beef and bacon, such foods as fish, peas, lentils, potatoes, nuts, bananas, etc.

Third, and this is very important—prevent the waste of any food in your home.

Be a Comrade. Dedicate yourself and your family to War Service. Display the window card.

Practical Housekeeping Hints

THE USE OF FATS AS BUTTER SUBSTITUTES

The average Canadian housewife has no conception of the value of fats as food, and as a result much fat is wasted that should be used.

Fats are one of the principal sources of energy. We buy fat in the form of butter and spread it on our bread. We use lard as shortening in bread and pastry, and as a medium in which to fry other foods. The grease which melts out of ham and bacon is sometimes made into gravies; but more often it is thrown away, because the housewife does not realize its value as a food. Beef fat is less appreciated as a food even than lard, and yet, pound for pound, its energy value is as high as butter or lard or any other fat.

When we buy a beefsteak the butcher carefully trims off the fat and throws it into a box under the counter with bones and other waste which goes to the soapmaker. This fat has both a food value and a money value. It belongs to you, and you should have it. You can render it and use it in cooking.

The fine lumps of sweet beef fat or suet which adhere to the roast are used in roasting to give flavor, but most of the fat melts away and is not served at the table. Beef suet is occasionally used in cooking, but rendered beef fat is rarely used as a table fat in this country, although in Europe it is often eaten on bread in the place of butter. Beef suet has a rather pronounced flavor and a comparatively high melting point. These are probably the reasons why it is not more commonly used as a table fat. Much of the objectionable taste may be readily removed. One household method which may be successfully followed is to mix milk with the suet when it is rendered, using one-half cupful of milk to a pound of suet. When strained and cooled, the flavor of the milk is absorbed by the beef fat and changes the characteristic flavor.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 18.

Saving Wheat, Beef and Bacon.

Substitution is the watchword of the food controller's campaign which opens today, and citizens should take up the question with seriousness and determination. Much less is asked of them than might have been expected, and while we believe that regulation of prices and control of the channels of food distribution are of urgent importance to the settlement of the whole problem, we believe that support of the present substitution proposal is also of vital importance to the success of the cause of the allies, of winning the war, and of making democracy safe.

There are three commodities the want of which in Europe might prove fatal to the whole enterprise of defeating Germany. They are wheat, beef and bacon. If there were any substitutes for these things equally portable, equally preservable, equally nourishing, they would be added to the list. But these three are what is wanted, and they are enough. The help that each family can give is to eat something else instead of these things as many means as possible, and not to eat them at all at least two days a week. Probably wheat will be the most difficult of the three for most people to do without. Every-body eats wheaten bread, or nearly everyone, and many people would not feel that they had been fed if they have to give up that bread in every form. There are other kinds of bread than wheaten that are equally good; and they may be baked and even purchased in forms as appetizing as the ordinary wheaten loaf. It is not easy to get oat flour but rye flour, and even barley flour are available. Meal of all these grains may be had, and also rice flour and meal, and the products of maize or Indian corn are well known. Oat cakes or oat meal bread is a favorite and staple food in Scotland and Ireland, and is very tasty when properly baked. Rolled oats may also be used for baking with ordinary flour, as well as in porridge. Rye bread is much appreciated by some people, and is turned out in large quantities in Toronto. The long rolls of this bread, spiced with caraway or other seeds, are a favorite form.

For those who do not care for porridge and other soft forms of cereal foods, the substitutes for wheaten bread are more difficult. Many will find their health improved by giving up all forms of cereals for two days a week and adopting a fruit, nut and vegetable diet instead. There is some difficulty in Toronto in procuring the many forms of nut foods that have become popular in Great Britain and the United States, but nuts are easily to be had, and may be ground up and cooked in palatable dishes. Nut foods are also found to be a good substitute for meat dishes.

The banana should be recognized as the most useful substitute for all forms of food that is to be had. One banana is said to be equal in nourishment to half a pound of meat. Two or three bananas constitute, therefore, the basis of a good meal. Banana flour is now well known, and the list of dishes that may be made from bananas is long enough to substitute for wheat flour dishes for a month. Many people will turn to eggs as a substitute for other foods, but except for invalids, eggs are a much overrated food. At their present prices eggs are a most uneconomical article of diet. People will be satisfied, however, to eat eggs and fritters of various kinds, instead of their usual ham or bacon, when they are aware that they are doing something loyal and patriotic. Various descriptions of omelets form appetizing dishes for those who find two days of meat-fasting tiresome.

The great and most economical substitute for meat is fish. There are very few people with whom fish does not agree. Many people do not eat fish because they have not been accustomed to do so. Others because their experience has been unfortunate as regards the cooking. Fish to be palatable must be fresh, and it can be had now of first-class quality off the ice. Cooking fish is an art, the chief point of which is to avoid too much grease.

As our citizens adopt the suggestions of the food controller they will have the satisfaction of knowing that every sacrifice they make of the pleasures of the palate, in saving wheat, beef or bacon, is a material help to the great cause for which our men are fighting in Europe, and perhaps even the means of giving a meal to one who would otherwise lack. It is a direct and a practical way of helping our soldiers, and it is a necessary step in the work of keeping the allied nations of Europe in victuals.

What We Are Fighting For.

In "The Round Table for September the leading articles are devoted to two most necessary considerations. The first of these is our aim in the war. After three years and a half it is quite true that multitudes of people have the dimmest idea of what we are fighting for. It is quite sufficient for them that we are engaged in trying to beat the Germans, but if they are pressed for particulars of why we are trying to beat the Germans they have some difficulty in giving an answer that touches the real issues and is devoid of racial antagonism or feeling.

The Round Table sets forth very clearly that our first purpose in going to war in 1914 was the liberation of Belgium, with reparation for the injuries inflicted upon her. Our second purpose was the defence of France, and next to these the liberation of Serbia. This additional task was avowed on February 23, 1916, by Premier Asquith. That these objects have not yet been fulfilled should not discourage us, and the incidental achievements of our struggle to attain them have furnished us with good cause for satisfaction. We have materially reduced the German military power while adding to our own until we have reached an almost incredible maximum, while the forces of our foes are wearing ever thinner and more slender.

The Germans begin to understand our contention to some degree, which is mainly for the supremacy of such democratic ideals as would render wars of aggression and rapacity such as Germany has thrust upon Europe, impossible. We cannot trust ourselves ever again to accept the false promises of the German military party headed by the kaiser or any of his family. Any German peace would mean the realization eventually of the Mittel-Europa policy, with the subordination of the Scandinavian, the Dutch, the Belgic, the Polish, the Balkan, the Turkish, the Armenian and all other peoples who might stand in the way of the Germanic empire which the kaiser had planned from the North Sea to the Indian Ocean.

In the second article of The Round Table, "The Internal Problem of Germany" is considered. The democratization of Germany is shown to be not quite the simple and obvious affair we could wish. It is pointed out that Germany is in domestic affairs as democratic as any nation of Europe, and it is in this that her strength consists. Germany, it is pointed out, is in the stage in which England was under Edward I, or France under Louis XI. The essence of modern Germany is to be found in the nucleus of authority created by the Holy Roman Emperor, Frederick Barbarossa. This influence has spread over the whole of the rest of Germany.

Prussia has been spoken of as the home of reaction, but the reviewer points out that Prussia in the past has been regarded and regarded with truth as a great Liberal state. In one way nothing is so incorrect as to describe Prussia as medieval. The whole history of Prussia has been the subjection of the landed aristocracy to the government and to the Central Institutions; but the essence of medievalism is local privilege. Prussia is not a medieval but a modern state. It is the offspring of the eighteenth century; it was formed in the age of reason under the ideal of an enlightened ruler. It is the ordering, arranging, systematizing of a highly educated bureaucracy which assimilates and uses for public purposes all the products of modern science. It is government by applied intellect.

This is the whole trouble. The German Government is all head and no heart. The Germans point to their governmental achievements in law, in finance, in commercial, industrial and social legislation as conclusive evidence of their supremacy and right to rule. And the men of business, the bankers, the leaders of industry, capitalists of all kinds, are strong for such government. "We must remember," says The Round Table, "that German Liberalism has always been closely allied with capitalist industry. Liberalism of this kind is always anti-democratic, and it is entirely without sympathy for the sentimental side of democracy which has recently become so prominent." The German capitalists are not without sympathizers in other countries which are pleased to thank God they are not as other nations are, or even this Germany.

What we must realize, however, is the efficiency that has been developed under this system. The fundamental mistake made by the German Government is in the policy centering the military power of the nation in the hands of the kaiser, even while the civil power in democratic form is permitted to have its own way with domestic development. The people have been deluded by the military power into the belief that they are surrounded by foes thirsting for their blood and eager to plunder them; and they have succumbed to the belief that unless the kaiser was self-powerful with an omnipotent army the nation would be destroyed. This willfully false reading of the condition of Europe, sedulously taught to the German people, led to the condition which made the war possible.

The only solution is for the Reichstag definitely to claim and secure full right to criticize, control and direct the external policy of the state and to assert its supremacy over the army. With parliamentary control would inevitably result, the reviewer general feeling, however, that the resolution will be carried, although there will likely be several amendments proposed. The discussion upon this resolution, which is officially numbered 15, will commence tomorrow, if the resolution is taken in order.

In connection with the above resolution, the executive council of the trades and labor congress of Canada, have the following comment to make: "In 1915, the trades and labor congress of Canada, at the annual convention held in Toronto, declared an unqualified opposition to conscription as a method of military enlistment. Last year at Toronto the resolution was reaffirmed in all its essentials.

"While the congress cannot stultify itself by protesting if it have vent to his expressions, it will have vent to his free speech, in other words. He understood that when the various resolutions were being discussed, it was possible that some of the discussion might be considered treasonable. President Waters said conscription marks might be construed as treasonable, and the congress would have to rely on the mercies of the Dominion Legislature."

Demands "Free Speech." Early in the afternoon session a storm was raised by Delegate Cassidy. He introduced a resolution, the Defence of the Realm Act, which he would like to see amended to give him the right to express his opinion openly in free speech, in other words. He understood that when the various resolutions were being discussed, it was possible that some of the discussion might be considered treasonable.

Threat Alleged. Delegate Cassidy raised the question that a man high in police and official circles made the remark at a special gathering there being discussed, it was possible that some of the discussion might be considered treasonable.

Resolution 3 was then taken up and adopted with an amendment. The resolution reads as follows—"By the Ontario Trades and Labor Council, it is resolved to have a Dominion act passed making it illegal to employ children under 16 years of age in any factory or store."

Resolution 10, by the same lodge: "That any measure which may be imposed conscripting wealth be not considered merely a war measure, but that it be a permanent statute. This resolution was referred to the committee on officers' reports."

SLEEP IN THE RAIN TO AVOID SHELLS

What it Means to Live in Dread of Unexpected Bombardment.

To those who are contributing clothing and money for food to the local branch of the Belgian relief fund, the following account will be of interest, showing the conditions under which they are finally distributed. A recent letter from Mrs. Agaz Ademaon reads in part: "The arrival of this week's consignment came at a very critical moment. It came at 10 o'clock at night in the pouring rain and while the town was being bombed. I was treating a 'blessee' (wounded) in the pharmacy and only Frans and I were at home. It was the new chauffeur's first trip and he was full of the difficulties he had had to overcome in getting here. The night was pitch dark except for the flashes of the guns, and we had to dot candles about everywhere so that they might see where to unload the 60 odd cases and the boxes. Our 'blessee' in the pharmacy was an old woman who had just been hit in the face with splinters as she ran out of her house, the house next door to her having been hit and greatly well flattened out. She was not seriously damaged, but very messed up with a lot of blood. A Belgian doctor, here for the day, patched her up as best he could, but it is just enough to make the people want to leave town, especially at night. They go home during the day, but sleep in all sorts of odd places at night. As a result we had to take a child with acute pneumonia sleeping in a field in the rain. I think anticipation is almost worse than realization in the matter of bomb-bombardments. Two of the old women we took to the old people's rest home have died. Today we are evacuating an old lady who is a real swell with a maid and an iron bedstead and all sorts of luxuries. She has rheumatism so badly she can neither sit up nor lie down, and I am wondering how we will get her into the car. "We are outfitting the children going to France, and it has made our stock of boys' pants very low. "A train for 100 children, promised for last Saturday, has not gone yet, and it would not surprise me if it did not go for another week. I must say I think a railway system that can have a train a whole week late ought to be looked into. "I shall be very glad when you send us out more clothes for big children and grown-ups, as we have practically nothing left after the recent run on clothes, which has not ceased for some weeks now. "From the above it is seen that it has been necessary to remove many of the Belgian children to France, where they will be out of the danger zone. They will still depend on this fund for their support.

BUFFERS AND PLATERS DEMAND HIGHER WAGES

Union Authorizes Twenty-five Metal Workers to Strike Until Demands are Granted.

At a meeting of the buffers and platers' union yesterday afternoon in the Labor Temple it was decided that about twenty-five of the members should strike, and a policy was outlined for them to follow. The firm that has refused to meet the men's demands grant their requests. It is stated that they want 60 cents per hour and are determined to get it. It was originally intended that the members should go out on Sept. 3, but it has been decided that the men should wait until the firm has agreed to their demands. The men's demands are for a 25 per cent increase in wages, and they argue that at the rate they are working it is impossible to meet their expenditures because of the ever-increasing cost of living and the high rents. One of the employers stated that the demand made by the men is out of all proportion, and if granted will kill the plating trade.

LIVE STOCK MARKET

The Union Live Stock Yards were yesterday the scene of the greatest activity, as, in addition to an almost record run of cattle at this season of the year, more than 5000 head, in all, together with 12000 hogs, 400 calves and 5000 sheep and lambs, the Horse Exchange was thronged with buyers from all over the Dominion, attending the big sale of the aviation department of the imperial munitions board. It was a big day for the Union Stock Yards, and demonstrated more than ever the immense growth in the live stock trade of the Province of Ontario.

In the face of the big receipts in the market, while breaking sharply on the inferior grades of cattle, may be said to have held fairly well on the whole. There was a steady demand for good steers, with weight and quality, good butchers and breeder stockers and feeders. All other classes of cattle were slow of sale, canners breaking fairly 50c per cwt., and all common cattle from 10c to 25c per cwt., and in some cases 40c per cwt. There was a fair run of hogs, many steers, an unusually large run of the latter, but there were few loads of really extra good choice lambs. A careful estimate of the cattle left over from the day's selling placed the number at fully 12500 head, at 10c to 15c per cwt., the fact that one of the big local packing houses bought very little on the local market yesterday, trading must be regarded as pretty satisfactory.

There was a fair run of milkers and feeders, many of them of special merit, and the top of the day, indicate, there is no prospect of decline in the good milkers and springers.

WHOLESALE FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

The first sweet potatoes for this season arrived on the market yesterday, Chas. S. Simpson having a car from Virginia, selling at 77c per bushel. Peas came in a pretty fresh yesterday, and were generally slightly easier in price, partly because of the being Monday and partly because the prices have been kept rather high and, therefore, the demand decreased. Six-quart flats sold at 40c to 45c, six-quart flats at 40c to 45c, with a few extra choice bringing 51c, and 11-quart flats at 60c to 70c. Plum shipments were a little heavier than they have been for the past while, and there were some showings of waste when they arrived, but prices were generally exceeding high, the six-quart flats selling at 50c to 60c, six-quart flats at 40c to 50c, the 11-quart flats at 75c to 85c, and the 12-quart flats at 85c to 95c. Woodruff, St. David's, shipped in some very fine prime plums to both the Bros. and J. Webb, which commanded a high price.

Peas were of better quality and sold at 40c to 45c per six-quart leno basket, 50c to 70c per 11-quart flat basket, with a few extra choice quite scarce, the few 11-quart flats in the market at 75c to 85c, and the 12-quart flats at 85c to 95c. The Swift-Canadian Co. bought 7000 cwt. of peas at 10c to 11c, and the Union Stock Yards bought 1000 cwt. at 11c to 12c. The Swift representatives reported a fair run of peas, with the better class steady, with the other cattle from 10c to 15c per cwt. J. J. Neely, for Matthews-Blackwell, bought 350 cwt. of peas at 10c to 11c, and the Union Stock Yards bought 1000 cwt. at 11c to 12c.
