MR. GARNETT TO MR. ROSS

Sir,—In reply to Morning Telegraph, Mr. Ross is looking for an easy mark before he retires from aquatic. I might say, owing to my being a new man and only having about 15 times been in a single shell, I am willing to give Mr. Ross a race, to be rowed on the same day of the race between W. H. Oates and H. Belys, and same place if Mr. Ross agrees. As regards talking on street corners, Mr. Ross is entirely mistaken, as my intention many days ago. Rumor of a deal on is all the street knows to explain buoyancy. Other features of the dealings were Detroit United, 94 1/2, Canadian Pacific, 176 3/4, Dominion Coal, 74 1/2, Illinois, 97, 94 3/4, Montreal Power, 94, Dominion Iron 94 1/2.

In spite of the threatening weather of the evening a large audience was present. — Kennedys, Me., Journal.

THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL

BY BARONESS ORCZY.

(Continued.) "Armand!" said Marguerite Blakeney, as soon as she saw him approaching from the distance, and a happy smile shone on her sweet face, even through the tears. A minute or two later brother and sister were looked in each other's arms, while the old skipper stood respectfully on one side. "How much time have we got, Briggs?" asked Lady Blakeney, "before M. St. Just need go on board?" "We ought to weigh anchor before half an hour, your ladyship," replied the old man, pulling at his grey forelock. Linking her arm in his, Marguerite led her brother towards the cliffs. "Half an hour," she said, looking wistfully out to sea, "half an hour more and you'll be far from me, Armand! Oh, don't believe that you are going dear! These last few days—what Percy has been saying, and I've had you all to myself, have slipped by like a dream."

mean myself by trying to explain—" "And?" "And now I have the satisfaction, Armand, of knowing that the biggest fool in England has the most complete contempt for his wife." She spoke with vehement bitterness this time, and Armand St. Just, who loved her so dearly, felt that he had placed a somewhat clumsy finger upon an aching wound. "But Sir Percy loved you, Margot," he repeated gently. "Loved me?—Well, Armand, I thought at one time that he did, or I should not have married him. I do not," she added, speaking very rapidly, as if she were glad at last to lay down a heavy burden, which had oppressed her for months, "I do not think that even you thought as everybody else did—that I married Sir Percy because of his wealth—but I assure you, dear, that it was not so. He seemed to worship me with a curious intensity of concentrated passion, which went straight to my heart. I had never loved any one before, as you know, and I was four-and-twenty then—so I naturally thought that it was not in my nature to love. But it has always seemed to me that it must be heavenly to be loved blindly, passionately, wholly. . . . They had reached the edge of the cliff. The gentle sea-breeze blew Marguerite's hair about her face, and sent the ends of her soft lace fichu waving round her, like a white and apple smoke. She tried to pierce the distance far away, beyond which lay the shores of France; that remote and stern France which was exacting her pound of flesh, the blood tax from the noblest of her sons. "Our own beautiful country, Marguerite," said Armand, who seemed to have divined her thoughts. "They are going too far, Armand," she said vehemently. "You are a republican, so am I. . . . we have the same thoughts, the same enthusiasm for liberty and equality. . . . but even you must think they are going too far." "Hush!" said Armand, instinctively, as he threw a quick, apprehensive glance around him. "Ah! you see, you don't think yourself that it is safe even to speak of these things—here in England!" She clung to him suddenly with strong, almost motherly passion. "Don't go back!" she begged, "don't go back! What should I do if . . . if . . . if . . ."

COLLINS' PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION Hopewell Cape, N. B., Sept. 10.—Thomas F. Collins, charged with the murder of Miss Mary Ann McAuley at New Ireland on or about the 19th day of August, was arraigned before Daniel W. Stuart, police magistrate for the parish of Hopewell, this morning at 11 o'clock in Sheriff Lynds' office and remanded until the afternoon to await the arrival of Premier Tweedie, the acting attorney-general. At opening of court Clerk of the Peace M. B. Dixon, representing the crown, applied for a short adjournment to allow the premises to be present. Premier Tweedie, who came from Chatham on the Maritime express, crossing from Dorchester by ferry, reached the Cape shortly after 3.30 and the work of taking evidence began. The court house was crowded with spectators who had come from far and near to get a glimpse of Collins and hear the evidence. The galleries were crowded with ladies and evidence was taken on every bench, with the deep interest taken in the tragedy. The information against Collins was laid by Dr. S. C. Murray, who says that he has the most positive and does upon reasonable and probable grounds believe that on or about August 19 last in the parish of Hopewell, Thomas F. Collins did murder one Mary Ann McAuley. After the premier's arrival at the court the prisoner was brought in and the magistrate read the information to him, the which crown counsel called as the first witness Ruth Lesman. M. B. Dixon, who presided, took the witness in hand and an interesting chapter in Collins' movements after leaving Father McAuley's was related. Witness said she resided in the parish of Hopewell on the night of the murder. He asked her if she saw any team going down and receiving a reply in the negative she said the Friday before the priest went to Elgin with mail. She understood him to call the priest M. Allen. He said Saturday he and Mary Ann, Mrs. Williamson and Ira, Mrs. Williamson's daughter, had gone to the lake fishing and had everything up but when they came back Monday morning Mary Ann noticed the barn doors broken open and the priest's horse and harness had been stolen. He said another man went the other way towards Albert in search of the horse and he (Collins) had seen the horse on the 20th.

FOUGHT DUEL WITH SABRES Two Spanish Grandees Slice Each Other Over Trivial Grievance. SAN SEBASTIEN, Sept. 10.—As the result of a violent scene over a trifle at the Hotel Famoso the MARQUIS VIVES, KING ALFONSO's master of horse, and the DUKE OF ANDRÍA fought a duel with sabres at dawn yesterday. The Marquis reserved a cut over the head and the second blooded the light. Previous to the encounter the Marquis handed his resignation to the King. The seconds were all well known members of King Alfonso's retinue.

Lee of St. John, who is to manage the agency, will with Mrs. Lee occupy rooms at Windsor Hall for the winter. James McCleave has severed his connection with the Windsor Hotel, Moncton, and left for Boston, where he will open an office representing the Empire Black and Tin Co., of which company Mr. McCleave is one of the promoters. The management of the Windsor has been assumed by A. G. Jesty, of Sydney, N. S. His Lordship Bishop Casper is to administer confirmation to candidates at the Roman Catholic churches in York County next month. He will confirm a class at St. Dunstan's church on Sunday, October 14th, in the morning. In the afternoon he will go to St. Mary's, where he will hold confirmation at St. Anthony's church. On the 12th of October he will go to Stanley and will on the following day visit Kingsclear and Dumfries parishes. S. C. Maclean, of Goldboro, Gaspereau county, manager of the Beaver Hat gold mine, was in Sydney last week and had in the possession a gold brick weighing seventy-one ounces and valued at over $1,400. The brick was about five inches long, three inches wide and one inch in thickness. Mr. Maclean says that the outlook for gold mining in the county of Gaspereau was never more encouraging, especially that at Beaver Hat. Mr. Maclean is seeking the directors of the company for more work. The company now has a fine stamp mill working and he claims that there is now enough ore in sight to keep a ten stamp mill working for three years.

SHAPE SUSTAINING

A shoe which won't sustain its shape until worn out is not a shoe. It's merely pieces of leather sewed together and given a temporary form over a last—then cunningly painted and polished and sold with a great blare of advertising. The wearer is mighty happy for a week or so when the truth creeps through the paint and polish veneer and her shoe spreads out like a turtle. Slater's are shoes all through from heel to toe, from sole to upper. They're built with the solidity of ancient architecture. They're built to sustain their original shape as long as they last. Here are the four points of construction which enable Slater's to hold their shape. The soles are of "Quick Oak," a tough, pliant, dampless, unwearetable, exclusively Slater leather. It is the most shape retaining sole leather ever put in a shoe. No shoe will hold its shape without a sound foundation. The arch is strengthened and held up by a strong steel arch support which prevents the shoe from breaking down. The upper leather is cut with infinite pains and skill on patterns which fit the last with watch making accuracy. The shoes then remain on the last six days, which thoroughly shapes the leather to the wood forms and takes out the last remnant of shrink and stretch. Anywhere in Canada at $3.50 and $4.00 for women and $4.00 and $5.00 for men—$1.00 less than the best American makes and precisely the same shoe.

The Question of Absorption

Is a most important one for bakers, and one which should be seriously considered by all. A strong, rich flour, which absorbs a great deal of water, is more satisfactory, inasmuch as, pound for pound, it will make more bread than a weaker flour, and with less trouble. Consequently it is more economical. All bakers who are desirous of reducing their expenses, and increasing their profits proportionally, should use our "FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN" brands. These are strong, rich, Manitoba Flours, especially suited to fill the requirements of the bakery trade, and which will be found more economical than any ordinary brands on the market.

CHURCH UNION WILL BE FAVORABLY RECEIVED BY METHODIST CONFERENCE. It Will Be Principal Subject of Discussion at the Meeting of the General Methodist Church Court in Montreal Tomorrow—Session Will Last Twelve Days—Steady Growth of the Church.

(Montreal Star.) The great issue to come before the Methodist General Conference, which opens in St. James' Methodist Church on Wednesday next, is the union negotiations, now in progress between the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches. This is the issue which is receiving most attention in the Methodist religious press, and to it was assigned the first place by Rev. W. Shaw, principal of the Western Theological College, of Montreal, in an interview with a representative of The Star. Dr. Shaw is further confident that the union proposals will meet with a favorable reception by the conference.

Among the reports to the general conference, that of the general conference statistician, Dr. George H. Conant, will be one of the most interesting. It shows that the last quadrennium has been one of growth all along the line. The total membership of the church is now 317,717, an increase for the year of 11,993 and for the four years of 25,392. There has been an increase of 169 in the number of ministers and probationers at work throughout the thirteen conferences, of which 150 are probationers and 19 fully ordained clergymen. Montreal School Board; 3 Boyworn League Board; 4 Superannuation Fund Board.

FRATERNAL DELEGATES. One of the most interesting features of a general conference is the visit of the representatives of other Methodist churches. This year the conference will be favored by the presence of three visitors. Rev. S. F. Collier, who has been so prominently identified with the city mission in Manchester, England, Wesleyan conference. Rev. V. K. Kelley, D. D., New York, for many years editor of the Methodist Review, is the representative of the Methodist Episcopal church of the United States, and Rev. J. M. McCoy, of Birmingham, Alabama, pastor of the church where the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, held its sessions a few months since, will carry the message of fraternal greetings from the conference of that denomination.

A BRUTAL ASSAULT John H. McGrath, teamster for James McAvilly, was last night for assaulting David Daley. About eight o'clock Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, grandmother of the assaulted girl, while passing at the head of Brussels street, heard the cries of her grandchild in her house, No. 2 Brussels street. She rushed up stairs and found McGrath clutching the throat of the Daley girl and beating her unmercifully. As soon as Mrs. Sullivan entered McGrath released his hold and escaped down stairs, where his wife and family reside. The Daley girl was almost unconscious, her face bearing several marks and her waist having been almost torn from her back. The cries of the girl had caused a great crowd to collect and Central station was communicated with and an officer responded. McGrath was placed under arrest and said that he gave Maud Daley the beating because she had abused his wife during the afternoon. Dr. Berryman, who attended the injured girl, said that he did not think that she had been seriously hurt.

MILLINERY OPENINGS Local Wholesale Houses Will Show Fall and Winter Styles Tomorrow and Thursday.

The wholesale millinery openings in St. John take place on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The Maritime Merchant, in its St. John correspondence, gives the following interview with Mr. Beauchamp, the head buyer for Manchester Robertson Albon Ltd., relative to shapes, materials, trimmings, and ornaments for the fall season: "The shapes this season are small and large, with the medium size omitted. The small hats are mostly of felt, in both soft and blocked shapes; but are only small as regards the untrimmed hat, for after they have been treated to a draping and chau of velvet, and finished with a huge quill or wing, they are quite large enough, although still a close-fitting hat. The large hats are mostly of the high-crown, short-front order, of which the 'Vesta Tilley' sailor is a leader.

WAS ADVOCATED BY DR. J. D. MAHER Ten Years Ago He Urged Action Along Lines Now Adopted by Canadian Dental Association.

The Times on Saturday copied from the Montreal Star an account of a meeting of the Canadian Dental Association and report of the paper read by Dr. Debeau on the Dental Education in Public Schools. "In the course of his paper, Dr. Debeau said that the establishment of dental clinics and the appointment of dentists to examine and treat gratuitously the teeth of the poor children attending public schools, is what the association is asking for at present from municipal or other public authorities. It is, he said, during the period from the 7th to the 10th year that children's teeth must be watched with the greatest care, as this period marks the fall of the temporary teeth and the appearance of the permanent ones. The First International Congress of School Hygiene, held at Nuremberg, in 1904, said Dr. Debeau, adopted the following resolution: 'It is necessary that governments organize dental clinics for the poor in which the services will be rendered gratuitously.'
