MR. TARTE'S SPEECH.

Mr. Tarte, after a jocular reference to the rumor that he had been made a lord, and after expressing his thanks for the kind words in which his health had been proposed, said: "I have endeavored to do as well as I could for my country; let me say for my hob-by, the great national highway that we are now on, that we are going to continue holding it as our own. (Applause.) Our American friends have a great many things that perhaps we have not, but there is one thing that they annot displace, cannot take from us, with all their energy, and that is our noble river, the St. Lawrence. It belongs to this great country, to the British Empire; here we stay. (Cheers.) Any minister of public works should endeavor to do as I am doing, should. endeavor to do as I am doing, should endeavor to improve our great SLLaw-rence waterway. I am just back from a trip to the great lakes that are tributary to the St. Lawrence. I am con-vinced that today we are only beginthan we will be able to handle. This is not an occasion for making a lengthy speech. We are improving our waterways. I do not wish to recriminate, but let me say to the business men here that we have neglected our waterways in the past. We shave built railways, we have spent a lot of money on them, and we have done well; but we have not done for our waterways as we should. In saying this I am speaking of all political parties; and all shades of well-informed public opinion. We are afraid to navigate the St. Lawrence at night. The St. Mary's is a great deal more crooked, but on one mile of that river the Americans have more dredges than the Government of Canada on the whole St. Lawrence. We are not energetic." Here Mr.

Tarte made a sally that was greatly appreciated by those familiar with the politics of a couple of decades ago. "If across the lakes.

PLANTERS GET $1,250,000. London, Aug. 19.—The West India Committee has published the reply of Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, to the deputation from the Island of Trinidad, which recently interviewed him on the subject of the inadequacy of the relief which the Government is giving the planters. Mr. Chamberlain declared that any increase of the sum ($1,250,000) voted by Parliament, was out of the question, and that he could hold out hope of a similar grant in 1903. If, however, the sugar industry then required further aid, he could consider raising money in the colonies to be advanced to planters on easy terms. He had no fears regarding the ratification of the Brussels' convention, but if for some unforeseen cause it was not ratified effective measures would be taken to safeguard the interests of the sugar industry of the British West Indies. CHINESE TARIFF TREATY SIGNED

London, Aug. 19.-In a dispatch from Shanghai, the correspondent of the London Times says the protocol of the tariff treaty was signed on Saturday by the British, German, American and Japanese representatives without reservation, and by the Austrian, Belgian and Dutch representatives ad referendum. The Chinese commissioners, lacking imperial sanction, did not sign the protocol; therefore, if China modifies it, the signatures affixed will be void. The document provides that the new tariff becomes operative Berlin, Aug. 19.—A duel strangely reminiscent of Stevenson's in the "Master of Ballantrae," has just been fought at Esseg, Slavonia. The Yanzik brothers loved the same girl, and as she declared she was satisfied with either, and neither would give way, they determined to fight for her. There were no seconds, no onlookers. It was to be a duel to the death. It was a pitch dark night and each brother entered the wood with a lantern. They and stepping under each began firing at will. The younger brother fell with at will. expected to recover. The elder has a severe flesh wound. The girl, when married to either for wealth untold.

America, says: "If alcoholic drinks are to be abandoned more and more, we will have to find a substitute. The best substitute, from a hygienic standpoint, will be sugar. But as sugar is too satisfying to be taken by itself, persons who eat much of it are apt to lose their appetitie for other articles of food necessary for their wellbeing. The sugar should therefore be taken in its natural state, in grapes, figs, plums, dates, pears, prunes, apricots, peaches, etc. When they cannot be had fresh dried fruit ought to be eaten."

NOT GOING TO IRELAND. A London cable says all papers there have been making a great deal of the statement that King Edward had decided to visit Ireland soon. In fact, it is stated that his majesty will visit the Emerald Isle either this autumn or early next spring, by way of encouraging the new young lord-lieu-tenant, the Earl of Dudley, toward whom his majesty has the very kindliest feelings. The story, however, originated in the brain of irresponsible correspondents at Cowes. One of the King's secretaries says the whole thing is simply ridiculous. The King has no

Hon. G. W. Ross sailed from Liveroool on the steamer Lucania. In an interview, he said that within a year the Australian and Canadian steamship line would be working under a co-operative system. This, Mr. Ross believed, would benefit the empire more than strenuous competition. The new South African steamship service would probably mean the early inauguration of a fast mail service between England and Canada.

Career of "Vesuvius" Ended.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.-The career of the Vesuvius as a dynamite cruiser is to be ended. Acting Secretary of the Navy Darling gathered about him the members of the naval board on construction, and it was decided that the swift and rakish craft, which was supposed to be capable of belching forth death and destruction like its namesake of Italy, should be declared to be unsuitable for the purpose for which it was built. A board of officers will be appointed to determine whether it shall be sold or whether it is worth while to take out the big pneumatic guns and convert it into an ordinary gunboat or dispatch vessel.

WILL PAY A VISIT TO AMERICA

Parliament of Cape Colony Meets Under Peculiar Circumstances on Wednesday.

Rotterdam, Aug. 19.-Dewet, Delarey and Botha, the Boer generals, and their party, landed here this morning. They were given a hearty welcome by the municipal authorities and representatives of Boer associations. Many ladies presented bouquets to the generals' wives. The ships in the harbor displayed their flags. The party proceeded to The Hague.

London, Aug. 19 .- Late yesterday afternoon the Boer generals left their hotel and proceeded to the docks to embark on the steamer Batavier, bound for Rotterdam. In spite of the secrecy of their movements, a large crowd awaited the generals and cheered the departing visitors.

Capt. O'Donnell, who served on Dewet's staff throughout the war, will start immediately for America, in order to prepare the way for the visit of the generals. He says that altogether about 500 Americans and 500 Irishmen were with the Boer forces.

THE GENERALS' PLANS. Montagu White, the ex-consulgeneral in London of the Transvaal, has issued a statement, thorized by the Boer generals, as follows: "The generals are proceeding to the continent for the purpose of greetattending the funeral of Gen. Lucas Meyer. Their present intention is to return to London at an early date for the transaction of business, but they have not decided on any fixed pro gramme. During their brief stay in London, the generals have been the recipients of many invitations and kind messages of welcome, which they MISSTATEMENT CORRECTED. "The report that the decision of the generals not to visit the naval review was due to the influence of Mr. Fischer, is not true.

Their real reason for declining the invitation Saturday was that they did not consider their attire quite suitable for a ceremonious visit, and the necessarily short notice conveyed to them did not give them the time for the necessary preparations. But they were glad of the opportunity of paying their respects to the King on the following day, after they had made the necessary purchases, and they are extended visit after an absence of ten gratified at the kind manner in which they were received by his majesty." THEIR WORST ENEMIES.

The Independence Belge, in an article quoted by the London Times that much good will result from the visit of the ex-Boer generals to King Edward. It deprecates the idea that either the generals or Kruger favor the creation of a party in the Transvaal hostile to Great Britain, and trusts that the Boer leaders understand that their worst en-emies are those who would compel Great Britain to adopt a pitiless line of action. Owing to the death of Lucas Meyer, says the correspondent, public manifestations in connection with the reception of Botha, Dewet and Delarey in Holland will be avoided as far as The warmth of England's greeting to the generals is not unfavorably noticed by the Dutch press, which interprets their absence from the naval review as a natural mark of respect for the memory of their late colleague.

CAPE COLONY AFFAIRS.

The Parliament of Cape Colony, says the Cape Town correspondent of the London Times, meets on Wednesday, under peculiar circum-stances. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, when refusing the suppression of the constitution advised that Parthe pulpit in the Presbyterian Church liament be convened early for the purpose of passing indemnity acts and the budget, which Sir John Gordon Sprigg, the premier, assured he (Sir John) could effect.

As the premier cannot rely on the support of more than ten of his own followers, it seems he must depend on the Afrikander Bund support, which has indicated that other legislation is necessary for the welfare of the country. He apparently desires a short session. Rightly or wrongly, Sprigg is believed to be inordinately keen on retaining office. His present atti-tude, when nearly his whole party is volt, and the services Bund have been enlisted for the purpose of securing a majority, lends color to this report.

Three Wrecked Fishermen Clung to a Gas Buoy for 24 Hours.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18 .- Patrick Botkin, Michael Downing and William Dray, fishermen, were rescued in an exhausted condition this morning by the crew of the yacht Kellogg after having clung to a bobbing gas buoy in Lake Erie for 24 hours. The men were fishing near the Seneca shoals, about 20 miles west of here on the south shore of Lake Erie, when their ooat was accidentally capsized. Unable to right their craft, the men finally abandoned it and succeeded in reaching the buoy which warns mariners of the submerged shoals. The round sheet iron tank, which tossed about in the heavy sea, offered a very insecure support for the fishermen, but they succeeded in holding on until sighted by the Kellogg this morning. The men were nearly exhausted when taken aboard the yacht, and would have succumbed in a short time.

FIFTEEN YEARS IN PRISON

Frank C. Andrews, Who Wrecked Detroit City Savings Bank, Sentenced.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 19 .- Judge Murphy in the recorder's court yesterday sentenced Frank C. Andrews, who was found guilty on Saturday of having misapplied and misappropriated the funds of the wrecked City Savings Bank, to 15 years at hard labor in Jackson prison. He had previously refused to grant Andrews bail, pending the settlement of the bill of exceptions, which his attorneys will file. An exception to the ruling denying bail, was taken by the defendant's attorneys, and it was announced that they will leave for Lansing to apply to the supreme court for a writ of error on this point. Andrews never winced when sentence was pronounced. He was taken back to jail immediately.

THE HEROINES OF ROCKAWAY

Both Wives of Policemen Out Rowing and Had Nobody to Help Them Either.

New York, Aug. 19. - Two slender women, Mrs. May McDonald and Mrs. Mamie Manchester, wives of Rockaway Beach policemen, are the heroines the skiff. Before Maguire and Hopkins of Rockaway Beach, having rescued were reached both had disappeared for of Rockaway Beach, having rescued five big, strong men from drowning, the other afternoon. Each is about 25 years old and modest over their joint achivement.

The rescued men are Edward Joyce, 35, of No. 337 West Twelfth street, Manhattan, who confesses that he weighs more than 225 pounds; Joseph Maguire, 27, a guest at the Crystal Beach, Rockaway Beach, who gave his weight as 185 pounds; William Hill, 29, son of Jane Hill, who runs the Robert Emmett House at Rockaway Beach, 170 pounds; John Coogan, 28, of East One Hundred and Ninth street, Manhattan, 175 pounds, and John Hopkins, 32, 200 pounds, and more than six feet tall.

STARTED OUT IN CATBOAT. The five men started out in a small catboat from the Four Jacks Fishing Club at Hammell's Station, and sailed down Jamaica Bay, intending to go through the Rockaway Inlet and cross to Sheepshead Bay. When their craft was off Seaside dock the sheet slipped from Hill's hands and the catboat went about and capsized, throwing all the men into the deep channel.

Policeman McDonald and Manchester were out in a catboat while their wives were rowing in a 16-foot skiff. The policemen did not see the boat capsize. Their wives did, and called lustily for their should be described by help, but their shouts were drowned by the blowing of the whistle of the steamer Grand Republic the captain of which saw the accident, but was not in a position to render assistance.

ROWED TO THE RESCUE. Seeing that help was not forthcoming the wives of the two policemen caught up their oars and pulled with all their might to where the men who were fully dressed with the exception of their shoes and stockings, were struggling in the water.

Hill was the first man the women pulled into their boat. He was thor-oughly exhausted. The little women tackled a rough proposition when they caught Joyce, the heaviest man in the party, but they managed to drag him in, too. Coegan was next pulled into a second time, but the women caught both of them, and with the assistance of the three already in the boat, dragged them to safety. HEROINES' HUSBANDS APPEAR.

Policemen McDonald and Manchester came alongside in their cathoat, to which the rescued party was transferred. Policeman John Moore rowed out to the overturned catboat and righted her, but the five men refused to go aboard again, and they were provided with old shoes and made their way back to the Four Jacks' Fishing Club after they had thanked their rescuers and given their names to Policeman Moore, whose duty it was to make a record of the narrow escapes. The women refused to talk of their performance, except that one said: "We did just right. Even if our husbands are policemen, they are not the only ones who can save lives."

"One hundred and fifty thousand men in the anthracite field have been engaged in a silent struggle for three months, and there has been less violence than is committed at a picnic of ordinary people upon ordinary occasions. The men struggling today had been reduced to a state of serfdom, but in the past three years they have been recast and their characters remodeled. Mr. Sifton and the Council.

The council last night threw another Stumbling-block in the path of Mr. Sifton by refusing his very reasonable to erect wires to two buildings, pending the final adjustment of his agreement with the city. The meanness of the council in this instance is quite in keeping with their previous course of petty obstruction. The agreement under which Mr. Sifton will eventually have the privilege of erecting these wires is practically completed, nothing but the mere form of adoption by the council being lacking. He is desirous of erecting wires to two shops, not through any desire for immediate gain, but because ne wishes to consult, in so far as he may, the convenience of his customers. Yet the council refuse his modest request and place another obstacle in his way. A somewhat astonishing feature of the discussion at last night's meeting was the presence of Mr. Hunt, manager of the London Electric Company. No one could make any objection to Mr. Hunt's presence were it not for the fact that the council accepted his advice in a matter with which he had nothing whatever to do. The consideration of Mr. Sifton's request was a matter for Mr. Sifton and the council only; and by appealing to the head of a rival company the council not only committed a very childish act, but a very unfair one.

Schwab and the Strenuous Life,

The news that Charles Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, has been compelled to retire from active business life for an dent of the U. S. Steal Combine Has indefinite period, furnishes food for serious reflection. In the quiet, oldworld corner to which his physicians have commanded him to go, Mr. Schwab will have ample time to ponder upon the everlasting question: Is the game worth the candle? Is the wealth of a Croesus and unlimited power in the industrial world worth seeking at the price of health and peace of mind? He will probably answer himself in the negative. It makes a great difference in a man's judgment whether he view the battle of life from an invalid's chair, through ers the Canadian minister of public eyes burning with the fever of sickness, or from the deck of a pleasure yacht, when nerves are steady and all the world is atune; for there is as much truth now as ever in Carlyle's as follows: In enunciating his belliremark that the healthy know not of their health, but only the sick. Mr. Schwab played the game for all that was in him, and now, while still a young man comparatively, he finds himself a physical wreck. Rare business ability, aided by fortuitous circumstances, placed him at the head of one of the greatest corporations in the world; then fate took another turn at the wheel and the man who commanded millions found himself in worse plight than the most humble of raise the wind for that $25,000 flight his toilers in Pittsburg. Mr. Schwab is only one of thousands of victims of the strenuous life in the United States, but his case is made more conspicuous by the height to which he had climbed. Americans seem to take an especial elight in the term strenuous as apolied to the feverish and unnatural node of life by which fortunes are made in a day. "Hustle" used to be the term, but one never hears of a hustler nowadays; the word did not express enough to suit the superlative temperament of the Yankee. The man who has a telephone placed on his table while he is bolting a 10-minute lunch at a restaurant, is something more than a hustler; he is a follower of the strenuous life. The Chicago Tribune, commenting upon the unsuccessful efforts of M. Santos-Dumont to interest New York capitalists in his aerial transportation project, observes that Americans have no time to fly. That very nearly expresses the fact. Lust for the power which the possession of untold millions can alone give, control the sea. has driven the nation mad. It is a madness, however, that must cure itself by its own violence. In Great Britain the term "success" has a different meaning. Contrast the life work of Mr. Schwab with that of Lord Salisbury. Toiling in widely different spheres of action, both achieved that which men term success. One retires, ripe with the accumulated years, in vigorous old age, honored by his countrymen and respected by the world; the other, at an age when he should be at his best, mentally and physically, steps down and out, soon to be forgotten. Is the strenuous life

The British Columbia papers devote much space to reports of the now famous McAdams case. The chief justice, by whom McAdams was released from prison after presenting a written apology to the affronted judges, concluded his remarks as follows:

"William McAdams, you have been found guilty of what was one of the greatest contempts of court ever recorded. I have searched up the record of such cases, and I have found no case which approaches this. In such cases as this the court must exercise its jurisdiction, and the only reason the court will take a lenient course is because the press has not been checked up in such matters as it might have been. The cardinal doctrine of these journals is that any measure of success in life or the holding of any responsible position, whether by appointment, or election is the certain and sure mark of scoundrelism. They look at the world through jealous and jaundiced eyes; and consider all mankind, excepting a few choice spirits in close communion with their own, as corrupt and crooked. They have, like Mr. Mc-Adams, 'a remarkable ignorance of the decencies of one man's behavior to another.'

If You Are Conscious of Failing Strength and Energy This Month, Make Use of PAINE'S CELERY -COMPOUND THE GREAT HEALTH AND STRENGTH GIVER.

No Other Medicine Can Afford or Guarantee Such Happy Results.

Men and women, young and old, of every rank in life, freely admit that they are more conscious of overtaxed nervous strength in the hot weather than at any other season. When such a condition is experienced, Paine's Celery Compound affords advantages and results that no other remedy can offer with honesty. It vigorously cleanses the blood and regulates the tardy circulation. It strengthens and encourages the kidneys and enables them to filter from the blood all waste and morbid matters; it secures strong, firm nerves; gives sweet and natural sleep to the nerve-tired and brain-weary. In a word, is a true summer life-giver and

This condition of sleeplessness brought on delirium. I was attended by four of the best doctors, and took a great quantity of the medicine, but all failed to do me any good. I thought I would try your Paine's Celery Compound. After I had used four bottles the nervousness and dyspepsia left me, and I have done more work since than for years past. I now enjoy excellent health and consider myself perfectly cured.'

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There's only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or famed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal conand this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Said a druggist today, "No doubt about it, the tonic that gives best results is the biggest seller, and that is Ferrozone. It enriches and purifies the blood, restores strength and energy to the feeble, and is

Will Bensley was also a "hold over" and gave a good turn on the slack wire. The Ganellas gave a laughable comedy skit, which was an improvement on similar events at the park. They work hard for applause and gain plenty of it before their act is finished. Owing to a couple of cancellations from the announced bill, Tom Ripley appeared in a monologue In topical songs he proved an up-todate comedian. Jokes without age and parody songs brought him several encores. Hardie Langdon, vocalist, sang one sentimental and two negro melocaptivating style. Spence, with his Kenwick Quartet, delighted the good audience present with several illustrated songs. The entire bill is a good one.

LONDON LADY IN INDIA

Sings Before Vice-Royalty and Receives Praise.

Mrs. Twining, formerly Miss Louise Daly, of this city, sang at a grand concert, under the distinguished patronage of his Excellency the Viceroy of India and Lady Curzon, given at Simla in honor of the coronation. In commenting upon Mrs. Twining's performance, the Allahabad Pioneer says: Mrs. Twining's song was a very diffi-cult one, and was finely sung. On being recalled she gave Frances Allit-sen's "Song of Thanksgiving," which suited her method perfectly.

Mr. A. J. Small Negotiating to Magistrate Was Lenient With Secure the London.

Appointment of Alex. Harvey as Manager Would Prove Popular.

It is understod that Mr. A. J. Small, lessee of the Grand Opera House here, has been for some time in negotiation with Mr. Alex. Harvey here, with a view to securing control of the Lon-don Opera House. Should Mr. Small secure the London, he will follow here the same plan as he already has in operation in Toronto, putting on melo-drama, farce and the cheaper class of attractions at the London, and reserv-ing the Grand for the higher-grade productions. The change would be one eminently satisfactory to theatergoers. No announcement has yet been made as to the management of the local houses. Nothing would be more gratifying to the public of this city than an announcement that both local houses would be under the charge of Mr. Alex. Harvey. Mr. Harvey is a young man who has gained the goodwill of all through his genial and courteous treatment of the public during his term as manager of the London Opera House, and his retention as manager of both theaters would be a profitable move on the part of the lessees.

BURIAL OF MRS. DICKSON Funeral of Former London Lady Takes

Place at Galt. A Galt dispatch dated Aug. 18 says: The funeral of the late Mrs. Dickson, wife of Rev. Dr. Dickson, whose death occurred on Friday night, took place this afternoon. The obsequies included a service in the Central Church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Mullen, of Fergus, assisted by Rev. Rural Dean Ridley, of Galt; Rev. Prof. Beattie, of Louisville, Ky., and others. The pall-bearers were from the board of mana-gers and session. Mrs. Dickson had been ill for some time, but, until a few days ago, was thought to be improving. Rev. Dr. Dickson, who is in the old country, sailed for home on Saturday. Mrs. Dickson, whose maiden name was Isabella E. Fairbairn, was the daughter of the late Walter Fairbairn, of London. Her husband, seven daughters and three sons survive. One son, Dr. Walter Dickson, is a practicing physician at Tuscombia, Mo. Mrs. Dickson was for many years president of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Central Church, in which took great interest. At her death she was honorary president. Her demise will occasion a void in the con-gregation that will be hard to fill, forwhile essentially domestic, Mrs. Dickson's friendship was prized and sought

Attendance Promises To Be as Four London Pupils Win Fourteen Scholarships.

Names and Addresses of the Seventy- Mr. F. C. Bowman, of the L. C. I., Heads List for Whole Province.

A pupil of the London Collegiate Institute has beaten the whole province and headed the list in the junior matriculation scholarship examinations. The results of the recent matriculation scholarship examinations at Toronto must be gratifying beyond words to the principal and staff of the London Collegiate Institute, in view of the fact that if the London pupils were allowed to have and to hold all that they have won, fourteen scholarships, won by four pupils, would come to the London Collegiate. F. C. Bowman ranked for ten of these, Miss A. L. O'Brien for two, and Miss M. C. Runians and J. W. Cohoon for one Mr. Bowman, who is the son of Prof. James Bowman, chemist, has achieved a record unequaled for brilliancy, even in the brilliant annals of the London Collegiate Institute. The Prince of Wales and the Edward Blake general proficiency scholarships, which are the highest in the province, have never been held by a Londoner before. Mr.

Bowman also ranked first in classics and mathematics, second in classics and moderns, first in mathematics and moderns, second in mathematics and science, first in moderns and science, second in science and second in modern languages. Miss A. L. O'Brien, daughter of Mr. William O'Brien, janitor of the Simcoe ford; Annie Hollway, St. Thomas; in mathematics and science and ranked second for the Edward Blake scholarship in mathematics. Miss M. C. Runians, daughter of Mr.

E. E. Runians, won the fourth scholarship in classics and modern languages, and J. W. Cohoon, of Birr, who studied at the London Collegiate, won the Mary Mulock scholarship in classics. The honor list is:

F. C. Bowman, first class honors in classics, modern languages, English, French, German, history, mathematics. science, physics, chemistry and biology. Miss A. L. O'Brien first class honors in mathematics, science, physics, chemistry and biology.
Miss M. C. Runians, first class honors

Accorded a Public Reception-Warmly Welcomed by the People.

The Hague, Aug. 19 .- A public reception was accorded the Boer generals on their arrival here today from Rotterdam. Gen. Eyter, in a speech, paid a tribute to their heroic deeds. Gen. Botha replied, expressing the appreciation of the Boer officers at the warmth of their reception, and referring to the consolation which it had been to them to know that while they fought their women and children were being supported by Dutch generosity The visitors were escorted in procession through the town in open carriages, and were everywhere loudly cheered by the crowds assembled. Lansford, Pa., Aug. 19.-With all its lights out, the train bearing General Gobin and the first battalion of the Twelfth Regiment from Shenandoah steamed quietly into this town just before daybreak today. The troops camped on baseball park on the western edge of the town. The strikers were worked up to such a high pitch of excitement last night over the shooting of Sharp, who is one of their leaders, that it was feared an outbreak would occur this morning, and it was thought better to have the soldiers near at hand. The killing of Sharp is discussed on every street corner today. The strikers denounce it as an unprovoked and cold-blooded murder, but the deputies and coal company officials deciare the shooting was done in self-defense. The Scotch machinists at the Kingston, (Ont.) Locomotive Works have received notice of expulsion from the union from New York. They say the headquarters of their society is in England and their secretary there

Henry and Harriet Chysler, charged | Cooiness of Motorman and Passenger Prevented Accident.

> Passengers on a Springbank car last night witnessed an exciting episode, while today a foolish youth is able to congratulate himself that he is at least not maimed for life. The car was the last which left Springbank, and was in charge of Motorman Liston and Conductor Gould. As the car approached Wonderland, running at a rapid rate, the motorman saw the figure of a man lying with the feet and legs across one of the rails. Motorman Liston instantly reversed his motor, but so great was I was in distress, and rowing rapidly tothe speed of the car that it had not wards him he jumped from his boat quite stopped when it reached the prostrate man. Mr. Dick Forristal, of King street, who was sitting on the front seat of the car, leaped off as the car neared the figure, and seizing hold of the unconscious man, pulled him off just in time to save him from being caught by the wheels, which grazed his boots as his feet were drawn over the rails. The young man was found to be helplessly drunk, while near by a companion was discovered equally incapable of taking care of either himself or his friend. credit is due to both Mr. Liston and Mr. Forristal for the coolness, quickness and presence of mind which they

"I hear you have been shooting very

One moment the whole iron face softagain as tight as ever.
"Even without the foreground," he anwered, very low, and with a cold, distant bow that was almost rude. The others had gone to resume their guns, and I was getting out of the carriage, so I think she fancied the whisper was unobserved in which she repiled, "Thank you for the compliment; you are sincere, at any rate. And I am sure no one but myself heard John's muttered, "God help me! I am," with which he strode over the fence into the adjoining

Lady Gerturde droye off for the rail-way station at a pace of unusual liberality, and John Gordon missed the first three consecutive shots which offered themselves, to the astonishment and disgust of the keeper at his side.

I walked behind the sportsmen, enjoying the freshness of the air and the contemplation of a pastime that I had followed in youth with passionate eagerness. When a man has once cared for field-sports, I confess I am always sorry to see him losing his taste for these manly pursuits. I mean, when they come in ly pursuits. I mean, when they come in his way naturally and easily. I have re-marked that it argues either failing en-ergy or too great a preponderance of one engrossing idea, than which nothing is more fatal to the morale of the individual. I believe balance to be one of the great secrets for preserving a well-regulated mind. One who can interest and occupy himself with what are called trifles, has a great advantage over another who must be at "high pressure," so to speak, to work at all. The former can keep his faculties in edge and polish by frequent and judicious use; the latter must wear them away with too much friction, or leave them to lie on the shelf and rust.

As I watched Glibert, I was concerned to see the listlessness of his hearing, and his mere endurance of what used to be one of his keenest pleasures. He was such a contrast to his two companions;

I have always been of opinion that more fatal to the morale of the individ-ual. I believe balance to be one of the covey after covey flushed, marked, broken, and destroyed. John Gordon had recovered his equanimity and the accuracy of his practice. Holyhead was beginning to complain of "that deathless thirst of his." There were 52 brace in the bag; the devs were falling rapidly, and a vapory haze was rising from the teeming sell. Heavy banks of clouds timed with crimser were setting over tipped with crimson were setting over the western sky; the partridges were call-ing to each other from stubble to stubble: and even the keeper thought it was tendants, and, striking into the high-road, made for the park Gilbert remained be-hind to give a few directions as to the disposal of some game, and the other two disposal of some game, and the other two walked on at a pace that seemed to me peculiarly unsuitable after a hard day's work. Perhaps each had some restless reason of his own for wishing to get back to the hall. I also had an object to rursue. I had determined to obtain an hour's quiet conversation with my boy. We were soon strolling along between the high thick hedges out of sight and ear-shot of all but the quiet hares and busy rabbits that side out of the plantations to crop their dank evening meal.

Like many other "pleasant vices." Like many other "pleasant vices," smoking has given me up for years. Nevertheless, on occasions I hold the composing weed to be of great assistance to those who would invite confidence or unbosom themselves of their sorrows. Gilbert smiled as he handed me a cigar For several minutes result. me a cigar. For several minutes we walk-ed on and smoked without a word.

CHAPTER XLI.

I was the first to break silence.
"Gilbert," I said, "I fear I shall have to go soon. I can only spare time for a short visit. When shall I see you again?
What are you going to do all the win-I confess to the common weakness of temperature of the bath, to withdraw it again shrinkingly and prepare, not without a shiver, for another attempt, rather than souse in at once over head and ears, and come up with a glow. Therefore, I tried to lead Gilbert on to a confession by degrees.

He started as though I had touched upon some subject which even then occupied his mind.

weather-beaten neck. The man was obwiously tired and hungry, and poor, yet while we passed him he wished us a kindly "Good-night," and whistled cheeras he stepped out on his homeward way.

Gilbert pointed over his shoulder with the loading-rod in his hand.
"I would give everything I have," he said, "willingly—oh, how willingly!—to whistle with as light a heart as that fellow. low, even for a day."

There was something so utterly hopeless and spirit-broken in his tone that I could hold out no longer.

"My boy," I said, "you are very, very unhappy. I have known it I have seen it, for iong. Such a grief as yours, bidden and cherished and brooded over, eats like a sore into the heart. Like a sore, too, it should be opened and formented, and encouraged to run freely till it drains itself away. Will you not confide in me? Will you not take counsel with me? I Will you not take counsel with me? I have known you from a child. I have watched over you all your life. Glibert, watched over you all your life. Gilbert, I love you like a son."

He took my arm and pressed it in his own kindly manner.
"If you know it." he said, "it's no use my telling you. But you are right. Uncle Edward. I need not mind acknowledging to you that I am very miserable. It cannot be unmanly to speak the truth; and if it be so, what need that matter to me? I have nothing to care for nothing to if it be so, what need that matter to me? I have nothing to care for, nothing to hope for, on earth. You cannot conceive how I loathe the wealth and the position and the luxury by which people set such store. What can they do for me? How can they help me? They do but give me facilities for evil; and I rush into guilt, not blindly—that might be excusable—but wilfully, and with open eyes, knowing it cannot make me forget even for an hour! I sometimes wonder why for an hour! I sometimes wonder why are these things so. I begin to doubt. Wisdom and Truth—above all, Justice. Am I explating crimes committed in a past state, of which I have no remembrance? Or am I punished for the venial follies of my youth, in which even now I can see but little harm? What is it I have done? or what is the object and the have done? or what is the object and the intention of making me so unhappy? I try to look at the whole question with the eve of an unprejudiced observer; to be myself the unshrinking anatomist of be myself the unshrinking anatomist of my own moral being—to abstract my own identity from the sufferer, and watch the fibres quiver and the nerves thrill with calm sclentific interest. You see I go rather deep into the thing," he added, with a painful attempt at levity, "and the only conclusion I arrive at is the somewnat inconclusive one—Cul bone?"

"You do not take the right view of it." "You do not take the right view of it." I argued. "How can you look dispassionately on your own sufferings? And when was cold philosophy sufficient to console a man for any sorrows but those of others? Cui bono? you ask. Did you ever hear of a prize without a struggle? ever hear of a prize without a struggle? Can you not conceive that the furnace must be heated sevenfold to temper the true steel? Gilbert, the time will come when you will thank God that you have been in trouble!"

"And you mean to tell me that all this is for my own good?" he broke in. "To put me off with the old woman's argument that wretchedness here necessarily

I have always been of opinion that a grain of illustration is worth a pound of argument. We were still half an hour's walk from the hall. Evening had already closed in. Time and place were equaly adapted for confidential communication.

You doubt my experiences," I said: "would you like to hear something of them? You have known me as long as you have known anything. Do you ever remember me different from what I am smiled as he answered: "No. My impression of you from the first is the same kind, dear old Uncle Edward, with the same white hair, and the same absent ways, and I firmly believe the very same clothes that you have plied. "who clung to you so tight that you could never shake him off. I won-der you were not afraid of him as a child, that Ancient Mariner:

"'So long, and lank, and brown, As is the ribbed sea-sand."

Ah, Gubert, I have never told you be-fore, I will tell you now, almost in the Ancient Mariner's words: "'Oh, wedding-guest this soul hath been Alone on a wide, wide sea; So lonely 'twas, that God himself Scarce seemed there to be.'

The sea is lonely as ever, but it is not so wide now; and I think I know that God is wide now; and I think I know that God is often nearer poor Hagar in the wilderness than mocking Sarah smiling at the tent door, surrounded by Bocks and herds, asses and camels, and all the profusion of the Patriarch's wealth. Think of that desolate one as she sat down on the barren sand, a bowshot off from her child that she might not see him die. It was not till she had abandoned her very last hope that the spring bubbled up, and they were saved. Will you hear how it was with me before you were born? was with me before you were born?
"It may seem strange to you that the quiet old book-worm whom you remember making your bows and arrows as a child, and reading Herodotus with you as a youth, should ever have been, like yourself a man of the world worldly. yourself, a man of the world, worldly, mixing in all the sports and vanities that mixing in all the sports and vanities that are so engrossing at the time, and draining the cup of pleasure with a zest of which even the memory carries with it a species of intoxication still. He was rich, gay, agreeable—he may say so now without vanity—and above all, thoroughly in earnest. Whatever promised amusement or excitement, he pursued and ran down with unfailing energy. Ay, it's no use disguising it, you know it as well as I do—pleasure empty though it well as I do-pleasure, empty though it be, is a very pleasant thing while it lasts. We have read of the Cups of Circe, you and I. in the old peaceful days. Depend upon it, they were no insipid draught. Cold, sweet and sparkling, be sure they never lost their fla-ver till they had produced their effect. He started as though I had touched upon con some subject which even then occupied his mind.

"Go abroad, I think," he answered, with rather a disturbed look: "to Egypt, or South America, or any other warm climate. What does it matter? What can I do here?"

"Shall you not stay at West Acres." I resumed, "now you are sertied here—at least till the end of the hunting season?" He laushed bitterly, Lunching at once into the savage tone which was habitual now, which he never used formerly.

"And fuifill my duties, I suppose, in the station in which I am place?! Ride half-red horses over this break-neck country, and come home in the dark to dine with a few respectable idiots who have not an idea beyond the fat on my venison and the taste of my claret. Then once a week I should attend magistrates? meetings, and commit peor fellows to prison that I know are ten times better and honester men than myself! Thank you, my dear eld friend. What a life you now. Think how meety-nine out of every hundred would enky you vour lot."

As I speke we met one of his ewn labders returning from work. His tools hung in a basker behind him; his coarse clothes and gaiters were plastered with toth, was knotted loosely round his well I liked it; but the time came at last when I began to deem all this sparkle and glitter less the end than all the accessories of existence; when I esteemed such but as the stones of lesser price, that I would fain group around the pearl I thought I had won; nay, when I flung them away willingly, cheerfully, that the pear might show fairer, purer, without the aid of extraneous ornament. Then I said: 'I have found the philosopher's stone at last. What need I care that I melt all my possessions in the crucible, since I have worked out the charm that turns everything to gold? Why should I grudge to abstract myself from all I have hitherto esteemed, and give up friends, ambition, fame, station, all and everything since I have discovered the pearl of great price, which, when a man finds, he sells all he has that he may make it he had a quarter handicap, Baron in the second at Quarter handicap, Baron Papper and Ethics furnished a soultof great price, which, when a man finds, he sells all he has that he may make it his own? I was really happy now—so I thought, and so I was—for about haif a day, It is no less sad than true, Gilbert; and you will, I feel, agree with me, that this false glamor is a warmer, softer light than the pure, clear dawn of the true day. Alas! instead of growing hyphytha and brighten into the splander. the true day. Alas! instead of growing brighter and brighter into the splendor of noon, that it should fade as rapidly as a meteor, and leave us in a darkness all orighter and brighter into the splendor of noon, that it should fade as rapidly as a meteor, and leave us in a darkness all the more profound that our eyes have been dazzled, and our senses stupefied with its sheen!

"I set my pearl in gold, if ever man did. The gem was well worthy of the setting. I am an old man now. Boy! I cannot but be within a few paces of my grave. Years have gone by since then; years that have changed everything around me. And yet I dare not speak today of the great sorrow that passed over me and left me desolate.

"Do you think I cared for worldly ruin after that? Do you think I cared for worldly ruin after that? Do you think the choicest gifts of fortune could have ever again been to me aught but dust and ashes? The greatest kindness you can bestow on the poor old wretch who has taken his death-wound, is to lay him down in some quiet corner unnoticed and alone.

"These things are managed for us. It must be so, or the memories of three-score years and ten would drive a good man mad. Let me look calmly back down the long valley, and think of what might have been. Had I retained all the treasures men most covet—health, and wealth, and strength, and station—ay, and the one inestimable blessing that alone made them all worth having—how could I have borne to think of death? Too happy for a mortal. I must have become a coward from sheer fullness of consent. Again, had I not been compelled to face actual want alone, how would it have racked my heart to see her in poverty and distress! On the other hand, to have lost the jewel and preserved the setting, would have been to hand, to have lost the jewel and pre-served the setting, would have been to sit with folded hands in the mute prostra-tion of despair. But when all was lost, then was it all was gained. It is well to have but one Friend left, the only Friend that never failed a man at his need. There he is, always the same, alneed. There he is, always the same, al-ways generous, always sympathizing, al-ways forgiving: not grudging that you never come to him till everyone else has spurned you; accepting your broken heart all the more kindly that it is broken and humbled to the dust. Oh, my boy, if the heathen thought he was sure of one last resource in death, what courage does it give to us to know that we have our refuge in life forever!"

Lively Lumber Trade. Windsor, Aug. 19.-R. H. Roys, of the Saginaw Lumber and Salt Company, has sold a portion of the township of Ferguson, in the Rarry Sound district, containing hemlock, pine and hardwood. The consideration was private. Mr. Roys says that Chicago parties are buying extensively in Parry Sound district. The three big mills of the Saginaw Lumber and Salt Company are running night and day at the Georgian Bay property of the company, and the mills at Sandwich are also busy. Mr. Roys reports that men are hard to get at Georgian Bay to work in the timber. A raft of logs containing 3,000,000 feet of hemlock is now on its way from Parry Sound, being consigned to the Detroit Lumber Company by the Saginaw Lumber and "I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to a friend for recommending your medicine, as well as to you for preparing such grand remedies for chronic diseases especially, which the doctors failed to reach," writes I. B. Staples, Esq., of Barclay, Osage Co., Kans. "I desire to pass the good word along for the benefit of others who need your remedies. I am a railroad ageat, and four years ago my work keeping me in a warm room and stepping out frequently into the cold air gave me bronchitis, which became chronic and deep seated. Doctors failed to reach my case and advised me to try a higher air, but, fortunately for me, a friend also advised me to try Dr. Pierce's medicines. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and by the time I had taken the first bottle I was better, and after taking about four bottles my cough was entirely gone. This was a year ago last winter; and again last winter I took about three bottles to prevent a return of the trouble. I have ound no necessity for seeking another climate."

DAN PATCH VS. PRINCE ALERT. New York, Aug. 19.-Horace Wilson, secretary of the Empire City track, has succeeded in making arrangements for a match race between the noted pacers, Prince Alert and Dan Patch, for the meeting commencing at that track Sept. 15. These pacing stars will meet for a purse of $3,000 in a twoin-three heat race, the winner taking the entire purse. Both horses have earned a record of 2:00%. The horses are under contract not to meet before the Empire meeting, and the opinion of horsemen is that the horse that wins will have to go under two minutes to do it. At this meeting, which will last five days, the Dan Patch-Alert match is scheduled for the second day. THE GRAND CIRCUIT. Readville, Mass., Aug. 19.—The Grand Circuit meeting, opening here yesterday, was favored with fine weather, and some sensational wins for horses little favored by the betting fraternity, the favorites in each event being beaten. The big event on the card was the Blue Hill stakes for 2.30 trotters, with a purse of $5,000. It went to Wentworth, son of Superior, in a magnificent race, the first three heats beating the stake record for this class, which was 2:114. The 2:16 pace was won by the black mare Sufreet in three straight heats, leading from start to finish, and never being forced out to her limit. In the 2:13 trot 15 horses started, and some difficulty was encountered in sending them away. Baron De Shay, who had finished dirteenth in the first heat, won the next two straight and the race. During the races the management announced there would be an extra day on Saturday, when Dan Patch will endeavor to beat the world's pacing record of 1:594, made on this track by Star Pointer in 1897. A $2,000 consolation purse will also be offered for the horses who fail to land in the money in the Massachusetts race for $15,000 on Wednesday. Summaries:

ALBINISM IN BIRD WORLD NOT AN INFREQUENT THING

Instances of Total Albinism Always Interest Scientists.

Readers of The Advertiser will remember Mr. Richard Lucas' find of two white robins last week, a case which has excited considerable interest among local and other ornithologists. This morning an Advertiser representative called on Mr. W. E. Saunders, whose interest in ornithology is well known, to ascertain if white robins were a rarity, or the reverse, and if he had come across many specimens in his ornithological researches.

"I have very often encountered similar cases," said Mr. Saunders. "Albinism among birds is very common. It is rarely, indeed, that a pure white bird is met with, but partial albinism is seen almost every day. You might say that partial albinism occurs ten times where complete albinism occurs only once. curs only once. "Albinos are more common among English sparrows than any other bird, less white in them. "One or two ornithologists in North | cause of science.

Cases of Partial Whiteness Are Quite Numerous.

America pay special attention to albinos, and have large collections of them. Their researches have proved that this phase of coloring occurs in every family of birds. "Another abnormal color occurs once in a while, though very much more rarely than albinism, and that is melanism. In melanism the plumage is all black, instead of all white, but so rare is it that very few people ever see a specimen of it. The same thing occurs in insects once in a while. "Personally, I do not recall ever having seen an instance of melanism, though I have seen several cases of albinism. I remember having seen two barn swallows once that were pure white, and another time I saw a pure white pine grosbeak at Rat Portage. "Besides these two birds of Mr. Lucas', the parents of which, by the way, were of perfectly normal color, I remember another interesting case of albinism in London about two years ago. Someone came in and told me that there was a white robin breeding out on the sixth concession, east of Ade-laide street. I went out to see it, and every one of its young was of normal color, with not a trace of the white plumage or pink eyes of the mother-

R. W. Wilcox. Remedies for dyspepsia have multiplied so rapidly that they are becoming as numerous as the leaves of the forest, and yet dyspepsia continues to flourish in spite of them all. This is due to the fact that the cause of dyspepsia is not recognized as catarrh. If there is a remedy in the whole range of medicinal preparations that is in every particular adapted to dyspepsia, that remedy is Peruna. This remedy is well nigh invincible in these cases. No one suffering with catarrh of the stomach or dyspepsia, however slight, can be well or happy. It is the cause of so many distressing symptoms that it is a most dreaded disease. Peruna acts immediately at the seat of the trouble, the inflamed mucous membranes lining the stomach, and a last-
