LOAFERS ON STREETS

Magistrate Makes Plain His Intention To Rid the City of Vile-Mouthed Characters.

That disorderly conduct by thugs and the numerous loafers found on dcwntown streets toward respectable young people will not be tolerated on the streets of London, was plainly demonstrated in Carling street police court this morning, when Police Magistrate J. C. Judd collected $25 infines from two young men, Charles Walker and Thomas Boyle, who admitted that their actions had been offensive. The complainant, a young man residing on Dundas street east, informed the court that he was walking home with a young lady Wednesday evening, and was proceeding, along Richmond street, when Walker Boyle drove up in a buggy, the former passing insulting remarks and cursing in a most annoying manner. A bottle was finally thrown from the rig striking the young gentleman on head. Walker was found to be chiefly responsible by the court, as he had stopped the horse and had passed the remarks to the couple on the walk, and was accordingly mulcted $15 and the limit of twenty-one days in jail. Boyle denied that he had said anything offensive, but was fined $10. Many complaints of the kind have been received by the police of late, and it is the intention of the depart-

OATS ARE BLACK AS RESULT OF SHOWERS

Body of Prosperous Farmer Farmers Unable Yet To Draw In Any of the Grain

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Sept. 5. - Although there have been two successive days of fine weather, the farmers have made very little progress in finishing their harvesting operations. The grain was so thoroughly soaked by the daily showers that in many places it is not yet fit to haul into the barn, although it is drying rapidly.

The fine weather, however, has been rather late to prevent serious damage. A number of farmers have stated that their oats in the field are very black, and that in some shocks, they have already attained a growth of several

It has been stated that the country could easily get along without rain for at least a month. The pasturage is good and the root crops are thriving; in fact, there is very little in the fields that requires frequent rains.

Toronto. The Coal Situation,

By naming a special committee to investigate the coal situation, the council will undoubtedly receive commendation from citizens generally. There are many in the town who can recall the unpleasant experience they had seven or eight years ago, when in the middle of winter there was a fuel famine owing to repeated snow blockades on the railways.

Local people are puzzled that there should be such a pronounced scarcity of coal at the present time, but if the situation is likely to become worse the council should be complimented for taking up the matter and endeavoring to avert a famine at a time when the situation would be serious. Mayor Coleridge brought out the existing facts in a plain and impressive manner, and demonstrated that it is his desire that the council give all possible and protection to the people of the

Get This Beautiful Book Now Before It is Everlastingly Too Late.

As it is planned to discontinue The Advertiser's great educational campaign, only a few days remain in which one may obtain Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary on the favorable terms made possible by the cou-pon clipped from The Advertiser. After this distribution ends the book will be procurable only th ough the stores, and the purchaser will pay $4 for a book now obtainable for only 98 cents and the coupon, So if you need an up-to-date dictionary act now and save regrets and money.

How many business openings of some kind or other have you lost through the practice of saying to yourself, "I'll do it tomorrow," or "I'll wait until tomorrow"? And haven't you always resolved to lie in ambush for opportunity nereafter, to grasp him when he comes by on the run, or even sit up all night in expectation, of his single knock on the door?

Opportunity is sprinting through London now in the shape of the offer by The Advertiser to its readers of a splendid Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary, and you are false to your resolve and intentions, if you tail to get that book today. For, remember, they're going fast, and it's very likely that the fellow ahead of you might be the one who's going to get the last book. So why not do it today?

If you've been waiting because you have not been sure of the worth the dictionary, such fear should dispelled through the fact that the letters praising The Advertiser's Dictionary for its excellence in every respect have come from all walks of young and old, rich and poor, clergy and laify, business, professional and laboring man uniting in their praise of the latest and best dictionary published. Isn't that enough for you?

Why not clip out that coupon today? You'll find it printed elsewhere in today's Advertiser. Clip it out and with the small expense bonus which is asked to cover the cost of distributing the books, secure that dictionary that you really intend to get. For you can't afford to miss it.

Remember, one Advertiser coupon, and the small expense bonus, will make you the owner of a well-bound excellently printed, fully illustrated and thoroughly up-to-date and authoritative Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary. One coupon and 98 cents will get you the dictionary bound in full limp leather, sold at $4 generally; one coupon and 48 cents for the cloth-bound dictionary, usually sold at $2. #### THE REAL PROBLEM.

The realities of the problem of imberial defence are in danger of being obscured by the German panic. Let the mother country take care of Europe, and the overseas dominions guard the rest of the Empire. This is the policy advocated by the First Lord of the Admiralty himself in a memorable speech. But there are alarmists in Great Britain and in Canada who profess that the whole question revelves around the German "menace." They would put every pretend to see no other factor of the situation. They have lost their sense of proportion. If Great Britain were unable to cope with Germany or were at present unprepared, there would be a strength of the Empire in British waters. The British dominions would pour out their money to make the parent isles invulnerable. But these are not the existing conditions. The British coast is inviolate. The British navy has a margin of superiority over administration should supervene be the German navy which the British. Government declares is sufficient and They would be able to appeal to the which the British program of naval construction, looking several years justify them in renouncing allegiance ahead, will increase. Colonial ships adding to that margin, would be superfluous. In the meantime what of the Empire overseas? Is the meteor flag of England to be swept from the six seas and herded in, the seventh through fear of Germany? That is practically what the panic-mongers are crying

In Australia this "emergency" talk finds little countenance. The people of that far-flung British outpost in alien seas realize that naval defence should begin at home; that there are naval needs in the Pacific as well as the Atlantic, and that for Australia the peril, if such there is, will be yellow, not white. The Australian correspondent of the London Times, a paper bitten by the German craze, puts the case unanswerably: 'The Australian navy, whose first floating units are already flying the white ensign along with their own distinctive flag, is not properly a thing about which there ca. be any useful argument. There has been some subdued debate in English circles at home as to whether a local and separate Australian navy ought to be permitted to exist. But that debate is futile, and, it is hardly necessary to add, quite without official weight. Touching the main principle, it is about as useless to question in England whether Australia should be allowed to own a navy as whether Germany should. It is a matt r over which England herself has humanly no control. The establishment of its own fleet by the younger British nation arises from popular demand, which is to say, popular instinct. Reasons in support of, or objection to, it are of purely secondary value." Canada, like Australia, confronts the Canadian ships are more needed in Pacific waters than in the North Sea. Australia would gladly have Canada's co-operation in upholding British interests there and keeping the British flag afloat. While Australian ships are already flying the white ensign, nearly ready for commission, Canada has done nothing but try to retrace the steps taken by the Laurier Government. Yet Canada and Australia had an even start. Canada has been halted by the partisan exigencies of her Government. It is to be hoped she will begin to overtake her sister dominion at once. An "emergency" grant to build battleships for the North Sea would be an expensive way of dodging the issue. The of the British woman suffrage moveduty of the present Government is to begin where its predecessor left off.

ULSTER'S PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

The Unionist plan of campaign in Ulster, outlined by the Times, provides for the erection of a provisional government for the province in the lieutenant, says the time is not ripe for event of the home rule bill becoming an Imperial Parliament in which the law. This improvised government will colonies would be represented. It is history of labor legislation, but that ne refuse to recognize the authority of a rather cruel of Mr. Smith to come to Parliament at Dublin. This policy is to be proclaimed on Ulster Day, Sept. 27, prefaced by "religious" rites.

If these threats were carried out, the Ulster Unionists would have to reckon not with the Irish, but with the ize that sex equality is inevitable, and British authorities, since all Irish taxes the women can no more be kept out are to be first paid into the imperial of the ballot box than out of the trades exchequer, and collected by its agents, and professions. before being paid over to the Dublin Government. By abstention from whis-

Royal Constabulary will remain under imperial control for some years by the terms of the home rule bill, but the corps may be divided by the same passions which divide the people. As for military measures, the Unionist leaders affirm that British soldiers will never fire on their fellow-countrymen in Ulster, an invitation to the army to disobey orders. The British people are not convinced that this distressing situation will come to pass. They still regard the Ulster fulminations as stage-thunder. They cannot believe that Conservative leaders are sincere in spoutthe established order-its watchwords, "The King and the Constitu-

It is .less consistent on their the language of British politicians, and part than it would be on the part of the Liberals to preach passive or ac- The explanation of the German scare tive resistance to constituted authority. lies in the two quotations. Liberals cannot forget that insurrection and revolution are written on some of the most shining pages in British history. But a revolt in Ulster would be unique in British annals because there would be no actual, specific grievance. The Unionists would be rebelling against Irish home rule before they had tried it, and before they could prove the existence of a wrong. If they accepted home rule and could demonstrate that under it colonial ship into the North Sea. They they were victims of oppression, they could have their wrongs redressed immediately, even to the extent of secession from the authority of an Irish Parliament, by an appeal to their fellow-countrymen of Great Britain. No British Government would dare force a reason for concentrating the naval province of Ireland to submit to the tyranny of an Irish administration. But the Ulster minority says it will refuse to give home rule a trial, and will carry its refusal to the point of armed resistance. What an example to the majority in Ireland if a Unionist fore the home rule bill is passed!

An Ottawa dispatch says that the British war office has been unable to secure for Col. Sam Hughes permission to attend the German war manoeuvres.

The German authorities must have maryelled at the impudence of Col. Hughes' request for an invitation, if his speech at Vancouver had reached their ears. To truculently tell Germany that she "must be taught a lesson" and then to ask for official hospitality from Berlin, required a combination of Panama hat, his gloves, inner cas-qualities not to be found, it is hoped, with the state of the declaration of all other students of eastern life, Mr. George Kennan, for in many wearers of the King's uniorm, and certainly in no other minister of the crown in a British country. Since the death of the Mikado the thought of the world has turned once nore to Japan, the Britain of the East. In reviewing the life of the late Japanese Emperor, the people of the west have been struck with the rapidity with which he and his nation emerged from barbarism into the most progressive form of civilized life. And yet many western Canadians, and eastern ones, too, for that matter, will tell you that, despite the military prowess of the Japanese and their quickness to take over western inventions and educations, they are only veneered savages, that they are full of duplicity and laugh in their sleeves at the British and Americans who believe their protestations of friendship. It is all very well for the occidental to be favorably impressed by the bland smile of the Japanese, but we are warned that we cannot get beyond the vestibule of the oriental mind. There are bows and compliments in the front hall, but daggers and poisoned soup in the kitchen.

This inscrutability of the Japanese mind has been emphasized by dozens of travellers and students of eastern affairs. Lafcadio Hearn, for example, the eccentric and brilliant Irish-American genius, who was as orientalized as it is possible for a westerner to become, says in his famous work, "Japan, an Interpretation": "Long ago, the best and dearest friend I ever had said to me, a little before his death, 'When you find, in four or five years more, that you cannot understand the Japanese at all, you will begin to know something about them.' After having realized the truth of my friend's prediction-after having discovered that I cannot understand the Japanese at all I feel better qualified to attempt this essay. . . . The ideas of this people are not our ideas; their sentiments are not our sentiments; their ethical life represents for us regions of thought and emotion yet unexplored, or, perhaps, long forgotten." This was the opinion of a man who had resided fourteen years in Japan, married a Japanese woman, lived in Japanese fashion, and taught in Japanese asserts that the Japanese are just like other people, that there is no impossible gulf of moral and intellectual difholds that there is an essential and fundamental solidarity in the human play "Havoe" in the local race as a whole, and that "such a thing isted, outside the walls of lunatic asyums." In an illuminating article in "The Outlook," Mr. Kennan has drawn strous proportions in the coloners Who said to her beau, "Aren't you on his personal experiences in Japan, and especially during the Russo-Japanese war, to show that the Japanese attitude toward personal nudity, the quality of Japanese courage, and Japanese suicide on the field of battle are comprehensible to the western mind. After investigating scores of cases of alleged Japanese queerness or inscrutability, which have been presented to him by foreigners who have travelled in Japan, he comes to the conclusion done in a manner that shows poetic that all of them are easy of explanation without assuming that there is a racial difference between the Japanese mind and the American mind, "There is no such difference," he concludes, "Social conventions and the results of ancestral experience and training are different, but the mind is the same." So we are divided between two authorities, Hearn and Kennan, But I am inclined to vote with Hearn, for he had a Japanese wife, and he ought to in this country which render it abso-

But in defiance of this opinion, and

WILSON CRITICIZES PROTECTIVE POLICY

But Does Not Think That Free Trade Will Be Adopted in U. S. for Many Years.

New York, Sept. 5.-At the working. men's dinner here last night, Governor Woodrow Wilson, in his first political address in the metropolis, as the Democratic nominee for the presidency,

"One of the reasons why I am opposed to an exaggerated protective policy," said Mr. Wilson, "is that it is a choosing beforehand and to have as little to do with the rest of the world as possible. I hear a great deal said nowadays about the danger of free trade. There are circumstances lutely impossible in our time, I daresay, that we should have free trade. We have so divided the sphere of taxation both by principle and by practice, between the federal and the state governments, that direct taxation is almost exclusively reserved for the state governments, and indirect taxa-tion is the chief resource of the federal government; and the indirect taxes which we would not pay if we knew we were paying them, are chief-ly paid at the customs houses.

Customs Abuses. "If you want to be certain that we would not pay them if we knew we were paying them, watch the people who come back from Europe, and go through the customs. They are the most indignant and, from the point of view of some of my compatriots, he most unpatriotic Americans fmaginable, because they kick like steers against the payment of the duties, because they are then and there con-sciously and visibly paying them out of their own pockets; and there would be a very different customs policy in the United States if everybody consciously and visibly paid the customs duties out of his own pocket directly into the hands of an officer of the Government. We ought periodically ail of us to go outside, and then come in again and realize what is happen-So that when people talk to you about the danger of free trade, and the folly of the free trader, do not be afraid that you will meet a free trader in the dar's anywhere, because there is not any free trader who can get abroad in America at present, All that we are considering, therefore, in conof protection, is sidering the policy of pro-relative freedom in trade. Just one more of the many mothers on whose minds and hearts one would like to print indelibly the concise foundation principles of the educational reform which Dr. Maria Montessori is conducting with such marvellous success in Italy.

Mrs. Easy and many others like her may have heard of the new system, but if so they have only grasped half of Dr. Montessori's aim. She does say "A child must have liberty, must be allowed to develop freely." But she believes it is equally important to check those impulses which interfere with the rights of others, or are th beginning of bad habits.

sympathetic "Children," says this woman with the clear insight into budding human nature, "children must touch and handle things in order to develop their power of speech, for science tells us that only by exercising our muscles do our brains develop. So instead of scolding baby and calling him meddlesome and naughty when he pulls over a vase or twitches the spread off the table, we must see that he has something for the active little hands to do that will work no harm to anything or anybody. As the child gets control over his body, he takes the first step in gaining control over his mind and will. So thoroughly has Dr. Montessori grasped the principle that freedom of movement and abundant exercise are necessary to every child, that in her

Between thirty and thirty-five, the unconquerable youth of the modern age radiated from every fold of her dainty frock, from the big hat and graceful veil. Her hair was soft and brown and thick, her mouth was rather large, thin-lipped and humorous, and yet pathetic, the mouth of one who laughs through tears, seeing the piteous so closely intermingled with the amusing. Her eyes were brown, clever, with delicate brows and a high smooth forehead. The Watermelon decided that she was not pretty, but distinctly classy. ### The Canadian Northern Railway's Crowning Achievement in Town Creating and City Building

Again We Advise---Buy Today in Port Mann

PORT MANN is situated on the bank of the Fraser River at tidewater, about 15 miles west of Vancouver, and about the same distance from the Pacific Ocean.

PORT MANN is the terminus of one of Canada's three transcontinental railways. Its fresh-water harbor is a factor which multiplies many fold the advantages of being a railway terminus.

MACKENZIE AND MANN are men who carry through to a successful conclusion every undertaking they seriously engage in.

These great builders have said: "PORT MANN is to be a thriving, throbbing centre of activity." It is as certain as they have said it that the thing will be done. PORT MANN as a city of industries is already assured. Its waterfront is reserved so that all industries shall have equal facilities. Two railways traverse this water frontage—the Canadian Northern and the Great Northern. Vessels of the largest tonnage may find safe anchorage.

Three years from now the Panama Canal will open. With its opening the vast grain fields of our Canadian West will shi ip their grain west instead of east. The haul to Europe will be lessened one half.

The all-the-year-round open harbors of the Pacific Coast and PORT MANN will cut out the objectionable features of hast y shipping before navigation closes, and of expensive storage and insurance on immense quantities of grain in the elevators of the prairies.

Enormous elevators are already planned for PORT MANN, as well as large flouring mills. It is announced that the Robin Hood Flour Mills will erect a plant costing

Many other industries are planning to locate in PORT MANN. Steel works will likely be soon announced; a car building plant, machine shops, a foundry and a cold storage plant to handle fish, etc., are assu red.

The Great Northern themselves have extensive plans for repair shops, warehouses, stores, roundhouses, machine shops, etc. It is their expressed intention to employ at least 7.000 men.

NOTE: You will be sure of getting lots in the actual original Canadian Northern Railway Townsite of Port Mann by applying at our office. All lots personally inspected by us.

St. Thomas, Sept. 4.—Even the valuable services of big leaguer "Glad" Graney could not stem the tide of defeat against the Saints today, and the flags are flying half-mast this evening. The glooms are in possession, but there are a few optimistic fans who still believe that Manager Stewart and his clan will win out in the series. But the outlook is not so bright now. The fact that the section hands are liable to lose out in this series after all is beginning to bother the natives of the burg. The result of Thursday's game in London is creating a lot of interest. If only Stewart can win that, then the Saints will have a chance. EXCITEMENT IN RAILWAYVILLE. They are becoming excited about it in St. Thomas, and there promises to be a large horde of the natives around the score-board tomorrow evening when the results from London are pouring in. St. Thomas is being stirred for the first time in years. Not since the night that Jumbo, the largest elephant in the world, honored the town by allowing himself to be killed inside its portals, has there been so much excitement. They are even thinking of getting out the old mater has a distributed by the cold mater. out the old rusty key and winding up the town clock, which has been dormant for these many years. They want to know the exact time so that they will be able to keep tab on the London game. The old method of reckoning time by the arrival and departure of the traction cars to London is being put aside.

Buffalo Courier: A picked team of Canadian Leaguers, home after the season's close, and booked for a threeweek barnstorming tour, will play their first game against the Simon Pures at Liberty Park next Sunday. The chief feature of the bill will be the appearance of Jack Fitzpatrick against his old teammates. Fitz., who has been making a fine record with the London team, will be backed up by his old side partner, Red Fisher. Bierbauer will take care of the first sack, and George Needham, manager and second baseman of the Guelph team, will play second. Bert Magner, the former Cornell star, now the property of the New York Americans, will play short, and Eddie Linneburn will play third. In the outfield will be seen Sammy Swartzmeier, Jack Fryer, who has been sold to Brooklyn, and Eddie McGuire, who has brought the bunch together and acts as manager.

duced artificially. This statement was the central feature of the address of from obvious physical or chemical causes, President E. A. Schaefer at the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which opened here tonight. The hall was crowded by tensely interested audiences. The address was a clear and dispassionate one, rather the judgment of a judge who summed up the evidence than the advocacy of a partisan new theory. President Schaefer, who is professor of physiology at Edinburgh University, declared that while he saw no reason to doubt the formation of a living substance he did not hold any hope of prolonging life indefinitely, although he submitted a budget of living and lifeless objects was growing less and less sharp as science pene-trates into the heart of things. Some of Professor Schaefer's ar and nearly killed at the company's power plant on the Matabitchouan River this afternoon. The shooting was done, it is alleged, by A. Landgridge, another employee of the company, who is said to have fired two shots which took effect above Craig's heart.

The power plant is seven or eight miles from Cobalt, and it is necessary to go north to Haileybury, and thence down Lake Timiskaming by boat, to get up the river to the plant, thus making the distance several miles longer. A telephone message brought the news of the shooting to Cobalt, and the informant stated that Landgridge was being held for the arrival of the police. Provincial Constable Jack MacKay and Dr. Colbeck, of Haileybury, were sent to the scene in a launch chartered by the company.

Owing to the fact that the plant is so isolated details of the shooting received so far are very meagre.

ONTARIO ALLIANCE

FIELD WORK ARRANGED

Toronto, Sept. 5.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, held yesterday at the exhibition grounds, it was reported that in a'l probability local option contests would be conducted in about 75 Ontario municipalities this fall. The report showed that there were 260 places in the province in which voting on the question of local option might take place, but in many of them it was impossible to organize campaigns. It is possible that there will be contests for the repeal of local option in over 200 places this year, according to the report, but the officials anticipate that in fully to per cent of these no effort will be made to have the law repealed. Rev. Dr. J. H. Hazelwood presented the report of campaign committee, showing that the field work of the alliance for the en tire fall had been marred out, covering the cities of Toronto and Hamilton, and 19 counties, as follows: New Ontario, Peel, Kent and Dundas, Essex, Prince Edward, Perth, Welland, Simcoe, Lambton, Huron, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell, Victoria and Haliburton, Haldimand, Bruce, Toronto, Middle

Law Enforcement.

Controller J. O. McCarthy introduced the matter of law enforcement, and started a lively discussion, which brought out the fact that the whole question of getting good results from local ontion bylaws lav in securing adequate enforcement. Steps will be taken at once to bring pressure to bear upon local license inspectors throughout the province to insure better results. A report on publication work was presented by Mr. J. S. Robertson, showing that the circulation of the official organ of the alliance had increased substantially, and that arrangements had been made for special campaign editions to assist in the local option contests, Campaign buttons, posters and leaflets will also be issued.

Treasurer Theron Gibson reported that while the finances of the allifatnce were at present in satisfactory condition erality on the part of the friends of temperance throughout the province would be necessary to system the big camraign which is being contemplated. The meeting was held in the amphitheatre of the Women's Building, and Mr. Joseph Gibson, the president, occupied the chair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Stocks manifested some stability on light demand today. Gains of a point or so were registered in the early dealings by Reading, Lehigh Valley, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated Copper, Smelting and Steel, with a few less material gains in other rallways, and industrial issues, Sears-Roebuck, American Tobacco and Snuff added extensively to recent advances. Grangers were not affected by Kansas advices, which reported serious damage to corn from protracted heat. The trading was plainly professional, with an absolute absence of animation. Money opened at yesterday's initial rate, regardless of a better inquiry. Bonds were irregular.

FALL FLOWER SHOW

Display of Roses From Mr. Hobbs' Farm Is an Attraction.

The annual fall flower show of the Horticultural Society was opened in Hyman Hall Wednesday afternoon, and the opinion of the majority of the visitors was that there had never been such an excellent display at any of the fall shows held previously. Perhaps in the past there have been a few individual exhibits that have excelled those of the present show, but never has there been such a fine exhibit collectively as the present exhibition provides. The largest exhibits of the show are the asters, gladioli, dahlias and phlox and there are many varieties of each of these species on exhibition. Al-though the number of exhibits is not as large as the other shows of the year, owing to the approaching flower show at the Western Fair, the present show is undoubtedly the best fall exhibition ever held under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society.

Thomas S. Hobbs has a very large number of flowers grown on his farm near Kilworth, which forms the best individual exhibit of the show, his display of roses being particularly good. Mr. S. F. Wood, also of Kilworth, has a fine showing of dahlias, roses and asters. Included in his display is a lemon colored, scarlet-striped seedling of the single dahlia species, which he has named the Colonel Hobbs. This seedling has been one of the most popular exhibits of the show, and no visitor to Hyman Hall should fail to

MERRY TIME AT GROCERS' OUTING

Picnic Brimful of Amusing Features and Attracts Many.

100 BABIES IN SHOW Whittaker, of Copleston, Won the Con-

The last large picnic of the seasonthat of the London Retail Grocers' Association-attracted three thousand people to Springbank Park Wednesday afternoon. Although the big outing was postponed from Wednesday of last week because of incessant rainfall, the committee was in shape to look after affairs, and the day, favored with the best weather of the season, offered an afternoon's entertainment surpassed by none.

The grocers are good entertainers, and had a program replete with features of unusual excellence. The playing field was roped off, and in this manner all were enabled to participate in the enjoyment of the affair without having to swarm in upon the contestants in the different events. Struck by Baseball.

No serious accidents were reported about the grounds, although one lady, seated near the baseball diamond, was struck on the head by a baseball, dropped over into the crowd on a foul. She was dazed for a time, but soon recovered.

The baby show attracted nearly one hundred entries, divided into two classes. Kenneth Hodgins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Hodgins, of Bruce street, was the winner in the competition for infants under one year, while Kenneth Wilkins was awarded second prize and Cabel Cave third. Marjorie Reid, the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. J. Reid, was awarded the cup for the prettiest infant in the class from one to two years of age. Doris Rogers was second, and William Mullins, son of Mr. William Mullins, West London grocer, was third. White Hope Knocked Out.

One of the features of the day was prize fight, in which Jack Johnson (Jack Anderson) defeated Jim Flynn (Charles Meyers), the big "smoke" dealing out a knockout poke in the second round. The combatants, both of whom are very handy with their fists, mixed it freely, P. C. Cecil Mc-Roberts and P. C. Robert Holden interfering when the men became too The affair, of course was burlesqued but was sufficiently fast to make the sports scramble for ringside seats. Harold Little officiated as referee giving an excellent imitation of Tex. Rickard. Mr. Brown held the watch.

The boxing bout in barrels was also good, Jimmy Carrothers eliminating all other contestants. The bun-eating contest in which dozens of youngsters endeavored to catch and eat molasses-coated buns suspended on strings created the greatest excitement while the watermelon race was a close second in the matter of laughter. A Tie-Up in Street Cars. Shortly after six o'clock one of the Springbank cars returning to the city umped the tracks near the York street bridge tying up the line for a considerable time. In the meantime all Ridout belt and Springbank cars were sent over the Ridout line passengers for Springbank Park being taken over the long trip before getting back to the direct route.

The Scotch and Irish dancing as usual, excited much interest. Posey Charlton taking first in the Scotch reels, Victor Riddell second and Ethel Thompson third. In the Irish jigs Jessie Russell was awarded the first prize Posey Charlton second and Newman contestants whose performances pleased greatly were Gladys Comber and Artemesia Daisy Joyce.

Ola Riddell daughter of Fireman a brother-in-law, assisted by Revs. James Riddell and Kenneth Dunlevy, son of Quartermaster-Sergt, Dunlevy, of Wolseley Barracks, who are credited with being the two youngest dancers in Canada, gave their per-
