The party who had entered, with St. Aubyn, immediately took seats; but he stood, transixed to the spot where his eyes first caught the form of his mistress, in the coil of another. She saw not him. With laughing eyes, and cheeks flushed with exertion, she continued the measure of licence, her spirits mounting, as the music quickened, until she seemed to float round her partner, who freely availed himself of the favourable movement of the step, to draw her towards him, in momentary pressure. They, at length, sat down amidst the applauses of the company. St. Aubyn withed? He retired to a quarter of the room where he thought he should escape observation, and threw himself into a chair.

He descended the staircase, with the inten-He descended the staircase, with the intention of quitting the house; but the supper-room had been just thrown open, and the press carried him in. Nor was he allowed to stop until he had reached the head of the table. Every seat but two, close to where he stood, was occupied. "By your leave sir!" said a voice behind him. He stepped back; and the waltzer led his mistress to one of them, and placed himself beside her. St. Aubyn would have retreated—but could not without incommoding the company, who hemmed him in. Amelia drew is gloves from the white arms they little enhanced by covering—the waltzer assisting her, and transferring them to the custody of his boson. His eyes explored the table in quest of the vands, which, one after another, his boson. His eyes explored the table in quest of the vianile, which, one after another he recommended to her; until she made a selection. He filled a wine-glass with sparkling Burgundy, and presented it to her; then crowned a goblet, till the liquid almost overhung the brim—breathed her name over it, in a sigh—and quaffed it off to the bottom, at a draught. He leaned his check to her?s, till he neighbours almost touched. He whispered her—and she replied in whispers. He passed his arm over the back of her chair, partly supplanting it in the office of supporting her should have been the same had both been sitting in one seat. She was either unconscious of the have been the same had both been sitting in one seat. She was either unconscious of the familiar vicinity, or she permitted it. The whispering continued; the word "marriage" was uttered—repeated—repeated again. St Aubyn heard her disinctly reply, "I will not marry yet;" as she rose, and, turning, they met face to face!

"St. Aubyn!" she involuntarily exclaimed. St. Aubyn spoke not, save with his eyes, which he kept fixed steadfastly upon her.

"When did you arrive?" she inquired hurriedly, and in extreme confusion.

"This evening," replied St. Aubyn, without removing his eyes.

"When did you join our party?"

"While you were waltzing," returned St. Aubyn, with a smile.

"And how long have you been standing here?"

"You have not supped! sit down, and I will help you."

"To-night!—Fareweil!" said he, turning to go.
"You surely are not going yet?" carnestly interposed Amelia.
"I must not stay," emphatically rejoined St. Aubyn. "Fyr one object alone I came to town. That is finally disposed of. The necessity for my departure is imperative. Remember me to your mother. Good night!" he added, moving towards the door.
"Have you been well!" she inquired, almost tremulously. He continued his progress as fast as the throng permitted him.—affecting not to hear her. She followed, laid her hand upon his arm, and stopped him.
"You surely are not well note," she said in a tone of solicitude.
"No," he replied, passing on till he teached the door.

At first, she could not persuade herself that "8t. Aubyn would not return 3—but a month set that point perfectly at rest. She drooped. Society, amusement, nothing could rouse her into her former self. Her partner in the waltz in vain solicited her to stand up with him again. She decline the honour; his visits were discouraged. Her mother anxiously watched the depression of spirits that had taken possession of her, and seemed daily to increase. The winter passed without improvement—the spring. Summer set in; bloom and fruit returned—but cheer was a stranger to her heart. Change of scene was recommended. She was asked to make choice of the place whither she would go—she replied, with a sigh, "to the little fishing hamlet."

QUEBEC, MONDAY, 27rs MAY, 1839

No later European intelligence has been

The Halifax mail, due yesterday, has not yet arrived.

The Exchange Register of this morning con-ains the following extract of a letter from-cient. Wylie, of Col. Dyer's Battalion of

"Our outlying picquet of one corporal and three privates at Milier's, on the east roac, within a stone throw of the line, at one o'clork this morning captured four Canadian refugees as they were making their way into the Stat's. On examination they proved to be Bonaveetu e Viger, one of the Bermuda exities, and his brother, Jacques Langlois, of Quebec, Lecuyer and André Laroche. They were alldisguised as habitans, and were armed to the teeth, each having a brace of pistols and a very-formidable-looking bowie knife. These fellows allowed themselves to be taken by a corporal and a sentry.

and a sentry. "The two Vigers, when first examined "The two Vigers, when first examined, gave in fictious names, but on being marched down here this morning, B. Viger was instantly recognized by Capt. Jones, of the Queen's Light Dragoons, stationed here, as one of the most active and daring of the leaders in the stack made on the Cavatry at Longueil. Capt. Jones says that he knew the face at once as he repeatedly noticed him firing at the hardy from behind a fence, when he say that the guine was useless he boldly acknowledged his name.

"We have gathered enough from them to know that they have been for the last week at Point Olivier and other places in the Chambly District. They left Swanton, the head quarters of the Canadian refagees, on last Monday week, and were no doubt on their way back, after executing their mission."

way back, after executing their mission."
The entire letter will be found interesting to all who have served as Volunteers with Mr. Wylie. The corps to which he is attached has completed its number within 18 men. He likes his situation well, speaks highly of the beauty of the country in which he is stanoned, and he has made all his private arrangements much to his satisfaction.

The following notice has been issued from the office of the Commissioner of Crowa Lands in Upper Canada:—Terento, 4th April, 1839.

"It is ordered, by His Excellency the Licutars and Gevernor, in Condition of the Licutars of their representatives, do assert their respective claims to the lots mentioned in the following list, within twelve months from this date, the locations will be foreigned.

"It is also ordered, That the lots of land contained in the said list be inspected, and, that, in all cases of location upon condition of actual settlement duties, Lands located before the first day of January, 1832, upon which it snall appear that no actual settlement shall have been made, or no settlement duties performed, as the "ase may be, shall be declared forfice'd, upon a return of such impact actual settlement shall have been many be, shall the uent duties performed, as the case may be, shall be declared forfered, upon a return of such inspec R. B. SULLIVAN."

[The list, with the numbers of lots, &c. lies at the Exchange Reading Room, where i can be seen by those interested.]

The Toronto Colonist of the 22nd instant says:—it has been reported in town for the last week, that His Excellency Sir George Ar-thur has resigned the Government of Upper Canada, and that his resignation has been accepted. It is further stated that the Hon. For Canada, and that his resignation has been accepted. It is further stated that the Hon. Fox Maule is to come out as successor to Sir G. Arthur. Mr. Maule is the eldest son of Loadhousie, sometime Governor General of British North America, to whose staff Mr. Maule was attached as aid-de-camp; and daring, Lord Grey's administration, he filled the office of an Under Secretary of State. He is at present a member of the House of Commons.

The Toronto Patriot of the 21st instant,

The Toronto Patriot of the Clst instant, contains a Prospectus for forming a company for working a Lead Mine, on which the Edition of that paper makes the following remarks:

"There are strong indications that this is one of the richest mines, that has yet been discovered in the world. We speak not from one own knowledge, for we have never seen it, but from the knowledge, for whave never seen it, but from the knowledge, for the have never seen it, but from the knowledge, for the have never seen it, but from the knowledge, for the have never seen it, but from the knowledge of the hard the ha

It is proposed that a share in the company shall be one hundred pounds, and that the nu ber of shares shall not exceed four hundred.

We understand that the object of the meetwe inderstand that the object of the mea-ger of ship-owners and masters, to take place at Proudley's St. Lawrence Hotel, this after-noon, at three o'clock, is to receive the de-velopment of a plan originated by a gentleman of this city for effectually preventing the de-sertion of sailors. If this can be accomplish-definition in the control of the control of the city of the control of the control of without seventeers are inside to the women ed without harshness or injustice to the seamer a most desirable object will be attained.

The steamer Patriot has been raised, an now lies at the port of Montreal, where she is being painted and put in a state of repair She will commence running between Quebe and Montreal at as early a period as possible.

An affray took place on Priday last, at Montreal, between the police and a party of about fifty seamen. No serious injury was done; and eight of the most active of the sail-ots were arrested, and lodged in jail.

The Water Works Company of Montreal has offered to water the principal Arcets of that city regularly during the summer months for a sum not exceeding £250; and the Inspector of Police has opened a subscription list to defray the expense.

H. M. brig Pantaloon, which arrived on Saturday last, brought out drafts of seamen and marines for the Lake service in Upper

The number of Emigrants arrived at Quebec up to the 25th inst. was 624. At the corres-ponding period last year, the number was 571, making a difference 49 in favor of 1839.

FLOUR.—A few sales have taken place of small lots at reduction of 2s. 6d. upon last week's prices.—The nominal price of Fine is now 37s. 6d. but the coarser kinds meet with the most ready sale; Fine Middlings and Middlings have been sold—the former of 1s. 3d. and the latter (2s. 6d. under the price of fine.—The Bakers, who have no stock on hand, expecting a further decline, are only buying from "hand to mouth." The general impression seems to be that fine will be bought for 35s, before an other week, at which price large quantities will no doubt be exported. We have heard of one lot having been effered as low as 36s. 3d. and refused.

Whiskey.—This article has risen 3d. per gallon. The price for Canada 12 over proof is 3s. 9s. and some are even asking 4s.
