has to upset a whole shelf before the right cover is found. A very efficient way to keep them is to have a small rack on the inside of the cupboard door. The best arrangement is to have three laths, one apart, screwed to the inside of the door in a horizontal position. Under each end of the laths a small block, about one inch square and one half thick, should be put so as to allow for a one inch space between the lath and the door. The covers when slipped into the racks will take up very little space, and any special one can be selected at a glance. With the price of paper steadily advancing, I began saving all the circular letters which came into the house, most of which are blank on one side. By cutting the envelopes open the children could use the clean side of them and the letters for arithmetic and their compositions, as they usually want to write them once or twice before they are satisfied. When ready or the teacher's approval they could copy on their good notebooks. This has saved a great deal of good notebook paper in my large family.

Origin of Curfew.

The curfew bell was first rung in Europe about the time of William I. It was not a warning to keep off the streets, but to remind citizens to bank or cover up their fires. The houses of that day were of wood and thatch, except the stone castles and palaces, and the fires were in open fireplaces. Popping coals would often leap over the earth, and once a blaze began the whole community was threatened, as fire departments were unknown, and only water by the pail was handy as fire-fighting material. When the bell rang citizens were opposed to cover their fires with ashes, and so bank the hearth that flying sparks would not reach the open places. When William I. conquered England and began to impose his strict laws, he added to the curfew or "couvre-feu" the rule that citizens could retire for the night as well as bank their fires. Henry I. restored the use of lamps and candles at court and the curfew bell.

MAKE YOUR OWN RUGS WITH OLD RAGS

Making hooked, or drawn-in, rugs is fascinating work, easy to learn, simply slipping loops of rag or yarn through a loop pattern with a rug hook, which you can actually learn to do in a few minutes, and with a little practice you can make your cast-off clothing, underwear, and blankets into beautiful rugs. This work is not a fad, as we have been making patterns for these rugs continuously since 1892.

A rug hook, 25c, and one of our small pattern patterns, 18 x 32 inches, stamped in colors on strong burlap, 35c, total only 60c, will start you. We pay postage on both. Easy directions for hooking will be sent with your pattern. If you ask for them.

We also make Garrett's Rug Hooker, a little machine weighing six ounces, making rugs faster. Our design sheet showing six sizes of patterns, and booklet about Garrett's Rug Hooker sent free on request.

The Tally.

It isn't the job we intended to do
 Or the labor we've just begun
 That puts us right on the ledger sheet;
 It's the work we have really done.
 Our credit is built upon things we do,
 Our debit on things we shirk,
 The man who totals the biggest plus
 Is the man who completes his work.
 Good intentions do not pay bills:
 It's easy enough to plan,
 To wish is the play of an office boy:
 To do is the job of a man.

PAISLEY MAN BRINGS FAMILY FROM RUSSIA.

Mr. Price, who left Paisley three months ago for Russia to bring his wife and family to Paisley, arrived there the other day direct from that lawless and war torn country. They were tendered a great reception on their arrival there by the citizens of the town, who escorted the party in automobiles to their home.

Mr. Price is perhaps the happiest man in Paisley to-day, at least that is how he expresses his joy in having got out of Russia with his life and that of his family. He was forced to pay $500 in Canadian money to the Red Government in order to release his son from further military service. He also states that on several occasions he was held up on the streets by Russian officers, who demanded his money at the point of a gun. The only thing that saved him from being robbed and executed by the brigands, was, he says, his Canadian passport. Every time he showed his passport from the Canadian Government the officers released him.

Mr. Price told of terrible atrocities committed near his home but his family escaped. He brought a sample of the bread now used in Russia, and actually a starving dog wouldn't touch it. He presented it to Dan McKenzie,

Editor of the Advocate, who says that even the mice around a printing plant would not eat the bread.

A farmer in Baden, Germany, kept his savings of paper money and bonds in a flour bin, and wondered when he found rats had eaten about $15,000 of it.

T. Gibson, of the firm of McArthur and Gibson, proprietors of the Central Hotel at Walkerton was fined $1,000 in the Police Court last Thursday afternoon for having liquor on the hotel premises. George Reichen was fined $500 for his part in connection with the shipment and Fred Zettel, who stated that the shipment had been forwarded in his name without his knowledge or consent, was let off on payment of costs.

The losses to labor in Canada by strikes during 1919 amounted to 10,000,000, and to the employers a far greater amount.

LICENSE PLATES FOR 1921.

The motor license plates for 1921 are being prepared for shipment throughout the Province. They are marked improvement over any previous markers issued by the Highways Department. The plates are of neat design, lettering being embossed so that an observer standing at an angle may clearly decipher the numbers. Numbers of more than four figures will be hyphenated as is done in Michigan. For example License number 186654 will appear in embossed orange colored letters on a black background as 186-654. Announcement of the new rates for auto licenses which come into effect in January will be made public by the Highways Department in the course of a few days.

HANDLING FURS.

On Friday morning of last week an officer of the Game and Fish Department of the Ontario Government searched the premises of several citizens of this place for furs. At one place he found a coon skin, and at another a last year's skunk skin of little value. The coon skin was found at a tannery and both the tanner and the owner of the two skins were brought before T. R. Bennett, J. P., who had no alternative but to impose the minimum fine of $20 and costs of $6.70 in each case.

As we understand it, the present United Farmer government of Ontario added a clause to the fur regulations which makes it illegal for anyone to have in their possession a skin of any fur bearing animal unless he takes out a license or royalty for same. Wingham Advance.

The Dairy

It costs twice as much to produce milk in winter as in summer, and in instances four times as much, according to Prof. F. A. Pearson, of the University of Illinois. Professor Pearson has just completed a survey of a number of herds supplying milk to Chicago.

"The study confirms the opinion of many dairy farmers of the great importance of pasture in milk production," he says. "The feed expense, according to our records, in the summer months in which pastures are good is occasionally only one-fourth of that in certain winter months, when large amounts of farm-raised and purchased feeds are used.

"The amount of man labor involved is considerably less in the summer months than in the winter period. This is true, we find, whether based upon the amount of labor used on the herd or whether based upon the amount involved in the production of 100 pounds of milk.

"Proper significance of this reduction in labor is appreciated only when it is shown that the savings in labor occur during the pasture season, when most generally maximum labor is needed in the field.

"The cost of producing milk, aside from man labor, feed, and horse labor is more or less even throughout the year. When all expenses are included, the net cost of making milk costs about twice as much in December as in June.

"It would seem that with milk costs so low in summer farmers would concentrate production during these months; but, since the selling price increases with production costs, it is to the best interests of the farmer and consumer to keep production fairly even throughout the year."

The wheat harvest of India, after allowing for exports, is 1,629,000 tons above the normal requirements of that

Hogs

In spite of the best of care many fall pigs will emerge from the winter looking pretty sorry. Often they will be shaggy-haired, skinny, tails minus the artistic curl, dejected-looking, and seemingly fit subjects for the ax. But the warmth of spring, proper care and feeding will do wonders for them. I have had fall pigs that didn't look like five cents in April, yet by June they tipped the scales at 225.

The first thing to do with a backward pig is to free him from worms. When the worms are gone, one of the standard conditioners should be used. Wood ashes, salt, and soft coal should be where the pig can help himself at pleasure. The backward pig must have access to pasture. Green food is one of the best conditioners. In addition, the exercise is good for him.

Ground feed, such as oats or corn, works wonders with runty pigs. I make sure that they have all the tankage they want. Nothing seems to revive a pig's spirits like tankage. The pigs should also have all the corn they want. Unless diseased, the pigs will soon shed their long hair, brighten up, and develop an appetite that is alarming. It is then but a matter of a couple of months till they will be ready for the market at 200 pounds or better.

Renewing the Septic Tank.

Several years ago our septic tank refused to work. The soil had evidently become so saturated that it no longer absorbed the refuse water. To remedy the difficulty I built a chamber some 50 feet away from the seepage part of the tank, connecting the two with four-inch field tile. The tile were placed at a depth lower than the level of the inflow into the receiving apartment of the tank. Since then the tank has worked without a hitch.

The Profitable Skunk.

The advantages of the artificial raising of the fox, beaver, and muskrat, specifically, have been often pointed out, and here it is proposed to devote a few words to that much abused animal, the skunk. The fact that the animal is to be found in practically every part of the American continent, and that the pelt has sold as high as ten dollars, is sufficient to attract the attention of fur farmers and induce a study into the feasibility and advantages of the industry.

Many years ago Ernest Thompson Seton, the well known nature writer and naturalist to the Manitoba Government, advocated a more extensive artificial propagation of the skunk, and himself operated a most successful ranch of this kind. Because, largely of a prejudice against the little animal and its method of defence, skunk farming has never been firmly established in Canada as an industry, although the advantages and possibilities are obviously so great. Success on other parts of the American continent and elsewhere have demonstrated the feasibility of establishing the industry firmly and profitably in the Dominion.

The skunk is widely found over the Canadian Dominion in every corner and nook where it can find food suited to its needs, and notwithstanding the fact that it is persistently hunted, trapped and worried by dogs, it continues to thrive and multiply in close proximity to settlements. The animal is neither timid nor vicious and is practically omnivorous, devouring large quantities of insects including grasshoppers, crickets, beetles and caterpillars. In captivity, its feeding is very economical, the diet consisting of meat, fish, cooked cereals, vegetables and milk. The food problem is most easily solved where the ranch is established within reach of a hotel. The contents of the daily garbage can will feed a considerable number.

The skunk multiplies rapidly with litters of from six to twelve, the period of gestation being eight weeks. Descending may be performed when the animals are five weeks old and all possibility of future nuisance may be eliminated, but in domestic raising this is not really necessary, contrary to general belief, as the animals become remarkably tame and friendly with those handling them and never bring into play the powerful weapon nature has given them except when badly frightened by some intruder.

Skunk ranching could be successfully carried on in practically every section of Canada, for the animal is indigenous to every part and would find his natural conditions wherever a farm was located. In wire enclosed pens of suitable land the animals will make their own burrows and dens and need little attention beyond feeding. The demand for pelts is steady and general, and the high prices prevailing during the past few years make skunk ranches very profitable concerns and augur a successful future for any development along these lines.

Compare what is said of Prov. 3: 11-17.

45-46. Goody Pearls. In a notebook of his student days, Phillips Brooks wrote of a letter of the famous Hilary of Poitiers, a Christian leader and saint of the fifth century, which he had sent to his little daughter. "He tells her in a simple parable, that a Christian father might write and a Christian daughter read to-day, how he wished to send her a gift, and heard of one who had a pearl and robe of costly beauty; how he was told of their wonderful perfection, that the robe should never fade and never grow old, that the pearl should bless its owner with unfading youth and beauty; how he begged them for her, and was told that she had only to be worthy of them and they were hers." This is a parable of life, true to the very heart of it, and true for every young boy or girl to-day.

47-50. A Net That Was Cast Into the Sea. Here also the figure is appropriate and true. The words and example of Jesus had, and still have, a wonderfully attractive and compelling power. In His time the multitudes came to Him, of every sort and from every part. His drag net was out and it gathered them in. He repelled none and turned away from none. It is true that sometimes men every great crisis of life, and in every great catastrophe of their time—in the Assyrian invasion, in the coming of the Scythian hordes, in the fall of Nineveh, in the doom of Jerusalem, in the overthrow of Babylon, and in the rise and decline of the Greek kingdoms. The Gospel of John declares judgment to be a present fact, and interprets Christ's coming again as the coming of His Spirit. It may be true, therefore, to say that the end of which Christ speaks is always coming, and that we see its dread portents in every age; that every crisis in individual and national life is a call to judgment and a meeting with God, and that in every such crisis there is a separation, a weeding out, a destruction of the evil and a shining forth and glorifying of the good. Has not this been apparent in a stupendous scale in the great war?

Things New and Old. Those who learned in the school of Jesus learned to appreciate and to value very highly what was old in their religion. They learned also to have open minds and obedient hearts toward new truth. They learned to gather and store the treasures of the past, to be brought forth when needed, and to move on to the acquisition of new treasure. So may we all learn.

A NEW POULTRY BOOK

A NEW BOOK, entitled "Canadian Farm Poultry," has just been published by Macdonald College, Que. The book is well bound, neatly printed, replete with practical information and is well illustrated. It is the first Canadian Poultry Book to be offered to the public, the nominal charge of 50c being made merely to cover cost of printing and mailing.

All phases of chicken-raising are discussed, emphasis being laid upon the development of winter-laying strains of the more popular commercial breeds. The book should be of timely service to all who keep chickens, and should influence the development of the Canadian poultry industry, which has assumed a remarkable growth within the past few years. A copy may be obtained by sending 50c in stamps or postal note to

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO

The supply of cattle at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, around 5500 head was comparatively light and the prices in some classes a shade better.

There was a fair inquiry for some breed short steers; the light common cattle did not advance any and were very slow to sell. Cows and Bulls held about steady. Canners also were steady $2.35 being the prevailing price.

The immediate prospects are no better than steady. At the close quite a few cattle were left unsold, among them some useful loads of butcher steers and heifers.

With 4500 sheep and lambs on the market trade was easier; choice lambs selling at from $12 to $18 with an odd fancy lot a little higher. The market was fairly well cleaned up.

With around 200 calves on the market all classes were very slow of sale. It is a long time since the calf market at the Union Yards was more absolutely lifeless than it was yesterday.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star

The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has announced that after December 31st, 1920, the subscription price of that great weekly will be $2.00 per year in Canada, England, Ireland or Scotland, and $2.50 to the United States. The recent heavy increase in the cost of white paper make the slight advance necessary, in fact it is only a small portion of the increased cost over pre-war prices of production. All renewals and subscriptions, the publishers say, mailed before December 31st, 1920, will be accepted at the old rate of $1.50. Even at the advanced price of $2.00 a year the Family Herald is regarded as the best value on the Continent. It is acknowledged to be absolutely without a rival, hence its enormous circulation.
