THE Advantages offered to the Public by this Institution are MANK and IMPORTANT, and the Rates of Premium quite as LOW as security to the Assured, and safety to the Office, will admit of.

The following are some of the advantages offered by this Society:—

The peculiar Benefits secured to the Assured by the principle of the LOAN Department.

One half of the Premium for the first five years may be paid by the Assured's own Note. These may be paid by the Assured's own Note. These Notes need not be paid, but may remain on interest, to be deducted from the Policy on the decia of the Assured.

Insurers can at all times demand, as a right, a Loan to the extent of two-thirds the amount of Premium they have paid—upon deposit of their Policy, and guaranteeing it will be kept in force. This important advantage removes the fear so many entertain of being obliged, through pecuiary emberrassment, to let their Policies Ispae, at a time such a provision is absolutely eded for their families.

The here of a hundred fights still survives. All strong days are well open and generals and admirals, surviving counties accidents of buttle and of flood, and dying at last of slow decay. Sir Robert Peel falls by a sudden casualty before his strength has begun to fail, or his mind to dueline. Did not the thought suggest a murmur at the dispensations of Omnipotence, one might call it a weste of precious power, a mighty soul lost to the world, by the mercest trifle,—by the silly panic or momentary impatience of a brute. How much had such a man still to do! How many noble thoughts and splendid anticipations to deliver! How many large views carefully slakagated! What tressures messenger arrived from the Queen, commanding the attendance of Sir Robert Peel at Windsor, on the following day.

Sir Robert Peel left his residence in Whitehall Gardens at half-past twelve o'clock on Monday, for Windsor Castle. Before leaving town he visited the Duke of Wellington at Apsley House, and had a long interview with the duke.

Sir Robert arrived at Windsor Castle in an open and so wretchedly policed as London, before the introduction of the new Police by Sir Robert Peel, at the Castle, it appears, from instructions previously given, at her Majesty's command, the right honourable baronet's carriage was ordered through the grand entrance to the principal Court. In mediately after Sir Robert had allighted from his carriage, he was conducted to the royal presence. The right honourable baronet remained at the Castle until five o'clock, and then took his departure for town, arriving at Whitehall Gardens at seven o'clock, in the course of the evening there was a meeting of the heads of the conservative party, at the residence of Sir Robert Peel.

On Wenneday Sir Robert Peel ar Windsor, on the conviction of the public good and national necessaty.

Death of His Royal Highness the Dake of Cambridge.

(From the Licerpool Couries, July 10.)

We have this week the mournful duty of anouncing the death of his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, youngest son of the lute King George III., and uncle of the Queen. His Royal Highness expired shortly before ten on Monday night, at Cambridge House, Piccadilly, after a short and painful illness.

It appears that his Royal Highness was attacked by indisposition on the 13th ultimo, with cramp in the stomach, but after the severity of the attack had passed away, all danger was thought to be a country.

had passed away, all danger was thought to be even.

The Royal Duke was attended by Dr. Francis Hawkins, Dr. Bright, Dr. Watson, Mr. Keate, and Mr. Illingworth, and it was judged, up to within the last few days, that he would recover, although auffering from loss of appetite and much debility. The Royal Duke recently became so much debility. The Royal Duke recently became so much debility and the second of the second of the second of the continued to sink rapidly during the last four and twenty hours, until, at the above-mentioned hour, his Royal Highness expired without a struggle.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Cambridge, who, during her royal husband's illness, has evinced the greatest solicitude, was at the bedude of his Royal Highness up to the minute of his dissolution, and it is needless to observe, is in a distressed state of mind at her irreparable hereavement. His Royal Highness Prince George of Cambridge, on leave of absence from his military daties in Ireland, was also present at the death of his Royal Highness. The only member of the late Royal Duke's family absent from this country, but to whom intelligence of his serious illness was forwarded last week, was his eldent dampher.

that the charges are allowed to stand good:

"A respectful remonstrance having been submitted, by Messrs. R. & A. Miller of Montreal, to your Committee in relation to the observations they deemed it their duty to make in their First Report, with respect to certain items in the accounts of those gentlemen, they have afforded them a hearing. They have produced a receipt for the £12 los. disbursed by them for office rent and storage. This, therefore, is good for so much expended on account of the business of Your Honorable House. With respect to the two other items of £5 and £22; to which Your Committee objected, verbal explanations have been given Honorable House. With respect to the two other items of £5 and £22, to which Your Committee objected, verbal explanations have been given them by Measra. Miller, which, without wholly removing the impression under which Your Committee were, have materially modified the views they entertained of those charges at the time of repasting. Your Committee append to the present a letter received by their clerk from Measra. Miller, dated 'Montreal, 24th June, 1850,' retracing the previous explanation verbally given in their behalf, to the Committee. Finally, Your Committee beg to submit whether, test injustice be done them, it may not be more expedient to authorize the Clerk of Your Honorable House to take credit for the full amount of the £39 10s. objected to by Your Committee, than to insist upon the curtailment recommended by their aforesaid First Report, which, if insisted upon, it is possible, might, however unintentionally, do them wrong Your Committee consequently recommend that the port on of their First Report allued to, be deemed as cancelled, being humbly of opinion that, without the fullest conviction that those charges are excessive, the exceptions taken by Your Committee ought rather to be waived than enforced."

TORONTO, July 29, 1850. The position taken by the press in withdrawing from the Legislative Assembly is fully sustained by public opinion. Indeed there is scarcely second opinion on the whole affair. The House meets with universal consure. It will not answer tow-a-days, Mr. Baldwin will find, to appeal to cedents in the worst times of the Stuarts and the Tudors. The application of them here, at this day, will not be tolerated. The spirit of the times is opposed to those high-handed nets of power which have sometimes been committed in the name of "privilege." The whole of the Christie and Ure affair was a most trumpery business. The offence was, that a Reporter dured to speak to a Member, while that Member was not in the execution of his duty. Mr. Christie was in fact not in the House; for he was carrying on a conversation outside of the Bar. The request of the Reporter, that Mr. Christie would not speak so loud as to prevent the Reporters hearing, cannot be construed into a personal insult; and it in no way interfered with the proceedings of the House; for probably no other Member heard it. It is quite true that an assault upon any individua Member, or anything that would interfere with him in the discharge of his duty as a legislator, has long been held to be a breach of the privileges of the whole House; even though the offence was committed in the street. This practice seems to have some good reasons to rest upon, as it tends to prevent any interterence with Members that would render them unable to perform their legislative duties. It is therefore intelligible enough. PARIS, Sunday Morning.—The new electoral lists for Paris are published. The number of electors is 74,000, while by the old law they were 224,000. M. Ledru Rolold law they were 224,000. M. Ledru Rol-But in this case there was nothing of the kind; and

Mr. Christie no doubt bitterly regrets the hasty and ill-advised course he took; and the House will come to its senses before long. The Press is firm in its determination not to return to that House again while things are in the present position. I ing this Session. The Press here has agreed to make use of the votes and proceedings only of the House. The eloquence of that body will hencetracted within the narrow limits of the building in which they sit. In the meantime, the Pres will pay greater attention to the other House, with whom it has no cause of quarrel. It will, no come of this flare-up. The House will consume much less time in talking, and go to business practice, and got through 27 Orders. This is pretty fair work. There is one conceited, heavywhiskered, inconsistent member, who will bore the House with his nonsense, if there be ladies present, whether there be any Press or not. He wants to astonish the fair of Upper Canada, where, after all, he is no great stranger. The Testimons of Mr. NATHAN MATHEWS. a highly respectable and usually citizen of Neusark. N. J. Ds. G. W. HARSTY :—1 believe your Forest. Wine and Pills have been the means of anying my life. When I commenced taking them, I laid at the point of death, with Dropey, Files, and Asthma. My Physicians had given me over as part citizen, and my family had lost all loops of my recovery. While in this diseafful situation, your Forest Wine and Pills were procured for me, and before I had fulls due to list bottle of the Wine, and box of Pills. I experienced great relief; my hody and limbs, which were greatly as offer, powers sensibly reduced. Hopes of my recovery began now to verive, and after continuing the use of your medicines for about a mouth, the Piessand Asthma were completely cured. The Dropsy, with which my life was placed in such great danger, was also nearly gone. I have continued the use of your Medicines until the present time, and I now enjoy as perfect health as ever I did in my life, although I am mare than early years of age. I service my recovery entirely to the use of your excellent Medicines.
