The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XXVII.

At first an utter incredulity had seized her—it was a false wild notion born of misery in Frank's brain; but very soon this disbelief died away in her troubled mind, and doubt came with its attendant horrors.

She remembered that it was true that Stephen had left the hotel with Mrs. Rutledge. Had she herself not seen them together? Had he not come to her—Sidney—in mistake on the dimly lighted landing, and desired her to go with him, saying that the carriage was waiting? Had she—Sidney—seen the meeting between them in the little sitting-room? Had she not seen Sibly Rutledge run up to him and cling to him with both hands clasped upon his arm, uttering a little cry of joy and relief as she did so—and then they had gone away together, and a long time had elapsed before Stephen had returned to the ball-room.

She rose from the bed, and began pacing up and down the room like a caged animal infuriate either with wounds or confinement, struggling desperately against the horror which had seized her; fighting against her doubts, one moment passionately asserting her belief in Stephen's complete innocence, the next heart-broken and crushed with the thought of his guilt—new telling herself that he was incapable of such a deed, the next almost fainting with horror at the thought that her husband had committed not only the murder, but had been cowardly enough to screen himself from its punishment by allowing an innocent man to suffer for his crime.

She did not think of undressing, of the lateness of the hour, of the chance that Stephen might find her in such a condition of disarray from Lambswold. She had forgotten Frank Greville and his sorrowful night-journey. She had no thought for his unhappy sister, no recollector for aught but her husband and the crime of which he was accused.

Suddenly another recollection came to her. What had she done? What had she done? She, his wife, had put the detectives upon Stephen Daunt's

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The young mistress of Easthorpe did not put in an appearance at breakfast on the morning after Lady Eva's fancy-ball, and Stephen and his friend took the meal alone together. It was a very silent one for Stephen was absent and grave and depressed, and Lloyd Milner seemed preoccupied and self-absorbed; there was a light in his eyes, a nervous eagerness about his manner, which were very unusual in the calm, self-contained young barrister. He was leaving Easthorpe that day to return to London; and, before going, he had determined to put his fate to the touch, "and win or lose it all."

He knew that there was a certain amount of presumption in the thoughts of aspiring to the hand of John Daunt's only daughter, a girl to whom an earl was paying his addresses, and who had been accustomed from her babyhood to every luxury that wealth could give. Lloyd Milner's own private means were very small; he was in a large degree dependent on his profession, one in which a large amount of work must be done, and to which many years of toil must be devoted, before fame or fortune can be attained. Therefore, beside Lord de la Poer, he had but little to offer the lady of his love—little in a pecuniary sense, of course; but he had laid at her feet a true and loyal heart, a love which would never fail her, a devotion without limit.

He had meant to keep the secret of his love to himself for some time to come—at least until his position was more secured, his income larger. But Dolly had looked so distractingly pretty on the previous evening in her dainty costume of paysanne coquette that he had cast prudence to the winds, and urged not only by his love, but his jealous anger at the young earl's marked attentions, he had told Dolly that he loved her, and had read in her sweet shy loving eyes the assurance that his love was returned.

It behooved him then as an honorable man to see her father without delay, and he was to drive over to Lambswold in the course of the morning, ostensibly for the purpose of saying farewell, ready to lay his case before Mr. Daunt. He had said nothing to Stephen, seeing that he had troubled of his own which took all his attention; but he felt that he should be glad to have Sidney on his side, knowing that she was a great favorite with her father-in-law, who rarely refused her anything for which she pleaded earnestly.

He was not, however, quite confident as to the result of his application to Sidney, whose manner had been strangely variable toward him during the latter part of his visit. Always courteous, it was not in her nature to be abrupt else to a guest in her own house. She had been sometimes so coldly polite that he could not ignore her mistrust, at others she had been timidly cordial, as if anxious to conciliate him; but she never lost her constraint of manner altogether—the remembrance of the interview in the dining-room always stood between them.

Angry as he had been at the deceit she was practicing, his pity for Stephen Daunt's young wife was very great. He could see how unhappy she was, that she was wretched to the verge of recklessness, that the unhappy division between herself and her husband widened every day, and that Stephen's unhappiness was scarcely less than her own. It was far too delicate a subject for any interference; even such an old friend as he was could not touch upon the matter, and he could only hope that something would happen to lift the cloud from their lives and bring them together again.

"You will not drive in with me this morning, I suppose, Lloyd?" Stephen said, rising from the breakfast-table and gathering up his letters.

"Thank you—no, I want to see Mrs. Daunt before I go; and Lady Eva was good enough to ask me to lunch at Lambswold."

"Then I will meet you there," Stephen said, with a little nod of farewell as he left the room.

Milner followed him into the hall, and stood while he was putting on his fur-lined coat and preparing for his cold drive. It had ceased to snow, and there was a slight thaw, so that the grounds looked dreary and melancholy, and there was a monotonous drip, drip from the trees as the snow melted.

"A nasty day for travelling," Stephen said, buttoning up his coat, a sudden change passing over his grave handsome face at sound of a soft rustle on the oaken staircase; and Lloyd, looking up suddenly, saw Sidney standing there hesitatingly, clad in a short walking-dress of dark seal-brown velvet. She hesitated only a moment; then she came on slowly.

Stephen did not wait to speak to her. He went out on to the steps without a glance at his wife, got into the dog-cart, and drove away. Almost involuntarily Milner looked at Sidney. It was impossible that she should become paler than she was before; but her lip quivered a little, and her dark eyes, full of yearning and sorrow, looked after the dog-cart until it was lost in view by a bend in the drive. Then she turned away; and, recollecting herself, with a little start, she held out her hand.

"Good-morning, Mr. Milner," she said, smiling. "Are you very tired after your disputation?"

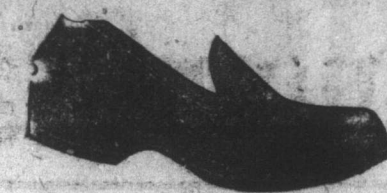

Wizard Manure

FOR FALL FERTILIZING.
Wizard Pulverized Dry Sheep Manure used now will cause quick action in your garden next Spring and give you better crops. Wizard provides humus to loosen the soil and provides drainage so that the soil will warm up much earlier; the frost and rain will incorporate the manure with the soil and produce favourable growing conditions. Use Wizard Manure now in your garden and you will have better roses, Peonies, gladioli, etc., next year. One hundred pound bag of Wizard Powdered Manure equals two box car loads of stable manure, because it is ALL manure. Wizard Manure is free from straw and weeds. It is clean, easily handled and sterile. Spread it now in your vegetable garden, 100 pounds will cover 1000 square feet. For house plants use 1 pound in five gallons of water, then you may water, and feed your flowers at the same time. It is ideal for green house use. Wizard Powdered Dry Sheep Manure in 100 lb. bags .5c. per lb. In 10 lb. bags, each enough for a 10 x 10 garden .6c. per lb. In smaller quantities, 1 to 9 pounds .9c. per lb. United States Faces Religious Civil War

Rollin Lynde Hartt writing in The Forum says that two religions—so different that, if one is true, the other must be false—exist side by side within the confines of Protestantism. Had these two religions developed independently, no one would for a moment think of combining them. Yet there are excellent able men who, despite the radical difference between the Fundamentalist belief and the Liberal, and despite the bitter conflict now raging, seek to persuade themselves that the two religions will not separate. Protestantism, they contend, will inevitably remain intact, as if the history of Protestantism were not largely a record of "splits," and as if each of our two hundred and two Protestant denominations were the product of a split. What has happened more than two hundred times can happen again. The one now impending promises much. To be sure, it will be painful—something like a divorce, something like a civil war—but when it is over we shall have three great, splendid, united churches in America—the Papal Fundamentalist, the Non-Papal Fundamentalist, and the Liberal. The result will not consciously be striven for at first any more than a united America was consciously striven for when the thirteen colonies rebelled against tyranny. Indeed, it may at first appear that the

For schism will not only split local churches, it will as mercilessly split the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour, the home mission boards, the foreign mission boards, the mission fields, the Sunday school boards, the American Federation of Churches, the sectarian press, the sectarian charitable organizations, the theological seminaries, and numerous sectarian academies, colleges and universities.

League May Fix a Demilitarized Zone Between Greece and Bulgaria--Painleve's New Cabinet Committed to Capital Levy

GREECE WILLING TO ABIDE BY COUNCIL'S RULING.

PARIS, Oct. 28. Greece announced at today's meeting of the League of Nations Council that she had given orders for her troops in Bulgarian territory to retire behind her own frontier. She assured the Council that the complete evacuation of Bulgaria would be carried out within the sixty-four hour limit laid down by Council.

WHAT BULGARIA SAYS.

SOFIA, Oct. 28. It is officially announced that the Greeks opened fire on the Bulgarian frontier last night about one o'clock this morning.

WHAT THE GREEKS SAY.

ATHENS, Oct. 28. The Greeks were attacked by the Bulgarian forces this morning near Banna it is officially stated.

CREW OF FOUNDERED FREIGHTER ARRIVE IN NEW YORK.

HOBOKEN, N.J., Oct. 28. The United States liner, President Harding, poked her wave-scarred nose through the narrows yesterday four days late, but the hero of a thrilling sea rescue. The ship bore safely to port twenty-eight men and the cat, survivors of the foundered Italian freighter, Immacolata, saved from the fury of the sea by the Harding. As the ship came through the Narrows the ousted his own constituency. He spoke at Alexandria this afternoon and Ottawa to-night. Both he and Premier King will receive the electorates in Ottawa. Fight for control of the next house lies between Liberals and Conservatives, and the end comes with both parties expressing full confidence in the result. On the whole the campaign closes tonight. The next House will have 245 members or ten more than that of Parliament which was dissolved in September.

4 WOMEN CANDIDATES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28. Three and a half million voters will go to the polls to-morrow to elect Canada's fifteenth Parliament. Nomination Day saw 681 candidates selected to contest the 245 seats making up the Canadian House of Commons. Voting will take place in 241 constituencies, four of which will return two members each. Four women are included among the candidates. Liberal and Conservative dominate in the division of political parties, with Progressives next and a sprinkling of Independents and Labor.

POLLING DAY IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28. Leaders of all political parties made their final appeals to-night, and to-morrow Canada goes to the polls. Three of the four leaders ended the fight in their own constituencies. Premier King, as he opened campaign at Richmond Hill in his constituency of North York to-night closed it with speeches from four North York platforms. Robert Forke, Progressive leader, spoke at Verdun in his constituency of Brandon. Hon. E. L. Brien, leader of the Independent Conservative Party, spoke at St. Laurent, near Montreal. The Conservative Council, President Brind and the Liberal Council, President Brind, spoke at the same time. The Conservative Council, President Brind, spoke at the same time.

TERMS OF REFERENCE HANDED COAL COMMISSION.

HALIFAX, Oct. 28. The commission appointed to investigate the coal industry of Nova Scotia has today handed its terms of reference to the House of Commons. The commission was headed by Mr. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative forces, and opposing a Progressive in Portage La Prairie. Premier W. L. Mackenzie King was to-night in his own constituency of North York, Ontario, where he opposes a Conservative, Robert Forke, leader of the Progressives, who will have a Conservative opponent in his constituency of Brandon, Manitoba.

INVASION AS MEANS OF DEFENCE UNWISE.

PARIS, Oct. 28. The League of Nations Council is said to be proposing a neutral demilitarized zone between Greece and Bulgaria as a means of obviating any similar conflict as that which necessitated the present extraordinary session of the Council. President Brind said to-night that the League would impress upon all nations that the practice of going to war as a defensive measure would be unwise and expensive, for any nation large or small. This remark was based upon Greece's explanation that Bulgaria was invaded as a defensive measure.

PRESIDENT SUMMONS PAINLEVE.

PARIS, Oct. 28. President Doumergue to-day summoned Premier Painleve to ask him to form a new cabinet in succession to that which resigned yesterday.

PAINLEVE ACCEPTS TASK.

PARIS, Oct. 28. M. Painleve, after conferring with M. Herriot and M. Brind, agreed to accept the task of forming a new cabinet. The indications are that Brind will be Minister of Foreign Affairs and M. Loucheur succeeding M. Caillaux as Finance Minister. The new cabinet will be pledged to the adoption of capital levy bill, adopted by resolution of radical party in conference at Nice recently, over which the cabinet disagreed leading to Painleve's resignation on Tuesday.

TO FORM NEW FRENCH CABINET.

PARIS, Oct. 18. Premier Painleve informed President

dent Doumergue that he would set about at once to reform Cabinet to carry on the Government. Painleve's last Cabinet resigned yesterday over a disagreement on finance plans of M. Caillaux.

CITY ON THE FLOOR OF CASPIAN SEA.

MOSCOW, Oct. 28. Discovery of what archaeologists believe to be the lost city of Kharadabeger, supposed to have been submerged centuries ago by an earthquake, was made to-day on Shboy, a sandy bank in the Caspian Sea seldom travelled by ships. Captain Atayeff, of a Soviet vessel, on his course by accident, made the discovery when he started taking soundings, reporting that he saw streets and buildings of ancient Asiatic architecture on the sea floor.

SIX MILLION DOLLAR POWER PLANT.

HULL, Que., Oct. 28. The construction of a six million dollar power house and dam at Chelsea, and a newsprint mill at East Tompseton by International Paper Co. which will furnish work for some hundreds of skilled and unskilled laborers throughout the winter has commenced in earnest.

The Luby Vaudeville

MAKE ANOTHER BIG HIT--SPECIAL BILL TO-MORROW.

That this talented combination has won its way with the theatrical going people of the city, is fully evidenced by the large and appreciative audiences which attend their performances at the Popular Star. Mr. Luby opened the performance by singing "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," which so delighted the audience that it was a case of "more, more" and he could not leave till he responded to an encore. For this he sang "Old Irish Mother of Mine," which also brought forth rounds of applause. Mr. O'Toole also changed his act, doing some wonderful chair balancing, as well as bending a bar of iron on the bridge of his nose. It is the unanimous opinion of the large audiences that Mr. O'Toole is by far the best of his kind we have seen in this city, and his act each night holds the audience almost spell bound.

Mr. MacDonald ("Jigger") the legless boy, again proved his ability at the piano, whilst his monologues had all in roars of laughter. His singing with Mr. Luby at the close was more than enthusiastically received, and he was also obliged to respond to an encore.

To-morrow night is going to be the biggest of the biggest, and we are assured by the management of the theatre, that they have kept back for the finish the best of their selections. It will consist of a class of entertainment that has not yet been seen here, and it is going to be the talk of the city. All are strongly requested not to miss it.

A Sad Case

Homeless Youth Says Left On The Street By Step-Mother.

A youth named Evans, whose father married again last year, and who is now residing at Cape Broyle, states that his step-mother refuses to let him live in the family home. The youth has no means of support and of late has been sleeping out of doors. Evans was employed in St. John's for some time, but has since been unable to obtain work.

Relation of the Liver and Kidneys

Such that each suffers when other deranged--Both regulated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

When the liver becomes sluggish or torpid in action, the kidneys have to help out with the work of filtration. When the liver fails the kidneys have all the work to do.

Hence the beginning of trouble is usually biliousness, indigestion, constipation and after a time the kidneys begin to be affected and there come headache, urinary derangements and kidney disease.

The remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is due to their unique combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. They get at the cause of trouble and remove it no matter how complicated it may be. Promptly and thoroughly they cleanse the bowels and intestines, arouse the liver action and thereby relieve the over-worked kidneys.

"Dangerous Money"

MAJESTIC PANS TREATED TO A BIG FEATURE.

The Paramount picture, "Dangerous Money" is the feature at the Majestic Theatre again to-night. It brings Bebe Daniels to the screen in her first starring role.

The story has to do with pretty little Adele Clark (Miss Daniels), who leads a Cinderella-like existence as maid of all work in her aunt's dingy boarding house.

Then one day Adele's fairy-godmother appears in the guise of the family lawyer and literally drops a million dollars into the astonished girl's lap for her to do with as she sees fit.

What a change a few weeks bring! We find our Adele first in a fashionable girl's finishing school, then more or less firmly established in a luxurious villa on Lake Como, Italy, where she has gone to acquire a coating of "Old World culture." Dukes, Lords and even a couple of Princes thrown in for good measure are falling over each other's feet to please her. Adele wears right money can do anything--even buy love and happiness. She did not know her new-found associates were but a pack of scheming aristocrats.

Then Tim Sullivan, who had loved Adele back in the States, turns up. Of course, Adele is glad to see him, but he doesn't seem to mix very well with the girl's gay spenders.

The finding of a new will of the Clark brings Adele and her newly-acquired nobleman-husband back to America on the jump. There is a scene in a New York hotel--a fire, during which the Prince shows his true colors and fees to save himself. It ends in a tragedy--for the Prince, that is. Tim is the sole beneficiary of the new will, but it matters not now for which Adele and him it is a case of fifty-fifty--in everything.

Tom Moore has the leading man's role opposite the star, as Tim Sullivan. William Powell plays the Prince, and Dolores Costello, Mary Foy, Edward O'Connor, Peter Lang and Charles Slattery complete the cast.

Great All-Star Program at the Nickel

FLORENCE VIDOR STARS IN STORY OF STAGE LIFE.

In the role of a show girl, Florence Vidor, whose first starring picture, "The Mirage" at the Nickel Theatre to-day, found herself on familiar ground. This part is unlike any she has heretofore portrayed, but, as usual, Miss Vidor was equal to the occasion, and in "The Mirage" she shows us once more that she is an actress of unusual ability and appeal.

"The Mirage," which is an adaptation of Edgar Selwyn's stage play of that name, is sensational. It deals with life as it is known to that part of society in which men-about-town, typical New York first nighters and "gold diggers" move.

The settings in "The Mirage" are gorgeous. No expense was spared in making the stage scenes of the Knickerbocker Roof, the New York Apartment Roof Garden and the "gold diggers' apartments as they are in reality.

"The Mirage" is a dramatic play but there are a number of comedy touches, many of these supplied by Viola Vale in her role of Betty Bond.

Playing opposite Miss Vidor are Clive Brook, noted English actor, and Alan Roscoe, Myrtle Vane and Charlotte Stevens are also in the cast.

George Archinbald, a Frenchman, whose direction shows "that foreign touch," staged "The Mirage."

See Harold Lloyd in "Captain Kid's Kids" and drive dull care away.

Local Theatricals

The local comedy written by Mr. John Burke is the subject of much comment just now. Tickets are going fast for the opening performance on Monday and there is every indication of three successful nights. Capt. O'Grady is stage director and in his capable hands the public may be assured of a very laughable comedy.

W.M.S. Convention at Epworth, 1925

The fifth annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Western district was held at Epworth Methodist Church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 27th, 28th and 29th, and was a marked success. Twelve delegates responded to the roll call, representing five Auxiliaries and seven Bands.

Wednesday afternoon the Convention was opened by Miss Hollett, District Superintendent, who presided at all the meetings. The address of welcome was given by the delegates and visitors by Mrs. Perry, Epworth President, and was responded to by Mrs. George Hyde of Grand Bank. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—Mrs. (Rev.) Morris, District Supt.; Mrs. (Rev.) Curtis, Associate Supt., and Mrs. Wm. Lorenzen, Secretary-Treasurer.

A very impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Aaron Buffett of Grand Bank in memory of three of our Auxiliary and three Band members. Fitting tributes were paid to the lives of the departed by those with whom they were associated.

Wednesday afternoon the Epworth Auxiliary royally entertained all W.M.S. workers at the School Hall, where a bountiful feast was spread, and the social hour was greatly enjoyed. Wednesday evening Mrs. (Rev.) Morris gave us a very helpful and instructive address, dealing with the five essentials of efficiency: 1st, Love; 2nd, Prayer; 3rd, Study; 4th, Interest in Young People's Work; 5th, Accuracy in Business and Promptness in returns," which was followed by an inspiring address by Rev. Peacock on Missions. Greetings were then read from Branch President, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. (Rev.) French, Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Mitchell.

On Thursday evening all reports were read from the different Auxiliaries, showing an increase in members and also finances. A message in song was then given by Miss Field from St. John's, followed by a very interesting message from Rev. Awlcroft from Acts 19th, chap., verse 17.

The third session was held on Friday afternoon, which took the form of a Mission Band meeting. Reports were read from the Bands, showing also an increase from last year. A very pleasing item was the presenting of life membership certificates to three "little light bearers," namely Selina Beasley, Dan Pitcher, H. E. M. Burden, also admitting two more life members, Jennie Wounded and Dulcis Brewer. Epworth has fifty-nine "little light bearers" and nine life members, for which society we must give Epworth an extra cheer. All children did exceedingly well, especially Burin Central. Special mention of Miss Grace Bishop, missionary candidate of Burin in whom we are deeply interested, being made W.M.S. life member recently by her own district, and is now in training. Special prayers were asked to be offered on behalf of our Missionary, Miss Laura Darby in China during the present crisis. Quiet moments were spent when various members led us to the Throne of Grace.

The public and final meeting of the Convention was held 7.45 p.m. at which a vast audience assembled, and listened with interest to a lengthy programme, with Miss Hollett presiding. The meeting opened with Doxology and Watchword, Scripture Lesson and Prayer followed by Rev. Awlcroft. A solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Gabriel Hollett of Great Burin followed by a chorus by Epworth Auxiliary. A recitation entitled "My Bible and I" was given by Mrs. Jane King from Fortune. The next was a chorus from Epworth Band followed by a solo by little Dorothy Beasley. The Epworth Mission Band President came forward and presented certificates (from their parents) to four members who were as follows, Emma Moulton, Elfrida Moulton, Eileen P. Moulton and Adelaide Paul. Next was a duet by Mesdames Mayo and Patten of Grand Bank and Fortune, followed by a dialogue entitled "Aunt Polly Joins the Missionary Society" by five women of Great Burin. A very splendid address was then given by our Missionary, Miss Martha Wag of Burin, now on furlough from "All People's Mission," Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. She outlined her work among those people and related instances worthy of note. Four members of the Convention (taking their seats on the platform), Miss Ella Hollett, Miss C. Inkpen, Miss M. Wredon and Mrs. Moulton, were dressed in different costumes of the nationalities, Russian, Italian, Finn and Assyrian. By missionary effort all these are becoming linked together in the one bond of unity. At the close of her address those wearing costumes rose and sang with the audience, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name." We were all delighted to have Miss Wag at the Convention as no district meeting of a W.M.S. would be complete without the presence of a returned Missionary, and any account of a district meeting would be lacking which failed to record the burning words of this earnest worker.

Mrs. John Breener, the eldest and quite a worthy member of Epworth, was then presented with a life membership certificate. A noteworthy item was the report of the Courtesy Committee with Miss C. Inkpen as convener, thanking all who in any way assisted in making the Convention a success, especially the telegraph operators and ferry men of Burin. Followed a presentation to the Epworth President, Mrs. Perry, expressing a wish that it were possible to show our appreciation in some such way to every member of the Epworth Auxiliary. Only a few in number, but at tempting great things, much credit is due them. A presentation was made to the retiring District Supt., Miss Ella E. Hollett from District Convention by Mrs. Jane King. Miss Hollett gave us a brief summary on the new outlook of the past forty-five years of W.

M.S. work. She stood with us on the lookout of the present, whatever the future might reveal. Remembering the words of the Psalmist: "The Lord giveth the word; and the women that publish the tidings are a great host," we must go forward in the spirit of our W.M.S. watchword, each member doing her best so that her Auxiliary may be an open window through which the waiting and needy world shall be seen, not forgetting that "with deeds of love and mercy the Heavenly Kingdom comes." With the words of the poet we ask the leadership of "The King Eternal," and to gether raise our little song, "Lead on Oh King Eternal, the day of march has come."

The total collections amounted to $54.17. Benediction by Rev. Awlcroft concluded the sessions of a red-letter period in the history of Epworth. We feel that all who attended will go to their homes with greater interest in the work, and with hearts full of gratitude to the people of Epworth, who cannot be surpassed for their hospitality. SECY-TREASURER.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Thursday, October 29, 1925.

THE BRITISH CHALLENGE

The advertisement in the Telegram on Tuesday of the British Industrial Fair to be held at London and Birmingham from February 15th to the 26th, is a departure from the former trade methods followed by Great Britain, and will everywhere be noted with gratification.

Is Britain vanquished? Is she so overlaid with debt that she cannot possibly again lift her head? Has she meekly given her pride of place in trade and commerce to her rivals? The answer to such questions is given in the words of Shakespeare, and they are as true to-day as they were over three hundred years ago:—

This England never did, nor never shall, Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror. . . . Nought shall make us rue, If England to herself do rest but true.

Burdened with debt! Yes, and carrying the burden of others as well. Stricken! Yes, and sorely, but when, in all her glorious past, have conditions similar to these been the occasion to sound the retreat? Rather have they brought out the very best qualities of the race, for it can be said with absolute truth and without ostentation that wherever the British flag flies it has been planted and kept aloft by the spirit which laughs at dangers and finds in every difficulty only another opportunity to overcome it.

Britain to-day is fighting to regain the trade which force of circumstances compelled her to relinquish to others, who were less disposed to see in what direction their path of duty led. Now as then, she is inviting her dominions to co-operate. Now as then, her rivals are misled into the belief that the spirit of co-operation is non-existent. Now as then, Britons from east to west and from north to south will rally to the flag, their flag.

There was no call for assistance eleven years ago. It was an invitation to unite in upholding the traditions of the race. There is no call for help in the challenge flung out to-day by Great Britain. It is in the nature of a proud gesture, which will inspire her peoples the world over to take heart again as she has done, surmount her difficulties, and face the future with confidence and hope.

We have heard so much of the gloom and depression existing in British industrial circles that we have failed to perceive the giant strides taken in the last year or two. Behind the million of unemployed have been completely concealed the tens of millions actively engaged. In the noise and tumult caused by a handful of agitators we have failed to grasp the fact that their influence counts for no more in the calm deliberations of the State than a puff of wind on the surface of the ocean.

Because the order for a small vessel like the Caribou was placed in Holland, we are inclined to believe that the British shipyards are all idle. It is true that their activities for some time have been restricted, but it is far from the truth to say that output has ceased. British engineers, as before, are carrying out giant operations in many parts of the world, and the motor exhibit at Olympia recently was a triumph of British skill and ingenuity.

Britain to-day in spite of her heavy obligations can still find in the depths of her purse sufficient millions to repay her debts and at the same time to meet her many responsibilities.

What of her ships that carry the flag to every corner of the world? And what of the Armada that was to supplant them but a few years ago on the ocean trade routes? Money without limit was expended on the latter, and to-day most of those ships have found their way to Henry Ford's scrap heap. It is not money that decides such an issue, but the spirit of the race which knows not defeat.

C. L. B. Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon the Ladies Auxiliary of the C. L. B. held a bazaar in the Assembly to raise funds for the organization which so well deserves public patronage. It cannot, however, be said that the attendance was gratifying either to the ladies who had gone to such trouble to make an elaborate display or to those who devote so much of their time to the welfare of the lady.

The Wonderful Loaf

Like the wonderful pudding of old, the wonderful loaf of bread on display at the Crisco Booth, in the Prince's rink, is becoming famous. The loaf is four feet long and is a splendid piece of baking, being manufactured by the Central Bakery of this City. Besides this mammoth loaf, there is an attractive display of cakes, buns and doughnuts, brown bread and smaller loaves of beautiful, white bread, all made with CRISCO, the delightful vegetable shortening. In all American and Canadian Cities, most Bakers use Crisco. When the Glyn Mill Inn opened and the high class Chef came down from Montreal, Crisco was the shortening chosen for making the various delicacies, for which this wonderful Hostelry has become famous. In the best Hotels everywhere, Crisco is the shortening selected. It neither smokes nor smells and has a wholesome, sweet, pure taste.

Many prominent ladies at the Fair last night, remarked while inspecting the Crisco Booth that Crisco is the only shortening used in their homes. It is less costly than Cooking Butter and far superior for all cooking purposes. Crisco may be obtained in one pound cans, or in bulk, from all good grocers in St. John's and throughout the Island. Gerald S. Doyle is attending to the advertising and distributing of Crisco.—Oct 29, 11

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Oct. 28th.—Talking this day with Mr. Snooks, that is well informed concerning civic affairs, he tells me that the Peppy's are in the town that cannot have sewerage, but that trouble down streets, almost none for habitation. We did have discussions concerning such schemes for sewerage housing conditions as might be desirable, and he maintains that the same must be altered in connection with tenants rights before any scheme may be adopted. Among other things he tells me how our taxation of 14 per centum, levied on rents, is almost the lowest of any American city.

Asen, abroad, and do learn how the vessel, "Bonavista" that was high 4 weeks from St. John's to Pogo, and was given up as lost, reaches port in safety.

In my mail this day do find the following epitaph that a correspondent sends me for my collection: "Here marks the end of a seagull trip, The darn fool followed a Scottish ship."

Home all this night, and to read my evening sheet which I did not have the time to do earlier, being occupied in an argument with my wife concerning a mistake she did make at Bridge, but will not acknowledge it.

Feldian Card Party

Arrangements in connection with the Bridge and Forty-five Card Party to be held in Feld College Hall on Wednesday evening next, are being made by Mr. E. Jerrett and already a considerable number of tables have been disposed of. Those who desire to participate in what promises to be a very enjoyable affair are advised to hand their names to the organizer as soon as possible.

Susu Arrives in Port

S.S. Susu, Capt. Jacob Kean, returned from the Porto Mail Service route at 8 o'clock this morning, after a boisterous round trip passage of 13 days. The Susu brought a full inward cargo, besides the following saloon passengers:—Rev. J. T. Clarke, Capt. G. Hann, Messrs. J. Moss, W. Burke, J. Forster, W. J. Wilson, J. Robins, W. G. Pippy, W. Canning, T. W. Abbott, A. Moulton, W. M. Brown, J. Davis, Messrs. Payne, Winsor and day boys. The ship sheltered at Pogo. Despite the stormy weather all ports of call were made as far as Seldom.

Vienna Dresses created such popular interest among St. John's ladies last season that we feel confident that many will be glad to see the new models opening to-day at AYRE & SONS Mantle Room, (Upper Building).

Caribou's Sailing Delayed

The Caribou did not get away this morning for North Sydney as expected, but will sail to-morrow at daylight instead. The steam, it will be remembered received a bad buffeting about her maiden voyage, having sustained damage to her port lights, ventilators, etc., and it is in order to have everything in working order for the voyage, she has been delayed. On the arrival of the Caribou at North Sydney, she will undergo an inspection by the Canadian authorities.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

YALE ESTABLISHES A SCHOOL IN GREENFELT MISSION. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 28. As the culmination of a long-standing interest of Yale students in the work of Dr. Wilfred T. Grantell, a Yale school in Labrador has been established at the Greenfelt Mission. Gifts from the undergraduates have made this possible. The new Yale school will attend at the North West River, the gateway to the vast undeveloped interior of Labrador. Over seventy families may reside near that point, and the school will be for the children. Dr. Grantell hopes to provide at the Yale school opportunities for vocational training.

CANADIAN FISHERIES REPORT

OTTAWA, Oct. 29. Fish valued at $3,724,133 and weighing 153,806,500 pounds were landed by the Canadian fishermen on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts of the Dominion during September, according to official figures. The catch is an increase of 44,751,000 pounds valued at $834,418 over September of last year.

LEAGUE'S TIME LIMIT EXPIRES

PARIS, Oct. 28. When eight o'clock struck this morning the time limit given by the Council of the League of Nations for the Greeks and Bulgarians to cease fighting and withdraw their forces from the respective territories ended. It appeared from despatches received here that the withdrawal order had not been complied with, at least by the Greeks. Evidently the Bulgarians had announced that they had occupied a Greek terrain. The Greeks, however, apparently still were near the Greek-Bulgarian frontier. It is expected a neutral zone will be set up between Greece and Bulgaria by the League.

AT THE FAIR

There was a large attendance at the Industrial Fair yesterday afternoon and last night. Many of the booth holders have changed over their exhibits and are now showing a different line of goods.

The prize winners at the Fair on Tuesday were: Mrs. Bertha Park, McFarlane Street, a pair of Riverside blankets, Ticket No. 1545. Ticket No. 1925 calling for 10 lbs. Golden Pheasant Tea; is still unclaimed.

LAST NIGHT'S WINNING NUMBERS. Ten pounds Armada Tea, won by Ticket No. 2192, unclaimed; Cosy Glow, Ticket No. 3917, unclaimed; six gramophone records, Ticket No. 2800, won by Mr. R. Hanham; Ticket No. 318 won the wool at Jas. Baird Ltd. prize unclaimed.

TO-NIGHT'S PRIZES. Ten pounds Armada Tea, a pair of Archibald's Shoes, a box of Tip Tops, 1 lb. Nocco candy donated by Mr. M. J. Kean, agent.

Codfish and Squid Plentiful

IMPROVEMENT IN CAPLIN CURE AT PLACENTIA BAY.

Parties returning from Placentia Bay report fish and squid very plentiful in many sections, but bad weather is hindering operations. No dry fish is fetching $9.00 per quintal and $8.50 is being paid for tal qual with broken and West India fish thrown out. Quite a lot of dry squid has been packed for which the fishermen receive $9.00 per quintal. A big business in dry caplin is also being developed and a waiting market has been found in Spain, Montreal and parts of Western Canada. The caplin are dried on wire screens about 10 feet long. These are movable and being fitted with handles, the fish can be conveniently stored for shelter during curing process. Handling is eliminated and the caplin dry straight by this improved method. They are neatly packed in 30 lb. paper lined boxes and command a paying figure.

The fighting men of our time set their Country's Name high in history and if we are to hand to coming generations an untarnished record of the Great War, we must see to it that so long as our Surviving Warriors live, every effort must be made to keep them and their dependents from want attributable to War Service.—Wear a Flanders Poppy.—Oct 29, 11

Handbag With $12.00 Snatched From Lady's Arm

About 6.15 p.m. yesterday, a well-known resident on Military Road, whilst proceeding to her home had a handbag containing $12 snatched from her arm by an unknown man. The hand bag was silver mounted and much valued by the owner. This is the second robbery of this nature within two days and those who happen to be on the streets at dusk should take the precaution not to carry valuables in their hand bags.

Election Day in Canada

To-day the Federal Elections take place in Canada, when 245 candidates will submit themselves to the electorate. The issue in the main is on the question of Protection, of which the Conservatives, under the leadership of Arthur Meighan, are the chief. The leader of the Liberal Party is William Lyon Mackenzie King who has been Premier since December, 1919. There have been 20 members returned by acclamation and in many districts there are three-corner fights.

Cutting Pulp Wood

ON CROWN RESERVES PROHIBITED. A recent meeting of the Executive Government it was decided not to permit cutting wood for pulp on Crown reserves or the three million acres of the Government's land. This is a procedure long urged by the Telegram, and it is hoped that this will stop what will be followed in time by the rotting of the Act which permits the export of raw wood.

Fire Department Horses at Auction

Four horses belonging to the fire department were placed on sale to-day at the Live Stock Market, Marshall's wharf, but owing to the rain were not disposed of. They will be auctioned Monday. Although the animals are being 20 years they are in good condition, and would make fine farm horses. Five horses to replace these animals were recently purchased in Canada by the Inspector General and arrived by S.S. Canadian Sapper.

Old Doctor Sun

Old Sol is a good baby doctor. Let him have a chance at your child, says Dr. Martha M. Elliot, director of child hygiene of the Children's Bureau. Dr. Elliot's slogan is "more sunlight for babies." She is directing a demonstration of the control of rickets in New Haven, Connecticut, in which the Children's Bureau and the Yale school of medicine are co-operating. This has proved again the power of the sun in preventing and curing this disease, says Dr. Elliot in a press bulletin issued by the Bureau.

In the campaign for better babies and healthier children more stress must be laid upon sunlight. The baby or little child who has been kept out-of-doors and tanned by the sun is strikingly healthy and vigorous in contrast to the pale, flabby baby or child who has been kept indoors.

When the sun's rays are analyzed by the physicist, it is found that some of them produce visible light, which can be divided by a prism into the well-known spectrum of colors, red, orange, yellow, green, blue, and violet. It is also found that beyond each end of this visible spectrum there are invisible rays: at the red end, the infra-red rays which produce heat, at the violet end, the ultra-violet rays and J-rays. It is these ultra-violet rays which have so powerful an effect on living matter, destroying bacteria, healing tuberculosis and rickets. When sunlight shines through window-glass, the visible light and the heat rays pass thru, but the ultra-violet rays do not penetrate beyond the glass.

"Sun-baths in the direct sunlight are the simplest method of giving the baby enough ultra-violet light. Sun-baths should be begun when the baby is about three or four weeks old. On the first day the baby's hands should be exposed to the direct sun for a few minutes. Care must be taken not to burn the skin. A slight reddening of the skin each day will gradually tan the baby. Unless the baby is accustomed to the sunlight from exposure indoors, the first sun-bath should be for ten or fifteen minutes only. Each day thereafter the exposure to the sun should be increased from three to five minutes, until the baby lies directly in the sun one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon. Every few days the amount of body surface exposed should also be increased, at first slowly, but as the spring days grow warmer, more rapidly. After the face and hands have become accustomed to the sunlight, the sleeves may be rolled up one at a time and the arms exposed, beginning with a few minutes and increasing daily. Very soon the stockings may be taken off one at a time for a few minutes each. Gradually the baby becomes accustomed to the sun-bath can be given to the whole body. In the heat of July and August care must be taken to give the sun-baths in the early morning before ten o'clock or in the afternoon after three o'clock. The head should be protected when the baby is in the hot sun between ten and three o'clock."

But all these cases cannot compare with the amazing baby of Burma, who, during the past few months, has addressed huge audiences and expounded deep and moral philosophy. He is Tun Kyne, the five-year old son of a Burmese fish dealer. He has addressed meetings so great that the railways have had to put on special trains to accommodate the crowds. He speaks brilliant Burmese, is an accomplished orator, and can talk for hours on end. There have been equal prodigies, intellectual and musical, but such are the amazing qualities of Tun Kyne that one can forgive the superstitious natives for halting him as the reincarnation of some Buddhist preacher.

Milk Best Food Drink for Growing Children

Mothers Warned to Refuse Tea or Coffee and Spare Candies Between Meals.

The chief cause of under development and malnutrition in children is lack of proper diet and unsuitable drink, such as tea and coffee, according to the annual report of the Women's Institutes of Ontario. Just in the report, Miss Lydia Roberts says:

The animal spirits natural to all healthy young are apt to be lacking in the undernourished child. She may be listless in play and work, will probably tire easily, not care to vocal chords, one deep bass and the other soprano, and it belongs to an American pastor who will cause it to handed over to the experts on his death. In this case Nature's freakishness was not an inconvenience, but that is not always so. Only recently, for instance, a Paris professor discovered a man who was luminous. He was an Italian wine merchant, who also considered himself a medium. He was stripped, washed, and subjected to severe X-ray tests to see if he was secreting or had swallowed any luminous substance, but the authorities were satisfied that his case was genuine. Whenever he went into a trance a bluish light surrounded him like a halo. A darkened room showed him as a ghostlike luminous shape, and photographic plates exposed in his presence registered the same effect as if they had been exposed in daylight.

and dull. In disposition she may be extremely irritable and difficult to manage, and is often abnormally nervous, restless, and will probably sleep lightly and be "snaky" about food. The first requirement of a growing child is food. Every movement her body makes, every bit of work it does, requires energy and this energy must be furnished by the foods she eats. If the food supply is insufficient, the body itself is burned to provide the energy, and loss of weight results. It is essential therefore, that the diet of a growing child should be first of all generous in amount. An insufficient and inadequate breakfast of bread and coffee, whether or not the midday meal is adequate, practically always means too little total food, even though a heavy supper may be eaten. Indulgence in sweets and highly seasoned foods, habitual sitting between meals, late hours, unventilated sleeping rooms and lack of exercise may all result in a flimsy appetite and this in the taking of too little food. A diet inadequate in the right kinds of food has equally disastrous results. To be well nourished, a child must have every day some body-building material, or protein, to help form his muscles, his blood, his heart, his lungs, his brain, and all other living parts of the body. Without it his organs can not develop normally, nor his organs be in the best condition. Certain proteins of animal origin—those of milk, eggs, and meat are more valuable for growth than are those of cereals, beans, peas and vegetables. A liberal amount of the child's "building material," therefore, should be furnished by foods of animal origin.

Failure to supply these in sufficient amounts may result in undernourishment. Another special need of the child's body is for minerals. He must have plenty of lime to build sound bones and teeth, iron to make blood, and other minerals for just as definite uses. Without suitable amounts of lime and phosphorus, his bones will surely be spongy and his teeth defective, while a lack of iron causes anemia. In this condition the blood has not enough normal red corpuscles to carry sufficient oxygen to the tissues to burn the food, and loss of weight follows. Since milk is about the only liberal source of lime, and since vegetables, fruits, whole cereals, and egg yolks, in addition to milk supply most of the other minerals, it is readily seen that many cases of malnutrition are caused by too little of one or more of these foods.

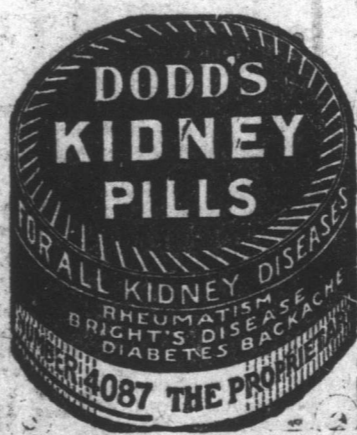

The jumper of the sports frock may be of jersey with a horizontal stripe in color. Wide bands of beige lace are used in trimming a tufted frock of black crepe de chine.

A Word to the Wise

"Oh come and see our Island,"
(Is now the classic cry)
We have the finest Island
That ever you did spy.
And if we fail to please you,
And make you like your stay,
Just tell us what's the matter
Before ye go away.
We've many sorts of fishing
To try your skill and luck,
There's Salmon, Mud, and Sea Trout
Forever bobbing up.
There's Rainbows and Loch Levens
And hordes of German Browns,
And often six or seven
Will average fifteen pounds.
You may be fond of shooting,
Then come and shoot your fill,
At Partridges or Rabbits
All plump and sitting still.
Awaiting your arrival,
Impatient for the fray,
Our shooting has no rival
In any land they say.
Come, come, ye jolly tourists,
And bring your wives as well,
And leave your pretty daughters
At the Newfoundland Hotel.

Obituary

MRS. FEDERICA ASH.

The Telegram learns with regret of the sudden passing at Trinity of Frederica Thorne Pack, the widow of Francis Ash, master mariner, whose death occurred about five years ago. The deceased was a daughter of the late Stephen Pack of the firm of Pack, Gosse and Friar, of Carbonara, and although she had reached the age of seventy-seven, she was enjoying the best of health and her relatives and her friends had no idea that death was so near.

A devoted church worker, Mrs. Ash will be greatly missed in St. Paul's Parish and her memory will long be cherished by her many friends in Trinity and elsewhere. Left to mourn are one daughter, Mrs. David Baird, two step-daughters, Miss Minnie Ash and Mrs. Foster who resided with her in Trinity and one son, Richard G. Ash, Secretary of the Newfoundland Board of Fire Underwriters, for all of whom deep sympathy will be felt in their bereavement.

The funeral takes place at Trinity on Sunday afternoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Baird and Mr. R. G. Ash left by express to-day in order to be present.

CHARLES FORAN

Word was received in the City yesterday of the almost sudden passing of Mr. Charles Foran, the day previously, at his home in Akron, Ohio, where he has been residing since his return from Overseas Service. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Foran, his mother dying but a few months ago, and though he has been living abroad for a considerable number of years, he will be remembered by a host of friends in St. John's to whom the news of his death will be received with feelings of deepest regret. A veteran of the Boer War, on the outbreak of hostilities in 1914 Mr. Foran enlisted with the Canadian Forces, with whom he gallantly served for over two years in France, when he was severely wounded and eventually invalided home. Up to Thursday last he was apparently in good health, when he was stricken with paralysis from which he never rallied. He was a man of fine ideals, whose ability, strength of character and charm of manner made him such a highly esteemed and popular figure and one whose death will be mourned by all who knew him. He leaves surviving two sisters, Mrs. Sholto Douglas, of Bournemouth, England, and Miss Margaret Foran of this City, and one brother Mr. A. E. Foran of New York who was with him when he died; to all of whom we extend our sincere sympathy.

You will enjoy the "At Home" at the Methodist Orphanage tomorrow, Friday afternoon, at 3.30 p.m. Come and help fill the Orphanage Pantry.—oct29.11

A Bold Theft

Last night at the sale by the Cochrane Street Women's Association, a sneak thief made off with a bag containing a small sum of money and a bank book, which was laid on a shelf during the temporary absence of the owner, a young girl. The thief operated from outside the building and extracted the bag through a raised window. Alongside of the purse which was stolen there was another containing about fifty dollars and it would appear that the thief lifted the wrong bag by mistake.

Crew of Schooner
Nancy Lee on
S. S. Benvorlick

Mr. T. H. Carter, ship's broker, received a wire from London this morning, stating that the crew of the schooner Nancy Lee, Capt. Whitshire, were safe aboard the S.S. Benvorlick due at Dublin on day. The Nancy Lee, owned by the Horwood Lumber Co., was abandoned in mid-ocean whilst bound from Horse Island, Labrador, to Naville with a cargo of fish.

HOW ABOUT ALIMONY?

Should a married woman who is divorcing her husband claim alimony if she has no children and is capable of supporting herself?
 New conditions of life brings new problems. Forty years ago such a situation would have been a freak question. Then most women had children and were incapable of self-support. To-day many married women don't have children and most married women are capable of self-support, so the question becomes pertinent.
 Is it ethical for such a woman to ask alimony?
 If she does, should her claim be allowed?
 The No Alimony club answers the first question by pledging its members not to accept alimony.
 No Alimony For This Woman.
 One of the justices of the New York supreme court answered the second by ruling that a childless woman earning money should not be allowed alimony.
 It is always true in any situation that circumstances alter cases but it seems to me there are few matters in which it would be more difficult to lay down hard and fast principles than this.
 What right has a woman to alimony? It goes without saying that the husband must do what he can toward children's support. But if a woman is no longer his wife, should a man support her if she is capable of self-support? Is it any harder on her than on him to have to work for a living?
 A Woman's Disadvantage.
 It seems to me, as a matter of justice, that a woman has a right to some indemnity for the situation in which an unsuccessful marriage has placed her, if she is not the guilty party. If the marriage has endured for some years and she is beyond the natural marrying age that profession is almost closed to her. If on her marriage she gave up whatever work she was doing, it is going to be very hard for her to find a foothold again in her line of work and she will not have the earning capacity she would have had if she had gone on developing and not given her up for her work for marriage. Her husband, on the other hand, has gone ahead with his business just as if he had not married. He has suffered no such financial loss. He has not got to go out and find a job at middle age. I think a woman deserves some reasonable indemnity for such a situation and that it is ethically fair for her to claim it.

 Of course if a woman has gone on with her work just as her husband has with his, that is quite another matter, and I presume that was the case in which the judge ruled. In such a case, I should think a self-respecting woman would not want alimony.
 What About Common Savings.
 As to the rights of each in common savings, that again is a matter into which infinite factors would enter. Laws vary on this in the different states. In California, the most liberal, the wife automatically has a half interest in all property acquired after marriage and can do with it what she wants to. . . . Some contrast to the days not so very long ago when a married woman could not even own what was hers before marriage but saw all her property pass automatically into her husband's name!
 The law is very favorable to women in many ways in this chivalrous country of ours. Perhaps, as women enter the economic struggle with men,

It will become less so. But if it is still fair, if it still tries to mete out justice, recognizing woman's handicap as a contributor of intangibles rather than tangible assets to marriage, I think women on the whole will be satisfied.

The Knatsu Cure

BLOWS THAT REVIVE BRAINS.

There would probably be consternation if an examination candidate, asked how he would proceed to restore the apparently drowned, should reply, "I should kick him in the small of the back." Yet that is the way they go about it now in Japan.

There is a spot in the middle of the back which they tell you is a very sensitive nerve-centre; a sharp blow there will stimulate the brain into immediate action. Speaking anatomically, the spot must be described as the base of the eleventh cervical vertebra; for the layman it would be simpler to say the eleventh knob of the spine counting from the large knob that marks the base of the neck.

This trick is part of the Japanese system known as "Kustu," or the restoration of life. Kustu was a natural and inevitable sequel to Jiu-Jitsu. Several of the tricky throws practised by Japanese wrestlers, if they are not fatal in their effects, are at least sufficiently dangerous to stop all the vital processes.

An actual kick in the small of the back is the last resort, however. The blow is usually struck with the second knuckle of the second finger. The smaller the striking surface the greater the stimulation of the nerve-centre.

At football and other sports players are frequently knocked out by severe blows or kicks. For this class of injury another kustu way of revival which may seem weird to our Western ideas is very good in its effects.

The patient is laid on his back, and one person holds down his shoulders, while the other removes one of his boots and pulls the foot strongly upwards. The operator then clenches his first so that the second knuckle of the second finger protrudes beyond the others, and strikes a blow at the patient's instep just under the bones that form the arch.

Simple Mixture Makes Stomach Feel Fine

Simple buckthorn bark, magnesium sulphate, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, helps stomach trouble in TEN minutes by removing GAS. Brings out a surprising amount of old waste matter you never thought was in your system. Stops that full, bloated feeling and makes you happy and cheerful. Excellent for chronic constipation. Adlerika works QUICK and delightfully easy. Sold by all leading Druggists.

NO KNOCKING.

The agent for the Rooster car, he took me for a ride; we swiftly slithered near and far, all o'er the countryside. He talked in all the modern tongues, including Dutch and Greek; he talked until his toll-worn lungs developed quite a squeak. "The Rooster simply can't be beat," he cried, with tortured throat; "inspect all cars upon the street—you'll find no better boat. This little car's as good as gold, the best you ever saw; from bumper to the manifold it's built without a flaw." "What think you of the Piker car, that's advertised so much?" My foolish question did not mar his flow of Greek and Dutch. "The Piker is a splendid wain, there is no doubt of that; but here we're driving home again, and not a tire's gone flat. Just note how sweet the motor runs, how noiselessly she flies; she takes the cakes, she takes the bumps, she takes the curbstones." To see how he would take a jar, what thoughts he would express, I said, "I'll buy a Piker car—it costs nine dollars less." "You'll get good value for your mon," he said without a sigh; "but let us take another run, before you go and buy." "Nay, nay," quoth I, "I'll buy your bus without another ride; you are a white and honest cuss, in whom I'm satisfied. You do not knock the rival gig, you merely boost your own; your tongue is straight, your heart is big, you're in a class alone. And so I'll pay four dollars now, and ninety cents a week, which are the terms you will allow, your ads and handbills shriek."

Just Folks.
 By EDGAR GUEST.

SOME TIME.
 From Betty Eaton comes a note which I should dearly love to quote. But space forbids, and so I'll take a thought or two from it and make for her this little round of rhyme. About that far away "sometime!"
 "Sometime," all partents love to say.
 "We'll take you down to see a play.
 Sometime to Boston we will go,
 Sometime all pleasures you shall know;
 Not now, but sometime later on
 An ocean boat we'll ride upon."
 In days when I was but a child
 By "sometime" I was reconciled.
 I sat and dreamed and wished a lad
 Could share the joys which grown-ups had.
 "Sometime you will," I heard them say,
 But "sometime" seemed so far away.
 Now comes my little boy to me
 To say: "I've never crossed the sea."
 And I reply, "Upon a ship
 Sometime we'll take an ocean trip."
 And he, like you, this very day
 Thinks sometime is so far away.
 But sometime comes on flying wings.
 And all the longest for joy it brings.
 The years rush by and soon you find
 The thrill of youth is left behind.
 It's just a little while, when you
 Like us will promise "sometime," too.

The Beautiful Woman

takes the greatest care to protect and nourish her skin and not to give the fatal wrinkles a chance to form. After cleansing her face she rubs in with an upward and outward motion a generous amount of Three Flowers Skin and Tissue Cream. The pure oils it contains are quickly absorbed by the tissues. The lady whose skin is inclined to be dry finds in this splendid cosmetic the means to replace the natural oil her skin lacks, while the woman whose skin is inclined to be too oily finds that a thorough cleansing with Three Flowers Skin and Tissue Cream opens the overloaded pores and helps them throw off the excessive oils. This does this beautiful cream benefit every woman's skin.—oct22, th.m.1f

Our Tainted Food

FOOD CONTAMINATION IS CAUSED BY MORE POWERS OF INSPECTION.

(News of the World Special)
There is an immense quantity of polluted food being habitually consumed by the people in this country, and particularly by the poor. Much of the food coming under this description is unsound from the start, and perhaps the greater part is unsound through contamination and pollution, caused in a great variety of ways. Much has been done, and is still being done, by the health authorities to ensure that only sound meat should be taken from the slaughter-house, and that milk should be clean and unadulterated, but there is no power to prevent the possibility of pollution in the preparation, storage, exhibition, and distribution. Unnecessary handling of food is universally practised, and is objectionable to the last degree. Why should women, even of poor class, be allowed to pinch the greenhouses at the fruiterers', or the buns at a confectioner's, without penalty (when "pinching" of a different order is severely dealt with). There is hardly an article of consumption that is immune from the possibility of pollution. Dr. C. E. Goddard, the other day in the "British Medical Journal," criticised the methods used in Smyrna in the storage and packing of figs and sultanas. A member of Parliament, who made an inspection of these methods, gave most disgusting details, calculated to make one never again touch a fig or a sultana for the rest of one's life. The same admission was made: "No doubt in some of the smaller houses evasions of the sanitary regulations may take place, but not in those competing for the American market. If the British public," it was urged, "are anxious as to the purity of their sultanas, the remedy would seem to be to adopt the American methods of consular supervision." So it amounts to this, that for long years past we have all been obliged to consume, as Dr. Goddard phrases it, "vast quantities of filth," with results that we can hardly gauge. The doctor suggests, as a remedy, that our own Colonies should have no time in playing on the British market in every town these and other dried fruits in cartons, not necessarily to compete with smaller tradesmen, but to create a demand and . . .

To Educate The Public to purchase, only food for which a guarantee can be obtained that it has been prepared, packed, and distributed in a cleanly manner. Coming nearer home the same argument applies to bread—there are five or six separate contaminations possible from the oven to the home—and in the home there are often as many before the bread is eaten. Here the remedy is a simple one, namely, to wrap bread and similar food in waxed paper, which should not be removed until the bread is consumed on the table. When it is recalled that more than 80 per cent. of tuberculosis is derived from human sources, and that a dozen different people often handle the bread on the sideboard to help themselves, one need not be surprised at the wide dissemination of bacteria. Then again, why should green-grocers be permitted to expose their goods, as they now do, under conditions that make cleanliness impossible? This kind of wilful pollution will continue until sanitary officers have more power to deal with the offenders by suitable regulations from the Ministry of Health. And why should the poorer people have polluted food, as if they did not have sufficient handicaps in life already?

sent needs. What is wanted, as Dr. W. G. Savage contends, is that all premises where made-up meat foods are prepared for public use should be licensed, so that frequent and thorough inspections can be made of those premises and of the ingredients used, and of the methods employed. Fortunately, with regard to milk, the public is daily obtaining a purer supply and there is less adulteration and contamination. The trouble nowadays with milk is, alas! its treatment in the home. How very few people think it worth while to sterilise their jugs and utensils, or protect the milk from flies and vermin. But over and over these domestic precautions is the urgent need for greater power of inspection, as Dr. Goddard so emphatically suggests. It is high time that the public should insist upon reform in a matter which is of fundamental importance to their well being.

of the past, if the invention and perfection of photographic typesetting, reported by The Publishers' Weekly (New York), should turn out to be accurate. The inventors are said to be J. J. C. August and E. K. Hunter, of Waltham, England. We read: "Experts who have seen the machine in operation claim that it will probably revolutionize printing, and that principles of printing in use since Caxton's time may become obsolete. Not since the invention of the modern radio has any such unanny machine been invented. It is said to do away with metal type by substituting a photographic film upon which letters, figures, etc., have been photographed."
"Altho no detailed or very informative explanation of the working of this new printing feature has been explained. The machine is, as clearly as can be defined, a combination of a typewriter, a photographic instrument, together with certain features of process engraving."
"The operator, working a keyboard similar to a typewriter's, causes letters and characters from a master film to be projected, one by one, in rapid sequence, on to a sensitized photographic film base. These projected letters are then rapidly photographed, the exposure being a matter of a fraction of a second. When this exposed film is developed, we have the modern prototype of the "cut-up-material" or type-line of the composing machine. It is in reality a photographic film bearing an image of the subject-matter to be printed, and is somewhat similar to the stage reached by the process engraver who obtains a negative by photographing an original."

"On reaching this stage printing is a very simple matter and may be done in a dozen different ways—by the block for letter-press printing, by direct litho, by photographic processes from plat or stone, or by the offset photo-litho throughout."
"Type in bewildering variety is available by an adjustment of focus of the lens which projects the master film image; this operation is completely automatic. A single spool 2 inches in diameter of 'master film' 3 inches wide contains the equivalent of 2,700 'foots' or complete sets of type."
"The claims made read almost like Jules Verne description of some creative machine of his brain. Some of them are:

(a) The printers' composing-rooms of the future, instead of occupying great areas filled with costly machines, will consist of offices of a fraction of the size, housing only the camera compositors. Millions of dollars will be saved, inasmuch as the bulk of the composing plant of today will become unnecessary.
(b) The application of wireless telegraphy to the invention will enable a machine, installed in a London printing works, to set up the same matter simultaneously in many provincial towns.
(c) Books and magazines, whether of letterpress or pictures, and, in fact, all printing will become much cheaper, also more beautiful of the greater variety of types available and the avoidance of intermediate processes, which tend to lessen the clearness of outline of the original type.
"The invention, which involves many subsidiary inventions, has been protected by seventy British and foreign patents."

Municipal Matters

FOR CONSIDERATION OF CHAMBERS OF TRADE AND COMMERCE.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 28.—(By Canadian Press)—Matters concerning immigration, regulation and protection of vehicular traffic on provincial highways, physical examination of motor drivers, taxation, water power diversion and development, together with a wide discussion at the twelfth annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce meeting here Nov. 5 and 6, next, under the chairmanship of J. G. Elliott, of this city, who is President of the organization. Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General of Ontario and other prominent people will deliver addresses.

Ottawa Board of Trade will submit a resolution urging the association to request the Ontario Government to amend the Municipal Act so as to give authority to cities and towns to extend annually not more than ten cents per capita for tourist and publicity purposes.

Kitchener asks the association to call for the appointment of other than the magistrate on the police commission with the object of obtaining a clearer division between the executive authorities and the administrative authority in law enforcement. The elimination of the dual position of magistrates and police commissioner is desired.

Galt wants the urban municipalities, which are separated from the countries in the Province, freed from payment of any portion of the cost of Provincial Highways. Hamilton calls for the examination and licensing of motor drivers. Kitchener wants all vehicles required to carry lights on highways at night. Welland calls for simplification of government machinery. Niagara urges free exchange of commodities between Canada and the British West Indies, and Toronto wants income taxes reduced to be on a par with those of United States; also the repeal of corporation income taxes and stamp duties on checks, receipts, etc.

Other resolutions and the local bodies proposing them include: Peterborough—Formation of Provincial Tourist Association and extension of Tourist Permits.

Kingston—Development of Deep Water Terminal and Registration of Motor Vessels.

Hamilton—Protection of Vehicles at Railway Level crossings and Creating Economies in the Civic Service.

Toronto—To Stimulate Voting at Municipal Elections.

Pictou—To Impose Duty on Magazines.

Fort William—Diversion of Waters of Hudson Bay Slope.

Stafford's Prescription A for all Stomach Troubles.—Oct. 21st.

Wesley Church to Make a Broadcasting Test

On Friday night at 8 o'clock broadcasting test will be made by Wesley Choir which should prove of interest to Radio fans. The Organist wishes to arrange the seating of the Choir so that the singing may be heard to the best advantage over the Radio, as at present the Alto and Bass Sections are sometimes not heard because the Sopranos occupy most of the space immediately in front of the microphone. It is thought possible by rearranging the parts to have the harmony come in at the more correctly balanced, and at the same time maintain the correct effect in the auditorium of the Church.

On Friday night the following programme will be broadcast by the Choir in three different positions as noted below, and the Organist would be grateful if those who are interested in this matter would cut out this programme and return it to him on Saturday with a statement as to the most effective transmission of the various positions.

The same Anthem will be rendered in each of the groups so that the difference in reception will be easily noted. Mr. Gordon Christian has kindly consented to broadcast two Organ Solos during the recital. The programme is as follows:—

Position 1.—Anthem, Hymn, Alto Solo, Organ Selection.

Position 2.—Anthem, (repeated), Hymn, Soprano Solo, Tenor Solo, Organ Selection.

Position 3.—Anthem, (repeated), Hymn, Baritone Solo.

The Organist, Mr. J. C. Pratt, will be glad to receive reports from those listening in as to the effect produced by the rearrangement.

Name of Hotel

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir:—Seeing many names suggested for the new Hotel, I will now make my suggestion, namely "Prince of Wales" in honor of our King's eldest son, or else "The Bona Vista," which means happy sight, as no doubt it will afford a happy sight to all when completed. Bona Vista would have a historic association as well.

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
KID.

Bonavista, Oct. 23, 1925.

We are faced at this moment with the appalling problem of alleviating the distress in many ex-Service homes during the winter months, when illness and destitution are at a maximum—wear a Flanders Poppy.—Oct. 23, 11

Very attractive for sports wear are the suede jerkins with knitted jacquard borders.

All the mothers and aunts, grandmas and big sisters, who had joined the nutting picnic to see that the little folks got into no mischief, were busy unpacking the baskets of good things to eat just as your Uncle Dave ended yesterday's story. Half the fun at a picnic is to sit on the ground and at a table with no legs, just a white cloth spread on the grass. Of course one must be careful not to suddenly pull the cloth; that would be polite as to joggle a table. However the little rabbit girls and bunny boys behaved very well, and when the lunch was over, the real fun of the day began. Here and there and everywhere the big chestnut trees, whose leaves had turned yellow, were heavy with nuts. Yes, indeed, on the end of every branch clustered spiny balls. Although Jack Frost had been around several times, many of the burs still clung to the trees, half split, open waiting for Billy Breeze to blow them down.

Cousin Cottontail had brought along a sack in which to carry the nuts, but, Oh dear me! There were not enough nuts on the ground for every one, and pretty soon that little lady rabbit turned to the bunny boy and said: "Throw a stone or stick into the tree. Maybe you can knock off some nuts!"

"Ha, ha," laughed the little bunny. "I know a better way than that," and hopping out to the open green space where the Fairy Bunnies danced at night, he blew a long, shrill blast on his policeman whistle.

"Wonder what Little Jack Rabbit wants?" thought the Ragged Rabbit Giant, rising from his big easy chair, as large as three pianos pulled close together. Walking over to the window he looked down toward the Whispering Glen. At that very moment the bunny boy waved his handkerchief three times up and three times down, then right to left. "He wants me," laughed the big good natured giant, and kicking off his slippers, he pulled on his seven league boots. Then placing an old frayed hat on his great head, he stalked out of his Tip Top, Sky High Mountain Castle and strode down to the valley. Goodness me, in less time than I can take to tell it, he stood before the little rabbit. "Howdy," laughed the big man, with a smile like a crescent moon in a dark sky. "What's your pleasure, little hipperty hop?"

"Won't you please shake down some nuts for us?" begged the bunny boy, Oh so wistfully.

"As sure as Monday follows Sunday, And sunshines follows rain, And little brooks flow to the ocean, And green apples give you a pain."

"Look out for your heads," warned the Ragged Rabbit Giant.

answered the obliging old giant, Wonder where he learned that pretty poem? I remember the little rabbit once sobbed it aloud when Mr. Wicked Wolf had tied him up in a sack. "You're a nice giant," cried the bunny boy. "Please shake that tree over yonder. The one under which Cousin Cottontail is standing."

"Look out for your heads," warned the Ragged Rabbit Giant, snatching hold of the tree's way high. "He's going to rain chestnuts in just a jiffy." Away hopped the little bunnies and the next minute down came the nuts to the ground and into the next story.

Sale, Tea and Concert

BY COCHRANE ST. W.A.

The Cochrane Street Women's Association's annual sale, tea and concert, which took place yesterday in the lecture room of Cochrane Street Church, was largely patronized and the proceeds were fully up to expectations.

The sale was formally opened by the Pastor of the Church, Rev. E. G. French, who was introduced by Mr. Arthur Mews, C.M.G. The stalls, which were well stocked with fancy and plain needlework, novelties suitable for Christmas gifts, hand-made cakes, bread, candy and pantry goods, were most attractively decorated.

Sales were brisk and all the goods were disposed of before the concert began. The tea tables were also well patronized and brought in a considerable amount of money. The concert programme, which took place at night, proved most enjoyable, and every item on it was of a high order, and called for encores. The programme was as follows:—Pianoforte solo, Mrs. Alex. Mews; Duet, Misses Mews and Curtis; Vocal Solo, Mr. Alex. Mews; Vocal Selection, Mrs. Ferguson, Solo, Mr. P. Wylie. Lady Crossin and her co-workers are deserving of hearty congratulations on their efforts.

Something altogether new to the people of Newfoundland is to take place in the S.U.F. Hall on Monday, November 2nd.

This social is the first of its kind to be held here and without doubt it will prove a great success. The principal on which it will be run is very unique. Free invitations are issued to one hundred couples, but each lady is required to bring a pie. Dancing will be indulged in for a time and then the pie will be auctioned. The gentlemen bid for the pies, of course not knowing to whom they belong, and after each pie is knocked down the name of the former owner, which must be written on a card and placed underneath the pie, before it is handed in, is revealed; and the buyer of the pie must eat it with the lady to whom it formerly belonged. A special prize is offered to the lady who brings the best decorated pie. Refreshments will also be served and a good time is guaranteed all who attend.—Oct. 29, 11

The many friends of Miss Emma Walsh, of Killybegs, will be interested to learn that she was among the number of young ladies who completed the three years' course in the different branches of nursing, and was awarded the Diploma from the "Hotel Dieu School of Nursing," Chatham, N.B., September 15th. Miss Walsh has been residing in Canada for the past five years. We wish the young lady every success in her chosen profession.

Old Boys' Re-union

AT MT. CASHEL ORPHANAGE.
The Annual Re-Union of Mt. Cashel Old Boys' Association was held at the institution last night. Upwards of 200 old boys and their guests were present. Amongst the guests were: Bro. Bro. Ennis, Fennessey, O'Hehir, Bro. Bro. Sheridan; Mr. A. Bulley, Captain of the Band and Dr. T. M. Director. Rev. Bro. J. E. Ryan, Principal of St. Bon's College, and Professor, were absent owing to illness. The menu was all that could be desired and was done full justice to by those present. Mr. M. Dillon presided at the organ, the musical and other programme being a special feature. The evening was particularly pleasing, a special feeling of friendship being apparent right through, whilst the reminiscences of the days gone by brought back happy memories. Mr. J. Buckingham, President of the Association, was toast master and performed his duties in a capable manner. In the course of several speeches made, congratulations were offered him, on being chosen to fill the presidential chair, and it was felt by all that a wise choice had been made. The following was the toast list, interspersed with songs:

of Especial Significance to the Thrifty

FAIR DAYS pass apace, but a few more days and the Fair of 1925 will be all over, we participated and we are glad of it, glad to be able to say we shared in its display and were very well pleased with the favourable comment upon our displays. As a fitting finale we stage some very spectacular values, the savings on which are all the more emphatic, because the merchandise involved is of the character you need now and which you will continue to need for months to come.
