Special to The Toronto World. NEW YORK, April 21.—A very plain statement in regard to the difficulties which confront the United States Government in its role of intervener in the Mexican situation was given by Manuel A. Four Marines Were Killed

Twenty-One Others Were Wounded While Mexicans Lost Heavily—Garrison Opened Fire on Marines After Seizure of Customs House and Battle Raged Fiercely for Hours

Canadian Press Despatch. VERA CRUZ, April 21.—Vera Cruz tonight is in the hands of forces from the United States warships, but the occupation of the port was not accomplished without loss of American lives.

The Mexican commander, Gen. Gustavo Maas, offered a stubborn resistance to the American advance, and for many hours there was fighting in the streets. Toward nightfall it was reported that the main body of the federal garrison was in retreat to the westward.

WILSON ORDERED MARINES TO LAND, SEIZE VERA CRUZ CUSTOMS HOUSE AND STOP LANDING OF MUNITIONS

Delay in the Senate Caused President to Take Action on His Own Responsibility, the Result Being That the Marines Landed, Seized the Customs House, Engaged in First Skirmish With Mexicans, With Casualties of Four Killed and Twenty Wounded—Foreign Ambassadors Notified and British Citizens Advised to Leave Mexico.

Special to The Toronto World. WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Four United States marines killed and twenty wounded. These are the known casualties which accompanied the landing of United States forces from the fleet of Rear-Admiral Frank F. Fletcher at Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the seizure of the customs house there this evening.

Admiral Fletcher added that the guns of the naval transport Prairie were shelling the Mexicans out of their positions. It is presumed here that the Mexicans are retreating up the line of railroad which runs to Mexico City.

Admiral Fletcher will not attempt to pursue the Mexicans. He will establish his base at Vera Cruz and hold it. The foregoing is the initial step and first step in the act of reprisal against Gen. Victoriano Huerta, dictator of Mexico, for his indignities to the United States.

What the next step will be, whether one of war or just a mere seizure of the customs house and the holding of the same, only events can determine.

Next Step Actual War. In the light of the attack from the Huertistas forces the next step may be actual war, at least with one Mexican faction.

The news that Admiral Fletcher had landed a force of marines at Vera Cruz and seized the customs house there was received by Secretary of the Navy Daniels at 6 o'clock. The despatch stated:

"Tuesday in face of an approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from the Utah, Florida and Prairie and seized customs house. Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifle and artillery after our seizure of custom house. Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from housetops and streets. Hold customs house and section of city in vicinity of wharves and consulate. Casualties four dead and twenty wounded."

Startling was the news contained in the despatch even to those officials who were familiar with the administration's plans and were prepared to receive such tidings, and despite the continued circulation of reports throughout the military departments of the government after 2 o'clock this afternoon that something big had happened in Mexican waters.

President Wilson was in his study when the telegraph operator in the navy department began receiving the message from Admiral Fletcher spelling action. Secretary Daniels had just left the navy department for dinner. Secretary Bryan was on his way home. Without the loss of a minute the attaches in the office of the secre-ary of the navy despatched messengers after Mr. Daniels, then notified the White house of the news. Like wildfire the information spread and in a few minutes the president was in conference with Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels and Counsellor Lansing of the state department. Despite the efforts of the administration to keep the news of the skirmish at Vera Cruz suppressed reports were going out of Washington that a fight actually had taken place with a loss to the American forces.

At 7:15 the conference in the White House broke up. It was announced by Mr. Tamm that Secretary Daniels would issue a statement in a few minutes. At 7:25 the telegram from Rear Admiral Fletcher was given to the public.

Filled With Belligerency. The very air in Washington was filled with belligerency following the spread of the report that four Americans had been killed and 20 wounded. To the White House, state and navy departments, senators and representatives hurried. They were given the message without comment.

Immediately the congressmen took the news to the capitol, after which there were hurried conferences. With this information went the report that President Wilson did not care what congress did with the resolution which was introduced in the house yesterday, which he desired should be adopted last night, and which was still being held up in the senate by Republican members. Consternation seemed to strike those members responsible for the delay in the passage of the resolution in the senate. It dawned upon them that they had not taken the president's counsellors at their word when they said that a big shipment of arms and ammunition was on its way to Huerta on the Hamburg-American steamer Franquani, and that the seizure of the customs house at Vera Cruz before tonight was absolutely necessary to prevent that shipment of arms and ammunition from being delivered.

President Wilson, they admitted, did know this, as well as the fact that the arms, while going to Huerta from a German port and from a German firm, were American made.

The receipt of Admiral Fletcher's first despatch was the culmination of a day filled with activity on the part of the president and his ministers and rumors and general excitement on the part of others.

Loaded With Munitions. Early this morning the report was current that the Iraguano, loaded with munitions of war for Huerta, was nearing the port of Vera Cruz. When questioned about it administration officials sought to minimize the importance of the information. It was finally admitted that the arrival of the vessel was expected about noon of Vera Cruz.

The United States had kept in touch with the vessel thru the use of the wireless, and timed her arrival within a few hours.

It was later that the reports began spreading that Admiral Badger had been ordered to increase the speed of his fleet and proceed directly to Vera Cruz and seize the custom house. This report was followed by another which stated Admiral Fletcher had been in-

Canadian Press Despatch. WASHINGTON, April 21.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels made public the following despatch received from Admiral Fletcher at 6 p.m.

"Tuesday, in face of an approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from battleships Utah, Florida and transport Prairie, and seized customs house. Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifle and artillery after our seizure of customs house. Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their positions. Desultory firing from house tops and streets. Hold customs house and section of city in vicinity of wharves and consulate. Casualties: Four dead and twenty wounded."

When this statement had been issued Secretaries Daniels and Garrison left the White House.

"I hope it is all over," said Mr. Garrison. "I think they fired to save their faces in retreat. I do not expect any more."

AMERICAN FLAG FLIES OVER CITY

Four Men Were Killed and Twenty Wounded at Vera Cruz.

FIRING IS DESULTORY

Mexicans Are Using Rifles and Artillery From the House Tops.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The American flag tonight flies over Vera Cruz. Four Americans were killed and twenty wounded when a detachment of blue-jackets and marines from the American fleet seized the custom house at the Mexican port and skirmished with the Mexican garrison. Desultory firing was in progress late today according to a despatch from Rear-Admiral Fletcher received at 8 p.m. At first the garrison appeared to be withdrawing. American Consul Canada reported this to the state department at 5 o'clock, but when the American forces reached the custom house the Mexicans opened with rifle and artillery fire.

BITTER COMMENT BY GERMAN PAPER

American Colossus May Become Even Greater Menace, It is Stated.

BERLIN, April 21.—The Post this morning closes a bitter anti-American editorial with the following words: "Germany has no reason to desire an American victory. The American colossus would thereby grow still more gigantic and become more dangerous for us economically than it already is." The Post declares that the United States has for decades had an eye on its southern neighbor and has increased its influence by argument, trickery and force, until "political aspirations have joined what were formerly only economic purposes. It repeats the assertion that the United States is back on the downfall of Diaz and Madero," and that "the comedy is about to become a tragedy, involving Mexico's struggle for freedom and independence." The Vorwärts declares that the pretext for American intervention in Mexico is trifling, and adds: "If the United States gains its end, the result will be that Mexico will become more than ever the domain of American trusts—the delectable result of the policy of a despotic president who has always boasted so loudly of his opposition to capitalism."

WILSON ORDERED MARINES TO LAND

taken and contemplated by the United States. A General Warning The British ambassador stated Secretary Bryan had issued a general warning to all foreigners in Mexico to leave the country, and that he, Ambassador Spring Rice, wished British citizens would do so. He indicated that the treatment of British subjects and the consideration for their safety by the United States was all that could be asked.

During the conference between Secretary Bryan and the diplomats, Secretary Daniels was conferring with his aids and chiefs of divisions and bureaus, sending out telegrams ordering officers and ships to duty. It was during this part of the afternoon that reports began circulating thru the navy department of the landing of the marines. To every enquiry Secretary Daniels said he could not discuss the matter then. He did not discuss the matter in the administration, had not received any despatches from Admirals Badger and Fletcher. About 4 o'clock Mr. Daniels said he had ordered Rear Admiral Mayo and all of his divisions of ships and men, with the exception of the cruiser Des Moines, to Vera Cruz to reinforce the ships there under Rear Admiral Fletcher. He said Admiral Badger had been ordered to change his course and proceed direct to Vera Cruz, who later this order was changed and Mayo was directed to remain at Tampico.

Ceased to Worry. Secretary Daniels, after a conference with his aide, Admirals Fiske and Blue, said the name of the Hamburg American steamer carrying arms to Huerta was the Trautman, and the vessel was due at Vera Cruz today. He did not know the hour the ship was due, but indicated plainly the administration had ceased to worry regarding the delivery of the cargo of arms and ammunition. After the arrival of the first message about despatches continued to be received from Admiral Fletcher until midnight.

NO PEACEFUL OCCUPATION TO BE ALLOWED BY MEXICO

Stubborn Resistance Was Put Up Against Americans When They Landed at Vera Cruz, Which Was Captured With Loss of Several Men.

Canadian Press Despatch. VERA CRUZ, April 21.—The Americans have captured Vera Cruz, but at the cost of the lives of several men and a much larger number wounded. The Mexicans, under Gen. Maas, the commandant of Vera Cruz, put up a stubborn resistance. Gen. Maas challenged the advance of the Americans almost from the first, and made it clear that the Mexicans do not propose to permit a peaceful occupation. Less than half an hour after leaving the side of the United States transport Prairie, the marines had landed, and the absence of resistance at the waterfront, and failure on the part of the Mexicans to contest the taking of a position somewhat in from the waterfront, caused the curious spectators in the street to laugh, and when one Mexican peon ran for cover, having had the temerity to shout at the top of his voice, "Viva Mexico," loud guffaws came from the onlookers. But the hull was not indicative of complacency. A few shots came within a few minutes, and later a brief exchange, and the spectators whose curiosity alone brought them into the streets, lingered, thinking it was only a show of resistance. But after another brief interval, fighting in earnest began, and hour after hour the Mexicans continued to oppose the Americans fiercely in some quarters, altho the main body apparently seemed ready to quit.

GENERAL MAAS CALLED UPON TO SURRENDER TO INVADERS

Capt. Rush, in Command of Landing Party, Reluctant to Lose More Men in Charging Mexican Position—General Bombardment May Be Carried Out.

Canadian Press Despatch. VERA CRUZ, April 21.—With all the eastern side of the city occupied and also the tracks of the railway as far west as the northern side, and with the Mexicans unable to do more than keep up an annoying, but ineffective fire from house-tops, Captain Rush, at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon, sent a message to the natives to Gen. Maas, or whoever might be in command, to ask if he was not ready to surrender. It was learned that unless the Mexicans yielded Captain Rush had his choice of continuing the fighting under the fact that he was using or charging all positions, or of calling on the warships for a bombardment. Captain Rush was loath to resort to a bombardment, but he desired to lose any more of his men by charges. He recognized that the tactics of the Mexicans were impossible that those who were being fired upon might be reinforced by others of their kind during the night. The messenger was told to remind Gen. Maas that while there were more men at that time only a few more than 1000 men there would be available for the next day, and that he was to draw his own inference from this message.

LIBERALS RESENT LAW'S CHARGES

Demand That Unionist Leader Substantiate or Withdraw His Accusations.

LONDON, Wednesday, April 22.—The Liberal members, almost to a man, are feeling exceedingly sore over the charges made yesterday against Premier Asquith by Leader of the Opposition Law, and the fault will not rest with them if the whole matter is not discussed "on an early day." Last night notice of a resolution, signed by a large number of Liberal back-benchers, was given, and it is expected that the prime minister will grant the desired facilities. The resolution is to the effect that in the opinion of the house the leader of the opposition should substantiate the charges of falsehood which he has brought against the prime minister. Substantially the same offer was made to the opposition by the prime minister yesterday, but, so far, the Unionist members have refused to commit themselves to the "proffered day." Their position seems to be, not that they are apprehensive of not being able to meet the charges as is suggested, but that they want to know the contents of the promised white paper before deciding what line of action to take.

NEED MEN, GUNS, HORSES TO PLACE NATIONAL GUARD ON WAR FOOTING

Practically Every Unit is Under Strength and None of the Divisions Are Properly Balanced—Would Be Murder, Says Authority, to Send Men Into Field Under Inefficient Officers.

Special to The Toronto World. WASHINGTON, April 21.—Considerable uneasiness prevails over the announcement that the National Guard is not by any means as strongly and efficiently manned as has heretofore been thought. It was made known today that, despite the fact that the latest returns at the war department show a strength of 9130 officers and 111,872 rank and file, it is estimated only half this number would be available after the troops had been subjected to a medical test and married men "white families eliminated. In most cases at least half of the infantry units would have to be filled up with raw recruits, tho at present there is no dearth of applicants for enrollment with the colors. Officers who are in possession of the facts declare that in each New York regiment an average of about 800 recruits would be required, to bring it up to war service. Not a single regiment has its full quota of officers, and there are at least half a dozen battalions who only possess a commissioned establishment of 50 per cent.

ARMED STRIKERS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Militia Now in Possession of Railroad in Ludlow District.

THE DEAD NUMBER FIVE

No Trace Reported of Reinforcement of Strikers From the North.

Canadian Press Despatch. TRINIDAD, Colo., April 21.—Hundreds of armed strikers who yesterday fought for fourteen hours with state troops in the Ludlow district had disappeared this morning, and quiet prevailed in and about the strikers' demolished settlement. The only explanation which the strikers gave for possession of the railroad tracks from the steel bridge to a point near the burned colony, was that they had been driven out by the militia.

RULES GOVERNING THE WAR GAME

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The rules under which Admiral Badger's battleships may attack Vera Cruz or Tampico are laid down strictly by international law, adopted by the civilized nations of the world at the second peace conference held at The Hague, in 1907. The rules follow:

AVIATORS KEEN TO SERVE IN MEXICO

NEW YORK, April 21.—Mortimer Delano, acting commandant of the First Provisional Aviation Corps, has placed the corps at the service of the war office in a letter to Secretary of War Garrison. The corps includes every aviator of note in the country, and includes aeroplanes and hydroplane pilots and students, balloon pilots, gas engine engineers, etc., and is fully equipped.

FACTIONAL WARFARE?

American Says Huerta Ought to Feel Very Highly Flattered.

Canadian Press Despatch. NEW YORK, April 21.—Commenting editorially on President Wilson's message on the Mexican situation, delivered to congress yesterday afternoon, The Herald says: "Now we have the spectacle presented of a nation going to war without a cheer and without note of martial music, because it is war that the United States is going, and to call it by any other name is to diminish its glory. No one can read President Wilson's address to congress without realizing the extreme reluctance of the president to take the course which circumstances have forced upon him. It is perhaps the most unpleasant task President Wilson has ever performed. How careful the president is in making his step of this sort is shown by the fact that he took it to congress for its approval when he need not have taken it there at all, but could have acted entirely within his constitutional powers as president. If any criticism can be made of the president it is that he did not allow the matter to rest in the hands of the cabinet, but insisted on commanding the naval forces at Tampico." Leave North Alone. The Tribune says: "Until it appears that the people of Mexico are behind Huerta in his refusal to make adequate reparations for the Tampico incident we should not assume that our rupture with Huerta requires us to make northern ports on the gulf and the constitutionalists should be left free to occupy Saltillo and other strategic points. The Wilson administration is not to be held accountable for his diplomacy. If the constitutionalists should be left free to occupy Saltillo and other strategic points, the commerce of Mexico would have an outlet for its goods to the north and the United States would have an outlet for its goods to the south. The Wilson administration is not to be held accountable for his diplomacy. If the constitutionalists should be left free to occupy Saltillo and other strategic points, the commerce of Mexico would have an outlet for its goods to the north and the United States would have an outlet for its goods to the south."

WIARTON, April 21.—When starting home from town at 11 o'clock last night Mr. Andrew Greig and William Davidson, who were driving a blind horse, took the wrong turn at the top of the hill and drove back over the rock, falling about 15 feet. Mr. Greig was instantly killed and Mr. Davidson may die.

IRISH HUMORISTS CAPTIVATE CROWD

Brilliant Comedy and Tragedy Depicted on Same Stage by Company.

While the audience was not large the success of the Irish Players at the Princess last night was more unequalled than on Monday. The gain to Toronto in affording by the censoring of "Blanco Posnet," the opportunity of seeing Synge's wonderful "Riders to the Sea," was something to be grateful for. It is a little picture lifted completely out of the tragic life of the fisher people of the west coast of Ireland. "The most perfect piece of poetry I ever saw on the stage," was the remark of a Canadian literary man, as the audience passed out. Following this came the most brilliant piece of comedy Toronto has seen this season, which kept the audience in roars of laughter over the avaricious humor of the old woman the hypocrite since Dick-Em's celebrated architect; the shrewd and sharp-tongued granddaughter, and the two neighbors collecting for the erection of the new parish church. The acting of the company in these pieces is beyond praise for its lifelike and natural character, and the quaint language, racy and graphic, as in no other part of the empire, grips its hearers. What could be more searching than the girl's account of the old miser's death—"Gone without priest or prayer, gone afore her Maker with her two arms clutched about the world!" Gregory's little comedy gem, "The Rising of the Moon." This program will be repeated Friday and Saturday evenings.

Entering by means of a rear window, thieves ransacked the premises of the Canada Stamp and Stencil Co., at 163 Victoria street, Saturday night last. From spoils of blood on the rear window which was forced, it seems that one of the burglars injured his hand in gaining entrance.

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

MANY GIRLS ARE CIGARET SMOKERS

Montreal Woman Gave Startling Evidence Before Committee at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, April 21.—The committee of the house investigating the effects of the cigarette today heard some striking evidence from Mrs. Henderson, probation officer of the juvenile court of Montreal, who stated that she had known mothers, many of them, who not only encouraged smoking cigarettes among their children, but who smoked them themselves. This was not simply among the poorer classes. Mrs. Henderson declared that many girls who came to the juvenile court also smoked cigarettes. The majority of these came for immorality, and nearly all smoked.

Speaking generally of Montreal, Mrs. Henderson stated that she was appalled at the number of women in high social circles who smoked, and not only women, but very young girls in fact, very little girls.

Girls' Smoking Club. "I came into contact with a club on the lake shore of ten girls—daughters of people in high social circles, with incomes sufficient to go away for the summer, all of whom were in age from 11 to 14—smokers of cigarettes," said Mrs. Henderson.

Mr. Dawson, clerk of the juvenile court of Montreal, stated that during his term of office he had made many attempts to help boys and to persuade them to stop smoking cigarettes. He had never succeeded in making a convert. He also favored raising a minimum of the fine for selling to boys. He also favored segregating the sale to tobaccoists of standing.

OYSTER SHELL HAT NEEDS SPECIAL VEIL

Meshes Are Decorated With Snakes, Beetles, Butterflies and Other Zoological Designs.

The oyster shell chapeau and all other representations of the queer tilted brim effects holding sway in the world of fashion have caused considerable consternation among fastidious teens who indulge in the wearing of veils. A new veil, triangular in shape, has disposed of the difficulty, and is successfully draped over the most contaminated hair-brins. Numerous zoological designs decorate the meshes of these novelty veils: a snake, a beetle, a butterfly and in contrast, a dove—appears in delicate tracery, low on the left cheek. Designs in colors to stimulate tattooing also promise wide popularity.

A SONG BOOK FOR THE MILLIONS

When we joined the syndicate of newspapers engaged in the distribution of "Heart Songs" we had no idea of the immense popular demand for a song book. The work seems to have been fairly craved by the people all over this country. Several hundred thousand have already been distributed, and we are informed that the numerous editions will run into the millions before the demand is satisfied. With a million throats singing from "Heart Songs" every night—the nation is certainly experiencing a genuine song revival. And it can hardly help but improve the taste of the masses in matters musical. For this relief from "rag-time" music, thank God, our coupon published daily in this paper, will run in just a few days more, as our supply is nearly exhausted.

The Infections

Chicken-pox is usually a mild disorder. The child becomes cross and feverish, and in about twenty-four hours is covered with a rash. This appears at first in the form of small, red, raised spots, which during the day become filled with a clear watery fluid. The spots do not come out at once, but in crops. They are usually especially abundant on the face and their contents become milky. Then they either burst or dry up, forming small scabs which at about the end of the skin, which slowly disappear. If irritated a spot may leave a scar.

SUES HAMILTON RAILWAY.

The hearing of a suit to recover $14,000 damages from the Hamilton Street Railway Company and the City of Hamilton by Robert and Gladys Weir, and James Thomas Kent and Caroline Kent, was begun in the assize court before Mr. Justice Latchford yesterday afternoon.

MEASLES.

Measles is very infectious, even in its early stages, before the rash appears. Any number of children who happen to be surrounding a child who coughs with the first symptoms of infection, are all very likely to become infected. Even if this child is carefully separated from his companions the minute the rash is seen the others are almost certain to have already contracted the disease.

MEASLES.

Measles comes on gradually like a cold in the head. The child is dull and feverish and is bothered with sneezing, running at the nose and eyes and a hard cough.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING BY HENRIETTA D. GRAVEL DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

Pure Foods. THERE has been more legislation for securing pure foods than for almost any other home necessity, and yet food is still adulterated, with the consent of our laws.

The truth about benzoate of soda is that it has a dangerous effect on the liver, kidneys and digestion. All physicians declare it injurious to health, but it is used because it is an anti-ferment and prevents food from rotting in the can after packing.

Labels really tell nothing at all of the conditions in canning plant, or the material used. It is only a new ruling that makes it necessary for packers to state the amount of food in the cans and this law even permits goods on hand to be sold without the weight being stated on label.

Benzoate of soda is harmful, as Doctor Wiley proved to our satisfaction long ago, but other adulterants are quite as bad or worse. Peas made bright green with copperas for instance, or pickles cooked in brass, to give the same effect, are not fit for food.

Bulk foods are more liable to adulterations than canned articles, for inspection is not so stringent here.

Bread is adulterated with alum, ammonia, magnesia, chalk and clay. Milk is doctored with starch water; sometimes a little turmeric is added to make rich looking "cream" and cheap coffees, teas and cocoas are almost sure to be impure.

The day of low-priced food is gone; it can never return, for increasing population and decreasing farmlands have soured its basis. The only relief for consumers is to study the problem of making the best of changing conditions and for women to insist that the food they pay so dearly for be pure; if they lack strength and aroma they are soaked in coffee extract so they will give color and odor when brewed.

Study labels, then, and refuse to purchase foods that tell you on their wrappers they contain unwholesome poisons.

MEASLES.

Measles is very infectious, even in its early stages, before the rash appears. Any number of children who happen to be surrounding a child who coughs with the first symptoms of infection, are all very likely to become infected. Even if this child is carefully separated from his companions the minute the rash is seen the others are almost certain to have already contracted the disease.

MEASLES.

Measles comes on gradually like a cold in the head. The child is dull and feverish and is bothered with sneezing, running at the nose and eyes and a hard cough.

WILD FLOWERS

CONDUCTED BY RACHEL R. TODD

The Wood-Daffodil.

Bellworth (Uvularia Perfoliate). One have I marked, the happiest guest in all this covert of the best.

Is it not a strange thing that so often our commonest wildflowers are unknown? Now, while it is an undoubted fact that this beautiful wood-daffodil is growing in undisturbed contentment all over Canada, yet few wildflower lovers are able to recognize the leaf and blossom.

Yet, it has (like so many other wildflowers) special characteristics that make its recognition very easy.

Wood-daffodil has a drooping, very pale yellow flower like trout lily, but unlike trout lily, it has more than one blossom, and this blossom is not a lily.

Also the leaves are quite different. You remember trout lily's twin speckled leaves, up from the root-stalk.

Wood-daffodil's leaves are apparently pierced by the flower stems and are long and narrow, tapering to a point, marked with parallel veins.

A second characteristic point is that the drooping, six-petaled blossom seems to be enclosed in a ragged sheath of drooping-pale green leaves.

Just now (because you will not yet find the blossom opening) you may discover the shy thing on hidden slopes where the warm April sun has penetrated. The whole plant is clothed in a faint whitish bloom, very unusual, and if you are fortunate enough to find an early spot, you may see the buds of the wood-daffodil just peeping from the sheltering leaves, only half unfolded.

We have found the wood-daffodil but once in Toronto regions, a short distance to the west of the old Belt Line.

This short description has been given earlier than it might have been, because we would be glad for those who are looking for new friends to be prepared for the search.

The term "perfoliate," as applied to the leaf of any plant, means that the stem seems to pass thru the leaf. In reality, the leaf is more or less heart-shaped at the base and fits closely around the stem as in this instance.

Trepanning "Silly Geese" To Make Good Citizens

By WINIFRED BLACK

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

"Forgive me and forget." She ran away with the Cave Man—and he didn't take her to the cave at all. He took her to a cheap boarding house, and made her pay his board. And when her money was all gone and she couldn't pay his board any longer the Cave Man ran away; no, he didn't run—he walked—and it was whispered that there was some one with him—another person—who wanted to be a Cave Woman, too.

And now the friends of the Cave Man's bride, as they called her in the pretty stories that the newspapers printed at the time of the elopement, are gathering around her, and they have decided that the reason she wanted to be a Cave Woman was because she fell out of a high chair when she was 4 years old and made a dent in her skull.

Many Ideal Patients.

A celebrated surgeon has decided to perform a celebrated operation and lift the piece of skull from the dent in her brain and see what that will do. I know at least a score of people who would be ideal patients for him. And four of them are afflicted with the Cave Man form of paresis.

I know a man who's been a perfectly good man for years. He had a nice little family and a nice little place in the world—and he flitted it very nicely, till one day he read a book about the Abyssmal Brute.

He borrowed it from a little girl just out of a co-educational college, who had borrowed it from the centre-rush in the football team. Somebody had told the Centre-Rush that he was the very spit and image of the hero; that's why he did his best to spell his way through it—but that's another story.

A Philanthropist's Chance.

So she fell in love with him—oh, madly in love. She couldn't eat and she couldn't sleep and she trembled with fear when she saw the Cave Man, and she yearned with rapture when she didn't see him.

She was a queer little creature, with spectacles and a rather muddy skin. And nobody had ever made very desperate love to her, so she and the Cave Man had a perfectly gorgeous time being "Abyssmal."

Until at last people began to talk—people never do "understand" these primal affairs—and the poor Cave Woman turned into a red-eyed, weeping, humiliated little girl, whom nobody wanted, and the Cave Man had to go out and look for a job somewhere else, and his wife's relatives insisted that she take her children and go far, far away from the Abyssmal Brute.

The world we live in just now is full of Abyssmal Brutes and women who think they live in just now to love them.

It's the fashion to be a Cave Woman and to run away with somebody else's Cave Man. Poor things, poor things, they are the same sort of people who went crazy over the blue glass fad when it came in, and who always follow Ram Chuddah and this and that Mahatma.

They danced through Europe with the dancing bigotes—in the middle ages—and they follow as unerringly as a June bug follows the light the flare of any torch that beckons crudely to them from the crowd.

I wonder if trepanning would really do any of them any good. If it would there's a chance for you, Mr. Philanthropist.

Open a trepanning hospital this very day and let's trepan all the sentimental geese—men and women—out of existence, and make them over into decent, sensible citizens.

Dear, dear! What a nice, clean, sensible world we shall have!

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

Dear Annie Laurie: When I was down at the rink the other day skating alone, two boys came up behind me, one saying: "May I introduce you to—?" I did not catch the rest of the sentence, for just then I stumbled and fell; then one of the boys (I did not know either of them in the least) helped me up, and I went in as quickly as I could.

If I had not fallen, and if they had continued to follow and talk to me, what could I have done without creating a scene? SKATER.

LITTLE girl, let me tell you something I used to know once upon a time. I had been to a candy pull, and had done things which were not nice with the candy—smooching people and tugging people's perfectly good hair—and when the colored mammy took me home she made remarks. I tried to excuse my actions by saying over and over again: "But this was a candy pull, don't you see—nothing but a candy pull." The mammy listened to me with pursed lips and eyes that got bigger every minute, then she said: "I ain't never heard dat candy pull is no excuse for nothin'!"

Manners is manners whether you're in church in de pew or at de candy pull a-making taffy. Manners is manners de round 'round world over, an' you done forgot yours de day, and I certainly is 'shamed you de day, and I certainly is 'shamed you de day.

Now little skater, manners is manners—in skating rinks or out of them. When the young man picked you up from your fall you did quite right to thank him cordially and then get away as quickly as you could.

If they should "speak to you and follow you, what shall you do?" Just skate up to some group of friends and pretend you don't see the boys who are following you at all.

When you have done that you will not have any one following you.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.

With the Bark On

It is easier to learn than to unlearn mistakes. . . . Repentance is none the less sincere because it is speedy. Grief is more acute while the loss is fresh. . . . The real expert seems to be a man who can answer a question that no one understands in a way that no one will understand.

To the puritanical pure all things are impure. . . . It is not necessary to tell the truth in order to shame his satanic majesty. Some men can tell lies that shame him. . . . Words conceal the thoughts of a phonograph effectually. And when uttered by the phonograph they often conceal the thought of the original speaker.

WAITING

By Michelson

Of course you are not to think of any web ever spread by a naughty insect, because this is not that kind of a net at all. Nevertheless, it is a very subtle web, exquisitely fine, so fine, in fact, that you can't see it—unless you stand a good ways off and keep your eyes away from HER. She spins it with WONDERFUL skill, using arts that are a secret owned by womankind. She spends immense care in spinning it. She spins a little of it every time she looks at her own eyes in the mirror, every time she studies her own smile, every time she dresses or tests a bit of color against the cream-white of her skin.

And when she is through and just waits for some one to fly into the web—always hoping that it will be the RIGHT one—she never looks as if she ever had heard of a web. What is more surprising is that you can get all tangled up in the web without knowing what is happening to you!

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the New Novel, "Diary of the Green Van," Awarded a Prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as Judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with growing interest.

At Mother-in-Law's.

MARY and I have a certain routine which we practice with deadly regularity. We always dine with Mary's mother and father on Saturday night. This means that I hate Saturday with a malignant hatred, for I'm pretty sure for what a wonderful match Mary could have made if she hadn't lost caste and married me.

What's more, Mrs. Penfield is one of those women who cook by the calendar. She has certain days for certain dishes, and on Saturday I always know exactly what I may expect. I know of nothing more discouraging than to look ahead each week and think: "Hum! Monday's cold meat day; Wednesday, beef stew day, etc." It throws an inevitable damper over your homeward trail. I imagine Mr. Penfield's stomach is worn into certain daily trails by now, and a change of diet might kill him. Only a woman with a lazy mind, of course, will develop such a habit, but you'll find if she does, she'll hide righteously behind the excuse of systematic regularity. She'll tell you her mind is a machine, and the more machine-like she can run her life the happier she is. As a matter of fact, she hasn't sufficient resources or energy to think up new things.

A young fellow in my office once said: "You know, my wife is the smartest little cook I ever heard of. She knows just what proportion of salad and vegetable and meat to have so that they balance tastefully and healthfully; she knows the chemistry of things; she knows just what ought to go with what, and the philosophy of variety. We always have something new. I look forward to my dinners with genuine delight. No restaurants for me!"

"Hang on to her, my lad!" said I fervently. "There's only one woman in a thousand wise enough to realize that cooking is a science and not a burden."

On Saturday night at Mrs. Penfield's I know very well that we shall have lamb chops and stewed tomatoes—we always do. Once on our way there I murmured reminiscently: "Lamb chops and stewed tomatoes!" And Mary thought for the minute I had gone mad. Then we quarrelled.

There came a Saturday when Mrs. Penfield's maid had departed for just cause in a terrible rage. When we arrived my esteemed mother-in-law was limping painfully about and sighing—she always sighs and sighs when she has to do something she doesn't want to do—and the minute we appeared she began to tell us of the tremendous amount of work she'd had to do.

Now I've noticed a singular thing about women of Mrs. Penfield's type. They complain bitterly when a maid doesn't get through her work quite as quickly as they think she should, and they are so full of how ridiculously little there is to do after all. BUT—when one of these women has to do all the work herself, instantly that same modicum of labor swells to most alarming proportions.

"I only have to finish the tomatoes now," she said this time, "and then I'll be ready. No, Mary, I don't want any assistance. Dear knows, you've worked hard enough yourself without a maid."

"I might as well interpret as a slam before, haven't you, Mary?"

"Usually Nora thickens tomato with cracker meal—but—but there 'zain't no before, haven't you, Mary?"

"I have," said I promptly, "and you mix it with water first and stir it in." Mrs. Penfield looked aghast.

"Why," she exclaimed, "I merely sprinkled it in loose. I—I've seen people sprinkle it in gravy!" And she didn't have wit enough to realize that the coolness of grease and flour was quite different from flour and bubbling hot tomato juice. Imagine a woman who has kept house 25 years not knowing how to thicken tomatoes!

It was merely a pose, or has she trusted so much to other hands that she has quite forgotten what she ought to know?

Does a man lose his grip on his business that way? Never.

A Matter of Habit.

"She seems to be a creature of habit."

"Yes, she has gone to the same mountain resort to spend every honeymoon. And two of her weddings were in the winter."

Sold and Sold.

Force of Habit.

"Habit is hard to overcome," remarked the man with the sore throat.

"Yes, sah," answered Col. Bludd, "it is. I suppose, sah, that if a man drank watah from birth to old age, sah, he would find it hard to get along without it, sah."

Hungry.

"Have you ever visited the Arctic region?" asked the man who was seeking information.

"Oh, yes," responded the traveller. "I spent one entire night up there. And I do not believe that I had a dozen square meals the entire time."

Really Important.

"He is. Two-thirds of the citizens have sworn to shoot him."

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How Your Nose Betrays Your Ideals and Habits

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

It is barely possible, as the poet said, that any nose may ravage with impunity the rose. The perfume thus inhaled, however, will add no bouquet to some characters.

DR. HIRSHBERG

The disposition, the temperament, the prejudices, the racial customs, the family habits and the breadth of view of an individual may be read from the shape of her or his nose.

The nose on your face is by no means as inscrutable as the weather vane on a steeple. But a dozen directions of Old Boreas may there be read. The configuration of a nose, however, shows a millennium of characters.

Cyrano de Bergerac need not have fought duels about his nose to show his own belligerent, as well as ardent, nature. The nose speaks for itself.

The bigotry and narrow-mindedness of many an individual is emblazoned forth in the pinch beaked, curled under tip to his proboscis.

Roxelane, who was born a slave in Russia, would never have been loved and made queen by Soliman the Magnificent, Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, about the time Columbus discovered America, had her nose not shown him her sweet self. It was a trifle retroussée.

The Saracens, like some of the Jews of German descent, as well as far eastern ones, have humped up noses. These are often mistaken for hooked noses, because the upward hump makes the nostrils seem to curve under.

The retroussée nose is typical of some Irish people and Russian Jews. The latter, however, are apt not to be so flat. Sweetness, love of religion, feminine beauty, fickleness, wit and intelligence are associated with these daintily turned up types.

This quivering nose with a sharply ridged spine indicate nervousness, chicanery, cunning and skill. Want of mental equipment, broad-mindedness, adaptability or efficiency is shown, at times, by a thick nose with heavy nostrils.

An extraordinary degree of intelligence, liberality of thought, open-mindedness, freedom from personal bias and family opinions is exhibited in the straight, symmetrical, well balanced nose.

A nose of this shape is mathematically and sculpturally what is found upon the Apollo Belvedere.

Beauty of the nose is interlinked intimately with sweetness of temperament, mind and character.

Moreover—add this is of vital importance in training children as well as college students—the bigotry, nervousness, selfishness and other defects of training in the home, as well as at school, have not only a lifelong, but often a racial, power upon the shape of the nose.

It is, indeed, curious and remarkable to find how your habits of thought, even in advanced life, play upon the shape of the nose. One alert reader of characters has often startled his acquaintances by "guessing" from the shape of a passer-by's nose what he was.

Answers to Health Questions

A. N.—What causes coated tongue?

The fur on the tongue appears when the fluids of the stomach are disordered. Lack of acid causes a dry, thick, white coat. Excess of acid causes a pale, thin, moist, gray fur.

MISS L. L., Toronto, Can.—I am perfectly well, but weigh only 110 pounds. I am pale and pimply in the face. Is milk better than buttermilk?

Drink plenty of rich milk between meals, and buttermilk with meals. Eat butter, eggs, steaks, lamb, poultry, fatty meats and plenty of fruits.

You should eat between meals and devour as much fresh bone marrow, apples, oranges and iron-containing vegetables as you can.

Your blood needs iron and arsenic, and these are best had in wholesome foods, fresh air and sunlight.

R. K. W., Bloomington, Ind.—Is it excessive of fat a disease? Is it attended with loss of strength? Can medicines be used to reduce flesh?

Not always. Not real loss of strength. You feel weak, but actually are not. You must exert yourself more and neglect the "sensation of weakness," which lies. No drug can be safely taken to reduce flesh.

Dr. Hirschberg will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He will not undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest letters will be answered personally if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. L. K. Hirschberg, care this office.

Words of Wise Men

A man of integrity will never listen to any plea against conscience.—Horne.

A passion for flowers is, I think, the only one which long sickness leaves untouched with its chilling influence.—Mrs. Hemans.

An inquisitive man is a creature naturally vacant of thought itself, and, therefore, forced to apply to foreign assistance.—Steele.

Men of genius are often dull and inert in society; and the blazing meteor, when it descends to earth, is only a stone.—Longfellow.

There are men of convictions whose very faces will light up an era, and there are believing women in whose eyes you may almost read the whole plan of salvation.—Fields.

The great must submit to the dominion of prudence and virtue, or none will long submit to the dominion of the great. This is a feudal tenure which they cannot alter.—Burke.

Three things too much, and three too little are perilous to man; to speak much, and know little; to spend much, and have little; to presume much, and be worth little.—Cervantes.

Daddy's Good Night Story

By GEORGE HENRY SMITH

"DON'T you think it's about time I went skating again?" asked Brer Rabbit of his good wife, one night when the moon was shining brightly.

"Yes," began Mrs. Rabbit, "if you don't drown yourself like you did the last time."

"You are making fun of me," whined Brer Rabbit. "That's part of the fun when you go skating."

"What do you mean?" asked Mrs. Rabbit. "I don't think getting drowned is much fun."

"I mean, it's fun getting wet," replied Brer Rabbit.

"Well," said Mrs. Rabbit, "if you go skating again you must tie a piece of wood to your back so that you won't get drowned."

"All right," answered Brer Rabbit, as he went over to the woodpile and got a stick of wood. "Tie it on."

Mrs. Rabbit fastened the stick across her husband's back with some twine. "Put it up and down," began Brer Rabbit, "then it won't be in the way."

"No, I will put it cross-ways so you won't fall in any more holes," said Mrs. Rabbit.

"That's a good idea," said Brer Rabbit, as he started out the door, sideways.

Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel were seated on the bank of the lake when they spied Brer Rabbit coming.

"What are you doing carrying wood at this time of night?" asked Mister Squirrel. "You look like a walking woodpile."

"I'm not carrying wood," replied Brer Rabbit. "That's my life preserver and it will keep me from sinking if I fall in the water again."

"Ha! ha! ha!" laughed Mister Squirrel. "That's a good one."

"I guess I won't go skating tonight," said Brer Rabbit as he turned and started home. When he got to his house his wife said:

"Did you have a good time?"

"No," answered Brer Rabbit. "Mister Squirrel made fun of me. He called me a walking woodpile."

"You just get in bed and forget skating for a while," said Mrs. Rabbit, trying not to laugh.

It is for this reason that the Toronto Electric Light Company is getting the cream of the business in Toronto. Because of its steam reserve merchants and manufacturers esteem it the more reliable.

STRIPPED OF ITS FEATHERS. Four editorials last night, and all manner of inconsequent heroics at other times, over the Gooderham bill, do not in the least cancel the overwhelming fact that it is not the principle of the bill, but the immediate application of the principle of the bill to the proposed street railway purchase vote in Toronto that has aroused the enthusiasm of The Toronto Telegram.

RHEUMATISM AND LUMBAGO CAN BE CURED

There is no need to suffer torturing pains and ruin your stomach with drugs when you can be completely cured in from one day to a few weeks. When you feel that grinding pain in your joints you can appreciate the feelings of a man having his bones twisted on the rack. It is merciless, sleep-destroying, agonising. It lets up at times for an hour or two, only to start again more pitilessly than ever.

The McLaughlin Electric Battery stops the pain, frees the blood from Uric Acid and gives strength to the pain-worn muscles and nerves. It is the only belt that doesn't burn or cause no trouble. You feel the gentle glowing heat from it constantly, but no stings, no burning as in old style belts.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN CLOSING PRICES

Decreasing World Reserves Inspire More Friendliness for Wheat Buyers.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Rapidly decreasing world reserves had a good deal to do today with inspiring more friendliness for the buying side of wheat. Accordingly, the market closed firm at 1/4 to 5/8 net advance. Corn won up 1/8 to 1/4 above last night.

Complaints of dry weather along the western edge of the winter crop belt tended further to keep the wheat market from any important setback.

Reached a Limit. It looked as if liquidating sales of corn had for the time being reached an end. The west and southwest reported greatly improved demand from ported grain sections, and some of the feeding shorts here evinced considerable eagerness to cover on all weak spots in the market.

In the oats crowd cash houses were conspicuous buyers, presumably removing hedges on spot oats sold overnight to go east.

Provisions broke sharply as a result of continued unloading on the part of discouraged long holders who contend with a decline in the price of hogs. Packers, however, finally came to the support of the market, and caused a rally, especially in pork.

Receipts of farm produce were all told, two loads sold at $19 and two at $20 per ton.
