MODEL HOUSES TO BE BUILT IN TORONTO SUBURBS

Million-Dollar Company is Being Formed, to Which Tenants Must Subscribe $250 in Instalments, and Net Profits Will Be Returned as Dividends.

Fifteen Houses Will Be Built on an Acre of Ground, and Civic Committee Thinks This Will Solve the Housing Problem.

A one million dollar company to establish model suburban districts with houses which will be rented to the tenants on the co-operative plan is the solution of Toronto's housing problem which will be put in operation at once.

The stock of the company will be allotted in $50 shares, and a tenant will be required to take five shares of this stock, which he may pay for in instalments.

Individual subscriptions of stock are limited to $2000, and it is proposed to apply for a charter when $100,000 of stock is subscribed.

The committee which co-operated with the mayor comprised Prof. E. J. Kyle of the University of Toronto, chairman; G. T. Somers, secretary.

WAS M'GOWAN VICTIM OF PLOT?

Official Stenographer Makes Sensation in Lorimer Enquiry by Alleging "Fake."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(Can. Press.)—Testimony designed to corroborate the account of how Charles McGowan, a Lorimer investigation witness, was alleged to have admitted at Toronto last January 6, that he was paid for testifying falsely before the committee, was presented to-day to the senate Lorimer committee.

H. E. Kerr of Detroit, a "brass expert," and a friend of Detective A. C. Bailey, and J. E. Sheridan, a stenographer, who claims he operated a phonographic apparatus at the Toronto conversation, testified after Bailey concluded his testimony.

Kerr detailed the Toronto conversation in almost the precise words used by Bailey.

J. E. Sheridan, the stenographer, was questioned sharply as to why he recorded only part of the conversation. He denied he was instructed to omit parts of the conversation, but did leave out sections because he regarded them as immaterial. His notes showed what the detective announced they would contain.

NIAGARA ICE BRIDGE BREAKS TWO TORONTO PEOPLE DROWN CLEVELAND MAN ALSO VICTIM

The Victims

Eldridge Stanton was a native of Toronto and a brother of Mrs. Dr. Charles Sheard. He was in his 35th year. He has been in business with his brother, O. H. Stanton, printer and stationer, all his business life.

VICTIMS PRAYED AS THEY SANK TO THEIR DEATH

Frantic Efforts to Rescue Mrs. Stanton Made By Her Husband, Who Attempted to Tie a Rope Around Her, But She Was Frozen to Ice Float and Both Were Swept Away.

T. N. Chambers, an English tourist, who was on the new arch bridge and saw the ice bridge collapse yesterday, returned to Toronto last night, and when seen by The World, said: "As I crossed the bridge on the way to an hotel I was informed by a customs house officer that the ice bridge was broken and that three people were coming down on the ice float."

"It was most pathetic sight to see them kneel down and pray for succor, while all that human effort could accomplish was done from the shore."

"Six people were taken off the ice immediately it broke, and three others might have been taken had it not been for one of their number, a woman, faint and the other had to stay with her and in that way kept off the ice which became loose."

"One man was on a float by himself, and came down a minute or two before a second float came along bearing a man and a woman. Before the first float came under the bridge it went within twenty yards of the American side of the river, while a number of people cried to the man to jump, but as it had taken him an hour to come from the Falls, he was quite numb and paid no attention to the people on the shore. The ice, however, changed its course and brought the man over toward the middle of the bridge. From here a rope was let down to him."

Eldridge Stanton, 19 Nanton Ave., Heroically Seeking to Save Wife, Failed to Make Secure Grip on Rope and Both Were Swept Into Whirlpool Rapids—Burrell Hecock of Cleveland Fell to Death When Being Drawn to Safety.

Huge Mass of Ice Gave Way Without Warning—Score of Persons Scrambled to Safety, While Three Doomed Ones Floated Down Gorge in View of Horrified Crowd.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Special.)—Eldridge Stanton and wife of the Nanton Apartments, 19 Nanton-avenue, Toronto, and Burrell Hecock, employed as clerk by a railroad office in Cleveland, lost their lives to-day about noon, when the great ice bridge, formed 10 days ago, and believed to be unlikely to break up for some time under present cold-weather conditions, broke away without a moment's warning, carrying them to death in the whirlpool rapids.

It was not definitely known until late to-night that Mr. and Mrs. Stanton had perished, although little hope of their safety was entertained from the early afternoon. Descriptions of the appearance of the man, who died heroically in seeking to rescue a woman, the two resigning themselves to their fate after falling to secure themselves to a rope thrown from the cantilever bridge, tallied with the appearance of Mr. Stanton and his wife, and their non-appearance confirmed the worst fears.

With a report like a cannonade the bridge broke loose just before noon. Hecock and his friend, Ignatius Roth, Cleveland, were the only ones of the score on the bridge that did not anticipate danger and rush towards the shore. They had never visited the falls before and thought the noise of the moving bridge was part of the scenery.

There were only seven people in actual danger, the others being on the shore side of the crack that immediately formed. William Hill, who conducted the shack on the bridge, leaped from danger to shore. Before the bridge had moved a hundred feet, he leaped over ten feet of the water.

Michael Emendorfer, Lockport, N.Y., and Phillip Wendling, Portland, Oregon, escaped by leaping ashore on the American side just below the upper bridge. Roth made a desperate leap for shore 700 feet below the upper bridge and escaped after being wet to the skin. He was taken to the Lafayette Hotel and sent home late to-night.

Died a Hero's Death. Hecock lost his life thru his efforts to aid in saving the woman. After Roth reached shore, Hecock and the man and woman became separated, Hecock being on one ice floe and the man and woman on another. They slowly floated down the stream while hundreds looked on helplessly to see them. Before leaping, Weddell hesitated a moment to take hold of a woman but she fainted, her falling nearly precipitating the rest of the party into the river. Just as her rescuer had the woman firmly in his grip the ice gave way from under them and the two were separated. The woman fell backward but recovered somewhat and he made good his leap to safety. With a suddenness that was appalling the current swept the loosened floe on which the party of four remained hoping against hope for relief, into midstream where the sail to death was begun.

by the neighbors while the mother was ill. When the husband returned, she wanted the children at home, but he refused, and the couple had words over this. On Saturday morning, observing the reflection of fire from the windows, neighbors entered the house and found Mrs. Yearly unconscious on a blazing bed. Upon being rescued and cared for, she recovered consciousness and said that her husband had beaten her on the head with a hammer, poured coal oil on her bed and set it on fire. She repeated this story several times in her conscious periods. Her skull was fractured. Mrs. Yearly was about 25 years of age. The family have resided in and about Warren for the past 10 years of age, were taken charge of

HATES DOCTRINES OF JESUITISM

Rev. C. O. Johnston Says the Teaching Sends Priests Out as Cadavers, and They Come Here on Quiet.

"Jesuit Morality" proved a powerful attraction as the topic of the West-Queen-street Methodist Church last night, states and doorways, and rooms behind the pupil were packed, scores standing through the service. Rev. C. O. Johnston remarked, "I shall have comparatively little to say myself; I shall chiefly quote others and read them Roman Catholics." The text was taken from St. Paul's sayings, with emphasis on the words "For the mysteries of iniquity have already worked." "Righteousness is as transparent light, while sin is often man whose transactions are not transparent before."

is true also of the Jesuitesses, for there are Jesuitesses as well as Jesuits. Come in on the Quiet. "The Jesuits have come into Canada on the quiet. The order has a distributing centre. If they are not in Toronto at present it is their purpose to be. "When the Hague tribunal was formed without a representative of the hierarchy being included a reason given in the press was that Europe had become tired of being set by the ears by a little group of Italian clerics. "In Canada, Roman Catholic paper editors, as Catholics, we do not want them." The Jesuits are against the national clergy. We do not want their interference. They sow indifference and scepticism by turning religion to material ends. "Eleven different Popes have anathematized the Jesuits, and they have been expelled by 85 states and countries."

good purpose a promise to marry could be denied. Thank God the Jesuits do not marry. "When Roman Catholics in Canada a few years ago criticized the Jesuits the order offered a $1000 challenge that it could not be shown that they taught that the end justified the means. The critics selected two Presbyterians, Prof. McVicar and Prof. Criminger, and two priests were appointed. When they arrived to about a fifth examiner, the priests declared he must be a Jesuit and the issue was dropped. "Borgia, the third Black Pope, or general of the Jesuit order, in his writings, said: "Like lambs have we crept into power. Like wolves have we used it; but like dogs shall we be driven out." The preacher concluded, "I do not think that it is right that a body of priests, which is always the cause of trouble, should be shoved in this young country of ours."

MILK BETTER THAN ALCOHOL

And Hot Lemonade is Better for Colds Than Hot Whiskey, Says Ald. Austin.

Speeches by Ald. Austin and Rev. R. J. Glover, and the Canadian Jubilee Singers (colored) were the chief attraction at the last meeting this season of the Canadian Temperance Association, held in Massey Hall yesterday. Both speakers made passing reference to Sunday tobogganing. "I want to ask you mothers," said Mr. Glover, "where would you rather your boys be at this meeting or out on the hills tobogganing? Many of our men are sliding down hill without using a toboggan," said Ald. Austin, and he went on to describe the strong drink habit of sliding. Ald. Austin told of having a suggestion made to him by a Presbyterian minister that Toronto was about ripe for a local option campaign, but for cases of emergency such as cream of tartar, he would not make a definite announcement as to when such a campaign would be commenced. He did not favor keeping alcohol in the house for cases of emergency such as cold and grip, and said, "I don't believe hot whiskey is the best thing for the grip—a hot lemonade is better." He did not believe that one prescription in a thousand made up by the medical men in Toronto lately contained alcohol as an ingredient. "There are some things for which it is good," and he included among them snake bites and an antidote for poison such as carbolic acid. He held that the bars were closed tight on Sunday, as witness the number of excuses given to drug store clerks by men who wished to procure liquor on Sunday. It was glad to say that milk was in many cases taking the place of alcohol in medical prescriptions. President J. S. Robertson was chairman, assisted by the vice-president, A. W. Martin, who made a stirring appeal to his audience to sign the pledge at the close of the meeting.

MUST BE ARMED TO KEEP PEACE

Lloyd-George Declares Britain is Prepared to Face Any Emergency.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(Can. Press.)—(Thru Reuters' Ottawa Agency.)—The Right Hon. David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, delivered to-day at the City of London Liberal Club an important speech upon financial and foreign affairs. He strongly defended the government's financial policy. He emphasized the fact that all government securities in Europe had fallen, which was a matter for grave consideration. The reasons for the decline in consols were non-political and needed judicial and impartial examination. To say that British credit had gone was not only unpatriotic but utterly untrue. Speaking clearly and emphatically in regard to the foreign affairs, Mr. Lloyd-George asserted that there was never a time in the history of the country when it was better prepared to face any emergency (Cheers). If they wanted to effect economy in finance the must arrest the growth of armaments, but until international enmities, jealousies and fears were removed the growth of armaments would never be arrested. Mrs. Julia Hill, Mrs. Emily Nerlich, John Victor, Julius Leslie, and Emil Nerlich, all of Toronto, sail Tuesday on the German steamship Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, for Bremen via Plymouth and Cherbourg.

MONDAY MORNING, FEB. 5, 1912

URNS ROUND AND LIES DOWN.

It seems impossible to make The Telegram acquainted with facts which do not harmonize with the particular theory it has adopted for the moment. Beaten in one argument, it tries by omitting some important considerations to establish another equally untenable position. Why the facts are not squarely faced and the logical deductions made from them no one outside the confidence of the editorial oratorium is able to say.

The fact is, let The Telegram say what it pleases, that in order for the home-builder to get a suitable lot, he must find a middleman. He cannot buy an acre, even. A fifty-foot lot is probably the outside of his aspirations. But the farmer will not sell an acre, nor five acres, and certainly not a fifty-foot lot. The middleman will not buy property as a rule for a long delayed sale. He wishes to turn over his money quick. If he can do it every day like the newsboy or the department store, the better he is pleased. For quick sales he needs improvements quite as much as the home-builder. The average mechanic or artisan does not want a lot five miles outside the city limits, even if it were given to him. He needs transportation and water and sewerage and light. But, says The Telegram, if you supply these things the land boomer will buy the land at $200 to $500 an acre and will sell it for $4000 to $8000 an acre. If The Telegram had ever done anything to remedy this awful state of affairs we could have no criticism now to make, but did anyone attempt to step between the farmer and the "land boomer" and get the mechanic and artisan directly on the farm lots with all the advantages of transportation, water, sewerage and light that he needs, there would go up such a howl from The Telegram constituency as might well wake the Ontario Railway Board or the assessment department to activity.

It would be quite possible to put into execution a plan by which the modest home-builder could be supplied with a home on reasonable terms if some of our capitalistic friends recognized the opportunities unfringed wealth affords. A generation ago in Chicago a clerk conceived the idea that honest dealing in real estate could be made profitable. He borrowed some money from his employer, bought a few suburban acres, cut them into lots, laid out the streets, built houses upon them and offered them for sale to approved workmen on monthly payments extending over twelve or fifteen years. If a man took sick or got out of work he did not forfeit his holding. The generous and businesslike owner carried the payment over to the end of the term. He never lost a dollar. He extended the system to a tremendous degree, and it was not many years till S. E. Cross was one of the millionaires of Chicago. Gross Park and other settlements are well-known in the Windy City, and thousands who own their homes to-day rise up and call him blessed. He was merely fair and just and did not play the hog.

Toronto is big enough for something of the same kind, and if there was all the concern for the home-builder and the wage-earner that The Telegram professes to perceive, it would not be long till a plan of this kind was in operation.

But The Telegram is not concerned about the development of suburban property or the supply of homes to the wage-earner. It can see nothing in the clamor, as it calls it, for tubes and viaducts and annexation schemes, but a means of lessening the congestion in the city and therefore, perhaps, lowering the value of Bay-street property. Such a fear is absurd, for the wider the city extends and the more homes are built the more valuable will central property of all kinds become.

We believe the real reason of The Telegram opposition to tubes and viaducts and annexation, is an old-fashioned conservatism begotten of long residence in village conditions without familiarity with the phases of development through which great cities pass in their periods of expansion. Some members of the city council are similarly afflicted. But Toronto is on the way to be a great city, and the forces that have lifted her to the present level will carry her far beyond the restricted periphery in which the faithful Telegram likes to turn around three times and lie down.

PARCELS POST FOR CANADA. The country will be glad to know that the house of commons, by an almost unanimous vote, adopted the resolution presented by Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P. for South York, calling for the extension and expansion of the parcels post in the public interest. The will of parliament thus expressed can be implemented by the government without delay, and a parcel post service established, not equal perhaps to the British model, but efficient enough to afford real competition to the express companies. That this competition will result in cutting into the present exorbitant express rates, cannot be doubted.

The postoffice department is already possessed of the machinery required for a real parcel post system. It has the cars and the contracts with the railway companies. It has the postoffices throughout the country, and postmasters in charge of the same. With the extension of rural mail delivery, it will acquire all the facilities needed for bringing the blessings of the parcel post to the farmer and settler.

It is strange that a considerable part of the postoffice business proper should have been seized by private companies. It is no less strange that for years the postoffice departments in the United States and Canada alike should have connived at this state of affairs by unreasonably limiting the size and weight of the parcel which could be accepted for mailing, and by charging so extortionate a rate as sixteen cents a pound. On the other hand, it must be admitted that the express companies have gotten a great deal of the money order business away from the government by more up-to-date methods in handling the same. It therefore behooves the postoffice department to make the transaction of business more convenient for the public, and there is something most attractive in Mr. Maclean's plan of a parcels post office of the future with telegraph, telephone and express facilities—a centre of intelligent, open day and night through-out the year.

It is to be regretted that the great social and economic questions so vital in the political life of other British countries receive little appreciative attention from some of the newspapers and politicians of Canada. The announcement that a parcel post system is to be efficiently established throughout Canada is one of the most important made in many years and will directly affect the daily lives of our people.

It will be hailed with delight by the people of the west, groaning under the exactions of the express companies. It will no less benefit the country as a whole, for nothing so contributed to national prosperity as the cheapening of transportation.

MEDELSSOHN CHOIR FESTIVAL. It is no disparagement to other and similar organizations to say that music-lovers in Canada and the adjacent states look forward to the festival week of the Mendelssohn Choir concerts as the supreme musical treat of the year. That a local organization should have attained such eminence ought to be a matter for general gratification. It is certain that everyone of musical taste or musical activity in the city has had his share in some degree in helping to form the standards, to contribute the material, to supply the encouragement, all of which go to make up the final success. None other of the arts depends so much upon well-equipped, intelligent, cultured, obedient co-operation, and Dr. Vogt needs no other testimonial than the fact that he has been able to command these factors to an extraordinary degree, while the city furnishes him with the material.

The particular novelties of the present festival will be presented to-morrow evening with the production of Wolf-Ferrari's cantata, "The New Life," founded on Dante's tribute to Beatrice. The new composer is a master of melodic beauty as well as of all the new harmonic devices and orchestral forms. Besides the Dante cantata Hector Berlioz's great "Te Deum" is to be sung to-morrow evening. This, of course, is only a novelty for Toronto, having first been sung in 1855. On Wednesday evening the magnificent Requiem Mass, by Verdi, which made such a profound impression last year, will be repeated. The programs for to-night and Thursday night are of the most charming character, and contain selections from the longer works.

The participation of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra is an additional guarantee of artistic perfection, while the reflection that the Mendelssohn Choir is to appear before the end of the month in Buffalo, New York and Boston lends a special interest to the present performances.

Specials in Player-Pianos. The player-piano is so new an instrument on the market that there is practically no old stock to be offered. But the old firm of Heintzman & Co. Limited, 193-195-197 Yonge-street, have into their hands in exchange when selling their own instruments, and they have prepared to dispose of them at a liberal reduction from the manufacturers' prices, and on easy terms of payment.

New York's Big Market. NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Plans for a great central market for New York with its primary purpose the reducing of the cost of groceries, farm produce and living generally, are being prepared by a committee of citizens organized to investigate the cost of living problem. The new market will be established underneath the Manhattan approach of the Queensboro bridge.

The plan proposes the shipment of produce from the Long Island market gardens to this centre, where housekeepers may select at the farmer's own prices.

WINTER PLEASURES

BY W. H. TAYLOR

Come out of doors, from churches, concert halls, from lodges, clubs, society and balls. The indoor rinks and boxing matches leave, and where the "grays" hold their own; Desert the street parade, where "crows" display their dentists' teeth to costly bathes; From matinees and socials, from the Rotundas, bars and restaurants, we go, And follow leads and lasses who portray The court of Queen Toronto's holiday; That Howard's Park, of course, where you may see Canadian sportsmen sporting their idleness; We stroll thru quiet paths and mount a hill, Topped with a lonely cairn, and feel a thrill Of sadness creeping from the pathless snow. At peace he sleeps, yet grateful millions may A tribute to his shrine for ages pay: May he and his loved spouse receive above Supreme reward for their far-seeing love.

We came for sport, so we will roam afar. Over hills, thru dells, away from Trade's bazaar. The speculator's greed, who sell and buy, Those laughing shouts of triumph seem to say: "This beauty-spot is free! This beauty-spot is free!" Upon the crest of this bold bluff we see The pleasure seekers' winter revelry. Gay thousands blithely glide and glide, And dart like swallows down the snowy slide. Where whizzing skis and sleds their races show. Some whirl and zig-zag, forward, backward, wheel. Like "deafening" skis, their wind-tossed hair, They dissipate the elephantine snow. That dancing is the poetry of motion. A new Norwegian "flying" is the vogue. On which the experts fly like Mercury. And sometimes tumble headlong for the joy Of every surging, sliding, sliding boy. There amateurs on snowshoes imitate The patient, plodding, Indian trappers' gait; Perhaps if we should come, these youths may show That blood runs red on our Canadian snow.

The evening falls, come on, the bludge depart. With cheeks like roses, and each blithesome heart And smiling eye, are certain signs that they Have had a true athletic holiday. The ancient Greeks were models for all time. They developed great mental and athletic sublimity. Athletic grounds were training schools where they developed men to guard Thermopylae. Their tennis and other sports were used to prove that demigods and women kinsed, To own athletic girls and boys can show That Athletes are the gods.

Behold our peerless beauties march along. Our girls walk with the rhythmic cadence of song; With shoulders back, with unaffected grace, Their perfect limbs and forms, their wind-tossed hair, Proclaim our girls the fairest of the fair. They are the heroes of our nation's story And illustrate our chief Canadian glory.

"Neither is there any salvation in any other." I believe, therefore, that I cannot do better than to relate to you the "Old, Old Story," of the love of God manifested in Christ, the Redeemer. My text tells the old story in precious words of life which had well-nigh been lost during the darker ages. I am surprised for many of you may be surprised to learn that the vast majority of people in Christian lands have very slight conception of the principles of the faith that we profess. It is true, but the faith of many Christians, as expressed in their creeds, is very terrible, more God-dishonouring than are the beliefs of any heathen in the world, to the best of my knowledge. I am glad to tell you, however, that the nation's story in Christian lands now believe their own creeds.

Note its terms of a blessing intended of God for every creature. Two thousand years before the angels uttered those words God gave the same message of hope and joy to Abraham. Let those of this audience who are Mohammedans, as well as others, call to mind the promise which I refer. It was the promise with the oath, God, foreknowing that the fulfillment of the promise would be long delayed, made it, so that all who trust in Him might have the consolation of that promise. And what is the promise? God said to Abraham, in these and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.

The divine promise looked down to the Messiah and saw in Him the real seed of Abraham thru whom eventually divine power will be exercised and the divine blessing be shed abroad amongst men. However, according to Scriptures, the Messiah, the Deliverer, is composite—composed of numerous members. Each one of these members must be tested and proven in respect to his loyalty to God and to the principles of righteousness before he can attain to his glorious reward. The divine nature, God has foreordained how many shall constitute this Messiah (Acts iii. 18-21). If, as the evolutionists tell us, the Bible theory that man was created in God's image is wrong, and it is really the offspring of an ape, then restitution would be the worst thing that could possibly come to mankind.

But mark you well—the selection of this special class does not involve the "non-elect" in eternal torment nor in any eternal disaster. On the contrary, the gathering of the "elect" should be regarded as an assurance of God's part of the fulfillment of His larger promise, that thru these saintly ones, the Messianic body, great blessings are to be showered upon the natural seed, yea, and upon all families of the earth.

The blessing of the world will be restitution (Acts iii. 21). If, as the evolutionists tell us, the Bible theory that man was created in God's image is wrong, and it is really the offspring of an ape, then restitution would be the worst thing that could possibly come to mankind.

University Sermon. Prof. A. G. Peabody of Harvard University spoke to a large audience in Convocation Hall yesterday morning. The professor's text was from Corinthians iii, 21, "All Things are Yours." The average man did not grasp the meaning of the verse, said the professor, it means that every man had an equal opportunity of doing good. Let everyone give Christianity a home in their own souls and the meaning will be explained, said he. "Christianity is already close at hand, and unity of purpose will bind all men altogether, as it is in the most obvious or compelling that it is now."

What's the difference? SCRATCH the name from the box—hide the imprint on the wrapper—and your Tuckett's Special Turkish and imported Turkish look like twins.

But there is a difference! Oh, yes, there is the little duty difference of 10 to 20 cents which the purchaser pays because he allows himself to be hypnotized by the glamor of the word "imported."

There is also another significant distinction. Every ounce of tobacco that goes into Tuckett's Turkish Cigarettes is selected from the small and choice leaves raised in the finest tobacco growing districts of Turkey. Every bale we buy must come up to the Tuckett standard before it is O.K.'d by the Tuckett buyers. Over fifty years' experience in buying and blending has taught us what that standard should be.

Tuckett's Cigarettes

In flavor, fragrance, and luxurious appearance, Tuckett's Special Turkish Cigarettes afford you that full sense of keen enjoyment that obliterates all thought of price.
