

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

PROMISES TO MAKE

BIG SENSATION

Madame Ellis, the Woman Who Knows, at the Opera House Tonight

Does she really and truly love you? Ask Madame Ellis, the woman who knows—she can tell you. Are you going to be successful in your new venture? Madame Ellis will tell you quickly all about it. No matter what you want to know, about past, present or future, write your question out on paper and hand it in to Madame Ellis at the Opera House tonight, and you will receive the correct answer to your question.

How does she do it? Figure it out for yourself. She does not answer for the future, she answers for the past. She does do it and without hesitation, and the correct replies to questions come so promptly that she has had the critics and sceptics baffled in all the large cities of the country during her tour.

Madame Ellis has just finished a long tour over the Orpheum circuit, the best and largest vaudeville circuit in the western part of the United States, going away to the coast, playing the best cities and theatres everywhere, and she created such a sensation that in many cities her engagement was extended from one to two and three weeks.

She will be at the Opera House tonight as the big feature of the new vaudeville programme. Two performances, at 7.30 and 9.15. Tomorrow afternoon at 2 and 3.30. Popular prices.

JESS WILLARD AT IMPERIAL TONIGHT

Also Bulletin of Championship Bout at the Evening Show—Big Feature and Serial, With Comedy Extra

The Imperial will today have Anna Q. Nilson and Harry Northrup in a compelling northern story entitled "The Way of the Strong," a picturization of Ridgewell Cullum's well-known novel. There will be the seventh chapter of the serial story, "The Carter Case," and a comedy drama entitled "The Heart Punch," in which Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion defender of the title in today's event at Toledo, will be shown in three fast rounds. Vitaphone farce in addition. At the evening show the full report of the big fight will be read from the stage of a special view installed in the theatre. It will be a notable weekend at the King square house.

WHY DOES MAN MARRY?

(Extract from the Novel.)
"Man instinctively seeks his individual happiness, but as his goal is not the soul of an ox, to acquire complete happiness he must have the consciousness of freedom to think, speak and to act. The conquests of these rights (which we call history) are visible and material. There remains the future of human speculation, that pursuit of happiness which is the inner life of the man himself, in quest of which he has created the symbol of the home and attempted to perfect the convention of marriage."—Says Owen Johnson, author of "Virtuous Wives," the first Anita Stewart production, at the Imperial next Monday.

H. J. O'NEILL DROWNED

Prominent Young St. John Business Man Who Was on Visit To Boston

The sympathy of the whole community will go out to the relatives of Harry J. O'Neill, the news of whose death by drowning reached the city from Boston last night. The accident took place while the Nantasket Beach steamer Myles Standish was on her way from Pemberton to Boston when a man was reported to have gone overboard. The body was recovered later in the evening and was identified as that of Mr. O'Neill.

Harry O'Neill, who was manager of the James Robertson Co., was one of the best known and most highly respected young business men of the city. He had gone to Boston accompanied by his brother Gerald for rest and recuperation and word of his death came as a great shock to his family. He was thirty-eight years of age and unmarried, and was a son of the late John O'Neill, who died recently. He was survived by five brothers and three sisters. The brothers are Arthur P., 164 Lennox street, John F. and Ernest, both of whom are employed with Richard O'Leary, the salaried clerk at St. Vincent's Convent, this city. Mr. O'Neill was prominent member of the Knights of Columbus, and the funeral arrangements will be under the auspices of that order.

No further word was received today at the home of the late Harry J. O'Neill, Elliott Row, with regard to a sudden death from drowning in Boston yesterday. Local representatives of the Knights of Columbus have wired to members of some of the councils in Boston asking for information. It is thought that the body will reach the city on the Boston train tomorrow.

WINNIPEG CASE MUST BE OPENED NEXT FRIDAY

Winnipeg, July 4.—Thirteen men, including several strike leaders held on a charge of conspiring to execute seditious intentions, were remanded in the police court yesterday until next Friday. The remand was of a peremptory nature, the hearing having to be started next Friday unless the crown can show very strong reasons for another remand. Bail for each of the $2,000 was raised to $4,000 each.

R. J. Johns, said to be a radical Socialist, for whom the police have been looking since the arrests started, voluntarily appeared at the police station yesterday and with the others. He is said to have finished some business in Montreal and to have returned to his home from there. He presented himself through his counsel, T. J. Murray, went through the procedure of arrest, and was granted bail.

The men remanded are: B. Russell, William Ivens, W. A. Pritchard, Alderman John Queen, Alderman A. A. Heaps, George Armstrong, B. Bray, R. J. Johns, Sam Blumenthal, Oscar Schoppele, Moses Altmann, M. Charitonoff and Mike Eisenack.

THE MEMORIAL TABLE TO NEW BRUNSWICK UNITS

Reason Why Airmen Have Not Included in List

In connection with the erection of the memorial table to New Brunswick units, through the efforts of the Women's Canadian Club, it has been pointed out that no mention was made of those who went from here to join the air force.

Asked regarding the matter, Mrs. G. A. Kubring said that she regretted very much that no way had been found to include the gallant airmen, but heads of the memorial table, the committee in charge of the memorial that there was no Canadian air force, and New Brunswick could not properly claim a unit or draft sent thereto. All who joined went as individuals.

The list table included every draft that had been sent from here. There had also been criticism. Mrs. Kubring said that the 64th Battalion not being included, but she had been informed at headquarters that New Brunswick could not claim this as a unit from this province inasmuch as its men for the most part were turned over to the 104th when it was made a Nova Scotia battalion, though some New Brunswickers remained with it.

Mrs. Kubring had called a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club for discussion of the memorial, and only some fifty members attended. She called another meeting for the same purpose at which some 200 were present. No objection was then taken to the matter in question—in all some 2,000 portraits were sent to the members, and besides the list of the units and drafts whose names were to be inscribed on the table were fully advertised in the local press. It was not due in any way to lack of recognition of the brave lads who served with the air force that they were not mentioned, she said, and it were possible even now she would be glad to receive suggestions as to how they might be included.

WAS MOTORMAN IN HALIFAX; IS NOW LIEUTENANT COLONEL

Halifax, July 4.—Seven days out from Liverpool the White Star liner Baltic arrived in port a little after midnight with eighty officers, fourteen nursing sisters and 2,433 other ranks. The only unit aboard is the 23rd Reserve Battalion of Montreal. The senior officer aboard was Brigadier-General Hillman, C. M. G., D. S. O. At one time he commanded the 25th N. S. Battalion. Lieut.-Colonel John Wise, D. S. O., M. C., who also returned, gave up his job as a motorman in Halifax at the outbreak of the war, and since being set free from Germany he has been promoted to the command of the 25th. He was tendered a public reception tomorrow.

Among the civilian passengers was J. J. W. MacPherson, British vice-consul at New York.

DOCTORS AND PROHIBITION (Maritime Baptist)

We have called attention more than once to the strange attitude taken by certain members of the medical profession toward the enforcement of the prohibitory law in the framing of such legislation every one perceived the necessity of permitting the use of intoxicants as a stimulant in the practice of medicine. While the use of alcohol in medicine has greatly decreased in recent years, as increased knowledge has made it plain that many better stimulants are available, yet the old tradition of the value of liquor as a medicine is so firmly established that to forbid its use by a doctor would wreck any prohibition bill.

Even such restrictions as are usually embodied in prohibitory legislation are often resisted by medical men as a reflection upon the honor and good faith of the profession.

That such restrictions are wise and necessary has been made evident enough by experience in every province or district where prohibition has been in force. Even more stringent restrictions must be adopted unless the present evil is abated. The medical fraternity are quick to recognize anything which reflects upon their professional honor, but thus far they have been strangely indifferent to the reproach which is being brought upon the whole profession by the misconduct of a few. For we are glad to believe that the great majority of the doctors have honorably observed both the spirit and the letter of the prohibitory law. It is the more incumbent upon these, therefore, to protect the good name of the profession from being smirched by the actions of a few.

FREAK POSTAGE STAMPS.

Every war adds many curious postage stamps to the collector's album. Many Philatelic Novelties Produced During Great War.

A number were produced by the South African War, some of the crudest consisting of "provisionals" issued by the Boers during their occupation of Pretoria. As the invaders did not seize any stamps that they could over-print, and as they had no appliances for engraving, they fell back on type-set labels of the weirdest kind.

In the Greco-Turkish War the Turks issued similar freaks. The oddest was an eight-sided stamp avowedly for the use of the Turkish army of occupation in Thessaly; but actually it was not ready until the Turks were boarding their transports to evacuate that country.

COMING HOME SOON.

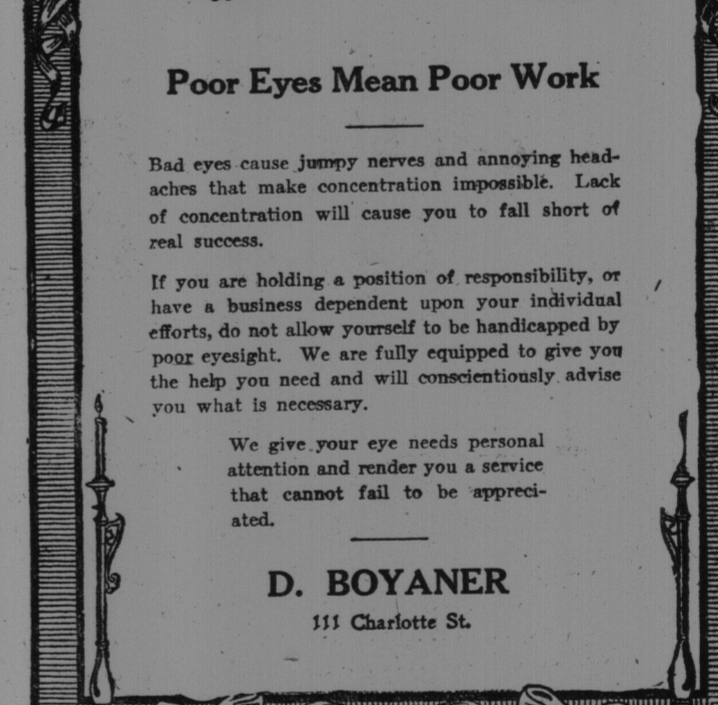

Lieut. Donald McDonald, a St. John boy who served in France with the Royal Air Force, was shot down in the enemy lines about a year ago and released from captivity after the armistice had been signed, is expected to arrive home soon, according to a letter received recently by his brother, William McDonald, of the local post office staff. Lieut. McDonald has been in England since being set free from Germany and expected to be repatriated by the imperial government some time this month.

Campbellton Officer.

Halifax, July 4.—Among officers who arrived by the Mauretania last night was Lieutenant Wallace of Campbellton.

Street Cars Again

Toronto, July 4.—Toronto enjoyed the regular schedule of street car service today. The men are at work at 5.30 cents an hour for more than one year's standing, with slightly less for the "learners." The old rate was 30 cents for copy readers.

A STRIKING COINCIDENCE.

(Montreal Star.)
It is a strange coincidence that peace was signed at Versailles exactly five years to the day—it might almost be said to the hour—after the Sarajevo tragedy. On June 28, 1914, Gavrilo Princip, a fanatical schoolboy, whose mind had been unhinged by reading revolutionary propaganda, killed the heir to the Hapsburg crown and his wife. On the plea of avenging this crime, Austria declared war against Serbia. With this came the murder of an ex-empire Germany's emperor for war of conquest for which she had been preparing for nearly half a century.
The Sarajevo tragedy remains a mystery. There are grounds for believing that Princip was nothing but a tool in the hands of Austrian traitors who were angered by Francis Ferdinand's attitude towards reform and were also eager to bring about the ruin of Serbia. Not a line of evidence was ever made public to prove that official Serbia had knowledge of the crime and official documents disclosed by Italy, at that time the ally of Austria, go to show that an attack on Serbia had been planned several months before the assassin's bullet was fired. Princip was sentenced to a term in prison and died after serving little more than two years of his sentence.

For Austria the penalty has been the demolition of the Dual Monarchy and the last of the House of Hapsburg; for Germany humiliation, national dishonor and inestimable economic loss.

DOCTORS' PRESCRIPTIONS FOR LIQUOR IN ONTARIO

Toronto, Ont., July 3.—"It is an open fact that the facility with which liquor is obtained in the province," said J. D. Flavell, chairman of the license commission yesterday afternoon, to Toronto physicians whom he warned to issue few prescriptions.
"What would you regard as a maximum," one doctor asked.
"Ninety per cent of the physicians who issue prescriptions do not issue more than ten a month," replied Mr. Flavell.
"The president of the medical council has suggested that fifty a month should be the limit. This board cannot set any limit, but we propose to take action against any physician who issue in excess of 200 a month, and perhaps we may reduce that figure."
Personally Mr. Flavell expressed the opinion that no doctor should give more than 100 prescriptions a month. He explained the liquor should be prescribed in case of illness only.

In Ontario.
In a review of the past year's work of the Council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario in convention in this city, the abuse of the Ontario Temperance Act by members of the profession was greatly deplored, but improvement in the future is hoped for. For the year ending April 8, 1917, there were seventy-three prosecutions against forty-six doctors, resulting in fifty-eight convictions against forty doctors, the fines ranging from $10 to $1,200. Six convictions were registered against one man, four against three, three against another, and two convictions each against two others.
Recently the Ontario Board of License Commissioners obtained evidence of several doctors in the province, having issued more than 1,000 prescriptions for liquor per month, one going as high as 1,500.

END OF WINNIPEG STRIKE

New York World—And what has it demonstrated? That labor as a body is much poorer for the long and costly contest, that it gained neither moral nor material benefits by forcing a conflict that could not justify. It gained no concessions of any kind. The leaders, who had professed to be serving its interests, in the end called off the strike, unconditionally. When the balance was struck, tens of thousands of men of every occupation had lost their wages, without lawyer.

any advantage to themselves or their families. They had been the dupes of agitators.
She—And hasn't the awful life of destruction and war spoiled you for peaceful, harmless existence?
He—Well, you see, I happen to be a cupation had lost their wages, without lawyer.

THE HALF HOLIDAY FOR LETTER CARRIERS

That the letter carriers of the city should be denied the relaxation afforded by the Saturday half holiday in order that he should not suffer the inconvenience of having to do without his Montreal paper, was the attitude taken by a citizens' committee yesterday in complaining to Postmaster Sears of the recent decision of the post office department to allow the half day to the letter carriers.

Mr. Sears told a Times reporter that the new order of things was decided upon after due consideration of the rights of the postal employes and he was quite confident that the great majority of the public were in hearty accord of the idea. The postman's life was not altogether a bed of roses, and rain or shine he was on the job, the monotonous round from house to house, from morning until night, and it was only natural that he should be allowed to enjoy the half holiday the same as the big percentage of the citizens. The only remedy there was for those who must have their Montreal papers on Saturday afternoon was to engage a post office box which they could clear to their heart's content.

NEW SITE FOR EXHIBITIONS?

Some Talk of Glen Falls, With Present Ground Made Available for Industries

The mayor, accompanied by Commissioners Thornton, Fisher and Jones and the city engineer, paid a visit to the exhibition buildings to look over the matter of the taking up of the lease of the machinery hall to T. McAvity & Sons Ltd. One of the conditions of the lease was that the building should be left in the same or as good condition as when taken over and the question to be decided was whether a number of improvements which the McAvity firm had placed in and on the building should be left in. These included new lavatories, offices and rest rooms and it seemed to be the general opinion this morning that the additions were of advantage to the building and would remain.

Commissioner Thornton said that the buildings were in need of a great deal of repair and considerable money would be required to put them in proper shape. There has been some talk of the advisability of demolishing the entire exhibition buildings and erecting more substantial structures, possibly in some other part of the city. It has been pointed out that the present location is one of the most suitable for industrial purposes and if another location could be secured for the exhibition buildings that part of the city could be developed industrially to a great extent.

So far there has been no suggestion made as to the possible new location but it is believed that Glen Falls is being and will find favor. The fact of their proximity to Moosepath is one of the arguments.

ENGINEERS DISCUSS PROPOSED LEGISLATION

St. John Branch Meeting—Resolution Regarding Research Institute

The St. John Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada met last evening, with A. Gray in the chair, to discuss the draft of an "Act Respecting the Engineering Profession," so that all the members would have opportunity fully to understand this subject, before registering their opinion in regard to it.

This draft of act was drawn up in Montreal last April by a committee of delegates from the sixteen branches of the institute in Canada, and is now being submitted to the membership at large for their approval, the ballot closing on the 15th inst.

The text of legislation has been given a great deal of attention by the engineering profession during the last year, as it is felt that both the engineer and the public should be better protected than at present.

The proposed plan is to form an association of all technical engineers in each province, each association, through its council to appoint a board of examiners to look after registrations, and all other work necessary for the operation of the act.

Should the act become law, each engineer in the province will have to apply for registration and prove to the examining board, either by credentials or by examination, or by both, that he is qualified by special education and by practice in one or more branches of engineering to be registered as a "professional engineer." Penalties are provided for those men who are not qualified or who do not register, yet practise as professional engineers.

The committee appointed to confer with the Civil Service Commission have notified the branch that the Civil Service Act will not be passed this session, as there has been considerable protest from various employes in regard to their classification, which would work unjustly in their cases, and the government, realizing that the preparation of the act has been rushed, has decided to hold it over to the fall session and so give every person who may be discriminated against under the present proposed schedule a chance to state their cases.

The following resolution was passed: Whereas the people of Canada are confronted with the problem of carrying the very heavy national debt incurred by their participation in the great war for humanity, and Whereas, this burden can be borne only through the greatest thrift and industry on the part of the nation, through the conservation and development of our human and natural resources, so that we may be able to share in the world's markets against the strong competition that we shall have to meet, be it therefore Resolved that the St. John Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada do hereby declare their heartfelt support of the establishment of a National Research Institute, which shall carry on and direct research into such industrial, agricultural, commercial and medical problems as will best promote such conservation and development of Canada's resources, and that the Council of the Institute be sent to the Council of the Institute to be forwarded to the government.

Sixteenth Brigade Canadian Artillery To Start For Home Soon

Been With General Ironsides for Last Six Months; Captain Mowatt of Campbellton Only Officer to Lose Life; Military Cross Pinned on Breast as Death Was Near; Guns Inferior to Bolsheviks'

London, July 3.—(By C. A. P.)—Canada's very latest fighting soldiers have just arrived at Ripon, bearing triumphantly the shell case of the very last shot fired by Canadian troops. This interesting batch of fighters consists of the 16th Brigade Canadian Artillery which for the last six months has been assisting General Ironsides in the fighting against the Bolsheviks in northern Russia. The brigade will sail homeward at the end of the month.

W. E. Turley, secretary of the Great War Veterans, who will be a storm center at the Vancouver convention, some delegates being opposed to him.

Roughly speaking, it was divided in four sections. This Canadian artillery has been assisting General Ironsides and this mixed command of British, American and French in operations over an area of some 200 miles. The whole brigade at Ripon today looked very fit and was extremely good-humored and contented in spirit this week. It has a creditable record as any force. It was mobilized from the Canadian artillery reserve at Wilton in October. Practically all the members are returned casualties from France, about ten per cent being members of the original Canadian division. It was a purely voluntary force, but most carefully picked. The officers include Colonel C. H. L. Sherman, commandant, Ottawa; Captains J. A. Bruce, Franko, A. A. Gillis, New Brunswick; J. D. Winslow, New Brunswick.

The brigade arrived at Archaon on Oct. 1, and within three days they were engaged. Officers and men attempted to give some connected account of their experience here of the country and of the enemy, but admitted the whole business was about as mixed as Russian affairs generally are. Fighting, some maintain, was somewhat of a guerrilla fashion. Bolsheviks, they say, had guns of superior range to our own. The British authorities were solely responsible for arming the whole force, the Canadian supplying only personnel for their artillery. They were a notable attack by 500 Bolsheviks against fifty odd Canadian artillerymen who were holding a village. Fighting continued for nine hours and the Canadians were obliged to abandon their post but eventually took the place back.

In January there started a fierce desultory battle which continued some two months, the enemy numbering about 6,000, General Ironsides' force being around 1,500, including the 68th battery, Canada. General Ironsides was compelled to retreat sixty miles, bringing with him all his wounded but leaving everything else.

Other members of the Canadian brigade speak with Russian army. The Germans serving with the Bolsheviks, they say, were never short of ammunition. They thought nothing of using thousands of shells a day. This ammunition, our men say, had doubtless been supplied with Allied money in the earlier days of the war.

The Canadians, as already stated, think the whole business a puzzling mix-up. They say the other Allied forces are still pursuing much the same style of fighting in the same districts and as far as their judgment goes this fighting may continue indefinitely without tangible result. The Canadians maintain that while the life was strenuous, there was no undue hardship, supplies being satisfactory. They insist, though that the 18-pounders which formed the major portion of our artillery, was a poor weapon against such guns as the Bolsheviks possessed.

Colonel C. H. L. Sherman, mentioned in this despatch, commanded the 7th Canadian Field Artillery Brigade in France and in the summer of 1917 was sent to England as chief gunnery instructor at the Canadian school of gunnery at Shorncliffe and later at Wilton. It was at the latter place that he organized the artillery detachment for the northern Russian campaign. Captain Mowatt was originally with the 24th Field Battery at Fredericton and sailed with that unit from Halifax in February, 1918. He had a splendid military record before volunteering for the Russian expedition.

HALIFAX MAN HEAD OF G.W.V.A.

W. P. Purney Enthusiastically Re-elected President

Three Others Nominated But Withdraw—Mr. Patchell of St. John One of the Nominees for Office of Vice President

Vancouver, B. C., July 4.—At the end of an afternoon session of their convention yesterday, the Great War Veterans Association elected Comrade W. P. Purney, of Halifax, president of the G. W. V. A. of Canada. This begins his third term of office. The election of other officers of the association will take place today.

Three other names were put before the convention for president.—S. Stafford of Toronto, J. E. Edkins of Montreal and R. P. Maxwell of Winnipeg. All three asked permission to withdraw their names, saying that they had no desire to contest the election of Comrade Purney. The latter was then declared elected and the convention rose and cheered him most enthusiastically. He responded briefly.

Other nominations are: Vice-Presidents—Comrades Stafford of Toronto, Rakins of Brantford, Patchell of St. John, N. B., and Forbes of Montreal. Second Vice-Presidents—Walsh of Calgary, Tat of Halifax, Patchell of St. John, and Forbes of Montreal.

For the dominion executive the following provinces have agreed on the representatives named, will, therefore, take office automatically: Nova Scotia, Tat; British Columbia, Doherty; Alberta, Dyer; Manitoba, Andrews, M. P.; Saskatchewan, Bamford; Ontario, Ponton. The remaining provinces will submit their names today.

NEED FOR ACTION TO CARE FOR THE FEEBLE-MINDED

Question Which Has Been Exercising Minds of Social Workers

SOME CASES IN ST. JOHN

These Give Indication of the Conditions Existing and of the Necessity for Grappling With the Problem

The question of how best to care for the feeble-minded part of the population of St. John is one that of late has been exercising the minds of social workers to some extent. The average citizen of St. John has no idea of the extent of this problem. Social workers are continually being brought face to face with it and clergymen of all denominations during their visitation work know something of it. Still it is true that nothing has been done to gather facts bearing on the subject in concrete shape. The evil is one that must be grappled with by the authorities. The need for action is unquestionable, and whether the solution be a provincial institution, an institution of some kind would seem to be an imperative need.

From time to time the Children's Aid Society has been appealed to in the matter and it has always endeavored to alleviate conditions when possible. Its powers, however, have been necessarily limited in her efforts. The matter is forced to remain inactive as no solution of the problem in hand seemed attainable. Recently, however, the agent of the society, has gathered some facts about local cases as well as some in other countries.

Case A.—(St. John) Girl fourteen years old, living with father and stepmother. She was sent to school, but it did her little good. Her people try to care for her, but in spite of all their efforts she frequently escapes their vigilance and stays out very late at night. Case B.—(St. John) Girl fourteen years old, living with father and stepmother. She was sent to school, but it did her little good. Her people try to care for her, but in spite of all their efforts she frequently escapes their vigilance and stays out very late at night.

Case C.—(St. John) Girl fourteen years old, living with father and stepmother. She was sent to school, but it did her little good. Her people try to care for her, but in spite of all their efforts she frequently escapes their vigilance and stays out very late at night.

ABNORMAL STATE OF SHOE MARKET

Footwear Prices in Boston so High That Both Manufacturers and Buyers Are Reluctant to Enter Into Contracts

Boston, Mass.—Conditions in the wholesale departments of the Boston shoe market are more active in the abstract, than in reality. The fact is, prices have attained such lofty heights that manufacturers are as timorous in accepting orders as buyers are in offering them. This state of things also exists in the leather district, therefore taken as a unit these two markets are in a very unsettled state.

It is fallacious to talk about the bottom dropping out of any of the leading markets. Today footwear is costing a lot of money, and must continue to do so, just so long as there are two buyers, or more, for every hog or pound of leather. And foreign agents stand ready to bid on any lot of stock in sight, sold, but not delivered.

It is common knowledge that the price of any commodity rests upon facts and conditions found in the parent or raw stock markets. Considering hides and skins, the foundation upon which the cost of leather and shoes should be figured, an approximate average advance of either does not show, nor never has shown, a replacement value, however exorbitant prices may appear to the buyers. Those who should be well informed state that from the so-called normal times up to the present, hides have advanced 80 per cent and skins 800 to 400 per cent, and notwithstanding this, the demand is so great, and so far surpasses the supply that tanners and curriers have sold their output up to the latter part of next July.

Now, as drastic as the conditions are to the manufacturers of shoes, they can with reasonable certainty contract for supply, but none can tell what new expenses may spring up among factory folk, and what a seeming profit on contracts booked or going through the works.

That reactions are inevitable no one doubts, but it is a conservative assertion that with labor prices here to stay, varied only by an occasional increased wage or real price limit, the market is a world-wide demand for leather, and things made from it, and high cost of everything required by the shoe industry, will place values upon footwear may not disclose recessions appreciable to consumers, for many months to come.

SENATORS TALK SOLDIER SETTLEMENT AND THE CUSTOMS TARIFF

Ottawa, July 4.—The government's bill to assist soldiers settling upon lands was put through the committee stage and given third reading by the senate yesterday afternoon. There was some comment upon a provision protecting the property of the soldier in connection with his farm, from seizure for debt. Some senators thought this provision would seriously interfere with the success of the soldier. It was said that it would deprive him of the advantage of obtaining credit.

Senator Watson said the soldiers are being treated as the wards of the government and he did not believe it would be to their advantage. Sir James Loughheed said the matter had been carefully considered by those in charge of the preparation of the plan to aid the returned soldiers establish themselves on the land.

On second reading of a bill amending the customs tariff, Senator Bostock held that, as the seven and a half per cent customs rate had been retained, except in specified cases, there had been no substantial reduction in the tariff.

Senator Loughheed said that the domestic duties on the rest of the world, struggling with after-war conditions, there was need for revenue. However, the tariff had been cut in places where it had been determined that reductions would work for increased production.

FINE OF $1,000

Montreal, July 4.—A fine of $1,000 imposed on Emil Cadotte, 28 years old of St. Titus, Quebec, who before Judge LeFebvre pleaded guilty to being a defaulter under the M. S. A., and with having pointed a revolver at Inspector J. T. Hall of the Dominion police, who arrested him. It is expected that his fine will be paid in a short time.

MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

The highest cost of living commission has finished its enquiry at Ottawa for the present session.

The ex-Kaiser is to be tried before an English court and will be before the Tower of London, according to the Daily Mail. It says the death penalty will not be sought.

The general strike in Vancouver, B. C., ended last night. The police court in London, Eng., yesterday upheld the ruling that Manitoba has the right to grant divorce. Alberta and Saskatchewan also have the right.

WOODROW WILSON

WOMAN STARTS EXCITEMENT IN THE BRITISH COMMONS

London, July 4.—While Lloyd George was speaking in the commons yesterday and crying that her son was being sent to Russia. Another woman took up the cry, and while she was being dragged out two men under the emergency call. It is clear, therefore, that the failure of Congress to act upon the suggestion contained in my message of the twentieth of May, 1918, asking for a repeal of the act of Nov. 21, 1918, so far as it applies to wines and beers, makes it impossible to act in this matter at this time. When demobilization is terminated, my power to act without congressional action will be exercised.

LIEUT. COL. P. A. GUTHRIE'S PLANS

Reference has been made yesterday to Lieut.-Col. Percy A. Guthrie's intention to remove from Fredericton to the United States. The Boston Globe of Tuesday says:—Lieut. Col. Percy A. Guthrie, the first Canadian to enlist following the declaration of war, and who organized and commanded the New England-Canadian regiment, the MacLean Kilites, likes Boston so well that he has taken out first citizenship papers. He intends to form a legal partnership with James D. Colt of Colt & Newell.

Col. Guthrie started his career as a brilliant criminal lawyer in Fredericton, N. B. Just previous to the war he won several criminal cases which attracted widespread attention. When the war broke he placed across the door of his office a sign which is said: 'Gone for the duration of the war' and enlisted by telegram.

He went abroad as a lieutenant colonel, and at Ypres passed through a gas attack from which in one-battalion eighty-three men and four officers came out alive of an original complement of 1067 men. He received twenty-seven wounds and was blinded. Later he recovered his sight and became active in recruiting.

He became familiar to New England men when he organized here the 288th Overseas Battalion, or the McLean Kilites. In March, 1918, this battalion reached France, where its members were distinguished among other battalions.

Col. Guthrie was transferred to the Black Watch and remained with it until the end of the war. He has applied to the Massachusetts State Bar for permission to practice. By securing the indorsement both of the chief justice of his own province and Massachusetts lawyers, he can receive permission to practice law here pending extradition.

CHIEF OF STAFF TO VISIT TO CANADA

Ottawa, July 3.—His Excellency the Governor-General has received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies a communication to the effect that Rear-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, K. C. M. G., has been appointed chief of staff to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales in place of the Marquis of Salisbury, for His Royal Highness' visit to Canada.

John McDougall of East Glasgville died suddenly at his home on Wednesday. He was a native of Scotland and came to Canada when a young boy. One son, Archibald, was killed in action in 1916. Three other children, William, Lillian and Harold, survive.

Trinity, St. Paul's and St. Luke's Boy Scouts are enjoying the time of their lives at their camp at Long Island, where the report brought to the city last night and about Albert, Mrs. E. McDougall, Kings, Mrs. W. S. McMillan; St. John, Mrs. James Armstrong.

FOUND GUILTY OF BIGAMY

Larivee Tried in Montreal After Wives One and Two Happened to Meet

Montreal, July 4.—Too much marrying is responsible for the downfall of P. H. Larivee, who was found guilty of bigamy yesterday by Judge Choquette. Sentence will be pronounced on the 8th.

The charge was laid by the first wife, Laura Leduc. Larivee, who is a teacher of those who wish to be cutters of ladies garments, and has been holding classes in all parts of the province, married the first wife at Castlemaine, Ont., in 1898. Several years after he and his wife came to Montreal to live. In 1905 he married Laura Bedard, of a respectable family in the city of Quebec.

Larivee lived in Quebec and around the province, and the first wife in the meantime supported herself by keeping a millinery store in Montreal. Larivee last March came to Montreal with his Quebec wife and the eight-year-old girl, issue of the second union. The first wife, learning of the marriage only then, paid a visit to wife No. 2 and they compared notes, the whole story was disclosed and was followed by the issue of a warrant on the part of wife No. 1.

PRESBYTERIAN OFFICERS

Fredericton, July 3.—At the afternoon session of the Presbytery today a business committee was appointed to grant a bursary to any recommended young lady wishing to enter a training home in Toronto. NEW COMPANIES

Fredericton, July 3.—Lambert C. Steves and Clarence N. Dawson, of Hillsboro, and F. Noble Steves, of Moncton, have been incorporated as the Colonial Amusement Company Limited with total capital stock of $28,000 to conduct and operate theatres in the city.

ESTIMATES NEAR HALF BILLION

Further News of the Pensions—Court of Commerce Bill Passes Commons

Ottawa, July 3.—With members expecting the end of this session of parliament on Saturday the government brought down today supplementary estimates totalling $86,752,129.67, which raises the total estimates for the year to $474,602,129.31 with the prospect that for the country in the year 1919-20 may rise as high as half a billion dollars.

This addition to expenditure results from new legislation in most part passed during the present session. The raising of the permanent force in Canada means an addition of $3,490,000. In the domestic railway construction purchases and subsidies account for $1,400,797.16.

The marine department is asking for $10,000,000 more to build ships according to the government programme, and the public works department is going to expend $4,644,229.28 more on various public enterprises, most of them necessary as far as the estimates show.

Included in the estimates are provisions for half a million dollars to be devoted to the upkeep of graves in France and another half million for the erection of battlefield memorials.

For the beginning of an air service $20,000 has been put in the estimates. The supplementary contain an amount of $81,500 for the civic service regarding classification. The annual drill takes $800,000 and $25,000 is set aside for cadet services to provide for fisheries protection.

Government and opposition members last night united in carrying the motion for the creation of a court of commerce for Canada.

Overline is a feature in post office work as $150,000 is to be set aside for this purpose. Reminiscence of the report of the committee which found the printing department wastefully managed, an item for $17,000 which, it is stated, the civil service commission will need to reorganize the department of public printing and stationery.

Mr. Cahill asked if it had not been shown before the cost of living committee that some packers had made as high as forty-eight per cent. That seemed to be strange in view of the fact that the packers were not allowed to retain more than eleven per cent.

Sir Thomas White said he could promise that the order-in-council would be strictly carried out. Investigations would show whether the packers had made profits in excess of eleven per cent. He thought that in most cases they had not.

A vote of $60,000 to the Canadian Press Limited prompted Mr. Lemieux to ask the government for a declaration of policy with regard to a resolution moved by him earlier in the session providing that newspaper proprietors and editors should be compelled to publish their names in the publications which they brought out. He was not objecting, he said, to the grant to the Canadian Press, but he wanted to know whether the government was prepared to adopt the principle embodied in his resolution.

Hon. N. W. Rowell replied that when the matter was brought up earlier in the session he had informed the house that the provinces had power to introduce legislation of the kind desired by Mr. Lemieux. The federal government had decided to take no action on this line at the present session.

GLoucester LIBERALS' CONVENTION AT CARAQUET

Bathurst, July 3.—The convention of Gloucester county Liberals which was held at Caraquet yesterday was one of the most harmonious and enthusiastic ever held in the county. Delegates from every parish in the constituency were on hand for the important business of selecting delegates for the national Liberal convention which is to be held in Ottawa in August.

O. Turgeon, M. P., was selected as chairman of the meeting and P. P. Morais filled the office of secretary. Speeches marked by the old spirit of sturdy Liberalism were delivered and were greeted with hearty applause which indicated the unanimity of the gathering and the confidence which marked those present in the future of the party.

The delegates chosen to attend the Ottawa convention were Hon. P. J. Veniot, S. R. Lege, M. P., and John G. Robichaud, M. P., with Hon. J. Byrne, B. C. Mullins and William Branch as alternates.

SOLVING LABOR'S PROBLEMS. Car Fare Goes to Ten Cents.

Boston, July 3.—The public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway announce that the fare will be advanced to ten cents on July 10. The eight-cent fare, say the trustees, has failed to meet the cost of service, the deficit for the six months ending May 31, 1918, having been $1,519,974.

The Middlesex & Boston street railway had filed a schedule of fares with the Public Service Commission providing a ten-cent rate on nineteen of its twenty-two fare-sections to become effective on Aug. 1.

Ottawa, July 3.—The senate yesterday passed some further amendments, gave third reading to the government bill amending the criminal code with respect to sexual offences.

WHEN THE DEAD LIVE

When it comes to the matter of political trickery, modern nations one and all seem to be pretty well tarred with the same brush.

The following incident related with a flavor of Gallie irony by the Cri de Paris is said to have taken place at Toulouse on election day.

"You are quite sure that he has been here," said the young man. "Yes, indeed! Look, he is in the register." "Ah, how I regret not having been here," said the young man. "Would you have introduced him with such pleasure. He is my father." "Your father?" "Yes, and I have not seen him since he died, four years ago."

Although it cost but six cents a day in India for men to wave fans to keep the air circulating in houses, they are gradually being replaced by electric fans as cheaper and more reliable.

THE HARBOR BILL

Ottawa, July 3.—By the St. John harbor bill, a corporation of three government-appointed commissioners will have jurisdiction over, administration and control the harbor and all the harbor property and privileges and powers transferred to the government by the city, as well as those that may be required later under the act.

The $200,000 to be paid by the government to the city for the harbor are to be paid as follows: $1,342,717.55 representing the present bonded indebtedness of the city in connection with harbor development to be assumed and taken over by the corporation, and for the balance of $87,282.45 the corporation to issue to the city its debentures payable at the end of twenty-five years from the day of issue at five per cent per annum payable half yearly.

For the purpose of the act the harbor of St. John is bounded on the north by a line drawn due northeast from the middle of the government lighthouse tower at Green Island on the west bank of St. John river to the easterly bank of the river and the southerly and westerly limits begin at the intersection, with high water mark of the westerly face of the government breakwater at Negro Point, thence to the southerly end of an intersection with a line drawn due-southwest from the middle of the government lighthouse tower erected on Farbridge Island, thence due east 6,000 feet to an intersection with a line drawn due-southwest from a point where the westerly boundary of the military grounds at Red Head cuts highwater mark, thence due northeast 6,000 feet to highwater mark.

The corporation may appoint harbor-master, deputies to them and all officers, assistants and engineers needed. It will have control of all the elevators and wharves as well as the property transferred to it by the city.

It may make by-laws and impose penalties not exceeding $100 or thirty days' imprisonment for infringements of the act or by-laws made under it. These by-laws can cover every feature connected with the administration of the harbor including the regulation and control of every matter connected with vessel navigation in the harbor and their mooring, berthing, discharging and loading, as well as every matter connected with the use of harbor facilities by vessels and the agents, owners, masters or consignees of the same. It may set salaries for its employees, impose and collect rates and tolls on vessels entering, using and leaving the harbor and on their cargoes when landed or shipped, and it may enter into an agreement with any railway company for the operation by motor power of such company, of the tracks of the company so as at all times to afford all other railway companies whose lines traffic through the harbor the same facilities for traffic as those enjoyed by such company, it may make further arrangements so that the railway facilities of the harbor may be open to all lines throughout the harbor.

All by-laws must be confirmed by the governor-in-council. As it may levy rates, and occasion the payment of money, the corporation is also given power to collect what it desires through the collector of customs. The corporation can borrow money for development purposes or issue debentures, but principal and interest are to be repaid out of revenue imposed under the act or any other revenue coming to it. A sinking fund is to be created. The corporation can detain any vessel falling to pay the amount due or until the debt or damage is made good. Falling payment such vessel may be seized and sold.

The corporation has the same powers with respect to goods and always at the expense and risk of the owner.

Hon. Mr. Robertson offered an amendment providing that the bill should come into effect ninety days after proclamation. This was to give the provincial authorities time to adjust their machinery for the enforcement of the act.

Senator Ross said that the date should be definite, and suggested that it be adopted by Hon. Mr. Robertson.

Senator Ross said that as the law had continued as the bill proposed to continue it, the man was always assumed to be guilty when there was an offence, he knew that the consenting age. He had consulted with many trial judges, and from them and from his own court experience, he knew that not infrequently the girl was the more guilty and the man the more innocent party, no matter what the character of the offence of the girl might have been.

Senator Ross said that he was not offering an amendment, which was suggested, providing that if the man is not wholly or chiefly to blame, a verdict for acquittal may be brought.

With these amendments the bill was given third reading.

SAFEGUARDING CHILDREN.

New York Times: Compulsory health is an essential for children as compulsory education, according to Mrs. W. Albert Pease, jr., chairman of the Hempstead-Garden City Red Cross. Health rules are to be enforced in that section of Nassau county as a phase of reconstruction. Mrs. Pease, in outlining her organization's plans, says: "Hot lunches for school children, weighing to determine their needs, and intensive anti-tuberculosis work in the homes are all essential factors in the after-war programme placed upon the Red Cross. We must see that the child is sided to grow strong. In this way the country will grow strong."

Others on the committee are Mrs. Butler Duncan, Mrs. H. Van Rensselaer Kennedy, Mrs. F. Preston Clarke, Mrs. Ralph Peters, Jr., Mrs. Walter E. Frey, Mrs. John Wolf, Mrs. James Carl, Mrs. Adams Sumner, and Mrs. S. H. Johnson.

LORD DUFFERIN'S WORK FOR CANADA

Governor-General at Critical Time In History
SAVED CONFEDERATION

Did More Than Any Other One Man to Unite Widely Separated Provinces and Build up National Spirit

(Toronto Mail and Empire)
Today is the anniversary of the birth (1826) of the great Lord Dufferin, governor-general of Canada from 1872 to 1878. Lord Dufferin came to Rideau Hall at a most critical period in Canadian history. Discard was still rampant over Confederation. The east thought the west was getting more than it was entitled to and vice versa, and the question was, Would Confederation live, or would Victoria and Lord John Russell meet the occasion with their accustomed wisdom. They sent Frederick, Lord Dufferin, and then then for statecraft and for the matchless quality of saying delightful things, and as commenced then has never since been surpassed, as old-time cadmen in Ottawa will confirm, for even these days were soon enmeshed in his excellency's chariot, due to his Raleigh-like chivalry and kindness in erecting winter shelters for them.

Swift Popularity.
Once settled in Ottawa, the influence of this great man began to be felt across the whole country. His popularity sprang up as if by magic. His earlier speeches withered the seeds of discontents and painted pictures of the future of Canada which have never since been improved upon. Across the whole country he traveled, never weary of the long frigid roads to British Columbia by the long Frisco route. Here he found Confederation rampant issue. One arch under which he was supposed to drive, read "Equal Rights or Separation." This he refused to pass unless it was changed to "Equal Rights or Reparation." A few days and a few speeches and sentiment changed, and when Lord and Lady Dufferin left the Pacific coast that portion of Canada was as firmly welded to Confederation as any other.

"His Royal Nibs."
Returning east via Chicago, Lord Dufferin or "His Royal Nibs," as the newspapers of that time were pleased to dub him, proceeded to strengthen international friendship by courteous eloquence that left many an audience, not only charmed and enthusiastic, but marveled that such a man existed in the British Empire. When he returned to Toronto from the west he was filled with an outlook that put many a native to shame. Bubbling over, he crystallized into speech what he had seen on the prairies, and in the Rockies, and his eloquence placed a value upon things Canadian little dreamed of before. He kindled the years kept gathering strength and burst into one tremendous flame in 1874, Lord Dufferin in the beautiful and accomplished Lady Dufferin.

A Famous Speech.
They went hand in hand, captivating the multitude, and at this particular time his excellency delivered what is known in history as his "Toronto Club speech," which for foresight and picturesqueness has never been surpassed as many a school book shows, and many a being a sportsman and sailor, he donated a medal for single sculling to the Argonaut Rowing Club, which has been competed for yearly ever since.

Believed in Canada.
At this time he said: "Believe in your country; fight for your country, and if needs be, die for your country." These seeds taking root in the virgin soil of national love, which have become the envy and admiration of sister nations. So, today, on the anniversary of his birth, we pay tribute to him who helped fashion Canada into a nation.

After leaving Canada in 1878, and thus putting behind him what Lady Dufferin says were the happiest days of their diplomatic life; the Dufferins went to India and other strange climes, always building, always doing something kind and useful, always advancing the interests of the empire. And after long service, and useful toil in foreign fields, "which are forever England," he went home to rest at Clonbeary, Helen's Bay, revered and beloved. He rests now in Campso Sansa, the family plot at Clonbeary, "and the day breaks, and the shadows flee away," fulfilling Spencer's beautiful lines: "Sleep after toil, port after stormy sea. Rise after war, death after life, doth greatly please."

CRIED HOURS AT TAN-LAC, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Bothwell Had Given up Hope of Ever Being Well Again—Gains Twelve Pounds by Taking Tanlac.

"During the past two years I was in the hospital three different times, and I spent hundreds of dollars for treatments and medicines besides that, but I never got any relief until I commenced taking Tanlac," said Mrs. M. Bothwell, who lives at 873 Clover Bar Road, Edmonton, Alberta, while talking with a Tanlac representative recently.

"When I commenced taking Tanlac," continued Mrs. Bothwell, "I had actually given up all hopes of ever getting well again. Why, I had reached the point where I was so blue and discouraged that I actually cried for an hour at a time. I suffered so much on account of the condition my stomach was in my entire nervous system got all out of order, and at times I was so nervous that I could hardly raise a cup to my mouth without spilling a lot of it, and I never got anything like a good night's sleep. My stomach finally got in such bad condition that nothing I would eat would digest properly. I suffered terribly from headaches, too, and would get so dizzy at times that everything seemed to be whirling around. All my strength and energy seemed to leave me, and I finally got so completely run-down and worn out that I was not able to get about very much.

"Then I commenced taking Tanlac, and to my great surprise I began to feel better right away. Why, I can truthfully say that I began to sleep better the second night after I started taking this wonderful medicine, and in a very short time after that I was feeling like a different woman entirely. I have just finished my fourth bottle of Tanlac, and I am not only rid of all those troubles, but I have actually gained twelve pounds in weight, and I never had such a ravenous appetite in all my life. My food agrees with me, and that something I haven't been able to do for a long time. My nerves are the least bit with indignation, and my food them soon at all of those days I haven't had one of those dizzy spells in a long time. I am strong in every way that I not only do all my household work, but I do my own washing and ironing. I am also able to do for a long time. My nerves are the least bit with indignation, and I am so happy over what it has done for me that I just can't think of enough good things to say about it."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Company and F. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—(Adv.)

SOLIDARITY OF CITIZENSHIP.

To the Editor of the Times-Star:
Sir—The "One Big Union," not of labor ranks only, but of the whole citizenship of Canada, male and female, is the only measure that can save us from social, industrial and financial disaster due to a further continuance of unbalanced conditions and conflict of interests.

Soldier or civilian, employer or employee, capitalist or laborer, the inequalities, injustice and suffering of the past and present, notwithstanding, our lives and interests, as one big family, are bound up in, and determined by, the measure of unity or division, the solidarity or instability of our citizenship.

1946 Montrose Ave., Victoria, B. C., May 28, 1919.

A. J. MORLEY.

Absence of the former is wholly responsible for the conditions that have brought Canada to the present impasse.

We are faced with a choice of: A continuation of the instability and increasing unrest, wherein part of the population, without national direction, is producing a portion only of the necessities of life, and doing such other service as carries us along in a slipshod existence, in order that the more fortunate may lead a demoralizing life of idle, wasteful luxury, until such conditions end in early and inevitable revolution.

B. Solidarity of citizenship and national interests, the adoption, acceptance and enforcement of a safe and sane middle-class democracy, based upon a fifty-fifty national service and of leisure and pleasure for all; of nationally directed production upon a self-supporting basis, and the stabilizing of remuneration for service with the cost of living and of value of exchange, based upon the time-cost of production and distribution, whereby a permanent balance may be established.

We have great problems to solve, grave injustices to redress, wrongs to right, but we can never raise Canada to the coming "world standard" by hanging on to one another's throats by rough-house methods of any description. A united people, a true democracy, does not tolerate an autocracy of labor or of returned soldiers, or of any other form of despotic, factional or party-political control, any more than it or labor is tolerant of any autocracy of capital.

The solution depends upon combined common sense and determined action, through constitutional methods and by peaceful means.

"This is pregnant with catastrophe, to let us lose no time in burying the dead past under a nation-wide organization of 'Solidarity of Citizenship' and in raising the new standard of democracy."

Can we look to the public press of Canada to give a wholehearted advocacy and voluntary assistance to such a movement? Can we look to existing organizations and societies of democratic tendencies to drop factional efforts and take a leading part in the consolidating the forces of citizenship? Can we look to those who have had four years' experience in the practical mobilization and direction of forces, to take a leading part in the mobilization of citizenship and the orderly direction of the advance movement?

Above all, can we look, without fear or disappointment, to all who are actively or passively connected with industry, agriculture, trade, commerce, to keep the wheels turning, and to ameliorate as far as possible, all causes for dissatisfaction, in order to expedite the inauguration of the new system, and avert further unnecessary suffering, waste and national loss meanwhile?

There are many, including the writer, who, without remuneration, are ready to devote their services and means to the work of organization and reconstruction, but we must look to the men and women of the younger generation, who will constitute the brains and sinew of the "New Canada" to carry the standard.

As a practical start toward general organization I am submitting these suggestions to as many newspapers throughout Canada as possible, inviting each community town or city to form its own preliminary "Solidarity of Citizenship" committee, representative of all interests, in numbers proportionate to population on the basis of one for each 50,000.

These committees to meet at Ottawa as a provisional parliament (without interference meanwhile with existing government) and draft the general principles which would form the basis of a new constitution, for submission to a general vote of the whole population of voting age, for acceptance or rejection. If rejected to be re-drafted until accepted by a two-third majority.

Immediately thereafter a dominion election would be in order, and it would devolve upon the elected to put the new constitution in form of practical procedure and enforce it.

It would then be in order for the provincial governments, to be, without objection, brought in harmony with the dominion.

While waiting for a train home from the city one night, Jones grew restless and looked about for something interesting. His eye fell upon the penny-in-the-slot machine, and he promptly inserted a penny.

"I have often wondered," he remarked aloud in the manner of all truly thoughtful men, "where the profit on these machines—"

Here he grasped the handle with a firm and masterful grip.

"Where the profit of these affairs—"

So saying he shook the machine. "I have often wondered," he continued, giving it another vigorous shake, "where the profit—bang the thing."

Then one of the porters came up and told him that the machine was out of order, and Jones realized at last where art of the profit came from.

LOTS OF THESE BOXES GOING TO FRANCE

Presto! There is real wizardry now in reconstruction. A plain, unlovely American packing box, that has apparently served its entire purpose by carrying much needed goods to the devastated regions of France, becomes, under the magic touch of saw, hammer and brush, a decorative and serviceable piece of furniture for some housewife there where the Hun left nothing but ruin and wreckage.

It is the purpose of the Department of War Reconstruction and Consistency of the Methodist Centenary to place one of these boxes, transformed into a kitchen cabinet, into every needy home in the eleven towns of the Chateaux Thierry district which it has officially "adopted" and in those of the Fieve region where it has assumed the burden of reconstruction.

Of course the packing boxes are specially made; the wizardry is really all done over here. Every box really is made in France, and there will be many thousands of them, will stand the test of conversion into a cabinet. Frank E. Baker, engineer in charge of Methodist reconstruction in Europe, solved the problem after Mrs. B. M. Triple, wife of the head of the Methodist College in Rome, had sent word that women in the war torn areas especially needed cupboards.

As devised by Mr. Baker the box cover is changed into cupboard doors as soon as its two cross pieces are sawed through and the halves are swung on hinges. Not only do the hinges and the screws go with every box, but three shelves, for which cleats are in place, and also a can of mahogany stain and a paint brush furnished by a Methodist paint manufacturer.

Of the $105,000,000 Centenary fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the northern branch of Methodism, the sum of $25,000,000 has been set aside for war reconstruction projects. Half of this will be spent at home and half abroad.

GENERAL COXEY
RUM'S WHITE HOPE

Planning Another March On Washington
HIS THIRD ATTEMPT

This Time Object is to Record Protest Against Prohibition—Won Notice 25 Years Ago—A Prosperous Business Man

(Toronto Mail.)

Perhaps no American, including Mark Twain and Artemus Ward, provided so many laughs for his countrymen as Jacob S. Coxe, who recently declared himself as a sort of "white hope" for the Rum Demon. Mr. Coxe announces that he proposes to lead an army upon Washington formally to protest against the prohibition amendment to the constitution of this country don't want their booze taken away from them," he said. "I'm going to Washington when elected president on an anti-prohibition ticket." It was twenty-five years ago that his name went into the history of the United States as the leader of an army of the unemployed that marched several hundred miles to Washington to protest against the condition of the roads of the country and against unemployment. "Coxey's army" is a phrase that has entered into the language. It is understood to mean a collection of tramps. Where is the comedian of a generation ago that did not provide wheezes at the expense of Coxe? The whole nation rocked with merriment at the thought of this reformer marching 800 miles to Washington, only at the end of his trip to be sent to jail for walking on the grass.

But the idea that Coxe himself was a sort of hobo is erroneous. On the contrary, he is a very successful business man, a millionaire, according to some reports. He is also a man plentifully endowed with brains, and above all he is a man who is not afraid to be laughed at, which is, perhaps the greatest of his qualities. He was born in Pennsylvania in 1844, and at the age of thirteen began working in a rolling mill. When was twenty he had prospered to such an extent that he bought a business of his own, and two years later acquired a large spool farm near Lexington, Kentucky, and a stone quarry at Massillon, Ohio, where he took up residence. His mind was extremely hospitable to new social, religious and economic beliefs. He was first a Greenbacker and became a Populist; he was an Episcopalian and became a Christian Theosophist. In all things he was a reformer, but two ideas became fixed with him. One of them was that congress should vote the sum of $500,000,000, to be spent on the roads of the country, at the rate of $20,000,000 a month. The other was that each state, city and village should be able to deposit in the federal treasury non-interest-bearing notes for half the value of its assessed property, on which legal tender notes might be issued.

N. R. DesBRISAY, D.F.A., St. John, N. B.

But it was the good roads idea that excited the most ridicule and that led to the famous army being formed. Coxe expected that the appearance in Washington of a number of men who had walked from Massillon, Ohio, and arrived covered with mud, would present a striking object lesson of the need for improved roads. When he announced his plan it excited much attention, most of it of a waggy sort, especially since he spoke a letter to Coxe, asking him to write to the unemployed by the tens of thousands tramping across the country. They feared for their chicken coops. An army of locusts would have been as welcome. This led Senator Stewart to write a letter to Coxe, asking him to desist, and in this letter he addressed him as "General," either in irony or ignorance. This is how the title was conferred and accepted, not only by Coxe, but by the American nation.

The Tramps' Hike.

It was in March, 1894, that the army set out on its trek, beginning in a snowstorm. It fell somewhat short of the 100,000 workless men that Coxe had counted upon, and in fact numbered originally seventy-five. Coxe and his lieutenants proceeded in carriages. But the smallest of the army was stoned for by the number of spectators. From first to last millions of people lined the streets or the roads to watch it hobble past. It was a curious sight, the rank and file being particularly rank. Most of the men were tramps, who knew that because of the publicity the exploit had received they would be sure of meals along the way. Nor were they disappointed. They were well fed everywhere, sometimes by the municipal authorities, who were only too anxious that the unwelcome guests should eat and pass on. The numbers fluctuated. Some of the original Old Contemplatives dropped out, and here and there others were sent to jail, but at no time did the army muster more than 500.

Twenty Days in Jail.

No deprecations were committed along the route, for Coxe knew that any sympathy that his ragged followers might have excited would be destroyed if they misconducted themselves. The hike con-

The authorities were well prepared for the coming and, somewhat alarmed over the consequences, strictly enforced the city ordinances. So it happened that when Coxe attempted to speak from the Capitol building he was arrested as a trespasser, and being found guilty of walking on the grass was fined $5, and sentenced to twenty days

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S RULES FOR LIVING

At 85, Tells How He Exceeds Alleged Span MUST WANT TO LIVE Zest of Life the Best Tonic—Believes in Moderation, in Avoidance of Worry and in Plenty of Work

(Toronto Mail.) Opposed to the pessimists who believe that this is a time when most people would be more willing to quit the earth than any other time in their experience is Chauncey M. Depew, who was eighty-five years old the other day. "Every day brings me a thrill now," he says. "It is a great thing to have lived through a period when more history has been made than in centuries before. I have gone through more in my lifetime than my father, my grandfather and my great-grandfather in the total years of their lives." Looking back over his own career, which includes service in the American Civil War, Mr. Depew says that he thought then he had "lacked the high point in events," but realizes now that those times were nothing compared to this day. "This period gives one an appetite for living," is the way the former Republican senator puts it. A man who takes this view at the age of eighty-five, who is strong bodily and mentally, full of cheerfulness, and who remains keenly interested in the passing show, must surely be a remarkable character, and although Chauncey Depew has been regarded for more than a generation as an after-dinner speaker and entertainer, something like Chauncey Olcott, he is a remarkable man. We can recall few Americans so well worth listening to when discussing general topics as Chauncey Depew. One of the curses of American publicity is that when a man becomes famous for inventing an incandescent light there arises an immediate and immense demand for his views upon low-necked gowns, and when he turns out cheap notions upon an unparalleled scale, his opinion upon the subject of Wagnerian music is sought by obsequious special writers. Now Chauncey Depew has lived a full life and not long ago was able to make the boast, probably justified, that in the preceding fifty years he had met everybody in the United States who amounted to anything, and practically all the important foreign visitors. He has attended more banquets, probably, than any one living; has made more humorous speeches, invented more stories. He has been a struggling lawyer, active in politics for half a century and prominent in public life for almost as long. He has been a millionaire man about town, a shrewd and kindly observer. Let's hear what he has to say.

How to Be 85. Living to be eighty-five, he says, is really a simple matter. It depends ordinarily upon will-power. "Say no" when asked to do something that will hurt you, or if you have done it, cut it out. The point was illustrated by his own experience as a smoker. For many years he was what is called an "inveterate smoker," consuming twenty powerful cigars a day. He could not work, could not think, without having previously drugged himself with tobacco. About twenty-five years ago he became troubled with insomnia, indigestion and nervousness. He concluded that tobacco was hurting him. One day after a sleepless night he was walking along a street in Albany smoking a cigar. He was feeling tough. He took the cigar from his mouth and addressed it in these terms: "Old friend, you have sacrificed yourself for me, and I have pretty nearly sacrificed myself for you. Here's where you and I part company." He then threw the cigar away, and it struck a passing horse car. The driver jumped down and picked up the cigar. What has become of that driver nobody knows; perhaps he is dead. But Chauncey Depew is alive and well.

The Drink Question. For three months after he smoked his last cigar he was almost a nervous wreck, but he stuck to his resolution and gradually the craving left him and his health became normal. "I saw many men go to the devil through alcohol," he says, "but fortunately I had a strong head." But he realized the danger of constant drinking, though he enjoyed the conviviality, and concluded that he would drink nothing but champagne. In those days few of his friends were able to drink champagne, and so for twenty years he was practically a temperance man. After prosperity came, he made it a practice to drink a pint of champagne each evening after dinner, and at no other time. "It agreed with me and I with it," he says. "But in the last two years I have been letting up on it, for it caused a little indigestion." He believes the prohibition movement to be dangerous on account of the reaction it is likely to produce, and insists that you cannot treat beer and light wines as you do whisky, for they are not the same thing and do not have the same effect.

Why Die At All? Don't worry, is another of the Depew doctrines. Half the people die from worrying over what never happened. Go slow on what you eat; half the people dig their own graves with their teeth. These two halves make the whole, so if the Depew advice is accepted there is a mighty slim excuse for dying at all. He believes that everything at dinner should be tasted but only the roast should be eaten. On the advice of an English physician, he gave up beef thirty years ago, and has eaten none since. Get a thrill and lots of fun out of everything you do, is another bit of advice. Mr. Depew is not an enthusiast on exercise. He has never taken any. But he goes to his office at New York Central headquarters every day, and puts in more than the 44-hour week. He enjoys it. That is perhaps the secret of living long—to want to live, to be so much in love with living that one will make sacrifices for it.

HAVING FAILED TO ANNEX WORLD, GERMANS BECOME CHAMPION SNEAK THIEVES

(By Gordon Stiles.) London, June 17.—Although Germany failed in her gigantic scheme for annexing half the universe, there is no doubt she holds the world's record for petty larceny. Not as a nation; it is an individual proposition. Scarcity of food and other necessities has made more thieves than one would believe could exist in a country the size of Germany. Among these thieves the hotel employees shine. I had a good deal of experience among these minor rascals during the five months I recently spent in the fatherland.

Despite the extreme annoyance of it all I could not help being highly amused. In Berlin hotels, nothing that is the real thing in the line of food or tobacco or soap or sweets is safe. Leaving a pair of real leather boots in the corridor to madness. I have known of trunks being broken open for the sake of a tin of tobacco, and portmanteaux being rifled in the hope of gaining a little chocolate or tea. If you leave a cake of soap on the washstand you are only asking for trouble, for if it is not stolen outright you will see that every day a little bit has been carefully shaved off.

Some of the cleverest tricks crop up in matters culinary. Give the waiter on your floor some tea to be prepared, and which he brings back contains probably one-quarter of what you gave him. The rest is "ersatz" (substitute) or the familiar blackberry leaves which have done duty in Germany as tea for three years. You send down some oatmeal. If you expect enough for your breakfast you should hand out sufficient raw material for about eight people. Being entrusted with a bit of bacon always brings a wild gleam into a waiter's eye, and you are lucky if you get back any of it.

It was in connection with bacon that I discovered what old Diogenes could not unearth. This chap did not run true to form at all. He not only brought back all the bacon I had given him, but a small pitcher holding the grease. And the smile which spread over his face when I made him a present of the grease was the most beautiful thing I saw in Germany.

I thought I had them in the matter of eggs. A Danish friend brought me two dozen from Copenhagen, and I had several merry breakfast parties which made my position so solid with those who attended that I could borrow money from any of them for weeks afterward. I was jubilant at the thought that the kitchen folk must return my eggs intact. I did not see how they could eat a piece of an egg. What happened was this: the very last egg came to the table artistically crushed in on one side. At first it puzzled me, but I discovered the trick which I soon found to be popular in all hotels in the land.

The procedure was to make a tiny puncture in the shell, draw out half of the white and then damage the shell in such a way as to conceal the original hole. The result is that when the egg is opened the shell is found to be half full of nice hot water. It was only by threatening to crack upon the waiter's head all the eggs with damaged exteriors that we got any degree of satisfaction. And I suppose it was for rendering us such service that the Berlin waiters determine to be properly tipped. At any rate they combined, and by bloodless revolutionary methods managed to get 20 per cent tacked on the bill of every guest, the money to be divided among them. Of course, the guest was not expected to hand out any further gratu-ties. But naturally since every employe was sure to receive his tips the service slumped, and the only way to be comfortable was to resort to super-tipping. So far as the guest was concerned, it merely came to an increase of 20 per cent in his hotel bill.

In outside restaurants, 10 per cent is added to the check, while the same is done with every drink served at the bar. A lot of people are caught before they learn the custom. The waiter will serve them and present a bill with ten per cent added. They take it for a sort of luxury tax, as in Paris, and add a tip. To this the waiters seldom, if ever, object.

Lifers Issue July Prison Magazine

Jesse Pomeroy Writes of Long Solitude; Liberty Bell on Cover

(Boston Globe.)

Rev. William Bradley Whitney, chaplain at the State Prison, Charlestown, recently granted permission to the life inmates of the prison to edit the July number of the Mentor in his stead, and the prison magazine just issued, consisting of more than fifty pages, is one of the finest ever produced by the inmates of that institution.

The Mentor is a magazine devoted to prison welfare and the July number on the cover is a cut of the Liberty Bell of Philadelphia, and the bell with the crack and letters is finished in gold. The border is also of gold.

There are twenty-eight contributions to the number, including a 700-word article on "Segregation—In Truth," by Grandpa, the pen name of Jesse H. Pomeroy, who has spent nearly forty-six years of his life in confinement. He also contributed a four stanza poem entitled "What is Life?"

Four contributions are from "W. G. F." and other lifers wrote two articles each.

In Pomeroy's article on "Segregation—In Truth," he said in part:—"I cannot say it has been my good fortune to live a solitary life, but it has been my experience almost forty-three years, from 1876, when I was fourteen years, up to 1917. I have been often asked, 'How could you live apart from men all those years by yourself without seeing or enjoying the association of others?' My answer has ever been, 'I was so young, not realizing or knowing anything of life except as I lived it, became, as it were, a natural way of living; though in truth it is a most unnatural life.'

"The passing years flowed by without a change, and I grew up in boyhood, to be a young man; and then, as manhood arrived, and middle life and finally elderly life, solitude became my second nature, without on my part any noticeable change that I could remark.

"As a school-boy, I was not much on books; sports, the active out of door life of a growing boy, were my attractions. "In my solitary cell, without assistance or guidance of any sort, I found that all one, the friendlessness, the tedious, lonesome and weary sameness of the slow hours—little by little—induced me to devote my time to studious efforts; books, food, papers and magazines; and tentatively, in 1914, chapel, and later concert privileges. Finally, in 1917, the solitary was changed to imprisonment for life after being in the cell more than forty-two years.

"Contrasting the old with the new, there is indeed a vast difference—the huge change—changes brightening my solitude. More light and more air, better considered. Without much of a jolt, I fit into my new life, thanks to the devotion of my mother and my wide reading. Under Divine Providence, what little mind is left me is due to my early efforts to steady myself, to study, to avoid the pitfalls—there are many—of solitude. "It is not good for man to be alone—solitary breeds disease, weakness, insanity, suicide. Hail to the brighter days."

INITIAL PAYMENT OF $80,000 TO EACH PROVINCE

Ottawa, July 3.—Eighty thousand dollars is the initial amount that will be paid to each of the provinces under the provisions of the highways act and not $10,000 dollars as stated in the Canadian Press house report last night. Subsequent payments will be on a basis of the population. The error was due to confusion between the highways and technical education bills. In the case of the latter the provision is for an initial payment of $10,000 to each of the provinces.

Parliament Chuckles as H. H. Stevens Gets His Chance

The Matter of Big Profits and The Farmers and Grain Men—Overages at the Elevators

Ottawa, June 25—It is no exaggeration to say that parliament chuckled yesterday when H. H. Stevens of Vancouver finally got the chance he has been waiting for all this session—he has had a question on the order paper since March—to disseminate some information about the western grain growers' organizations. People have got just a little weary of the air of complaint and the never-ending "poor mouth" which so many of the western members seem to think is the proper role for them to assume. Even those who have no sympathy with a high tariff, and think the manufacturers have been too much inclined to "hog" things, have never believed that the western farmer had a monopoly of unselfishness, or was entirely free from the peccadilloes incident to humanity.

For the past few weeks the evidence brought out in the cost of living inquiry has inclined people to think all the one way. Every day has almost produced a story of big profits, in many cases perfectly legal, but not in accord with the catchword now passing around the halls of parliament. "No man should have come out of this war richer than when it began." Up to the present the place of the farmer in the increased cost of living has not been investigated, though it will be. And possibly we shall hear some more instances of large profits, and no more isolated instances than those brought forward among manufacturers of flour, textiles and other commodities.

The committee, like death, seems to love a shining mark. There is no doubt that mills could be picked out in Canada where the profits have been small or distinguished by their absence.

So when Mr. Stevens began to deal with the profits and "overages" in Canadian grain elevators—and notably those of the organized farmers of the west—the members sat up and took notice; more particularly because Mr. Stevens has been a particularly active member of the cost of living committee and has been the one who devoted himself principally to questioning the millers and other alleged profiteers.

What Mr. Stevens showed was that in the past ten years more than ten million dollars worth of grain had been illegally appropriated by the grain elevator, at the head of the lakes; and that the elevators owned or controlled by the farmers had been among the worst offenders. Mr. Crear, the late minister of agriculture, is head of the Grand Growers Grain Company, one of the biggest grain dealers in the world. This is what Mr. Stevens had to say about this company:

"Now take, for instance, the grain growers' elevator operated by the Grand Growers Grain Company, and I am just citing these figures to show how this pernicious practice has been dragged into a company which virtually organizes to do away with this practice. In other words, early in the organization of the grain growers, my hon. friend, the former minister of agriculture, found that there was an injustice being done the farmer. He himself I remember on one occasion drove up with a load of grain to an elevator and was docked 1 cent something like two or three per cent for some unknown reason. This roused his ire and others had similar experience, so they organized the company. The company without any question desired to rectify these abuses, but once they got into the swim of things we find that they have been guilty of the same practices as the other elevators. The United Grain Growers Grain Company show overages in value for instance as follows. I am giving the dollars:

1912-13	$ 72,000
1913-14	80,000
1914-15	54,000
1915-16	54,000
1916-17	132,000

Overages, it may be explained, are quantities of grain which are improperly and illegally docked or deducted from shipments of grain sent to the terminal elevators and while not in every case do they come out of the identical shipment of the farmer, yet in the long run the practice means that the country farmer is the one who suffers.

The grain act provides that wherever dockages are made for screenings the elevator company shall account to the shipper, the owner, or the farmer. They have never been accounting for them except where it was demanded of them, and the overages, which result principally from dockages, accrue to the elevator at the end of the season and are a large source of revenue. One elevator of the United Grain Growers in 1916-17 profited from screenings and overages nearly $298,000. Mr. Stevens contended that not only should the elevators be prevented from continuing these abuses, but every dollar taken out of overages for the past five years contrary to the grain act should be paid into the treasury of Canada.

Mr. Stevens also brought out some facts as to the profits made by this farmers' company. Omitting screenings and overages, they averaged in the five years mentioned 7.33 per cent profit with screenings and overages 18.85 per cent, which really puts them in first class company. In one big elevator their earnings were 211 per cent. And, at the figures, Mr. Cockshutt, M. P., smiled sarcastically.

THE MOUNTED MEN'S CHARGE

How the Royal Northwest Mounted Police cleared Main street on the occasion of the only riot during the Winnipeg strike.—British and Colonial Press photograph.

When Mr. Crear attempted to reply to this he was not very effective. For a working socialist—to which doctrine he is said now to be under tuition—it was a little hard to explain. He pointed out that if the overages were illegal the board of grain commissioners should not have allowed it—which would be a first class excuse for any burglar or other law breaker, but not much of a reason.

Concerning the big John Robinson's circus, which comes to St. John for one day, Monday July 7, the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the oldest and best known newspaper in the South, pays the following tribute: "John Robinson's tented aggregation of celebrities, gathered from all quarters of the earth, is A REAL CIRCUS. The first few words are used advisedly, but there is such an old time flavor in the John Robinson shows that it would hardly be fitting to speak of them unless one should fall into the old time language of the heralds that used to set every country boy on his good behavior until the arrival of the great day and make him run away from home if his parents prevented him from going early and staying late.

"The older persons who visited the show would know that they were looking at John Robinson's if there were not a name on a wagon nor a streamer to proclaim the fact. It is all circus and it is an exceptionally good circus. The John Robinson circus has no apologies to make to anyone, but every man connected with the organization has reason to be proud of his connection and of his part in creating such general satisfaction with the performances."

BLIND SOLDIER GOES OVERSEAS

Captain E. A. Daker, M. C., of Toronto, who was blinded in the war, has been sent overseas by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, to inspect methods of dealing with blind soldiers in Europe. He was described by Sir Arthur Pearson as the "most proficient blind boy I ever met."

NURSE CAVELL IN STONE

In a desolate quarry midway between Bodmin and Camelford, on the moors of North Cornwall, Eng., a memorial is being fashioned out of granite to the memory of Nurse Cavell. One of the huge pieces is rapidly nearing completion, under the guidance of Sir George Frampton, who is giving his services.

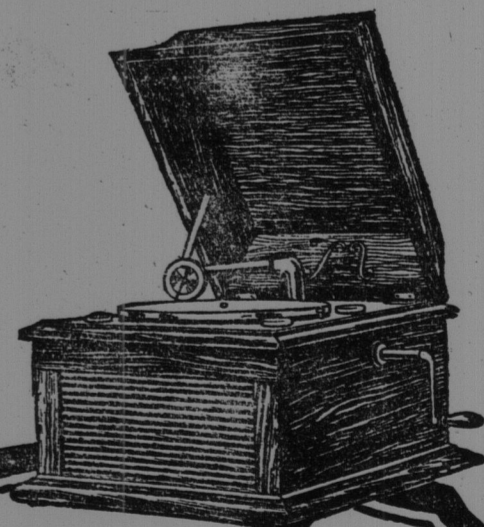

The figure represents a woman, with arms half upraised, nursing a little child on her lap, whilst underneath, on the base of the monument, is carved a cross. The group is symbolical of the stronger nations protecting the smaller and weaker states, whilst the cross is the emblem of mercy.

The whole group, too, is carved in the form of a cross, giving special significance to the order to which Nurse Cavell belonged.

Another huge block of granite near by has a big lion carved on it, with head erect and mane bristling. Trampled beneath its feet is a serpent, writhing, but defeated.

The total weight of the memorial when finished will be about 170 tons, with a height of about 40 feet. The group will probably be erected near the National Gallery.

In one Pittfield street seventeen widows live within a distance of 200 yards.
