POPE'S CONSISTORY

The First Held by His Holiness Pius X.

The Relations of Church and State—Pontiff Must Be Free and Not Subject of Any Power.

ROME, Nov. 9.—The Pope after recalling that at first he wished to decline the pontifical dignity, said: "Before all, our efforts will be to retain faith inviolate and to provide for the eternal salvation of all without saying ourselves any trouble or fatigue."

"For truth's sake it is necessary that in governing the church the pontiff should appear to be free and not the subject of any power. But this is not the case and that is what we lament as being a grave injury to the church. We shall not follow any path but that of our predecessors, namely, to restore all in Christ. As Christ's truth we must go towards truth."

Continuing, the Pope enumerated all that was necessary to reach this end and added that he knew there would be no obstacles to his work and said: "The Pope in his office cannot separate the faith from politics. Therefore he being the head and sovereign ruler of the most perfect society, namely, the church, constituted among men and of men strictly composed, he certainly must wish that between him and the princes of the world and the rulers of public affairs mutual relations should exist if he wishes to provide for this society's liberty for Catholics in all parts of the world. Efforts are now being made to destroy the liberty of the Catholic church, which the church must absolutely oppose as that is not a promotion of liberty, but corruption of liberty."

"We trust to accomplish what our predecessors could not reach, that truth shall overcome everywhere the errors of injustice. We shall persevere in this struggle as, if all our desires are not completely satisfied, certainly with the help of God, we shall succeed in proving the exact truth established and consolidated in all good people and propagated to all others who are well disposed."

AFTER MANY YEARS. Man Rescued From Hanging Sends $50,000 to His Half-Brother, Who Saved Him.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 9.—A dozen years ago Jacques Caza was arrested and tried on a charge of murdering a hotel keeper at Coteau du Lac, near Montreal. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. His half-brother, Joseph Aubin, put up $2,000 for the costs of an appeal, which was successful. Caza eventually recovering his liberty. Aubin removed to Montreal, near here, and opened a hotel, while Caza went to South America. Aubin losing all trace of him. The other day Aubin was surprised to receive a letter from him containing a draft for $50,000. The Marquis Villardina, the Spanish representative, protested against what he termed Wayne MacVear's "erroneous assertion" regarding the character of the Spanish tract.

The city was gay with bunting today in honor of His Majesty. The display of flags was larger than usual. The usual royal salute was fired at noon by the Ottawa Field Battery and practically the day was observed as a holiday in the public departments. The only official function in connection with the anniversary was a state dinner at Government House this evening, when covers were laid for 85. Lt. Gov. Snowball was one of the guests.

Noel St. Pierre, a married man, of thirty years of age, who resides at South Indian, was shot in the woods near there on Saturday by a party of hunters who mistook him for a deer.

FOUND ANCIENT TREASURE.

ROME, Nov. 9.—Peasants while digging near Pulzazolo Aereide, Sicily, found a rich treasure of ancient objects from Syracuse. The most valuable were an artistic diadem encrusted with precious stones, a belt of solid gold, and several rings of beautiful shapes. There were also found a number of coins of different value. The government authorities took possession of the treasure on the ground that it was national property, but they will compensate the proprietor of the estate according to an estimate which will be made by experts.

JAMES ROSS'S MOVEMENTS.

HALIFAX, Nov. 8.—Jas. Ross, president of the coal company, accompanied by Austin King of Philadelphia, leaves Sydney for Montreal tomorrow, after having made an exhaustive inspection of the different collieries of the company. It is stated on good authority that Graham Fraser, manager of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co., has been asked by the directors of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. to become an advisory expert to their company. This appointment would in no way interfere with Mr. Fraser's connection with the Nova Scotia company. The likelihood is that he accepts the proffered appointment.

KING EDWARD'S BIRTHDAY.

A Grand Banquet by the New Lord Mayor of London.

At Which Premier Balfour Spoke on the Alaska Award, the Situation in the Far East and the Macedonian Question.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—King Edward, who was born Nov. 9, 1864, is celebrating his birthday at Sandringham, where there was the usual dinner to the tenants of the estate, at which the King, the Queen and other members of the royal family handed round the dessert.

The danger arising from the uncertainty and disputed frontiers in the case between the British Empire and the United States had been decided for all time. I regret that the decision had not been favorable to the claims of this country, but the two small islands, the loss of which to Canada, has aroused such great feeling, are really valueless from a strategic and military point of view. The decision must be loyally accepted, for the removal of so serious a controversy is an inestimable boon.

Prior to the banquet the Lord and Lady Mayoresse held a reception at which Mr. Choate, the first prominent personage to arrive, was enthusiastically cheered.

HEALFAX, N. S., Nov. 9.—Two reviews in this city, one by the naval forces and the other by the military, were held on Saturday at the Government house, for which 1,000 invitations were issued, and of which 800 or 900 were accepted, constituted the celebration of the King's birthday in Halifax. Bunting was very generally displayed.

At Sydney, C. B., sailors from the cruiser Indefatigable landed and joined with the militia in a demonstration. A royal salute was fired and at night the ships were brilliantly illuminated.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The annual dinner of the British Society and University Club was held at Delmonico's tonight, the birthday of King Edward VII. Covers were laid for 150 and the rooms and tables were decorated with English flags and the Stars and Stripes.

Ralph M. Stewart-Wortley, president of the club, acted as toastmaster, and distinguished guests were present. In response to a telegram sent to King Edward the following reply was received: "I am commissioned by the King to thank you all for your congratulations."

FIRE AT PORTLAND.

One of the Largest Wharf Blazes for Years.

Two Large Schooners Were Towed Away in Time—Loss of One Firm Placed at $50,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 9.—One of the largest wharf fires which Portland has seen in years broke out at 10.30 tonight in the storehouses of J. H. Hamlen & Son on Brown's wharf. Two alarms were sent in in rapid succession, and half an hour later, when the fire had broken through the roofs of the buildings, a general alarm was sounded.

The firm of Hamlen & Son is among the largest American exporters of black and white stock to the West Indies and the storehouses were filled with shuck and finished hogheads and barrels awaiting shipment. The buildings were two stories in height and covered with corrugated iron, which for a long time confined the fire to the interior, but when it did break through the walls and roof it burned fiercely for hours, sending showers of sparks on to Merrill's wharf to the east. Here there is a long wooden storeroom, a part of which is occupied by the United States government as a supply station. The men stationed on this wharf prevented the spread of the fire across the dock, however.

When the fire broke out there were three large schooners lying at the wharf. Alongside the sheds was the steamer W. Clark, which had just finished loading shuck for Guadeloupe and Martinique. On the dock at the western side of the wharf was the Major Pickands. Each of these schooners were hauled into the stream. The three-master Odion lay at the end of the wharf and none of her crew were aboard. As the wind was blowing away from her, the hatches were butted down and she was left where she lay.

FREDERICTON.

To Erect a Statue in Memory of Robt. Burns.

Application for a New Trial in the Case of Milligan versus Crockett—Observed King's Birthday—Natural History Society Proceedings

FREDERICTON, Nov. 9.—In the supreme court this morning the case of Milligan v. Crockett was taken up and argument concluded.

On the ground that the case was called out of its turn on the docket, when the jury was empaneled in the absence of the defendant, his attorney and counsel, Solicitor General McKewen, contended that the case should be taken out of its turn. The court intimated that judgment would be delivered on Friday, 13th.

Day, C. P. R., T. C. Carter moves to set aside non-suit, enter verdict for plaintiff or for new trial; Connell, K. C., contra, now before court.

Mr. D. Fraser, an employee of Jas. S. Nell, met with a painful accident this morning by falling through an elevator shaft in the warehouse. He suffered severe injuries in the back, but will recover.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 9.—The regular annual meeting of the Fredericton Society of St. John, the High School Society of Chatham and the Canadian Society of Restigouche, and that of all other distinctly Scottish organizations throughout the province; and further resolved, that this society pledge itself to raise and contribute for the purpose above set forth the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars.

It is proposed that the statue shall be erected in this city opposite the parliament buildings, at a cost of about $7,500. Of this amount President O. S. Crockett announced that he had subscriptions had been pledged and that a large number of smaller subscriptions had been promised. These pledges would cover half the estimated cost, and it is believed that with the active co-operation of all lovers of Burns throughout the province, the balance will be easily forthcoming. To attain this highly commendable end a committee of ten, consisting of O. S. Crockett, pres.; A. S. McFarlane, ex-Mayor Crockett, L. W. Johnston, Judge Gregory, J. F. McMurray, J. D. McKay, A. Murray, Prof. Jack, Donald Fraser, sr., and J. A. Edwards, was appointed. The committee will at once proceed with the work of soliciting subscriptions. It looks for a generous response from all parts of the province. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, O. S. Crockett, re-elected; first vice president, J. D. McKay, ex-Mayor; second vice president, F. I. Cooper; chaplain, Robert Watson; treasurer, James Tennant; secretary, A. S. McFarlane; pipers, D. Hossack, William Dunbar and D. McChesnie, jr. Committee of charity, J. A. Edwards, Eben Miller and P. M. McDonald. It was decided not to hold the annual dinner in the same manner as in former years, but to celebrate the anniversary at the Barker house on November 30th, with a social reunion limited to the members of the society.

P. F. Dow and A. J. Gregory, K. C., have returned from Boston, where they have disposed of the patent rights for all countries, except Canada, in Mr. Dow's hydro-carbon burner for automobiles and other purposes to J. A. Dixon of that city, representing a group of New England capitalists. The price was a large one, the figure stated by Mr. Dow being $300,000. Mr. Dow leaves for Boston in the morning, where he has accepted a six months' engagement with the purchasers in applying the invention.

The supreme court today disposed of a large amount of business. In Milligan v. Crockett O. S. Crockett moved for a new trial on the ground that the case had been called out of its turn on the docket and the jury empaneled without either the plaintiff, his attorney or counsel being present. Solicitor General McKewen, contra. The court will deliver judgment in this case on Friday. From the tenor of the remarks of the judges it is probable that a new trial will be granted on this ground alone.

In Davy v. C. P. R. Co., T. J. Carter moved to set aside non-suit and enter verdict for plaintiff, or for a new trial. From the tenor of the remarks of the judges it is probable that a new trial will be granted on this ground alone.

In Connolly v. the city of St. John, C. N. Skinner, K. C., moved for a new trial. Geo. V. McInerney, K. C., contra. Now before the court.

The King's birthday was not observed in the city today except by the officers and men of the C. R. The entire force, Lieut. Col. Wetmore commanding, paraded at noon and fired a feu de joie and raised the royal standard, after which the men gave three rousing cheers for His Majesty.

Miss Florence Whitehead, daughter of W. T. Whitehead, M. P., returned from an extensive tour through western Canada to British Columbia in company with Miss Snowball, who will not return for some weeks, having gone to visit friends at Passadena, Cal.

The regular meeting of the Fredericton Natural History Society was held this evening. The principal attraction was a lecture by the Rev. Dr. Stephen, president of the summer school of science, on Weeds. The lecture will form the introduction to a pamphlet on the subject about to be published by the society.

DICKRAN DERAKAIN

Described by Armenian Friends as Man Who Would Hesitate at Nothing.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., Nov. 9.—The despatch from London today giving "Dickran" as the name of the Armenian, who killed two members of the Huntechakist Society and then committed suicide, has served to confirm a belief already held by many in the Armenian colony that the murderer and suicide was none other than Dickran Derakain, formerly of this place. Derakain, who has been in London for some time, communicated regularly with his friends here until until two weeks ago, since when no word has been received from him. He was known here as an outspoken reformer, a man of notorious temperment, but audaciously bold. His Armenian friends here assert that he would hesitate at nothing where what he conceived to be a duty to his native country was concerned, and they also readily associate him with the theory of self-destruction.

WEEKLY SERMON.

"The Body is the Temple"—Powerful Protest Against Its Abuse by Sin and Neglect—By Rev. Dr. Talmage.

(Published by Request.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—This sermon is a powerful protest against the abuse of the body through sin and neglect and a plea for its consecration to God's service and to holy and upright living. The text is I Corinthians, vi., 19. "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost?"

More than Westminster Abbey is to London or Notre Dame to Paris or the Vatican to Rome, the most magnificent of Constantinople, more than Diana's temple was to Ephesus or the shrine of Athens to Athens, King Solomon's temple was to the Hebrew heart.

It was the one spot about which national pride and religious fervor centered; it was the one place above all others which the Israelite wanted to see, as the Mussulman devotee says, "Let me, I pray, the worship once at Mecca before I die." In it was the Shekinah, the holy of holies, the repository of the covenantal ark, the God's footstool.

Like the Taj Mahal of India, whose walls were once inlaid with gold and precious stones, the temple of King Solomon cost millions upon millions of dollars, the Solomon temple was famous not so much for its size as for its intrinsic worth.

It was the one place above all others which the Israelite wanted to see, as the Mussulman devotee says, "Let me, I pray, the worship once at Mecca before I die." In it was the Shekinah, the holy of holies, the repository of the covenantal ark, the God's footstool.

lender his voice the farther, all things being equal, he can sound forth the message of a Saviour's sacrifice. The temple of the Holy Spirit, in the next place, should be a clean body. There are some men whose bodies are given over to moral filthiness. They are like some of the ancient heathen temples which were so cowardly dedicated to the deities of lust, drunkenness and debauchery, the existence of which was a national dishonor.

Have you ever seen a sanctuary of brick and stone which has been dedicated to God destroyed by earthquake or by fire? Well, I have. On a dark, stormy night I was awakened in my Brooklyn home by the rumbling of the earth. I heard a quick rap at my door, as my sister called: "Wake up! The Tabernacle is in flames!"

I hurriedly dressed and ascended to the cupola of our house, which overlooked the city. There the whole family were gathered. The air seemed charged and surcharged with electricity. Off in the distance the public buildings of the city looked like the great white masonry of a colossal city, making a contrast the scene more dramatic.

It seemed to burn, but its roof in its entirety was mass of living metal. It looked like an altar, huge altar upon which was being sacrificed the whole life's ministry of the noble father who stood by my side.

sonal property of an individual divinity in the same sense as a man's house belongs to him when the title deed is not only put in the family safe, but also recorded among the county records.

Now, my brother, it is right and proper that every temple should be publicly dedicated. When are you going to publicly dedicate your temple, your physical body, to the serving of Jesus Christ? This body is a priceless treasure which we should offer Him.

It is not a matter of how much we appreciate unless they lose part of their body, as we have seen in the case of the man who carried for us many burdens; the foot walked for us many miles; the tongue—it has expressed for us many a word.

SIR HENRY DURAND

The New British Minister to the United States.

Had a Diplomatic Training in Helping to Rule the Old Indian Empire, a Land With More Than Four Times the Population of the Young American Republic.

(Harper's New York Weekly.)

The new English ambassador will represent the British Empire in the United States, a land with more than four times as great a population as that of the United States, made up of varied races with a splendid literature going back to the time of the American people; the Indian Empire, which, in its way, has never been carried out on earth.

It is not possible for parliament to say that the treaty shall not come into force. We can reject a treaty, but we cannot refuse to bargain under British auspices with another country.

Sir Henry Mortimer Durand is a man of fifty-three, the son of a distinguished general, whose name he bears. He entered the English diplomatic service, and became junior secretary in the foreign department in 1874, and assistant secretary in the same department in 1877.

His destiny soon after called him to India; and in 1880 he was appointed to the post of junior secretary in the Indian Empire, which was then a new and seemingly perilous epoch of its history.

He was in India for several years, and during that time he was engaged in the work of the Indian Empire, which was then a new and seemingly perilous epoch of its history.

CANADA AND HER FOREIGN RELATIONS.

(Toronto Empire.)

Some remarks were made in this column of Wednesday on the subject of the treaty-making power. It was pointed out that there is an excuse for the view entertained in some quarters that British makes treaties for us without a by-your-leave. That excuse is the circumstance that matters of this kind do not come under daily observation, and the majority of us are not personally concerned in them.

CANADA'S CONSENT NEEDED. Years ago treaties were entered into and were signed without Canadian participation, but today the situation is altogether different. No obligation is incurred unless we give our consent.

It is not possible for parliament to say that the treaty shall not come into force. We can reject a treaty, but we cannot refuse to bargain under British auspices with another country.

ON THE UPPER ST. JOHN WILL BE LESS THAN LAST SEASON.

Nothing Will Be Done With Logs Above the Falls This Autumn—Interview With a Leading Lumber Operator.

(Fredericton Herald, Saturday.) W. H. Murray, the well known St. John lumberman, in an interview today expressed the opinion that the lumber cut on the upper St. John and tributaries during the coming winter would fall short of that of last season by about ten million. The cut last year totalled about 130,000,000 feet, and about 80,000,000 came through the booms, the remainder having been hung up above Grand Falls.

The Scott Lumber Company of this city, who are operating up the upper St. John this season for the first time, will cut about 5,000,000 on the Wild Cat stream, a tributary of the St. Francis.

No effort will be made this season to get out the 34,000,000 feet or so of logs stranded in the main river above Grand Falls. There was some talk a while ago of booming them at Van-Buren, but as the scheme had not been approved of by all the owners, it had to be abandoned.

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 11, 1903.

MR. FOSTER AND OTHERS.

The enthusiastic hearing which Mr. Foster is receiving in Great Britain seems to have aroused a feeling of jealousy in the minds of certain Canadian politicians of small calibre and ungenerous disposition, and in the press representing them. Hence the suggestion that as Mr. Foster was defeated in two elections he has no right to speak for the people of this country. Everybody knows that Mr. Foster does not profess to be a delegate of the Canadian people or claim to speak in a representative capacity. He is in Great Britain because Mr. Chamberlain and his friends invited him, and because he is himself a strong believer in the policy which they advocate. He appears, as he said in his first public address, as a citizen of the empire, and as such he has a right to address any body of people who desire to hear him. If Mr. Foster were a member of the Canadian parliament that fact alone would not authorize him to represent the people of Canada, or even the people of his own constituency on a issue which had not been submitted to them. If Mr. Foster attempts to prove that the Canadian people are in favor of imperial preferential trade he must prove it by the declaration of representative people or of bodies of people in Canada. But personally he is perhaps as good an exponent of the best Canadian opinion as Mr. Bourassa, who is a member of parliament.

Neither in England nor in this country is it considered a disgrace to have been defeated at the polls. Mr. Chamberlain himself has had that experience and Mr. Gladstone was defeated in two constituencies. Of the Canadian ministers now in office, no less than seven have experienced defeat at the polls. Sir Wilfrid as a minister of the crown was rejected by his native county, Sir Richard Cartwright was defeated at the close of his term as finance minister and again in another constituency four years later. He has represented or sought to represent five different constituencies in his time. Mr. Scott, the secretary of state, had his defeat, though for the last thirty years as a member of the senate he has been beaten in his county. Mr. Fisher, minister of agriculture, was beaten in 1880 and again in 1891. Mr. Paterson was defeated in Brant in 1896 and has changed his constituency twice since. Mr. Templeman, who assists Mr. Scott to lead the senate, and who is in the cabinet without office, has been three times defeated at the polls and not yet once elected. Of others who have been members of the present administration, Mr. Blair was twice defeated and has twice changed constituencies. Mr. Tarte has made no less than five changes and been twice defeated. Mr. Mills was once, and Sir Louis Davies at least once beaten. There is not much point in the sneers with which supporters of these public men, or Dr. Pugsley and Mr. Tweedie, who also have been beaten in their time, refer to Mr. Foster's failure to carry North Ontario against two corrupt governments, or to overcome a large adverse majority in St. John with similar forces against him.

A QUEER CRITICISM.

The view expressed by the Sun that the improvements of St. John harbor should be provided without further calls on the provincial or city treasury does not meet the approval of the local government organs. This is unfortunate for the organs, as we rather expect that the leader of the government will see that the Sun is right. This paper finds no fault with Mr. Tweedie's suggestion, but maintains that the province should not be called upon to further increase its debts for the purpose mentioned. It would be an easy thing, and perhaps smart party tactics for a St. John opposition paper to demand more for the port than Mr. Tweedie could possibly give. But St. John people ought to protect the provincial treasury as well as the treasury of the municipality from demands that should not be made.

One would think that this position would be appreciated by a journal like the Newfoundland Transcript, which sometimes gets quite excited over what it represents to be the grasping disposition of the people of this town. But the Transcript is becoming slightly demoralized over the actual and prospective increases in its subsidies, and is bound to do its best in denouncing the opposition and independent press, and in scolding Mr. Blair's constituents. So it says:

It is a pity that the good people of St. John should be placed in such an unreasonably hostile light by the insane antics of the Daily Sun and Star. The only reason is that the Tory campaign is misunderstood outside St. John's attitude, and there is a widespread feeling growing up throughout the province toward the metropolitan city.

It may be difficult to believe, but it is true, that this reflection is all on account of the view expressed that the provincial government should not be called upon to contribute further sums of money to St. John harbor improvement. The editor who represents that view as "hogwash," and charges that such expressions explain the unfriendly feeling towards St. John, has evidently something bad in the matter with the inside of his head. There is no unfriendly feeling toward St. John in the province, but there is the most cordial good fellowship, though apparently the writer of the above fantastic criticism does not know or feel it.

HOW TAYLOR REFORMED THE POSTMASTER GENERAL.

Parliament prorogued some time ago, but the Hansard report of the last few days is only now at hand. The official report shows how Sir William Mulock and the other official persons concerned were induced to permit the opposition "literature" to be forwarded with celerity. The postmaster general had made some startling reflections on the incendiary character of the arguments sent out, and had made a bitter complaint of the abuse of the franking privilege involved in piling up the corridors with tons of this mail matter. An order had been issued refusing to allow a consignment of a carload or two to be brought into the building and on a certain morning the bundles were lying in a stack on the green in front of the House. At the same time it was stated by Mr. Borden and not contradicted, that the government had sent out for several weeks an equivalent of twenty-five bags full each day, amounting in all to more than the opposition material. The difference was the postal authorities gave despatch to grit speeches while the fighting material of the Tories was allowed to accumulate. The last days of the session were at hand, and when the house should close the franking privilege of the opposition would go on franking through the departments. Appeal to Sir William Mulock brought no assurance that the office would grapple with the difficulty. He said that the literature was bad and that the department had not mail bags available to contain it. The case looked hopeless.

The opposition whip, Mr. Taylor, of Leeds, may not be the greatest of Canadian statesmen. At least he makes no such claim. But he is a good party man and a good business man, and one who knows and maintains his rights as a member of the house. He set himself to work to bring the postmaster general to terms. Notwithstanding the fact that the government hoped to close the session within a couple of days and had a large amount of business to bring forward, Mr. Taylor considered it necessary to vindicate the campaign literature from the charges made against it by Sir William Mulock. As the minister had introduced the subject it was natural that there should be a reply and the obvious answer was to produce the pamphlets and sheets to speak for themselves. Mr. Taylor read the head lines, setting forth the retrenchment promise of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues, and the sad fate that had befallen this engagement. Occasionally he inquired what there was in these statements that was either incendiary or untrue. Finally he reached the subject of the Grand Trunk Pacific and read the head lines of Mr. Blair's speech. The ex-minister's four-hour address was there in full and Mr. Taylor was about bringing the rules of the house by proceeding to read it, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier interposed and suggested a truce while he should have a little consultation with Sir William Mulock. The latter had just intimated that the campaign stuff would not be moved until Christmas. Mr. Taylor offered to continue his observations while the consideration of the ways and means of dealing with the literature should go on. But the premier requested that other business should be taken up and gave a preliminary assurance of satisfaction. Mr. Taylor somewhat reluctantly forbore the repetition of Mr. Blair's great speech.

Later in the day it was announced that an order had been given for the manufacture of a thousand mail bags. Then the opposition was assured that a second and third thousand would be procured if necessary within a few hours, and that a special railway train had been engaged to send the goods forward. Sir William stated that he thought two other trains would be required. But it was officially announced that the whole of the general matter, which the postmaster had allowed to be left for several weeks, and which he had reported to be beyond the power of the department to move for other days or weeks, would all be got out of the place and on the road within a few hours.

It was then that Mr. Borden paid Sir William a compliment on the rapidly increasing efficiency of his department, which had in a few hours been changed from an incapable organization into a machine of surprising power, efficiency and resource. But the credit for this transformation was really due to two persons, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Blair.

THE MEN HONORED.

The Canadians who have been remembered in the King's birthday honours are, with one exception, members of the federal or provincial service. Louis Philippe Herbert, the sculptor, is not an official. He is Canadian born and it was here he spent the first five years of his life. Though most of his time is now spent in Paris, he has devoted his attention largely to Canadian subjects. His work in this country includes the statue of De Salaberry at Chambly, those of Macdonald, Cartier and Mackenzie at Ottawa, the Mackenzie group and the Chénier statue at Montreal.

Deputy Minister Pinault has only served a few years in his present position. Dr. Bell is a veteran, having joined the geological survey in 1857, at the age of sixteen. Though he left the service to pursue his college studies and to act for a short time as professor of chemistry in Queen's University, he has been constantly on the survey for a third of a century. Dr. Bell is now, and has ever since the death of Dr. Dawson, been the acting chief, though for some reason not announced to the public, he has never been appointed director. Dr. Edwin Gilpin is well known to all who have had anything to do with the mines department in Nova Scotia. He is not only a scientific geologist but a practical mining engineer, and a copious writer on both the practical and academic aspects of geology. Mr. Hodgins is not only an official but an author and historian. He was deputy minister of education in Ontario for twenty-four years. Chief Architect Ewart is only known as an official, and Colonel Smith an officer of the house and in the militia.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND.

Travellers have thrown doubt on the story that Sir William V. Whiteaway and Mr. Morrison are about to organize a confederation party in Newfoundland. It is stated by one person with local knowledge that such a campaign under these or other leaders would fail.

We would suppose that this might be largely a matter of terms. At this moment Newfoundland is not in the same financial need that she was at the time of the conference between Premier Bond and the Bowell government at Ottawa. It is said that union arrangements could then have been made had Canada offered the equivalent of $5,000,000, or say $200,000 a year in addition to the sum proposed by the Dominion government. Canada offered to assume a debt in respect to Newfoundland considerably larger per head than the then existing debt of the Dominion. Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his colleagues did not see their way to go farther. In that they were wrong. It would have been good policy to accept Mr. Bond's terms, though it is doubtful if Mr. Bond could then have secured the consent of Newfoundland to unite with Canada. The financial straits of the colony would not affect the decision of the mass of the electorate, so much as it did the men in office. The people would reason that the trouble would blow over, as indeed it did.

Newfoundland has in the last three years been more prosperous than at any previous time in her history. But it is not certain that this activity will continue. The boom in lumber operations seems to be out of proportion to the timber resources of the island. Mr. Reid's operations will soon have passed the construction stage. Unless the supply of iron ore is very large the depletion that is now going on for export to Europe as well as for use at Cape Breton will, after a few years, make mining more expensive and less profitable. Sealing and fishing are staple industries, and for these the island has great natural advantages, including a population trained to the business. It may be taken for granted that the colony will have financial ease and down, and that the financial terms cannot be based on the conditions at either extreme.

The advantages which would come to Canada from such a union would not be material and financial. Whatever the terms of union might be, the advantages would have to be supplemented by a more generous support to look for than the Newfoundland people would at first ask or expect. New needs would arise, and new ambitions would be aroused. As a nation Canada would not directly make money out of Newfoundland. She would lose millions. But there would be a great imperial advantage in the continuity and consistency of British American policy. In dealing with foreign nations Canada and Newfoundland would no longer be working at cross purposes. There would be identical interests and an identical policy. We have an aggressive neighbor reaching out after everything in sight on this continent, exceeding clever at bargains, and never forgetting the national in the commercial advantage. We have a British Empire in which the dominant note ought to be and is one of unity and concentration. The people of Newfoundland are getting less out of their natural wealth and strong geographical position in the Empire than they ought to have. Union with Canada would be good for them and good for Canada.

Had union taken place ten years ago on the terms suggested by Sir Mackenzie Bowell the remainder of the subsidy, or allowance, which Mr. Bond asked for would have been obtained in some form long before this. Had Canada accepted the Newfoundland proposition and union taken place on these terms the balance sheet of Canada would have been today about the same as if union had been accomplished on Canada's terms. What is five millions to a government which is pledged to spend ten to twenty times that amount on a railway for which no one asked but the promoters of the Dominion? The advance of Dominion money voted for the Quebec bridge alone is far more than the amount that was in dispute between Sir Mackenzie and Mr. Bond.

If Newfoundland again reaches the point of negotiating terms of union with the rest of British America, it will be the fourth time. On the next occasion Canada may well go to the limit of generosity. On the other hand the people of Newfoundland know more of Canadian capital than they did before. Canadian capital is engaged in their lumber operations. Canadians have built their railways. Much of their financial business is done by branches of Canadian banks. Newfoundland ore is the raw material for the great Sydney industry. Her churches have ecclesiastical connections with religious bodies in Canada. We believe that on the whole the Newfoundland people have found Canadian good business associates, and that these relations have removed many prejudices born of isolation. In this country many natives of Newfoundland have pursued successful careers, in business, in the professions, and in public life. In Newfoundland some Canadians have been entrusted with large responsibilities. It ought to be possible for the people of Newfoundland to believe that Canadians would deal as fairly with them in Newfoundland as with those in this country, and that Canadians at home may be trusted as well as those who have gone to the older colony.

RAPID RECOGNITION.

United States issues concerning the recognition of insurgent states have undergone some changes in the last forty years. Several states of the American union revolted and formed an independent government. That government was organized with an army and navy and its rule was accepted with practical unanimity by states having a population of several millions. No foreign nation recognized this insurgent government. The farthest that Great Britain went was to issue a proclamation of neutrality, thus recognizing the confederates as belligerents. The government at Washington was very angry about that, though belligerent rights were extended by the federal officers in the field, who could do nothing else with so formidable a foe.

On Monday, eight days ago, there was peace through the states or provinces of the republic of Colombia. A United States ship of war arrived that day at Colon. On Tuesday a certain group at Colon declared that Panama, which comprised about a fifteenth part of the republic of Colombia, was no longer subject to the central government. A Colombian gunboat, representing the government of the country, offered some slight resistance and two Chinamen were killed. On Wednesday marines from the United States ship landed. Other United States ships had then been ordered to the spot. On Thursday the organizers of the new state of Panama had become a government, and on Friday the government was "recognized" by Washington.

There is no doubt that the whole movement was organized by United States citizens. The process is much the same as the annexation of Hawaii. At Honolulu there was a monarchy. A sudden conspiracy occurred. The United States—by accident, of course—had a squadron at hand. Marines were landed and kept the peace, but not until after the queen had been deposed and the rebels were in charge. The in-surgers were recognized and when they handed the nation over to the United States, the gift was accepted. It is true that President Cleveland strongly condemned the whole proceeding, declaring that the navy had broken the law of nations, and that the annexation was illegal. But he kept the country.

A BURNS MONUMENT.

Members of the society of St. Andrew and other sons of Scotland in Fredericton have conceived the patriotic and ambitious design of erecting a statue of Burns in the provincial capital. The idea does them honor, and the undertaking of the Fredericton promoters to raise $500 shows that they are in earnest. Perhaps still stronger proof is afforded by the ten who have already subscribed $100 each. While lovers and countrymen of Burns in this city and elsewhere would naturally like to see the poet's statue in their own town, they will agree that it may appropriately be placed in the capital city, especially since Fredericton has taken the lead in the movement.

U. S. CONGRESS.

Met in Special Session and Completed Organization.

J. G. Cannon of Illinois Elected Speaker of House of Representatives.

A Bill to Protect the President and Foreign Ministers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The house of representatives of the 58th congress today held its first session, and except for the naming of committees which will follow later, organization was completed. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, whose elevation to the Speakership was assured months ago, was formally elected as Speaker and inducted into office. Mr. Cannon received the applause of democrats and republicans alike when he took up the gavel of authority.

The officers were re-elected and the customary resolution adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to notify the president and senators of the election of a Speaker and clerk, and a committee to join a senate committee to notify the president of the presence of a quorum in the two bodies. The hour of meeting was fixed for 12 o'clock.

The rules of the 57th congress were adopted for the 58th congress by an aye and nay vote, after a brief discussion of the question which the minority sought an increase in the democratic representation on the committee.

The drawing of seats, in which old members alike take deep concern, occupied a greater portion of the day's session.

A pretty compliment was paid the leaders and veterans of both sides in the connection, today being permitted to select their seats without drawing lots.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A bill prescribing the death penalty for the crime of killing the president of the United States, the vice president, ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries accredited to the United States, was introduced in the house today by Mr. Littlefield (Maine). The bill prescribes life imprisonment for attempts to commit bodily injury against the president or vice president. Persons who aid or abet any of the crimes mentioned are deemed principal offenders. The harboring of persons guilty of the offences mentioned is punishable by 25 years imprisonment. A fine and imprisonment penalty is provided for the teaching of anarchistic doctrine, and for conspiring within or without the United States for the killing of a ruler or chief executive of any other country.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A bill providing for the removal of the interior from Swan River, Man., which is the nearest railway station to the Doukhobors' settlement at Thunder Hill, makes it clear that the report recently sent out of a riot in which three Doukhobors were killed, was a pure fabrication.

According to the information received the Doukhobors are all busy ploughing and sowing their crops here and there. They are happy and content. The fake story was sent broadcast throughout the United States, and is being widely circulated, and is being carried on by the press, more especially in the western states.

DECISION REVERSED. The case of the King, on the information of "Andy" Irvine, v. Geo. Totten of the St. John police force was disposed of in the county court yesterday afternoon.

Irvine was arrested on Sept. 30 last by Officer Totten for being drunk, and sentenced to a term in jail. On Oct. 7th he laid information against Officer Totten, charging him with assault. The officer was convicted before Magistrate Ritchie and fined $20. An appeal was made to Judge Forbes, and the case was tried before him yesterday afternoon. The conviction was quashed and the $20 ordered to be refunded. Irvine was the only witness for the prosecution. He testified that he was hit after being put in a cell the night of his arrest. He did not know who hit him. Could not swear that it was Officer Totten. As this was the only evidence for the prosecution it was thought necessary to produce any evidence to the contrary. His Honor said that he did not see how a conviction could be made on that evidence. Peter's Bay was put to a lot of unnecessary trouble and expense. His Honor ordered the conviction to be quashed. Hazen & Raymond appeared for Officer Totten.

COURT ADJOURNED SINE DIE. On Saturday between 12 and 1 o'clock a fierce thunder storm passed over the eastern part of P. E. Island. The steeple of the R. C. Chapel at St. Peter's Bay was struck by the electric fluid, which passed inside and did considerable damage to the interior of the edifice, shattering the woodwork, etc. in one end of the building—Guardian, 9th.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Peruna in the Home for Catarrhal Diseases.

MR. AND MRS. J. O. ATKINSON, INDEPENDENCE, MO. UNDER date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife had been suffering from a complication of diseases for the past 25 years. Her case had baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing.

"She also was passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life. In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her. She is now as healthy as I have ever been, and I am completely cured me.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of 25 years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me.

"Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more. Catarrh cannot exist where Peruna is taken according to directions. Success to you and your remedies."

John O. Atkinson.

PARRSBORO. Launch of Schooner From Yard at Spencer's Island—St. John Distanced.

PARRSBORO, N. B., Nov. 8.—The schooner Myrtle Leaf was successfully launched today from the shipyard of Capt. Johnson Spicer at Spencer's Island. The launch was to have taken place last week, but was postponed on account of bad weather until today. This is the last launch of the season, which entails up two large barges, eight three-masted schooners, one two-masted schooner and two tugs, representing the round figure of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Parrsboro now owns the finest fleet of tern schooners in the dominion and bids fair to control a large amount of the Bay of Fundy carrying trade.

PERILS OF THE SEA. The crew of the United States schooner Hamburg, wrecked on the rocks of the Bay of Fundy, in last Thursday night's gale, reached Moncton last evening and were cared for by the U. S. consul. The men escaped with barely the clothes they stood in and suffered much from exposure. The United States consul will send them to their homes in Machiasport, Me., today.

HARD ARGUMENTS. Coffee Uses Them Whether one Likes or Not. The ill effects of coffee are present in many coffee drinkers but some people pay no attention to the warning signals. Like dyspepsia, insomnia, nervousness, fluttering of the heart, etc., and coffee finally uses a knock down argument which means collapse on the part of the coffee drinker.

"I am 80 years old and have drunk coffee since I can remember until four years ago when I broke down completely with nervous prostration and indigestion. I simply cannot describe the agony I suffered. "Doctor told me he could not help me if I did not leave coffee alone so I bought some Postum and tried it. At first I did not know how to make it and was disappointed in the taste. But after reading the directions on the package carefully, I made it right, and then I thought it better than coffee. At that time I weighed 140 pounds and now I weigh 135 pounds, that's quite a gain isn't it? I never have indigestion now and the headaches are all gone and I am otherwise entirely well and strong. "I never had any troubles that were not due to drinking coffee and these disappeared and health came in their place when I shut off coffee and drank Postum." Clothing for Growing Boys

From the little tot just out of dresses, to the big 17-year-old fellow who can scarcely get trousers long enough to cover his knees—it takes a wide range of styles and sizes to keep up with such a procession, but we are doing it.

A cute little tot yesterday was trying on one of those Russian Suits in Red with bloomer trousers for $4.00, and he was as proud as a peacock when he looked at himself in the mirror.

Over on the other side of the store was a High-School boy putting on a fine big overcoat made of good tough Frieze, well tailored, and cost only $6.50.

Double-Breasted Suits, $2.00 to $6.00 Russian Suits, - - - $3.50 to $6.00 Norfolk Suits, - - - 2.50 to 6.00 Sailor Suits, - - - 75c to 12.00 Three-Piece Suits, - - - 3.00 to 10.00 Boys' Overcoats, - - - 3.75 to 8.50

P. S.—Boys are notoriously hard on trousers, and we have the main seams of our boys' trousers double stitched and taped. Sizes up to 10 years have waist band as well as buttons.

50 cents to $1.75.

MEN'S OVERCOATS - - Winter Weights.

Ready! From $5 to $25—and such a fine looking lot you never saw. "This will be the banner seller," says a salesman. "No this one will," says another. "Both wrong—here's the star coat," chimes in a third.

And so it goes—all the styles so good that no one can pick the best. The cardinal principle here is, give the biggest value possible. Men like it, and pass the news on. We like it too. Word of mouth advertising is very much to our liking.

Good Warm Coats and Stylish, $5 to $25.

After his father's death, in 1872, he gave up his ordinary mercantile pursuits to engage in a general auction and brokerage business, and was long known as the leading member of his profession.

He was for six years a member of the Common Council, representing Queens ward, and in 1888-89 filled the office of mayor, discharging the duties in a judicious and business-like manner.

He was for many years the issuer of marriage licenses. On March 31, 1900, Mr. Lockhart was appointed collector of customs, and has since discharged the duties with general acceptance.

In 1884 he married Miss Mary E. Lawton, and she died the following year, leaving one son, Dr. F. Lockhart of Montreal. In 1888 he married Miss Harriett A. Gillmore, a step-daughter of the late Hon. Wm. Elder, and sister of John W. Gillmore.

She, with four children, survive. The children are Wm. A. of the firm of Messrs. HATCH UNTERRIFIED

By Adirondack Threats to Take His Life.

Member of Lord and Taylor, New York, Will Fight Forestry Pollution to the Death, and Will Appeal to Governor and the Courts to Enforce the Law.

(N. Y. Paper.) Aroused by threats made by the lawless element in the Adirondacks against the life of the property of Edward Hatch, Jr., of the firm of Lord & Taylor, who preserve life east of the scene of the Dexter tragedy, the wealthy residents and land owners in the Lake Champlain region are determined to aid Mr. Hatch in the fight against the mill owners who have been turning their chemical refuse into the river, which has polluted the waters and shores of the lake and killed the fish.

TO FORCE OBEDIENCE TO LAW. "So far as the mill owners and myself are concerned," said he, "there is no personal enmity that I am aware of. On the contrary, our social relations are very friendly. It is only the rift that the mill region who could possibly look upon me as an enemy. As a matter of fact, my friends and other property holders interested do not want to close up the offending mills and thus throw hundreds out of employment. We simply want the mill owners to be made to observe the true pollution of the rivers and lake. When it comes to a final test we feel sure that rather than close the mills, their owners will spend the necessary money and find other means of disposing of the mill refuse."

Mr. Hatch said he intended to return to the mill region again in a few days, and he declared he had no fear of personal violence. "I'm in this fight to win out," he concluded, "and all the threats and bluffs in the world won't stop me."

It is expected that within a few days the results of the official investigation of the waters of the lake and the Bouquet and Au Sable rivers, recently made by Professor Olin H. Landreth, consulting engineer of the state department of health, will be placed in the hands of Governor Odell. It is expected that the governor, on the basis of the report, will proceed to close the local health officers either to close the mills or adopt some effective method of getting rid of the chemical refuse that now finds its way into the lake. If action is long delayed, Governor Odell it is the declared intention of those actively interested to apply to the supreme court for an injunction to close the mills, and it is believed that this is the only way to secure it.

INVENTS ROZORLESS SHAVER. Dr. Dreyfus, Chemist of Bellevue Hospital, Formulary Tells Every Man May Become His Own Barber.

(New York Herald.) According to Dr. W. E. Dreyfus, chemist of the department of public and Bellevue Hospital, no shaver any more if he follows Dr. Dreyfus' instructions, which he has prepared for the hospital formulary, which is one of the most complete in the world. This formula is a basis every year for the pharmaceutical association. The formula contains 387 ingredients that are to be mixed into a paste. According to the inventor, the shaver is to be used in the chin or other parts of the face for about two minutes, it will hair off smoothly, giving a hair to what is known as "a shave."

Formula is as follows: Barbitol 25 parts; salicylic acid, 5 parts; menthol, 10 parts; benzaldehyde, 10 parts; salicylic acid, 10 parts; menthol, 10 parts; benzaldehyde, 10 parts. The formula also includes remedies for rheumatism and a disinfectant for the shaver.

terested himself in the contest. In speaking with a reporter yesterday of the pollution of the lake, Father Lavelle said that he had often noticed the presence of impurities in the water, which he had been told had been caused by the refuse of the pulp mills.

FOR SOME TIME he said, "I have been trying to get the authorities of the States of New York and Vermont and of Canada to unite in taking some concerted and uniform action tending to abate the nuisance, and also to stop the illegal seining of the waters of the State of New York and Vermont, which is the cause of the contamination of the rivers and lake by the pulp mills in question, and if the present investigation made by Gov. McCullough of Vermont, which is being conducted by the State Board of Health holds the mill owners responsible, I think immediate action should be taken compelling them to adopt some other method of getting rid of their refuse than by turning it into the lake waters, or falling in an appeal to the supreme court. This can be done, I firmly believe."

In commenting on the present status of the case, Mr. Hatch said: "It appears that Lake Champlain is not the only body of water in which fish are dying by the thousands as a result of poisonous chemicals dumped into tributary water by paper mills, which thus disregard the rights of the public, instead of otherwise disposing of their refuse. According to the Paper Trade Journal's Indianapolis correspondent, five suits for damages against the American Straw Board Company have been instituted by Madison county land owners, and transferred to the United States circuit court."

The complaints allege that the Straw Board Company pours into White River more than 800,000 gallons of refuse daily from its plant, which it is alleged, has had the effect of polluting the stream. The poisonous qualities of this refuse have killed all the fish in the stream below the mill, and in addition made the water so bad that cattle will not drink it. Another cause of complaint against the paper company is that the debris thrown into the stream lodges along the banks of the river, making the vicinity unhealthy, owing to the odors that arise therefrom.

"From Dayton, Ohio, also come complaints of a similar nature. It is stated that great schools of dead fish have appeared on the surface of the rivers in that vicinity, and the health authorities, impelled to take action by the complaints of citizens interested in fish and game, have determined to find out the exact status of affairs in that connection. It is declared that the state authorities will take up the case, and if the straw board manufacturers make it warm for them.

Divorce Cases in Which Maritime People Will Figure.

A Nova Scotia Amateur Detective Arrested at New York Charged With Murder—St. John Couple Celebrate 55th Anniversary of Marriage—C. P. R., St. John and Boston—The Markets.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Taking advantage of the warm, Indian summer weather, the agricultural department of the city of Boston is busily engaged in ploughing up Boston Common, upon which this year the city has been allowed to graze. Farming has never been so tempting in the city until this year, but as it cost the city $5,000, it has not been a particularly profitable operation.

October was a busy month in the divorce court here, several provincialists, as usual, figuring on the docket. Two cases of interest among New Brunswick people will be heard in December, one at Cambridge and one in this city. In the superior court for Suffolk county here, Mrs. Martha A. Vaughan has brought a bill for divorce from Ebenezer S. Vaughan, now in parts unknown. The couple were united in marriage at Lower Brighton, a small Carleton county village, above Woodstock, N. B., in 1848. The petitioner claims that she was deserted in November, 1897. She also asks for the custody of Harry R., Ernest B., Ida May and Chester L. Vaughan, her children, and for the support of the children. The case will not be heard before October.

The other New Brunswick case is that of Mrs. Cordelia McLean, who has entered a libel for divorce in the superior court for Middlesex county, at East Cambridge, from Angus L. McLean. The McLeans were married at Moncton on Aug. 28, 1887, and for many years resided in the railroad city. In the middle of April, 1898, Mrs. McLean alleges that her husband, Edward Devau, a mere druggist, and a "deserted" man, also alleged that she was cruelly treated, and charges the libelous with other misdemeanors. McLean, who is now a resident of Boston, has been notified of the case and is expected to appear in court at East Cambridge on Dec. 7, and show cause, if any, why the prayer of the petition should not be granted.

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 6.—Last night's C. P. R. train collision at Hillsboro, N. B., resulted in the death of a night freight going from Truro to Moncton, causing some delay, but doing little damage. It appears that the train had orders to stop at Belmont, but when the C. P. R. came along the freight was hauling into the siding, and it is supposed that the driver of the C. P. R. mistook the signals being given by the freight train men and thought the line was clear. About five or six feet of the van was still on the main line when struck by the C. P. R. engine.

AN INTERESTING CASE. CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Nov. 5.—The case of Isaac Lane v. John Wheeler was argued before the supreme court today. This is a suit instituted by the plaintiff to recover from the defendant eight thousand dollars, a penalty alleged to have been incurred by the defendant by occupying a seat in the provincial legislature after becoming disqualified, and thought by acting as counsel in certain crown business before the supreme court and being paid for his services. The defendant denies, claiming that the engagement of a barrister who is also a member does not under the statute disqualify him. The case is exciting curiosity.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. CANADA SHOULD ACT PROMPTLY TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN: Sir,—As one of the first, if not the very first, to call attention to the duty of the Canadian government to acquire the Greenland, and so to prevent our eastern coast a repetition of what has taken place on the west, I am greatly pleased to see that you have taken the trouble to publish the Winnipeg Telegram of the 2nd inst. The quotation closes an excellent article on "Lessons to be Learned from the Greenland Case."

Some changes must be made to guard against similar mistakes in the future. Our external relations, as distinguished from our purely domestic, are already so important that we must have a responsible minister in charge of those concerns, one whose business it is to think ahead and to see that our interests are preserved, one whom we can hold directly responsible. The Commonwealth of Australia has a minister of External Affairs, and we must have it. It would be easy to illustrate from events at the time of the South African war how indefinite and unorganized our system is with respect to the management of our external relations.

WHICH IS WHICH? (Worcester Spy.) If the sun spots cause electrical disturbances of such great magnitude as those observed recently in Europe and the United States there will be new developments in the electrical world. If the electrical storms are caused by sun spots and sun spots are caused by electrical storms, we should like to know what causes the electrical storms.

HERE'S A PUZZLE FOR YOU. Nearly a hundred years ago this problem was propounded by one of the puzzle-makers of that day: When first the marriage knot was tied Between my wife and me, My days did burn as fast as wax As 3 times 3 does 9. My wife when 7 years and twice 7 years My man and wife had been, Her age came then as near to mine As 8 is to 16.

There is no guesswork about the virtues of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has been before the people too long, and withstood too many a battle brunt from aspiring rivals, to be considered an experiment of unknown value.

Coughs, Colds and Croup.

Children especially are fond of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, because it is sweet and pleasant to the taste, and quickly relieves and cures them when gasping for breath with choked-up air passages, or tearing the linings of the throat and bronchial tubes with a severe and painful cough. Bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, sore throat, severe chest colds and painful coughs are relieved and cured promptly and thoroughly by this famous preparation. It also frees the asthma sufferer from the dreadful paroxysms which cause him such keen agony and cures asthma, as has been proven in a hundred cases.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine aids expectoration, clears the throat and air passages, soothes the bronchial tubes, and cures coughs of every description. But it is far more than a mere cough cure, for its action is far-reaching and it thoroughly removes the cold as well.
