The Coroners Verdict.

Winnipeg, N. S., Nov. 5.—After an exhaustive examination, lasting all day, the coroner's jury on the death of Charles McCarley, the victim of Friday's Peewash shooting, returned a verdict last night as follows: "That deceased, Charles McCarley, came to his death by a wound in the arm from a bullet in the hands of John A. McCarthy."

McCarthy is held for preliminary examination.

W. T. Piper, K. C., counsel for prosecution, C. B. Smith, K. C., and T. R. Rogers, Amherst lawyers, were present at the examination.

A meeting of the Conservatives of Amherst district this afternoon, the following gentlemen were nominated for municipal elections: John E. Roach, Nappan; A. W. Leister, and Fred W. Thompson, East Lawrence.

Dr. J. W. Moore, formerly of St. John, N. B.,

lecturer of Kane & Wetmore, Amherst, was operated on yesterday afternoon for removal of his gall bladder. Mr. Wetmore has been in the city some time and his physicians decided that it was impossible to postpone the operation longer. Dr. J. Stevens of

Amherst, who was called by two of Amherst's physicians, attended the operation, which was successful. Dr. Stevens was most successful and the patient is now recovering. Dr. Stevens is expected to return to his recovery.

KILLED IN AFRICA.

Col. Benson Dies of Wounds Near Bethel.

SEVERE ENGAGEMENT.

In Which British Lost 59 Men and Two Officers—Boers Surprised them in Mist.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Lord Kitchener has reported to the War Office an attack on the British near Bethel, Eastern Transvaal, in which two guns were lost, several officers killed and wounded and fifty-five men killed and wounded.

The following is the text of Lord Kitchener's despatch, dated Pretoria, November 1: "I have just heard of a severe attack made on the east guard of Col. Benson's column, when about twenty miles north-east of Bethel, near Brakenlaage, during thick mist.

"The strength of the enemy is reported to have been a thousand. They rushed two guns with the rear guard, but it is uncertain whether they were able to remove them.

"I fear our casualties were heavy. Col. Benson was wounded, but not severely. A relieving column will reach him this morning."

Later Lord Kitchener telegraphs as follows:

"Col. Barter, who marched from the constabulary line yesterday, reached Benson's column early this morning (Friday) unopposed. He reports that Col. Benson died of his wounds.

"The casualties are the following: 'Killed—Col. Guinness, Major F. D. Murray, Captain S. W. M. Lindsay and F. T. Thorold; Lieut. E. V. I. Brook and R. E. Sheppard, and Second Lieut. A. J. Corlett.

"Died of his wounds—Capt. Eyre Lloyd." Lord Kitchener then gives the names of thirteen other officers who were wounded, most of them severely, and announces that fifty-four non-commissioned officers and men were killed, and 160 wounded, adding that four of the latter have since died of their wounds.

"I deeply regret the loss of Colonel Benson and the officers and men who fell with him. In Benson, the service loses a most gallant and capable officer, who invariably led his column with marked success and judgment.

"The fighting was at very close quarters and continued with great determined action by both sides. The enemy suffered heavily, but I have not yet received a reliable estimate.

"The Boers retired east."

Pretoria, Nov. 3.—Further details have been received regarding the attack by the Boers under Commandant General Louis Botha last week upon Col. Benson's column near Brakenlaage, Eastern Transvaal. It appears that General Botha, who had been joined by another big commando, aggregating a thousand men, attacked Col. Benson's rear guard October 30, on the march and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Col. Benson fell mortally wounded in the fight.

Major Woods-Sampson took command, collected the convoy and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from the main column. The Boers were so situated that neither side could reach them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to break through the British force, charging repeatedly right up to the British lines and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defence was stubbornly maintained through the night and the following day and the successful relief of Col. Barter, who had been cut off from Bushman's Kop, being effected in the morning of November 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated at between 300 to 400.

Col. Benson's long survive.

Not only did General Botha direct the attack, but he was personally in the thick of the fighting.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The special despatches from South Africa reveal practically nothing further about the disaster to Col. Benson's column. It appears that the first attack was made in a blinding rain.

Major Woods-Sampson, who is a Boer hunter and a very experienced soldier, was gathered in the rear of a hill, a most difficult position to be assumed in London.

The Boers remained in British, but the telegraph point.

TO FIGHT THE BOERS.

More Men To Be Sent Out—The Cavalry Difficulty—Boers To Retire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—On meeting upon the South African military situation, the London correspondent of the Tribune says: It is understood to be the intention of the War office to send five thousand more mounted men out to South Africa during the next six weeks. There are only about seven thousand mounted men at home, so that the military authorities are faced with the problem of training soldiers minus the necessary accompaniment of a cavalry arm. To meet this obvious failing it is probable that several composite regiments of Yeomanry will be voluntarily embodied for home service. A move will soon be made to bring home from South Africa the men who have served over two years in the war, and their places may be taken by the British cavalry division of seven regiments now in India.

At the service club it is rumored that Lord Roberts is anxious to retire. He has never intended to remain the full period at the War office, and he is credited with a desire to pass the winter of his days in quiet retirement in India. While the war lasts, however, it is almost certain the Commander-in-chief will not leave his post, reports to the contrary, notwithstanding.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—At to-day's session of the South African compensation commission, Major General Sir John Ardagh, the representative of the government, announced that the Netherlands had accepted Great Britain's terms for the settlement of the claims of Dutch subjects for damages as the result of their explosion from South Africa.

HALIFAX, Nov. 4.—Orders were received from the War office to-day to despatch to South Africa five hundred specially selected Royal Artillery men, serving on this garrison, without delay. Capt. Duffus, a Halifaxian, will command. An officer, interviewed by your correspondent, said: "We take with us six of the latest and most improved type of Maxim, and of course, we will be well equipped with other arms. A number of artillerymen will arrive here on Wednesday from Bermuda on the steamer Beta. The men to be taken from Halifax will be selected. The recent reverses in South Africa, together with the little trouble at the War office relative to the dismissal of Buller and other matters, is not looking upon in a too favorable light. The recent reverses attending British arms in Africa has had the tendency of intensifying the feeling against the War office, and the imperial authorities will take prompt measures to bring the war with the Boers to a speedy termination as possible."

TURKEY MAKES CLAIM TO BRITISH PROTECTION.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—"The Porte has asked Great Britain," says the correspondent of Echo de Paris, "to fulfill the terms of the convention of 1878 whereby, in exchange for the island of Cyprus, Great Britain guarantees the integrity of the Sultan's Asiatic possessions."

"The Porte claims under this convention that Great Britain should protect Asiatic Turkey against attack by France and suggests that Great Britain should send a squadron to the Levant for that purpose."

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail says that he understands that despatches have been received at the French capital announcing that Admiral Caillaud's division of the French Mediterranean squadron has arrived at Smyrna and seized the customs.

DEATH OF W. E. RENNELS.

District Superintendent of the I. C. R. at Campbellton.

CAMPBELLTON, Nov. 3.—News of the death of Wm. E. Rennels, district superintendent of the Intercolonial, which occurred at Matland, N. S., was heard with regret here to-day. Mr. Reynolds had been in poor health for some time, and in August accompanied by Mrs. Reynolds, went to England. A few weeks ago they returned to Halifax, but Mr. Reynolds was too ill to resume work. Chief train despatcher Evan Price has been performing the duties of district superintendent in the absence of Mr. Reynolds.

Boers got away with Benson's Guns.

PRETORIA, Nov. 4.—It is known that the Boers got away with two guns captured from Col. Benson's column in the recent engagement near Brakenlaage, Eastern Transvaal.

Ashore at Cape Breton.

HALIFAX, Nov. 3.—The Norwegian steamer Kong Haakon, from Cape Town, due for Cardiff with mails, is ashore at Isle Madame, C. B., full of water. She struck a rock at midnight. Tug F. W. Roebeling was dispatched to the scene from Mulgrave this morning. The steamer is 1,475 tons and was formerly the British steamer Earlsdale.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—It is announced that the Duke of Cornwall and York will shortly receive the title of Prince of Wales.

OVER THE WIRES.

Pan-American Exhibition is Closed.

FRANCE AND TURKEY

A Large Cordwood Contract. Steamer Ashore at Cape Breton.

Pan-American Closed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The Pan-American exposition closed at 12 o'clock to-night. At midnight, President John G. Milburn pressed an electric button and the lights in the now famous electric tower grew dimmer the last time. Slowly, one by one, the lights on post and pinnacle and tower faded away. A corps of bagpipers standing in the tower sounded "taps," and one of the greatest glories of the exposition, the electric illumination passed away, and the exposition was ended.

The exposition has not been a financial success, but the benefits derived from it will be of great value to the commercial interests of the country. The primary object of the exposition was to advance the friendly relations and commercial intercourse between the United States and the other countries of the two Americas. In this respect it has been a decided success.

The financial loss will be in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, which will fall upon the holders of the common stock, the holders of second mortgage bonds and the contractors who erected the buildings. Two hundred and ten thousand shares of common stock was subscribed for by the citizens of Buffalo and the Niagara frontier the small lots of from one share to 100, and that this loss of $2,100,000 will not be seriously felt by anyone.

French Menace Has Had Effect.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The despatch of Admiral Caillaud's squadron from Toulon to Turkish waters has already had its effect. The French foreign office this morning, received a telegram from M. Bagat, councillor of the French legation at Constantinople, announcing that the sultan, yesterday, sent him a message accepting all the French claims, including the Loroand claim. But the correspondent here of the Associated Press is authorized to say that the French government will refuse to accept this surrender as a satisfactory settlement of the difficulty, as the sultan imagines she will do. On the contrary, France will now demand compensation for the moral injury caused to her by the sultan's conduct during the past three months. This compensation will be in the shape of an adjustment of the French protectorate over Catholics in the Orient, on a satisfactory basis, and guarantees for safeguarding the development of the French schools in the east. Adequate guarantees will also be demanded for a settlement of the Loroand claim and other claims. Moreover, France will strikingly reaffirm its prestige by sending M. Constant, the French ambassador, back to Constantinople on board a warship.

Frank From Canada.

TORONTO, Nov. 2.—The Telegram's special cable from London says: "At Portsmouth yesterday, on the occasion of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall's return from the colonies, the police arrested a Dutchman claiming Canada as his home, who said he had come to England to urge King Edward to put a stop to the war in South Africa."

Parliament Meeting.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—The statement sent out from a press agency in Toronto that the date for the meeting of Parliament had been fixed is not correct. Nothing has been done about the matter yet.

The militia department has received from England the long service medals to be awarded to members of the Canadian militia who have served for twenty years or more. The long service decorations for officers are expected in a week or thereabouts.

Another Oil Strike.

MONTREAL, N. B., Nov. 1.—The New Brunswick Oil and Petroleum Company prosecuting boring operations for oil at St. Joseph's College, struck another flow of oil today, in well No. 7. The oil was found in about the same quality as in the other wells and the prospect is greatly encouraged. Oil has been struck in four of the seven wells sunk. All wells are in close proximity to each other and in each oil has been struck at about the same depth. The boring will be continued during the fall and winter.

Run over by an Electric.

QUEBEC, Nov. 4.—Amédée Lavoie, belonging to Little River, near Quebec, was run over tonight by an electric car on St. Paul street and dangerously, if not fatally injured.

Cutting Down Forest.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—Mr. H. R. McLellan, of St. John, N. B., who has the contract for the supplying of the Clergue enterprises with wood, announced in an interview with a Star representative this morning, that 44,000 cords of wood had already been cut in fulfilling the contract.

The wood is all lying near railway connections, and will be easy of delivery. None of it, however, has so far been delivered. Mr. McLellan is carrying out his contract under an exclusive steam logging plant, an apparatus used for the first time in Canada in this connection.

DEATH ROLL OF ALPS.

Fatal Accidents The Penalty of Mountain Climbing.

Dotted about all over the vast chains of Alpine hills which beset central Europe are tiny cairns and monuments which many a tourist passes by with no more than a glance.

Yet each one of these little monuments tells in brief words the gist of a terrible calamity, for they are the tributes of loving friends to the memory of those who have attempted to scale the fearsome heights of the Alps and who by awful falls or the overwhelming avalanche have paid the forfeit of their rashness with their lives.

Since the first of January of this year 118 accidental deaths have occurred in the Swiss Alps alone.

In the matter of Alpine feats it seems that women are no less courageous than men. Last year an English tourist, Miss Thompson, of London, essayed alone to scale the Engleberg, in Unterwald, Switzerland. For some distance her way led over a well defined trail, but at length the precipitous sides of the great peak had to be tackled. Rounding a ledge and perched at a great height Miss Thompson paused and the action no doubt cost her her life. The great thing in climbing is to keep at it and not let the mind or the eye dwell on the gulf below. Miss Thompson hesitated and was lost. She became giddy and fell with terrific speed on to the points of rocks below. She fell between two points and such was the force of the impact that her body was so tightly wedged in that it could not be removed without blasting away the rocks.

In the year 1900 no less than 2,000,500 sightseers registered in the Alpine districts of Switzerland between the months of January and October.

As if in warning each year the French Alpine club issues a list of the accidents that have occurred during the previous season, but the real Alpine enthusiast pays no heed to the hints of danger.

One of the last recorded deaths was on Aug. 23. Mrs. Wickham Smith of Brooklyn had started for a trip over the Eureka Pass. She longed to see the great ice cavern rising in a majestic blue arch above a rushing stream of the river Rhone. In this instance the accident that led to death was in no wise due to the carelessness of the victim, nor is it frequent in its happening in the Alps. It came unforeseen and unheralded. As Mrs. Smith, filled with enthusiasm and reverence, stood at the entrance of the grotto, she was struck by a huge falling sheet of ice. The force of the blow was tremendous felling her instantly.

Nervous Depression and Bodily Weakness.

Another Woman Who Has Found Health, Strength and Vigor in the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To women especially Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is proving to be a very great blessing. So many women are weakened and debilitated by overwork, worries or diseases peculiar to their sex, and need the assistance of just such a restorative as this great food cure.

Mrs. M. A. McCrea, Tory Hill, Ont., writes: "My system was all run down when I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was weak and very nervous and felt so tired and worn out that I could scarcely drag myself about the house. It seemed impossible for me to get rest or sleep at night, and I felt that I was gradually growing weaker and more nervous and irritable. Since beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I feel altogether different. It has built up my system wonderfully. I sleep well now, and am being thoroughly restored to health and strength. I believe it is the best medicine to be had for the nerves."

its icy needle, that rises 14,826 feet into the air, seems to hold forth more temptation to the defiant climber than any of the Alpine peaks.

Thirteen victims have surrendered their lives there in 36 years.

Perhaps one of the most harrowing accidents recorded is the tragic death of Mrs. Marke of Liskeard, Cornwall, in 1870. She, in company with a guide, had attempted to scale the heights above what is known as "The Corridor." Numerous crevasses had to be crossed, and it was while negotiating one of these that Mrs. Marke slipped and fell. For some time she hung suspended by the rope which was attached to the waist of the guide, but gradually the icy edges gave way. There was a sickening rush, and lady and guide hurtled to their doom. Yet the fascination of the snow capped peak still entices.

The last time it was a broken rope that hurled to destruction.

Only a few weeks ago Dr. Black and Miss Bell, both well known in England, started out with a party of seven jolly companions and a guide to do, as the saying is the great Matterhorn.

One can picture the scene without much difficulty.

A fine day, under a clear sky, and a small party of fearless men and women who had made up their minds to see all the beauty that the Alps can afford.

They had toiled well upward on their journey, singing and cheering as they went, happy and exultant, laughing at danger as one might in a quiet street of some suburban city.

After the most accredited manner of Alpine climbing there were some dozen strong ropes. Slipping and sliding they climbed for about four hours to what is known as the Fille du Lion and then on to the Grand Staircase, which is regarded as a point of safety.

There the exultant cheers rang forth.

All the way up to that cliff they had been perpetually looking down upon frightful precipices and cold, abyssal depths.

They started on the decent without a tremor. The ice on the rocks, the danger of slides and stone falls, the smooth, steep ledges, intimidated them not a whit.

With light hearts they were crossing an icy slope between what is known as the head and neck of the so called Lion when suddenly Miss Bell slipped, fell forward and clutched Mr. Black.

It was the beginning of the end.

The man lost his grip. The rope tightened and dragged the men and women above. For an instant it seemed as though the whole party would be hurled to the terrible abyss that yawned black and threatening below the neck of the Lion.

Then suddenly the rope snapped parted, and two inanimate bodies were hurled like pebbles down, down from ledge to ledge somewhere into the vast depth below.

You May Need Pain-Killer

For Cuts Burns Bruises Cramps Diarrhoea All Bowel Complaints

It is a sure, safe and quick remedy. There's only one PAIN-KILLER. FERRY DAVIS' Two sizes, 25c. and 50c.

Yet to dispense with a rope in mountain climbing is set forth by connoisseurs as the most reckless of acts. Dr. Mosely tried the experiment. When his body was finally recovered, his friends were shocked to find one of his boots left without a single nail.

Frequent visitors to the Alps and those who have made a study of the accidents that have occurred there divide them into four classes, those due to carelessness, those due to unforeseen and unavoidable incidents, those due to ignorance and those due to foolhardy bravado.

On Aug. 5 of this year an accident of the latter sort was recorded.

A party started to climb the treacherous Cima di Rosso, a peak 10,043 feet high in the Engadine. They announced themselves as skilled mountaineers and, headed by Mr. G. P. Way of Yonkers, refused the assistance of any guide.

Mr. Way was an enthusiast, fond of mountain climbing and a man who believed, with the great Mummery, that "to toil up long slopes behind a guide who can lie in bed and picture every step of the way up, with all the places for hand or foot, is work worthy of the fiberless contents of fashionable clothes dumped, with all their scents and ointments, starched linen and shiny boots, at Zermatt by the railway."

Such mountain climbing Mr. Way held in contempt. He loved to go where no human being had been before, without a guide, to scale rocks that had never felt the touch of human hand.

From the Maloja hotel, in the Engadine, they started out. The dangerous peak lured them on step by step. Mr. Way and his young son, a boy of fourteen, urged the others on and on until finally the very summit was in sight.

Without warning or cry of any sort a sudden jerk of the rope brought the party tense rigid to a standstill. They clutched one another. Mr. Way, their leader, had slipped on a stone. The rope became taut. The others bore back on it. Suddenly it snapped, and the brave buoyant leader of the little party fell hundreds of feet to his death.

Endless are such accidents repeated.

Zermatt lies just at the foot of the Matterhorn. From there party after party including almost as many women as men, plod up and down the mountains. From the hotels people watch for their return. Sometimes as this year, there will be a run of accidents. They come in the shape of avalanches, in a shower of rocks and blocks of ice in a blinding storm. Then, week after week, the Alps will lie quiet, peaceful, smiling in the sunlight. Again a foot slips, a rope breaks, and the little town is plunged in mourning.

FRAIL LITTLE ONES.

Their Hold Upon Life is Slight, and Mothers Have a Great Responsibility.

Every baby—every little one—requires constant care and watchfulness, and when a trace of illness is noticeable, the remedy should be promptly applied. The little ones are frail. Their hold upon life is slight. The slightest symptom of trouble should be met by the proper corrective medicine. Baby's Own Tablets have a record surpassing all other medicines for the cure of children's ailments. They are purely vegetable and guaranteed to contain no opium or poisonous drugs such as form the base of most so-called "soothing" medicines. For sour stomach, colic, simple fever, constipation, all bowel troubles, the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, sleeplessness and similar symptoms, these Tablets are without an equal. They act directly upon the organs which cause the troubles, and gently but effectually remove the cause and bring back the condition of perfect health. Every mother who has used these Tablets for her little ones praises them, which is the best evidence of their great worth. Mrs. David Duffield, Ponsonby, Ont., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine. I think they saved my baby's life, and I gratefully recommend them to other mothers. Ask your druggist for Baby's Own Tablets. If he does not keep them send 20 cents direct to us and we will forward a box pre-paid. We have a valuable little booklet on the care of children and how to treat their minor ailments, which we will send free of charge to any mother who asks for it. ## Washing tells the tale.

It proves the difference between Stanfield's and those that are simply branded "Unshrinkable," "Guaranteed," etc. Stanfield's remains the same in shape and size, as soft and pliable as when purchased. Every garment bears the guarantee of the Truro Knitting Mills Co. to return your money if they shrink. No special directions for washing. As the pants receive more wear than the shirts, they are made of heavier material. Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear is sold on a positive guarantee against shrinking in the wash. Your money back if it does.

You Don't Take Medicine

You don't take Vapo-Cresolene into the stomach, you breathe it. Put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath and then breathe-in the vapor. It's easy, convenient, safe. It can be used with success, even for infants.

Don't you see at once how valuable such a remedy must be for hay fever, diphtheria, croup, catarrh, asthma, and other diseases of the air passages? For whooping-cough it is a perfect specific, often curing the disease in from one to three days.

What is Vapo-Cresolene? It is what the doctors call a coal-tar product; that is it's something like carbolic acid, only it destroys disease germs.

Keep Vapo-Cresolene on hand; it's not expensive, for the vaporizer lasts a lifetime and the Cresolene costs but little.

You Breathe it

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Vapo-Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPOR-CRESCOLINE CO., 185 Fulton St., New York, U. S. A.

EVENTS of the WEEK

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30.—The Forepaugh and Sells circus collided with a freight train near Baton Rouge today. Three men were seriously hurt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—President Roosevelt and party occupied two boxes at the new National Theatre tonight and witnessed Daniel Frohman's Company in "Lady Huntworth's Experiment." This is the first time the president has attended any theatre since his elevation to his high office, and his entrance was warmly greeted.

BERLIN, Oct. 30.—The Argentine legation was furnished for publication, a cable despatch received from Buenos Ayres, emphatically denying the reports published in the English newspapers, that strained relations exist between Argentina and Chili.

in the days of the Revolution he was on the side of victory, in later years surrendered to disease, but South American Kidney Cure gave him his liberty.

Mr. A. Williamson, of Kincardine, Ont., a veteran in the American war, and now customs officer, town clerk and a prominent citizen, says of South American Kidney Cure:—"I have found it a wonderful specific in my case. I suffered a great deal from Bladder and Kidney troubles, and one bottle entirely cured me. I think it is a boon to mankind." Cures in all stages and gives relief in six hours.

HODGENVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31.—A mob of 50 and 75 citizens came down upon this little town about 2 o'clock this morning and took from the jail Silas Esters, a negro charged with forcing (Granville) Ward a fifteen year old boy of Near Upton, to commit a crime and strung him to the court house steps after shooting him down for attempting to escape.

EASING THE CHEST.

It is the cold on the chest that scares people and makes them sick and sore. The cough that accompanies the chest cold is racking. When the cold is a hard one, and the cough correspondingly severe, every coughing spell strains the whole system. We feel sure that if we could only stop coughing for a day or so we could get over the cold, but we try everything that we know of or can hear of in the shape of medicine. We take big doses of quinine until the head buzzes and roars; we try to sweat it out; we take big draughts of whiskey, but the thing that has its grip on the chest hangs on and won't be shaken loose.

If the irritation that makes us cough could be stopped, we could get better promptly, and it is because Adamson's Balm for Coughs and Colds is so efficient a remedy for coughs and colds. This really great medicine is a very simple preparation, made of barks and gums of trees, and it never deceives. It heals the throat and the desire to cough is gone. When the cough goes the work of cure is almost complete. All druggists sell Adamson's Balm, 25 cents. Try this famous Balm for your sore chest and you will find prompt relief.

THE NEXT GREAT AWAKENING.

FITCHBURG, Oct. 26.—The third day of the state Y. M. C. A. convention was full of interesting features. The forenoon session was largely devoted to a Bible study session, with exposition by Ed. F. Lee of Brooklyn and short papers on "General Bible Study," G. E. Day of Malde; "Devotional" W. B. Oliver of Boston; "Training class" E. G. Caster of New Bedford; "Evangelistic," W. C. Roberts of Melrose.

"The Association as a Field of Christian Effort," was the paper by L. L. Daggett, Ph. D., of the international training school at Springfield.

In the afternoon the Rev. Marion Law of Pawtucket read a paper on "How to Enlist men for Service."

Then came a series of sectional conferences, as follows: Physical, "Athletic Teams, Policy Toward Them, Their benefits, Injurious Effects," W. L. Nash of Pawtucket railroad men, "A Study of the Railroad Department," J. F. Moore New York city; Educational, "The Policy of the Average Association," C. M. Gardner of Westfield; student, "Relation of the Faculty to the Association," Principal H. S. Cowell of Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, and Rowland Haynes of Williams College; "How Can We Help the Student Solve the Life Work Problem?" Roy E. Clark of of Brown University; "Interesting Religious Meetings," A. B. Williams Jr., New York city; "Development and Maintenance of Interest in Bible Study," Orville G. Frantz, Harvard University.

An open parliament of committees was conducted by E. F. Lee of Brooklyn.

This evening in the Calvinistic Congregational Church, the Rev. Josiah Strong, D. D., of New York delivered an address on "The Next Great Awakening." He said in part: The advent of the new century has been hailed, both in Great Britain and America, as a fitting time for a new awakening to the things of the spirit, a keener appreciation of realities which sustain no relations to the yardstick, the scales or the crucible, a deeper sense of values that are never quoted on the stock exchange. Extended efforts have been made on both sides of the Atlantic, and especially in England, to arouse the conscience and to quicken the religious life. But as yet we hear no extraordinary results—nothing corresponding in the remotest degree to the great awakenings which occurred in the 16th 17th and 18th centuries, and in both the first and second half of the 19th.

If neglected scriptural truth precisely adapted to the peculiar needs of our own times can be pointed out, is there not a strong presumption that the next great spiritual awakening will come when this truth is faithfully preached? It is quite obvious that the great questions peculiar to our times are social. The industrial benevolence has produced a social revolution; we have passed, within three generations, from a individualistic to a social or collective type of civilization. Relationships which a hundred years ago were few and simple (Continued on page seven.)

MR. RENNEL'S DEATH.

In the demise of District Superintendent Rennel the Moncton and St. Placide district loses a capable and highly respected railroad man, a man who was thought much of by all the men under his supervision, and all have a good word for the deceased. There are a number of applicants for the position thus made vacant and in our estimation our popular station agent, J. S. Fleming is the most deserving man and it is very probable that the position will be offered to him. Mr. Fleming has been a long and faithful employee of the railroad, having entered its service as station agent at Rothsay in June, 1867 and has been continuously in its employ since that date. In 1875 when the I. C. R. was opened here he took charge of Newcastle station where he has faithfully looked after the interests of the road for the past twenty-six years. As a railroad man he is thoroughly capable and very popular with both the employees and men doing business with the road and his appointment would give universal satisfaction to all.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

Canada tendered a right Royal welcome to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, who have just left our shores after a month spent in visiting all parts of the Dominion. It is to the credit of our future King and Queen that they should have undertaken a nine months journey, traversing two-thirds of the earth's surface, with the object of acquainting themselves with the people and conditions existing in the various parts of the great British empire. The information which they have acquired will enable them to more capable discharge the functions of their high station. The people with whom they have come in contact feel that the bond of sympathy and loyalty which binds them to the Empire has been further strengthened. Great commercial advantage is also likely to accrue to Canada from the descriptions of the country and its resources as opportunities written by representatives of the leading British and American papers who accompanied the Royal party.—Canadian Architect and Builder.

THE BATTLE OF BETHEL.

Fuller details of the engagement at Bethel go to show that it was not a victory for the Boers. The British lost heavily, but were able to hold their position against an all day attack of the concentrated Boer forces. In the end other forces came up and the Boers retired, having lost many more men than the British. This is the third attack in force which has been made within a short time on positions. In no case have the Boers caused the inferior force to surrender or driven the defenders from the position. In every case the Boers have been obliged to withdraw, with a larger loss than they inflicted on their enemy. It must be admitted that Botha's and Delany's men have fought well, but they have not fought so well as their opponents.—Sun.

The French Canadian population of the maritime provinces is given as 150,000, an increase of nearly fifty thousand in the decade.

Sensation in Theatre.

MUNICH, Nov. 2.—There was a sensational affair at Odeon Hall yesterday evening. Just before the commencement of a concert there, a man named Hoffman began firing a revolver at the people in the auditorium, wounding two of them. He then killed himself. Hoffman, who was a sculptor's assistant, came from Neustadt. Dufrenoy's literary work was found in his pocket.

Miss Stone's Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The positive conviction that Miss Ellen M. Stone is dead is contained in a letter which has just been received in Boston from Ivan Raduloff, a student who was with the American missionary when she was captured by brigands in Turkey, together with Mme. Tsika, says the Boston correspondent of the Press. According to this letter, the snow in the mountains was three feet deep three weeks ago, at the time the letter was written. From the summer time the snow upon the highest summits of these mountains does not melt. The first snowfall usually comes at about the middle of September, and by the middle of October the mountain passes are absolutely closed to travel. It was this conviction among Miss Stone's friends in Samokov, Bulgaria, three weeks ago that she would not possibly have survived the rigors of her captivity until that date. According to the letter of Ivan Raduloff, Consul-General Dickinson has regarded the release of Miss Stone seriously. It is said that Mr. Dickinson, by his criticism of the Bulgarian government, has antagonized the government. It is understood in Samokov that the brigands who were in immediate charge of the captive were under positive instructions to take her life at the first indication of the probability of a skirmish with the troops.

Disaster in Labrador.

Three schooners were driven ashore on Labrador coast last week during a gale. One was laden with families of fishermen returning from a summer sojourn on the coast. The women and children were rescued with great difficulty, the schooner being at Sandy Spit and the women and children being sent ashore with ropes. In all three cases the crews were saved. Two other vessels, one carrying a Catholic priest, who had been making a sacerdotal visitation, were driven seaward and have been missing for ten days. The steamer Glenoe went in search of them, but without result. Twelve lives are involved, and it is feared that all have perished.

From The Yukon.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 4.—Steamer City of Seattle has arrived Skagway with 228 passengers. The Yukon river is still open and two more boats left last week for Dawson. With the ending of the season in Dawson came a big find of gold in the Lower Dominion. Details had not been given out when the steamer left, but it was said that as much as $2 to the pan had been taken out.

Holland's War.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 2.—Advices received from Sumatra, say that the Achinese war, which has now lasted more than twenty-eight years, has assumed an alarming phase. The Dutch troops have lately suffered serious reverses and the warlike natives of Achene have not been slow to take advantage of their success.

The territory now affected by the war has largely increased. Hostilities have broken out at Djambi and disaffection among the natives has spread with dangerous rapidity. There have even been risings in Borneo and other parts of the Dutch colonies. Fresh outbreaks are reported almost daily and the Dutch government has despatched war vessels to assist in suppressing the belligerents. It is feared, however, that considerable difficulty will be met with in the attempt to confine hostilities to the original unsubdued area of Achene.

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun". That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor. This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion, and is on the wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures and Gives You New Life When Everything Else Fails.

IT IS THE POPULAR MEDICINE IN THE HOMES OF THE WEALTHY AND THOSE IN HUMBLER CIRCUMSTANCES.

Beware of Substitutes and Imitations.

Are you ailing, run-down, or suffering from some dangerous disease? If you are, allow us with candour and an honest interest in your welfare, to direct your attention to Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that makes "weak people well."

The wonderful record of cures wrought for sick and diseased people in our Dominion, is the best and strongest proof of the health-restoring virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. It has cured the most desperate cases of disease even after sufferers were pronounced incurable.

The use of one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound will, in all cases banish the doubts of the unbelieving. The testing of one bottle will prove to all sufferers that there are virtues in the wonderful medicine possessed by no other remedy—virtues that banish suffering and misery.

The immense popularity of Paine's Celery Compound has induced unscrupulous people to put up vile and worthless imitations of the great health restorer. Dishonest dealers for the sake of large profits resort to substituting and recommending the "something just as good." At all times beware of imitations and substitutes. See that the name PAINE'S and the Stock of Celery appear on each bottle.

Read the strong testimony of Mr. G. W. Parks, of Ingleville, N. S., cured by Paine's Celery Compound after failures with other medicines.
 "While at sea I was taken sick, which compelled me to abandon my work and seek home and rest. I consulted the doctor who pronounced it slow fever or typhoid. I suffered severely from night sweats, and from cold chills during the day. Added to this I was extremely nervous, which weakened me and reduced my flesh until I was a mere skeleton. This continued until last winter, when my wife and friends began to despair of my recovery, as the medicines I took produced no good, and I was growing worse. Through the influence of Rev. C. M. Tyler, I was induced to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial. I can truly say it worked wonders. The first bottle gave me great relief, and five bottles completely cured me."

TROUBLE IS FEARED.

During Election in New York Today.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—At midnight both sides in the municipal contest were claiming the victory. The fusion leaders were more in evidence at their headquarters than the democrats at theirs. The latter, after the distribution of campaign funds in the afternoon, hurried to their several election precincts to give their last orders. The election will be very close. Both sides are counting on the independent votes. Superintendent of elections McCullough has addressed another letter to Police Commissioner Murphy furnishing a long list of election precincts in which he declares frauds would be attempted. There was a feeling of fear tonight that before tomorrow is over there will be frequent clashes between the state deputies and the police.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE warm, transparent light of an African autumnal noon shone down through the white canvas roof of a great tent in the heart of the encamped divisions at headquarters of the army of the north. In the tent there was a densely packed throng, an immense, close, hushed, listening crowd, of which every man wore the uniform of France, for they were in court, and that court was the court martial of their own southern camp.

The prisoner was arraigned on the gravest charge that can be laid against the soldier of any army, and yet, as the many eyes of the military crowd turned on him where he stood surrounded by his guard, his crime against his chief was forgotten, and they only remembered Zaratia. He preserved an entire silence in court. The instant the accusation had been read to him he had seen that his chief would not dare to couple with it the proud, pure name he had dared to outrage. His most bitter anxiety was thus at an end. For all the rest he was tranquil.

No case could be clearer, briefer, less complex, more entirely incapable of defense. The soldiers of the guard gave evidence as to the violence and fury of the assault. The accused merely stated that, meeting his corporal out of the bounds of the camp, he had asked him where he had been and on his commanding an answer had been assailed in the manner described with violence sufficient to have cost his life had not the guard been so near at hand. The statement passed without contradiction by the prisoner, who only replied that the facts were stated accurately as they occurred and that his reasons for the deed he declined to assert. When it was finally demanded of him if he had sought to urge in his own extenuation, he paused a moment, with a gaze under which even the hard eyes grew restless, looked across to Chateauroux and addressed his antagonist rather than the president:

"Only this—that a tyrant, a liar and a traitor cannot wonder if men prefer death to submission beneath insult. But I am well aware that this is no vindication of my act as a soldier, and I have no desire to say words which, whatever their truth, might become hereafter dangerous legacies and dangerous precedents to the army."

That was all which he answered, and neither his counsel nor his accusers could extract another syllable from him. He never moved once while the decree of death was read to him, and there was no change in the weary calmness of his eyes. He bent his head in acquiescence.

"It is well," he said simply. It seemed well to him. Dead, his secret would lie in the grave with him and the long martyrdom of his life be ended.

In the brightness of the noon Cigarette leaned out of her blue oval casement, and, for the first time, happiness was with her. They were gone forever—the elastic joyance, all the free, fair hours, all the sweet, harmonious laughter of a heart without a care. They were gone forever, for the touch of his lips had been laid on her, and never again would her radiant eyes smile cloudlessly, like the young eagle's, at a sun that rose but to be greeted as only youth can greet another dawn of life that is without a shadow. To her it seemed impossible that this patrician who had his passion should not return it. She only thought of love as she had always seen it—quietly born, hotly cherished, wholly indulged and without tie or restraint.

"And I came without my vengeance," she mused. To the nature that felt the ferocity of the vendetta a right and a due there was wounding humiliation in her knowledge that she had left her rival unharmed and had come hither, out from sight and his presence, lest he should see in her one glimpse of that folly which she would have killed herself under her own steel rather than have betrayed either for his contempt or his compassion.

The touch of a bird's wing brushing her hair brought the dreamy comparison to her wandering thoughts. She started and lifted her head. It was a blue carrier pigeon, one of the many she fed at that casement and the swift and surest of several she sent with messages for the soldiers between the various stations and corps. She had forgotten she had left the bird at rest beneath one wing.

She found an old French cobbler sitting at a stall in a casement stitching leather. He was her customary reader and scribe in this quarter. "Good Matheus, wilt thou read this to me?" And he read aloud:

"There is still news. I send the bird on a chance to find thee. Bel-dieu-pour struck the Black Hawk—a light blow, but with threat to kill following it. He has been tried and is to be shot. There is no appeal. The case is clear. The color could have cut him down, were that all, thought you should know. We are all sorry. It was done on the night of the great fête. I am thy humble lover and slave."

So the boy zozure's scrawl, crushed and blotted and written with great diff-fecially, ran in its brief phrases that the slow muttering of the old shoemaker drew out in tedious length. Cigarette heard. She never made a movement or gave a sound, but all the blood fled out of her brilliant face, leaving it horribly blanched beneath its brown skin scorch, and her eyes, distended, senseless, sightless, were fastened on the old man's slowly moving mouth.

"You have his face!" she muttered.

"Shot!" she said vacantly. "Shot!" Her vengeance had come without her once lifting her hand to summon it. "The blow was struck for her," she muttered. "It was that night, you hear—that night?"

"What night? Thou lookest so strangely. Dost thou love this doomed soldier?" Cigarette laughed a laugh whose echo chilled horribly through the lonely Moroccan courtyard. "Love! Love! I hated him, look you! So I said. And I longed for my vengeance. It is come!"

Then she crushed the letter in one hand and flew, fleet as any antelope, through the streets of the Moorish quarter and across the city to the quay. The people ever gave way before her, but now they scattered like frightened sheep from her path. There was something that terrified them in that bloodless horror set upon her face and in that fury of reckless speed with which she rushed upon her way.

Once only in her headlong career through the throngs she paused. It was as one face, on which the strong light of the noonday poured, came before her. The senseless look changed in her eyes. She wheeled out of her route and stopped.

"You have his face!" she muttered. "What are you to him?"

"To whom?" "To the man who calls himself Louis Victor, a chasseur of my army?"

Her eyes flashed entirely upon him, keen, ruthless, fierce, in this moment, as a hawk's. He grew pale and murmured an incoherent denial. He sought to shake her off, first gently, then more rudely. They came and tried to fling her from him, but the little fingers only wound themselves closer on his arm.

"The still fool!" she muttered. "You are of his blood, and his features. He disowns you or you him. No matter which he is of your blood, and he lies under sentence of death. Do you know that?"

With a stifled cry the other recoiled from her. He never doubted that she spoke the truth. None could who had looked upon her face.

"Do not let him say," she said curtly. "It avails you nothing. Read that."

She thrust before him the paper the pigeon had brought. His hand trembled so sorely as he held it. He believed in that moment that his strange creature, half soldier, half woman, half brigand, half child, knew all his story and all his shame from his mother. "Shot!" he echoed hoarsely as she ended. "Shot! Oh, my God, and I am his brother!"

She was silent. Looking at him, fixedly, it did not seem to her eyes that she should thus have met one of his blood in the crowds of Algiers. "You are his brother," she said slowly. "Tell me his name, his rank."

He was silent. Coward and egotist that he was, both cowardice and egotism were killed in him under the overwhelming horror with which he felt himself as truly moral guilt a fratricide as though he had stabbed his elder through the heart. "Speak!" hissed Cigarette through her clinched teeth.

"He is the head of my house!" he answered her, scarce knowing what he answered. "He should bear the title that I bear now. He is here in this misery because he is the most merciful, the most generous, the most long suffering of living souls. If he die, it is not they who have killed him, it is I!"

"Settle with yourself for that sin," she said bitterly. "Your remorse will not save him. But do the thing that I bid you if that remorse be sincere. Write me out here that title you say he should bear and your statement that he is your brother and should be the chief of your house, then sign it and give it to me."

He seized her hands and gazed with imploring eyes into her face. "Who are you? What are you? If you have the power to do it, for the love of God rescue him! It is I who have murdered him—I who have let him live on in this hell for my sake!"

She brought him pens and paper from the Turk's store and dictated what he wrote.

I hereby affirm that the person serving in the Chasseurs d'Afrique under the name of Louis Victor is my elder brother, Bertie Cecil, lawfully, by birthright, the Viscount Royalton, peer of England. I hereby also acknowledge that I have murdered him and borne the title illegally under the supposition of his death.

He drew the paper from him and folded it away in his belt. He watched her with a curious, dreamy sense of his own impotence against the fierce and fiery torrent of her bidding. "Can his life yet be saved?"

"His honor may—his honor shall. Go to him, covered and let the balls that kill him reach you, too, if you have one trait of manhood left in you!"

Then, swiftly as a swallow darts, she quitted him and flew on her headlong way down through the pressure of the people and the throngs of the market and the noise and the color and the movement of the streets.

The sun was scarcely declined from its noon before she rode out of the city on a half bred horse of the spavine, swift as the antelope and as wild, with her only equipment some pistols in her holsters and a bag of rice and a skin of water slung at her saddlebow. She had a long route before her. She had many leagues to travel, and there were but four and twenty hours, she knew well, left to the man who was condemned to death; four and twenty hours left open for appeal, no more, be- twixt the delivery and execution of the sentence. There were 50 miles between her and her goal. Abd-el-Kader's horse had once covered that space in three hours, so men of the army of Africa had told her. She knew what they had done she could do. Once only she paused, to let her horse lie a brief while and cool his foam flaked sides and crop some short, sweet grass. Then she moved again and went on in her flight. The horse was reeking with smoke and foam and the blood was coursing from his flanks as she reached her destination at last and threw herself off as she knew.

She had to go back to her. She knew what they had done she could do. Once only she paused, to let her horse lie a brief while and cool his foam flaked sides and crop some short, sweet grass. Then she moved again and went on in her flight. The horse was reeking with smoke and foam and the blood was coursing from his flanks as she reached her destination at last and threw herself off as she knew.

She spoke quietly, but a certain sense of awe and fear made those who heard her hesitate to take her message, to let her bidding. The one whom she sought was great and supreme here as a king. They dreaded to approach his staff, to ask his audience.

Cigarette looked at them a moment, then loosened her cross and held it out to an adjutant standing beneath the gates.

"Take that to the man who gave me me. Tell him Cigarette waits and with each moment that she waits a soldier's life is lost. Go!"

A few minutes after the decoration was sent back to her and her demand was granted. The marshal, leaning against a brass fireplace, turned to her with the smile in his keen, stern eyes.

"What brings you here?" She came up to him with her rapid, leopardlike grace, and he started as she saw the change upon her features. She was covered with sand and dust and with the matted hair of her face.

"Monsieur, I have come from Algiers since noon."

"From Algiers?" He and his officers echoed the name of the city in incredulous amazement. They knew how far from them down along the sea line the white town lay.

"Since noon, to rescue a life—the life of a great soldier, of a gutless man. He who saved the honor of France at Zaratia is to die the death of mutineer at dawn!"

"What! Your chasseur?" A dusky scarlet fire burned through the pallor of her face, but her eyes never quailed, and the torrent of her eloquence returned under the pangs of shame that were beaten back under the noble instincts of her love.

"Mine, since he is a soldier of France; yours, too, by that title. I am come here from Algiers to speak the truth in his name, and, by my cross, by my flag, by my France, I swear that not a hair of his head shall be touched, not a drop of blood in his veins shall be shed!"

"You speak madly," he said, with cold brevity. "The offense merits the chastisement. I shall not attempt to answer."

"Hear me at least!" she cried, with passionate ferocity—the ferocity of a dumb animal wounded by a shot. "You do not know what this man is, how he has saved France. I do. I have watched him; I have seen the brutal tyranny of his chief, who hated him because the soldiers loved him; I have seen his patient obedience, his long suffering before insults that would have driven any other to revolt and murder. I have seen him—I have told you how—at Zaratia, thinking never of death or of life, only of duty. Look you! I—I, who love my army better than my living thing under the sun—that I would forgive him if he forgot duty and dealt with his tyrant as man to man. And he always held his soul in patience. Why? Not because he feared death—he desired it—but because he loved his comrades and suffered in peace and in silence lest, through him, they should be led into evil."

His eyes softened as he heard her, but the inflexibility of his voice never altered.

"It is useless to argue with me," he said briefly. "I never change a sentence."

"But I say that you shall!" As the audacious words were flung forth she looked him full in the eyes, while her voice rang with its old imperious oratory. "You are a great chief. You are as a monarch here. You hold the gifts and the grandeur of the empire, but because of that, because you are as France in my eyes, I swear, by the name of France, that you shall see justice done to him—after death if you cannot in life. Do you know who is he, this man whom his comrades will follow down at sunrise as they shoot down the murderer and the ravisher in their crimes? He is a man who vindicated a woman's honor. He is a man who suffers in his brother's place. He is an aristocrat exiled to a martyrdom. He is a hero who has desired vengeance on him who had desired vengeance on him who seemed to have rendered her a murderer. She loved him—loved him with an exceeding passion—and only in this extremity, when it was confronted with the immensity of death, did the faithfulness and the greatness of that love make their way out of the petulant pride and the wounded vanity which had obscured them. She had been a new child and a new woman, and now which struck at him she changed—she became a woman and a martyr."

And she rode at full speed through the night, as she had done through the daylight, her eyes glancing all around in the keen instinct of a trooper, her hand always on the butt of her belt pistol. Her brain had no sense, her hands had no feeling, her eyes had no sight. The rushing as of waters was loud on her ears, and the giddiness of fasting and of fatigue sent the gloom eddying round and round, like a whirlpool of shadow. Yet she had remembrance enough left to ride on and on and on without once flinching from the agonies that racked her cramped limbs and throbed in her beating temples. She had remembrance enough to strain her blind eyes toward the east and murmur, in her terror of that white dawn that must soon break, the only prayer that had been ever uttered by the lips no mother's kiss had ever touched:

"O God, keep the day back!"

CHAPTER XXIII. THERE was a line of light in the eastern sky. The camp was very still. Cecil stood tranquil beside the coffin with his hands crossed, and the coffin with its broken limbs and shot pierced corpse would so soon be laid forever. There was a deep sadness on his face, but it was perfectly serene. To the words of the priest who approached him he listened with respect, though he gently declined the services of the church.

When they came near to blind the covering over his eyes, he motioned them away, taking the bandage from their hands and casting it far from him. "Did I ever fear to look down the depths of my enemies' muskets?" It was the single outbreak, the single reproach, that escaped from him, the single utterance by which he ever quoted his services to France. Not one who heard him dared again to force on him that indignity which would have blinded his light as though he had ever dreaded to meet death.

That one protest having escaped him, he was once more still and calm, as though the vacant grave yawning at his feet had been but a couch of down to rest his tired limbs.

"It is best thus," he thought, "if only I never know." Over the slope of brown and barren earth that screened the camp from view there came at the very moment that the ramrods were drawn out with a shrill, sharp ring from the carbine barrels a single figure, tall, stalwart, lithe, with the spring of the deer stalker in his rapid step and the sinew of the northern races in its mold. The new-comer went straight to the adjutant in command and addressed him with brief preface, hurriedly and low.

"Your prisoner is Victor of the chateaux? He is to be shot this morning."

The officer assented. He suffered the interruption, recognizing the rank of the speaker. "I heard of it yesterday. I rode all night from Oran. I feel great pity for this man, though he is unknown to me," the stranger pursued in rapid whispered words. "His crime was—"

"A blow to his colonel, monsieur-gueux."

"And there is no possibility of a reprieve?"

"None."

"May I speak with him as instant?"

I have heard it thought that he is of my country and of a rank above his standing in his regiment here."

"You may address him, M. le Duc, but he is brief. Time presses."

He thanked the officer for the unusual permission and turned to approach the prisoner. At that moment Cecil turned also, and their eyes met. A great bounding cry broke from their both. His head sank as though the bullets had already pierced his breast, and the man who believed him dead stood gazing at him, paralyzed with horror.

For a moment there was an awful silence. Then the Seraph's voice rang out with a terror in it that thrilled through the careless, callous hearts of the watching soldiery.

"You live still! Oh, thank God—thank God! You perishing here! If they send their shots through you, they shall reach me first in their passage. Oh, heaven! Why have you lived like this? Why have you been lost to me if you were dead to all the world be- side?"

"To me, to me! No other will go so fast."

"But, my child, you are worn out already."

She turned on him her beautiful wild eyes, in which the blinding, passionate tears were floating.

"Do you think I would tarry for that? Ah, I wish that I had let them tell me of God, that I might ask him how to bless you! Quick, quick! Lend me your swiftest horse, one that will not tire. And send a second order by your aid-de-camp. The Arabs may kill me as I go, and then they will not know."

He stooped and touched her little brown, scorched, feverish hand with reverence.

"My child, Africa has shown me much heroism, but none like yours. If you fall, he shall be safe, and France will know how to avenge its darling's loss."

Then, without another second's pause, she flew from them and, vaulting into the saddle of a young horse which stood without in the courtyard, rode once more, at full speed, out into the pitiless blaze of the sun, out to the wasted desolation of the plains.

The order of release, indeed, was in her bosom, but the chances were as a million to one that she would reach him with it in time, ere, with the rising of the sun, his life would have set forever.

All the horror of remorse was on her. To her nature the bitter jealousy in which she had desired vengeance on him seemed to have rendered her a murderer. She loved him—loved him with an exceeding passion—and only in this extremity, when it was confronted with the immensity of death, did the faithfulness and the greatness of that love make their way out of the petulant pride and the wounded vanity which had obscured them. She had been a new child and a new woman, and now which struck at him she changed—she became a woman and a martyr."

Great Awakening.

become many and complex. Questions concerning rights and duties have arisen. Society is being self-consciousness, which is one of the most important things in the progress of the race. We are beginning to see that society is an organism which lives one vast life of which every man is a part. Now, if the limitations of space permitted, it could be shown that in their adaptation to the peculiar needs of our times, the social teachings of Jesus, which have been neglected for many centuries, are as close fitting as a glove.

There are multitudes in our churches who have read these teachings a thousand times without sensing their meaning. Even religious teachers have declared that the Sermon on the Mount was not practicable, and therefore could not be applied to modern society. There are many who call Christ Lord, but do not the things which he says.

What truths are better calculated to arouse the sleeping conscience awake men to the fact that God is really in men's everyday lives, measuring their acts by his immutable standards, and preparing to call them to account, than precisely these social teachings of Jesus which are so exactly adapted to the times, and which are so commonly neglected?

God is the greatest fact, the greatest reality in the universe. And for a life to take no account of this greatest of all possible blunders. How can men be made to see this, if not by showing them that the great social disorders of the day are due to the disregard of the social teachings of the New Testament?

It is not proposed to make a religion out of man's obligations to his fellows, to put love for man in the place of love to God. It is, however, both reasonable and scriptural to test the one by the other. "If a man say I love God and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother, whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen?"

If there are men whose lives are a lie because they profess to love God and show none to their fellow men, how can such men be easily convicted at the bar of their own conscience than by testing their relations to God, not by their professions, but by their known relations to their fellow-men—the matter being judged, not by popular standards, but by the social teachings of Jesus?

There is every reason to believe that when these teachings are clearly apprehended and faithfully proclaimed, the great spiritual awakening of the 20th century will come.

Invigorating Syrup

IS THE BEST PHYSIC I can get. I am 84 years of age and have used your SYRUP as a physic for the last ten years and have never been able to obtain anything that acts so well. My business that of a shoemaker, inclines me to costiveness and I have to use your SYRUP constantly as a physic taking just a little every night and morning.

I consider it the BEST because its gentle in its action, causing no griping or pain and may be taken constantly without producing any evil effects, such as piles, irregularities of the bowels, etc.

I have great pleasure in recommending it to all as I believe it has had a part in prolonging my life.

Yours sincerely,

PALE YOUNG GIRLS.

HOW They May Gain Bright Eyes and Rosy Cheeks.

The Story of a Young Girl Who Suffered from Headaches, Dizziness and Fainting Spells—Her Health Became so Bad That She Was Forced to Give up School.

Miss Catherine McLellan is a young lady well known in Charlottetown, P. E. I., and is greatly esteemed among her acquaintances. Like so many other young ladies throughout the land, Miss McLellan fell a victim to anaemia, or poverty of blood, and although several medicines were tried, she found nothing to help her until she began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Miss McLellan tells the story as follows:—I am now eighteen years of age, and for a considerable time suffered from anaemia. My blood had almost turned to water, and I was very weak and pale; in fact could not undergo the least exertion. My appetite failed me; I suffered from headaches; if I stooped I would become dizzy, and frequently I suffered from fainting spells. I tried several kinds of medicine and doctors prescribed for me, but instead of getting better I was gradually growing weaker, and eventually had to discontinue going to school. About this time I read the testimonial of a girl whose condition was similar to mine, who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I then decided to try these pills, and have every reason to be gratified that I did so, and as they have completely restored my health. Every one of the symptoms that had made my life so miserable have disappeared, and I am now enjoying as good health as any girl of my age could wish, and I shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Miss McLellan further stated that while she was not desirous of publicity in matters of this kind, she nevertheless felt that her experience, if known might be the means of bringing health to some other sufferer, and it is this very praiseworthy motive that has induced her to give the above statement for publication.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood, and give tone to the nerves. It is because of this that they bring bright eyes, rosy cheeks and light footsteps to girls who have been weary, pale and listless and had begun to feel that life was a burden. Pale and anaemic girls everywhere should give these pills a fair trial, as they are certain to restore health and strength. See that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all dealers or sent postpaid at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DIGESTION WITHOUT A STOMACH

The fact that people live and digest food after the stomach has been removed proves that the important part of digestion takes place in the intestines. Hence it comes that Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are so wonderfully successful in curing chronic indigestion and dyspepsia. They act directly on the kidneys, liver and intestines, making them healthy, active and vigorous and so insure perfect digestion and prompt removal of poisonous waste matter.

AT THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

This trying period in woman's life usually comes between the ages of forty and fifty years and is marked by irritability, headache, dizziness, irregular menstruation, faint appetite, forebodings of evil, palpitation of the heart and constipation. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all a woman's medicine because it helps her safely through this trying period. It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the functions of the feminine organs and tones and invigorates the whole body.

AVON SPRING, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHILIPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Feb. 5, 1901.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimonial you can make such use of as you see fit.

Home address, 235 Livingston street. S. RAPHAEL, 67 East 129th st., New York City.

TRIAL BOTTLE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

Do not delay. Write at once, addressing DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO., 79 East 130th St., N. Y.

DON'T BE DISAPPOINTED. You won't be if you use Kendrick's Liniment. There is nothing like Kendrick's for lameness, swelling, pain, sore Throat, Lungs, and as a general household remedy.

A man is the most sensible of all animals, is he not? Certainly.

Then I wonder why he doesn't wear a loose, comfortable collar like a dog's.

Every Housekeeper must often act as a family physician. Pain-Killer for all the little ills, cuts and sprains, as well as for all bowel complaints, is indispensable. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis. 25c. and 50c.

Is it true that Bluechin has joined the Dowdies?

Yes. He said the audience used fresher eggs than they did in the provinces.

One Fact is better than ten hearsays. Ask Doctor Burgess, Supt. Hospital for Insane, Montreal, where they have used it for years, for his opinion of "The D. & L. Mental Plaster." Get the genuine made by Davis & Lawrence Co., Ltd.

Manager of Midway Museum at Pan-American Exposition—What's all that screaming about?

Cashier—Why, Fantima, the lady snake charmer, just saw a mouse.

DON'T BE DECEIVED. Get the genuine McLean's Vegetable Worm Syrup. Mothers know the value of this old and well tried remedy.

Sunday School Teacher—Now, children, what did Pharaoh say to Moses?

Children—We don't know.

Teacher—Oh yes, you do. He told Moses to go and do something. Now, what did he say?

Class—Go way back—and sit down!

DON'T GO HOME, if you have not got at least one bottle of Kendrick's Liniment in the house. Don't go home without it. There is nothing better (if equal) to Kendrick's as a household remedy.

Mrs. Dash—My daughters come home every day utterly exhausted.

Mrs. Dash—Golf?

Mrs. Dash—No; they are taking a course in yacht tuck, and they say the dialect is much more difficult than Golf.

DON'T LEAVE IT TO CHANCE. You may need to use Kendrick's Liniment at any time in the house, or perhaps in the stable. Always have a bottle or two on hand.

What makes you keep so silent? asked the young woman.

I always think before I speak, answered the young man, and in that way I realize that I haven't anything to say.

Mr. Manhattan—Are the divorced women in Chicago called widows.

Mrs. Wabash—Not for any length of time.

A DEATH "DODGER"

Chronicle all the escapes from death and put them in letters that all the world can see, and you'll find if history were written faithfully, Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart will hold the record for having "balked death's rampage."

It goes to the very brink and matches from the death Angel's grip. Gives relief in thirty minutes. It is a heart specific. A few doses relieve the most stubborn of cases, and a few bottles will turn the scale of health. It never fails to cure.

THE CANADIAN ORDER OF FORESTERS

This national fraternal and benevolent society has secured a splendid position and standing in all parts of the Dominion, and to those interested in the subject of "financial insurance" the desirable features of the society are well worthy of examination. They are:

1. Purely Canadian.
2. National in its character.
3. Age limit—18 to 45.
4. Fixed Premium. No Death Assessment.
5. Gives $500, $1,000, $1,500 or $2,000 Insurance.
6. Nearly two and a half million dollars paid to the members and their dependents since organization in 1879.
7. Careful medical selection. Death rate for the 21st year of its history, only 4.48 per 1,000.
8. Has a large Surplus on hand for each $1,000 risk than any other society of the kind in Canada. At Feb. 1st, 1901, the surplus was $1,082,000.
9. Security of investments. Not a dollar of the surplus invested outside of Canada.
10. Premiums and interest accruing therefrom used only for payment of death claims.

The fees for the insurance, payable monthly in advance, are as follows:

Between the ages of	On	On	On	On
	$500	$1,000	$1,500	$2,000
18 to 25	35	40	45	50
25 to 30	40	45	50	55
30 to 35	45	50	55	60
35 to 40	50	55	60	65
40 to 45	55	60	65	70

In 1900 over $185,000 were paid out in insurance.

The Sick and Funeral benefit branch is a very popular department and upwards of 22,000 of the members of the society are participating in this feature of the order. The benefits are $3.00 per week for the first two weeks of illness and $5.00 per week for the following ten weeks, altogether $56.00 during the year, besides a funeral benefit of $50.00. In case of continuous illness $50.00 is paid each year. The fees for same, payable monthly in advance, are as follows:

Between 18 and 25 years.	25 cents
" 25 and 30 years.	30 cents
" 30 and 35 years.	35 cents
" 35 and 40 years.	40 cents
" 40 and 45 years.	45 cents

During the year 1900 over $83,000 were paid out in sick and funeral benefits. All physically and morally qualified males between the ages of 18 and 45 years, who are not debarred on account of occupation, are accepted for membership.

For further particulars enquire of any of the officers or members of the Order, or address: R. Elliott, H. C. R. Ingersoll, Ont.; Thos. White, High Secretary, Brantford, Ont.; Ernest Gartung, S. O., Brantford, Ont.

SOLID FOOD MEANT AGONY

Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets cured her indigestion—made her stomach strong and well. To-day she eats anything she wishes, enjoys it and suffers no pain.

Mrs. Ellen Butler, 37 Collahie Street, Toronto, suffered so from indigestion that for years to get a bit of solid food in her stomach meant agony for hours. She had tried many remedies without any permanent relief, but when she commenced using Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets she immediately improved. After taking three boxes she was able to eat anything without the slightest distress. Sixty tablets, 35 cents.

For sale by F. R. Dalton, Newcastle, N. B.

No, said she, I don't like canoes.

Why not? asked the college student.

Because, answered she, blushing, you have to sit tandem all the time.

Daddy, there's a big run on the town bank.

Well, thank the good Lord, I don't own a dollar.

The WHIRL of the TOWN

Toilet paper in rolls at the Advocate office.

Wrapping paper in rolls always in stock in various sizes.

M. Geo. Brown has erected a covering over the fountain and it is a fine job.

The services of day policeman Gallahave been dispensed with for the winter.

Another schooner of old Sydney mire coal has arrived for Messrs. Russell's coal shed.

The Rev. J. F. Estey will preach at Blackville on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

We carry a full line of paper bags from 1lb to 20 lbs. which we sell at right prices.

There is only one square rigged vessel in port at present. A Russian barque is loading at Messrs. Snowball's, Chatham.

A number of sportsmen have been down river shooting wild fowl but the weather has been too fine for large bags.

Mr. J. E. Brown of Toronto, the eye specialist will be at A. E. Shaw's drug store on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 8th and 9th. Eyes tested free.

St. Andrew's Church, Rev. T. H. Cuthbert will give an address to young men Sunday evening. Subject: "The men of Is- rael." Anthem: "Praise ye the Lord."

Mr. R. Waldo Crocker has been appointed to obtain the statistics for the Marine and fishery department. He will work the Miramichi and started Tuesday.

We have heard nothing more about a holiday on the King's Birthday but take it for granted that the merchants will obey the statute making Saturday, Nov. 9th a public holiday throughout Canada.

Messrs. Miller Bros. have had the Murray house recently purchased by them renovated and repaired and are moving into it this week it makes a fine residence.

A squaw made things lively on Castle street last Friday. She got mad at a store-keeper and fired a slab of wood through the window. She had been imbibing freely.

There are a few places in this and Gloucester county in which we have no competitors. We would like to have a hunter in every town and village in both counties. If you are interested write to us for particulars.

Nelson Division, Millerton will hold a birthday party in the new hall on Friday evening, Nov. 8th. A good programme is being arranged and one of the chief attractions will be a spelling match between New- castle and Millerton which promise to be interesting. Refreshments will also be served.

The London Daily Graphic of Oct. 16 publishes pictures of the colors presented to the 62nd Regiment (St. John) by the Duke of York, on the 17th of Oct., and announces that the presentation was made at London, Ont., and that the regiment was one of those taking part in the big military review at Toronto.

Manager Russell of the I. C. R. recently issued orders whereby trainmen on regulars would have to run through from Campbellton to Moncton. This would have necessitated the removal from here of the families of these men and a strong protest was entered against the change and the order was countermanded yesterday.

It is understood that Messrs. Clark, Skillings & Co's mill will not cut spoolwood here this winter. This mill usually gives employment to about fifty men and a number of horses all winter and its not being in operation this winter will be much regretted by all as it was about the only industry running during the winter season. It is said their fine property here could be bought at a reasonable figure.

It is said that a large steamer will leave England on Nov. 8th to load deals at this port. This is probably the latest date that a steamer loaded here but there is no doubt that she will clear safely judging by the time the river closed during the past six years.

1896—Dec. 2. 1898—Dec. 10.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized by the Rev. J. F. Estey at the Methodist parsonage, Newcastle recently when Miss Janie Horsford and Mr. Amos J. Mullin of Trout Brook were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Miss Janie Westmore Copp acted as bridesmaid while Mr. Amos Stewart supported the groom. A wedding reception was held at the bride's home where many friends gathered to wish the young couple a long and happy life. The presents were numerous and costly showing the high esteem in which both were held.

Hickson's mill has closed down for the season.

The flag at the Station is at half mast in honor of the late Mr. Renssela.

Beautiful weather has prevailed during the past week. It is our Indian summer.

New platform scales are being placed in position at Messrs. J. Russell & Co's coal shed.

Don't forget to call and see our handsome premium pictures given with subscribers of Advocate and Family Herald and Weekly Star.

The plasterers are about done at the Lounsbury building and outside staging is being removed and windows are being placed in.

Hallowe'en was very quietly spent here. The usual number of games were lifted but no reckless damage as sometimes results from the pranks of lawless youths.

A large number of our young men have recently left for Maine and other parts of the U. S. We are sorry to say that a few of them left a number of unpaid bills behind.

Through the courtesy of S. Kerr & Son of St. John we have received a copy of their valuable work on Book-keeping. This book should be in the hands of every student or business man.

Mr. Wm. Sinclair while on a visit to the lumber camps on the Northwest was thrown from his horse but aside from a severe shaking up, we are pleased to state he received no serious injury.

Joseph DeCoursey was ordained to the priesthood, at the pro-cathedral, Chatham, at 8.30 mass Friday morning. Bishop Barry officiated. Rev. Fathers Joyner, Murdoch, Wallace and McLaughlin assisted.

The Hallowe'en entertainment in the Temperance Hall by the members of Newcastle Division last Thursday evening was a most enjoyable affair. A large number of friends of the members were present. Home made candy and fruit were served, and an excellent programme rendered.

Some of the goods taken from Deemer's grocery have been recovered. They were stored away in a packing case at the rear of M. Bannan's warehouse. We understand that it is pretty well understood who the guilty party was but there is not sufficient evidence on which to convict.

The I. C. R. maritime express between Montreal and Halifax is to be run on Sunday the same as week days, on and after the 24th inst. The change, it is said, is being made for the purpose of carrying the usual English mail specials from Halifax during the winter.

We understand that a party of gentlemen have been negotiating for a site for a box factory and mill to manufacture dimensional lumber, clapboards, doors and sashes. We trust they will be successful and that a new industry will be added to our town. Perhaps the council might give them some encouragement.

A ROYAL DRINK.—The bill of fare set before the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York and their suite during their stay in St. John, included Red Rose Tea. This is a high compliment to the quality of that well known brand which is blended and packed by T. H. Eatabrooks and has such a very large sale throughout Eastern Canada.

A young man who claimed to belong to a travelling show was in town last week trying to dispose of some rings. He told the usual tale of being stranded and offered the rings at any price in order to get enough money to take him home. Upon examination it was found that the rings were imitation stones and gold plated brass worth about 25c. but he usually asked $1.50 for them.

Mr. Gilbert LeBlanc of Chatham, clerk for Messrs. Luggie was arrested on Saturday by his employees on a charge of theft. He was up before the Magistrate for examination on Monday and the evidence showed that he had sold a suit of clothes and made no return or entry of the transaction as the clerks are obliged to do. Mr. LeBlanc produced a memo book in which he had charged to himself sums taken at various times on account of his salary and the price of this suit was entered therein.

The question as to who is to be appointed to the position of I. C. R. district superintendent at Campbellton in place of the late Wm. Renssela, is already being freely discussed in railway circles. During Mr. Renssela's leave of absence in England the office was temporarily filled by Mr. Evan Price chief train despatcher at Campbellton, but the Quebec end is making an effort to have Mr. Dube, district superintendent at Levis, removed to Campbellton and his jurisdiction enlarged. Another report is that Mr. J. E. Price may be sent to Campbellton.—Times

Social Personal

Henry W. Robertson "Barister" St. John, spent Sunday in town.
Mrs. S. McLeod has returned from a month's visit to Boston, Mass. and Concord, N. H.

Mrs. F. E. Miller and little son Ralph who have been visiting Mrs. Miller's parents for the past two months returned Monday to their home at Malton, Mass.

J. Howard Crocker spent Saturday and Sunday at his home here.

Mr. Howard Cassidy has gone to Maine for the winter.

Mr. A. G. Bury of Campbellton was in town Saturday.

Mrs. Carter and her brother Mr. James Averd, who has been sick here for some time, left Saturday morning for Moncton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Armstrong leave this morning for New York, to visit friends.

Mr. E. Hutchinson was in Moncton, Monday attending a meeting of the N. B. Petroleum Co.

Ken. Allan Ritchie and Sam'l Russell left Monday morning to visit the company's works at the headwaters of the Miramichi. They have to travel forty-four miles on horseback and the trip will take a week.

Miss Minnie Brown entertained a number of her young friends at her home on Thursday evening.

Mr. Edward Way, the popular guide who was reported convalescent last week has, we are sorry to say, suffered a relapse but is again on the way to a speedy recovery. But for his strong and hardy constitution he would not have survived these severe attacks.

Mr. John Woods of Douglastown left for Boston, yesterday morning.

Another case of small pox has been reported at St. John.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McEvoy on the arrival of a young daughter.

The cars of the Royal train passed through here yesterday on the accommodation.

A large number of the Maritime farmers who went out west on the Harvester's excursion are returning. Up to date some of the Newcastle boys have returned and all report themselves as satisfied with the west.

We have received three handsome pictures from the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star. These pictures they are giving to their readers this year and are the best ever offered by any paper in America.

We had given up clubbing with any paper, being content to push our own circulation in our own way but this tempting offer we knew would be appreciated by our readers so have decided to give them the benefit of this remarkable clubbing offer for a limited time and we trust all who desire these papers and pictures will remit $1.80 promptly to us. Read large advertisement for particulars and description of pictures and call at this office and see samples.

Stabbing Affair.
Deputy N. S. Nov. 4—A serious affair which took place at Clementville last Thursday, has just been reported from that outlying district, which is situated about five miles to the eastward of Bear River, and which is not connected by telephone.

A man residing in that village, named Timothy Riley, a pensioner of the American civil war, had quarrelled with his wife to such an extent that she was obliged to leave him. While under the influence of liquor he had evidently made up his mind to kill his wife.

Attempting to break into a house for that purpose, he attracted the attention of Jacob Long, a respectable citizen of Clementville who interfered. Riley stabbed Long with a tanner's knife, nearly cutting off Long's ear and making several bad gashes on the back of his neck and side of the head. Long is under the doctor's care, but it is thought he will recover, although the physician stated that it was a narrow escape.

HOW A SPRAIN DOES HURT!
But it isn't the pain alone that is dreaded, just think of the loss of time and wages. Sprains without number have been cured by rubbing Polson's Nerviline well into the pores of the skin surrounding the joint. No matter whether it is a sprained wrist, ankle, knee or back, just try Nerviline on it, and see how quickly it will cure. There is only one liniment that can be depended upon to cure sprains, strains and swellings, and that is Polson's Nerviline. Large bottle 25 cents.

At the residence of the bride's parents on Oct. 30, by Rev. T. G. Johnstone, Mr. James Everett Clark of Nelson, to Miss Mary Emma, second daughter of Mr. George Brynaton, of Derby.

At Newcastle on the 27 inst. by the Rev. J. F. Estey, Mr. Amos Mullin to Miss Jane Hooford both of Northesk.
