WHOLE NO.

THE PROTESTANT CLERGY MAL-IGNED BY PROFESSIONAL AGITATORS.

If the opponents of Sir Oliver Mowat tell the truth, the Protestant clergy of the Province of Ontario have been guilty of the gravest dereliction of duty.

The charge made against Sir Oliver Mowat is that he has conspired to sell the liberties that all Protestants prize, and it is maintained that Protestantism must go down unless Sir Oliver is made to stand aside, and let these professional Protestants take the place of his Government.

Despite the bitter declamation against Sir Oliver, the overwhelming proportion of the guardians of Protestantism decline to be moved by the plaintive wails of the men who have raised sectarian cries as the best means of promoting their political fortunes.

Last Sunday, in this good city of London, and for several Sundays previously, the ADVERTISER had representatives in every leading Protestant church in London, with the object of ascertaining how much influence the professional agitators had with the natural guardians of Protestant liberties. These representatives found that no alarm whatsoever existed among the Protestant preachers. The preachers had not ascertained that Ald. Coo, Assessor McCoubrey and Barrister R. M. C. Toothe had decreed that unless the Toronto candidate for the representation of London were elected the whole Protestant fabric would topple to the ground. These preachers were apparently ignorant of the contention that the beautiful Scripture selections approved of by the representative of all the Protestant Church bodies showed on every page, according to the profes onai Protestants, that the Pope controlled those who agreed to the compilation! These preachers had not ascertained that the new Protestantism consisted in repealing the Golden Rule. These leaders in the community had not reached the conclusion, at which the professional Protestants have arrived, that the proper way to commend Protestantism to our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens is to preach a Gospel of Hate, or at least a Gospel of Worry and Misrepresentation.

So it is throughout the entire Province. The recognized Protestant leaders, who do not make political capital of their Protes tantism, decline to join in the Unholy Crusade. Not half a dozen clergymen have openly adopted the tactics of those who are assailing Sir Oliver Mowat, while hundreds of them-many formerly Conservativesare supporting the Grand Old Man of Untario, as worthy of all the honors that every section of the community, no matter where its members may worship their Maker, can bestow.

Does anyone doubt the Protestantism of Principal Austin, of Alma College, St. Thomas? or of Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston? or of Principal Burns, of Hamilton Wesleyan College? or of Principal Cochrane, of Brantford Coilege? or of Principal Hare, of Whitby College? or of Principal Caven, of Knox College? These men are at the head of the institutions in which the rising generation obtain their grounding in Protestantism of the best type, and they unitedly assert that they have the utmost confidence in the Protestantism of the present Government of Ontario and are giving it their hearty support. Does anyone doubt the Protestantism of Rev. Dr. Dewart, editor of the Christian Guardian, the organ of the great Methodist Church of Canada? Dr. Dewart has no misgivings as to Sir Oliver's orthodoxy, and is satisfied that all classes of the community are given fair play by his Administration. So it is with the stalwart Protestant divine who controls the Canada Presbyterian; with the editor of the Canada Baptist, the organ of that ever-vigilant Protestant body, and with hundreds of other clergymen in all he great denominations into which Protestantism in Ontario is divided.

If it were true that the Premier of Ontario is the man that he is represented to be by the Coos and the Toothes, of the Meredith contingent, then ought he to be driven out of the Presbyterian Church, of which he is a respected elder. But many hundreds of Protestant clergymen in this Province are either supporting Sir Oliver Mowat or decline to be led into making a crusade against him on the ground that Protestantism would be better served by Mr. Meredith than by Sir Oliver; by John A. Leitch than by Hon. Geo. W. Ross; by Wm. Hancock than by Hon. J. M. Gibson. But if the terrible stories told against the Ontario Government, either in secretly circulated sheets, in unscrupulous Conservative newspapers, in private canvass, or on the platform, are only half true, an end.

what a recreant set the Protestant clergy of the Province must be! The stories are not even half true, and those who make them know it as well as the Protestant clergy do who decline to enter upon a crusade so utterly un warranted. It is no use to mince words in dealing with the matter. In no country is Protestantism more alert to assert its principles than in this much-favored Province. But the natural, the selected, Protestant leaders in Ontario decline to join in the present outery because on a previous occasion many of them were fooled. They were misled by the professional Protestants, who kept their zeal for Protestantism at fever heat until Mr. Meredith was hopelessly beaten, and then retired from the business. Now that another election is on, these emissaries are on deck once more with their cries revamped to look as fresh as played-out cries can be made to appear. Who are the men who raise these sectarian cries? Are they leaders in Christian work? Is it not a fact that nine out of every ten of them rarely darken a church door, and that they would far rather attend a cock fight than set a foot within a Sunday school? We know who the professional Protestants are in London. When they do not correspond with the description given above, they are office-seekers who think that the promulgation of these cries may prove the shortest cut to a job.

Even Mr. Meredith, with all his protestations of unselfish devotion to the Protestant faith, has never been known as a church worker. It is not upon record that any convention of the Protestant community has ever met and called upon him to act as their guardian against the machinations of Sir Oliver Mowat, whose Protestantism he so unfairly assails. It is upon record, though, that Mr. Meredith was a party to the issuing of a campaign document, known as "Facts for the Irish Electors," in which an endeavor was made to prove to the Catholic electors that Sir Oliver was much too zealous a Protestant to suit the Catholic community, and it was argued that Mr. Meredith alone could do for the Catholics what Sir Oliver Mowat refused to do.

Sir Oliver Mowat's patriotic policy of fair play to all classes and creeds has not changed. Mr. Meredith's line of action has changed, and no one knows what Mr. Meredith's policy will be a few months

These are the reasons why the natural leaders of the Protestants of Ontario decline to join Mr. Meredith in his ill-founded outcry. These are some of the reasons why the large majority of the electors will continue to support the Government of Sir Oliver Mowat.

London was accepted. A large deputation of the deanery of St. John from the Church of England appeared with Christian greetings to the assembly. Rev. Messrs. Schofield, Raymond and Desoyres spoke elequently and sympathetically, expressing high esteem and goodwill for the Presbyterian Church in the great work in which she is engaged.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Herriage, who spoke elequently in reply, and seconded by Rev. A. S. Murray, of London, a suitable reply was adopted. Rev. Principal Caven also spoke in his own admirable way. The reference on both sides to the question of union and the spirit of unity and the obstacles in the way of organic union of the churches were full of good sense. Recognizing frankly the spirit of unity on the great outstanding doctrines of Christianity and recognizing each other as parts of one great Christian church, and bidding each other god-speed as expressed by Mr. Desoyres in the old version of the 111th Psalm: "We have wished you good luck, ye that are of the house of the Lord." The True Inwardness of the Polling Place Dispute.

Sheriff Cameron Does His Whole Duty to the People.

The Election Might Have Been Invalidated but for the Sheriff's Firmness.

The citizens of London will be at a loss to account for the neglect of city business which the all-night wrangle over the location of the Provincial election polling booths exemplified. It was understood electric railway franchise, and set the in-

A returning officer may in his discretion grant such additional polling places in any polling subdivision as the extent of the subdivision and the remoteness of any body of its voters from the polling place render necessary .- 55 V., c. 3, subdivision 38 (2.) (By 57 Vic., cap. 5, sec. 2, the following subsection is added):

None of these provisions of the law can the returning officer, as an officer of the Crown, fail to observe on pain of penalties and of upsetting any election that may take place. Has Sheriff Cameron done his whole duty, and nothing but his duty? Most certainly he has. Let us give the facts:

Sheriff Cameron received the writ on June 1, and he issued his proclamation for an election immediately. It was posted up at the City Hall, as required by law, on June 4. While proceeding to make minor arrangements, the sheriff delayed fixing upon polling places till Tuesday, June 12, so that the City Council, if it had so desired, had ample time to provide him with the necessary booths. Before the meeting of the council, the returning officer sent Deputy Sheriff Glass to the city clerk to obtain necessary certificates, but the city clerk, being busy arranging the council programme, requested Mr. Glass to delay for a day. Within two days after that time, Mr. Glass returned to the office of the city clerk, and on request was furnished by Mr. Kingston with a copy of the list of polling places used in the municipal elections in January last, to be usen as a basis for compiling the Provincial list of polling places. Not till the 12th of June did the sheriff start out to make the arrangements for the polling places, and to inspect the premises as required by law. He was accompanied by his bailiff (Mr. Graham), and the tedious work of location was accomplished in three days, with the exception of those places for which the occupants could not give a definite answer. The day after, on Friday, June 15, at 3:30 p.m., Mayor Essery wrote to the returning officer intimating new Fire Kindler.

that he intended to suggest to the council last (Monday) evening that it should provide the necessary polling booths. Sheriff Cameron immediately replied that, as the council had failed to provide the necessary polling places, he had proceeded to obey the law and had selected suitable places himself. From this statement it will be seen that

Sheriff Cameron has followed out the strict letter of the law, and in delaying action in regard to the selection of polling booths till the latest reasonable hour, has carried courtesy towards the civic authorities to the extreme.

The fact is that Sheriff Cameron has not deviated in any particular from the procedure of the late Sheriff Glass, who for over 34 years acted as returning officer in elections in this city. For nineteen years the provision in reference to the selection of the polling places has been on the statute books, and in every one of the that the chief business of the aldermen on Provincial elections since 1875 up to and Monday night was to finally dispose of the including 1890. Sheriff Glass selected the polling places in precisely the dustry of electrifying and extending the same manner as that pursued by his lines humming, so that the workingmen of successor on the present occasion. It is only when Sheriff Cameron is the returning officer that an eleventh-hour attempt is ceiving the writ of election, fix one polling made to have proceedings taken by him that might invalidate the election. Think of the absurdity of the contention made by the Conservative wire-pullers division. But the number of polling in the council who caucused to provide a places now required by law in cities new list of polling places, and refused to even consult in advance their Liberal associates at the aldermanic board! First, we have Mayor Essery merely informing towns and incorporated villages, and at the returning officer that at the eleventh east one mile distant from each other in hour before the nomination, he will "suggest" to the council that a departure be taken from the methods pursued for the past nineteen years! Then we have the City Council majority passing a list of polling places in the early hours of nomination morning, and asking the returning officer to substitute it for the one legally provided for by him. Suppose the sheriff had accepted this caucused list, there is no guarantee that it was one which could be relied upon. Indeed, we know that the owner of one of the premises chosen by the council had previously positively refused to permit his place to be used on polling day. Besides, the returning see that the polling places are properly situated, as well as actually available, and he must announce the list of polling places on nomination day. How could he inspect the whole of the polling places selected by the council between the hour of 2:25 a.m.. when the council adjourned, and the hour for holding nominations on the same dayeven supposing he had been disposed to

THE WHEEL PADWAY AT DETROIT. Frank Radway, c. London, entered the 25 mile road race at Belie Isie, Detroit, on Saturday, meeting some of the best American riders. Radway was heavily handicapped, and in addition sustained a breakage when he had reeled off about nineteen miles. It is satisfactory to know that he made the best time for that distance, and had he finished would probably have won the time prize. Forty-two started, but only 30 finished, twelve of the machines breaking down. ANOTHER ROAD RACE. The second of the road races instituted by Mr. Thomas Donly, of St. Thomas, will be held to-morrow night. The start will be made at 6:30, and the course will be the same as that taken last week, finishing in front of the Fraser House, Port Stanley. The following London riders have entered: Holt, Macbeth, Reid, Carson, Burke, Glover, Brown, Jenkins, Elson, Bryant, Manville and Radway. From St. Thomas are: Hare, Drake, Trick, Dynes, Fraser, Hughes, Price, Cohen, Devell, Griffiths, Smith, Minshall and Devine. Radway is the only scratch man. The handicaps have not been made public, as the board-Messrs. James McCormick and Dr. Balfour, of this city, and W. F. Boughner and J. B. Davidson, of St. Thomas-thought it advisable to keep the riders in ignorance of their positions until the start. The L. E. and D. R. ONTARIO AGRICULTURE.

Ontario has gained a place among the foremost agricultural countries of the world. Its exhibits at the Chicago Fair attracted world-wide attention to this Province, and it was easily first in the distribution of honors in several departments. In a speech at Guelph the present Governor-General of Canada referred to this marvelous success, and attributed it in a large measure to the Department of Agriculture, which the Opposition in Ontario believe is not important enough to demand the undivided attention of a Minister. The growth of the dairy industry in Ontario has been wonderful. In 1893 the quantity of cheese produced was 93,848,948 pounds, and the gross value of it was $8,959,939. The milk produced on nearly 48,000 farms was used in its production. The department has been unceasing in its efforts to aid this industry by the issue of pamphlets, the distribution of dairy reports, the establishment of the dairy school and the travelhave also been assisted by grants and by the popular young reeve of Blenheim, the dissemination of useful information. TORONTO, June 18 .- This city has developed a tight-rope walker that promises to rival Dixon and Calverley. He is James E. Hardy, sen of John Hardy, of the Canadian Pacific. The lad, who is now 18 years old, has been practicing on and off at rope walking for the past eight years. Some of the feats performed by young Hardy are wonderful. In fact, he goes through the same performance as the great Blondin, taking the chair out, sitting on it and smoking a cigarette. THE ROSS BIBLE.

A press dispatch from Chicago, which appeared in the Empire of Saturday, said: "A petition bearing 60,000 names, and representing many religious bodies, has been prepared for presentation to the Chicago Board of Education, recommending that a reading book consisting of selections from the sacred Scriptures, in use in the schools of Toronto, Canada, with the ap. proval of both the Catholic and Protestant Churches, or similar selections, be put in use in the public schools without dalay. The petition continues: 'As the whole religious world united without objection in the universal prayer, "Our Father who art in heaven," during the world's religious congress in 1893, we believe that all right-minded classes of Americans now agree on the daily reading in the public school of selections from the sacred Scriptures, and the recitation of that prayer, and the two great commandments upon which hang all the law and the prophets, thereby fixing in the minds of the children the vital spiritual principles on which good citizenship and the future welfare of our country so largely depend.' Among other potitioners are Charles C. Bonney, who was in charge of the religious congress; W. R. Harper, president of the University of Chicago; W. A. Amberg, president of the Columbus Club; W. J. His able and elequent remarks will not only retain for him his many friends, but will win for him new ones. > Sir Oliver Mowat, who was called upon after a few remarks by the chairman, received an ovation at the hands of his audience. He delivered an address of some length, touching upon all the salient questions of Ontario politics, and from the attention paid to his utterances and the applause with which they were greeted at frequent intervals it was evident that they were entirely satisfactory. The reception of his address cannot have failed to be exceedingly gratifying to Ontario's Grand Old Man. Mr. Andrew Pattulio, Woodstock, president of the Western Dairymen's Association, and editor of the Sentinel-Review, closed the meeting in an eloquent and brilliant speech. "Dickey Bird" Bill Killed for the Present Session.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.] OTTAWA, June 18 .- The leisurely way the House proceeded to-day with its business did not look much like prorogation this month-a limit on the length of the session fixed by some members. It was private members' day and no Government business was taken up. The effect of the Ontario elections was plainly visible on the

Mr. Edgar's bill reducing the number of grand jurors necessary to find a true bill from twelve to seven in any Province where the panel does not exceed thirteen was adopted.

Mr. Coatsworth's "dickey bird" bill, as it is called-otherwise the bill to further prevent cruelty to animals-was again considered in committee and again opposed. The discussion was chiefly on the old lines, involving the question whether trap-shooting of pigeons should be permitted.

Mr. Amyot caused some amusement by asking why there should be an undue preference for protection. Why, he asked, should they allow lobsters to be boiled alive? He also discussed the question "Have animals souls?"

Sir John Thompson opposed trap shooting, and ridiculed the idea of it being a manly sport as urged by Col. Tisdale. Mr. Ives did not agree with his political chief, and denounced the bill as creating new offenses when it was unnecessary.

After a long discussion the committee rejected the idea of allowing trap shooting. A motion that the committee rise was carried by 43 to 14. This kills the bill for the session. Both Sir John Thompson and Mr. Laurier voted against the motion.

Dr. Sproule, on a motion for papers, exposed the actions of Dr. Wright, quarantine officer at Windsor, Ont., who, he said, had blackmailed the Grand Trunk Railway Company on the strength of the official authority he had to deal with American cattle coming in at Windsor for transit across the Ontario peninsula in bond. Dr. Wright had been dismissed, but Mr. Sproule thought he should also be punished.

The motion carried. Mr. McMullen, in the absence of Mr. Mulock, moved the second reading of the bill giving the Government power to fix a maximum scale of rates on cattle shipped from Montreal to Great Britain. After brief speeches by the mover and Messrs. Semple, McNeill and Rowand the debate was adjourned.

LORD ABERDEEN ON TOLERATION

Could anything have been more opportune or so well said than the Governor-General's references to the need of religious toleration if Canada is ever to become a country of which the citizens may be proud when he stated in his splendid address at the Toronto Pavilion on Thursday, replying to the senate of the University of Toronto, after having had conferred upon him the highest honor in the gift of that learned body—the degree of LL.D.?

"The suggestion of breadth of course had reference to the importance of a comprehensive, tolerant and sympathetic spirit. I hope that this university will ever be a center not only of learning but of light, especially in regard to the spirit and tone to which I have referred-a spirit of toleration; not of the sort which may arise from indifferentism, or from the absence of a definite hold upon those cardinal truths which the founders and governors of the university desired to recognize and maintain, but rather that charitable spirit which will wish above all things to secure that no distinctive doctrine or creed should in any way act as a disability or hindrance to the fullest exercise of rights and privileges. (Great applause.) Such a spirit, while becoming and appropriate in the case of a university, is, of course, not less essential as a characteristic of a country as a whole if that country is to make full use of its opportunities, and to extend its development and prosperity and usefulness." (Tremendous applause.)

Miners at Work.

PITTSBURG, June 18 .- The settlement of the coal miners' strike and the return to work to-day of 15,000 of the 20,000 miners in this district, has given an impetus to all kinds of business, and the situation is more hopeful than at any time for

Sir Oliver at St. Catharines. ST. CATHARINES, June 18 .- Sir Oliver Mowat arrived in the city this afternoon, as he should do and provided them. and was met at the landing by a number of prominent Reformers of the riding and escorted to the Welland House where had a grand rally at the Opera House todoors, and a good many ladies attended. On the platform were the leaders of the Reform party, J. B. McIntyre occupied the chair. The speakers of the evening were: R. Thompson, Wm. Gibson, M.P., Wm. Garson and Sir Oliver Mowat. The latter spoke nearly two hours on leading questions of the day. He referred to the publishing of the conadential correspondence he had re the appointment of Col. Leys to the registrarship of Middlesex. He said it was quite impossible to grant the Leys favor as the Middlesex members had serious objections. He also referred to his son's appointment to the shrievalty of Toronto, and claimed he was justified in doing so, that the sitting member for Toronto acquiesced, and that his colleagues all favored the appointment. The meeting closed with hearty sheers for the Queen and Sir Oliver.

An All-Night Session of the City Council,

Conservative Members Select Their Own Polling Subdivisions

After the Sheriff of Middlesex Had Already Done the Work.

An Unprecedented Scene-A Question Time That May Be Settled in Court - The Street Railway Matter Was Not Touched.

A large crowd attended at the council chamber last night to hear the electric street railway question discussed, but it was not touched on. Instead a political fight occurred over the right of the sheriff to appoint polling places and the right of the city to do so. The sheriff has heretofore attended to the work without dispute, and when the council of June 4 took no action in the matter Sheriff Cameron went ahead and made the appointment. The Conservative members of the council opposed this action, and the session lasted until 2:25 a.m. before the bylaw was finally passed. The only absent member was Ald. William

POLLING BOOTHS. A batch of letters were read by the clerk at the suggestion of the mayor relating to the fixing of polling places for the next election. The letters had passed between was from the city on June 15, stating that it was the intention of the mayor to ask the council to pass a bylaw in accordance with the provisions of section 38 of the Ontario Election Act of 1892 providing suitable polling places for use in the city election. The sheriff replied that he would have complied with the request had he been invited earlier, but he had made necessary arrangements and located the polling

The mayor in the next letter (June 16) stated that he (Mr. Cameron) requested the council at an earlier day to fix the polling booths (as the mayor expected he would have done). The mayor would have had the council fix them earlier as a matter of courtesy to Mr. Cameron. But as the latter did not do so the mayor intended to have the bill passed at the regular meeting of the council on Monday night, so that a certified copy of it could be placed in Mr. Cameron's hands on Tuesday morning before 10 o'clock. The letter further stated Mr. Cameron had nothing to do on Tuesday but to announce the polling booths, and he would be able to do so from the bylaw the mayor will have placed in his hands. Further, it was threatened wthat if Mr. Cameron provided the polling places he would do so at his own risk, as the council would refuse to pay for what was not fixed by the council. He (Mr. Cameron)

The sheriff's reply stated that he was not supposed to take it for granted that there would be no contest. He reminded the mayor that the proclamation for the election was issued on the 1st day of June. The council met on June 4 and took no action, and that he was not made aware until 3:30 on the 15th that the council was ever likely at this election to depart from their course pursued heretofore.

Mayor Essery said that it was not fair that the city should pay $8 for polling booths that could be had for $4 and $5. If the sheriff was a partisan then his letter was an answer, but if he was simply an officer then it was not. Ald. J. W. Jones asked if the course had ever been taken before, and the mayor referred him to the law. Mr. Jones then objected to the charge of partisan being made against the sheriff. He had only followed the rule that had heretofore been established, and he did not think the city was going to suffer.

Mr. Essery used his stereotyped expression about being the servant of the people and the custodian of their moneys.

Ald. Parnell said that the mode of procedure followed by the sheriff had been the practice for 25 years, and the matter had never been introduced into the council before. It was very bad taste indeed to bring the matter up at the present time. The sheriff stated in one of his letters that he had placed an extra polling booth in the crowded No. 5 ward. Ald. Parnell and J. W. Jones moved that the selection be confirmed. Lost, 7 to 10

Then the mayor took the floor and accused Mr. Cameron of being a partisan, in that he went around with party "heelers" and made statements about the correspon-

Ald. Parnell and Ald. Scarrow both denied that the sheriff had done so, and the latter stated that it ill became any member of the council, even the head of it, to introduce politics into the council at this time. time in his life that he ever saw politics municipal elections for many years to introduced into the council, and the bylaw would never pass to-night if he should have to speak until 6 o'clock in the morning.

The bylaw was on motion of Ald. Taylor read for the first time. The aldermen would not submit to any short cut on the part of the clerk, and he was forced to read the lengthy document word for word.

Ald. Taylor moved the second reading, but Ald. J. W. Jones objected, and moved that it take place three months hence. Then a talk against time began. Ald. J.

W. Jones said that the language of the sheriff had been fair and open and above board as shown by his letters. He had fifth ward. No amendments were offered, given into the mayor at every point only that as the board had not prepared a bylaw appointing sub-divisions, he went to work

Ald. Parnell also took a hand in, and Mayor Essery took the floor to say that he escorted to the Welland House where was not assisting any political party and lunch was partaken. The Reform party assured the aldermen, as did Mr. Judd, night. The building was crowded to the the interest of the city to save them money. who followed, that he was acting merely in Why should they pay $8 a booth, which the sheriff might charge if he saw fit, when they could get them for $4? Ald. Scarrow objected to more than one reading of a bylaw during one night. The mayor ruled that it was a matter of urgency, and then a running debate was kept up for a few minutes on the relative merits of the two differences of opinion. Then on motion of Ald. Judd the work of filling in the blanks left for the polling places commenced. Yeas and nays were recorded and one subdivision of No. I ward had been finally decided on at 11 o'clock. At 10:55 some one moved that the time be extended and Ald. Parnell drew the mayor's attention to the disused bylaw calling for a two-thirds majority on a motion to adjourn. The vote was 7 to 10 o'clock, solar time. The objection was or less than the required ratio, and the mayor noted by the clerk.

Then Ald. Carrothers whispered to Ald. Coo, and that gentleman immediately moved that the council adjourn for fifteen

Ald. Parnell started in to debate the list follows: advisability until the hour should strike, but Ald. J. W. Jones reminded him that he could not discuss a motion to adjourn. Then Mr. Parnell told the mayor that as the motion was a departure from the rules of order a two-thirds majority was necessary to carry it.

But the mayor ruled otherwise and the members withdrew.

The mayor was angry and approached Ald. Parnell's chair with a very white face and clenched hands. The crowd held its breath and waited for a scene. Ald. Parnell coolly took a drink, while the mayor called him a coward and a sneak.

The council reassembled at 11:10 and the question of the second polling place was put. Ald. Parnell immediately moved an adjournment, but the motion was lost, Then for 25 minutes "yeas" and "naye" were recorded with great precision by the clerk before the third subdivision was settled on.

Then Mr. Hellmuth, on behalf of the London Street Railway, asked whether the street railway question was going to be dealt with to-night, and if not whether the company could have a copy of the bylaw before the next meeting dealt with the question.

The mayor could only assure Mr. Hellmuth that he could answer the question if it was put to him to-morrow.

Ald. Scarrow moved that the street railway question be taken up. (Applause.)
The mayor ruled Ald. Scarrow out of order, and Ald. J. W. Jones took occasion to say that the street railway matter had precedence over the matter of polling booths, anyway. Mr. Hellmuth then sat down.

It was then 11:35, and Ald. J. W. Jones read the following rule of procedure: "The council shall always adjourn at the hour of the city and Sheriff Cameron. The first 11 o'clock in the evening, if in session at that hour, unless otherwise determined by a vote of two-thirds of the members pres-

Mayor Essery-Yes, and I will call your attention that we were not in session at 11 o'clock; that we adjourned for fifteen minutes and then met again.

Ald. J. W. Jones-According to the time taverns are closed up in this city we are in session at 11 o'clock. The courts of this country have decided that the standard time of the country was sun time. If you rule otherwise I will place an injunction on the business done after this time.

After a short discussion of the several species of time-sun, standard, fast, slow, etc .- the ball went merrily on. The divisions were called for in every instance, even when it was moved that the question be put. Once in three minutes or so there was a motion to adjourn and the division recorded also. Ald. Pritchard had the prepared list and was moving the different booths one at a time. Amendments were ready, sometimes three and four of them, in every instance, and 12 o'clock had struck before ward one was finished. Any place answered the purpose, whether it was a blacksmith shop or doctor's office, whether it was in the middle of the block, down cellar, or up on the roof. The washing house of an orphans' home and the dead house of a medical school were actually voted on as sites, and the "yeas" and did not even know as yet that a contest "nays" recorded at the suggestion of the mayor.

Ald. Pritchard was subjected to one element of the conneil Was he sure the person he named would not object to having the booth in his house? Did he know where the place was? How much was going to be paid for it? And

The mayor assured the aldermanic body that some of the questions were idiotic. Ald. Parnell hinted that more than the questions were idiotic, and the mayor stared and wondered whether the remark was meant for him or not.

Tormented into saying "Yes" to the different questions, Ald. J. W. Jones reminded the mayor that he had taunted the Reformers on the council and Sheriff Cameron with having the matter cut and dried, Here, he said, was Ald. Pritchard with a cut and dried list, Ald. Coo ready to follow him with another, then Ald. Carrothers, and so on down the list of wards. It had evidently been cut and dried by the mayor and the Conservative aldermen before the Further on Ald. Carrothers and Ald. Thos. Jones admitted that they had gone around on Saturday and arranged the third D. R. R. and the L. and P. S. board came ward list. Ald. Parnell argued from this that the affair was cut and dried and prearranged.

Ald. Taylor-And, supposing it was, what difference does that make? The discussion at times branched off into the question of the exact locality of certain streets and their names and aliases. History was touched on, and the statement as to how long custom had to be established before becoming law was debated. Opinion was divided between Richard III. and the Silurian age. Caucuses of all kinds were discussed and their relative effect on past municipal elections.

It was now I o'clock, and Ald. Taylor and Coo were refreshed by a cracker and cheese lunch, eaten in state behind the council chamber door within easy call for the perennial "Yeas" and "Nays.

Still the circus proceeded. Ald. J. W. Jones said that that night a flame had been Ald. J. W. Jones said it was the first kindled that would make itself felt in but the "yeas" and "nays" were recorded with unerring regularity. With ward 6 Ald. Judd endeavored to explain why Ald. Parnell had not been consulted in the appointments. The keynote of a long address was that he had not Then Ald. Parnell refreshed Ald. Judd's memory by telling him that he had asked him in a Dundas street lunch parlor at 3 o'clock in the afternoon if anything special was coming up at the evening meeting. If Mr. Judd had wanted to tell him he could then have done so.

Then the question of the second reading came up and Ald. Parnell took the floor and moved that it take place three months

At 2:15 Ald. Judd moved that the word "$6" he struck out and "$5" inserted. Ald. Garratt seconded. Ald. J. W. Jones moved that the charge be $4. Lost. Ald. Judd's motion carried, but not before another amendment of $3 had been made by Ald.

COMMITTEE REPORTS. No. 3 committee's report went through without even being taken up clause by clause. Therefore there were no changes in the report as already published.

NUMBER TWO COMMITTEE. There was discussion over the apportionment of the band concert funds, but ultimately the clause of the report asking that a grant of $132 be made to the Sons of England Band for six concerts carried. The clause regulating the speed of wheels in Victoria Park to five miles an hour also evoked argument. The clause, however, carried, and a bylaw will be prepared to enforce it. Ald. Dreaney complained that the hiring out of bicycles was ruining the livery business, and moved that a license fee of $25 a year be charged.

NUMBER ONE COMMITTEE. The first debate arose over a clause filing the petition of John Campbell, which asked among other things that the question of the free library debentures be re-submitted to the people. John Christy protested against the free library expenditure and urged economy. Mr. Joseph Marks replied from the body of the hall, and hinted that all the opposition came from those who were interested in the old Mechanics' Institute. Ald. Parnell took a similar view, and the crowd applauded both. The clause passed and the petition was filed.

It was recommended that the letter of Engineer Graydon re supplemental grant of $4,141 for road repairs arising from the damage by the storms of May be filed. Ald. lained that it would be necessary if the grant was made to strike a supplementary rate of 1 mill. He thought that some sidewalks might wait until next year. The clause was adopted and the letter filed. The storm damage by wards is as follows: (1) $75, (2) $175. (3) $266. (4) $1,195, (5) $1,275, (6) $1,155; total, $4,141. A Big Lively Meeting in the City Hall.

The London Citizen Candidate and Toronto's City Solicitor Speak.

Rattling Address by Thomas H. Purdom and J. W. Little.

No Unseemly Disturbances-Both Sides Cheered-Sheriff Cameron Designates the Right Polling Places.

It was a big, good-natured, demonstrative crowd that filled the benches, lined the galleries, straddled the railings and sovered the floor of the City Hall at noon to-day. Sheriff Cameron took the chair at 11:30 and called for the nomination of candidates for the ensuing Provincial elections. To accommodate the audience speaking by the movers and seconders was permitted at once, and at 12:30, when the nominations were closed, the candidates themselves commenced. In sympathies the crowd was pretty evenly divided, and, though noisy, made no unseemly disturbance. This was probably due to the absence of bitterness in the speeches. There were a few calls for Essery, and Mr. Meredith's friends trembled lest he might appear, but fortunately for them he did not, and the meeting was marred by no

Thomas H. Purdom. Mr. Thomas H. Purdom was received with cheers as he rose to propose the name of Mr. Thomas S. Hobbs, wholesale merchant and manufacturer. "He needs no introduction to you; he is known personally to the citizens of London as a young, active, energetic business man-(cheers)-a man who has done his share in building up the city of London. (Cheers.) Reading the Free Press these mornings, I am reminded of a remark made by the late Col. Walker, who said that when this newspaper was served up every morning with his breakfast his wife began to wonder what kind of a man he was. (Laughter.) Mr. Hobbs has no wife or he might be asked the same question. The Free Press has made a very sudden change. It was one of those in favor of maintaining industries in our city, but now you would suppose it would rather see hardly shord to dismiss Sir Oliver-some disturb the meeting from without, will do irstand of being turned late hives of indus- under great obligations to Sir Oliver dangerous allies they are fighting for. with the Elliott foundry. (Loud cheers.) guided the affairs of this Province for There bas been a change in the Conservative party. They used to wave the old tion of our territory and has conserved our flag, but now they have ceased to. (Cheers resources. I personally hold Mr. Meredith and hisses.) Where do they get their inspiration from to-day? The only questions they have taised in the last four years in Provincial politics have come from the United States-the issues of biennial sessions. Government House, and the attacks on the British kallot. (Hear, hear.) All have come from the United States, but worse than those is the introduction of the business of the Province as he has to his American Protective Association. (Cheers.) We don't want in this country any offshoot of that association-(cheers)-and that is what the P. P. A. is. Coxey's army will follow in its train if we give them time. (Cheers and laughter.) It is a great pity they are trying to plant such an institution into this country. Look at what the Roman Catholics of this city have done within our life time. They have erected one of the finest cathedrals in Canada, of which we all-Protestant and Catholic-are proud. They have built a fine hospital. Is that not creditable to them? (Cheers.) Have they also not erected and maintained a splendid orphans' home? Have their works in these not been charitable and Christian? Yet why do so-called Protestants band together to stop such work and to ostracise them?

Voice-They don's. Mr. Purdom-We know that they do band together to keep the Catholics out of office. This should be frowned down by everybody who thinks well of his country. (Cheers.) These questions were fought out years ago in England. When Shield, the Irish orator, | sentiments as Mr. J. W. Little. (Cheers.) expressed surprise that the Duke of Wellington should sit still and hear such charges against those of his creed, he asked if the blood of England, of Scotland and of Ireland did not flow in the same stream on the same field when in the chill morning dawn British, and Irish lay cold and stark on the field of Waterloo. (Cheers.) If the Roman Catholics are loyal enough to lay down their lives in defense of the British flag-(cheers)-surely these charges of disloyalty against them are without foundation. Mr. Meredith claims he has not raised that cry, that he is in favor of the widest religious toleration; but there are those on his platform who have raised that cry and who have made it the only issue in the present contest. If Mr. Meredith did not personally raise it his followers do. I have met them in the country, where that is their only stock in trade. Mr. Hobbs will give his independent support to the Mowat Administration. (Cheers.) It is a question whether you desire to retain the Mowat Government or turn them out and put another in their place, (Cries of "No!") I believe his Government is as good as you can possibly get. (Cheers.) There are few party questions in that House; it is really a business House. I have always maintained that the highest compliment ever paid to Sir Oliver Mowat was paid by Mr. Meredith himself-higher than those of Principal Grant or the clergy and politicians who have indorsed him. That compliment was the resolution brought into the House for biennial sessions. (Applause.)

Oliver, at the helm-(cheers)-and among those on board will be Mr. Thomas S. Hobbs." (Great cheering.) Mr. Purdom closed with an eloquent and poetical appeal in support of the pure Mowat Government. J. W. Little. Mr. J. W. Little was warmly cheered and spoke in a spirit of broad liberality. He seconded the nomination of Mr. Hobbs, whom he believed would be a credit to London. Neither candidate, he said, could be assailed personally. Mr. Meredith was an honorable man and able lawyer;

It meant this: "Mr. Mowat, you have done so much for the country and made so many laws that we can rest for a while."

The good old ship of the Reform party has weathered many a storm. It may now be tossed on the waves of bigotry and intolerance, but it will sail safely into port on June 26, with the good old captain, Sir and equally efficient in his chosen line. "I am here to support Mr. Hobbs and oppose Mr. Meredith for three reasons: First, Mr. Meredith is a non-resident. (Cheers.) Mr. Meredith raised that argument himself at the time of the Peddle election. (Cheers.) Mr. Peddle was employed in the city, but being a poor man he lived in London West, where rents were lower. (Cheers.) If such an argument is unfair it was especially so under those

Mr. Hobbs was a man equally honorable circumstances. (Loud cheers.) "Second: Mr. Hobbs is a business man, and if there is any class that requires representation it is the business and working men. (Cheers.) The majority in the Legislature are lawyers, doctors and farmers-I think well of them-but I believe avail themselves of the chance to elect one of their number when they have it. and best Canada has ever known. (Loud cheers.) Strong Conservatives say we can in great respect and I was very sorry when he left the city. But when he went to Toronto he should have left some of the honors behind. (Hear, hear.) A man in Mr. Hobbs' position makes a very great personal sacrifice when he agrees to go there, but we know he will devote the same attention to the own affairs. (Cheers.) Let him know that he has not only the support of the Liberal party but of his own community at large.

Andrew McCormick, Mr. Andrew McCormick briefly and quietly nominated Mr. W. R. Meredith. 'He has served you for 22 years and I now ask you for to elect him for the next term. (Cheers.) He has never raised a cry to injure any man. I am sure you will return him by a handsome majority, and he will not only be representative for London but your next Premier. Judging from the independent papers all over the country you can see how the man lies." (This ambiguous phrase raised a laugh at Mr. Meredith's expense.) I never had any strife or ill feeling with any man and I am pleased to nominate Mr. Meredith." (Cheers.) Wm. Reid. Mr. W. Reid, in a few words seconded Mr. Meredith's nomination. He could indorse every word spoken by Mr. McCormick, without prejudice to his opponent. He only wished that all prominent party men would express the same He hoped there would be no ill-feeling in regard to the election. (Cheers.) He had lived alongside of people of different creeds and politics, and never made enmity with his neighbors. He trusted the battle would be fought in an honorable spirit. His sympathies were with Mr. Meredith. Mr. Joseph Broadbent rose to "third" Mr. Meredith's nomination, but at a vigorous cue from Mr. McCormick he sat

The London Citizen Candidate.

Mr. Hobbs was greeted with cheer after cheer when he came on the platform to speak. It was several minutes before his voice could be heard. Then he said: Mr. Returning Officer and Gentlemen,—I have to thank you again for the kind way in which you have received me. I must say that I have during this campaign nothing but thanks for those people I have met. I can scarcely say that of the organ of my opponent, though I am not quite sure that I should not thank those who conduct it as much for my success as any individual. (Cheers.) Gentlemen, my whole manhood has been spent in your midst. I have had to struggle up through life and I do not consider it a disgrace to stand before you and ask you for your votes on the 26th of this month. (Cheers and applause.) All I have is in your city. If the city of London does not progress, how can I succeed? I did not seek the honor of carrying the standard in this fight, the honor rather sought me. Apart from that I am quite willing to carry the banner through the fight, as I am a believer in the Mowat Government. (Renewed cheers.) Mr. Mowat has given us a Government which is as pure as any government which we have ever had in this country. Foe and friend alike admit that in so far as finance is concerned the administration of the Mowat Government has been pure. (Cheers.) Mr. Mowat to-day is the oldest politican under the British flag, he having served some twenty years continuously without a break. (Cheers.) Now, gentlemen, what do we find? We find at every election outside matters are brought in. If I remember aright, when my opponent ran first he was supported largely by the people at Ottawa on account Cor. Richmond & Carling Sis, of the majority of the Catholic electors having supported the Dominion Government because the Reform party were op-

Persistent Attempt to Stifle Free Speech.

The Triumph of Mr. Blake, Who Was Most Victously Assailed,

TORONTO, June 19 .- Never before in the history of Toronto has there been such a meeting as that held in the Massey Hall last evening in the interest of the Reform candidates.

For two hours the great hall, packed with over 4,000 orderly citizens, was given over largely to a disorderly group of 200 or 300 persons, whose organized disturbance made itself felt with the chairman's opening words, and culminated when Mr. Blake rose to speak in the giving over of the hall for a time to mob rule, which was quelled only by the arrival of a large body of police, and the clearing of the upper gallery, which was the principa's ene of the dis-

The effort to break up the meeting was organized by the P. P. A. councils of the city, and among the leaders of the interrupters were W. J. Cluff and John Graham the waterworks department. Ald. Hewitt is also charged by a brother alderman with lending his countenance to the disturbance. In whatever manner the raid was planned, it is a fact that two bodies of the P. P. A. members, one in the left wing of the main floor and the other in the center of the upper gallery, raised the disturbance to a pitch so near a riot that the entire force of police available was required to quell the disturbance.

In the end, through the good offices of the police, who, although slow to act, rendered splendid service when fully instructed as to their duty, order was restored, and the mob that sought to stifle free speech was overcome, and skulked out into the darkness, baffled and beaten. During the three-quarters of an hour that elapsed from the time when Mr. Blake first arose until the keys of the upper gallery were turned in the locks, and the great majority of the occupants of the gallery were seated on the platform, to which friends of the Reform cause in the closed gallery were invited, there were many exciting incidents. On one occasion business men and active workers should sticks and umbrellas were resorted to in the first gallery, but this did not last long. Many Conservatives pres-"Third: I ask your aid for Mr. Hobbs ent protested no less forcibly against the because he goes to support Sir Oliver outrage than did the Reformers, and it is Mowat and his Government—the purest not at all improbable that the disgraceful not at all improbable that the disgraceful action of the P. Taxpayers are much to show to Conservatives what meeting was a fracas between Mr. W. G. twenty years. He prevented the spoila- McWilliams and policeman No. 218, who is likely to get into trouble over it. Mr. McWilliams is a Conservative, it is needless to say, but so persistent were the interruptions in the corner where Cluff seemed to be in command of the disturbers that he turned round and remonstrated. An altercation followed, and Mr. McWilliams pointed out Cluff to Policeman 218 as one of the disturbers. Instead of taking the hint given the policeman threw Mr. McWilliams out, and in reply to the remonstrance of a pressman said he did not care a --- who he was. He would choke him off if he came back in. He seized Mr. Mc-Williams by the throat and coat collar to emphasize his remarks. No. 218 furnished the most exciting feature of the disturbance, and will probably as a result have to make an explanation to the chief.

While the disturbance was at its height Ald. Hallam and Mr. Robert Jaffray hurried to police headquarters and secured the aid of a posse, commanded by Sergeant Barton. Inspector Stephen followed up this by securing reserves from other stations by telephone. When the fife and drum band had been moved on and the gallery closed, the great audience listened with breathless interest to Mr. Blake, who in elequent periods told of the danger of the State in permitting the turbulent elements represented by the mob to assume the power of government. Throughout all the trying incidents of the evening Mr. George H. Watson, Q.C., the chairman, kept an equanimity and held the meeting well together. The group of interrupters could not mar the effect of what was undoubtedly not only the greatest meeting of the campaign, but also the greatest in point of numbers ever held in Toronto. It may be that some part of the audience of 4,000 people that crowded the great building came with curiosity to see the hall thus thrown open for the first conservatives and Reformers alike, came to hear the splendid array of speakers. It is an undoubted fact that the great spaces of of the hall gave the audience a greater freedom than is to be found in a amaller building. The interrupter, who would be rather and Copner. doubtful of breaking in upon a speaker in s small hall, felt himself safe from a castigation or sharp retort when perched away in remote corner of the second gallery more than 50 yards from the platform. But if the interrupter had greater latitude, the same is true in the matter of the applauder. Surely such volumes of cheers and plaudits were never before heard in Toronto. They rolled from gallery to gallery, and came back in great waves to the speaker who evoked them.

BELVA SCORES A VICTORY.

Bereaiter Women Can Practice Law in Virginia.

NEW YORK, June 18 .- A Times special from Richmond, Va., says: Mrs. Belva Lockwood has won a signal victory in Virginia for women. For the past tour years a struggle has been going on in this State to induce the Legislature to pass a special act permitting women to practice law, but without success. After a long fight Mrs. Lockwood's counsel secured a decision from the Supreme Court of Appeals, which allows her to practice the legal profession in this State. This, of course, throws open the same profession to all of her sex who can pass the examination.

A few weeks ago the Court of Appeals, by a vote of 2 to 2, one member being absent, decided against Mrs. Lockwood's petition. Upon a re-hearing the court, sitting at Wytheville, revoked its former decision and decided in favor of Mrs. Lockwood.

FAMILY DIFFERENCES.

John Pell is Over Seven Feet Tall, and His Wife is Less Than Five.

(From the Chicago Daily Tribune.) John Pell and his wife are not matesnot in the fullest sense of the word. He is 7 feet 1 inch tall, and she is only 4 feet 5 inches. Then they have a boy who is turning 7 years, who weighs twice as much as his mother, and is about as tall. Pell is a big, hearty, good-natured fellow, who doesn't look a day over 18. He is 28. His wife is a vivacious little body, and flutters around her husband like a dove round a cote. She is as solicitous for his welfare and looks to his goings and comings as carefully as though he were a little babe. The boy is a hearty, bright lad who looks to

They were romantically married. They came from near Penobscot, Me. She was the daughter of a poor farmer, and apparently had no promising future, while John's prospects were bright, he belonging to a well-to-do tamily. The young woman's parents gave John no encouragement, when after a courtship of six months he asked to marry her. They manifested decided opposition. John one night went over to his Dulcinea's domicile, which was a twostory one, and whistled like all good, romantic lovers. This brought his fair one to a second-story window. John stood on a box and lifted her down. They went to the town, got a license, and were married that night. They were eventually forgiven by the bride's parents and have lived with them ever since. They are going to Southern California, where he will take up fruit farming.

"Turn to the Right

I had stood some time with my mind which my knowledge of M. de Turenne's itrict honor in private affairs did not allow me to dismiss lightly, when I heard another step on the stairs, and in a moment M. la Varenne opened the door. Finding me in the dark he muttered an apology for the remissness of the servants; which I accepted, seeing nothing else for it, in good

"We have been at sixes-and-sevens all day, and you have been forgotten," he continued. But you will have no reason to complain now. I am ordered to conduct you to His Majesty without delay.
"To St. Cloud!" I exclaimed, greatly

"No, the King of France is here," he answered.

'At Meudon?"

"To be sure. Why not?" I expressed my wonder at his Majesty's

"Pooh!" he answered roughly. "He is as well as he ever was. I will leave you my light. Be good enough to descend as soon as you are ready, for it is ill work keeping kings waiting. Oh! and I had forgotten one thing," he continued, returning when he had already reached the door. "My orders are to see that you do not hold converse with anyone until you have seen the king, M. de Marsao. You will kindly remember this if we are kept waiting in the antechamber.

"Am I to be transported to - other pustody?" I asked, my mind full of appre-He shrugged his shoulders. "Possibly," he replied. "I do not know."

Of course there was nothing for it but to murmur that I was at the king's disposition; after which La Varenne retired, leaving me to put the best face on the matter I could. Naturally I augured anything but well of an interview weighted with such a condition; and this continued still farther to depress my spirits, already lowered by the long solitude in which I had passed the day. Fearing nothing, however, so much as suspense, I hastened to do what I could to repair my costume, and then descended to the foot of the stairs, where I found my custodian awaiting me with a couple of servants, of whom one bore a link. We went out side by side, and having arely a hundred yards to go, seemed in a moment to be passing through the gate of the Castle. I noticed that the entrance renection served to remind me that this was not surprising after what had happened at St. Cloud. I remarked to M. la Varenne as we crossed the courtyard that I supposed Paris had surrendered; but he replied in the negative so curtiv, and with so little are negative so curtly, and with so little consideration, that I forbore to ask him any other questions; and the Chateau being small, we found ourselves almost at once in a long, narrow corridor, which appeared to serve as the antechamber.

It was brilliantly lighted and crowded from end to end, and almost from wall to wall, with a mob of courtiers; whose my friend. Go! Rosny knows my will resilence, no less than their keen and anxious looks, took me by surprise. Here and there two or three, who had seized upon the embrasure of a window, talked together in a low tone: or a couple, who thought themselves sufficiently important to pace the narrow passage between the waiting lines. conversed in whispers as they walked. But even these were swift to take alarm, and continually looked askance; while the general company stood at gaze, starting and looking up eagerly whenever the door swung open or a newcomer was announced. The strange silence which prevailed re-minded me of nothing so much as of the Court at Blois on the night of the Duke of | which absolutely cures bilious conditions. thronged in every part. M. la Varenne, who was received by those about the door with silent politeness, drew me into the recess of a window; whence I was able to remark, among other things, that the Huguenots present almost outnumbered the king's immediate following. Still, among those who were walking up and down, I noticed M. de Rambouillet, to whom at another time I should have hastened to pay my respects; with Marshal d'Aumont, Sancy, and Humieres. Nor had I more than noted these before the door of the chamber opened and added to their number Marshal Biron, who came out leaning on the arm of Crillon. The sight of these old enemies in combination was sufficient of itself to apprise me that some crisis was at hand; particularly as their progress through the crowd was watched, I observed, by a hundred curious and attent-

They disappeared at last through the outer door, and the assemblage turned as with one accord to see who came next. But nearly an hour elapsed before the chamber door, which all watched so studiously, again opened. This time it was to give passage to my late visitor, Turenne, who came out smiling, and leaning, to my great surprise, on the arm of M. de Rosny.

As the two walked down the room, greeting here and there an obsequious friend, and followed in their progress by all eyes, I felt my heart sink indeed; both at sight of Turenne's good-humor, and of the company in which I found him. Aware that in proportion as he was pleased I was like to meet with displeasure, I still might have had hope left had I had Rosny left. Losing him, however—and I could not doubt, seeing him as I saw him, that I had lost him—and counting the King of Navarre as gone already, I felt such a failure of courage as I had never known before. I told myself with shame that I was not made for Courts, or for such scenes as these; and recalling with new and keen mortification the poor figure I had cut in the King of Navarre's antechamber at St. Jean, I experienced so strange a gush of pity for my mistress that nothing could exceed the tenderness I felt for her. I had won her under false colors, I was not worthy of her. I felt that my presence in her company in such a place as this, and among these people, must cover ner with shame and humiliation. To my great relief, since I knew my face was on fire, neither of the two, as they walked down the passage, looked my way or seemed conscious of my neighborhood. At the door they stood a moment talking earnestly, and it seemed as if M. de Rosny would have accompanied the Viconite farther. The latter would not suffer it, however, but took his leave there; and with so many polite gestures that my last hope based on M. de Rosny vanished.

Nevertheless, that gentleman was not so wholly changed that on his turning to retraverse the room I did not see a smile flicker for an instant on his features as the two lines of bowing courtiers opened before him. The next moment his look fell on me, and though his face scarcely altered, he stopped opposite me. M. de Marsac is waiting to see His Majesty!" he asked aloud, speaking to M. la

"In five minutes," M. de Rosny replied quietly, yet with a distant air, which made me doubt whether I had not dreamed all 1 remembered of this man. "Ah! M. de Paul, what can I do for you?" he continued. And he bent his head to listen to the application which a gentleman who stood near me poured into his ear. "I will see," I heard him answer. "In any case you shall know to-morrow."

"But you will be my friend?" M. Paul urged, detaining him by the sleeve.
"I will put only one before you," he answered. Myneighbor seemed to shrink into him self with disappointment, "Who is it?" he murmured piteously.

"The king and his service, my friend," M. de Rosny replied drily. And with that he walked away. But half a dozen times at least before he reached the upper end of the room I saw the scene repeated.
I looked on at all this in the utmost astonishment, unable to guess or conceive what had happened to give M. de Rosny so much importance. For it did not escape me that the few words he had stopped to speak to me had invested me with interest in the eyes of all who stood near. They gave me more room and a wider breathing space, and looking at me askance, muttered my name in whispers. In my uncertainty, however, what this protended I drew no comfort from it; and before I had found time to weigh it thoroughly the doorthrough which Turenne and Rosny had entered opened again. The pages and gentlemen who stood sbout it hastened to range themselves on either side. An usher carrying a white wand came rapidly down the room, here and there requesting the courtiers to stand back where the passage was narrow. Then a loud voice without cried, "The King, gentlemen! the King!" and one in every two of us stood a-tiptoe to see him enter. But there came in only Henry of Navarre, wearing a violet cloak and cap.

I turned to La Varenne and with my head full of confusion, muttered impatiently. "But the king, man! Where is the mourned. A Wonderful Cure.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's VEGE-TABLE DISCOVERY. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DIS-COVERY, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evibottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little affect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know." 3

THE ATTACK ON SIR OLIVER.

How the Appointment of His Son was Favored by the Conservative Press.

Though the Organs Now Think it was a Dreadini Affair.

At the time of the appointment of Sir Oliver Mowat's son to the Toronto shrievalty, many of the independent papers, and some of the Conservative papers which are not particularly friendly to Sir Oliver, approved of the appointment. The Toronto Mail, for example, said:

"Fair-minded men will see nothing objectionable, however, in the appointment ment of Mr. Mowat's son to the Toronto shrievalty. Mr. Mowat has been Premier of the Province since 1872. The duties of his office are so onerous as to render it impossible for him to pursue his profession. The salary attached to the office is not a large one; a considerable portion of it is no doubt absorbed by the machine, which constantly requires fuel in the shape of funds. It happens, too, that the modest sum which Mr. Mowat has put away has been sadly reduced by losses, so that he is entering upon old age poor in purse and in provision for his family. These are the simple facts, though we ask Mr. Mowat's pardon for stating them so nakedly; and, keeping them in view, we think those friends of his who insisted that his son should be given the shrievalty did right; that his colleagues did right in making the appointment, and that not the slightest stigma attaches to the Premier himself." The World said: "As for the city shrievalty, the choice seems to be narrowed down to two gentlemen * * Mr. Peter Ryan and Mr. Fred Mowat, son of the Attorney-General. The World learned on excellent authority that leading men of the party would actively support Mr. Mowat's preferment. The Attorney-General has been a hard worker in the Provincial service. Of course, he would not be a party himself to his own son's appointment, but it is well known that such a choice would be very popular with the Reform members of the House, and outside of it, too. The World does not see that it could be construed into an improper use of patronage on the part of the Cabinet to appoint Mr. Mowat. On the contrary, it would be a graceful recognition of the Attorney-General's services to the Province." This appeared in the World of April 21, six days before Sir Oliver is said to have consulted with Mr. Leys, and yet the latter would like us to believe that the first mention of the proposition came from the Premier.

-Music will be furnished by the Seventh Band at St. James' Presbyterian Church,

Thursday evening. -London has been chosen by the Presbyterian General Assembly as the next annual meeting place of that important body. -Mr. Charles Doe leaves to-day for Woodstock to attend the High Court meeting of the Canadian Order of Foresters. -Rev. F. Comber, of Missouri, United States, will address a meeting in the Christian Workers' Hall, Carling street, on Tuesday evening.

-Many letters reach us these days on various topics. It is absolutely impossible to publish all of them until after election day, when the pressure on our space will not be so great. -The many friends of Mr. Charles Doe will be pleased to know that his wife has returned home from St. Joseph's Hospital, where she has recently undergone an operation. Mrs. Doe wishes to tender her thanks to the sisters of that institution for their kindness and attention which she had received while under their care.

-The Rev. J. W. Annis gave a brief report of the year's work in Queen's Avenue Church on Sunday morning. The year had been one of great prosperity, advance-ment being reported in every department of church work. The congregations had been very large; 120 new members had been added to the church, 60 of them on profession of faith, though no special services had been held. All the connexional funds had increased, the missionary fund reaching $1,500 and the educational $352, while the total givings of the church were more than $1,000 in advance of the preceding year. There was great reason for gratitude because of the abundant blessings of

In Hymen's Bonds.

On Wednesday, the 13th inst., a happy event took place at the residence of John H. Teall, ex-reeve of the village of Vienna, it being the marriage of Mr. Teall's eldest daughter, Lena, to Mr. David Tull, a young farmer of Caradoc. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. W. Wickett, of Straffordville. The bride looked charming. being attired in a beautifu! fawn-colored dress trimmed with cream lace. She was supported by her sister, Miss Nellie Teall. and Miss Lily Nevills. The groomsmen were Mr. E. Willy, principal of the Vienna public school, and Mr. Wm. Teall, brother of the bride. When the ceremony was over the large company assembled sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast, after which the happy couple, accompanied by some of their friends, left the scene amid a shower of rose leaves and orange blossoms for Tilsonburg, where they took the train for Niagara Falls and other points of interest. The presents were both numerous and costly, one being an elegantly upholstered chair, a gift from the church and Sunday school of 'ich the bride is a member. Miss Teall was a general favorite with all who knew her, and her many friends and acquaintances join in express-ng their sincere congratulations. First Congregational Church Pastor-The members of the church and congregation of the First Congregational Church met last evening in the lecture room, with a large number in attendance. The chairman, Mr. Langridge, introduced the matter before them, viz., the question of filling the vacant pastorate. It was proposed, he said.

to ask Rev. Dr. Joseph Wild, of Toronto, to accept the position of non-resident paster, together with Rev. Jas. Adams, also of Toronto, but lately graduated from University of Chicago, to act as assistant pastor, and do the general work of such among the members of the church. This was fully discussed, it appearing to be the general opinion that this was the best way to meet their difficulties. The following resolution

"Resolved, that this meeting of the members of the First Congregational Church having heard and considered the proposed arrangements looking towards the settlement of the Rev. Dr. Joseph Wild and the Rev. Jas. R. Adams, B.D., as co-pastor of this church de hereby approved the settlement of the Rev. Jas. R. Adams, B.D., as co-pastor of this church de hereby approved the settlement of the set this church, do hereby approve such arrangements, and by this resolution adopt the same, pledging themselves, with God's help, to do on their part what they can to render it every such as the same of the same o

The Home for Incurables. Situated at the junction of the Hamilton road and Adelaide streets is a large twostory brick structure, which was, up to the time of the temperance agitation, oc-cupied as a hotel. It has now, however, been put to commendable use through the establishment of a home for incurables. This new departure in philanthropic work among London's citizens was talked of for among London's citizens was talked of for some time, but was only definitely settled upon by the Women's Christian Association. This body of workers had long seen the necessity of such an institution. In their daily experiences the ladies had met cases which were urgently deserving of attention—cases of men and women. attention—cases of men and women who after being discharged from other public institutions as incurable, were without shelter and friends. And accordingly, together with the King's Daughters, the W. C. A. resolved to take action. The structure is roomy, well ventilated and has been refitted throughout. Downstairs there is a large reception room, neatly furnished, and containing a piano. The dining-room is also on the lower flight. The upper portion is almost entirely taken up with bedrooms, furnished very plainly, but presenting a neat appearance. The entire furnishings were contributed by the citizens. The members of class No. 13 of the Dundas Center, under Mr. Fred Matthews, put their heads together and supplied an outfit for one room; the circle of King's Daughters of the same church two rooms; Memorial Church circle, Mrs. Richard Brown (Sydenham street) and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawson one room each, the whole providing accommodation for 22 inmates. Bro. R. Wray's Manly Rejoinder Re garding the Papers that Suppress Letters.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: I have sent the following letter to the Free Press. As you were good enough to publish Bro. James Carter's letter in full when the Free Press suppressed it by destroying it past recognition, I send my letter to you also. Yours, R. WRAY.

To the Editor of the Free Press:

I notice in your issue of this morning that your editorial comments on my action in writing to the Canadian Englishman. As that paper did not see fit to publish my letter in full, but emasculated it, the same as you did Bro. James Carter's letter, there is no doubt in the minds of individual brothers that neither your paper nor the Canadian Englishman desire that the Sons of England should get representation in Parliament. The Toronto paper is in no sense the organ of the S. O. E. Order, and has no weight in the order whatever. The stand that it has taken all through the present campaign is purely that of a party paper, and any influence it may have had among the brethren in the past has been entirely lost through its extreme party. ism. As for myself, the brethren all know me too well to require any certificate of character, and the strictures you make on my action will have no weight with the
