A ROYAL "FIND."

London, Oct. 1 .- Excavations in the Cathedral of Angers brought to light he other day the coffins of King Rene of Anjou, the father of Queen Margaret, so famous in the Wars of the Roses, and his wife. The remains of the latter have practically disappeared, being only in a tin case, but in the leaded coffin of King Rene was found preserved his skeleton entire. On his skull was a crown of thin gold leaf, in his right hand the scepter of Naples, and on his breast a jeweled orb all green with rust.

TURKS AND ARMENIANS IN CON-FLICT.

Constantinople, Oct. 1.-A number of Armenians made a hostile demonstration against the authorities here today. The police attacked the mob, killing several persons and wounding others. Many persons were arrested. Order was finally restored. The civil marriage law becomes effective today. The churches have been busy during the last few days with weddings of devout Catholics under the old law.

THE ECHO ORGAN IN THE ABBEY

Westminster Abbey, which Mr. Clark, of yachting fame, some time ago undertook to provide, has now been fixed in the trifolium above Tennyson's electrically connected with the main organ. A new keyboard has been added to the already complicated organ, making five manuals, and there are electrical contrivances in great variety, by means of which the couplings and stops are put into and out of action. The effect of touching the keys on the new manual is instantaneous, and the echo organ is as sensitive in responding as in the main instrument. SURPRISED THE OLD KING.

Africa, has seen a good many won-derful things since his arrival in this country, but he has never allowed himself to express surprise until the other day, when, at Birmingnam, he was taken around the autumn show of the local agricultural society. He is a great breeder of cattle himself, but the size and fatness of the show beasts simply astounded him, and set him thinking hard for the rest of the day. The old gentleman is by no means lacking in poetic imagination. The ize of London and its swarming millions impressed him deeply. He was passing through Cheapside at a crowded hour the other day, when he turned suddenly to one of his conductors and

"Do you ever have locusts in this country? The locust scourge is the greatest calamity which ever visits his dominions, and the defendant told him that locusts were unknown in England. The old king shook his head sadly and re-

BECOMING MONOTONOUS. London, Oct. 1.-The St. James Gazette this afternoon, referring to the team by the Philadelphians, remarks: "These defeats of English athletes across the Atlantic are becoming monotonous. If there is one thing we could lo, we thought we could play cricket. America is now taking up that game, though it was never popular there, yet even at cricket they have contrived to beat us.'

STEAMER SUNK.

London, Oct. 1.—The British steamer Wallachia, bound from Glasgow for Trinidad, struck on the rocks on Becon Perch, in the Clyde Sunday, bounded off and sunk. All on board were saved. The Wallachia was a wooden screw steamer of 1,724 tons, 259 feet long, 31 feet beam and 18 feet depth of hold. She was built at Southampton in 1883, and was owned by Taylor, Cameron & Co., of Liverpool.

COMING TO TERMS. London, Oct. 1.-The officials of the Foreign Office, answering questions on the subject, stated that a decree had already been published in the Pekin Official Gazette ordering the Viceroy of Sze Chuen to be stripped of his rank for failing to protect the missionaries in his district, and as a warning to others, it is further directed that he shall not again be permitted to take office. The decree also denounces the offending official's subordinates for failing to take proper action in the emergency.

The brick sewer right over the wretched war sloop Daphne and the gunboat Firebrand are at Shanghai, and at various points up the Yang Tse Kiang are the cruisers Rainbow, Spartan and Aeolus, and the gunboats Plover and Swift.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the Sung Li Yamen (the board controlling Chinese foreign affars) formally communicated its decision to the British Minister, who expressed himself as satisfied with the terms of the edict.

A Washington dispatch confirms the above report, and adds: "The degradation of this viceroy is but one step in the direction of complying with the compelling indemnity for the mission-ary outrages. Additional demands are understood to have been made by the British and American Ministers, and if they are complied with a long step in the directon of reform in the province of Sze Chuen will have been taken.

ARISTOCRACY DOWN AT THE

HEEL. London, Oct. 1 .- The Duke of Marlborough's engagement to Miss Vanderbilt must have filled many brokendown aristocrats in England with en-vy, and it will not be surprising if quite a number of them run over to try their luck in the matrimonial market. Beyond a doubt scores of fine old families are in a very bad way, owing to the army was issued agricultural depression and in some takes the position. instances to disastrous speculations on the Stock Exchange or race course. Only last week a son of the late Duke of Roxburghe has been before the Bankruptcy Court for the fourth time, with assets upon this occasion of £2 sterling, which quite beats the record for noble penury. The Earl of Ancaster is selling his Welsh estates in small lots to suit farmer purchasers, and is obtaining an unexpectedly good price for the land; but the saddest of all the cases brought this week before an unfeeling public is that of Viscount | to travel. Hill, whose most cherished heirlooms the Trustee in Bankruptcy. The auction took place at Shrewsbury, and attracted amateur and professional collectors and dealers from all parts of the country. Some lots fetched sensational prices. As much as $9 per ounce was paid for old silver plate This, to be sure, was an exceptiona lot, consisting of a beautiful dish and ewer. But $3 an ounce has been quite a common price. So low have the have been sold under the auctioneer's at the battle of Aboukir. A gold cross with six clasps, indicating as many battles, fought by the same doughty warrior in the Peninsular War, went for $5,000, and his Waterloo medal sold for $375. Such Is the Plaintive Cry of the Met at Ottawa to Mr. Chapleau.

He Quit Them in Disgust, But Premise Bowell Will Go On His Knees to Him.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.-There was another Cabinet meeting yesterday, but the Premier stated that there was no public announcement to make regarding it.
Ministers are evidently discussing the political situation, which was made a little interesting tonight by a report that efforts are being made to get Lieut.-Gov. Chapleau back into the Cabinet. It is said that the Premier is being urged from Quebec to take Mr. Chapleau in, and secure his aid to pull the chestnuts out of the fire. The argument used is that nothing can save the Conservative party unless it is Mr. Chapleau. When he was in the Cabinet the Ontario Ministers and the Ontario Conservatives generally termdefeat of the Oxford-Cambridge cricket team by the Oxford-Cambridge cricket kicker, yet time has brought its revenge, and if report is true Premier Bowell is going to get on his knees to implore him to come to the rescue of distracted Government. Unless Mr. Chapleau has changed his mind since last winter he has no inclination or intention of assuming the role of a life-preserver when the drowning men are Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. Mr. Haggart and others of that section which compelled him a few years back to quit them in disgust. The Lieutenant-Governor is not a vindictive man, but he has the natural dignity of a man of affairs.

DEATH IN AWFUL FORM.

A Man Fast in a Sewer Drowned by the Slowly Rising Water.

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 .- A crowd of nearly a thousand people watched a man drown in this city and was powerless to help him. His name was Thomas Reynolds, and he was a laborer in a sewer building on Los Angeles street, near Boyd. The scene was the most agonizing that can be imagined.

At about 3 o'clock Reynolds was working in a new sewer that is building directly underneath an ald brick The ground is soft there, and Reynolds was caught by a small cave-in. His legs were pinioned by the falling earth, but none thought his situation serious. A rope was made fast to him and an attempt was made to pull him out, but his shovel had fallen across his feet, and it was soon seen that he would have to be dug out. The work was at once begun. Sudnly, to the great horror of crowd that had assembled, the old man's head burst, and a large stream of water flowed into the excavation. gradually driving the rescuers out. A fire engine was sent for, and attempted to pump the inflow of water out, but it proved of no avail. The man was doomed, and nothing could be done for him. He was upright in the hole, and the water soon reached his waist. For the first time he realized that he would die. Inch by inch the fluid rose, and the poor fellow lost his nerve, and commenced to utter the most heartrending shrieks and appeals for help. The streets became blocked with people, and as the news spread of demands of the powers interested in what was going on in that hole, the crowd became frantic with a desire to save the man. But absolutely nothing could be done to succor him. The water reached the throat, then the chin, then a ripple struck his lips. The watchers at the brink of the hole turned their faces away, and groaned as a last despairing shriek came from the victim. His arms beat the water back frantically, and then were still.

Loss of a Schooner on Lake Michigan-All Drowned. Marquette, Mich., Oct. 1.-News has just reached here of the loss of schooner Elma on Sunday off Scripture Rock, with all hands on board. The steamer Birkhead left Baraga Saturday with the C. B. Jones and Elma, lumber-laden. They were caught in the great gale Saturday night and the Elma broke its tow line and disappeared in the darkness. The Jones broke loose and brought up under Whitefish Point, the Birkhead finding shelter back of Grand Island Sunday afternoon. The steamer went out to look for its consorts, and at the first of the Massive Cliffs, forming the famous pictured rocks, found the wreckage of the Elma. The crew of the lost vessel numbered 7, together with a woman and child.

A PIN KILLED HER.

Swallowed It Six Years Ago-An Unprecedented Case.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 1.—At Middletown, near Muncie, yesterday a post-mortem examination was made on the remains of Verla, the 13-year-old daughter of Frank Christman. Over six years ago the girl swallowed a pin. All efforts to extract it proved futile, and the incident had nearly been forgotten, when the girl was taken two years later with a pain in her back, below and between the shoulder blades. After laying in bed for nearly four years an Indianapolis physician detected a pin point in her back, directly over the spinal column, and then the family remembered the pinswallowing circumstance. The knife was used and the pin extracted. The wound soon healed up, but the expected speedy recovery did not come. Instead, a large lump developed on the back and the constant pain grew no less. The girl died Friday. A post-mortem examination showed that the pin had penetrated a suture between two vertebrae, and that the hole made had caused a decay. From this the vertebrae decayed until four of them had disappeared and the ribs that were connected on them were unsupported. The physicians say the case is unprecedented.

That Cures Rheumatism and Sciatica.

We have just entered on the month of October, a time fraught with tremendous dangers to all rheumatic sufferers. It is terrible to contemplate the agonies that thousands will have to endure. The victims are many; they are old and young, rich and poor. Some wealthy sufferers will betake themselves to climes with fewer dangerous changes of temperature; but the vast majority are obliged to face and endure the evils that must surely come, unless they seek the help of Paine's Celery Compound, that medicine that never fails in the most terrible cases of rheumatism.

In the complete banishment of rheumatism and sciatica, Paine's Celery Compound has more wonderful cures to its credit than can be shown by all other combined medicines. It should be remembered that Paine's Celery Compound does not simply relieve for a few days or weeks; this wonderful medicine goes straight to the root of the trouble and takes away the seeds of disease forever. Medical men know well of its value in rheumatism and indorse its use. It is therefore folly on your part to go on suffering when such a cure is within your reach. If you are a rheumatic sufferer, and wish a complete cure, see that you are not induced to take SOMETHING ELSE, even if your dealer recommends it; your safety depends entirely on Paine's Celery Compound and its miraculous virtues.

The Grand Old Man recently closed an address with the words "Give your boys a chance." We could repeat these words and say to every father and mother "Give your boys a chance." These are days of action and exacting competition, days when moral courage and brain power count, days wherein there can be only a survival of the men who are mentally and physically the fittest. No accidental circumstances of birth or condition bar our ambitions. We are equal in citizenship, and in the realization of life's reward. One man is successful more than another only in so much as he makes himself. All fields are open and the harvest is to the one who works most industriously and intelligently.

We are something more than mere workers. We toil through the early years that our ambitions may bear fruit and bring us honor and a competence when the shadows will have begun to grow lengthened. There is an individual ambition in us that makes us the peer of any in the globe. A man's brain is a garden given to him to cultivate, and whose products will be his support. Plant that garden with the seeds of knowledge, and from the vines will grow the blossoms of financial gain and honorable preferment.

Lodges and Doctors

fession of the City.

It Is Unbusiness-like and Cannot Be Defended on Charitable Grounds.

How It Affects the Doctors, the Beneficiaries and the General Public.

The Medical Profession of the City Has No Quarrel With the Societies.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": The sentiment of the medical profession in this cty respecting lodge or club practice are as follows:

1. The practice is unbusiness-like, inasmuch as the lodge doctor engages to do an indefinite amount of work for a definite, limited remuneration. Whether the demands upon his services are, as in the majority of cases, out of proportion to his remuneration, or whether, by reason of preference, some members of a lodge employ the family physician regardless of their privilege of free medical attendance, whether, in fact, the lodge doctor receives more or less than a fair remuneration for his services, is a matter governed by circumstances, which his contract tional), provide medical attendance for takes no cognizance of-a contract which, from its very nature, ignores the fundamental business principle that every man should pay for what he gets, and get what he pays for. The violation of this principle renders contract medical practice objectionable on the very face if it; even if it were tenable on other grounds while the observance of the principle renders some forms of medical service tolerant, even though not wholly satisfactory. For example, medical examiners are paid only $1 to $2 for examinations by the societies, while insurance companies pay from $3 to $5 for precisely similar examinations, and yet the medical profession, while feeling the inadequacy of the former fee, have not raised any general complaint, inasmuch as the remuneration, whatever it may be, is a fixed fee paid for a definite, limited service, and thus differs essentially in principle from a con-portion to the services rendered. Taking the last medical report of the I. O. F. as a basis of computation on account of its completeness, we find that out of a total membership of 21,there were sick during the year 1894 3.019 members for an average of four weeks, five days and thirteen The sum of $6,333 was hours each. paid lodge doctors for medical attendance and free medicine. On the reasonable basis of four visits a week to each patient, the amount paid by the order would allow for each visit the sum of a little over 10 cents a visit. In private practice the minimum fee for ordinary visits is recognized by common consent, as well as tariff schedule, as $1 per visit, a fee the reasonableness of which has never been called in question, and one certainly not excessive when the study and skill necessary and the responsibility and anxiety for losses entailed from bad debts in private practice, it will be seen at a glance that the fees received for contract services is many times less than should medical men contract their services to societies at a mere fraction of the fees cheerfully paid by the general public in private practice? Is it warrantable or politic for beneficiary societies to engraft upon their organizations a relief system which is unjust to the medical profession on the one hand, and contributes to an unfair discrimination against the public on the other hand?

3. The medical contract feature of beneficiary societies cannot be de-fended on charitable grounds. The well-to-do, as frequently as the less favorably situated, seek and obtain membership in these societies with a view to securing cheap medical atten-Business men, professional men and manufacturers and contractors are found in their ranks, and sharing their advantages. The absolutely inclined to look upon as somewhat of poor do not suffer in a city like London for lack of medical attendance. Not only have we our free hospitals fic which has two good features. First, and dispensary, but every medical it takes away from the dealer the man is in himself a center of charity temptation to break the law or to enman is in himself a center of charity in the ordinary exercise of his professional work. It may be said truthfully, though with no desire for parade or boasting, that no class in the community have such demands made upon their charity and consideration for the poor, or respond more cheerof contract practice, now sought as do, should cease. 4. The system does not contribute to men are led to engage in it in the exgaining access to family practice: themselves of it in order to supplement, at great labor, their ordinary practice; while others reason that on the principle of self-protection, they are obliged, however reluctantly, to accept contract work because others are doing it. The result is that unseemly competition, rivalry and ill-feeling is engendered. Probably most of the little animosities and jealousies found in the medical, as well as other professions, are in its case at present traceable to this mischievous system. Further, the remuneration not being commensurate with the services required, there is a temptation to render indifferent attendance and supply inferior and cheap medicines. Again. they are being neglected and treated akin to charity patients, even when they receive reasonable attention. The consequence is, the medical attendant is frequently subjected to annoying complaints on this score, complaints which his insecure tenure of office will not permit him to ignore, however un-reasonable they may be. In short, we

the manliness and independence of the

Nor is the position of the beneficiary members themselves wholly satisfactory. Here extremes exist, if they do not meet. In those of selfish tendencies the greed to get as much as possible because the sible because there is no proportionate Views of the Medical Prosible because there is no proportionate increase in the cost is developed and manifested in the frequency with which, on the slightest pretext, they which, on the slightest pretext, they which, on the singhtest pretext, they are ever calling in the services of their doctor, and in the satisfaction with which they dispose of the most liberal supplies of medicine. Those of finer sensibilities, on the other hand, refrain from sections as much medical council. from seeking as much medical council as they should, lest they may be suspected of taking undue advantage or their privilege of "free attendance." Again, the ramifications of the system are becoming so extensive that the confidential relations of family physician, once so sacred and honorable, are fast becoming a thing of the past. Now it is no unusual thing for a family to have as many different doctors as there are members in the family. Not merely male members and heads of families, but afflicted societies of women, and children even, are now found in some of the orders. It is no uncommon experience for a physician who has been called in to attend a non-society member of a family to find another member in charge of a lodge doctor, a daughter or sister belonging to a society, under the care of a sec-ond doctor, while a child in the same house may be attended by a third doctor, a physician for one of the juvenile societies! Surely, human life ought to be of more consequence than to assign its ills and ailments in a job lot to the contractor who will give the cheapest service, or who has found most favor in the eyes of a majority of a lodge or club. He may be a capable man, but in the nature of things, he cannot possibly be as serviceable to the members as if they were govern-ed by their individual judgment and preferences in the choice of a medical

4. Free medical attendance is by no means essential to the successful working of beneficiary societies. As a matter of fact the system is not in vogue in one-half the orders. The three orders of Foresters, the Knights of Pythias and the I. O. O. F. (with whom it is opits members. The Chosen Friends, the Ancient Order of United Workmen, the Canadian Order of Home Circles. the Select Knights, and the Royal Templars provide sick benefit, but no medical attendance. The Royal Ar-canum, Woodmen, National Union, provide insurance protection, and, of course, have no medical attendants. It is evident, therefore, that less than half of the beneficiary societies do not approve of the system of providing free attendance, and while they provide weekly sick benefits, they allow their members to choose and employ their own medical attendants.

5. Lastly, the profession in this city has no quarrel with beneficiary so-We recognize that they are engaged in laudable work, and that they are promoting provident and habits among their members, thrifty as well as relieving the sick and the distressed. We do not wish to antagonize them. We do not propose to enter upon any further discussion of this subject, and are prepared to render them every assistance in our power in actual charitable work. We trust, however, that we have put our tract for free medical attendance.

2. The remuneration for contract medical attendance, viz., $1 to $150 a year per member, is grossly out of property of the property of the contract practice in such a light that the societies employing lodge doctors will societies employing lodge doctors will recognize the reasonableness of our position and see their way clear to dispense with the system. We have been reminded that the withdrawal of the services of the profession in this city from contract practice might result in the importation of outside medical men to carry on the work. Even if such a course were practicable, even if men could be found who were prepared, in the face of the medical profession of this city, and in opposition to the sentiments of the best elements of the profession throughout the Province, to come here to engage under such cirtice, we doubt-indeed, we questionworthy of the confidence reposed in the skill and honor of reputable physicians. It may, however, be premature to refer to this aspect of the question, as the profession in the city, although incidental to the work of a physician of one mind in the matter, has not yet is considered. Making due allowance quite decided what course to adopt with reference to this vexatious subject. But whatever the outcome of our present consideration of the question may be, beneficiary societies and that paid in ordinary practice. Why the public generally may rely upon the exercise by the medical practitioners of the city of London of a fair-minded sprit, and that if a unanimous course be decided on, that course will in our candid judgment be alike honorable to the profession and consistent with the best interests of the public.

So far neither of the great parties in Dominion poli-tics have adopted prohibition or any definite method of regulating the liquor traffic as a permanent plank in their platform. The leaders are not to blame for this, as the people have not insisted on it at the polls. In future I propose to endeavor to keep my own garden clean instead of bothering about that of my neighbor being full of weeds. I shall not hesitate to refrain from voting, or even to vote against my party, unless they give a reasonable amount of notice to this ques-tion that I consider of more impor-tance than any other now before the public. If temperance men on each side would try to influence their own lodge members are liable to fancy that party we would soon have, at least, some reasonable restrictions of the liquor traffic. H. DURRANT'S CASE.

The Prisoner Confronted With Two Distinct Charges of Murder. San Francsco, Oct. 1.-It is not generally known that Durrant must stand a second trial for murder at the con-clusion of the present dramatic or-deal. Whether found guilty or innocent in the present case, he will have to make another fight for his life. If found guilty on the charge of murdering Blanche Lamont, the case will go to the Supreme Court, where it may linger for years with doubtful results.

Meantime the State does not intend to slumber until the evidence in the Willams' case is dissipated and weaken-ed by time, deaths, the removal of witnesses and other causes. So Durrant will be tried again within a reasonable time after the termination of the case now in progress. In other words, the trial for the murder of Minnie Williams, in any event will proceed as if such a thing as the Lamont case had never been heard of.

One of the great points in the Williams' case will be the finding of the murdered girl's purse in Durrant's clothes. The defense will claim Durrant found it at Twenty-third and Bartlett streets, and that, had he been guilty of the murder, he would have put it from him.

London, Tuesday, October 1.

PROBABLE RESULT OF THE FINAL PROHIBITION APPEAL. It is promised that the British Privy Council will give decision in the questions submitted to it with regard to the right to prohibit the liquor traffic at its sitting in November next.

Canadian visitors returned from Great Britain, who had opoprtunity to listen to the arguments and to the queries of the judges, assert that the general trend and tone of the distinguished jurists on the subject seem to be that the Dominion will be declared to have the power wholly to prohibit, whereas the power of the provinces will be limited to control and regulate licenses, with the right to reduce, but not the right to wholly prohibit, or to grant local option to municipalities.

The uncertainties of the interpretadion of law are such that the decision may be the reverse of this, but the view entertained by able authorities who heard the arguments in court is as here stated.

It will be satisfactory to all parties to have the case settled one way or another in a manner so expeditious and business-like. The London Free Press, with a new-born, if erratic, zeal for temperance, professes to be greatly displeased with the course pursued. It says that Sir Oliver Mowat should have passed a law prohibiting the liquor traffic in the Province, whether or not he had the legal right to do so. It says a prohibitory liquor law should have been passed, right or wrong, and that it should have been left to the liquor dealers and the temperance men to fight out its legality in the courts.

With all due deference to our contemporary's new zeal in the cause of prohibition, we submit that the prudent course pursued by Sir Oliver Mowat does commend itself to every fairminded man in the community. Sir Oliver refused to put either the liquor dealers or the temperance advocates to what would have been years of costly litigation. And his course in refusing to follow the advice of his political opponents, who urged that he should pass a prohibitory law without regard to whether he had power or not, has met with the approval of the overwhelming majority of the people of Ontario. They had experience enough of the evils resulting from the attempt to enforce a law of this kind, in which the jurisdiction was doubtful, when the Dominion Government attempted to enforce a license law, which was upset in the courts. But that result was not attained till hundreds of thousands of dollars of public money had been expended, and the general public, as well as the liquor dealers, had been put to no end of trouble and expense. The Ontario Premier believes in the rule "Be sure you are right before you go head."

FUTURE OF FAIRS.

The Sarnia Observer remarks on the fact that the attractions at the Western Fair are so great that the people of the west prefer to go to it, and not to attend the county fairs. Our contemporary says that though West Lambton Fair directors have worked hard and exerted themselves in various ways to arouse interest in their fall fairs, only discouraging results have accrued. It urges consideration as to the best means to adopt to secure a better showing.

Our belief is that profitable county fairs in the west are out of the question while the Western Fair maintaining its prestige. But there is no reason why the township fair, or union township fair, should not be carried on with much local advantage.

IANOTHER VOTERS' LIST OUTRAGE

The Northwest Legislature, sitting at Regina, has unanimously condemned the special voters' list law passed for the Northwest Territories by the Ottawa Government. Under this law, it is left to an enumerator to put on or keep off the lists the name of anyone who applies to him. It is held that this is a deliberate attempt to steal the constituencies for the party in POINTS.

Between 1851 and 1861 the population of Ontario and Quebec increased nearly 800,000, or from 1,725,265 to 2,501,-888. Every interest-agricultural, manufacturing, lumbering, mining and fishing-was developed in that period. And under a low revenue tariff, too.

The phrase "the greatest happiness of the greatest number" originated with Francis Hutcheson, professor of moral philosophy at the University of Glasgow, at the time when Adam Smith, author of "The Wealth of Nations," was a student. From Hutcheson, it is believed, Adam Smith received the germ, the very doctrines about liberty, labor and value on which his whole system was after-

France has tried a high tax policy, and finds it a delusion and a snare, just as Canada has found. "Tremendous mischief," cable reports say, has come to the Republic from the system.

As a result of recent competition on the water and in the field, the New York Sun asserts that the United States now has "the finest big yacht, the finest little yacht, the finest set of legs, the finest set of arms, and the finest brains in the world." As one swallow does not make a summer, so one contest in any particular line does not settle the pre-eminence of any nation in any particular line. We in Canada have found that Canadian brains and Canadian arms have held their own in an even contest with our neighbors, clever though they undoubtedly are. This great northern land, with its bracing atmosphere, takes second place to no country.

Thirty years ago, none of the houses in this city were numbered. The only designation that could be given to a man's residence was to name two streets and say it lay in the block beween them! We had no free letter delivery till ten years later, when the Government of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie conferred the boon on the city.

Almost 7,000,000 roubles will be spent on the coronation of the youthful autocrat of Russia, It is doubtful if the Czar will get much fun out of it, as he will be haunted by the dread of receiving a crown and a bomb about the same time. Besides, when there's "sic parade, sic unnecessary expense by inaugurating pomp, and art, the joy can scarcely reach the heart."

South Ontario Conservatives will ask the Dominion Government to make Wm. Smith. M.P., the Minister of Agriculture. They forget that there is one serious objection to his appointment in the eyes of the Government: Mr. Smith is a farmer.

The Chicago Times-Herald congratulates itself that it has been the means of reforming the manners and morals of the city council. That body has been elevated to such a degree that at the average meeting now, according to the Times-Herald, "there is no jostling, few filthy jokes and little swearing." Is there no more room for improvement, or is this pretty good-for Chicago?

Mr. Laurier's refutation of certain statements ascribed to him will be a bitter disappointment to the Conservative organs which have been printing the libels with great glee. To kindle sectarian fires seems to be the only method of keeping any warmth in the high tax party nowadays.

Hon. Edward Blake is troubled with insomnia. A seat in the House of Lords is one of the best cures, but the member for Longford is too thorough a democrat for that.

A Chicago religious paper proposes a tax of $100 on every American who goes on a foreign tour. It calculates that $10,000,000 a year could be raised. America should be pleased that so many of its people can afford to go abroad. Travel is the best education.

(From the Montreal Herald.) Hon. Wilfrid Laurier has been in the city for the past few days, and his figure has been a familiar sight about the rotunda of the St. Lawrence Hall and on St. James street. He is recognized on every side, for there are few men of importance in the city who have not had the honor of a bowing acquaintance with the Liberal leader, and there are as well his personal and political friends eager for recognition fom him. It is not surprising that Mr. Laurier should be recognized and pointed out on St. James street. But when he is so eagerly recognized, more eagerly pointed out, and that with a more fervid enthusiasm, in a different part of the city, and by an altogether different class of our citizens, it is indicative of the firm hold he has upon the affection and sympathy of all sections of the community. Such an incident occurred yesterday. In company with a friend, about 6 o'clock last evening, at the time when Craig street is thronged with workmen homeward bound, Mr. Laurier crossed St. Lawrence street, going westward towards his hotel. For the next half-dozen blocks his course was in the nature of a triumphal progress. Nine out of every ten of the hurrying crowd of mechanics, factory hands and workmen of every class seemed as well acquainted with the stately form of the coming Premier as are the employes within the precincts of the House of Commons. The attention he excited was in no way obtrusive. It was confined to a nudge from one to another, an exclamation, "There is Laurier!" touching of caps, and a general rightabout wheel to gaze after the towering figure. Passengers waiting for their cars, cabmen along the route, the mob of uniformed conductors standing about Cote street, all turned to subscribe to a tribute of which any man might well be proud. Mr. Laurier should come to Montreal oftener.

GET AT THE FACTS, AND SETTLE. Surely the Manitoba school question has been sufficiently threshed out. The Privy Council has decided that the minority have a grievance. Their Lordships, however, were careful not to say how great the grievance is, nor did they say anything in regard to the manner in which the grievance should be removed. How would it do for the Dominion Government to appoint an expert, the Manitoba Government another and these two a third, to go into the facts of the case and ascertain exactly the nature and size of the grievance. Principal Grant agrees with Mr. Laurier in saying that the question is one of fact and not of law. However that may have been at first, it is clearly a question of fact now. law has had its course, and a tedious expensive course it was. Now let a commission of experts find out the actual facts. If there is a real grievance every fair man will say let the grievance be remedied fully and at once. If there is no real grievance--if the law lords were mistaken, as they may have been, then let the matter drop forever. There has been more than enough of egitation. Let every patriotic man now feel that the thing needed is a fair settlement of the case.-Canada Presby.

Wm. Briggs, publisher, Toronto, has issued a handsome volume of short stories by Mr. E. W. Thompson, of the Youth's Companion staff, Boston. The book bears the title of "Old Man Savarin, and Other Stories," and good stories they are, too. Mr. Thomson is a Canadian, and he portrays Canadian life and Canadian humor, whether among the English-speaking people, the French-speaking, or the Indians. His wild and picturesque sketches of the Canadian Indians and French-Canadian dialect yarns are exceedingly well told. The characters are very natural, and the humor sparkling. There are a number of very good war stories-"The Ride by Night" and "Drafted" being good examples—and in "Great Godfrey's Lament" the author supplies a wierd picture of a race of Scotch and Indian blood.

ORGANIZATION OF FARMERS

A FEATURE OF THE DAY. James Rogers Speaks Earnestly.

The development of Farmers' Institutes and other means of education on successful practical farming has proven beyond a doubt that the present-day farmer requires to be a student of his work. The most successful ones are not as a rule those who do the greatest amount of manual labor, but they are found ranking first as prize-winners on all agricultural products. James Rog-ers, a resident of Tilsonburg, Oxford county, Ont., for 45 years, has taken numerous first prizes during the year. A successful, reliable man, his statement will be of interest to many:

"I have suffered for seven or eight years with Itching Piles; the torture and agony I cannot here find words to describe. Night after night was kept awake with the painful itching. I tried all the physicians and every known remedy all to no account not even relief. In talking over my curious trouble with Mr. Charles Thomson, our wellknown druggist, he recommended Chase's Ointment. To my wonder and surprise I got relief from the second application. I firmly believe one box is sufficient to cure any case of Itching Piles, no matter of how long duration. I would not be without it for ten times is cost. In volunteering this testimony and my consent for the manufacturers of Chase's Ointment to use it as they wish, it is that like sufferers may know they can be cured."

Radway's Ready Relief is safe, reliable and effectual because of the stimulating action which it exerts over the nerves and vital powers of the body, adding tone to the one and inciting to renewed and increased vigor the slumbering vitality of the physical structure, and through this healthful stimulation and increased action the cause of the Pain is driven away and a natural condition restored. It is thus that the Ready Relief is so admirably adapted for the Cure of Pain and without the risk of iniury which is sure to result from the use of many of the so-called pain remedies of the day. Philadelphia Players Defeat the English Cricketers.

Surrey Wins the English Cricket Championsh p-Sporting Events.

THE ENGLISH CAMPIONSHIP. The match between Surrey and Hampshire at the Oval ended in an easy victory for Surrey, who carried their first inning score to 374, including 131 by M. Read, and then dismissed their opponents in the second venture for 172. Surey thus won by an inning and 20 runs, and secured the county championship for the season of 1895 with 13 points, Lancashire being sec-ond with 10 and Yorkshire third with 7. THE ENGLISHMEN LOSE.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The third and last game of the cricket matches between the team of the Oxford-Cambridge Universities and the Philadelphia cricketers was finished at Haverford yesterday noon, the home players winning by an inning and 39 runs. Only about 500 persons were present when the game opened, but before luncheon fully a thousand more, many of them ladies, had arrived. When play closed on Saturday the score stood: Philadelphia, first inning, 404: Cambridge-Oxford, first inning, 198; second inning, 49. Thus it was necessary for the Englishmen to make 158 additional runs to avert a one inning defeat. Their second inning ended in a total of 167, 13 of which were extras.

Mrs. M. Wilson, Mr. Gaius Welford and Mr. Wm. Plewes.

They Were All Well Known and Highly Esteemed-Long Illness in Each Case.

London lost three of its oldest and most respected residents by death yesterday-Mrs. Matilda Wilson, of York street; Mr. Gaius Welford, of English street, and Mr. Wm. Plewes, miller, of York street.

Mr. Gaius Welford, who died at his residence on English street, had not been in good health for three years, and his death was due to a general breaking up of the system. Deceased was born in the shire of Buckingham, England, 73 years and 9 months ago, and in 1847 came to Canada with his wife. He settled in Paris, and immediately branched into the harness business with the late Mr. Finlayson, who for a number of years was a member of Parliament. After quite a long residence in Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Welford and their children, removed to Buffalo, where they lived during the life of the Fenian raid and the American civil war. In 1867 the family came to London, and settled in the east end, where all but one of the number are living at present. The eldest son, Jesse, opened in the rope business on Glebe street, and the father joined in, working up a trade which steadily increased and recently required an enlargement of the factory. Mr. Welford was of a quiet unassuming disposition and a model citizen, and his death will Dresden and Berlin, Mr. and Mrs. be regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr. Plewes was one of the best known millers in Western Ontario, having owned the Mcadow Lily for a quarter of a century. He was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1828, and after learning his trade he came to Canada. For some years he engaged in the milling business in Dereham township, but subsequently he came to London, where he has a ways been a highly respected resident. Mr. Plewes was an adherent of the Methodist Church. He leaves a family of ten children. A married daughter lives in the States; David is in St. Thomas; John W. is teaching school in Delaware township, and Heber, E. J., Frank and four daughters live at the homestead near the mill.

Mrs. Matilda Wilson died at the residence of her son, Dr. George Wilson, 144 York street, after an illness of nearly a year. She was the widow of the late William Wilson, of Morpeth, and daughter of the late Capt. James A. Delmage, of Her Majesty's Twenty-Third Foot Regiment, and also of the Twelfth. Mrs. Wilson was born in the county of Limerick, Ireland. She leaves five sons-William, Robert and Drs. James, John and George, and one daughter, Belle.

A FINE MELODRAMA

Is "The Fatal Card"-One of the Best Ever Seen Here.

"The Fatal Card" is one of the best genuine melodramas that has favored London theater-goers in recent years, as the delighted audience of last night will testify. "The Fatal Card" not only abounds in rich scenic effects and sensational situations, but magnificent circular street-the Ringis graced by literary merit and an ingenious strasse—which is lined on both sides plot. Its authors are English playwrights of note, and it must be admitted that average English melodrama is less crude than the highly colored American product. The text is not merely stretched over a gaping frame-work of mechanical novelties, but tells a wholesome story and teaches a profitable lesson in language chaste and refined. The heroes and heroines are the conventional types, handsome and loveable, and the villains are softened by some touches of humanity. The fact that the present company is under Mr. Gustave Frohman's management is a guarantee of its excellence. The cast is a large one, and its interpretation of the piece is superb. The leading lady, Miss Osterman, is both beautiful and accomplished. As each makes the best of his part no invidious distinction can be made, but the role of the veteran actor, Charles any rate. Five cents each; special Stedman, is perhaps the most important, and makes his sterling ability conspicuous. Among the pleasant and striking stage pictures are a splendid scene at the foot of the Rockies; a flowery river bank, delightfully natural; a typical city office, and an old cottage and its wreck by a bomb

"The Fatal Card" will be reproduced tonight. It can safely be recommended as a high class melodrama, and will doubtless draw another good house.

Mr. and Mrs. Verschoyle Cronyn Return From Europe.

And Was in London During the Elections-His Reasons for the Change - Present at the Prohibition Argument-Celebrated Golf Links Visited.

Mr. Verschoyle Cronyn, president of the London Liberal Association, with Mrs. Cronyn, arrived home last evening from a very pleasant European trip of nearly eight months' duration. They were accompanied by Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., and Mrs. Blake, who are now guests at Mr. Cronyn's residence on Dundas street. The party arrived does, that tells the story:- THREE OLD RESIDENTS DEAD at Quebec on the Parisian on Sunday morning after a somewhat tempestuous voyage. There was an unusual number of Londoners on board, including Dr. and Mrs. Niven and son Knox, Mrs. Geo. B. Harris and son Edwin, Mrs. and Miss Complin, Miss Hobbs and Miss Fowler. The presence of so many Londoners made the voyage much more pleasant than it otherwise would have been. Mr. Cronyn was down at his office as usual today and was looking in the best of health. Mr. and Mrs. Cronyn left London on Feb. 13 last and sailed on the steamship La Gascogne for Havre. This was the return voyage of the ves-sel after her momentous outward trip, when she was given up as lost. Her entry into Havre was one great triumphal procession along the two miles of wharves. The officers and men of the boat were all connected in Havre, and they were welcomed as though from the dead. The mayor and corporation and the board of trade came on board, and there was a banquet and a great many speeches. Mr. and Mrs. Cronyn spent a few days in Paris and then proceeded south to the Riviera, stopping for several weeks at Mentone. Here they were in daily intercourse with Bishop Sullivan, bishop of Algoma, and his daughters, which made the stay very pleasant. Bishop Sullivan is at Mentone for the benefit of his health, and while there he has been acting as chap-lain in East Mentone. From the Riviera the party visited all the leading Italian cities, including Rome, Naples, Florence, Genoa and Venice, and as spring advanced they went up into the lake region. Proceeding over the Alps by the Brenner Pass they went into the Tyrol, and then down the Danube to Vienna. After visiting Prague.

"After a pleasant visit to Brighton we went north, stopping at York city on our way to Edinburgh. From there we went to St. Andrew's, a most beautiful seaside resort, containing the historic golf links of St. Andrew's. It being the height of the season about 60 couples went over to the links every We witnessed some very interesting matches there, and after a week at St. Andrew's we visited Glasgow and then crossed via Strangaer and Larne and Belfast into Ireland. After visiting some old friends at Belfast we went to Dublin and spent a fortnight with friends at Howth, a delightful summer resort in the immediate vicinity. Next we went north to Londonderry, visiting points of interest on the coast of Antrim. We stayed for a week at Port Rush, a charming resort where are situated the most celebrated golf links in Ireland, and where I witnessed the play for the championship of Ireland. We then returned to Derry and took passage on the Parisian."
"When in London," continued Mr.
Cronyn, "I was present before the committee of the Privy Council when the Ontario prohibition appeal was argued. There was present in court

Sir Adolphe Caron Writes to the London Council of Women,

The usual quarterly meeting of the London Council of Women was to have been held last night in the Spencer Block, but the weather had such a depressing effect upon the attendance that a quorum was not obtainable. The interference of the elements was regretable as a number of very important matters were slated for discussion. Some of these were talked over in an informal way. A letter was in the hands of the president, Mrs. (Rev.) English, from Sir Adolphe Caron in reply to a communication from Lady Aberdeen, protesting, on behalf of the National Council of Women, against the reduction of the duty on crude opium, which had been made at the earnest suggestion of British Columbia dealers. The part relating to the question read as follows:

"The report of the Deputy Minister, which I now inclose, shows that instead of an increase in the importation of opium into Canada since the reduction of the duty it is largely decreased. This falling off, I am free to admit, is the result of the action of the Senate of the United States in making crude opium free when imported into the United States."

"Here in London," said Mrs. English to an ADVERTISER reporter, "we are not at all satisfied with the reply. It does not dispose of the subject satisfactorily. British Columbia merchants have new arranged to sell to Canadians at a much lower rate than they ever could before, and Victoria people complain that opium eating and smoking is increasing very much among the white

Dr. Rosebrugh, secretary of the Prisoners' Aid Association, wrote asking the National Council to appoint a prison commit-tee. Also if it would not be better to build the proposed reformatory for first offenders near a large city or town rather than in a rural part, so that the prisoners could be brought under the influence of such Christian church workers as the Y. M. C. A., Ministerial Association, etc.

Dr. Adams, Toronto, also wrote advocating the necessity of dental health officers to inspect the teeth of school children, also a dental hospital where the teeth of poor children could be treated free and where those who wished might pay. He asked the Council to lend its co-operation to bring the matter to the notice of the Government. Committees on pure literature and on women factory workers were to have been named.

Miss Carling moved a resolution of regret and sympathy with one of the society's best workers who was seriously ill-Mrs. J. E. Boomer. Mrs. Moore seconded, and the delegates expressed their approval by adopting the resolution.

WHEAT AND CORN FOR HOGS.

WHEAT AND CORN FOR HOGS. The American Elevator and Grain Trade says: The question of feeding wheat to hogs is again under discussion. It is just as well to remember that conditions are different this year from last. Then nearly everything in the way of feed was on a common basis; about a cent a pound or less. Now wheat, though cheap, is very much higher than corn, and there is no reason for thinking that wheat and correspond will get as near together. corn prices will get as near together as they were last year. Of course, some wheat may be fed, for a considerable amount of it is fit for nothing

The difficulty which confronts the board now is whether the library shall be kept open or closed on public holidays. Indeed one member advocates keeping the building open every day in the year, including Sundays. But he would limit the hours from wyt 1 to 5 p. m. on that day. This question may be dealt with by the board tonight, when tenders will be opened for the supply of magazines.

- Edward Morkin, the King street hotel: keeper, charged with selling liquor during prohibited hours, was discharged at the Police Court today. John Warwick, the principal witness for the crown, failed to appear. He has been keeping out of the way for several weeks, but on Friday was traced to Port Huron and summoned by Detective R. W. Ward to appear in court. He failed to do so. Morkin went into the box and denied having served liquor to the three Warwicks on Sunday, Aug. 18—the date of the double drowning. The case was accordingly dismissed.

The Fall Assizes for Middlesex Are Opened at the Court House.

Mr. Justice MccMahon on the Bench -The Grand Jury, and the Judge's Address.

"Oh yes, oh yes, oh yes! All manner of persons who have any further business to do before my Lord the Queen's Justice at this sitting of the High Court, being the court of nisi prisi and general jail delivery, will now draw near and give their attention while now the court sits. God save the Queen." That was the old-time honored proclamation with which the fall assizes for Middlesex were opened at the court house at 1 o'clock this afternoon. It was delivered by the court crier, High Constable Schram, after Mr. Justice MacMahon had taken his place on the bench, and the clerk, Col. Macbeth, was at his post.

There was a little delay caused by the non-arrival of some of the grand jurymen, but the following full panel of thirteen was finally sworn: Wm. That jury also pointed out that the change was very advisable in that it meant a great curtailment of the expense connected with the administration of justice. People like myself, said Justice MacMahon, who had old-fashioned ideas were against the change. The change has been effected, and I am glad to know from sources of the character I have mentioned that the system is likely to work so satisfactorily. One of the objections against a reduction in olden times was made on the ground that the jurors were regarded in a measure as educators of the people in the community. This objection was done away with, as the public press fulfilled the duty. Justice MacMahon touched on the criminal code and the criminal cases which would come up for trial and sent the jury to their

On a small steamer plying between New York and a city on the coast, a lady had occasion to arrange her disheveled hair in the retiring room. Taking a handsome brush from her bag, she finished smoothing her braids and laid the brush on the washstand. A young girl, ignorant and crude, as girls who have seen little of the world often are, took it up, remarked upon its beauty to the owner, who stood silent, and then lightly applied it to her own tresses. As she put it down Silas Forman, of Jacksonville, Fla., is a the incensed woman caught up the brush, and, going to the window, without a word, flung it far into the waters of the sound. The young offender, realizing her wrong, buried her head in the cushion of the settee and sobbed bitterly for an hour, while the outraged woman of the world walked away with the air of a tragedy queen. Now, what a graceful and instructive act would it have been if she had sat down by the untutored child and explained to her that personal refinement required that no one should ever use the toilet implements of another. It could have been a lesson so amicably given that the girl would date that incident as the beginning of the perception of fine breeding. She would remember her instructress as an ideal lady, not an unfeeling rebuker of ignorance. As it was, she left the boat embittered against the elder person and all her "class," as she called wellbred ladies. The influence of the enlightened follower of social laws was distinctly not that of one who understood the ethics of fine feelings,

"I wouldn't marry the best man living," said she.

"But I haven't asked you," he retorted, and then she wished he had, and when he did she changed her

Lazy people deserve worry, and they get it. There are various ways to show that the laziest people take the most trouble. There was the man whose latch-key would not work, but week by week he almost smashed the door in rather than ask his wife for a hairpin to clean the key of fluff. Then there was the squeaky door which annoyed everyone, and yet how few people ever thought of taking an oiled feather or a piece of soap to ease it!

which four yards is now acknowledged to be. Our new pattern-the "Nahant"measures five and three quarter yards at the foot, and fits as closely as a princess gown at the waist, except that there are two narrow box-plaits in the back. There are but five breadth, -front, side gores, and two back ones, -so all are very wide, and the pattern is best adapted to double-fold fabrics. In cutting, the middle of the front and the back breadths should be laid on a fold of the goods; and the side breadths can be cut straight on the front edges, or the same as the front and back breadths unless the front corners would require piecing out with small triangular gores. This should always be avoided unless the piecing can be done in a stripe, which conceals it perfectly. In making up striped and figured fabrics the skilful modiste contrives to make the stripes and lines of figures meet wherever two gored seams come together. The heavy mohairs require no lining but percaline or taffeta. A silk balayeuse is seen on some gowns, but it adds so much to the weight of wide skirts that it is oftener omitted.

Women Are Deserting the Homes. The great misfortune of the day is that both men and women are deserting the home. Woman is clamoring for the privilege to join man in going away from home. The poor woman goes away from home to work in the factory, separated from her children and husband and thrown into the society of others, and the rich woman goes away from home on her frivolous errands. They have one hundred engagements and make-believe duties and buisness which take them away from home. The contagion spreads. The dangerous woman is the woman without serious occupation. Light literature, amateur theatricals, soirees, should not take the place of earnest whole-hearted work. The more beautiful, the more gifted and the more wealthy a woman, the more dangerous she is, unless she has a purpose in life.

Delacroix, the painter, was walking about one day in Paris with a friend of his, when he fell into a brown study. "What's up with you now?" said the friend. "I can't get a certain shade of yellow," replied the artist. "What sort of yellow?"

Lots of Heat, But No Fire.

The best system of keeping warm is to keep up the natural heat of the body; the warmth resulting from sitting over the fire is not nearly as grateful. Now Fibre Chamois is a perfect warmth sustainer because it keeps out the cold wind and keeps in the natural heat. A whole ton of it wouldn't make you warm if you sat near and looked at it, but one layer through a coat, vest or jacket makes an absolute protection from bitter winds and raw air, and thus sustains the natural temperature of the system. It does not literally give heat, but it produces perfect warmth and comfort, because it keeps out all cold.

A Dream of Beauty.

Fall styles in millinery are now being discussed with avidity by ladies generally. As the time for the "openings" draws near the excitement increases and husbands are observed to wear an anxious, worried look. Mrs. J. A. The very latest of everything will be shown; in fact a veritable dream of beauty will be

Three large schooners, which were being towed across the lake and broke away, lay tossing at anchor in front of Port Stanley all Sunday afternoon and evening, with the wind blowing a gale from the west and a heavy sea on. One of the schooners was blown across the lake seven or eight miles. In the condition of the Port Stanley harbor it was impossible for them to get in for shelter.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL AND

A harvest home concert and tea was held in the Colborne Street Methodist Church last night, and despite the very disagreeable weather there was a large crowd present. Those who faced the storm were well reaid, for they were treated to an excellent programme of music and a dainty tea. The latter was first served in the school room by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society. and consisted of well prepared dishes to suit the most fastidious. An adjournment was afterwards made to the church, where the programme was introduced by the pastor, Rev. Walter Rigsby, who officiated as chairman. Mr. Rigsby stated that as place early in December he thought it wise to bring the workers into his confidence that

The liabilities maturing by December would be $855; the available assets were $600, leaving $255 of a deficit, which Mr. Rigsby thought could be reached by an earnest effort. The programme comprised solos by Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald, Mr. Charles Stockwell and Miss Edyth Hance, recitations by Miss Parker, and instrumentals by Prof. Greene. Each number was well

—A very pretty wedding was celebrated in St. Joseph's Cathedral, Hartford, Conn., on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Scarrow, Wallace, Stratton, Logan, Webb, and Penneck, and Miss Rigsby ONE ON A PRACTICAL JOKER. One day not very long ago, as a gentleman who delights in playing jokes was walking along one of the downtown streets, he was met by a friend whom he had often succeeded in making ridiculous by his good-natured trickery, and who repeatedly avowed his intention of getting even with him. It was directly in front of one of the banks, where they met and as they banks where they met, and as they came within speaking distance, the friend extended his hand very cordial-ing their honeymoon with the former's father, Mr. J. H. Glass, of Dundas street east.

—The following donations for August and September are gratefully acknowledged of their honeymoon with the former's ly and said:

"Yes, I'd be pleased to," said the

"Well, get right into my buggy," I'll be ready in a few moments. So saying the friend went into the bank, while his unsuspecting companion got into the buggy, pulled the duster over his lap, and prepared to enjoy the ride home with his friend. He had been sitting in this position for about five minutes, when a tall, fine. looking woman, with a couple of small bundles came out of a drygoods store two or three doors east of the bank and walked towards the buggy. They did not see each other until the lady got very close to the buggy, as it faced the opposite direction to the store from which she was coming, and the man was sitting on the side next to the street. As soon as the lady reached the buggy and was about to deposit her bundles on the seat she saw the intruder, stopped short, and gazed at him in utter amazement. She was the first to speak, and said in a rather haughty manner: "What are you doing in my buggy?" The man now saw that this was one on him, and turning very red in the face, he stammered out: "Oh—er—ah, I guess there's some mistake. Beg our pardon." So saying, the poor victim beat a hasty retreat, and started toward the bank, where he found his friend just nside the door, nearly convulsed with

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhea, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief, and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething. "Do you think he is after my money?" 'Shouldn't wonder. He told me he was figuring on marrying you."

Strange, but True The child that cannot digest milk can digest Cod-liver Oil as it is prepared in Scott's Emulsion. Careful scientific tests have proven it to be more easily digested than milk, butter, or any other fat. That is the reason why puny, sickly children, and thin, emaciated and anæmic persons grow fleshy so rapidly on Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites when their ordinary food does not nourish them.
