

RUTH JANISSE IS SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS

MR. DENNIS SPEAKS OF RAILWAYS

And Mr. White Explains About Montreal—Mr. Lawason Is Such a Help.

This is an imaginary dialogue between Mr. Frank White and Mr. E. S. Little, who recently resigned as president of the Western Ontario Conservative Association.

Mr. Dennis was at the Canadian National Railways station this afternoon. A great "6000" type of engine had just drawn in, and Mr. Dennis was lost in admiration. It was then that he happened to see Mr. White, who had just been over seeing about the extension to his factory.

"Good day, Mr. White. This is getting to be a great railroad, isn't it? And it's got a good man running it. I tell you, it's a changed road in the last four years, Mr. White."

"Oh, I'm not so sure of that, Mr. Dennis. I think you forget yourself. Sir Henry Thornton is all right, I guess, but you know it was King who brought him here. Now, if Mr. Meighen were running the railroad."

"Why, now, that's a new one on me, Mr. White. I never knew that Mr. Meighen wanted to run the railroad."

"Well, I think he does, Mr. Dennis. At least that's what I gather from what he has been saying in the east about moving some of the headquarters, and some place else about how he'd cut it down with a strong hand."

"They'll say it's interference."

"Well, that may be, Mr. White, but I fear the people will be saying that such a course is political interference. Do you know any more of his plans? What about the C. P. R.?"

"Now, Mr. Dennis, Mr. Meighen is a very peculiar person. He's running the Montreal and this fellow Patenaude. You can understand that, Mr. Dennis. We must have some seats from Quebec, and of course, this Montreal crowd are not friendly to the Canadian National. It's a subject I like to avoid, Mr. Dennis, but apparently they'd like to get hold of the Canadian National. It's very difficult for Mr. Meighen, because, of course, he has to do what they tell him."

"I understand that part of it, Mr. White, because I've read Mr. Meighen's statements. But I don't think it's very good business. You see since I gave up office in the Conservative Association I see things differently."

"The Way You Used to Think."

"Ah, Mr. Dennis, how I wish you would think the way you used to and not merely as a politician. You can't expect Mr. Meighen to be very friendly to Sir Henry Thornton anyway, because, of course, Thornton has started to make the road pay and that makes it awkward for Mr. Meighen."

"I suppose, Mr. White, this matter of King getting the railways' pensions back is a troublesome, too?"

"Indeed it is, Mr. Dennis. I wish Mr. Meighen had done that, but, of course, he doesn't understand such things very well."

"Mr. Meighen Didn't Know."

"Well, it's too bad, Mr. White. It's bad business. When men have a good turn like that done for them they are not apt to forget it. But I suppose you don't like to talk about it."

"No, Mr. Dennis, I'd almost rather talk about my factory."

"How is it really getting along, Mr. White? Has that second-hand building arrived from Toronto yet?"

"Well, no, not exactly, Mr. Dennis."

"Mr. Dennis Is Curious."

"That's too bad, Mr. White. I'm quite curious to see it, and that old used machinery you spoke about. Are you still going ahead with that fine big building I saw the pictures?"

"Mr. Dennis, it's not a big building, and those photographs were all wrong. As a matter of fact, Mr. Lawason thinks I'd better not go ahead with it till the election's over."

"I see his point, Mr. White. You probably rely a good deal on Mr. Lawason's judgment."

"Well, of course, he's really running my campaign, Mr. Dennis. Since you've resigned, you know."

"Oh, yes, Mr. White. Well, that's what Mr. Lawason isn't it?"

"Yes, indeed, Mr. Dennis. Well, good-bye. I must hurry back to the factory or they'll be showing too much evidence of prosperity."

MEN AT MCLARY'S APPLAUD LITTLE

Liberal Candidate Deals Vigorously With Election Problems of Workers.

Close attention and vigorous applause were accorded E. S. Little, Liberal candidate for London, who spoke to an audience of 200 men or more employees of the McClary Manufacturing Company's foundry at the noon hour today.

Mr. Little's address, while brief, was very much to the point, dealing with practical issues in the present campaign which are of deep concern to every worker in plants such as that of the McClary Company. Dealing with the question of importation of coal, he showed that Mr. Meighen's coal tariff would cost the McClary Company on their average consumption about $18,000 more per annum, and the London division of the Canadian National Railway an increased cost of about $600,000 more per annum. Even the rolling mills of Mr. White, the Conservative candidate, would be taxed $30,000 per year for coal under Mr. Meighen's proposals.

Markets Needed.

Pleading for further opening up of world markets for Canadian goods rather than the narrowing of the nation's markets by a high protective tariff, Mr. Little reminded his hearers that the McClary Company have, of recent years, commenced the building up of a fine export business with Australia. But if a high tariff were adopted and Australian goods kept out, the company would be seriously injured.

PARLIAMENT MEMBER FOUND DEAD IN ROOM

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 27.—Darrell Figgis, Irish journalist and a member of the Free State parliament, was found dead today in a lodging house. Gas was escaping from a jet.

Last week he was a witness at a coroner's inquiry into the death of Rita Norb, a young Irish dancing teacher. She died in a hospital from an operation. The coroner's inquiry had been continued until Nov. 5.

Those Who Desire Cars Should Call In Advance

To My Friends the Electors of London:

May I ask a favor of those who will want motor cars on Election day.

There is a great accumulation of organization detail heaping up at Hyman Hall and we should like to hear from everyone possible today or tomorrow as to their needs for cars. We hope to be able to take care of everyone, and if we can secure names and addresses in advance it will enable us to work more efficiently and therefore get more voters to the polls.

The Liberal club phone numbers are 781 and 782. We have this department very well organized, but it is apparent that we will require all the cars we can possibly get. Everyone on this hard-working staff of ours will appreciate the kindness of anyone who will volunteer his or her car.

Meanwhile I must take this opportunity which The Advertiser affords me to again express my appreciation of the wonderful efforts that have been made in the last few weeks and that gather momentum as the campaign continues. The boys are out for a definite 1,000 majority, and we want every vote. Yes, I'm asking you for yours. Thank you.

Faithfully yours,

(Signed) E. S. LITTLE.

FAINTS AS 15 YEARS IMPOSED

Mrs. Ruth Janisse Sentenced to Portmouth Penitentiary For Conviction of Manslaughter.

UNDER OBSERVATION

Recommendations Are Made by Mr. Justice Grant in All Cases But One.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Windsor, Oct. 27.—Before a court room packed to suffocation with spectators, Mr. Justice Grant imposed sentence of 15 years in Portmouth penitentiary upon Ruth A. Janisse, who was convicted of manslaughter two weeks ago for the shooting of Clayton McMullin, Windsor automobile mechanic, in August, maintained absolute silence in the dock. As sentence was pronounced she fainted and had to be carried out of court.

Her husband, Arthur Janisse, who was acquitted by a jury last week of complicity in the shooting, stood at the door of the court room within ten feet of his wife as she received her sentence. He displayed no emotion, although his eyes never left her face.

Other sentences imposed were:

Alfred Pentland, convicted of wanton and furious driving causing injury to Germaine Dube, 15 months in the Ontario reformatory at Guelph.

Edwin C. Lalonde, convicted of negligent driving, six months in the Ontario reformatory at Guelph.

Garnet Ferriss, convicted of breaking and entering and assault on a police officer, six months in the Ontario reformatory at Guelph.

Marshall Blight and Kenneth Grainger, permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of indecent assault at their trial for a more serious offence, suspended sentence because of youth and previous good behavior. Both boys are 19 years of age.

Will Be Under Observation.

In the Janisse, Pentland and Lalonde cases, the court intimated that good behavior would bring the recommendation of the court for a reduction of term, as far as the law allows.

The sentence on Mrs. Janisse was accompanied with a recommendation that she be examined now and kept under observation, and moved to quarters where she can receive medical attention, if necessary.

Ferriss, who was convicted of participation in robbery with violence at the farm of Peter Dufour, McGregor township, in February, 1924, received his sentence without emotion. His case was the only one on the list in which the court gave no intimation that a plea for reduction would resolve his recommendation.

Mayors Intercede.

In sentencing Alfred Pentland to fifteen months in the Guelph reformatory, and Edwin C. Lalonde to six months in the same institution, Mr. Justice Grant commented upon the prevalence of motor accidents, similar to those for which these two men were convicted. "One of the worst phases of the killing and bodily injuries being inflicted by automobiles," the court said, "is that it is being done by our respectable citizens."

The mayors of Windsor, Ford and Sandwich appeared in court to support evidence submitted by R. L. Brackin, K.C., counsel for Pentland, concerning the prisoner's good character. A lengthy petition, signed by people of the border cities, asking leniency on Pentland's behalf, was also submitted.

Support of Bogus Paper Loses Prestige For White; London Labor Men State

"Labor Leader's" Endorsement of Conservative Candidate in City Brings Retort From Colbert.

RESOLUTION PASSED

Trades Council Executive Exposes Editor of Sheet Given Wide Distribution Here.

The London Trades and Labor Council has again officially repudiated the Labor Leader, a Toronto publication, as an organ of the working classes. Last night the executive was shown the issue of Oct. 23, in which London labor was exhorted to vote for Frank White and Conservatism. Unanimous endorsement was accorded a resolution condemning the paper and exposing its editor, "Bill" Hevey.

"Among the rank and file of the working classes the Labor Leader has never been taken seriously," John Colbert, president of the trades council and city labor candidate in the federal elections, told The Advertiser.

"The editor, Mr. Hevey, is an outcast from labor, and his traitorous actions have been condemned by every trades council in the province. He is known from coast to coast as a man who sells the columns of his bogus paper to the highest bidder."

Not Source of Strength.

"A question the wisdom of any party in scheming with Mr. Hevey, a candidate who receives his backing is certain to lose prestige among fair-minded and honest people. The article boosting Mr. White, appearing in the latest issue, will do him more harm than good."

The wide distribution of the issue of the Conservative in London of the Labor Leader is also an indication of an attempt upon the part of the editor to avenge a personal grudge against the trades council here, officials declare, and evidence of hysteria among Mr. White's campaign.

J. F. Thomson, council secretary, explained to The Advertiser that prior to this year, Mr. Hevey had secured the contract of selling the advertising spaces in the annual labor day program of the local council. This year, however, Mr. Hevey was accused of the practice of reaping excessive personal rewards, as charged by the council, and Mr. Thomson superintended the publishing of the 1925 program.

Not a New Thing.

Arthur Mould, president of the London Labor party, recollects that the Labor Leader was also used by the Conservative party four years ago to boost Mr. White.

"The Labor Leader has been outlawed by organized labor for many years now," he said. "The standard-bearer pointed out, 'and Mr. Hevey has been denounced by every trades council in the country. The paper always usually it is bought by the Ontario Conservatives.'"

Mr. Mould reminds that Mr. Hevey was discredited by the local council when he resided here some years ago. He declared that he did not know of a single labor man in London who holds any respect for the editor of the pseudo labor sheet.

PATENAUDE IS SLIPPING

Big Interests of Montreal Will Force Meighen From Leadership of Conservative Party.

By E. C. BUCHANAN.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—With polling less than two days away Liberal headquarters in Ottawa are more confident than ever that the government will have behind it in the next house of commons at least 130 straight Liberals. Reliable information gathered by party observers and by newspapers in the various provinces show that the prospects are for a considerably larger number than this, but only seats of which practically no doubt remains are counted in the minimum calculation of 130. It is expected that the total of Liberals will go over 140. The government, therefore, is definitely assured of a substantial majority in its own party followers.

In addition to these, election of 15 friendly Progressives and Independents, some of whom are being supported by the government, is counted on. The ministry, therefore, expects to be able to command between 145 and 155 members of the house.

Information from the maritimes is to the effect that the minimum of Liberal successes in the 29 seats will be 15, and the probability is that the government's share will be considerably in excess of that number.

Patenaude's Downfall Likely.

In Quebec only one seat is regarded as offering the Conservatives a chance, and it is the new riding of Mount Royal. In this division the Conservative candidate is R. S. White. None of the divisions in which Conservatives are running as Patenaude candidates is considered by government informants to be in danger. In fact, the defeat of the prophet, Patenaude, is so certain, in Jacques Cartier is looked upon as certain. Out of the 65 Quebec seats the only two that are unlikely to be in the Liberal column Thursday night are Mount Royal, where R. S. White is running for Meighen and Labelle, where Henri Bourassa is standing as an Independent. The Conservatives figured that by bringing out Sir George Perley in his old riding of Argenteuil, they would be sure of regaining that seat, but Sir George has not proved such a certainty as his party supposed. It is now believed that he will be beaten.

In Ontario between 30 and 35 seats are assured to the government, and to those will be added a number of Progressives and Independents, who are supported by the Liberal party. The Liberals claim several seats in Manitoba, while in the two middle prairie provinces they do not concede the Conservatives more than two. British Columbia is out of the running, and the Yukon seat is considered safe.

One of the principal reasons for the decided increase in the seat count is the fact that the Conservatives have been beaten in all the activities of the authorities.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT REFUSES TO ATTEND COUNCIL

Associated Press Despatch.

The Hague, Holland, Oct. 26.—Turkey has refused to attend the extraordinary session of the permanent court of international justice, which today began consideration of the Anglo-Turkish dispute over Mosul.

A telegram which the Angora government sent to the court declares that the questions submitted to the court are of a distinctly political character and cannot form the subject of the legal interpretation. Turkey contends further that the powers entrusted to the council of the League of Nations in the Mosul dispute under article III of the Lausanne treaty exclude all possibility of arbitration and concludes by saying, in effect, that Turkey has already said all she needs to say about the matter.

DRUG ADDICTS ON INCREASE IN ONTARIO, SAYS EXPERT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—As a result of drastic laws which have been enforced, the illicit sale of narcotic drugs in Canada during the past few years has rapidly decreased, declared P. W. He regretted to have to state that in this province there had been an increase in all the activities of the authorities.

Manufacturer Appeals For Little's Election

Ex-Mayor F. G. Rumball, president of the Columbia Handle Works and one of the stalwarts of London Liberalism of several years ago, last night unreservedly endorsed Mr. E. S. Little as the Liberal candidate, and incidentally added his name to the long list of manufacturers who find business conditions showing a constant improvement.

"If the people will realize it, we are on the eve of a period of prosperity such as marked the longest term of Liberal government in Canada, from 1896 to 1911," said Mr. Rumball. "The firm I deal with in export business has been offering me new contracts, and they call for more than three times the amount of goods I have been selling them in many years. The same thing applies to domestic trade. You will find many manufacturers who are crying for tariff are working overtime at the present moment."

"If they want to stop this new wave of prosperity, just let them help Mr. Meighen to build his wall, then the wave will be stopped or broken and we will have a period of disruption in Canada which will be most serious for business."

"I believe Mr. Little is the man to represent London both from the standpoint of business ability and moderate tariff for revenue."

"The Meighen proposal for the taxing of coal alone would be ruinous to Canada. Send Mr. Little to Ottawa."

BRIDGE AT LOW COST PROPOSED

Plan To Build Richmond Structure on Local Improvement System Advanced.

GOES TO COMMITTEE

Old Traction Bridge the Base For Proposed Traffic Link.

A new traffic bridge for South London, financed entirely as a local improvement, will be constructed this winter if plans outlined to the board of works tonight are supported by the city council.

The projected development would link up the Richmond street route from the central business district with Carleton Place and other unexploited residential areas around Grand avenue. According to property owners, who are reported to favor the scheme, such a bridge would be an economical move for the city of London and would prove of great value to London South. Owners, according to Mayor Wenice, are agreeable to the shouldering of construction costs.

The south abutment of the old traction bridge would be used and a new north abutment would be placed directly at the foot of Richmond street. The material in the old bridge would be incorporated, and the task would give winter employment to a large number of men.

Bridge Long Mooted.

Such a structure would replace the immediate necessity of building a new bridge at Ridout street, though it would not settle the South London problem of the street railway company. The Richmond-Carleton development has long been mooted and is supported to some considerable extent by W. P. Near, city engineer, and members of the town planning commission.

Some months ago The Advertiser published an outline of plans for South London development, and sketches showing the route for a new artery to reach the heart of the residential district and provide direct transportation between Grand avenue and south Ridout street. The scheme is still in its embryo stages, save for measures which the city has taken to fill in gaps in the street plan.

At that time, and even now, for that matter, it was hoped that ultimately a street could be run through from Carleton Crescent to Ridout street. Purchase of desired property could not be arranged this year, though a later date this may be possible.

In Committee Tonight.

However, plans set forth today and which will come up before a committee of the council tonight, call for speedy development at a minimum cost to the city as a whole.

According to Mayor G. A. Wenice, one property owner in the Carleton district is willing to provide $10,000 in local improvement taxes towards the cost of the new bridge. Others are similarly interested. It is planned to assess the cost of the structure against property owners east and west of Carleton Crescent and on Carleton street.

AT THE THEATRES

LOEW'S THEATRE

Without Mercy.

Beaten with a whip in an effort to gain knowledge of the position of a silver mine and left to die in the Argentine wilds, only to reappear in the private and political life of her tormentor, seeking revenge, Vera Reynolds, in Without Mercy, playing at Loew's theatre during the early part of this week, stars one of the most dramatic roles of her career.

This picture is undoubtedly one of the best that has been offered to the public for some time, combining love, danger, and underworld doings in a well-woven theme. Depicting a life spent mainly for revenge, and the realistic manner in which all the events are shown, Without Mercy is an unsurpassed masterpiece of the screen.

The Snap Family, those laughter-stirring comedians of the screen, with one of their ever-present family quarrels, and Loew's up-to-date news events fill in a picture cast that holds the attention during the entire performance. Three acts of raucous vaudeville, with a novelty dancing and

CAPITOL THEATRE.

The Knockout.

Milton Sills fights his way to a triumph in The Knockout, a virile picture of the north lumbering country, which was shown at the Capitol yesterday for the first of a three-day run. He is at his best in this photoplay, a rugged epic of old Quebec, with its thrilling settings for the romantic and dramatic.

There is an abundance of action in The Knockout, and as the title implies, it is a tale of strength and endurance and of heroism. It is a love story, too, with that feature lightly running through to a well-worked conclusion.

The scenic effects are extraordinarily well done, with scenes of the lumbering camps of North Quebec and the rivers of the log and the tall pines as a background depicted with remarkable accuracy and picturesqueness.

The Capitol theatre offers a novelty presentation of Charleston dancers, who, in all manner of gymnastic contortions, realistically interpret the Charleston style of abandon in their dance. This act of vaudeville, executed as it is, by outstanding dancers, Wood and Jones, is an interesting feature of the program, and should prove a pleasing spectacle at the present time when in the United States the "Charleston" is reaching a height of popularity.

ARTHUR HENDERSON FAILS TO APPEAR AT MEETING

Associated Press Despatch. Hartford, Conn., Oct. 26.—Arthur Henderson, home secretary in the MacDonald cabinet and leader in the British Labor party, did not address a religious meeting at the Y. M. The Y. M. C. A. followed suit, but later recanted. It was too late for Mr. Henderson learning of the whole matter, cancelled his own speech.

LIBERAL PLAN HAS CUT FARM MACHINERY COST

Hon. Vincent Massey Quotes Actual Prices To Show Large Reduction Followed Adoption of Robb Budget of 1924—Refutes Charges of Conservative Campaigners.

IMPLEMENT FACTORIES EMPLOY MORE HANDS

Special to The Advertiser. By a Staff Reporter.

Port Hope, Oct. 26.—Hard figures were produced here today by Hon. Vincent Massey to refute the oft-repeated charge to the effect that no reductions in prices of farm machinery had followed the Robb budget changes of 1924.

A number of Conservative campaigners have made the statement that agricultural implements are costing more today than when Mr. King came into power in 1921.

"Figures are the best answer to that," said Mr. Massey. "A seven-foot binder that cost $300 in 1921 now costs $250.50.

"A gangplow that cost $150 in 1921 now costs $124.

"It may be of interest for me to state," added Mr. Massey, "that whereas the Toronto factory employed an average of 600 men for the factory year of 1921-22, the average for this year has been 1,200 men."

Richards. Those who imagine they don't like it, would change their minds after seeing the performance. On merit, the show should have capacity audiences for the remainder of its stay in London. On Tuesday afternoon, there will be a special matinee for ladies only.

LONDON MYSTIFIED BY MAGICIAN'S ART

Pleasing Personality and New Tricks Make Show a Real Entertainment.

Living up to advance notices, "Richards, the great," foremost magician of the American stage, pleased a large audience at the Grand Opera house last evening. Not only were the majority of his tricks new, but the magician himself is possessed of a most pleasing personality, which aids in no mean measure in making the show one of real entertainment.

In contrast to the average magician, Richards does not depend on chatter to get tricks "over." Rather they are accepted by the audience because of their sheer merit.

Staging illusions on an elaborate scale, Mr. Richards made the best possible use of his stage settings, and masses of color, which formed the background for most of his performance.

The show is presented in three acts and twelve scenes. Many of the tricks would almost cast discredit upon the magician's claim that no supernatural means are available to him, in creating his illusions. Especially is this true of the levitation scene. A girl is hypnotized and then, ostensibly, is raised some four feet in the air, in a horizontal position, without aid from any external source. She is kept in position for some minutes, and hoops are passed around her body, to prove the absence of wires or any paraphernalia of that sort. This feat was received with rounds of applause by last night's audience.

The human cannonball is termed the most daring illusion ever attempted by any magician. It is unquestionably the greatest demonstration of magic ever witnessed in London, and more than thrilled those present last night.

Richards' experiments in psychomancy were wonderful. To the mind of the laity they cannot help but cause the thought that science is not far removed from the necromancy of other ages. His demonstration of mind reading is probably the best that London has ever witnessed.

In addition to his major feats, the other tricks of Richards also are real masterpieces of his art. The egg scene is probably the best of these, and is entirely original to London audiences.

NEELY ADDRESSES 2 SCHOOL MEETINGS

King Hodgins' Supporters Speak at Ealing and Broughdale.

Criticisms of Dr. C. D. Ross, Liberal candidate in East Middlesex, and "Archie" L. Hodgins, Progressive candidate in the same riding, were contained in an address by Ald. Homer B. Neely at a public meeting in the Ealing school last night.

Ald. Neely spoke in the interests of A. King Hodgins, who is contesting East Middlesex for the Conservatives. Other speakers were the candidate, Mrs. A. T. Edwards and David Mills. Fifty-five persons were in attendance, and Alex. Thompson acted as chairman.

Mr. Hodgins, Mrs. Edwards and E. G. McAlister also spoke at a public meeting in the Broughdale school, concluding an attack on the King government for its alleged inefficiency. Mr. Neely condemned Dr. Ross for what he called his failure to make his stand clear on the tariff issue.

Perplexed by Hodgins. "Dr. Ross, the man who is backing the leader who promises one thing in one part of the country and another thing in the next, has not said anything on the tariff," Ald. Neely explained. "And I don't believe he knows anything," he added.

The speaker admitted that he himself was perplexed about Archie Hodgins, he said, questioning Mr. Hodgins' sportsmanship in the present campaign.

Mr. Neely was strong in his condemnation of Premier King's attitude on the recent Nova Scotia coal strike. He said in the gallery of the house of commons when some of the members urged that federal relief be given the families of the striking miners, he said, "and I saw Mackenzie King get up on his hind legs and declare that the British North America act prevented him from offering aid to suffering people. Could you imagine anything more asinine, more frivolous?"

"The country is at a standstill, if not going back," Mr. Hodgins, the candidate, stated. "There has been four years of drifting and log rolling. King has given us nothing of good legislation. The Meighen policy is the only sane course and if I am sent to Ottawa I will back the precepts of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen."

Cautions Hearers.

Mrs. Edwards cautioned her hearers against believing The Advertiser's reports of prosperity in Canada. "It is no use in saying that good times are here like the Advertiser does," she declared. "We know that factories are not running, that pay envelopes are becoming smaller, that many of us are behind in our rents, that we haven't the money to buy all we'd like to when we go to market, that the outlook for Christmas is not very bright."

Claiming that the new Australian trade treaty will bring ruin to the dairy industry of Canada, she warned, "If Mackenzie King returns, dear knows how many more terrible treaties he'll make. He's no statesman. He's no sense."

The United States is flooding Canada with women's apparel and men's clothing, Mrs. Edwards charged to the detriment of Canadian trade, while German-made shoes are proving a big competition factor.

NO NEED FOR FREE MEALS.

"Unemployment is negligible; we haven't had any since the war. We have never yet had to give a free meal to any able-bodied man," A. B. Manson, city engineer, Stratford, declared. "There is no evidence of prosperity," J. Frank White.

MAKES LAST PLEA AT FOREST.

Special to The Advertiser. Forest, Oct. 26.—J. E. Armstrong made his final plea to the local electors here this evening at a Conservative meeting in the town hall. The chief speaker was Hon. J. S. Martin, provincial minister of agriculture, and a good crowd turned out to hear him. Mayor Cope was chairman. Mr. Armstrong referred to Forest as the storm center of the riding. He stated that he had practically no new points to offer, other than what he presented at his previous meeting, and he kept his word.

ST. THOMAS MAN FREED OF BLAME

No Guilt Attached To John Esson For Fatal Motor Mishap.

Special to The Advertiser. Hensall, Oct. 26.—John Esson of St. Thomas was cleared of blame in connection with the death last week of J. C. Graham, Chatham, killed when cars driven by each collided near here.

The verdict of a coroner's jury, meeting in inquest here last night, declared him to have done everything that a driver in like circumstances could do to prevent the mishap and freed him from any guilt in the matter. The verdict read that Mr. Graham might have been able to avoid the accident had he kept to the right side of the road.

Crown-Attorney Seager of Goderich was present at the inquest, which was presided over by Dr. Hyndman of Exeter. J. Stanbury, of Exeter, attended as counsel for Mr. Esson.

EXETER UNITED CHURCH MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Special to The Advertiser. Exeter, Oct. 26.—Main street United church held its anniversary on Sunday last when Rev. G. C. Armour of Brucefield United church preached at both services. The church was well filled, both in the morning and evening.

In the afternoon at the Sunday school session the Robert Blake social and diploma for attendance were distributed. Many received these for as high as 18 years' attendance, which is a splendid record. Special music was provided by the choir, assisted by Miss Jessie Parks of Hensall.

Chatham, Oct. 26.—Fred Johnson, an elderly colored man, who left the county house of refuge without permission or giving reasons for his departure, was arrested by city police, and, facing a charge of vagrancy, said he did not like the soup and wanted a change of board. Magistrate Arnold said he would find the diet a little different at the county jail, to which institution he was remanded pending arrangements as to his future.

MRS. EMMA B. THOMAS SUCCUMBS AT GLENCOLIN

Special to The Advertiser. Aylmer, Oct. 26.—Emma B. Thomas, widow of the late George Thomas, died at her home at Glen- colin early on Sunday morning, following an illness of several months. The late Mrs. Thomas was born at Glen- colin 52 years ago, a daughter of the late James Haney, and has made her home there practically all her life. Her husband predeceased her some four years ago, and she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Roland McClenahan, Aylmer, who has been almost constantly at her mother's bedside for weeks; one brother, James Haney, on the Haney home- stead, Glen- colin, and one sister, Mrs. Edna Taylor, Belmont.

The funeral service will be held at her late residence on Tuesday at 2 p.m., with interment in the Aylmer cemetery. Rev. Waldemar Williams, pastor of the United church, Aylmer, of which deceased was a member, will officiate.

Before the Dominion was Born

To have materially assisted in the development of this great nation throughout a period of sixty-one years is the record of The Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation.

During all those years, millions of dollars have been loaned by this institution to Canada's homemakers.

First mortgages upon productive real estate, principally improved farm lands, have furnished the security for those loans.

First mortgage security overshadows all other forms of investment. Huron & Erie first mortgage investments total over twenty millions of dollars. Its Paid-up Capital and Reserve Fund amount to $6,750,000. Government Officials make inspections of the Corporation's securities, books and accounts.

Because of these safeguards and the good interest paid, over 35,000 Canadians have on deposit and invested with The Huron & Erie a total of $20,000,000.

King Government's Shining Success in Promoting Canada's Trade

More than $300,000,000 Increase in Canada's Exports to Other Countries Last Year Over 1922

ONE of the most substantial achievements of the King Government has been in the field of foreign trade. It has pursued, with remarkable success, a vigorous policy of extending the markets for Canadian products. The Department of Trade and Commerce, under the Honorable Thomas A. Low, has infused new energy into this branch of the public service. Canadian trade agents have been established abroad, for many years, but the King Government has shown unexampled initiative and enterprise in exploring commercial territory all over the world. It has, also, negotiated trade treaties, which have opened more widely to Canada the doors of some of the greatest importing nations.

Canadian Products in 1925 Went to 100 Countries

It is necessary and desirable to broaden the basis of our export business. It is true that the United States and Great Britain still take the bulk of what we have to sell. The British market, in particular, is indispensable to Canadian agriculture. But we are steadily and rapidly increasing our trade with other lands. In the fiscal year 1925, ending March thirty-first last, our products were shipped to over one hundred countries.

The expansion of our exports in the first quarter of this century is illustrated in the following table. Even making allowance for the difference in price levels, the progress has been marvelous:

Many countries with which we did no business in 1900 are now important buyers of Canadian commodities.

External Markets Necessary to Canadian Producers

It is the habit of some Canadians of narrow vision to belittle external markets. The home market absorbs a large part of our industrial output, but Canada has a vast exportable surplus of its most distinctive products and it is a truly national policy which seeks to find an outlet for them.

What would become of our immense pulp and paper industry, for instance, if it were not for outside markets? In 1925, our pulp exports were valued at $41,565,241 and our paper exports at $99,941,910—much more than the whole domestic consumption. Our automobile industry, in 1925, shipped motor cars and parts thereof to sixty different countries, to a value of nearly $60,000,000. Our exports of farm machinery were $11,342,000; of logs and lumber, $109,093,000; rubber products, $11,358,456; fishery products, $33,322,959; hides and skins, $7,163,894; leather, $8,066,602; aluminum, $5,910,547; copper and its products, $12,722,677; nickel and its products, $10,174,245; precious metals, $41,536,736; asbestos, $7,790,000; coal and its products, $5,082,414.

The case for wider markets is even more striking when agriculture is considered. The surplus over domestic requirements is so great that the prices received by our farmers for grain, cattle, hogs, cheese and other staple products are fixed outside the country, by international competition. The Toronto capitalists who, under the name of the Prosperity League, are directing Mr. Meighen's campaign in Ontario, say, in one of their pamphlets, that, if the Canadian tariff were raised as high as that of the United States—

"... the industrial growth throughout Canada would enable us to do away with our exportable surplus of wheat and put us in a position to protect our grain-growers who would, then, sell their product at a Canadian price, instead of at a world price".

Canada's Wheat Crop this Year Sufficient for 70,000,000 People

It is a confession that the Canadian wheat grower cannot now be helped by tariff legislation in regard to what he has to sell; but he is told that he may be helped in that way, if he waits until Canadians are numerous enough to eat all the wheat grown in the country. This year, the crop of Spring and Fall wheat in the whole of Canada is about 400,000,000 bushels. The home consumption averages five bushels per head, or about 45,000,000 bushels. Allowing another 55,000,000 bushels for seed, there will be still 300,000,000 bushels of this year's harvest to be sold elsewhere, or sufficient for 60,000,000 people.

In other words, Canada would need a population of nearly 70,000,000 people to consume a wheat harvest as large as this year's, after deducting the amount required for seeding purposes. When she has that many people within her borders, she will be growing much more wheat than to-day and will still have an exportable surplus which will fix the price.

In the circumstances, the Canadian farmer may be forgiven for believing that the export trade will be of supreme importance to him for a long time ahead. When the Prosperity League tells him that Western lands will become "practically valueless", unless there is a change of Government, he may be amused, but is not alarmed.

How the Government Has Widened Export Markets

The King Government, realizing that the foundations of our basic industries could be strengthened by cultivating markets abroad, has made trade agreements with Italy, Belgium, France, Russia, the Netherlands, Spain and Finland, by which Canadian products enter those countries on favorable terms. The treaties with France and Holland cover the extensive colonies of those nations.

The Government concluded even more far-reaching agreements with Australia and the British West Indies. It is the persistent aim of the Liberal Party in Canada to draw closer economically to other British countries and it regards the treaties with Australia and the West Indies as two of the most valuable links in the chain of tariff preferences encircling the Empire. To the countries included in these recent trade agreements, Canada sent, in the twelve months ending July thirty-first, 1925, products valued at $75,012,055, distributed as follows:—

Australia.....	$12,314,703
Bermuda.....	1,316,937
British Guiana.....	2,400,249
British West Indies.....	10,720,072
France.....	8,367,042
Italy.....	8,165,195
Netherlands.....	17,210,594
Russia.....	14,517,263

Mr. Meighen and his followers in Parliament obstructed some of these agreements and made determined efforts to destroy that with Australia. The British West Indies Convention was framed after the last session and Mr. Meighen gives notice that he will oppose its ratification in the next Parliament. He is consistently hostile to the Imperial preferential idea.

Railway Rates Greatly Reduced Ocean Monopoly Challenged

The marketing of Canadian products has been facilitated, also, by successive reductions in railway rates.

Legislation providing for the return to Crowsnest grain rates, which became effective July sixth, 1922, was supported by the Liberals and opposed by the Conservatives. These rates are not only substantially lower than those which were in force for some years before 1922, but they are 33% to 47% below those for corresponding distances in the Western States.

There have been three reductions in west-bound grain rates: the first effective August first, 1922, made voluntarily by the railway companies; the second, by direction of the Railway Board, following a reference of the matter to the Government; the third, recently ordered by the two Commissioners who heard the case in 1924 and whose decision is in line with the announced policy of the Government, looking to the equalization of railway rates in Canada.

The King Government has tried to help Canadian exporters by sea, as well as by land. It boldly challenged the North Atlantic Shipping Conference, whose carrying charges threatened to put an end to the shipment of Canadian stockers and feeders to Great Britain and bore too heavily on other classes of commodities. The contract with Sir William Petersen would have afforded relief, but his death put an end to negotiations for the creation of a new Atlantic steamship fleet, whose rates would be regulated by the Government. The latter will continue to press for justice for Canadian shippers, in conformity with its motto, "No Monopoly by Land or Sea".

It is specially determined that the Canadian beef cattle industry shall not lose the benefits of the removal of the British embargo brought about by the unremitting efforts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, whose Commissioner, Honorable Duncan Marshall, spent months in Great Britain, pressing the Canadian case.

To sum up, the Government has bent every energy to increase the opportunities of Canadian industry and agriculture in the markets of the world, usually in the teeth of opposition from the trade restrictionists. The expansion of exports from $740,240,680, in the fiscal year 1922, to $1,069,067,353, in 1925, and the worldwide character of this trade, are, in a measure, due to the Government's activity. Mr. Meighen and his party believe in obstruction; Mr. King and his party in expansion.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1925.

The Farmer and the Tariff.

The last-minute problem of the Conservative has been to sell the idea of protection to the Canadian farmer. The idea is that in this way can be broken down his objection to the higher tariff demanded by some Canadian manufacturers. It is to be a sort of trade—the farmer is to allow the manufacturer to get a very high tariff, one that will shut out competition and enable him to set his prices where he pleases—then in return the farmer is to be given a protective tariff too.

The farmer would then be in the position of paying more for all the articles he has to purchase. His one chance to get his own back would be to increase the prices of the produce he has to market, his cattle, grain, hogs, vegetables, etc. Could he do it? Middlesex has a large business in fattening cattle for export. At the Ailsa Craig yards there are more cattle shipped than at any other point in the province. Suppose a farmer, after making his high-tariff-for-all bargain, were shipping from that point. He might have met the buyer before, or he might simply be sending his cattle to the market on consignment. He would tell the buyer, "The price today is $7 per hundred for steers, but as I have to pay more now for all the things I buy, I will have to charge more for my cattle. Instead of the $7 you offered I shall be obliged to ask $9.25 to make any money."

Would he get his $9.25 because he asked for or demanded it? Let any farmer or stockman supply the answer. He would be told that his steers were for export to the British market, where all the countries of the world that had beef cattle for export were sending them in, and that the price was determined by the selling price there less the cost of getting them to that market.

Or take the case of a farmer coming to London with grain or potatoes. Under the new tariff-for-everyone arrangement he would find that on the things he had to purchase there had been a good-sized increase. Naturally when he came to sell his produce he would consider it his chance to get his share out of the bargain. So when he was offered the market price for oats, which on that day might be 50 cents, he would contend that was not enough; he would have to get at least 60 cents to make up for the increased prices he had to pay for his goods. Or if it were potatoes, for which he was offered $1.15 but demanded $1.50—what would he do? Simply this, that the price was already "fixed" before he had anything to do with it. He is producing an article of which we must export our surplus stock and meet the competition of the world.

The Canadian farmer is being asked to do exactly what the American farmer did when he was led into an agreement whereby he got a protective tariff on farm produce and agreed to grant higher protection to industries that were manufacturing lines which the farmer would have to purchase. Actual proof of what this high-tariff-for-everyone did to the farming industry of United States is given in a report submitted by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to President Coolidge on November 30, 1923.

"The burden of taxes in many regions has become excessive. Taxes on farm lands in Kansas increased 121 per cent between 1913 and 1921, in South Dakota 122, and in the eastern twenty counties of Washington 237 per cent."

The same report estimated that 650,000 farmers, embracing one-fourth of the wheat growers in 17 states, were bankrupt. Secretary Wallace's report stated:

"This situation is brought out in a special inquiry made by the department of agriculture in the spring of 1923. Reports were secured from 15 states covering the period January, 1929, to March, 1923. Out of over 68,000 owner-farmers included in this survey, 4 per cent (2,720) lost their farms through foreclosure; 4.5 per cent (3,060), and over 15 per cent (10,240) had been spared such loss only through leniency of creditors. Out of 26,000 tenant-farmers, 7.2 per cent (1,820) lost through foreclosure; 7.8 per cent (1,900) lost without legal proceedings, and 21 per cent (5,460) were able to retain their holdings only through leniency of creditors."

To summarize, it means that the high-tariff-for-everyone put 25,200 farmers out of 94,000 included in the U. S. survey in a position where they either had to quit and lose all or carry on by kindness of their creditors. Canadian farmers have that object lesson plainly before them, and they are not likely to be hoodwinked into a similar bargain in Canada.

The Canadian Dollar.

Detroit has been a market where the hostility to the Canadian dollar has been unintermittently maintained. Even when New York was quoting the Canadian dollar above par Detroit day after day sent out word announcing the rate of discount agreed upon by banking houses.

Yesterday the wires carried the news that the discount had given way to premium and that $100 of Canadian money was worth $100.12 in Detroit banking circles. At the same time New York wires placed the Canadian dollar above par in that money market at a rate of 3-16 of per cent.

Better business conditions in Canada, greater trade, more commercial activity, more agricultural wealth, these are the causes given by

United States bankers for the high standing of Canadian money.

When Hon. Arthur Meighen was premier in 1921 the Canadian dollar was down as low as 84 cents in New York.

Today the dollar of a nation of nine million people is worth more in United States than their own dollar, the currency of a nation of 120 million people.

Can any more convincing proof than that be required for the statement of Premier King that business is good in Canada, and that there is every reason for sound, sane optimism?

Mustn't Joke With the Free Press.

It's simply no use trying to crack a joke with the Free Press while an election is on. Hon. Charles Murphy, now Senator Murphy, tried it when he was going through London the other day. Reporters met him at the station and Mr. Murphy told them "they didn't think I could win my seat again, so they put me in the senate."

It was here that Senator Murphy went wrong, for he should have told the Free Press he was joking, because he was appointed to the senate some weeks ago. Next day the Free Press came out with an interview announcing "Hon. Charles Murphy May Go To Senate," and quoting him as saying:

"Things are hopeful, but if I am not elected I will go into the senate."

Other public men should take warning before speaking to Free Press reporters on their visits to London. They should have large cards printed stating who they are, and telling all other interesting facts about their public life. Then if they feel inclined to have a joke with the reporter they should come to a dead stop and announce their intention of speaking in a spirit of levity.

A Campaign Mystery.

The Toronto Globe does not know how to vote. In a long editorial it confesses to its disappointment in all three political leaders, including Mr. King.

The Globe regrets that Mr. Meighen has not been seized of the opportunity to go in and advocate the things Mr. King has neglected, and says "Mr. Meighen has failed utterly to grasp a great opportunity to exhibit statesmanship in applying his recognized ability to a bold and practical treatment of these important issues with which the prime minister has neglected to deal."

Coming to Mr. Forke, the Globe says "his campaign has been directed to the prairies; he has not achieved any real national leadership. He has contented himself with destructive criticism aimed at the two older parties."

So the Toronto paper, with the election only a day or so off, has not been able to make up its mind how to vote. All it has to say to its readers is that all three leaders are faulty, all three policies are more or less in error; there is really no good reason why a person should go out and vote at all.

The fit of indecision and depression into which the Globe has fallen is almost as bad as Mr. Meighen's pessimism. Last evening the London Free Press spread the Globe's latest editorial all over its front page, and it is but natural that Conservatives should make much of the incident.

It is known that Stewart Lyon, editor of the Globe, is on indefinite leave of absence through illness and that the Globe's announced neutrality has estranged from the staff five of its outstanding contributors: Hon. John Lewis, formerly acting editor; M. W. Rossie, Ross Munro, and a few days ago Hector McKinnon and W. Irwin. What the explanation of the Globe's indecision can be has been one of the mysteries of the campaign. The Advertiser has carefully read the Globe's pronouncement yesterday, as well as a similar editorial at the beginning of the campaign, and must admit it does not understand the reasoning presented. The Globe expresses dissatisfaction with Mr. King's proposals on senate reform, urging more drastic action, but Mr. King has made senate reform one of the leading planks of his platform, pointing out that we must move within the limitation of our constitution, while Mr. Meighen and his allies jeer at the idea of any change in the senate. The Globe expresses anxiety about the St. Lawrence deepening, ignoring the fact that the implacable enemies of the St. Lawrence project are Mr. Meighen's allies in Montreal, who, behind their nominal leader, M. Patenaude, are also determined to kill as soon as possible the great Canadian National Railway enterprise, to which the present government is pledged to give a square deal. Similar comment might be made on the one or two other points the Globe mentions.

The Globe, in its role of neutrality, overlooks the fact that next Thursday the electors of Canada must vote for someone, King or Meighen or Forke. The issues being what they are, The Advertiser must confess it is mystified by the Globe's announcement. And we have a suspicion that most of the Globe readers, whether Liberal or Conservative, are similarly mystified.

Note and Comment.

The election of the lord chancellor of Glasgow University was accompanied by the pelting of 20,000 rotten eggs, since which the old school has been reported as going strong.

At the end of a column and a half editorial yesterday the Toronto Globe says: "In the three days which remain before polling there is a last opportunity for some clear, unequivocal, courageous pronouncement." Well, let us have it from the Globe—"clear, unequivocal, courageous."

Mr. Meighen complains of a whisper campaign. It is not strange that Mr. Meighen should be complaining about something, but this whisper business is funny. The only whisper we know about is that "Whisper of Death" from Mr. Meighen's anti-C. N. R. crowd in Montreal.

John Henry Won

By ARK.

One time John Henry made a speech on politics, I think it was, expected when he finished up to hear some thunderin' applause.

Before he quit some guy called out to take John Henry from the stump; another hollered "Put him out, he's nothing but a brazen chump." John Henry did as best he could, but even he felt dazed and lost, admittin' that his speech had been a sleet storm and an early frost.

John Henry went away from there and left the town inside a week, determined he should fill his skull with sayings of the French and Greek.

All this took place six years ago, and folks forgot John Henry's speech, except old-timers who were there and heard the crowd boo-hoo and screech.

Well, he come back two months ago to speak within the village hall, old-timers reckoned they would go, rememberin' of John Henry's squall. They would enjoy a bit of fun, 'twould live up the old home town, and so they went to hear the show and see John Henry fallin' down.

But when he spoke the words rolled out, they came as though he'd ground them all, and folks they graped with open mouths, a solemn quiet had smote the hall. John Henry was a classic now, he could orate to beat the band, and folks allowed as how his views was most sublime and powerful grand.

So if you've tried to make a speech and critics roared and thought it fun, just start in diggin' right away, rememberin' what John Henry done.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME.

Kiss me good-night, mamma. Have I been a good little boy today? Yes, very good. What did you play at all afternoon? Why I played at being postman. It was lots of fun. But you hadn't any letters. Oh, yes I did, mamma. You see I was playing in your bedroom, and in a bureau drawer I found a whole package of letters all tied up with pink ribbon. So I took them all and delivered one to every home around this block. What's the matter, mamma? I'm sure everybody liked them. I saw Mr. Snooper laughing like anything when she read the one I gave her. Why do you say she's a cat? Never mind, dear. Go to sleep now. Tomorrow we are going over to London South to look for a new house. We are going to move out of this neighborhood right away.

Editorial Opinion

DIGGING THEIR OWN PIT.

(From the Winnipeg Free Press.)

THE Conservative argument that the Canadian farmer needs protection against the United States farmer or the Chinese farmer or the Australian farmer does not hang together. It is a Canadian farmer who is a tremendous exporter; he is not losing a market in Canada because farmers in other countries are coming in and getting the business that should be his. The gentlemen the Canadian farmer needs protection against are the Conservative candidates who wish to push up the tariff in order to get higher prices for the Canadian manufacturer.

The western farmer who votes Conservative is helping to dig a pit for himself. And the man in the town who realizes that his prosperity as an urban dweller is bound up with the prosperity of the farmer, and who votes Conservative, is helping to push the farmer into the pit and to fall in himself with him.

They also use these studded planks to test the efficiency of drivers' brakes.

"It's a Long Way To Go"

Liberalism Means Unity

By M. W. ROSSIE

Mr. M. W. Rossie, who has contributed the following article, is an old friend to Advertiser readers. He was editor of The Advertiser for several years, leaving this paper to become an editor of The Toronto Globe. Mr. Rossie recently resigned from The Globe with Senator John Lewis and others.

I gladly respond to the invitation of the editor of The Advertiser to make some comments on the political situation in the journal with which I was connected for years and which is now the foremost exponent of Liberal principles in the morning newspaper field in this province.

The country is emerging rapidly from the post-war depression, and it is common report that London has weathered the storm in sound condition. The Forest City literally has its roots in the soil. It has grown naturally from and is solidly based on the splendid agriculture of Western Ontario, the center of a compact block of counties in which there is a higher average of production and less undeveloped land than in any similar area in the dominion.

It also owes much of its stability to the diversity of its manufacturing interests. Even with all these favorable factors London is in a considerable degree dependent on the purchasing power of the prairie west. This is particularly true of some of its largest industries. One hears they are sharing in the revival of prosperity in the west which, as Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan said in his Toronto speech last Friday night, would be checked by high tariffs. London wage-earners should bear this in mind when they are told that higher protection would give them steady work.

The Conservative propaganda. In Ontario Conservative propaganda is mainly in the hands of the self-styled Prosperity League. This Toronto group contends that the Canadian tariff should be raised to the highest level. It would also put heavy disabilities on British imports and virtually cancel the British preference.

Of course these measures are not advocated in the maritime and prairie provinces. They are for consumption in the industrial centers of Ontario, just as the "Patenaude policies" are preached only in Quebec. In 1920, when he had the responsibility of office, Mr. Meighen argued clearly and cogently that a higher tariff would be a political impossibility and an economic disaster. He urged then the moderation which is the keynote of the Liberal appeal in this election. His position five years ago campaign in Ontario, where he has allowed himself to be pushed by selfish interests into extremes which no previous Conservative leader ever dreamed of embracing.

A Maze of Contradictions. This new orientation is leading the party spokesman into a maze of contradictions. The Conservative candidate in North Oxford, for instance, demands a reduction in the duty on motor cars. Mr. T. A. Russell, motor car manufacturer, who is supporting Mr. Meighen, gives the present tariff credit for the employment of 25,000 men in the Canadian motor industry, which is an offshoot of the United States industry and is chiefly owned and controlled by the latter. But in prejudice against western agrarianism.

The Appeal in Ontario.

In Ontario Mr. Meighen has permitted powerful forces in his own party to identify him—no doubt, against his judgment—with a course which is equally sectional and disruptive. Against these divisive influences stands the Liberal party seeking to harmonize the views of east and west, city and country, on the principle of give and take, and speaking with the same voice in all parts of the dominion. Its platform is broad enough to accommodate the grain growers of the prairies and those far-sighted manufacturers, including the Liberal candidate in London, Mr. E. S. Little, who know that they would jeopardize industry by tariff legislation which would lay new burdens on agriculture, increase the cost of manufactured goods and sharpen the conflict that gave birth to western progressivism. The unity of the Liberal party is the best guarantee of the unity of the dominion.

25 Years Ago

From The Advertiser, Oct. 27, 1900.

A story from Detroit says that a young man who walked out in the hall in his nightgown to get a drink found his clothes had vanished when he returned. His landlady had taken them because he was so behind in his room rent. This is a tip for London landladies who have trouble in collecting from their roomers.

The London curling club ejected the following officers Monday night: Patrons, Sir John Carling and F. E. Leonard; president, F. G. Rumball; vice-president, G. Stevenson; secretary-treasurer, T. W. Turnbull; chaplain, Rev. Dr. Johnston; executive committee, D. Regan, Thomas A. Browne, Thomas Gillies. Representative to the Ontario curling association, H. C. McBride.

Will the man who called at the residence of a citizen on Elmwood avenue, South London, last night, with a story as to his wife having left him with two young children yesterday morning and not a morsel of food in the house and no work to be had, kindly call again this evening when the said citizen will investigate further into the matter.

To The Editor

"Disgusted" Writes.

Thinks Free Press Method of Whittling Down Globe Article Indication of Mean Politics.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—If there is any one thing I like to see in a political campaign it is fair play. In the Free Press of Monday night there was displayed at great length what appeared to be an editorial from the Toronto Globe, with a story as to his wife having left him with two young children yesterday morning and not a morsel of food in the house and no work to be had, kindly call again this evening when the said citizen will investigate further into the matter.

When I read the Globe I concluded that they had given a great deal out of it. In fact, they only printed the criticism the Globe made of Premier King, and omitted all reference to what that paper said about Hon. Mr. Meighen or Robert Forke.

The article in the Globe was bad enough. It seems to me that paper has become the personal organ of one man with a grudge against Mr. King. It has ceased to have a diversity of mature opinions from well-informed minds.

But what the Free Press did to the article to further its own ends looks to be about the meanest and smallest style of political campaigning I have ever seen.

SARNIA WILL GAIN BIG NEW INDUSTRY

Mueller Mfg. Co. Announces Entry Into New Field—Great Future Seen.

Special to The Advertiser

Sarnia, Oct. 26.—A new industry for Sarnia in the drawing and extrusion of a new copper water service pipe was predicted by L. H. Burleigh, manager of the Mueller Manufacturing Company here, speaking at the weekly meeting of the luncheon club at the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon. Mr. Burleigh's announcement was made in the face of efforts which the Conservative party are making here to gain votes on the assertion that the Mueller Company is a heavy loser from the tariff prevailing.

"We predict, both Mr. Mueller and I, that our present industry here will be but a side issue to the service pipe industry when it develops," he said.

Mr. Burleigh also stated that this new copper service pipe was being used for house service and that Sarnia was the first city to have a house in which the new service pipe was used. The cost of the new pipe would be about half the cost of lead pipe, he maintains.

NATIONS CONVEENE IN ANCIENT CITY

Rowdy Demonstration by 2,000 Students Mars China Conference Opening.

Associated Press Despatch.

Peking, Oct. 26.—Delegates of twelve powers besides China assembled in the picturesque winter palace in the old forbidden city of the emperors today for the opening of the Chinese customs conference, and heard China's spokesman propose that the powers restore to her complete control of her customs tariff, withheld for eighty years by her foreign treaties.

While smooth progress was made within the conference hall, where foreign delegates made sympathetic replies to China's requests, there was disorder outside. Two thousand students, carrying banners reviling the provisional government, held a demonstration outside the winter palace enclosure, demanding entry. When this was refused they battled the police with sticks and stones, killing one policeman and seriously wounding a score more. Several students were injured and many others arrested.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winona, Ont., Oct. 26.—The body of Fred Warnidge, who had been missing since Saturday from his home in Grimsby, was found today by J. It is believed that Warnidge fell unconscious from a fence into the deep mire of the swamp Saturday night and since then had been combing the district.

Warnidge in company with F. Wiggins and J. Daub, left his home on a hunting expedition Saturday afternoon. His two companions returned the same day, stating that the three had parted company on the mountain top. Search parties were organized Saturday night and since then had been combing the district.

CHURCH TO UNITE W. M. S. BODIES

General Boards of Three Uniting Churches Meet in Toronto.

An interesting gathering is taking place in Toronto the first three days of this week, with the joint meeting of the general boards of the women's missionary societies of the three churches, which recently became the United Church of Canada. Ninety members in all make up the three boards, and the policy upon which they decide, with a view to uniting these three women's bodies, will have an important effect on the district boards.

Although London has no representative at this gathering, there will be a union meeting of the provincial boards of the United Church next week, which will be attended by Mrs. J. M. McGow of this city. This gathering is also being held with a view to union, and will have its directions to the district boards, which will hold union meetings later on throughout the province.

OLIVE HIVE MACCABBES.
A successful eucher was held last evening by the members of the Olive Hive Maccabees in their lodge room in the Alma Block. Some fine tables were in play, and the winners of the first prizes were Miss Farr and Mr. Crockett, while Miss Ratz and Mr. Campbell won the second prizes. The consolation was awarded to Mrs. Campbell and Mr. Campbell. Mrs. A. E. Tut was the convener, assisted by Mrs. Albert Luck. Following the games dainty refreshments were enjoyed and a short time was spent in dancing.

WOMEN and THE HOME

OVER FOUR HUNDRED ATTEND "U" FRESHMEN'S RECEPTION

University Assembly Hall En-
Fete For Important Event.

"LIT" IS HOST

The large and beautiful assembly hall of the arts building, University of Western Ontario, was on fete last night for the freshmen's reception, the first big social event of the college year. Between four and five hundred were present, the large museum overlooking the assembly hall being thrown open to accommodate the gathering.

The decorations as a whole were simple, in keeping with the dignity of the hall. A few purple and white streamers from the large chandeliers, and purple and white shields lent the only festive touch. These shields, bearing the letters "U. O. W. O." on top, also held the smaller letters "Lit." to emphasize the fact that the reception had been arranged under the auspices of the Literary society of the university.

Dance in Progress.
A peep from the museum floor above through the iron windows, saw the dance in full progress. Students in sombre black moved across the floor, in company with prettily frocked co-eds, many of them out at their first party.

The dancing was begun with a grand march. As each year came up, headed by its president, it was announced as a year by Cecil Snyder, prefect of the college. The students were ushered to the assembly hall by the university corps, including W. McCully, Arthur Hopkins, Lionel Rinn, John Elliott, Miss Gertrude Moore, Miss Kathleen Cooper, Miss Irma Berry and Miss Cecilia Little. Presidents and vice-presidents of the different years wore on their left arm broken shields, corresponding to the large purple and white shields which formed part of the decoration scheme.

Throughout the evening dancing was the most popular form of entertainment, the attractive serpentine dance being introduced into the program. Delightful music was furnished by Patten's eight-piece orchestra. Punch was served.

Speeches Made.
During the evening, Stewart Brownlee, president of the Lit., and L. Parker of Woodstock, president of the freshmen year, made brief and witty speeches.

The reception was held under the auspices of the Literary society for the first time in the history of the college. Co-operating with that organization was the student body, the student governing body, headed by Cecil Snyder, the prefect.

Patronage for the event was lent by Dr. and Mrs. K. R. Noville, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Detweiler, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Kingston, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Shack, Dr. and Mrs. W. F. L. Taylor, and Professor Sweeney. Literary society officers who were in charge include Stewart Brownlee, president; Miss Kathleen Cooper, secretary; and M. McCully, treasurer. Miss Cecilia Little was responsible for the excellent decorations. Archie Stevens for wills for the refreshments, Arthur Hopkins for

"MEDS" ENTERTAIN AT MERRY DANCE

Hippocratic Society Arranges
Reception in Honor of Freshmen.

The auditorium at the London medical school was the scene of a brilliant little gathering last night when the Hippocratic Society entertained in honor of the freshmen of the school. Blue and white streamers, great golden pumpkins, balloons and class shields, all lent their note of color and gaiety to the scene. An orchestra, concealed in the balcony, furnished attractive music and several interesting novelty dances were introduced.

During the evening the senior Meds extended a formal welcome to the incoming students. Dean Paul McKibben and Mrs. McKibben, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Crane, Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Miller, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher, Dr. C. S. Sanborn, and Dr. Kathleen Braithwaite-Sanborn acted as patrons and patronesses for the event.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Dr. C. S. Sanborn, representing the alumni; Dr. E. P. Johns, representing Victoria hospital; and Eddie Burton, Lee Callahan, A. Mowry, and Newton Bigelow, representing Meds '23.

ANDREWS-BYRNE.

An interesting wedding took place at Centennial United church at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, when Anabelle, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Byrne, this city, was united in marriage to Mr. George Charles Andrews, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews, London. Rev. Dr. Hazen performed the ceremony. The bride was charming in a navy blue pin-stripe suit, wearing a black French hat and the groom's gift, a handsome fox fur. Miller, M.A., B.D., united in marriage Mr. William George Blanchard, of London, son of Mrs. George Hickson, and Miss Mercy A. Macauley, also of London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Winstanley.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in poude blue crepe de chaine and carried a bouquet of roses and carnations.

After the ceremony the young couple went to the bride's home on Dundas street, where a number of relatives and friends partook of a buffet lunch. Speeches were given and music was enjoyed. Later Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard left for their home in South London.

MOTHERS TO CHECK THEATRICAL PLAYS

Club Appoints Committee To Investigate Productions —
Auxiliary Classes Explained.

Inspector-Administrator of Public Schools G. A. Wheable, was the chief speaker at last night's meeting of the London union mothers' club, held in the Technical school. His subject, "Auxiliary Classes in the Public Schools," was dealt with in a manner which would tend to bring about closer co-operation between school and parents. J. C. Turner, president of the union club, occupied the chair.

One of the chief items of business of the meeting was the appointment of a committee to look into theatrical productions, which are being given by city schools, with a view to insisting on a better type of performance.

Mrs. W. A. Tanner was appointed convener of this committee, with the power to choose her committee. She urged the mothers themselves to visit questionable performances, so as to be able to see just what was being presented, then to report back to her with a view to future action. The mothers' club had acted in the past on this question with satisfactory results.

Miss Grace Fairley, superintendent of nurses, Victoria hospital, and Mrs. F. J. Greenway, chairman of the Victoria hospital auxiliary, were present to present the cause of a new nurses home for Victoria hospital. Mrs. Greenway pointed out how lack of proper accommodation or nurses was hurting the hospital in its standing. Perhaps few people were aware that the nurses were quartered in seven different buildings, among them the old Colborne street school.

Asked to Support Nurses' Home.

Mrs. Greenway asked for support of the mothers of the city and their influence in connection with the coming bylaw on the nurses' home. Miss Fairley was introduced to the gathering, and spoke briefly and eloquently on the needs of the hospital and the importance of the mothers' clubs in the community.

Mrs. Alfred Drew and Mrs. A. R. Kennedy were nominated to attend board of education meetings to see just what was being done by that body during the year so that their problems might be better understood.

An appeal was made to the meeting for books for the children at the preventorium, and the mothers urged to visit them. A vote was taken to again affiliate with the local council of women.

Auxiliary Classes Explained.

Mr. Wheable, in his address, urged upon the mothers the fact that auxiliary classes are not classes for silly children. They were rather training classes for backward children, who in adolescence might become normal mentally. Often, though their minds were backward, they were exceptionally skillful with their hands and this should be taken advantage of.

The speaker demonstrated several of the tests which are required for children entering auxiliary classes, tests which were by no means simple.

Often children who appeared brilliant during public school years became backward when they entered high school. Psychologists now believed that these children, very mentally active in early years, slowed down mentally during adolescence, so to speak, to speed up the physical development.

Mr. Wheable mentioned seventeen different kinds of tests for backward children, referring more especially to the types which existed in London. In London there were seven training classes for backward children whose eyesight is deficient, a sanatorium class, which operated at the preventorium, and a hospital class at the War Memorial Children's hospital.

Establishment of Promotion Classes.

The board of education had not been given authority, he said, for the establishment of promotion classes, that is, classes for children over thirteen years of age, who were still in the public school. In these classes, he pointed out, the girls would be taught housework, they would be old jobbing, so that they would be able to earn their living. Miss McDowell, superintendent of all of these classes, could often supply mothers with capable nurse girls from the promotion classes.

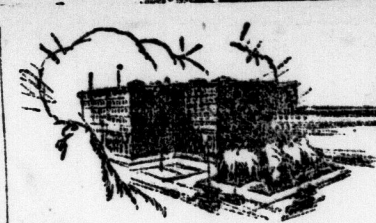

The board of education was now conducting a survey in the city to determine whether or not orphaned classes should be started in London. J. C. Stothey, assistant inspector, was introduced to the meeting, and spoke briefly on the recent medical survey of incoming children to the public schools.

The board of education this year required a medical examination of the children entering public school. From cards sent in from family physicians it was found that among some 500 or more children 112 had defective nasal passages, 165 defective tonsils, 34 grandly enlarged, and 104 were suffering from malnutrition.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet cloth—rub over the blackheads, blot with the parts from which the peroxide has been dissolved. The blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and sebum, and the water dissolves the sebum, so that the dirt is washed out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Adv.

Peter Rabbit Discovers Everyone Is Out Looking For a Winter Home

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

It seemed to Peter Rabbit that almost everyone he met these days was thinking of winter. Peter himself didn't like to think of winter. Peter believes that it is time enough to think of unpleasant and uncomfortable things when they arrive. "Why," said Peter, "should folks be thinking of cold and snow and storm and unpleasant things on such beautiful days as these days of late fall?" But nobody answered the question. Most folks were too busy. In fact, as he thought it all over, it seemed to him as if almost everybody with the exception of his cousin, Juniper the Hare, and himself was too busy to really enjoy this lovely weather.

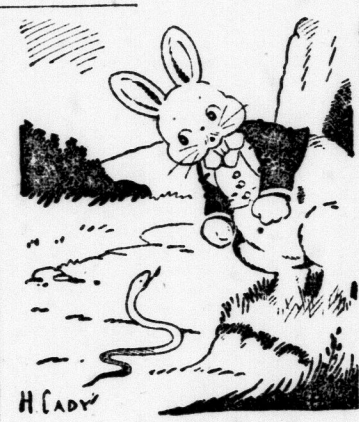

So it was with considerable pleasure that Peter discovered a small friend of his taking a sun bath. It was little Mr. Garter Snake. As Peter came hopping along little Mr. Garter Snake raised his head and darted out his tongue in the sunniest way. At least it looked sunny. Really it wasn't sunny at all. I don't know what little Mr. Garter Snake was doing if he couldn't run that little tongue of his out. You see, it is by means of it that he learns much of what is going on. You know he has no ears. He learns much, though that slender little tongue, that you or I would learn through our ears. He can feel sounds with it, so to speak. Anyway that is as near as I can explain it to you how he uses that little tongue.

"Hello, Mr. Garter Snake!" exclaimed Peter. "It certainly does me a heart good to find somebody not too busy to have a good time."

"Little Mr. Garter Snake yawned. 'I really haven't anything else to do just now.' said he. 'It is rather nice to be able to have a few sun baths before I go to sleep for the winter.'"

"Oh," said Peter, "are you going to do that?"

"Of course I'm going to do that," replied Mr. Garter Snake. "What did

"Hello, Mr. Garter Snake!" exclaimed Peter.

you think I would do?"

Peter was frankly honest. "I didn't think anything about it," he confessed. "Do you really sleep all winter?"

"What a silly question," retorted little Mr. Garter Snake. "Did you ever in your life see a Snake around in winter?"

"No," replied Peter. "No, I can't say that I ever did."

"No, and you never will," replied Mr. Garter Snake. "It is one of those things that don't happen. When I finally go to sleep for the winter, it will be for the winter. There will be no waking up until spring comes with some warm sunny days. Br-r-r-r! How I hate cold weather!"

If it were not for these sun baths in the middle of the day I should stay for the winter at once. But as long as I can enjoy these sun baths I mean to come out for them every day."

"That reminds me," exclaimed Peter. "Where do you spend the winter?"

"Where do you suppose?" inquired Mr. Garter Snake. "I don't suppose," retorted Peter. "I really haven't any idea. You see, I have never thought about it before. Where do you spend the winter, Mr. Garter Snake?"

"Where do you suppose?" inquired Mr. Garter Snake. "I don't suppose," retorted Peter. "I really haven't any idea. You see, I have never thought about it before. Where do you spend the winter, Mr. Garter Snake?"

and touches of green. Miss Marjorie Eddy admitted the guests, while Mrs. David Arnold and Mrs. Cyrus Eddy invited the guests to have a cup of tea. In the rear room the pretty tea table was uniquely arranged with a center of large golden mums surrounded by crystal posts and rails and smaller flowers. This center was lighted and cast a soft glow about the room. Presiding over the tea table were Mrs. Frank Jewell and Mrs. W. S. Westland, and a group of assistants were Mrs. Walter Wilson of Ayr, Miss Winnifred Sanborn, Miss Maud MacDonald and Miss Gwen Sreaton.

Never has a more successful social evening been arranged by the London Council, No. 630, U. C. T., than that given under its auspices on Saturday night, when the commercial travellers gathered at their council chambers, at the corner of King and Richmond streets, for the opening event of the winter season. Mr. W. Stevenson was the chairman of the entertainment committee, and arranged for accommodation for more than the usual number of commercial travellers, their wives and friends, but even so, there were so many there who were not before him that he had to turn some away. DEFICIT BECAME SURPLUS Thornton and King Have Saved Canada $230,000,000 in Railways Since Meighen Left.

If Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King had done nothing more than accomplish the reorganization of the Canadian National railways and secure the appointment of Sir Henry Thornton as the presiding genius of that great road, at the same time removing the direction of the national railways from the field of politics, he would have ample reason for asking the people of Canada to return him and his government to power on Thursday next.

The difference in the way in which the road is run today, compared with the years before the King government came into power means that the country is better off to the extent of $230,000,000. This total is seen in the following figures.

During the years when the Conservatives were in power and had charge of the government railways they saved the following sums of public money:

1918-20	$106,000,000
1920-21	144,000,000
1921-22	105,000,000
Total	$355,000,000

In the three years following, under the King government, the following were the advances found necessary:

1922-23	$59,000,000
1923-24	85,000,000
1924-25	76,000,000
Total	$220,000,000

That was a saving to the treasury of Canada of $135,000,000 in the three years under King as compared with the three previous years under Conservative governments.

Operating Deficits in 1920 and 1921.

1920, deficit	$32,000,000
1921, deficit	11,000,000
Total deficit	$43,000,000

Under the King government, through the good management of Sir Henry Thornton, these operating deficits have been changed to surpluses to the following extent:

1922 surplus	$4,000,000
1923 surplus	21,000,000
1924 surplus	17,000,000
Total surplus	$42,000,000

It gives the following comparison:

CONSERVATIVE RECORD (Three years)
Total advances	$355,000,000
Plus operating deficits	43,000,000
Total	$398,000,000

LIBERAL RECORD (Three years)
Total advances	$210,000,000
Less operating surplus	42,000,000
Total	$168,000,000

Total saving of Liberals, $230,000,000.

Not only has the advent of the King government been a good thing financially for the road, but it has been a good thing for the morale of the employees. Sir Henry Thornton knows men, particularly railwaymen, and he is reasonable and the men respect him because they recognize that he knows his business.

King Fought For Employees.

Premier King's attitude toward the old Grand Trunk employees was involved in the strike of 1910, and thereby lost their pension rights, has also had a far-reaching effect. The men realize that in Premier King they have a friend who was willing to fight their case in season and out of season. They know that Mr. Meighen when he had the chance to deal with their pension rights, advised his minister of labor that he considered that these old employees had forfeited their pension rights. Mr. King fought the case through for ten years until the pensions were paid even with interest.

The Liberals stand today prepared to give public ownership a fair trial. Mr. Meighen intimates political interference.

The Liberals will let Sir Henry Thornton and his board of directors alone. Mr. Meighen has the backing of a group in Quebec who want to sell the road out and get rid of it.

The Liberal government should be returned to power if for no other reason than to let Sir Henry Thornton finish his work.

High Tariff Hits U.S. Labor—Workers Want Reduction

Textile Workers In U.S. Find High Tariff Hurts And Demand Reduction

London Manufacturers and Merchants Support Little

President Green of American Federation of Labor Says "It Is Time To Call Attention of Congress To Situation and Demand a Lower Tariff."

OWNERS TOOK OPPORTUNITY TO CUT WAGES

PROOF TO V.—High protective tariff on the textile industry in the United States has led to hardships for labor which is now forcing textile workers to press for a lower tariff. The circumstances are explained in the following despatch:

Special to The Advertiser. Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Although protected by a practically prohibitive tariff, textile manufacturing in New England have unceasingly tried to force down the living standards of their employees to a bare existence level. The labor troubles of New England are crystallizing into a demand for tariff reduction. This will be resisted by the textile industry. The cut of one per cent in wages by the American Woolen Company has for the first time arrayed organized labor on the side of tariff reduction. Textile interests are pressing for still higher tariffs, which the public complains are already high and excessive. The mills that are running are for the most part on half time. This is in the face of high tariffs.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor, said in this connection on October 3 that in the case of the textile industry a protective tariff that was really extraordinarily high was not sufficient to protect high wages.

"When the textile industry takes advantage of conditions entirely apart from labor to reduce wages," he said, "it is time to call the attention of congress to the situation and demand a lower tariff."

These Men All Want Little And Give Their Approval To Prime Minister's Plan

Men in Whom London Has Confidence Say That Business Is Good and That Proper Handling of Tariff Question Lies in Premier King's Non-Political Board.

THEY ARE BOOSTING CANADA'S PROGRESS

Manufacturers and merchants, prominent in the progress of London, are giving warm support to Mr. E. S. Little as candidate for the federal house. In doing so they express confidence in and approval of the prime minister, and his purpose of securing unity throughout Canada.

Among the opinions which have been given by such men in support of Mr. Little's campaign are the following:

Gordon Ingram.

"The present government has been fair in its dealings with manufacturers and consumers, and Mr. E. S. Little is just the man London wants to send to Ottawa. He has the disposition that likes public service, and the premier himself said at his London meeting that Mr. Little's ability to make helpful suggestions had often been of very material benefit to him."—Gordon Ingram, president of Smallman & Ingram, Ltd.

J. Watson Younge.

"During 1921 and 1922 the earning capacity of Canadians was greatly reduced and as a result the sales of groceries dropped with a thud. No government could have averted this crash, but it took wise leadership to keep our people from becoming panicky. The Liberal government was able to do so and gradually to lead us into better times.

"The improvement began in 1923 and since then has steadily increased. The improvement in sales both in regard to quantity and in regard to the quality of merchandise sold has been much more marked during the past six months than at any other time of the period.

"We believe that even better times are ahead of us if the present government is returned and allowed to continue its present policies. That is one reason I am supporting Mr. E. S. Little, the Liberal candidate. A sound and strong reason lies in the fact that I have confidence that Mr. Little has not only the ability but the desire to be of the greatest usefulness to London, and at this particular time our city has need of strong representation at the capital."—J. Watson Younge, president Elliott, Marr & Co., Limited.

J. K. McDermid.

"We have found tariff conditions very fair for the development of industry. They have been stable. An independent tariff commission such as Mr. King proposes to appoint, is perfectly sound, because if there are any tariff changes to be made it should be only after a very careful inquiry as to how the changes are going to affect the consumer."—J. K. McDermid, president of Somerville Paper Boxes, Limited.

Hon. C. S. Hyman.

"The present outlook in the Canadian leather trade is unusually bright, and the whole industry is busy on its way to complete recovery. Canadian manufacturers cannot afford to be in a state of uncertainty and instability of the present Liberal tariff policy is maintained.

"Both as a Canadian and as a manufacturer, I have entire confidence in the tariff policy of Premier King. A high protectionist tariff would inevitably sap the lifeblood of industry. I feel that Conservative leaders themselves believe this. They were in power from 1911 until 1921, but they made no attempt to introduce the high protection measures they talk about now."—Hon. C. S. Hyman, of C. S. Hyman & Co., and the Murray Shoe Company.

WINGHAM CITIZENS PROSPER AS ALL FACTORIES ARE BUSY

Practically No Unemployment Reported, and Charity Relief Is Low.

SAVINGS INCREASED

Manufacturers Assert Business Steadily Gaining Each Year—Crops Good.

This is the eighth of a series of articles reporting business conditions in Western Ontario cities and towns. Previous articles have dealt with inquiries in Stratford, St. Marys, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Barnia and Chatham.

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Reporter.

Wingham, Oct. 26.—Affairs in Wingham are moving along in a nice, even tone. Busy factories and good crops amongst the farmers in the surrounding country have continued to bring about this condition.

"Our factories are all busy," declared Mayor W. H. Willis, "and business shows an improvement over other years. The farmers around Wingham have had exceptionally good crops for the past three years, and I would say that, on the whole, things are just as good as they were five years ago. There is very little unemployment, and our charity relief has not cost the council more than $50 a year for some time back."

"With the exception of the furniture factory, everything else is going," asserted Almer Cosens, real estate agent, "and there are practically no vacant houses and no unemployment to mention. The United Farmers Co-operative Company is doing well. They have done a big business and made a lot of money. While Wingham has made no great advance during recent years, the town has not suffered any setback."

Savings Improved.

"The farmers around Wingham are in very good shape as regards payment of their loans," stated C. P. Smith, manager of the Amalgamated Bank of Commerce and Bank of Hamilton, "and there is some improvement in the amount of savings on deposit by local residents compared with last year. There are quite a few bonds, dominion, provincial and municipal, being sold to both residents and farmers and retail business shows a general improvement with greater buying power."

Mr. Chas. A. Berryman, Grocer, Wilson & Emerald Sts., Hamilton, says: "A badly sprained shoulder put me out of business for a time. The least turn or twist of the body caused torturing pain and I couldn't raise the arm, even to use the phone."

Three different liniments were used for bathing and rubbing my shoulder, but for all the good, I might just as well have used water. At last I tried Zam-Buk. My wife rubbed this balm well into the shoulder morning and night. In a couple of days I felt great improvement. In a week Zam-Buk drove out all pain and made the shoulder sound and strong as ever."

Used for anything from minor pimples and rashes, cuts or burns to stubborn cases of eczema or poisoned wounds. Zam-Buk gives equally good results. Purely herbal. 50c box all druggists.

on the part of both the urban and the rural community. "Our business has been better right through than last year," observed L. C. King, manager of King Bros' department store, "while our fall business, since September 1, has been considerably better. We have been in business 35 years, and do very little credit trade."

"We are very busy," said Wm. Gunn, manager of the Gunn-Son-Ola Talking Machine Company, "and our business is expanding every year since we were organized here five years ago. We are working full time on phonographs, gramophones, and radio cabinets. We manufacture some phonographs for export business for Canada Sales Ltd., formerly the Starr Phonograph Company. Our business is from coast to the dominion. With us wages are about the same as during the war."

"We have been busy all summer," said N. L. Fry, manager of Fry & Blackhall, Ltd., manufacturers of upholstered furniture, "and business has been increasing every year since we were organized six years ago, and the prospects for the future are bright. Our furniture, which is the medium grade class, has been on exhibition at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and the London and Wingham Furniture Manufacturers' Exhibition, Kitchener, for the past three or four years. Wages are about the same as during the war, and there is really no unemployment."

Working Full Time. "Business is very good right now," said T. M. Smith, accountant, Western Canada Foundry Company, limited, manufacturers of Huron stoves, ranges and furnaces. "And we are working full time with 100 employees. That is about the same number as we have had throughout the past four years. Our stoves, which we have been manufacturing for the past 22 years, are sold from coast to coast in the dominion."

"Our business is improving," stated Thomas Taylor, manager of the Farmers' Fertilizer Company, "and increasing every year. We produce between 4,000 and 5,000 tons of farmers' brand fertilizer for all kinds of crops each year, doing the bulk of our business within the bounds of the province. Mr. Thomas Taylor, who is also secretary-treasurer of the company, holds the country degrees which peculiarly fit him for the business, including that of fellow of the Chemical Society."

Wingham is holding its own as to population. Figures for the past three years being as follows: 1923, 4,340; 1924, 4,440; 1925, 4,421. For its size, Wingham has an excellent sewer system with a chemical sewage disposal plant and five miles of sewers. The town also has 3.5 miles of pavements, all of which have been laid within the past three years, with the exception of one stretch down the Main street. Artesian wells supply the drinking water for the residents. All Wingham factories use hydro-electric power entirely in operating, paying about $55 per horsepower and running the town's average consumption up to 350 horsepower per month. The municipality itself still operates two hydro-electric plants, each with a capacity of 75 horsepower, which are used in case of emergency and also to keep down the peak load during the day.

Wingham's tax-rate stands at 46 mills on an average of 60 per cent assessment, which rate raises $61,000 to carry on the town's business. The total assessment, which is now $1,381,000 is gradually increasing each year. Practically half the taxes are paid when the first payment is due in July, to take advantage of the three per cent discount allowed at that date. Other active industrial concerns in Wingham are the following: C. Lloyd & Sons' door factory, Howson & Howson Co., flour mills, John A. MacLean Lumber Company, lumber, coal and wood and planing mills in connection, William Dore, carriage-maker, Whyte Packing Company, Wingham Salt Works, Aero Cushion Tire Company, United Farmers' Co-operative Company, W. H. Gurney glove factory, William Stewart, tannery and glove factory.

M'DOUGALL SPEAKS TO STRATHROY VOTERS

Progressive Candidate Deals With Railway Question—Good Attendance.

Special to The Advertiser.

Strathroy, Oct. 26.—A well-attended mass meeting was held in the Lyceum theatre here tonight in the interest of Allan L. McDougall, farmer candidate for West Middlesex. Mr. Sam Oakes, who presided, asked for the support of the local electors for Mr. McDougall, as he was a successful municipal officer in Caradoc township and represented a party committed to temperance.

The farmers' candidate made a lengthy criticism of the King government, in which he stated the railway question was the big problem and now was the time to get rid of this big liability. Mr. Harold Currie, vice-president of the U. F. O., speaking in Mr. McDougall's behalf, said he had not intended to take part in the present campaign, but the tactics of both parties had forced him to come out. He criticized the government, and also the Melghen policy of a prohibitive tariff wall, which he believed would be of no value to a country like Canada, which had a surplus of agricultural products for export.

Mr. E. Wormole of Metcalfe also made an address on behalf of Mr. McDougall.

Associated Press Despatch. Warsaw, Oct. 26.—The Polish cabinet has decided that it will not insist upon Germans who have elected to retain their German citizenship leaving Poland. EXPECT BIG VOTE IN ELGIN COUNTY

Keeness Among Voters at Advanced Poll Hereals Record Vote.

MANY CERTIFICATES

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Oct. 26.—If the voting at the advanced poll is to be taken as any indication of the size of the vote likely to be polled in Elgin county at the elections Thursday, the vote will be the largest polled in the riding in some years.

Judge Ross was taxed tonight to keep up with the number of Applicants seeking certificates. For the greater part of the evening, the city solicitor's office in the city hall was crowded with dozens of men and women, while the customary lobby men were posted outside in the hall mingling with the applicants.

At 10 o'clock this evening, 98 applicants had taken out certificates, while 83 had cast their vote in the policecourt room, guarded by John Reynolds. Officials of both parties predict that the vote about to be polled will be much bigger than the easy-going electors of the district predict.

CAILLAUX REFUSES TO RESIGN POST

Obliges Cabinet To Consider His Financial Project Before Adopting Socialist Policies.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Oct. 26.—M. Caillaux, who on Saturday was generally considered politically a man of the past, showed today that he was still a factor of the present by obliging the cabinet against its will to take into consideration his financial projects before adopting the socialist policies approved by the Radical party at Nice.

Asked by Premier Painleve, the man who brought him back to public life, to hand in his resignation, M. Caillaux stoutly refused. He declared that if the cabinet resigned and was reconstituted without him on a platform involving a capital levy he would overthrow it in parliament.

The measures which the finance minister forced upon the consideration of the cabinet are based upon the organization of an amortization commission which would have charge of the issue of paper money, short-term bonds regarded as belonging in the same category, and the accumulation of a sinking fund to guarantee the retirement of any new issue of banknotes and the payment of the interior and exterior debts.

The amortization commission would have also the duty of preventing the total circulation and the floating debt ever exceeding the present limit. The finance minister's resolute attitude upset all the calculations of the premier and the majority of the cabinet, who, averse to hearing his new projects for financial restoration, were forced to give way and postpone their final decision until the proposed measures had been passed upon.

SHIPMENTS OF FREIGHT IN CANADA INCREASE

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Grain loadings on the western division of Canadian railways during the week ended Oct. 17 showed a gain of 423 cars over the previous week. A falling off of 516 cars in the eastern loadings for the same week was recorded, however. Merchandise and miscellaneous freight were heavier both east and west, and total loadings showed an increase of 192 cars over the week ended Oct. 10, as compared with the corresponding week in October, 1924, the increase in the week ended Oct. 17 last being 1,589 cars. The total number of cars loaded in the week ended Oct. 17 last was 42,934.

Liberals of London!

VICTORY IS ONLY 48 HOURS AWAY
Now Is the Time To Work, Help, Boost and Win!

It is the decision to vote and the decision to bring other voters to the polls that will send London's favorite son to Ottawa. Do your part. Do not trust to luck or fate. Do your full duty and vote. Get out early and take others with you. Catch the winning spirit. Show that London can elect a real Liberal.

Ex-Mayor Little has offered himself in the service of his fellow citizens on six occasions. Each time they have sent him back with increasing majorities. Is this not a clear mandate that they want him at Ottawa? Is this not an overwhelming sign of confidence in as good a mayor as London ever had.

Premier King has given the people of Canada the first half-holiday they ever had to register their votes.

London's Liberal candidate has won his spurs in the arena of public service by long years of service in the city council and other public bodies. He did not ask to be shown special favors, and to go to the people as an inexperienced man, but started at the bottom of the ladder as an alderman and worked his way to the top of the municipal honor list.

Roll Up a Mighty Majority For Ex-Mayor Little Thursday

Freely has he given of his energy, ability and financial resources to afford his best to the City of London, and today he is a full-fledged public servant, who has taken his degrees of service and fitted himself for aggressive work at Ottawa with the interest of London and Canada closest to his heart.

LONDON OWES IT TO SYD LITTLE TO SEND HIM TO OTTAWA WITH A SPLENDID MAJORITY

London Liberalism has never before been more thoroughly aroused for a candidate. Hundreds of men and women, in all walks of life, have been giving their time for weeks to clinch the victory. Scores of motor cars have been volunteered. There is a definite swing to Little in the city. Each sub-division will have its quota of cars.

Iowan Technically K.O.'d By Wills In Initial Round

9,000 Spectators Are Dazed
When Johnson's Seconds
Threw in Towel.

WAS PUNCH DRUNK

Young Heavyweight Knocked
Dizzy With Left To Right
Of Neck.

Associated Press Despatch.
Newark, N. J., Oct. 26.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Floyd Johnson of Iowa in the first round of a 12-round match here tonight—the sudden ending leaving 9,000 spectators stunned.

Johnson received Wills's mighty left to the body and head just as the bout started, and he appeared worried. Then a right to the head drove him to the ropes, but he withstood the attack and ventured to the center of the ring as a white towel fluttered in from his corner.

Referee Harry Lewis, Wills and Johnson all gazed at the towel in seeming astonishment, and the throng arose to its feet in clamor. Lewis took Johnson by the arm and led him to his corner, and then informed the press representatives that he could do nothing other than award the fight to Wills after the towel had dropped into the arena.

As the fighters departed loud protests came from the crowd, which had seen two minutes of a contest which had a championship heavyweight contender as one of its principals.

"Phoe, phoe," came the cry.
"That's the end of boxing in New Jersey."

Wills Confident.
But as a matter of fact Johnson was not far from oblivion when the unexpected towel appeared. The negro had gone at him smilingly as they tapped each other lightly in the center of the ring. He was fully confident. A half minute of sparring preceded the first blow of the contest, a left drive to the body. Then he wrestled his foe to the ropes and drove a right flush to the chin, after which Johnson became cautious and bore away. Another left found his jaw and he backed to the ropes to receive a solid shower of rights and lefts to head and body.

But the Iowan kept the past as the "bulldog of the west," continued to throw his arms before him and gradually worked out to the center of the ring, as his seconds went into action.

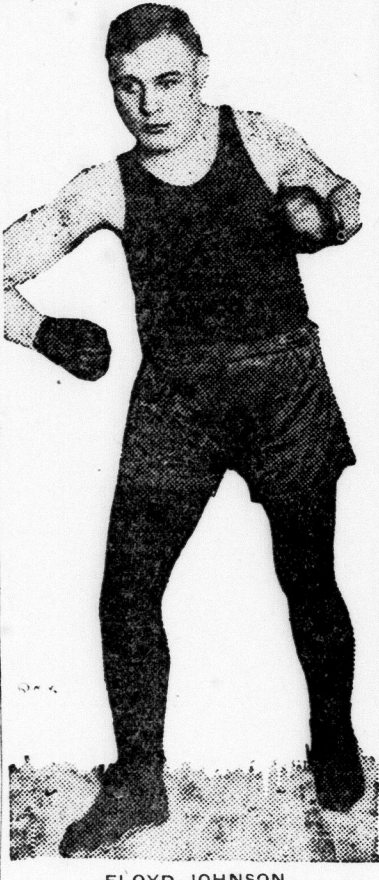

Dr. William Silverstein, physician for the state boxing commission, examined Johnson after he had reached his dressing-room, and pronounced him in good condition. The blow that rocked him was a left jab to the head, according to his handlers.

Wills had been a top-heavy favorite to win by a knockout within five rounds, for Johnson, once in line for heavyweight honors, had deteriorated as a boxer since his defeat three years ago by Jess Willard in seven rounds at the Yankee stadium.

Punch Drunk.
"I was punch drunk," Johnson said in his dressing-room after the unexpected bout. "Wills' left caught me on the right side of the neck and left me dizzy. I didn't know where I was."
The weights were: Wills 215, Johnson 203.

George Courtney of Oklahoma, and Charles Arthur of Newark, middleweights, fought a rattling ten-round contest as a preliminary. Courtney proved the better boxer.

The referee stopped the semi-final between Frank Moody of Wales and Homer Robinson, Pittsburgh negro, in the seventh round because the going was too slow to suit him.

FLOYD JOHNSON.

whose seconds threw the towel into the ring in the first round of his scheduled 12-round match with Harry Wills, giving the negro heavyweight title-challenger a technical K.O.

GRAHAM MAY MANAGE NEW ST. THOMAS NINE

Executive of Flower City A. A.
A. Will Open Canvass
Today.

Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Oct. 26.—The executive of the new St. Thomas amateur athletic association met this evening and decided to begin their canvass for membership on Tuesday. The district has been divided and allotted carefully, so that all the city will be covered in the effort to raise enough money to set the athletics of the city on a proper basis.

Peace and harmony exists between the old baseball club and the new organization. At a meeting held a week the old organization pledged themselves to support the new A. A., and the matter of transfer of franchises is now under way.

The old players interviewed by the new association with the possible exception of one "Buck" Graham, catcher and assistant manager of last year's team, has been suggested as a possible manager of the new organized team, and the sport is expected to take on a new lease of life as a result.

They have a fighting attorney over in Detroit, and any time that he can put a case in court he has the privilege of challenging the judge to meet him in the ring. Bob Sage learned

YOUTH TRIUMPHS OVER DE PAOLO

Bob McDonough, Protege of Tommy Milton, Wins Laurel
Speedway Classic.

Associated Press Despatch.
Laurel, Md., Oct. 26.—Bob McDonough, youthful protege of Tommy Milton, today won his first major motor classic, the 250-mile race at the Baltimore-Laurel speedway, and in doing so took sweet revenge on Peter De Paolo for the headline decision the latter scored over him in July.

Nursing a limping motor through the last 25 miles of the grind, McDonough was forced to see his two-lap lead fade into a bare 200 yards at the finish line. This thrilling climax of a spectacular race probably cost McDonough a new world's record for 250 miles on a wooden track. As it was, his time for the distance, hour 59 minutes 2.71 seconds, in which he averaged 126.30 miles an hour, was but a fraction behind the 1:25:55 miles an hour set by Tommy Milton.

The winner today collected $9,000 as his share of the prize money. De Paolo received $5,500 and Milton $3,000.

CANINE ASSOCIATION PLANS MATINEE SHOW

Local Organization Will Hold
Annual Event On Thanks-Giving Day.

Thanksgiving Day, the London Canine Association will stage its annual matinee dog show and a huge number of entries are expected. J. W. Weldon of Galt, an experienced judge, has been secured to give the awards.

It is quite apparent to all lovers of good dogs that there are many good dogs owned in London that have never been shown at any show, and it is mainly for this reason that the London Canine Association stages each year a matinee, so that the owners will have an opportunity of bringing their dogs out for inspection. Handsome prizes are given by the association to the winner of each blue ribbon.

To make the entries simple for the novice exhibitor, entries are not taken until the day of the show and are taken right up to the time judging commences.

To add zest to the entertainment, seasoned show dogs will also be exhibited by the many breeders who live in London and surrounding territory, and competition promises to be keen in all breeds. There are plenty of classes, however, and some classes are for dogs that have never won before, so that unless the one-dog owner desires to lose his dog, he will have to win a prize.

J. W. Weldon of Galt is an expert in all breeds. He judged the Thanksgiving show so well last year, the association felt they could not do better than ask him to place the awards again this year. The show is to be held in the dog show building of the Western Fair.

ed to box when attending college, and the game has proven so profitable that his law business is but a side issue with him. Bob claims the Canadian middleweight and light-heavyweight championships as a result of a victory over Jack Reddick last June, and wants to defend it in Hamilton, if any promoter feels like giving him a chance.

He can make 170 pounds, and is not being guided by a manager. Bob is a great favorite by the boxing fans in Detroit.

South C. I. Plays Stone Town Today

Meet St. Marys in Second Round of Wossa Soccer.

This afternoon at the Western University campus South C. I. takes on St. Marys C. I. in the first game of the second round in Wossa soccer.

Although the Stone Town students have a strong organization, the red and white players with their success of the past two years, are expected to repeat. This is the third year in succession that the Southerners have come to the front in the local group, and with the teams as strong as ever, it is rather hard to concede St. Marys a chance.

However, championship squads are known to fall, and South may have a battle on its hands.

Coach Dismore announced his lineup last night as follows: Hayson, George, Burgess, Menill, Pollock, Gray, Waterman, Seration, Norris, Jidley, Bale, Franklin, sube, Dickinson, Riddle, Campbell, Heard.

LADIES COURT LEAGUE TO ORGANIZE TONIGHT

Backers Plan Revival of Girls' Basketball For Coming Winter.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

Ladies basketball in London is to undergo a revival here this winter if the contemplated plans of backers are successful. Last year there was a city league operating under and city groups. The league started off all right and had two cups, the Wembley and the Duffield, as incentives. Officers were elected from the older members of the groups, and everything sailed along fine, but when half the season was over the players found that they had to make all the arrangements for themselves.

The games were played at the east-end town hall, which was donated by the city, and the referees were Jack Cook were gratis. Therefore, there was practically no expense and no deficit at the end of the year.

This winter it is going to be different. The league will have to pay for both the use of the hall and for the services of a referee. This brings a new problem, and supporters of the game are arising to the occasion. A general meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, brought about by the efforts of Billie Graves, an enthusiastic worker among the younger girls and member of last year's Thistles.

At least seven teams are expected to enter this year, and several other organizations in the city are possibilities. The need of such a league as a method of developing players, adds impetus to its organization. The teams will play two nights a week, the dates to be set at the meeting tonight. The officers will also be chosen.

Kiwanians Will Scatter Maples

Exactly 37 Kiwanians have expressed a desire to bowl, and with the exception of three of these, all suggested five o'clock as the best time to start. The committee decided upon Friday as the day. Members who are desirous of bowling, and who have not had an opportunity to return their cards, are asked to get in touch with Cliff Hunt on or before Friday of this week, and place one of the teams will be found.

Below is a list of the teams so far compiled who will make the start at the Arcade alley.

Express—Jimmy Andrews (captain), Wilf Hodgins, Tim McFarrell, Ed Parnell, Sid Jones, Glenn Wilson.

Raiders—Bill Anderson (captain), Cy Edy, Bud Manning, Cliff Mann, George Dicks, Jack Dyer, Ed Gairns.

is planning an attempt to lift both the British open and amateur crowns next year, in addition to helping to defend the Walker cup. Other United States invaders of British links will be Philadelphia's golfing grandmothers, Mrs. Cuth Fox, 64 years old; Barnes, Hagen and Mac Smith.

Military Billiard League Under Way

This evening is getway night for the five clubs which this year make up the local inter-military billiards league. For this season the league has been divided into two sections, with each club having a team in each, thus making ten teams in all.

Tonight the two Byron squads will meet Westminster, with one game at each place. On Thursday the R. C. R.'s will meet the G. W. V. A. The other club in the league is the Canadian Fusiliers, a new entry.

The new officers of the association are: Edward Walker, Fusiliers, president; Serret, L. Waters, R. C. R. secretary and Mr. Hardie, Byron, vice-president.

WOODSTOCK PUTS OUT CLASSIC CITY

Wagon Town College Soccerites Eliminate Stratford From Hough Cup Series.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Oct. 26.—The Woodstock college soccer team this afternoon won the championship and the trophy that goes with the winners of the Hough Cup series by defeating Stratford, 3 to 0, and taking the round 6 to 1.

Today's game was played on a wet field and in a drizzling rain, but despite the drawbacks, the local students put up a good exhibition of ball, especially in the first period and the latter part of the second part of the game.

In the first period the locals scored, James shooting the goal on a pass from McGregor. The classic City eleven with the wind at their backs bucked up in the second period and gave the local goalies, Tarr, some hard shots to stop, but the visitors were held scoreless. McGregor netted number two for the local students when he rushed the ball down the field alone and scored on a fast shot from directly in front. Two minutes before the final whistle Linton notched the last corner.

The college boys will not meet the winners of the Northern group for the senior Hough trophy and the individual medals.

The line-up: Woodstock—Goal Tarr; backs Dolson and Fisher; halves, Smith, Linton and Harrington; forwards, Thompson, McGregor, James, Dickson and Waltho; spares, McArthur.

Stratford—Goal Watson; backs, Noon and Struthers; half backs, Carrie, Barnett and Flood; forwards, Nurrow, Ross, Zulow, Roca and Robertson. Referee—Fred Harrington.

AHEAD OF LAST YEAR.

MANION STRETCHES FIGURES TO HIDE PIT DUG FOR FARMERS

Mr. Meighen's Lieutenant Uses Wild Claims As He Pictures Farm Menace.

DREAM IS PUNCTURED

The extravagant statements from Conservative platforms are repeatedly repudiated by the facts. An example is Hon. Dr. Manion, one of the Conservative leaders and a minister in the last Meighen cabinet, who said at Toronto:

"What kind of a policy is it that permits $150,000,000 worth of butter, cheese, oats, potatoes, hay and eggs to enter Canada because our duties are so low in comparison with those of other countries to compete with the farmers of Canada?"

The official trade returns of Canada show that during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1923, the total value of oats, cheese, butter, eggs, and hay imported into Canada was not quite $4,500,000. Mr. Manion is only out $146,000,000, which is quite a sum.

The Winnipeg Free Press, in commenting on Dr. Manion's statement, says: "One might hope that the percentage of inaccuracy in all his speeches does not run that high."

The argument that the Canadian farmer needs protection from the farmers of other countries does not hold. The Canadian farmer is an exporter to other countries, and is not losing the home market because of selling a minimum quantity of products to Canada. Often the Canadian farmer himself is the purchaser of farm products from other countries when he has a shortage. This is true of hay and oats and other like products which the Canadian farmer with a local shortage may find necessary to buy as feed. This feed is turned over in finished livestock and the Canadian farmer reaps the benefit.

The Manitoba Free Press presents an unanswerable argument to the thinking voter when it states:

"The farmer who votes Conservative is helping to dig a pit for himself. And the man in the town who realizes that his prosperity as an urban dweller is bound up with the prosperity of the farmer, and who votes Conservative, is helping to push the farmer into the pit and to fall in himself with him."

AUTO SALESMEN HAPPY.

NEW YORK PRO CLUB WILL TRAIN AT FALLS

Thomas J. Duggan Denies Stories Charging Americanization of Hockey.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Oct. 26.—The New York hockey club of the National hockey league will go to Niagara Falls on Nov. 9 for three weeks training before the opening of the season, according to an announcement made here tonight by Thomas J. Duggan, managing director.

New York will see her first National hockey league game on Dec. 15, but prior to this the new team will have had several games on the road.

In conjunction with his announcement as to the training camp, Mr. Duggan issued a statement in which he announced support of the New York club for the proposition of a salary limit. "We will vote for it," he said. "The quicker players realize we are not going to pay exorbitant salaries the better it will be for all concerned. We have eight players under contract at present and we hope to have an entire squad by the time the training camp opens."

"Stories in Canadian papers about alleged Americanization of hockey are absurd," said Mr. Duggan. "We have not bought one player without the consent of Canadian clubs and the National hockey league."

The Canadian clubs were essential to hockey as drawing cards, he said, and the New York club had no intention of ever cutting away from them. Boston and Pittsburgh, he continued, were also loyal to the National hockey league.

Mr. Duggan said that he had been invited two years ago to assist in the formation of a four-club United States professional hockey league. "Had I consented," he said, "a raid on the

Money Big Need Of Former King

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—Friedrich August, former king of Saxony, needs money. He has commissioned one of the largest German art dealers to send a representative to the United States to sell five tapestries from Loschwitz Castle, near Dresden. One of these is classified as among the finest specimens of Islamic art, having been taken from the Turks during the siege of Vienna in 1683. The other four are Gobelins of enormous size, made for August the Strong. They depict scenes from the Spanish War of Succession, according to designs by the noted French painter, Van Der Meulen.

WESTERN TURNS TO BASKETBALL

Court Hopes of Purple and White Are Considerably Higher This Year.

Western U. turned away from the gridiron yesterday to plunge into plans for basketball.

The hopes of the purple and white on the court this year are high, and never were they based on better prospects.

Western has practically the senior intercollegiate entry of last year back again, with additional strength, in Mel Waikem, former Aura Lee hockey player and the basketball defence player and several others. The senior intercollegiate team, which made its first bow in this company last year, finishing the season with three wins and three losses, will also be entered in the O. B. A. senior series. Western will also have a second team in the intermediate intercollegiate series.

O. B. A. again by an intermediate or junior team.

Thursday the inter-faculty leagues will be launched at a meeting of the loop officials to be held at 7 o'clock. This league developed some fine players last year, and precipitated rivalry in large and intense bursts.

The representative teams will be sent into a strenuous program of drill on Tuesday and next week.

There should be nearly fifty players to be weeded out for all the teams. Western intends to enter in the various series.

LISTS SUPPLEMENTED

Ex-Ad. John Anderson has donated a trophy for which the teams of the newly formed Junior City Hockey Association will play this winter. Glad Gammage has already donated a set of medals for the winners, and from this angle, the new venture is all set.

Bill Marsden is confident the league will be a great success, and he believes that the boys will play a brand of hockey that will win on its merits interest the fans.

Marsden is a firm believer in the theory that any physically fit boy needs only encouragement to become potentially a more than average player at any particular game, even if he doesn't turn out to be an outstanding star. And he has in hockey in Canada has accomplished more with youngsters off the ponds than Marsden, whose four Ontario championships in nine years with Aura Lee will always set a mark for hockey mentors to shoot at in the domain.

The managers of the various teams are supplementing the lists of players they handed in at the last meeting.

No regular contract forms have been issued, but players are signing one sheet with day and date, and this will be considered binding.

Prospective players are warned that the signing of several contracts might be a bar to their playing in the league. Sportsmanship is being emphasized, and as a breach of one of the elementary principles of sport, players signing more than one contract may find themselves in hot water.

MAINTENANCE HIGH IN OXFORD'S JAIL

Average Cost Per Prisoner 14.83 Cents a Day For Past Quarter.

PRICE OF HOGS DROPS

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Oct. 26.—The average cost of maintenance in the Oxford county jail for the past quarter has been 14.83 cents per day, according to the report of Sheriff McGhee, handed out today. This is a high average for the local institution and is due to the fact that the attendance in the jail for a large part of the time was down almost to nothing, while the overhead cost went on just the same. According to report the majority of the prisoners were farmers and laborers.

Sentence Suspended.

After Alex. Green had pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of forgery, Judge Wallace expressed the view that prison terms seemed to have had little effect in reforming Green and decided to try him on suspended sentence. Green pleaded that he was drunk at the time of forging a check for $125, and the judge, in giving sentence, pointed out that although the accused had served terms in the penitentiary and reformatory totaling some 25 years, it did not seem to do any good. The crown attorney was not inclined to press for severe punishment, and the judge decided to try the effect of letting Green go on suspended sentence, with the understanding that he pay the costs of the case, amounting to $50. Green had been in jail since Aug. 31, awaiting trial before the judge.

Hog Price Drops.

On the local livestock market today the price of hogs dropped 25 cents a cwt., $11 being the price paid. Calves remained at 9 cents per pound. Four cars of hogs and two cars of cattle and calves were shipped to Toronto.

Few for Advance Poll.

Little interest is being shown in the advanced poll for railway work-ers and commercial travellers, which was opened here this evening. There are very few electors in the city who are eligible to vote at this poll.

No Half-Holiday.

The retail merchants of the city decided today that there would be no half-holiday on the day of the federal election. The merchants had canvassed their employees, the majority of whom had expressed no desire for a half-holiday, and facilities were provided for allowing them to vote.

RED TEAM NOW LEADING IN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Workers in Campaign Hear a Stirring Address by J. J. McHale.

"Victory does not depend entirely on the boxers in a prize fight," J. J. McHale, managing director of Scott-McHale, Limited, told the workers in the Y. M. C. A. membership campaign last night, "but the seconds, the men who are backing the boxers, encouraging them and rooting for them, have won many a famous prize fight for their heroes."

The occasion was the dinner at the end of the second round of the membership prize fight campaign, held in the "Y" dining-room. He pressed the fact that everything does not depend on and should not be left to the leaders, but that every member of every team should get behind his "boxer" and try for victory.

"I myself left the Y. M. C. A. for a year," continued the speaker, "but I discovered that I both needed and wanted the 'Y' training. I decided, without the solicitation of any campaigner, to come back, and with me I am bringing my two boys. That's what I think of the 'Y'."

The ringside score is as follows, the members of the "blue" team being the first mentioned in each case:

Heavyweight class:
Battling Yull 1245
Shugart Hunt 1065

Middleweight class:
Gunboat Swazey 851
One-Round Limon 1110

Bantamweights:
Scraper Gray 585
Duke Cadwallader 470

Featherweights:
Spider Brady 852
Tiger Baldwin 450

Flyweights:
Kid McNaughton 59
Uppercut Upton 975

Total score for round:
Blues 2840
Reds 4070

Next Monday evening will end the competition, and the final gong of the fight will be marked by the fourth dinner of the series. Final results will be announced, and the winners of the round will be awarded the championship belts.

TRAVELLERS PLANNING OLD-FASHIONED DANCE

Never in the history of London council, No. 630, has there been held a more successful social evening than that of Saturday, when the commercial travellers gathered at their council chambers, at the corner of King and Richmond streets, for the opening event of the winter season. It. L. Stevenson, chairman of the entertainment committee, had arranged for accommodation for more than the usual number of commercial travellers, their wives and friends, but there were so many present who were not before in the habit of attending the social evenings that further accommodation had to be provided. It was necessary to place eucure tables in the center rooms and halls before the crowd could be properly handled.

Mrs. Fred Floyd was the winner of the first prize for high eucure score, while Mrs. F. C. Sears received the consolation prize.

At 10:30 refreshments were served, followed immediately after by dancing until midnight.

The next regular meeting of Council, No. 630 will be held on Saturday, Nov. 7, and will take the form of old timers night, with F. W. St. Lawrence, the first senior councillor, and all the charter officers in the chair.

The Winter Gardens has been secured for Nov. 20 for a real old-fashioned square dance and hoo-down, and all commercial travellers, whether members of the U. C. T.'s or not, are cordially invited.

INCREASE PAY LIST.

We will be busy all next season, and we plan to increase our list of employees up to 200 or more in the spring."—Charles A. Glock, manager International Harvester Company of Canada, Ltd., Chatham, Ont.

Seven times as many Canadians moved to the United States since January 1st, 1922, as were killed in the Great War

Here are the official figures issued by the United States Bureau of Immigration, Washington, D.C.

Calendar Year	Number of Canadians officially admitted to the United States

1924	159,184
1925 (to July 31st)	44,988
	448,434

Remember—These figures only indicate the number of Canadians officially admitted to the United States.

How many more thousands slipped across the boundary and avoided paying the head tax?

How many more thousands went to the United States on a visit and forgot to come back?

Why did these Canadians leave their country?

FRUITMEN BACKING GOVERNMENT PLAN

President of Ontario Growers Declares It Will Give Best Protection To Farmers.

DUTY IS HIGH NOW

Special to The Advertiser by Staff Reporter.

Burlington, Ont., Oct. 26.—There's a little lesson in simplified mathematics originally expounded by a Norfolk county farmer, that never fails to raise a smile when the high protection argument is offered Canadian fruit growers. Paul A. Fisher, president of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, has heard the yarn, and finds it appropriate.

"I have two smart sons," said the Norfolk county farmer. "There never were boys quite so clever. Why, do you know, when it rains those boys go out into the barn and trade jackknives, and in a single afternoon they'll make 30 or 40 cents out of each other."

That is the answer of the president of the fruit growers to the argument of protecting the fruitman by a higher tariff.

Is Already Higher.

Sought by an Advertiser reporter at the Fisher orchards, Burlington, Mr. Paul Fisher today quickly dispelled the Conservatives' cry that

Prowling Hen Is Murdered

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Oct. 26.—Arthur Cartier, Sheldon avenue, today found his prize chicken dead in its coop with a note pinned to its body, which read: "Keep chicken home."

It was a Rhode Island Red, valued at $25, which had carried off scores of prizes at recent fairs and shows. Cartier has lost other prize chickens in a similar fashion, which has prompted police to investigate. Petty spite work is indicated, police say.

They have watched the interests of the fruit growers when they were in power. He scoffed the inconsistent argument that Canada needed a duty on fruit as high as the U. S. tariff. His answer was: "Canada has a higher duty than the United States now on every fruit, except pears."

The Fisher brothers operate a fruit farm just outside of Burlington. They have gotten on very comfortably under existing tariff conditions. They believe that their needs, as well as the requirements of every Canadian fruit man, have been looked after by Liberal administrations.

"What do the fruit men think of the Conservative fruit tariff argument?" Mr. Paul Fisher was asked. "The answer is that the Conservatives are posing as the special watchdogs of the fruit and vegetable interests. It's interesting to turn to the Canada customs tariff schedule to see who has looked after us in the last 20 years," returned the fruit men's president.

"You have had plenty of promises," The Advertiser remarked. "Stories are good at that sort of time before election," declared Mr. Fisher. "But Mr. Meighen's only revision all the time he was in office was to put potatoes on the free list."

"How about the promises in this campaign?"

Making Many Promises. "Why, Meighen's candidates in fruit and vegetable-growing constituencies are making all sorts of promises that are pretty much sweeping generalities after all. They want a tariff as high as Hamen's gallowes. Some of them are even going so far as to promise duties as high as the United States tariff—a tariff built brick for brick with the Yankees."

"How do the American and Canadian duties on fruits and vegetables compare?"

"Nearly every tariff on foreign fruits entering Canada has been the result of Liberal legislation."

Mr. Fisher pointed out that present customs duties on almost all varieties of Canadian fruits and vegetables are the same as originated or revised by the Laurier or King government. In every case except one these duties are as high as the U. S. tariff for similar products. The duty on pears is lowest. Mr. Meighen's single change in the fruit and vegetable produce tariff was the sweeping away of tariff on potatoes, an article which has since been offset by the Liberal government.

"What about the Liberal program?" Mr. Fisher was asked. "Do you think it will help the fruit growers?"

Would Probe Situation. "The tariff commission will investigate the situation. The government realizes that any revision in the tariff is likely to remain for some time. Therefore it is essential to act wisely."

"How about 'dumping' of fruit from the United States?"

"The government knows that the tariff, no matter how high, will not be effective unless a 'dumping' act, that is workable, is provided. The large distributing agencies of the States use our Toronto and Montreal markets as dump markets in order to keep their own larger markets from stagnating. It will be a very good thing for Canadian fruit and vegetable markets when such a dumping act, as is now under consideration by the Liberals, is put into effect."

"Is the tariff commission the most practical solution?"

Only Sensible Solution. "Absolutely. It is the only sensible solution," went on Mr. Fisher.

Mr. Fisher sums up the fruit growers' viewpoint to government in definite, clean-cut support for Mackenzie King.

"The Liberal policy," he concluded, "is to act for the fruit and vegetable growers. The Conservative policy is to promise before election and then they did nothing during the ten years they were last in office, except for Mr. Meighen's potato revision in 1919 to put potatoes on the free list."

DR. ROSS WINS MANY FRIENDS AT MEETINGS

Liberal Candidate in East Middlesex Receives Ovation at Dorchester Meeting.

With but two days to election, confidence reigns supreme in the camp of Dr. C. C. Ross, Liberal candidate in East Middlesex. The exponent of Liberalism in East Middlesex received a regular ovation at a big rally in Dorchester last night, and a substantial majority is predicted for Dr. Ross in the township of North Dorchester.

Long distance messages received at Liberal headquarters last night from all over the riding were enthusiastic and encouraging. Dr. Ross is appealing to every elector, no matter what his or her previous affiliations have been. He has promised to serve the public faithfully in all matters. Cast your vote for Dr. Ross, whose name appears last on the ballot, for undoubtedly "The last shall be first" on election night.—Adv.

CHAMPIONS HELP SET NEW WORLD RECORD

Commodore Greening, With bow IV., Breaks Own Mark On Canadian Lake.

"The feat of Commodore Harry B. Greening, of Hamilton, Ont., in averaging 50.78 miles an hour for 24 hours with his motorboat, Rainbow IV, Oct. 3, breaking all world's speed records on the water, is one that would have been impossible three years ago," says M. C. Dewitt, vice-president of the Champion Spark Plug Company, whose spark plugs were used to make both the previous and the new records.

"Improvements in design and materials, including the use of silluminite in our product, made this new record possible."

Nearly three hours before the end of the 24-hour run on Lake Rosseau, one of the Muskoka group, north of Toronto, Commodore Greening's little boat had surpassed the previous record of 1964 miles made by Rainbow III. This time, due to the smoothness and power shown by his engine and spark plugs, he exceeded his own optimistic estimate by more than 30 miles, covering 1218.79 miles.

"We put the spark plugs in the engine two days before the run started, and never looked at them again until it was all over," Commodore Greening informed the Champion company. "They performed perfectly every minute."

PISTOLS, STONES USED IN MEETING IN QUEBEC

Battle Royal Ensues When Great Hall Is Thrown Into Darkness.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Quebec, Oct. 26.—The sudden severing of electric wiring, which threw the place into utter darkness while Premier Taschereau was speaking, followed by revolver shots, stage-thrashing and general pandemonium, made a political meeting at Chateau Richer in Charlevoix county without precedent in the history of that constituency.

The meeting was held in the interests of P. P. Casgrain, Liberal candidate, who had the support of the prime minister of the province of Quebec. It was while Mr. Taschereau was addressing the crowd that all the lights suddenly went out.

A battle royal ensued in the darkness and after stones had been heaved in the direction of the platform the sudden barking of a revolver broke out above the din. The shots were answered by other weapons outside the building, whose owners, according to accounts of the evening, began taking "pot shots" at passing automobiles.

When the uproar was at its height and it seemed certain there must be many serious casualties, the wiring was repaired and the flood of light brought the turmoil to a close.

RETAILER IS CONFIDENT.

"We find a steady improvement in business during the past four years, and we are for continued improvement."

In fact the future to us is very bright.—Justin Duggan, secretary-treasurer, J. A. Duggan, Ltd., Stratford, Ont.
