DIRECTIONS TO FARMERS AND GARDENERS.

THE last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, parsley onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard.
 The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans, (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th) spinage, ornice; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers.
 The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June will do for potatoes.
 The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.
 The 20th of June, sow buckwheat; this is also a good time to sow in herdsgrafs, clover, or any sort of grafs seed, which is thought to succeed better if sowed in now with buckwheat than in the spring with oats. Herds grafs that is sowed the latter part of June, or through the whole of July, instead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier rooting faster, but if The farmer before the not well in the tal next sum Dutch m fow turn gust tot ter whea the fever in earlie is earlier sown, spends the summer in spreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only bears the severity of the winter, but sends up from each seed many more stalks the ensuing summer. The farmer should be particularly careful to sow his clover, if possible before the end of July; for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well late in the fall are wholly killed, so that a single plant cannot be found the next summer.—— The first week in July, sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late as the 25th.—— The 20th is a good time to sow turnip raddish, and for a late crop, some salmon ditto, as late as August 10th.—— About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat and rye, as by being sowed early it will be better rooted to stand the severity of the winter, and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer.

ECLIPSES for the Year 1791.

THERE will be four Eclipses, two of the Sun and two of the Moon, in the following order, viz.

The First will be a visible and almost central Eclipse of the Sun, the third day of April, in the morning; the phases as follow

	h. m.	}	Apparent time in the morning.
The Eclipse will begin at - - -	6 36 $\frac{1}{2}$
Middle, or greatest obscuration - - -	7 49 $\frac{1}{2}$
End of the Eclipse - - - - -	9 12 $\frac{1}{4}$
	h. m.
Time of Incidence - - - - -	1 13 $\frac{1}{2}$
— of Repletion - - - - -	1 23 $\frac{1}{4}$
Duration - - - - -	2 36 $\frac{1}{2}$

This will be a very singular Eclipse; for as the apparent diameter of the Moon will be much less than that of the Sun, the Sun will appear in the form of a ring encompassing the Moon.

The elements of this Eclipse as I have collected them from Mason's Tables, are as follow.

Apparent time of the true conjunction	}	h. m. sec.
under the meridian of Halifax	}	8 27 29	Morn.
At which time the place of the Sun and Moon will be	}	$\Upsilon$ 13 $^{\circ}$ 42' 14", 6
Moon's horizontal parallax - - - - -		54' 45", 9
— Latitude, N. D. - - - - -		44' 58", 6
Hourly motion of the $\text{☽}$ , in Ecliptic - - - - -		30' 15", 5
— of the $\text{☉}$ - - - - -		2' 27", 5
Semi-diameter of the $\text{☽}$ - - - - -		14' 55", 4
— of the $\text{☉}$ - - - - -		16' 1", 8
Hourly motion $\text{☽}$ in Lat. - - - - -		2' 46", 4
Angle of the way of the $\text{☽}$ from the $\text{☉}$ - - - - -		5 $^{\circ}$ 41' 25", 4
$\text{☉}$ 's Declination - - - - -		5 $^{\circ}$ 24' 46" North

The Second will be of the Moon, on the 18th day of April; the greatest obscuration will be 28 $\frac{1}{2}$  minutes after 12 o'clock; invisible.

The Third will be of the Sun the 27th day of September, at 7h. 29m. afternoon; invisible.

The Fourth will be a visible Eclipse of the Moon, the 11th of October, in the evening, the phases as follow, viz.

	h. m. sec.	}	Apparent time.
Begins at - - - - -	7 46 52
Middle - - - - -	9 21 14
End - - - - -	10 55 36

At the moment of the opposition, the  $\text{☽}$ 's place will be  $\Upsilon$  18 $^{\circ}$  40' 10", 6, and the  $\text{☉}$ 's place in the opposite point.

Digits eclipsed 9 $\frac{1}{2}$  on the north limb. The Moon's Lat. 32' 10", 9 south; but the nearest approximation of their centers 32' 1", 2; and the relative angle 5 $^{\circ}$  42' 45", and the hourly motion of the  $\text{☽}$  a.  $\text{☉}$  in her relative orbit 28' 37", 8.

THE WINTER - PIECE.

It was a winter's evening, and fast came down the snow,
And keenly o'er the wide heath the bitter blast did blow,

When a damsel all forlorn, quite be-wilder'd in her way,
Pres'd her baby to her bosom, and sodly thus did say—

'Oh!

'Oh! cruel was my father, that
'shut his door on me!
'And cruel was my mother, that
'such a fight could see!
'And cruel is the wintry wind,
'that chills my heart with cold!
'But crueler than all, the lad that 'left my love for gold!

'Hush, hush my lovely baby and

'Cold—cold, my dearest jewel!
'thy little life is gone!
'Oh, let my tears revive thee! fo
'warm that trickle down—
'My tears that gush so warm, oh!

'Ah! wretched, wretched mother!
'thou'r now bereft of all!'

Then down she sunk, despairing
upon the drifted snow,
And, wrung with killing anguish,
lamented loud her woe:
She kiss'd her baby's pale lips, and laid it by her side:
Then cast her eyes to heaven, and
bow'd her head, and died!

ODE ON THE SPRING.

I.
STERN winter now gives way to spring,
 The smiling season comes
 Array'd with ev'ry beauteous hue;
 Now balmy zephyrs are on wing,
 The birds melodious accents sing,
 And all the heav'ns are overspread
 with blue;
 Nature's beauties now appear;
 To charm the ravish'd eye;
 And each production of the year
 In pleasing order lie.

Now vernal rains refresh the vivid
 bow'rs,
 And add fresh fragrance to the springing flow'rs.
 II.
 From ev'ry copse, and nodding
 grove,
 The tuneful blackbird and the thrush Attune their mellow throats to love,
 And sport about their fav'rite bush;
 In heav'nly concert join the numrous choir, And

Where glowing health with vigor reigns :

Who love to trip the mazy dance,

And with the fav'rite fair advance;

To feel the pleaſing ſoft alarms

Of muſic's fascinating charms ;

To join the clamor of the chace,

Outſtrip the arrow in the race ;

BORNE on a flood of blazing light,
 The fun led on the ardent day;
 All nature hail'd the warm delight,
 Yet sicken'd at the fervid ray.
 To join the herds in shadowy rest,
 The bleating flocks forsook the plain;
 The lingering pulse of life oppress'd,
 A languor felt thro' every vein.
 Mild evening comes—a gentle breeze,
 Revives to fan the winding stream:

Soft wispers die along the trees,
 And light decays with gradual gleam.
 As some coy nymph of doubtful tread
 Bashful to meet a lover's gaze;
 Still hesitating o'er the mead,
 Not quite retires, yet hardly stays.
 So light's last blushes veil'd in dew,
 Still bid the doubtful landscaper rise;
 Deep shades, still deeper shades subdue,
 Till night in darkness wraps the skies.

HENCE! sultry Summer! hence Thou nurse of lassitude and indolence!
 Nor beam on me again thy fervid ray;
 Nor to my fainting limbs convey
 Thy soft enfeebling influence;
 But come thou season fresh and clear,
 Loveliest of the waning year,
 Luxuriant Autumn! whom to greet
 Every rural charm doth meet.
 Nature owns thy sovereign pow'r,
 Rip'ning grain, and fruit, and flow'r.
 No longer is the Sylvan scene
 Rob'd in one unvaried green;
 A lovelier prospect I behold,
 Where every leaf is tinged with gold.
 No more doth sultry Silence reign
 Mistress of the scorched plain;
 No more the murm'ring rill doth glide
 Thro' sedges high, which almost hide
 The puny stream from heedless view;
 For now its current swells anew,
 And all its wonted strength regains,
 And proudly winds to distant plains.

X. OCTOBER, hath XXXI Days. 1791.

The plenteous harvest now is in,
 And labour doth again be in;
 The joyous sounds salute my ear,
 In cadence musical and clear,
 Where the ploughman's annual toil
 For future crops prepares the soil;
 Or where the flail's incessant din
 Echoes from the barn within.
 The teeming orchards now repay
 The hope of many a former day.
 The pound receives the rich produce
 And streams with the delicious juice;

While many a dainty apple laid
 In snug recess, (on purpose made)
 Still rip'ning rest,—securely stored,
 Till call'd to deck the Winter's board.
 Now too the rural sports dispense
 Their health inspiring influence:
 Slighting all the charms of sleep,
 I rise ere ruddy Sol doth peep;
 (When every thing is fresh and fair,
 Breath'd on by the morning air;)
 And o'er diversity of ground,
 Elate and brisk I range around,

With staunch and careful dogs to try
 For the covey as they lie :
 Or with nimble hound and horn,
 I mount my steed, and meet the morn !
 Unwind the hare's intricate maze ;
 Or else pursue in eager chase
 The brushing fox, or lofty deer,
 Quite transported as I hear
 The musick of the harmonious pack,

From every valley echo'd back.
 Then when evening spreads its gloom,
 Fatigu'd I seek my chearful room ;
 And there with chosen friends a few,
 The pastime of the day renew ;
 Till gentle sleep its balm bestows,
 And lulls me into soft repose.
 These delights, Sweet Autumn give,
 And I thy votary will live.

WINTER.

LO WINTER issues from his bleak abode,
 To spread his darksome mantle o'er the deep,
 To scatter wild commotion all abroad,
 From the rude caves where infant tempests sleep :

These wake to lord it o'er the sub-jac't seas ;
 The gentle streams in icy fetters bound,
 Shall soon forget to murmur to the breeze,
 Or kiss their banks so late with flow'rets crown'd.
