REVIVE TALK OF THEATRE

Story that Trans-Canada Limited will Build in Belleville Interests.

LIKE THIRICE TOLD TALE

This City Considered Good Show Town—Site for the Building Unknown.

Announcement that the Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, will erect a theatre in Belleville in the future has aroused considerable local interest. Belleville is one of the best show towns along the line and high class productions receive generous patronage.

There has been many rumors of a new theatre in Belleville every little while during the past few years, but nothing has come of it. Recently representatives of a bond house visited the city in an effort to raise $60,000 in local subscriptions to ward the erection of a modern house of amusement, at a cost of about $185,000. But the possibility of securing the subscriptions were so light the proposition was dropped and the property on which an option was taken has since been transferred into a cafe.

A Possibility Now.

Trans-Canada is a great corporation recently formed from high class productions from coast to coast. Under its direction some of the best shows seen here have played.

There was a recent report that a new theatre would likely be built here, but nothing definite could be learned of it.

It now looks likely that Belleville is in line for a new house. Where it will be located is a question. Many sites have been mentioned for the theatre the city was going to get and a few of these are available yet.

Uncover Real Clue For McFee Robbery

What may be an echo of the robbery of Angus McFee's jewellery shop last winter has just come to the attention of the police. Chief Kidd received a letter from the Buffalo, N. Y., authorities stating a man named Harry Cohen, arrested in Buffalo, has been found to have in his possession a watch with the name of "Angus McFee, Belleville, Ont.," on the dial. The watch contains seven jewels. No other information was contained in the communication.

It will be recalled that a big haul was made early one morning last winter when entrance was made to McFee's by the rear. Traces were left by the robbers, who had evidently dragged a bag filled with the loot over the floor. The local authorities worked day and night on the case and at times seemed to be on the trail of the men, but it was not long before it was felt that the men had made their escape from the city. What will come of the Buffalo clue, if such it is, must be conjectured.

Just Takes Boots; Boy Called Thief

A seven-year-old boy with a "big chap" idea of thievery, was caught yesterday by an officer on Front St. The youngster had come down town in rubbers and passing Mr. P. P. Carney's shop had his attention drawn to a pair of rubber boots. The temptation was too strong and the boy took possession of them, put his rubbers in his pocket and put on the boots. He was caught, taken home and this morning the case came before Magistrate Masson, who gave the little fellow some advice. The case seems almost a hopeless one as the boy has been in other escapades before. Just recently he was before the police.

TWO SCHOONERS LOST

The guarded grave of the "Unknown Warrior" in Westminster Abbey. The impressive scene when the guards had taken up their positions about the grave. It has just been announced that the granite at Ramsgate, the famous watering place, was the first to suggest to the authorities the happy idea of interring with fitting honors, one of the vast army of unknown dead where England's greatest men of all times are laid to rest.

HAVE UNION IN 20 PLACES

Methodists and Presbyterians of this District Co-operate in Services.

PREVENT OVERLAPPING

Kingston Presbytery in Session Here Hear Reports on Situation

The co-operation between the Methodists and Presbyterians in the districts in Kingston Presbytery where there was formerly overlapping of activities or where there were changes in which no minister was laboring, is working out well. The Rev. Mr. Byrnes, Superintendent of Missions reported to the Kingston Presbytery meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here.

The superintendent dealt at length with the progress of the scheme within the bounds of the presbytery. Co-operation between these two great bodies of the Christian church is working out in about twenty different places. In connection with the report, delegates appeared before the presbytery seeking minor readjustments and, in each case after lengthy discussion the matter was referred back to the committee.

Mr. Ramsay's Report.

The Rev. D. C. Ramsay presented the report of the General Interest Committee, showing the allocations made to each of the congregations in the presbytery for missionary contributions for 1920 and 1921.

There was considerable discussion over this. The allocation for 1920 was received but that for 1921 was referred back to the committee.

To Strike Committees.

The Belleville ministers with their elders were appointed a committee to strike the standing committees for next year.

The next meeting will be held at Queen's College, Kingston, in March. The Rev. A. J. Wilson of Napanee moderator occupied the chair.

Her husband was also seriously hurt, but doctors declared early today had some chance of recovery. The storm did a great deal of damage to property in the vicinity.

Wellington Denies Small-pox Epidemic

WELLINGTON, Dec. 15.—(Special)

As exaggerated reports are in circulation outside of Wellington with regard to the condition of smallpox and the number of cases here, it can be definitely stated that things are not anything like as bad. Children are still at school, and churches meet as usual last Sunday. No order has been issued for anything otherwise. Local storekeepers and the hotel are carrying on as usual. There are a few cases of sickness, but the work of the community is going on just as ever, and everybody is looking forward to a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

CHRISTMAS DINNERS BY CARLOAD EXPORTED BY BELLEVILLE MAN

These days are big days in the poultry trade. Up to Friday night, poultry of all kinds will be received by various produce dealers for shipment to the big centres for the Christmas trade. Ald. Geo. F. Ostrom stated this morning that he expects to send out a carload by the end of the week. Other dealers will be handling like amounts. Turkeys are more plentiful than usual and are offered freely. The local price of frozen dressed birds is 45c per pound. It is just possible that the shipments from places like Belleville will not be as large as in the past. Yesterday the price dropped two cents in Montreal. Geese are 27c, ducks 30c, chickens 20c to 25c.

GREEK KING BOARDS SHIP

Constantine and Family Reach Venice on Way Home to Athens.

SQUADRON AS ESCORT.

Why Correspondents Were Eluded When Royal Cars Were Switched.

VENICE, Dec. 15.—Former King Constantine and his family arrived here early this morning from Lucerne.

In the harbor the Greek cruiser, Averoff, and a squadron of smaller warships awaited the hour when the King would go aboard and depart for Phaleron, the port of Athens, where he is expected to arrive on Sunday.

Not having a passport, Constantine was given a special document by the Swiss government to enable him to cross the frontier into Italy.

No untoward incidents occurred to mar the departure of the royal family from Athens. Sople, heavily veiled and in deep mourning for her son, the late King Alexander, leaned on the arm of her husband, while Prince Paul escorted the Princesses Helen, Irene and Catherine, as they left the hotel which has been their home during exile. Little Princess Catherine was accompanied by her English governess.

Eluded the Correspondents.

Milan, Italy, Dec. 15.—The special cars on which former King Constantine and the Greek royal family were traveling to Milan, were detached from the regular train at the Italian frontier and attached to another train which was proceeding to Venice. As far as is known, the purpose of this was a purely precautionary measure. It was not on the announced program, and none of the passengers on the train had knowledge that the royal cars had been cut off until the train arrived in Milan.

People's Progressive Party Will Be Formed—Class Legislation Avoided.

TORONTO, Dec. 15.—Agreement now exists between the directors of the U. F. O. and members of the Drury government.

This has resulted from conferences held on Monday and Tuesday night, and the early hours of this morning. Sometimes ago a special committee was appointed to investigate certain differences of opinion held by the Farmer organization and the government.

Premier Drury was present at the meeting which was held last night but did not conclude until four o'clock this morning.

The conference was held behind closed doors but it was learned that loudly proclaimed troubles over the desire of the Premier to organize the People's Progressive Party had vanished.

It was agreed that the government must represent all classes and class legislation should be avoided. There is to be no change in the name of the party for the present, it was said.

WIFE'S DEVOTION TO DYING KING BRINGS ITS OWN RICH REWARD

Complete Reversal of Feeling in Greece Caused by Heroic Qualities Displayed by Lady of Noble but not Royal Blood Chosen by Former Monarch—Will Succeed to his Personal Estates.

ATHENS, Dec. 15.—The devotion shown by Mme. Aspasia Manos, wife of the late King Alexander of Greece to him during his fatal illness resulting from the bite of a monkey, has created so profound an impression upon the Greeks that even those who heretofore had spared no effort to separate her from the King, have today nothing but good to say about her.

For four weeks during which the King fought for life against blood poison, his wife obtained no rest except when exhaustion compelled her to take a little sleep. The ordeal she underwent was all the more trying because of her own delicate state of health.

Devotion is Rewarded.

Heretofore King Alexander's marriage had not been considered in some governmental quarters to be valid because it had been solemnized secretly and without the fulfillment of certain formalities. Since the death of the King, the government has been so moved by the devotion of his widow that it has discovered a law by virtue of which Mme. Manos is recognized as having been the King's legal wife.

This was regarded as excluding the possibility of raising difficulties in connection with her inheritance of the late King's personal estate. It is also understood that the government will lay a bill before the next Parliament for the payment of a pension to Mme. Manos.

Noble, But Not Royal.

All this has made her an interest-

RENEW WAR ON GRECIANS

Smallpox in City Well Under Control

That as far as contagious disease is concerned in Belleville there is nothing alarming, was the statement made at a meeting of the Board of Health on Tuesday afternoon. During the past few days there have been rumors afloat regarding an epidemic of smallpox but from the figures given it was shown that these were unfounded.

There were in all seventeen cases of smallpox up to yesterday in the city. Four of these are almost in a fit condition to be allowed out. Sanitary Inspector Willis this morning took charge of two new cases. This makes a total of nineteen cases. Of the seventeen cases eight are under quarantine in private houses and nine in the isolation hospital.

There are no other known cases of smallpox or other communicable diseases in the city.

Dr. H. A. Youmans, Medical Officer of Health, stated today that the cases were very mild in type and that the situation had not reached the proportions of an epidemic. There was nothing to cause alarm in local conditions of health. Within the past week the city has had but a few cases of smallpox or other communicable diseases.

GRAND JURY CANCELLED

Absence of Principal Witness Causes Delay in Local Sessions.

OTHER CASES TO WAIT.

O. A. Lounsberry Recovers $166.25 Damages as Result of Accident

The absence of Preface J. Blanchard, a young man formerly in the service of the Dominion Express Co. here from the December sessions was the cause today of the cancellation of the grand jury. Blanchard had been sent up for trial after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Masson on a charge of stealing a package containing $291.93. The property of the Dominion Express Co. The theft is alleged to have taken place at the Canadian National depot. Blanchard was brought before the judge and he asked for a trial by jury and was admitted to bail. Some time later he left the jurisdiction of the local court and went to the west.

Recently it was learned he was in Lethbridge and would be unable to be back here for trial.

The authorities are now awaiting a certificate from Lethbridge giving the details of the cause of his inability to be here. When this is received Judge Deroche will deal with the matter of adjournment of the case and the question of the bonds.

A number of cases on the civil list were laid over for trial at dates fixed.

These Were Adjourned.

Garth vs. White—This was an action by plaintiff for an injunction restraining defendant from advertising any business in the name of a high school or university. The trial was fixed for January 7th, 1921. W. Carney and A. Abbott for plaintiff; W. C. Mikel, K. C. for defendant.

Merriman vs. Mott—Plaintiff in the case brought an action for the amount of an account. Defendant denied the indebtedness and claimed the contract was not with defendant but with the Frankford Copperage Co. Trial was fixed for December 20th at 11 a.m. A. Abbott for plaintiff; W. C. Mikel, K. C., for defendant.

Smith vs. Kingston—Plaintiff claimed the amount of an account which defendant claimed was paid. Trial fixed for January 12th, 1921 at 10 a.m. Porter, Butler & Payne for plaintiff; W. C. Mikel, K.C. for defendant.

He Got Damages.

The first case tried at the sessions was the claim of O. A. Lounsberry against Aseltine & Sons for damages arising out of an accident on Meira Street, 11 September last, when the defendants' auto bus ran into the plaintiff while riding on his bicycle. The plaintiff said his loss was $166.25 and the Jury gave a verdict for that sum. Judge Deroche entered judgment for the plaintiff for the amount of the verdict and the costs. W. C. Mikel, K. C., for plaintiff; Wm. Carney for defendant.

Talk of the Town And of the Country

GEN. KING AT PICTON.

Brig-Gen. W. B. King, G.O.C., M.D., No. 3, Kingston, returned Wednesday from Picton where Tuesday he waited on the county council of Prince Edward County and asked the support of the council in the re-organization of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Gen. King pointed out everyone insures his home, and there was no reason why the county should not be insured as well. He asked that moral and practical support to the regiment be given.

The council and citizens were most sympathetic and all promised to support the regiment as far as possible.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment comprises the old 16th Regiment and the 45th Regiment.

HENS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Forty two chickens were lost by Mr. B. Windsor, 132 Perry Street, Peterboro, Tuesday night, in a fire of unknown origin, that destroyed his hen house at ten o'clock. The fire which was fanned by a north east wind, was well under way before it was first seen by Mr. Windsor. The fire started at the front of the house, and the birds were thus trapped and had to be left to a fiery fate. None escaped. The alarm was rung in from Box 15 and in a few minutes the fire was smothered out by the firemen. The hen house was of heavy timber and of considerable dimensions and was practically a total loss. It was valued at over $50 by Mr. Windsor. Thirty of the hens were thoroughbred Brown Leghorns, six were Plymouth Rocks, four were white Leghorns and one black hen, and one thoroughbred Brown Leghorn rooster, made up the casualty list.

LENGTHY ARGUMENT AS TO VALUE OF COW CATCHERS.

Quite a lengthy argument as to the relative values of cow catchers and steps on the front of freight engines engaged in road service, was heard by the Railway Commission at Ottawa Tuesday in the application of the New York Central Railway Company for a modification of the board's regulations regarding safety appliances. The company wished to use a step construction on its freight engines running into Canada instead of the pilot construction. Representatives of the railway brotherhoods, Calvin Lawrence and W. L. Best, fought against the application determinedly, the former characterizing it as the most retrograde step he had observed in forty-two years of railroading. R. Payne, manager of the Ottawa and New York branch of the N.Y.C., stated that his company was hauling coal trains hundreds of miles, on the U.S. side by means of freight engines with the step construction, but unless the modification was granted, could not haul the same trains, twenty miles in Canada. The board reserved judgment.

LAW LIBRARY PRESENTED TO COUNTY.

At the session of the Lanark County Council on Saturday, Major J. A. Hope appeared before the council at the request of Mrs. Honora Senkler and family and presented the late Judge's law library, now in the court house, to the county as a county law library in memory of him. One condition to the gift is that the current English and Canadian Law reports, which now form part of the library, be brought up to date and continued from year to year. The gift was accepted and a brass tablet will be placed in the judge's chambers at the late Judge Senkler.

APPOINTED G.E.R. DOCTOR.

At Brockville, Dr. T. F. Robertson has been appointed district medical officer of the Grand Trunk Railway and Dr. F. G. Wallbridge district medical officer of Belleville. Both vacancies were caused by death.

MET WITH PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

A horse owned by Burns Dowell, Brockville, and used in the cab business met with a peculiar accident Wednesday afternoon shortly after one o'clock. The animal was being backed out of a carriage shed adjoining the rear of the Franklin House and slipping on the icy surface of the roadway crashed through a window of the boarding house. The hind legs of the horse slipped into an opening in the ground through which ingress to the cellar of the building is made and became wedged in such a manner that it took several men and a team of horses nearly an hour to extricate it, apparently none the worse for the experience.

EMERY WHEEL BURST.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday morning Frank Timleck, 10 Halliday street, Brockville, polisher in the employ of the James Smart Mfg. Co., narrowly escaped death when an emery wheel he had adjusted and was testing burst into several pieces, one of which struck him in the abdomen, inflicting injuries which fortunately are not believed to be as serious as was first supposed. He was removed to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and an examination by Dr. W. E. Harding revealed an abrasion of the skin of the abdomen and a slight injury to the right hand. The patient is suffering considerably from shock, but no serious results are anticipated.

A STRANGE CASE.

Suffering from a strange hallucination that he had within him another person, exerting an evil influence in his life Nikola Koucher, under arrest on a charge of carrying firearms illegally, has been committed to the Ontario Hospital, Brockville. Koucher walked into the Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters at Ottawa on Sunday and informed Sergeant Syms that he wished to make a confession to the Governor-General. He had in his coat pocket at the time a loaded revolver which, he said, was for the purpose of shooting the other man within him. Koucher was examined by two physicians who both found that he was mentally deranged. He claimed to have purchased the revolver in Montreal and to have had it blessed for the purpose of destroying the person within him.

ANOTHER $1,000 GIFT.

It is announced that George Burns, Pembroke, has placed himself in the ranks of the generous contributors to the $500,000 general hospital fund at Pembroke, by a donation of $1,000. Mr. Burns by this handsome gift, as well as by the active assistance which he is personally giving to the campaign, shows that he is sincerely behind the efforts being made to liquidate the debt on the new wing.

HEAVY LIQUOR SHIPMENT.

Strongly guarded by railroad detectives, a shipment of eleven carloads of imported liquors, one of the largest ever passing through to Ontario consumers, passed through the Outer Station, Brockville, Tuesday over the Grand Trunk by fast freight train. The shipment was made direct from Scotland to the consumers.

Mr. Kennedy, who for many years was engaged in the advertising business, receiving before he launched out for himself salaries totalling $50,000 per year, will be chairman of the executive committee and managing director of the new company, the operations of which will extend throughout the United States and Canada. His friends will be pleased to learn of his continued success.

PIN LODGED IN THROAT.

Four weeks ago, in eating a mouthful of bread, Mrs. Andrew Powley, Sarnanoque, had it, as she thought, stick in her throat. After suffering for two or three days with a sore throat, she consulted a physician, who could find no obstruction. Awakened this week by a spell of coughing, she felt something in her mouth and, examining it, discovered that it was a pin which was evidently imbedded in the bread.

TO USE BOWLING GREEN FOR RINK.

It is the intention of the Oshawa Bowling Club to have an open air rink on the bowling green this winter. This was decided by the members within the past few days, and it is also their intention to lease it to any one desiring of using it for skating purposes. Whoever wishes to do so will have to take it for the entire season. The dimensions of the rink will be 126 by 130 feet which will be ample room to accommodate quite a large number.

THE AUTUMN WOODS.

Today I walk in the autumn woods
In their lovely, leafy solitude—
In their pillared, pictured galleries:
Where Mother Nature is richly dressed,
In the dainty robes she loves the best—
All precious gifts from her knightly trees.
Here God is the Master, Friend and Guide,
Where law and liberty, side by side
In beauty and order gently reign;
The whispering west wind passes by,
And the picture leaves make soft reply—
"We fall but the leaves will live again."

Oh, Autumn woods! Your glorious leaves, Give joy and strength to the soul that grieves— The soul that hammers to fly afar, Sweet hope springs up with a purpose true, Refreshed by your gracious gifts anew— And waits again for the morning star.

Beautiful Beautiful Autumn woods! Where nature, in sweetest of all her moods, Gives leaves of knowledge, to all who care To read the message which God displays, On leaves that He loves—these golden days Immortality is written there.

MEXICO'S NEW PRESIDENT

Written for The Ontario by
Chas. M. Rice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado

Peace in Mexico, freedom of communication and development of its varied resources, mean a great deal to us when business at home is sagging and things have a dubious appearance across the ocean. The inauguration of Obregon, as president promises peace, a settled condition, a firm hand at the wheel and friendship restored between the two countries. It is expected that before the year closes diplomatic relations will have been resumed and Mr. Wilson acknowledges the new Obregon administration as lawful and coming within the requirements set down by him in the Huerta year as necessary to secure recognition. Four pariers are being exchanged regarding the attitude of the Obregon administration to American investments. The American Secretary of State is requiring guarantees not contained in the present Mexican constitution.

Much of what has taken place in Mexico in the last year will make most interesting chapters in history when it is time to draw aside the curtains and reveal the truth. Perhaps the end justifies the means taken to secure that end; this, however, must be left to the future when the facts are known and the moralist can deal with them freed from prejudices. An international drive, made on Mexico following European peace in order to relieve the tension on another continent. The strategy employed was as impractical and too narrowly Mexican, and put in its place a wrong man, with plenty of power and funds behind him, and to buy off and drive off the leaders of the various rebel armies and revolutionary factions molesting and disturbing the business and safety of the country. This included a deal with Villa, the notorious bandit and assassin. By-gones were by-gones. International high finance planned and carried forward a great part of the work, beginning with an aggressive propaganda in the United States against Carranza and his methods. This involved an agreement among the oil, mining and smelting international corporations regarding exploitation of Mexican resources. Despite the American citizen's instinct against foreign alliances, as exemplified by his vote, the American financier and business man have no scruples about international deals that would make investments safe. The new Mexican executive and most of those surrounding him are in sympathy with American ways. English will be familiar and readily spoken in the palace. Men in high places received their education on this side the line or in England. American, British and French capital is expected to expand Mexican production in copper, silver and oil on a guarantee that it will be given governmental protection. A Diaz policy is expected from the new Mexican administration, which will invite foreign capital to the country for mutual benefit. That Obregon will have things all his way at the outset is not to be expected in a country so long given over to civil war and rebellions and the rule of force. The opposition at first may be purely of a political nature, challenging Obregon as Diaz was challenged most of his rule, as the exploiter of Mexico by the aid of foreign capital and foreign adventurers. Later arms will be resorted to in the usual Mexican fashion. A reaction is bound to set in and then the anti-foreign policies proclaimed and upheld by Carranza until his untimely taking off, will be contrasted with the new line of least resistance adopted by the Obregon party.

Golden Sunshine in California

Dr. Helms' Address on Europe—
Prosecution of Christian Scientists

During the month of November we have had about two hours of rain, and as many of fog. The days have been bright and sunny.

Rev. Helms stood in the room where Edith Cavell was shot. Just before the execution, she was requested to write anything she desired. She wrote but one line: "Patriotism is not all." He touched her cap and dress, and read many of her letters in London, where they are preserved. Upon the same morning, forty-one civilians of the city were brought in to be shot. A company of German soldiers was given quarters in a little carrier pigeon. The soldiers drew lots for the firing party. The order was given to cut all down one side. Yet above the wounded lay was the little case containing the message, telling where the battalion was, and in now in Savannah, wearing a Military Medal.

In Italy, he met the Secretary of the Italian Minister, Orlando. In conversation, pointing to the mountains covered with ice and snow, he said: "I spent two years up there. I saw hundreds of thousands with their hands and feet frozen. The only food we had was black bread hard as a stone. We had no fire only obtained water by licking the ice. Hundreds of men could be seen with their swollen tongues protruding from their mouths, caused by licking the ice. Twenty-two thousand orphans, whose fathers had been killed in the war, are being fed and supported by an American society in France. He saw a shoe, the upper part of which had been cut away and something placed in it which looked like the bone of the heel. This was a shell, which was connected with a fuse. If you took up or moved the shoe, the shell would explode—a piece of German deviltry. The state of Germany and Austria is terrible to contemplate. People are leaving the churches. Vast numbers of men who were rich before the war are now miserably poor. Gutters are being searched for any scrap of food, many dying from starvation. "It is nobody's world, all is in disorder." It is now revealed that German intrigue caused the assassination of the Czar and his family. When the treaty of Brest-Litovsk was formulated, the effect of which would have handed over twenty millions of Russians and a vast portion of the country to Germany, the Czar refused to sign. From that moment the Germans plotted his death. It is painful to read—as I have read—several accounts of the manner in which the Czar and his family, including his beautiful daughters and young son, were assassinated. They were removed from one place to another, until finally they were kept in a couple of rooms, deprived of everything. Soldiers were stationed at their doors and the common necessities of life were refused. Finally they were ordered, in the dead of night, to get up and go into a lower room. Soldiers were brought in and the entire family shot. Their bodies were carried away and thrown into the shaft of an abandoned mine and drugs and vitriol thrown upon them to destroy their bodies. This was the end of the great White Czar, the ruler over four hundred and eighty millions, with fifty palaces—the object of worship by the largest country in the world. Among all the crimes committed by Germany, surely none can be greater than the assassination of this entire family. It must be remembered that the Kaiser and Czar were closely connected. We all remember the "Whistle and Nettle correspondence" before the war.

There are eleven Christian Scientist churches here. The most costly church in the city is the Christian Science church. The State Attorney, Wooluene, is about prosecuting fathers of families of Christian Scientists for neglecting to have medical advice and attendance upon their children when ill. He declares that many children die because the parents will not call in physicians for treatment. It is not necessary to have physicians, say the Scientists. It is mortal mind that imagines disease exists; the fact is, there is no disease. I cannot see that the authorities can interfere. One may not believe in Mrs. Eddy, or in Christian Science, any more than Mark Twain did, when he wrote his celebrated work against Christian Science; yet, if people entertain the belief, how can the public control family life so as to force the head of the family to call in a seer? Over eight millions have within a few weeks been stolen from railway cars by masked burglars. Many private houses have also been entered. The police force does not seem to be able to cope with crime. Chicago has been the greatest sufferer. Today is charming—bright and sunny.

U. S. Ocean Going Tonnage Inc

U. S. Expects to Have as Going Tonnage as Other Countries Combined Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—Completion of the government building program by 1922, States probably will have ocean going tonnage as other countries combined, with that of Great Britain, Chairman of the Shipping Board in his annual report made today.

At the end of the last year, the government owned ships, government owned ships, 3,404, 312 deadweight tons, more than 2,900,000 tons on the Great Lakes. The government owned ships Benson said, contemplated sales of 13,675,711 deadweight tons at the end of the last year, 2,970 ships aggregating deadweight tons, had been.

During the year 1,180 ships of 6,379,823 deadweight were delivered, exceeding other aids to rapid production Benson said.

The shipyard workers of the States has developed a new industry which has raised the price of the various crafts to a level and production has kept pace. Admiral Benson's industry has expanded 50 per cent to a force of 38,000 available to the private shipyard.

The credit for the accomplishment of the aims of the Emergency Corporation, is therefore due to men who have surpassed all other performances in the shipping world," he said.

American vessels are now in 239 separate services, foreign 44.3 per cent of the foreign commerce last year, compared with 3.7 per cent in 1914, the report said.

The government fleet in June 30 consisted of 1,294 ships, including 692 tonnage, including 102 tonnage in the Trans-Pacific service, 163 vessels and in the American, 138.

Forty-one direct service lines established to South America from nine ports of the Atlantic coast, four on the Gulf on the Pacific coast, the regular European organization Shipping Board in London, established in June, 1919. Pre-creation board vessels in the ports had been attended on the agents of the managing company, whom "either inefficiency, indifference or disallowed American ships to handle and subjected to exorbitant charges."

The new organization, the control over movements, cargoes, bunkers, supplies and similar matters, the report said, has reduced the average amount of board vessels for days for Great Britain and for the Continent in September to 19.3 days for Great Britain, 11.3 days for the Continent, 1920. Costs also have been reduced, Chairman added.

The board "sold during 426 ships for a total of $2,584, including 131 new steel vessels, 34 new wooden ships, former German cargo ships. Discussing the wooden fleet, man Benson said the maximum tonnage in operation was 240,000 tons in June there were work.

Demand for tanker tonnage increased during the year. The man declared the board's shipping constant service, chiefly Mexican and American Gulf and North Atlantic ports and can all stations at St. Thomas, Brest and Bizerta. Pacific the lines run between Francisco and American ports at Honolulu, Manila, Shanghai. Government tankers carried 3,641,362 tons of oil in the year.

Nearly all seized German craft have been sold or given with option to purchase, while 11 of the German passenger ships have been disposed of during the year. No disposition has been made, however, of the one vessel, the Martha-Washington.

The Chairman urged that claims of other than enemy vessels, the seized vessels, against the delay in the peace treaty

W. H. MORTON, Business Manager. J. G. HERTY, Editor-in-Chief.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1920.

HOW BELLEVILLE TAXPAYERS MAY SAVE MONEY.

The plain, practical address by ex-Mayor Carter, of Guelph, at our City Hall last Wednesday night was one of the most convincing arguments that could be presented in behalf of conducting city government on business principles. There were no oratorical flourishes but just a straightforward, commonsense talk by a man who thoroughly understood every phase of his subject.

A good mechanic can produce only the most indifferent results if he has a defective machine to work with. On the other hand, an incompetent mechanic cannot produce satisfactory results with the best machine in the world. But give a good mechanic a good machine and you have the happy combination that gives all-round satisfaction and economical production.

City Management has been proved by the most varied experience to be the best method yet devised for urban administration. But to secure the best results from it a good manager must be secured. Such men are not easy to find.

According to Mr. Carter, the first requisite in a good manager is tact and diplomacy in dealing with the general public as well as with his employers and those who are to work under his direction. The second great requisite is capacity for business organization and administration. In brief, he must be a high class business man with a superabundance of horse-sense. Technical training, as for instance in engineering, he did not regard as at all essential. A good, intelligent business-man would acquire a sufficient working knowledge, in a short time, of gas-making, pavement and sewer construction, waterworks planning and so on to answer all necessary purposes.

The salary paid varies with local conditions. At Guelph they were paying Mr. Moore $3,500 per annum but were to raise him to $5,000 at the beginning of 1921. He was a high type of manager and his premature death through an unfortunate shooting accident was indeed a great civic loss.

The Ontario has a list of the salaries paid in practically all towns and cities where City Management is in effect. Some of the smaller towns secure managers for $1,000 a year or even less, while Akron, Ohio, with 208,000 population pays $10,000. Norfolk, Virginia, is the highest on the list with a manager's salary of $12,000. In cities the size of Belleville, the salaries range from $2,000 to $5,000. The average is about $3,000.

In actual practice, in over 200 towns and cities in Canada and the United States, it has commended itself to the public in a most emphatic manner. The people are satisfied because they see economy instead of waste, co-ordination instead of overlapping, effectiveness instead of botchery, and a wholesome public spirit and harmonious civic patriotism instead of the general dissatisfaction, fault-finding and grumpiness produced by the old and discredited system.

City Management is not a plan to add another expensive official to an organization that many believe to be already over-named. It is a plan to save money and produce results.

Westmount, a city adjacent to Montreal, and one of the cleanest and best governed cities in America, has had the City Manager plan in effect since 1913. Mr. G. W. Thompson, a Belleville boy, has been manager ever since the movement was inaugurated.

Woodstock, New Brunswick, adopted City Management in June 1919. After a year and a half under the new regime, The Sentinel has this to say—

When all is said and done most of our local troubles arise from the system. The manager plan offers a new, and in Woodstock, a tried system which has passed the experimental stage and has proven its worth in actual operation.

It is one instance of where theory has held out in practice. The manager plan robs no citizen of any of his political rights and in the final analysis the power rests just where it does today—with the people.

But it does offer the people the opportunity to have their desires on government put into effect by trained and efficient officials to whom running the business of a city or town, is just as much a profession as is surgery to the surgeon and law to the lawyer.

To those towns that are considering a change in the town government The Sentinel is confident that serious thought and approbation of the manager plan will go hand in hand. Woodstock can assuredly boast of a system in conducting municipal affairs that is a panacea for the many defects that previously existed.

And so it is all the way around. Satisfaction and hundred-per-cent efficiency succeed slovenliness and extravagance.

Mr. Mikel, in a letter to the press on Saturday, suggested that it made little difference what system of city government we had as long as we had good men to conduct it. As well might Mr. Mikel say that it would make no difference to the Marsh Engineering Works what kind of lathes they used, or how those lathes were placed or what condition the lathes were in, as long as they had good mechanics to operate them.

A good mechanic can produce only the most indifferent results if he has a defective machine to work with. On the other hand, an incompetent mechanic cannot produce satisfactory results with the best machine in the world. But give a good mechanic a good machine and you have the happy combination that gives all-round satisfaction and economical production.

To those towns that are considering a change in the town government The Sentinel is confident that serious thought and approbation of the manager plan will go hand in hand. Woodstock can assuredly boast of a system in conducting municipal affairs that is a panacea for the many defects that previously existed.

And so it is all the way around. Satisfaction and hundred-per-cent efficiency succeed slovenliness and extravagance.

Mr. Mikel, in a letter to the press on Saturday, suggested that it made little difference what system of city government we had as long as we had good men to conduct it. As well might Mr. Mikel say that it would make no difference to the Marsh Engineering Works what kind of lathes they used, or how those lathes were placed or what condition the lathes were in, as long as they had good mechanics to operate them.

A good mechanic can produce only the most indifferent results if he has a defective machine to work with. On the other hand, an incompetent mechanic cannot produce satisfactory results with the best machine in the world. But give a good mechanic a good machine and you have the happy combination that gives all-round satisfaction and economical production.

City Management has been proved by the most varied experience to be the best method yet devised for urban administration. But to secure the best results from it a good manager must be secured. Such men are not easy to find.

According to Mr. Carter, the first requisite in a good manager is tact and diplomacy in dealing with the general public as well as with his employers and those who are to work under his direction. The second great requisite is capacity for business organization and administration. In brief, he must be a high class business man with a superabundance of horse-sense. Technical training, as for instance in engineering, he did not regard as at all essential. A good, intelligent business-man would acquire a sufficient working knowledge, in a short time, of gas-making, pavement and sewer construction, waterworks planning and so on to answer all necessary purposes.

The salary paid varies with local conditions. At Guelph they were paying Mr. Moore $3,500 per annum but were to raise him to $5,000 at the beginning of 1921. He was a high type of manager and his premature death through an unfortunate shooting accident was indeed a great civic loss.

The Ontario has a list of the salaries paid in practically all towns and cities where City Management is in effect. Some of the smaller towns secure managers for $1,000 a year or even less, while Akron, Ohio, with 208,000 population pays $10,000. Norfolk, Virginia, is the highest on the list with a manager's salary of $12,000. In cities the size of Belleville, the salaries range from $2,000 to $5,000. The average is about $3,000.

In actual practice, in over 200 towns and cities in Canada and the United States, it has commended itself to the public in a most emphatic manner. The people are satisfied because they see economy instead of waste, co-ordination instead of overlapping, effectiveness instead of botchery, and a wholesome public spirit and harmonious civic patriotism instead of the general dissatisfaction, fault-finding and grumpiness produced by the old and discredited system.

City Management is not a plan to add another expensive official to an organization that many believe to be already over-named. It is a plan to save money and produce results.

Westmount, a city adjacent to Montreal, and one of the cleanest and best governed cities in America, has had the City Manager plan in effect since 1913. Mr. G. W. Thompson, a Belleville boy, has been manager ever since the movement was inaugurated.

Woodstock, New Brunswick, adopted City Management in June 1919. After a year and a half under the new regime, The Sentinel has this to say—

When all is said and done most of our local troubles arise from the system. The manager plan offers a new, and in Woodstock, a tried system which has passed the experimental stage and has proven its worth in actual operation.

It is one instance of where theory has held out in practice. The manager plan robs no citizen of any of his political rights and in the final analysis the power rests just where it does today—with the people.

But it does offer the people the opportunity to have their desires on government put into effect by trained and efficient officials to whom running the business of a city or town, is just as much a profession as is surgery to the surgeon and law to the lawyer.

To those towns that are considering a change in the town government The Sentinel is confident that serious thought and approbation of the manager plan will go hand in hand. Woodstock can assuredly boast of a system in conducting municipal affairs that is a panacea for the many defects that previously existed.

to them by its mother. It was a dirty neglected abject and the child was more like an animal than a human being. It was brought to the shelter and after some months developed into a beautiful child and now is the darling daughter of a leading lawyer in Toronto.

A year last fall a child was left in a country railway station, and if the agent had not heard it cry and investigated it would have been there all night as the last train had gone from the station and they were locking up for the night. It was brought to the shelter and is now adopted in a fine good home.

Will you help us to go on in this good work? Donations can be sent to our Treasurer, H. F. Ketcheson, 30 Bridge Street, or the Office, 28 Cedar Street. All donations will be acknowledged through the press. Please make all cheques and money orders payable to the Treasurer.

NOTICE! Mr

Tribute to Late Ex-Warden D. Hanley

Hastings County Council Passes Resolution of Condolence to Mrs. Hanley.

Tribute to the memory of the late ex-Warden Dennis Hanley was paid by Hastings County Council on Friday afternoon at the closing session. For years Mr. Hanley had been a member of the county council, where his business-like qualities, his diplomacy, his sense of fair play and his gentleness made him beloved by all who knew him.

Mr. J. H. Clark in moving a resolution of condolence to the friends declared that the news of the death of ex-Warden Hanley had been heard with deep regret. "I knew him as a man," said Mr. Clark. "He was held in the highest esteem, a man of sterling qualities, honest, honorable and fair." I take this opportunity of paying this tribute to the memory of the man that is gone. He was, I believe, born and reared in Tyendinaga, made his home there, was honored by the residents of the municipality who elected him reeve for years and the county council honored him with various offices and finally gave him the wardenship—the highest gift in the county.

Dr. Embury, of Bancroft, stated: "It comes to me as a great shock to hear of the death of Mr. Hanley. I had not heard it before. When I first saw the notice in the county paper he was warden. We always found him a kind and courteous gentleman."

Reeve Walsh, of Tyendinaga, declared that it had been his privilege to know Mr. Hanley very intimately. He was always upright and honest, worked hard for his community and for the county. He was a true British subject, beloved by all who knew him and respected for so many years.

The resolution which was moved by Mr. J. H. Clark, and seconded by Mr. Thos. Naylor was carried by a standing vote:

"Be it resolved that whereas the County Council has learned with much regret of the death of Mr. Dennis Hanley, former reeve of Tyendinaga township and warden of the county and that we, as a council, wish to extend our sincere heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Hanley, the family and all the friends and would ask the clerk of the county to forward a copy of this resolution to Mrs. Hanley."

Men who have served in the municipal life of the county recall the noble qualities of Mr. Hanley. He was always interested in the county's welfare. He came up as deputy reeve of Tyendinaga about 27 years ago when the council was composed of thirty-nine members. He was one of the fourteen county councillors when the county was divided into districts and represented District No. 7. From 1906 to 1912 he was reeve under the present system.

From those who were privileged to come into contact with the late ex-warden, have come expressions of sorrow at his decease.

A member of the Roman Catholic faith, he was beloved by members of all communions for his sense of toleration.

The Ontario joins in extending sympathy to the bereaved friends and relatives in their great loss.

The Making of A Newspaper

Editor Davie's Address to the Rotary Club.

Every week some branch of industry is discussed at the Rotary meetings. Interesting features and problems of that particular industry being explained by the Rotarian representing that classification. This week it was Newspaper Work, and the editor of The Intelligencer gave a general talk upon newspaper work together with personal recollections of Cobalt mining boom days, and some thumbnail sketches of Rotarians around the table, also illustrating the modern feature story by a special edition of the Rotary Wheel published semi-occasionally. The talk in part was as follows:

Condensation.

The keynote of modern newspaper writing is condensation, covering as many topics as possible in the smallest possible space, consequently the blue pencil nowadays is more important than the scissors were formerly in newspaper work. The high price of paper is also a strong factor in keeping articles at reasonable length.

News Gathering.

The presentation of news from every part of the globe, morning and evening is now taken so much as a matter of course that little thought is given by the reader to the vast organization necessary to gather this news and distribute it to the thousands of daily papers printed in many languages, involving an enormous amount of work in translating, condensing, telegraph and editing.

There are the local correspondents in every village, town and city, daily sending in their budgets of local happenings out of the ordinary to the various news associations, and the preparing and relaying of this news in proportion to its importance to every section of the globe.

In Canada we have the Canadian Press, Limited, which is an association of all the daily newspapers of Canada, exchanging important news by wire and through the general expenses, while news collecting and distributing organizations are maintained in all principal cities. This association is also assisted by an annual subsidy from the Dominion Government to maintain special news wires linking up the various provinces. The Canadian Press Limited exchanges news with the Associated Press service, which covers the earth and has connection with European agencies such as Reuters, Havas, Standard, etc.

Killed by Science.

It is not necessary to dwell upon the influence of newspapers in community and national life. One phase of newspaper influence of rather modern origin may be of interest. Many men in public life have been attacked so vigorously by the press that a certain amount of sympathy has been created in the public mind which neutralized to a great extent the influence of the press; but the most deadly form of attack is for the press to ignore him entirely. This has been done very effectively in several notable cases, but the experiment was fully justified and only used upon persons who were destructive rather than constructive and dangerous to the best interests of the community and nation.

Misreported.

Complaints are sometimes heard of public men being misreported. There may be some truth in some of these complaints, but many men who speak in public do not always say what they mean, or say it in such a way that it is capable of misconstruction, not intentionally, of course. Then, too, the haste with which daily papers are put together in conducive to error. Up-to-date public men, however, eliminate the chance of error by handing a synopsis of their addresses in advance to the press.

Obituaries.

Obituaries are prepared in advance of prominent people who are expected to shuffle off this mortal coil in the near future with instructions to hold until notified of the death of the party concerned. Occasionally a man's obituary is printed before he dies, as in the case of Mark Twain, who was able to inform the press that the article chronicling his demise was "grossly exaggerated."

Propaganda.

Then there is the development of what is generally known as propaganda, every newspaper being deluged with specially prepared articles seeking free publicity for all manner of projects, some of which may be for the general good, but most of them sectional and personal. However, the editorial wastepaper basket is large and waste paper is worth money.

Editor Davie closed with sketches of Belleville Rotarians.

Missions Among the Indians

Mr. H. K. Denyes, M.P.P., Speaks at Bridge St. League.

The young people of Bridge Street Church were treated to an exceptionally fine address last evening by Mr. H. K. Denyes, M.P.P. for East Hastings. Mr. Denyes spoke on the missionary work among the Indians of Northern Manitoba. He took his hearers on a journey from Winnipeg to Norway House on the most northern part of Lake Winnipeg. He told many instances of self sacrifice on the part of the missionaries laboring in that section of the country. Mr. Denyes' son is a missionary stationed at Norway House.

Obituary

C. A. McWILLIAMS

After an illness extending over several months Charles Alfred McWilliams passed away on Wednesday evening. About a year or so ago he underwent an operation for appendicitis from which he appeared to recover rapidly, but some months ago his health began to fail and in spite of everything that could be done he gradually became worse until he was confined to his bed. His whole system seemed to be poisoned and he has wasted away until he was only a semblance of his former self.

The late C. A. McWilliams was a life long resident of Marmora, his father being the late Gordon McWilliams. As a result of his activities in business and sport he was very widely known and had many friends. In the days when lacrosse reigned supreme he was a member of Marmora's champion team. He also helped promote football, baseball, hockey and other athletic sports in the village at various times.

For years deceased carried on a tailoring business in the village. Following that he entered into partnership with the late Wellington McWilliams in the livery business. In recent years he has been in the automobile and garage business as partner of M. J. Maloney.

Deceased leaves a widow (formerly Miss Susan Sullivan) and two sons, Gordon and Alfred. He is also survived by five sisters and three brothers. They are Mrs. Clarke and Miss Minnie McWilliams, of Havelock; Misses Florence and Stella, of Toronto; Miss Edith, of Marmora; George, of Weyburn, Sask; Arthur, of Toronto, and Harold, of town.

The funeral took place at 10 a.m. on Saturday, service being conducted in the Church of the Sacred Heart after which the remains will be interred in the R.C. cemetery—Marmora Herald.

MRS. J. C. BOWEN

Shortly after noon on Wednesday, December 8th, Margaret Elisabeth McLaren, beloved wife of J. C. Bowen, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. R. Pearce. She had been in poor health for considerable time, and recently no longer was entertained for her recovery. For several years she had also suffered from defective eyesight and as a result went out very little. Previous to that she took an active interest in church and charitable work and had a large circle of friends throughout this part of the county. Her wide sympathy and cheerful and kindly disposition endeared her to those who knew her best. She was a devoted member of the Anglican church.

The late Mrs. Bowen was born in Belleville, and lived practically all her life in Hastings county. For many years she had been a resident of Marmora, and with her husband had lived with their daughter in recent years. Besides her husband she leaves two sons and one daughter. They are W. Fraser Bowen, of Toronto, McLaren, of Lewiston Idaho, and Mrs. H. R. Pearce, of town.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon service being conducted at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. H. R. Pearce. Interment will take place in Marmora cemetery—Marmora Herald.

Find Cure for Foot and Mouth Disease

PARIS, Dec. 13.—Foot and mouth disease, the greatest dread of stock raisers throughout the world, is not only curable, but can be cured easily in four days, according to a sensational announcement made before the Paris Society of Biology by Dr. Andre Cepede.

Dr. Cepede reported that he had discovered a serum which had an almost instantaneous effect. Fourteen cows on one farm, already far gone with the disease, were cured easily in from four days to a week, while other cows on the same farm which had not yet caught the disease were inoculated with the serum and remained immune.

MAYOR ENTERTAINS ALDERMEN

Reception in Honor of Bride

A private and enjoyable reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCaskie, of Bridge St. East in honour of their daughter, Edna May's marriage to Thomas D. Dadds, Jr., of Toronto.

A large gathering assembled and after music and refreshments were served the guests retired to the apartment of Mrs. J. Taylor where a very merry impromptu dance took place. Towards early morning the party broke up and it was felt that all had enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent and that it will be a night to be remembered with pleasure.

Many very dainty dresses were to be seen. The bride was dressed in a beautiful black charmeuse satin dress and wore an exquisite corsage bouquet of roses and carnations.

Many were the fine gifts which were showered upon the happy couple and included among them were a very fine hand-painted alphon China vase, a silver tea service and a hand painted portable library lamp and many others too numerous to mention. The names of some of the guests present were: Miss Jean McIntosh, Miss Jean Hitchon, Mrs. Allan Hitchon, Mrs. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Sinclair, Miss Norma McCaskie, of Trenton, the bride's cousin, also Miss Mary Ferguson, Miss Verna Telford, Miss Stella O'Rourke, Miss Bessie Sayer, Miss Nora Ryan, Miss Evelyn Anderson, Miss Elura Anderson, Miss Peggy Green and amongst the gentlemen were: Messrs. George McIntosh, Allan Meagher, Donald Morton, William Hinds, William Anderson, Clayton McWilliams, Francis Hart, Kenneth Wensley, Winston Luffman, Everett MacDonald and Elmore Chester.

Skaters Had a Narrow Escape

LINDSAY, Dec. 13.—Two young men named Roach and Davis had a narrow escape from drowning while skating on the Scugog Sunday afternoon. When near the footbridge across the river at the foot of B. D. street, the ice gave way under Roach. Davis, who was in the rear could not check his speed in time to avoid the treacherous ice surface and he, too, broke through. Their shouts attracted a number of young men who at once went to their aid. Roach was rescued with the aid of a limb of a tree, but it took five men with a ladder to get Davis out. Both were taken to the residence of Mr. Hillsbrand, where they received every attention. They are not much the worse as a result of their cold dip.

Skaters Had a Narrow Escape

It has been his privilege to occupy the warden's chair during the important period of reconstruction, (which will mean so much to the future of our country) but such responsibility will be met with singular courage and every duty discharged with rare ability.

The general interest ever exerted by the warden among his fellow councillors has created a bond of friendship that will continue through future years and the members of this council join unanimously in wishing for his honor many years to assist by his experience and ability the welfare of the county and enjoy the good things of life he merits."

Messrs. Wright, Airhart, Reid, Vandewater, Kollins and others expressed their appreciation of the warden's services. Mr. Sills then took the chair and made reply.

DECEMBER SESSIONS OPEN

There were no criminal cases for trial at the December sessions which opened this afternoon before His Honor Judge Deroche. One criminal case was to have been tried but the absence of the accused caused the enlargement of the case. A number of civil cases are entered for trial.

New Legal Firm For Belleville

A new legal firm has been organized and has opened an office in Belleville.

The members of the firm are Mr. A. Bernard Collins and Mr. Arch. Cochrane. Both are already well and favorably known in Belleville and throughout the County of Hastings.

Mr. Collins is a Hastings county boy and has been practicing law in Tweed for the past ten years. During those years he has firmly established himself in legal circles of the district and acquired a large general practice. He has been solicitor for a number of the surrounding municipalities, specializing in municipal law in which he has had an extensive first-hand experience. He has also been solicitor for Tweed's two banks namely the Bank of Montreal and The Royal Bank of Canada, for most of its important business interests.

He has also been associated with many movements for the well-being of the community, notably the Tweed Board of Trade, of which he was organizer and afterwards secretary.

Mr. Cochrane is well known at Belleville, having spent his student days in this city. He is a son of Mr. Wm. Cochrane, of Orillia and formerly bursar of the Ontario School for the Deaf. He first began practice at Toronto and remained there until the call came to go overseas where he made for himself an honorable record, having been twice wounded. He returned to Canada in May 1919 and entered into partnership with Mr. Collins.

He organized at Tweed a branch of the G.W.V.A. He has also been a strong promoter of athletic sport, having served as secretary of the Tweed baseball club and having been a booster for the Tweed Athletic Association.

The firm's Belleville office will be located over the Union Bank in the rooms formerly occupied by Messrs. Clute and Morden. Mr. Collins will be in charge of the Belleville office. He has purchased a home on George Street from the estate of the late Dr. J. S. Sprague, where he will take up his residence.

The Tweed office will be in charge of Mr. Cochrane. As the firm already has so excellent a connection, there is no doubt that it will rapidly develop a very extended practice.

Lauds Work of Warden Sills

County Council United in Expression of Appreciation.

Hastings County Council at its closing meeting for the year paid honor to Warden Sills who has presided over the county's destinies since January last. He was asked to vacate the chair and Mr. C. S. Rollins took his place. The following resolution was carried unanimously on motion of Mr. S. B. Wright and Mr. C. S. Rollins:

"Be it resolved that we, the members of the county council, desire to extend to his honor, the warden, our feelings of personal regard and recognition of his faithful services to the county during his term of office for 1920.

"All matters pertaining to the interest and progress of the county have been met with strict attention to detail by the warden, while his affable and generous personality surmounted many difficulties and preserved the harmony of the council."

"It has been his privilege to occupy the warden's chair during the important period of reconstruction, (which will mean so much to the future of our country) but such responsibility will be met with singular courage and every duty discharged with rare ability."

The general interest ever exerted by the warden among his fellow councillors has created a bond of friendship that will continue through future years and the members of this council join unanimously in wishing for his honor many years to assist by his experience and ability the welfare of the county and enjoy the good things of life he merits."

Messrs. Wright, Airhart, Reid, Vandewater, Kollins and others expressed their appreciation of the warden's services. Mr. Sills then took the chair and made reply.

EARLE & COOK CO.

WELLINGTON

Mr. Charles Peterson, of Bowerman's Church, paid a visit to the Friends Sunday School, as he is superintendent for the Hillier Township Sunday School. In an earnest address delivered to the school Mr. Peterson referred to a modern Sunday School chart he put up before his audience. In reference to the Kingdom of God, we are now studying, this must begin here and now when we accept Jesus as King.

The Sunday School should aim at the beginning with the Cradle Roll. This is the hope of the church, and the Hope of the Nation. Then the home department cannot be separated from the cradle roll. We need more bible reading in the home. Reference was also made to organized classes and teachers training classes, and graded instruction, but a lot depended on local conditions with regard to these. It was important to give missionary and temperance instruction in our Sunday Schools.

Mr. Peterson then took an extract from Tarbell's Teachers Guide, to the effect that there are 1,500,000,000 people inhabiting this earth of ours. Only 500,000,000, or one-third, are even classified as christians. Of that third, I doubt whether on any given Sunday, there are 100,000,000 which would be a fifth, attend Divine Worship or Sunday School. Of those who do attend, I would ask how many have made it a practice in the previous week to pray and study the Bible? Would it be one in four? This proportion would reduce the number of instructed and devotional Christians to 25,000,000 or one in sixty of the human race. The harvest is still plentiful while the laborers are still few.

In three Friends meeting that followed James Wild spoke on the words of the Master in Matthew 14: 18, "Give Ye them to eat." His address was on the famine conditions of Central Europe as the result of war conditions that still prevail. He said that as a result of an appeal he made at Wooler last week end he had been able to send a cheque for $42 to the China Famine Fund, and he wanted to send as much, or more, to feed the sufferers in war-stricken Europe.

As he thought of how Jesus Christ had compassion on the hungry people of old, he asked where would Christ be found today? He would be earth in the flesh? He would be, no doubt, feeding the hungry in Europe and in China. But as Christ is no longer with us in the flesh, we may be thankful that He has His followers on earth who are doing the work of their Lord and Master. Herbert Hooyer, who is a member of the Society of Friends, is the great world Food Controller, and now he is head of a great organization called the American Relief Administration, which includes the American Red Cross, the Friends Service Committee, the Jewish Joint Distributing Committee, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A., and the Y. W. C. A., and the Federal Councils in America. These have all united in issuing a joint appeal to the public for the European Children's Relief, beginning December 18 and continuing as long as necessary, to secure $33,000,000. There are 3,500,000 children who are dependent on this effort on their behalf. These can be saved only by the food and supplies which America and Canada can send. In response to what we do in this important work Christ will say: "Ye did it unto Me."

James Wild said, when he thought of the terribly painful conditions in Central Europe and in North China, and then thought of how God had abundantly blessed Canada, the land of peace and plenty, the crops being so plentiful this season that it was impossible with all the help available to gather it. "What shall we eat? Shall we have strawberries today or shall we have raspberries? Shall we have this or shall we have that for dinner or supper? Surely we should think at this time of those who had no such choice as to what they should eat, but would be glad for some of the food that has been wasted in this prosperous land. If it takes $3.00 a month to feed a child in Central Europe, the least any of us should give is that amount.

He was preparing their minds for the special collection they were to have on Sunday morning, December 25th.

ALL THE WORLD

(Written Especially for The Ontario by "Goodwill")

The Fighting Instinct.

"We must make haste to discover a moral equivalent to war and dedicate the sacrificial heroism of the soldier to a worthier cause. The fighting instinct is not an evil thing and it cannot be simply eradicated. It needs a truer expression and ought to be enlisted for the spiritual crusade against those forces of evil who are threatening humanity."

I would like to add to these words of Dr. Orchard some fine words of the martyr, Nurse Cavell. Humanly speaking, if anyone had cause for hating our enemies in this war, it was this noble woman, but she had so absorbed the spirit of her Divine Master, that she could say near the end, "I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness towards anyone."

The Strength of Love.

The world will learn in time that love is stronger than hate, and that love is higher than national walls and deeper than any creed. Wherever human needs are met by willing hands there love is, there God is for, God is love.

A Secretary of Peace.

Some one said just recently that it would be a good idea to have a secretary of peace in our national cabinets, whose business it would be to just sow the seeds of peace in all countries. We soon would not need a secretary of war. And think of the money and lives and heart-aches we would save. This may only be as yet a vision. But the Old Book says: "Where there is no vision, the people perish." So mark such visions as these.

Waging Peace Atrociously?

Dean Inge, the Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, has been appealing at the church congress for a change in our policy towards Germany. He has no doubt that the German Government deliberately precipitated the war, nor does he think that the impartial verdict of history will acquit our late enemies of "waging war atrociously." But, he added, "they think that we are waging peace atrociously, and I am terribly afraid that they are right."

The question that the Germans would have done had they been should be irrelevant to the Christian. And as Dean Inge said: "The standard of retribution for the future will be set, not by what the losers would have liked to do, but by what the winners actually do, and no such severity has ever been exercised before at the end of a war between civilized nations."

Humanity's Hope is God's Kingdom

Only Road to Better Times is Spiritual One, Says Dr. Blagrave.

In the course of a sermon Sunday morning in St. Mark's Church, Parkdale, Toronto, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, the Vicar, pointed out that there has always been in the consciousness of the race a firm anticipation of an ideal life, an undying hope of a better time coming. Plato expressed it for the Pagan world, and it was the golden thread that ran through the message of patriarchs and prophets. This hope of a better time was more impressive and unusual now than ever before, but it looked for fulfillment here and now. In social improvement and a more equitable distribution of this world's wealth and advantages.

The method by which this end was to be obtained was by constructive laws and regulations on the one hand, or by social evolution on the other.

The Divine Discontent.

This consuming hope of a better time and better conditions herein society was not wholly dead. It was indeed the prompting of the Divine impulse. It was quite compatible in motive with the aim of the Christian world.

The advent message, said Dr. Blagrave, was to prepare the way of the Lord. Such preparation involved the progressive reign of righteousness which meant equity, justice and mercy. The Christian way of securing a better world here was by preparing for the coming of Him, whose reign is rendered impossible by selfishness and sin. It was only by abolishing those things which make the world what it ought not to be life; it will drive Germany into an alliance with the militarist Government of Russia. We need not think of further vengeance on the warlords; they have suffered the worst. The League of Nations has a difficult task, but the alternative is a mutual suicide club. We must bear one another's burdens morally, as well as physically.

A Bridge of Friendship.

On the back of each food car distributed in the famine stricken area of Central Europe by the Friends Service Committee is "A greeting of friendship from America sent through the religious society of Friends (Quakers) who for 250 years and even during the great war just ended have stood for the principle that only a readiness to serve and love, and not war and violence can bring peace and happiness to mankind."

Thousands of letters of appreciation come in to the office. These are answered by the following note, (for adults): "We thank you very much for your friendly letter. We are extraordinary glad for the opportunity to be able to help German children and mothers and we are glad to work with all who now desire to build a bridge of friendship between the countries." For children: "We thank you very much for your greeting and rejoice with you if the food tastes good to you. Will you, some day, when you are big, remember agreeably the days when American Children and their parents shared with you from their own provisions and sent it over to you, in order to help you?"

Professors at Oxford Crossing the Bridge of Friendship.

A remarkable letter signed by fifty-seven Oxford men, (England) and addressed to the professors of arts and sciences and members of universities and learned societies in Germany and Austria, has caused no little discussion in the Old Country. The Times said it was "ill-advised," "inopportune," and "reprehensible in the extreme," etc. But all men of goodwill will be pleased at the courage of these university men on the bridge of friendship. I have but space to give two extracts from this remarkable messenger of peace:

"In the field where our aims are one, our enthusiasms the same, our rivalry and ambition generous, we can surely look to be reconciled, and the fellowship of learning offers a road which may and if our spiritual ideals are alive, must lead to a wider sympathy and better understanding between our kindred nations."

"While political dissensions are threatening to extinguish the honourable comity of the great European States, we pray that we may help to hasten that amicable reunion which civilisation demands."

that the Kingdom of God could be set up on earth.

Road to Better Things.

The hope of the present age was really the Kingdom of God, said the preacher, even though it found expression in material needs and external political devices. The only sound method of social reconstruction, which a high sense of justice demanded, would be found in casting up a highway for our God. As the lesser is contained in the greater and as the porch way is involved in the construction of the building, so were the affairs of this life put right when the structure of the Heavenly Kingdom was being erected.

In conclusion, Dr. Blagrave said that the dream city of the ages, the hope of better days, was not born of earth, but came down out of Heaven from God. "The Kingdom of God is within," he said.

These auto bandits have been carrying on this wholesale robbery for some time and it is hoped that Constable Smith will be successful in locating the guilty parties.

DAIRYMEN URGED TO IMPROVE QUALITY OF THEIR PRODUCT

Belleveille District Dairymen Hear Addresses From G. G. Publow, A. D. McIntosh and Mr. Coates—Report on Dairying in District During Past Season.

That dairymen should not be disappointed by the prospect of lower prices, but endeavor to create a market by the excellence of their product was the advice tendered by Chief Dairy Inspector G. G. Publow yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting of Belleveille district of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association held in the City Hall here.

The Conditions in This District.

Mr. H. Howey, Inspector of Cheese Factories for this district presented his annual report referring to his visits to the different factories throughout the district. He had supervision over 35 factories situated in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties. Fourteen of these plants are supplied with cool curing rooms thirty-one of the factories were kept clean and tidy.

14266 Cows Supply Factories.

These 35 factories receive milk from 2205 patrons produced by 14,266 cows. 6263 samples of milk were tested for adulteration and 3 samples were found adulterated, two watered, and one skimmed, 800 samples were tested with the sediment test and several samples were found to be of an unsanitary condition. The milk delivered in July was far superior in quality to that in previous years due no doubt to the condition of the weather. In referring to the shipping, the Inspector said there should be greater precaution with regard to cheese and butter. On arrival at docks or shipping points these articles should be received as perishable goods. The Inspector found the percentage of fat in the milk tested was 3.44 being .04 less than last year. The percentage of fat found in the butter was 23.1. The whey skimming plants have not to his mind increased the production of first class cheese, many being quite the reverse. He gave 254 visits to factories lasting from half an hour to half a day. He was sorry to state a number of good makers were leaving the business owing to same extent to the discrimination of wages.

Milking Machines.

Some 62 milking machines were being used in the district, but some were not kept in a proper sanitary condition. Regarding the quality of our cheese it has been fairly well made and the flavor was good. Our greatest competitor in the business is New Zealand, and have choice men from Ontario acting as dairy instructors, and it was up to us to put forth better efforts along these lines. It is not enough for a maker to get his patrons to send good milk in its best condition for making cheese, but it is a part of their duty to see and know that their cheese reach the market in the best condition.

Improvement and Equipment.

Do not be afraid to equip for this work. It will be a mistake to lessen the production of cheese. In Canada to-day the consumption of cheese is 3 pound per year to individual citizens and 12 pounds go abroad. If we increase our quantities there will be a demand for same. Some of the cheese made this fall was made in a month when conditions were such that it should be the best cheese whereas it was of a low grade. The fault was that the factories were not properly equipped, or right kind of man was not making the cheese. Dairymen should see that their products are of the best and prices will be received in accordance.

Stockdale.

Mr. M. Rutan, of Wooler, conducted a bull's sale at the home of Mr. Albert Sharpe on Tuesday. Mrs. E. Sandhorne is nursing Mrs. G. V. Locklin of 8th Concession, who is laid up with broken ribs. Regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Mrs. A. Fox's on Wednesday. We see several of our men who were working in the Evaporator at Frankford, are home having finished the season's work. Regular meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the Parsonage on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. C. Wannamaker are in Michigan attending the funeral of the latter's uncle, Mr. R. Weir, of Atina. Several from here attended Mr. W. A. McColl's sale on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wannamaker spent Sunday at Mr. Kenneth Paul's upon spoke of the pure bred cattle being of necessity upon the farm. The speaker exhibited a majestic sign which can be procured and exhibited upon their premises showing what breed of cattle they are breeders of. These signs are given by the Government and will no doubt prove to be advantageous. Mr. McIntosh referred to the fact that there appeared to be necessity for the manufacture of smaller cheese. This was a matter for the factory men to consider.

Fertilizer on Land.

The speaker made reference to the fact that years ago land plaster was used quite extensively on the soil and this was necessary to-day. On light sandy land and clay land, this was the easiest way of getting lime upon the land. There were converts to the growing of sweet clover. It has come to stay. In many places sweet clover is ground up as a meal and is as valuable pound for pound, as alfalfa. It is also good feed for hens. It is a palatable and nutritious food.

Value of Quality in Products.

Mr. G. G. Publow, Chief Dairy Inspector for Eastern Ontario, gave a helpful address on the problem of dairymen, touching on live stock, operative marketing, and the value of quality in dairy products. He endorsed the remarks made by Mr. Coates in reference to dairymen having pure bred cattle. All should try out their herds to ascertain what their output was. This is the only way to get the absolute proof of what their herds are doing. Check up the testing of cream and milk. Many herds of cattle are today not as good as they were a few years ago, owing to the non-use of pure bred sires. We should aim to increase dairy products.

Dairy Products Most Essential.

There was no more important or essential product than the dairy product. Equipment and co-operation was necessary to accomplish this object. The first essential is the right kind of an animal. The men in the dairy business to-day who are not properly rewarded for their efforts are those who have not the proper cattle. In speaking of the manufacture of cheese and butter Mr. Publow said it was essential that the cheese factories and creameries should be properly built and properly equipped. In Hastings County better wages are paid and the living conditions of the maker are better than in many other sections. Dairy men should not be stampeded today because there appears to be a tendency to lower prices. He urged the dairymen to create a market demand for dairy products and he said that in order to do this the quality of the product must be of the best.

Equalisation is Explained.

Reeve Wiggins Speaks on Thurlow's Assessment.

Reeve W. E. Wiggins of Faraday brought to the attention of the county council an article appearing in The Ontario on Oct. 9th, as follows: "At the August session of Hastings County Council, the Council added to Thurlow's equalisation $390,000 business assessment on Corbyville distillery, notwithstanding that the legislature had exempted it for 1919, the roll of which they were equalising. Thurlow representatives objected at the time and immediately took proceedings to quash the equalisation bylaw. Yesterday the county authorities consented to the quashing of the bylaw which means that the cost of the action and defense must be paid by the county which the county representatives agreed to do." Mr. Wiggins claimed this was unfair to the rest of the county. The county council had passed a $540,000 increase on Thurlow's assessment but no mention had been made by the council as to business assessment on Corbyville distillery. The article did not take cognizance of the fact that the settlement, arrived at, placed $200,000 increase in the assessment of Thurlow. Mr. Held of Sidney said there was sufficient value in Thurlow to increase the assessment $540,000 without any reference to business assessment on Corbyville distillery. Mr. Wiggins said that Thurlow through the news item in question fairly represented the settlement. He said the warden had offered to take $200,000 on Thurlow's assessment.

Application to Parliament.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made by the Corporation of the City of Belleveille to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario at its next session for an Act:

1. Hector into the girl's room, where I shut him up, while the stranger came into the kitchen, and walked to the fire to dry his wet clothes. I immediately went into the parlour, where Moodie was lying upon a bed near the stove, to deliver the stranger's message; but before I could say a word, he dashed in after me, and, going up to the bed, held out his broad, coarse hand, with, "How are you, Mr. Moodie? You see I have accepted your kind invitation sooner than either you or I expected. If you will give me a room for the night, I shall be obliged to you."

This was said in a low, mysterious voice; and Moodie, who was struggling with the hot steam and smoke, and whose senses were not a little confused, stared at him with a look of vague bewilderment. The countenance of the stranger grew dark. "You cannot have forgotten me—my name is Malcolm."

"Yes, yes; I remember you now," said the invalid, holding out his burning, feverish hand. "To my home, such as it is, you are welcome."

I stood by in wondering astonishment, looking from one to the other, as I had no recollection of ever hearing my husband mention the name of the stranger; I did my best to make him welcome, though in what manner he was to be accommodated puzzled me not a little. I placed the arm-chair by the fire, and told him that I would prepare tea for him as soon as I could.

"It may be as well to tell you, Mrs. Moodie," said he sulkily, for he was evidently displeased by my husband's want of recognition on his first entrance, "that I have had no dinner. I signed to myself, for I well knew that ourarder boasted of no distinctions; and, from the animal expression of our guests' faces, I rightly judged that he was fond of good living."

By the time I had tried a rasher of salt pork, and made a pot of dandelion coffee, the bread I had been preparing was baked; but grown flour will not make light bread, and it was unusually heavy. I placed the first man at the table, and was ashamed of our humble fare. I was sure that he for whom it was provided was not one to pass it over in benevolent silence. "He might be a gentleman," I thought, "but he does not look like one, and he is not an idea of who he was, and where Moodie had met him, began to float through my mind. I did not like the appearance of the man, but I consoled myself that he was only to stay for one night, and I could give up my bed for that one night, and sleep on a bed on the floor by my side."

"We have been very unfortunate," I said, "since we came to the woods. I am sorry that you should be obliged to share the poverty of the land. It would have given me much pleasure could I have set before you a more comfortable meal."

"Oh, don't mention it. So that I get good pork and potatoes I shall be contented."

"What did these words imply?" an extension of visit. I hoped that I was mistaken; but before I could lose any time in conjecture my husband awoke. The fit had left him, and he rose and dressed himself, and was soon chatting cheerfully with his guest. "Mr. Malcolm now informed me that he was hiding from the sheriff of the N— district's officers, and that it would be conferring upon him a great favour if he would allow him to remain in his house for a few weeks."

ly assented, not only because it released him from all sense of obligation, but because it gave him a privilege to grumble.

"Finding that his stay might extend to an indefinite period, I set Jacob to construct a rude bedstead out of two large chests that had transported some of our goods across the Atlantic, and which he put up in a corner of the parlour. This I provided with a small hair-mattress, and furnished with what bedding I could spare.

For the first fortnight of his sojourn, our guest did nothing but lie upon that bed, and read, and smoke, and drink whiskey-and-water from morning until night. By degrees he let out part of his history; but there was a mystery about him which he refused to disclose. He was the son of an officer in the navy, who had not only attained a very high rank in the service, but, for his gallant conduct, had been made a Knight of the Bath. He had himself served his time as a midshipman on board his father's flag-ship, but had left the navy and accepted a commission in the Buenos Ayres army during the political struggles in that province; he had commanded a sort of privateer under the Government, to whom, by his own account, he had rendered many very signal services. Why he left South America and came to Canada he kept profound secret. He had indulged in very vicious and dissipated courses since he came to the province, and, by his own account, had spent upwards of four thousand pounds, in a manner not over creditable to himself. Finding that his friends would answer his bills no longer, he took possession of a grant of land obtained through his father's interest, up in Harvey's barony township on the shores of Stony Lake; and, after putting up his shanty, and expending all his remaining means, he found that he did not possess a single dollar of the whole four hundred that would yield a crop of potatoes. He was now considerably in debt, and the lands, such as they were, had been seized, with all his effects, by the sheriff, and a warrant was out for his own apprehension, which he contrived to elude during his sojourn with us. Money he had none; and, beyond the dirty fawn-coloured blue seaman's jacket which he wore, a pair of trousers of the coarse cloth of the country, an old black vest that had seen better days, and two blue-checked shirts, clothes he had none. He shaved, but once a week, never combed his hair, and never washed himself. A dirtier or more slovenly creature never before was dignified by the title of a gentleman. He was, however, a man of good education, of excellent abilities, and possessed a bitter, sarcastic knowledge of the world; but he was selfish and unprincipled in the highest degree.

His few observations, and great conversational powers had first attracted my husband's attention, and, as men seldom show their bad qualities on a journey, he thought him a blunt, good fellow, who had travelled a great deal, and could render himself a very agreeable companion by a graphic relation of his adventures. He could be all his life, when he chose to relax from his studious habits; and, much as I disliked him, I have listened with interest for hours to his droll descriptions of South American life and manners.

As the spring advanced, and after Jacob had declared he was ashamed of sitting in the house doing nothing, and therefore undertook to make us a garden, or "to make garden," as the Canadians term preparing a few vegetables for the season, I prepared the necessary seeds, and watched with no small surprise the industry with which our strange visitor commenced operations. He repaired the broken fence, dug the ground with the greatest care, and laid it out with a skill and neatness of which I had believed him perfectly incapable. In less than three weeks, the whole plot presented a very pleasing prospect, and he was really elated by his success.

"At any rate," said he, "we shall no longer be starved on bad flour and potatoes. We shall have peas, and beans, and beets, and carrots, and cabbage in abundance, besides the plot I have reserved for cucumbers and melons."

"Ah," thought I, "does he, indeed, mean to stay with us until the melons are ripe?" and my heart died within me, for I had just made a great additional expense, but he gave a great deal of additional trouble, and entirely robbed us of all privacy, as our very parlour was converted into a bed-room by his accommodation; besides that, his singularly dirty habits made a very disagreeable inmate.

The only redeeming point in his character in my eyes, was his love for Dunbar. He never got entirely hatched a man who was so fondly attached to my child. To the two little girls he was very cross, and when chased them from him with blows.

He had, too, an odious way of finding fault with everything, I never could cook to please him; and he tried in the most malicious way to induce Moodie to join in his complaints. All his schemes, however, failed, and were generally visited upon himself. In no way did he ever seek to render me the least assistance. Shortly after Jacob left us, Mrs. Pines was offered higher wages by a family at Peterborough, and for some time I was left with four little children, and without a servant. Moodie always milked the cows, because I never could overcome my fear of cattle; and though I had occasionally milked when there was no one else in the way, it was in fact a very disagreeable task. Moodie had to go down to Peterborough; but before he went, he begged Malcolm to bring me what water and wood I required, and to stand by the cattle while I milked the cows, and he would himself be home before night.

He started at six in the morning, and I got the pail to go and milk Malcolm was lying upon his bed, reading.

"Mr. Malcolm, will you be so kind as to go with me to the fields for a few minutes while I milk?" "Yes, (then, with a sulky frown), "but I want to finish what I am reading."

"I will not detain you long."

"Oh, no! I suppose about an hour."

"True; I never went near a cow until I came to this country; and I have never been able to overcome my fear of them."

"More shame for you! A farmer's wife and a dairymaid of a cow! Why those little children would laugh at you."

"I did not reply, nor would I ask him again. I walked slowly to the field, and my indignation made me forget my fear. I had just finished milking and with a brimming pail was preparing to climb the fence and return to the house, when a very wild dog we had come running with headlong speed from the wood. All my senses were five again in a moment. I snatched up the pail, and, instead of climbing the fence and getting to the house, I ran with all the speed I could command down the steep hill towards the lake shore. My feet were as if they were on ice, and I fell in the path, and I fell to the ground, my pail rolling many yards ahead of me. Every drop of my milk was spilt upon the grass. The ox passed over my head, and I was left alone, and returned home, Malcolm was very fond of new milk, and he came to meet me at the door.

"Hi! Hi!—Where's the milk?" "No milk for the poor children to-day," said I, showing the empty contents of the pail, with a sorrowful shake of the head, for it was no small loss to them and me.

"How the devil's that? So you were away and milk the cows, come away, and I will keep off the bugs."

"I did milk them—no thanks to your kindness, Mr. Malcolm—but—"

"Then why do you stay, sir, where you consider yourself so treated?" said I. "We are all obliged to work to obtain bread, we give you the best share—surely the return we ask for it is but small."

"You make me feel my obligations to you when you ask me to do any thing; if you left it to my better feelings we should get on better."

"Perhaps you are right. I will never ask you to do anything for me in the future."

"Oh, now, that's all mock-humility. In spite of the tears in your eyes, you are as angry with me as ever; but don't go to make mischief between me and my wife. If you'll say nothing about my staying in the woods, I'll milk the cows for you myself tonight."

"Can you milk?" said I, with some anxiety. "Milk? Yes, and if I were not so confoundedly low-spirited and—last I could do a thousand other things too. But now, don't say a word about it to Moodie."

The afternoon turned out very wet, and I was, sorry that, I should be troubled with my company all day in the house. I was making a shirt for Moodie from some cotton that had been sent me from home, and he placed himself by the side of the stove, just opposite, and continued to regard me for a long time with his usual sulky stare. I really felt half afraid of him.

"Don't you think me mad?" said he. "I have a brother draughted, he got a stroke of the sun in India, and lost his senses in consequence; but sometimes I think it runs in the family."

"What answer could I give to this speech but mere evasive commonplace! You won't say what you really think," he continued, "I know you hate me, and that makes me angry. Now what would you say if I told you I had committed a murder, and that it was the recollection of that circumstance that made me at times so restless and unhappy?"

"I looked up in his face, not knowing what to believe. "The fact," said he, nodding his head; and I hoped that he would not go mad, like his brother, and kill me, as he had threatened to do."

"Come, I'll tell you all about it; I know the world would laugh at me for calling such an act murder; and yet I have been such a miserable man ever since that I feel it was."

"There was a noted leader among the rebel Buenos-Ayrenes, whom the government wanted much to get hold of. He was a fine, dashing, handsome fellow; I had often seen him. He never came to close quarters. One night I was lying wrapped up in my poncho at the bottom of my boat, which was rocking in the surf, waiting for two of my men, who were gone on shore. There came to the shore this man and one of his people, and they stood so near the boat, which I suppose they thought empty, that I could distinctly hear their conversation. I suppose it was the latter that made me put a bullet through that man's heart. He was an enemy to the flag under which I fought, but he was no enemy to me. I had no right to become his executioner; but still the desire to kill him, for mere devilry of the thing, came so strongly upon me, that I no longer tried to resist. I rose slowly upon my knees; the moon was shining very bright at the time, both he and my companion were too busy with their devilry of the thing, to see me; and I shot him through the body. He fell with a heavy groan back into the water; but I caught the last look he threw up to the moonlight as he before his eyes glazed in death. Oh, that look!—so full of despair and unutterable anguish; it haunts me yet—it will haunt me for ever. I would not have cared if I had killed him in strife, but in cold blood, and he so unprincipled of his doom! Yes, it was murder; I know by this constant tugging at my heart that it was murder. What do you say to it?"

"I should think as you do, Mr. Malcolm. It is a terrible thing to take away the life of a fellow-creature without the least provocation. Ah! I know you would blame me; but he was an enemy after all, and he had a right to kill him; and who shall condemn me?"

"No one more than your own heart."

"It is not the heart, but the brain, that must decide in questions of right and wrong," said he. "I acted from impulse, and shot that man; had I reasoned upon it for five minutes, the man would be living now. But what's done cannot be undone. Did I ever show you the work I wrote upon South America?"

"Are you an author," said I incredulously. "To be sure I am. Murray offered me $100 for my manuscript, but I would not take it. Shall I read to you some passages from it?"

"I am sorry to see that his behaviour in the morning was unbecomingly in my thoughts, and I had no repugnance in refusing."

"No, don't trouble yourself, I have first brought the Jap to America, the late James J. Hill, of railway fame. He used them to extend the Great Northern railway and they were expected to reduce wages in the land of the free. Now we all admit the Jap is a heathen and is socially our inferior, but we must also admit he is not crazy or a fool. When the Jap saw what a precarious living the white men were making building railroads, he dropped his pick and settled on the land."

To those who have never visited California it would be hard to convince what can be done with the land. If the farmers of Thurlow township and those who have settled on the splendid farms along the Bay of Quinte from Rednersville to Green Point could see it they would be amazed. Today in Los Angeles you can purchase the finest strawberries you ever saw for 30 cents a box. They are on display on the markets through the city. Fresh lettuce, cauliflower, onions, new potatoes, etc. Of course that is on account of the climate, it would not be expected in Hastings county. But the quantity and the quality is due to the Jap. He is a great worker. Give him 10 acres and he will produce more in a year than any Canadian farmer could do with a hundred and fifty. Land is scarce in Japan and they make it produce. As soon as one crop is harvested, the soil is fertilized and another one started. Four crops a year is the average here but as many as nine cuttings of hay is made in a season. No question of working hours bother the Jap. He belongs to no union and he works every day in the week. Many people in California spend Sunday nights seeing among the truck gardens watching the Japs break the Sabbath all to pieces."

Among us so-called Christians, it is the custom to furnish the children with toys for playthings. Not so with the Jap. He buys a little spade and a hoe for his children and as soon as they can walk they are playing with the weeds in the truck garden. The glorious climate of California is beneficial to humans and vegetables alike and soon there is another hardy bow-legged little farmer ready for another little farm. The Jap is industrious and it was not until the war which brought so much trouble to the world did the people of California realize what size the little fellow had grown. Vegetables had always been a glut on the market and the native sons had been so busy selling vacant lots to the suckers from the east that they had no time to bother with anything else."

The Hearst newspapers suddenly sprang a potato famine on the people of California. They said the price of potatoes was due not alone to the war but to the fact that a Mr. Skinto, a subject of the Mikado, owned all the potatoes in California. Then the people began to take notice and since then the Jap had had no rest. It has just leaked out, however, that while all the agitation was going on the little brown man had been preparing for a hard winter by getting long term renewals of their leases. The new alien law says that the Pontiacs have been playing against the Linkerters, Champions of Ontario at Indoor Baseball and have held them down to close scores. CALIFORNIA'S JAPANESE PROBLEM STILL UNSOLVED

A Canadian First Brought the Japanese to America—A Thrifty Race With Whom the Americans Find it Difficult to Compete.

(From The Ontario's Special Correspondent.)

The Japanese problem is still an unsolved one. Although the Californians voted to keep the little brown men from coming to California the question of what is to be done with the many who are already here is puzzling to the authorities. The Japs have their friends, too, the landlords, who get $40 a year rent for an acre of ground, that used to be covered with tumble weeds and cacti. The Jap has been a great disappointment to those who introduced them into the United States. It was a Canadian, too, by the way, who first brought the Jap to America, the late James J. Two Changes at Penitentiary

Asst. Steward O'Driscoll and Guard R. Atken Resigned.

KINGSTON, Dec. 10.—Two additional changes in the staff of the Portsmouth Penitentiary have been announced. John B. O'Driscoll, assistant steward, and Guard Robert Atken have retired, and their resignations have been authorized by the Department of Justice. Both men have honorable records at the institution, and their retirement is regretted by their fellow officers.

Mr. O'Driscoll has been in the service of the Penitentiary for the past fifteen years, during which time he has served under six wardens, two deputy wardens and three chief clerks. He was appointed guard in July, 1905, and was appointed assistant steward in November, 1913, a position he held up to the present time. Seven years ago, when the famous Meeum brothers made their escape, O'Driscoll captured Bert Meeum, alias Jones, in a barn on the property of Col. Strabenzlie (now the Mowat Hospital).

Three years later, when Szymondaki took the scout's horse and made his get away, it was O'Driscoll who traced him to the bush on the Ferguson farm. Szymondaki was captured at Sudbury six weeks later, and when he was brought back he told of seeing O'Driscoll going on horseback, he being concealed in the bush.

During Mr. O'Driscoll's fifteen years of service he has never had a single report against him, neither for being late at roll call, nor for any other breach of the Penitentiary rules and regulations, a record he has every reason to be proud of, and which argues the point that he was an efficient officer.

Mr. O'Driscoll contracted rheumatism over a year ago and it has been gradually getting worse. "Jack," as he was familiarly called by the old officers, was always counted on as a man amongst men, being up-right and square. He made friends and held them. His friends and he has many hopes that after a well-earned rest he may regain his health. Guard Atken has been on the staff for several years and always performed his duties in a quiet and unassuming manner.

SIX MONTHS FOR B.O.T.A. In police court yesterday afternoon Robert Burke was found guilty of illegally disposing of approximately sixty bottles of liquor in November and as it was his second conviction Magistrate Masson committed him to jail for a term of six months. W. Carnes for the Crown, A. Abbott for the accused.

CHARGED WITH KEEPING FOR SALE. Nicolo Diodato was arrested on a charge of having liquor for sale. This morning Magistrate Masson enlarged the case. Inspectors Nashin and Connor are working on the case.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

Written for The Ontario by
Chas. M. Rice, Lawyer, Denver, Colorado

England, with Sinn Fein on its hands and its temper, with Bolshevism and Islamic revolts in Afghanistan and the Garden of Eden, and watching the chess-play at Geneva, has been relieved, amused and angered over the publication of a woman's diary.

Diplomacy, court circles, high society, plain and higher political quarters, have been stirred over the volume as no other publication has moved them in a generation. It threatens the peace of the Empire. It is the most audacious undertaking, everything considered, that politics has had to deal with since the crisis in the war. It rips the lid off and exposes skeletons. Statesmen's secrets are told with an insouciance that exasperates and ex-acerbrates John Bull.

The diarist is Margot Tennant Asquith, wife of Herbert H. Asquith, twice prime minister, occupying that position at the outbreak of the war, and now the accepted leader of the Opposition in Parliament; a man of discretion, leader in his party for a quarter of a century, a lawyer of excellence, confidante of kings, queens and statesmen of many lands. There is in the offense—the wife of a premier, trusted with momentous secrets, and becoming sensationalist, sparing neither the living nor the dead.

The woman in the case is the daughter of a Scotch chemical manufacturer, whose chimneys made acrid the atmosphere of Glasgow for many years. Like other successful men, he went to London, and with his millions and his amazingly clever daughter, made a place in society. The daughter at an early age found herself in the midst of statesmen, artists, "lions," and she was in her element. Her life was lived without respect to what Mrs. Grundy might say, according to her "confessions," and she had her own lute at a period when this was unheard of among young women in good society.

Some years ago, William Watson wrote a poem, "The Woman with a Serpent's Tongue," that travelled to this country and was quoted extensively for a season. On the appearance of the poem everybody who was anybody agreed that the woman was Margot Asquith, and she does not deny the "soft impeachment."

Not until the publication of her diary was it appreciated in England the influence she must have exerted in political affairs through her husband and others. She was the centre of a brilliant circle of cabinet men, parliamentarians and diplomats. She was able in this way to advance her husband's ambitions. The period of time covered in the diary is described as the glorious period, the late Victorian and post-Victorian age down to the war period. Gladstone and Salisbury, Jowett and Hurley, Tennison, Swinburne, George Elliot, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, and hosts of other celebrities in different fields are introduced. Not to know Margot Tennant was to confess oneself unknown. She was the leading figure in "The Souls," a circle whose mysterious comings and goings caused not only a great deal of curiosity, but mystery, and some scandal. Arthur J. Balfour was one of its leading "souls," and he has written that the influence of this strange gathering of brilliant men and women was big in English history in those days. Jockeys, actors and ambassadors were welcomed at the gatherings. It was the meeting-ground of politicians of opposite faiths. It was as guests of the "Souls" that Gladstone and Lord Randolph Churchill met and debated politics. Of Mr. Balfour she writes: "He was a great parliamentarian, a brilliant debater and a famous Irish Secretary in difficult times, but his political energies lay in tactics. He took a Fock-like pleasure in watching the same of party politics, not in the interest of any political party, nor from esprit de corps, but from taste. He preferred appeals to his intellect rather than claims upon his feelings—Handel in music—Pope in poetry—Scott in narration—Jane Austen in fiction and Saint Beuve in criticism, supplied him with everything." Politicians blamed him for being a metaphysician; the latter accused him of being a politician, and he was both. The American people during the war learned what a polished speaker and finely poised diplomat he was during his visits to Washington.

Margot Tennant, as a girl, had the distinction of being taken upon the knee of the great man. Tennison, and having him read "Maud" to her. Gladstone wrote her a poem which she makes public, proving that his "Maud" was not in that direction, varied as were his accomplishments.

The "Grand Old Man" of England kept up an interesting correspondence for years with the young woman.

Under lock and key Mrs. Asquith sent her diary manuscript to Prof. Henry James of Boston for his criticism, and he wrote back: "You are the very Balzac of diarists," etc.

Until now, the English public was unaware of the reasons for the withdrawal from the Asquith Cabinet of Lord Morley, a pillar of the government and of the party, the day before war was declared. The diary of Mrs. Asquith contains part of the correspondence, showing that Morley's instinct was superior to the judgment of some statesmen deemed most wise. Morley hated a union with Russia in the war, and he foresaw much of what came to pass. She relates interviews which her husband had with Lord Kitchener, and takes the British idol down a few steps from his pedestal. Her husband was the responsible for almost compelling Kitchener to accept the portfolio of Minister for War at the critical juncture.

A man with a wife who keeps a diary and publishes it is not to be trusted in high office. Mr. Asquith is in Parliament a bitter critic of Lloyd George, who unhorsed him and took his place as premier during the days when England was hanging in the balance and Germany was threatening the world with its armies. The Asquith-George quarrel has grown in intensity of late. The strategy of the former is to force a dissolution of Parliament in the belief that he will succeed the present premier. But wise men at Westminster shake their heads and point to the diary.

Found Relief When Doctors Had Failed

MANITOBA WOMAN PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. Murnylo Says to All Who Suffer From Bladder Trouble: "Try a Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills." Brokenhead, Man., Dec. 13th. (Special)—Strong in her praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Mary Murnylo, a well known and esteemed resident of this place. And Mrs. Murnylo gives her reasons.

"Two years ago I suffered from bladder trouble," she says. "I tried all kinds of medicines and two doctors in Winnipeg. All the doctors and medicines failed to help me. I turned to Dodd's Kidney Pills and used eight boxes of them and found them satisfactory. I give every praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to any person suffering from bladder trouble I say, 'Try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.'"

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. By putting them in condition to do their full work they relieve bladder troubles and send pure blood and good health coursing to all parts of the body. Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not relieve kidney ills and those diseases that spring from sick kidneys.

Two Viennese Gamblers Won Five Millions

Their Victim was Young Man, Son of Rich Manufacturer.

VIENNA, Dec. 13.—One of Vienna's most debonair social vampires has been arrested in the person of Julius Szemzo, a Hungarian aristocrat, aged 35.

He has been in contact with the police on previous occasions, but his arrest is made this time on the charge that as a game of bacarat in his private house he and his brother won no less than 25,000,000 kronen, or nominally more than $5,000,000 from a young Viennese, aged 21, who name has not been disclosed.

It seems that the two Szemzo brothers were nearing the end of their financial resources, despite their ostentatious life, and resorted to shearing this young lamb, who is the son of a rich manufacturer. In They invited him to the house of Julius for a social evening, but the young innocent found only the two brothers present. They proposed a game of bacarat and stipulated that though they played for kronen the losses should be paid in some foreign currency, dinars being ultimately agreed upon. A dinar is a Serbian coin, twenty-five of which in peace time equal about $5.

At the end of two hours' play the young innocent found to his horror that he had lost 28,000,000 kronen and was obliged to sign seven bills of exchange for 2,000,000 dinars, this, it was said, being the converted value. In case of trouble with the police the sum was stated on the bills to be in consideration of a loan of 28,000,000 kronen received from Szemzo. Even here, however, the young innocent had been swindled, Szemzo having calculated the dinars at twice the rate of exchange, prevailing.

Julius Szemzo is well-known in certain strata of society as "the man with the yellow gloves," owing to his habit of wearing such gloves when playing cards at various clubs. He lives in a house called the Palais Szemzo, where he keeps a large establishment of servants, six motor cars, seven race horses and two milch cows, these being considerable of a rarity here nowadays. His adventures have long been a subject of conversation.

He has been previously arrested for engaging in what is known as valuta smugglings, or smuggling currency across the frontier, and for having illegally stamped Austrian kronen notes so as to give them a higher value. Similar charges were also preferred against him in Budapest.

His matrimonial affairs are in keeping with his general conduct. He has had many matrimonial adventures and not long ago his present wife caused some diversion in a fashionable restaurant here by throwing vitriol in the face of a married lady of whom she thought she had grounds for jealousy.

At last he is safely under arrest on the serious charge of using the premises for the purpose of a gaming club, and a writ has also been issued against his brother, who has fled from Vienna.

Bread Has Dropped to 11 Cents a Loaf

KINGSTON, Dec. 13.—On Thursday morning, the Kingston bakers announced that bread had dropped to 11 cents a loaf of one and one-half pounds. For some time, bread has been selling at 25 cents a large loaf of three pounds, or 13 cents for a small loaf.

The New England Bread Company, when asked by the Whig, stated that the price on Thursday was 11 cents but he did not know whether it would be lower on Friday. The Tove Bread Company stated that the price of flour had increased thirty-five cents a hundred pounds, but the price was such that bread could sell at 11 cents a small loaf.

15,000,000 People Fighting for Passage to United States

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Fifteen million men, women and children of all social and economic classifications, representing every nationality in Europe, are fighting for passage to the United States, according to reports submitted by seventeen trans-Atlantic steamship company representatives to Frederick A. Walsh, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island.

Every seaport city and town along the Western and Southern coasts of Europe, they said, is crowded with persons, who in their eagerness to leave for the United States, have sold their homes and everything they possessed. Passport offices abroad are reported to be besieged with applicants.

They also expressed the opinion that 8,000,000 Germans and Austrians are packed up ready to sail as soon as the United States makes peace with their governments.

Human Hawk Bent on Murder

Swooped Down Sixteen Times On His Terrorized Victims.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—At Iries, near Marcellines, an airman, for whom the only excuse is that he had suddenly gone mad, hunted three men and a woman for over an hour in the fashion of a hawk hunting a rabbit.

The four people, two shepherds, a priest and a woman, were standing together talking on the road, when they saw the airplane flying toward them. Suddenly it swooped down, and barely in time they threw themselves flat on the road to escape the whirling propeller and the heavy undercarriage. At tremendous speed the plane swooped over their prostrate bodies, missing them by a few feet. Then it rose and soared away.

Trembling, and very angry, the four arose and decided at once to lodge a complaint with the police. At worst, they thought, the airman had been guilty of a great folly. In a few minutes, however, they heard the whirr of an engine behind them, and looking round saw the airplane flying straight in their direction. They could not believe that another deliberate attempt would be made on their lives, but as he neared them the airman once more threw the plane into a steep descent, and once more the four people had to throw themselves down to escape being decapitated. Aghast, they heard him pass over, and then scattered to find shelter in the bare fields, for some of them had seen the face of the man in the machine, and could tell he was shouting with laughter. They knew they had to deal with a madman.

Swoops Sixteen Times

In a few seconds back he came, circling over them again, dropping down like a hawk on its quarry. By now the terror-stricken shepherds and the woman could only crawl from one place to another, seeking some safer corner in which to hide. The priest, enraged, tried to run down the long road to the village to get whatever help could be obtained, hoping to find some sportsman with a gun who could frighten off the madman. Again and again, as he ran, the madman swooped down on him and drove him to throw himself on his face in the road. Only to chase the others did he give up this pursuit, swooping down some sixteen times in all, till his victims were utterly terrorized. There was not a tree or hedge on the bare fields to give shelter, and they were at the end of their strength running and trying to hide before the madman wearied of the strange chase and flew away.

State of Russia

Look at Russia—an ignorant mass in the grip of a small group of ruthless men, not Russians but Jews, merciless, starving and murdering thousands. Here millions live like hungry wolves battling for enough food to live. Look at China, five times the population of Canada, starving. Look at Ireland, her people gone mad. In England—men will try to avenge themselves for past wrongs by overthrowing constitution at government and industry. Even in Canada the best country in the world today, we have big manufacturers labor class organizing for themselves in righteous indignation calling each other robbers. We are getting to be a lot of money-grubbers forgetting the ideal, calling others profiteers, so bent are we on getting over our share and trying to make the other bear the burden of falling prices. All this is unchristian.

In China we are bringing multitudes in a short time through what took us a thousand years into the light of modern civilization.

Darkest Africa is going to become a blacker hell than ever. Just think of it, the white and black man getting together with common voices.

What does that mean? In Japan what have we—a British navy; a German military system; the American school system and a pagan heart. Japan is ambitious to rule in China. But the yellow man brought under the influence of Christ will save the world.

See what we have come to—all these great nations thrown into the arena of world politics. You see the ripeness of the harvest fields of the world.

Opportunity in Missions

But there is an opportunity. Education, militarism, socialism, the organized church has failed. The only hope is Jesus Christ Himself. From every mission field comes the cry for help. In five or ten years it may be too late.

Is there anything needed more in Canada than noble christian leaders? Whole districts are without missionaries or ministers. What is required is the glow of youth.

"So, I say, young men, young women the hope of the next question is in you. The heroism, the daring, the passion of youth—with these the future is assured. We must have the living hearts and voices that will interpret Jesus Christ. Jesus is a person, a spirit and requires to be revealed through men-living epistles.

It is not strange that Jesus Christ, who expected to be the world's Redeemer did not write a book? But what did he do? He chose twelve young men, who lived with Him for three years and then went out into the world. Is there anything to compare with denying all the energies to the propagation of the christian religion. How are we to get these young men and young women—by prayer and by creating the attitude of mind to make response to the call when it comes.

Is your home the kind of home in

89th Anniversary of St. Andrew's Church

Principal Gandler on the World Opportunity in Missions

"I would like you to look out with me and see how ripe is the harvest of the world," said the Rev. Principal Gandler, of Knox College, Toronto, speaking at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church last evening on the occasion of the eighty-ninth anniversary of the church. Principal Gandler had addressed a large congregation in the morning and the evening service was also largely attended. John St. congregation joined with St. Andrew's in the observance. His address last evening was a stirring appeal for christian leaders from the ranks of the young men and young women. During the course of his sermon he spoke of conditions prevailing in the world.

War-Stricken Countries

In our day we have seen a great nation come to earth. No nation had made more progress in all the things that goes to make up modern civilization than Germany and yet it was without the spirit of Jesus Christ and her very progress made her collapse more complete because she was without Christ. Anatole France said Europe is dying. Gibbs said if it is not dying it is very sick. Dr. Gandler was in France recently and said that in France and Germany only the tag-ends of young manhood are left. The people are underfed and the physical stamina of these nations will be lower for two generations. Central Europe is practically without milk, this means that tens of thousands of Poles are dying and those who survive will grow up rickety and tubercular.

Faithful Dog Kept Vigil

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 13.—Not until a dog standing guard over his master was shot were policemen able to remove the body of Thomas Maher, an aged recluse, from his home last night. Neighbors had not seen Maher for several days and the continual barking of the dog aroused their suspicions. Officers, looking through a window, saw the body of Maher on the floor, and attempted to crawl through. The dog resisted their attempts. It was finally found necessary to shoot the animal. Maher had lived alone for 20 years.

Former Resident Returns on Vacation

Mr. P. O'Brien, formerly a resident of Horsholm, who went West about eleven years ago in quest of land and fortune, returned last week on a three months' vacation. Mr. O'Brien made good in what is known as the Chauvin district. This year's crop yielded 5,000 bushels of wheat and he informs his friends he disposed of it at $2.35 per bushel. Mr. O'Brien is the guest of his brothers, Jno. and Joseph of Herschel and other friends around Bancroft.

"Snow Tanks" for the Frozen North

Caterpillar-Type Motor Sledge May Be Manufactured at Orillia and Used in the Arctic LONDON, Dec. 13.—The untold natural wealth of the snow-bound Canadian Provinces and Alaska is to be brought under man's sway soon. F. G. Horner, of Cleveland, Ohio, who recently came to London as Consulting Engineer with the British Imperial Antarctic Expedition, has demonstrated here his invention of a caterpillar-type motor-driven sledge, which is expected to conquer the snowy wastes of the north. These snow-tanks have never been manufactured commercially but Mr. Horner is interesting British capital in a scheme for their production in Canada at Orillia, Ontario.

In the construction of his sledge, the inventor has incorporated all the discoveries made by Indians in their long experience of snowcraft production, as well as the latest developments in modern motor manufacture.

"Arctic travel will become a pleasure with my sledge," declared Mr.

Horne. "At ten miles per hour, I can travel a distance of 1,400 miles with the normal load of gasoline the machine carries. There is no guess-work about it. I have spent six long hard years in the Yukon under all conditions studying the fundamental laws of snow transportation and have created the sledge to meet actual facts of the Arctic regions." Turning to the dogged leaning against his office wall—the actual sled which Scott took with him to the South Pole—Mr. Horner said, "If Capt. Scott could have had my motor-sled on his fatal expedition, he would be alive to-day."

Great interest is being shown here in the invention. When Dr. Cope, the British explorer, who is now on an Antarctic Expedition, returns to prepare for a greater expedition, he will be equipped with a dozen or more of Horner's snow-boats.

A 50 per cent. cut in cotton production in 1921, through curtailment of acreage planted was agreed upon at a conference held in Memphis by Southern bankers, merchants and farmers.

Between 200,000 and 400,000 children were deprived of schooling in the U.S. last year as a result of the shortage of teachers.

County Bridges Built in 1920

Mr. C. F. Aylesworth Reports in Detail on Season's Work.

Mr. C. Fraser Aylesworth, Bridge Engineer for the County of Hastings under the Bridge Committee presented a report of the season's work to the Hastings County Council.

Having been appointed by your Bridge Committee to the position of Bridge Engineer, I wish to submit the following report on the programme of bridge construction during the past season.

Mr. D. A. McRae who in the past for many years was a foreman on County roads and bridges, was employed during the past season in the capacity as foreman of our bridge gang.

During the month of June before the County season opened the bridge gang constructed three somewhat large reinforced concrete bridges in the Township of Rawdon for the Township of Rawdon.

Upon the completion of these, the gang moved to the Mink Creek Bridge. This bridge is a thirty-four feet clear span having a 16 foot clear roadway spanning Mink Creek, on the boundary between the Township of Walinston and Chandos in the eighth concession of the former township. The south abutment of this bridge rests on a rock foundation. The north site for the bottom of the abutment was found to be sand, we therefore constructed a large base extending below the frost line, on which we rested the abutment.

We were delayed a number of days in procuring suitable gravel for the concrete for this bridge, and where it was found, it was of such a variable nature and quality that it was necessary for the foreman to be in constant attendance at the pit to supervise its delivery to the wagons; and then it must be hauled over a very heavy road.

In addition to the construction of this bridge, embankment approaches to it 98 feet long on the north side and 28 feet long on the south side, both having an average height of 6 feet had to be constructed. These approaches were rip-rapped on both sides to their full height with large boulders and stone, requiring about 179 tons, and these stones were hauled from one to three miles. These rip-rapped approaches were 27 feet at the bottom and constructed with such a slope as to leave a clear roadway of 17 1/2 feet which was protected by us by the construction of a massive guard rail made of cedar posts and hemlock plank rails.

The total cost of the Mink Creek Bridge is $4,833.87. We finished it on the 20th of July, and the gang moved and arrived at the Lost Channel bridge on the 22nd, of July.

The latter bridge spans the west branch of the Moira River at Lot Number 7 on the main allowance between the 5th and 6th concessions of the Township of Hungerford and was originally designed to be a three span bridge of 40 feet to the span, but it was finally agreed to construct it with two spans of 40 feet each and one of 18 foot span, the floor of the latter being given a slope towards the west in order to reduce the approach fills. There were two abutments and two piers required for this bridge. The bottom of the river for the east abutment and two piers was found satisfactory but the bottom for the west abutment was not found so satisfactory, we overcame this condition by constructing a large base of boulders and stone extending in all directions from the sides of the proposed abutment, on this as a sub-base we erected our concrete base as a precaution and we likewise constructed extending bases under the other abutment and piers, the up stream ends of the latter having noses to act as breakwaters.

In order to take extraordinary precaution against even a minute settlement we allowed expansion points between the ends of each span, so that each span is a separate bridge with the hand rails finished accordingly.

Proceeding the construction of this Bridge, I received a mandatory instruction from the Department of Highways reading thus: "If it is intended to receive Government aid on the construction of any of these bridges we must ask that concrete wing-walls be added thereto."

Accordingly it was necessary for me to construct wing-walls in order to protect the County in the collection of its percentage of Government aid—and I complied with this request. I made them about 12 feet long with their outer edges extending in the longitudinal direction of the outer edge of the bridge and a further handrail constructed of reinforced concrete posts, using old bridge suspension bars for the rails. These wing-walls and hand rails added to the cost of the bridge. Over 700 wagon loads of stone were used in the construction of the approaches but it gives the bridge the appearance of a very massive and substantial structure. The total cost of the bridge was $9,304.00.

I regret to report that this should not have cost what it did but for the exasperating difficulty of getting cement. At one time during its construction we were compelled to draw cement by wagon 18 miles from Stirling and at the same time bring it by rail from Springbrook and in each case buying at retail prices.

We finished the Lost Channel bridge on the 2nd of October, and on the 4th moved to the Bogart Bridge. This bridge is situated on Lot number 7, in the tenth concession of the Township of Hungerford, and spans the Clare river. It has a span of 45 feet with abutment 14 feet high resting on extended sub-bases. The North wing walls are 34 feet long and the south ones are 20 feet long with the surmounting hand rail extending the full length of the surmounting hand rail extending the full length of the bridge and wing-walls, amounting to about 104 feet of hand rail, on each side of the bridge. We procured old unused reinforcing steel and used it to reinforce the wing walls and tie them to the abutment. The soil at the site of the north abutment was found to be very unstable but we overcame this by constructing a base about 2 feet out in each direction from the sides of the abutment. The south base was on a rock bottom. These massive wing walls added more than 30 per cent to the cost of this bridge, which was $7,842.10.

The total cost of the above three bridges, viz: the Mink Creek, Lost Channel and Bogart bridges was $22,001.33.

Upon the completion of the Bogart Bridge on November 11th, the gang was discharged excepting the foreman, who kept a few men to store the machinery, tools, and equipment, and it is now in a good dry shelter and locked, an inventory of all was taken.

The foreman and two men then proceeded to the Mink Creek bridge to make the approaches and remove the former. They completed the bridge on November 23, and then proceeded with the approaches and forms on the Bogart Bridge, they having removed the former from the Lost Channel Bridge while constructing the Bogart Bridge.

The season was good for such work our only difficulty being the lack of cement.

Permit me to add that upon examining any of the bridges built by me in the past, I cannot detect a crack in any of them.

Permit me also to thank the Chairman and Members of your Bridge Committee for their uniform co-operation and assistance and intelligent grasp of difficult matters connected with these bridges.

James A. Moore, Respectfully Submitted, Chairman
Fraser Aylesworth.

David McKibbin, Engineer, Dead

For Many Years Behind the Reins on G.T.R. International Limited.

One of the Grand Trunk Railway's oldest engineers in point of service passed in the person of David McKibbin, 535 Euclid avenue, Toronto. Nearly half a century the late Mr. McKibbin had worked on the Grand Trunk Railway. For 46 years he had been an engineer running in and out of Toronto, and during by far the greater portion of that time he was engineer on the International Limited, Toronto to Belleville.

Mr. McKibbin was born in Belfast, Ireland, 65 years ago, and came to Toronto at the age of sixteen years. His very first job was with the Grand Trunk in some minor capacity, and he quickly worked himself up to the responsible post of engineer. For the past year or more Mr. McKibbin had suffered from ill-health and had been unable to pursue his occupation. He was a Mason of many years' standing, an Oddfellow, and a member of the Brotherhood of Engineers.

Besides his widow there survive seven children, all of Toronto: Mrs. Johnston Moore, Mrs. G. J. Paynter, Mrs. (Dr.) Madill, Miss Evelyn, John Melville and Ross.

Safety Director Branches of Canton, O., ordered the police to rid the city of vice and crime. Twenty-four hours later burglars broke into his office and stole $200 in bonds and $250 in currency.

Evening With the Patriarchs Militant

Col. Garbutt Inspected Belleville Canton, Winner of Trophy.

Canton Belleville No. 3, I.O.O.F. was officially inspected on Friday night by Col. E. C. Garbutt, colonel commanding the Second Regiment of Patriarchs Militant of Ontario. The inspecting officer was accompanied by the Adjutant, Capt. F. W. Martin, of Picton and Major H. S. White, also of Picton.

The Chevaliers of Belleville Canton were present in large numbers under command of Capt. A. E. Cole, Major W. R. M. Gilbert and Col. R. H. Ketcheson being also present. There were also sixteen chevalliers in full uniform present from Picton.

After the Canton was opened, nineteen candidates presented their applications for enrolment in the army of Patriarchs Militant and one application for reinstatement. The degree (which is the highest in Oddfellowship) was then conferred by the Belleville Canton.

Col. R. H. Ketcheson then presented on behalf of Brig-Gen. W. J. Foster, of Toronto, the Allis Memorial Trophy to Canton Belleville No. 3. This massive silver cup was presented to the Department of Ontario by the widow of late Chevalier E. W. Allis, (who was an active member of Canton Toronto No. 7 for a number of years previous to his death) to be held by the Canton in Ontario having the largest increase in uniform members in the preceding year. That Canton Belleville should at last have the honor of being the holder is due to the untiring labor and interest taken in this branch of the order by Major W. R. M. Gilbert, who has interested the members of the subordinate lodges in the surrounding district in patriarchal Oddfellowship. Canton Belleville today has members from Trenton, Stirling, Havelock, Frankford and Bonar Law, and is now second in numbers of any Canton in Ontario.

The Canton was then inspected by Col. Garbutt in marching and sword exercise, and was highly complimented by the officer. After the Canton was closed, the members sat down to a splendid banquet, provided by the Belleville members. After the chevalliers had done full justice to the good things provided, the follow-

ANOTHER IMPORTANT INDUSTRY SEEKING CANADIAN LOCATION

Representative Was Here on Saturday Looking Over Possible Sites—Seemed Favorably Impressed With Belleville's Advantages—Would Likely Employ Hundreds of Workers.

There are prospects that another important new industry may locate at Belleville. A representative of the company arrived here on Friday night and on Saturday morning he was met at Hotel Quinte by Mayor Riggs and the Industrial commissioner. Later the party was joined by ex-Mayor L. W. Marsh and Mr. W. B. Deacon and a tour of the city took place. During the itinerary several factories were visited and possible sites looked over.

The representative was not a stranger to Belleville but he expressed great surprise and pleasure because of the evidences of progress he saw on every side. The newly paved streets and the change in appearances, looking out from Hotel Quinte particularly impressed him.

He was later received at the Chamber of Commerce building and again expressed surprise at the commodious and beautiful quarters provided for Belleville's chief commercial organization.

The company he represents is not a stock-selling organization but has plenty of capital of its own. The idea is to establish at Belleville or some other Ontario city a branch of the manufacture of a line of machinery at present being made only in the United States. This of itself would be an important industry that, in the not distant future, might give employment to 100 or 200 hands. But this industry would merely be the subsidiary of a far greater allied industry, to be established very soon after, if affairs should go as expected, and this larger industry would certainly require the services of several hundred and possibly thousands of hands.

Belleville, we should state, is only one of several small cities in Ontario to be visited by this company's representative but he seemed to regard the many advantages of Belleville with apparent favor.

Those who think that because of the slackening of business there is no likelihood of manufacturing plants establishing branches or otherwise expanding are away wrong. Within the past month three new industries have located at Welland, Ontario.

Welland's growth and prosperity did not come upon them overnight, but has been a matter of persistent effort extending over several years. The expansion of Welland from an insignificant country village into a busy and prosperous city, within a very few years, is a great tribute to the far-sighted men who planned for progress.

When once the industrial procession starts in a given direction, others follow as a matter of course. It is merely a case of following the crowd. Man is a gregarious animal and organizations of men obey the same impulses as do the individuals that compose the larger groups.

Every visitor that comes to Belleville, looking for an industrial site, is not going to locate at Belleville but if the visitors are received in the proper spirit and our claims for consideration are intelligently and persistently presented there is no reason in the world why this city should not win a reasonable number of successes in the industrial field.

It will be the most difficult to land the first few. After the line gets followed our way, then the crowd will follow just as surely as effect follows cause.

Such things do not grow on trees nor do they fall from the clouds. They come to those who go after them and cities like Welland have the advantage of a big start. At Belleville we will have to work all the harder in order to be in the running with our rivals.

Every new industry not only gives employment to additional labor but by adding to our population increases the value of every piece of property within our city.

ing programme was carried out under the chairmanship of Capt. A. E. Cole. Addresses were given by Col. E. C. Garbutt, Major H. S. Wright, Capt. F. W. Martin, Chevalier Culvert, (an ex-mayor of Picton), all of Picton, and Col. R. H. Ketcheson and Chevalier J. O. Herity of Belleville. The most interesting part of the programme was the singing of the Polyhymnia quartet composed of the following, all members of Canton Picton No. 11—Ensign C. A. Newman, Chevalliers G. W. Allen, C. Hooper and W. W. Clow, who treated all present to a number of selections, the four voices being evenly balanced and blending splendidly. Ensign Newman with the assistance of Chevalier E. A. Minaker entertained with a number of conjuring tricks. Picton Canton are to be congratulated on the splendid entertainers in their ranks.

The year 1920 has been the best Canton Belleville has ever had, having increased their numbers from 47 on Jan 1st to 123 at the present time. The singing of the National Anthem brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

BRIGHT PUPILS

The Minister of Education announces the seventh award of the scholarships provided by the will of the late J. I. Carter, of Sarnia. These scholarships are awarded to the three candidates who obtained the highest marks on the 1920 June Upper School examinations in the city of Toronto and in each of the twenty-four counties named in the will. In Hastings County the Scholarships were awarded as follows: First, Greta E. Madden, Belleville; second, Phyllis L. VanAllen, Belleville; third, Sarah D. Roberts, Tweed. Miss Roberts lives at Sulphide, and is an exceptionally bright pupil. The winner gets $100, second $60.00 and third $40.00. This speaks well for Tweed High School, as Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Madoc and Stirling figure in the competition, says the Tweed News.

Public Meeting Endorses City Managership Plan

Ald. Carter Tells How Guelph is Progressing After Two Years of the New System of Government—Citizens Favor Three Year Term For Aldermen.

Resolved that this mass-meeting of the Citizens of Belleville, having heard the able explanation of Alderman J. E. Carter, of Guelph, endorse the City Managership System of municipal government and recommend our City Council to arrange for the holding of a referendum on that question at the time of the annual elections next January.

"AND FURTHER BE IT RESOLVED that this mass meeting recommend for adoption here, the system of electing Aldermen now in force in Guelph; that is to say that the said Aldermen shall be elected for a period of three years, one-third of the entire membership of the council retiring each year, the mayor to be elected from the board of aldermen annually and the entire membership of the council to consist of nine members."

This resolution was unanimously carried at the close of a meeting in the City Hall last night, which had been arranged under the auspices of the Lions' Club and the Chamber of Commerce. The hall was well filled with representative citizens and quite a number of ladies were in the audience.

President Bob Gorman of the Lions' Club occupied the chair, with him on the platform were Ald. Carter, ex-Mayor of Guelph, ex-Mayor Col. Marsh, ex-Mayor Painter, Ex-Mayor Ketcheson, Mayor Riggs, Ald. Bone, Ald. Hains, Ald. Ponton, Ald. Doyle, Ald. DeMarrah, Ald. Wensley, J. Elliott, Industrial Commissioner J. O. Herby and Mr. Harold Barrett.

The chairman said that the city manager form of government had been discussed somewhat and it was decided to call in an experienced man. "The lot fell on Guelph to supply the man who was qualified to speak on the question of City Managership. Ald. Carter, an ex-mayor, was the best qualified man to explain the system."

Mayor Riggs Favours System.

Mayor Riggs expressed the citizens' pleasure in having ex-Mayor Carter as the city's guest. "We believe in the city managership plan of government and we are trying to bring about this system in Belleville," Rotarians and the Lions are taking up the welfare of Belleville. "I do hope before long we will have the same government in Belleville as they have in Guelph."

Ald. Carter Greeted.

Ald. Carter was given a very warm reception on rising to speak. He acknowledged his debt to the local club in being permitted to speak here. His address would, he said, be in the nature of an informal talk rather than a speech. Ald. Carter congratulated Belleville on its Lions' Club, its Rotary and the Chamber of Commerce.

Unfortunately the opinion has gone abroad that Chambers of Commerce are for class legislation. He wanted to emphasize the fact that this was not true. It was a fact that the Chamber of Commerce in Belleville and every other city is working for the interests of the entire municipality.

The Lions' Club motto was service. Many people today think service refers only to themselves, they do not think enough of others and their community. If Belleville can follow out the motto of the Lions' Club it was certain that there would be no better city in Canada.

Suggest Something Better. Don't Knock.

He had fifteen years' experience in the city council. This taught him that anything brought forward was "knocked."

If a man cannot offer a better solution, he should not knock. He should not attack the alderman who represents him, unless he has something better to take its place, where citizens reach the point that they believe they have a duty to perform to their municipality. If critics have something to offer why are they not in the council?

Councils Try to Give Best Service.

"Please don't expect that your aldermen and mayor are angels. They will make mistakes, but the average alderman and mayor try to give their best."

undone many things that had to be done by other departments. Sometimes every department had a bank account and the city hall had another. He hoped Belleville had only one account. Guelph with a large surplus was borrowing money at 6 per cent. while the city money was lying in other banks. One department might be short of men and other departments have little to do. Each department bought separately. Perhaps a dozen different men were buying at a dozen different prices.

The result was in 1913 he had a bylaw introduced to substitute for the council and commission, a city manager plan. It was defeated. In 1915 he had a municipal improvement committee appointed to investigate the various forms of city government. They finally brought in a report favoring the election of twelve men for three years. These twelve would appoint four aldermen. This is the English form. This was thought to be pretty fair. The city passed it. The Dominion Trades & Labor Council opposed it and advised the withdrawal of the bill. This was done.

Public Opinion Behind Council.

Don't think a man can do his best unless you are a unit behind him. If a man shows reasonable good judgment and is out for the mass and not for the class, he is safe to trust. A progressive man is safer than the man whom you wouldn't box up and send to the cemetery.

He advised the citizens of Belleville to keep the community spirit going. He believed the city had real community spirit.

It was a treat to see young men in the Belleville city council. They are the future citizens. Young men may appear a little too progressive but these are progressive times.

Ald. Carter then entered upon a comparison of the conditions in Belleville and in Guelph.

Belleville has approximately a ten million dollar assessment. Why do you require a city manager? Is there any line of human endeavor in which there are more knocks than in municipal affairs? Criticism is all right if constructive, but destructive criticism is a calamity. All you have is at stake in Belleville. The moment you knock Belleville, you are hitting at yourself. The value in Belleville is perhaps $20,000,000. A $20,000,000 corporation requires pretty careful management to bring about the best results. The question is not won't go in and serve the city. Let each man think—"If I am not willing to go into the council and bring some of my executive and business ability to bear I should cease knocking." If we are not prepared to give service to the municipality we should not throw criticism.

Value For Expenditure.

Under the old form of Government at Guelph, given at pre-war prices, we got about 40 cents value on the dollar expended. That does not pay. No organization can pay under such conditions. There must be efficiency no matter what the rate is. You cannot get adequate return with the old city manager plan. The old system is 7 years old.

Ald. Carter claimed that under the present plan it was impossible to get efficiency. He predicted a change in the Municipal Act favoring an option in the form of Government. No city should delay in getting on a proper business basis.

You are all shareholders in Belleville. You are interested in its future. You can make or mar it. I would be pleased to have anybody visit Guelph and investigate. We believe we have made a marvellous saving. Inside of a couple of years we think we will have the lowest mill rate for the greatest efficiency of any city in Canada. The present rate is 28 mills but this is high as Guelph has decided to pay the patriotic givings off in three years instead of paying off in long term debentures. The ordinary rate would be 24 mills. The assessment is about 75 per cent. of the value two years ago.

Guelph Council Elects Mayor.

The eighteen aldermen chose a mayor from the council by a standing vote.

Ald. Carter declared that this was an improvement on the system of electing a mayor. The aldermen are better qualified to name the man than the citizens at large. This has produced good results in the past two years. Under the elective system, a man with a good handshake might be elected over a man of ten times his ability mentally and physically. The six aldermen receiving the highest vote were elected for three years, the next six for two years and the next for one year.

In the case of tie in appointment of Mayor the man with the highest assessment becomes mayor.

How Managership Works Out.

All commissions existing ceased. The city manager was made a member ex-officio of all committees with right of discussion but without a vote. He meets a committee and recommends certain work. He has the various department and officials behind him. He knows the engineer problems, financial and legal problems. He discusses the plans before the committee. He lays the whole matter on the table. The committee will report to the council. If the council carries the proposal, the aldermen no longer have any right to interfere. The city manager must produce results on the job and he is given control once the council's assent is given. He is responsible for the management of the corporation.

What does the system produce? The employment of trained administrators means continuity. It gives an alderman time to work at suggestions as to improvement.

The manager appoints the officials. It would not be fair to have the council make the appointments. There is a concentration of effort as all officials are responsible to the city manager. The city cannot realize its best under a dual responsibility. The best is brought out by a unity of managements.

Manager Diplomatic, Yet Firm.

The manager must have diplomacy. He must be ready to assert himself when he feels he is right. He must be a man who will say "yes" or "no" at the right time.

Timesheets have been installed in the various departments. The plan of co-ordination of effort in clearing up streets.

Saving in Purchasing Supplies.

"We have a purchasing department that has paid for the system many times over. Everything is bought at the lowest price possible. The purchasing agent is responsible and has to show that the price are the best. The supplies in Belleville, if bought, would save the city manager's salary. It is known that the city has no need the supplies.

Voice.—How much do you pay your manager?

Guelph's Financial Condition.

Guelph's assessment is $17,000,000. Guelph's population is about 19,000, and including the immediate environs about 23,000 people. The net debt is about $2,200,000. That includes the price paid for light and gas plants, the water works, the street railway and the steam railway. Taking off the value of the utilities as bought, (but since improved), the net debenture debt would be approximately $200,000. He thought Belleville's situation was in a fair state as far as debentures are concerned. Sewers and improvements are the best thing a city can have. Pavements are a saving on the whole, mean better sanitation. The big manufacturer does not ask for a big bonus or to sell stock. He is going to size up the city. He is figuring out whether the city is a good one to live in. A competent workman in the biggest asset a city can have. I am satisfied from the men I have met, Belleville has the nucleus of a great future.

Guelph's area is very large. If the area were half as great, the debt would not be so large.

Guelph has about 12 miles of paved streets. Nearly two miles was laid this year.

How Paving Cost was Reduced.

A municipality should not be too economical in equipment. Guelph bought $18,000 of trucks, a ten thousand dollar gravel pit at Mr. Hood's suggestion. He reduced the cost of paving 50 per cent. over the year before. If the city is going on with improvements and you wish to save $50 to $100 per day, the only way is to have a manager backed up

Howard Kelley, President of the Grand Trunk Railway and Edward Beatty, President of the C. P. R. at Conference at Union Station and Viaduct in Toronto, Canada.

The city was paying the manager $3,500 and had arranged to pay $5,000 for next year, but Manager Moore lost his life in a hunting accident a few weeks ago.

The new system allows the carrying out of plans for the future. There should be a city planning committee of an advisory nature.

It must be seen that buildings going up conform to certain adopted principles. Certain areas may be set aside for boulevards and congestion areas improved. The city manager is at all times looking ahead with the idea of future extensions. He can lay plans for the development of a certain area.

by a man like Hood.

Guelph lays its own pavements. On residential streets there is asphalt surface. On extreme heavy traffic streets the city thinks that concrete is most suitable. Concrete is rougher than asphalt. In summer asphalt gives the best hold.

Voice.—Where are city managers made or brought up?

"You will probably have in your own midst such a man. Don't be afraid to offer him more money before he leaves you. Let him be a diplomat and yet firm—in a show-down, Guelph's late manager was a local man."

Mr. Mikel asked if the city manager's decision could be overridden in a problem.

Mr. Carter said: "It has got to be a co-operation between the aldermen and the manager. When the manager can show a good proposition, the council will back him up."

He thought a council of nine or twelve was competent to handle the affairs of a municipality.

Ex-Mayors Introduced Resolution.

Ex-Mayor Marsh moved the above resolution at this juncture, seconded by ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson.

Ex-Mayor Ketcheson was pleased at the emphasis placed on the fact that the city and the citizens were one. He more and more favored city managership. "Belleville is a large corporation. Under the present system, so thought or except of criticism is given as to management. A man cannot be taken out of a shop and be expected to manage half a million dollar utility, besides his own business. I think the quicker we get down to business and get a good manager and heads of departments, Belleville will progress. Belleville has been wasting 40 or 50 or 60 per cent of the revenue, through the hands of the council being tied." He hoped the city council would act upon the resolution.

Judge Willis thought the citizens should not endorse the manager system without fuller information, but said he was pleased with the remarks of Ald. Carter.

The vote was then taken and the resolution carried without opposition.

Mayor Riggs expressed his delight at the passage of the resolution. He moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Carter for his address, seconded by Ald. Bone.

Late C. A. Liddell

The funeral of the late Charles Andrew Liddell took place on Wednesday afternoon from his late home in the Third Concession of Thurlow in the Third Line Methodist Church, where the Rev. Mr. McMullen conducted an impressive service, preaching on the text, Psalm 116, Verse 18, "Blessed in the sight of the Lord is the death of His Saints." Deceased was superintendent of the Sunday school and many young men and boys attended in a body. They lined up outside the church and preceded the remains from the church. Universal testimony to the noble life of a good man was borne by all. The friends and relatives of the deceased attended in very large numbers. The floral tributes were very numerous. The interment was made in Belleville cemetery, the bearers being J. E. Cooley, E. W. Brown, O. D. Clapp, R. Ketcheson, W. Badgley and G. Clapp.

Emmanuel Church Holds Bazaar

Ladies' Aid of Emmanuel Church, Hold Successful Bazaar.

A most successful bazaar was held by the Ladies' Aid of Emmanuel Church yesterday afternoon. The Sunday School hall looked very pretty in its decorations of red and white with Union Jacks very much in evidence. The tea room was especially attractive and was patronized by everyone.

This bazaar is the first attempt of the Ladies' Aid of Emmanuel church and having been so successful it will likely be made an annual affair. The booths were practically all sold out in two hours.

The general booth where many useful things were sold was in charge of Mrs. G. Naylor and Mrs. J. Barlow.

Many good things were in display at the home-made cooking table over which Mrs. Hallam and Mrs. Strickland presided.

The fish pond proved to be a very busy spot during the afternoon. Mrs. Follwell had charge of it.

The fancy work booth displayed some very dainty articles. Mrs. Lydia Thompson presided over this booth.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Baker, Mrs. Ketcheson, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Gence, Mrs. Andrews and Miss D. Thompson. Much praise is due to Mrs. (Rev.) Marshall, who is president of the Ladies Aid, and her co-workers for making their first bazaar such a huge success.

Unable to support his family on his salary, Rev. Philip Yarrow resigned as pastor of a Chicago Congregational church to accept a position as travelling salesman.

The poor are always with us and some wealthy people are pretty close.

Farmer is Killed Walking the Track

His Body Found on the G.T.R. Line West of Ernestown.

Bearing injuries which showed that he had been struck and killed by a passing train, the dead body of Fred Oak, R.M.D. No. 2, Bath, was found Friday morning lying on the Grand Trunk tracks one mile west of Ernestown by a section party. Dr. Northmore, Bath, coroner, decided that death was accidental, issued a permit for the removal of the body and declared that an inquest was unnecessary.

Oak was a passenger on east-bound Grand Trunk train No. 28 on Thursday evening and evidently took to the tracks on his return to his home, which is west of Ernestown. One mile west of the station, while walking on the west-bound track, he is believed to have been struck by the engine of Grand Trunk-Canadian National train No. 151, running west from Kingston. When found, the body was lying on the north side of the west-bound track and had injuries on the shoulder and top of the head. The remains were taken to the home of deceased.

Wedding Bells

PURSER—CLEAVER.

Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, Toronto, was the scene of an interesting ceremony yesterday afternoon at half past three, when, Mons. only daughter of Rev. S. Cleaver, D.D., and Mrs. Cleaver, formerly of Toronto, but now of Belleville, became the bride of Harold M. Purser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Purser, Claxton House, Great Bridge Tipton, England. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her brother, Dr. E. E. Cleaver, and the marriage service was conducted by her father, assisted by Rev. J. H. Williams. After the signing of the register, Mr. and Mrs. Purser were greeted by hundreds of their friends who had assembled in response to a general invitation. Immediately following the marriage service the happy couple left for New York where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return to Toronto they will live at 152 Glenview avenue. The bride has been a popular and successful member of the editorial staff of The Globe for the past nine years, and the groom has an honorable record of service overseas.

Celebration of Golden Wedding

On Tuesday at the home of Mrs. H. J. Mowck, 287 Street, Belleville, an interesting event took place—the golden wedding being observed.

On December 7th, 1870 Mr. Mowck and Miss Annie G. daughter of Mr. James Graham Hangerford were united in matrimony. They lived on a farm in the town until eleven years ago when removed to Belleville. Mr. Mowck are well known in Hford and in Belleville.

They have two sons, T. H. and H. A. Mowck, of Hangerford three daughters, Mrs. Ernest G. Hangerford; Miss Nettie of Belleville, at home, and Mrs. Jan Bateman, of Hangerford, and ten grandchildren.

Their sons and daughters, and grandchildren and other friends assembled at 287 George Street celebrated the day with the bridegroom of fifty years ago. A feature of the celebration was the presentation of a ring to Mrs. Mowck by her daughter, Carrie Ham, and of a cane to Mr. Mowck by his grandson, Russel Bateman.

ALL THE WORLD

(Written Especially for The Ontario by "Goodwill")

The World Does Move

What a grand thing to feel, as Honest Abe, Lincoln once said:—"While all seems dead, the age itself is not. It liveth as surely as our Maker liveth. Under all this seeming want of life and motion, the world does, nevertheless."

Tranquility in Palestine

After hearing so much of the disturbances in one part of the Empire, it is very gratifying to learn from various sources that tranquility prevails in Palestine. After so many centuries of Turkish mis-rule it has been a blessing to the Jewish Race that Palestine is secure for the present under the mandate of Britain, and the Union Jack flies side by side with the Zionist banner. There appears to be every promise of success of the Jewish national ambitions being realized. Those who have got back to the land of their Fathers are settling down to agricultural pursuits, and are diligently cultivating their orange groves and vineyards in peace and freedom from external and internal disturbance.

Poor Bishops

It may appear impossible for the average working-man who earns just as many dollars a week to pay his way, to realize that there are other men who find it difficult to live on a salary of $40,000 to $50,000 a year. But some of these highly paid gentlemen in England have been taking the public into their confidence with regard to their salary, and the way it goes, especially since the war. Dr. Hensley, Henson the new bishop of Durham, at the time of his civic reception, issued a warning that his private purse, after certain expenses were paid, was not so bulky, after all. He said 40 years ago the taxes the bishop had to pay were less than $500 per annum. "I shall have to pay next year just about $3,000." He added that he did not complain, but wished to make his position clear.

Good Advice from Tokio

The recent World Sunday School convention with its 1,814 delegates representative of 30 countries, and including members of kindred every race and shade of color, passed resolutions that should promote world brotherhood. They emphasized the need for the restraint of national passions. "The solidarity of the human race," the convention said:—"We maintain that any national and international policy that seems to discriminate in the treatment of races engenders bitterness, and is subversive to the best interests of mankind and inimical to the peace of the world. Finally, we assert our unalterable conviction that nothing in this world is settled until it is settled right. We hold that spiritual sanctions must have a place in life and that moral mandates must increasingly exercise their power in controlling the conduct of mankind."

The Children's Newspaper

It has been said that this is the "Century of the Child." And I think that the idea of a certain author in giving that title to a volume dealing with the question of our children was to promote interest in the coming generation. There is surely more being done for the bodily and mental welfare of children today than ever there was before. Arthur Mee, a well known journalist and writer in England, a few years ago edited the Children's Encyclopaedia, and has continued his excellent educational work on behalf of children by publishing a monthly magazine, and for over a year now he has published a splendid illustrated Children's Newspaper weekly. This aims at telling the Story of the World today for the Men and Women of Tomorrow. Having got this excellent paper for my eight year old boy since it began, I can strongly recommend parents to order this weekly. The Imperial News Company, Toronto, are the Canadian Agents.

Disarmament

I note in one of the many reports on the League of Nations at Geneva, that the question of Disarmament had provoked some interesting debates. It is stated that the smaller nations are in favor of preparations being made immediately for world disarmament. Britain and France, however, advanced the idea that it was not the time for this yet. The report then stated:—"Delegates of Britain and France will devote the next few days to bringing the smaller powers around to their way of thinking."

But I cannot help but think that it would be better for the whole world if, in this case, the Little Nations could bring the Bigger Nations around to their way of thinking. If all nations were to disarm there would be no one to arm against. Goodwill believes "the world does move, nevertheless" toward disarmament and peace.

What Lord Robert Cecil Thinks. In a fine article in the new magazine called "Outward Bound," in the October number, Lord Robert, in referring to the Nation's interdependence, says:—"If we substitute the principle of co-operation for that of hostility—then there lies before us a vista of peace and all that peace brings with it. The real hope and the one hope of the future lies in getting the nations of the world to understand that their prosperity and their life, their existence, depend not on perpetual rivalry with their neighbors, but on co-operation and a common life, just as society has been based on the common life of individuals."

Celebration of Golden Wedding

On Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Mouch, 237 George Street, Belleville, an interesting event took place—the golden wedding being observed. On December 7th, 1870 Mr. H. J. Mouch and Miss Annie Graham, daughter of Mr. James Graham of Hungerford were united in marriage. They lived on a farm in the township until eleven years ago when they removed to Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Mouch are well known in Hungerford and in Belleville.

They have two sons, T. H. Mouch and H. A. Mouch, of Hungerford, and three daughters, Mrs. Ernest Graham of Hungerford; Miss Nettie of Belleville, at home, and Mrs. James R. Bateman, of Hungerford, and seventeen grandchildren. Their sons and daughters, and the grandchildren and other friends assembled at 237 George Street, and celebrated the day with the bride and groom of fifty years ago. A feature of the celebration was the presentation of a ring to Mrs. Mouch on behalf of the family and friends by a little granddaughter, Carrie Graham, and of a cane to Mr. Mouch by his grandson, Russel Bateman.

The Rev. Rural Dean Swayne and Rev. Mr. Stuart, of Tweed, were among the guests. The following address accompanied the gifts:—"Dear Father and Mother.—Your children and grandchildren, greet you on this fiftieth anniversary of your marriage. It is a great joy to us all that you have been spared to us this day and we sincerely hope that many more will be added thereto. These fifty years are full of fond memories for us all. We now vividly realize the anxious solicitude and care you always manifested and the wisdom with which you overcame the obstacles in the way of the plans you had mapped out for our benefit and welfare. No mere words of thanks can fully express all we owe to you; nor can tokens of appreciation reward you for all your goodness to us. A mother's love and a father's anxious care can never be fully appreciated. We therefore with deep filial love and devotion that we ask you, mother, to accept this ring, and you, father, this cane. May they ever remind you of this day and that your love for your children has not been in vain. They but fully represent that love which true love inspires. We heartily thank our Heavenly Father that He has spared and blessed you these many years, and sincerely pray that of His Gracious Goodness He will grant you many more of peace and happiness alike for yourselves and a blessing to us your children and children's children.

COUNTY COUNCIL

A report of the Board of arbitration regarding equalization of the assessment of various municipalities was adopted by the County Council. The Board ordered the costs to be paid by the County. A report was read from Mr. Collins, School Inspector for North Hastings. The Inspector pointed out the gradual falling off of the teachers' qualification. Better salaries were necessary to be paid to teachers to keep up the qualifications. During the year an up-to-date new brick school had been erected at Hermon, Mayo Township. Dr. Kindred, of Tweed, contended that the villages should receive more remunerative grants from the Government special grant for school purposes.

In answer to an enquiry Mr. Clarke, Inspector for South Hastings stated that villages did not receive as large a grant as did some rural municipalities.

Inspector Collins said it was a fact that teachers fully qualified do not care to take schools in the northern part of the county as the salaries are low. The Government is trying to overcome this by giving larger grants.

Dr. Kindred moved, seconded by Mr. Airhart that the Government be memorialized to place the village on the same basis as rural schools when making grants.

The matter was referred to a special committee to report to the Board on Thursday. Mr. John Elliott, urged the County Councilors to use their influence to see that Canadian cheese was given the preference. He asked the county council to grant $100 towards the entertainment of the Associated Board of Trade.

It is a disgrace to think that the hotels in Canada do not put the best Canadian cheese on the hotel tables. Mr. H. F. Ketcheson also spoke. The request was referred to ways and means.

Capt. (Rev.) Boal appealed for a part of $3,000, to the Navy League. Belleville paid into the Patriotic Fund $137,385.26 and drew out $131,470.70, and Hastings paid in $269,894.70, and drew out $318,553.41.

A motion prevailed that the matter be laid over until the January session.

Reeve McKeljohn, of Stirling is unable to attend the County Council session owing to illness.

Churchill and Ireland

Editor Ontario.—Allow me to reply regarding your editorial of Dec. 6th, "Churchill and Ireland." Mr. Churchill is amazed at the Irish nation allowing itself to be robbed of its birthright and its dignity. Permit me to state that Ireland has been robbed of its birthright and every other right of which it could be robbed during the last hundreds of years by the British Government.

The trouble in Ireland today is the direct outcome of promises made by British statesmen, and which were never to be carried out. Had the Home Rule Bill which was promised Redmond before the war, been enforced, much suffering and bloodshed would have been averted. But so, King Carson had to be consulted on this important matter. And more than that, Edward Carson is the greatest enemy to English interests in Ireland today.

In his speech, Churchill also spoke of murder and assassination. Who started this murder and assassination? Is it not the British Army of Occupation who must be credited with these noble deeds? By their cowardly attacks on unprotected men, women and children, putting them out of their beds in the middle of the night, ransacking their houses and destroying everything within reach, these men were supposed to be fulfilling their duties to their king and country. Raids were carried on for more than two years before a single policeman was shot. Now, the Black and Tans, the scum of the English jails and London slums, are armed and let loose to do their nefarious work among a defenseless people, all in the name of British justice and fair play.

In 1914, our indignation knew no bounds when we read of the dastardly attack of the German hordes on the little country of Belgium, and we were all ready to assist the Mother Country when she called upon the world to come to her aid, and help crush the greatest enemy to civilization, namely, the German nation. No sooner had the "champion of the rights of small nations," (as she is commonly styled) withdrawn her troops from the war zone, than she immediately began a warfare in Ireland, more frightful, if possible, than that carried on by the Germans in Belgium. Speaking of history, allow me to say that, when the present history of England is written regarding her policy in Ireland, it will not only be tinged as Mr. Churchill fears, but one of the blackest pages ever penned. You (Mr. Editor) speak of an Irish settlement. God knows we all desire that from the bottom of our hearts. Opportunity for a satisfactory settlement has knocked on England's door on more than one occasion but was refused entrance and so passed on. And now the Irish people have lost all faith in the word of a British statesman.

If the English Government would withdraw its army of occupation, the differences between the north and south would be quickly and easily adjusted and before many moons peace would once more reign in the Emerald Isle.

REV. FREDERICK WOODGER

Last Sunday evening Rev. W. F. Woodger received a message stating that his father, Rev. Frederick Woodger, had passed away in Bowmanville Hospital, about 4 o'clock that afternoon. Deceased suffered a paralytic stroke about eight weeks ago, and while he recovered consciousness he never rallied from the effects. He was sixty-three years of age, and had only been superannuated a few years.

The late Frederick Woodger was stationed in the Madoc District for a number of years and since retiring from active work had visited and preached in Marmora a number of times, so that he was quite well known here. He was an able preacher, and always held his beloved calling above all personal or selfish interests.

His death will cause a feeling of deep regret among the people on the various circuits, where he had ministered.

He was twice married, and is survived by his second wife. Two sons and one daughter by the first marriage are also left to mourn his loss. They are Rev. Wendell P. Woodger, of Marmora, Milton, of Port Dover, and Miss Ruth of Kleinburg. He is also survived by a brother, who resides in Mitchell, Ont.

County Increases Grant to Hospital

Conditions of South Hastings Schools.

A request for an increased grant to the W.C.A. for Belleville Hospital was referred to ways and means of the Hastings County Council yesterday.

Reeve Thompson and Deputy Reeve Bailey of Rawdon were appointed a committee to represent the council at a trial at Stirling in reference to an alleged nuisance and obstruction on a highway in Rawdon by the construction of a fence.

Treasurer Mallory's statement to Nov. 30th, shows receipts $313,108.19 and expenditures $376,094.11.

Inspector Clarke's report on South Hastings showed that all the teachers in this inspectorate were qualified. School registration had increased. The only new school building was at Cannifton, to replace that destroyed by fire. The average salary is $968 in Stoney, $918 in Thurlow, $840 in Tyendinaga.

Bylaws Introduced.

Mr. J. L. Newton introduced a bylaw to appoint county auditors. Mr. Clare gave notice of a bylaw to incorporate the road leading from Belleville to Chapman's Corners as a Provincial County Road. These bylaws were referred to the committee of the whole on bylaws.

Dr. Embury stated that he would introduce a bylaw to increase the travelling rates of county councilors to 10 cents per mile each way.

On motion, the council went into committee of the whole on ways and means, Mr. Naylor in the chair.

The request of the county auditors for an increase of pay was considered.

A motion prevailed that a grant of $50, be made to the Teachers' Institute of Centre Hastings as per regulation of the education department.

A request from the ladies of the W.C.A., of Belleville for an increasing grant to the city hospital was considered.

A motion was adopted to increase the grant by $100.

Mr. Bailey moved, seconded by Mr. Vanderwaters that the request of Mr. J. Elliott for $100, to assist in entertaining the delegates of the Associated Boards of Tyade and Chambers of Commerce be granted.—Carried.

The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

"I regret to report that this should not have cost what it did but for the exasperating difficulty of getting cement. At one time during its construction we were compelled to draw cement by wagon 18 miles from Stirling and at the same time bring it by rail from Springbrook and in each case buying at retail prices."

Bogart bridge in Hungerford was also constructed. The cost of the three bridges was $22,001.36.

"Permit me, to add that upon examining any of the bridges built by us in the past, I cannot detect a crack in any of them."

Equalization Stirs Up Fire. Mr. C. Thompson presented an interesting report on the work of the special committee on equalization.

Mr. Vermilyea complained that the sales of land chosen were not representative of the values of entire townships.

Mr. Thompson denied that there had been any discrimination against Thurlow and in favor of other townships.

On motion the committee on equalization was given further time to present its report, in January.

Councillors favored the establishment of several consolidated schools.

On Wednesday, December 8th, a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Glover, of Madoc, when their daughter, Nancy Luella, was united in marriage to Mr. George D. Moorman, of Corbyville. Miss Florence Glover played the wedding march, to the strains of which the bride party entered the tastefully decorated parlor, the bride leaning upon the arm of her father. The ceremony was performed under a beautiful arch of evergreens, by Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A., of Campbellford, brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. J. R. Trumpp of Queensboro. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white crepe-de-chene draped with georgette, and trimmed with pearls. She also wore a beautiful bridal veil caught with orange blossoms, and the gift of the groom, an onyx necklace set with diamonds, and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations. During the signing of the register, a solo was rendered by Mr. Harry Moorman, of Belleville; brother of the groom. After a sumptuous repast, the happy couple left amid showers of confetti for Brockville and other Western points. The many beautiful gifts witnessed the esteem in which the young couple are held. After a short honeymoon they will reside in Thurlow township.

The following is the summary of work for the month: Number children treated, 472. Number fillings, amalgam, 44. Number fillings, cement, 44. Number extractions, permanent, 2. Number extractions, temporary, 50. Medical Clinics.

In each of the schools pupils are found who call for a more complete physical examination than can be made by a school nurse. In the absence of a regularly-appointed school doctor, volunteer service for this work has to be asked from the local doctors. On November 18th, Drs. Blackie and Tower held an examination clinic in Pine St. school, the pupils being referred to their family physician where need of treatment was indicated. At this clinic each of the mothers, who had been asked to meet with the doctors, were present.

Vaccination Clinics. Because of the presence of small-pox through parts of Ontario, vaccination clinics have been held by the Medical Health Officer in three of the schools. 172 children, who signified their parent's consent, were vaccinated during the month. A. V. SINCLAIR, School Nurse.

Mr. Flint Writes From California

Editor Ontario:— Rockefeller has given away four hundred and seventy millions. This sum would build sixty "Bellevilles," assuming the assessment to be eight millions. A Hearst paper here printed yesterday ninety-six thousand copies. Hearst publishes two daily papers. The Examiner office occupies a whole city block. The Times is edited by a poet and the writer of the celebrated "Mission play, J. S. MacGroarty. This paper is in favor of England and opposes Hearst's enmity to everything English. There is no doubt but that serious trouble is pending between Japan, and this country. Emigration has been controlled by a gentleman's agreement. The feeling here is, that the Japs must be excluded from owning property in this country. The fact is, that the Japs here, are industrious, honest, ostute, and are acquiring much land. Their birth rate far exceeds the American, and writers argue that in a few years, they would own the country. The masses desire, that America (the United States) should join the Peace League, leaving out article ten.

It is stated that this country is 146 years old, that during that period, there has been 106 years of war. Harding will urge, that the United States join the league, under amended conditions. I heard a popular minister make the statement of his congregation, that all of us are tired of war, and we must be in the Peace League. Thirty-nine countries are in the League, and we are ashamed of our companions, who are out of the League, namely, Russia, Germany, Austria.

A great auto race took place here the winner received a cheque for nearly fifteen thousand dollars. He drove two hundred miles, and averaged one hundred and one miles per hour. De Palma has made 104 miles in an hour. Nine participated, three were killed, two drivers, and mechanic. The auto's had 4000 each other. At Vernon, fifteen minutes from this city, every Sunday, they have three boxing matches, and horse races. Hundreds of thousands go to the ocean beaches. The auto's here cause many deaths.

Mr. Vandewater, has just been elected as a Congressman. He, his wife and a lady friend, attended an entertainment given in his honor. Upon returning, a collision took place and Mr. Vandewater, his wife, and lady friend, were all killed. Over five thousand streets of auto drivers have been made within a few days. The roads here are so wide, and beautiful, that the temptation is to drive rapidly.

The flower shops here, are wonderful. Every flower which I am acquainted can be seen in lavish profusion. Roses of every kind, the orchids are most beautiful. There are about nine parks in the city. One of them is about three blocks from my abode. There is a lake of about one hundred acres. There are hundreds of wild ducks of several varieties. A large white Tivan. These ducks will feed from your hand, and the blackbirds with golden eyes will come up to you, and look up asking for crumbs. The ducks fly away in the mating season, and return again. This park has a wealth of all kinds of flowers. Here you can see the broad leaved banana, the pepper tree, with its crimson berries. The Eucalyptic tree which sheds all its bark, and presents white and gleaming trunk and limbs in their naked beauty. The queen of all the flowers is the Polynacta, with its fifteen long pointed scarlet leaves. Beautiful rose gardens, Palms of a dozen varieties, Masses of vines, with their pink flowers. Upon the lake glaucous and skiffs. A block farther on you enter Lafayette Park, containing a much greater area than the park I have alluded to. We have here flowers, walks, many palms, tennis grounds, swings, a very quiet and lonely spot. Along side runs the great Wilshire boulevard, with its palatial residences, and millionaires homes. This boulevard and West Adams street, are the most beautiful streets in the city. Enormous blocks are being erected. Adjoining Lafayette, is the School of Art. The grounds and dwellings are worth a pilgrimage to see.

The sudden death of Mrs. Geo. G. Spencer, at her residence, on East Street, on Saturday, Nov. 27th, 1920, came as a great shock to her many friends. Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy, such as Miller's Worm Powders, which are sure death to worms.

Miss Rumble Spoke to Mission Circle

Work of Muskoka Summer School Described.

The evening of December 7th, was pleasantly spent by the members of the Jubilee Mission Circle, when they met, to the number of 33, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Reid for their regular monthly meeting.

After a very dainty lunch served in good style by the hostess, a delightful program was rendered consisting of music and readings, together with the usual business pertaining to the Circle.

The outstanding number on the program was an address by Miss Rumble, of Albert College, in which she brilliantly pictured the work of the Summer School, at Muskoka. Miss Rumble's manner was indeed pleasing and all were delighted with the privilege of having her present.

Her words were an inspiration for better work, more concentrated thought and higher aim. The splendid address of the speakers on the Summer School program, together with the delightful outtings, finely combined work with pleasure and made all feel that it was a most profitable time, also proving that real happiness is derived from obtaining a better knowledge of higher things.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Miss Rumble for her splendid talk. The Circle feel grateful to Miss Gardner for making it possible for Miss Rumble to be present.

Appropriate remarks by the President brought the program to a close and all heartily responded to a vote of thanks to the hostess, who had opened her home, and shown such hospitality to the members of the Circle.
