For Better or For Worse."

CHAPTER VI.
A Change of Air.

It was on the following morning that Kittie essayed a real walk. Leaving the wood behind her, she sauntered across a field, and was picking some of the meadow-sweet and cowslips to adorn the tea-table, when she heard voices which seemed to be close to her, though she could not see the speakers. She stopped and looked in the direction of the sound, and discovered that they came from below the bank of the river, which just there ran through a steep decline. She turned to go, for she felt that, notwithstanding Mrs. Bickers' assurance, she might be trespassing, and she had gained the edge of the wood, when the voices sounded more loudly, and two figures; that of a girl and a young man came to the top of the bank.

Kittie instinctively, mechanically, slipped behind a tree and looked toward them; and as she did so, an exclamation of surprise escaped her, and she stood clutching the flowers and staring with an almost incredulous amazement.

For the girl was her "double," and the young man was the "Mr. Lashmore," who had rescued her at Earl's Court!

CHAPTER VII.
An Unseen Spectator.

Kittie watched the two figures breathlessly. She was not conscious that she was playing the part of a spy; and if she had been, she would not have stopped forward and revealed herself; for she was held in the thrall of a natural and an absorbing curiosity. She did not know enough of the world to be aware that coincidences are the rule rather than the exception of life, and that the one which was presenting itself to her was by no means extraordinary; for the world is small, and it is in the most unlikely places and at the most unlikely times we meet people whom we little expected to see.

But though she knew so comparatively little of the world, Kittie was sharp enough to perceive that these two persons were on—well, on very friendly terms; that they strolled along the bank talking and laughing, as if they knew and understood each other very well. And she saw something else: that the young man was intensely interested in the beautiful girl at his side. When a man is in love, or even beginning to be in love, with a woman, he reveals the fact by the expression of his eyes, by the very movements of his body. Lashmore's eyes were eloquent as they dwelt on the girl's face, and as he bent toward her, there was something in his attitude, a touch of appeal, of mute worship, which plainly discovered his secret, if secret it was, to the acutely intelligent Kittie.

Presently she saw the old gentleman who had accompanied her double at Earl's Court, approaching the young people; and at once she guessed that he was the "Sir Talbot" of whom Mrs. Bickers had spoken so proudly.

She waited until the three had moved on; then, recovering from the kind of spell that had held her, she turned into the wood, and, choosing the thickest part of it, made her way home. And as she went slowly and thoughtfully, she was conscious of a sense of disappointment and dissatisfaction.

Kittie would not have been a woman, if she had not been favorably impressed by the young man who had rescued her from the panic-stricken mob, and had afterward treated her with so much gentleness and delicate consideration. She had thought of him very often and very favorably; and, although she was not one of those foolish girls who weave romances, in which they themselves, of course, figure prominently, about every presentable young man they meet, she had come to regard him as the nearest approach to a hero she had yet seen.

It hurt her vaguely that this unknown girl, who resembled her so closely, should not only possess the good things of this life—Kittie, of course, had drawn her conclusions from Eva's costly dress—but that she should also have Mr. Lashmore for an intimate friend, if not a lover. She labored under a sense of wrong, injustice, which would have oppressed a higher nature than that of poor Kittie.

She looked and felt tired as she entered the cottage and sank into a chair beside the fire; and Mrs. Bickers, peering at her short-sightedly, said chidingly:

"You've been too far, dear, I can see; you're doing too much."

She hastened to get some broth she had been preparing and sat down by Kittie while she drank it.

"Where did you go, my dear?" she asked, as she got out the knitting, which she did so mechanically that Kittie declared the old lady could do it in her sleep.

"Through the woods and down toward the river," she replied; then she went on, after a slight hesitation: "I saw some people there. Is Sir Talbot a thin, tall, old gentleman, very upright and stately looking?"

"That's Sir Talbot, my dear. He was fishing, no doubt; the river belongs to him, of course."

"There was a young lady," said Kittie slowly and much embarrassed in her broth. "A slim girl, about—about my height, and pretty."

"That must have been Sir Talbot's daughter," said the old lady. "Miss Lyndhurst; Miss Eva, as we all call her. Yes; she is very pretty, quite a lovely girl, I am told. I've not seen her closely; and I'm so short-sighted, as you may have noticed, dear, that I can't say for myself; but she has the reputation of being very beautiful. She called at the cottage twice," she added, with intense satisfaction; "but unfortunately I happened to be out. No doubt she will call again, and I shall have the happiness of seeing her. She is Sir Talbot's only child, and he is devoted to her; in fact, they are devoted to each other, as is only natural and proper, seeing that they're only each other. She has been away a great deal, staying with her Children Had Eczema Doctors Failed to Cure.

Two Letters Which Prove the Efficiency of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a Cure for Eczema.

Fortunate are the mothers who know the virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment, for there is no treatment so suitable for use after the bath to relieve irritation and chafing and to thereby prevent eczema and similar skin diseases.

Mrs. W. L. Barnes, Timmins, Ont., writes:—"I want to tell you about the case of my little boy, who had baby eczema when he was three months old. It started on the top of his head, on his forehead and around his ears. The doctors failed to do him any good, so I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment on the recommendation of a friend, and in a month's time the child was entirely free of this disagreeable skin disease. He is now four years old, and has never had any further trouble from ailments of this kind. I also have great faith in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and believe that it cannot be beaten as a restorative for pale, nervous women."

Mrs. George McNair, River Charles, N.B., writes:—"We use Dr. Chase's Ointment in our home, and would not wish for anything better for cuts, burns and bruises. A few years ago a friend of mine, whose baby was terribly afflicted with eczema, had her child treated by their own family physician, but the little one got no better. They tried several remedies, but they all proved useless in this case. Upon the advice of a neighbor they got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and before the first box was used the child was completely cured. I can also recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to suffering friends who I know will be glad to learn of something to relieve their nervous trouble. You have my permission to use this letter for the benefit of others."

Keep Liver Active And Bowels Clean With "Cascarets"

Best when bilious, sick, headachy, constipated, or for bad breath or sour stomach.

Be cheerful! Clean up inside to-night and feel fine. Take Cascarets to liven your liver and clean the bowels and stop headaches, a bad cold, biliousness, offensive breath, coated tongue, sallowness, sour stomach and gases. To-night take Cascarets and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Wake up feeling grand—Everybody's doing it. Cascarets best laxative for children also.

aunt, Lady Lorchester. Lady Emily Lorchester. One would think it would be rather a dull life up at the Court there for her; for Sir Talbot has very few visitors; but Miss Eva seems to be very happy, by all accounts."

Kittie was on the point of saying that Miss Lyndhurst had a visitor, or a friend, with her now; but she checked herself. She feared that Mrs. Bickers might ask her some particulars about the young man; and Kittie shrank instinctively from discussing him, and much more from telling of her meeting with him. Mrs. Bickers ran on with the garrulity of her age and class; and Kittie, as she leaned back, with her hands clasped loosely in her lap, listened with an intentness which did not reveal itself in her face and was hidden by her half-closed lids.

"They say that Sir Talbot is rather poorly off, for a gentleman of his position; that the estate is very much encumbered—mortgaged, don't you call it, my dear?—and that it is because he is trying to save money for Miss Eva that they live so quietly and keep so little company at the Court. But, there! my dear, we're all in the hands of Providence; and Miss Eva is almost sure to marry a gentleman of her own rank, with heaps of money; in fact, I don't suppose Sir Talbot would allow her to marry any one else."

Mrs. Bickers said a great deal more than this. The great family at the Court was a dearly beloved topic with her, and for some time she rambled on repeating stories she had heard of Miss Eva's childhood and girlhood; and she seemed to be so well acquainted with incidents which had occurred in that young lady's immediate past, not to say present, life, that Kittie, raising her eyelids for a moment, said, with a smile:

"You appear to know everything that has happened to Miss Lyndhurst, Mrs. Bickers."

The old lady bridled a little. "Well, so I do, my dear," she admitted. "The fact is, that Selina Brown, Miss Eva's maid, is a friend of mine, and drops in very frequently for a cup of tea. I'm teaching her knitting; and, of course, we have a chat. Selina is naturally very fond of talking of her young lady. And I trust," bridling again, "there's no harm in it."

"Not in the very least," Kittie hastened to assure her. "I have been very much interested."

"Well, I should have thought you'd have been rather tired of my gossip," said the old lady, quite restored to her usual amiability. "And now, my dear, you must go and lie down and take a long rest, or else I shall have you bad again; and then what would your dear good father say, to say nothing of William?"

"You take too much care of me; you are spoiling me," said Kittie, with a kiss; "and the least I can do is to be a good and obedient girl."

She went up to her room, and lay on the outside of the bed. She generally slept whenever she wanted to do so; but she could not sleep now for her mind dwelt persistently upon all that Mrs. Bickers had told her. The interest, curiosity which she had felt on first seeing the other girl was now so intensified as to be almost an obsession. Amongst other gifts the gods had endowed Kittie with a marvellously retentive memory; she was one of those happy persons who can run over a poem twice or thrice, and remember it for life; who never forget a name or a face; and of the many names Mrs. Bickers had spoken, Kittie had lost not one; they were all packed away safely in the back of that shapely head, and would remain there till she wanted them.

Sir,—Yesterday you kindly gave space to my verses, "The Bowings." This morning with but slight alterations in favour of Mr. Coaker, the Advocate, my friends and the Bowings by the Advocate. What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

A gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel.

No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Care.

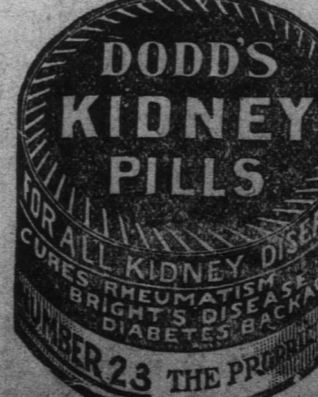

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture.

It Eliminates Hard Work.

Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt and best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

Waist—2035. Skirt—2020.

In the waist of this dress, figured and plain silk have been most attractively combined. Other combinations will be equally pleasing. One could embroider the waist front, collar and cuffs. The skirt also is new in its lines and shaping, and will lend itself admirably to the new spring materials. For the waist one could have pompadour silk and Georgette crepe, while the skirt could be of serge, gabardine or satin. Or, shantung or linen would be fine for the entire dress, with a touch of color by way of piping or facing. The Waist Pattern 2035 is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The Skirt 2020 also in 7 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. The skirt measures about 3½ yards at the foot, and will require 4 yards of 44-inch material for a 24-inch size. The waist requires 2½ yards of 44-inch material for a 36-inch size.

This illustration calls for Two separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Dress for Mother's Girl.

2031—Girls' Dress with Bertha Trimming, and Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

In crepe, dotted swiss, batiste, lawn, or soft nanisook this is nice for a "best" or party dress. It may also be made up in gingham, voile, challis, cashmere, chambray, rep, poplin or silk. The bertha may be omitted. The sleeve is nice in either length. The skirt is straight and gathered. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material for a 10-year size.

LONDON, March 29th.

LONDON EATING LESS.

It is encouraging to find that as the consumption of meat is curbed, London appears to be making a solid contribution to the voluntary rationing. In the first weeks of the year, before the rationing of Lord Devonport's meat supplies dealt with, the Smithfield averaged 6,926 tons a week. That figure fell in the first week of voluntary rationing to 5,376 tons, and in the third week of rationing to 5,419 tons, a saving of 6,000,000 the third week of 1,507 tons is equivalent to 1,507 ounces per head. Assuming that figures officially supplied from the field accurately indicate London's consumption of meat, the Ministry is doing very well, because Devonport allowance to a population of 6,000,000 is 6,696 tons weekly. Butchers are certainly complaining of a diminution in trade, and complaints are made in some quarters that the butchers are increasing is like trying to get a fair measure of wear out of a pair of ordinary, old-fashioned boots. But that's just what you had to do until The B. F. Goodrich Company perfected their HIGH PRESSURE method of making rubber footwear.

"HIPRESS" with the RED LINE round the top

By this wonderful new method, used only by the Goodrich Company, the same tough, long-wearing rubber used in the celebrated Goodrich Auto Tires is made into rubber boots. And each boot is MOLDED or CURED just like a tire into ONE SOLID PIECE. No layers to separate with hard wear—no cracks, no leaks.

Is it any wonder that one pair of these boots will outwear 2 and 3 pairs of any other boots on the market.

No man who hauls his share of a line ever wore boots so long-lasting and comfortable. Ask your dealer for the boots with the "Red Line Round the Top"—the mark of the genuine "Hipress."

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, March 5th, 1917.
LONDON EATING LESS MEAT.
It is encouraging to find that, so far as the consumption of meat is concerned, London appears to be making a solid contribution to the success of voluntary rationing. In the first five weeks of the year, before the introduction of Lord Devonport's scheme, the meat supplies dealt with at Smithfield averaged 6,926 tons per week. That figure fell in the second week of voluntary rationing to 5,057 tons, and in the third week of organized food economy, the consumption amounted to 5,419 tons, a saving of 2,376 tons in a fortnight. On a population of 6,000,000 the third week's decline of 1,507 tons is equivalent to 9 ounces per head. Assuming that these figures officially supplied from Smithfield accurately indicate London's total consumption of meat, the Metropolitan is doing very well, because the Devonport allowance to a population of 6,000,000 is 6,696 tons weekly. Local butchers are certainly conscious of a diminution in trade, and complaints are made in some districts that the butchers are increasing prices in order to maintain the level of profit, now endangered by a reduced turnover. Allegations of this kind are not general, and no doubt such unscrupulous tendencies as exist will be closely watched.

A NEW FEST.
Sir Frederick Treves, the distinguished surgeon, who is the fortunate occupant of one of the Royal lodges in Richmond Park, calls attention to a new pest to home food production—the gray squirrel, an animal as fecked and voracious as any wily as the rat. Ten years ago it appears to have been unknown in England, save for specimens at the Zoo, from which a pair were let loose to disport in Regent's Park. They found that beautiful domain so much to their liking that they multiplied exceedingly. We Londoners have long regarded them as charming pets, and they added a new interest to the place, from which the brown squirrel, a harmless aristocrat, disappeared with the last of the Georges. No doubt, under pressure of increasing population and stationary means of subsistence, the grays have somehow or other crossed London and the Thames and established themselves in Richmond Park, where Sir Frederick finds them a veritable pest. They eat up everything he grows; they are migrating through Surrey, leaving colonies wherever they pass, and if this goes on they will spread through the land. Sir Frederick calls for their extermination. The Office of Works is doing what it can. But is the squirrel eatable? It is plainly Lord Devonport's duty to have one dressed and cooked for himself. But in his present mood he would be pretty sure to declare that it is a delicacy fit for the table of a Roman Emperor. Perhaps the furrer, now that no skins are to be imported, could make use of the animal.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS AT DARTMOOR.
I hear some details about the work that will be given to the "conscientious" objectors to military service who are to be housed in Dartmoor Prison, that grim structure built to hold the French prisoners taken in the Napoleonic wars. The building was left derelict after Waterloo and used as a penal settlement in 1850. The conscientious objectors will be employed in reclaiming the Duchy of Cornwall estate in the vicinity of Princetown. For some years past the duchy has been trying to revive agriculture, particularly in the rich lands called Dartmoor Forest. Farms and cottages have been erected on modern lines, cattle and sheep farms have been installed, and the small-holder encouraged. The new scheme is to cultivate some 20,000 acres near Princetown, to be called the Tor Royal Intake, and to employ the non-combatants on the task of preparing the land for wheat and other cereals. An eminent authority in the person of M. Vendelmans, the Belgian professor of agriculture, has been asked to advise on the draining of bog lands, the planting of trees in belts to protect the crops from prevalent winds, and the scientific treatment of the soil. The workers will have plenty to begin with both at Princetown and at Belterra, six miles away. Experiments made by the duchy two years ago have proved that the land can be profitably used.

WHAT THE QUEEN BOUGHT.

Queen Mary's many purchases at the official British Industries Fair in South Kensington suggested that she had in mind the needs of her own sons and others of our fighting men. She ordered shaving soap in a convenient form for active service use to be included with the case of perfume and toilet soaps she bought from one firm, and at a Scots firm's stall the Queen made a halt to buy little pocket sets of chess, draughts, dominoes and a compendium of games for the trenches. The Queen never forgets her many child friends, and she made many purchases in the toy section. She herself seemed specially to enjoy the humor of some dolls and animals which walk and dance, among them a delightful "Charley's Aunt" and a rabbit that gravely walks upstairs. A big group of these were set aside for despatch to Buckingham Palace.

LIQUOR RESTRICTIONS AT WESTMINSTER.

Members of Parliament have at last, after much hesitation, agreed to subject themselves to the restrictions which were long ago placed upon the general public in the matter of obtaining alcoholic liquor. Hitherto no precise limitations have been placed upon the hours of sale within the precincts of the House of Commons, the closing time being regulated by the adjournment. Henceforth members of Parliament and the crowd of officials and others who are within the building each day of the session will be debarred from purchasing alcoholic drinks before noon, between 2.30 and 6.30 p.m., and after 9.30 p.m. No relaxation of the rule is to be made when the House sits very late. In this respect the Commons are exceeding the degree of abstinence practised by outsiders, because the normal Parliamentary day begins at 2.45 p.m. and frequently continues into the following morning. The authorities of the House are in doubt as to whether the no-reading order is to be adhered to. This may be recommended and generally observed, but evasion could not be followed by any penalty.

DEARER NEWSPAPERS.

The "Morning Post," announces that on March 5 its price will be raised to two pence (4 cents) and with characteristic candour it declares that the change is made in obedience to stern necessity. It claims no credit for a patriotic act. The paper supply is cut down, and papers must meet the difficulty either by cutting down their size or increasing their price so that their circulation decreases. The plan of increasing the price, begun by some newspapers in the North, was followed by the "Times," the "Daily Sketch," the "Daily Mirror," and now the "Morning Post" and the "Observer" and "Daily Mail" are taking the same line. The "Daily Telegraph," "Daily Chronicle" and "Daily News" are remaining at their old price with a reduced newspaper. It is admitted by the Government that newspapers are fulfilling a public function in the conduct of the war as nearly half the material that they publish is really official bulletins and announcements and news, casualty lists, and official advertisements. Everyone knows that a very large number of periodicals are issued, such as boys' comic papers, and girls' novelettes and a host of other equally non-essential publications. Until the supply of paper for these productions is put on a different level from that of newspapers fulfilling a definite public service it is hard to believe that there can really be a shortage of paper, although the newspapers have good reason to know that it is so. It may be difficult to draw the line between publications which are fulfilling an essential public service and those which are not, but there are a very large number which are an unmistakable distance from that debatable line.

MEAL FOR MUNITION WORKERS.

I understand that a proposal is under the consideration of the Government to grant a medal to all munition workers, men and women, during the war. The soldiers in the trenches will, of course, receive a war medal, and it is regarded as fitting that the workers at the benches should be similarly decorated.

No Eggs, Milk or Butter

The following recipe shows how an appetizing, wholesome cake can be made without expensive ingredients.

In many other recipes the number of eggs may be reduced one-half or more by using an additional quantity of ROYAL Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, in place of each egg omitted.

EGGLESS, MILKLESS, BUTTERLESS CAKE
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cups water
1 cup seeded raisins
2 ounces citron
1/2 cup shortening
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

The old method (fruit cake) called for 2 eggs
DIRECTIONS—Put the first eight ingredients into saucepan and boil three minutes. When cool, add the flour and baking powder which have been sifted together; mix well. Bake in moderate oven in loaf pan (round tin with hole in center is best) for 35 or 40 minutes. Ice with white icing.

On the Threshold of War.

By a vote that nearly reached unanimity the American Senate yesterday passed the resolution for war with Germany; possibly a like result will be reported to-day of the longer deliberations of the House. It has, of course, never been in doubt. When Congress has thus formally expressed its sentiments the United States may be said to be at last embarked upon war with Germany.

For it will be war, the real thing, not armed neutrality or mere defence or any other unworkable compromise. For some time it has been clear that this has been the opinion and wish of the President's Cabinet. To use a recent phrase from Washington, "the Government realizes that, once at war with Germany, the vital interests of the United States demand not only the protection of purely American interests but the defeat of Germany as well. Matters have moved by such gradual stages up to the great climax that we are scarcely able to see how great it is and how charged with tremendous meaning is the twelfth hour change in the attitude and policy of the American Govt. They are under no delusions about it in England. The high enthusiasm that is exhibited on every side there would hardly have been evoked by a mere tepid declaration of a state of war with Germany and purely defensive action such as for so long has been suggested. They know now that America sees what they have always seen, that even the defence of American rights can only be achieved by the defeat of German aggression, that if she is to enter the war she must enter it, to use a vulgar expression, boots and all. She is entering it boots and all. Even now there may remain a little doubt whether she will definitely and formally align herself with the Allies, but it is hard to see how she can long cling to the form of a theory from which the substance has departed. And indeed in many ways her own interests demand that she stand not aloof but become one with the other Allies in council and action.

Before the exact nature of the States' action was known there was a general tendency on all sides to speak lightly of the effect it could have. That was a mistake then which it is impossible to repeat now. It will be safe to look for its moral effect before the actual one, and it may be very great. We see it already in unhappy signs from Austria. The knowledge alone that she has come in against them and the words of the President's speech, which Allied aeroplanes are gratuitously undertaking to distribute and which have a biting resemblance to the utterances of the Russian democrats, will not be very heartening to the Germans. To these is now added the knowledge that America is not going to confine herself to hunting submarines, but is preparing a great army—they know how armies can grow. From every point of view it is plain that the entry of the States is a tremendous accession of strength to the Allies. That is needed appears from the reports, that reach us as we write, of Sir William Robertson's and Winston Churchill's speeches. The latter must be largely discounted, however, as every exaggeration should. The former speaker says: "At all times pessimists are cowards; in war time they must be ranked with criminals." If the words that Mr. Churchill uses are not unadulterated pessimism it must be because there is a stronger word to apply to them.

Toe Shea Appeal Dismissed

JUDGMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

Between Patrick J. Shea, Appellant, and William Grimes, Defendant.

The appellant, who admitted having sold intoxicating liquors on the 12th of January, 1917, was convicted of a breach of Section 4 of the Prohibition Act of 1916. In justification of this sale it was contended that it was covered by a license granted by the Licensing Board, or a majority thereof, for a year commencing from the first of November, 1916. It is not necessary for us to consider the constitutionality of the Board which granted or purported to grant this license. The purpose of the Intoxicating Liquors Prohibition Act of 1916, under which this prosecution is had, is declared in the preamble, to be the removal of all doubts as to the regularity and validity of the election held under the Prohibition Plebiscite Act of 1916. It is enacted in Section 1 that "The Governor in Council shall, within a period of one month after the date of the passing of this Act, issue a proclamation in accordance with the provisions of Section 17 of the Prohibition Plebiscite Act, 1916, prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors into or in this Colony at any time after the first day of January, A.D. 1917, except as provided in the said Prohibition Plebiscite Act, 1916." This Act was passed and became law on May 4th, 1916. On the 16th day of May, 1916, the Governor in Council issued the proclamation prohibiting after the first day of January, 1917, the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. It was after the Act of 1916 had been passed and the proclamation had been issued under it that the appellant applied to have granted to him a license for the year commencing November first 1916. It is obvious that no license granted under any previous Act could entitle a person (not licensed under the Prohibition Act) to sell intoxicating liquors after the first day of January, 1917.

Patriotic Action by City Jewellers.

Messrs. T. J. Duley & Co., R. H. Trappell, J. T. Lamb, A. MacNamara and G. Langmead, Jewellers, having been approached by the regimental authorities, have all undertaken to engrave free of charge the names of the wearers upon the silver badges to be issued to discharged soldiers. Following is the reply of His Excellency the Governor to each of the above gentlemen:

Government House, St. John's.
Sir,
Capt. C. R. Ayre has forwarded to me copy of your letter of the 2nd instant offering to engrave without charge the names of Soldiers on the Silver War Badge which is to be given to all soldiers honorably discharged from disabilities incurred on active service.

This is the response which I hoped for and expected and I am immensely pleased.
I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) W. E. DAVIDSON, Governor.

On Tuesday last the Annual Concert was held in connection with the Sunday School, Springdale Street. The large Hall was packed with an enthusiastic audience. Colonel Otway accompanied by Mrs. Otway, presided. On the platform also was Adjutant Tilley, the Young People's Secretary, also Adjutant Sheard.

The meeting opened by a little girl presenting a beautiful bouquet to the Chairman, who then gave the opening address, basing his remarks on "Born in the Regiment" referring to the conquering Armies of Alexandria the Great, and that this was the explanation of their great powers, so with the Christian Army, our children are growing up, and will live over again our lives, hence the need of our example being good.

The Colonel also referred to appointment of Adjutant Sheard as Sergeant Major for Junior Work, and forecasted great developments.

The children gave an excellent programme, which gave great credit to the Teachers. Several of the pieces were so enjoyed that they were encored.

The S. A. Band also rendered music.

S.A., Livingstone Street

A very interesting concert was arranged for last evening in connection with the Sunday School Anniversary. The children filled the platform and rendered a splendid programme of recitations, dialogues, musical drills, dumb bell, bar and Indian club exercises. The singing of the solos, duets and part songs was excellent, especially so as so many partook of a Patriotic nature.

Mr. W. H. Cave presided, and spoke of his interest and congratulated the Teachers. Great credit is due to Mr. Howell, the Sergeant Major in charge of the Junior Work, at Livingstone St. Colonel Otway supported Mr. Cave, and gave a short address, giving a birthday greeting. A good sum was realized for the Sunday School Funds.

Seals in the Narrows.

A PROFITABLE YEAR FOR LANDSMEN.

There is yet truth in the old axiom "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," as the present, easterly wind, which is blocking this port with ice, is enabling our local fishermen to engage in the killing and taking of seals in sight of their homes. It reminded one of olden times this morning to see our most venturesome fishermen from the North and South Batteries cross over the floe equipped with boats, gaffs and bats in search of the "fat" in the Narrows. There was a goody sprinkling of seals in Freshwater Bay, where most of the hunters engaged in the "kill". Mr. Ab. Burt and brother captured a half dozen up to noon. Several others did equally well, and we hear that fishermen of Blackhead took many tons of pelts ashore. All the seals taken in this vicinity were young hoods and of the primest quality.

Branded.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

If you knew that if you let yourself be mean or selfish or sensual or grasping or unamiable, you would have to wear a sign in big letters, branding you as such, don't you think it would make you a little more careful of your character?

Well, to many folks, the people who deserve it do wear just such a sign.

Four of us sat opposite a couple on a trolley the other day. I saw each one of my companions give them a swift glance. When we got off the car, someone said "Too bad that nice-looking young man should have a girl like that!"

Her Face Reeked With Meanness.

"Yes," said another, "her whole face simply reeked with meanness." "I don't think I ever saw so many mean lines in so young a face," said a third.

Evidently to these three people (and me) that girl was as plainly tagged as if she had worn a sign about her neck.

"When sin is in the soul," someone said, "it leaps out upon the face." And that doesn't mean just big sins like murder and adultery, it means the crookedness of the soul.

How many people one knows whose souls have leaped out on their faces and written discontent there in ugly letters!

Discontent? Was Written On His Face.

When I shut my eyes and recall to mind a man whom I have not seen for years, two things leap out at me, the ugly lines from nose to mouth

Your Boys and Girls.

The "padding bag" night dress is best for baby under one year, while baby over one year should wear the one-piece night drawers which button up the back. Both of these little night coverings eliminate any possibility of his feet becoming uncovered during the night.

When baby goes out of doors in winter he should wear a coat made of some wool material lined with an all wool flannel or lamb's wool lining and a knit hood and wool mittens and leggings.

When he goes out in summer the little muslin bonnets are best, and pique or cashmere coats until he is a year old. Sudden changes in temperature are felt by the babies. You should be prepared with outer garments to meet this change. At the seashore or in the mountains the greatest vigilance is and those between the eyes. Both testify to his miserable dissatisfaction with life. Fretfulness puts crows' feet all over a face far more surely than age ever will. Sensuality, however well hidden the possessor thinks it to be, will carve deep and unmistakable lines on his face. Unbridled selfishness will eventually make the loveliest face mean and ugly.

Are You Willing To Be Marked?

Most of us have unbecoming expressions now and then. It is only when the unbecoming is the habitual trend of our souls that it marks itself permanently on the face.

Of course, the converse is true, and a sweet face is one of the rewards of a beautiful life.

Are you willing to have your character carved on your face?

Recruiting Tour

REPORT OF MR. JAMES BANCROFT To W. W. Blackall, Esq., Convenor West Coast Recruiting Committee.

Dear Mr. Blackall,—This trip should have been made six weeks earlier, or before all the young men had shipped for the fishery or gone away to the States or to Canada.

Naval Reservists of one year only have spread most singular tales along the coast, thus making it very awkward for recruiting parties. These, of course, were the ones that "swallowed the anchor" and returned home to civil life.

Patriotic work in many places is nil, and no effort being made. This should not be.

We found the parents the one great stumbling block to enlistment or our numbers would have been doubled. As it is I think you may count on 70 or 80 emanating out of this trip as many of the chums of those enlisted promised to follow.

I feel that I cannot close this report without placing on record the esteem and respect we hold for Capt. English, of the S. S. Fiona, and his gallant crew. The Captain made us at home and was always obliging, anticipating in many ways our thoughts and desires. We thank him from the bottom of our hearts for all he did for us, and hope that he will be for many years spared to navigate the Fiona or a better ship in her place. Here's luck! Capt. English from all of the recruiting squad, viz.:

J. F. Bancroft, W. H. Cave, Corp. H. Small, Pte. W. Gladney, D. C. M., Pte. John Hartley, Henry Deering, R. N. E.

I also thank Mr. W. H. Cave, who was associated with me in the work for his untiring devotion and attention to duty for he never failed me during the trip and made it very much easier for me when I could not respond on several occasions, and for these I desire most sincerely to thank him and also the rest of the squad who worked well and I was sorry to part from them but we may meet again. I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant. (Sgd.) JAMES F. BANCROFT, Recruiting Officer.

DIARY.

Feb. 10th.—Party left St. John's by train on Saturday, Feb. 10th, 1917, en route for Placentia to join S. S. Fiona and arrived there at 4.30 p.m.

Feb. 11th.—Sunday. Placentia storm-bound.

Feb. 12th.—Very stormy. Could not lie at Placentia and Capt. English went to Argentina for the night awaiting the arrival of a second engineer—the chief, Mr. Martin, being ill at St. John's. Lay here all night.

Feb. 13th.—Left Argentina early this morning and steamed all day. Very cold and stormy. Wind North West and frosty. Under lee of Brunette Island at 8 p.m.

Feb. 14th.—Arrived at Burgeo at 5 p.m. after splendid run. 9.30 a.m. Joseph Small, Esq., S.M., came on board and very kindly undertook to arrange for patriotic meeting to-night at the Church of England Academy. He also kindly consented to act as the Chairman. After dinner squad under Mr. W. H. Cave went to Hant's and Our Harbour in the ship's boat—always at our disposal—and found all the boys eager for the fray at the first word. 7.30 p.m. held very enthusiastic meeting at Burgeo. Audience of about 350 persons, male and female—mostly female—and on the platform were Joseph Small, Esq., S. M., Rev. Fletcher (Church of England), Rev. M. Eddy (Methodist), H. Clement, Esq., G. Samways, J. Colbeck, J. Cunningham (H.M.C.), and many others as well as our humble servant and squad. Chairman Small made very able and patriotic address opening and closing, as did also the clergymen aforementioned, and all the boys delivered themselves admirably—no officers—but I think fruit may issue after mature thought. During the day we called at the houses of two who had made the Supreme Sacrifice in France to sympathize with the parents.

Feb. 15th.—Left Burgeo at 7.30 a.m. and arrived at Ramea at 9.30 a.m. Squad immediately took boat for shore and landed at room of Messrs. Penny & Sons. Found all men of military age gone for western fishery, and after consulting with Mr. Geo. Penny, J. F. and Church of England Clergyman thought it useless to spend day here—therefore, after distributing literature and posters, took our departure for Grey River (without holding any patriotic meeting) at 11.30 a.m. Things looking dark for our mission so far. Arrived at Grey River 12.30 p.m. Squad landed at 1.15 p.m. Canvassed every house in village and talked to all the young men at home—many of these locked upon the matter in a true light and thought it their duty to enlist, but parents stood in the way. There is a possibility of getting three or four volunteers here, later. No patriotic work of any description carried on here. Arrived at Cape La Hune 3.30 p.m. and squad canvassed village all the afternoon and at 7.30 p.m. we had a patriotic meeting in the Church of England School-room placed at our disposal by Teacher Barber, about 60 people attending, good addresses being delivered by Corp. H. Small, W. H. Cave, H. Deering, R.N.R., and your humble servant. No direct success to our appeals issued but some promises given—but the stolid indifference apparent we began to wonder if these people were aware that the Empire was at war. No patriotic work of any kind carried on here—isolation and lack of news seems to be the root of the cause. (To be continued.)

DEBATING THE RESOLUTIONS.

WASHINGTON, Yesterday. The Senate met at ten o'clock this morning to consider the war resolution and the leaders planned to keep the Senate in continuous session until a vote is reached in the House. The Foreign Affairs Committee met at the same hour to consider the resolution and was expected to report it to the House promptly under a special rule. While the leaders in the two Houses had given no definite indication early to-day how long the debate would be allowed to continue, it was plainly evident that Congress was in no mood to permit undue delay in acting on the resolution. Chairman Flood and other members of the House's Foreign Committee predicted the passage of the resolution by the House before night. The Senate leaders hoped to get action by to-night or to-morrow morning at the latest. This depended, however, upon the ability of the Senate to maintain a quorum. Most of the pacifists, finding their efforts to prevent war fruitless, had gone to-day; the few that remained continued to seek the votes of (unfinished).

AMERICANS ENLIST IN LONDON.

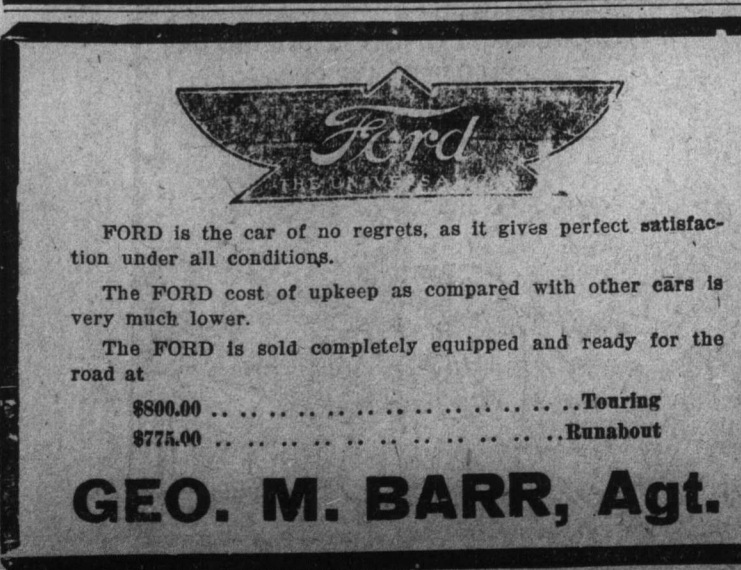

LONDON, To-day. President Wilson's speech to Congress has had the effect of increasing the number of young Americans who for several weeks have been offering through the American Embassy here to enlist in the American Army in the event of war. Thus far more than 150 such young men have registered at the Embassy; their names have been forwarded to Washington. Most of the applicants serving in the Canadian Contingent desire to be transferred so as to fight under their own flag. Whether they will be allowed to give up the British service for the American rests with the British Government. There are nearly 8,000 Americans in Canadian contingents and a large number with English forces.

CLEVER IDEA.

LONDON, To-day. President Wilson's address to Congress, translated into German, is being distributed liberally over the German lines by British aviators. It is understood the same thing is being done by French aviators.

MINE SWEEPER AND LIVES LOST.

LONDON, To-day. The British Admiralty announces a mine sweeping ship of the old type struck a mine on Tuesday and sank.

FORD is the car of no regrets, as it gives perfect satisfaction under all conditions.

The FORD cost of upkeep as compared with other cars is very much lower.

FRENCH VICTORIES.

PARIS, To-day. In these operations between the Somme and the French captured a dominating position of much importance along the line of the villages Grunies, Orvillers and Moy, running from the south to the south-east of St. Quentin. The War Office also officially reports the precipitate withdrawal of the Germans from three lines of positions north of Folie Farm, in the same sector after an irresistible attack.

QUESTIONS IN PARLIAMENT RE U.S.A.

LONDON, To-day. Arthur Lynch asked whether in view of the expected entrance of the United States into the war on the side of the Allies, the Government would give instructions that the severe censorship of despatches sent by American correspondents should be abolished. Bonar Law replied that the despatches of American correspondents had always been treated with consideration. The censor will of course have regard for the new conditions which have arisen, subject of course to the requirements of the situation. Bonar Law was asked by T. P. O'Connor whether the Government proposed to respond to the universal feeling of the House in the consideration. U.S. ARMY PLANS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The army plans as they now stand make no place for Col. Roosevelt's volunteer division or any similar organization. As the plans will be presented to Congress they provide for the regular army and national guard and a new army to be raised by universal service.

QUITE PROBABLE.

COPENHAGEN, To-day. The Politikon says that neutrals, who have been watching the exhibition of this addition to the ranks of the belligerents with deep concern, never had greater cause for alarm than now, when the last state which hitherto had great weight of authority had advocated the rights of neutrals was throwing herself into the gigantic struggle. It continues, "for that small insignificant spot on the map, Denmark, America's entrance into war means new difficulties."

AMERICAN SOLIDARITY.

LIMA, Peru, To-day. Although regarding the prospective war between Germany and America as deplorable, the Commerce says the nations of South America should always walk hand in hand with the United States.

CHILLIAN OPINION.

SANTIAGO, Chile, To-day. The Diarico Ilustrado expresses the opinion that the United States is taking a stand in defence of democracies which represents the true desires of the American people. It does not believe the result of American participation in the war will be disastrous to the States from a commercial view point, believing the country will retain its present productive power. A similar opinion is expressed by the Macion, which also says the American navy will render great service in defending merchant ships from submarine attacks and will further hasten the end of the war by assisting the Allies financially.

IMPORTANT.

LONDON, To-day. The Westminster Gazette says an important political mission will start for America as soon as possible to discuss the work of co-operating in the war.

SHIPPING LOSSES.

LONDON, To-day. British merchant vessels of 1600 tons or over sunk by mines or submarines in the week ending April 1st, including two not reported for the previous week, numbered 18, according to an official statement issued to-night. Thirteen British ships under 1600 tons were sunk in the same period. The text of the statement reads: "In the week ending April 1st British merchant ships sunk by mines or submarines of 1600 tons or over numbered 18, including 2 sunk the previous week; under 1600 tons, 13 in number; unsuccessfully attacked by subs, 17, including unsuccessfully attacked during the week ending March 18th. Fishing vessels sunk numbered 33, including four sunk in the week ending March 25th. Arrivals during the week of this vessel, of that nationalities over 100 tons numbered 2,231, sailings 2,399."

CHARACTERISTIC.

LONDON, To-day. Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent says that President Wilson's address to Congress has been answered in the German press by a storm of abuse. He quotes the Rheinische Westfaelische Zeitung as saying, "Beyond striving for gold the Americans have no ideal. They think everything can be achieved by gold. Their megalomania makes a grotesque impression on us Germans."

BRITAIN AWAITING CONGRESS DECISION.

LONDON, To-day. The British nation to-night is awaiting with the same breathless impatience as the American people the decision of Congress, whose proceedings are fully reported in the English press. This is not because any doubt exists here as to what rests the vote of the American Congress will be, but because the nation is anxious to have the formal official expression of its sentiments of satisfaction at America's entry into the struggle on the side of the Allies across the Atlantic from Parliament, which will adjourn tomorrow for the Easter recess. There is a general desire that Congress arrive at its decision in time to allow this to be done before the Commons rises. Pending the decision of Congress Ministers and responsible officials in London hesitate to give any public expression of their views or sentiments on American co-operation with the Allies. The present mood of the British public is perplexed. On the one hand they have daily evidence from the Western front of the splendid success of the Allies in continued advances on the other hand the War Office is constantly insisting upon the urgency of providing more men for the front, and Ministers are imposing increasing restrictions upon the country that still greater sacrifices than any yet endured will be needed. There were two instances of this to-day. General Robertson, Chief of the Imperial Staff at Army Headquarters, declared that the Germans were as strong as a man more than at any time before, and that the struggle would entail heavy sacrifices and great determination. Winston Churchill in the Commons in the course of a discussion of the air service referred to America's entry into the war as a God-granted aid to struggling Christendom, and declared that but for this aid no prudent man could have said that the issue of the war was settled. Never since the victory of the Marne had the position of the Allies been so desperate. Even with America in the struggle the most oppressive situation lay before the nations, and the most strenuous efforts were needed, the most terrible months of the war were coming. It would not be the highest wisdom, the utmost daring and the truest courage that the Allies could come safely through. Faced by these gloomy predictions, those who a few weeks ago were inclined to see little practical assistance that the United States could render even if she came into the war, have tended to being swung to an extreme and hope for everything from American co-operation. While it is recognized that the greatest help of any peace treaty being suggested by the Central Governments, there was a very general belief that the reports from Vienna and inspired German papers of renewed peace initiatives were well founded, and that the conference of the two Emperors and high officials of the Central Empire at German headquarters is likely to have a striking effect which would not be unconnected with the entry of the United States into the war.

DRASTIC FOOD RESTRICTIONS IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, To-day. Baron Devonport, British Food Controller, has ordered that beginning on April 15th, in hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and clubs, there shall be one meatless day weekly. In London the day will be Tuesday. Elsewhere in the United Kingdom it will be Wednesday. The Controller has pledged the Government to consider containing potatoes shall be allowed except on meatless days and on Fri-

HISTORIC SCENE IN CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The resolution declared after consultation with the States Department and an engaged hard fighting against the Germans for possession of the Havrincourt Wood, an important strategic position forming a small salient in the British front. An official statement from British headquarters announcing this reports also a determined effort by the Germans, which failed, to recapture six guns taken by the British in the Havrincourt Wood. The enemy made determined counter attacks during the night in an endeavor to recover six guns captured on Monday west of Quentin. The attempt completely failed, after hand to hand fighting. All six guns were brought in this afternoon. We attacked and captured the machine guns of Metz en Couture northwest of Ephy and took a number of prisoners. Fighting continues eastward of the village and the capture of the Havrincourt Wood. Our troops successfully raided trenches this morning northeast of Neuville St. Vaast. There was considerable activity in the Havrincourt Wood. A number of fights occurred in which one German airplane was brought down. Five of our machines were missing. Reports show the total number of prisoners taken by us in fighting on Monday southeast of Arras to be eight officers and 282 other ranks. The capture of the Havrincourt Wood. Our Volunteers.

The following young men offered for King and country yesterday.
FOR THE NAVY.
Isalah Nottall, Broad Cove, B.D.V.
M. Benoit, Bay St. George.
Jas. Kent, St. John's.
M. Foley, St. John's.
FOR THE ARMY.
John Ryan, St. John's.
Geo. Newell, St. John's.
John Redmond, St. John's.
M. Young, Three Rock Cove.
Jas. Thomey, Harbour Grace.

A number of recruits passed the medical examination with but a small percentage of rejections. Since March 9th the number of recruits for the Navy was 47 and for the Army 46, total 93. It is expected that there will be a large number of recruits come in from points north of Tilt Cove as soon as navigation is opened up.

In Memoriam.

MARY GALE.
Entered Into Rest March 27th, 1917.
Out of the dazzling sunlight
Bright on the snow, has she passed
To a world where labor is ended
And rest is first and last.

Life and its trials over
Quietly laid to sleep
By hands that knew and loved her
Lies she for God to keep.

Far in another Island
Her early years slipped by
Where, by sweet shores of Devon
The Channel wavelets sigh.

Yet here, where suns slope westward
To lands more western still
She made her home among us,
With us for good or ill.

Yea, rests her body softly
As age should rest, bright yet calm,
While the tears from those she passed
Drop on her bier like balm.

God shall bring her to morning
Whose faith in her Christ was true
Bring her with all of the ransomed,
Where heaven and earth are made new.
ROBERT GEAR MacDONALD.

Cochrane St. Church.

Members of Cochrane Street congregation are reminded of the services to be held in their own church to-morrow. At 11 a.m. the preacher is the Pastor, the Rev. Dr. Bond. Subject of discourse: "It was written in Hebrew, Greek and Latin." The collection will be in aid of the Supernumerary, Sustentation and other Conference Funds. In the evening at 8 o'clock, the usual Prayer Service will be held in the school building. Visitors welcome at both these services.

A False Alarm.

The Central and West End Fire Companies were called to the residence of Mr. A. Tooton, LeMarchant Road, last night, but on reaching the scene discovered their services were not required as the expected blaze did not come off. The alarm was sent in by a neighbour, who got the smell of burning paint in Mr. Tooton's house which has not been occupied for a considerable time, the owner being at present in New York on business. On entering the house the firemen discovered that the suspicious odour came from the drying of fresh paint on the radiators, the furnace having been lit that day to remove the dampness.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The east wind of the past few days has packed the ice in the harbor and no doubt in the bay.

The s.s. Njord arrived in port early yesterday morning with 14,000 seals. They are now being landed at the premises of Messrs Murray & Crawford.

Flippers sold yesterday for 50 cents per dozen.

Mr. E. J. Forsey is opening a picture show at St. Paul's Hall on Easter Monday night. Mr. Forsey intends combining Hr. Grace and Carbonear in his moving picture venture. The show will be held here on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and at Carbonear on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Mr. L. Williams, the popular Superintendent of the U.T.E. Co., Carbonear, was in town yesterday for a few hours. Mr. Williams is a busy man attending to the wants of the company's patrons.

The sad news was received in town this morning that Pre. John Adams, of this town, was killed in action in France. John, who was on the Canadian force, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams, of this town, to whom we extend sympathy.

Our New Health Mattress, Absolutely Sanitary.

MADE EXPRESSLY FOR US.

The filling is of pure kiln dried wood fibre, made in factory in building from selected wood and placed in the Mattress without pressing out the curl. This wood fibre is covered with layers of soft carded cotton felt, perfectly sanitary. Built by expert workmen, you can depend on getting a good reliable Mattress if you buy the NEW HEALTH. Having secured a special line of ticking which is very strong and durable in exclusive printed art or woven designs, we are going to give our customers and the public generally the benefit of same at old prices, provided they come at once, as prices must necessarily advance owing to the serious advances in the foreign market.
