ST. PIERRE SCHOOL QUESTION SETTLED; GOV'T GIVES IN

Will Grant Permission to Conduct Denominational Schools—Leaders of November Riots to be Prosecuted as Soon as Military Force is Increased

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., Feb. 10.—Private letters received here from Dr. Gavvin, attorney at St. Pierre, Miquelon, and also from other parties in the colony, throw some light on the probable final settlement of the vexed school question at that place. It is stated that well grounded rumors are circulating to the effect that at least the home government in France has yielded to the demand of the people of the colony to grant the permission to re-open denominational schools, the refusal of which permission was the cause of the trouble in November last. The people are content that the next issue of the official gazette will chronicle the decision of the home government.

The conference which M. Viellot, professor of Fort Christopher College (denominational school) announced would be held at the cafe Du Midi to further consider the school question was afterwards cancelled. The postponement of the intended conference indicated some radical changes in the situation, and some of the head parsons of the schools are authorized by the statement that messages had been received from France from Louis LeGasse, member of the Chamber of Deputies for St. Pierre, to the effect that the re-opening of the denominational schools would shortly be authorized. Further and more serious trouble would undoubtedly have followed the holding of M. Viellot's conference had second and much larger demonstration was on foot to enforce on the government the request of the people.

St. Christopher College has been closed since December 19th last, and proceedings against the professors have not yet started. The correctional court which met on January 15th, deferred judgment in these cases. It is further reported that the commission has been appointed by the Government to inspect and report on the premises of the denominational schools. This decision has raised the hopes of the people who are now convinced that a satisfactory settlement is in sight.

An investigation will be held by one of the magistrates of the town inquiring into the trouble of the 19th and 20th of November last when one riot which took place culminated in the lowering of the Tricolor and the raising of the Stars and Stripes in some of the places in town. It is also understood that the ringleaders of the demonstration will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The investigation is only withheld awaiting the arrival of an additional force of ten Gendarmes now on their way from France to augment the present force which is considered insufficient in the event of trouble. This step is only being taken as a precaution as the fact that the warship Admiral Aube, which landed 150 sailors and which were to have remained at St. Pierre during the winter, has re-shipped the men and left the island, thus showing that serious troubles are no longer anticipated and that the home government will accede to the demands of the people.

DOES HETTY DESERVE DAMAGES, OR NOT? Serious Question to be Decided by the Law School's First Mock Court.

Argument in the case of Hetty Green vs. James Michael will be heard before the mock court of the law school on Saturday night next. Cyrus P. Inches will preside. The facts of the case are as follows: Hetty Green, the defendant, who was in poor health, ventured on the street against the orders of her physician. She was proceeding along the sidewalk using due care and while crossing the street, which crossing was at the foot of a steep hill, the defendant James Michael was approaching her on a bicycle at a high rate of speed. The plaintiff was unable to move through fear and the defendant swerved as he approached her and did not touch her. Nevertheless she sustained a severe nervous shock and was taken to her residence where she continued in greatly impaired health. She sued the defendant for unstated damages. At the trial the jury found that the defendant had been placed on the wheel by some boys in play and that the wheel had neither brakes nor pedals and that the defendant did not touch the plaintiff but passed very close to her.

Argument will be confined to the jury's findings. For the plaintiff, Hayden, '09, Lanney, '09 and Belyea, '10 will argue, while the defendant will be represented by Logan, '09, Teit, '09 and Aldair, '10.

MONCTON MEN OBJECT TO TELEPHONE RATES

Say They Will Use the Telegraph More in Future

St. John K. of P. Officers Tolerated a Banquet—Five Young Men in Court for Stealing Liquor.

MONCTON, N. B., Feb. 11.—Last evening Col. Dodge and Adjutant Everett, of St. John, visited the local branch of Moulton's Co. No. 2 Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias, and inspected and installed officers for the ensuing year, after which in their honor, a tastefully arranged banquet, by visitors and others was indulged in and a general good time spent. Jack Buskirk, Jos. Thistle, Ben Leblanc, George Bower, and George Cameron were this morning brought before Magistrate Kay charged with breaking into and stealing from the bonded warehouses here a quantity of liquor, and were remanded until Monday morning at ten o'clock. Evidence against the suspected parties is very strong as liquor has been found in houses where accounts of prominent Moncton business men have been interviewed with respect to the increase in telephone rates recently made by the New Brunswick Telephone Company and the reduction in the long distance time limit to three minutes. All have spoken very strongly against the change and in a number of cases have announced their determination to employ the telegraph for long distance messages for which the telephones heretofore was employed.

GEOFFREY STEAD'S LITTLE BOY DEAD FROM SCARLET FEVER

Three of a Millbank Family Have Died and Three Others are Seriously Ill.

CHATHAM, N. B., Feb. 11.—The death occurred this morning of Rex, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Stead. The little fellow had been sick with scarlet fever for the past few days. The funeral will be held this afternoon. Wilhelmina, the eight year old daughter of George Stead, of Millbank, died yesterday of scarlet fever. This is a third death from that disease in this family, and three other children are seriously ill. Moncton curlers arrived here today four rinks strong, to play the locals for the McCaffrey Cup series.

HELLO GIRL PROVES HERSELF A HEROINE

Surrounded by Flames She Stuck to Her Post Until All in Danger Were Warned.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Following the wireless operator of the steamer Republic, Miss May Donnelly, a slight telephone operator, proved herself a heroine early today in a fire which destroyed a freight house here. After a hot debate the resolution carried. After some deliberation the convention advised the men not to go on strike, but to ask the board of conciliation under the Lemieux act in view of the fact that the agreement expires in seven weeks. In his report the president advised breaking away from the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and said the Congress was unprogressive in the extreme and gave labor in Western Canada no assistance. He also said that the executive and leading members are trying to play the Labor party into the hands of Liberal and Conservative parties. A roll call was asked for and the vote stood 36 for and 20 against breaking with Congress. This will mean a saving of $1,000 a year to miners in district 8.

SPORT AT SACKVILLE

SACKVILLE, N. B., Feb. 11.—Three rinks of Hampton curlers were defeated here by local players last evening by 87 to 65. Two local rinks were victorious, but the third was decisively defeated. Skip Murray proved too strong for skip Glagay by 29 to 10. Skip H. A. Ford was also a winner, defeating skip Sprout by 19 to 10. Skip Brown won from skip Rodd by 35 to 18. This afternoon and evening Carleton rinks are expected to meet the locals here if the ice is in fit condition. On Friday the St. John Thistles play here. North Shore trip of the Sackville Club has been postponed until next week. Kings College hockey team will meet Tuesday afternoon when a close game is expected. Among the members of the Kings team will be Poreyts and Martell. This will be the first time in which the Kings boys have taken part in an athletic contest with Mr. Allison in Sackville. Sackville and Sussex meet here in league hockey match this evening.

STEEL CO. WINS APPEAL TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL

In Judgment Delivered Today the Court Finds that the Goal Supplied Should be Suitable for All Purposes Intended, Goal Co. to Pay Costs of Principal Appeal

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Steel Company wins the appeal to the Privy Council. The case is referred to the Supreme Court to have damages fixed for repudiation of contract and in respect to breaches committed before that repudiation, namely up to October 31, 1928.

The Privy Council assessed the appellants to pay costs of the principal appeal. There was no order regarding the costs of cross appeal. The strenuous contention of the Coal Company that the phrase "Reasonably free from stone and shale" which appears in the contract, implied that the coal to be supplied to the Steel Company should be only as free from stone and shale as reasonably proper picking could make it, apart from impurities in laminae permeating the coal, cannot be sustained. These words mean that the coal must be reasonably free in fact, as to function. Paragraph one of the contract, the Coal Company alleged was merely to furnish a measure of supply; the court cannot accept that view.

In the first place detailed enumeration and description of the Steel Company's works contained in the paragraph cannot have been introduced as a measure of quantity. This is clear from the proviso at the end of the paragraph which in itself sets up a definite measure of quantity of a different character namely "the quantity required to furnish coal or coke necessary to operate the blast furnaces of a Steel Company's present four blast furnaces, and to operate steel furnaces and mills with incidental plant as above described engaged in manufacturing the product of such four blast furnaces or their equivalent."

Again in the enumeration in Paragraph 1 there is no limitation as to blast furnaces, cooking ovens, steel furnaces, rolling mills, etc., which the Steel Company might use or employ. In the absence of such limitation enumeration could not afford any measure of quantity, yet it must be taken to have been introduced for some purpose and the only purpose that can be ascertained is to specify precisely and in detail the various uses to which the coal to be supplied was to be put.

There would be no object, however, in doing this if the Coal Company was not at all concerned with the suitability of their coal for these uses, for only one of the requirements in Paragraph 3 deals with the chemical composition of the coal. It is to be reasonably free from stone and shale. Nothing is mentioned expressly in any other part of the contract as to the ash to be left when it was burnt or the amount of sulphur it may contain and there obviously cannot be any such thing as to run-off-mine slack. The slack which was to be supplied, however, must be suitable for use in steel-making, and for blast furnace coke—that is, it must not, when washed in the same manner as run-off-mine coal, contain appreciably more ash or sulphur than coal. The standard set up is no doubt the standard for slack, but it is strange that freedom of slack from sulphur should be measured by purity in some respects of coal, if the amount of sulphur, at least in organic form, contained in the coal was a matter with which the coal company had no concern.

KENTUCKY HORSES SAFE HERE AT LAST

All Arrived in Good Condition Including Two Weeks Old Filly.

The Kentucky thoroughbreds purchased by Peter Clinch for the New Brunswick Government, arrived today in a special livestock express car attached to the Boston express. During the journey here they were in charge of S. P. Blatten, the veterinary surgeon who looked after them while they were held up in Lexington, Ky. There are twenty animals in the lot and they all reached here in splendid condition, including the filly which was foaled two weeks ago. The car was shunted to the Marsh Bridge siding where the horses were discharged and from there they were taken to the McGrath's stable. Three of the horses were sent to the quarantine station pending their examination by Dr. Frink. The lot will be disposed of by auction a week from next Wednesday.

STORM RAGES ALL ALONG THE COAST
PLYMOUTH, Mass., Feb. 10.—Parting her anchor-chain in the high wind and heavy sea which prevailed early today, the Gloucester fishing schooner F. B. Howe was cast up high on the rocks and sands inside Plymouth Beach, her predicament not being disclosed until late this afternoon when the fog lifted and the schooner was seen on the shore with signals of distress flying.
The tug Mary Arnold, Captain Dexter Craig, went to the assistance of the schooner but was unable to pull her into deep water.
There were five men aboard, but they were in no particular danger and at low tide they will be able to walk ashore.

There's a growing tendency on the part of shoppers to watch for the bargain sale, and the result of it is that some people are getting a whole lot more for their money by taking advantage of these sales. The advancing price of furs is causing a great many careful buyers to anticipate their next season's requirements in furs, as the first sale of furs at The Dunlop, Cooke Co.'s show rooms is being patronized by a great number of buyers, just because they can save so much money by purchasing now for next season.

ST. JOSEPHS DEFEAT ST. PETERS
In the Inter-society League on the Victoria Amateur Club ice last evening the St. Josephs won over the St. Peters by a score of 1204 to 1201. The St. Josephs' team consisted of Percy Riley, one of the other competitors, got off second. Evans soon passed Riley and gained the lead. However, the latter had little difficulty in finishing first.
Wright captured the second heat, with Belyea second. The winner led from the start, although the West Side skater cut him lead considerably.
Probably the best event of the evening was the 440 yards final heat. When Starter Frank White called the men to the line Logan, Belyea, Evans and Wright put in an appearance. At the crack of the pistol, Logan, who had the blocks, jumped into the lead. Wright, Evans and Belyea followed in quick succession. The four skaters were putting up a splendid race, when Evans fell. Belyea soon followed his example, leaving the others to finish. Logan won out, with Wright second. The Junior boys' event went to Percy Cunningham, with Garnett second. The final sport in this race was fast.
A. Logan won the potato race, with Conley in second place. This event was exciting and evoked lots of laughter from the spectators.
Neither Logan nor Evans started in the 220 final, 880 or mile. The first event went to Wright, with Coleman second and Campbell third. Time, 21.2 seconds.
Belyea captured the 880 yards hurdle. Tracy finished second, with Riley third. The time was 1:27.2.
The blindfold race was a unique event. A large ham was tied to a wire on the ice and the skaters blindfolded. Duncan was the first to reach the ham.
Hilton Belyea won the one mile final without much difficulty. Tracey was second and R. Belyea third.
The relay race was the last, and one of the most exciting contests of the evening. The La Tour Skating and

300-MILE ALPINE WALK
 Crosses One Mountain Safely, But Gets Lost in Another.

GENEVA, Feb. 10.—Summoned home to Vienna on account of his mother's illness, a penniless young Austrian named Liez set out from Zurich, 300 miles away, on foot.
 He succeeded in crossing the Aarberg range, though it was covered with deep snow. On the Bettelwurt mountain, near Innsbruck, however, he lost his way, and collapsed from hunger and exhaustion. Found unconscious by a peasant, he was carried to the Innsbruck hospital, where his frost-bitten legs were amputated.
 On his story becoming known, a subscription was sent for the young man, who was made home by train.

 "Did you ever sleep again?" Anna rose hastily. "I talk too much; it's time for you to swallow your rage. No, don't cry! Let's say you're free bad boys you are a big giant; you swallow dem right down," cause dey fuck you for your size. Here dey, come—oh, swell, dey. Now pretty soon we have supper, un den I put you to bed. Let's play de bod is on de country. De bod is on de sailing de country."
 Under this pleasant delusion, the little girl found sleep easy. She smiled and smiled. Sometimes Anna would come to her ears from the back steps, and she thought they wandered in the door together. Sometimes a man's laugh sounded in her ears—perhaps that was the curlew of the seaman.
 It was hot in the boat; she sat up suddenly and called lustily for a glass of water. Anna bent over her most instantly. The moonlight shone on her breast and her face, tender and smiling. When she tried to stretch herself, the little child clung to her lovingly.
 Anna, somebody keeps laughing. Did I dream, or is it real?
 The girl smiled shyly. "I think dis time it's real. De foliar vat I goes with her, she sometimes laugh so awful loud. I'm sorry if he wakes you up."
 "What's his name?" the little girl persisted sleepily. Anxious at any cost to avoid the solitude, she held Anna's retreating form with two limp fingers, "I guess"—the girl's voice floated to her uncertainly—"it's maybe his name is Ludwig."
 In the morning the little girl was able to drive with her mother; consequently it was afternoon before she sought Anna's society. When she entered the kitchen in search of her, Anna sat by the table sipping incessantly. A slight alarm a good color brightened into a smile at the child's entry.
 "You been out all morning, heh? Dot's got."
 Lois hopped alternately from one foot to the other. "I drove to Middleville with mother. Anna sat at me buy some of the favors for the regatta collection."
 "De cotton, heh?"
 "Yes, it's the party they are going to have after the races. Mother is going with her, with Newton Raymond. Her manner was an infantile reproduction of adult triumph.
 "What you like de party? Well, I like de party all right myself. Vat you think I was going to do next Wednesday? You guess no, heh. I'm glad de party, Middleville myself, to a party the help gives from the hotels. We dress up funny, un wear false faces, un we wear hats, un we wear shoes, un we wear shoes. The glories of cotton paid. The little are you going to wear? Can I help you get ready?"
 "I don't know vat I got to wear. Not much. She thought she up her old hat. "Maybe I can take dese flowers off and pin dem on my dress. She brightened at the offer of her help. The little girl was doubtful. "Go as Polly, Anna. Mother always goes as melting-pot. I'm glad de party, Middleville myself, to a party the help gives from the hotels. We dress up funny, un wear false faces, un we wear hats, un we wear shoes, un we wear shoes. The glories of cotton paid. The little are you going to wear? Can I help you get ready?"

wiping her hands, coarse and red, on her short, faded dress, the girl's heart sank with foreboding.
 "It's time to come home, Anna. Kat-arewoid. Why don't you give your wages to Willie when I sent?"
 The girl held out the money, which the mother snatched eagerly. Then her look darkened. "Where are the other two dollars?"
 "I want dem money for myself dis week."
 The old woman's face was terrible. "For yourself? Two dollars? What for? Ain't your shoes good? Ain't your coat good and good food? Ain't we got to buy a horse yet? We can't run the farm without a horse! Ain't we got to pay your uncle? Ain't we got to pay the money on the farm?"
 The little girl, reading only the language of kindling eye and flushed faces covered closer to Anna. She was relieved when the quarrel ended and the pony started on his way.
 On either side of the road the buckwheat in full blossom fluttered like fields of white butterflies; goldfinches picked contentedly at ripening grain, and far below the little white-winged boats flew gaily before the wind. And Anna, dimly realizing the beauty and gaiety of the life around her, thought, instinctively, to escape the treadmill of toil and claim her share of innocent pleasure.
 Upon reaching the village, therefore, she turned resolutely to get nothing to a neat house bearing the almost universal sign of "Rooms to Let." A red haired girl was picking geraniums on the lawn. Anna drew the pony cart to the fence.
 "The girl called softly.
 "Lizzie, I guess you know who I am all right."
 The girl made no answer but a slow flush.
 "Lizzie, I want you to help me a little bit. The tears ran down her face. "I want to go so awful much to de dance at Middleville. I ain't got no thing to wear. Can't you give me some old sashes or something? I van so awful much to go."
 The girl murmured indignantly. "Well, I never!"
 "Lizzie, I am so poor. I never have de things in de country. I van so awful much to go. Can't you give me some old sashes or something? I van so awful much to go."
 "Well, I never!"
 The girl's brow darkened. Suddenly a faint elderly woman rose from the piazza. Her short white waist and broad dark skirt gave her the appearance of a black-headed steamer bearing down upon them.
 "Is that Katarschenka? What are you trying to get out of us now? Isn't it enough that you owe my husband two hundred dollars? Isn't that enough to get that paid off before you try to borrow of Lizzie. It's time to go to parties when you're not de per-annum-bred, her daughter by her side, as she started the pony on his way. "As she started the pony on his way, she stopped abruptly, while his smile showed his white teeth.
 "Anna, Katarschenka! Enchen! He shouted, swinging his hat. "Don't forget about Wednesday. I got an awful lot to do."
 At that moment the swift clatter of horses' hoofs was heard, and a party of young men, dressed in the latest styles, abruptly checked her horse; "Anna," she called reprovingly, "be sure and tell de folks about de regatta de gutter. We can't wait for him another day."
 "The second thought she drew nearer to upbraid him herself for the delay of carpenters, plumbers and marketmen in the rush of the season, and during the conversation the pony cart disappeared down the road.
 Upon her return to the cottage an hour later she found Anna industriously pressing the gown which she had elected to wear to the regatta ball, and the fine embroidery, the delicate approach, revealing its artistry under the magic pressure of the iron.
 From the doorway a faint, sweet, in her riding-habit, smiled approvingly. "That's beautifully ironed, Anna. I'm going to ask you to do up some table linen for Wednesday." She hesitated to gather courage. "I'm going to have some people in for tea, first a few, after the races."
 She seated herself provisionally and smiled winsomely from the chair. "You are a natural cook. I tell all the hotel people about you until they are envious. You won't mind making some of your good torte and little curaway cakes, I know. With tea and chocolate and punch that will be enough."
 "You said I could go out Wednesday night." Anna began in quick alarm.
 "Wednesday, did I? Dear me! Can't you make it Thursday this week?"
 "I couldn't do it. I want awful bad to go to the Help's Hop Wednesday."
 "A hop? Are they going to have a hop?"
 "Yes, ma'am; at Middleville."
 "Well, I dare say if you hurry you can get through the tea in time to go. You don't want to go before eight o'clock."
 "Yes, ma'am; de train it don't leave only at seven un nine."
 "Seven is nine too late!"
 "Yes, ma'am; give de right train."
 "Well, you can give Miss Lois a simple little dinner, I dare say, and go through."
 "Anna's face darkened, then brightened as she compromised: "Miss Atwater, I ain't anything so awful nice to wear for the hop. Could you let me have some pretty ribbons un belts?"
 "You say de too vid de train at your party tonight?"
 Mrs. Atwater smiled cordially. "A ball, but the party isn't until Tuesday. There'll be plenty of time, however. Make your very best brooch, won't you? The ladies are all going to taste it."

AMUSEMENTS.
CHARMING "FLORODORA" AT THE NICKEL
 Unquestionably the great success of Leslie Stuart's "Florodora" has been due to the double sextette number, "Tell Me Pretty Maiden," which Holmes and Buchanan will present for the first time in St. John at the Nickel tonight. The melody and catchiness of the piece is well-known and when rendered by such talented and refined artists will lose none of the author's idea. The duet will be charmingly dressed. Mr. Courtnals will have a new ballad and the orchestra has some novelties. In the line of pictures the British Submarine Boats at Portsmouth, the Trip Through Savoy and comedies and dramas of yesterday will be shown for the last time.
PRINCESS.
 One of the finest programmes ever offered to a St. John audience is the one offered by the Princess today. Prof. Forest, the vaudeville artist, is making a great sensation. The great mystery is how does he make that lady float in the air. Then low does the dog escape from the securely locked box. Come and see if you can find out how he does it. The Trained Dog is a big feature. Nobody should miss this act. The pictures are of the best. The Devil's Sale is a great farce. The picture is a first-class comedy. Then there is another good comedy and a drama and a brand new illustrated song by Mr. Adams.
CAMERAPHONE SIX EXCELLENT COMEDIES.
 With six excellent comedies, headed by a German comedy encounter entitled "The Red and Green Light," the Cameraphone last night presented the best comedy bill ever shown here by this high-class attraction. The second number on the bill is the "Spanish Dancing Trio," a first-class dancing troupe, Collins and Dover in "The Preacher and the Bear," specially posed and sung for the Cameraphone company. Clara Throp in her latest success, "The Military Quartette," New York's favorite four, and the "Irish Justice," an uproariously funny court-room scene, are all good vaudeville numbers of the best type. This is a big banner comedy programme, the last time today, and capacity business will doubtless result at every show. The visit to the great exposition held in London last fall was of peculiar charm, and highly appreciated while the transformation and comedy subjects were made above the average. There will be a change of songs today, and will be shown this afternoon and evening for the last time. The Cameraphone has another of those very funny Rube sketches for tomorrow's programme. Entire change of programme tomorrow.

The storm of last evening prevented the usual number from seeing the splendid picture programme prepared at the Unique. It will be shown for the last time today, and capacity business will doubtless result at every show. The visit to the great exposition held in London last fall was of peculiar charm, and highly appreciated while the transformation and comedy subjects were made above the average. There will be a change of songs today, and will be shown this afternoon and evening for the last time. The Cameraphone has another of those very funny Rube sketches for tomorrow's programme. Entire change of programme tomorrow.

REFORMS IN GERMAN NAVY
 Training of Officers and Seamen on Sailing Ships Abolished.
 BERLIN, Feb. 10.—The German minister of Marine has decided to introduce an important change in the system of training naval cadets and blue-jackets.
 The practical training of future officers and seamen of the German fleet will not take place on sailing vessels, but on modern, unrigged cruisers.
 The decision entirely to abolish training aboard sailing ships is due to the conviction of German naval experts that the time spent in handling the sails of a large vessel is far better employed in teaching future officers and seamen gunnery, and enabling them to obtain a thorough acquaintance with the intricate mechanism and organization of a modern warship. Henceforth both naval cadets and blue-jackets will receive sailing lessons only in ships' boats.
 Opinion in German naval circles is unanimously in favor of the complete abolition of out-fashioned training ships.
 OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—The number of divorce applications before the Senate this year is the largest on record, namely by twenty-four since Confederation; the total number of divorces granted by parliament has been sixty-six.

McARTHUR THERE WITH HIS MODEL
 FREDERICTON, Feb. 10.—In the case of McArthur and McVey, the city of St. John, now being tried here before Judge White and jury, William A. McVey continued his testimony today. He gave detailed information in regard to rock cutting, and exhibited numerous photographs and profiles of work. There were numerous photographs taken which lent spice to the proceedings. At 4.30, before his cross-examination had begun, McVey was stood aside and John Harrison, who worked on the water works survey, was called and testified in regard to the location of test pits.
McArthur Called
 George McArthur was next called and brought into court a wooden box like apparatus which he explained was a model of the form used in the trench for installing the reinforced concrete aqueduct.
 Skinner and Peel objected to the exhibit, but Powell conceded that it was necessary in order to give the jury a general idea of the nature of the work which had to be perfected in the trench. He contended that the five-foot trench called for by specifications was not wide enough to enable the concrete work to be properly done, and the contractors were compelled to widen the excavations. McArthur's model provided a great deal of discussion and he made little progress with his testimony. The judge ruled that the evidence in explanation of the model was admissible and McArthur swore that it was an exact reproduction of the form used in preparing concrete for the aqueduct.
 His honor urged the counsel to get through with the unsightly model as quick as possible, that it might be removed from the court room.

FRENCH-CANADIANS.

In the House of Commons yesterday a large part of the sitting was taken up with a discussion on the subject of repatriation of French Canadians. The speakers were chiefly members from Quebec, and they put forward their strongest arguments in the matter of bringing back to Canada those of their race who have migrated to the eastern states or elsewhere. It is not apparent that the French speaking population of Canada has been diminished or even kept stationary by the removal of those thousands who have sought new homes across the border. Indeed the increase has continued at the usual high rate, and within a few years this Province of New Brunswick will find that a majority of its population are of French descent. In the northern diocese of the Catholic Church which includes some of the North Shore counties and those bordering on Quebec, statistics show that during the past ten years there has been a slight decrease in the number of English speaking members. During the same period there has been an increase of no less than ten thousand French Canadians. This is easily explained by the gradual spreading of the population of Quebec, and the excessive high birthrate among people of this nationality. In view of the recognized rapid growth of the French Canadian element and also in view of the fact that many thousands of English speaking Canadians have emigrated to the United States during the past generation, it is not apparent why special effort should be put forth and money expended in bringing back any particular class, especially that class which suffers least from the outward movement.

UNITED AFRICA.

A new nation has been created within the British Empire. The act of union of the South African States has been passed by representatives of those states and will be submitted to the respective legislatures before reference to the Imperial Parliament. There is little doubt that the Transvaal, Orange, Natal and Cape Colony will endorse the basis of union agreed upon by their delegates. Under this new act the dual capital is provided, Pretoria as the legislative and Cape Town as the executive. Each one of the four colonies will be converted into a province of the Union, under an Administrator and a Provincial Council. The various Provinces will be equally represented in the Senate, which will be elected in the first instance by the colonial Parliaments and subsequently by the Provincial Councils. The Assembly will be elected on the basis of European male adult population of each Province, but at the outset Orange and Natal are favored. The principle of proportionate representation is adopted with an automatic redistribution of seats every five years. The members of the Senate and Assembly must be of European race, though in the Cape the colored franchise is maintained except by a two-thirds vote of the Assembly and Senate. No votes are detachable solely on account of race. The Provincial Councils deal with Provincial affairs and with education for five years, except higher education. English and Dutch are the official languages enjoying equal rights. The railways, ports and harbors are vested in three commissioners and a Cabinet Minister, who must promote the settlement of agricultural and industrial populations in the interior. The union Parliament may amend the constitution, but amendments affecting the colored franchise, the equality of the languages and the basis of representation require a two-thirds majority.

Steel wins.

It is always thus. After 6 magnificent heats, the final in the 40 at the rink last night was a fizzle. But young Wright looks like a coming man. Fred Logan is not yet a back number, but is able to show some of the would-be champions the way around the rink. Take a look at those youngsters who skated last night, skated not only with their feet, but with their heads, and it is no longer surprising that St. John is the home of champions. But it is all the more regrettable that those youthful enthusiasts find little encouragement here.

There is a deeply rooted objection among needy persons to going to the almshouse. This institution is maintained by all the taxpayers for their own benefit and becoming an inmate of it is no disgrace any more than it is a disgrace for a man to live on the proceeds of an endowment policy.

Commander Spain is now quite free to buy Prince Rupert town lots, or real estate wherever his friends wish him to purchase. The charge against him was not very serious, but apparently Hon. Mr. Brodeur has considered it such as to warrant a request for the commander's resignation. Mr. J. F. Fraser's retirement had been anticipated for some time.

NOAH WAS PLAINLY DOWNCAST. "I brought along plenty of clothes for my wife, but she says they look as if they came out of the ark!" he cried.

"Sir, could you give me a little assistance?" said the weary wayfarer. "I don't know where my next meal is coming from." "Neither do I," replied the prosperous-looking individual. "My cook left this morning, too."

"A Turkish bath is such an excellent thing," remarked Miss Tartan, "that I have often wished these Turks who sell candles at expositions would take one occasionally."

"Gee, but it's hot!" cried Mr. Sizer, nipping his brow. "Where is Tommy?" "Out frying his little said Mrs. Sizer. "Well, for goodness sake, tell him to stop it!" roared Sizer. "The idea of using up what little grease there is on such nonsense."

The father of a family, all of whom were devotees of bridge and much given to talking of the game and holding post-mortems over badly played cards, died rather suddenly. There was a difference of opinion as to whether he should be buried in the family plot or cremated. In the course of the discussion the mother said weepingly to her son: "John, what do you think?" "I leave it to you, mother."

Wife—John, dear, define a philanthropist. Husband—A philanthropist, my love, is a man who gives away other people's money. Wife—And what is a philosopher? Husband—A philosopher is a man who bears with resignation the toothache from which his neighbor is suffering.

LANDMARKS WIPED OUT BY A MOVING BOG

Strange Freak of Nature Changes Entire Face of Irish District.

DUBLIN, Feb. 10.—More than 100 acres of fertile land have been lost forever by the bog slide at Lismore, County Wick, and further damage is threatened. The bog began to move again this week at the rate of about five miles an hour, and the farmers whose homesteads are in its track hastened to remove everything they owned to places of safety. For hours all the roads were choked with carts piled high with furniture and bedding, while cattle, sheep and pigs added to the confusion. The land is now covered with twelve feet of solid bog, and will never be worth anything for agriculture again. Every possible effort is being made by the authorities to prevent further damage. Mr. Cornwall, the Galway County administrator and a Provincial Council member, arrived on the scene yesterday, and immediately employed a large gang of men opening up the river which had been choked by the moving bog matter, and Mr. Bates, the local inspector of the Congested Districts Board, employed 100 men on similar work. The entire face of the district has been changed. Rivers and roads have disappeared, and all landmarks have been obliterated. Efforts were made to recover the body of Mrs. McDonnell, the old woman who was overwhelmed and drowned in her cottage. Nothing but the outer walls of the cabin remain and yesterday morning a frail causeway of planks was laid over the quaking bog. A policeman crossed it and tried to explore the house. He dived into the mass of mud and water, but was unable to find the body, and was almost drowned in the attempt. Laurence Martin, whose house was also submerged, had a narrow escape. He was awakened by a noise, which he declared resembled thunder, and when he opened the door of his house he was almost smothered by the rush of bog and water. He rushed back to rescue his wife and his two daughters, and by the time he reached the door again the food was up to his armpits. He managed however to carry his wife and children to the higher ground but all their clothing and everything they owned in the world were lost.

THRILLING RESCUE OF WRECKED PASSENGERS

CASTELLON, Spain, Feb. 9.—The America, a Spanish coaster, plying between Barcelona and Cartagena, although she struck only 1,000 feet from shore, the tremendous seas that were running prevented the life-savers for a long time from communicating with the vessel. The passengers were terrified by the enormous waves, which threatened momentarily to break up the steamer. Finally the life-boats managed to reach the side of the wrecked vessel and with great difficulty took off the passengers.

AN OBEDIENT TIGER.

"How entirely," remarks the London Globe, "is the confidence of the native East Indian in the government may be gathered from the following anecdote, which comes from Lahore: A tiger had escaped from the zoological gardens, and its keeper, hoping to lure it back followed it. When all other inducements had failed, he lifted up his voice and solemnly adjured it in the name of the British government, to which it belonged, to come back to its cage. The tiger, it is needless to add obeyed at once."

ZOO LION ATTACKS VENTURESOME VISITOR

Man Climbs on Railing Around Cage, and is Seized by Feroocious Beast.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The folly of visitors to the Zoological Gardens attempting to feed the lions and other animals through the bars of their cages was exemplified by an incident which occurred on Thursday morning. Around the outside cages of the lion house is an iron railing some three feet high to keep the public out of harm's way. While a knot of sightseers were watching three lions in their cage, a young man, William Perival, climbed up the railing and leaned right over the cage.

In an instant a lion had shot forth a paw and caught the man's right arm with its claws. A scream of wild confusion ensued. The man cried for help as he felt himself dragged nearer the cage, the screams of women and children added to the turmoil, while the lion was splashing and snarling through the bars. The bystanders succeeded in pulling Perival away just as several keepers dashed up.

Fortunately, Perival was wearing a black overcoat, but even this, and his undercoat as well, was torn away and the forearm lacerated and scored with claw marks. He was taken to a cobbler to the London Temperance Hospital, and was able, when his wounds had been dressed, to go to his home near Vauxhall. "We shall have vertical railings put round the cages instead of the horizontal ones because of this incident," said Dr. Chalmers Mitchell, the secretary to the Royal Zoological Society, yesterday, "and this will make them more difficult to climb, although why any one should want to climb them as they are I cannot understand."

BIG PRICE FOR GLASS OF GROG

Woman Burned Notes Worth $1180 to Make a "Whisky Hot."

PARIS, Feb. 10.—Mme. Louise Duval, who lives in the Rue de Rivoli, opposite the Tuilleries, suddenly caught cold yesterday and treated it last night with a grog which cost her $1180. She had sold the grog in the morning and received its price in banknotes. These she wrapped up in a newspaper which she put by her, and the next morning the newspaper and its contents had disappeared. Mme. Duval rushed to the police station, and the grog was found in the middle of the night to be some water for her grog and the newspaper containing the $1180 was the price of her farm.

GAME LAW VIOLATORS GET OFF VERY EASY

Before Justice Roberts, at Cody's, Queen's Co., on Tuesday afternoon, two cases under the game laws were heard. John R. Dunn appeared for the prosecution, and J. MacMillan, Truro, for the defence. In the action against George E. Black charged with having moose meat in his possession in close season, the case was withdrawn on the ground that no offence under the act had been committed. In the action against Messrs. Phillips, Moses Corey and Cody Corey, charged with killing a bull moose on Sunday, the defendant pleaded guilty, upon an agreement that the minimum penalty of $50 should stand against the defendants future good behavior.

PATRIARCH DEPOSED IN THE HOLY CITY

Action of Synod Resented by Greek Laity, Who Boycott the Churches.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 10.—Few aspects of the bloodless revolution of Turkey have been more interesting than its results in Palestine, for one associates it with everything that belongs to an ancient world. For some weeks the subject of all-absorbing interest in Jerusalem has been the grave conflict between the Greek clergy and the laity, native-born, of the same community.

Briefly, the difficulty is this: With the acquiescence of the senate of liberty by the granting of the constitution demands for their rights on the part of the people began to be made. The native community of the Greek Church at Jerusalem have demanded a voice in the direction of the community affairs and the finances and admission to the theological school at the convent of the Cross, with an open way into the presbytery and to membership in the Greek convent and in the Holy Synod. They have been debarred from the privileges since 1907, when the last native-born patriarch died, and all patriarchs and all members of the synod and convent of recent years have since been exclusively Greek-born monks, priests and bishops. They also demanded better house accommodations, with better educational and medical and hospital facilities.

Their demands were unheeded until an order came from the government to the patriarch, Damianos, to recognize and treat with them. When he did so he was at once deposed by the synod. The government would not recognize their action. The synod of Constantinople and Alexandria confirmed his deposing. The Turkish government has not spoken again. It is said the Russian government continues to recognize the deposed patriarch. The other Greek Church communities in Bethlehem, Jaffa, Haifa, Gaza and Salt are all up in arms over the affair. Popular sympathy among all classes is on the side of the laity and the patriarch. All the native churches have been closed for some weeks, and no one will attend any services.

SAM HUGHES' PET SCHEME

C. P. R. to Have Office for Purpose of Answering Inquiries

His Imperial Union Proposal to Come Up in House Again

MONTEAL, Feb. 10.—J. S. Dennis of the C. P. Railway Company, with headquarters at Calgary, Alberta, is here from a visit to Great Britain and continent, whither he went with the special object of looking into conditions regarding immigration to Western Canada.

Realizing that Canada was attracting a great deal of attention and that the long campaign of publicity carried on by the Dominion government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, with reports of good crops in Western Canada last year, was bearing fruit and that the prospects of a large movement of good settlers this year were very bright.

Realizing this condition, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is extending its organization in Europe by establishing in London a general agency, through which all information relating to Western Canada will be handled, the value of which with a staff of men who know the local conditions and who will devote all their time to answering inquiries relating to Canada, advertising and lecturing, distributing literature and generally carrying on what may be termed an intelligent and persistent publicity campaign, will be evident.

Married Only Six Months, Pair Were Living Apart.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Calling over the telephone to his bride of 6 months to listen to the report of a revolver shot, Alberto Belluquid, a young Spaniard, manager of the Universal Medical Institute, today attempted suicide by firing a bullet into his left side.

Belluquid's home life is said to have been a troubled one, and in less than four months he and his bride agreed to live apart.

Belluquid, according to his brother, Humberto, gave his wife a weekly allowance of $25 which Mrs. Belluquid thought inadequate, and she frequently demanded more money.

It was as the culmination of just such a demand today that Belluquid, according to his brother, Humberto, decided to kill himself. He called his wife to the phone and fired.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 10.—Col. Sam Hughes has given notice that he will again bring before parliament his proposal for an imperial partnership union of all the component parts of the empire in the matter of dealing with all international, international, imperial fiscal and imperial defense questions. The resolution is in effect the same as that twice debated in the last parliament, while approving the idea of a union of the empire, but not intending to press the question of a division, but is putting it forward more with the idea of its educative influence than with a view to achieving any practical result at present.

RECORD STORM LAST EVENING

Rain Accompanied by Gale

WALKING IMPOSSIBLE Work Suspended at Sand Point—Ludlow Has Trouble

Saint John was visited yesterday afternoon and evening by the worst storm of the season. The heaviest rain fell at 9 o'clock last evening.

At the beginning of the storm the wind was blowing from the east, but before dark it veered around to southeast and at nine o'clock last night was blowing 38 miles an hour from that direction. The total precipitation up to that time was nine-tenths of an inch.

The street cars were very much inconvenienced in the early part of the evening on account of the heavy snow on the rails and for upwards of an hour the service was demoralized.

Along the harbor front the vessels put out extra moorings and every precaution was taken to make everything secure, as a very high sea was running.

Although the storm was exceptionally severe at this point, reports from other parts of the city were not so favorable. A telephone message from Point Lepreau last evening stated that they were experiencing the worst storm of the season there with the wind blowing forty-eight miles an hour.

About one o'clock this morning the wind went down, although rain continued to fall steadily.

NEW PROCESS STEEL.

Has Many Times the Cutting Power of Any Before in Existence Will Work Continuously on Hard Metal Without Necessity of Frequent Sharpening.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—As was reported by cable on Wednesday, the Continental Steel Works of Jonas and Colver, at Sheffield, have discovered a process for making steel with many times the cutting power of any before in existence.

When interviewed on behalf of The New York Times, E. W. Winder, director of the works and manager of the company, admitted that they were about to put on the market a new steel which placed all other high-speed steels far in the background.

"When litigation with the Bethlehem Steel Company of America," said Mr. Winder, "was entered upon, Jonas and Colver set themselves to consider how to maintain their position if the judgment of the American courts should shut out high-speed steel made under the prevailing conditions. When high-speed steel was first produced it was water hardened, but a subsequent improvement resulted in the water hardening being abandoned for air-blast hardening."

"It was through this later feature that the Sheffield steelmakers found themselves in conflict with alleged American patents. Experiments were conducted at the Continental Steel Works, for a period extending over six months, and the result was the production of a new steel which hardened in water and which showed a remarkable increase in hardness over existing high-speed steel. The firm was thus placed in a position independent of the result of the American litigation."

"The new steel can be annealed. No modern high-speed steel, in fact, has any advantage over it in the matters of annealing, forging, and over-heating."

HARDENED 17 TIMES.

An interesting experiment recently conducted by the makers showed that a tool made from the steel could be hardened seventeen consecutive times in cold water without showing signs of a crack. The steel could be hardened in oil, paraffin, or even by air blast. It could be used by any one accustomed to work with high-speed steel.

As to its cutting power, it was difficult to give comparative results, as so much depended on the quality of the material worked upon. On very mild steels it would probably do two or three times as much as the present tool. On hard material very much better results were achieved—sometimes as much as six or seven times better than with the ordinary high-speed steel.

Mr. Winder insists that a tool made of the existing high-speed steel, working on very hard material, has to be ground at least five times a day. Last week a similar cutter made from the new steel was put on and worked a day and a half with one grinding, and the report was that it was going on very well indeed.

As to the comparative cost, Mr. Winder preferred to say nothing, although he admitted that it was more expensive than the existing material. The correspondent of The New York Times subsequently waited on Prof. Arnold, of the Sheffield University School of Metallurgy, whose prophesy before the Royal Institution a week ago that the best high-speed steel of today was destined to become a back number made a sensation in England. Prof. Arnold said:

"From the point of view of the scientific man the phenomena exhibited by the steel forms an intensely interesting field for investigation. It is an absolute departure in metallurgy to have obtained water-hardened steel which will work for a considerable time without cutting the edge of the tool, in a bright red glow when cutting hard metal."

NO COMPARISON.

"I have," said the professor, "tried this steel and the experiments leading up to it were under my notice for a considerable time, and I am positive that it is more than justified in the statements I made as to the value of the discovery. There is no comparison between the cutting powers of the new material and existing high-speed steel."

"I prophesy," asserted the professor, "that years hence every high-speed steel manufacturer in the country will be making this steel. Of course the secret cannot be retained forever. Even now from information which has reached me during my recent visit to America, I believe our friends across the water are progressing on very much the same lines."

"A conversation I had with the metallurgist of one of their leading firms disclosed certain facts which led me to believe they are experimenting in much the same direction. How far they have advanced I am unaware, but that they have even approached the position we have now attained I very much doubt."

In closing the interview Prof. Arnold intimated that the Applied Science Department of Sheffield University had laid down at a cost of $100,000 what was probably the most powerful high speed steel testing plant in the world. This was to be used purely in scientific experiments on steel made in the university steel works.

MANIA OF A MAN-HATER

Refused Coins Bearing Head of the King of England.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Miss Harriet Evans, an elderly spinster on whom an inquest was held at Hockney yesterday, was said to have been a confirmed man-hater.

"She was so much against man that she would not have a coin with the king's head on it," her landlady said. "If one was given to her, she would throw it into the fire. She would only deal in money bearing Queen Victoria's head."

Miss Evans went to the office of a local newspaper some time ago, but refused to enter it until a woman went to transact business with her. An advertisement for apartments which she published stipulated that there should be no man in the house. She even declined to receive letters because the stamps bore the king's head. A verdict of "Natural Death" was returned.

"Oh, won't you be surprised?" she said. "It's a wedding ring," she said. "The clerk was making out the certificate 'He is in Elston, Ky., where I live, and he doesn't know yet.' They decided to be married tomorrow evening and tell papa by telegram of the happy event."

NEW BRITISH OPERA WINS PRIZE AND FAME

Produced at Covent Garden, London, "The Angelus" Scores a Success.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The lapse of time since an opera by a British composer was produced at Covent Garden makes the first performance on Saturday of Dr. E. W. Naylor's "The Angelus" an occasion of more than usual interest. The libretto, by Wilfrid Thornley, is a typical story of the Middle Ages, and is divided into a prologue and four brief acts.

It tells of the discovery by an abbot of a parchment which contains the recipe of the elixir of life and directions where to find the herb which is the essential part of it. The abbot dies, but before he has given the document to Francis, a young novice, who sets out to seek the herb.

His journey leads him to a village, where he falls in love with Beatrice, the queen of the festival. She, thinking him to be nameless and famous, would send him away, but he tells her the secret which he possesses, and when she finds that he is bound by no vows she yields to his love. But the sound of the Angelus reminds him of the abbot and his quest, and he goes on his way.

He finds the herb in the sacred grove of the Temple of the Fates, where the wood nymphs take him for a god and help him. The discovery that he is a mere mortal brings down a terrible curse on him, and with a defiance of fate and the creator he returns to Beatrice.

She is lying at the point of death, and the elixir is too late to save her. Francis tries to stab himself but death in person prevents him and commands him to drink the cup himself. He drinks, and is condemned to live on in internal unrest for soul and body.

The music is on thoroughly modern lines, and motifs are employed, although not to excess. The three chief themes are associated with the elixir of life, the parchment which contains the secret and the utterance of "Death to the Angelus." The prize of $2,500 which was offered by Messrs. Ricordi, who undertook to have it produced at Covent Garden where it scored an unmistakable success.

RED TAPE HOLDS UP CREMATED "CORPSE"

Burning of Her Body for Economy's Sake Did Not Work as Woman Thought.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—A week ago there died in Paris an elderly Scotchwoman who lived for many years in France. She was not wealthy but left enough to defray her funeral expenses. Among her last requests was one that her remains be taken to Scotland and laid in the family grave beside the bodies of her father and mother.

The conveyance of a corpse from France to Scotland is a costly matter and the old woman, knowing this, left instructions in her will that she should be cremated. She argued that a little urn with a small quantity of dust could be conveyed to Scotland at much less expense than a coffin. Her wishes were carried out after the cremation of the body, and the remains were placed in a coffin for transport to Scotland.

To their surprise the cemetery officials replied that the police regulations forbade the handing over of the ashes for removal abroad, except on the condition that they were accompanied to the frontier by an official undertaker and isolated in a sealed urn—that, in a word, all the formalities usually observed in the transportation of a coffin were complied with. They asked that the official tariff for the carriage of the ashes would also be the same, namely, 1 franc per kilometer, which meant that the cost of conveying the urn from Paris to the frontier would be about $100.

Further trouble was in store for the executors. They communicated with the cemetery authorities in Scotland who received a letter stating that no cremated remains had ever been buried in the village cemetery and that they hesitated about accepting the ashes from Paris. In order to satisfy the requirements of Scottish decorum, they suggested that the urn should be buried at its destination be placed in a hearse and taken to the burial ground with the ceremonial customary for an ordinary funeral.

SCHOONER GEORGIA, BOUND HERE, GROUNDS ON ISLAND

ROCKLAND, Me., Feb. 10.—While trying to get in Penobscot Bay to seek shelter the three-masted schooner Georgia of New York, Captain Smith, mistaking and ran her forefoot on the bleak headland of Monroe Island, off Owl's Head, during the heavy snow squall early today. Although the captain and crew had been unable to communicate with the mainland and are virtually marooned on the island by heavy seas, it is believed that all made their escape from the schooner by climbing from the end of the jibboom through the surf.

A fishing schooner belonging to Mr. T. Jameson & Co. of Owl's Head was sent out to the assistance of the wrecked vessel, but was unable to get close in shore upon reaching the island. By the time the fishermen reached the scene the masts of the stranded schooner had fallen and the vessel was fast going to pieces on the rocks. The fishermen could see a fire on the island and could see some men near the huts of lobster fishermen on another part of the island. It is supposed that the captain and crew of the Georgia, after making their escape perilously from their doomed craft, lighted the fires as a beacon and then discovered the huts of the fishermen.

After running in close enough to make out the name of the schooner as the Georgia, the fishermen from Owl's Head returned and reported. It will be impossible for any boat to make a landing at the island before tomorrow. The place where the Georgia went ashore is on the southwest part of Monroe Island, which is a bleak and barren rock unattended except by a few fishermen. It is only a few miles from Owl's Head.

The Georgia was built in 1872 at Bangor, Maine, and was rebuilt completely about five years ago. Her net registered tonnage was 231, and she was valued at about $8,000. She carried ordinarily a crew of six men. The Georgia was bound light from Portland for St. John, N. B., to take on a load of lumber.

SPAIN AND FRASER QUIT THE GOVERNMENT SERVICE

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—Following the report of Mr. Justice Casels on the marine department Commander Spain, Dominion wreck commissioner, and J. Fraser, commissioner of lights, will step out of the government service. Their resignations are now in the hands of Hon. Mr. Reid, Commander of Spain will complete his reports with regard to several recent wreck investigations before he finally vacates his office. Mr. Fraser has been under suspension for nearly a year, and his retirement from service was a foregone conclusion as soon as Justice Casels' report was presented.

It will be remembered that in the case of both of these officials Justice Casels found the charges made against them sustained. In the case of the other officials of the department affected by the report further action will be taken by the Minister of Marine in the near future.

It is probable that Admiral Kingsmill, head of the fishery protection service, will succeed Commander Spain as wreck commissioner, combining both offices.

Supreme Court Vacancy

In connection with the vacancy on the supreme court bench, created by the retirement of Hon. Justice MacLennan, the names of Mr. Justice Ouellet, of Ontario Court of Appeal, and of Hon. P. H. Sutherland, ex-speaker of the House of Commons, are prominently mentioned as probable successors. The fitness of either gentleman for the position is unquestioned. DEPRESSION FEATURE OF GERMAN TRADE

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—Returns of the German shipbuilding trade for 1908 show a remarkable falling off in this industry all along the line. The figures for 1908 are lower than in any year since 1885. The tonnage built in German yards amounted to only 201,000 in 1908, against 311,000 in 1907 and 338,000 in 1906. No new yards have been established, no great liners have been built and were it not for the increased activity in the naval output, the year would have been a dismal failure.

The returns also show that Germany more than ever before has had to resort to foreign, mainly British, for her ships. Nearly 25 per cent. of the aggregate number of new ships were bought in foreign countries, a proportion never reached in recent years.

Equally unsatisfactory is the return showing the number of ships bought in Germany by foreign nations. These have sunk to low-water level, mainly owing, it is said, to successful British competition. Even river steamboats, for example, those employed on the Rhine, have been largely bought in Holland, German yards, notwithstanding the high protective tariffs, being unable to compete with the cheaper products of the Netherlands. There seems little prospect of any immediate improvement notwithstanding the fostering care of the government.

According to statistics published today of the "special trade" of Germany for the year 1908, the value of the imports was $1,175,000,000, as compared with $1,250,000,000 in 1907 and of the exports $1,700,000,000, as compared with $1,750,000,000 inclusive of precious metals.

Exclusive of precious metals, the imports in 1908 amounted to $2,370,000,000, as compared with $2,170,000,000 and the exports to $1,524,000,000 against $1,725,000,000 in the preceding year.

CONGO IS ALMOST DEPLETED OF RUBBER

ANTWERP, Feb. 10.—News received here from private channels by the last Congo mail shows that now Belgium has annexed the Congo, those who have been indulging in a speculative game of bluff as to the real economic condition of many of the rubber-bearing regions, having no longer any call to continue it, the truth is beginning to leak out. For example, the Abir territory, which seven years ago used to produce over 100 tons of rubber a month, produced two tons in December; and the Mongalia region's output, which has been steadily dwindling, was only three and one-half tons. The fact of the matter is that both these sections of the great equatorial forest are practically worked out, both in rubber and in population. Another concessionaire company—one of the smaller ones—is on the eve of declaration of bankruptcy.

The most sensational news which reaches however, is a rumor that one of the largest of the rubber companies in the Upper Congo is tentatively negotiating with the government for a surrender of the monopolistic rights for a compensation of $100,000. It must be remembered that these companies have made fabulous profits in the past. The debacle was threatening when Belgium was maneuvered into annexing the territory. It would seem to be beginning now.

In last year's annexation debate, the Liberal and Labor minority in the Chamber fought strenuously to obtain the cancellation of the law under which—by yearly decrees—some 2,000 men are "recruited" for forced labor on "works of public utility." The efforts then made failed, as did all other attempts to obtain reforms embodied in the colonial law. The decree under this forced labor law for 1909 has just been promulgated. It provides for 2,565 "recruits." The term of service is for five years, and the "laborers" are obtained from the provinces of LeFranco, which recently explained in detail, by raiding the interior villages and dragging the "recruits" roped round the neck, to their destination. It may be added that the "works of public utility" in question are the recently discovered gold mines at Kilo, a government monopoly, like the rubber.

"There must be an explanation," said La Presse; "the Leopoldian system cannot be restored under our national responsibility."

William Willett Thinks His Plan Should
Also Appeal to America.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—William Willett, the father of the daylight saving plan, which purports to advance the clock an hour in summer, has just despatched a letter to every member of the United States Congress arguing that an extra daylight hour in summer ought to be as agreeable to Americans as to the English.

Mr. Willett had a bill introduced in parliament last summer, and a select committee was appointed to consider it. The committee has been questioning every class of people on their views, and find that one of the chief difficulties is that the Exchanges of London, Liverpool and New York would not be opened at all simultaneously. At present, allowing for the difference of five hours in time, the London Exchange, which does not close until 4 p. m., has an hour of simultaneous business with the New York Exchange, which opens at 10 a. m. Mr. Willett's plan would wipe out that hour. This fact suggested the carrying of the campaign into America.

Mr. Willett says that twenty peers and 176 members of Commons have now expressed themselves in favor of the measure. A public meeting of business men in support of the bill is to be held in Guild Hall on April 30, with the lord mayor in the chair. Resolutions favoring the bill have been passed by twenty-nine chambers of commerce in the kingdom.

Great Britain Negotiating
With That End in View

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Speaking at a military dinner in London tonight on the role of the territorial army in the various problems of defense against possible invasion, the Right Hon. R. B. Haldane, secretary of state for war, announced that the government is negotiating with dominions over the seas with a view to the creation of an army of empire and not of Great Britain merely. Secretary Haldane referred also with great satisfaction to the fact that, as the outcome of the recent agitation, three thousand recruits had joined the territorial army and one hundred applications had been received for commissions.

MURDER TRIAL WHICH ECLIPSES STEINHAL CASE HAS BEGUN

Alleged Murderers of Banker Remy Now on Trial. PARIS, Feb. 10.—Interest in the famous Steinhal murder mystery has been temporarily eclipsed by the trial for murder of Remy, a steward, and Courtois, a footman, employed by the late August Remy, a wealthy retired banker, who was stabbed to death in his home in the Rue de la Peupliere last June. The killing was done with a desert knife, and a quantity of money and jewels of great value were taken. Some time after the murder the newspapers are devoting pages to the trial, and a large crowd, half of whom are women, struggle daily to enter the court room.

The whole clause seems, therefore, to suggest the suitability of run-of-mine coal for the uses indicated was within the contemplation of the parties when they entered into the contract. Paragraphs 4 and 5 of the contract are most important. They impose on the steel company for the full period of ninety years the obligation to purchase all coal they may require from the coal company if the latter is ready to supply it, and provided further that the steel company shall not sell any coal supplied to them with the consent in writing of the coal company, unless the latter refuse to purchase at 11 per cent. i. e., 20 cents less than complete and properly run to the steel company if the 90 per cent. supplied or even much less proportion of it, were unsuitable for the operations it was contemplated that the coal should carry on, and it is quite inconceivable that any rational business man would enter into an arrangement necessitating such results.

Before Mr. C. E. Sanford a referee in equity, hearing in the matter of the case of William E. Earle vs. Richard Harrison and McAlley Bros, and Co. was continued yesterday. This is a suit commenced by the plaintiff who is the mortgagee of Harrison's property on St. David's street, here. Some time ago a decree was made for foreclosure and the matter of accounting was referred to Mr. Sanford, one of the referees in equity. The facts of the case are briefly these: In 1899 Richard and Matthew Harrison mortgaged their property on St. David's street, here, to the plaintiff Earle for $150. Matthew died and left Richard his sole heir. In March, 1902 the plaintiff filed a bill of redemption in equity and joined McAlley Bros and Co. defendants, as judgment creditors. Some time after this Earle went into possession of the property and has managed it ever since for the purpose of receiving the principal and interest. A settlement was made until next week. Justin and French appeared for the plaintiff, D. Mullin, K.C., and J. A. Barry for Harrison, and C. F. Inches for McAlley Bros, and Co.

Before Mr. C. E. Sanford a referee in equity, hearing in the matter of the case of William E. Earle vs. Richard Harrison and McAlley Bros, and Co. was continued yesterday. This is a suit commenced by the plaintiff who is the mortgagee of Harrison's property on St. David's street, here. Some time ago a decree was made for foreclosure and the matter of accounting was referred to Mr. Sanford, one of the referees in equity. The facts of the case are briefly these: In 1899 Richard and Matthew Harrison mortgaged their property on St. David's street, here, to the plaintiff Earle for $150. Matthew died and left Richard his sole heir. In March, 1902 the plaintiff filed a bill of redemption in equity and joined McAlley Bros and Co. defendants, as judgment creditors. Some time after this Earle went into possession of the property and has managed it ever since for the purpose of receiving the principal and interest. A settlement was made until next week. Justin and French appeared for the plaintiff, D. Mullin, K.C., and J. A. Barry for Harrison, and C. F. Inches for McAlley Bros, and Co.

FOUND THE HORSE NEEDED DENTAL ATTENTION

In the civil court this morning considerable time was taken up in a horse stealing case.

John Hayes, the plaintiff, claimed that on Friday, January 15th, he purchased a grey horse because the defendant Fred McKinnis and Wm. Marks, for the sum of $70 and that as he did not know much about horses the defendants said that if the animal was not all right or did not suit, they would take him back. Plaintiff said he found that owing to the horse's teeth being bad he could not eat well so he took the animal back to the defendants who refused to accept it.

Thomas Lowe, who was present at the sale, gave evidence on the same lines as the plaintiff.

The two defendants testified that they did not promise to take the horse back if it did not suit, but that they purchased the animal at his own risk.

It was pointed out in court that the case was one for the county court and on application of Mr. A. A. Wilson, a non-suit was granted.

C. F. Sanford appeared for the plaintiff.

TWO WEARY WILLIES ADVISED TO VAMOOSE

Couple of Tramps and One Chronic Smiler the Bill of Fare in Court Today.

Three prisoners graced the bench in the police court this morning. One was a common drunk who found no vacation on the streets rather difficult yesterday. He was fined four dollars. The other two were tramps.

Joseph Greger, 35 year old ragged and evil smelling Italian, had spent five nights in police station cells during the last week, three times as a protectionist and twice on the charge of vagrancy. On the first charge he was told to clear out of the city and this morning he was again told to get out, with a judicial notification that his presence in the court room did not improve the atmosphere.

The other tramp was John Walsh, 28 years of age who claims Halifax as his home. He said that he had beaten his way from Halifax and for the past two nights had found lodgings in an empty box car in the C. P. yards. The magistrate remarked that St. John seemed to be a dumping place for tramps who appear to think that the residents of the winterport are easy. He told the prisoner that he should be ashamed of himself and advised him to get out of town and go to Halifax where he came from as St. John didn't want him.

MERCHANTS ARRANGE TO TAG THEIR EMPLOYEES

Many Business Houses are Entering Heartily Into the Saturday Money-Raising Campaign.

In anticipation of tag day, quite a number of prominent merchants have sent word to the Kindergarten Association that they themselves are arranging for the tagging of all their employees. They will see each member of their staffs and receive contributions. The total amounts will be ready for the tag day collectors when they call, and these collectors will deliver at the store the number of tags required for the staffs. This is going to save a lot of work for the collectors, and any other merchants or others who feel like following the same course are requested to telephone any member of the Kindergarten Association.

All the business centre of the city has been mapped out for the Saturday morning campaign, and upwards of a hundred collectors will be at work during the morning, in addition to those who are to be engaged in North End. This plan has been followed because of the fact that, although it is winter, quite a number of establishments and offices close at noon on Saturday. During the afternoon the house to house tagging and street work will be carried on all over the city.

Announcement of the tag day campaign has been made in the High School, and the young lady students there have been requested to lend their assistance. All those who are willing to do so, are asked to meet at the assembly rooms this afternoon at four o'clock, when all the other workers will be present, and the location to each pair of collectors will be arranged.

JERRY A. McNULTY.
