Lines to the Pullman Car Wash Room.
Oh wash room in a Pullman car
How thoughtless all your tenants are!
How different in your tiny space
Appears the well-known human race
Where some of us our stuff might place,
Where man has all the room he wants.

Oh wash room in a Pullman car,
How sad your influences are!
Why is it that when he's behind
Your curtain grows an angry grin,
And all his finer instincts smother
To play the hog among his brothers?

I've studied you on many a trip,
I've watched you tenant with the grip
That covers every inch of space
Where some of us our stuff might place,
And needs that he may share himself,
The contents of a drug store shelf.

But worst of all your pests is he,
Who, finished dressing, will not see,
But sprawl himself upon a seat
And let his mangle o'er his feet
And though he's not had breakfast, yet
Sticks till he's smoked a cigarette.

Oh wash room in a Pullman car,
How disgusting men are!
How thoughtless of their fellow kind
When once you curtain they're behind
What is there in your narrow range
That so completely men can change?

BRITISH BOMBARDMENT NEVER AGAIN TO CEASE; RUSSIANS STRIKE HARD ON TURNING MOVEMENT

STRONG TICKET IN WESTMORLAND

Opposition Selects Five Representative Men for City and County

Hon. C. W. Robinson Nominated in Moncton City and Dr. E. A. Smith, Hon. F. J. Sweeney, C. M. Leger and Fred Magee in the County—Largest and Most Enthusiastic Convention Ever Held in Westmorland County—Stirring Speeches in Behalf of Honest Government Arouse Great Enthusiasm.

(Special to The Telegraph.)

Moncton, July 13.—The opposition to the provincial and dominion governments May 30, in the now famous by-election when Minister of Public Works Mahoney was in the city, met again this afternoon in great numbers in the city of Moncton and named four candidates for the general elections, no matter when they are held, "next week, next month or next year." This was the first time the friends of good government, supporters of the opposition, had an opportunity to meet since their great feat in wresting victory from an undesired government, and they made the most of the occasion. They came in scores from every parish and with them came many who had supported Mahoney in the last election—many who resent his holding on to office after the verdict of the people.

A STRONG TICKET.

When the electors separated after three hours of good fellowship in a meeting held here they five opposition candidates named for the city of Moncton and the county of Westmorland. They were: city of Moncton, Hon. C. W. Robinson, county of Westmorland, Dr. E. A. Smith, of Shediac, Fred Magee, of Port Elgin, C. M. Leger, of Grand Pré, and Hon. F. J. Sweeney, of Miramichi, but now residing in Moncton.

Boundless enthusiasm greeted the presentation of the names by the nominating committee. The acceptance by Hon. C. W. Robinson of the nomination for Moncton city was one of the surprises of the convention to the most of those present. But the surprise was of such an agreeable nature that the delegates cheered him again and again. That he could be persuaded to again give his services to the province was not in the thoughts of many outside the organizers and the committee that has interviewed him. In spite of his refusal to be a candidate in 1912 and of his retirement from the party leadership in January of this year, Hon. C. W. Robinson has too strong a hold upon the regard and esteem of his fellow citizens who are best acquainted with his integrity, upright-ness and ability for them to miss any effort to persuade him to serve them and the province. He admitted this afternoon in his speech of acceptance that the persuasions of his fellow citizens had much but not all to do with his acceptance. He spoke of the great need there was for every man to serve his province when the call came and surely at this time there was an imperative demand for the best service of all men interested in the welfare of New Brunswick. His acceptance had but one condition. If the general election was held this year he would be a candidate, but if not until 1917 he wanted the people of Moncton to meet again to either testify his candidature again or choose another man. For he did not want to be considered as crowding out any man or men.

In this connection he paid a glowing tribute to the energy, worth and ability of John T. Hawke, the editor of the Transcript, who, he said, would wonderfully represent any constituency. His refusal to the defeat of Mr. Mahoney, and his holding on to office after that defeat, was listened to with utmost attention. There is nothing in the county of Westmorland that has condemned the government so much.

Strong Appeal for Good Government.

There were other outstanding speeches of acceptance. Dr. Smith made a notable effort and Fred Magee in a thoughtful speech of high character appealed for better and purer government without graft or corruption. He extended an invitation to the government candidates, whoever they may be, to agree with the opposition not to spend a dollar illegally. As for him he did not propose to do so no matter what the government men did.

C. M. Leger, who was a former member, got a great reception and Hon. F. J. Sweeney must have been flattered by the cordial nature of his greeting. He refused to be a candidate in 1912, but in the recent by-election he was urged so strongly by the people to consent that he promised that if Newton Killam did not want the nomination he would give it consideration. Mr. Killam refused to entertain the nomination this afternoon and Mr. Sweeney was the unanimous choice of the convention. His speech of acceptance was of a rousing character and the delegates cheered him to the top. "The old government" and Mr. Sweeney's brief connection with it, have an interest for the opposition electors of Westmorland.

Largest Ever Held in Westmorland.

The convention was the largest ever held in Westmorland. Everybody was in earnest. No one feels any doubt of the result whatever in a by-election or a general election. An organization was begun and a county association formed with I. N. Killam, president; T. M. Gould, vice-president; John Hickman, treasurer, and Ferdinand Bourgeois and W. A. McQueen, secretaries. There were speeches during the afternoon by A. B. Copp, M.P., and organizers E. S. Carter and P. J. Veniot who had splendid receptions. Victory is surely in the air in Westmorland for the opposition forces and good government.

The Nominations.

The convention opened about 9 o'clock this afternoon in Gallagher's hall, Robinson street, Fred. Magee, Port Elgin, convener of the county, briefly outlined the object of the meeting—the selection of candidates for the next provincial election in Moncton city and Westmorland county. H. C. Charters, convener of the city, also spoke briefly. The nominating committee was chosen as follows: For the city, Ward 1, Z. M. Leger, Alpha Robichaud, Reid McManus, Ward 2, Dr. C. T. Purdy, H. C. Charters, A. H. Jones, Ward 3, A. E. McSweeney, P. E. Denison, M. S. Keith.

The nominating committee for the county was as follows: Moncton parish, C. B. Keith, Ferdinand E. Bourgeois, Lawrence Donovan, Daniel B. McKinnon, Freeman K. Lites, Wm. J. Wilson, Shediac parish, Wm. M. Murray, Maxime Foray, A. M. Leger, James McQueen, Charles Robichaud, Patrick Landry, Botsford parish, John Hennessey, M. B. Riley, W. J. Allen, Blair Allen, T. M. Gould, Nappoleon S. LaBlanc, Sackville parish, Ashley George, James Anderson, B. C. Rayworth, Dr. E. M. Copp, J. E. Dixon, C. C. Award.

Westmorland parish, Laurent Gould, Henry Grant, Mansford Goodwin, Fred. Dixon, Albert Wells, Roland Carter, Salisbury parish, Capt. J. W. Carter, Stephen Keohan, J. J. Keohan, C. A. King, M.D., J. L. Blakey, James Wheaton. Dorchester parish, J. H. Hickman, Councillor A. A. Stevens, T. D. Melancon, E. M. LeBlanc, Trueman Buck, Moses O'Brien.

HOLIDAYS SUSPENDED AS GREAT OFFENSIVE BEGINS

Munitions Workers and Bank Officials to Stay On the Job

INTENSE BOMBARDMENT "CONTINUED INDEFINITELY"

Premier Assquith Announces There Will be No Cessation in Intensity of Fire Until Victory is Achieved—Lansdowne Replies to Redmond.

London, July 13.—The Allied offensive on the western front is only in its beginning, declared Premier Assquith today in announcing in the house of commons that the government had decided to ask workers to forego their August holidays because of the demand for munitions in France. He expressed the conviction that the workmen would keep in this plan so as to make it plain to Great Britain's foes that the offensive, in its present intensity of bombardment and assault, would, if necessary, be "continued indefinitely."

The premier also announced that by royal proclamation the August bank holidays would be postponed, and he appealed to all classes for postponement of all holidays until further and definite progress of the offensive had been secured.

The premier recalled that the June and July holidays had been postponed in view of the urgent military requirements of the movement, and he had to acknowledge, on the part of the government, a very full response by the workers to his appeal at that time.

"Great and Favorable Change"

Since then, he added, a great and very favorable change in the military situation has been produced by the Allied offensive now in progress. "That offensive," he continued, "is only in its beginning, and it necessarily requires for its success a continuous supply of munitions of all kinds. From the success achieved we have been able to gauge the permanent necessity of avoiding even the slightest risk of restriction of the use of munitions in the field, not merely in the weeks immediately before us, but until our objective is achieved. In the opinion of the commander-in-chief, there must be no slackening in the output, even for a moment. I therefore appeal to the patriotism of the workers and the public generally to again postpone their holidays in order that the attack, so brilliantly begun, can be carried through to triumphant conclusion."

Where health required, continued, the premier, leave of absence would be granted, and the government held themselves responsible for seeing that the holidays were merely postponed, and not abandoned.

Lansdowne Represents Government.

London, July 13.—The Marquis of Lansdowne, replying in a written statement today to John Redmond's charge that his speech at the house of lords on Tuesday was a declaration of war against Ireland, announced that his speech was made after consultation with Premier Assquith and other members of the government.

"In making my statement," he writes, "as to the permanent character of certain provisions of the amending bill, I did not intend to go, and I do not consider that I did go, beyond the declaration made by the prime minister in the house of commons that union of six counties with the rest of Ireland could only be brought about with, and could never be brought about without, the free will and consent of the excluded areas."

"My statement with regard to the government of Ireland during the interval which must elapse between the present moment and the passing of the amending bill represented what I believe to be the views of the government and were made after consultation with the prime minister and others of my colleagues."

In Lord Lansdowne's speech on Tuesday he declared that the amending bill would make structural alterations in the home rule act of 1914, while other provisions were merely temporary. This statement evoked a passionate protest from Mr. Redmond, who declared that it indicated a gross breach of faith and was a gross insult to Ireland. Mr. Redmond asserted that "if this speech be taken as representing the attitude and spirit of the government towards Ireland, there is an end to all hopes of a settlement."

"Watershed Crossed, Initiative Wrested From Germans"

Lloyd George Declares Improved Equipment Has Started Victory to "Flow in Our Direction"—Turning Out Hundreds of Guns and Immense Quantities of Munitions But "Task Is But Half Accomplished."

London, July 13.—David Lloyd George, British minister of war, presiding today at an Allied conference on equipment, declared that the combined offensive of the Allies had wrenched the initiative from the Germans, never, he trusted, to return.

"We have crossed the watershed," he said, "and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction. This change is due to the improvement in our equipment."

The conference was held at the war office, and was participated in by Albert Thomas, French minister of munitions; General Belloff, assistant minister of war of Russia; General A. Dall'Olio, member of the Italian ministry of war, and the new British minister of munitions, Edwin Montagu.

"Since our last munitions conference," said Mr. Lloyd George, "there has been a considerable change in the fortunes of the Allies. On that date the great Champagne offensive in the west had just failed to attain its objective, and the French and British armies had sustained heavy losses, without the achievement of any particular success. In the east the enemy had pressed the gallant armies of Russia back some 100 miles, and the Balkans had just been overrun by the Central Powers."

"The overwhelming victories won by the valiant soldiers of Russia have struck terror into the hearts of our foes, and these, coupled with the immortal defense of Verdun by our indomitable French comrades, and the brave resistance of the Italians against overwhelming odds in the southern Alps, have changed the whole complexion of the landscape."

INITIATIVE NEVER TO RETURN TO ENEMY.

"Now, the combined offensive in the east and west has wrenched the initiative out of the hands of the enemy—never I trust to return to his grasp. We have crossed the watershed, and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction."

"Why have our prospects improved? The answer is, the equipment of our armies has improved enormously and is continuing to improve."

"The British navy, until recently, had absorbed more than half the metal workers of this country. The task of building new ships and repairing the old ones for the gigantic navy, and fitting and equipping them, occupies the energies of a million men. Most of our new factories are now complete; most of the machinery has been set up. Hundreds of thousands of men and women, hitherto unaccounted to metal and chemical work, have been trained for munitions making."

"Every month we are turning out hundreds of guns and howitzers, light, medium and heavy. Our heavy guns are rolling in at a greater rate, and we are turning out nearly twice as much ammunition in a single week—and what is more, nearly three times as much heavy shells—as we fired in the great offensive in September, although the ammunition we expended in that battle was the result of many weary weeks accumulation."

"The new factories and workshops we set up have not yet attained one-third their full capacity, but output is now increasing with great rapidity. Our main difficulties in organization, construction, equipment, labor supply and readjustment have been solved. If officials, employers and workmen continue at it with the same zeal and assiduity as they have hitherto employed, our supplies will soon be overwhelming."

"I cannot help thinking that the improvement in the Russian ammunition has been one of the greatest and most unpleasant surprises the enemy has sustained. Still our task is but half accomplished. Every great battle furnishes additional proof that this is a war of equipment. More munitions means more victories, and fewer casualties."

General Strike is Declared And Martial Law in All Spain

Madrid, via Paris, July 13.—In view of the railroad strike the government has suspended the constitutional guarantee, and martial law was proclaimed throughout Spain tonight. King Alfonso has arrived at Madrid from La Granja. A general strike is announced for July 16.

The city and province of Madrid were declared by the government in a state of siege on Thursday. This step was taken on account of the strike of railroad employes which has disorganized the transportation system of the country and has resulted in serious disturbances.

The strike began on the Northern Railway on June 11, and is reported to have spread not merely to the other railroads of Spain but to the industries in the great industrial centres of Barcelona, Madrid, Valencia, Bilbao and Oviedo.

The primary cause of the strike was the refusal of the Northern Railway Company to increase wages, but there has been growing unrest and serious disturbances in most of the provinces of Spain as a result of the increased cost of food, caused by the war.

RUSSIANS OUTFLANK BOTHMER ON STRIPA

New Movement Wins 2,000 Prisoners as Bitter Fighting Goes On Along Stokhod

British Make Appreciable Advances on Somme Besides Consolidation of Gains—French Report Briefly Artillery Battle at Verdun—Berlin Admits British Are Firmly Established in Contalmaison.

London, July 13.—The most violent fighting in the great Allied offensive is on the eastern front where General Brusseloff's tremendous blows are being continued without apparent lull or hesitation. Temporarily at least the Austro-Germans appear to have halted the Russian advance along the Stokhod. Both sides are reported to be hurrying huge reinforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle, the price of which is the immensely important strategic town of Kovel.

Further to the south a battle of almost equal intensity is raging on the Lower Stripa where the Russians are striving north in an effort to crush General Von Bothmer and flank the entire Austro-German line. The Austrians admit that the Russians penetrated Von Bothmer's front at some points, but assert they were driven out again in counter-attacks. The Russians claim to have taken 2,000 prisoners but make no mention of a gain in territory.

BRITISH CAPTURE UNDAMAGED GERMAN GUNS.

The British have held their gains on their portion of the Somme front and have appreciably advanced at some points. The usual period of consolidation and the pushing forward of the big artillery is presumed to be taking place. The British have also captured some German howitzers with a quantity of ammunition, which "will be used against the enemy at a suitable opportunity."

A similar situation exists on the French line and a remarkably brief French official statement of Thursday night simply reports the continuance of the bombardment at Fort Souville, in the Verdun region.

The British expedition in Mesopotamia is still at Samarra about fifteen miles below Kut-el-Amara on the Tigris, according to an official statement issued today. The statement says that the British forces have been subjected to an ineffectual artillery attack.

Line Advanced on British Front.

London, July 13.—The British official statement issued tonight reads:

"The artillery on both sides has been active throughout the day. As a result of sharp infantry fighting we are not only maintaining our pressure on the enemy, but have appreciably advanced our line at various points on the battlefield."

"In one sector of the front we captured some German howitzers with a quantity of ammunition. These will be used against the enemy at a suitable opportunity."

Guns Trained on Souville.

Paris, July 13.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads:

"Except for a somewhat spirited bombardment in the sector of Souville, on the right bank of the Meuse, there is no event of importance to report on the front."

Fighting on 100-mile Front.

Petrograd, via London, July 13.—The campaign in the southwest appears to be awaiting a decision in the struggle before Kovel, where the battles are increasing in intensity. Both sides are throwing more troops into this section, designated the "Lutsk breach" which extends a hundred miles along the Stokhod river.

Already there is said to have been noted the presence there of the Tenth Prussian Corps from Rheims, and the Fifth Bavarian from Arras, both newly brought up. The latest effort of the Austro-German forces to regain a foothold on the east shore of the Stokhod at Grovshelva, immediately south of the Kovel-Sarny railroad has been repulsed.

A grand success for the armies of Great Duke Nicholas is recorded in the fighting of Mamakhatum. The Russian advance westward of Erzerum reached this point several weeks ago, but it was later abandoned. The Turks, upon re-occupying this place, characterized it as the gateway to the Erzerum-Sivas line, operating to the base of their armies in the south.

"After hand-to-hand combats the Turks were driven from heights east of Balbut and are now retreating."

"Our offensive west of Mamakhatum continues successfully. After a violent night battle we occupied a series of heights southeast of Mamakhatum. The Turks attempted to take the offensive, but were thrown back. Pressing closely upon the enemy we took the villages of Djeljeti and Almail."

Gains in New Sector.

Petrograd, via London, July 13, 5.15 p. m.—The capture of more than 5,000 prisoners by the Russians, in desperate fighting to the west of the Lower Stripa, in Galicia, is announced by the war office in today's official statement. On the Stokhod in Volhynia there has been an artillery duel. The statement says:

"On the Dvina, above and below Friedrichstadt, we carried out successful reconnaissances."

"On the Stokhod there has been an artillery duel. Some squadrons of enemy aircraft flew behind our lines, dropping bombs and firing machine guns."

"In Galicia, in the region west of the Lower Stripa, desperate fighting has occurred in many places, the enemy launching energetic counter-attacks. We took more than 2,000 men prisoner, and captured a gun and some machine guns.

"On Tuesday our torpedo craft in the western part of the Black Sea captured a Turkish steamer with a cargo of petroleum and barley, and brought it into port. Other torpedo craft on Wednesday destroyed at the mouth of the river Melen, west of Erghel, another steamer in tow of two tugs."

"Caucasus front: West of the Erzerum line we carried out a successful offensive. The Turks vainly attempted to launch counter-attacks."

Berlin Says Von Bothmer on Move.

Berlin, July 13, via London, 4.55 p. m.—German troops, under command of General Count Von Bothmer, by an encircling attack, have driven back the Russian forces which had pushed forward in the region northwest of Bucacas, in Galicia, says the German official statement issued today. The Germans took 400 Russian prisoners.

The text of the statement says: "Eastern theatre. Army group of General Count Von Bothmer: German troops by an encircling counter-attack carried out near and to the north of Olessa, to the northwest of Bucacas, drove back the Russian troops which had pushed forward, and more than 400 prisoners were taken."

In the section of today's German official report dealing with the operations in the western theatre it was announced that British forces had established themselves in the town of Contalmaison, between the Ancre and Somme rivers.

The statement says: "Artillery fire continued with great intensity. Yesterday, south of the Somme, the French met with no success in attacks which they several times began on both sides of Barleux and near and west of Estrees. They were compelled to turn back under our curtain of fire, suffering the most severe, sanguinary losses."

"The British have established themselves in Contalmaison."

"East of the Meuse artillery fighting continues active. Infantry positions won have been consolidated. The number of prisoners has increased by 17 officers and 343 men, and now stands at 36 officers and 2,394 men."

"Near Fellingheim, on La Bassée Canal, on La Fille Morte height, east of Baidonvillers, and near Hiersbach, German patrol engagements were successful."

55,000 SOCIALISTS ON STRIKE IN GERMANY AS UNITED PROTEST

Amsterdam, July 13, via London, 6 p. m.—The Socialist newspaper Tribune asserts that 55,000 workmen employed in munitions factories and electrical works in Berlin, and in an aerodrome at Johannisthal, have gone on strike as a protest against the prison sentence imposed on Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, for participation in the May Day demonstration at Berlin.

If You Throat Is Husky, Catarrh May Be Starting
A weak or irritated throat is the first step towards Catarrh. Everything depends on your remedy. A cough mixer turns up quickly over the weak spots, drops into the stomach and does little but harm. Catarrh is altogether different with Catarrhone. It cures because it gets right at the trouble. You inhale Catarrhone, breathe in the vapor of healing balsams that strengthen the rest of the system. It is pleasant, but never have colds or coughs. Throat trouble and catarrh will disappear with the use of Catarrhone. A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN
GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR STRENGTH.
Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as today.
No man finds happiness in a sickly wife. The woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.
Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth and beauty bestow? Is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?
When straggling vigor can be easily maintained by Ferronox, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that her daughter has a hand to assist her daughter back to health.
Upon the wake of Ferronox quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and vigor which are so earnestly desired by those in ill health.
Stop and think what this means for your daughter—certainly a great deal, and it can be accomplished by Ferronox. Every growing girl and young woman derives enormous benefit in many ways from this nutritive vitalizing tonic.
It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.
Ferronox is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c boxes or six for $2.20, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarrhone Co., Kingston, Ont.

MANLY FAMILIES FOUND THEIR BRIGHTEST AND BEST

Faured Now Corp. George DeMille, of Hampton, Among the Killed—Ralph Raymond and Ralph Secord Recovering—Only 300 Left in 52nd in Report—Groves Family an Example in Empire Effort.

Wednesday, July 12. Few families among those honored in having their sons at the front but are mourning today for those upon whom the grim god of war has placed its iron heel.

Hampton Loses Another Son. Hampton has given another one of her valiant sons in the cause of empire, this time Corporal George DeMille, of the Fighting New Brunswick Battalion, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. DeMille, of Hampton.

Although Corporal DeMille has not been officially reported killed in action his death is reported in a letter from Ralph Raymond, also of the 26th and a Bloomfield, Kings county, boy. Raymond says that the same shell which burst and wounded his brother, Harold Raymond, who later died of his wounds, also wounded Corporal DeMille and the latter died a short time afterwards in the dressing station. The shells also wounded Ralph Raymond, but his wounds are not severe. Nevertheless he was sent to England for treatment.

Other letters from comrades say that Corporal DeMille was seriously wounded while on his way to the trenches. On June 24 Mr. DeMille received official notification that his son was seriously ill and the parents believe that some mistake was made in the telegram and it should have read "killed in action." Corporal DeMille was 24 years of age and very popular in Hampton. He is survived by his parents, three sisters, Mrs. Alden, of Syracuse (N. Y.), and Amy and Mary, at home, and one brother, Charles, also at home.

Corporal Secord Recovering. Mr. and Mrs. James S. Secord, of Apohaqui, received a letter on Monday from their son, Corporal Ralph Secord, who was officially reported wounded a short time ago, bearing good tidings that his wounds were not of a very serious nature, and although still in the hospital he is expected to be able very soon to return to the firing line.

NO RIBBONS SET FOR MEN AT FRONT

Militia Headquarters Only Notified of Authority for Russian Soldiers to Wear Decorations—Stirring Stories of Battle in Which Moncton Officer Showed Self-Sacrifice—Colored Battalion to Mobilize at Halifax.

Enquiries have been made recently by military authorities as to whether or not any ribbon or other decoration of distinguishing mark has as yet been granted for service in the present war. The C. C. of the Military District No. 6 in recent orders says that thus far no authority has been given for the issue of a ribbon to be worn by any man who has served through the present war.

Orders have also been issued by Military District No. 6 with headquarters at Halifax that any Russian at present serving with a C.E.F. unit in the present war may be allowed to wear any decoration he may have previously received while serving with the Russian army.

Returned Soldier Greeted. A public reception was held at Chatham last night for Private Chesley Grey who returned on Monday to his native home after having served several months in the trenches. The reception was held on the school grounds and addresses were given by Rev. Father Cormier, Rev. Alex Firth and others and patriotic choruses were sung by the school children. The Douglass band was in attendance and gave a splendid programme.

Private Grey enlisted at the outbreak of the war and went overseas with the 145th Battalion. He received wounds while fighting on the western battlefield which necessitated his spending several months in an English hospital. His wounds included the shattering of his jaw as a result of which Private Grey has had to have several operations. He will carry while he lives. After spending a short time at his home Private Grey will go to Montreal for further treatment.

Another order says that no transfers from one C.E.F. unit to the other may be made by the commanding officers without first obtaining special permission from the headquarters of the military district. In recent orders issued by the headquarters of Military District No. 6 regarding sending and ploughing furrows it says that military order No. 72, dated February 14, 1916, is still effective and that the commanding officer of any C. E. F. unit may still grant furloughs to any who he considers has a bona fide case. Notice of such furlough, it is added, should be communicated immediately with the headquarters staff at the camp.

Major Ross further writes that Capt. McKennie was wounded about a week on the afternoon of July 16, and as there was considerable shelling he was brought out overland after dark. He speaks of the bravery and also of the cheerful disposition of Capt. McKennie, who is progressing favorably, and being sufficiently recovered to walk with the aid of a cane. Major Ross says there is no cause for anxiety. This officer also says Major McKennie's work has been splendid, that he was easily progressing favorably, and being sufficiently recovered to walk with the aid of a cane, and by the men, who make constant inquiries after his welfare.

Major Ross is of the same battalion as Capt. McKennie, and since Capt. McKennie returned to the trenches he had been acting in place of Major Ross, who was acting colonel of the battalion, with which they are connected.

Mrs. W. B. McKennie, mother of Major McKennie, is in receipt of a letter from the nurse in attendance at the new in the Duchesse de Westminster Hospital at Le Touquet, France. The nurse states that Major McKennie is very poorly, but that she hopes in a few days he will be very much better. He was, at the time of writing, unable to write himself, and wished her to write in his stead. The nurse described the terrace where she had removed his bed, and in speaking of the surroundings, mentioned the Iceland poppies, which were in full bloom. The surroundings are very beautiful, and everything is being done for him that can possibly be done. She referred very kindly to Major McKennie, and mentioned that he was a favorite in the hospital, and that everyone was willing to do everything possible for him.

A Man Worth While. (Moncton Times.) An interesting story of how a Moncton man only heard of the great European war nearly two years after it started, is revealed in a letter received by the young man's parents in this city recently. The young man in question is Frank E. Cuthbertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd Cuthbertson of Archibald street. Frank Cuthbertson left Moncton about two years ago and went to Northern Ontario, where, during the last two years of his residence in that country, he was manager of the Cobalt pumping station, drawing a good salary. About four months before the war broke out Mr. Cuthbertson joined a party of prospectors and went north to James Bay. News of the outbreak of the war did not reach the party in the northland, where they remained for two years and four months.

It was not until Mr. Cuthbertson returned to Cochrane this spring that he heard of the great war in which the British empire is engaged. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd Cuthbertson received a letter from their son, the first in three years, besides acquainting his parents with his wanderings, the Moncton boy also informed them that he had donned the king's uniform and joined the 159th

A SICKLY WIFE NO FIT MATE FOR ANY MAN

GIRLS AND WOMEN SHOULD LOOK WELL TO THEIR HEALTH AND STRENGTH

Never before was physical health and vigor so highly esteemed and so eagerly sought for as today.

No matter how happy a sickly wife, and the woman who wishes to enjoy the pleasures of life should spare no effort to maintain perfect health.

Is your daughter growing up strong and ruddy? Has she strength to drink in greedily all the pleasures that youth so zealously seeks—or is she compelled to use the street car instead of enjoying the delightful exercise of walking—does she after the ball arise refreshed and vigorous, or is she exhausted, indifferent, and perhaps irritable?

When strength and vigor can be easily maintained by Ferronox, when the glow of health is so quickly brought to the cheeks and elasticity to the step, it is plainly a mother's duty to see that Ferronox is on hand to assist her daughter back to health.

Upon the wake of Ferronox quickly follows a stream of rich, nourishing blood which imparts that power and surplus energy so earnestly desired by those in the prime of life.

It is especially suited for young women and is a guarantee of health and regularity as long as it is used.

Ferronox is free from alcohol and perfectly safe to use. Prepared in the form of a chocolate-coated tablet and sold in 50c. boxes or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct from The Catarisone Co., Kingston, Ont.

GIBBS TELLS HOW FAMOUS PRUSSIAN GUARDS WERE BROKEN IN AND ABOUT CONTAMINAZION

Taken Prisoners in Miserable Batches, the Famous German Fighter Mutters "God Send a Quick Ending to This War"—Ugly Customers Routed Out of "Jaeger Trench" by Enfilade Fire.

(By PHILIP GIBBS, to the London Chronicle.)
With the British Armies in the Field, July 8.—After the first four days of battle there was something like a lull for twenty-four hours, a lull filled with the great noise of the guns, which was then broken by fresh assaults made by our troops in the direction of Mametz Wood, and Contamination. For two days now, on Thursday and Friday, there has been severe fighting in that territory, and although we lost Contamination last night after taking it in the morning, it is, I am sure, only a temporary setback, for our position is strong in its neighborhood, and great loss has been inflicted upon the enemy. The battle of Contamination is not yet finished. It will be a distinct and important episode in the history of this campaign.

I have been able to see something of the battle, all the fierce pictures of our shell fire, but at the time with no accurate idea of what really was happening beyond our guns, and with that sense of confusion and mystery which all soldiers have when they are on the battlefield, knowing very little of what is going on to the left or right of them; not knowing what is happening to themselves or why they stand where they do, or what order will next come to them or whether our men are doing well or badly.

It was early in the morning, I went out beyond many of our batteries and watched the bombardment that was to precede the infantry attacks of the enemy's positions in front of Contamination and to the right on Mametz Wood, where some of our men held the southwest corner. There were large bodies of troops about the high ground where our trenches are, and bunched about in groups beyond the slope leading to the line from which our attack was to be made. They seemed to have nothing in the world to do except to hang about in a casual way. Many of them were lying on the grass or along the roadsides asleep. Not all the roar of the guns made them turn uneasily. They had been there all night waiting to go up in support, and now, dog tired, they were taking the chance for rest. It was not quite a safe spot for sleep.

Nobody Worried.
Although the enemy's guns were busy on different places there was no knowing whether they might not shift a point or two this way at any moment. The roadway had already tempted some of their shells earlier in the morning. Tall beech trees, here and there, had been cut clean in half, and a litter of branches and foliage lay below broken stumps.

There were new shell craters in the field, over the way, just where a company of R. A. M. men had sat down on their stretchers waiting for work, but nobody seemed to worry.

The captain of the pioneers spoke to me, asking: "Any news?"
I was profoundly asleep, keen looking man, with a humorous look in his grey eyes, which were shaded by a steel helmet, khaki covered. He was as maddly as a scarecrow, and shivered a little after a night in the rain.

"Dashed if I know what's happening," he said. "One never does. Our fellows are supposed to be going up, but no orders have come along. There's our adjutant waiting for news."
I looked across the road and saw the adjutant. He was lying on his back, quite straight, at full length, with his head on a pack and a waterproof coat over him. He was profoundly asleep.

The pioneer captain pointed to a little mass of men below the crest of rising ground, beyond which were hills. "I thought they would go up in this ago, but they're still waiting, poor lads. I expect they'll go in all right."

Mametz village was under a pall of greenish smoke and not a minute passed without a big German shell bursting over it and raising a black cloud.
"Nasty kind of a place," said the pioneer. "I thought I should have to spend the night there. I never saw anything like it. It was exactly like hell, only worse. The sky was full of shells and lights, bustling like blazes."

"Hello! Some 'em are going up!"
The men, who were in small bunches on the lower ground, were getting into a new kind of order. They were moving up toward the crest in extended formations.

A German shell was coming our way. I heard its high, gobbling note and shifted my steel hat a little, hoping it might serve. There was a nasty crash fifty yards away, below the road, where some of the men were bunched. A whistle sounded, and the R. A. M. C. men, who had been squatting on their stretchers, sprang up and ran, carrying their stretchers, down the track. They had found some work to do.

Two other shells came closer, and we changed our position a little. It was getting rather hot, but not so hot as other places, compared with what our ground was paradise. Mametz village was behind our lines now, and was being shelled heavily by the enemy. It was a very ugly spot, but even that was a health resort as the soldiers say, compared with any of the German positions in the neighborhood of Contamination.

Our guns were concentrating their fire all along the line north of Birch Tree Wood, from Horseshoe Trench, now in our hands, across to Peak Wood, and Quadrangle Trench and way to Mametz Wood, on the right. We also were putting a terrific barrage around the village of Contamination and Acid Drop Copse. Our batteries were heavy, and seemed to be in rings around this storm centre. The heavies were away behind, and I could only know of their existence by the great shells that came rushing overhead from invisible places at long ranges, with a long drone, like some great harp plucked by the God Thor.

FRENCH REBUILDING ZEPPELIN BROUGHT DOWN BY BRITISH GUNNERS AT SALONKI

The French authorities have removed the wrecked Zeppelin to a convenient position on the sea front near the famous White Tower, where it is being rebuilt by them. Great numbers of the residents of Saloniki gather about the monster German Zeppelin used by the Bulgarians in an attempt to raid Saloniki, to watch the progress of reconstruction. A number of bombs which were removed from the wreckage are added curiosities to the thing.

Drop Copie. So we are in a sound position for further attacks.

A large number of prisoners were taken, and they came straggling back over the battlefield in miserable little groups. Some of them carried our wounded on stretchers or on their backs, and our men carried their wounded.

Famous Guards Broken.
They were the remnants of the Third Prussian Guards division, which had been so utterly broken that it no longer exists as a fighting unit. Those who did not fall into our hands have been withdrawn from the line. The morale of the men, as well as their fighting force, has been smashed.

Private Dunn Improved.
Private Frank Dunn, of Gagetown, who was wounded at Hoge, is now very much improved, and is at a beautifully situated convalescent home in Berkshire, England. These hundred wounded soldiers are at the present time enjoying the hospitality of this old English mansion.

Corporal Powers Wounded.
J. M. Power, of 28 Dorchester street, received a leg Tuesday, dated June 26, from Chaplain Kuhring, informing him that his son, Corp. H. Milton Power, was in hospital suffering from a wound in the neck. Chaplain Kuhring said that Milton was made of the right stuff like all the Canadian boys and would rather be on the firing line than in a hospital.

Ottawa Says No Canadian Nickel Can Go On Deutschland.
Ottawa, July 13.—The government is not worrying over the prospect of Canadian nickel going to the enemy by the submarine route, it has been so heavily shelled by our guns that much damage had been inflicted upon the Germans inside, some of whom had escaped to our lines. We are now holding the outskirts of Contamination in, or in the neighborhood of the Cemetery, and I believe Acid

THEY DID DO COURAGE CANADIANS SHOWN AT HOGE "HOW THEY COULD DIE"

It is full eighteen months since Field-Marshal French wrote of how the defence of the "bastion of Ypres"—the gateway from the German front to Calais, Dunkirk and the narrow sea-way to the shores of England—would go down in history as one of the brightest stories in the annals of the British Army.

Today that story is magnified; for last month at Hoge and Ypres the Canadians, who first made their name dreadful to the enemy on the field of Ypres, are the heroes of the great onset. Many of them have fallen; yet (as Captain Grenfell wrote just before he fell at the second great battle of Ypres), still:

The thundering line of battle stands,
And in the air Death moans and sings,
But Day shall clasp them with strong hands,
And Night shall fold them in soft wings.

(By Philip Gibbs.)
With the British Armies in the Field, June 8.—(Correspondence)—The attack on the Canadian front of the Ypres salient, beginning on the morning of June 2, and still being held in check by great gun-fire, is a battle more fierce and bloody than any action in which we have taken part since Loos. The full brunt of it has fallen on the Canadian divisions, and the unforgettable courage and self-sacrifice of the western men who fought in the second battle of Ypres thirteen months ago, has been repeated.

Yesterday I spent some hours with the Canadian officers and men who faced the fire.

These men had been holding their ground for forty-eight hours under shell-fire more severe than any bombardment that has been seen upon our front except at Vimy, and as I listened to their stories of the battle, I stood in the presence of that hell which has been invented by human beings out of the earth's chemistry, and yet had kept their reason and their courage and their pride of spirit. That was wonderful.

The enemy's bombardment began suddenly with one great crash of guns at half-past eight on Friday morning. Generals Mercer and Williams had gone up to inspect the trenches at 6 o'clock in the morning.

It had been almost silent along the lines when the enemy's batteries opened fire with one enormous thunderstroke, which was followed by continuing salvos. The shells came from nearly every point of the compass, north, east and south. The evil spell of the salient was over our men again.

In the trenches just south of Hoge were the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry and with some battalions of the Royal Canadian Mounted Rifles (who have long been dismounted), and units from the Canadian Trenchers, at the extreme end of their line of front. It was these men who had to suffer the greatest tempest of the enemy's shells.

Earth below them opened up into great gullies, and the air was full of dust, matting out breastworks, and scattering sandbags into dust.

Canadians in the front trenches held on to their guns until the very end. "They took it all," said one of the officers, and in that phrase, spoken simply by a man who was there too, lies a great spirit of pride and sacrifice. They took it all, and did it with a will, and the sky seemed to be opening above them and the earth below them.

Gen. Williams and Col. Usher were last seen going into a deep trench called the Tube, a few minutes after the attack began. "They took it all," said one of the officers, and in that phrase, spoken simply by a man who was there too, lies a great spirit of pride and sacrifice. COMMISSION RULE FOR IRELAND UNTIL THE NEW GOVERNMENT ESTABLISHED

London, July 11.—In the course of a discussion in the house of lords today on the report of Baron Hardinge, head of the commission which investigated the Irish rebellion, and in which several members urged that the present law be maintained in Ireland until a new government is established, the Lord Justice for the government of Ireland, when asked what law is abolished there and until a new government can be established, an Irish secretary, with a capable military adviser, would be appointed. There would also be a new chief of the royal Irish constabulary, who would be a well-known soldier.

Nobody would be allowed to carry arms without a permit, and there would be no grants of amnesty. A garrison would be maintained in Ireland, and steps would be taken to preserve order and special safeguards will be created for the loyalists in the south and west.

Lord Lansdowne said he understood this special emergency for Ireland, which he had anticipated the passage of a bill embodying the Irish settlement would occupy considerable time.

Lord Lansdowne thought that with 20,000 troops in Ireland under command of General Maxwell, in whom the government had unshaken confidence, there was no fear of the situation getting out of hand. The government would give General Maxwell all the support which he was entitled, and was quite prepared to extend his powers to meet any emergency.

The Official Gazette tonight announces that Lord Castletown and Sir David Hastings were appointed to the office of the lord lieutenant. The appointments are understood to mean that the lord lieutenant is placed in the hands of a commission until a new government is established in Ireland.

MEMBER OF 104TH IN HOSPITAL IN ENGLAND

A telegram has been received by Harold Young, proprietor of the York Hotel at Fredericton to the effect that Guy McBean of the 104th Battalion has been admitted to hospital in England suffering with diphtheria. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McBean, of Taymouth (N. B.), and was employed in Fredericton prior to the outbreak of war.

William Kelly Safe and Well.
A report from Gagetown says that Private William Kelly, who was thought to be missing after the big battle of Hoge, is now reported as safe and well. His many friends in Gagetown will be pleased indeed to learn that the first report which gave rise to grave fears was unfounded. Recently his relatives received news from him written at the front in which he said that he was well and had come through the fight unscathed. Private Kelly is with a "killing" battalion.

Gunner Charles Whitcombe of the 88th Howitzer Battery came down from Camp Pelawawa on Saturday last and is spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Whitcombe, Upper Gagetown.

St. John's, N.B., July 11.—The latest casualties in the Newfoundland regiment killed in action since the beginning of the offensive. It contains the names of 73 officers, many of whom belong to the Newfoundland contingent.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig also wired Governor Davidson:

"Newfoundland will well feel proud of her sons for the heroism and devotion they have displayed in these operations. The story of their heroic part cannot yet be told in full, but when it is it will make Newfoundland very proud."

The battalion was pushed up to what may be called the third wave in the attack on probably the most formidable section of the whole German front, through an almost overwhelming artillery fire, and across ground strewn by the enemy with machine gun fire from hidden positions.

The men behaved with completely noble steadiness and courage."

TWO KILLED IN BATTLE WITH NINE-FOOT SHARK

Matawan, N. J., July 12.—Lester Stillwell, 42 years of age, was killed by a man-eating shark while bathing in an arm of Raritan Bay, near here, this afternoon.

This is the third time within two weeks that sharks have claimed the lives of bathers along the New Jersey coast. Charles E. Vansant, a youth of Philadelphia, was killed by one off Beach Haven (N. J.) on July 2. Charles Bradley of Spring Lake (N. J.), was attacked and both his legs were taken off by a shark on July 6. He died while men who went to his rescue were carrying him ashore.

The summer population along the New Jersey coast has become terror stricken, and few persons now are venturing in the water at beach resorts which have not been protected by steel nets. Motor boat patrons, carrying armed men, have been established at various points to hunt the man-eater.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED, THIRD BADLY INJURED ON STEAMER CARACAT

John Arsenault Killed Instantly, James Byard Fatally Injured and Ernest Malette Seriously Bruised When Bags of Sugar Slide in Hold at Refinery Wharf—Longshoremen Perform Herculean Feats in Work of Rescue.

THE DEAD.

JOHN ARSENAULT, married, 244 Sydney street.

JAMES BYARD, married, 138 Mecklenburg street.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

ERNEST MALETTE, married, 206 Sydney street.

Thursday, July 13. John Arsenault and James Byard are dead, and Ernest Malette was seriously injured as the result of a slide of sugar bags in the hold of the steamer Caracat, which was discharging cargo at the sugar refinery wharf.

The steamer had a quantity of sugar for St. John and another quantity for Halifax. Both consignments were in No. 2 hold, and the sugar for this port was being taken out tier by tier and the Halifax sugar left standing adjacent.

The accident happened about 9.30 o'clock, when the men had just turned their way down nearly to the last tier in the St. John shipment, when suddenly and without warning the front tier of the Halifax sugar toppled over, crashing down upon them. It is estimated that about fifteen tons of sugar slid down into the other portion of the hold, about 150 bags in all.

The St. John sugar was being taken out rapidly and the men were working in the hold at the time, John Arsenault, Ernest Malette, Fred Cormier, Percy Puddington and Jack Haley, all longshoremen, and James Byard, a colored man who is a cooper in the employ of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, of the Winchman's Store.

John P. Arsenault was the winchman, and it was he who first saw the front tier of the sugar tremble and then began to fall. He held the following story to the Telegraph. "I was looking into the hold when I noticed the front tier of the Halifax sugar begin to move. At first it slid slowly, and I saw that it was certain to fall. I yelled to the men below to look out. They glanced up and rushed out of the path of the sliding sugar, which was sweeping down upon them. Three men, Fred Cormier, Percy Puddington and Jack Haley, were able to escape its force, but the other three were caught in the full sweep of the sacks.

"In a moment they were buried, although Malette could be seen sticking out from the chaos of bags from his hips up."

Those who witnessed the accident said that in a moment the hold swarmed with the rescuers. Every man on board the ship was taken from his accustomed duties and placed at work digging the buried men out.

Rescuers' Gallant Work. The rescuers worked like Trojans among the bags of sugar in an effort to dig out the men. Few words were spoken, there was no confusion, but each and every man put his best strength forward. Men who had never before attempted to handle the big bags of sugar since were called upon to display their Herculean strength, and flung them aside.

Slowly the buried forms of the men began to be seen, and slings had in the meantime been prepared by other industrious hands and were strung up and as rapidly as the victims were unearthed from beneath the sugar they were lifted tenderly and hoisted out of the hold and down the wharf, whence they were rushed into the hospital. Within half an hour after the accident occurred the men had been taken out.

Some of the rescuers say that when Arsenault was taken out of the hold he was still the breath of life in him, but when he landed on the wharf Dr. M. Case, who had been called in the meantime, found that he was quite dead. Byard, the colored man, was unconscious and Malette was groaning audibly when rescued from among the bags of sugar.

Reports from the hospital last night were to the effect that Byard was very badly injured and would not likely live during the night. He did not regain consciousness until 2 o'clock this morning. Malette, on the other hand, was conscious, but was suffering from two broken ribs and a broken jaw. He is also badly bruised and although seriously injured will in all probability recover.

The Victims. Arsenault, one of the victims, was a married man and about 45 years of age and had a family. He resided at 244 Sydney street and is a well known longshoreman. Joseph M. Malette, the longshoreman, who was injured, is about 50 years of age and resides at 206 Sydney street. Ernest Malette, who died this morning, is a married man. He is 40 years of age and resided at 188 Mecklenburg street.

The work of discharging the cargo of the Caracat was at once stopped after the accident occurred, and was not again resumed last night.

An accident such as this is very unusual at the port of St. John which is famous for the ability of its longshoremen and for the serious accidents in the discharge of cargoes. No reason could be given last night by the men for the cause of the slide, but no doubt some clue will be secured at the inquest, the date of which has not yet been set by Dr. W. F. Roberts, the coroner, who last evening viewed Arsenault's body and visited the scene of the accident.

There were some others on the car with Mr. Parker and all were thrown off with the exception of one young man, Harris Tall, who escaped unhurt. The car was derailed by the bumper. Eldon Price, son of Beverly Price, of this place, had his back badly wrenched and it was feared at first that his spine was injured but it was found to be only dangerously hurt. PRICES ON THE OVAL MARKET

Beans Continue to Climb Higher—Very Few Other Changes in Staple Lines.

Beans are still going up. So scarce are the little kernels of delight, that the local wholesale grocers find it almost impossible to buy them at any price. Six dollars a barrel is the price being asked for those obtainable, and they, as a whole, are a very poor grade. With the exception of beans in the grocery trade, strawberries in the country produce, and dried fish with the men who handle the products of the sea, there have been very few changes in the general market. Grain has not fluctuated one point during the week. Kerosene oil was noticed to take a slight decline, the dealers say, to an overproduction and to the recent rapid introduction of gas.

California fruits are subject to change almost daily. Pears, plums, and peaches are now on the local market, but are commanding a high price. Pears are selling from $3.50 to $4. It will be some few weeks before native pears and peaches are on the market.

Hides have shown any noticeable increase. Shearling hides, due to the natural result of the wool being longer, are calling more than they did a week ago. Country products are standing unusually firm, and the market is not looking for increases, but are confident that reductions will be noticed within a short time.
