Boers Must Not Wear British Uniforms ---An Order From Kitchener.

Daily Mail announce that the Cape Town guard has again been called out and that Lord Kitchener has issued an order directing that all Boers captured in British uniforms are to be shot.

The Daily Mail gives today another alleged peace scheme which Mr. Kruger is said to be willing to congranting autonomy to the two republics under a convention, guaranteed by France and Russia in exchange for cession to Great Britain of the Rand district and the gold fields, which should be regarded as the total Boer

This explains Col. Gorringe's summary action, which was reported some days ago and sharply criticised in some quarters.

CAPE TOWN GUARD CALLED OUT. Another interesting item of war news comes from Cape Town. The guard there has been again called out for duty. This intelligence may point to the reappearance of Commandant Maritz in the Malmesbury district, with the intention of seizing remounts in the great depots near that town. When Brakenlaagte an addition to the 239 last he visited the locality he carried casualties already reported must be off 400 horses, if Cape papers can be made. The British lost twelve killed

The Paris Journal des Debats, referring to Salisbury's speech, insists that the British ministry made the in South Africa inevitable and that it has mismanaged it.

MR. BENGOUGH ON CANADA. Mr. J. W. Bengough, introduced by Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, delivered an interesting lecture on Canada at the Imperial Institute Saturday night. British ideas on many Canadian subjects were, he maintained, more or less vague; for instance, the misconception with regard to the climate was deep-rooted in this country, where everybody was familiar with Kipling's "Our Lady of the Snows." The lecturer laid stress on the value of the Dominion to Great Britain as a field for emigration and profitable investment of capital. The solution of the British food problem was, he said, to be found in the development of the Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 12.-From anther letter received from Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, it appears that she is enduring the trials of her hard experience with fortitude, forgetting herself in her anxiety for her companion, Mme. Tsilka. Miss Stone does not dare to complain of the treatment to which they are subjected, but she finds the confinement irksome, and the weather extremely trying. The tone of the latest letter received from her is hopeful. CANADA STANDS WELL Should Take Advantage of the Good Imgres sion She Has Created in Various Parts of the Empire.

Toronto, Nov. 12 .- J. C. Fraser, of Port Toronto, Nov. 12.—J. C. Fraser, of Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, South Africa, who has been many years in South Africa, is here on his first visit to Canada. "Canada needs," he said, "to follow up the good impression it has created in other parts of the empire, through its action in the war, to well advertise itself and its wonderful resources. South Africa will afford a great field for Canadian products, but at present Canadian produce is handicapped through the lack of direct means of transportation. Produce direct means of transportation. Produce from Canada now goes to South Africa from New York, and when it reaches South Africa it is not known as Canadian." He says seven-eighths of the population of Port Ellzabeth and of that part of the colony is made up of English, Scotch and Irish. But the bulk of people Scotch and Irish. But the bulk of people all over the county are anxiously waiting for the war to cease. The resumption of mining operations at Johannesburg and the Transvaal will help very much to settle the country. The trouble now is due to the pro-Boer speeches in England of such men as Sir William Harcourt and Mr. Morley, which encourage the 9,000 or 10,000 men still in the field to keep on in the hopes that a new policy may be adopted. South Africans realize that the present war is the debt which it has cost the empire for the restitution of Transthe empire for the restitution of Transval independence after Sir Garnet Wolseley had asserted in Pretoria that so long as the "sun shone would the British flag float over that country." The lesson of the war is that no such restitution can of the war is that be made again.

Plans for twelve of the principal buildings of the St. Louis Exposition have been decided upon. They will have an area of 126.53 acres and cost

ENGLISH LODGE HOLDS BANQUET.

Members of Beresford Spend a Pleasant Evening.

The District Deputy Outlines the Achievements of the Order, Quoting Interesting Figures.

Beresford Lodge, No. 209, Sons of England, held its first annual banquet at the Richmond House last night. The lodge is the youngest of those in the city, but the success of its first banquet proved its strength. When it started it had only 25 members, and if all who are now on the roll had been present last night, there would have been 84 around the board. As it was, about 50 sat down to the banquet, which proved to be a very enjoyable affair.

Mr. E. T. Essery, past president of Piccadilly Lodge, was toastmaster, and introduced a number of toasts that were honored enthusiastically and elicited able responses. He himself spoke in reply to the toast to "The King," and Bro. Job Cook to "The Army, Navy and Volunteers," which was received by the singing of "The Soldiers of the Queen.'

In replying to the toast, "The Grand Lodge," District Deputy A. Flavin gave a review of the order, which has been in existence for 26 years. He referred to it as being a national, patriotic and benefit organization. It extended from Halifax to Vancouver, and included lodges in Newfoundland, South Africa, New Zealand and Australia, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of Canada. No less than $500,000 had been paid out for sick benefits, medicine and doctors; $125,000 in funeral benefits and $250,000 in beneficiary claims. Twelve thousand and seventy dollars had been paid so far this year in funeral benefits. The district deputy said that in Canada 250 lodges are located, with a membership of between fifteen and sixteen thousand men.

"The Sister Societies" was responded to by Messrs. S. H. Wood, of the Orange Order; A. Butler, of the A. O. F.; H. Powell, of the I. O. O. F., and George Siade, of the C. O. O. F., and Mr. Wilmot replied to the toast, "The Ladies.

During the evening solos were given by Bros. Blackwell, Stratfold, Butler, Brazier, and a whistling solo by Mr. S. Woods. A number of phonograph selections also were given by Mr. Will-

The committee who had charge of the banquet consisted of Messrs. A. Flawn (chairman), F. Barker (secretar), T. Cole, H. Powell, W. Brimblecombe, G. Tapp, T. Saunby and J.

Among those present were E. T. Essery (chairman), Alf. Flawn, P.P.; Wingett, P.P.; F. G. Blackwell, S. H. Woods, G. Rogers, Alf. Butler, H. Powell, M. Smith, Fred Barker, Jas. Clark, G. Seacle, Art. SMASHUP ON GRAND TRUNK.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 12.-At an early hour yesterday there was a piling up of loaded freight cars on the London division of the Grand Trunk, west of the junction cut, caused by a broken wheel. The train, which was a long and heavily-loaded freight, was on its way from Port Huron to Montreal. Coming down the grade from Dundas a wheel on one of the cars went wrong and eight of the cars left the track and were piled up in a heap. wrecking train from Hamilton cleared the line. No one was hurt.

The Mitcheltree Recital.

Seldom has a more representatively cultured audience gathered in the Auditorium than last night filled the cosy building to the entrances, the occasion being the piano recital given by Mr. Thomas Mitcheltree, the blind organist of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Even the disagreeable evening had no appreciable ef-fect on the attendance. The audience was a thoroughly appreciative one and neither Mr. Mitcheltree nor the assisting artists had reason to complain of lack of warmth in the reception given them.

While Mr. Mitcheltree is known as one of London's cleverest musicians probably the public never realized till ast night the capabilities of his art. He astonished and delighted his audience alike by his execution of difficult numbers by eminent composers and by the beauties of his own two original compositions. Each of his numbers elicited generous applause, and three times he was compelled to respond to determined encores. His most effective number was probably Schu-bert-Liszt's "Erl King." His own compositions, the Gavotte in A major, and the Waltz Romantic in E major, were rewarded with an encore, and the Paganini-Schumann Cappriccio equally well received.

Miss V, M. Harvey, a talented young Toronto violinist, who has studied un-der Ovide Musin, the great Belgian artist, made her first appearance before a London gathering. She completely captivated her audience, and inspired the fervent hope that she may visit this city on many subsequent occasions. In response to the hearty applause, Miss Harvey supplemented her second number with Rief's Introduction and Gavotte. Mrs. Frank Mackelcan, of Hamilton. has appeared so frequently in local musical events that she is almost as well and favorably known in London as she is in her own city. Her beautiful voice showed to excellent advantage in the numbers she selected, some of them being new to local musiclovers. Two encores were demanded and rendered, they being Neidlinger's Serenade and Johns' "I Cannot Help Loving Thee." Both Mrs. Mackelcan and Miss Harvey were made the recipients of beautiful floral tributes, the former receiving a gorgeous bunch of chrysanthemums and the latter getting roses and chrysanthemums.

Miss Harvey's accompanist was Miss Minnie Raymond, while Mr. W. H. Hewlett performed a like duty for Mrs. Mackelcan. The work of both was such as to satisfy the most exacting of artists. The programme in full was:

a) Fantasie, D Minor, Mozart b) Adieu to Piano Beethoven Song Mendelssohn ..Corelli (Cadenza de Leonard.) Miss V. M. Harvey.

Druggists sell the remedy under the of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and it has met with remarkable success in the cure of nasal catarrh, bronchial and throat catarrh and in catarrh of the stomach.

Mr. F. N. Benton, whose address is care of Clark House, Troy, N. Y., says: "When I run up against anything that is good I like to tell people of it. I have been troubled with catarrh more or less for some time. Last winter more than ever. Tried several socalled cures, but did not get any benefit from them. About six weeks ago I bought a 50c box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and am glad to say that they have done wonders for me, and I do not hesitate to let all my friends know that Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are the right thing.'

Mr. Geo. J. Casanova, of Hotel Griffon, West Ninth street, New York city, writes: "I have commenced using Stuart's Tablets, and already they have given me better results than any catarrh cure I have ever tried." A leading physician of Pittsburg advises the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets in preference to any other treatment for catarrh of the head, throat or stomach.

He claims they are far superior to inhalers, salves, lotions, or powder, and are much more convenient and pleasant to take, and are so harmless that little children take them with benefit. as they contain no opiate, cocaine or any poisonous drugs.

ELECTRICITY HAS NO TERRORS FOR JUMBO II.

The Application of 2,200 Volts Only Tickles the Tough Old Pachyderm.

Friday, and gave the world a practical demonstration that an elephant can take 2,200 volts of electricity with apparent

When the switch that was supposed to turn a death flood of electricity into the elephant's body was turned on Jumbo II, himself merely threw a trunkful of dirt over his back and refused to die. If the electric convenience electric current reached his nerves at all, he did not express a bit of annoyance. Electric wires had been run from the exposition power house to what was to be Jumbo's death platform, and when the signal was given 2,200 volts were turned on. It merely tickled the beast. After the unsuccessful attempt to kill him, Jumbo was unhitched from his harness and taken back to his home in the Midway.

Explanations made by the electricians for the failure were that Jumbo's hide had the resistance of rubber, and that this formed a non-conductor, impervious to electricity. Others declare that if it takes 1,800 volts to kill a man it would necessarily take more than 2 200 volts to necessarily take more than 2,200 volts to kill an elephant.

RUNNING DOWN WHALES

Col isions Between Them and Ships of Frequent Occurrence.

The coast of southern California is protected, to a certain extent, by the islands off shore. The group begins at Santa Barbara with San Miguel; then comes Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, Anacapa, and farther out to sea, thirty miles, San Nicolas. The next following south are Santa Barbara, Santa Catalina, San Clement, and then with a break of seventy miles the Coronadoes. These islands are almost parallel to the coast range and constitute virtually an out-to-sea coast range of mountains, which, in all probability, were thrust up at the time the coast was formed, leaving a deep depression between them and the mainland.

This region of extremely deep water is a famous roadway for whales, sev-eral kinds being found here feeding upon the vast schools of jelly fishes which are nearly always present. The whale most common is the California gray, which goes every year to the shallows of the Gulf of California to give birth to its young, then moving north along the California coast in what is virtually a great procession. At this time the channel is the sporting ground for the huge animals, and nearly every steamer that crosses sights a school, the scene forming one of the attractions of the trip, as the the decision to you. whales, far from being wild or timid, sometimes evince a playful mood, or, for the success of the production he steamer, affording the passengers a has provided a cast of merit, includ- near view of the largest of living aninear view of the largest of living ani-

> This social disposition has resulted in several encounters between the whales and vessels, in which the forfrom San Pedro to San Francisco struck some body, supposed at first to be a log. Several of the men were thrown to the deck; the wheel turned over so violently that the helmsman was also thrown down, and the steamer for the moment came to a standstill. All hands were called, the pumps sounded, and as the mate ran aft he saw a large whale lashing the water astern. The vessel had struck it directly back of the right paddle and evidently crushed it down, rising over it. This whale drifted into San Catalina some days later, and was towed into one of the little bays of 41, Racine, Wis. the coast, where it was cut up by the fishermen.

steamer Hermosa killed a whale off San Pedro, which was at least 80 feet in length. The steamer was plowing along at a rate of twelve miles an hour, when suddenly a large whale rose to spout directly in front of her, placing itself inadvertently across her bows, so that the blow was struck fairly. The shock created a sensation on board, and the blow was so violent that several people were thrown from their feet. It was supposed that the vessel had struck a sunken rock; she stopped for a few seconds, trembled, then rose about three feet, heeling slightly, then resumed her course, passing through a mass of blood which colored the water, showing that she had plunged into some large animal. A dead whale was sighted two days later, and for several days, on account of its size, it drifted up and down the coast with the tide, defying the efforts of speculative fishermen to secure it. Finally a heavy sea tossed it on the coast at the resort of Redondo, where it was hauled in at high tide, and when the latter went out it left a marvelous spectacle of the remains of one of the largest of living animals. Hundreds of people visited the spot before it was dismembered. A long wound told the story of its contact with the steamer, which was wholly uninjured. Doubtless if the records of shipping disasters were examined many instances would be found where vessels had crashed into whales with results fatal to the animals and more or less injurious to the vessels. In this connection a curious incident may be related regarding the actions of a school of whales at the island of Santa Rosa, Cal. The channel between this island is narrow and often extremely rough, and during a storm it was believed by those on the island that the whales became demoralized, as they deliberately ran ashore, and the remarkable sight of five or six large whales helpless on the sands was observed. Their bones remained for a long time on what became known as the whales' gravevard.

Toronto, Nov. 12 .- The results of the judging in the horticulture department at the Pan-American, which were received by the department of agriculture today, constitute a vic-tory for Ontario over all others. No less than 20 gold medals, 22 silver medals, 38 bronze medals and 80 honorable mentions come to Ontario. Some of the notable victories were got on honey, on wines, two on cold storage apples of 1900, taken out on Aug. 21, 1901, 70 per cent sound; also silver medal for installation of exhibit, a similar medal being awarded to California. It is notable that Florida, California, Delaware and other noted fruit producing states stand away down in the list in the total awards when compared with Ontario.

"But while the ice can never be warmed above 32 degrees, it will go as much below that as the weather does. An iceman delivering ice one zero day in January was asked whether his ice was any colder than in July. He thought not. But as a matter of fact a piece of summer ice, if he had had it, would have been something of a foot warmer for him, as it would have been 32 degrees warmer than the air of the bottom of his wagon.

"Mixing salt with ice makes it much cooler. The ice in a wine cooler goes down to about zero. This is why the point zero on our common thermometers was fixed where it was. It was supposed to be the lowest point which could be reached by artificial means. Since then we have reached about 383 degrees below zero by chemical pro-

But if the weather grows colder the iron and ice will cool off, too, and one just as much as the other.

THE CROP OF 1901

Final Estimates of the Yield in Ontario, Furnished by the Government Board of Industries, Based on Threshing Results.

tario Bureau of Industries of the crops of the province, under date of Nov. 1. It contains the final estimates of the yields of crops, based on actual threshing results returned by over 2,000 correspondents.

FALL WHEAT. The crop is a good deal below the average from various causes. In the west the ravages of the Hessian fly did great injury, and much or the surviving grain was light in weight on account of the extreme heat and drouth of June and July. Rust, cockle and chess are also mentioned as among the season's drawbacks, and in some western localities the grain was spoiled by wet before it could be harvested. Reports from the eastern section-which is free from the Hessian fly-are somewhat more favorable, especially as regards the Ottawa Valley and East Midland counties, where the crop was a fair one. The principal causes of injury being the excessive early rains and the drouth before harvest, owing to which much of the grain is shrunken. There has been no noticeable damage from frost, but a devastating hail storm destroyed a

THE NEW FALL WHEAT. There has been a very considerable and well-nigh universal decrease in the acreage devoted to fall wheat, owing to the ravages of the Hessian fly. In order to secure the new crop against the pest, sowing has been deferred by many farmers to a later period than usual. While the bulk of the seeding was done during the first three weeks of September, a large number postponed the work until the following month. The condition of the ground was generally good, although dry in many localities, and where the young plants are visible they present, as a rule, a healthy appearance. Rain, however, is badly needed in some neighborhoods. In several western counties, more especially those bordering on Lake Erie, the earlier sown wheat has been attacked by the Hessian fly, which occasioned much in-The principal varieties of fall wheat sown were Dawson's Golden Red Clawson and Genessee very variable. It suffered somewhat from the Hessian fly, and to a greater extent from the drouth, which resulted in premature ripening, rendering the grain light and the straw short. There is considerable difference in the sample which many describe as bright in color, while in other neighborhoods it is badly colored and of a low grade. The yield will be a good deal under the average.

The yield in the eastern section was fair in most neighborhoods. but the grain was frequently small and shriveled owing to the drouth.

The oat crop will be considerably below the average. It was unfavorably affected especially in low-lying ground by the heavy rains in the spring, and injured by the extreme heat of midsummer, and, as a consequence, much of it is light in the grain, with short straw. The early sown crops as a rule yielded much better than those sown later in the season. In some cases injury was caused by rust. This crop appears to have done slightly better districts than elsewhere. RYE.

Owing to the ravages of the pea bug in past years, a much smaller area was devoted to this crop than usual, and the injury done by the pest, together with the damage done by dry weather, have resulted in a small yield. Reports vary little as to locality, being generally unsatisfactory as regards the or-dinary varieties. Grass peas, however, which have been largely raised in many neighborhoods, have, as a rule, done

CORN.

The season was, on the whole, a favorable one for corn, notwithstanding the drawbacks of cold, wet weather in the spring and subsequent drouth. The yield has been large wherever this crop was grown, and the quality generally good both for husking and fodder purposes. In but few localities are there any losses by frost reported, the crop having as a rule been saved in good condition, though there are exceptional cases of damage by smut. BEANS.

Beans are on the whole a fairly good crop, though owing to dry weather the yield was a good deal decreased in many parts, the pods not being well

BUCKWHEAT.

The yield and quality of buckwheat appears to have varied considerably, and the general result will be about an average. The crop has generally been well harvested, though in some places injured by rains.

CLOVER SEED.

Both red and alsike clover have done well, the yield of seed being unusually gold. The stalks are generally short, but the heads well filled and the seed The drouth is responsible for a shortage in some quarters, while the midge has affected the crop injuriously in a small percentage of instances. Very little damage was occasioned by

TOBACCO.

Tobacco growing appears to be on the decline, only very few correspondents reporting any crop in their neighborhoods. Where mention is made of it, it appears to have matured well, and to have escaped serious injury, except in a few instances. POTATOES.

The reports of correspondents as to the potato crop are very variable. In the eastern section the yield is a light one, in more neighborhoods a great proportion having been destroyed by rot, especially on clay soils and low lying lands. More favorable accounts come from the west, where this kind of disease is not nearly so prevalent. In this part of the province, late sown potatoes have generally yielded well, while those put in early in the season have suffered from dry weather or Reports as to the barley crop are frost, and the bug has been in evidence as usual. The crop has practically all been received.

sicknesses there is. It practically means the decay of these important organs. The evidence is found by tests of the urine. The presence of albumen is detected, and in the last stages the presence of minute kidney cells, called casts, is noted. When the disease becomes very deeply seated, the water, instead of being passed off is retained in the system and the sufferer becomes tremendously bloated. Powley's Liqui-fied Ozone has made some remarkable cures of Bright's disease of the kidneys. Notice the case of Mr. Wm. Fletcher, of

For about two years I have been running down in energy and health, caused by kidney disease. Last February I finally collapsed; my body and limbs were terribly swollen. I then sent for my dector, and he treated my case as best he could, but I was getting worse all the time. Finally my dector told me if I had any business to settle I had better do so. I get the dector to draw up my will, as I was informed that I had but a short time to live.

A neighbor, Mr. Connover, came over to see me and advised me to take Ozone, as it had done his wife a world of geod. Mr. Connever brought me a bottle from Mr. Caran's store at Springfield. I had not taken the second dose before I felt an imprevement. I have now taken five bettles, and I am a living testimonial of the great curative powers of Pewkey's Liquified Ozone.

I and my daughter have done all the work on my farm the latter part of the summer. Since being cured by Uzone, I feel good for another ten years, although I am getting stronger every day, and all the praise my neighbors are giving Ozone, and it is worthy of all they can say of it. I hepe you may have great success with it.

You are at liberty to publish this for the benefit of others suffering from kidney ble.

Emsdale, Ont. It's remarkable.

Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most fatal in all sections, and the weather has been favorable to its being harvested without drawbacks. FALL PLOWING.

The dry weather which has characterized this fall in most parts of the province has considerably interfered with the progress of fall plowing, rendering the soil hard and dry, more especially in the Lake Erie councies where the work is reported as backward. In other localities greater advances have been made, many farmers having nearly or quite completed their plowing at the time our correspondent wrote. Apart from the prevalent drouth, the weather has been highly favorable for the work.

FRUIT AND FRUIT TREES. Fruit trees in general are in good condition, and there has been an unusually heavy growth of wood. eason has been a poor one for fruit more especially for apples, the staple orchard crop, of which there is a shortage everywhere. This appears to be due to a combination of causes, the principal enumerated being wet weather during the blossoming season, heavy winds, and the attacks of the tent caterpillar, codling moth, borer and other insect pests. Shipments have consequently been light, many localities not having enough for local consumption. Insects also have proved injurious to the other fruits, but many correspondents note a plentiful supply of plums and pears and peaches. Cherries and small fruits did fairly well in many places, though the quality was very variable. Grapes were in the main a good crop. The reports emphasize the need of spraying, as, wherever this process was followed, the losses by insect pests were considerably lessened. PASTURES AND LIVE STOCK. Pastures were in good condition during the early fall in the eastern portion of the province, although in the more western counties comparatively bare fields were common. Live stock of all kinds are in an unusually healthy state, an odd case of cholera in hogs being the only disease reported. While a few correspondents describe cattle as being rather most of those reporting consider them to be in good average condition. In some localities the horn-fly was annoying. Some correspondents state that sheep are not kept in as large numbers as formerly, but they appear to be in good shape where raised. Swine are being fed in large numbers and are being turned off more or less steadily the year round at weights ranging from 180 to 220 pounds. One correspondent characteristically refers to the hog as the "farmer's Klondike."

The supply of fodder is said to be ample for the winter, hay, corn and roots being abundant, although there has been a general shortage of straw. The silo is still growing in favor, an unusual number having been built in the West Midland district this year-Several correspondents speak approvingly of the husker and shredder as a means of preparing corn for fodder. Taking them altogether, reports concerning live stock may be considered as satisfactory. DAIRY.

The season of 1901 has been a fair one for dairying, although some correspondents complain of the low price prevailing for cheese. Creamery plants have been put into a number of cheese factories, cheese being made from May to October, and butter during the winter months. The cream separator is said to be of great assistance to those making home-made butter. Both creamery and home-made butter is described as being of good quality, as whole, and prices, as a rule, have been satisfactory. Many farmers en-gaged in dairying are now systematically putting in ice in order to meet conditions of temperature during midsummer. Shorthorn grades are still most commonly found in Ontario dairies, although Holsteins and Jerseys are coming into favor, while Ayrshires retain supremacy in the cheese producing counties along the St. Lawrence. THRESHING AND MARKETING. Threshing has been carried on actively, and in many sections the work has practically been completed, Peas were marketed early on account of the bug, and a large quantity of oats have been disposed of; but wheat has not been moving very lively, and much of the barley is now fed on the farm.

BEES AND HONEY. Very little disease of any kind has been reported among bees. The average yield of honey will be about 50 pounds per colony, a considerable addition of buckwheat honey having been made in some sections of the province to the clover and basswood stock already on hand. Bees will go into winter quarters with a fair amount of stores, and as prices have been good, owing to the scarcity of fruit, the season of 1901 may be regarded as having been a good average

one for the apiary. POULTRY

Judging by the remarks of correspondents it would seem that farmers are taking much more interest in poultry raising. More care is now being taken in the selecting, feeding, housing and general handling of fowl, and the question of profit and loss is being more carefully studied. The Plymouth Rock appears to be the most popular breed of hens. Turkeys are also being raised in larger numbers than ever. Several correspondents point to the fact that more poultry is being disposed of than in former years. The general condition of all classes of fowl may be described as good, although a correspondent in Wellington refers to a disease resembling blind staggers, and another correspondent in Prince Edward discribes a disease which says is not hen cholera, where the fowl are attacked, get "dumpish," and die within 48 hours. FARM IMPROVEMENTS.

Good progress has been made in under-draining, more especially in the west, and some of the Ottawa River counties. In many localities where little advance is noted, many of the farms have been previously drained. In nearly all neighborhoods, the supply of tile was sufficient. The supply of skilled labor was generally ade-quate to the requirements, as in most cases the work was done with-out engaging special help. Tile draining machines are very little used, and are not considered as satisfactory as hand labor. Almost everywhere wire fencing is rapidly taking the place of rail and other wooden fences, and in nost localities considerable improvements in the character of houses and parns are noted.

report that the supply of farm labor was inadequate to meet the demand. The reasons given are temporary or permanent departures for Manitoba and the Northwest, the high wages paid in the lumbering industry, and the migration to the cities and larger towns. Those correspondents who consider any change in the rate of wages likely, nearly all predict an increase, but a large number express the opinion that the farmers cannot afford to pay more than present rates. Domestic help continues exceedingly scarce, the variety of other of llings and employ-

Victoria Hospital, London's Home for the Sick.

London is fortunate in the possession of one of the best hospitals on the continent, and the chairman of its management board is as good a man as could be obtained for the position in Western Ontario. It is many years since Mr. Thomas McCormick, the chairman, became widely known for his benevolence. As years pass on he becomes more than ever devoted to such good work. Not least does his heart desire that Victoria Hospital shall be as good as the woman whose name it bears, Queen Victoria.

The report presented by the chairpassing notice. For many years before he took part in the management about it, who did not pass their whole time within its walls. He talked with which they were treated his own expense, notably Buffalo.

Mr. McCormick found marble floors and in private wards $10 to $25 a week. In the Buffalo General Hospital they have 60 rooms at from $10 to $25 per week for each person, while ours range from $5 to $10 for the best, this is our situation well when he says: "They have many wealthy people, we have few. The care taken of patients is than ours, and I think I know whereof I speak."

One of the matters that has engaged the attention of the trustees on sevconveyed to the patients. He thinks the Buffalo hospitals have a better way than we have of keening the food hot, but no better cooking or food than we have.

Mr. McCormick's report is a calm. judicial, common-sense one. He frankly admits, in closing, that no institution or individual is perfect, but adds what all will be pleased to hear and believe, "If health and strength permits I intend to keep on in the interest of my suffering fellow-creatures, and I sincerely hope that all lovers of humanity will do the same."

It was a good thing for the Hospital when Mr. McCormick took an active part in its management, although prior to that time no citizen spent more time than he did within its walls. There have been some complaints. and Mr. Beck, one of the trustees, is prepared to move for the dismissal of the Medical Superintendent. This is very much to be regretted. It is calculated to give the impression that the Hospital is not well managed, while nothing is further from the fact. One prominent physician said today, "Mr. Beck has done more harm in a few minutes than he can undo in ten years;" and again he said, "Not only s this so to the Hospital, but to the medical profession of London." It was people do not think. They see something in the papers of complaints against the management, and on that ecount pass it by and go to some other hospital when in need of medical treatment or an operation. How far the circumstance is regretable, and it is probable if Mr. Beck had had experience he would not have ommitted the blunder, it may be well o consider for a few minutes.

Hospitals and their trustees have no legal standing like schools and their trustees. Hospitals are purely charitble, and time and again since the Prust was established have they gone o the Council for funds, without success, and many times more discussed ways and means, and decided not to sk, but to get along as best they

d. The old Hospital was small, compered with what it is today, but even he old one had a very good operating oom. New wards had been built, the sick cured, and nurses trained who ave been a credit to the Training chool. Not the least of the praise due to the old Hospital is the fact that in ts day was established the Medical school of the Western University, a chool whose graduates have held their wn with the best. In passing, we may ention that the present Medical Suerintendent, Dr. Balfour, was the first ld medalist of the School, the first student to cross the ocean as its graluate, and secure in Edinburgh and

Dr. Balfour's is not an easy position to fill. Doctors will differ, and there have been times when those connected with the school, and those not connected with it, did not see eye to eye. There are perhaps medical men sometimes, and others as well, who want more than their rights in the Hospital. He has held always an even and at times a firm hand. It would be very difficult to obtain as good an all-round man, for, added to his acknowledged ability as a medical man, he is a firstclass business man as well. It is the exception, not the rule, to find a medical man both, and in no position is a combination of both more desirable than in the position of Medical Super-

The New York elections are pasthighest rate, and their lowest rate is The beast has been overthrown; and the same. In order to make the rout of the enemy of good government complete and enduring, new and better entrenchments must be made and valiant soldiers put on guard. Now that the forces of Tammany are broken, a vigorous campaign must be inaugurated in behalf of good government. During the past five or six weeks, high-minded men have thrown themselves into the contest in New York under the leadership of Seth Low in his advocacy of nonpartisan administration of civic affairs. Efforts should be put forth to organize the sentiment that exists now of necessity in a somewhat amorphous condition. This is necessary to make the victory lasting.

Apropos of the work of reform the New York Post says: "There is an abundance of constructive work to be done during the next | tion practical, or only the ideal of an two years, if the position gained is to be held and the legitimate disintegration of Tammany is to be carried on. Tammany should go to the polls in 1903 not only weakened by the loss of many offices and of the control of the not consulting their best interests by police, but because of the removal of the saloon from politics as a source of demoralization for the police and of plunder for the politicians. It should find the municipal civil service law better safeguarded and more widely applied than it is today. It should find the offices of aldermen and the not hard to see his meaning. Many public service generally, more highly regarded by the intelligent and rightminded men and women in the community than at any time hitherto, and, refore, more than ever objects for the legitimate ambition of young men of character and ability.

The fact that Tammany Hall consisted mainly of Democrats, and for a vears Tammany Hall was in a way significant. Freedom of speech and the formality of election procedure were either nominal or farcical. Richard Croker was the boss. He did the nominating; indirectly he did the electing. Once such a leader is gone, his party is of necessity in a chaotic state. History has time and again exemplified the effect of strong men, sometimes for good, and sometimes for evil. The autocrat, even if he be a good man, is apt to be succeeded by a number of weaklings. When Oliver Cromwell had passed off the scene of political life in England. there was no one who could fill his place. When Sir John Macdonald laid down the scenter, the party of which he had been the leading spirit was no longer able to hold together. Disorganization is very frequently the alternative of former strong leadership where such leadership has been autothe hose of Greater New York has been broken, coupled with the fact that Richard Croker has become a sort of absentee landlord, residing most of his time in England, is likely

Gladstone's Imperialism.

Speaking at Manchester recently, Mr. John Morley, M.P., said, "There could not be a more gross misconception than to suppose Mr. Gladstone in any way indifferent to the great interests of his own country." Indeed, the creed he proclaimed in his famous Midlothian campaign was that of Liberal imperialism. Mr. Gladstone, it is true, refused to regard the empire as a piratical joint-stock concern. To him the British Empire was "a trust and function given from Providence as special and as remarkable as ever was intrusted to any portion of the family of man." And he declared that 'Wherever your subjects go, if they are in pursuit of objects not unlawful, you are under moral obligations towards them that you cannot possibly forget or ignore; and, their objects being lawful, you afford them all the protection which your powers enable you to give."

To this Gladstonian utterance the Liberal leaders of today can make no mistake in cleaving. It is not a fingo idea-of seeking a means to quarrel with other states on the slightest pretense, and forcing the country into war before all the agencies of modern diplomacy have been turned to acself-respecting attitude that comitself to all men of sober in some respects, they were following tory. A noteworthy instance was that in the early '80's, when only the cool vented the country being plunged into a costly war with Russia because tral Asia and advancing towards Heoutbreak at that time, war on the most gigantic scale would have been inaugurated, the end of which it would have been difficult to foresee.

statesman who honorably averts war is worthy of more honor than the statesman who promotes warfare, even though he brings his country successfully out of it.

Capital and Labor.

The immobility between capital which dates its existence from the time that these two elements in production had become separated, is proving a gulf hard to bridge. The reconciliation of the capitalistic and the labor element is a problem that has not yet been solved satisfactorily. Whether it is on the verge of solution. it is difficult to say. Often the darkest hour of the night is that before the dawn, and perhaps we may look for a ray of hope to lighten the intricacies of the economic world. It is easy to theorize, but often difficult to put our theories into practice.

Bishop Potter, of New York, in an address before the Church Association for the Advancement of Labor, comes forward with a solution. "There should be," said the bishop, "a natural understanding between employers and their help, and both should be animated by the common tie of brotherhood and fealty." The bishop further suggests that employing managers should be identified with the trades unions, that is, with organized labor. Is the suggesecclesiastic? Were we to call to mind the fact that the interests of labor and capital are mutual, this proposition is not altogether absurd. Capitalists are causing their men to work under disadvantages-long hours, with little or no time for recreation, amid unsanitary surroundings, and on wages that scarcely secure the bare necessaries of life, not to mention the luxuries. This does not pay. Slave labor, even apart from ethical considerations, does not pay. Experience has decided the case in favor of free labor, and the freer the labor element, within certain limitations, the better, from a purely financial point of view, for the employer. But let us consider the other side: The success of a business or enterprise. to a very large extent, must determine the social condition of the workingman. Without large sales, he cannot hope for the desirable things of life; and large income for the business de-

"The solution of the labor problem consists in the awakening of the hearts of the employer to deep concern for the welfare of those who are in his employ. Their aims and hopes should not be antagonistic. They should mingle together and observe the laws of social contact. #### Seth Low.

Low, mayor-elect of Greater New York, is that presented by the Chicago Journal. Seth Low, says our contemporary, is a man of medium height and powerful build. His every move is suggestive of great energy and force. His ambition is without limit. Apparently he has much of life before him. He was born in Brooklyn, Jan. 18, 1850. He graduated from the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. This institution of learning had not then a collegiate course, and at the age of 17 years Seth Low entered Columbia University. In 1870 he graduated at the head of his class. He then entered the big tea and silk house conducted by his father. He rose from clerk to be member of the firm in 1875. Four years later he succeeded with other junior partners to the business which was finally liquidated in 1888. In the meantime Mr. Low had been active in public life. He became conspicuous in politics and charitable work. In 1876 he was a volunteer visitor of the poor. In 1878 he organized and became president of the first bureau of charities. He affiliated with the Republican organization in his ward. In 1882 Mr. Low was elected mayor of Brooklyn for a two-year term. In 1884 he was re-elected. On Oct. 7, 1889, less than twenty years from the time of his graduation from the institution, Mr. Low was elected president of Columbia College. He did much for the university. He found time for municipal affairs, too. He was a member of the rapid transit commission and the Greater New York charter commission. Four years ago President Low was a candidate for mayor of New York, but was defeated by Robert Van Wyck, Tammany's candidate.

In politics New York's new mayor has pursued an independent course. In 1884 it was charged that he voted for Cleveland. This charge has been denied. President Low, however, was in sympathy with many of Cleveland's views, and in 1888 he openly opposed the Republican national ticket. In 1896 and in 1900 he supported McKin-

The Preference to the Motherland

The London correspondent of the Montreal Star says:

"Mr. Chamberlain is probably as firmly convinced as ever of the wisdom of a preferential arrangement, but it must, he is satisfied, be based upon free trade throughout the whole empire. On the other hand, statesmen of the type of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach gird at imperial protection in any shape, and no one, in view of recent events, would suggest that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is a negligible quantity in the present Government

The correspondent evidently speaks by the book. He does not give much support to the view promulgated by the Opposition leaders in Canada, that Mr. Chamberlain is ready to give our products a preference in the British market, while we maintain our tariff on the principle of incidental protection to home industries.

As no one in Canada is ready to advocate the establishment of free trade within the empire at the present time, the attitude of the Canadian Government seems the only reasonable one. We have given the motherland a preference in our market because it is to our advantage, and at the same time, because Great Britain has done, and is doing much for us as a portion of the empire.

Let the politicians who think that we should repeal the preference take their stand. We know on which side the great mass of the Canadian peo-

The "Lecture Habit" Revived.

In some cities, this winter, there promises to be a revival of the "lecture habit." but knowing ones contend that the habit is not now due, as it was when Wendell, Phillips, Garrison, Emerson, Lowell, Holmes, Punshon and Beecher lectured, to a desire to learn, but largely to gain the inspiration to learn for oneself. The lecturer of former days, as the St. Paul Dispatch says, brought his audience cold facts. The public orator of today brings them warm inspiration. This view is borne out by a recent experience of a citizen of London, while crossing the Atlantic. Prior to that trip, he had taken very little interest in Siberia, but George Kennan, the

Britain's Coal Supply.

There is still considerable alarm in Great Britain over the prospects of Macedonian Committee and the capthe fuel supply. During the last half ture. century, the fearful ones point out, the output of coal in the United Kingdom increased more than four-fold. So far there does not appear to be the least prospect of any diminution in the consumption, for the sun's rays have states that the brigands will not not yet been successfully harnessed, and there is only a limited amount of water-power available in the country. Thus the thinking Britisher is face to face with the question, how long the available supply of coal will stand the drain. Through plentiful and cheap fuel, chiefly, will the motherland be able to retain her manufacturing supremacy, as was made clearly evident last year when the price of coal went up. Then some industries were seriously crippled, for the margin of profit on which they had been working disappeared. It is true that at much lower levels than are now being worked, there are some good seams yet untouched; but the deeper down the coal is mined the more expense there is in haulage, and every well-wisher of Great Britain is ex- appearance of bay whatever." It is about nine weeks since Miss Ellen M. Stone, a missionary of the American Congregational Board, was kidnapped by brigands in the Balkan Mountains. She had been traveling with a party of twelve in the Turkish province of Macedonia, when surrounded in a mountain defile by 30 or 40 turbulent men, armed and dressed in Turkish costume. An unusual thing about the capture is that no attempt to rob the party was made. Instead of plundering the party, two members were taken as hostages-Miss Stone and Madame Tsilka, the

Of the $24 paid by the householder in question, $18 was made up of municipal charges charges for which the city council is responsible. The baiance was made up of the poor tax of $3 and the school tax of $3. In addition to these charges, says the writer in the Outlook, the municipality collected a water tax of $3 a year. "This water tax we in America would regard as gratifyingly low, and the school tax we would regard as disgracefully low; but the tax to support paupers we would regard as disgracefully high, while the others differ little from those which most of us pay. It may be taken that a house rented at $160 a year represents an income of $1,000, and that the figures which have been given form the contribution of a family with that income to the municipal burden, or, in other words to the cost of the larger home. And in Glasgow the people have come to regard the city as the larger home. They are proud of its achievements. and not least among these is the great reduction in the death rate. In years gone by Glasgow was notorious for its high death rate. The rate has now been brought down to fourteen per thousand, and, notwithstanding the trying climate and the fact that it is a great industrial city, Glasgow, as regards its death rate, and, indeed, in some other respects also, now ranks among the best-placed and best-governed municipalities of Great Britain."

FOR HOUSEKEEPERS. There was a very slim attendance at the market here this morning. The disagreeable weather was no doubt the cause of the small deliveries. Hay-Eight loads on sale; all sold for $8 50 per ton, with the exception of one, which brought $9 per ton; there was a brisk demand; farmers should find no large trouble in disposing of their hay during the next few days.

Butter and Eggs-Not sufficient of either article offered to warrant a change in Fruits and Vegetables-In short supply;

no change in prices. Dressed Hogs-Quite a lot offered, selling at $7 50 to $8 per cwt; most of them were sold at the first-named figure.

Live Hogs-Mr. D. McIntyre purchased a car load for shipment from here yesterday, paying $5 25 per cwt for singers and $5 per cwt for light and heavy hogs; it is said prices will be lower for next more than $5 to $510 for week-not

COMPLAINANT TO PAY COSTS

Magistrate So Directs in Case McCartney, the Horseman, May of Prodger vs. Baker.

ment Administered Was Not

At the police court yesterday afternoon P, M. Love disposed of the charge of assault laid against Principal Baker, of St. George's school by George Prodger, by finding the defendant not guilty, and ordering the complainant to pay the costs of court, but not the witness fees. The police magistrate gave it as his opinion that Mr. Prodger's son was entitled to punishment, and that the chastisement adof education being the proper body to decide that question.

A number of trustees and teachers were present in the court to hear the outcome of the case. The complainant, Mr. Geo. Prodger, was represented by Mr. J. C. Judd, and Mr. Baker by the solicitor of the school board, Mr. C. H. Ivey. A dozen or more pupils of St. George's school gave evidence as to the punishment inflicted on young Prodger, but each differed as to the number, severity and location of the blows. The police magistrate, after hearing argument of counsel, summed up the evidence, and on it exonerated Mr. Baker on the charge of assault.

Sentence for the assault to which Mr. Prodger pleaded guilty was ad-journed for a week. Mr. Prodger has apologized in court for striking Mr. Baker, and the latter only desires now that he should remunerate nim for the loss incurred by the breaking of his spectacles.

TRAINING OF FIRE HORSES

the Sturdy Animals Are Broken Into Service.

A Green Horse, No Matter How Strong, Could Not Gallop With Two Tons Weight.

Did you ever see a team of horses run like the wind with two tons of hay? No doubt you will answer in the negative. Yet anyone may see two tons dragged along at a merry clip very frequently in London. The fire horses, which seem to take their load so easily, are actually pulling over two tons of dead weight, and whenever the been pumped once through the heart aerial truck responds to a call, the sturdy animals have to draw over four tons. A green horse though presenting a likely front, would be no more capable of drawing its half of the load for a mile than a man of meager proportions would be able to take giant's burden. A horse must undergo a complete physical training before it is sufficiently strong to take up its work. Even the most solid piece of horseflesh cannot stand the strain for many years. Several of the horses at the central and South London fire stations are practically worn out and unfit for service. A serious loss might result from the breaking down of the horses, and many of the members of the department have spoken strongly of the need for new horses.

DEATH RECORD

Charles M. Ryan, a Well-Known Newspaper Man, Died in His Lodging House in Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 11.-Charles M. Ryan, formerly a well-known and brilliant journalist, of this city, was found dead in his bed at his lodging house today. Mr. Ryan was employed on the News, Star and World, and for some years latterly was in Detroit. He had been in failing health for some time. Deceased was born and brought up at Brantford, and came to Toronto about fifteen years ago. He was possessed of considerable musical ability as well, and produced considerable work of merit in the line of musical criticism. He also wrote songs and set them to music. For several years he had been rambling about, spending some time in Buffalo, Detroit, St. Thomas, and lsewhere. About three months ago he reappeared in Toronto.

OTHER DEATHS. Mrs. Hill, wife of Rev. G. S. Hill, of St. Paul's Pegina, died suddenly of neart failure.

Mr. MacVeity, for many years editor of the Prince Albert Advocate, is dead of paralysis. Major Adam Kramer, of the Sixth United States cavalry, is dead at lowa City, aged 64 years. He was in actual service for more than 40 years and retired in 1897. He served through the civil war, and was active in quell ing the Sioux in 1891. "Buffalo Bill"

Polson's Nerviline Cures Rheumatism Polson's Nerviline Cures Rheumatism
The remarkable strength and marvelous soothing power of Nerviline renders it quite infallible in rheumatism. Five times stronger than any other ramedy, its penetrating power enables it to reach the source of the pain and drive out the disease. Nerviline is stronger, more penetrating, more highly pain-subduing in its action than any other medicine heretofore devised for the cure of rheumatism. Sold in large 25 cent bottles everywhere.

This is the season when, by looking around carefully among the bargain stores, a man can buy a good straw

THERE ARE so many cough medicine been abstracted and that only the 200 other preparations recommended for such silver dollars remained. No clue to the robbery.

When Prof. Munyon says his Rheumatism Cure will cure rheumatism there isn't any guesswork about it—there isn't any false statement about it. It cures without leaving any ill effects. It is a splendid stomach and nerve tonic, as well as a positive cure for rheumatism.

All the Munyon remedies are just as reliable, 25c. vial. The Guide to Health is free. Munyon, New York and Philadelphia.

LATE SPORTING.

FOOTBALL. MAY PROFESSIONALIZE LONDON A meeting of the executive of the Ontario Rugby Union will be held tomorrow night to consider several important matters. It is alleged that in Saturday's game against Peterboro the London club played Peel, whose application for reinstatement is now pending, under an assumed name. Peel was professionalized last winter by the Ontario Mockey Association having played th the London club, knowing that a "ringer" was on the team. If the executive succeed in making out a case the London team will be professionalized. The application of Frank Dickson for reinstatement will come up, and the appointment of referees for the Ottawa-Argonaut, Hamilton-Kingston, Varsity-Limestone games made,

THE OAR. OXFORD STROKE DIES AT 21. London, Nov. 11.-The death at the age of 21 of Mr. Culme-Seymour, the stroke oar in last year's Oxford University boat, has re-opened the discussion as to whether the severity of the strain of university rowing is not too great for many young men who are perfectly free from organic weakness and are passed as fit by the doctors. In the last few years Messrs. Balfour, Heywood-Lonsdale, Stretch, Cotton Poole and Wright, all young men who have rowed either in the Oxford or Cambridge eights, have succumbed quickly to illness within a few years of leaving their university. Mr. Culme-Seymour succumbed to pleurisy.

GOLD NUGGET WORTH $850. Toronto, Nov., 12 .- A gold nugget, weighing over 48 ounces, and reported to be the largest nugget of pure gold ever found, is the prized curiosity of Ejanne de Lamiere, a pioneer of the Atlin district, B. C., at present in the city. The nugget is valued at $850, but the owner has refused $3,000 for it. Mr. De Lamiere has established several workings in the Atlin district. He has formed a company of Engilsh, French and American capitalists, to be known as the Atlin and Canadian Development Company. With a Canadian Development Company, with a capital of $1,000,000.

A PERMANENT CURE

This Case Demonstrated That Dodd's Kidney's Pills Cura Absolutely and Permanently.

Quebec, Que., Nov. 11.—(Special.)— Away back in May of 1898, the papers published a statement made by Sam Desrochers, of this city, stating that he had suffered with Diabetes for five years, and that he had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. At that time some people seemed inclined to believe that he was not permanently cured and that the disease would return when he left off taking Mr. Desrochers was heard from again the other day in an interview published in one of the papers. He is as well as he ever was, and states positively that he has not had the slightest return of any of the symptoms of Diabetes since he was cured in 1898. Dodd's Kidney Pills is the remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy. According to the latest reports the fraternal organizations of the United States and Canada contain 5,722,016 members. HOW TO CURE ALL SKIN DIS-EASES. Simply apply Swayne's Ointment. No

Dundas, Nov. 12. — A fairly well-attended meeting under the auspices of

tion was held in the town hall here last night, Hon. Messrs, Harcourt and Latchford being the principal speakers.

Dr. J. W. Smith, the vice-president of the association, occupied the chair and delivered a brief address, as did also Mr. R. A. Thompson, the Reform candidate for the riding.

Mr. Harcourt, who spoke for an hour and a half, devoted himself chiefly to an account of the works of the educational department, and the answering of recent criticisms regarding textbooks. In the latter connection he took up in detail the charges regarding the geography and history text-books, and his explanations, judging by the applause which greeted them, convinced his hearers of the emptiness of the criticisms of Mr. Osler and others. The concluding portion of his address dealt with the financial status of the province. He said that before leaving To ronto he had obtained from the treasurer's department a statement showing that there is at the present time in the banks of the city cash to the credit of the province totaling $1,255,-

Mr. Latchford made a short but aggressive address, which was heartily received. He referred to the inconsis:

ency of the opposition on questions of public policy, pointing out tat they had in the past opposed measures which they now favored. They had abandoned the calf with a cough, the Humber piggery, the facts for Irish electors and other like policies, and tactics, and their one policy now was to wait until certain plans were announced by the Ontario Government,

"Yes," she said, guided by some impulse to give the cue instead of taking it from him. "Yes, when I was very little; you are a friend of my father's. Only I thought Reynolds," turning towards the butler, "said Mr. Basil Byrne."

"So I did," said the stranger, quickly. "I am the uncle of the young barrister."

"Pray take a seat," said Elsie. She had wonderful presence of mind; she was as white as death; her hands shook, but she pushed a crimson chair forward and pointed to it. "Sit down, Mr. Byrne," she said. "You are tired, and have had a long journey. Will you take something to eat?"

"I am hungry," he said, with a short

She spoke now with a reckless resolve one spoke now with a reckiess resolve to do and dare all she could do and dare in order to rescue this man to whom she had given her very heart—whose voice had the power to thrill her nerves as no other human voice had or ever Hideous disguise! How Elsie hated it Hideous disguise! How Elsie hated for concealing that dark young face, heautiful as some painting of a Greek god; how those bright hazel eyes flashed as they watched her, but on those hands, slender, strong and supple, there was blood—blood seemed to lie in a dark pool at his feet where he stood on the carpet of her pretty room. She could not have of her pretty room. She could not have taken his hand for the price of a king-dom; she was ready to die to save his life, but that red stream between them must divide them for evermore!

"Elsie!" whispered Owen, when the door was shut, "Elsie, can we be overheard—are we safe?" He strode toward her, but she started back, and put up her hands. He stood still and folded his arms. "So you join with those who are hunting me down? Well, that is only one of the lessons I ought to have learn-ed with a great many more in the days of my folly."

of my folly."
"I will aid you to escape, if it costs me my life, Owen!" she said, speaking in a voice hoarse from emotion. Voice hoarse from emotion.

He made another step towards her, then halted as he saw her shrink.

"What do you mean?" he asked, coldly.

"For the sake of the past, for the sake of the love i felt for you, the love you brofessed for me."

"Professed!" he echoed, in a voice of intense emotion, love, scorn, anger, mockery all blended together in its tones.

"For the sake of all that," she said, waving her hand toward him. "I will save you if it costs me my life. Trust unnerve me-don't give me me-don't unnerve me-don't give incomer things to think of-waste no time,

She paused.
"You are harsh," he said; "you look at me, you speak as if—as if—I had done that coward's act and shot poor Hammond through the head!" She paused She was silent, because she recollected his words to her in the shrubbery.
"Elsie, speak if you think that; but you cannot speak it, can you?"

She still remembered his self-condemnatory words, and was silent.

"If I did not know what hard work it would be to prove myself innocent I it would be to prove myself innocent I would give myself up and stand my trial; but I have no evidence in my favor, and now this accursed ruby seal will hang me, Elsie, unless I escape."

"You must escape," she said. "I will do anything to save you! I will sacrifice everything but my duty for you. Say that you came for me, and I will cross the seas with you, you wearing your disguise. I will go with you straight to New York—to my father—as if he had sent for me. Once on American soil you will be safe."

"Elsie, you are nobler and grander than I even fancied! Elsie, you must marry me, then, because—"
"Never!" she said, waving him off. 'All "Never!" she said, waving him off. 'All that is over and dead between us, Owen Hammond; henceforth I am only a voice to you! I will never clasp your hand again as long as I live."
"How? Why?" he asked, wildly. "Do you thnik I did that—that horrible deed? Speak—do you?"

At that precise moment the sound of the tray and the glasses outside made these strangely-placed young people bold in their excitement and fear, and mutual distrustful trust, so to speak.

It was Williamson, the young footman, who entered now with a tray and cloth. Elsie turned to him.

who entered how with a tray and cloth.

Elsie turned to him.

'Mr. Byrne," she said, "cannot find an hotel open so late. There are plenty of rooms ready. I know, for expected visitors. Will you let Mr. Byrne have the spare room at the end of this corridor—the one close to the bath?"

She gave the order without a tremor

She gave the order without a tremor in his voice. Owen passed his hand over his false efebrows.

"I fear it is not possible," he said. "I could not introde in Mr. Steeler's he said. could not intrude in Mr. Stanly's house."
"Just for tonight," said Elsie. "I know that you have business in the city early, and you must breakfast in your room, and leave long before the breakfast

Owen was silent. This slender, wonderful Elsie seemed all at once to have assumed the command. The man withdrew. Elsie pointed to the table.
"Sit down; eat and drink," she said.

"Sit down; eat and drink," she said.
"I wish to get you locked into your room before Rosa returns. If she hears your voice she will scream and betray all; she has no self-command." "Elsie," said Owen, "I have been wandering in this disguise for two days and two nights. I have not tasted food since this time last night; then it was only an egg and a cup of coffee and a crust at a country inn. I am carrying a pack of scissors and knives as a peddler; I have no money in the whole world, but I will not eat until you tell me you don't beno money in the whole world, but I will not eat until you tell me you don't believe I killed poor Hammond."

"You forget," she answered, "what you told me yourself in the shrubbery. You said, 'You will hear frightful things said.' You said, also, "Think that, if anyone has been tempted by suffering, or the oppression of these detested Hammonds into doing anything wrong, it is because he has been driven by cruelty.' I did not know what you meant. I thought it was some paltry money transaction, or that some paltry money transaction, or that you had got horribly into debt; I did not think of—what had happened—that he lay dead in the lane!"

Owen uttered an exclamation that stirred ail Elsie's blood in her veins, and made her heart beat to suffocation.
"Elsie Elsie" he said. "now I under-red all Elsie's blood in her veins, and made her heart beat to suffocation.

"Elsie, Elsie!" he said, "now I understand. And so you thought me a hound? Worse than a hound—a human tiger, a coward who killed his kinsman in the dark! Oh, good heavens! and now I think of it. I gave as a reason his mysterious crime the facts of poverty and debt, and the shame, and pain, and humiliation of poverty and debt to a man of ancient lineage! Ah, what a demon you must have thought me! And you you would save me, Elsie, fly with me to screen me at the risk of your name—your sweet name, pure as a snowdrop! Oh, precious, precious Elsie, my queen, my life! Elsie, I wish I had a crown to offer you. There is not one in Europe rich enough for you!"

"These are rhapsodles, Owen," said Elsie. "Only tell me that you are innocent in thought, word and deed of this hideous crime."

Owen knot on the floor and looked up-

Owen knelt on the floor and looked up-wards, and, in a few solemn words he took on oath of his innocence, kissing the sacred book reverently.

Then Elsie never doubted him again, but, kneeling at his side, she clasped her hands and offered up a thanksgiving in a few strong words.

'If you suffer death now," she said, "for a crime you never committed, I shall not sorrow as without hope, for I know if the future held for him a coronet or a scaffold.

PETERBORO PROTESTS. Toronto, Nov. 12. - The Peterboro "I am hungry," he said, with a short against London, the victors of Saturday. Ah, how familiar his voice was in her ears! "I am hungry—I could eat something, if it will not disarrange the household."

"Something places Boundle!"

"Rugby club has entered a protest against London, the victors of Saturday's match in the intermediates, claiming that the Forest City club played Peel, who was disqualified nousehold." Something, please, Reynolds," said the O. H. A. last winter. Peel applied and some wine. You will know what to bring. This gentleman is a great friend to the amateur ranks, but his request was . not granted. Peterboro not know that Peel was playing until the match had been started, but as soon as the discovery was made, a protest was filed. President Adam Ballantyne, of the O. R. F. U., stated this afternoon that the union would deal with the matter on Wednesday

CONTEST FOR MAYOR'S CUP!

In the Grand Aggregate Was Won by Capt. McCrimmon.

The Hard Fought Battle for Carling's Cup Resulted in a Victory for "A" Company

Shooting under lowering clouds, and with a chill November wind whistling over the brown cove meadows, the marksmen of the 7th Regiment had anything but a pleasant time during the first day of their rifle matches. The light could hardly have been worse, a fact that, combined with the variable wind, made fancy shooting out of the question. Yesterday the conditions were but slightly improved. Black clouds still canopied everything. and to add to the discomfort of the riflemen, frequent showers of rain fell. It takes a deal of inclement weather to dampen the ardor of your true marksmen, however, and the officers of the rifle association are congratulating themselves that the first matches at the new ranges were in many respects highly successful. The contests were all close and the new ranges gave the utmost satisfaction.

The most hard-fought battle, perhaps, was that between the staff and A Company for the Carling cup, the atter winning by only two points. The Mayor Rumball cup for the grand aggregate was won by Capt. McCrim mon. In the same contest Sergt. Robson won the Shanly medal, Pte. Allen closely following. The latter, in the extra series, No. 1, at 200 yards, made a possible 25 yesterday, thus tying Major Hayes' score of Saturday. Major Hayes won the shoot-off by three points, Capt. Walter Smith made good scores in the tyro match. Following are the scores:

PAIN PREVENTED SLEEP.

Mrs. N. Laviolette, Amprior, Ont., writes as follows: "I have used Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tableta. They are beyond question the best kidney remedy I have ever used. I had lameness and an acute pain between the shoulders. I could not sleep nights. I had more or less headache. Often I suffered from indigestion caused by uric acid in my sys-tem. These troubles departed after I had used Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, my kidneys were strengthened and I rested better nights. I think these Tablets the most effective kidney remedy I have ever seen. I know that they surpass every other that I have tried heretofore, and I do not hesitate in recommending them."

ANIMALS IN A STORM.

Dislike the Wet Weather and Seek a Place of Safety.

Both wild and tame animals, four-footed or with wings, have a deep-seated aversion to wet weather. Even water-fowl will seek a dry hiding-place when it Did you ever watch the actions of cattle before a big storm? If so, you must have seen them grow more and more uneasy as the clouds gather. You also saw them run up and down the field, as if seeking to escape some impending danger. Finally, when the storm breaks, they draw them to the storm breaks, they draw them to the storm breaks they draw them they are the storm there are the storm breaks they draw them they are the storm breaks they draw the storm there are the storm there are the storm there are the storm there are the storm rinally, when the storm breass, they draw close together, and, with lowered heads, present a picture of despair.

Domestic animals, when it rains, will always keep indoors, or, failing that, they seek shelter by the barn, or under trees, or in some convenient place where they may not be entirely exposed to the downpour.

It is the same with fowls. They dislike the rain, which soaks their feathers. They seek sheltered places, and creep under wagons, or behind boxes and boards. Chickens do not mind getting their feet wet, for they will scratch the ground soon after a shower, in search of worms and beetles.

Wild birds do their best to keep out of the rain. Some of them build a roof over their nests; others choose a home under the rain. Some of them bulld a roof over their nests; others choose a home under the eaves, or under a projecting cliff, where they may be safe from the discomfort that the rain brings.

But most of them are without shelter provided in advance by their own forethought. These take refuge in any place that they happen to find at hand. If you watch them before the storm you will see them looking for such a place. If the storm comes suddenly, the small and helpless ones seem bewildered, flying from tree to tree and from limb to limbs quite tree to tree, and from limb to limbs, quite unable to make up their minds exactly where to hide themselves.—Pittsburg

Coffee Being Replaced by Postum Food

Coffee. "I am the wife of a minister. About three years ago a warm friend, an ex-emplary mother and the conscientious wife of a minister, asked me if I had ever tried giving up coffee and using the Postum Food Coffee. I had been telling her of my excessive nervous-ness and ill-health. She said: 'We drink nothing else for breakfast but Postum Food Coffee, and it is a delight and a comfort to have something that we do not have to refuse the children when they ask for it.' "I was surprised that she would permit the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she explained that it was a most healthful beverage, and that the children thrived on it. A very little thought convinced me that for brainwork one should not rely upon a stimulant such as coffee is, should have food, and the very best

"My first trial of Postum was a failure. The maid of all work brought it to the table, lukewarm, weak, and altogether lacking in character. We were in despair, but decided on one more trial. At the second trial, we faithfully followed the directions, used four teaspoonfuls to the pint of water, let it boil full fifteen minutes after the real boiling began, and served it with rich cream. It was delicious and we

Little Three-Year-Old Girl Saved Family From Being Burned to Death.

Detroit, Nov. 12 .- Little Etta Scheibeck is a heroine. Only three years of age, she has already saved two lives. The thrilling incident occurred yesterday morning, about 2 o'clock, at the two-story frame building occupied as a saloon, school supply store and residence, 275 Crane avenue. The occupants, consisting of Joseph Christie and wife, and little Etta, slept soundly, not knowing of the dread danger below stairs. How the fire originated is not known, but it soon ate its way through the southeast corner of the building, and was already crackling in adjoining rooms. Dense volumes of whirling smoke threatened to suffocate the Christies. At the last moment little Etta stirred uneasily in her bed, gasped, awoke, and listened to the roar of the flames. Child though she is, she at once realized the danger, and shook Mrs. Christie, who was still dreaming. Mrs Christie tells the story as follows:

"When I awoke I had a strange feeling, as though overcome. The house was full of smoke, and when my husband got up we couldn't tell where the fire was. We were cut off by the hot smoke. How we managed to stumble downstairs in our night clothes, I don't know. Had it not been for little Etta we certainly would all have been burned to death." Mr. and Mrs. Mamer, across the street, assisted in the rescue, Mamer running barefooted to the engine nouse, his wife helping to bring out the horses from the stable in the rear. W. J. Hyne's barber shop suffered from smoke and water. The Christie's home had just been put in repair, in-cluding new hardwood wainscoting throughout. The loss will reach $1,500.

THE LIQUOR TRADE

Question Before the Court--Should Hotel Keepers Be Compelled to Have Their Bar Windows Uncovered.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—An appeal in a case important to all hotel-keepers and others interested in liquor legislation is being argued here today. J. B. Haverson, of Toronto, for Mr. Huckell, a local hotel-keeper, appeals against Huckell's conviction for having blinds on his bar room window, contrary to the rules of the tion for having blinds on his bar room window, contrary to the rules of the Ottawa license commissioners, and Huckell was fined $25. Mr. Haverson says the rule is ultra vires and unreasonable, and he asks the judge to so declare the act. The case of Queen vs. Martin, which was appealed, appears to be the deciding element in this case. Martin was convicted of having the lower half of his windows covered, contrary to law, during prohibited hours. The appeal courts upheld the conviction.
