LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent says that the Congregation of the Propaganda has de-cided to establish a apostolic vicarate in Wales. ALARMING EPIDEMIC.

LYONS, Jan. 29.—Influenza is spreading here in an alarming manner. The death rate from this disease has increased to over 100 weekly, and hardly a family in the city has escaped an at-

ACCEPTED A COMPROMISE. LONDON, Jan. 29.-The creditors of the Canada Shipping Company at a meeting today decided to accept a com-promise of 7 shillings 6 pence in the pound.

FRENCH POLITICS.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The moderate newspapers approve President Faure's message, but the conservative and socialist journals describe it as a colorless document. All of the papers approve the vote on the amnesty resolution.

PUBLISHED A PARODY ON AEGIR. BERLIN, Jan. 29.—The Volksblatt, an anti-semite journal circulating in Heidelberg and Frankfort, has been confiscated by the authorities owing to its having published an article entitled "Ode to Agam," which was regarded as a parody on Emperor William's "Song to Aegir." "AN OBJECT LESSON TO ENG-LAND." LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Globe in an article summing up the situation in France and America says the grave troubles of the two greatest republics in the world are an object lesson to England. Both republics, the Globe says, are suffering from the splitting up of their political parties into factions. ENGLAND'S GREAT NAVAL PRO-GRAMME. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the national programme which has been approved by the Cabinet involves the construction within the ensuing financial year of four firstclass cruisers, twenty torpedo boats and twenty torpedo destroyers. The cost of these ships is to aggregate £6,500,000.

FALL IN C. P. R. SHARES. LC)NDON, Jan. 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that the recent heavy fall in Canadian Pacific shares was due to the selling of large blocks of stock because of negotiations which are proceeding for the issue of $20,000,000 of stock with interest guaranteed by the Canadian Government with which a new line is to be built parallel to a part of the Canadian Pacific.

SOUND AND THOROUGH. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The President's message is unanimously approved as sound and thorough. Nevertheless, gloomy views prevail as to the probable action of Congress. A private cable to a financial house here seems to indicate the possibility of authority being granted for an external 3 per cent. loan by the present session of Congress. This is thought too good to be true. THE COPYRIGHT QUESTION. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Westminster Gazette states that the Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will not issue consular reports received from Armenia because they confirm the previously received stories of massacre and outrage. Lord Kimberley has written a letter to the Armenian Association in which he states that none of the 58 Armenians, who were convicted by the tribunal at Erzinghain in November last were condemned

WILL REMAIN AN AUTOCRAT. BERLIN, Jan. 29.—Private dispatches from St. Petersburg say that the Czar was called upon today by deputations representing the nobility of the principal cities and many provincial and district assemblies, who congratulated him upon his recent marriage. In replying to their congratulations the Czar said he had learned that in some of the provincial assemblies voices had been raised proposing that the assemblies have a share in State affairs, and expressing other absurd desires. He therefore wished everybody to understand that he devoted all his powers to his dear country, but that he was firmly resolved as was his father, to uphold the autocracy of the Czar.

CLEVER FAKE FOUND OUT. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The French police have just put a stop to a fraud which is so clever that the swindler almost deserved the harvest of francs which he has been so steadily reaping. The man has been making the round of fairs and other gatherings selling a rat powder which was perfectly harmless, but struck rats dead on the spot. In order to convince any should be selected. to convince any skeptical man he first powdered a slice of bread with the stuff and ate a piece himself, and then put the remainder under a glass case in which was a rat. The rat ate the bread and instantly fell dead. At 10 cents a box the powder went like hot cakes. The police looked into the matter and found that the powder was nothing but sugar. They also found that the glass case was connected with a powerful electric battery, and the moment the rat touched the bread the current was turned on, thus killing the rodent. The man was sentenced to fifteen days in jail.

ON POLITICAL LINES. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The elections for the London county council, the body which governs the whole of this vast metropolis except the tiny area known as the city, will take place in March, and it is now evident that they will be

APOSTOLIC VICARATE IN WALES. | fought on strictly political grounds. The magnates who own the greater part of the land upon which London stands including men like Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Bedford and the Duke of Westminster, are so frightened by the in-creasingly Radical not to say socialistic character of the present council, that their purse strings, usually kept tight-ly tied indeed, have been unloosed, and they are prepared to spend $500,000 to help the Tories obtain a majority. Sevhelp the Tories obtain a majority. Several noblemen even consider the emergency so great that they are willing to sacrifice themselves to the extent of be-coming candidates and sitting in the coming candidates and sitting in the council with quite common people, even with their own tradesmen, if they can find constituencies to elect them. The music hall people have also thrown in their lot with the Tories, and one of them, Mr. George Edwardes, manager of the Empire, has sacrificed his feelings like the noble sufferers just referred to, and is contesting a division ferred to, and is contesting a division against Mr. McDougal, one of the leaders of the so-called purity crusade. COUNTING THE CHICKENS. LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Admiralty and Coast Guards Gazette asserts that Joseph Chamberlain has agreed to join a Conservative-Unionist Ministry, and will probably become First Lord of the Admiralty when the present Govern-ment shall have retired from power.

WILL WELCOME ROCHEFORT. PARIS, Jan. 30.—The Amnesty Bill will be voted by the Senate on Friday, and Henri Rochefort will return to Paris on Sunday. A demonstration is being prepared by Socialists and Radicals, and at least 100,000 persons will go to the railroad station to meet him.

AN ARISTOCRATIC MURDERER. LONDON, Jan. 30.-Reginald Saunderson, a nephew of Col. Saunderson, M.P., who, on Jan. 3, was fully committed for trial for the murder of a young woman named Augusta Dawes, whose throat he cut in Holland Park road on the night of Nov. 25, was arraigned in the Central Criminal Court, Old Bailey, today. After the testimony of medical experts and other witnesses had been heard, the prisoner was adjudged insane, and it was ordered that he be committed to an asylum. THE BETROTHAL DENIED. LONDON, Jan. 30.—The Daily News has been requested to deny the truth of the report that Prince Alfred, eldest son of the Duke of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotha (Duke of Edinburgh) is betrothed to Duchess Elsa, daughter of the late Duke William of Wurtemburg. This denial is semi-official.

Truth says that Duchess Elsa will have a fortune of $24,000, and that the engagement will probably be formally announed when Queen Victoria visits Darmstadt in April. THE ORIENTAL WAR.

LONDON, Jan. 29.-The Times' correspondent in Shanghai says: According to Chinese officials' accounts the Japanese troops, supported by the fleet, twice attacked the west side of Wei-Hai-Wei on the 26th, and were repulsed. They threatened the east side on the 27th, but finding the defenders prepared they retird. They wished to attack the Che Foo forts also, but the foreign fleets prevent-

A dispatch to the Central News says: China is negotiating for a gold loan of ed it. £3,000,000 at 6 per cent. through the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank.

PARIS, Jan. 29.-The European edition of the New York World contains the following dispatch from Shanghai, dated Jan. 29: The Herald's special correspondent with the advance troops of the Japanese second army in Manchuria reports that the Japanese forces reached Huntsai on Monday evening. Scouts reported that the enemy's forces in the vicinity of Yinao have been materially increased. The scouts are unable to proceed beyond Laopong. The Chinese appear to have advanced all along the line. LONDON, Jan. 29.—The Central News' correspondent in Tokio says: Gen. Nogi reports from Huntsai that there are 10,000 Chinese near New Chwang, and that 11,000 Chinese are advancing from Tapinshan. The Times tomorrow will publish the following from its Shanghai correspondent: The Chinese military and naval commanders telegraph via Chee Foo that the Japanese fleet advanced upon Wei-Hai-Wei in two divisions of nineteen ships each early on the morning of the 26th. Their search lights betrayed their presence. The guns of the Chinese fleet and shore batteries opened fire when the first division was within 1,000 yards of the Chinese fleet. The fastese Chinese warships and torpedo boats dashed against the enemy and drove them off after heavy firing. The first Japanese division sailed to the northwest and second division to the south. The Chinese claim that they damaged several ships.

The Japanese made a simultaneous land attack from Ninghai. This was a surprise but the Chinese repelled them. The Chinese lost 27 sailors. On the Japanese side more than 300 were killed or wounded. It is stated that several foreigners are assisting the POWER OF A GOLDEN KEY. LONDON, Jan. 29 .- It is now pretty generally understood both in England and America that a golden key will unlock any gate in the society in this country. Perhaps the most striking illustration yet made was given this week by some one who responded to an advertisement offering to introduce an advertisement offering to introduce a lady into the "smartest society in London" at terms of f1,000 a year. An answer to this card was made in behalf of a supposed American young lady whose parents desired to secure for her a court presentation, etc. The writer said: "Though not averse to these ambitious projects, she does not enter into them with the zeal necessary to their accomplishment. She is fully aware of the disadvantages caused by her defective education and lack of knowledge of the usages of that society of which it the usages of that society of which it is desired she should become a member. It is to overcome this that a chaperon is needed. This lady must be of irreproachable character, high birth, and capable of introducing the debutante into the society of the English upper classes as an equal, for the young lady referred to is high spirited.

"Considered from the American point" of view of feminine beauty, she is very pretty. I feel it my duty to inform you that there is one fearful drawback—that is, illegitimacy. The young lady's mother gave birth to her daughter prior to marriage to the child's father. Of course, this is known only to a few, and there is no reason on earth why the fact should be circulated."

and there is no reason on earth why the fact should be circulated."

In reply to this came a letter from a lady of title, whose name is known throughout the world, and of the highest social position outside of actual royalty. Furthermore, it was ascertained that there was no doubt of the genuineness of her offer. This, among other things, she wrote to an entire stranger:

"First of all I prefer an American. Lady Randolph Churchill is a friend of mine, and I am very fond of Americans. Either I will not undertake it at all or your friend will go to court and be in the smartest society. I know you will not think me vulgar if I say we are in the best society. For instance, the Duke of Cambridge dined with us last night. My husband holds a high official positive. My husband holds a high official posi-tion in London. Nothing but want of means prevents my being a leader in so-

"But first I must see the young lady and form my own opinions; and, secondly, I confess that the drawback of would make me more exacting about money, as more would have to be done to overcome this difficulty than otherwise. The fact of illegitimate birth would not affect my power of introducting her into the best receive; but there ing her into the best society; but there are hundreds of things to be considered, and to receive a large sum would not induce me to undertake anything that I could not carry out. I shall be at home from 3 to 5:30 p.m. tomorrow if you would make it convenient to call." Not having received a reply to this letter the lady wrote again, saying that her correspondent must decide quickly, as two other ladies wished her services.

The American Financial Crisis—The Reduced Tariff Will Assist in

Remedying It. NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—A cable special from London to the Sun says: The financial crisis in the United States is regarded as the gravest feature of the general monetary situation, not only London, but also in all European business centers.

European exporters until recently sent their goods to America on six months' credit. A large proportion is now demanded on cash owing to the distrust of American securities. The effect of this, especially with the increased foreign trade under the new traiff, has been a tremendous extra but temporary drain upon American treasuries. London bankers believe the new practice has become so extensive that it will account for a much greater movement of gold than has yet occurred. When confidence is restored and the old methods are resumed there will be another flood in the opposite direction.

A RELIGIOUS WAVE

Sweeps a Noted Long Island Town-Prayer-Meetings in Soloons and Ovstershops.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Jan. 29.—A great religious wave is sweeping Patchogue. The saloon trade has fallen off over half in a week. Prayer meetings are being held in oyster packing houses, shipping houses, sail lofts, shipyards, and aboard oyster boats. A big revival meeting was held last night in what was formerly the toughest bar-room in the place. Until two weeks ago Edward McNulty was break ing the law continually. The Rev. Mr. Ferguson brought about his conversion, and McNulty moved all his liquors and fixtures out of his building. The minister helped in the moving.

The place was packed last night, and McNulty and his wife joined in prayer with the rest. Meetings were held in the big sail loft of George H. Miller several times last week, as well as in the oyster house.

CAN'T UNCROSS HIS LEGS. TORONTO, Jan. 30.-Mr. R. H. Bethune, cashier of the Dominion Bank, is suffering a peculiar affliction. A few days ago at a meeting he crossed one knee over the other and sat that way for some time. When he attempted to rise he could not uncross his legs, and has been in that position ever since. DR. EBY EXPLAINS.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Rev. Dr. Eby, late Methodist missionary in Japan, was interviewed as to the cause of the trouble which had arisen with the missionaries. Dr. Eby said that the feeling has always been that the missionaries have never been properly represented at committees of the meetings of the mission board. "We feel there is no actual combat between the board and the missionaries. We have had a great many men there that have had a greep-ping out one by one," said he, "all of them dissatisfied with the manage-ment. What the men want is just simply a fair and square inquiry into the whole affair. They feel they have not had that, and their only resource, after a long correspondence, which seems to have simply been pigeon-holed, is to ask for a recall."

BURIAL OF THE CHIEF. TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The funeral of the late Chief Ardagh, of the fire brigade, took place from his residence to Mount Pleasant Cemetery this after-noon, and was attended by a large concourse of citizens of every class. At the request of the family floral tributes were omitted. The funeral was of a public character, and all the departments of the civic services were represented. The pall bearers were Ald. McMurrich and Bell, from the council; Deputy Chief Graham and Assistant Chief Thompson, of the fire brigade; two members of King Solomon Lodge, A., F. and A. M., and two members of the A. O. U. W. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Jas. Henderson, pastor of Sherbourne Street Methodist Church, and the Masonic rites were also performed at the grave.

METROPOLITAN MEN MISSING.

Two Insurance Agents Make a Sudden Departure for Parts Unknown.

(Chatham Banner, Jan. 29.) Last Wednesday morning Chas. Davis, letached district superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Thomas McBride, until recently an agent of the company, left town, saying they were going to Wallaceburg, but, as learned from the G. T. R., they took a train for London.

As they had not turned up by Saturday, John Aikens, one of the agents here, suspecting something wrong, went to Detroit, the head agency of the dis-Trict, and reported.

Yesterday Mr. S. F. Harvey, one of the superintendents of Detroit, was sent down to take charge, and last evening a Banner reporter called upon the superintendent of there was any truth him to find out if there was any truth in the report. Mr. Harvey said it ap-peared as if the two men had skipped. He said that he did not know exactly now much the company was short from their departure. Three securities from new agents of $50 each, that had been paid to Davis, had never been received by the company. The company had also received a death claim from the Chatham office, to which was attached a doctor's certificate, and for which the company forwarded to the Chatham office $190. The physician whose name was attached to the death certificate says he knows nothing about it, and the man reported dead, as far as can be learned, is still alive. Mr. Aikens' salary for the four months he has been acting as agent has never been paid. Mr. Harvey said that Davis was the last man he would have expected such behavior from, and the news was a great surprise to the district superintendent and all the other agents who knew

McBride ceased to be an agent of the company over three months ago; but Mr. Harvey did not know anything about him, as he never had met him. It is not only the company that mourn the sudden departure of these men. Mrs. Reeves, Murray street, with whom the agen reporter that McBride was $80 short for his board, and that Davis was a couple of weeks behind.

Davis' salary was $18 a week, and sometimes he made more, and in his position he handled all money and superintended all the business of this part of the district.

ANOTHER ENOCH ARDEN.

Oliver Lower Returns After Ten Years to Find His Wife Wedded Again.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 29.—At the beginning of the war Oliver Lower, of De Kalb, St. Lawrence county, enlisted at Potsdam in the Ninety-second Regiment and went to the front, leaving a wife and five children. After two years, obtaining a furlough, he visited his family, but later returned to his regiment.

At the close of the war he went to Washington Territory. His wife, not hearing from him, and supposing him to be dead, at the expiration of ten years married Charles Santius, a union veteran, with whom she has since lived and had five children. Last night Lower arrived in this city. He did not visit his wife, but left for De Kalb, hinking to find his children there. Some of his children, however, are dead, and those living are supposed to be in Ohio.

THE STRIKE ENDED.

In Brooklyn-The Companies Win It But

May Lose in the Courts. BROOKLYN, Jan. 30 .- Every trolley ine in Brooklyn was in operation this morning except one. That was the Third avenue line to Fort Hamilton. The strikers cut the wires of that line at Bayridge avenue. The strike is practically over. New motormen and conductors have replaced the men who went out. The linemen who went out on a sympathetic strike have broken ranks, and those whose positions have not been filled were taken back.

The 6,000 men who went out in a body are still holding out. About one-third of the trolley cars in Brooklyn have broken windows, disabled motors, or are otherwise incapable of being use The strikers are now directing all their attention to court proceedings.

ESSEX FISHERMEN COMPLAIN Of Unfair Laws-They Must Remain Idle While Americans Work.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 30.—Men who are engaged in the fishing industry in the waters bordering on Essex county are making another attempt to have the aws amended so that fishermen living along the international boundary waters may catch fish at any season of the year. Under the present fishing laws, while the Canadian fishermen have to remain idle, the Americans on the other side of the river can catch at all seasons of the year. A largely signed petition from the Essex county fishermen has been indorsed by the county council, and Wm. Macgregor, M.P., will present it to the Government. The petition states that on the American side of the water opposite from Essex county 1,415 fishermen are employed. They take from the water annually 37,513,729 pounds of fish, valued at nearly $2,000,-00, while the real value of fish taken on the Canadian side is less than onequarter of this amount.

FOR MEN

Our success is due to the fact that we do the finest work for the most reasonable price. Running this department of our immense business in connection with some 35 others, we are able to save all separate expenses of rent, light, heating and fuel -besides buying direct from the makers in Europe, saving all middlemen's profits. This all works to diminish the price. You get the benefit. Orders can be quickly filled this month. The general price for Men's Best Suits from best stuffs are 25 to 30 dollars. The general savings from 5 to 10 dollars a suit. This month and February all go from 12 to 22 dollars, nothing higher. Figure the difference between these figures and what you usually pay. We guarantee a perfect fit.

We are selling and have sold during this month, fully one-third more Dress Goods than last year. Good reason why. Goods that would then have been 75c are now selling at 50c, and 50c goods at 35c, and 40c goods at 20c. Yes, we are selling a full 40-inch All-Wool French Serge at 20c. Ever heard the like before? Come and see it.

SILKS

We have said a good deal about our 25c Silks, and so we should, for the loss is terrific. But it comes to you, and if it is the means of making you better acquainted with this department we are satisfied. Look at these real Japanese Silks, so delicate yet so strong, a unique union of qualities-cream, black, pumpkin, nile, cardinal, blue, pink. Neither breakable or mussable, these Oriental Silks-crumple your dress and give it a shake and it's all right again. Come and see these,

LINENS

Are you in need. Such little prices as rule here should prove a strong temptation. Where is the woman who does not love to look at (and own) the exquisitely fine snow-white dainty Damask Table Linens that the best Irish manufacturers make se perfectly? Notice these cloths at $1 50 to $10, every one a bargain—a little bit mussed, perhaps, a little bit finger marked, but every one a gem.

Details of the Voting in Kingston.

Dissolution the Theme of General Discussion.

Brockville Liberal Club Moved Into Handsome Quarters-Political

THE KINGSTON VOTE.

KINGSTON, Jan. 29. - The vote yesterday was far in excess of that in June, owing to the registration of manhood franchise voters. The result was: Ontario ward...... St. Lawrence ward.....

The total vote east was: Harty, 2,283; Smythe, 1,851. This is the largest vote ever recorded in the city. THE VOTE IN JUNE.

In the election of June last the vote tood:

The majority first announced was three, but a recount reduced it to one. A protest was entered and in November a consent verdict was obtained, by which Dr. Smythe pleaded guilty to bribery by agents. BROCKVILLE LIBERALS.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 29 .- The handsome ew rooms of the Brockville Liberal Ciub were formally opened last night by an entertainment, attended by fully 500, most of whom were members. Besides an excellent programme, good addresses were made by Mr. George A. Dana, M.P.P., and George P. Graham,

NORTH MIDDLESEX CONSERVATIVES. (Special to the ADVERTISER.) AILSA CRAIG, Jan. 29. - The convention f North Middlesex Conservatives today was moderately attended. Mr. W. H. Hutchins, M.P., was unanimously renominated as candidate for the Commons. Speeches were made by C. C. Hodgins and

H. Elber. The proceedings were quiet. SOUTH PERTH CONSERVATIVES. ST. MARYS, Jan. 29 .- The annual meetng of the South Perth Conservative Association was held here today, and Mr. W. Pridham, M. P., was unanimously chosen as the stand-bearer of the party at the approaching Dominion elections. In the afternoon a large audience filled the Opera House, Hon. G. E. Foster, Hon. J. Costigan, Hon. W. B. Ives and Hon. W. H. Montague being the speakers.

LIBERAL LEADERS AT WATERFORD. WATERFORD, Jan. 29 .- The political reeting here today was in every way a success. The speakers of the day, Mesers. Sir R. Cartwright and the Hon. John Charleon, were the principal features of the meeting. The opera house was filled. Mr. Charlton, the first speaker, delivered an address lasting about 30 minutes, after which Sir Richard spoke for some time on the political questions of the day. The Macdonald used to exercise his skill in with the usual cheers.

PAILED TO NOMINATE. OWEN Sound, Jan. 29 .- The Conservaive convention of the north riding of Grey met here this afternoon to select a candidate for next election for the House of Commons. The number of delegates was small owing to the snow blockade, and the meeting adjourned till Saturday, Feb. 9.

TALK OF DISSOLUTION. OTTAWA, Jan. 29 .- The whole talk in fficial circles today is dissolution. This is the result of the judgement in the Mani-toba school case. It is thought now that the Quebec Ministers, who have so far been opposing dissolution before a session, will now agree to it rather than face the school issue, which will certainly be raised as soon as the House meets.

ERRORS CORRECTED

By the Talented Member for South Oxford.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Speech Before the Reform Association.

The annual meeting of the South Ox-ford Reform Association was held at Mount Elgin on Monday afternoon, and notwithstanding the bad roads and cold weather, a hundred members of the as-sociation from various parts of the constituency assembled. Sir Richard Cartwright drove over from Ingersoll in the morning along with a strong contingent from that place, including Dr. A. Kay, M.P.P., Mr. John Charlton, M.P. whose constituency adjoins Mount Elgin, was also present. The Patron candidate for South Oxford, Mr. M. S. Schell, attended as a member of the association. Officers were elected as folows: President, Mr. Alexander McFarlane, Otterville; vice-president, Mr. Andrew Dunn, North Oxford; secretary-treasurer, Mr. G. W. Hare, Tilsonburg; auditors, Mesrs. M. S. Schell and James Vance. It was decided by the association that the convention to nominate a candidate for the Commons be held at Norwich on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 11

President Williams presided and called upon Sir Richard Cartwright to address the meeting. His name was received with applause, and when he rose to speak the hand-clapping was loud and prolonged. After dealing with the general questions of the day, he went on to speak of matters personal to him-He acknowledged his appreciation of the sacrifice which the Liberals of South Oxford had made to what they had conceived to be the good of the Liberal party, by allowing one of the leaders to give all his time to the party throughout the whole country. would understand that he sympathised with the desire of the electors of a constituency to have one of themselves represent them, and he would not stand in the way of the election of a local man. But as statements were being made that he had neglected the interests of the constituency, he would like to refer to them. He asked them to consider the work of organization which was entailed upon the leaders of a party, especially if in opposition, and without tne backing of a large political fund. He believed it was said he had not spent sufficient time in the riding. Perhaps he had not. One of the reasons was the distance at which he lived. It was impossible for him to come up except he could devote three or four days to the journey, and from the 1st of October, 1890, until the 1st of August, 1854, what with elections and sessions of Parliament, he had not spent three consecutive days at his own home or attending to his own business. He admitted the desirability of a representative keeping himself in touch and sympathy with his constituents, and they would see from what he had said that although he had not been in South Oxford, he was attending to the business of the Liberal party, and that, at least, he was not idling his time away. (Applause.) He had not heard so much about this in 1894. He thought perhaps some people would have preferred that he should not have given so much attention to South Oxford during the Proceeding, he said statements had been made that he was at variance with the leader of his party. Sir John trying to set the leaders of the Liberal party by the ears. His most notable success was with John Sandfield Macdonald. Sir John's successors were much less skillful, and Sir Richard hoped the Liberals were not going to let them do what Sir John had failed to do, although he had tried his hand with Mr. Laurier and himself. If any gentleman present thought there was any dispute or difference of opinion upon any important question between them, he asked him to rise in the meeting and give his reasons for so believing. So far as human knowledge went he had the best of evidence for saying that he was in perfect accord with the leaders of the party. The reports had been spread about, he had no doubt, through a gross misrepresentation. He did not know but there were certain gentlemen, not leaders of the Liberal party, who were afraid of their flesh pots and their stocks, whether cotton or some other sort, who paid him the compliment of believing that he would do what he promised, and that when he said he would reduce taxation he would not be satisfied with half measures. (Applause.) He did not want to know particularly what the reports were which were being spread in the riding, nor their source, but he would ask if they were true would the men be worthy of confidence or respect who, while pre-tending to be friendly, were plotting against a colleague?

Continuing, he said he was the only survivor in the House of Commons of the original Mackenzie Cabinet. Mr. Laurier and Mr. Mills entered some time later. That was no doubt a very trivial matter, not sufficient upon which to elet a member of Parliament, but he would like to say that as Conservatives liked so much to attack the Mackenzie Administration whenever an opportunity presented itself, it was as well to have someone in the House who could correct their misstatements. He knew how they lied when he was there-heaven and the father of lies alone could tell how they would lie if no Grit were there to keep them in check. (Laughter and applause.) The Conservatives used to say they wanted him in Parliament to keep others away, but the manner they took to demonstrate it was to cut Huron up into fragments in such a way that the constituency he represented was wiped out of existence. He did not know that it was wise to take the advice of their opponents, and if the Liberals of South Oxford decided not to do so he thought he might have some claims upon them. (Applause.)
During the course of his remarks he referred to the success of the forces opposed to the National Policy being dangered by division. He had no doubt that the great majority of the people were sick of the N. P. and the false promises by which it had gained a foothold in the country. But it was necessary to present a united front. He desired above all things that there should be no quarrel with those who had joined the Patrons of Industry. Their plat-forms were the same, and their cause could only be made doubtful by division. That was what the Conservatives were praying for. He appealed to all opponents of unjust taxation, to all advocates of taxation according to men's means rather than their pleasure, to stand together, and by all the signs and tokens of the times he promised that the Liberal party would succeed at the approaching elections. (Prolonged applause.) The following resolution was moved by J. F. Williams, seconded by Mr. Dur-kee: "That we, the Liberals of South Oxford, in annual meeting assembled, hereby record our continual confidence in the leaders of our party in Parliament and the Legislature, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat, and our approval of the course taken by our representatives in those bodies, Sir Richard Cartwright and Dr. McKay, and our appreciation of their eminent services in Parliament and the country, and we hereby pledge ourselves to do. We are no longer happy so soon as we all in our power to uphold their hands wish to be happier

$18 AND UP. 179 DUNDAS STREET

in securing the triumph of Liberal principles in this county.' It was carried by a unanimous standing vote. The meeting closed with cheers for Mr. Laurier, Sir Richard and

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

J. R. FIELD NEXT WEEK.

Mr. Jimmie Field is this season touring with his own company of merry-makers, an aggregation of farce-comedy actors and actresses, each of whom is most talented, whether as a comedian, singer, dancer or musician. They play a full repertoire of farce-comedies of the most amusing kind, and in each there is introduced a host of specialties. They appear at the Grand Opera House on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday next week, with Saturday matinee, at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents. For Monday evening each purchaser of a reserved seat ticket will be given a lady's ticket free.

"1492" FRIDAY NIGHT. Rice's Surprise Party in the big operatio extravaganza, "1492," at the Grand Friday has achieved its success under the able management of that intrepid exploiter of musical enterprises, Mr. E. E. Rice. It appears incredible that one company could possibly continue in the same bill for a joint period of nearly five years in cities like New York and Boston, yet that is the record achieved by "1492." The music is light and catchy and easily remembered, and is of that character that is continually hummed and whistled on the streets. The company numbers 60 people, and it carries its own orchestra, electrical and mechanical effects, and requires an entire car for its transportation.

CUT OFF HIS OWN FOOT.

Amputation Performed With a Razor by an Aged Farmer. HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 29 .- Two years ago Robt. Galbraith, aged 74, a wellknown farmer of Payne township, Indiana county, fell from a load of hay and injured his left ankle and foot. The injury has caused him great suffering ever since. and the family physician has long insisted that unless the foot was amputated the farmer could never be any better. Galbraith stubbornly refused to have the operation performed. One morning last week the farmer's daughter went into his

"Delia," said he, "the job's done. The foot is amputated."

On the bed by his side lay the foot. On the other side was a razor. The old farmer had amputated his own foot with his razor, and had done it neatly, too, at the ankle joint. Although he is now 76 years old, Farmer Galbraith is not even suffering from shock from his self amputating operation, and the doctor says he could not have taken the foot off more neatly himself.

JAPAN IS RICH.

Living is Cheap and She Has a Surplus Every Year. There is a general belief that Japan is a poor country; that a long war would exhaust her more than many other countries

-China for example. Probably the idea originated in the extreme lowness of prices in Japan, but that is no criterion. Living is cheaper in Loudon than in Hong Kong, but nobody calls London a poorer place on that account. As a matter of fact Japan is now rapidly becoming self-supplying, and, therefore, need have little fear of exhaustion. She has money enough for all requirements; her taxation is very light, yet her revenue leaves a surplus over expenditure every year; her imports about balance her exports, and both are increasing yearly, and are not suffering in the least from the war. When the accumulated surplus (about 40,000,000 yen) had ail been voted away in war expenses, a war loan of 30,000,000 yen and now another of 150,000,000 have been readily raised without causing any appreciable dislocation. Government bonds were about 6 per cent premium in the beginning of the year, when there was a distinct boom in the market; now, when the war has gone on three months, the surplus been spent, and the loans been raised, they are still at 2 per cent premium, with an upward tendency. The country is not poor in any sense of the word. The land, though of hardly larger extent than England and in some parts too mountainous for cultivation, supports a population of 40,000,000, and produces a rice crop, which is usually larger than the whole grain crop of Russia. - [London Times.

An Oyster Romance. NEW YORK, Jan. 29 .- A special from Sayville, L. I., to the Times says: Shippers of Blue Point oysters of the Great South Bay have received a dispatch from England directing that no more oysters be shipped there for the present. It appears that the message is based upon printed statements that oysters from certain points contain typhoid contagion, owing to the alleged sewerage deposit upon the oyster beds. The Great South bay is entirely free from sewerage of any kind.

Take away love, and not physical nature only, but the heart of the moral world would be palsied.

Knowledge, like religion, must be "experienced" in order to be known. Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject. The only thing that walks back from the tomb with the mourners and refuses to be buried is character.

SKIN DISEASES.

Skin diseases are more or less occasloned by bad blood. B. B. B. cures the following skin diseases: Shingles, Erysipelas, Itching Rashes, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Eruptions, Pimples and Blotches, by removing all impurities from the blood, from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sores.

CORPSE SPOKE TO CORONER,

Immediately There Was a Stampede from the Jury Room.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 29. - Mrs. Josephine Halliday, the wife of a Bradford coal miner, was found by her brother, Wm. Crossland, on The Narrows, a lonely spot about two miles west of here, on Sunday morning. She was dead, apparently, but a physician was called, and later Coroner J. A. Batton, of Uniontown.

Several tests, including needle tests, of death were made, and it was concluded that the woman was dead. On Monday Deputy Coroner James Echard, of this place, selected a jury, and then entored the room where the supposed corpse was lying covered with a sheet. Numerous, friends, relatives and witnesses were present. Just as the deputy coroner was about to swear in the jury the corpse arose on her elbow and inquired in a bewildered way what all the fuss was about.

Immediately there was a wild stampede for the outside, the deputy coroner alone remaining. He explained the circumstances to Mrs. Halliday. The news spread like wildfire, and a crowd had collected, but Mrs. Halliday appeased their curiosity unceremoniously by walking out into the front room and ordering them away. She has been accustomed to taking opium, and is supposed to have taken an overdose.

After devotional exercises, led by Mrs. Little and Mrs. McKenzie, the president delivered her opening address. "We have all learned," said Mrs. Currie, "to look forward to our annual meeting with pleasure and hope, and I think we can say that in the past our hopes were more than realized. Much of our discomfort and want of success is due to our ingratitude. Looking back over the past year we see that our auxiliares and mission bands have been enabled to do good work. In all my visits I received nothing but kindness and found naught but a deep interest in all the workers. I organized five new auxiliaries. Surely it is a matter for gratitude to find the interest in our work deepening and widening." Mrs. Currie then spoke of good reports being received from the foreign fields of labor, the number of homes that received blessing, the number of downtrodden, degraded and despised sisters who were brought into the light. Again, the poor in Canada who have been clothed and cared for should be thought of. In conclusion, Mrs. Currie warned the workers not to forget that the time is short, the work great and the reward glorious. THE DELEGATES WELCOMED. A cordial address of welcome to the delegates was then delivered by Mrs. John Cameron. "The advantage of such meetings is," said Mrs. Cameron, "that by personal converse our hearts are mutually quickened, and the individual suggestions as to improved methods of arousing interest become the common property of all. It is not for me, in an address of welcome, to anticipate the discussions of this Presbyterial organization, but two things may be mentioned without which interest in foreign missione can neither be intelligent nor complete. The interest cannot be in-telligent unless it is founded on the supply of full and accurate information respecting the various sections of the foreign field, together with the special needs of each. The interest cannot be deep unless its foundation is laid in prayer." Mrs. Cameron spoke of the vastness of the foreign field, the great country was denounced as rotten. A

The eleventh annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Societies and Mission Bands in the London Preson this continent blown away with the smoke of a great civil war would have no reason for surprise if great things for God were the over-ruled result of the present war between China and Japan, through those 440,000,000 people

WHAT THE AUXILIARIES DID Miss L. M. Fraser, of this city, presented condensed reports from the auxsented condensed reports from the auxiliaries of this city, St. Thomas, Ailsa Craig, Argyll, Crinan, Appin, Ilderton, Aylmer, Komoka, Belmont, Kintore, Crumlin, Lobo, Cowal, Dorchester, Glencoe, Hyde Park, Mosa, North Dorchester, Proof Line, Rodney, South Westminster, Thamesford, Tait's Corners, Vanneck, Wardsville, West Lorne, Yarmouth, and mission bands from a number of the above places. The reports ber of the above places. The reports contained a vast amount of information, showing the membership of each society, the number of meetings held, the amount of money or quantity of clothing contributed to the support of the Regina (N. W. T.) institution, and also the cash sent to the general fund. On the whole, a large increase in mempership and more extensive work was reported.

Miss Kessack, of this city, showed that 2,200 pounds of goods had been sent to the Northwest during the year. The quality of the clothing sent was good. Tableware and furnishings purchased at a cost of over $100, were also sent. Miss Kessack explained the work of the Regina school, and told how successfully it was being carried on.

The librarian's report was read by Miss Kennedy, of this city.

Mrs. A. Thomson, of South London, gave a detailed account of the finances, which were shown to be in a highly satisfactory condition. The contribu-tions to the central society were $2,070. The presbyterial report by Miss L. M. Fraser, stated that from every quarter the reports were most encouraging. The increase of five auxiliaries and two mission bands during the year was the largest ever recorded. It made a total of 34 auxiliaries and 12 bands. Five hundred and eleven leaflets were subscribeded for. Clothing for the 122 children in the Regina school had been sent. The cases weighed over 2,200 pounds, and were valued at $971 87. The general fund contributions were $2,070, which, with the contributions to the school, made a total of $3,006 83. The adoption of the reports was The adoption of the reports was moved by Mrs. Robertson, of St. Thomas, seconded by Mrs. (Rev.) M. P. Chandise with their rubber coverings, Talling, and carried by a standing

The benediction was then pronounced, and the delegates partook of a tea in the lecture room of the church. The Public Meeting.

The Park Avenue Presbyterian Church was filled in the evening, when the public meeting of the W. F. M. S. was held. The audience included, be-sides the delegates, a large number from the various Presbyterian churches in the city. Rev. M. P. Talling, Rev. D. consider, it was also added that new Robertson, Rev. J. Currie (Belmont), sprinklers were required. The engineer and Rev. R. W. Ross (Glencoe) were also present. The service was very interesting. Rev. Jonathan Goforth, the Engineer Graydon's recommendation returned missionary, delivered an address on China; Miss Lilywhite and Mr. E. Devlin sang acceptable solos, and the choir of the church, under the direction of Mr. W. C. Barron, assisted in a very material way.

The pastor, Rev. W. J. Clark, presided, and in a short address called attention to the many good works being done by women. "Why," he said "one would wonder, in looking over a congregation or at a prayer meeting, what the church would do without the women. They are its mainstay, and are very self-sacrificing in the good cause." Rev. J. Currie read the Presbyterial report of the W. F. M. S. as adopted at the afternoon meeting. He paid a high compliment to the energy and enterprise shown by the ladies. The growth of the society was wonderful. Mr. Currie moved the reception of the report. Mr. Talling seconded, and it was carried unanimously. ON FAR-OFF CHINA.

The chairman then introduced Rev. Jonathan Goforth, who is soon to return to China to resume his mission work among the heathen in that far-off coun-Mr. Goforth took as a basis for his address, Isaiah, xlix., 12 and 6. "From those words," said the speaker, "I take it that no one has a monopoly on the gift of God. Though some are not situated as we are, still they have a right to that gift as well. Of the nations mentioned in the chapter, only two remained at the present. The Jews —without a king and without a king-dom—were one, and China, the land of sin, was another." Then, touching upon China's population, Mr. Goforth said they were in the millions. The missionaries couldn't handle them. Join the Chinese hand in hand, and they would reach across the American continent 50 times. If he went into 20,000 Chinese homes a day and left a Bible in every one, it would take him over eight years to cover the whole country. And on an average there was one male missionary to every 500,000 inhabitants. To that number of Presbyterians in this country there were 1,033 ordained ministers, besides a host of students, 6,000 elders, 25,000 Sunday school teachers and the Christian Endeavor and other societies. It was frequently asked if the people of China would be lost without the Gospel. The speaker's opinion was that they were lost already. The country was filled with temples of idols. There were as many objects of worship as there is of a population. They wor-shiped anything from a dead man to a snake, and had endless faith in them. In a time of drought Mr. Goforth heard one old woman beseeching her god to "give rain; if not rain, then snow." The appeal was fruitless, and the woman re-turned again and used these words: "Oh, goddess, if you don't give us rain or snow,

I WILL HANG MYSELF." "That is the way the Chinese do. If they fail to get what they want they threaten to commit suicide. I have seen them during a long drought remove their gods from the temple, place them in the burning sun, and say: 'Now, scorch away, and get a taste of what you have been giving us for a few months.'"

Mr. Goforth spoke of the many dis-advantages the missionaries had to contend with. He combatted the idea that regular game of fleecing was practiced by the officials, but the unfortunate inhabitants had become so accustomed to it that they were afraid to resent it. Mr. Coforth made a very earnest appeal or more lady missionaries, and in a few concluding remarks spoke of the perseution Chinese converts had to bear.

Rev R. W. Ross, as representative

Rev R. W. Ross, as representative of the London Presbytery, congratu-lated the ladies on their successful ef-forts and hanced for still greater prosforts, and hoped for still greater prosperit; in the future.

A bisiness meeting was held prior to the eening session, and Mrs. McIntyre, of Gencoe, gave an interesting account of a visit to Regina. Several minor matters were also considered.

FOR FIGHTING FIRE.

No. 3 Committee Discusses Ways and Means.

Suggestions of a New Departure in Street Watering-The Dog Tags-The Market to be Inspected Thoroughly.

The initial meeting of No. 3 committee vas held last evening, the only ab-sente being Ald. Garratt, who is still away from the city. The first matter of business the new committee handled was in regard to the furnace in No. 3 fire station. Chief Roe has reported it as insuitable, and Engineer Graydon's report recommended that the present furiace be taken out and one with an indrect draft be purchased. Mr. Stevely will be seen in regard to this matter and asked why it is that the furnace is not working right.

Re John Law's communication as to a public swimming pool, the mayor remarked that it was "too cold," and progress will be reported.

Chief Roe's report on the purchase of nev fire alarm boxes was presented.

Twenty-two new boxes are required, but nire of these are wanted immediately. They are: No. 1 ward, Richmond and Sincoe or Grey; No. 2, Queen's and Park avenues; No. 3 Hamilton road and Adelaide street; No. 4, Dufferin avenue and Wellington, Waterloo and Pall Mall, and Wellington and Cheapside; No. 5, English and Elias streets; No. 6, Alma and Theresa, and Briscoe anl Edward. The committee recom-mended the purchasing of the nine. The Fire Underwriters' Association had their regular letter on hand recommending the purchase of 500 feet of hose, two chemical engines, or the institution of a salvage corps and an addition of fif-teen paid men.

Mayor Little asked the chief what was the condition of the fire depart-The chief replied that the apparatus was all right with the exception of the hook and ladder truck. The alarm wires have all been placed on the top of the telephone poles except in a few cases where new poles are being erect-ed. In regard to the report of the Underwriters' Association, Chief Roe stated that a chemical engine would be very useful in cases of small fires in stores and places which contained valuable and perishable goods. The engine can be run right to the door and the hose carried into where the fire is burning, using very little water, and the acid was not injurious to the goods. The salvage and save many dollars' worth of goods. "The hook and ladder truck is away behind the times. I have asked for an aerial truck for several years running," said Chief Roe, in response to a ques-

It was voted, on suggestion of the mayor, that the engineer prepare a map showing the route of the proposed street watering plan, and also giving the additional streets that were not watered last year. Tenders were called for the new dog tags. Gurd & Son's tender for 1,300 at $23 80 was accepted. It is a very pretty design of a padlock. Secretary Bell will try and obtain a

Some of the tenants in the Covent Garden Market are complaining of leaks in the roof. The market clerk thought it would do more harm to the roof if the snow was shoveled off. After a little discussion it was moved that Engineer Graydon make an estimate on the cost of putting eavestroughs on the building, and also make estimates on the erecting of a verandah on the north and south ends of the meat house for late arrivals to the market.

Ald. Pritchard wanted the stall used by Market Clerk Wilson to be rented, and his desk to be placed in Inspector

Mr. Wilson thought that his brooms, shovels and other belongings would look out of place in the inspector's room. Ald. Pritchard then accused Mr. Wilson of not doing his duty on the market, and as the discussion was becoming stormy it was moved that the whole committee meet on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock and make a thorough inspection of the market for information and instruction. Ald. Skinner moved that in future the meetings of the committee be held on Wednesdays at 4 p.m., but an amend-ment changing it to Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. carried. The market clerk was given permission to purchase printed lease forms for the rental of stalls and booths in the market. The members present were Chairman

Powell, Ald. Pritchard, Ardill, Skinner and Weld, Mayor Little, Secretary Bell, Chief Roe, Inspector Bell and Market Clerk Wilson.

Back Again.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 29 .- At the city council meeting last night the new council appointed Hon. A. S. Hardy city solicitor, Benjamin Hunn relief officer, W. Sloan assistant assessor, W. J. Turnbull auditor, and Robert Shackell, sen., market inspector. Last year the new council resired Hon. A. S. Hardy, Benjamin J. Hunn and W. Sloan and appointed others in their places. Last night's council reinstated them in the positions they held for some years previous to 1894.

The absurdity of the argument is on a par with many other statements made in the same quarter. Where would our great trunk lines be but for the international traffic? Last year many thousands of cars were carried through the St. Clair tunnel, while the cars ferried across the Datroit River in the same time mounted up into hundreds of thousands. From the returns we learn that the Michigan Central boats carried 287,173; the Grand Trunk, 132,067; the C. P. R., 31,734-total, 450,979, or 52 every hour during the year. All available materials have been placed at his disposal, and his plan of work suggests a book of real historical value and high artistic merit. The work will be complete in every part, illustrated, and handsomely gotten up. How it can be issued for $1 is a marvel, yet that is the price for which it is offered to subscribers whose names have been received by the secretary at 278 Jarvis street, Toronto, before March 1.

The annual meeting of the Liberal Association of Kent county will be held on Feb. 13, at Chatham, to select a candidate for the Commons and to elect officers.

STILL THEY COME.

Kingston.

West Algoma. Every bye-election for the Ontario Legislature has declared in favor of the Liberals by a large majority. Mr. Conmee was vigorously opposed in the last-named constituency, the whole force of the Dominion Government agents being directed against him. But he has been returned by a handsome majority. In Haldimand and West Wellington, where Sir Oliver's candidates were defeated at the general election, the members-elect have been unseated by the courts. It is reasonable to suppose that these constituencies also will send supporters to the Grand Old Man of Ontario.

MR. FOSTER FLIES.

Mr. Foster, Dominion Minister of Finance, realizing that he would be defeated in Kings county, N. B., has refused to be a candidate, and will seek a safer constituency. When even Cabinet Ministers have to fiee from constituencies that formerly elected them by substantial majorities, what must be the condition of the rank and file? The tide seems to be going against the trade restrictionists in every Province.

WOMEN AND WORK.

Mr. Dana, editor of the New York Sun,

in a recent address, said: "There are now a great many ladies employed on the newspapers, not only in New York city, but I dare say, almost everywhere else. They are employed as reporters, as writers, as artists, and they are valuable assistants in almost every department. There is only one difficulty about it; they don't stay. When you have found a lady about whom you are convinced it is impossible to replace her, then she goes and marries some rich man, especially if she is pretty; and there the poor editor is left, helpless and without consolation."

This explanation disposes of the statement so often made by those who are opposed to the recognition of woman's right to be the architect of her own destiny. She is often told that if she tries to be selfsupporting, if she fits herself to be prepared for the emergency which may demand that she shall be self-supporting, she will prove a menace to her own future welfare-she will discourage matrimony, and abolish the home! But here we have the statement made by probably the shrewdest editor in America that the average woman who is educated, who is self-supporting, who knows how to turn her talents to account, and is sought after, cannot be prevented from turning housekeeper, from forsaking one of the most attractive of occupations for that of a The Regina (N. They might be join with the toolish sex in looking down upon a girl who has learned to be selfsustaining, who is a worker, and not a drone in the world's industrial hive. emphasized. NOT FOR DISCUSSION. In this country, where all questions are open, there are a few things which are settled beyond question, and which all disputants must toke for granted. After 1,500 years of the most thorough political education, the English-speaking peoples have learned: first, that history is mainly a struggle between classes, and progress mainly a continual readjustment of the redoing business, the camel will soon be a lations of classes; secondly, that this struggle must always and everywhere be conducted under the forms of law. The English-speaking peoples have earned that popular government rests on public character, and the institutions must change; they have also learned that institutions must be changed by evolution and not by revolution. Order is the basis on which every English-speaking society rests. It is the primary instinct of the English-speak-ing race. The necessity for it is not open to question. These two results of 1,500 years of political education must be borne in mind by every man who becomes a citizen of this country. Any modification can be made here which can be effected by voting; no modification can be effected which must be effected by force. All revolutions are in order through the ballotbex; no revolution can be made by gunpowder or dynamite. All questions can be discussed and settled under the forms of law; no question can be settled by violence. It is our first duty to ourselves as Americans to insist upon instant obedience to the law; and it is the greatest mercy that can be shown to our foreignborn citizens, who have yet to learn our spirit, to teach them that lesson as quickly and as thoroughly as possible. Every hand raised for violence ought to be struck down on the instant. There ought not to be a moment's uncertainty or a moment's delay on that point. The whole world is in a great struggle of conflicting interests and of classes who believe that their interests are antagonistic. The struggle is healthful, and the issue will be righteous; but the battle must be fought under the forms of law. No other way will be or ought to be tolerated. -[N. Y. Outlook.

Marion Crawford's New Novel Just Issued.

Heroine Pen-Painting As a Fine at.

"The Ralstons," by Marion Craword, in these days when sensational lierature lies scattered so thickly at our very elbow, is, without any straining after effect, a piquant tale. But wher did Mr. Crawford write a story which faled to hold the interest of the reader no matter how simple the plot? That unique and brilliant creation, Mr. Isaacs, is certainly the one, if any, which sets the hall-mark of genius on this author. But in our opinion The Ralstons" does not come so very far behind it. Unlike "The Duchess" in "dice in Wonderland." Mr. Crawford disikes a moral. He considers it inartistic b be seen straining after one. If a moral there be, well and good, but seek it for yourself. Like the portrait painter, he ion-siders that he has fulfilled his calling in giving to the world living, breatling pictures of a family of strong, handsome, vital people—Americans most of them, and old residents of New York city, but with veins still flush with hot Celtic blood, inherited in strong supplies from Scottish ancestry. The nanes of this book might very well have ben "The Lauderdales," for most of the characters in the story are called by this name. A certain portion of New York city, so accurately portrayed as to be instantly recognized by those faniliar with the old landmarks, is the background against which this flerce vehement tribe of Lauderdales and all their proud, passionate, self-respecting iin work out their destinies, and love and hate and quarrel hotly with one another. A good deal of space is given to Katharine Lauderdale, the heroise, presumably a maiden when the story opens, but in reality secretly married a ew months hence to her cousin, Joan Ralston. Almost every novelist has his own pet lamb of a maiden-his own idea of what constitutes the most charming girl in the world. Somehow or other, when a heroine in the shape of a maiden is wanted we have this same young person dished up to us again and again, with another frock on it to be sure, and new hair and possibly a slightly different way of expressing her senti-ments. But the sentiments are always the same, and so is the young person if you take the trouble to examine her closely. No! the fact of the matter is that every man who writes a novel has some dear girl's image, real or ideal, enshrined in his heart, and when he tries to give us any other heroine we feel that he is only half-hearted about it. There is only one faultless, absolutely flawless, perfectly charming "She" for every man inside his books or out. As for the women, they usually take themselves for heroines, from the Brontes down to "The Duchess." Mr. Crawford's fancy is decidedly athletic, though never heavy. A beautiful length of limb, and an excessive vitality, which shows itself at the very roots cided color-like their opinions. It is no use for Mr. Crawford to inform us that Katherine Lauderdale has intellect and the straight, if you like. It is purposely that we choose to comine Lauderdale, who might at first to the careless observer be thought to bear her very little resemblance, whereas Hilda in "Greifenstein" will at the as Hilda in "Greifenstein," will at the very first glance claim her relationship. Strong, simple and direct as Marion Crawford's heroine-maiden must always be, Katharine Lau-derdale is rendered still more interesting by being allowed to inherit, in addition to the already very handsome allowance of spunk, which, as a heroine of Mr. Crawford, she would be sure to be well supplied with at the start, a very large portion of the Lauderdale temper and eccentricities. As this author's maidens are always rather terrible young creatures anyway, with no end of energy, maidenly dignity, quick scorn, and all that sort of thing so calculated to keep bumptious lovers and other people in their proper places, it will be only necessary for one to state that Katherine's father was so unwise as to attempt to trample on his daughter's feelings-and there you have it all! The battle of the giant Manabozho on the mountain top, hurling great pieces of black rock at his father, West Wind, who is assaulting him from an adjacent peak with the deadly bull-rush, is truly not more terrible than the picture Mr. Crawford has drawn for us of this dauntless maiden of nineteen, like a tall, slender young pine, bracing herself against the fury of a tempest which breaks over her when for the first time in her life she sets her own will against that of her father, returning deadly missiles with a directness and surety of aim which disproves for all time the statement that no woman ever lived who could throw straight. It takes Alexander Lauderdale, junior, some time before he realizes that he has a daughter who can neither be threatened, bribed nor terrified into betraying a confidence which it is to his interest to know. He breaks her arm in the last scene they have together, but Katherine is triumphant in the end. The gentleness and sweetness of the girl's nature comes out in her associations with Jack, her lover, and her Uncle Robert Lauderdale, a most ador-

THE YEAR'S RECORD

Of the First Congregational Church-The Annual Meeting. Rev. J. R. Adams, pastor, presided at the annual meeting of the First Congregational Church last night. In opening he thanked the members for the support given himself and Dr. Wild.

The annual report of the treasurer, Mr. R. Marshall, showed that the weekly offerings amounted to $1,145 81, as against $1,318 62 last year, a falling off of $172 81, but the plate collections were $1,342 62, an increase of $626 24-making a net increase in the offertory of the treasurer from the previous year The total amount contributed for all purpose was $2,936 49. The accrued liabilities of the year amounted to $948 25. The expenditures included for pastors salaries and pulpit supply $1,196 73 and laws it will exercise the power of enforcing them."

Salaries and pulpic supply $1,100 is larged to the receipts. They exactly balanced the receipts. Dr. Wild received $800. His nominal salary is $3,-000, but he agreed only to take the surplus over other expenditures.

The balance sheet showed the assets to be $32,735, and the liabilities $11,335,

> Reports were also read from the pew committee, the choir, the Ladies' Aid, the Sunday school and the Y.P.S.C.E. During the evening refreshments were served by the ladies of the church, for which they received a vote of thanks.

MORE LAW THREATENED. An Attempt May Be Made to Fight the Municipal Elections Over Again - The Taxpayers Can Judge of the

Some people in this city seem inclined to break through the rule that has generally prevailed after a municipal election. They are disinclined to let the men transact the city business who are regarded by the electors as the best suiting them, and they would fain set on foot proceedings, by means of technical objections, to have the municipal contests, in one or more wards, fought over again. The most notable instances so far, are the threats to have Ald. McCallum unseated in No. 6 ward, and Ald. O'Meara in No 2 ward. In the case of Ald. O'Meara, the attack is probably to be explained by the fact that in the council he has proved to be of an independent turn of mind. Only the other day, the "Advertiser" is informed, Mr. Douglas, the defeated candidate, told Ald. O'Meara that he did not want to contest the seat-that the nagging came from others. Thus it is explained. Legal proceedings are threatened by the agency of Mr. Essery in Ald. McCallum's case, and by the agency of Mr. Helmuth in the case of Ald. O'Meara, but so far no papers have been served on either of the aldermen named. It is not supposed that, beyond putting the taxpayers to expense and the electors in the wards concerned to the trouble of again going to the polls, any material change in the con-stitution of the City Council of 1895 will be effected by the threatened actions if hey are finally carried out.

MRS. SHORT WAS VERY SICH No Wonder When She Had to Throw Up a House.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.) Hard times are bringing strange letters in to the renting departments of the real estate agents of the city. People are giving all sorts of excuses, real, others manufactured, to hide the real cause. A real estate man, spaking of his mail. said: "Of course, we must be reasonable; we cannot expect to bring blood out of a stone, and when we can be so we are lenient. I know of one man who has had a block of houses occupied for the last six months without getting a penny return for them. He does feel disposed to turn out people whose circumstances are such that they really cannot pay on account of having no work. People do not know the amount of charity which houseowners are dispensing in this way. But speaking about letters, I got a most peculiar one today. It is hard enough to ask a person to pay rent, much less expect one to perform the feat which the writer of the letter threatens that she

lation Demanded.

London, Jan. 29 .- In the Manitoba school case, dealt with by the Privy Council, Mr. Edward Blake, M.P., leader of the Canadian Liberal party from 1880 to 1891, and formerly Premier of Ontario, and Mr. J. J. Ewart, of the Manitoba bar, were counsel for the appellants; Mr. Cozens Hardie, Q.C., and Mr. Brady appeared for the respondent. The decision of the Privy Council, when announced this morning, created the greatest interest ing the importance of the case, had been eagerly watching for the result. The Lord Chancellor's delivery of the exhaustive judgment of the Manitoba school appeal lasted nearly an hour. He said their Lordships were of opinion that the enactment which governs the present case in the second sub-section of the section 22 of the Manitoba Act, reading as follows: "2. An appeal shall be to the Governor-General in Council from any act or decision of the Legislature

f protest of the Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to edu-cation." Therefore their Lordships held that the Roman Catholics' appeal to the Governor-General in Council was admissable by virtue of that enactment, inasmuch as the school acts of 1890, abolishing separate schools, affected the rights and the privileges of the Roman Catholic minority within the meaning of the section. Their Lordships decided further that the Governor-General in Council had power to make the declarations or remedial orders asked for in the petitions, and that also the appeal was well founded. It was not for the Privy Council to intimate the course that may now be pursued, but their Lordships, declared that certainly it was not essential that the statutes repealed by the act of 1890 must be re-enacted. Al legitimate ground of complaint would be removed if the education system were supplemented by provisions removing the grievance upon which the appeal was founded, or in other words, granting funds for the support of the separate schools in the Province. Leading up to the judgement, their Lordships reviewed, at great length, the circumstances under which the act was passed, and also its exact scope. It was noted that the decision of the council in the case of Barret vs. The City of Winnipeg seemed to have given rise to some misapprehension. In 1867, it was pointed out, the union of the Province of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick took place. Among the obstacles which had to be overcome in order to bring about that union, none, perhaps, presented a greater difficulty than the differences of opinion which existed with regard to the question of education. The existing state of affairs in Canada at Confederation in the matter of school laws was then explained and the Manitoba school question situation fully discussed. The historical records were unearthed and the case most exhaustively dealt with, after which the judgment above given was delivered. D'ALTON M'CARTHY'S VIEWS.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Mr. D'Alton Mc-Carthy expressed himself as follows today in regard to the decision of the Privy Council re Manitoba schools: "I can't speak definitely on the decision, for I have not seen the judgment. As to the effect on the political situation, however, I will speak. The result is that it brings the question into the realm of practical politics. In 1893 the Government ended its responsibility and for a time shirked the question by asking the courts to decide whether or not the Government had the power to entertain the complaints of the minority. It is decided now that the Government has the power, and it is now a question of discretion. I always held to the belief that the Government should have answered the question firmly and have decided that under no circumstance should the Dominion Government interfere with educational matters. The Government could not do this, however, for in 1891—it was just prior to the Dominion election—it had promised the Catholic hierarchy that if redress could be given to the grievances constitutionally that it would be given. Mr. Laurier is in the same position. "The action of the Manitoba Government did away with separate schools, and created not Protestant but non-sectarian schools. Mr. Laurier says that he doesn't know what the law means, but if he finds that the minority has grievances he will redress them when he comes to power. He must decide now. "Why should the Manitoba school question be treated differently from other school questions by the Dominion Government? The people, I think, believe that they should not, and when at the approaching election they have an opportunity of expressing themselves they will do it, and with no uncertain voice.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH. "I cannot say what action will be taken by the Manitoba Catholics," said Archbishop Walsh this morning. "I cannot say at all what will be the real result of this decision. I may say, however, that I was much surprised at the decision by the Supreme Court of Canada, for it seemed directly in opposition to the wording of the B. N. A. Act. I am not surprised, but expected this decision."

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Owing to drifted roads and severe weather the attendance on this market has been smaller than usual, and the amount of business days of the smaller than the sma done naturally was smaller.

smaller than usual, and the amount of business done naturally was smaller.

Wheat sales ranged from 93c to 95c for red, and 94c to $1 for white. Democrat white sold at 97c, and when extra clean brought $1 and what he only kind that did reach that point. Among the red wheats Golden Cross was the leader in value and would bring 97c when not bleached. Manchester brought 95c as a general thing and Red Clawson 93c to 95c. There was a good inquiry, but for local consumption only. Foreign wheat markets have been gradually going to pieces again and wheat has sold lower this week in Chicago than at any previous time in the history of that city's trading, contract No. 2 red selling below 56c.

Oats have been quite strong all week, and have held their own very well. On Tuesday and today there was a disposition to buy cheaper, but the orders on hand soon became more influential a feature than was expected, and values held steady at Monday's prices and closed unchanged. Today the sentiment was to buy lower again, and with this feeling and outside markets affected by the depression in wheat, the feeling seems justifiable; 86c to 87c were the closing figures.

Corn and barley were so scarce that it was almost impossible to get them at all. There was, however, only a limited demand, particularly for corn. Recent receipts of it have been quite heavy, and stocks must be heavy.

Peas wers in good demand, but owing to no receipts values unchanged.

Rye and buckwheat almost unknown in this

Barley—Sales were made from 90c down to 75c.

Rye and buckwheat almost unknown in this market now. As near as we can find out there has been about 3 bags offered this month.

Beans have apparently been all marketed or are being held back, receipts this week being the smallest since the season for marketing them opened. Unpicked sold at 80c to 85c, and handpicked at 95c, $1 being paid for extra peabeans and marrowfats.

Butter was steady and showed little signs of any change in values. Pound rolls as usual were leaders. The consumption of creamery was heavy and seems to be daily growing in favor. Sales of pounds in basket lots, 18c; large rolls, 15c to 16c; tubs, 10c to 16c; crocks, 15c to 18c, according to quality and quantity.

Eggs were steady and in good demand—that is fresh ones. Sales of them ranged from 18c to 12c per doz; ruled more by the two individuals forming the deal than the quality of the stock. Packed eggs sold at 10c to 15c. Store lots of fresh, 14c to 16c.

Poultry sold lower at 8c for turkeys. The supply and inquiry were both light. Chickens sold at 40c to 60c a pair; geese 7c per lb.

Eggs and lamb quiet with an advance of 1c in lamb and no change in beef; demand strady.

Dressed hogs sold at $4 50 to $4 75 for heavy hogs and $5 to $5 25 for choice weights, 130 to 15° lbs.

Evegetables were not varied much from a week ago either in quality of goods or quantity.

Portatoes sold at 55c to 60c by the load.

quantity.

Potatoes sold at 55c to 60c by the load.

Hay was quite high all week and sold at $9 to $10 per ton; at noon today six loads were left unsold; today sales were mostly made at $9.

Straw quiet and unchanged.

Cloverseed has been much talked about all week, but as there was none offered we do not feel justified in quoting any price.

Alsike sold at $5 to $5 25 for a few bags.

Timothy had $2 75 to $3 bid for it.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.] TORONTO, Jan. 29.—On account of the storm there were hardly any offerings at the westthere were hardly any offerings at the western cattle yards today, the railway tracks having been blocked to a considerable extent. There were only five carloads all told. Two more carloads were expected before night. There are several loads on the way here, and it is expected that they will keep arriving in dribbles all the week. The offerings included 66 lambs and 19 sheep, all of which were bought at $2 50 per head, and 50 over on the deal. These sheep and lambs had been over from last week; none came in today. All told there were only 102 hogs on the market, and they were sold before 10 o'clock. Prices were steady and unchanged at 4c to 4½c per lb for the best fat hogs. As a result of the lack of offerings prices for butchers' cattle were firmer. Prices were from $2 to $5 per head better.

Mr. Meredith was chosen chairman, and Mr. Gammage secretary, and the question was freely discussed. Among other things it was proposed to hold monthly meetings, at which flower shows might be held. It was said that the present horticultural society was one in name only, and was used as a stepping-stone to the directorship of the Western Fair. It was finally decided to place the mem-ures on a number of pieces of paper, and, shaking them up in his hat, he drew them out one at a time without looking at them, and the correct numbers were scratched on the wall. The gentleman then went down town and returned with a cab load of prominent citizens, anxious that they should see for themselves, but Ada and her mother had gone out. Mrs. Arscott had for-bidden the child to ask questions con-cerning the future, believing that it is contrary to Scripture and to the Christian belief. A member of the family to-day states that the child has found out who or what the strange visitor is, but he would not say what it was, because the public was so skeptical, and would probably not believe it. Yesterday Ada surprised her mother by saying: "Mother, I feel very strange sometimes. Do you know that today I saw litle Annie S — (indicating a little girl, a former companion who has been dead for a couple of years).

A Londoner's Sad Plight.

London sporting circles are all agog over the sad plight of one of the London hockeyists who went to Sarnia on Saturday last and fell among practical jokers. After the game he was induced by some friends to drive them to the street cars and bring the rig back to the hotel. He did so. When he reached the hotel on the return trip he was con-fronted by the owner and a policeman. The policeman told him that he was wanted and that he had to get into the rig. The hockey player still thought it was a joke, but in a few minutes he was locked up in jail with two of the worst specimens of the genus tramp to be found in a day's march. The young fellow was greatly astonished. He had never been behind the bars before, and did not know how to get out. His strange cell mates made matters worse by becoming quite chummy, addresing him as "Pal" and asking him what he was in for. They used tobacco freely, and expectorated all over the place, much to the disgust of the aesthetic and refined hockey player. The majority of his companions had gone home on the first train, and those who remained Ont., we has been on a month's visit to thought that the young man had gone to sleep in another room and did not left follome via the C. Then Stratford, after some clever playing by the forwards, obtained a goal. The play continued in Stratford's territory till five minutes before half-time, when Lind by a clever lift got another goal for London. At half time the score was 3 to 1, and the London boys were somewhat fresher than their opponents. The Stratford defense was not of the strongest, and as the forwards helped them often it occasioned much running around and loss of wind. In the second half Stratford got a goal, making the score 3-2, where it stayed. The play throughout was fast and furious. and the clever combination playing of both forward lines made it a magnificent game to watch. Special mention is made of the playing of Lind and Graydon on the forward line, and Carmichael is unequaled at cover point, where his clever lifting told. Screaton at point played a strong game, his weight stopping many of the Stratford rushes which might have made the score a different one. The goal-keeper defended his goal with unusual dexterity. The return match will be played on the Princess Rink on Monday night, Feb. 4, when an exciting game is anticipated.

One sob; just one, no more. Nothing in his life had ever touched Roderick like the strong self-command by which this frail girl in her utmost agony controlled its ex-pression, and, recollecting herself, sum-moned all her courage, dignity—the sacred dignity of sorrow, which asks no help, no tonsolation.

"You must forgive me; my grief is new.
Are these your flowers? Thank you; they are very sweet,"

And taking them from him, she began arranging them in the folds of the shroud gently and carefully, as if she were dressing a baby, then drew the kerchief once more over the dead face. "Now you must go away."

"I will," he answered—the first words he had uttered. "Only, just once!"
Tenderly removing the face-cloth again, Roderick stooped and pressed his lips upon the marble brow of this dead mother, inly making a solemn vow—would that all men made the same, and kept it, to other dead and living mothers! Something of its purport must have been betrayed in his look, for when his eyes met those of the girl opposite she slightly started, and a faint smile suffused her cheek. Fading, it left her deadly release the stargered rather than her deadly pale; she staggered rather than wa ked, though alone, refusing all help, into the next room. There she sat down, Roderick standing beside her. The door was open between, he could see the foot of the coffin and its white drapery. Though now, for the first time, he was alone with his chosen love, knowing well, and having an instinct that she must know, too, that she was his love, and ever would be, there was so great an awe upon him that he could not speak one word, not even of the commonest consolation or sympathy. And, though he could have fallen on his knees before her and hisself. on his knees before her and kissed her very feet, he dared not touch even the tips of her poor little pallid fingers, so strangely idle, their occupation gone.

"What am I to do without my mother?"

Silence said at last, with a piteous appeal not to him or to anybody, except, perhaps, that One to whom alone the orphan can always go.

Roderick could bear it no longer: his manhood wholly deserted him. He turned away his head and wept. The two sat there ever so long, sobbing like children; and, like children—how it came about he hardly knew-holding one another's hands. That was all! No more, indeed was possible, but it seemed to comfort her. Very soon she rose from her chair, quite herself—her quiet, grave self, robed in all the dignity of

'Thank you; you have been very kind in coming today and in wishing to come this afternoon, as I hope you will."

Roderick had forgotten all about the telegram and his mother—everything in the world except Silence Jardine. He drew the paper out of his pocket and laid it before ner. "Read this; I got it half an hour ago. Say, what must I do?"

Silence read, slowly, and putting her hand once or twice over her forehead, as if trying hard to understand things, then looked up at him with compassionate

"Your mother ill? I am so sorry for you."
Then, after a minute's pause. "You will go

-and at once?"
"Yes, at once." Both spoke in whispers still, as if conscious of some sacred presence close beside them. He was, at least, feeling this; as if a soft dead hand were laid on his wildly beat-ing heart, and sealing his passionate lips, else he could not possibly have controlled himself as he did. "I teel I ought to go. But my mother may be better soon. She is seldom ailing. As soon as ever I can, I shall come back again to Neuchatel-to you. You believe "Yes." One little word, uttered softly, with bent head, and, after an instant, repeated, "Yes."

Rederick felt his brain almost whirling with the strong constraint he put upon him-"One thing more you shall decide," he said. "The train starts this afternoon at the very hour I ought to be-you know where. Shall I delay my journey—just for one day?"

"Not for an hour!" Silence answered, almost passionately. "Remember, you never can have but one mother. Go to her

And so he went, without another word, scarcely another look: he dared not trust himself to either. The two or three minutes he stayed were occupied in explaining to Sophie Reynier about the telegram, his mother's illness, his compelled journey, and his certain return as soon as possible. "You will say all this to Monsieur Reynier? And I shall find her with you when I come back?" "Certainly. Yes." "You will take care of her?"

He looked at kind Sophie. There was the tender light of her love for her own good young pasteur shining in her eyes. "Thank you!" Roderick took her hand and kissed it,

He got to Richerden about four in the morning—a thorough Richerden morning, or rather night—of sleet and snow and sinding rain. Entirely worn out with fatigue, he came at last to his mother's

For the moment he hardly believed it was his mother's, but that he must have made some egregions mistake. For the house was all lighted to the coming, data suffled figures filled the was evidently the breaking up of some festive entertainment. He had pictured to himself the silent house—the night of anxious vigil over sick-

"My mother—how is my mother?" were the first words that passed his lips—they had been knelling themselves into his tired brain for the last hundred miles.

There she was, standing half way up the staircase, in her ruby velvet, point lace, and all abiaze with diamonds—a little tired and old-looking, as was natural at four in the morning, but beaming with health, good nature, and the exuberant enjoyment of

What a contrast to the dead mother whom he had left in her coffin so many hundred miles away! Waiting for a pause in the stream of guests, Roderick hid himself behind the shadow of the door till Mrs. Jardine's voice, loud and hearty, had repeated a series of hospitable adleus. Thence he emerged, a somewhat forlorn figure, into the brilliant glare of light.

"Goodness me, Rody! is that you, my dearest boy! Girls, your brother is here!" She wrapped him in a voluminous embrace, and kissed him many times with true maternal warmth.

"Mother, you have not been ill? There is nothing wrong with you?" "No, my darling; what should there be?
Oh, I remember—the telegram."
A sudden cloud came over her face, which was repeated with added shadow on her son's.

"Yes, the telegram. I thought you were ill, and I came home as you bade me, immediately. Never mind. Good-night."

"Stop my dear. Just stop."
But he would not; and went straight up stairs to his own room.

CHAPTER VII.

Roderick did not appear among his family until the next day, or rather the same day, for it was four in the morning before the last guest departed and the household sunk into quietness. Then, Bell Jardine, knocking at his door, had been greeted with a fraternal grow; and the trayful of food which, according to the family faith that the way to the heart is through the stomach she brought up to him, was left untasted on the door-mat.

"Let me alone; I will see you all at breakfast," were the only words that could be got out of him. Angry, sorrowful, and utterly worn out in body as well as mind, he threw himself on the bed, in the cold fireless room—evidently he had not been expected so soon—rolled himself ou in a expected so soon—rolled himself up in a bearskin rug, which he had bought at Neuchatel, in planning that never-to-be-forgotten day at Lausanne, and slept for many hours. Slept so heavily that when he woke, long after mid-day, he was surprised to find the fire lighted and a dainty little break-fast standing beside it: also his feet stretching outside the rug, were carefully wrapped up in one of his mother's shawls. She had been in his room, then making him comfortable, as was her habit to do, as much as she could—perhaps giving him unfelt, the kiss that he might not have cared for, the tear which would only have vexed him. Poor mother? And he was her own, her only son.

Roderick was touched. When he came down stairs the first thing he did was to look for her all over the house, and when they met he kissed her affectionately.

"Forgive my being so rude as to go to bed at once; but I was very tired. And you? You have been up, in spite of your fatigues, and looking after me as usual? I did so enjoy my nice breakfast! Thank you

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. About a rear ago I took a very severe cough. had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every coneral debility. I tried almost every con-ceivable remedy, outwardly and in-wardly, to cure the sore, but all to no purpose. I had often thought of try-ing Northrup & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY, so I got a bottle, and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared, and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit, and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best The rich, as we reckon them, and

"A Gaiety Girl." A magnificent house greeted the produc-tion of "A Gaiety Girl" at the Grand last night. The performance was fully up to all expectations and drew a continuous round of applause. It is a thoroughly English comedy-extravaganza, and deals with the foibles and idiosyncrasies of British military life in a delightfully laughable manner. The costumes were bewitching, the singing was good and the repartes clever. The special scenic effects were excellent. The scene of the first act was laid in the pleasure grounds sur-rounding an English barracks, with a view of Windser in the distance.
