3 Foil Death At Port Stanley After Grim Battle

SWIMMER AND RESCUERS FIGHT WAVES OF ERIE

Life Guard Hunt and W. Brothers Risk Lives For Unknown.

500 SEE THRILLING SCENE

Victim Unconscious As Boat Performs Triple Rescue From Death.

In full view of five hundred people congregated on the beach at Port Stanley Sunday evening, a triple drowning accident was prevented by the presence of two London men, and many of those who witnessed the occurrence declare it was a most nerve-racking one for those on shore in addition to the ones in danger.

About 6:15 p.m., an unknown swimmer, bathing opposite the Casino with a companion, became exhausted and shouted for help. Hearing his cries, R. Hunt, life guard on duty at the London and Port Stanley bathhouse, and W. J. Brothers, superintendent of telephone and telegraph service of the London division of the Grand Trunk Railway, made their way to the drowning man, who was two hundred yards off shore.

Just as these two swimmers reached the helpless victim he sank below the surface, but they successfully located him, and proceeded to make for the beach. As they neared this haven, the crowd received a shock when it was seen that the struggling trio were washed further out by huge waves.

Undaunted the swimmers struck for shore again, only to have the hungry waves repeat, and wash them further away from safety. After being carried into the lake twice it was seen that the three men would drown unless further help was available.

The timely arrival of a boat on this scene, manned by Earl Johnson of London, who carried a life-preserver, was the only means of saving all three from a watery grave, and the men eagerly grasped this sole means of rescue.

The unknown man, whose call brought the two swimmers within an ace of death, was unconscious when brought to shore, and was revived with difficulty.

Both Mr. Brothers and Life Guard Hunt did not recover from their battle with the waves for several hours after the occurrence, as both swallowed large quantities of water.

Spectators of the thrilling rescue are loud in their praise of those who participated in the rescue, and declare that without their assistance the occurrence would have terminated in a tragedy.

LIPTON WILL AGAIN TRY FOR YACHTING SUPREMACY

Rumored That British Sportsman Will Ask Change in Rules

New York, July 31.—Sir Thomas Lipton, who has been the challenger for America's cup, the blue ribbon trophy of international yacht racing, and who has made four attempts to take it across the seas, is coming to the United States in September to challenge again, it is reported.

After his Shamrock IV was defeated in 1920 by the American defender, Resolute, Sir Thomas said he would challenge again for the cup in 1923, but would wait until this fall to give other yachtsmen an opportunity to challenge. Nobody has challenged, so Sir Thomas is coming over.

It is reported that Sir Thomas may ask for a change in the craft from sloops to schooners. But regardless of what his challenges with, his challenger will be called "Shamrock V."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS ON INCREASE

Hamilton, July 31.—Twelve new cases of infantile paralysis with one death were reported over the weekend, making 28 cases since its first appearance on July 4.

2 SUFFOCATED IN FIRE

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 31.—Charles Ross, aged 9, and Jim Lee, 13, a Chinaman, were suffocated when they attempted to escape from their respective living quarters overhead during a fire which gutted the Spa Cafe on Queen's street yesterday.

LATE NEWS BULLETINS.

ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

Windsor, July 31.—Albert Soulliere, former bailiff for Windsor, was placed under arrest by Windsor police over the week-end, charged with embezzling $174 of funds which he had obtained by the execution of a seizure. In police court today he pleaded guilty. Disposition of his case is deferred until Saturday.

MINEHEAD DESTROYED BY DYNAMITE.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 31.—A telephone message from Cartwright, a small mining village near Dunlap, Tenn., states that the drum and engine-house of the incline at the mines has been destroyed by dynamite, and that more than fifty shots have been exchanged between guards and the attackers. So far as could be learned, no one was injured.

At Italian Helm

DON LUIGI STURZO D'ALTORBRANDO.

ROME, July 31.—Picking a new Italian premier has been keeping King Victor Emmanuel busy the last few weeks, but there isn't anybody in Italy who doesn't know that the man who really shoulders the job is a Sicilian churchman.

Few people in Rome know him, or even have seen him, but Don Luigi Sturzo d'Altorbrando is regarded as the political dictator of Italy.

This man who makes and un-makes cabinets is a priest and an agitator, 51 years old, born of a noble Sicilian family. One of his ancestors is credited with pleading Columbus' cause with Queen Isabella.

WILL ASK FOR SURVEY OF CITY

Educational Authorities Want Suitable Locations For New Schools.

New Building in Southeast Will Provide For One Section Only.

In the event that the city council views favorably the request from the board of education for a debenture issue to cover the contemplated purchase of a school site in Southeast London, and the construction of a public school thereon, the educational authorities, it is freely admitted, will press for a complete survey of the city, with a view toward the immediate purchase of further suitable building locations.

Time and again within past months have Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer and members of the board of education urged that the city look toward the future in this respect, pointing out that while the construction of a school in Southeast London will provide for necessary accommodation in that district for years to come, the remainder of the city is sadly in lack of sufficient classrooms.

New property must eventually be secured in north, east and probably west London, as well, and the school authorities contend that there Turn to Page 2, Column 6.

FIND BODY THOUGHT TO BE THAT OF NORMAN HOSHAL

West Lorne, July 29.—The treacherous waters of Lake Erie revealed another grim secret today, when the body of a young man, believed to be that of Norman Hoshal of Port Burwell, was washed ashore at Linderman's fisheries.

Struggling between the town line and Tryonville, Stuart Linderman discovered the body half buried in the sand. The remains were removed here and an inquest was commenced with Crown Attorney McCrimmon and Coroner Ripley presiding. Adjournment was finally ordered until early next week.

Toronto, July 31.—An Ottawa says it is regarded there as highly probable that Hon. William Pugsley, lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, and formerly one of the stalwarts of the Laurier government, will be appointed shortly to the senate.

BUS DRIVER TO APPEAL FROM BEAK'S DECISION

Roy Venner Convicted in Court of Passing Standing Car.

FINE FIVE DOLLARS

When Roy Venner, a bus operator, was convicted in police court Monday morning on a charge of passing a standing street car, and fined $5 and costs, the last shot in this phase of London's transportation war was not heard. Through his solicitor, Albert M. Judd, Venner will appeal the case.

All evidence was given in court a week ago, and judgment was reserved until Monday. Motorman Osborne and Conductor Lewis Parker charged that Venner passed their Normal car while it was discharging passengers between the L. and P. S. tracks and the G. T. R. tracks on Richmond street. The defence claimed the street car had passed its usual stopping place, and that when the bus drew up alongside of it, it stopped suddenly, and the motorman called to the conductor to get Venner's number.

William Knight and Detective Harry Down, who were passengers in the bus, declared that the act of the motorman in jamming on the brakes at the time he did was done purposely to get Venner.

Venner claimed that a few days previous to the date of the alleged offence he had been threatened by street car men. They had opened the doors of their car between Richmond and Talbot streets on York street, and had stated that they would "get him," he testified.

PREDICTS GOOD CROP WEST OF GREAT LAKES

Grant Hall, C. P. R. Vice-President, Visits Winnipeg on Way East.

Winnipeg, July 31.—"As nearly as can be judged at this date I should say that between the lakes and the Pacific coast the crop, cereal, fruits and vegetables, will be one of the best we have ever had," declared Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived here Saturday night. Mr. Hall has spent three weeks in the west.

"On the prairies I think we have every reason to be hopeful. Along the main line of the C. P. R. south to the international boundary, and for 175 miles north of the main line, the grain crop is better than it has been for several years," Mr. Hall said. "Of course, there are districts where it is short, but even in those districts the heads are of good length and well filled, showing that the early moisture was sufficient to carry it through. The saw-fly is making some progress, and just what it may do yet is somewhat problematical."

BABY DIES WHEN FIRE BURNS HOME

St. Catharines, July 31.—The 22-months-old child of Thomas Barnes of Louth Township was burned to death last evening when the Barnes home was totally destroyed with all contents.

The child had been left sleeping in the house while the mother started with her 5-year-old son to draw some water. When 150 feet away she noticed the house in flames. She rushed back, but was unable to enter the house. Campers from a nearby beach restrained her from jumping into the flames. The father was away at the time.

RESUMES NEGOTIATIONS WITH EASTERN REPUBLIC

Moscow, July 31.—The negotiations between Japan and the Far Eastern republic, broken off after protracted discussions at Dairen, are to be resumed soon as the result of an exchange of notes, in which Japan has agreed to evacuate all her troops from the Primorsky district by November. Japan also has agreed to participate in the Soviet government in the pourparlers.

Questions Economy Of Putting Grass In Alleys Instead Of In Garbage Cans

Diverting the school controversy into other channels, Trustees J. B. Wright, chairman of the Technical School committee of the board of education, Monday challenged Mayor Cameron Wilson's economy program as enacted since the first of the year.

"They did a fine thing," he stated, "when they prevented citizens putting grass in the garbage cans. Now you have to put it in the alley, where it is left to be kicked around. That is the way the mayor cuts down expenses."

Touching briefly upon a suggestion from A. G. B. Drake, respecting the use of a cottage upon property at Trafalgar and Oliver streets, that might be used for immediate school purposes, the chairman stated, "Yes, that would make a fine school. If there is not room in the cottage you could put the children in the cellar."

PRINCE PHILLIP WAS THERE TOO

Royal Baby at Wedding of Britain's Richest Girl

Will Surrender Fellowship To Medical Student

DR. CUSHING WINS PRIZE.

TORONTO, July 31.—Perhaps never before has a university award been accepted in quite the manner that the award of the Charles Mickle Fellowship, given by the faculty of medicine of the University of Toronto, has just been accepted by Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Harvard University. This award of one thousand dollars Dr. Cushing has accepted, but he has asked the University of Toronto to send to Harvard University a brilliant young student, who will work with him for one year, and to whom the money will be handed over.

The Charles Mickle Fellowship, bequeathed by the late Dr. W. J. Mickle, is the annual income from an endowment of $25,000, and is awarded annually to that member of the medical profession anywhere in the world who is considered by the council of the faculty of medicine of the University of Toronto to have done most during the preceding ten years to advance sound knowledge of a practical kind in medical art or science. Last year was the first occasion on which this fellowship was awarded, and it went to Professor L. Paolo, of the University of Petrograd, in recognition of the work he has done in physiology, particularly the physiology of the digestive tract.

This year the unique prize goes to Dr. H. Cushing, who was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1869, is an honorary fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, and was associate professor of surgery in Johns Hopkins University for nine years previous to his appointment as professor of surgery in Harvard University in 1911. Dr. Cushing was director of the United States Army Base Hospital No. 5, attached to the British Expeditionary Force in France from May, 1917, to May, 1919. He is a member of many medical organizations in the United States, and the author of several medical books and papers. He is a specialist in brain surgery, and the young man who is selected to work with him under the offer now made will be very fortunate indeed.

DELORME CASE UP TUESDAY.

Montreal, July 31.—The question of the interdiction of Adelard Delorme, the former priest, who was found mentally unfit to stand trial on the charge of having murdered his half-brother, Raoul Delorme, will be brought before Justice Rinfret in the practice division of the superior court here on Tuesday.

Drake, respecting the use of a cottage upon property at Trafalgar and Oliver streets, that might be used for immediate school purposes, the chairman stated, "Yes, that would make a fine school. If there is not room in the cottage you could put the children in the cellar."

"I was out looking Friday for this new site as suggested by some of the aldermen and school trustees in Southeast London, but I couldn't find it. I was alone and could not find anyone who knew where it was to be located."

Informed that queries had emanated continually from the city hall as to when he would resign from the school board, if ever, Trustee Wright stated, "You can tell the mayor I am still on the job."

He intimated that he would remain there until after the next session of the civic commission at least.

EXPECT RAIL BOARD WILL BE NAMED SOON

Cabinet Ministers To Discuss Pressing Questions Tuesday.

TO DEBATE COAL PROBLEM

Ottawa, July 31.—(Canadian Press)—With the prime minister expected to return to his office sometime during today, Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, and other ministers already back in the city, cabinet action on some of the more pressing questions facing the government is expected during the next few days. Cabinet council is slated to meet at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, by which time it is expected that the majority of the ministers will have returned to Ottawa after spending the week-end out of town.

One of the important decisions, it is expected, will be that concerning the personnel of the new board of management of the Canadian National Railways. It is expected that the new board will be named early this week.

Cabinet action in respect to the coal situation is also expected. Just what form this will take is as yet uncertain, but there is stated to be a likelihood of steps being taken to ensure a supply of coal for Canadian industries and households in the face of the shortage in the anthracite supply from the United States.

Premier King spent the week-end at the summer camp of Dr. Mc Dougall, chairman of the Montreal harbor commission, in the Adirondacks, and is returning to Ottawa today.

FRANCE REFUSES GERMAN REQUEST ON PAYMENTS

Berlin Wants Reduction of Monthly Installments on Private Debts.

Berlin, July 31.—France has rejected Germany's request for a reduction in the monthly payments on the debts contracted by German nations with allied citizens prior to the world war. The French note gives the German Government ten days in which to signify that full payments will be continued in accordance with the London agreement and the decision of the allied clearinghouse officers. Otherwise certain fixed measures will be applied automatically.

A serious view of the French reply is taken here, especially as the note was dispatched on the eve of the conference of allied premiers in London. Germany has asked that the clearinghouse payments be reduced from $2,000,000 to $500,000 monthly.

ST. MARYS MAN BREAKS ARM IN FALL FROM SHED

Special to London Advertiser.

St. Marys, July 29.—Samuel Millson, of this town, received painful injuries as the result of falling from a scaffolding at the home of his son-in-law here today. The extent of his injuries were broken wrist, two ribs fractured and a bad shaking up. He was attended by Dr. Smith of Mitchell.

Mr. Millson was painting the driving shed when the scaffolding on which he was standing gave way and he fell to the ground. His condition Monday morning was reported as favorable, but he will be unable to leave his home of his son-in-law for a few weeks.

COUPE HITS BICYCLIST ON DALHOUSIE HIGHWAY

St. Catharines, July 31.—Walter Hopeland, of this city lies in the marine and general hospital in a serious condition as a result of being struck, while bicycle riding on the Port Dalhousie highway by a coupe driven by George Shuttlesworth, a Thorold taxi driver, last evening. His chest is badly cut and one lung is punctured.

Manager A. O. Hunt Says Location Of Tourists' Camp Will Not Be Changed

There will be no change this year, at least, in the location of the city's tourists' camp, according to A. O. Hunt, acting general manager of the public utilities commission, who holds that despite criticism to the contrary, Wonderland is the ideal spot.

The acting manager points out that the camp has been established down the river, and every effort has been made to make the place suitable for tourists, the critics make their appearance, seeking a location in the city.

"We ought to have the camp in Victoria Park," Mr. Hunt commented, "it may be that such a move would be pleasant, and it would be only a matter of a block or so to the theatres."

The manager scouted the idea of utilizing the federal square for this purpose. This location is hardly large enough and little shelter is afforded.

PARIS, France, July 31.—The engagement of Suzanne Caubet, god-daughter of Sarah Bernhardt, to Crane Wilbur, English playwright, was announced here today.

FINDS EVIDENCE IS INSUFFICIENT

Deputy Magistrate Frees McKewon On Charge of Robbing Shop.

Kaltenbach Elects To Be Tried by Judge and Jury.

Deciding that the identification of the accused was insufficient to warrant a conviction, Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett freed Albert McKewon of a charge of robbing Wray's jewelry store on the morning of April 19, in police court Saturday morning.

Harry Kaltenbach, who was charged jointly with McKewon, elected to be tried by judge and jury and after preliminary evidence had been taken was sent for trial.

Ernest E. Wray testified that on the morning of April 19 he came to work and found the window broken. It was found afterwards that some wrist watches, tie pins and neckties were missing.

During the preliminary hearing of Kaltenbach, his wife was called as a crown witness. She refused to give evidence against her husband, and the crown did not force her to take the stand.

Testified Under Protest. However, when McKewon was being tried she was placed on the stand under protest. She remembered McKewon coming to her home on several occasions, but did not recall seeing him on the day of the robbery. Turn to Page 2, Column 3.

SEES NEED FOR CUT IN BEER PRICE

London, July 31.—Canadian Press Cable.—J. Ross Clynes, labor leader of the House of Commons, is a supporter of Sir James Barr, the noted Liverpool physician, who declared before the British Medical Association that the existing unrest in England would be reduced if the cost of beer were lessened. The labor leader says that there is no great demand for stronger beer. What the workers want, he declares, is cheaper beer.

It is worth remembering that labor members of Parliament years ago pledged themselves to abstinence while performing their parliamentary duties.

EXPERT COMING TO GIVE VOTERS NEW VALUATION

Mayor Wilson Denies Civic Body Favors Purchase by Hydro Commission.

AWAITS DECEMBER VOTE

City Clerk Baker Opposed by Sir Adam Beck for Secretaryship.

Arrangements are under way to bring an expert engineer to this city to value and report upon the London Street Railway Company land, buildings, tracks and equipment, with a view to submitting the question of city purchase of the system to the ratepayers.

This fact was announced by Mayor Cameron Wilson, chairman of the special commission appointed to investigate transportation problems of London, and under the auspices of which the expert engineer will be brought to this city. Mayor Wilson declined to name the engineer, nor would he state from what city he will come to London.

However, in view of the fact that Sir Adam Beck is a member of the transportation commission, it is regarded as likely that an engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission is being called in, although some city officials aver that the expert will be brought to London from the United States.

There will be no purchase of the London Street Railway Company system by the city prior to the expiration of the franchise in 1925, even though the ratepayers vote in favor of such a proposal, according to the mayor. He points out that the wishes of the people will not be known until next December, and that valuation and reports on the road will require at least another year. Sees Long Delay.

Arrangements to carry out the actual purchase of the road will require another year, according to Dr. Wilson, and by the time that the deal is completed the franchise will have expired. However, the electors may turn the proposition for municipal ownership of the system down, and in this event another solution to the transportation problem will be sought.

Despite the fact that unusually reliable information asserts that the transportation commission, composed of five persons, all advocates of hydro development, will recommend that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario acquire the London Street Railway, the mayor denies that such a proposal is entertained by the commission.

He explains that the commission can do nothing more than recommend and that the action of this problem will be placed in the hands of the people for final decision. Funds placed at the disposal of the commission for purposes of operation, will be utilized to defray the expenses involved in bringing an expert engineer to London.

While this body of men, for some unknown reason, meets in secret, and refuses to admit press representatives to their star chamber sessions, it is understood that the second gathering will be held in camera this week. The chief point for discussion will be the purchase of the road. Turn to Page 2, Column 3.

PICNIC PARTIES
THROUGH BEACH

London Firms and Organizations Hold Successful Outings at Port Stanley.

Carry Out Elaborate Programs of Sports and Novel Contests.

Saturday found Port Stanley crowded to the uttermost with dense throngs of pleasure-seekers. Practically all the space on Invererie Heights was taken up with the roped-off areas, in which London firms were carrying out sports of a novel and thrilling nature.

Refreshment tents, catering to the thirty sportsmen and eager on-lookers, dealt out a generous abundance of good things the whole afternoon, and supper tables set in the breezy coolness of the Heights and laden with substantial yet dainty things to eat, attracted more than one admiring and hungry glance from the casual passerby.

The London Plasterers and Lathers, the D. S. Perrin Company, the Scott-McHale Shoe Company, the London Rolling Mills, the London Soap Company and the London Printing and Lithographing Company were all represented in the crowds on the Heights. Practically each firm acknowledged a record attendance, and a sport program carried out with an enthusiasm which may have been equaled at other picnics, but has assuredly never been excelled.

Held Wedding Race.

The feature event of the D. S. Perrin Company sports was a wedding race, which one enthusiastic on-looker described as "more fun than you could shake a stick at." Before the race was finished the participants must procure both the ring and the license, marry the girl and kiss the bride. Mrs. Heaton and E. Heberbrand accomplished the feat in record time, with Eva Harkness and R. Salavensky coming second, and B. Copeland and Mr. Pitt third.

The results of other sports were as follows:

100 yards dash, for employees—George McCallum, A. Salavensky, H. Best.

25 yard wheelbarrow race—Messrs. Casey and Lane, Messrs. Boyce and Pitt.

50 yards dash, girls 8 and under—Jean Govenlock, Lenore Mercer, Marjorie Burridge.

50 yards dash, girls 12 and under—Violet Gladstone, Agnes Foster, Mabel Martin.

100 yards dash, boys 17 and under—Ben Salavensky, H. Best, Arthur Heberbrand.

50 yards dash, boys 8 and under—Evan McDonald, Mike Musselman, Alister Harkness.

50 yards, boys 12 and under—Howard Pollock, Stanley Frogette, Albert Jolley.

75 yards dash, for girls—Zippy Bamford, Mary Outram, Kathleen Donaldson.

Married ladies race—Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Hlad, Mrs. White.

75 yards dash, for married men—Alfred Bamford, Gordon Chanter, Alfred Gregory.

Departmental girls' race, four from each department—Office department, chocolate department.

Chum race—Miss Donaldson and Mr. Boyce, Miss Harkness and B. Salavensky, Mary Outram and Mr. Best.

Bomb race—H. Best, H. Cassey, W. Peacock, F. St. Lawrence, B. Salavensky.

Ladies' driving race—Mary Outram and Messrs. Lane and Cassey, Elva Harkness and Messrs. West and Salavensky.

Relay race for Dr. Williams' Cup—Won by the Candy Department.

Girls Arctic snowshoe race—Eva Gibson, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Hlad, K. Donaldson, Mrs. Beaton, Bessie Copeland.

Girls' balloon race—Jean Fish, K. Donaldson, Mrs. Gill, Bessie Copeland, Lillian Dunn, Lillie Pugh.

Back-to-back race—Bamford and Crosey, Boyce and Pitt, St. Lawrence and Gregory.

Mrs. J. E. Taylor, Husband and Two Children Hurlled From Truck by Train.

Special to London Advertiser.

PORT STANLEY, July 30.—Mrs. J. E. Taylor, of Aylmer, suffered severe cuts on the head when the milk truck in which she was riding with her husband and two children was struck by a L. and P. S. R. train, at Bridge street, about 3:50 p.m., Saturday.

Failure of the brakes on the truck caused the accident. All four occupants were thrown out, but only Mrs. Taylor was injured. The truck, badly damaged, was carried some distance by the train.

WILL OBSTRUCT GREEK ADVANCE

British Unite With French to Stop March on Constantinople.

Intend to Enforce Neutrality of City by Force If Need Be.

Constantinople, July 30.—British troops today were being transferred across the Bosphorus from the Asiatic to the European side, crossing Constantinople on their way to the Tchatalja line, thirty miles west of the city, to reinforce the French troops. This evidence of the strengthening of the old defense line caused the city to awaken from its usual Sunday torpor.

The allied military staff has categorically announced that under no circumstances will it permit a Greek advance upon Constantinople, being prepared to oppose by force any attempt at violation of the neutrality of the city, whether by the Turks or Greeks.

The concentration of Greek forces in Thrace is continuing, and reports of clashes between Greek regulars and Turkish police, in which two of the latter are said to have been killed, have caused considerable stir here.

The French have been especially active in getting the defense line ready to meet any eventualities. Advice reaching their headquarters are to the effect that four full Greek divisions are now concentrated in Thrace, with the Greek general staff at Cherkess Keu, thirty miles west of the town of Tchaia.

News of the proclamation issued at Smyrna declaring the independence of the Greek occupied area in Asia Minor, is interpreted here as a prelude to the complete evacuation of the occupied territory by the Greeks, the military demonstration in Thrace being looked upon as merely a diversion.

member him coming on April 10 particularly.

Cross-examined by Acting Crown Attorney A. R. Douglas, she admitted she might have told Detective Down that McKeown had come to her place with a pistol, but added that she was not under oath at the time, and that it did not matter so much as Detective Down was not a judge or a magistrate.

Lily G. Carver, who resides upstairs across the street from Wray's jewelry, declared that on the morning of April 10, she heard a crash, and looking out the window, saw two men standing in front of the broken window. One man, she said, was taking goods from the window. She identified the two prisoners as the men.

Was Not Positive.

Under cross-examination, she stated she would not be positive as to the two men, but said McKeown looked very much like one of them.

Albert M. Judd did not think there was sufficient evidence to put McKeown on his defense, but the crown insisted there was. Finally McKeown was put in the box, and denied he had taken part in any robbery. He said he rarely got up in the morning before 8:30 o'clock, whereas Mrs. Carver stated the offence took place about 5:20 o'clock.

He told of Kaitenbach planning the robbery, when the two used to be pals. McKeown stated he was addicted to drugs at the time. He denied taking part in the robbery, but said that a few days after he was told of the plans, he read of the robbery in the newspapers.

"On the evidence, it is impossible to find this man guilty upon this charge," concluded the court.

sion at this meeting will be the appointment of a secretary.

Beck Opposes Baker.

Some members of the commission declare that City Clerk S. Baker is the logical person for this office, but in his knowledge of civic affairs, but it is stated that Sir Adam Beck is opposed to him, and will not hear of such a suggestion. In lieu of Mr. Baker, the name of Harry Bennett, assessment clerk, has been put up, and will likely be favored by the commission.

Although Mayor Wilson, when the matter was broached to him, pleaded ignorance of Mr. Bennett's identity, and asked who he was, it is definitely known that Mr. Bennett's name figured in the discussion at the last commission meeting, which was presided over by his worship.

Some city officials have asserted that the action of the London Street Railway Company in refusing to pave its tracks on certain streets is due to the fact that they hesitate to make any further expenditures because the special commission has things cut and dried to dispose of the company.

Will Wait Until 1925.

"There will be nothing done until the expiration of the franchise of the London Street Railway Company in 1925," said Mayor Wilson to The Advertiser Monday morning. "Arrangements are now being made to call in an expert engineer to value the system, and the figures will be presented to the people. We have a complete Hydro-Electric Power Commission report on the valuation of the London Street Railway, made in 1920, but it will have to be revised, subject to changes in prices and the industrial situation."

"Nothing will be done until the citizens decide, and all the commission can do is recommend. The motor bus situation and the feasibility of trackless trolleys for London will also be investigated."

The commission is composed of Mayor Cameron Wilson, chairman; Sir Adam Beck, Philip Pocock, Alderman G. B. Drake and Alderman H. J. Childs.

DUNNVILLE MAN
KILLED BY TRAIN

William Reid Jumps From Freight to Death Near Canfield.

Companion, Travelling With Him to Windsor, Escapes With Cuts.

Special to London Advertiser.

CAYUGA, July 30.—William Reid, aged 21, of Dunnville, was killed by jumping from a westbound G. T. R. freight train, near Canfield, Friday night.

Robert Fralick, who was traveling to Windsor with Reid, also jumped, but escaped with some bad cuts on his face. Fralick got help from the junction, and Dr. Simpson of Cayuga was summoned.

Word was sent to Crown Attorney Harrison Arrell of Caledonia, and Coroner Dr. Quance of Hagersville. Dr. Quance, with a jury, viewed the body, which was taken in charge on Saturday afternoon by an undertaker from Dunnville.

It is thought that the men jumped to catch an M. C. R. train at the junction.

FOR "U" BUILDING

Board of Governors Meets To Arrange Housing of Science Faculty.

Tenders for the science building to be erected on the new university site in West London are being advertised for, the final date for the tenders to be in being set as Aug. 17.

The board of governors of the university, meeting last Saturday afternoon, arrived at the decision to handle the differences on the national lines, while George D. Kelley, Ottawa, is acting for the company. The chairman will either be agreed upon by the two members or appointed by the department of labor within a few days.

In the case of the Grand Trunk Railway, U. E. Gillen, Toronto, will represent the company, while the appointment of the labor representative is expected by tomorrow.

Officials of the brotherhood have not yet received any intimation that the companies contemplate withholding the wage cuts until after the findings, but it was stated in high union circles that the new board of management of the national lines, the appointment of which is expected this week, might give a decision one way or the other.

COMPERS PLEASED.

New York, July 31.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared yesterday that he viewed "with a great deal of pleasure" news that the rail and mine strikers are nearing what would seem to be a mutually satisfactory settlement.

"From my knowledge," Mr. Gompers added, "I am convinced that never in the history of organized labor and capital has there been such an effort on both sides to view things from a really human standpoint."

Little Girls Stow Away
On Largest Liner

NEW YORK, July 31.—The White Star liner Majestic—the world's largest vessel—left for Southampton Saturday at noon. She carried two non-paying passengers in Anna Muller and Katherine Fleming, 13-year-old chums, of New York. Early this morning a radio telling of their discovery in one of the lifeboats was received at the steamship company's offices.

The Majestic was so far at sea when the girls made their presence known that they will be carried to England and back, unless by remote chance they can be transferred to a west-bound boat in mid-ocean.

ASKS DEATH FOR RUSSIAN REBELS

State Prosecutor Demands 30 Social Revolutionists Be Shot.

Accusations Include Attempts To Kill Premier Lenine.

Moscow, July 30.—Death by shooting of thirty of the social revolutionists on trial here, including four women, was demanded by the prosecutor, M. Krylenko, in an address concluded early today. The prosecutor occupied 18 hours in summarizing all the testimony and evidence against the defendants and at times became so dramatic as to arouse the ire of the prisoners, who shouted their defiance in answer to his accusations.

Analyzing in great fashion the accusations brought by the state, he said they had been shown, link by link, the connections of the defendants with the various plots charged to them, including the assassination of M. Volodarsky and Uritsky, soviet leaders in Petrograd, in 1918, and attempts to kill Premier Lenine and War Minister Trotsky.

He contended that the state's charges, including terrorist acts by the social revolutionists, the systematic robbery of state institutions, destruction of state property, organization of uprisings among the peasants, and assistance to foreign interventions, had all been conclusively proved, and that he was therefore justified in insisting upon death for all the principal defendants, excepting four, and several informers.

When M. Krylenko reached the climax of his speech, and in a high-pitched voice demanded the supreme penalty for the welfare of the government the audience of several hundred persons applauded, the hand clapping continuing for several minutes. The defendants were not in the least taken back by the prosecutor's demands, one Ivanova, a woman, actually smiling in his face.

Being without counsel, the principal defendants will make addresses in their own behalf, beginning tomorrow. The trial will probably be concluded within ten days.

is no time like the present for the purchase of land that will have to be obtained sooner or later. They state that the city will make another determined effort to impress this fact upon the minds of the various civic administrators before their terms of office expire.

As to be anticipated, land increases in value continually, they point out, and when the school trustees do choose to select a suitable tract the price is more than likely elevated the moment that the owner perceives that the city desires to buy.

Locations must be found for branch high schools in South and East London. The department of education in Toronto insists that these must be provided at the earliest opportunity, and that the use of the old Victoria public school must be temporary only.

Property adjoining the Tecumseh public school, South London, originally intended for a South London high school, has never been approved by the provincial authorities, and never will, it is now announced. This land, already sought by the city engineer's department, will no doubt have to be disposed of at the best figure, trustees assert. The property in question has been held for eight years.

Chain Store Solves Problem of Special Bargains So Attractive
To the Masses of the People

They Create Standards of Value and Operate To Check Profiteering—The Field For This Class of Store Is Practically Unlimited.

The chain store merchandising idea is one of the greatest developments in recent years. Having its origin in the United States, it has spread to Canada and is now in process of rapid development in this country.

In England, also, this system is taking a firm hold, the opening of the Woolworth Stores there having proved successful. The Kresge interests have established there and the L. R. Steel interests expect to begin operations there within the next year or two.

Every community has been familiar with the plan of some enterprising merchant having two or three stores in a city or good-sized town, or possibly more widely scattered than even that. There is a close relationship between the two schemes, but the chain store is of much wider scope and aims to draw tribute from the buyers of a whole nation, instead of a single community.

Financial Successes.

Great financial success has attended the spread of the chain stores and customers are generally well pleased with the results they obtain from making their purchases at such stores. The ability to buy through a central organization in large quantities has solved the problem of special bargains which are so attractive to the masses of the people.

For a long time the chain store devoted its attention largely to specialties of one kind or another. The various chain tobacco stores, as well as the places where knick-knacks and notions of various kinds are to be had are familiar objects of the main thoroughfares of any urban community. But the chain store is beginning to assume a broader trading significance. It is going into lines hitherto left exclusively to the enterprise of the individual or the departmental store now largely operated as joint stock companies.

Check to Profiteering.

One important effect it will have in the life of the community will be to act as a check to what has become widely known in the past few years as profiteering, a term seldom heretofore applied to the business of merchandising. These stores create standards of value and the public will become accustomed to accepting them. This will obviously have the effect of checking any tendency there might be in individually operated stores to exact more than the goods could be obtained for at any of the standard chain stores.

Unlimited Field.

It is easy to understand that the field for the development of the chain store idea is practically unlimited. The only limitations may be said to be the power to successfully organize and manage such a business. This is one of the reasons why large chain store corporations are enlisting some of the keenest business brains and organizing ability in the world in the management of their systems. Business discernment and foresight play a much greater part in that kind of a business than in the corner grocery or the dry-goods "emporium," although they are run with the same object in view. There is so much at stake in the big business that the best men are in demand to handle the problems.

Growth Defies Deflation.

It is also noticeable that notwithstanding the general business readjustment and period of deflation in values, the chain store has gone ahead increasing the scope of its operations as well as its profits.

An outstanding organization in the chain store development in Canada and the United States at the present time is the L. R. Steel Company. It has a number of subsidiary concerns to attend to departments other than the actual merchandizing and although these may have become confused in the public mind with other projects, the main underlying idea of the organization is to open and operate stores on the chain system and make dividends for their numerous shareholders. This they are doing and notwithstanding various criticisms and innuendoes expect to continue doing and thus build up a well satisfied body of shareholders and an enthusiastic class of customers for their various stores.

SAYS CHANCE OF STRIKE SLIGHT

Organizer of Canadian Brotherhood Makes Address At Annual Picnic.

Urges Women To Permit Men To Strike, If Necessary.

There is only the barest possibility that Canadian railwaymen will go on strike over present wage disputes with Canadian railways, W. J. McPherson, organizer for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, told the London members of the union at their annual picnic in Springbank Park, Saturday afternoon.

McPherson said that he wished in particular to assure the women that there was only a very remote chance of there being any walkout on the part of Canadian railwaymen.

However, McPherson declared, if it came down to the companies decreasing wages to a large degree the women should not be afraid to let the men strike.

Some 250 to 300 people were present at the picnic, which was one that stood out in the memory of the women as one of the best yet arranged.

Sports and contests were held throughout the afternoon, 25 races and other field sports being held, including a baseball game and a tug-of-war.

The following is the list of the prize winners in the various events: Girls, 6 years—May Jack, Iona Avery, 6 years—Jack Weir, N. Scott, W. Avery, B. Tover.

TOMORROW'S DOINGS.

TUESDAY—No. 2 Committee, City Council, meets at city hall.

BANK CLEARINGS for July, 1922, were $1,160,911. For July, 1921, they were $1,251,553.

FOLLOWING the regular local routine by which Civic Holiday falls on the first Monday in August, next Monday, which is Aug. 7, will be observed as a holiday in this city.

DURING the month of August, Rev. C. M. Farney of Chesley will be in charge of St. James' Anglican Church, South London. Mr. Farney takes the place of the rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, who leaves London.

LITTLE DAMAGE was done when fire broke out in living quarters over the jewelry store of Ross McKay, 564 Dundas street, at 11:30 o'clock Monday morning. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

WITHIN a few days Harold Vandecar will enter his plea and elect the manner of his trial on a charge of fraud. He appeared before Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett in police court Monday morning and was remanded for a few days. Vandecar is alleged to have obtained credit under false pretenses from G. D. McFarlane, a grocer.

AS THE REMOVAL of George H. Billings' auto from the corner of King and Richmond streets some time ago by William H. Raine and a companion was regarded as an attempt rather than an actual theft, by Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett in police court Monday morning, a light sentence was imposed on Raine, who had been convicted last week. Three months in the common jail was the decision of the court.

APPEARING BEFORE Squire W. H. Chittick in the Middlesex County court Monday morning, the usual week-end grist of speeders were found guilty and assessed the usual fine with costs. The county police still have a long list of alleged offenders of the motor vehicle act. It is explained, who will appear in the same court from time to time as the summer progresses.

MEMBERS of City Clerk S. Bowers' staff are busily engaged revising the voters' list for this city, and after two months' work, Mr. Baker reports that he is in the midst of ward two revision. Wards three and four have been completed, while ward one has not been touched yet. The city clerk reports that there will not be many changes in the voters' list to be used at the next municipal elections.

RATEPAYERS of London are paying their taxes in approved style, according to City Treasurer James Bell, who reported Monday morning that the second installment due by August 1, "is coming in fine."

Anxious to save a discount of five per cent on the installment, citizens added $30,000,000 to the city coffers on Saturday, and $20,000 on the preceding day. The Saturday receipts exceeded those of the corresponding day in 1921 by $10,000, according to Mr. Bell. "We had a nice big mail this morning," said the city treasurer Monday, "and the taxes are coming in."

SAYS MUCH DEAD WOOD ON BOARD

City Clerk Baker Would Have Keenly Contested Election

One of the best things that could happen to the city would be a really keen contest with an abundance of suitable nominees for the board of education at the next municipal election, according to Sam Baker, city clerk.

The city clerk is of the further opinion that a school board of at least half the present size would be more effective and worthy of greater achievements than a 12-man body.

In his opinion a better class of candidates would allow their names to go before the electorate, and he cites as an instance the public utilities commission. "You will note," he pointed out, "that a better class of men come out each year—men who would not mix in the board of education or city council contests."

"A large, unenviable body of twelve members leaves the nomination lists wide open, and as a result the very men that the city requires are not as a general rule attracted to the office."

"Just regard the present board of education and the deadwood in it, of course, who are all right, four or five of them possibly, but the others do nothing but block all undertakings, worrying and arguing about two-pence halfpenny things, and allow the big ventures to pass them by."

"It is to be hoped that this year will witness a continued interest in board of education affairs among the ratepayers as a whole, and possibly a better class of candidates will present themselves at the polls next December, not only for the board of education, but for the city council as well."

Special Committee Purposes "Going Slow" on Transportation Legislation.

Information from other municipalities regarding the methods employed by them in governing the operation of motor busses on city streets is being gathered by City Clerk S. Baker for the purpose of incorporating it into a city bylaw governing motor busses in London.

Tentative regulations regarding license fees, indemnity, and schedules have been drawn up by the special committee, selected by the city council for this purpose, and the report of this committee will be presented to No. 1 committee of the city council, which meets Wednesday night.

The special committee, which met last week is composed of Ald. O. I. Cunningham, H. J. Childs and Mayor Cameron Wilson.

Alderman Cunningham stated Monday morning that this committee purposes "going slow" in preparing the bylaw, owing to the fact that the city council has "put its foot in it" in making several bylaws hastily this year.

"There are too many bylaws in effect now which are no good," said Ald. Cunningham, "and while I do not mention them, they were passed by the council in too great a hurry."

In fine, we collected $20,000 Friday, $30,000 Saturday, and expect to take in $150,000 on Monday and Tuesday."

IT WAS ANNOUNCED Monday that the band and patrol of Mocha Temple of London will journey to Brantford on September 14 to assist in opening the Shrine's Fair at that city, which will run for three days.

The Shrine's patrol will also visit Westminster Hospital in the near future, where the members will stage a drill for the entertainment of the patients of that institution.

OUTSTANDING AMONGST many pleasing features of the D. S. Perrin Company picnic held at Port Stanley Saturday was a presentation made to Mr. Chas. A. Fitzwater, the eldest employee in the factory, a gold watch, which carried with it the highest esteem and the best wishes of the company. Was presented Mr. Fitzwater by the president and directors to commemorate his record of long and faithful service.

ACCORDING to information received in London Monday, Rev. Samuel E. McKegney, M.C., a former rector of London, and a graduate of Huron College, has succeeded in obtaining his Bachelor of Arts degree at Oxford University. Mr. McKegney left his church at Clinton about one year ago, and proceeded to England, where he took up post-graduate studies at Oxford. He was rector of St. David's Church here a few years ago, and numbers a host of friends in London. During the war Mr. McKegney served overseas in the Canadian army, acting as chaplain with a battalion recruited at Brantford. He was awarded the Military Cross for bravery exhibited in the field.

OFFICER STRATTON TO ARRIVE SOON

In communication over long-distance Monday with George Tustin, officer for the London Humane Society, Provincial Officer Stratton, who has been transferred to Middlesex County from Peterboro, to relieve Officer Arthur Palmer, who has gone to Whitby, states that he will arrive here about the middle of this week.

In the meantime if any serious disturbance is noted throughout the district, Officer Stratton will in all probability be called upon for assistance by the crown authorities.

County Magistrate Imposes Maximum Penalty for Gross Cruelty to Horse

"Fifty dollars and costs or three months' imprisonment," the limit prescribed under the provisions of the statutes, was the sentence meted out to O. B. Richards, London Township resident, convicted in the Middlesex County Court Saturday afternoon of gross cruelty to a horse.

In view of the fact that George Tustin, provincial humane officer in this district, reported that the case was the most appalling that he had ever experienced since he assumed duty in this county, County Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw imposed this severe penalty as a warning to others. "It is the worst case that has come to my attention in ten years," he declared.

Two veterinary surgeons, Dr. J. W. Wilson and Dr. C. S. Tamlin, testified as to the condition of the horse "worked" by the defendant, but subsequently destroyed by the London Humane Society.

Richards, who had been confined to jail for a period of two weeks preceding his trial, was defended by Frank Curran, while Attorneys Judd and Henderson represented the Humane Society. The charge was preferred by George Tustin, officer for the latter body.

While the defendant was returned to custody at the conclusion of his trial, it is now understood that his fine will be paid in order that he may secure his liberty Monday.

UNWORRIED OVER SAUNDERS ISSUE

Middlesex Constabulary Are Willing Suit For Alleged Malicious Arrest Should Proceed.

Maintaining a state of complete nonchalance, members of the Middlesex Constabulary who arrested Robert Saunders last week on the charge that he was of unsound mind and were subsequently threatened with a civil action for "malicious arrest," while evincing but little interest in the pending proceedings Monday, intimated that they were ready that the case should go to the courts as contemplated.

"An officer in pursuit of his duties receives criticism whatever he does," asserted Constable William Fifield who with Constable Alex Shaver effected the arrest of Saunders last week. "When you fail to do what you are told, you are condemned and when you do as you are directed, you are like a dog."

"However, they can go as far as they like and our side of the question will be submitted should the case eventually reach the courts."

While as yet he has not been included in the proceedings Squire W. H. Chittick, who received the information that led to the issuance of the necessary documents for the man's arrest, maintains, as his own personal opinion that an action of this nature will come to nothing.

"They experimented that way in Des Moines," continued the city clerk, "and elected experts the first year. Next year the politicians stepped in and took their places. The same thing happened in Dayton, Ohio. The people may not elect experts, but the politicians get in every time."

"As I am in favor of democratic rule, I believe that, after all, this is the best system," continued City Clerk Baker.

Mayor Cameron Wilson has refused to comment on the scheme advocated by Trustee Rice, who is chairman of the salary committee of the board of education.

"I have enough troubles of my own with the city council without taking on those of Mr. Rice," explained the mayor.

INCORRECTLY REPORTS FINING OF MRS. SISKIND

Correspondent Mistakes Conviction of London Woman on Liquor Charge.

Buffalo, July 31.—It has been learned that the Canadian Press report from Niagara Falls early last week to the effect that a Mrs. Sadie Siskind, of London, Ont., had been convicted of selling liquor in that community and fined $1,000, was entirely incorrect and without foundation.

It is more than a month ago since Mrs. Siskind was convicted of the offence in question in her home city, and was assessed the $1,000 fine. Since that occurrence her attorneys have entered action for appeal, and the case is still pending.

KNOLLWOOD PARK CHOR PICTNICS AT MOSSOP FARM

Church Organization Has Merry Time At Outing Saturday.

Knollwood Park Presbyterian Church choir held a picnic Saturday at Mr. Mossop's farm, north of the city. Baseball was played during the afternoon, followed by races, for which prizes were awarded.

The result of the races follows: Boys—E. Powell, C. Powell. Girls—B. Robb, I. Cumming.

Ladies—Mrs. Scollick, Mrs. Smith, Men—Mr. Webster, Mr. Nixon. Wheelbarrow race—N. Greenslade.

Three-legged race—N. Greenslade and B. Robb, Mrs. Scollick and E. Powell.

Clothes peg race—E. Powell, N. Greenslade.

Hand race—G. Mossop, I. Cumming. Hitting tub race—Mrs. Price, Mrs. Scollick, C. Powell.

Eligement race—N. Greenslade and B. Robb, E. Powell and I. Cumming. Tea was served on the lawn, and after games the party adjourned to the house for music and singing.

FATE OF AUGUST SESSION HINGES ON CITY COUNCIL

Trustee Smith Declares Board Awaits Approval of Debentures.

Whether there will be a special session of the board of education during August rests entirely upon how soon Mayor Cameron Wilson and the aldermen approve of their debenture request, according to Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman, who stated Monday that a death-like silence overhung all while the trustees awaited anxiously the result of the much-heralded civic commission meeting.

Pointing out that the school architect, L. E. Carrothers, has been directed to proceed with plans and specifications for the new public school, the chairman was of the firm opinion that unless anything startling developed there would be no possible reason for him to stage another session before the regular meeting, Sept. 20.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION HAS PICNIC

Members Enjoy Fine Program of Sports at Lakeside.

Plenty of enjoyment and many novelty races, with here and there a little dash of excitement made the picnic of the Typographical Union held at Lakeside Saturday the most successful outing yet conducted by that organization. The merry party motored to the resort via Thorndale, and returned by way of Thamesford.

The baseball game between the floormen and the operators provided more thrills than any other event on the program. Both teams had decided beforehand that such a thing as an umpire was superfluous, and before the game was over came to the conclusion that their contention regarding the official arbitrator was correct.

The game was fast and furious throughout, and only one untoward incident happened. Some of the members of both teams were caught in the act of chalking up unearned runs after their respective names, but through the gentility of the official no action was taken.

At the conclusion of the gruelling contest it was mutually agreed that the operators had the edge on their opponents.

The races were run with a full quota of contestants, and the starter, H. Fortey, had no trouble in lining up the footed ones.

His main argument in disapproving of the suggestion is the fact that the ratepayers will not elect experts, and he quotes the experience of other cities where it has been attempted without success.

"You cannot elect experts," said the city clerk, in reply to Trustee Rice's suggestion. "It has been tried many times, but has never been done. You cannot dispense with the amateur, common-sense members of civic bodies and elect experts."

"They experimented that way in Des Moines," continued the city clerk, "and elected experts the first year. Next year the politicians stepped in and took their places. The same thing happened in Dayton, Ohio. The people may not elect experts, but the politicians get in every time."

"As I am in favor of democratic rule, I believe that, after all, this is the best system," continued City Clerk Baker.

Mayor Cameron Wilson has refused to comment on the scheme advocated by Trustee Rice, who is chairman of the salary committee of the board of education.

"I have enough troubles of my own with the city council without taking on those of Mr. Rice," explained the mayor.

Backward race—First prize, nickel-plated teakettle, A. Elliott; second prize, a year's subscription to your favorite paper, J. Heaman.

Baseball game—Prize, a wallet for each member of the winning team (operators vs. floormen, won by operators).

Slow automobile race—Prize, set of tools, A. Elliott.

The refreshments at the close of the games were much enjoyed and finished a splendid afternoon in an exhilarating district, where the wits of the printers were sharpened (as if they needed it) and a jolly herd of "stags" were soon after bounding homeward in eager anticipation to relate their wonderful doings to their soul-mates.

EXPECT SEWER PROBE TO CLEAR COLLEGIATE DEFECT

Officials Declare Water Backing Up Not Hurtful to Students' Health.

When City Engineer Brazier's department conducts a thorough inspection of all city sewers as suggested by Ald. (Dr.) Holmes, it is anticipated that another "defect" in connection with the new Central Collegiate Institute will be cleared up to the entire satisfaction of everyone concerned.

At the last regular gathering of No. 3 committee complaints were registered to the effect that water was backing up from the Waterloo street storm sewers into the "waste" receptacles at the bottom of the school drinking fountains.

While the startled school trustees immediately condemned such circumstances it is now held that there is no danger to the health of the pupils as the water from the sewers cannot possibly be consumed by them.

That this question will receive its share of consideration before the building is finally accepted by the board is now unavoidable, in view of the vast publicity given the charge and the subsequent alarm exhibited among many of the parents of children attending the Collegiate.

38 WORKERS LOSE JOBS BY PAVING BEING HELD UP

City Engineer Reports No Development in Inaction of Street Railway.

No further developments were reported at the city hall Monday regarding the inaction of the London Street Railway Company in failing to submit specifications for paving its tracks on Hamilton road and Dundas street to City Engineer Brazier. The latter official has been compelled to lay off 38 city employees because his paving program has been halted by this inaction, and unless the company gets busy eighteen more men will be out of work this week.

Pending the arrival of President Charles Currie of the London Street Railway Company from Cleveland, no action is contemplated by the city to force the issue. President Currie will consult with the city council with a view to settling the paving controversy to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Sentences Arthur to Hike to New Brunswick

UNDER the watchful eyes of police officers, Arthur Mercier will shake the dust of London from his feet and start "hoofing it" to his home in New Brunswick. Deputy Magistrate P. H. Bartlett approved of this fate in police court Monday morning.

Mercier has been waiting patiently in the county jail for a week for money from an insurance company. He is curious to know if it is at the post-office, and so before he starts on the long trek eastward, he will be escorted to the post-office to make inquiries.

TRAIN SERVICE TO TORONTO CUT

Nos. 31 and 34 Cancelled by Grand Trunk On Sunday.

Just enough coal to supply their daily needs is being shipped to the city each day, local officials of the Grand Trunk Railway stated Monday morning. The railroad has no reserve supply in the city, it is said, and has to depend entirely on the small daily shipments.

The coal situation is fast becoming a serious problem with the G. T. R. and wherever possible, both in the United States and Canada, passenger trains are being temporarily removed from the service. Coming into effect Sunday, July 30, trains No. 31 and 34, running between Toronto and London via Guelph, were cancelled.

Train No. 31 is a mail train, but postal authorities declare that the revised schedule will not interfere with the transmission of mails. No 29 leaving Toronto at 6:30 a.m., will now carry the mail formerly dispatched on No. 31.

Up to the present the Canadian Pacific has not felt the coal shortage to the same extent of the G. T. R. and other railroads operating in Canada in the United States. Foreseeing the acuteness of the present situation some months ago, the officials of the company secured a reserve supply that in case of emergency would last for some months. The reserve coal in the London division alone it is said, will fill local needs for more than a month.

Beginning Tuesday, Aug. 1, the United States government will supervise all distribution of coal in the country by acting as middleman between the mine and consumer. By so doing it hopes to avert a serious shortage for commercial purposes in any one part of the country.

It is rumored in official circles at Ottawa that the coal situation in Canada will be one of the main topics of discussion at the meeting of the federal cabinet Tuesday, but government officials are loathe to predict what action will be taken.

Obituaries

"JACKIE" WARD.

The funeral of John D. (Jackie) Ward, infant and only son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ward, was held from his parents' residence, Byron, Sunday afternoon. Services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Durnford of Hyde Park. Interment was made at Woodland Cemetery. The pallbearers were O. McLaren, R. Wickerson, M. McNeice and A. Ward. There was a large attendance.

SOLOMON SADDY.

The funeral of Solomon Saddy, of Ridout street, who died Friday evening, was held Monday morning. Requiem high mass was sung at 9 o'clock in St. Peter's Cathedral by Monsignor McKee. Interment was made at St. Peter's cemetery.

The pall bearers were Louis Haddad, Jack Lewis, Charles Gaddad, St. David E. Thomas and G. Gaggan. Besides his widow, the late Mr. Saddy is survived by four sons—Joe, Solomon, Abe and Ned.

The sons operate a chain of fruit stores in the city, under the name of Saddy Bros.

SHIRLEY CHRISTIE.

According to a telegram from Harry Edwards of the Christie Film Company, Los Angeles, Cal., Shirley Christie, daughter of Al E. Christie, a former Londoner, was thrown while horseback riding Friday and died at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Her father was formerly employed at the Grand Opera House in London. Some years ago he entered the moving picture field and now controls the firm which produces Christie comedies.

The World's Future.

LOYD GEORGE continues to tell the people of Britain, and for that matter the people of the world, that there are two things, either one of which can happen in the future: (1) They can go on and work out their new national salvation through a league of nations, or (2) they can drift along playing at it, and at the same time build new U-boats, new flying machines, invent new gases and more deadly implements of war, until some one drops an international match that will set the world on fire.

What Lloyd George thinks about the next war is backed up by what others think about it. They say defenseless cities will be bombed with shells and poisonous gas, and all the hell of the front line trenches will be brought and dumped right at the doors of the people who may be hundreds of miles from the supposed scene of action.

Lloyd George was speaking to Free Church people at a luncheon when he used the phrase: "If the churches of Europe and United States allow that to fructify they had better close their doors." Rightly or wrongly, the world today looks to the churches as being one of the greatest agencies that can head off another war. If they are going to do it they must work in channels they have never touched before.

It is only a few years ago that the civilized world was saying "Never again." Never again did they want to go through what they did from 1914 to 1918. And yet today nations are working along very much the same lines that brought them to the edge and plunged them over the brink of the abyss of war.

Nations hate nations; sections plan and plot against sections. Sheer financial and physical exhaustion prevents them from taking up arms. The policy of live and let live, of toleration and goodwill is finding it hard to get footing place in such an atmosphere.

Lloyd George has drawn attention to a condition so patent that it cannot be doubted.

Money Up—Money Down.

TWELVE YEARS ago a man in London built a neat little brick house for himself and his family. At that time his whole investment amounted in round figures to $3,000. He sold the place a few months ago for $7,000, making, as he imagined, $4,000 on the deal. Since then he has been busy looking for another place, but he has come to the conclusion that if he gets as good a house in as good a locality he will have to put nearly all his profits back in, or else assume a mortgage at interest rates that will amount to more than he can get on his money in the usual channels of investment.

The question that will strike the average man is this: Is this citizen any the better off because his property went from $3,000 to $7,000? At first sight it is easy enough to say yes, that he is $4,000 ahead of the game. His house is much the same now as it was before. When it was rated at $3,000 he could do nothing more with it than live in it, and when it is rated at $7,000 it will serve only the very same purpose. As far as performance is concerned, the house is worth no more or no less than it was when built—it is simply a place to live, and a $3,000 tag or a $7,000 tag will not alter that one bit.

But where does the $4,000 increase come in? That cannot be disposed of by a wave of the hand, for a whole lot of people save for a lifetime and have no more than that. The man thought he was a clean $4,000 ahead until he went out to purchase again, and then he found that other properties had gone up just the same as his own. In another way, when he goes into the market to buy a home his $7,000 in 1922 dollars will buy $3,000 worth of real estate, according to his 1910 dollars. That may be a homely way of stating the case, but it comes fairly close to a workable explanation.

We have made the mistake of looking upon a dollar as a dollar, or as a fixed unit of wealth. It seems hard to learn the lesson that a dollar is only a medium of exchange, and its real value changes as much as Mexican silver money when you come to spend it at various intervals. Today your dollar represents twelve pounds of sugar; a year or so ago it represented about eight pounds, and so on. It is a fact that we have had such remarkable rises and falls in values that a man with ten one-dollar bills in his pocket at one time would be no better off than a man with ten fifty-cent pieces in his pocket a few years before.

It is a hard lesson to learn sometimes, but it is a lesson of fact, and not theory. Our dollar is only a medium of exchange, sometimes up and sometimes down.

A Good Failure.

SOME MONTHS ago ALLAN RYAN was making Wall Street sit up and look. He had the brokers of New York wondering what he was going to do next.

He was rated, as men go, as being with some $24,000,000 or more. A few days ago he filed a petition for bankruptcy.

He tried to secure control of one of the largest motor factories in United States, and he failed.

PUZZLE: FIND THE CASUALTIES

Today he is worth only what he can sell his labor power for as a messenger in a brokerage office.

RYAN is learning his lesson rather late in life—too late, in fact, to be of much use to his creditors, viz., that work is the only real basis of wealth.

He thought manipulation was work, but it turned out to be such a poor substitute that creditors can't list it with assets.

It is a sign that we are getting down to normal when we find a man high and dry on the rocks from an effort to hornswoggle millions without putting equal value back into the money markets of the world.

Physical Fitness.

OTTAWA PAPERS started a discussion on why 4,000 people paid $6,000 to see JACK DEMPSEY at that city. The Journal wondered if it would be possible to get that much money to see FIELD MARSHAL HAIG, and concluded quite correctly that it would be out of the question.

Why, then, do people want to see JACK DEMPSEY? He has been well branded as a slacker in the war, and critics have gone after him as hard as he ever went after his opponents in the ring. Yet it is a fact that people will pay good money and spend a lot of good valuable hours to see him.

Well, why. Principally because he has the reputation of being able to knock down any other man in the world. Queer instinct, but it's a fact that physical power carries with it a charm and a prestige. In a crowd of boys one sure way to supremacy is for any youngster to demonstrate that he can thrash any chap who disputes his claim.

In order to get some added light on the subject The Advertiser asked a couple of London businessmen who have no particular interest in prize fighting what would be their motive if they went to see JACK DEMPSEY. One answered that the one thing that would prompt him to go would be a form of curiosity to see the man who apparently could beat up any other known man in the world. The other went into the matter a little more fully, and said he would go to see a man who was a fine specimen of physical manhood, claiming that in our age and generation we are not producing many of them. "Men today are so busy with their business, or they imagine they are, that they are neglecting to keep themselves in shape. We can see it any day in the week. A man runs 20 yards to catch a street car, and he is puffing like a man who had finished a mile. Most of our men when they reach 40 find that their chests have slipped down into their laps. They are out of shape, ungainly-looking creatures, and they take no exercise to stave off the period of flabbiness. So, although I never saw JACK DEMPSEY, that would be the reason why I would go to have a look at him and see him in action."

The question of prize fighting is not considered at all, as both the men quoted above have never seen a prize fight, and would not if they had the opportunity.

Animal nature, perhaps, but there is something that compels admiration in the man who is physically fit. You can go to a summer resort and watch some well-built and well-developed young man go into the water. He heads in and strikes out like a torpedo boat. Admiration for his power as a swimmer? Certainly, and along with it a certain amount of envy from the shallow water swimmers who can do very well as long as they have a toe on the bottom.

Men admire qualities in others they do not possess themselves, but which they would like to possess, and which they know they could have in some degree at least if they were not too lazy to develop them.

California raisin growers are certain that newspaper advertising has made their business all over for them. The Acton Free Press does not approve of using rubber pacifiers or soothers for babies. Did the editor of that paper ever walk the floor at night with a youngster with a stomach full of wind and a system full of tears? The Winnipeg Free Press calls attention to the fact that the broad term "Progressive" is used in the West. The Free Press says: "As significant as the choice of PROF. A hard but apparently useless fight is being made at Washington against the new tariff enactments, sky-high all of them. SENATOR NELSON of Minnesota, speaking of the duty on woven wool goods, branded it as "unconscionable." "I would be ashamed," he added, "to go back home and tell the people of Minnesota that I, as their senator, had voted to put a duty of 100 per cent on the clothes they have to wear in winter. It would seem that this duty is fixed on the theory that common folks have no business to wear woolen clothing." SENATOR NELSON has said something that may not be realized now, but it will when the new duty becomes operative.

NOAH'S POETRY

WE LIKE HIM.

A man came in the other day, I'd never seen the jay before, and yet I liked him through and through before his carcass crossed the floor.

He only stayed a little while, but while he lingered round the place, I felt a smile a-comin' out and stakin' quarters on my face.

He worked some place upon the sod, and told me of the things he'd done, his face was tanned a berry brown from lingerin' out beneath the sun.

And everything was going just great, they'd luck in everything they'd sown, he didn't have a single thing on which to hang a lingerin' groan.

Ah, how I like to meet them kind, instead of all those human crabs, they cause me for to grab my pen and hev the wisdom off in slabs.

Oh, let us toast these cheerful folks, and to their health raise up a song; oh, may their balance in the bank be five feet high and ten feet long; and let their oats and corn and wheat beat all the grain that ever grew—and let a coal from off their fire come droppin' on to me and you.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

HERE WE HAVE ITEMS OF LOCAL AND DISTRICT INTEREST AS RECORDED IN THE ADVERTISER OF 1897.

JULY 31, 1897.

Adjutant Hughes, of the Salvation Army, the newly-appointed chief of the London corps, arrived here yesterday and conducted his first service at the Citadel last evening. He is a young man and is said to be a very fine cornet player.

The city will wear a picnic aspect tomorrow, when the London old boys, now resident in Toronto, will visit their native town several hundred strong.

It is characteristic of Londoners, "wherever they roam, though far from home," that they retain a deep love for the city of their birth or childhood, and tomorrow the loyal enthusiasm of the old boys in Toronto will find expression in many ways.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE

WORK, BUT DON'T RUSH

BY DR. H. R. BISHOP.

F all your rushing to dress, to eat, to work and to appointments and rushing home from work, how much do you estimate is absolutely necessary? Very little, probably.

The hurry habit is often the forerunner and chief cause of nervous breakdowns and ill-health. You will find it an almost invariable rule that the man who is always in a hurry bolts his meals, tires his body and strains his nervous system.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

By Digby Phillips.

NO. 283—GUARDING AGAINST THE REVENGEFUL.

Did you know that a person with a revengeful nature ninety-nine times out of a hundred reveals it in his or her writing? The indication, however, is an indirect one.

A revengeful spirit, you see, is not what you would call a fundamental trait of character, not a primary one. It is rather the logical result of a combination of a number of different traits. And where you find this combination in an individual you may be pretty certain that you have found also a tendency to be revengeful.

First of all, the revengeful person is nearly always of the rough, dominating sort. This is indicated by heavy writing. Also revengefulness is an intuitive, impulsive thing. And this is indicated by angular writing and the forward slant. Obstinacy is also an important part of it, and this is shown by shaded writing and little hooks where the pen is taken off the paper at the completion of a stroke. Obstinacy is also shown by a down stroke of the "d" which goes below the line.

So, then, when you see a handwriting that is heavy, angular, slanting forward, shaded, with hooked terminals and a heavily crossed "t," you are dealing with a person who is quite likely to become revengeful upon occasion. And if the letters "a," "o," "d" and "g" are carefully closed you have the sort of person who is not likely to be frank and outspoken about this revengeful feeling.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is RECALCITRANT. It is pronounced re-kal-si-trant, with accent on the second syllable.

It means—kicking back, kicking against anything, rejecting vehemently, obstinately, non-compliant, showing repugnance or opposition, refractory.

It comes from a combination of the Latin prefix "re," signifying, among other things, back or backward, and the Latin word "calcitrare," to kick; hence, to kick back.

It's used like this—"The recalcitrants, on both sides, have blocked all plans thus far looking toward settlement of the rail and mine strikes."

Still Going Strong

(Sarnia Canadian Observer.)

TWO octogenarians met in the city police court on Friday, but they were neither prisoners or witnesses. One was Police Magistrate Henry Gorman of Sarnia and the other James Haney of Forest, grandfather of W. S. Haney of the legal firm of Haney & McNally, Front street.

After the introductions had been completed by Barrister Haney, the two men began to talk of ages, and it was soon revealed that although both were 83 years of age and observed their birthday in the same month—February—Magistrate Gorman held seniority. His birthday came on Feb. 6 and Mr. Haney's on Feb. 22. The two octogenarians had a brief but jovial conversation and both appeared to be "still going strong."

Feed your product more vitamins

BRIGHT color on big spaces may create interest in a picture, but it lacks four-fifths of the advertising vitamins that send people into a specific retail store to buy goods.

The retail distributor must have advertising that builds up confidence in the product; that can educate new customers; that can make them desire new things to eat and wear and enjoy; that finally sends them to the counter with cash in hand.

Thirty years ago, Mr. P. C. Larkin sought anxiously for a link between his brand, the retailer and the buying public. He found one that has never broken.

"I thought of telling my story in a single newspaper," he writes, "which I did and soon saw results. The single medium soon became two, and then a dozen, and now many hundreds on the American continent alone, where practically every daily newspaper of any importance carries Salada Tea Company advertisements."

There is only one common power that can influence buyers for our local merchants and the national advertiser. This is the Daily Newspaper in our trade area. The retailer who impresses this fact upon the manufacturer turns over his stock quickly and profitably.

Everyone Is Welcome at Any of These Churches On the Sabbath Day

Claims Canada In Need of Spiritual Revival Like That Sweeping England

That Canada is in need of a great spiritual revival such as he claims is sweeping over England and Scotland, is the opinion of Rev. Robert Reith of Cheltenham, England, who is at present spending holiday with Rev. J. M. Versey of the Church of Christ (Disciples).

"The Church in Canada, with all its vast and powerful organization, is accomplishing a splendid work," Mr. Reith declared, "but at the same time there is need of an even greater spiritual effort. In England and Scotland, a great wave of revival is sweeping over the land, bringing men closer than ever to God."

Mr. Reith preached to a large audience from Mr. Versey's pulpit Sunday night.

Taking as his text, the words, "Ye Must Be Born Again," he declared: "If the church had fully realized that in the kingdom of God there is no such thing as nationality, there would have been no war. The great song of the Redeemer is 'Thou has redeemed us by thy blood out of every tribe and nation.'

"Our nationality should be second in importance to our great seeking after the kingdom of God. Let us be Christian first, British second, and Canadian last."

"The kingdom of God stands for the reign of God and what it does in the experience of every human heart, and what through the second birth God will yet accomplish in the nations."

"That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the spirit is spirit, and it is only when we are born of the great spirit of God that we can catch a vision of the kingdom of God and become enabled by that vision to look upon all nations of the world as our brethren. God has made of one blood all the nations that dwell upon the earth, and for that reason Christians should be more concerned with the kingdom of God than of the respective nations of which they form a part."

RAPS THOSE WHO PAY SMALL WAGES

Rev. P. C. Clarke Preaches at St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Strong condemnation of those employers, who give large sums of money to foreign missions, while paying their employees starvation wages, was made Sunday at St. Luke's Church, Crumlin, by the Rev. P. C. Clarke, during the morning service.

The text by the minister was: "Wisdom is before the face of Him that hath understanding; but the eyes of a fool are in the ends of the earth."—Proverbs xvii:24.

"Solomon is here," said the speaker, pointing out the difference between the wise and the foolish man.

"The wise man takes an interest in the things around him. He studies life and the laws of life and tries to apply them to his own."

"But the foolish man is so much taken up with big things, he is so much absorbed in life as it might be, that he loses track of life as it really is. He cannot tie himself down to any practical task, and the result is that he does nothing. Such men actually think they are superior to everybody else, and they look down with contempt and disdain on the men and women who are content to do the everyday duties of life."

"Don't mistake me; it's not folly but wisdom for a man to have a broad outlook on life, to dream dreams and see into the future."

Man To Be Pitied.

"The greatest fool in the world is the man who has no place for imagination or vision, who will admit nothing but what he can see, hear or feel, that man is to be pitied."

"There are many people in the world today who are so practical that they are nothing but mere machines, they have no vision, no faith; they can see nothing but the little job they have on hand, they live more like beasts than men, taking no real thought for the future."

"Remember all the great men of the past have been dreamers. Men with vision, men with faith, but they were men who could connect their idealism with their present life."

"Our text does not condemn such men. Solomon is here speaking of the man whose eyes are on the ends of the earth, the man who wanders hither and thither, not able to learn anything from actual experience, who

CLAIMS ALL MEN HAVE DARK HOURS

Rev. J. Richardson, Chalmers Church, Delivers Message on Modern Perplexity.

Replying to those doubting critics who too often ask "Is the church paralyzed?" Rev. John Richardson, B.A., preaching to his congregation in Chalmers Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, declared that the army of God was never more potent than it is today.

He likened Christians who expect greater things from the church than can be accomplished to John the Baptist, whose faith was strained when Christ did not live up to his expectations during his sojourn on earth by performing spectacular deeds and driving out all evil.

Christianity Reigns Supreme.

"Good News for Modern Perplexity," was the topic selected by Mr. Richardson for his sermon, in which he pointed out the millions of homes throughout the world where Christianity reigns supreme as a living rebuke to those who would insinuate that the church lies dormant.

"Aside from Jesus Christ, John the Baptist was the greatest Christian of his time," said Mr. Richardson, in his opening remarks. "John expected Jesus to go about judging people, but Jesus was different. He was going to upset all social and economic conditions, removing iniquitous taxation, to flame out with scorching speech, and to purge the world."

"According to the interpretation of reports brought to John, nothing at all was happening as he expected. Evil still seemed to thrive, and all classes of society lived under an unchanged atmosphere. Jesus raised no standard against evil, and John could not reconcile these methods of Christ, and things were not very clear to him."

Seen To Be Sinking.

"Every man has his dark hours," continued the minister, "and John's faith was strained. He went straight to the source, and sent a message to Jesus, telling him his perplexity. He was baffled, but still the seeker, telling Jesus that if he were not Christ, then he was another. His ship was seen to be sinking, but his flag was still flying."

"When the message arrived, Jesus was healing the sufferers, and he bade the messenger to go back and tell John what he had seen."

"Many centuries have gone since then," said Mr. Richardson, applying his theme to modern times, "and surroundings are dark and perplexing for many of us. Is the church paralyzed? Some assert there is no message for modern man. They point to the daily papers with reports of squalor, drunkenness and crime, the open war between the classes and the masses, and the luke-warmness of professing Christians, and say those peoples do not belong to the Church of God."

"They ask why there is no victory over selfishness since 2,000 years ago. They say: 'Here we are, no further ahead.' What does Jesus say to us in our perplexity? He says: 'Go, tell the news. Tell what is happening now.'"

Go Up To Heaven.

"That news is not carried in the papers every day," asserted Mr. Richardson. "In millions of homes there are family altars from which incense daily goes up to heaven. They are boiling all over the world to the glory of the Almighty. Calvary is growing mightier every day with the sacrifices of the people of God."

"The press of today is giving more space to higher things than ever before. The church has not enforced her claims. The sons of the church are in every government, but they are not consulting together as the sons of God. Never forget that ours is a spiritual possession. Ours is a world of freedom, not compulsion."

"Force has no meaning whatever in the church. We can conscript a man's body, but we cannot do so with a man's soul. Therefore, if a man will not be saved, neither man nor God, in a sense, can save him. Although God can destroy a man's soul in hell, He cannot force it into heaven. There are social conditions in Canada today that cannot be remedied by force."

What Has Church Done?

"What has the church actually done today?" asked the speaker. "The church has proclaimed its message and individual human nature has been changed. The old-time institution of commercialized vice, open gambling and saloons are gone. Conscience has done it, but the church is still the most potent influence that we have today."

"We are recruiting membership more rapidly into the church than population into the country. The church is making better Christians and changing souls among all classes and race, among industry, and is fighting vice and cruelty. The church has remained almost anything but paralyzed, with the spirit of Jesus frozen in her veins."

"There is no excuse for duty to the church. Progressive Christians know that generosity and unity is such a church. Not that its mission should be altered. It is the prejudices of men and women that must be changed."

"Are we as a church alive to our great responsibilities?" asked Mr. Richardson in conclusion. "Empires may fall, but the Church of God to which you and I belong will never fall."

WILL TRY LONDON MEN IN SEPTEMBER

McMullen, Anderson and Yohn Not To Be Held Until December.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, July 30.—Edward McMullen, George Anderson and John Yohn, the three London men awaiting trial at the Lambton County Jail for complicity in the Wyoming bank robbery, will not be left in suspense until December court sessions as was thought possible when the trials were postponed at the last sessions.

Crown Attorney F. W. Willson states definitely the three men will be arraigned at the September sessions.

"The crown attorney has the say as to when the men will face the judge," Mr. Willson affirmed, and as an afterthought, "you can say that London story about Mrs. Koehler not appearing to give evidence on account of the supposed delay in obtaining the reward is all bunk."

ITALIAN FACTIONS AGREE TO PEACE

ROME, July 30.—The Republicans and Fascists at Ravenna have signed a treaty of peace, whereby the former have ordered a cessation of the strike they called several days ago, and the Fascists have ordered demobilization of their bands.

BRITISH STEAMER ASHORE.

ST. VINCENT, British West Indies, July 30.—The British Steamer County of Carmarthen, en route from Dakar, Africa to Keywest, is ashore north of Mayo Island.

There is fifteen feet of water in the afterhold. The Dutch Steamer Gelria is proceeding to her assistance.

CLAIMS MEN IGNORE WHAT GOD DEEMS WORTH WHILE

Rev. W. L. Armitage, preaching from I. Corinthians, xii, 31, "But covet earnestly the best gifts," on Sunday morning in St. James's Anglican Church.

Today men were interested, some in making money, some in acquiring an education, and some in pleasure. So it was in the Corinthian church. Some sought faith, others wisdom and others healing. Each one thought his pursuit the best, his office the highest. The people followed the leaders they liked best, and became divided. Paul said these gifts were of the same spirit, and urged the people to go after the best gift, that of love.

"To some a certain thing is all-important," said Mr. Armitage, "while to others the same thing is not worth while."

"What is worth while?"

"We study the Bible and find that human values are upset. A thing we say is not worth while God says is all-important, and of the greatest value."

PROVINCIAL OFFICERS SPEED GYPSIES ON WAY

Advise Caravan Travelers to "Break" Camp North of London.

At the investigation of the crown authorities, provincial police Saturday afternoon encouraged a band of gypsies to "break" their camp just outside the northern limits of the city.

Although they had no specific charge to press against the traveling gentry and their gaily-attired women, the officers expressed their determination that groups of this nature will not be permitted to tarry any longer than is absolutely required while en route through Middlesex County.

Voicing no objection, the gypsies packed up and "hit the trail" eastward.

FIVE MOTORISTS KILLED IN CRASH

DETROIT, July 30.—Five persons were killed and one injured when an automobile occupied by the five attempted to avoid collision with another machine and was crowded in front of a speeding Detroit and Pontiac Interurban car, just north of here today. The dead are: John W. Murphy, 45 years old, his sons John W., Jr., 6, and James L., 4; Mrs. Josephine Gay, 50, all of Detroit; and Miss Marie Flanagan, 17, of Owosso.

Mr. Armitage pointed out that people are attracted by things counted worth while in this world, while Jesus, the peasant, the villager, had the temptation of the kingdoms of the world, but to him it was not worth while if he had to do the devil's work or dishonor God.

"The influence of brotherhood inspires the latent good in one, and one is the better for it," said Mr. Armitage. "In seeking things worth while we are entering into the fellowship and the comradeship of Christ himself."

WARNS HEARERS NO TO FAIL GOD

Rev. Bowley Green Speaks on Jesus at Talbot Street Baptist Church.

"He came unto His own, and His own received Him not." From this text Rev. Bowley Green delivered a well-reasoned sermon Sunday morning at Talbot Street Baptist Church.

"It has not always been an undisputed fact that Christ came into the world," stated the pastor, "while today it is seldom that we find one to dispute that there was a man who came into the world called Christ, but there is a difference regarding the views held as to the manner of His coming. The Scriptures say He was begotten of the Holy Ghost, and born of the Virgin Mary. The rationalist disclaims this, and says He was the son of Joseph and Mary. Today there are those who believe Christ was nothing but the son of the carpenter and his wife. What was the object of Christ's coming? He came to seek and to save that which was lost by the atonement. The rationalist says Christ came into the world, and was one of its noblest sons, and He saves us by the integrity of His life, and the example of His death. He saves you by His death indirectly, in that He gives you a sample of a sacrificial life, and from it you can pattern and save yourself."

"To whom did Christ come? He came unto His own. The Jews referred to in the text are the Jews. They were His by creation and race and redemption. He was of the tribe of Judah. Did Christ come to the Jews exclusively? We have His own statements to His disciples, telling

Says Men Who Have Molded Lives After Christ Is Need of World Today

Christ's individual-dealing with men and the great part conversation played in his evangelical work was the theme upon which Rev. John Richardson based the evening sermon at Chalmers Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Using a quotation from the works of Dr. Rutherford, as the opening sentence of his sermon, Mr. Richardson declared: "How much of the teaching of Christ is talk?"

Describing with vivid word pictures, various scenes from the life of Christ, he showed that the Savior, rather than reaching the hearts of men by means of sermons and essays, brought out strongly the spiritual side of the human life, his intimate and searching conversation with the individual.

"Men, who have molded their lives in the image of that of Christ are the great need of the world today," them to go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of Samaria enter ye not, and it is stated very clearly that Christ came for the lost sheep of Israel. He came to Israel to the exclusion of all else. Why? According to the plans and purposes of God. From the very beginning God had a plan for dealing with the world. God saw all the way down, and he contrived to call out one family, that of Abraham. Never get the idea He was a petted and spoiled father of a spoiled people. It was God's purpose that through the Jews all the nations should be blessed. The Jew failed God, but the day of the Jew has not passed and will not pass until the final consummation of all God's plans.

"Why then did Christ turn finally to the Gentiles and go into the cities of Samaria? Never get the poor idea

Mr. Richardson declared.

"The world is full of sermons and essays, but to bring men to Christ is needed the intimate, personal and brotherly touch, such as Christ evinced in all his dealings with men."

"We have too many men in the world like Simon, the pharisee, who scorned not only the sin but the sinner. The example of Christ should be followed, who scorned the sin but loved the sinner and sought to redeem him."

"Let us adopt Christ's religious example and strive to teach as he taught. Remember that the wages of sin is both banishment from the presence of God, and it is the second death hereafter. But Christ is still able to save to the uttermost them that come unto God by him. Christ's religion is the only hope of the world and the solution of all the great problems of today."

that Christ got a wide vision after He came to earth. He went to the Gentiles because, 'He came unto His own and His own received Him not.' Do we not hear the anguish of Christ, 'Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets and stonest them that are sent unto thee, how often I would have gathered thee as a hen gathereth her chicks, and ye would not. . . and now your house is left desolate.'"

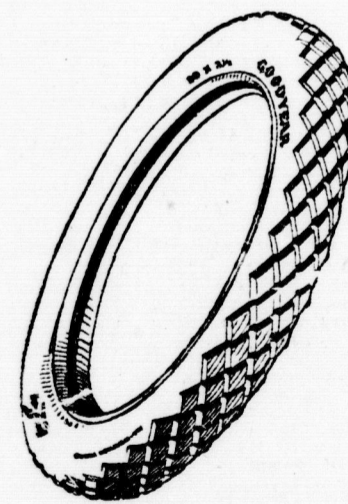

The pastor warned his people that there was a grave danger of the people today doing the very same thing they condemned in the Jewish people. Right today the Saviour is willing to come to His own. He knocks and they do not hear, they will not open.

The ordinance of baptism was administered at the close of the morning service.

ALL ABOARD FOR SATURDAY!

Dear Cynthia,—Who writes so often as I do lately? No one, I'll be bound. But I simply had to write after reading Lonesome for Blighly's letter. She's a dear soul, whoever she is, to speak of the very next we came from. I guess she's been in Canada a good many years by her letter, but she has a good memory. Mother would love to have her address if she is willing. Manchester and Salford are one new, Lonsome or Blighly, but they each take their own name. We used to live off Cross Lane (Salford), but, of course, you will know where that is. Perhaps some of the Canadian Boxites will take us on some trips around their cities, but we find up for the needy ones if we take another trip to Manchester, but to go Cross Lane way instead of Regent road, and to make the Stowell's Memorial Church (Eccles New road corner) our meeting place, and all be on time, as time flies, and of course, we must take Cynthia this time. But we will all need our coats, as it is cooler in Salford than it is here. But while we are waiting for Saturday and our trip to come, how will it be if the (already generous) Boxites see what we can do for the needy ones in our circle. And don't forget the hospital fund, will you? So bye-bye till Saturday at 2 prompt. Well, here we are, and all on time. That's good! We will take the left-hand side of Cross Lane, pass the lovely potting shed, and make our way along Cross Lane, pass by the Regent Theatre and opera house, then we will cross over the London North-western bridge, and lo, here we are at Cross Lane market. My such a crowd! Now all keep to the left and we will go in the market and see what we can buy for the needy Boxites. There, now, we mustn't tarry too long, but we must take in some of the sights at least. And now we are at Cross Lane corner by the Salford Hippodrome. Now watch the statue of Queen Victoria, the monument and at Prince Albert's, too. Then we pass by the museum and Technical School. And now we will go through to this path, through the archway formed out of a whale's jawbone. A little further along the path we come to the statue of a little shoeblack, and still another statue of the little chimney sweep. But we are getting too interested in the park, so we must turn back and follow the road to Manchester. We will proceed along the Crescent and till we come to the Crescent, the hospital stands a bronze statue of a Lancashire fusilier, placed there after the South African war, and the tank 241 is standing behind the soldier facing Oldfield road. And now we have reached the end of the road, the hospital stands a bronze statue of a Lancashire fusilier, placed there after the South African war, and the tank 241 is standing behind the soldier facing Oldfield road. And now we have reached the end of the road, the hospital stands a bronze statue of a Lancashire fusilier, placed there after the South African war, and the tank 241 is standing behind the soldier facing Oldfield road.

WHO WEARS NO. 6?

Dear Miss Grey—I see so many asking for help, and though I have not much to offer, what I do give is given freely. I received a wee few patches from one boxite, and oh, say, she wrote such a beautiful letter that my conscience would not allow me to keep them so I gave them to my neighbor lady, and did not say where or how I got them. I paid 25c postage for them, and it only cost 5c to mail them, so I paid pretty dear for my whistle, eh, Cynthia? I have a pair of shoes, patent leather buttons, with dull uppers (button) size 6. Anyone can have them and gladly, too, as I have no use for them. Hoping to be of more use next time, I remain, with kind wishes for all, WINDY.

I wonder, Windy, if you understood the spirit of the letter you received? You know, there is such a thing as being in a wrong place at a wrong time. There are a lot of people in the world who have "chips on their shoulders," and everything seems designed to injure and annoy them. Can't you remember the days when father, mother or older sister or brother told you that you must have stepped out of the wrong side of the bed that morning? I've seen some of the unfortunate people in the world express themselves, either in speaking or on paper. I knew a girl once upon a time, who said she "never opened her mouth but she put her foot in it." (She blamed it on her husband's shoes.) Isn't it just like your correspondent may have been one of the people who say the wrong thing all unwittingly?

I haven't used the name. Took the liberty of "deleting" it, just like the censors used to do with the news in war time. Am afraid if I used it, there might be war in the Mail-Box, and what would Cynthia ever do for a row in her nice, kind, helpful, forbearing, sympathetic family?

Am sure someone will be glad to get those shoes of shiny and dull leather. I'll be pleased to give your address to anyone inquiring.

ALMOST LOST WEE BOY.

Dear Miss Grey, I went down to that lady's house and she gave me a coat, a pair of shoes and a nice hat, which I think will do for my oldest girl. Miss Grey, I think you are very kind for being such a wonderful help to all those in need. I am very sorry I did not write to you before, but I intended doing this week, but I have been in such trouble. My little boy has been so sick this last week, we feared the worst, but thank God, he is much better. I do wish that I could hug those dear mothers that are expecting little ones. Oh, how my heart aches for them, but God will take care of them. I am ever so thankful to all those kind souls that have been good to me and mine.

APPRECIATION.

Am so glad, Appreciate, that you have found a good friend. One of the beautiful things about the members of our Mail-Box circle who are ever in their spirit of gratitude. They never fail to acknowledge promptly and so heartily any kindness or favor done them. Am glad, too, that your little kiddie has been spared to you in the road to recovery. Your chance will come some day to help others, and I know the needy then will have good reason to bless your sympathy and generosity. How good of you to include mine!

SHARES HER LITTLE.

Dear Miss Grey,—Just a few lines again to thank you for sending my address to Sardonxy, and at the same time am sending my very best thanks to Sardonxy for sending me the parcel. I was very thankful indeed. The things came in very useful for myself, for I was in real need of waists. I would like to try and help some of the boxites, too, and have some new patches from samples I had given me, but I am not able to make them. My health is not very good. I love to sew for my children and am very useful to help others with the same. Dear Miss Grey, my husband is no better. He will be away for a long time, I think, yet. Well, I would be very thankful if any boxites have anything to help me with. My two boys are 8 and 13 years, and could make pants over for them. I have two girls, one 2 years and the other 11 years. I wish your Mail-Box every success. I have sent mine for the S.C.H. HARD-UP LIZZIE.

It is splendid of you to send along that note for the War Memorial Children's Hospital, when your own needs are so great. Hard-Up Lizzie. And it is thoughtful of you, too, to offer to share the patches with others. It is the people who have felt real pinch themselves, as a rule,

Want Inscriptions For Plates

INSCRIPTIONS for name-plates for endowed cribs, cots, wards, sun-rooms in the War Memorial Children's Hospital are wanted at the earliest possible date by the secretary of the hospital committee, in order that the work of engraving the plates may be finished before the formal opening on September 24, and these all in their places. Mrs. Greenaway has written all individual organizations, etc., that have generously given endowments, asking them to forward the inscriptions.

who are first to hold out a helping hand and divide what they have with more needy. The beautiful thing about the Mail-Box circle is the deep gratitude shown for kindnesses received, and the promptness in saying "thank you." It is a great asset to be able to sew well and make over clothes satisfactorily. Your children are to be congratulated upon having such a capable mother. Trust your husband will soon show signs of recovery. It is sometimes amazing after long, discouraging illness, how miraculously the change for the better seems to come. Cheer up. Better days are surely ahead.

ANOTHER FROM BERSKIRE.

Dear Miss Grey,—On looking over the most interesting page of The Advertiser I see where a Berkshire Lass would like to know if there are any in the Mail-Box from that place. I came from there a good many years ago. I still have parents and brothers and sisters in dear old Berkshire, a place called Enborne, three miles from Newbury, if the lady would like to correspond she can have my address from Miss Grey. I have also a romper pattern. Inclosed a mite to help on the good work. I will sign myself,

A NEWBURY LASS.

Delighted to welcome you to the Mail-Box corner. After the nice compliment you pay our page we feel it will be necessary to put a gusset in our halo. Have filed your address for reference, and will be pleased to let a Berkshire Lass have it, or anyone else who calls for it. Sure, we're getting all divided up into counties. But that doesn't affect the unity of the circle as a whole, does it? Thank you so much for the mite. I'm getting such an expert, with so many to handle, I can tell the denomination from the outside of the envelope. But I never mistake a penny for a quarter. I'm too much of an optimist for that. Come again, when you have time to send us a line of greeting.

LONGS FOR LAKE SUPERIOR.

Dear Miss Grey,—I noticed in today's paper that Berkshire Lass wished some creeper patterns. I have several I will send her by mail. I used to be a year old, and my dear little girlie is eight months old; she is creeping and climbing into everything, so my time for letter-writing is limited. Kindly send me the address of Miss Rose, also where is Avon? She owes me a letter, isn't it? Hot work, reading and answering letters, Cynthia? This weather makes me wish I was on the shores of Lake Superior. I spent my teaching days up amid the rocks, and such grand summer weather, but, oh, ye winter! for about eight months at a stretch. The babies would attend to me, so I must go. Inclosed a wee mite.

MRS. RIELLEY.

You might be surprised to know but there are lots of things in newspaper work hotter and harder than reading and answering the Mail-Box letters. Am sure Berkshire Lass will be delighted to get such prompt response to her request for patterns as she has had today. Am sending you her address, also that of Miss Rose. Yes, where is Avon? I cannot find her address on the Mail-Box list, and want to get it again, soon as possible, because we cannot have a complete family record without her.

You make me hungry for a breeze from the north shore, a breath of the pure, clear bracing air, and a glimpse of the rolling blue water, oh, so terribly deep and cold, with a blue sky above, just flecked with clouds. Once upon a time I had a trip in winter along that north shore, and nearly everyone was dreading we would be storm-stayed in the wilderness—I'd hate to tell how many degrees below zero.

One woman said she thought they must have a different kind of thermometers up in that part of the world. She was sure no Western Ontario around-London thermometer could ever get down far enough to register that cold.

But it hasn't been a pretty nice summer here at all, hasn't it? I do not think I can remember a better sample of summer. Do you remember how we broiled week in and week out last year? What dears your babies must be. Give them each a kiss from Aunt Cynthia. Many thanks for mite.

PLEASE SEND NAME.

L. H.—Will you please send in by return mail the name of "Another of Your Hardups" or "A Pifful Case" as you called her in your second letter? A reader has sent in some money for her and I cannot forward it until we have the name. All you have sent is a box number. Also, you omitted to send your own name. We want the name of such a good Samaritan on our family list.

Seeing Week-end Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes.

Saturday was the day for poultry, the plump spring ducks, the well-nourished chickens. After 12 o'clock, even numbers of them were left from which to pick and choose, amongst these an, oh, wonderful duck, just 75 cents.

Even the women who never miss a Saturday in the basement asking peak load prices were inclined to be reasonable. "I've been selling for $1.50 apiece," said one to a prospective customer, "but I'll let you have this duck for a dollar and twenty-five cents. Just three months old, and feel the weight of it."

A mother, displaying the charms of her firstborn, could scarcely have revealed more pride than did that woman over her ducks.

Another farm home-maker endeavored to clinch the bargain by appeal to memory and imagination. "Just think how good that duck would taste with a little dressing in it, served with apple sauce or currant jelly on Sunday," she said.

"That's the kind of an argument to use with a man, not with a woman who has to go to a picnic early this afternoon," laughingly evaded the feminine marketer.

The picnic bogey again! the beggar of fruit growers, who only a day or so before were declaring that disposing of their wares has been seriously affected this season by the fact that the city women are going to so many picnics, they haven't time for such mundane things as preserving, canning and jelling.

A good-sized young chicken could be bought for sixty cents, a number, better developed, for seventy-five cents, away ahead of last Saturday from the buyer's standpoint, when a seventy-five-cent chicken was a rare bargain.

Turns Down "Shin Plaster."

A woman at the week-end market tendered a twenty-five-cent American bill, otherwise a "shin plaster," in payment for a purchase. The farmer's wife, to whom it was offered, refused to touch it. "That money doesn't pass in this country," she said, whereat the woman with the "shin plaster" chuckled, remembering the times her good Canadian coin and bills had been similarly turned down "over in America." (Puzzle: Where is Canada?)

Twenty-five cents would buy a gratifying number of things in the week-end market. A man, not at all nervous about marketing, discovered it would buy a dozen big, yellow eggs, or white eggs, or both, shells reassuringly rough, not to mention the guarantee of the kindly-looking woman in the buggy selling them, who declared they were absolutely fresh, and she would be in next Saturday again. The man wanted to drag every acquaintance he met to show where he got the best bargain in eggs on the market. He did. Even if one woman, selling eggs at 25 cents, assured she "had them right out of the basket."

Twenty-eight cents was the more usual price met, and some had the temerity to ask thirty.

Butter ascended from thirty-five cents to forty.

Vegetable marrow appeared at ten cents each (perhaps it has been there before, but it was the first sighted by Aunt Maria.)

"We call it spinach beet," a woman explained a vegetable offering with beet-like leaf and stalk resembling rhubarb.

"It isn't Swiss chard, is it?" she was asked.

"Now, I believe I did hear it called that," she said.

The prevailing price for beets, onions, carrots, etc., was three bunches for ten cents.

Once more, sections of honey were thirty and thirty-five cents, according to where they were purchased, and the thirty-cent honey was, in some cases, much better looking than that for which thirty-five was asked.

Potatoes were quoted at thirty cents a peck to Aunt Maria, six quart baskets of apples for cooking, thirty cents, red raspberries, twenty-two and twenty-three cents.

Along Come Plums!

Home-grown plums were a reminder that summer is slipping away. Plums at fifteen cents a box.

It's palmy days for the "cave dwellers," who, missing the toil (and pleasure) of gardens of their own, can deck their flats, apartments, suites, or whatever they call them, with gorgeous summer flowers.

Scarcely answering to the adjective were the water lilies one lad was offering Saturday, exquisite things of waxy white and gold in a setting of delicate green, for just five cents a dozen. Aunt Maria was stopped more than once by a stranger woman who wanted to know: "Will you please tell me if you got those beautiful lilies on the market, and where they are selling them?"

Bunches of snapdragons were selling for five cents each in the basement, and flaming nasturtiums, three bunches for ten cents. Mingled with the newest and most up-to-date flowers were the grandmother's garden favorites, and, proud in its exclusiveness, a pink cactus. It had been sold early in the forenoon, and was to be delivered. Four bunches of leaves like cabbages poked out in different directions, while tall above them soared long stems, topped by bunches of delicate gray-green, toning into rose bloom, dainty little flowers, not the kind usually associated with cactus. And, by the way, this cactus was wonderfully free of prickles.

"Tomatoes, just ten cents a box, while they last," sang out the small boy who had been chanting the refrain for hours, never varying in intonation. Even if the supply regaled the widow's cruise, Aunt Maria "fell for" the siren song.

ADVERTISER PATTERNS

NEARLY CRAZY WITH PAINS IN BACK

Read How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Mrs. Beecroft

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Hamilton Spectator' and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay on my feet from early morning until late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to several friends."—MRS. EMILY BEECROFT, 16 Douglas St., Hamilton, Ontario.

For nearly fifty years women have been telling how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast.

If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It has helped others, let it help you.

Wear Your Best Things Every Day

No need to save your pretty clothes—those specially becoming blouses and fine lingerie every woman loves to wear. No reason whatever to hang away your crepes and chiffons—wear and enjoy them and wash them.

A package of Princess Soap Flakes solves the cleaning problem for all fine materials. Satin and silk, crepes and laces can now be washed with perfect success—kept fresh and dainty as new with simple soap and water.

Makes them prettier

Princess Flakes were perfected for fancy washing—for cleansing delicate crepes and silks and laces without harming color or material. They are also the ideal soap for general laundry use.

This is because each curly flake is pure, whole soap, with no fillers and little moisture to rob them of cleansing power. It makes them the practical, efficient washing machine soap. And it makes them a real economy because they go so much farther.

For woolens, too

Whether you are squeezing out a sweater or a pair of leggings and mittens or having a grand blanket washing, use Princess Soap Flakes.

No shrinking—no danger of drying harsh and stiff. Instead, everything soft, warm and wooly, just like new.

How to buy for economy

Once you learn the value of Princess Flakes you will order by the 24-pound carton, which allows a big saving. You will use them for every laundry purpose and for general household needs.

"I've made up my mind to put my money on you, old top!" she announced. "When do you want me to go to Brookline and where'll I put up? At the King's Arms? What price a widow named Mrs. Higgins who keeps to her room until she hears from you?"

"Good! Take a train around seven tonight and I'll phone when your cue comes." Miles attended to the check and they rose.

It was almost dinner time when he reached Brookline, but instead of returning at once to the Drakes' he paid a call at a neat, old-fashioned cottage nearer the village.

Carter and Pierre were hurrying about the kitchen, busied with the serving of dinner and as he passed the servants' dining-room, Scottie beckoned imperiously, but Miles waved an emphatic dissent and hurried up the back stairs.

At the first landing he came upon Hitty.

"Mr. Roger's condition hasn't changed since last night?"

"No, sir. I don't know if it'll be any harm if I do leave him." She shivered. "I'll be right back before the family leave the table."

She settled off downstairs and Miles softly entered the sick room and took the chair beside the bed. He leaned over and spoke gently.

"Mr. Drake, you can hear me?"

The eye which had turned eagerly toward him at his first word closed swiftly, gratefully and then opened wide.

"I meant what I said yesterday. The past is buried and must not be resurrected, but there is one who must be shown to the one whose name you tried to tell your brother yesterday. I knew—I guessed—but I must have your assurance, that I am right. The man you fear, the man who can bring ruin and worse upon you all—is this he?"

Bending more closely over the prostrate form he breathed a name.

There was a pregnant pause while Roger Drake's eye seemed to dilate. Then, unwaveringly, inexorably, the lids closed.

CHAPTER XVII.

"MAN, but I've news for you!"

Scottie exclaimed when Miles came down stairs. "Dick Kemp has found what's been under our very noses. Do you mind when Rip told us of meeting two men in the garden? Last night they came again and Dick frightened them away but not before he'd discovered the spot they were after. We'll beat them to it tonight, but how we're to get rid of the lad—"

"I'll find a way," Miles responded briefly. "It's only the last link in the chain, anyway, but it will be best for him and his little bride to be far from this house later to-night."

"When young Dick meets you tell him to pack his grip and wait with his runabout in the back road till Patricia joins him."

Miles was passing through the hall when Andrew Drake emerged from the library fuming with exasperation.

"Confound that pettifogging Wells," he explained to Miss Drake. "He's coming down on the ten o'clock train tonight and insists that I meet him at the station—Wants a private talk."

"Sh-h!" Miss Drake warned and vanished up the stairs. Andrew grumblingly following.

As Miles turned Patricia appeared in the door of the music room.

"I heard," she whispered. "Oh, Sergeant, why is Mr. Wells coming and where have you been all day? When is all this dreadful suspense going to end?"

"Tonight, for you, my dear young lady," the detective replied. "I want you to go away again now tonight. Mr. Kemp will be waiting for you on the back road in his car in an hour and you must take your traveling case and slip out and join him. He will keep in touch with me and when you come back in a few days it will be to find that all the trouble has passed."

She held both her hands out to him impulsively.

"Oh, I have always had faith in you even when I was living a night mare. You have found the terrible old woman who tried to have me abducted and the man with the tat-toed arm?"

"He will never cross your path again," Miles replied evasively. "One thing more, not only was your own sanity never in question, but that of your people also."

It was midnight when Miles and Scottie, equipped with shovels, set to work with a will and soon had a hole waist deep where the floor of the summer house had been.

"I've struck something, lad," Scottie announced in an unconsciously lowered voice.

Miles leaped down into the excavation beside him and felt about with his hands.

"Machinery!" Scottie exclaimed. "Rusted and broken as though it had been crushed with a sledge-hammer!"

"Our friends hoped it would be in better condition, I think," Miles responded. "Can you guess what it is?"

"It's not a wee printing press, though I own I've had that in mind since you took the counterfeit bill from me," Scottie shook his head slowly. "If I had a chance to try to assemble it now—"

"You're close enough to the truth, Miles."

She settled off downstairs and Miles softly entered the sick room and took the chair beside the bed. He leaned over and spoke gently.

"Mr. Drake, you can hear me?"

The eye which had turned eagerly toward him at his first word closed swiftly, gratefully and then opened wide.

THE EAGLE FLEW OFF, CARRYING JACK. FLIP MADE A FLYING LEAP FOR THE BIRD, BUT WAS JUST A SECOND TOO LATE. THEN A FERRY CHASE STARTED.

Doris Kenyon Bares Her Secrets of Beauty

(This is the last of a series of articles on beauty written for The London Advertiser by six leading beauties of the stage. Doris Kenyon, star of "Up the Ladder," tells you how to beautify the eyes.)

BY DORIS KENYON

Famed for Her Beautiful Eyes.

EYES always talk, but what they say depends on the mind and character of the individual. Raised to their highest beauty, they become the most compelling feature of any face. Nothing gives them such a beauty as a vital interest in life, and nothing so deadens them as self-interest.

The greatest beautifiers of the eye are the agencies which promote the best state of health—plenty of sleep, regular habits and hygienic living. The reckless abuse of eyes in youth is so universal it is no wonder we are a spectacled nation.

MUCH of the expression of the eye depends on the lashes and brows and these are most responsive to regular care. It is strange how many women do not cultivate these instead of resorting to pencil or stain which is always noticeable and gives to the face a hard look.

Brows and lashes should be brushed nightly with an eyebrow brush and if they are thin a little vaseline or olive oil should be rubbed in, using great care none gets into contact with the pupil. Anointing the brows with glycerine or alcohol will draw the attention of the beginner from the characters being transmitted. A miniature alternating current generator will overcome this difficulty. It easily can be rigged up from an old magnetic telephone, a toy motor and an iron gear wheel.

The gear should be mounted upon the shaft of the motor so that its teeth revolve very close to, and directly in front of, the pole pieces of the magnetic telephone. For the best results, the gear should be of approximately the same thickness as the pole piece of the telephone receiver. If the tone produced in the windings of the receiver is to be a pure one, the gear should be mounted on the shaft of the motor.

The provision of a rheostat in circuit with the motor and its battery will enable the control of the pitch of the tone.

The action is as follows: When two of the teeth of the gear are opposite the two poles of the telephone receiver, the magnetic circuit is completed through the gear, at which time a maximum of magnetic flux exists.

When the gear is revolved, the resistance of the magnetic flux is greatly increased because of the substitution of air in front of the pole pieces of the telephone magnet. A great change in the magnetic flow is thus brought about.

This change of magnetic flow produces a pulse of current in the coils of the telephone receiver. Each time a tooth of the gear passes the pole pieces, a similar pulse will be registered in the windings of the receiver. It is thus acting as a generator.

Any magnetic telephone may be used in this way, although the watch-case type will give less energy than those larger phones used with the standard telephone instruments.

RADIO PRIMER.

REACTANCE—Opposition to an electric current brought about by induction or capacitance in the circuit. Reactance holds back the current by storing it in the form of a magnetic field.

FOR life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—knockers! They are comfortable, trim, good looking. The sketch shows you one young woman who gives them her entire approval. She knows that it won't be a month before every other girl in town will have a pair, too. They are so superior to skirts in important matters such as tennis matches, hiking, camping and climbing.

Knockers are shown in the shops for girls of from 8 to 18, as well as for older women, and many a mother who wouldn't be caught dead in them herself, as she would say, has thanked the fashion for providing a suitable outing costume for an active young daughter.

The knockers are shown in homespun, tweed, jersey, khaki and flannel as well as in linen, crash and ratine.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

SNUFFLES STRAIGHTENS BUG BABY MIXUP

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"I'd say it's a case of mistaken identity, Mrs. Tater-Bug."

NANCY and Nick were passing the potato-patch when a worried voice called out:

"Oh please, sir, and please, ma'am, would you mind calling the doctor?"

"Who are you and where do you live?" called Nancy in reply.

"Here," came the voice. "Right on this tater-vine. I'm Mrs. Tater-Bug."

Nick ran off to the blueberry patch as fast as his legs would carry him to get the fairy doctor and Nancy stayed to comfort Mrs. Tater-Bug, whom she found after a careful search in a cozy leaf house.

"Oh!" exclaimed Mrs. Tater-Bug, dashing some few drops on her eyes to take away the redness. "My poor, poor Timmy! I went out for a minute to ask Mrs. Beetle if she knew what the green stuff was Farmer Smith was sprinkling around, and left Timmy in his crib as nice as anything."

"But when I came back, something awful had happened. Timmy's nice stripes had turned to black spots and he's red all over. I'm afraid it's either chicken-pox or measles."

Just then the fairy doctor arrived. He pulled down the covers, and looked at Timmy this way and that and every which way.

"Him!" he said wisely. "Him! I'd say it's a case of mistaken identity, Mrs. Tater-Bug."

"Oh, how dreadful!" shrieked Timmy's mother. "W—will he die, doctor?"

"No, unless he's out eating the green stuff Farmer Smith sprinkled around. This isn't Timmy at all. It's Lily Lady-Bug, who's crawled in here to take a nap."

A LUNCHEON DISH

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

Cooking Authority for NEA Service and Columbia University.

EGGS combined with a vegetable often makes a very good and much more satisfying dish than eggs or vegetables alone.

The following recipe calls for tomatoes, but egg plant or peppers are good served in the same way.

Allow one tomato and one egg to a person. This recipe is sufficient for six servings:

6 tomatoes	8 tablespoons butter
8 eggs	1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk	1/2 teaspoon pepper

Wash, wipe and cut tomatoes in halves. Roll each half in salted flour, mixed with a teaspoon of sugar. Fry the bacon until crisp. Remove pieces and keep hot.

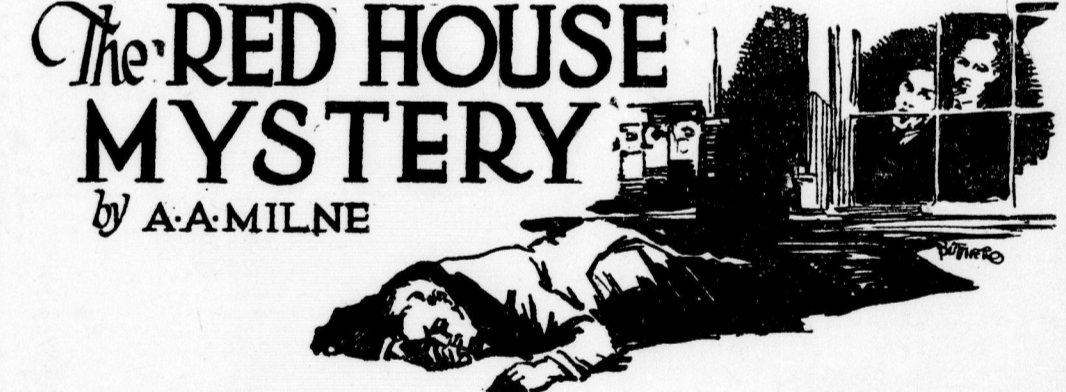

In the bacon fat remaining in pan cook the tomatoes until soft and nicely browned.

Mix the eggs, milk and seasonings. Melt the butter in a sauce pan and in it scramble the eggs. Remove from the fire when still quite soft as they will cook sufficiently hard after being placed on tomatoes.

On a platter place the pieces of tomato, pour over them the scrambled eggs and garnish with the crisp pieces of bacon. Serve at once.

HERE'S LANCASHIRE LAD!

Dear Miss Grey,—In answer to Lonesome Lancashire Lass, I would very much like to have her company and enjoy a trip to, say, Boggart Hole Clough or Heaton Park, Platt Fields or Reel Park, or if she likes, to the Bellevue Gardens and see all the animals and birds, also the fireworks; or if not, we can take a walk around the town, visit Samuels & Lewis, then have tea at Lockart's or Smallman's or else Lyons Cafe, then we will wind our way to the Manchester Hippodrome or else the Palace of Varieties. If this won't do, then we will go along Regent Road to the Regent Theatre. So now is the chance for this lonely lass to make an appointment with a lonely Lancashire lad, and fancy ourselves walking down Market Street again towards Flat Iron Market, then to the tune of the organ we can sing that good old song, "I am a Lassie From Lancashire." I am glad to hear of anyone from good old Manchester, which I left two years since. I will close now, and remain respectfully yours,

LANCASHIRE LAD.

The plot thickens. Along comes Lancashire Lad to rescue the lonesome maiden. With so many Lancashire people suggesting trips, it begins to look as if we will be obliged to call off for the rest of the summer and devote ourselves to a real "old boys' reunion" holiday. Welcome to our circle, Lancashire Lad, and may you find we improve on acquaintance, and may you forget there is such a thing as lonesomeness after greeting people from the old home town.

Why Knock the Knockers?

FOR life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—knock-knockers! They are comfortable, trim, good looking. The sketch shows you one young woman who gives them her entire approval. She knows that it won't be a month before every other girl in town will have a pair, too. They are so superior to skirts in important matters such as tennis matches, hiking, camping and climbing.

Knock-knockers are shown in the shops for girls of from 8 to 18, as well as for older women, and many a mother who wouldn't be caught dead in them herself, as she would say, has thanked the fashion for providing a suitable outing costume for an active young daughter.

Defeat Flint Saturday, But Lose 7 to 3 On Sabbath.

FLINT, July 30.—Ed Reis successfully used his submarine ball in seven frames against the Vehlers here in seven frames. In two he was his hard, and in those two the Flint Club collected seven runs, while the Cockneys could garner but three off Peigert. As a result the clubs halved the series, while the Vehlers took a firmer hold on first place in the Flint circuit. But it was a battle all the way. Only Peigert's ability to scatter opposing base knocks keeping the runs down.

It looked like a London win for the second time early in the game. Mackey drove the ball over the left wall in the second, and Stimpson turned the sacks in the third on his triple to right center, and Young's error in missing the return from Brown after Stimpson had checked himself at the corner. He made the last lap easily.

Two blanks were then issued, in which Stricker turned back five of the eight batters by gift-edged defensive play, and then Butler was able to knock on his single to left center, sacrifice by Malmquist, Young's error on Blake and Mackey's sacrifice fly to Bernard.

In only the fifth and sixth did Reis permit liberties with his offerings. Reis hit by James and Malmquist, and an error by Richardson on Peigert's bouncer, loaded the bases in the fifth. Luck swept them with a triple against the left center fielder.

Wetzel's double, followed by a hit batsman, four out and two infield outs, added four in the sixth.

FLINT, July 30.—London kept its winning streak by topping the Vehlers' first game of a two-game series today by 7 to 1. The Cockneys went out in the first and second innings to bag all their runs off second, who turned up with a sore finger on his pitching hand.

Stimpson, who relieved, held the visitors at bay all the way. Stimpson's pass, Butler's sacrifice and James' start of the game, and Hilt's home run, coupled with base knocks by Stimpson, Butler and Mackey, added the other four in the second. But that was all.

Cochran slow-balled the hard-hitting Vehlers right out of the park. Luck, Brown and the others who have been going great guns, hardly got fouls.

The lone tally came in the second, when Luck stroked, Miller's error and Hilt's run, and Wetzel doubled to left.

Lucas got in, but Bernard was nipped at the plate. Carman to Macdonald, key after he had stopped running and tried to get back to third.

Teams Out of Second Series Running

Hermits..... 0 4 .000

Forest City and Orients continued Saturday to set the pace in the second series of the Inter-Club League.

In the first game the Forest City team had to go nine innings before they downed the Hermits by a score of 7 to 4. Arcott, on the mound for the Hermits was hit hard, and his support wobbled at times when his pitching was erratic at times, which didn't assist his cause any.

Smith, in center for the winners, played a remarkable game, and cut off two or three hits with brilliant catches. His catch of Connors' Texas leaguer in the third inning was a beautiful play. The Alerts defeat eliminated them from the second series, and the Forest City and Orients clubs are left to battle it out. These two teams meet next Saturday, and a real battle should be provided.

As soon as a winner is declared a play-off will be staged with the Alerts, first series winners, for the championship.

BELYEA, ST. JOHN'S SCULLER REPEATS WIN AT CANADIAN HENLEY

BEATS BOB DIBBLE AT HIS OWN GAME

Nova Scotian Rams Dibble, Who Attempted To Block Him.

ST. CATHARINES, July 30.—Honors were never before as evenly distributed at annual regattas of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen as at that which closed Saturday evening on the Royal Canadian Henley course, the most successful of the 46 held since the inauguration of the Canadian championship regatta. Each of the fourteen clubs represented earned one or more points, and with but two exceptions, Ottawa, and the Metropolitan Rowing Club of New York, each club carried off at least one championship.

Decidedly unusual was the capture by American clubs of the greater number of the trophies, four going to Detroit, and three to West Side, Buffalo, while the Argonauts of Toronto, who for many years carried off the lion's share of the championships, did not win a single trophy, and this, incidentally, was one of the surprises of the regatta.

Donors of Toronto led competitors in number of points, with Lacine Rowing Club of Montreal, being Detroit and West Side for second place. The Bachelor Club of Philadelphia occupied next position in the grand aggregate of points, with Argonauts and the Niagara District Aquatic Club of St. Catharines tied for next honors. Here is summarized the result as to championships and points:

DISTRIBUTION OF COAL ASSUMED BY WASHINGTON

U. S. Government Will Direct Shipments From Producing Mines.

OTTAWA PLANS INQUIRY

Canada May Have To Import Anthracite From Wales.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The government, with the co-operation of the states will assume tomorrow the duties of a middleman passing on the coal from the producing mines to the industries and the localities which in the eyes of the government need it most. Just how much coal the government can count on remains a matter of speculation.

The total production for the past week, 3,300 tons of bituminous, and 27,000 tons of anthracite, is compared in the weekly report of the United States Geological Survey with the production of the same week, including anthracite, of 2,500,000 to 12,000,000 tons. Normal consumption at this time of the year would be 8,000,000 tons of coal a week.

Covered by priority orders from the Interstate Commerce Commission, all coal now being produced is to be bought under the fair price levels to be maintained by the Federal Fuel Distributors, freight cars being withheld from dealers who sell at advanced prices.

Railroads and interstate public utilities are to be the concern of the federal government. Bunker coal is to be kept to a minimum and foreign ships required to fill their bunkers abroad for the round trip, while export will only be permitted in case of shipments destined for consumers who cannot otherwise supply themselves.

COMES BEFORE CABINET.

OTTAWA, July 30.—It is understood in official circles here that the coal situation will be before the federal cabinet when it reconvenes on Tuesday. Just what action the federal government will take cannot be forecast, but in the meantime the leading Canadian municipalities are making arrangements to provide coal for the coming winter. It is probable that anthracite coal will be imported from Wales.

TWO TRAINS CANCELLED.

PETERBORO, July 30.—Two G. T. R. trains cease running tonight on account of the coal strike. They are the morning train from Lindsay, due here at 7:55 and the evening train to Lindsay leaving here at 8:53.

CLAIMS RIGHT TO SLEEP IN PARKS

Chatham Woman, Despite Arguments, Sent to Mercer Reformatory.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, July 30.—Clara Kelly, colored, was sentenced to three to six months in the Mercer Reformatory Saturday morning. Complaint against her was made by the L. & P. S. authorities. Chief Hammersley of the company said that the woman has been hanging around the cars and generally annoying passengers and others. It appeared also that she had been begging food from picnicers.

SHIP STRANDED IN LACHINE RAPIDS

down the rapids where the river-men will try to manoeuvre the steamer into a position alongside the imprisoned Rapids Prince. There will be one trial—and only one—for if the rescue ship once gets below the grounded steamer it will be impossible to get her back up the rapids again for another attempt.

The Canada Steamship Lines, left shortly after 10 o'clock this morning for two scenes of the accident, in a sea-land loaned by Canadian Vickers, Limited. As this novel craft has an engine of 300-horsepower and a capacity for about 25 people, it is expected that many, if not all the passengers on board the stranded vessel, will be conveyed to shore by it.

A large barge has also been sent to the Rapids Prince, which will assist in the work of transferring the passengers.

Stands at Foot of Altar During Mass and Slashes Breast.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Hundred looked up from prayer during low mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral today to see standing at the foot of the altar a man, his clothing open over his chest, with a knife held as a swindman salutes. They saw his lips move as the hand with the knife went down. Two slashes, formed like a cross, appeared on his chest.

He turned and moved toward Father Patrick Daly, who only glanced aside as the congregation gasped. Sailors, who had been kneeling near the altar, vaulted the rail and caught the fanatic, still mumbling unintelligibly. The chant of the priest went on as police removed the wounded man, known as Frank Johannes Gabriele.

The raspberry crop will be about over this week, the growers say, although thimbleberries will probably be on the market for two weeks yet.

Among the 18 irregulars, captured by the national army after last Friday night's ambush of government troops near Maryboro, dum dum and explosive bullets were found, says the official report of the affair. The nationals lost two colonels and five soldiers killed and seven wounded in the ambush and in the fighting which followed after reinforcements were sent.

In view of the complaints of distress and inconvenience sent to the Free State government, because military prisoners are not being allowed paroles except for medical reasons, it was stated today that the government's purpose is the securing of public safety and therefore it was absurd that prisoners refusing to non-interference should be paroled for their own convenience. A prisoner is required to sign the following pledge before the question of the release is considered:

"I promise not to use arms against the Parliament elected by the Irish people or the government for the time being responsible to that Parliament. I will not support in any way such action, nor will I interfere with the property or persons of others."

The issue at stake between the two clerical groups was out of the attitude of a number of members of the London Ministerial Alliance, who were strenuously opposed to the public exhibition of boxing held at Port Stanley recently, in which Jack Dempsey was starred as principal.

Mr. Mess was the only member who, at the time the question arose, refused to champion the action of the Ministerial Alliance in attempting to have the exhibition called off on the ground that it was harmful to the public morals.

Mr. Mess was quoted as having stated that he could find nothing questionable or immoral in the exhibition which was forthcoming and that he would have no objection to witnessing it himself.

In a recent letter to the press, the rector of St. David's challenged Mr. Thomson to state definitely whether or not he had been the subject of the allusion made in the remark "that someone had found it incumbent upon them to go the length of telling the public what a fine young gentleman he (Dempsey) was."

No answer has yet been made by Mr. Mess, nor has Mr. Thomson vouchsafed any further opinion on the subject.

SEEK TO BANISH HORROR OF WARS FROM WORLD

London, England, July 31.—As a part of a "No more war" demonstration throughout the world, thousands gathered Saturday in Hyde Park and heard prominent members of the clergy, social workers and laborers speak against military strife. Processions from all parts of London converged in the park and assembled before twelve platforms.

A resolution against war was offered by the ex-servicemen. The same resolution is being proposed before a hundred similar demonstrations in towns and villages throughout England.

BRANTFORD PLANS TOURIST GROUND

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, July 30.—Representatives of the parks board, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Motor Club, 500 Club and the chamber of commerce met in the C. O. C. rooms yesterday afternoon to discuss the tourist camping ground proposition.

The matter was discussed from every angle and it was felt that the matter came under the immediate jurisdiction of the parks board. Suggestions of the local tourist camp were offered and Mohawk Park was considered the most suitable site if the camp was installed.

DISTRICT MARKETS

ST. MARYS.

EUROPE FACING RUIN, DECLARES VISCOUNT GREY

Failure of Nations to Evolve Sound Basis on Which to Build.

SHOULD CONSULT U. S.
Co-operation of America Considered Necessary to Full Success.

BY VISCOUNT GREY.
Former British Foreign Secretary.
LONDON, July 30.—I am quite prepared to admit that the old methods of diplomacy, though they had nothing to do with bringing about the war, are capable of improvement, but it did not follow that because they are capable of improvement, new methods are better than the old ones. There must always be private conversations, but I feel that under the new methods private conversations are not private. Things are constantly coming out in the press, and in a way they used not to do before.

Those anxious about the future were put to very great anxiety during the conference. From time to time it seemed to them that the entirety with France was being strained almost to the breaking point. It was the papers which attacked the prime minister that alone gave the impression, because papers which supported him spoke at times as if the entirety was practically at an end.

Calls Situation Serious.
Where did this information come from? I do not say it came from the prime minister's entourage, but if there was no serious strain, it was a pity that the prime minister's entirety did not pass the word to the press.

The situation is growing increasingly serious. Years have passed since the armistice, but we are making no progress towards the reconstruction of Europe. I do not think Genoa has made any substantial progress. The first thing that was essential was the co-operation of the government and the resources of the United States. When the United States did not go to Genoa the heart was taken out of the conference. The British government should have sounded the United States as to the methods under which they would take a part in the reconstruction of Europe, and if that was not done it was a grave and fatal mistake. The prime condition of getting that cooperation was for France and ourselves to be in cordial agreement.

It could not be said now that the United States would not co-operate.
For their reply, giving their refusal to go to The Hague, was a reasoned statement, not only as to the way they would not go, but of the condition on which they would co-operate.

Bureau Explains Increased Taxes Which Come Into Effect August 1

OTTAWA, July 30.—(Canadian Press)—An official statement has been made by the minister of customs and excise, Hon. Jacques Bureau explaining the increased taxes which come into effect on August 1.

The statement of the minister is as follows:
"The increased stamp tax on bills of exchange, bank advances, overdrafts, checks, sales and transfers of stocks and bonds, express money orders, travelers' checks and postoffice money orders, becomes effective on August 1 next.

"The tax on bills of exchange, promissory notes and advances or overdrafts is payable at the rate of 2 cents for every fifty dollars or fraction thereof.
"Checks, money orders and travelers' checks for amounts of fifty dollars, or under, require a 2 cent stamp. If the amount for which they are issued exceeds fifty dollars, but does not exceed five thousand dollars, a two cent stamp for every fifty dollars or fraction thereof, is required to be affixed thereto. Checks, money orders and travelers' checks which exceed five thousand dollars in amount require a two dollar stamp.

"The tax is to be paid by means of excise tax stamps in preference to postage stamps, affixed to the face of the check or money order. Regulations have, however, been issued whereby the tax on checks may be paid monthly in place of affixing such stamps to the individual checks. Under these regulations, the checks are embossed with a stamp stating that the excise tax has been paid.
Special licenses are issued by the department of customs and excise to firms who desire to pay the tax monthly."

END HIGHWAYS BUS OPERATION

Directors of Canadian Transit Company Cancel Service to London.

Discontinue Schedule Owing to Prosecution by Woodstock Police Commission.

Special to London Advertiser.
WOODSTOCK, July 30.—As an outcome of the numerous charges preferred against the Canadian Highways Transit Company, which has for some time operated a motor bus line between here and Ingersoll and London, the management has decided to discontinue the service, which went into effect tonight. It is understood that the bus will be put on other routes in Western Ontario.

The buses have been running in opposition to the street railway line between here and Ingersoll, and numerous charges have been preferred in the court, the authorities alleging that the company had not proper licenses. The discontinuance of the bus lines does not mean that the last has been heard of the matter from the transit company, who will now await the final word of the higher courts as to the course they must follow in order to carry on operations.

Recently the police commission passed a bylaw which requires the payment by bus companies of an annual license fee of $500 per annum and one of the clauses in the bylaw passed requires that all buses must carry passengers to any point within two miles of the city.

On Saturday a driver of one of the buses appeared in court charged with refusing to carry Constable Newell to the Ontario Hospital, a distance from the city of about a mile and a half, as required by the new license law.

The driver stated that he was instructed by his employers not to carry passengers off his route between here and Ingersoll. The case was laid over until Monday. It was this action by the police which prompted the company to discontinue the service, and so now this city is without a bus line and the street railway company has a monopoly on the traffic between here and Ingersoll.

WILL NAME NEW RAILROAD BOARD

Dominion Cabinet To Select Management of Government Lines on Tuesday.

OTTAWA, July 30.—(Canadian Press). — Again after a week's interval, the cabinet is returning to the capital for a series of council meetings. The first session has been called for Tuesday, and there will likely be sessions for several days.

The big problem which is on the program for the cabinet this week is the appointment of the new board of management of the government railways. Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, has not yet returned to the city, but is expected to be here by Tuesday. It has been rumored that appointment would be made on Wednesday, but there is still complete official silence on the subject.
Several names have been mentioned as possibilities on the new board, of which that of Hon. P. J. Paradis of Quebec remains most persistent.

Another problem likely to come up for discussion is the apprehended scarcity of coal. It is regarded as not unlikely that the government will take some steps to co-operate with the American authorities regarding the supply of anthracite.

POSTPONES DANGER OF WELLAND CANAL STRIKE

Contractors Have Received No Instructions Yet to Enforce
New Schedule.

ST. CATHARINES, July 30.—
There will be no strike this week of workmen employed on the Welland Ship Canal. A telegram sent to the minister a week ago asking for an immediate adjustment, because Porter Brothers, contractors on sections one and two, had not paid the increase in wage ordered by the department, and made retroactive to May 1, had borne no fruit yet.
Fair Wage Officer Compton attended a mass meeting of the men this afternoon, and held out hope that the matter would be adjusted.
The contractors have not yet been

—And It's Never Touched by Hand

That's the way our Wrapped Loaf comes to you.

Just as if some fairy had taken the ingredients, mixed them, baked them, wrapped them and delivered them to your grocer or your door.

PARNELL'S WRAPPED FAMILY LOAF

is another one of the Parnell Bread family you ought to sample.
From the moment the high-grade ingredients are taken from their coverings till the time you break the wrapper in your own home, no human hand is ever near it.

Try ONE at your grocer's today, or ask the driver for a "Family Loaf."
